Confident Brown to press Clinton

United Press International

Former California Gov. Edmund "Jerry" Brown Jr., relishing his sudden success in the Democratic presidential race, pushed on with his campaign for the discontented vote Wednesday, saying it is time to push Arkansas Gov. Bill Clinton to the sidelines.

Following Brown's narrow victory in Connecticut's primary Tuesday, the battle between the two Democratic candidates promised to get much hotter as the presidential campaign moved on to raucous New York.

The spat between the Democratic candidates was bringing glee to the Republicans, whose earlier intra-party dispute between President Bush and conservative commentator Patrick

Buchanan was being pushed to the background for the time being.

Republican House whip Newt Gingrich of Georgia, speaking after a White House meeting with Bush, said of Brown: "He's their flake and our savior."

But Brown, who rallied with labor union members in Philadelphia and met with New York Gov. Mario Cuomo in Albany, was talking like a candidate who seriously believed he could go all the way in November.

"The only chance we have is to move Clinton aside and give our party the opportunity to challenge Bush with credibility, with honesty, and with some imagination," he said on NBC's "Today."

Tightening tuition belt

Official: Increasing tuition could help state budget

By Teri Lynn Carlock
City Writer

Although state universities are fighting to keep tuition costs down, the president of the Illinois Taxpayer's Federation said an increase in college tuition could be the key in stabilizing the state budget.

Jim Nowlan, who works with the 50-year-old Independent watchdog organization in Springfield, said he has recommended the state move away from artificial low tuition.

"I've figured we can possibly stabilize the Illinois budget and provide funds for poor children without raising taxes," he said. "I would propose raising Illinois college tuition by 100 percent and increasing financial aid assistance by $100 million."

In a comparison of state university tuition costs, the University of Illinois in Urbana ranks as the 17th highest in the country. The average tuition of regional universities such as SIUC is $2,354 a year, ranking Illinois 9th in the country.

The average tuition of community colleges such as John A. Logan is $943 a

'Honorable candidate' ends 43-year Dixon career

By Todd Welvaert
Politics Writer

It was all over for U.S. Senator Alan Dixon, D-Belleville, by 11:25 p.m., March 17, 1992.

Dixon conceded his campaign on the night of the Illinois state primary to what was first thought a candidate without a chance.

That night began the end of a 43-year political career that began when Dixon was elected in his hometown of Belleville as the city police magistrate while he still was attending law school.

Twenty-nine winning elections later, the 64-year-old Democrat said he would retire from public office in January and let the new Democratic nominee take on the party battles in the U.S. Senate.

"Carol Moseley Braun was an honorable, decent candidate," Dixon told his supporters in his concession speech. "She took her message to the people and they liked that message and I accept that result just as fully as I accepted 29 other good results for Democrat Alan Dixon."

Carol Moseley Braun was the primaries' ultimate underdog. She was heavily outspent by both of her Democratic opponents in a race that favors incumbents.

Braun's shoestring campaign spent an estimated $223,000 in February and could not afford television advertising until the weekend before the primary.

Dixon spent close to $2 million combating the aggressive advertising of Chicago lawyer and multimillionaire Albert Hofeld.

Dixon led in the polls by 12 percentage points a week before the primary and Dixon said he felt comfortable with his campaign, all the while his successor was showing late gains in the polls.

In that same poll, Braun's support surged 7 percentage points.

Bush refuses to deal with Democrats

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Bush refused Wednesday to negotiate an economic plan with Democrats in Congress, saying, "The time has come to take the case to the American people."

On Sunday, Bush said it would be better for Congress to "do nothing" than pass an economic growth plan that contains taxes of any kind.

He reiterated that posture Wednesday in a meeting with Republican lawmakers, opening the session with a statement that he would once again veto legislation if Democrats insist on sending him a bill that cuts taxes on the middle class and raises them on the wealthy.

When asked why he refused to even discuss an economic plan with Democrats, Bush shot back, "Listen, the American

Tyson faces fine, 6-12 years in jail

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — Boxer Mike Tyson's rape conviction could be costly in more ways than one.

The 25-year-old Tyson is scheduled for sentencing at 8 a.m. Thursday in Marion County Superior Court. He was convicted Feb. 10 of rape and two counts of sexual deviate conduct.

Tyson could face as many as 60 years in prison for the three Class B felonies. However, public defenders in Marion County are in agreement that the former heavyweight champion will probably receive no more than a 12-year sentence because he has no prior adult felony convictions.

Also, Marion County Prosecutor Jeffrey Modisett says he will recommend to Judge Patricia Gifford a sentence between 6 and 12 years.

Modisett said he also will recommend that Tyson be fined $10,000 for each felony count and pay for the costs incurred by the county in prosecuting him for the attack on Desiree Washington, 18, a Miss Black America beauty pageant contestant.

Washington was raped by Tyson in his Indianapolis swank hotel room July 19 when the young woman was in the city representing her home state of Rhode Island in the pageant.

David J. Dreyer, chief counsel for the prosecutor's office, said a little-used state statute will be cited as justification for the judge to order Tyson to pay at least $150,000 to reimburse the county.

Dreyer said the statute is not used frequently because most defendants cannot afford to pay trial costs. However, Dreyer said it is appropriate for Tyson to reimburse taxpayers because of his wealth, the high costs of the trial due to his celebrity status and the special security Tyson requested and was granted by the judge.

Costs cited by Dreyer include $71,354 for the prosecutor's office and $78,693 for the court, Court Services Agency, Marion County Sheriff's Department, auditor, clerk and probation department.

Plab, SIUC men's track team jump ahead on '91 repeat try

By Scott Wuerz
Sports Writer

The SIUC men's track team hopes to keep up the pace as it aims for its second consecutive Missouri Valley Conference track title crown.

The Salukis accomplished the feat of winning the MVC indoor and outdoor track and cross country titles in 1991, and have installed the first piece of the puzzle in 1992, after winning the indoor track crown.

The men brought home the MVC indoor title Feb. 29, defeating second-place Illinois State 135-115, then wrapped up the indoor track season at the NCAA national championship meet in Indianapolis March 13.

Junior Darrin Plab improved on a fifth-place high jump finish at the NCAA meet in 1991, finishing second by a fraction of an inch with a jump of 7-5. Saluki coach Bill Cornell said. The jump qualified Plab as an All-American.

"It was really unfortunate Plab didn't win," he said. "He had the height to beat the top jump, unfortunately however, he came down on the bar. Still, it's quite an accomplishment to finish second in the nation, and he's only a junior so he still has a chance to go further."

Senior Ed Williams qualified for the semifinals in the 55-meter high hurdles at the NCAA meet, turning in a 7.32 pass in the event.

The Salukis will compete in their only home meet of the outdoor track season Friday and Saturday against Ball State, Illinois State, and Illinois.

Strong offense pushed women to NCAA berth

By Norma Wilke
Sports Writer

Offensive balance paid tremendous dividends to the SIUC women's basketball team's successful 23-7 1991-92 season.

An at-large bid to the NCAA As was the Salukis' payoff.

Coach Cindy Scott said SIUC hoped to get further at the NAAs.

"But we're happy that we got the bid and won our first game," Scott said. "We were pleased with everything we accomplished this year."

The Salukis kept their opponents

Four starters to return for Scott's team in 1992-93 season guessing all season with four players averaging double figures in points and other players coming off the bench to make the difference.

A new up-tempo style of play helped the Salukis average 74.7 points a game this season, compared to only 66 last year. The school record is 75.3 set in 1981.

The Salukis showed another different look—SIUC shattered 13 of 15 3-point records for SIUC. The Salukis, who were No. 8 nationally two of the past three weeks, hit 39.6 percent of its treys this season compared to 28.1 percent only a year ago.

The Salukis led the Gateway most of the season at the perimeter. Senior guard Karrie Redeker, sophomore guard Karen Powell and junior forward Angie Rougeau were all prominent contestants in 3-point land.

Redeker said before the season started the team did not know what to expect.

"We had a great season,"

Redeker said. "We were worried about shooting before the season started, but our transition game helped. We got a lot of shots in our running game. When the other teams shut down (junior center) Kelly Firth on the inside, we were open a lot for the outside shot."

At home this season, the Salukis were 11-2 with losses to Southwest Missouri State and Evansville. On the road, SIUC was 12-5.

Four of the Salukis' losses were to NCAA top 10 teams—three by 10th-ranked Southwest Missouri State, 29-2 Gateway champion, and one by 3rd-ranked Stanford, 25-3, the top seed in the West Region. In the NCAA tournament they lost to No. 5 Mississippi, which was 27-2.

Road wins against Colorado in the NCAA first round, Tennessee Tech, a seven-time Ohio Valley Conference champion, North Carolina, who was ranked eighth at the time, and No. 23 Wisconsin offset the losses.

place from first. Brevard College finished 2nd place with a score of 909. Morehead State finished 3rd with a score of 913. SIUC finished 6th with a score of 925.

Diver Siracusano to compete in NAAs

Sports Information

Rob Siracusano, sophomore diving sensation for SIUC, begins his quest for a national title today.

The Long Island, N.Y., native will represent the Salukis in the 1992 NCAA Swimming and Diving Championships with one goal in mind, diving coach Dave Ardrey said.

"Rob is going to Indianapolis to bring home a national diving championship," Ardrey said. "It is his lone goal."

Siracusano earned the right to vie for the title, following a recent first-place effort in zone competition.

During that action he stunned defending national champion Jason Rhodes on the 3-meter boards, winning 56.105-548.30.

"He was already doing a great job, but that win has certainly boosted his confidence," Ardrey said.

"He knows that he can compete with anyone in the country."

Rob Siracusano

Action in the NCAA meet begins Thursday with 1-meter boards.

It will be followed Friday with the 3-meter competition and a Saturday installment of platform diving.

Ardrey said he feels Siracusano's best chance to win a national title is on the 3-meter boards.

"He does some things on the 3-meter boards that few divers can pull off," Ardrey said. "Anything he accomplishes here this weekend will not surprise me."

Siracusano set new school records during the 1991-92 season on both the 1- and 3-meter boards.

Paper to recycle newsprint with stronger fiber content

By Annette Holder
General Assignment Writer

The DE is recycling its recycling effort, making a second attempt at using previously used paper.

The DE first attempted using 100-percent recycled paper a month ago, but the paper was too weak for the printing press, said Gary Buckles, DE superintendent of print shop.

The new paper is 65-percent recycled and should have more fibers than the previous paper, he said.

"The paper has to be ground up to be made into a roll," Buckles said. "There's really no strands with 100-percent recycled paper."

Paper has to be strong to go through the offset printing process that is used at the DE. Because water is necessary to the process, the press has to get up to a high speed so the paper does not become soaked by moisture.

There was more waste using the 100-percent recycled paper because the press ran faster and paper took longer to stop coming out of the press, Buckles said.

The DE expects to begin using the 65-percent recycled paper, which comes from Stone Container Co., in April.

Old newsprint is the best environmental choice for newspapers, said Jackie Badger, Student Environmental Center president.

"Almost all of the paper mills use the wood scraps that fall to the floor to make (recycled) paper," Badger said. "It's cheaper than hauling it away."

Of the 65 percent of the proposed paper, 99 percent contains reused newsprint, according to the paper mill's manager.

Catherine Hagler, DE business manager, said the recycled paper probably will not cost more than the paper currently used.

The paper changed to soybean-based ink from petroleum-based ink a few weeks ago in an effort to make the newspaper less harmful to the environment, said Walter Jaehning, director of the School of Journalism.

"We're changing paper because there's a belief on the DE staff that we should be environmentally conscious," Jaehning said. "We can teach students to carry the same consciousness with them."

Other ways the DE tries to make environmentally correct choices include recycling photochemicals and press printing plates.

Theater to stage opera gala in fund-raising bid

By Ronn Byrd
Entertainment Writer

Orchestrators of the Marjorie Lawrence Opera Theater have prepared a patchwork of great opera works for a benefit concert to aid opera's future.

Revenue from the Fifth Annual Benefit Opera Gala, which will perform at 8 p.m. Friday at Shryock Auditorium, will go into a scholarship fund designated for students who show potential for an operatic career.

Selections are made by a voice faculty panel who hear auditions, said Janine Wagner, assistant professor in the School of Music.

"Last year we raised $750 for the scholarship," Wagner said. "We like to be able to put between $550 and $1050 each year."

The annual gala was the brainchild of opera students in 1987 who wanted to find a way to draw in money for opera scholarships.

Wagner, also a performer in the show, said this year's gala is "a sort of opera variety show in that we perform opera's greatest hits. It's similar to last year in that we are doing Franz Lehár and Rossini, but this year we've included some Mozart. It's going to be a great time."

The performances will include:

■ the opening chorus from "The Merry Widow" by Franz Lehár featuring Philip Burke as Cascadia and James C. Jones as Baron Zeta.

■ the act I Duet from "L'Elisir d'Amore" by Gaetano Donizetti featuring Heather Clark as Adina and Jeremy Easley as Nemorino.

■ the act I Duet from "Madame Butterfly" by Giacomo Puccini including Erica C. Thomas as Cio-Cio-San and John McGee as Lt. Pinkerton.

■ the act I Finale from "Cosi fan Tutte" by Mozart has Paula Noor as Fiordiligi, Ruth Maney as Dorabella, Jennifer Chaney as Despina, Norman L. Pack as Fernando, Robert DeSimone

Jr. as Guglielmo and James C. Jones as Don Alfonso.

■ the act II Duet from "The Merry Wives of Windsor" Otto Nicolai featuring Tina McGee as Anne and Jeremy Easley as Fenton.

■ the "Ernani, involami" from "Ernani" by Giuseppe Verdi performed by Erica C. Thomas as Elvira.

■ selections from "Candide" by Leonard Bernstein, featuring Jeanine Wagner as Cunegonde, Lori Merrill-Fink as Pacquette, John McGee as Candide, Robert De Simone Jr. as Maximilian and Stacey Gaddy as Pangloss.

The "Candide" finale includes

"The Best of All Possible Worlds," "Oh, Happy We," "Glitter and Be Gay," "You Were Dead You Know" and "Make Our Garden Grow."

Clarinetist Eric Mandat, a school of music faculty member, will perform a Rossini solo.

"There's so much variety that if you don't like what you're listening to, all you have to do is wait a few minutes and it's something completely different," Wagner said.

Tickets are available at the SIUC Student Center ticket office, the School of Music Opera Office and at the door. Prices are $7 for adults and $3 for students and senior citizens.

Political party battles leave taxpayers cold

As election time rolls in, Washington politicians have taken the stage in an attempt to outshine their opposition at the polls, while an increasingly impoverished nation awaits real changes.

In a ceremonious speech Saturday, President George Bush announced his veto of a Democratic tax plan and also happened to address several key election issues.

This action marked only the latest of battles between the Democratically controlled Congress and the Republican President. Bush attacked Democrats for playing politics and said he was standing up for citizens by vetoing tax increases. Democrats accused Bush of wanting only campaign issues to run on, not any real tax changes.

The reality of these political bickerings is taxpayers are left out in the cold, still awaiting the much talked about changes that have suffered even further setbacks. After an exchange of harsh words, Democrats refused to negotiate any compromises with Bush, but rather decided to send him the exact same tax measure.

These seemingly high-caliber political battles are actually little more than second rate performances. Democrats knew their proposal was going to be vetoed. Bush had actually signed the veto before the legislation was even finished. He made his public denouncement of the bill at about the same time it was receiving final approval.

Bush's decisions have for the most part killed any chances for tax legislation this year. Now the middle class and other beneficiaries of the tax proposals are left hanging until at least the November general elections.

Congress had proposed a tax break for the middle class. For the next two years, taxpayers with incomes of $50,000 or less would have received a $300-per-couple tax cut. The credit would decrease proportionately with rising income and would disappear at the $70,000-plus income level.

Then in 1994, the tax credits would have become further restricted with those earning less than $70,000 receiving an annual $300 tax credit for each dependent child under 16.

These cuts would be paid for by the upper class, which is why Bush vetoed the bill. Democrats said the legislation would have benefited nearly 75 percent of the population by creating a fourth tax bracket at 36 percent. Currently the highest rate is 31 percent. In addition there would have been a 10 percent surcharge on yearly incomes of $1 million and more.

The proposal would have raised nearly $60 billion during a five year period, and would have hit the richest 1 percent with the highest tax increases. But the long hours of work composing the bill went for naught as partisan politics made any compromises between Bush and Democrats an impossibility.

Bush's own version which was deemed unacceptable by Congress focused on cutting taxes for businesses and investors. Eventually some of Bush's ideas filtered into the Democratic plan, capital gains tax reductions and new business incentives to spur economic recovery, but not enough for an agreement to be reached.

Taxpayers are tired of being an audience to the political shows in Washington, D.C. Both sides need to swallow some pride and sit down at the negotiating table. Using the population as a campaign tool cannot be tolerated.

As anti-incumbent sentiment mounts across the country, both Bush and Democratic leaders had best confine their political hair pulling and join forces. The problems of the economy are not a Democratic or Republican problem. They are a national problem. The veto debate only has provided politicians with mudslinging ammunition for the general election; further showing how leaders continually put partisan politics ahead of what is good for the nation.

This is in response to Brian Boyer's March 13 letter about international TAs' "annoying twists" on the English language. This one is for you, Mr. Boyer: I have always felt that people like you are too closed-minded to communicate with other nationalities. We, the foreign TAs, do not have wrong accents or pronunciations. They are just not like yours. And they don't have to be.

Your slander also comes from your ignorance. Do you know how many ways people speak English, Spanish, Bengali or Chinese? You'd be shocked if you knew. Even in America, African-Americans' English accent is different from European-Americans', and Southerners' accents are different from New Yorkers'. Would you call them all connotations?

You should also know that foreign TAs here do have to pass a comprehensive oral examination before they are allowed to teach. Go tell the administration they are not doing their job.

Let me answer your question on why there are so few Americans and so many foreign TAs on campus.

One reason is that those foreigners out compete Americans in the selection process. The other reason is that average American students' abhor graduate school. Higher education is not important to them. Money is.

You can hellraise your "buy American, hire American" slogan. But without hiring foreign TAs, American universities will crumble. Classes won't go.

Finally a word of wisdom for you. English is not "your" language. It's a British language internationalized at gunpoint. However, many foreigners like me have grown to like it.

If you claim ownership of English and accuse others of "misusing" it, then you should not read the paper, count numbers, or wear anything. Because, paper, numbers, and fibers all originally belonged to somebody else. You were allowed to use or misuse them.—Partha Banerjee, doctoral student, plant biology.

Generalizing slights foreign TAs

Brain Boyer's grievance is quite valid, but the tone of his letter is chauvinistic. Though some foreign TAs are not adept at English, it is unfair to say that all of them do not care for "our language."

The English language has spread far and wide and it is spoken beyond the borders of its native Anglo-Saxon confines. Boyer lumps all foreigners together while bemoaning their disinclination to improve their language skills. Students from the Indian subcontinent and the Middle East and Europe generally speak good English which is comprehensible to the native English speaker.

I have a score of 710 out of 800 in the verbal portion of the Graduate Record Examination. Very few Americans are able to do better than that. In spite of my GRE score, SIU demanded that I pass the Test of English as a Foreign Language.

I taught thermo-dynamics for one semester and I frequently asked my students if I spoke intelligibly; they had no complaints. Most of my fellow international students can talk comprehensibly in the language Shakespeare and Milton enriched so much.

Mr. Boyer, however, generalizes about us in a cavalier manner. It is true that his petulant comments have some basis and something should be done about this problem. It is not possible to find American teaching assistants in engineering or science departments, because few Americans opt for the overworked and underpaid life of a graduate student in these departments.

Unless some country launches a Sputnik, as Russia did in 1957, Americans will not rush to get a graduate education in a scientific field. Till then, American universities have to make do with these "damned foreigners."—Sundar Narayan, doctoral student, mechanical engineering.

SIUC bias for foreign workers includes faculty

I am writing in support of Bren Adams' letter on March 25. This bias of the University toward foreign grad students is matched with a bias toward foreign faculty.

The administration-selected faculty who wrote the 21st Century Plan clearly support more foreign faculty. The emphasis on making SIU an international institution and the proposed requirement that faculty be multilingual clearly will mean more foreign faculty in the future.

The current hiring practices of the administration appear to me to favor the hiring of foreign faculty over an American-born candidate. The administration can find support for faculty who are born in this country. The merit salary, promotion, and tenure decisions are biased toward faculty from other countries.

If Mr. Adams feels that there is a chance that the administration will wake up to this someday, then I am afraid that he is dreaming. I have already formally complained of what I believe to be deliberate discrimination, but my recent complaints have been totally ignored. The Vice President for Academic Affairs would not even respond to my complaint and so far after over a month, President Guyon has not responded to my appeal. These complaints were formally made in writing and the administration has totally ignored them. From previous experience I know that the Board of Trustees will never respond to a faculty complaint.

It appears to me that discrimination in favor of foreign students and faculty is not only accepted but is the formal policy of the administration.—Joseph Thomas Masden, associate professor, physics.

Bush shrugged off Buchanan's numbers, which have dropped since the New Hampshire primary.

program.

"I say Bill Clinton is really the spoiler, because as they said last night, half the people don't believe his integrity and honesty. And if this man gets the nomination, it's all over. It's George Bush by a landslide."

Brown also said his campaign is not only picking up momentum, it is bringing in money, adding that his "800" phone number is bringing in about $100,000 a day.

Speaking to a rally of 1,200 labor leaders in Philadelphia, where Brown announced his candidacy last fall, the former governor pushed a program of getting the country back to work.

Brown said if Germany can export cars, pay workers $22 an hour and have national health care, "There's no reason we can't do it."

year, ranking Illinois 28th in the country, said Ross Hodel, executive director of the Illinois Board of Higher Education.

Nowlan said after studying the state budget he found actions officials could take to increase revenue or save money without reducing access to higher education.

"One of those categories is to charge for state services on an ability to pay," he said. "That would mean shifting tuition from the present flat rate to a higher rate."

Nowlan has presented the first draft of his new approach to budgeting to ITP's Board of Trustees.

If Nowlan's approach is approved, the increase in tuition and fees would generate $300 million for the state, while the financial aid assistance increase would generate an extra $200 million for college students.

Nowlan also is in favor of eliminating programs such as support for county and state fairs and reducing programs for business and economic development.

"Increasing user fees, closing state parks or charging a fee for visits to historical parks are some options," he said. "Not all state programs would be affected—I'm just trying to come up with an approach to balance our budget."

Tom Wallace, president of Illinois State University, agrees

After meeting with Brown, Cuomo brushed off questions about a late entry as a candidate in the event of a deadlocked convention. "I don't believe that is a plausible ... scenario," Cuomo said.

New York and Pennsylvania are the next big primary battlegrounds. The Empire State, along with Wisconsin and Kansas, holds its primary April 7 while Pennsylvania's is on April 28.

Clinton got some good news from polls released in the two big states Wednesday.

He led Bush 46 percent to 40 percent according to a Pennsylvania poll of 1,029 registered voters conducted for the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette and WTAE-TV. Bush beat Brown 46 percent to 36 percent.

with Nowlan's idea of raising tuition and increasing financial aid. "We're trying to get this matter discussed by other universities," he said. "We don't think there's going to be a lot of tax money around so we want to help lower-income families."

It costs $7,070 a year to attend ISU, and the average student's family income is $58,000. Forty-two percent of students do not need financial aid, Wallace said.

Universities are becoming places for the elite, Wallace said.

"Lower-income families are being forced to send their children to junior colleges, while students from higher-income families are attending universities," he said.

ISU's model involves increasing tuition $600 a year and putting 30 percent of the money in financial aid. A student whose family income is $30,000 a year or less would see no tuition increase, Wallace said.

Universities in Minnesota, California and Washington have adopted this type of proposal.

Wallace said Illinois universities need to take action before the state's educational situation becomes worse.

"We're becoming unaffordable, elitist—that's not what higher education is all about," he said.

SIUC President John Guyon said he was not aware of the Illinois Taxpayer's Federation's proposal and did not wish to comment.

The 44-year-old Cook County Recorder of Deeds defeated Dixon in the St. Patrick's day primary by a margin of 43,101 votes.

Braun won 38 percent of the Democratic vote, with Dixon receiving 35 percent and Hofeld garnering 27 percent.

Braun will face Republican Richard Williamson, a Chicago lawyer recruited by the GOP because no Republican wanted to face Dixon.

Dixon won his last term as U.S. Senator with 65 percent of the vote, a victory margin of 980,133 votes with the greatest plurality for that office in a off-year election in the history of the state.

Dixon's many accomplishments in the senate include being elected as the chief deputy whip, the number three leadership position in the U.S. Senate.

"We will miss him," said Sen. Paul Simon, D-Makanda. "I did everything I could for him but now I will do everything I can do for Carol Moseley Braun to get her elected to the U.S. Senate."

Dixon also has held positions on the Banking, Housing and Urban Affairs Committee and the Armed Services Committee, the Small Business Committee and the Agriculture, Nutrition and Forestry Committee. Dixon was the chairman for the Armed Services Subcommittee on Readiness.

Dixon's legislative successes include passage of laws to help small business, legislation requiring the Department of Agriculture to publish estimates of net farm income statistics, amendments to limit the use of agricultural embargoes and ensuring contract sanctity in foreign trade agreements.

Simon, who campaigned for Dixon before the primary, said Dixon's service to the state could not be overlooked.

"He has contributed to the state of Illinois in so many ways," Simon said. "I think he will be missed but I also think Carol Moseley Braun has a lot to contribute to this state and I will do everything I can to get her elected to the senate."

Other than being a U.S. Senator, Dixon has served six terms in the in the Illinois House of Representatives. After his time in the house, Dixon was elected state treasurer in 1970 and served in that position for seven years. In 1976 he was elected Illinois Secretary of State by a margin of 1.3 million votes.

Dixon graduated from the University of Illinois and holds a law degree from Washington University in St. Louis.

Atlantis astronauts chart auroras, chat with Belgian prince, students

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) — The Atlantis astronauts, sailing over shimmering rivers of light, charted spectacular auroras and the subtle glow of the atmosphere Wednesday, taking time to chat with a Belgian prince and students in Canada and Britain.

In one television shot from space, a low-light-level camera was used to film the subtle, hard-to-detect glow produced by Atlantis's passage through tenuous clouds of charged particles in the extreme upper atmosphere.

Later, astronauts David Leestma and Kathryn Sullivan talked with students in Britain and Canada as part of an ongoing amateur radio experiment. Later in the flight, the crew hopes to talk with cosmonauts aboard the Russian space station Mir.

Adding to the international flavor of the globe-spanning mission,

Prince Philippe of Belgium called the astronauts during a visit to the Marshall Space Flight Center in Huntsville, Ala., to talk with countryman Dirk Frimout, the first Belgian to fly in space.

"It was beautiful to see your launch yesterday," the prince radioed, looking in on the astronauts via television from orbit. "I was very happy to be able to attend it. And congratulations for this beautiful procedure."

Commander Charles Bolden replied, "Thank you very much, your highness. We're very pleased and proud to have a representative of your country here."

Frimout, 51, Leestma, 42, Bolden, 45, Sullivan, 40, co-pilot Brian Duffy, 38, Michael Foale, 35, and civilian researcher Byron Lichtenberg, 44, are working around the clock in two 12-hour shifts to study Earth's atmosphere in unprecedented detail.

For Lichtenberg, who first flew in space in 1983, the atmosphere is visually dirtier now than it was then.

"Dave and I were just remarking about how much dirtier and less clear and hazy the atmosphere looks," he said. "It's been about 8.5 years since I've flown and from what I can remember it's much less clear now than it was then."

Mounted in Atlantis's cargo bay are 13 instruments provided by the United States, Belgium, France, Germany, Switzerland, the Netherlands and Japan.

Chicago radio station guilty of age bias in firing of three

CHICAGO (UPI) — A radio station that fired three announcers in their 50s and 60s when it changed from a beautiful music to an easy listening format is guilty of age bias, a federal appeals court has ruled.

A three-judge panel of the 7th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, in a recent ruling, upheld a jury verdict awarding damages to former WLOO announcers Jack Taylor, Ralph Rowland and Lyndon Adams, in their 50s and 60s.

The three were among six announcers fired in March 1988 when the Chicago station made the format change, also changing its call letters to WXEZ. The call letter, since have been changed to WPNT.

A lower court refused to rule in favor of one of the remaining three and the other two dropped out of the case.

The three-judge panel rejected arguments of the radio station that the style of the three was the reason they were fired, not their age.

SPC Coffee House offers chance for artistic stimulation, relaxation

By William Ragan
Entertainment Writer

The Student Programming Council's Coffee House offers artistic stimulation without the caffeine, but patrons may have to stay on their toes to keep up with its sporadic schedule.

The Coffee House refuses to die because it offers an outlet for aspiring poets, writers, artists, actors and musicians to take the spotlight in a relaxed, pressure-free environment.

SPC presents the Coffee House every other Thursday, but students often wonder which Thursday the event falls on, especially after disruptions in the normal flow of classes, such as the recent Spring Break.

However, the Coffee House seems to have finally fallen into a regular schedule. The next Coffee House will be held Thursday, April 2 from 8 to 10:45 p.m., nestled in the comfortable confines of the Big Muddy Room in the Student Center. The program will feature the Student Theater Guild.

The Coffee House will return to the Big Muddy room on April 9 with a program coordinated with Gays, Lesbians, Bisexuals and Friends featuring acoustic musician Anne Chamberlain and Robin Anderson.

The April 23 program will feature Acoustic Cucumbers, a local blues-influenced musical group.

Paul Haynes, chairman of SPC's Fine Arts committee said students are often surprised at how easy it is to perform at the Coffee House. All it takes is a phone call.

"A lot of students don't realize the Coffee House is for everyone," Haynes said. "We wait for people interested in performing to call us."

The open-minded attitude toward the performing arts the Coffee House promotes ensures a broad range of entertainment, from groups such as the Dorian Brothers and The Blue Impressions Quintet, who rarely perform elsewhere, to manic poets acting out their work.

The Coffee House opens with an hour of open mike where anyone is invited to read poetry, perform spontaneous skits or just make loud animal noises into the microphone.

SPC absorbs the cost of the event through student funding, so patrons can enjoy live entertainment, coffee and tea free of charge.

The Coffee House came into existence as "The Coffee Condo" in fall 1986. The event was sponsored by SPC Fine Arts and the Mid-America Peace Project, but folded at the end of the semester.

The Student Theater Guild, under the direction of Mark Purchin, breathed new life into the Coffee House, but understood early on that they needed some help to bring the project to fruition.

Purchin contacted Don Castle, assistant coordinator for SPC. SPC assisted the guild with scheduling and promotion, eventually taking over the project altogether.

In the past, patrons of the Coffee House often had to be prodded to get on stage and perform, but that attitude is changing, Haynes said.

"Open mike is starting to gain popularity," he said. "Students can perform to a small group of people and do their thing."

Haynes said the committee is trying to retain the purpose of the event, which was often forgotten by previous committee members.

"Some of the past chairpeople had lost the mission of the Coffee House, which was to provide a forum for students and faculty to display their talents," he said.

"Past chairs programmed rock bands. It started to become an amateur rock night. To a certain extent they lost the fine arts focus. We're trying to bring that focus back," Haynes said.

Plaza Records deals in resale of CDs, tapes

By Ronn Byrd
Entertainment Writer

Plaza Records owner Kim Curlee said large music chains such as Disc Jockey and Camelot have thrown smaller music businesses' records into a downward spin.

"It used to be new music was available to me at the same price as anyone else," Curlee said. "From there I would determine the price I wanted to sell it at, but now it's different. The chain stores pay less for their new music because they buy in such volume."

Plaza Records, a music resale store that also deals in new releases, buys CDs, cassettes and LPs—new or used—or gives credit toward trade for titles in their store.

Curlee said the preferential dealing with music chains does two things for the smaller businessman.

First the pricing structure is unbalanced and it works against the smaller businessman. Second, it gives the chains the highest visibility in the United States.

"The chains have the most customers, but they have the most expensive prices," Curlee said. "They have a better chance of selling, while I have to work harder to keep above water."

Despite this disadvantage, Curlee said the resale of used CDs and cassettes is a booming business the national chains would enter if they could.

"They don't know the market and the value of the used music," he said. "You have to know what you're doing, and have to know what to take and what not to."

Plaza, on the average, buys CDs for under $5 and tapes for around $1. A higher dollar value is given toward trades which they deduct from the sale price or purchases made in their store.

Used CDs sell for about $8 and tapes usually go for $4.

Curlee said he takes four things into consideration when buying or trading a used CD or cassette: the artist's popularity, the work's title, the CD's or cassette's condition and the music's demand.

"For example, we can never keep Pink Floyd's 'Dark Side of the Moon' because there is a huge demand for it," Curlee said. "It's a kind of strange dichotomy between the stuff you can't get enough of and the stuff you don't need."

Plaza tries to keep records of customers who sell their CDs and tapes.

Curlee said this is only to protect himself from those who steal CDs or tapes and try to sell them off.

"A typical scenario is that first, we get all the information on a person," Curlee said. "We put the stuff out. A week later the cops come in looking for certain titles reported as stolen. In fact they find them here, we're the ones who are out. That's why we ask for so much identification."

Two area women to debate at SIUC over abortion issue

A former abortion clinic operator and a local women's rights advocate will argue on abortion and abortion legislation at 7 p.m. tonight in the auditorium of the Lesar Law Building.

Carol N. Everett who operated abortion clinics in Texas from 1977 to 1983, but now campaigns against the procedure, will argue against abortion in a debate with Cass VanDerMeer, a Southern Illinois pro-choice activist.

Everett said she became an abortion clinic operator after she had an abortion in 1973. She said she suffered post-abortion trauma.

VanDerMeer is president of the Shawnee Chapter of the National Organization of Women and serves as coordinator of the Carbondale Women's Center.

alternative to the loud, rock-oriented entertainment that the bars provide, he said.

"The Coffee House is a laid-back atmosphere, with more crowd participation," Haynes said. "It's a non alcoholic atmosphere, and it's free."

In the future, the Fine Arts committee plans to hold the event weekly to avoid confusion. Haynes said he is planning on booking an entire semester in advance and printing a poster with the dates and entertainment on it.

PRINCIPLES of SOUND RETIREMENT INVESTING

WHY YOU SHOULD START PLANNING FOR RETIREMENT WITH YOUR EYES CLOSED.

For retirement to be the time of your life, you have to dream a little—about the things you've always wanted to do: travel, explore, start a business. Just imagine...

With a dream and a plan, you can make it happen. Your pension and Social Security should provide a good basic retirement income, but what about all those extras that make your dreams possible? You'll probably need some additional savings.

THE DREAM IS YOUR OWN.
WE CAN HELP YOU WITH THE PLAN.

TIAA-CREF Supplemental Retirement Annuities (SRAs), tax-deferred annuities for people like you in education and research, are a good way to save for retirement and save on taxes now. SRAs are easy—you make contributions through your institution before your taxes are calculated, so you pay less tax now.

You pay no tax on your SRA contributions and earnings until you receive them as income. And saving regularly means your contributions and their earnings can add up quickly.

Ensuring the future
for those who shape it.™

What else makes SRAs so special? A broad range of allocation choices, from the safety of TIAA to the investment accounts of CREF's variable annuity; no sales charges; a variety of ways to receive income, including annuities, payments over a fixed period, or cash. You may also be able to borrow against your SRA accumulation before you retire.

All this, plus the top investment management that has helped make TIAA-CREF the largest retirement system in the country.

So start dreaming and planning for the time of your life. Because the sooner you start your SRA, the greater your savings and your retirement will be.

START PLANNING FOR THE TIME OF YOUR LIFE, TODAY.

Performers to tell story of Gospels in traditional way at local church

By Sherri L. Wilcox
General Assignment Writer

Costumes and dramatic lighting will merge with the words of the Bible as two men give voice and form to the Gospel of Mark in a performance at 7 p.m. March 31 at the Church of Saint Francis Xavier.

Michael Reardon has memorized the four Gospels of Matthew, Mark, Luke and John and performs them as his full-time work with the help of Patrick Lane, a director and lighting artist. "I spent about three years learning the gospels," Reardon said. "We started performing them in 1980."

The two men have taken their performances to more than 500 cities in the United States as well as to Canada, Japan, Hong Kong, China, Israel and across Europe.

They have performed in Rome in the Vatican City and at the Biblical Institute of the Gregorian University.

Reardon said he began the project because he was intrigued at the idea of having the whole gospel read at once, not split up and pulled apart.

"I believe the whole story should be told, not just read," he said. "Many years ago, hearing it was how the story was passed on because many people were illiterate."

While the proclamations of the Gospels have been highly dramatized, Reardon and Lane had no formal education or training in theater.

"We both come from computer background," Reardon said. "We feel that now we are involved in a higher form of word-processing."

While the two men perform each of the gospels, Reardon said the Gospel of Mark is his favorite.

"Mark is like Gospel 101, it was the first, and a basis for the others," he said. "It is also an action gospel, which makes it move fast. There is a lot of feeling in it—humor, anger, sadness, sarcasm—there is a natural flow of acting it out and it seems to come to life on stage."

At the end of the gospel of Mark, there is a part where the women at the tomb are told to "go and tell" about what they have seen," Reardon said.

"That is what we feel we are doing," he said. "We go travel across the world and tell the gospel to people."

Roger Petrich of the Church of Saint Xavier said he is extremely excited about Reardon and Lane's performance because he has been trying to get them to come to Carbondale for the past three years.

"I had seen a performance in Oklahoma City several years back, and it was very engaging," he said. "I was quite taken with just hearing the story. He is a good storyteller."

Although the performance lasts about two hours, The time files by, Petrich said.

"You get a sense of the motion as the story unfolds," he said. "It is wonderful."

Petrich finally made the connection with Reardon and Lane when he found out they would be touring in Ohio and Kentucky.

"When I asked him (Reardon) to stop here to perform he asked me if Carbondale was on the way back to Oklahoma," he said. "I said yes."

Reardon said one problem he encountered with presenting the gospels was the portrayal of Jesus Christ.

"Everyone has their own idea of Jesus," he said. "I have to try to keep my acting as neutral as possible so people can sort of close their eyes and see their image of Jesus, but I can still dramatize and make the story flow."

Illinois' homeless may earn chance to vote in future

CHICAGO (UPI) — People who are homeless may have lost just about everything else but they should not lose their right to vote, politicians and homeless rights groups said Wednesday.

Rep. Jan Schakowsky, D-Evanston and Cook County Clerk David Orr joined the Illinois Coalition to End Homelessness in announcing the legislation that would allow people to use a park bench, spot under a bridge or a shelter as a place of residence from which to register to vote.

The legislation, already written and to be formally introduced in the General Assembly next week, would be the first homeless voting rights initiative in the United States, said Brian Hopkins, a spokesman for the ICEH.

"We've been working with the National Coalition for the Homeless," Hopkins said. "They've launched a nationwide initiative, You Don't Need a Home to Vote."

"We are the first state to propose such legislation."

"When a person becomes homeless, they lose nearly everything. But they should never lose their right to vote," said Carol Moschandreass, a board member of the Illinois group and a shelter operator.

There are an estimated 100,000 homeless people in Illinois and election officials already may petition to allow such people to vote, Orr said.

But he said the rules and procedures should be made law.

"People who have lost their homes should not be barred from participation in their government because they have fallen on hard times," Orr said.

The measure sponsored by Schakowsky would allow non-traditional residences to be used to register to vote.

Homeless people would be required to sign an oath that places like park benches or the underside of bridges is where the live.

They also would have to supply an address where mail can be delivered.

Redeker, Rougeau, Firth and junior point guard Anita Scott started all 30 games for SIUC this season. The fifth spot was split between junior Tiffany Bo'den and freshman, Rocky Ransom.

Redeker, a conference honorable mention selection, led the team in shooting from 3-point land this season. She was ranked as high as No. 6 nationally in 3-point field goal percentage this season and was the first SIUC player to be ranked nationally in this category.

Redeker, who averaged 11.3 points a game, now holds seven of nine records in 3-point shooting, including 161 treys made and 429 attempts. On Feb. 6, she made seven of eight treys setting a single-season record for percentage of 3-point shots made.

Cindy Scott said she expects four seniors to lead the team next year.

"The key thing for next year is that we have four returning starters," Scott said. "We could have the best team we've ever had."

Anita Scott, an all-conference first team pick, led SIUC in scoring, averaging 13.6 points a game, and assists, averaging 4.6 a game. She also led the team in steals and minutes played. In the Gateway, Scott was No. 3 in assists and No. 10 in steals. Her total assists, 139, ranks fourth for SIUC all-time single-season.

Firth, also an all-conference first team pick, led SIUC in field goal percentage making 56.3 percent of her shots. She averaged 12.3 points a game and 9.7 rebounds. She had a team-high 14 double-doubles, and she also led the team with a 74.8 free throw percent.

Rougeau, who averaged 12.2 points a game, has notched double digits in nine of the last 11 games. She had a career-high 26 points, seven rebounds, five steals and two blocks against Colorado in the NCAA.

Bolden, who averaged 7.5 points and 5.1 rebounds a game this season, sizzled in the last final games of the season. She has split time with Ransom all season at forward. Against Illinois State, SMSU, and Colorado, Bolden averaged 21.3 points and 10.3 rebounds.

78-77-73 for a score of 228.

But Hartzog said overall the team was flat and played poorly.

He said after the first day the team was in 13th place but moved into sixth place the second day on the play of Leckrone, English and Seibal.

"I was quite pleased with the second day performance," Hartzog said.

Freshman Mike Dailing said the team was tired because it played every day of spring break, and the fatigue led to inconsistency.

"Had we played well all three days we would have finished in a higher place," Dailing said.

The Salukis have a young team that is composed of mostly freshmen and sophomores. They will only lose two members next year.

Hartzog said the team will get stronger from the play of young team members such as sophomores Chris Pytell and Steve Keeler and freshman Mike Mason.

Often the problem with most young players is that they try too hard and consequently ruin their scores. The younger players usually become more relaxed as the season goes on, Hartzog said.

Hartzog said he will count on team captain Leckrone to provide leadership to the young golfers on the team. Leckrone is one of the Missouri Valley Conference's premiere players.

He is a three time all-MVC selection and he could become the first four-time selection in MVC league history. Last season Leckrone led the Salukis with a 75.8 average and qualified for the NCAA Central Regional.

Friday and Saturday the Salukis will play in the Oak Meadow Intercollegiate Championship. Twelve schools will compete at the Oak Meadow Golf Club in Evansville, Ind.
