'Guardisman' Will Open Summer Theater Season Molnar Play Starts 5-Day Run Wednesday

The ninth annual summer theater series at SIU will open Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the Southern Playhouse.

The season will be started with Ferenc Molnar's "The Guardisman", in which Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne first achieved fame as an acting team.

It will be the first of five international comedies and dramas in the series; each will have a five-day run opening every Wednesday in the air-conditioned Playhouse.

The 1963 summer company includes graduate and undergraduate students from New York to California. The group was selected from applications received from all over the United States and will form the casts and crews for all five productions.

Each production will be

Southern's Budget Sent To Kerner For Signature

SIU's $56.3 million operations budget for 1963-65 now awaits Gov. Otto Kerner's signature.

The Illinois House of Representatives passed the budget Thursday and sent it on to the governor. It had passed the Senate earlier.

Kerner is expected to sign it into law within a few days, according to the Associated Press.

The $56.3 million figure represents a $6.9 million reduction from the original request for $63.2 million SIU had asked for the next two years. The $6.9 million slice was made by the state Board of Higher Education when it reviewed budget requests from SIU and other state schools earlier.

In trimming the SIU budget before sending it on to the state legislature, the higher board sliced a $4,633,936 request for salary increases to $2,362,285.

It also trimmed $1.2 million for operating new buildings, $614,000 for physical plant and library personnel, $520,000 to hire new staff to reduce teaching overloads, $500,000 for improvements in programs, $473,603 for deficiencies and price increases, $393,900 for area services and $911,471 for year-round operation.

Jobs For Blind Discussed Here

Developing employment opportunities for blind persons in competitive occupations will be the subject of a five-week training program beginning Monday at SIU.

Its primary purpose is to help job-placement counselors become familiar with the jobs their sightless clients could possibly handle, as well as grounding them in techniques helpful in placing the blind in such jobs.

Drawing counselors from seven states, including Hawaii, the program is sponsored by the SIU Rehabilitation Institute with support of the U.S. Vocational Rehabilitation Administration.

staged Wednesday through Sunday at 8 p.m. The series includes the following:

July 3-7: "The Great God Brown", by Eugene O'Neill.

July 10-14: "A Servant of Two Masters", by Carlo Goldoni.

July 17-21: "Rosmersholm", by Henrik Ibsen.

July 24-28: "Rashomon", by Fay and Garson Kanin.

Members of the company include Frank Alesia, Illinois College; Barbara Eberhardt, Denison University; Charles Fischer, Northwestern State College, Okla.; Eileen Konecnik, Carthage College; William Lindstrom, North-eastern State College, Okla.; Gary Moore, San Francisco State College; Carol Plonkey, Southern Illinois University, Lowell Scribner, Phillips University; Susan Schulman, Hofstra College; Richard Spiegel, Rutgers University; James Symons, Illinois College; and Michael Welsh, Trenton State College.

The summer staff includes Archibald McLeod, director of theater, who has been on sabbatical leave in India; Charles Zoeckler and Sherwin Abrams, associate theater directors; Darwin Payne, designer; and Roy Weshinske and Clifford Haislip, guest signer; and Roy Weshinskey and Clifford Haislip, guest directors.

A limited number of season coupon books for the entire series is now available at the campus box office, or by mail. Season coupon books are $3.50 and single admissions are $1.25. The Playhouse box office is open weekdays from 10 to 11 a.m. and 3 to 4 p.m., and on show nights at 7 o'clock.

Franzes Make SIU A Family Affair

Father and sister have joined Steven T. Franz of Harrisburg as students at SIU this summer.

Steven is in his fourth year here, taking pre-legal courses. His sister, Connie, a June graduate at Harrisburg High School, has enrolled as a freshman. His father, Robert Frantz of Harrisburg, English and speech teacher at Cave-in-Rock High School, is doing summer work on his master's degree in education.

Federal Fund For Work Aid Suggested

Federal legislation to provide funds for college student employment on a part-time basis has been proposed to congress by the director of the Student Work Program at SIU.

Frank C. Adams, recently appearing before a special House Subcommittee on Education in Washington, D.C., spoke for the Midwestern Association of University Student Employment Directors.

He reported that eight schools affiliated with the association employ more than 32,000 students on-campus at an annual cost of $21,086,000. He noted that total funds for such student work is significant when compared to the $93,000,000 allocated by the National Defense Loan Administration, distributed throughout the United States.

"Student employes in these specific schools earn an average of $650 annually, which is an appreciable contribution to the cost of their higher education," Adams said.

Adams' statement was at a hearing on House Bill 3000, now under consideration. It is designed to improve educational abilities and opportunities throughout the country. His recommendations for a national work program are scheduled to appear in the June issue of the Journal of College Student Personnel.

Trustees To Meet

The June meeting of the Southern Illinois University Board of Trustees will be held June 28 on the Carbondale Campus according to information from the president's office.

39 Citizens Of Edwardsville To Visit Campus Sunday

A party of 39 citizens of Edwardsville, their mayor, city planners and aldermen plan to visit the Carbondale campus of SIU Sunday to advance their thinking on the future of their own SIU campus.

President and Mrs. Delyte W. Morris will greet the visitors here, assisted by the SIU architect, Charles M. Pulley and Mrs. Pulley.

Mayor and Mrs. D. Blaney Miller of Carbondale have been asked to join the party, according to an executive aide.

Carbondale Families Plan Foreign Student Picnic

Plans have been completed for the third annual American family picnic for foreign students on the SIU campus.

It is scheduled for 3 to 8 p.m. Saturday, June 29, at Area 1, Campus Lake, near the boat docks. Foreign students interested in participating as guests of Carbondale families are invited to sign up at the Foreign Student Office prior to the deadline, Monday noon, June 24.

Swimming, boating and games --but mostly "getting acquainted"---will be available to participants before the 6 p.m. picnic supper hour. Any Carbondale family is invited to participate in the program, and may receive additional information from any member of the Operation Friendship picnic telephone committee. Its members are Mrs. W.G. Swartz, Mrs. Malcolm Gillespie, Mrs. James Benziger, Mrs. Alton Juhlin and Mrs. Melvin Brooks.

Many families are expected to escort their previously "adopted" foreign students if they are here during the summer. In most instances, families will invite guests directly, by note or telephone, and will arrange to pick them up.

In the event of inclement weather, families may arrange to take their guests home for the evening.

New Face Will Fill Pulpit At Church Of Good Shepherd

A new face will fill the pulpit at the Church of the Good Shepherd beginning Sunday. The Rev. Roy Griebel, spring graduate of Eden Theological Seminary, Webster Groves, Mo., will officially take over the pastorate of the church on that date.

The Rev. Mr. Griebel replaces the Rev. Carl F. Beyer who resigned in February to accept the pastorate at St. John's United Church of Christ in Jackson, Mich.

Summer Night's Theme 'The Freight Train Blues'

By John Matheson

"I got those freight train blues...."

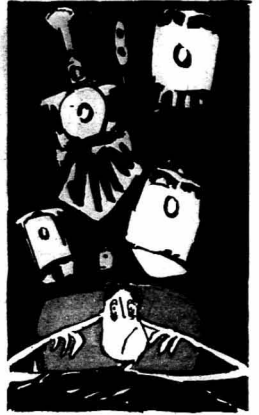

'Tis a warm summer evening in Southern Hills. A stillness settles in the night air; the crickets are chirping, the checkerboard of apartment lights starts going heavier on black than on white, the occupants settle down for the evening.

Ever hear of a tornado described as similar in sound to the roar of an approaching freight train?

To the newcomer, those nearby tracks had been fairly well screened by trees. Thus, the introduction of the first night train can be a rather startling experience.

The sound starts in the distance and swiftly gathers both momentum and volume. All of a sudden, this new and strange phenomenon of night engulfs the apartment, rattling the walls and scaring the day-lights out of the unsuspecting. Head for the shelter! Light out for the boondocks!

And as quickly as it materializes, the sound fades away into the night air as the dieselized Casey Jones clicks off the miles toward his destination.

But a night of two passes and the occupant soon distinguishes between tornado-description and the sound of the train shattering the stillness of the night air.

Memo for the suggestion box: Include this small piece of information in the prospectus for prospective new arrivals. It might save wear and tear on the shelter areas.

New Pope Blesses Through In St. Peter's Square

VATICAN CITY

The new Pope of the Roman Catholic Church stepped onto a sunlit balcony high above St. Peter's Square yesterday to give his first blessing to a roaring sea of over 100,000 rejoicing persons spread before him as far as he could see.

Pope Paul VI - Giovanni Battista Cardinal Montini - stepped before the crowd and gave his blessing just an hour after a white smoke signal announced his election.

During that hour a crowd of 10,000 had stood for hours in broiling sun for the reward of seeing the first puffs of smoke float from the Sistine Chapel smokestack.

All eyes focused on the dull gray balcony high above the square. There was no motion behind the white-curtained glass doors.

At last they opened and the crowd roared. Alfredo Cardinal Ottaviani, senior cardinal deacon, stepped forward with attendants at his side. It was 48 minutes since the smoke came. His voice boomed over the loudspeakers: "I announce to you tidings of great joy. We have a Pope."

At the Latin word "Papa" - Pope - the crowd unleashed its jubilation. The deafening tumult drowned out the start of the cardinal's next phrase. Great hushing noises went from lips in the square. The cardinal paused, then continued.

He named Montini but his voice cracked with tension, and he had to repeat it.

Cries of "Montini!" came from the teeming throngs.

Cardinal Ottaviani, his hands raised as if for silence, then pronounced:

"He has chosen to reign under the name Paul VI." "Viva Paolo!" roared the crowd.

The Pope of just one hour then stepped onto a wooden stand, his hands folded in front of him as though in prayer. For minutes he stood still while about 100,000 voices shouted in exultation and hands thundered applause.

Pope Paul VI chanted the ritual of the blessing, then raised his right hand slowly and said in a clear voice: "We bless thee in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost."

blazed into the predawn darkness from Cape Canaveral at 4:50 a.m.

The satellite, in tandem with the earlier Tiros 6, could provide the most extensive photographic investigation yet of a full hurricane season.

GADSDEN - Ala. - Some 300 to 350 Negroes maintaining a protest vigil on the courthouse lawn were dispersed early Wednesday when a force of about 100 state troopers moved in to clamp a tight security lid on this racially troubled city.

The riot-trained troopers, under the command of Col. Albert Lingo, state public safety director, quickly brought an end to the vigil started after the arrest of 396 demonstrators Tuesday. The Negroes had said they would continue until those arrested were released.

The arrival of the state troopers, who used night sticks and electric prods to run off the Negroes--and the crowd of about 200 white spectators, ended for the time being the threat of a full-scale conflict. Lingo set up a tight patrol of the city, Alabama's sixth largest, with his helmeted troopers.

WASHINGTON - President Kennedy's four-country tour of Western Europe will include a news conference, a major address, and two stops at the Berlin wall, the White House announced Tuesday.

The President will leave Andrews Air Force Base, Md., at 9:30 p.m. today and fly nonstop to West Germany. The White House announcement also indicated Kennedy intends to go ahead with plans to visit Italy despite the latest government crisis in that country.

WASHINGTON - The civil rights question's focus was shifted to Congress Wednesday, with President Kennedy's legislative recommendations for new federal action.

This set the stage for an expected congressional battle over the issue. A late entry in the President's array of recommendations was reported to be a vast vocational education and training program that Sen. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota hinted might cost up to a billion dollars.

A major point in the Kennedy recommendations was already at issue between Democratic and Republican congressional leadership. This is a proposal to outlaw racial discrimination by private business firms that deal directly with the public. Senator Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, GOP leader in the Senate, indicated he could go along with all of Kennedy's proposals with this one exception.

His contention that the government has no authority to order private property desegregation drew support from Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona.

President Kennedy sent a five-point civil rights program to Congress Wednesday and the congressional reaction varied from pledges of Northern support to Southerners' declarations of opposition.

The President's group of proposals, one of the broadest in civil rights in nearly a century, included the following:

Bar racial discrimination by hotels, restaurants, theaters, stores, and sports arenas; add $40 million to next year's budget to broaden existing and proposed federal programs aimed at training and developing skilled manpower; authorize the attorney general to star federal court suits to force desegregation of public schools and colleges when students have been "denied equal protection of the laws";

Create a federal community relations service to work with local bi-racial human relations committees; and enact a law making it clear that the federal government is not required to furnish a kind of financial assistance to an program or activity in which racial discrimination occurs."

The President called on all members of Congress to "set aside sectional and political ties" at what he termed a time of national crisis.

SPRINGFIELD - Virden Staff chief state highway engineer, Jai Wednesday he is displeased with a consulting firm's recommended route for Interstate 24 across Southern Illinois.

Staff said he and other highway officials favor a route that would swing the new highway farther north than the proposal made public Tuesday.

He said he would take immediate steps "to put my views across to other states that will be reviewing the consultant's suggested route.

The firm proposed a $187 million highway from Nashville, Tenn. to Scott City, Mo., near Cape Girardeau, Mo. The highway would cross the southern tip of Illinois between Missouri and Kentucky.

Illinois highway officials at Southern Illinois groups outside the Cairo area have proposed instead having the highway cross the Ohio River near Metropolis about miles upstream from Mound City.

The highway then would come with I-57 in Southern Williams County while the consultant's proposal would put the junction with I-57 a few miles northwest of Mound City.

Welsh Returns To Botany Post

W. B. Welsh, Chairman of the Botany Department, recently returned from the University of California, where he spent the 1962-63 academic year doing some research while on a sabbatical leave.

He spent most of the time studying and photographing plants and flowers in the gardens and parks of Los Angeles and various other parts of California. For some time he was at the Riverside School of Horticulture.

In 1955-56, he spent another sabbatical at the University of Arizona.

Welsh has been at Southern for 25 years and has been chairman of the Botany Department for the last 17 years.

Robert Mohlenbrock, associate professor of botany, was acting chairman while Welsh was away.

Klimstra Relected To Conservation Committee Job

W. D. Klimstra, director of the Cooperative Wildlife Research Laboratory at SIU, has recently been reelected chairman of the Conservation Committee of the Illinois State Academy of Science.

The election came during an annual meeting held on the Carbondale campus of SIU.

An article written by Klimstra and Jay Bergstrand, published in the July, 1962 issue of the Journal of Wildlife Management, will be reprinted for distribution by the E. I. DuPont de Nemours and Co. Title of the article is "Toxicity of 'Dybar' in Bobwhite Quail."

'U. S. Literally Owns Venezuela,' Geography Professor's Tour Reveals

Mrs. Mary Colby, a professor of geography on the Chicago campus of the University of Illinois, returned June 2 from South America where she has been observing the American dollar in action.

Her trip was for the purpose of observing ports, but: "What's a port? It is interesting only in that there is something behind that port," she said.

"I saw everything I wanted to see because the people were so gracious to me," said the Scotch-Irish-English professor who earned her Ph.D. at the University of Chicago. "I saw the oil fields, the ore mines, the pitch lakes, papaya and sugar cane, but the biggest single business I saw in South America is buying American greenbacks."

Mrs. Colby is on sabbatical leave from her University. She went to South America to further the study undertaken by her husband, Charles C. Colby, in charge of the Mississippi Valley Investigations and a professor at SIU. He is an emeritus professor of Chicago. The Colbys live in the "Courts" on South University Avenue.

Another book by Professor Colby is to be published by the Southern Illinois University Press soon.

Mrs. Colby, obviously an acute observer and a student of people through her work, Geography in Social Science, offered to give her neighbor, Herbert H. Davies of Cobham Surrey, England, a "lecture," when he stopped to hear a snatch of her South American experiences.

There was a twinkle in her eye when she offered but she meant it; she had a message.

"The Americans are missing the boat down there," Mrs. Colby said.

She explained how the American dollars are pouring in "and the people are grateful." But, as she views it, the government of the United States is not firm when it should be firm, and the Americans do not and will not mingle with the South Americans.

Mrs. Colby met second generation nationals who proudly announce that they are Americans although they have been born in some of the South American countries and have always lived there. They do not become citizens and they live in colonies by themselves. They do little work among the needy, although there is "so tremendously much work to be done."

This, to Mrs. Colby who found the natives of the countries "so delightful," is a sad mistake.

On the practical side, Mrs. Colby said there is no doubt about it: "The American people work hard for their money," and pay much of it to the government in taxes. From this huge store house of tax money the rich people in South America are becoming fabulously rich, because they use American money for capital and pay no taxes themselves.

There are two classes of people she said, the very rich and the very poor. Of the very poor, Mrs. Colby said:

"...such poverty as you can't believe. Our poor look like millionaires in comparison."
