Editor Believes Understanding Is Strike Block

By John Epperheimer

John C. Gardner, editor-general manager of the Southern Illinoisan, said Wednesday night that a lack of understanding between management and union has contributed greatly to the inability to settle the 79-day-old strike against the newspaper.

Gardner said he believes a lack of communication between the two parties and a failure to recognize the needs of each group have also hurt attempts to negotiate a settlement.

The Southern Illinoisan's history of good relations with the striking unions were emphasized by Gardner, chief local official of the paper, one of six in the Lindsay-Schaub chain.

At the same time, Gardner said he would not rule out bringing in non-union personnel to publish the paper, or using present employees engaged in a production training program to put out the paper on a limited basis.

Gardner does not discount the possibility of having the paper printed in another plant in the area, although he added that such an arrangement would present "considerable problems of logistics."

He stated that printing the Southern Illinoisan in another plant in the Lindsay-Schaub

Faculty Recital Slated

Kent Werner, professor of music, will present a faculty recital at 4 p.m. Sunday in Shryock Auditorium.

Werner's first selection will be the composition of a fellow music department professor, Robert Mueller's "Suite for Piano." Mueller, former chairman of the department, teaches music theory and graduate courses.

The recital is free of admission. Music credit will be given.

chain, which has been rumored, would cause problems with union employees in the other plant.

Gardner's comments came in a talk before members of the SIU chapter of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalistic society, and journalism students and faculty.

The Southern Illinoisan, which is printed in Carbondale and circulated in Carbondale, Murphysboro, Herrin and Marion, published editions Tuesday and Wednesday with production work done by supervisory personnel and other employees who have been enrolled in a training program at the Carbondale plant. Gardner said the editions, which were not circulated, were "final exams" in the course.

Gardner said dismissing editorial, advertising and business employees would be the last step before ceasing existence of the paper. He said no such move is being contemplated.

Editorial and other non-production employees have been working and have been paid for the duration of the strike, which began Nov. 1. There are 84 such employees and their payroll last year was approximately $122,000, Gardner stated.

Commenting on a rumor that the striking printers and pressmen are asking for the same wage scale received by union employees at the company's Decatur paper, Gardner pointed out that the Southern Illinoisan has raised circulation, classified and display advertising rates in the past year and another raise would not be feasible. He added that the Decatur economy is much healthier than that of the Carbondale area.

"The paper can't live economically on other people's budget," Gardner stated.

He declined to make any predictions on settlement of the strike.

INTERNATIONAL MARKET—The theater corridor and lounge of the Communications Building took on the look of a market place Wednesday, as the SIU Women's Club Presented international aspects of the University and Carbondale families. Items displayed represented the cultures of seven areas of the world. Exhibit chairmen were Mrs. Walter Wills and Mrs. Alexander MacMillan. Many of the articles were contributed by faculty families and townspeople who have visited the areas.

Firemen Report Three Area Calls

A fire broke out in a storage room at the Technical Tape Co. plant on N. Illinois Avenue at 10:30 a.m. Wednesday.

A spokesman for the Fire Department said the room and its contents, which were packed for shipping, suffered major water damage.

No damage estimate was available. It is not known how the fire started, he said.

A truck was sent to Boskeydell at approximately 11:30 p.m. Tuesday to put out a blaze in a tar kettle at a construction project there.

A grass fire near the Gardens Restaurant and adjoining Crab Orchard Lake was extinguished at 3 p.m. Wednesday.

Zagoria to Give Talk At 2-Day Conference

Donald Zagoria, associate professor of government and member of the faculty of the Russian and East Asian Institutes at Columbia University, will be the keynote speaker for a conference Friday and Saturday at SIU to discuss recent developments on the mainland of China.

Zagoria will speak on "Peking, Moscow, Hanoi and the War in Vietnam" in the auditorium of Life Science Building at 8:15 p.m. Friday, according to George Force of the International Relations Club, one of the sponsors of the conference. Zagoria will also appear at a seminar at 9 a.m. Saturday in the auditorium. Participants in the seminar will include Ikua Chou, professor of government and Ping-chia Kuo, professor of history.

Zagoria, who holds both master's and doctoral degrees in political science from Columbia University, served as analyst of Communist Bloc affairs for the U.S. government; member of the social science division of RAND Corporation; member of the United Nations Association panel on U.S. policy toward Communist China; and member of the national council of the United States-China Relations Committee.

6-Degree Weather Nips Students

Students trudging to class at 8 a.m. Wednesday battled not only heavy eyelids but also a frigid six-degree temperature.

This temperature compared unfavorably with Tuesday's high of 40 degrees and low of 15.

Record high and low temperatures for Jan. 18 for the Carbondale area as recorded by the SIU Climatology Laboratory were 70 degrees in 1923 and -19 in 1930.

The Carbondale Weather Station recorded .76 inches precipitation for the first 13 days of the month. The amount is more than twice the precipitation recorded for the same period last year.

SNAP IN THE AIR—The word "cold" has been used extensively in the nation's weather reports this week, and Carbondale was included.

The student walking beside a temporary buildings leaves a wake of vaporized breath.

Response to 'Free School' Indicates Existing Need

"Free School" has begun at SIU.

Whether or not "free" refers to thought of tuition was not explained in full, but nonetheless, it's here and it does show quite a bit of promise.

The concept of students uniting to educate themselves, with the guidance but not the control of their elders, is both a refreshing and a promising innovation.

New Building Makes Problem For Walkers

With the opening of the new Technology Buildings for classroom use the amount of student traffic has greatly increased between the west door of the University Center to the entrances of the new buildings on campus drive.

A problem arising from the opening of the new building is that a roadway leading to Thompson Woods is now doubling as a sidewalk.

Students attempting to cross Campus Drive in this area must wait on traffic in order to get to and from classes because there is no crossing sign. What is needed is a crossing sign telling drivers to yield to students.

The use of pedestrian signs, however, has its drawbacks. In one case one was a partial cause of a fatal accident.

It requires considerable man hours by the security force to place and then remove the signs at certain hours. This problem could be eliminated by adopting the "California Method" of pedestrian crossings.

The State of California, besides having a state wide law requiring drivers to yield to pedestrians on any street or thoroughfare, has painted at each pedestrian crossing in large yellow letters the word, "PED-XING."

It would seem advisable that SIU adopt this method in part and exchange the bulky signs for the painted crossings on Campus Drive.

Ron Sereg

Driving Care Needed

The pedestrian has the right-of-way. And this is as it should be. But for heaven's sake, pedestrians, give the motorist a chance—especially at night.

There are special walkways labeled "Yield to Pedestrians" which the motorist has in sight. And so when a jaywalker appears on the right side of an automobile the driver gets so shook that he swerves and almost hits the jaywalker approaching from the left.

Daytime jay-walking, although unhealthy, can be coped with, but nighttime is a horse of a darker color. If jay-walking is an incurable disease for some SIU students, perhaps a wise investment would be a white jacket for wearing to that 6 or 8 o'clock night class.

Dianne Anderson

Response has been more than expected which is a pretty good indication that there was a need for such a project.

The whole project seems to be well organized and planned. If it comes off, this will be the best indication to the administration and the Board of Trustees that students can handle the responsibility of aiding in the planning and direction of the educational process.

This even may be the road by which students will become represented on the University Council and possibly the Board of Trustees.

But, this can only be realized if the students continue with the enthusiasm with which they have begun. For the other edge of the sword is that the failure of this project will be used as an argument that students are not ready to lead their own lives.

'Free School' Offers Courses Beyond Usual Humdrum

As one of the 18,000 students at SIU, I want to express my dissatisfaction with the present educational system. Some of my symptoms are: 1) I fall asleep in class from boredom, 2) I want to do something creative in class and can't, 3) the courses don't make you think and question and consequently you don't participate, 4) I'm looking forward to getting out.

These are common and probably all my fault as an inactive, apathetic student, but . . . Others feel the same and we have gotten together and decided to do something about it. We're starting a Free School; a school in which the students will decide the courses, the way of teaching, and course material offered. If we need resource people we'll invite them. Mainly, we'll learn from each other and build out of what we learn. Some are already talking of tutoring, work in VISTA, and strating a newspaper for the Free School. This spirit of building pervades many of the Free School students.

Another need of SIU (and students elsewhere) students is to feel your work has worth and is needed. This is distinctly lacking in the present system. As a result students appear and often are apathetic to what is happening in the world. They do not feel they are in any meaningful way a part of it. It seems obvious that useful work and study in school would lead to useful work in the society. But the connection has not been made by the present system of education. Useful work is a major purpose of the Free School.

Another major purpose is to provide a meaningful education to students in the School. As said above the present educational system is very unrelated to student's lives; now or their future. Thus the Free School hopes to make the course material current, and related to student needs. The Sex Education course is an example.

The courses are, to say the least, interesting. Sex, Red China, Poverty, Black Power and Viet Nam are certainly eye catchers as you page through the schedule of courses.

They seem to reflect a bit of bias, but maybe it isn't all that bad. If a student enters a course fully aware of the direction that it will probably take and aware of the opposite views, he is just as likely to benefit from the experience.

One of the maddening aspects of modern American education is that, in an attempt to be totally objective, all color, interest and excitement has been bleached out of the subjects.

It doesn't look as if Southern's Free School will fall down on this point. We now wish the leaders of the movement all the success possible in their new role of administrators.

Doesn't Lyndon Like Lyndon?

President Johnson's rejection of the portrait he commissioned from Peter Hurd and his citation of a likeness produced by Norman Rockwell as the kind of job he would have liked, presents Mr. Johnson in the legitimate image of dissatisfied customer and the odd one of art critic.

The incident could raise the question: Why is it necessary to have an official Presidential portrait of any kind? Mr. Johnson's reaction to Mr. Hurd's painting—"the ugliest thing I ever saw"—is not easy to understand, since Mr. Hurd is only a slightly slicker, if less sentimental, practitioner of the illustrative realism that is Mr. Rockwell's standard style. But the point is that any painted likeness of Mr. Johnson or any other public figure since the earliest years of this century is likely to take on the quality of a mortuary exercise when compared with news and TV photographs, visual records that perpetuate an image with a completeness and variety never before approximated.

The first function demanded of the official portraitist has always been to fib glibly. There may be no point in perpetuating that tradition at a time when idealized paintings will be belied by unassailable documents. The official portrait is a residual institution, and instead of a National Portrait Gallery we might do well to substitute a National Newsreel Theater to celebrate public figures whose eminence postdates the death of painting and coincides with the rise of photography. — New York Times.

U Thant's Proposal Gets Cold Shoulder

The soul of tact, Secretary General U Thant of the UN says he will leave it to others to judge whether his Vietnam proposals have been rejected by the United States or provisionally rejected. He considers an unconditional suspension of the bombing "absolutely necessary" if other steps toward peace are then to be taken.

The United States declines to suspend the bombing unconditionally, and so long as that policy holds we do not see how a refusal to take the first step in the U Thant program can be described in any other way than as a rejection of his program. — St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Salaries Soar as Recruiters Compete

College seniors are receiving more and higher salary offers in what is expected to become the most competitive recruiting season in history.

This was one finding of a survey conducted by the College Placement Council; its results were received by Royce R. Bryant, director of Placement Services at SIU.

Despite the intense competition, however, the escalation of salary offers does not appear to be as sharp as anticipated, Bryant's report noted.

SIU was one of the institutions participating in the College Placement Council's 1966-67 survey of beginning salary offers to college seniors.

The council's first report of the season shows that, since the end of June, the average offer to bachelor's-degree candidates with a technical background has risen 5.2 per cent to $706 a month, while the average offer to non-technical students has gone up 4.6 per cent to $594. Although it is still early in the recruiting season, the council's first report has, over the past seven years, proved to be an accurate predictor for the remainder of the recruiting year.

The most notable trend revealed by the survey has been the gain in volume of offers, rather than in dollar value. The sudden surge in demand for college-trained manpower by business and industry has resulted in a 42 per cent increase in the number of offers reported this January to bachelor's candidates compared with January, 1965. Technical students in particular have been in short supply and the number of offers to this group has climbed 59 per cent in the two years.

The survey, based on data collected by placement officers at 116 colleges and universities from coast to coast, is conducted by the College Placement Council's Salary Survey Committee. Located in Bethlehem, Pa., the council is the coordinating agency of the eight regional college placement associations of the United States and Canada.

The data in the current report, limited to male students, cover actual offers made from Sept. 1 to Dec. 13. The bachelor's-degree phase is based on a total of 3,130 offers—2,344 to technical students and 786 to non-technical. The master's section covers 493 offers to students with less than two years of previous full-time, non-military experience, and the doctoral information is based on 182 offers to students in eight graduate programs.

As in the past, the aerospace industry has made many more offers to bachelor's candidates than any other of the 16 employer groups studied—924, almost one-third of the total. The most notable increase in volume has been recorded in public utilities, which was not included in the four most active groups at this time a year ago. This year it is second with 279 offers, followed closely by electronics, chemicals and drugs, metals, public accounting, and petroleum.

Public accounting firms and public utilities also figure prominently in the gains in dollar value of offers. Accounting firms have made the most significant increases with a 9.6 per cent rise in their average offers. Public utilities and the galss-paper-packaging group are next, both at 6.6 per cent.

Dollar-wise, the electronics industry, which was third at this stage a year ago, is back in first place with an average of $712 a month. Aerospace, the leader all last year, is second at $709, followed by chemicals and drugs at $702.

By curriculum, there is the same order in volume of offers as the last two years: electrical engineering, mechanical engineering, accounting, and business. As was the case a year ago, chemical engineers are receiving the largest offers with an average of $717. Next in line are electrical engineers, $716; aeronautical engineers, $710; and mechanical engineers, $708.

In the master's and doctoral phases of the study, the increases in dollar value of offers are more modest than in the bachelor's section. Where a significant volume has been recorded, the top increase in the master's area since June is 5.0 per cent for mechanical engineering. Chemistry is the only doctoral program with a sizable number of offers and its increase is only 2.3 per cent. Over-all, the volume of offers to doctoral candidates is almost double that of a year ago, while the master's volume is up 16 per cent.

Historic 9th Crusade Would Instill Purpose

By Arthur Hoppe

Ta-tee-ta-ta-tah-TAHH! That flourish of trumpets you just heard was to announce the grand opening of the glorious, historic Ninth Crusade.

The need for a new Crusade has never been more overwhelming. We haven't had a decent Crusade since the Eight Crusade petered out in the year 1270.

Consequently, for close to 700 years, people have been either sitting around the house drinking beer or they've been marching off to this piddling war or that. The trouble was they haven't had any real sense of purpose.

But the glorious, historic Ninth Crusade will rectify that. With banners bravely flying, we will march off shoulder to shoulder to save all Christendom from the wily Infidel.

Up Lyndon, the Lion-hearted! Up Hubert Horatio! For God and Lady Bird!

Oh, you can imagine the tremendous appeal the Ninth Crusade will have. Flocking to our standard in droves will be the gun nuts, the Maoists, the smut smiters, the Hell's Angels and those who are just plain tired of sitting around the house drinking beer—Crusaders at heart, one and all.

Such an outpouring of men and treasure, Western Civilization has never seen.

Indeed, the only problem now facing the glorious, historic Ninth Crusade is where to have it.

Traditionally, it seems we are supposed to go free the Holy Land from the Infidel. But after carefully weighing the large Jewish vote (both in Israel and New York) and the deep interest many have in oil (both in Jordan and in Standard of New Jersey), we have decided to go Crusade someplace else.

Vietnam immediately leaped to mind. Now here's a small country just begging to be freed from the Infidels. And there's no question that a Crusade there would win enthusiastic approval from the State Department, the Reverend Billy James Hargis and all hawks in the Senate—not to mention annual Christmastime visits from Cardinal Spellman.

But Vietnam's already frightfully overcrowded and we might get in the way.

Some have suggested we crusade in Albania to restore King Zog I to his rightful place on the Albanian throne. But research shows King Zog I died in exile in 1961 and, anyway, who wants to go to Albania at this time of year?

This leaves Cuba. It has a marvelous winter climate, excellent beaches and certainly there is no more Infidel-looking Infidel around than Mr. Fidel Castro.

Moreover, from the point of view of logistics and transport, it's handy. For this bastion of Infidelism, fellow Crusaders, lies only 90 miles off our shores.

So join the Ninth Crusade today. In six months you'll qualify for the low group charter air fare.

As for me, I'm off to survey Miami Beach as a staging area. No personal sacrifice is too great, say I, with the future of Christendom at stake.

Up Lyndon, the Lion-hearted! Up Hubert Horatio! For God and Lady Bird! And if Cuba doesn't pan out, we'll think of someplace else.

High Expense of Political Campaigning Keeps Many People Out of Office

By Robert M. Hutchins

The student of democratic institutions is tempted to conclude that the most serious obstacle to making democracy work in America is our method of financing political campaigns.

The cause may seem trivial in proportion to the results. And it must be admitted that if we could work out a way of paying for primaries and elections that was compatible with democratic ideals we would still have no assurance that those ideals would be realized. But at least we would be in a position to realize them. Our system of paying for campaigns prevents us from even starting.

It is getting so that anybody who wants to run for anything above the level of county clerk has to lay hands on at least $25,000. For primary and general election expenses the aspirant for state or national office, other than a safe congressional seat, has to rustle up from $30,000 to a million dollars.

The increasing use and cost of television time mean that the level of campaign expenditures must continue to rise.

One result is that party leaders look for candidates who can pay their own way. The emergence of the very rich as contenders for political preferment is a new phenomenon. Whereas they used to bribe voters and buy legislatures, the high cost of campaigning now makes it possible for them to abandon these crude devices and run for office in person. This is doubtless an advance.

If the other three Rockefeller brothers wanted to become governors somewhere they could probably, given time and a careful selection of the terrain, achieve their ambitions. Apart from their admirable qualities, this would be an advance, too, for, when they were elected, they would be obligated chiefly, if not exclusively, to themselves.

A man in a lower tax bracket, however, can hope to be nominated and elected only by getting a great deal of money from other people. And he must get large contributions. Every money-raiser knows that small gifts buy no groceries—and no television spots. They often do not add up to as much as the cost of getting them. They are necessary to convince the big donors that the candidate has widespread public support.

Far be it from me to suggest that any American politician sells his vote, his influence or himself. But I assert without fear of contradiction that many large contributors to his campaign hope he will. I am aware of numerous exceptions. There are people who make investments in candidates and parties from a disinterested love of country and a sincere conviction that one candidate or party is more likely than another to promote the common good.

But I believe these people are exceptions. When inventors put their money up they expect a tangible return. Samuel Insull dramatically illustrated this truth in Chicago many years ago by regularly contributing to both political parties.

The least a large contributor can get as a return on his investment is access to the elected officer. He will not have to wait. He will not be told to find his way through the labyrinthine mazes of the bureaucracy. He will not be required to introduce himself or get anybody to introduce him. He will not need to refer to his selfless dedication to the public good or even to the justice of his cause.

All explanations and humiliations will be spared him. He will be welcome.

In a wheeling and dealing society in which government is in some way involved in every business operation, what more could a man want?

This system means that democracy cannot get off the ground. Power goes to those who have the money to buy it. The ultimate solution must be to have campaign expenditures paid out of taxes and to make all contributions illegal.

Dirksen Carries Senate; Filibuster Rule Stands

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate dealt a double blow Wednesday to efforts to open the way for a vote on easing its antifilibuster rule.

The result apparently means that Rule 22, which requires a two-thirds majority of senators voting to choke off a filibuster, will continue unchanged.

The key vote was a 61-37 refusal to table a point of order raised by Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois against a move to halt debate on the issue by majority vote.

Dirksen, attacking the cut-off motion made by Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., said: "This is a summary motion to chop off debate in this body."

The GOP leader insisted that Senate debate can be ended only by a two-thirds majority of senators voting.

McGovern has been trying since the new Congress convened last week to bring about a Senate vote on his "middle way" proposal for relaxing Rule 22.

Day's Admissions

The following admissions and discharges of patients were reported Tuesday:

Admitted: Mrs. John Lyoch, DuQuoin; Mrs. Denver Crews, Carbondale; Mrs. Aurelius Harris, Carbondale; Mrs. Nelson Leslie, Carbondale; Robert Mayfield, Carbondale; Mrs. E.L. Sederlin, Carbondale; Mrs. Elnora Sills, Elkhart; Joe Robinson, Carbondale.

Discharged: Terril Holland, Herrin; Herbert Gipson, Marion; Elaine Jerald, Herrin; Mrs. Frank Easterly, Murphysboro.

His plan would make it possible to invoke debate-limiting closure by a three-fifths majority, instead of the present two-thirds. Critics contend that adoption of the McGovern plan would be a foot in the door for those who want to cut the required margin down to a majority of 51 of the 100 senators.

After refusing 61 to 37 to reject Dirksen's point of order, the Senate went on to vote 59 to 37 affirmatively to sustain it.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana then announced that he and Dirksen and others will file

Push United Fund to Goal

SIU faculty and staff helped the 1966-67 United Fund Drive go over the top, by contributing $20,065.20 to the area drives, an increase of $1,120.95 over a year ago.

Rex Karnes, chairman of the Campus United Fund, an integral part of the community effort, reports the money from the 1,160 donors was presented to several neighboring drives.

Murphysboro, Herrin, Marion, and Union County Fund drives benefited by a total of $882, with $19,183.20 going to the Carbondale drive.

The goal, according to an announcement from James Cherry, general chairman and William J. McKeefery, president, was $52,368. The total to Jan. 11 was $52,374.25.

Under the rules, the Senate will vote on this next Tuesday and unless the McGovern supporters can muster a two-thirds majority—and they concede they cannot—their cause is lost.

Only two of the 100 senators were absent when Wednesday's pivotal vote was taken. They were Sens. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., who was reported by aides to be attending an educational conference in Indiana, and Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., who is in the Virgin Islands recovering from a bronchitis attack.

Senate to Start 'Subtle' Lower Price Drive

SIU student government will launch a subtle campaign against high food prices in Carbondale stores in the next few weeks.

Among the first steps will be to print weekly charts listing price comparisons among four Carbondale food stores, according to Bill Potter, chairman of the Senate Food Committee.

Bird, Animal Story Depicted in Movie

The Audubon Screen Tour will feature the all-color motion picture "Teton Trails" in Furr Auditorium in University School at 8 p.m. Wednesday.

The dramatic story of bird and animal life in the Teton Range is captured in the movie produced and narrated by Charles T. Hotchkiss, National Audubon Society speaker.

University I.D. cards are required for admission at student rates.

The event is sponsored by the Audio-Visual, Lectures and Entertainment, and the Department of Zoology with the assistance of the Office of Special Meetings and Speakers.

The charts, to be distributed to students free of charge at central points on campus, will give prices of food staples.

The committee is consulting the Home Economics Department of Food Research for items usually included in a normal nutritional student diet, he said.

By publishing the prices, the committee hopes to stimulate more competition among the food stores and thereby lower prices.

"But a successful campaign depends on the students' willingness to shop at the stores recommended," Potter said.

The tacit recommendations will be made only by listing prices of various items at the stores. Students may decide from the factual information offered at which store they would like to shop.

Potter said the committee hopes to enlist the support of HELP (Housewives' Efforts to Lower Prices).

Last quarter HELP groups boycotted Carbondale food stores in an effort to lower prices. The boycotts reportedly met with little success.

"The main objective of the campaign is to lower food prices in the area," Potter said.

He said a recent student government price canvass in surrounding towns showed that many items in those stores were priced several cents higher than in Carbondale. Long-range goals of the campaign include combatting stamp and game gimmicks used to attract customers.

The food committee will meet at 8 p.m. today in the Student Government Office to complete plans for opening the campaign. All interested students are invited to the meeting.

"We would like to see this become a community project later, rather than just a student one," Potter said.

Fire Raid Opens Iron Triangle To Visual Observation, Attack

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — A B52 fire raid Wednesday lofted pillars of smoke from jungles that have sheltered Viet Cong for 20 years. The aim was to destroy trees, brush and vines and open up the Communist stamping ground to visual observation and attack.

American troops in the adjacent Iron Triangle reported they killed 20 more Viet Cong and uncovered a grave with 19 previously felled by air or ground strikes. This increased to 495 the announced toll on the enemy through 11 days of Operation Cedar Falls, the war's biggest offensive.

A booby-trapped tunnel yielded 82 enemy weapons, including four machine guns.

U.S. Army helicopters and Vietnamese soldiers hunted along the central coast for Michele Ray, 26, a blonde French free-lance photographer and former model who vanished Tuesday.

Her parents in Nice, France, Mr. and Mrs. Jean Ray, shared with American authorities a fear that she was in Viet Cong hands. They said that, in planning a film on "Men in War," she had remarked that she wanted to get the Viet Cong side as well as the American, "and the best way to get there is to have myself kidnapped."

U.S. fighter-bombers hit targets in North Vietnam as others from Guam sought to burn out a 30-square-mile area centered 32 miles northeast of Saigon. The eight-jet bombers made 10 passes over the area in a period of 50 minutes, loosing tons of incendiary bombs from a height of 30,000 feet.

Chicago Fire Brings Debate On Sprinklers

CHICAGO (AP) — Extensive destruction at McCormick Place in a fire Monday brought debate Wednesday over the Chicago fire code which required no sprinkler system for the building's main hall.

State and city officials investigating the conflagration differed as to how effective high sprinklers in the 1 million-square-foot hall would have been.

John W. Evers, chairman of the Metropolitan Fair and Exposition Authority which operates McCormick Place, said that "spray from a sprinkler system would have vaporized before reaching the flames in this fire."

clusters of flame at 8,000 feet and ripped hissing into the foliage below. Lt. Cmdr. L. L. Herzog, who watched from a helicopter, said clouds of white smoke soared from the greenery, and black smoke came from sections that were dried out.

Herzog said efforts had been made in the past to open up the jungles with chemical defoliants, but they never cleared the heavy undergrowth. How the fire will work is still a question.

A U.S. Air Force Dragon ship, armed with gatling guns that spewed out 18,000 shots a minute, helped drive off Viet Cong who staged simultaneous attacks on three bridges from eight to 11 miles east and northeast of Saigon.

A Vietnamese spokesman said the bridges were not damaged. Barry Goldwater had a look at both air and ground operations elsewhere. The 1964 Republican presidential candidate, a major general in the Air Force Reserve, talked aboard the carrier Kitty Hawk with Navy jet pilots returning from attacks on North Vietnam.

He later made a helicopter flight to Marine headquarters at Da Nang and to Hill 55, a Marine post five miles south of that city. A Leatherneck detachment a short distance from the hill reported it killed four guerrillas before Goldwater arrived. There was scattered shooting when he flew over the area.

The U.S. Command announced the Thai Nguyen railway yard, 40 miles north of Hanoi, was damaged heavily by 16 flights of Air Force F105 Thunderchiefs over an eight-hour period Tuesday. The flights varied from two to four planes.

Australia Greets Premier Ky On Start of Nine-Day Tour

CANBERRA, Australia (AP) — Premier Nguyen Cao Ky said Wednesday if the Communists won South Vietnam "we will be slaves of Red China — that would be our fate."

Urbane in the face of some manifest hostility, the chief of Saigon's government presented his grim view of what defeat would mean at the outset of a nine-day tour to express to Australia and New Zealand his appreciation for their help as military allies.

Among some thousands who turned out for the motorcade procession on the arrival of Ky and his beautiful wife, Tuyet Mai, were about 700 hecklers. Bearded youths and miniskirted girls of the sweat-shirt and sandal set joined members of the opposition Labor party and various workers in the demonstration.

The couple was welcomed warmly by Prime Minister Harold Holt, whose Liberal-Country coalition swamped the Labor party last Nov. 26 in an election keyed to the war issue. Holt's government has 4,500 troops in Vietnam. Campaigning with them are 180 New Zealand artillerymen.

Ky at a news conference that presented some tough questions, fielded all with a combination of wit and directness. The newsmen applauded him.

He held to the stand he took at the Manila conference of "temporarily accepting" the partition of Vietnam if the Communists stopped the war. But he conceded he has never abandoned hope of some day reuniting the country "in freedom."

Ky reiterated that he intends to visit the United States, saying he probably will make the trip at the end of this year.

Meetings Start For Students On Probation

Meetings for General Studies students on probation will begin at 10 a.m. Monday in the probation office on the second floor of the University Center.

The meetings will continue Monday through Friday for three or four weeks according to Mrs. Dorothy J. Ramp of the probation office.

Students on probation should have received a letter at their home address telling them what time to report, she said.

If students on probation have not received this letter, they should report to the probation office to arrange an appointment.

Mrs. Ramp said that attendance would be taken at the meeting.

Also if there is a class or work conflict with the appointment, the student should contact the probation office.

Further questions can be answered by Mrs. Ramp mornings at the probation office.

Mao-Liu Battle Deadlocked in Chinese Capital

TOKYO (AP) — Red China's radio acknowledged Wednesday that Mao Tse-tung's rivals were firmly entrenched in Peking, where one report said wall posters appeared praising Mao's arch foe, President Liu Shaochi.

Radio Peking spoke of dissidents loyal to Liu still holding "bastions of counter-revolutionary revisionism" in the Red capital, and reported similar conditions in the big port of Shanghai. Only Tuesday, the Mao faction was claiming a big victory in Shanghai.

On the basis of this and other reports, it appeared that the Mao and Liu factions were deadlocked in their struggle for power.

Japanese press reports said youthful Red Guards were swarming into Peking's police headquarters, hospitals and schools claiming the places were still occupied by "bourgeois reactionaries."

The correspondent of the Japanese Broadcasting Corp. said wall posters appeared in Peking during the day defending Liu and denouncing Mao's purge leaders as "opportunists." In the latter criticism were purge chief Chen Po-ta and Mao's wife, Chiang Ching, who is Chen's deputy.

SIU Backs Edwardsville Book Store Stand

By Mike Nauer

SIU is involved in a donnybrook with the Edwardsville Chamber of Commerce over the new book store being established in the University Center on the Edwardsville campus.

The area merchants have claimed the book store will be in competition with them and that it is their tax dollars that are building and supporting the store.

One merchant association has threatened to take the issue to the state legislature in an effort to have laws enacted that will regulate state universities' book store operations.

The furor began over SIU's decision to sell articles of clothing such as slacks and undergarments along with regular items like monogrammed sweatshirts and windbreakers.

John S. Rendleman, vice president for business affairs, said the amount of floor space devoted to clothing sales is negligible.

He said the store will occupy 10,000 square feet of floor space of which only 1,000 will be devoted to articles of clothing. The bulk of clothing will be of the type sold at the Carbondale campus store, mainly sweatshirts and windbreakers, he said.

Rendleman said the philosophy of the bookstore operation is to provide students with a service. Supplies sold there are often those items the student can't buy downtown, he said.

"Here in Carbondale, our store carries a line of art supplies that would be unprofitable for a commercial store to carry because of the variety needed and the low turnover of sales," the vice president said.

Rendleman said, however, the book store does not operate at a loss. "But the profits are used toward the amortization of the revenue bonds that financed the University Center," he said.

The University Centers on both campuses are financed by self-liquidating revenue bonds, and not from appropriations by the legislature from taxes.

Rendleman said so far he has heard of no complaints from Carbondale merchants over the book store operation here. However, a recent Chamber of Commerce Bulletin stated the chamber would look into the situation in Carbondale.

such as Northern Illinois at DeKalb, have sidestepped the issue by leasing out their facilities on a bid basis to a stand firm in its position at Edwardsville. He said the projected sales there should in no way affect the gross receipts of Edwardsville area merchants.

Rendleman said SIU plans to

Matmen Prepare for 3rd Quadrangular

The wrestling Salukis will be on the road this weekend for the third time in a row. This Saturday they will be in Warrensburg, Mo., to participate in the Central Missouri Quadrangular.

This will be the third quadrangular in as many weeks for Coach Jim Wilkinson's grapplers. In the last two contests the Salukis have been impressive winners, taking the team titles at the Miami (Ohio) and the Southwest Missouri State quadrangulares.

Wilkinson's grapplers have been proceeding at a steady pace to establish themselves as one of the top wrestling teams in the United States.

The dual meet phase of the season will begin Monday night when the Salukis play host to Moorhead State College. After the meet with the Dragons the Salukis will compete in the hazel Park Invitational in Detroit, Mich., and then collide with defending NCAA champion Oklahoma State, Southeast Missouri, Oklahoma, Iowa State and Indiana State. The Iowa State and Indiana State meets will both be at home.

The Saluki grapplers will again be the favorites on Saturday in the Central Missouri quadrangular. Wilkinson's team does have one very serious handicap to overcome not only in this meet but for the remainder of the season.

Larry Baron, Saluki 130-pound wrestler, suffered a broken thumb against Southwest Missouri last Saturday and will miss the quadrangular. His status for the remainder of the season is still

Sports Car Rally Planned Sunday

The Grand Touring Auto Club will sponsor a sports car rally Sunday starting in the SIU Arena parking lot. Registration begins at noon with the first car starting at 1 p.m.

The cars will cover a 90-mile course ending in Murphysboro. Check-points will be set up and the cars will run on a puzzle-system. This is not a speed event, but a test of skill in driving a prescribed course at an average speed.

Seat-belts and a registration fee of $1 for members and $1.50 for non-members are required to enter.

Graduate Examination Scheduled Saturday

The graduate record examination will be administered to 89 persons from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday in Furr Auditorium. Only those students who have registered with Educational Testing Service will be tested.

Registration closes Saturday for the admission test for graduate study in business to be given Feb. 4. Interested students may obtain application forms and information booklets at the Testing Center.

doubtful but the odds are that he will be out of action.

Dean Ohl and Don Ross are both capable of filling the gap in Baron's weight class but Baron, who has a 12-2 season's record, will be missed.

Moorhead College will bring in a team the Salukis defeated 21-17 last season. Coach Bill Garland, who has mustered a record of 80-17-3 in eight seasons at the helm of the Dragons, has eight lettermen back from last season's team which was 14-3 overall.

Rick Stuyvesant, 137-pound National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA) champion in 1966; Frank Mosier, 167-pound NAIA champ last year; Bill Germann, third in the NAIA last year at 130-pound division, and Rick Kelvington, fifth in the NCAA at the 123-pound division, headline the Dragon lineup.

Garland believes Moorhead State will be stronger at 177-pounds and 191-pounds and strong in the other weights except heavyweight.

The meet is scheduled for the Arena at 7:30 p.m. Tickets are on sale at the Arena ticket office. Prices are $.50 for students and $1.50 for the general public.

Terrell Miffed Over Fight Billboards

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Ernie Terrell, displeased with the way signs and billboards present his name, threatened to withdraw from his Feb. 6 showdown fight with Cassius Clay for the undisputed world's heavyweight boxing championship.

"Most of the signs and billboards I've seen since arriving in town Monday have only Clay's picture and have Clay's name in bigger letters than mine," Terrell told a hastily called news conference.

"Either they give me equal billing or 48 hours from now I am going to pack my bags and go home," he added.

Terrell made his announcement as he appeared for his first workout at the training site at the Astrodomo, which is promoting the fight being billed as the first in history to match two heavyweight champions.

Terrell is recognized as the champion by the World Boxing Association, Bill Giles, vice president and director of public relations for the Astrodomo, when advised of Terrell's remarks, said that the promoters would get together with Terrell's manager and try to straighten out the matter.

Tip on Frazier Proved Important One for SIU

By Tom Wood

While most Atlantans probably don't realize it, their city has made one of the big contributions to this year's college basketball scene. The referent is, of course, Southern's Walt Frazier, who prepped at David T. Howard High School in Atlanta under the tutelage of George Coffee.

Frazier, whose prep exploits were not getting due recognition upon his graduation, came to Southern on the sort of tip bookies lie awake nights mulling about.

Frazier was steered towards Coach Jack Hartman by a friend who had recently taken up residence in Atlanta. The friend had proven reliable in the past so Hartman took a chance on Frazier and as the tale goes the glass slipper fit perfectly.

Since coming to Southern, Frazier has rewritten the freshman record book, made the Little All-America team as a soph two years ago and is showing every indication of repeating that honor this season.

While Frazier is not threatening Charlie Vaughn's all-time scoring records with his 16.7 point average this year, he has led the team throughout the season in scoring, rebounds and spoiling opposing coaches' weekends.

Frazier is one of the few guards anywhere who can claim the distinction of grabbing five rebounds a game more than any other man on the club. He is averaging 11.3 in that category. One reason for this is his 6-3, 205-pound build, but more evident than that is the tremendous hustle he displays throughout a game.

This virtue is not unusual to Hartman's ball clubs. The Salukis have been described several times this year by visiting press members as the best disciplined team they have ever seen.

Scoring and grabbing unsuccessful shots are only part of Frazier's role. He is an outstanding ball handler and one of the best defenders on a team that is statistically among the top defensive squads in the nation.

His value as a leader can best be exemplified by the final four minutes of the Louisville game in the Arena. The Salukis all but blew a 10 point lead after Frazier was taken out with three fouls. He came back in the second half to score Southern's final seven points of the game in a 53-50 victory.

Three days later he contributed the final six points in a one-point trimming of Southwest Missouri and got four of the last five in Monday's Kentucky Wesleyan game. Frazier also seems to be always there for the crucial rebound or to make the big defensive play in the waning moments.

NCAA Adopts Football Kickoff Rule

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—The rules committee of the National Collegiate Athletic Association adopted a new rule Wednesday which it hopes will put the foot back into football and open up a whole new pattern of offensive play.

The committee also adopted a rule prohibiting the use of electronic coaching aids, particularly video-taped replays during games.

The committee, headed by Fritz Crisler, University of Michigan Athletic director, decided "that there have been too many fair catches on kicks from scrimmage and it's the unanimous feeling that this should change."

Under the new rule, linemen on the kicking team will have to hold their positions until the ball is kicked, thereby giving the player receiving the ball an additional few seconds of time.

Brannon to Resign as Coach
