Students to receive power shortage rebate

By Cynthia Weiss
Staff Writer

Residents of four East Campus residence halls will get a "rebate" from the University for the days they were without power.

According to the agreement made Friday, students living in Allen, Neely, Mae Smith and Schneider halls will get $1 off their damage assessments at the end of the year, said Steve Kirk, assistant director of housing and residence life.

Students living in the four East Campus residence halls lost power Jan 20 about 8 p.m. The power outage lasted about 13 hours for those living in Schneider hall and about three days for those in Neely and Allen halls. Power was restored in Mae Smith Hall Jan. 22.

Representatives of the Allen, Neely, Mae Smith and Schneider hall councils met with University Housing Director Samuel Rinella Friday to discuss compensating residents for the inconvenience.

Several proposals aimed at making amends were discussed at the meeting, Kirk said. University Housing was willing to purchase some recreation equipment for the four residence halls, to donate an unspecified amount of money to student government accounts, or make arrangements for residents to enjoy steak dinners a little more often, he said.

But the students decided to settle for a cash rebate.

When vandalism occurs in a residence hall and the culprit goes uncaught, the cost of repair is split among all the students living in the building, Kirk said.

Motorcycle accident

John Lux, 19 of Morton, awaited treatment Monday after his motorcycle collided with a Buick in the Wham Education Building parking lot. Lux was driving out of lot No. 29 going west to Lincoln Drive when he struck a car driven by Sen. J.

Parrott, 19, of Chicago. A police spokesperson said Parrott failed to yield the right of way when he turned. Lux was the only one injured and was taken to Carbondale Memorial Hospital, where he was released at 5 p.m.

Officials to receive pay raises

CHICAGO (AP) — Illinois lawmakers and other top state officials will collect heftier paychecks this week because a judge refused Monday to block pay raises set in motion last summer.

But the court reserved judgment until March 8 on the constitutionality of the Compensation Review Board, created last summer. The board's recommendations for higher pay went into effect Jan. 9.

Judge David Shields, ruling in a suit filed by the Coalition for Political Honesty, said there was no need to block the raises immediately because no extra state money had been appropriated to pay the higher salaries.

He also left the door open for further court challenges if the Legislature makes a special appropriation later this year to pay the higher salaries.

Patrick Quinn, head of the coalition, called the ruling "a victory for the taxpayers." He said his group will not appeal Monday's decision, but will instead put pressure on lawmakers to vote against an appropriation to pay the increased salaries.

"The only thing the judge determined today was that there was no emergency," Quinn said. "This gives us one more vote where the people can raise their voices."

Quinn predicted that vote is likely to come in May or June, when the $8 million appropriated last summer to begin the pay raises is expected to run out.

Michael Hayes, the assistant Illinois attorney general, who argued the state's case, called Quinn's assumption "possible."

"We did not consider this suit frivolous or malicious," Hayes said.

Five indicted in cocaine investigation

By Jane Grandolfo
Staff Writer

U.S. Attorney Frederick J. Hess announced Monday that five Carbondale residents have been indicted for conspiring to distribute cocaine.

The charges stem from a several month investigation into cocaine trafficking in Southern Illinois and the subsequent arrests in December.

The director of the Southern Illinois Enforcement Group, a Carbondale-based investigative agency that spearheaded the investigation, said the five suspects had worked together to distribute the drug in Carbondale.

Director Dennis Bowman said Monday that further arrest-leading to a large cocaine distribution ring— are possible. Those arrests will hinge on "the extent of the testimony we get at this time" from the suspects, Bowman said.

A total of 6.5 ounces of cocaine and $5,000 cash were confiscated in the December arrest in which an undercover agent had negotiated to pay $14,000 for the drug, Bowman said.

All five suspects were arrested in Carbondale and charged with conspiring to distribute cocaine.

Anthony J. Terri, 19, of Schneider Hall, was charged with seven counts of distribution of cocaine; Marc Hagins, 23 of 702 W. Walnut St., with three counts of distribution of cocaine; Timothy E. Weiss, 22, of 511 S. Forest Ave., with one count of conspiring to distribute cocaine; David Schlagetter, 22, of 511 S. Forest Ave., with three counts of distribution of cocaine and one count of distribution of marijuana; and Gregory J. Creasy, 24, of 600 W. Main St., with one count of distribution of cocaine.

The maximum penalty for distributing a controlled substance is 15 years in prison and/or a $25,000 fine. The same penalty holds for conspiring to distribute a controlled substance.

A grand jury was called in Benton to hear the case and the prosecuting attorney will be Assistant U.S. Attorney Joel Merkel, Bowman said.

The indictment is the result of a four-part investigation that involved the Federal Drug Enforcement Agency, the Illinois Division of Criminal Investigations, the Carbondale Police Department and the Southern Illinois Enforcement Group.

Legislators waiting to see public works plan

By John Krukowski
Staff Writer

Local legislators say they are withholding a final judgement on Gov. James Thompson's proposed multibillion-dollar public works program until the governor reveals more details about how such a program would be funded in his State of the State address next Tuesday.

"I don't think there's any question but that we need a new public works program," said Sen. Glenn Poshard, D-Carterville.

Poshard, Rep. Bruce Richmond, D-Murphysboro; and Rep. Jim Rea, D-Christopher; have expressed enthusiasm at the thought of the increased renewal projects the program could bring to Southern Illinois.

But that Thompson has declined to say how he intends to pay for the project, or even exactly what in Illinois will be repaired and at what cost, has local congressmen proceeding with caution for the time being.

"He may be looking at some method of financing that some of us haven't even looked at yet," Rea said.

Although he says he's still waiting for more details from the governor and his final decision on the project "all depends on the financing," Rea says he agrees with the philosophy of Thompson's plan.

"I'm as anxious to see what will come out of it as anyone," Rea said.

"Any effort to improve the economy and business climate of Southern Illinois we will readily receive with open arms," Richmond said.

Republican leaders refuse to consider tax-cut plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican congressional leaders unanimously told President Reagan on Monday not to bother sending a tax-simplification plan to Capitol Hill until a package of politically painful budget cuts wins approval. Treasury Secretary Donald T. Regan, the incoming White House chief of staff, was quoted as telling the lawmakers it will be weeks, perhaps months, before the administration's tax-simplification program is ready.

Florida citrus losses estimated at 25 percent

LAKE LAND, Fla. (AP) — Last week's three-day freeze will cost the Florida citrus industry more than 25 percent of its frozen orange juice production this season, according to an industry estimate Monday. The estimate by Florida Citrus Mutual, the state's largest grower cooperative, came as an emergency embargo on the shipment of fresh citrus fruit out of the state went into effect.

Star Wars defense questionable, study says

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Strategic Defense Initiative proposed by President Reagan is "of questionable value and astounding cost," says a new study which forecasts that the research alone will cost more than the entire proposed budget for such programs as the MX nuclear missile and the B-1 bomber. The report says the total program, known as "Star Wars," could cost $400 billion to $800 billion if it goes directly into full-scale development.

School reforms hurt poor children, panel says

WASHINGTON (AP) — A panel of children's advocates charged on Monday that millions of poor, handicapped and minority students are being cheated by America's public schools and that the rush to raise standards could make life worse for those at the back of the class. They said the plight of these children, and the ways the schools and government at all levels have responded to it, "support the worries of those who fear the development of a permanent underclass in America."

Dairies sign up for missing children project

NEW YORK (AP) — More than 100 dairies have signed up for a program to distribute abducted children's photos on millions of milk cartons and sponsors said Monday that the idea, born in Iowa, is taking root around the nation. Under a program kicked off Monday at a Manhattan news conference, a manufacturer will feature pictures of a total of 24 missing children on milk cartons it distributes to dairies around the country.

Personal income rises 1.5 percent in Illinois

WASHINGTON (AP) — Personal income in Illinois — excluding farm earnings — rose 1.5 percent from July through September, lagging behind the national increase of 2 percent, the Commerce Department reported Monday. The service sector of the state's economy showed the greatest strength, with a 1.9 percent quarterly boost in wages and salaries. That gain was slightly above the nationwide increase of 1.7 percent, according to the department.

Judge refuses to dismiss cyanide death indictments

CHICAGO (AP) — A judge refused Monday to dismiss indictments against four former company officials of a suburban company facing unprecedented murder charges in the 1983 cyanide poisoning death of an immigrant factory worker. Cook County Circuit Judge Ronald J.P. Banks ruled that the charges in the October 1983 indictments were sufficient to warrant a trial, which he scheduled to begin March 11, said Jay Magnuson, the assistant state's attorney prosecuting the case.

Legislators seek funds to better public works

CHICAGO (AP) — The Illinois General Assembly will be asked this year to approve legislation that could channel up to $1.5 billion in low-interest federal loans to local governments for improving streets, bridges and sewers. The plan would create the Infrastructure Revolving Loan Fund, which could attract as much as $151 million in federal money each year, its sponsors said Sunday in unveiling plans to introduce the legislation. Announcing the plan were three Democrats — House Speaker Michael J. Madigan and Rep. Alfred Ronan, both of Chicago, and Sen. Greg Zito of suburban Melrose Park.

Former grad student sues over threat of deportation

By Lisa Eisenhauer
Staff Writer

A former SIUC graduate student has filed a $2 million lawsuit against the university where he is now teaching and the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service charging them with violating his constitutional and academic rights.

Achal Mehra, a native of India who did his graduate work in the SIUC School of Journalism, said he filed the lawsuit against the University of Northern Colorado and the INS because he is being threatened illegally with deportation.

AT ISSUE, Mehra said, are some editorials he has written for the University's student newspaper, The Mirror, since he became an assistant professor at UNC in September, 1983. The editorials were critical of certain goings-on within the administration, he said.

After the editorials were published and the charges he was making in them began to be investigated, Mehra said UNC administrators contracted the Immigration Service to see how they could have the practical training visa they approved revoked.

"The only way the visa can be revoked is to say that the chairman of my department did not have the authority to approve it, but he did," Mehra said.

HE SAID HE has copies of two letters from University administrators giving the chairman the authority to approve the visa which classified him as a "non-immigrant worker."

The UNC Board of Trustees is denying his charges that administrators conspired to have him deported, charges contained in a lawsuit filed Jan. 18, Mehra said, although the board has conceded that some of the charges made in the editorials are true.

Among the allegations concerning "certain financial irregularities at the University" made in Mehra's editorials is one charging the wife of the president of UNC with using University funds to make an "unauthorized" trip to Taiwan. Mehra said he has filed a separate lawsuit with the attorney general of Colorado asking that the funds used for the trip be repaid to UNC.

ANOTHER CHARGE made in an editorial is that five administrators, including the president, are violating a frozen salary model set in 1984. Mehra said the Board of Trustees has confirmed that the UNC president is drawing $17,000 more than what his salary limit would be if he were abiding by the moratorium.

Mehra, who was unanimously elected chairman of his department in early January but was refused the position by the department's dean, said his concern with certain aspects of the administration is shared by the UNC faculty and student body.

He said a survey of the faculty conducted by an investigative journalism class found that two-thirds of the faculty would rather be teaching elsewhere.

THEODORA Kalikow, dean of UNC's College of Arts and Sciences, which includes the department of journalism, confirmed that she refused to accept Mehra's election as chairman. She said her decision was made because of Mehra's "difficulties with immigration" and because "his status here is uncertain."

A story in The Mirror on Jan. 7 said that UNC officials called Mehra's charges that University administrators conspired to have him deported unfounded.

Computers available at discount to students

By Jim Ludeman
Staff Writer

The agreement between the Illinois Educational Consortium and Apple Computer Inc. has been made final and the IEC is open for business, according to John Patrick Russell, director of IEC's office on campus.

Russell said the office, located at 1007 W. Mill St. in Carbondale, opened in November, and Apple Macintosh computers have been available to SIUC students and staff since then. The computers are available at 38 to 44 percent off list price, Russell said, which means that a "bare unit" of computer and printer would cost $1,888.88, he said.

The IEC office in Carbondale has sold 53 units since it opened in November, Russell said, a figure he considered "relatively good."

In addition to the Apple Macintosh package, which includes a screen, disk drive and keyboard, peripherals such as telephone modems may also be purchased.

The office in Carbondale is the result of an agreement the IEC made with the Apple Computer Inc. at the introduction of the Macintosh computer.

Apple released its Macintosh computers last January and signed an agreement with 24 universities to distribute them nationwide.

Apple immediately received requests from other universities and organizations for a similar agreement.

Apple and the IEC reached an agreement in August that allows the IEC, chosen to represent all state universities in Illinois, to purchase and sell equipment at a 38 to 44 percent discount.

To be eligible for the discount, a person must be either a student, staff or faculty member at a participating university.

If students wish to purchase the equipment, they must have been fulltime students for a least a month and must present student identification and a bursar's statement showing full-time fees.

Faculty, administrators and staff that are directly involved with the educational goals of SIUC are also eligible for the discount.

Purchases can be made at the IEC office, open from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Use of U.S. court by Sharon is unfair

THE RULING IN THE TIME V. SHARON magazine libel case has given a measure of victory to both sides. But the disturbing thing about the whole case is that it was even tried in the U.S. at all.

The case ended last week in a tie. Sharon says he won because the jury found a paragraph in a Time article defamatory and false. The jury also said Time was negligent in publishing the passage without sufficiently checking out the validity of its charges.

Time claims victory because the jurors said the magazine didn't act with malice in publishing "paragraph 22." The paragraph said Sharon had discussed revenge with Lebanese Phalangists before a massacre in 1982. As a result of the ruling, Time was saved from paying any damages to Sharon.

But the most disturbing fact of the case isn't Sharon's alleged role in the massacre or Time's negligence in checking out the facts.

The real problem is that Sharon was allowed to take his case to a U.S. court. This was allowed despite the fact that Time was denied access to important evidence by the Israeli government.

THIS SETS A DANGEROUS PRECEDENT. Allowing every world figure with a complaint to air his gripes in U.S. courts would be unfair to our legal system. In a similar situation it's unlikely that Israel would grant a foreigner access to their courts.

Access to U.S. courts is an advantage for people like Sharon. Our legal system is one of the most just in the world in cases of libel and the press. Sharon would have less chance of winning a libel suit in his own country.

As it turned out, the ruling in Sharon v. Time didn't infringe much on the powers of the press in this country. Publications make mistakes. As William Brennan, U.S. Supreme Court justice, said in the opinion that set up the malice rule, "erroneous statement is inevitable in free debate and ... it must be protected if the freedoms of expression are to have the breathing space they need." The Sharon ruling supports this rule.

But care must be taken not to allow large numbers of world figures to use the U.S. court system just because they stand a better chance of winning here.

Sensible approach to issue a rarity in pro-lifers' letters

People such as Bill Simpson and Christy Bailey deserve thanks and should be congratulated for speaking out in the Jan. 23 edition of the D.E. Though I disagree with their positions, it is nice to finally hear from pro-lifers who are at least rational in their approach to the abortion issue. Their silence is the reason pro-lifers are characterized as "mad bombers or boors," as well as religious fanatics.

As for using student fees to finance abortions, I feel the issue needs further examination before a decision is made. Being pro-choice, however, my first inclination is to say yes, just as it is Ronald Isaac's first inclination to say no. But instead of listening to both sides, Isaacs impetuously threatens a lawsuit. Having such an "I'll sue!" attitude is counterproductive to any discussion of the subject.

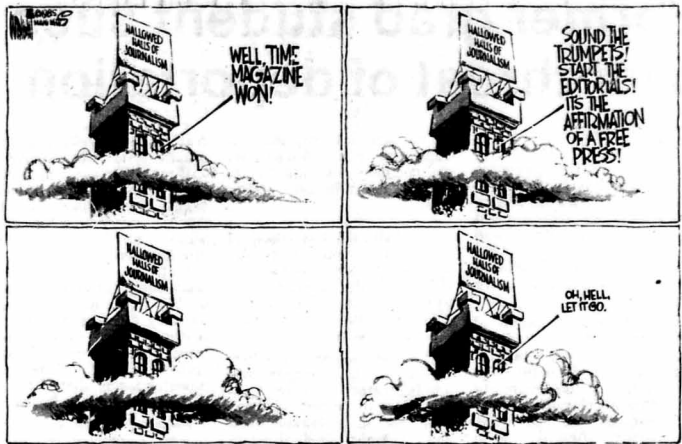

Christy Bailey says the 1973 Supreme Court decision in Roe v. Wade rests on an "unstable foundation," and therefore cannot be used to justify any university action. That decision legalized abortion for any reason until the fetus is able to survive outside the womb. The Court, she maintains, did not decide "whether a fetus is a person."

The whole abortion issue today centers on that question. Bailey's basis for determining when life begins rests on an unstable foundation.

The argument over when life begins is still unresolved to everyone's satisfaction. A Senate subcommittee report does not constitute the last word on the subject. But the report is definitely more valid than the Bible in answering the question at hand. Life does not begin at conception just because the Bible says so.

Finally, Bill Simpson asks why SIU-C should "ape the U of I." After attending the University of Illinois for three years before transferring here my reply is, why not? Maybe you'll learn something. — Dan Sherman, senior, Radio and Television.

Political reality, constituent groups make budget and tax battles difficult

WHAT WE HAVE here is "High Noon" played by the Marx brothers. The gun-slingers are warily walking down the dusty street — Pennsylvania Avenue — but they are not eager to sling guns. The winner may be the one who draws last.

The President is going to sort a budget, in a perfunctory sort of way. The House of Representatives, the last redoubt of Democrats, must (the law is picky about this) pass a budget. But it does not want to do that until Senate Republicans write one.

Their leader, Robert Dole, is going to run for president as a responsible Republican, meaning one who will countenance some Social Security cuts and deeper defense cuts than the President wants. If Dole oversees Senate passage of a budget like that, House Democrats will stand back agast, entropy will spread through Congress and there will be government by continuing resolution until 1986, which is an election year, so....

So let's kill time by reforming taxes. Rub, rub, rub, rub. There. We have erased every line in the wickedly complicated tax code, because Americans say they crave simplicity. And yet, and yet....

A FEW MONTHS ago the Reagan administration was said to be bent on establishing a theocracy, turning the government over to the nation's parsons. But lo! The administration's tax-simplification plan would erase the provision whereby parsons are not taxed on the value of the compensation they receive in the form of their parsonage or housing allowance. Taxing that will give the government $164 million in 1990. But that is $164 million that congregations will have to make up, or take from charities. So parsons and their flocks will put the fear of God into Congress.

Furthermore, America itself — meaning, of course, baseball — is endangered. Last year, 15 million tickets — one-third of all tickets sold — were deductible as business expense. The government, in one of its sweeter moods, has declared that a major league stadium is an "appropriate business setting." For business entertainment, that is. Change that, and much revenue will be drained from sports, and Dave Winfield will not be able to live in the manner to which he is accustomed. So, sports fans, let's keep a little complexity in the tax code, to protect sports.

NOW, ABOUT THAT progressive idea of ending the deductibility of mortgage-interest payments on second homes. That change would persecute the plutocrats, right? Well, it will not amuse Aspen, Colo., Sun Valley, Idaho, and Jackson Hole, Wyo., for starters. And those states have as many senators as California, New York and Texas — where, come to think about it, there live many parsons who have second homes.

The end of second-home deductibility would alarm lumbermen — the horny-handed sons of toil who harvest the trees that make the beams and shingles and floors in second homes. And the union members who make the plumbing fixtures may oppose any tax change that would inhibit construction. And so on.

Concerning the three-martini lunch, who will die in the last ditch in defense of current permissive rules on the deductibility of "business" meals? Not fat cats grown fat on too much gin and not enough vermouth. They are too fat to fight. No, the defenders will be the restaurant and hotel workers' unions. And (for starters) the two senators from Louisiana: New Orleans is kept afloat by deductible spending at business conventions and meetings.

WELL, AT LEAST we can agree about radically restricting the right of state and local governments to issue tax-exempt bonds, right? Such bonds finance construction of public works (schools, highways, airports, hospitals, bridges). There were $83 billion of such bonds issued in 1983. Restrict them and you restrict the wealth-amassing by the wealthy. But you also restrict construction, so you will hear from the construction unions (Democratic) and the contractors (Republican).

So what will happen in this year of budget cutting and tax reforming? This year will be momentous if much happens, or if nothing happens.

If much happens, that will be momentous. If nothing very much happens, we will have established the momentous fact that the modern state has grown weak by growing big — that it is immobilized by the constituencies it has created through the services it has rendered. By January 1986, we will either have no enlarged sense of the possible, or we will have the knowledge that the modern state has so woven itself into the fabric of society that it cannot move without ripping the fabric, and thus cannot move.

Illinois farmers' worth drops, but still above national average

CHAMPAIGN (AP) — The net worth of Illinois farmers has dropped 22 percent in the last four years but still is well above the national average, a University of Illinois study shows.

Agricultural economist David Lins said his analysis indicates the average wealth per farm in Illinois had fallen to $500,000 by 1984 and that "real wealth positions of the Illinois farm sector have continued to erode since the beginning of last year."

"Declining land values spurred by lower net farm incomes and interest rates at three times the rate of return are primarily responsible for this equity decline," said Lins.

However, the net wealth of Illinois farmers compared with just $16,000 per farm family nationwide in 1984, he said. Most of the equity in Illinois is tied up in nonliquid assets such as machinery and farmland, said Lins.

He said Illinois farmers have reacted to financial stress by reducing their use of borrowed money. Debt, which had grown at a rate of 12 percent to 14 percent in the 1970s, began to level off in 1982 and by last year was declining.

The average Illinois farmer's ratio of debt to assets was 18 percent in 1983 — "still relatively low compared to neighboring states," said Lins. "But state averages tend to mask the substantial variation that exists among farm operators."

Lins said delinquency rates on farm loans remain relatively low. Many farmers are rescheduling loans, liquidating assets, keeping equipment longer and working off the farm to avoid loan defaults, he said.

Financial problems seem to be the worst in southern and western parts of Illinois and among beef and hog farmers, U. of I. data suggests.

"The future for Illinois agriculture holds both promise and dismay," said Lins. "Many farm operators are still in good financial shape. Others are in trouble."

Oil ministers clash over price cut

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) — Oil ministers clashed openly Monday as OPEC began an emergency session and discussed a pair of proposals that could cut the cartel's base price for the second time in its history.

The 13 ministers of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries met twice in closed session and said no agreement was reached before adjourning the talks until Tuesday.

Less than an hour after the conference started, the oil minister of the United Arab Emirates walked out, complaining that Nigeria was "stabbing OPEC in the back" by exceeding its production quota.

Ahmed Zaki Yamani, the Saudi Arabian oil minister, said later the incident was sparked by a "misunderstanding" between Mana Saeed Oteiba, the minister from the United Arab Emirates, and Tam David-West, Nigeria's oil minister.

Asked about the incident when he returned for the afternoon session at the Intercontinental Hotel, Oteiba said, "I think it is over."

David-West, whose country broke ranks with OPEC in October by cutting prices to compete with Britain and Norway, refused to discuss the matter.

He disliked the way Walker had intended to finance the project. Poshard said he can't figure out how Thompson intends to pay for his proposal if the governor already intends to devote a sizeable amount of money collected from so-called "sin taxes" to education reforms.

Increased taxes appear to be necessary to make the project a reality, Poshard said.

SIU-C student dies in Route 51 vehicle accident

An SIU-C student died early Saturday morning after his car hit a utility pole about two miles south of Carbondale, a Security Police Department representative said.

Benjamin Andrews, 27, of Rural Route 2 in Makanda, was southbound on Illinois Route 51 at 4:35 a.m. when he apparently lost control of his vehicle on a curve, the representative said.

Andrews' car, a red Volkswagen Beetle, swerved off the west side of the road, crashed into a utility pole, and flipped over, police said. The pole was severed from the impact.

Andrews was pinned in the turned over vehicle when police arrived at the scene. He was pronounced dead on arrival at Memorial Hospital of Carbondale.

At the time, Andrews worked for the University in the Admission and Records Office, and was employed part-time at the Southern Illinoisan newspaper.

Andrew's father, Paul E. Andrews, is an associate professor in the Technology Department, teaching in London, England.

Despite reviews, 'Crimes' doesn't measure up

By Belinda Edmondson
Staff Writer

The New York Times, that venerable dictator of good taste, praised the Pulitzer-Prize-winning play, "Crimes of the Heart," as "overflowing with infectious high spirits," and conferred its much-vaunted stamp of approval upon it. Although it is very intimidating to hold a contrary view to that of The New York Times and the Pulitzer committee, having seen the play at the Jackson Stage Company last Friday, this reviewer fails to see what all the hooplah is about.

Theater Review

"Crimes of the Heart" is a play of the Southern Gothic type, focusing on three eccentric sisters who return to their Mississippi home when one sister shoots her lawyer husband. The play's principal characters are arresting; all three are haunted by their mother's inexplicable suicide — she hung herself in the basement with the family cat — and all three try to expiate the deed in their own way.

Babe Magrath (Jeanne Dorsett), the ingenious younger sister who shoots her husband because she "didn't like his looks," finds herself constantly flirting with suicide. Middle sister Meg (Anita Turpin), a failed singer on the West coast, is deliberately callous with others to steel herself against possible hurt; as a child she used to mock the handicapped children on the March of Dimes posters. Lenny (Cara Webster), certainly the most interesting character of the three, is the sensitive and lonely oldest sister who, faced with almost no marriage prospects, has taken to wearing her dead grandmother's clothing.

The characters, interesting though they be, cannot carry the entire play, and they don't. The problem with this play is that it is cast in a mode that defies categorization — it is neither comedy nor tragedy, not black comedy or comic tragedy. Nothing is wrong with working outside traditional categories but in this case the play is split into two opposing halves — the funny and the serious — and the halves never meet. Worse than that, they each actually injure the credibility of the other.

For instance, the three sisters treat the shooting of Babe's husband as if it were a summer fair, exciting but not terribly out of the ordinary.

And then there's the problem of carrying the joke too far. Funny moments abound in this play, make no mistake, but author Beth Henley tries to wring humor from situations even after they've been squeezed dry.

However, there are a few moments when the serious drama and the comedy actually do click, as seen when the pathetic but funny Lenny (sensitive played by Webster) sticks candles on chocolate chip cookies and sings "Happy Birthday" to herself when everyone has forgotten her birthday. Whether through fault or design, the other performers do not give their characters as much dimension, and thus they appear rather flat.

The play will run for two more weekends at the Jackson Stage Company.

Films increasing in violence against women

By John Dyllin
Staff Writer

The amount of violence against women in movies has increased over the past two years. According to an article in the Chicago Tribune, one out of 20 commercially released films in 1982 contained violent acts upon women. The frequency rose to one of eight films for 1983.

The most popular movie on college campuses, and the movie most frequently rented by fraternities, is "I Spit On Your Grave," which shows a woman being continually gang-raped.

According to the Tribune, a study was conducted by two psychiatrists to find the effects of movies such as "Friday the 13th" and "I Spit On Your Grave" on men. The study consisted of showing "slasher" movies to a group of young men and then having them view a mock rape trial. All of the young men sided with the rapist. However, one month later these same men viewed the same trial and sided with the victim.

"It is unusual for men to side with the rapist," Alan Vaux, SIU-C psychology faculty member, said. "But when people view violent sexual behavior against women, viewers can be less condemning toward the rapist as they would explain it away."

Vaux said men may model their behavior after the rapist who often goes unpunished in movies such as these. He also said that it is not uncommon for women in the films to be violated, but they eventually enjoy the act and are sometimes rewarded in many of the "slasher" films.

Some college men believe it is all right to engage in physical coercion, Vaux said, and also that it is okay to hold a woman down in certain circumstances. He said some men believe that women don't really mean it when they say "no" and that there is some cultural support for rape.

Instances such as onlookers not doing anything to help a woman being raped or encouraging the rapist are indications of subtle support for rape by some people in our society, Vaux believes.

"Women are sometimes treated as sex objects and not as people and, therefore, some men have a difficult time drawing the line between oppression and beauty," Vaux said.

Kathryn Ward, SIU-C sociology faculty member, said she believes that violent acts against women in films do affect men. She said it is a continual reinforcement of violations against women.

"Slasher films show women as being passive objects and people need to be more aware that such scenes are not a positive reflection of women," Ward said.

The best way to educate the public, according to Ward, is through demonstrations, boycotts and speakers to let them know that violent depictions against women are not natural and to prompt them to think more carefully about relationships with women.

Robin Pressman, senior in cinema and photography at SIU-C and an organizer for last October's "Take Back the Night" rally said films are a powerful medium that can shape people's perceptions. She said that studies show that films can create a tolerance of violence and likens it to the nightly news reports about the Vietnam War.

Pressman said solving the problem is a matter of educating the public to the messages put across in violent films. She said it is a destructive image and the filmmakers should be more responsible.

Flags displayed to warn skaters of thin ice

By Paula Buckner
Staff Writer

Residents of SIU-C's Thompson Point may have recently noticed the addition of a flag to the flagpole near Campus Lake. The flag is a safety warning for ice skating enthusiasts, courtesy of the Recreation Center.

Jodi Hawkins, graduate assistant in aquatics, said the green and red flags are flown each day near the Boat Dock to signal the safeness of the ice for skating.

The flags began flying Saturday, when the ice got thick enough for approximately 100 weekend skaters, she said.

"The lifeguards go out on the ice with a hatchet and dig a hole. Then they measure the ice with a yardstick — pretty basic," she said.

If the ice on the 14-foot deep lake measures six or more inches, a green flag is raised, indicating that skating on the lake is safe. If the ice doesn't meet the qualifications, a red flag is hoisted, warning of possible dangers of ice skating.

"They measure two to four places on the ice, so when we say six inches, it's pretty even for designated skating areas," she said.

Regardless of the flag's color, Hawkins said that two lifeguards are stationed at the lake to supervise skaters from noon to 5:30 p.m. weekdays and 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. weekends.

Black History Month to kick off with tribute

By Justus Weathersby
Staff Writer

"Rise Above the Ordinary" is this year's theme for Black History Month. A tribute to black men who have made noteworthy contributions will kick off the month of February.

The tribute is sponsored by Delta Sigma Theta and will take place at 9 p.m. Feb. 2 at the Brown Bag Restaurant.

The events are part of the 13th annual observance of Black History Month. Events include entertainment, guest speakers, education, literature, black cultural and political awareness.

SIU-C has supported Black History Month since its inception in 1972, and the Black Affairs Council has been at its helm keeping it alive.

"I'M DEFINITELY pleased with this year's scheduled events," said BAC President Michael Crossley.

Crossley said that keynote speaker Mayor Harold Washington and novelist Maya Angelou should attract a large turnout, but to just make sure, "I will continue working with my staff, knocking on doors to get people out to participate in this event."

Angelou will give a guest lecture at 7 p.m. Feb. 11 in Student Center Ballroom D and Mayor Washington will deliver his address at 7 p.m. Feb. 26 in Ballroom D also.

SEN. PAUL Simon is also scheduled to speak during the month's activities. He is being sponsored by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Simon will speak at the NAACP banquet at 6:30 p.m.

Feb. 9 in Student Center Ballrooms C and D.

"It's not just for black people, it's for all people," said Patricia McNeil, assistant director of student development and fiscal advisor of BAC.

This year's theme for Black History Month is appropriate because "as a people, we have always done more than than was expected of us," McNeil said.

"Much has been given to America from the physical sweat and pain of black Americans, but a lot of our history and heritage has been destroyed in the educational system.

"BLACK HISTORY Month is an observance of the accomplishments and achievements of black Americans. Black history Month is a time to bring forth our heroes," McNeil said.

Crossley said black history is not a requirement in elementary schools, high schools or colleges "but black history should be as much a requirement as U.S. History."

Farrakhan rejected as Black History guest

By Justus Weathersby
Staff Writer

The Black Affairs Council chose not to schedule Nation of Islam leader Louis Farrakhan as the keynote speaker for Black History Month, 1985, because of potential protests and not because the Graduate and Professional Student Council refused to approve funding for another speaker, Tyrone Crider, if Farrakhan was included in the program, BAC president Michael Crossley said.

"They said that if Louis Farrakhan was on the month's calendar it would look like they were in support of his (anti-semitic) views," Crossley said.

"Although we requested no funds for Farrakhan from GPSC, they did not want to offend their organization's Jewish constituency, so they made a conditional demand.

"However, we chose not to schedule Farrakhan because of a potential uproar that has been observed at other campuses," Crossley said. Crider, who is scheduled to deliver a speech Feb. 5 on the theme "Rise Above the Ordinary," is a "young and dynamic speaker and we expect to have a good turnout for him," Crossley said.

Group considers setting up sanctuaries in Carbondale

By Sarah Rohrs
Staff Writer

The recent indictment of 16 members of the Central American sanctuary movement has only "made the churches more resolved to press forward" with their intention of harboring Central Americans believed to be in danger, an SIU-C political science faculty member said.

A "underground railroad" lies between Central Americans and the western United States to transport and harbor Central Americans, said Keith Snively, a member of the Carbondale-based Southern Illinois Latin American Solidarity Committee.

The group is looking into the possibility of setting up sanctuaries in Carbondale churches, Snively said.

The sanctuary movement is not a covert operation, Snively says. "They don't hold closed meetings and they publicize what they're doing."

Yet two informants and two agents of the Immigration and Naturalization Service (INS) spent eight to 10 months infiltrating the sanctuary movement and wearing concealed recording equipment.

"It was ridiculous," Snively said, "any child could have done what they did."

The INS insists that the indicted leaders of the sanctuary movement, one of whom has been acquitted, are responsible for bringing 600 illegal aliens into the country. More than 65 aliens were also arrested from around the country and face deportation to Central America.

"Officially the sanctuary movement is illegal," Snively said.

However, the movement is church-based, he said, and those involved justify their actions with biblical references made to sanctuaries in the Old Testament.

There is also a long history of sanctuary movements in this country, he said. At present there are about 180 churches throughout the country participating in the movement, according to an article in the Christian Science Monitor.

The sanctuary movement also insists that the refugees it harbors are seeking political asylum, Snively said. Part of the Refugee Act of 1980 states that political asylum -- the inability of a person or group of people to return to their countries -- should be determined by a "well-grounded fear of persecution."

There's no doubt in the minds of sanctuary workers that the refugees do have justified fears, Snively said.

Most of the refugees come from Guatemala and El Salvador, where the government and the military are waging a "campaign of extermination" on people of low economic status or social and church workers.

Paralegal studies program going strong, director says

By Rodney Sanford
Staff Writer

Becky Scoffio, May 1985 graduate, is part of a new breed emerging at SIU-C.

She will soon join six others who have gone before her as the first graduates of SIU's paralegal studies program.

Though funding has been a problem, Browning Carrott, paralegal studies director, said the program has been surviving and improving.

"Funding for paralegal studies comes from the Liberal Arts College's budget, and since the state made no appropriations for this program, funding had to come from money that was already here," Carrott said. The department has been in existence for two years.

The Illinois Board of Higher Education rejected a SIU proposal in 1975 for a paralegal studies program. Carrott, who became director in 1982, said he didn't know the reason for the rejection.

SIU re-submitted the proposal in 1981, and this time the IBHE accepted it. The program was planned during the 1982-83 school year, Carrott said. The program began to be offered in fall semester 1983.

Paralegal studies majors must take classes in accounting and finance, business, political science, electronic data processing and law. There are four paralegal study courses, two taught each semester by local attorneys. This semester's attorneys are Kenneth Hughes, Carbondale, and Elizabeth Dibble, Marion.

Carrott said he hopes to add courses soon in specific fields of law.

In addition to good grades, Carrott mentioned some vital resources needed for the trade.

"To study law one needs motivation, persistence, verbal communication skills and daily application," Carrott said.

Law students have received internships in law firms in the area and in St. Louis and Chicago. Scoffio works in the Students' Legal Assistance Office in the Student Center.

Another student works in the city attorney's office. Through a paralegal studies course, students can receive as many as 12 internship credit hours for their efforts.

Most of the jobs, Carrott said, are in large towns in private and public sectors. He said students must prepare a resume and meet with the firm personally. The Career Planning and Placement Center has been helpful, Carrott added.

Scoffio said she plans to work in an "intermediate to large" law firm for about two years before attending law school. She said the research portion of the curriculum offered good experience. However, Scoffio felt it should be spread over two semesters instead of one because of its intricacy.

The demand for legal assistants will continue to increase, Carrott said, because of the need for lawyers to delegate more of their duties.

Mugger snatches purse from Carbondale woman grabbed her purse containing $30, and ran, the representative said. The incident occurred at 7:30 p.m.

A 21-year-old Carbondale woman had her purse snatched while walking on the 200 block of East Main Street Friday night, said a Carbondale Police Department spokesman.

The mugger is described as a black male about 25 to 35 years old with very short hair, about six feet tall and weighing 170 pounds.

MVC honors McDaniel

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Wichita State forward Xavier McDaniel, who scored a career-high 44 points against West Texas State on Saturday, was named Missouri Valley Conference player of the week Monday.

McDaniel, a 6-foot-8, 215-pound senior from Columbia, S.C., scored 81 points and grabbed 35 rebounds last week as the Shockers defeated Creighton and West Texas State.

Besides the 44-point effort,

McDaniel scored 37 points and had 19 rebounds against Creighton. He was 31-of-50 from the field and 19-of-21 from the free throw line in the two games.

It was the second time in three weeks that McDaniel has earned the honor. He was named MVC Player-of-the-Week for the week ending Jan. 13. Creighton's Benoit Benjamin was named the conference's top player last week.

Others nominated for the award were Steve Harris of Tulsa, Earl Davis of West Texas State, Indiana State's Johnny Edwards and Rickey Johnson of Illinois State.

Harris scored 30 points in a game against West Texas State on Thursday, but was held to 19 points by SIU-C in a 66-60 Tulsa win on Saturday. Davis scored 20 points against Tulsa and Edwards scored 35 points and had 18 rebounds in a single outing against Illinois State. Johnson scored 42 points in ISU victories over Indiana State and Bradley.

Big Ten recognizes Grant

CHICAGO (AP) — Freshman Grry Grant of Michigan has been named Big Ten basketball Player of the Week by The Associated Press for his contributions in victories over Michigan State and Kansas.

Grant, a 6-3 guard from Canton, Ohio, had a total of 34 points, 15 assists, seven rebounds and three steals in leading the Wolverines past Michigan State 86-75 and Kansas 96-77.

Grant scored 14 points and had nine assists against Michigan State on Thursday. In a non-conference game against Kansas on Sunday, Grant scored 20 points, all in the first half, on 9-of-10 shooting from the field.

Nellie Fox rejected again by baseball Hall of Fame

NEW YORK (AP) — The Baseball Hall of Fame's board of directors Monday reconsidered the recent voting that left the late Nellie Fox just two votes short of election, but said it could not change the result.

The Hall of Fame rules require a candidate to be named on 75 percent of the ballots cast. Fox received 295 votes — 74.6 percent — in ballots cast by baseball writers in results announced Jan. 8.

It was the closest any person had ever come to being elected to Cooperstown without making it. Hoyt Wilhelm and Jou Brock were elected to the Hall of Fame in the voting.

Ed Stack, president of the Hall of Fame, said Chicago Tribune sportswriter Jerome Holtzman, who had advocated the election of Fox, had asked the board of directors to reconsider the voting.

Holtzman had argued that baseball routinely rounds off batting averages and earned run averages to the highest number, and that Fox's percentage should be rounded off to 75 percent.

But Stack said the board of directors, gathering at their annual meeting, let the voting stand.

"The Hall of Fame board of directors expressed its sympathy in the Nellie Fox situation, but did not feel that it was proper to change the rules for election to admit any candidate named on less than 75 percent of the ballots cast," Stack said.

Fox, who died in 1975, compiled a .288 career batting average that included 2,663 hits. He set several records for fielding at second base.

The recent election marked Fox's 15th and final year of eligibility on the writers' ballot.

Williamson, men gymnasts finish second at Penn St.

By Stan Goff
Staff Writer

Despite a strong performance by senior Lawrence Williamson, the SIU-C men's gymnastics team fell short in its quest to upset the top-ranked Nittany Lions of Penn State in a triangular meet Friday night in University Park, Pa.

Williamson was named MVP of the meet after winning the floor exercise title with a score of 9.75, helping the Salukis finish second ahead of Indiana State University.

"I was very pleased with Lawrence winning the Wettstone Award. It's tough for a visitor to win it at Penn State," SIU-C Coach Bill Meade said.

The Wettstone Award is given to the outstanding performer at each of Penn State's home meets in honor of Gene Wettstone, the Nittany Lions retired coach of 38 years. Wettstone coached Meade at Penn State and won his ninth national championship in 1976, his last season of coaching.

Led by Williamson and Brendan Price, who had a score of 9.55, SIU-C tallied 46.50 on the floor exercise as a team, while Penn State scored 46.80 and ISU 45.65. Spider Maxwell scored a 9.55 for PSU, and Carlos Silvestre led the Sycamores with a score of 9.40.

The Salukis, now 1-2, scored a season-high 275.50, but it wasn't enough, as Penn State scored a 281.60. The Sycamores, who will be at the Arena Sunday for a dual meet, were a distant third with 267.95 points.

SIU-C also had the top scorer in vaulting, as Price led the way with a 9.75. Mark Ulmer added a 9.60 as the Salukis scored their highest on the vault with a team total of 47.45.

Gregg Upperman and David Luttermann led SIU-C on the still rings, but the Salukis were edged out in the event 46.65-46.35 by the Nittany Lions. Chris Laux scored 9.75 for PSU while Upperman's 9.50 paced SIU-C. Rob Klawitter registered a 9.55 for ISU.

Price and Luttermann each scored 9.30 on the parallel bars, second to PSU's Terry Bartlett and David Bailey added a 9.20 for the Salukis.

"David was excellent in his three events, scoring all-time bests in each of them," Meade said.

Upperman, who was the Salukis' top all-arounder with a 54.80, tied Ken Clark with a team-high of 9.45 on the high bar. Preston Knauf turned in a 9.35 for SIU-C.

The Salukis scored a meet-low of 43.15 in their weakest event, the pommel horse, but Bailey turned in a personal high of 9.30 in the event. Price, who finished fourth in the all-around with a 54.75, scored an 8.80 on the pommel horse.

Colts sign Dowhower

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Settling the muddled quarterback situation of the Indianapolis Colts is a top priority of Rod Dowhower, named coach of the National Football League team on Monday.

"I want to go into the season with the quarterback spot settled," said Dowhower after the news conference where his selection was announced.

The former St. Louis offensive coordinator coach succeeds Frank Kush, who resigned the week before the final game of the regular season to become head coach of Arizona in the United States Football League.

"I know the Colts used three quarterbacks last season," said Dowhower. "I want them to know that all three have a shot at the job and that there is no No. 1 at this point. It all depends on how hard they want to work, how they adapt to my plans and how they take directions."

Dowhower, 41, will command a team that was 28th in the league in passing. The 239 points scored by Indianapolis was also the least in the league, and only two teams had fewer touchdowns.

Mike Pagel, who said earlier he wanted to be traded, saw the most action at quarterback. The three-year veteran started the first seven games and nine of 16 as Indianapolis compiled a 4-12 record.

Women's swim team takes week off after dual wins

By Mike Frey
Sports Editor

The women's swimming team, coming off a pair of weekend dual meet victories over Iowa and Minnesota, will take a week off to prepare for the Gateway Collegiate Athletic Conference Championships to be held Feb. 8-10 at Macomb.

The Salukis gained a decisive 95-44 win over 16th-ranked Iowa on Friday and followed with a 61-58 victory over Minnesota. Because of travel difficulties, SIU-C used only eight swimmers and a diver against Minnesota.

The two victories enabled SIU-C to improve its dual record to 4-0 against Big Ten opponents and 8-1 overall.

Coach Tim Hill said he was happy with the victories, although he said he thought his team had an advantage against Iowa and could have been beaten by Minnesota if it had not swept the relay events.

"Iowa was plagued by illness and we didn't get an indication of how good they are," Hill said. "Minnesota swam much better than they've been swimming this year. It was a situation where if we lost one of the relays the meet could have been very tight."

Sophomore Wendy Irick paced SIU-C to its win over Iowa by winning three events — the 100-yard backstroke, the 200-yard backstroke and the 400-yard individual medley. Senior Amanda Martin was a double winner in the 100- and 200-yard backstroke and Wendy Lucero won both the 1- and 3-meter diving events.

Against Minnesota, wins in the 200-yard medley relay and 200-yard freestyle propelled the Salukis to victory. The 200-yard freestyle team of Rene Royalty, Lori Rea, Iris Von Jouanne and Sue Wittry turned in a time of 1:37.6, which was just off their season-best time of 1:37.0. The group is ranked 10th in the country in the event.

Double winners for SIU-C were Martin in the 100- and 200-yard breaststroke, with times of 1:07.0 and 2:25.6, respectively; Roxanne Carlton in the 200- and 500-yard freestyle with times of 1:54.8 and 5:05.7; and Wendy Lucero in 1- and 3-meter diving, with scores of 275.0 and 295.0.

Hill said he was also happy with Wittry's performance over the weekend. She had a lifetime best in the 100-yard freestyle against Iowa and followed with another lifetime best in the 500-yard freestyle against Minnesota.

He also said he was pleased with Irick's effort. She won the 200-backstroke against Minnesota in 2:07.7 to go along with her three wins against Iowa.

The Salukis have now earned dual wins over Big Ten opponents Illinois, Indiana, Iowa and Minnesota. He said the only contender for the Big Ten championship who SIU-C has not competed against is Ohio State.

"Ohio State has the most talent in the conference, but we can't get them on our schedule," Hill said. "Ohio State is probably the favorite, but anybody else can win it. Iowa and Minnesota both have good teams."

Hill said the next two weeks will be devoted to training for the conference meet.

St. John's takes over as No. 1

St. John's, which ended Georgetown's 29-game winning streak last weekend, overtook the Hoyas for the top spot in The Associated Press' college basketball poll Monday.

The Redmen, 15-1, defeated the Hoyas 66-65 Saturday at the Capital Centre in Landover, Md., where St. John's has won three straight games against their Big East Conference opponent.

It is the first time since December 1951 that the Redmen, who were ranked third last week, have held the top spot in a weekly poll, according to the school's sports information office.

St. John's received 52 of 63 first-place votes and 1,249 points from a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters. Georgetown received 10 first-place votes and 1,202 points in easily outdistancing Memphis State, which received the other first-place vote and 1,130 points in moving from fourth to third.

Southern Methodist, which suffered just their second loss in 18 games this season Saturday at Texas Tech, 66-65, fell from second to fourth in receiving 1,016 points. 28 more than Illinois, which switched places with Duke, 867 points, from last week.

Oklahoma is seventh with 850 points. Georgia Tech, Syracuse and Michigan round out the Top Ten.

Knight benches veterans, angers IU alumni

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — While the Indiana Hoosiers ride a three-game losing streak, key players are riding the bench, and fans and alumni are screaming for answers from Coach Bob Knight.

"The Alumni Association is beginning to question him and we are very disappointed with his attitude at this point in the season," said Berry Hurley, a former mayor of suburban Greenfield and member of the Indiana Alumni Association.

"People have a right to know what happened on national television and he must explain himself to the public."

Knight played only 7-foot-2 senior Uwe Blab and six freshmen in Sunday's 52-41 loss at Illinois, in which the Hoosiers scored just 12 points in the first half. Blab led the Hoosiers with 13 points, 11 rebounds and 11 blocked shots while playing 39 minutes.

Olympian Steve Alford, the team's most valuable player last season and leading scorer this season at 19.5 points a game, was benched. Juniors Mike Gioni and Winston Morgan, the No. 1 and No. 3 rebounders, respectively, didn't even make the trip.

Coupled with Thursday's 62-52 loss at Purdue, Indiana's two-game total of 93 points is the lowest back-to-back performance in Knight's 14 years as coach.

The Hoosiers, 11-6 overall, are tied for seventh in the Big Ten at 3-4. For the first time this season, Indiana was not in the weekly Associated Press college basketball rankings announced Monday night. It was No. 13 last week.

Knight refused to discuss the lineup change after Sunday's game, saying only that the Hoosiers had played well defensively but had to work on offense. He could not be reached for comment Monday, when his secretary said he was not in his office and would be in and out all day.

Athletic Director Ralph Floyd was quoted by the Indianapolis News as saying, "You know I never question Bobby on how he coaches his basketball team."

Others were not hesitant to question.

"The station has been getting quite a few calls this morning," said Joe Smith, sports director of radio station WBWB in Bloomington, home of the Hoosiers.

Women gymnasts gain win over NIU

By Stan Goff
Staff Writer

The SIU-C women's gymnastics team won its home opener over Northern Illinois University Sunday afternoon at the Arena, as sophomore Jennifer Moore captured the all-around honors for the Salukis.

Coach Herb Vogel's squad evened its record at 1-1 with a 176.20-174.05 victory over the Huskies (5-5), avenging last season's loss in DeKalb.

"We looked like a team for the first time this year. We were tougher and basically more confident," Vogel said.

Moore, a 5-foot, 1-inch all-arounder from Columbus, Ind., paced the Salukis with a 9.55 on the vault and an all-around score of 35.90. Moore topped her career high of 9.45 that she scored on the vault last March in a meet against Illinois. Her previous all-around high score was a 35.60 that she registered last season as a freshman.

"It was by far Jennifer's best performance in her year and a half at SIU," Vogel said. "She vaulted her best and her beam routine was almost flawless. She also did her first double-back in her floor exercise. She could've scored a 37 if it weren't for a couple of human mistakes," Vogel said.

Another sophomore, Michelle Spillman, placed second in vaulting with a 9.10, while Gina Hey added an 8.90 for SIU-C. Maggi Nidiffer (8.75) and Gretchen Koepf-Baker (8.55) also helped the Salukis edge NIU in vaulting by one point, 44.85-43.85.

Darlene Davis led the Huskies in vaulting with an 8.90, followed by Teresa Nevin, Tara Healey and Terry Specht, all of whom scored 8.75 each for NIU.

SIU-C increased its lead to 88.75-86.35 after scoring 43.90 points on the uneven bar. Margaret Callcott led the way with a mark of 9.05, just ahead of NIU's Jennifer Bretz who scored 9.00.

Spillman placed third in the meet with an 8.90 on the uneven bar, with Moore scoring an 8.70. Joanne Oppenheim (8.65) and Hey (8.60) finished off the scoring for the Salukis in the second event. Davis added an 8.85 for the Huskies.

NIU outscored the Salukis on the balance beam, 43.25-42.60, but Hey took the individual honors by scoring 9.10 on the event. SIU-C still held a narrow lead after three events.

Moore tied NIU's Healey for second place on the beam by scoring a 9.00 and Spillman added an 8.30 for SIU-C. Bretz scored an 8.90 and Davis an 8.70 for NIU.

The Salukis put the match away by scoring a solid 44.85 on the final event, the floor exercise, to come away with a team total of 176.20. The Huskies came away with their highest score (44.45) on the floor exercise, but they couldn't catch SIU-C.

Spillman won the floor title with a mark of 9.50, while Hey and NIU's Davis finished in a second-place tie with scores of 9.25. Koepf-Baker (8.85), Moore (8.65) and Liana Cook (8.60) all turned in strong performances on the floor for the Salukis.

Specht was the second highest Huskie on the floor with a 9.00 and Jill Snyder added an 8.85 for NIU.

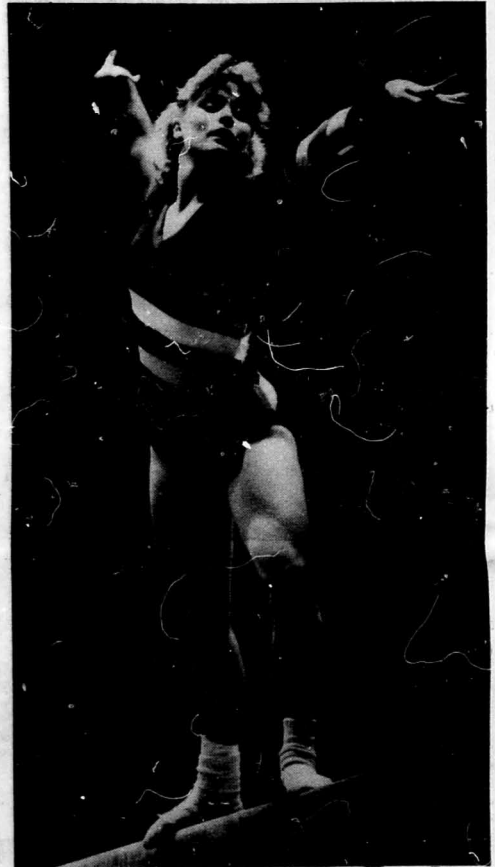

Hey finished second to Moore in the all-around with a 35.85 and Moore was a close third with a 35.80. Davis was NIU's top all-arounder with a score of 35.70. Healey scored a 34.85 for the Huskies.

"Gina (Hey) had a real nice day for us. She did well on the beam, bars and floor," Vogel said.

Junior all-arounder Lori Steele didn't compete for the Salukis because of a sore ankle, so freshmen Cook and Nancy Sanchez filled in the SIU-C lineup.

"We made a lot of mistakes, but we also showed improvement all the way around. I'm not upset with our performance by any means," Vogel said.

The Salukis had lost to Southeast Missouri State in their opening meet on Friday.

Men cagers playing improved team defense

By Steve Koulos
Staff Writer

The Saluki men's basketball team performed as differently as night and day last weekend in losses against Bradley and Tulsa.

Bradley was in control against the Salukis Thursday night at the Arena, jumping out to a 20-8 lead and surviving a second-half rally by SIU-C to post a 73-66 victory. The Braves never trailed after center Mike Williams opened the game with a two-handed slam dunk.

But against 16th-ranked Tulsa Saturday night, the Salukis almost pulled off an upset before falling, 66-60.

SIU-C Coach Allen Van Winkle praised SIU-C's defense, which limited Tulsa to 39 percent shooting from the field.

Prior to the Tulsa game, the Allen Van Winkle has been happy with his team's defense.

Salukis defensive field goal percentage was a poor .555 in six Missouri Valley Conference games.

"Our team defense was very good against Tulsa," Van Winkle said. "I think we gave Tulsa its toughest game of the season with the exception of its losses to Arkansas and Arizona."

SIU-C point guard Roy Birch guarded Tulsa's Steve Harris throughout the game and held him to 5-of-15 shooting from the field. Harris, who leads Tulsa in scoring with a 23.9 average, hit 9-of-10 shots from the foul line to finish with 19 points.

Even though SIU-C scored eight points from the field more than Tulsa, the Golden Hurricane managed to win the game at the free throw line. They were 24-of-34 from the foul line, compared to 10-of-15 for SIU-C.

Van Winkle said that if it wasn't for his team's sloppy play, SIU-C might have been leading by five or six points at halftime instead of two at 36-34.

The Salukis entered the game averaging 13 turnovers, but they made 13 turnovers alone in the first half. They finished with 21 turnovers, compared to 17 for Tulsa.

But the Salukis received some strong individual performances, placing four players in double figures. Forward Cleveland Bibbens had team-high totals of 17 points and 11 rebounds, forward Bernard Campbell scored 14, Birch added 13 and off guard Nate Bufford 11.

In addition to making too many turnovers, the Salukis failed to get a strong performance out of 6-foot-11 center Kenny Perry. He finished with a season-low total of three points and had only four rebounds.

The victory raised Tulsa's record to 7-0 in the MVC and to 16-2 overall. The Golden Hurricane extended its home-winning streak to 20 games.

SIU-C slipped to 1-6 in the MVC and to 9-9 overall. The loss extended the Salukis losing streak on the road to 10 games in MVC play.

The Salukis return to the Arena this weekend and faces Illinois State on Thursday night and Wichita State on Saturday afternoon.

The Redbirds, who are 5-2 in the MVC and 15-3 overall, are in third place in the league after posting victories last weekend over Indiana State (85-83 in overtime) and Bradley (65-55).

The Shockers (6-1, 10-8) have rebounded from a 3-6 start and are in second place in the league.
