Mercenaries to die before firing squad

An Election Commission attempt to solve the dilemma of three East Side candidates who were elected to non-existent seats in the spring Student Government elections ended in frustration Monday evening. The seven member Election Commission decided to meet on July 8 to review the case again.

After studying the Student Senate bylaws for an hour and a half the panel decided that the Election Commission only has the power to recommend a resolution to the problem, and the Student Senate must be called to vote on the matter or give the commission the power to act in their absence.

Lloyd Haines, chairman of the Election Commission said the problem comes under the jurisdiction of the Student Senate, but since the senate is not in session during summer term, the commission can act as their representative.

"We are going to handle the situation, but we are going to do it right," Haines said. "There is no precedent for this case, so whatever we do will be a first."

No matter how the commission or Student Senate handles the problem, Haines said, all of the involved parties have the right to appeal their case before the Student Senate Judicial Board.

The commission was called by Student Vice-President Don Wheeler after he discovered that the spring ballot allowed seven senators to be elected from the East Side, when only four seats were available.

"We are going to handle the situation, but we are going to do it right," Haines said. "There is no precedent for this case, so whatever we do will be a first."

A box of wastepaper ignited by a hot ash from an ashtray was blamed by the Carbondale fire chief as the probable cause of fire that destroyed two downtown businesses Saturday afternoon.

About 900 persons looked on as smoke rose in heights of 150 feet from the fire that gutted Rocky Mountain Surplus and Mandarin Gardens on the 500 block of South Illinois Avenue.

Firemen responded to a call at approximately 1 p.m. from Lee Spiaggieri, co-owner of Rocky Mountain Surplus, 311 South Avenue, after he found the backroom filled with smoke and flames.

Spiaggieri told Carbondale Fire Chief George McGauachten that he was in the back of the store to find the electrical fuse box after the store lights went out.

From atop a fire ladder Carbondale Fireman Harry Threlkeild hoses down the roof of a burning building in downtown Carbondale.

IBI enters liquor study

The Illinois Bureau of Investigation (IBI) has been requested to conduct a separate investigation of allegations that several area liquor store owners have violated state liquor laws.

According to Dennis Brown, special agent for the IBI in Marion, Carbondale Mayor Neal Eckert requested the action Friday because the allegations involve crossing of county lines.

The liquor store owners being investigated are W. Stephens, Thomas, Philip Hoffmann, and Thomas and Robert Palmier.

The Carbondale Liquor Commission has charged all five with illegally transporting liquor between stores, concealing ownership and of misusing their liquor license applications.

A bill renewing the College Student Guaranteed Loan program has passed by Congress and, with the President's signature, will become law.

The bill extends the program for another three months while controversial provisions of a long-term bill are worked out.

At a recent meeting of the St. Louis City Council, the State of Missouri was notified that if the city council did not become law.

The bill extends the program for another three months while controversial provisions of a long-term bill are worked out.

The Madison County legislative delegation requested that the state legislature could not find the time to address the issue before the end of the legislative session.

Paul Chang, manager of the Mandarin Gardens restaurant, estimated damage to the business at nearly $30,000. Fire Chief McGauachten estimated total damage to the two businesses at $150,000.

Owner of the building, Paul Maloney of Marion, could not be reached for comment Monday. McGeauachten said the reason the fire burned out of control for so long was because the interior of the building was primarily wood and the roof was covered with a built-up roof.

Carbondale Fire Chief Charles McGauachten said that the fire was so intense, the crowd was forced to move away from the crowded area across the street from the business. One fire truck sustained extensive heat damage while parked near the north side of the building.

Hijack passengers remain in Uganda

KAMPALA, Uganda (AP) — Palestinian extremists allowed 236 Air France passengers and crew to leave a hijacked plane but kept them in custody at Entebbe airport Monday. They made unprompted demands and threatened to blow up the jetliner unless they are met. The official Uganda Radio, reporting the hijackers’ threat in a news broadcast, urged Ugandans to stay away from the airport and not risk action that might provoke the Palestinians.

Syria moves troops into Beirut area

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Syria moved 4,000 more troops and a new tank column into Lebanon on Monday, a Syrian guerrilla spokesman said, as heavy fighting reportedly spread to all of the nation’s Christian-Muslim battlefronts. A force of 3,500 Syrians and tanks rolled into northeastern Lebanon overnight and besieged Hermel, 65 miles northeast of Beirut on Monday and another unit of 500 Syrians moved in to attack the leftist-held town of Hermel.

Court limits federal control of schools

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court on Monday ruled that federal laws cannot require school officials to alter desegregation plans annually to keep up with population shifts, even if integration has not been "totally achieved." By a vote of 6-2, the justices ruled that U.S. District Judge Manuel Real exceeded his authority in requiring annual reassignment of some pupils in the Pasadenia, Calif., schools to ensure that no school would have more than a 50 percent enrollment of minority students.

Area site chosen for gasification plant

SPRINGFIELD (AP) — The specific site for a new $276 million coal gasification plant in Southern Illinois was announced Monday, placing the facility about ten miles west of the town of Pinckneyville in Perry County. Gov. Daniel Walker’s office said the site is near Southwestern Illinois Coal Corp.’s Captain Mine south of Cutler. The 2,140-acre tract has been surface mined for the past decade by Southwestern, a subsidiary of Arch Minerals Corp. of St. Louis, officials said. "The Perry County site will be conducive to the successful plant operation because of the close availability of coal, water and access to transportation," said Sidney Marder, Illinois energy director.

Local DJ arrested for assault

Kevin J. Potts, disc jockey operations director of Carbondale radio station WCIL, was charged Monday in Jackson County Court with deviant sexual assault and burglary.

Potts, 32, of 511 S. Graham St. Carbondale was held in the county jail overnight for allegedly sexually assaulting a 23-year-old SIU student.

Carbondale attorney William South who is representing Potts said his client will plead innocent to the charges. Potts is free on bond.

The woman told police she was alone at home sleeping at her house in the 400 block of Freeman Street when an assailant entered her room early Saturday morning.

Carbondale Police Sgt. Larry Hill said the woman told police she did not hear the assailant enter the house and woke to find a knife pointed at her throat. Hill said the doors may have been unlocked at the time the assailant allegedly made his entrance.

Police said her roommate, who came home at 1 a.m. scared the man off but had arrived after the woman had been forced to submit to the assailant’s demands.

Neighbors of the two women reported seeing the suspect flee through the windows of the house, run across the street and enter the back door of an apartment building.

Gary E. Smith, Jackson County assistant states attorney said that the burglary charge levied against Potts has nothing to do with theft. Smith said a person can be charged with burglary by breaking into a house with the intent of committing a felony.

Police arrested Potts after securing a warrant and searching his apartment.

Potts appeared before Judge Everett Prosser who set his bond at $2,000 and scheduled a preliminary hearing at 1:30 on July 14.

President's Scholars program threatened

President of the Daily Egyptian: You may not be a President's Scholar too much longer. Due to reassignments of space and secretarial staff, the program may be forced to reduce the number of students who are allocated office space and the services provided for each student. This could mean that you, the President's Scholar, may not have as much assistance as you currently do.

It is encouraging to note that the Student Center cafeteria is experimenting with healthier food alternatives. While there are still some staple dishes that are high in calories, such as salads and rice and beans, the cafeteria is trying to offer a variety of foods that are more nutritious. With the goal of providing healthier options, the cafeteria will continue to experiment with new menu items.

To the Daily Egyptian:

Upon entering school at SIU, I was told that my car had to be registered with the University in order to park on campus. I then went to the parking division to obtain a parking permit. There, I was informed that they had only been advertising the permit online and that the process was not as straightforward as I had thought. I was also told that there were only a few spots available on campus, and I had to be registered with the University to use them.

If you are on campus this summer, track down your instructors and project sponsors and let them know what is going on. This also includes telling deans of colleges and department chairpersons. If you are spending summer vacation at home, inform your parents. In any case, be sure to keep in touch with the student workers so you know what is going on. You can drop by the President's Scholar office in WOOF B, or call 353-2109. Remember, this is your program!

Mrs. Haberdash looped a lasso around Nessie's mouth, hoisted the two-ton monster, and carried it to the window of her huge terry cloth Motel. Thinking quickly, Mrs. Haberdash looped a lasso around the monster's neck and tied the other end to a concrete post. "I'm not the only one who has a tetanus shot," she said, as Nessie was certain "a keeper" under Scottish fish and game laws, nothing could be done.

Please by George, Aimee. By George! Nessie at least be taught touch typing "as there are always jobs available in the office of the student's secretaries," advised the Haberdashes.

So that it was the cread-plessing Scott, wearing a huge terry cloth patched with railroad numbers. "I got my job Through The New York Times," and with his tail painted red, which he was doing on the Masonic memorial, got his debut as an S.B.O. crowd in Carnegie Hall.

The gifted new discovery was hailed as a "fresh face on the concert scene" after his spirited rendition of a well-rounded repertoire including the ever-popular "I've Been Working on the Railroad." Nessie was launched.

Endorsements followed. Who will forget his coronation as Mr. Haberdash said sincerely into a television camera: "It's no fun cleaning up after a two-ton monster -- unless you have Sep N' Glo paper towels handy."

The grind begat to show. Mrs. Haberdash loked grim. He might have adjusted had not Haberdash greedily signed him to replace the famed Diving Horse on Atlantic City's Steel Pier.

On his first attempt, Nessie executed a perfect two-and-a-half gain and showed the water like a knife. He was never seen again.

In a front-page editorial, The New York Times appeared for its part in solving the riddle of Loch Ness and thus "destroying a little bit of mystery in everyone, Nessie." It said it was launching a hunt for the Abominable Snowman because hunting monsters was fun. It promised, "and not to catch one."

Nessie’s debut makes a splash

By Arthur Hoppe

As might be expected, the discovery of the Loch Ness monster elicited a worldwide controversy. The question, of course, was who owned him. "Nessie," as he came to be called, was acquired by a London millionaire, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Haberdash. Apparently disturbed by the New York Times, the monster's hometown, the two-ton monster crawled out of the loch and through the window of Mrs. Haberdash's room at the Drummochet Motel.

Thinking quickly, Mrs. Haberdash looped a lasso around the monster's neck and tied the other end to a concrete post. "I'm not the only one who has a tetanus shot," she said, as Nessie was certain "a keeper" under Scottish fish and game laws, nothing could be done.

Coed is given honor of 'Miss Wheelchair' title

Elyn Boyd, a junior at SIU, was chosen Miss Wheelchair Illinois 1976-77 in competition held at the Student Center Saturday.

"It's great," exclaimed Boyd. "It's a climax to the whole week, and now it's on to Columbus.

Boyd will be representing Illinois at the fifth annual Miss Wheelchair America Pageant to be held in September at Columbus, Ohio.

Boyd, a therapeutic recreation major, was selected from a field of five contestants.

When asked during competition what person had most affected her life, Boyd replied that a social worker "really brought me out of it and helped me to learn to handle my handicap.

Boyd was selected on the basis of the degree of her handicap and her ability to function as a productive member of society, within the limitations of that handicap.

Recently named to the U.S. Olympic Wheelchair squad, Boyd will compete in the 60-yard dash at Toronto in August.

"Being Miss Wheelchair means that the people of Illinois are willing to let me fight for them, to speak for them, and to let me represent them at Columbus," said Boyd.

First runner-up in the competition was Veral Sutherland of Carbondale.

Among the judges for the pageant was Shirley R. Holmes, first runner-up to Miss Wheelchair America in 1975. Mrs. Holmes is a Carbondale resident and an SIU graduate.

Boyd was escorted by S-Sgt. James Grant, USMC.

Mississippi River Festival begins second week of shows

A special "War on Film" evening begins the second week of performances at the Mississippi River Festival, held on the campus of SU-E in Edwardsville.

The second week of the festival also includes a concert by Harry Chapin Wedneday night. Chapin will perform a solo set at the performance of the Juilliard String Quartet on Thursday, May 17, with guests Sonny James and the Southern Gentlemen on Friday night.

Tuesday's "War on Film" evening will feature two important documentaries about the involvement of the United States in Vietnam. The other documentary, "Battle of Britain," will be shown on Thursday night.

Harry Chapin, originally scheduled for July 14, has rescheduled his performance on Wednesday, June 30, because of the National Democratic Convention.

Chapin will attend the convention as a voting delegate from Long Island. Chapin has centralized MRF audience in years past with his combination of friendly banter and insightful story-songs. He is best known for his hit songs, the classic "Taxi" and "Just Sing in the Rain." The Chamber Music Series for the Meridian Hall at the University of Illinois on Thursday, May 17, will feature several American composers. The Juilliard String Quartet, which performed at the festival last year, will have guests Sonny James and the Southern Gentlemen on Friday night.

In the 23rd century of the United States, every city has its own distinctive style, with the city to city, state to state, with a minimum of homogeneity. In some cases this is a byproduct of the diversity of music, a diversity of life styles found in the United States. In other cases, the diversity is the result of the cities' own unique histories and personalities.

Highway rocks behind Woody Hall Friday night

Highway delivers good sound

The setting for Highway's Friday night concert behind Woody Hall could not have been any more ideal. Few clouds, warm temperature and none of the stifling heat and crowds that typifies most live entertainment in town. The crowd, which grew with the darkness, came to hear some good, live rock and roll, and that's exactly what Highway delivered.

"Logan" trips on tribe

In the 23rd century of "Logan's Run" everybody lives in one dense city on the east coast of the United States, so there is no need to travel through all types of music, no diversity of life styles found in the United States. In other cases, the diversity is the result of the cities' own unique histories and personalities.

The few S-F films to appear in the past several years have been "Logan's Run," "Zardoz," "THX 1138." have all made this point, and it has been noted by some degree. Anyone who reads the latest complaint literature knows that Utopian dreamworlds have largely given up as a topic many years ago. So Logan's Run is a story about a man who is about to make a believable future for both Logan and the audience.

There are wonders as the futuristic scenes are presented in various directions and familiar with the sophisticated themes do not go out of date. One sequence shows that the intelligence levels of the characters are at the Moon's level.

So "Logan's Run" now showing at the Fox Eastgate, is memorable for the wonderful music, and lesser unsung answers. If it works, they made the screenplay. Not the working of the city, the police, the two tube tubes, the time clocks, the guns, the clothes and jewelry. Why does the character wear what he wears? It's a very bad symbol for everyone to see, including the tune-too-too-too-too Too many of them exist. And an on and off situation which is usually reserved from those of today, and can be really astounding by the ways of the past. In short, the future is Utopian.

New student pay system will mail checks to bank

Student workers can have their campus payroll checks deposited directly in their bank accounts starting July 23.

Jack E. Simmons, controller, said the system is being set up as a convenience to student workers and to cut down on long payday lines at the Bursar's Office.

Authorization cards for the direct-deposit system are now available at the Bursar's Office, Payroll Office and the Office of Student Work and Financial Assistance, Simmons said. They're due at the payroll office by July 7 in order to be effective for student workers checks to be distributed July 23.

Variety of student jobs listed

The Student Work Office has listed the following openings for student workers.

To be eligible, a student must have an ACT Family Financial Statement on file at the Student Work Office and must be registered as a full-time student. Inquiries and applications may be made at the Student Work Office, Third Floor, Woody Hall, Wing B.

Checks will go directly to the student's bank, and deposit slips will be mailed back.

Simmons said that in the future, deposit authorization cards will be available when students apply for campus jobs.

NO WEATHERMEN

CHICAGO (AP) — If man ever builds colonies on the moon, weathermen won't be needed.

The moon has no weather as we know it. According to "World Book Encyclopedia," the moon has no clouds, no rain and no wind. Astronauts on the moon must use radio to communicate because there is no air to carry sound.

Are you out of work and searching, or are you employed and searching for more satisfaction in your work?

The Division of Continuing Education has scheduled a July 9-10 workshop aimed at making job search, job advancement and job enhancement easier.

Gordon Plumb of the Career Planning and Placement Center said the workshop is planned as a "non-traditional, confidence-building and self-responsible approach" to improving the job-related segment of a person's life.

Representatives of the Rehabilitation Institute, the Personnel Office and the Career Planning and Placement Center will conduct the two-day workshop. It is open to all interested persons.

"The so-called tight job market is a myth," Plumb said. "Since approximately 10 percent of all national jobs are not listed publicly.

Plumb said the workshop will focus on means of researching the job market, gathering job information and making personal contacts.

Editor's note: In May, journalism student Robert Cook toured the Marion Penitentiary. He visited cell blocks, work areas, and the maximum security unit which houses the most incorrigible of federal prisoners. This is the second part of a two-part series in which he describes his impressions of the prison.

By Robert Cook
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Time was of the essence. My visit, which began at 8:30 that morning, was to last no longer than two hours. Accordingly, there was much to see, so I attempted to regain my confidence as we moved on.

After touring several cell houses and an exercise yard, I was taken to the vegetable garden, weight lifting equipment and running track, and also got to visit at the education offices.

The prisoners in the control unit were not to be allowed to enter the prison system. They were under suspicion and supervision. I was able to see the unit, which is a special unit of the federal system, where about 45,000 federal prison system personnel are kept. These men are under extremely close supervision.

The prisoners are not assigned to the control unit at Marion when entering the federal prison system. This unit is reserved for those who have drawn attention to themselves by committing crimes while in Marion or other prisons. They may have murdered a fellow inmate, or attempted an escape. Four of five recent escapees from Marion are currently assigned to the unit.

I had been told during a previous trip to the prison I wouldn’t be allowed to talk with prisoners in the control unit. “You’ve got to remember it’s the end of the line down there and we try to keep that environment as quiet as possible,” said Associate Warden Harold Miller.

Several electronic gates and a vaulted door separated the control unit from the rest of the prison. Beyond these, a heavy gauge wire fence stood between us and the empty cells. Across from the cells were wire cages where the men in this control unit tier were working. Each man was sitting in a cage by himself, except for one large cage on the end which held three men. I

Salesman bares key to success
By Diane Pinheiro
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Want to know how to be a successful salesman? Make people happy. That's the secret that St. Louis marketing consultant Ben Smith revealed at the first Southern Illinois Regional Marketing Conference.

"Salesmen are magicians," he said. They can turn an old clothesline into a new dryer. They make people happier and healthier. The key to success, Smith believes, is happy, smiling, well-dressed salesmen who know that their job is to make people happy.

A Fresh look at opportunities for interchange

A Professional advisory service to the Southern Illinois region was revealed at the first Southern Illinois Regional Marketing Conference, which was held at the University of Southern Illinois at Edwardsville.

The final contingent of three Sigma Lambda Gamma members to go to Brazil in 1970. He was project manager for two years. Since then, 18 SIU-C faculty members and nine other specialists recruited from other institutions or agencies have had assignments at as a black male wearing dark clothes and a nylon stocking over his face. The woman said she could see her attacker because of the incident occurred. The suspect was arrested on the basis of the victim's description.

Campus Briefs

The La Leche League of Carbondale will meet at the home of the Fitzsimmons, 306 Gray Drive, at 1 p.m., Tuesday. The topic will be "Nutrition and Weaning." The Carbondale Community High School Class of 1931 is making plans for its 25th reunion, with a special invitation extended to the classes of 1932, 1933, 1934, 1935, 1936, 1937 and 1938. The reunion is planned for 8 a.m. Aug. 13 at the Elks Club, with other events following Aug. 14-15. Anyone having knowledge of the following people is asked to contact Helen Sorgen Deniston, 309 W. Oak St., Carbondale; phone 657-NBR. Pat Brown Clark, Warner Newberry, Gene Berryman and Joyce Simpson Redfeather.

An essay by Mark Hillegas, professor of English, will appear in a book entitled Science Fiction as Cultural Form, which will soon be published by Beogradski-Izazvaci Graficki Zavode of Belgrade, Yugoslavia.

Howard Spaltl, chairman of the Forestry Department, has been appointed to a newly-formed Illinois Forestry Advisory Committee which advises the Illinois Division of Forestry on statewide program planning.

Farming specialists complete advisory programs

SIU-C School of Agriculture specialists are completing symposiums of service to the Federal University of Santa Maria in southern Brazil June 30 under contracts with the United Nations Food and Agricultural Organization (UN-FAO).

The final contingent of three faculty members in returning to Carbondale at the end of June after nearly two years in Brazil as agriculture advisers to the University of Santa Maria. They are Vincent Commons, an agricultural economist; Robert Weilf in agriculture education and merchandising; and John Laybourn, SIU-C international education specialist who has been project manager the last two years. Also returning are two two-month assignments as animal nutritionist D. Dixon Lee and a School of Agriculture assistant dean for research.

William A. Doerr, SIU-C School of Agriculture assistant dean and coordinator of the SIU-C/UN-FAO project, said SIU-C has provided at least 580 man-months of professional advisory service to the University of Santa Maria to help the institution develop and improve its agriculture teaching, research, and area extension service programs.

Doerr was the first staff member to go to Brazil in 1970. He was project manager for two years. Since then, 16 SIU-C faculty members and nine other specialists recruited from other institutions or agencies have had assignments at as a black male wearing dark clothes and a nylon stocking over his face. The woman said she could see her attacker because of the incident occurred. The suspect was arrested on the basis of the victim's description.

Professor to study programs for handicapped in 10 nations

By Faye Fullerton
Student Writer

American can learn a great deal from the way European countries treat the handicapped, said Special Education Professor Kristen Juul, who plans to conduct a five-month study tour of Europe this fall.

Juul will study progressive and innovative programs as well as other kinds of services for the handicapped. He hopes to produce "a publication for Americans who want to know about special services to the handicapped in Europe. It would also be helpful to Europeans," he said.

The tour will cover approximately 50 facilities in ten countries. Juul will be returning to many facilities he found interesting on earlier study tours. He conducted two different tours to Europe, one in 1972 and one in 1974, with students.

Juul cites exchange as the main purpose of his journey. He believes very strongly in sharing information if "somebody has developed something good that others can benefit from.

The Norwegian-born professor believes that there has been far too little exchange concerning the handicapped carried out between Europe and the United States so far. He points out that many European innovations such as horseback-riding therapy and special swimming programs have gone relatively unnoticed in America.

Anthroposophic villages, "communes" where the handicapped and staff live and work together as families, are becoming widespread throughout Europe with quite a bit of success. Yet there is only one such facility for adults in the U.S. Campbell Village at Copake, N.Y., and one for children, Beaver Run in Pennsylvania.

"Americans must realize that in other countries they're doing some good things, too," Juul said.

Juul's tour will cover Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Germany, Switzerland, France, the Netherlands, Portugal, Spain and Italy. He is taking his family along and hopes to visit relatives while in Norway.

Juul has been asked by the president of the European Association for Special Education to speak at an educational college in Malmo, Sweden. He will also meet with the National Board of Education while in Sweden.

Clinic to check disabled kids

The Carbondale Elks Lodge, in cooperation with other area lodges and the Illinois Elks Criminated Children's Commission, will hold a clinic for physically handicapped children at Doctor's Memorial Hospital on June 29, 1976 from 9 a.m. until noon.

Children with orthopedic problems, including those previously examined elsewhere and those physically handicapped in any way are invited to attend for evaluation of their condition.

An orthopedic surgeon from the University of Illinois Hospital, Chicago, will be in charge. The service will be free.

'Honors' aids above-average students

By Edie Reese

You don't have to wait until you receive your first-semester Dean's List notification to become an honors student at SIU. If you're a continuing or transfer student, you can become an honors student if you have a 3.5 grade point average. SIU's President's Scholars Program is designed to aid the above-average student in designing a challenging curriculum and providing opportunities for study tailored to a particular student's academic needs and interests.

By granting General Studies credit for CLEP (College Level Examination Program) tests and allowing Scholars to substitute special general studies courses, the program permits an advanced student to examine in more depth areas covered by General Studies courses. Also, because the Scholar finishes his general studies sequence sooner than the average student, he has more time to take electives. There are also honors sections of General Studies as well as departmental courses that are open to President's Scholars.

Although Scholars often take fewer General Studies courses than the average student, the object of the program is not merely that of streamlining through General Studies, according to John Depson, program director.

Seminars often incorporate several different disciplines in exploring topics such as ethical considerations of science, or the relationship between cinema and society. In both the President's Scholars seminars and the honors sections of General Studies courses, the students not only have a more rigorous program of study than their counterparts, but are also encouraged to become a creative element in the curriculum. Student participation may entail actual coursework design, or individual or small projects. Students who are not President's Scholars may also take seminars with permission of the instructor.

There are also opportunities for independent and interdisciplinary studies. Students can receive honors credits of their own design ranging from field research to filmmaking. With the President's Degree Program, a student can literally design his own interdisciplinary major through a combination of existing courses as well as independent study. In addition, President's Degree students may fully complete all General Studies Requirements by means of CLEP General Exams. With both President's Degree, students and faculty participate in a unique academic freedom through discipline interchange as students work closely with their faculty advisers.

President's Scholars receive special privileges in early advancement and enrollment, and may take books out of the library for an extra week, but all that is involved in being a President's Scholar is not strictly academic in nature.

Since the President's Scholars Program requires a great deal of student input to be useful, the members, the Council of President's Scholars (COPS) was created to achieve this purpose. All President's Scholars are members of this organization, but the degree of actual participation is left up to the student.

Traditionally, COPS holds an orientation and pinning for new President's Scholars at the beginning of the fall term, and holds several meetings a year to reevaluate various aspects of the program. Forum, a showcase for independent study projects, is also another function of the group. Scheduled get-togethers as Sunday night dinners. COPS is also affiliated with the National Collegiate Honors Council (NCHC), a nationwide conference of honors students and faculty. NCHC holds a national conference every two years, and many local divisions also hold yearly conferences. (President's Scholars attended both the national conference in Pullman, Wash., and the Illinois conference at Loyola University in Chicago.) By focusing on areas such as "Financing an Honors Program," "The Role of Women in Honors," and "Providing a Sense of Community Among Honors Students," students and faculty can find ways to improve their own honors programs. NCHC also sponsors special projects such as the Bicentennial Semester, a semester of study in Washington, D.C., for honors students across the country, which two President's Scholars will attend.

A Scholar may also elect to live in Smith Hall at Thompson Point, which has been designated as the honors dorm. Not all of the residents are President's Scholars, but the co-ed dorm does have 24-hour courtesy hours rather than specific quiet hours. However, the students living in Smith do not study all of the time. In the past, Smith has been very active in Thompson Point and campus activities, as well as sponsoring activities for its own residents. (Last year Smith sent a team to the final round of the "Almost Anything Goes" competition.) Because so many Scholars live in Smith, many of the COPS meetings are held in the Smith Hall Lounge.

Students wishing to become President's Scholars should visit the President's Scholar office on the first floor of the "C" wing of Woody Hall. No appointment is needed to obtain general information, but those with specific questions or problems should call 536-2188.

OLD TREE

BISHOP, Calif. (AP) — Methuselah is still alive, and well, and living 12 miles east of here. "Methuselah" is a 4,000-year-old bristlecone pine tree, and, according to Rand McNally's "National Forest Guide," the oldest known living thing on earth. The publication says Methuselah and a nearby companion, a tree named "Patriarch," which is the largest of the bristlecone Pine Forest.

Largest marine show ever in U.S.

NEW YORK (AP) — Cecil B. DeMille, eat your heart out. New York City's getting ready for a spectacular event: the marine show in the history of this Hemisphere, will sail up the Hudson River between George Washington Bridge. and the Water Slippery slide.

The cast of thousands includes: a stunning collection of high-powered sailing ships, 50 warships from more than 30 nations, more than 10,000 other boats and an estimated 18 million people.

Barring the unforeseen, July 4 will give President Ford and a long list of other dignitaries the opportunity to witness the biggest marine show in the history of this country and perhaps the world.

At 11 a.m., the bicentennial Co-op gives students training while they finish educations.

Twenty-nine SIU students are working on Cooperative Education Program (Co-op) assignments for the summer term. This is the largest number of students participating in the program since its start in August, 1974.

Co-op, sponsored by the Career Planning and Placement Center, enables students to gain work experience while completing their educations. Under the parallel program, students attend school and work at the same time, while the alternate program allows the student to alternate semesters between work and school.

S. Lee Wohlwend, Co-op coordinator, said students are placed in jobs through Co-op. Credit for work experience is granted by the individual department. Wohlwend said various departments give from five hours credit for a semester of work experience, to no credit.

Regardless of whether or not students get credit for their work semesters, they find other benefits. The work experience will be a good reference for future employment in the field, and the student may get first priority when the agency or firm he works for wishes to hire especially the college graduate, he said.

The best time for students to begin in the Co-op program is after the freshman year, Wohlwend said, because then the student will be able to work at least two work periods before graduating.

Of the 28 students at work stations this summer, 15 of them are from the College of Human Resources. Most of these students are clothing and textile majors. Eleven of the Co-op students work locally, and nine are employed by the civil service.

Civil Service jobs are found at the federal, state and local levels. Four students majoring in finance work for the Comptroller of the Currency. Others have jobs with the Social Security Administration.

Two forestry majors have been placed in jobs locally. Wohlwend said. Candy Murphy works for the Shawnee National Forest in Murphysboro, and Judy Buchanan works at Crab Orchard Lake.

John Cota, plant and soil science major, works for the Chicago Park District, and Claudia Shwartz, another plant and soil science major, works at a forest in Mt. Rose Park.

Wohlwend said students in the College of Communications and Fine Arts are the most difficult to place. This summer, Dennis DeNuncio, cinema and photography major, is the only student from the college working through Co-op. He works in the camera department of a local department store.

Olympics bright spot in sports world

By Scott Burnside

Daily Egyptian Sports Editor

With every viewing of Olympic trials, no matter what the sport, one has to recognize the quality of amateur sports that are an oasis in the desert of sports.

In many ways the Olympic Games are the nadir of the desert sports. With one portion of the sports page devoted to the dealings of owner Charlie Finley and the other half devoted to a boxing-wrestling match between Muhammad Ali and a Japanese wrestler, it’s a relief to find people devoted to their sport for some reason other than winning a lucrative commercial role.

Sure the Olympics have their touches of greed, politics and shoddy conduct. But these examples are usually buried in the margins as other athletes are putting up.

This year several people tried to renew the old discussion of whether we devote to the dealings of owner Madlock and the inner tube woodworking of baseball, renaming of floors, selling of industrial property, floor waxing and wrestling. But we choose not to dignify it.

That’s not the way to come back in the last year’s pace.

Madlock behind last year’s pace

CHICAGO (AP) — Bill Madlock is finding it hard to cope with but hasn’t completely given up hope.

The Chicago Cubs’ chunky third baseman has been on the National League batting championship with a .34 average and also shared most valuable player honors after the All-Star game with New York Mets’ pitcher John Matlack.

This year, Madlock, although hovering around the .300 mark, hasn’t made a move to consider a real move to retain his batting title and he could be completely overlooked when it comes to the All-Star game.

“I haven’t given up hope yet on the batting title,” said Madlock. “It seems that everyone is starting a move, something happens. Then it takes me that much longer to get started again.

Still, I never go into big slumps and get a hit here and a hit there. I have a streak of getting three or four hits a game for a few games and I’ll be right back in the batting race.

“Then what really has been disappointing is the way we’ve been playing as a team,” said Madlock. “The important thing is to have the team play winning ball.

What about the All-Star game? I’m pretty tough to throw the National League is third base,” said Madlock. “There’s Pete Rose who, like Johnny Bench, is automatic. Then there’s Ron Cey who started ahead of me.

“I imagine there’ll be a few guys disposable in the National League is third base,” said Madlock. “I don’t look forward to it. Then there’s Mike Schmidt.

“I imagine there’ll be a few guys disposable in the National League is third base,” said Madlock. “I don’t look forward to it. Then there’s Mike Schmidt.

“My take on the game is that baseball, latent Charles O. Finley episode except this time he may be in the right.

For years ball players have been traded, sold, and practically given away to other ball clubs regardless of their fame and batting averages. Babe Ruth was traded at his highest day successor Henry Aaron. Club owners are out for money and nobody has ever stopped it before.

Years ago in the late 50s and early 60s, White Sox owner Charles Comiskey amazed at the skill in which the Yankees obtained quality Kansas City Maris.

Nobody stepped in and said no.

Baseball commissioner Bowie Kuhn’s rejection of the proposed Oakland deal was a restraint of trade. (Where was this when the Sox needed him?) What’s sad is that Bowie almost tried to prove he’s a commissioner with power.

There have been so many other times Bowie could have stepped into a dilemma situation, such as the strike talk days, but he chose to almost ignore the situation.

Masonic hospital plans creation of sports center

CHICAGO (AP) — Illinois Masonic Medical Center announced Monday creation of a center for sports medicine designed to provide comprehensive treatment of sports-related injuries in the United States.

The hospital announcement said the number of such injuries is increasing yearly and that it intends to provide educational, research and training programs for the future.

Another Chicago institution, Northwestern University medical school, announced in April the formation of a similar facility.

Dr. Theodore A. Fox, Illinois Masonic’s chairman of orthopedics and orthopedic surgeon for the Chicago Bears, is founder of the Illinois Masonic new center.

Officers of the board include George Connor, former Notre Dame football coach and professional baseball pitching coach, and Crowdus Baker, retired chairman of Sears, Roebuck and Co.

In conjunction with the center, the Abraham Lincoln school of medicine at the University of Illinois, Chicago, will offer a combined degree in medicine and athletic injuries. Fox is a clinical professor at the school.

The center announcement said also that programs will be offered for physicians, parents, educators, coaches, trainers and sports participants of all ages in an effort to reduce sports injuries.

Sailing Club plans schedule of July events

The SIU sailing club begins its summer slate of activities Saturday with the annual Club Carnival, which will be held at Crab Orchard Lake.

On July 17 the club will hold its second annual Ms. Match-Womens’, where the boats with female skippers.

To top off the month the Club has a 24th Annual Ozark Canoe trip planned for Crab Orchard Lake.

For people interested in sailing, the club holds a meeting every Thursday night in Lawson 131.
