Students find bills taxing at Grocery

By JoDe Rimar
Staff Writer

Don't be fooled by its name. The Grocery in the Student Center is not a grocery at all. It's a restaurant.

How can you tell?

If you check your receipt, as one customer did, you might have discovered that The Grocery charges 6.25 percent tax on all items, unlike a grocery store, which charges 1 percent on all nonprepared food items.

The Grocery is taxed and licensed as an eating establishment, said Bill Egan, director of Food Services. Eating establishments are required by Illinois law to charge 6.25 percent on the food they sell, as opposed to grocery stores which can charge 1 percent on non-prepared food items.

Since The Grocery is taxed and licensed as an eating establishment, it also is charged 6.25 percent sales tax on the food it buys, Egan said.

Nonprepared food items are foods which don't need to be prepared before they're consumed such as potato chips, juice or soda.

Since the majority of food in The Grocery is nonprepared, it's no wonder that one perceptive customer wondered why he was being charged 6.25 percent sales tax and called the Daily Egyptian.

One factor which distinguishes a grocery store from a restaurant is the serving size of the items sold, said Archie Lawrence, attorney for the Illinois Department of Revenue. If an establishment sells a majority of single-serving food items, the establishment is considered to be a restaurant or snack bar and is subject to the higher sales tax.

Since most of the items sold in The Grocery are single-serving foods, the store is required to charge a higher sales tax.

The Grocery, which along with two restaurant across the hall is run by Marriott Corporation, is across from the Roman Room in the Student Center. The Roman Room provides plenty of seats for customers to sit and eat, Egan said, which is another criteria that establishes The Grocery as an "eating establishment" as opposed to a grocery.

Rumors of Korean president's death untrue

SEOUL, South Korea (UPI) — North Korean President Kim Il-Sung, laying to rest rumors he had been assassinated, greeted visiting Mongolian leader Jambyn Batmonh Tuesday in the North Korean capital of Pyongyang, news reports said.

Kim's appearance was his first since reports began circulating over the weekend that he had been assassinated or was involved in a power struggle.

Early Monday, the South Korean Defense Ministry reported that Kim, 74, had been shot to death, quoting what it said was an announcement broadcast by the North Korean military along

Kim's dream to unite Koreans unfulfilled

By United Press International

North Korean President Kim Il-sung took power in the northern half of the divided Korean peninsula in 1945 and led it through the 1950-53 Korean War against South Korea and the United States.

Asia's most durable leader and the world's longest ruling communist leader, Kim's ambition to unite the two Koreas under communist rule remains unfulfilled. He has bitterly regarded the United States as his worst enemy.

Kim, who rose to power at the end of World War II, was the focal point of one of the most intense personality cults in the entire communist bloc. North Korea's 19.6 million people were trained to regard him as a father figure and a demigod.

He has held the titles of president, commander in chief of the armed forces and chairman of the Korean Workers Party, North Korea's version of the Communist Party.

His birthplace near the capital of Pyongyang was made a national shrine.

the 155-mile Demilitarized Zone separating the two nations.

"Korean leader Kim Il-Sung this morning greeted leader of the Mongolian People's Revolutionary Party Jambyn Batmonh at the Pyongyang airport upon his arrival to begin an official visit," China's official Xinhua News Agency said in a one-paragraph report from the North Korean capital.

The official (North) Korean Central News Agency, monitored in Tokyo, reported, "Comrade Kim Il-Sung went out to the airport and warmly met Comrade Jambyn Batmonh."

Choe Kwan Ik, spokesman for the General Association of Korean Residents in Japan, said the North Korean reports proved Kim was alive.

Choe had denounced the report as a South Korean plot and said North Korea was treating the report as a South Korean "demagogic plot ... You will notice that Seoul is the only source of the information."

Seoul officials did not have any immediate comment on reports that Kim greeted Batmonh.

Violations net Gatsby's two-day suspension

By John Baldwin
Staff Writer

Gatsby's Billiards, 608 S. Illinois Ave., will have its liquor license suspended on Dec. 3 and 4, Wednesday and Thursday, as a result of a violation of city liquor ordinances, the Liquor Commission ruled Monday.

Guice G. Strong, representing JFW Enterprises Inc., owners of Gatsby's, entered a plea of guilty to the commission and offered to pay a $2,000 fine, which was the recommendation to the commission by specially contracted assistant city attorney Sara Nierste.

But the commission, on a 3-to-1 vote, chose instead to impose the two-day suspension.

Gatsby's owners were charged with allowing a 17-year-old woman to enter the bar on Sept. 19. She was found holding a pitcher of beer, Nierste said, and pleaded guilty to violating city liquor ordinances.

Commissioner Keith Tuxen preferred a fine to the suspension because the violation was the result of a customer's deception, he said. Some reports say the woman showed Gatsby's door checkers another person's identification card, indicating the woman was 22 years old.

Strong told the commission that the staff at Gatsby's was negligent and that was why they were pleading guilty.

He said the door checkers probably should have checked the picture on the identification card more closely.

But, he said: "This was not an intentional act. This is not a bartender or a waitress serving someone who they knew

Lebanese terror group to release French hostage

PARIS (UPI) — The Lebanese extremist group Revolutionary Justice Organization announced Monday the imminent release of a French diplomat held hostage since March 1985, French television said. The announcement came hours after the Foreign Ministry said France and Iran had signed an agreement for France to pay back $330 million loaned by Tehran before the 1979 Islamic revolution.

Defense lawyer seeks meeting with Hasenfus

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (UPI) — A defense lawyer for American mercenary Eugene Hasenfus, sentenced to 30 years in jail for running guns to U.S.-backed rebels, Monday sought a meeting with his client to discuss a possible appeal. Hasenfus, a former U.S. Marine from Marinette, Wis., has told the pro-government court he will appeal. But he was denied a request to consult his Nicaraguan lawyer, Enrique Sotelo Borgen, before deciding.

Waite says U.S.-Iran deal hurt hostage aims

LONDON (UPI) — Church of England envoy Terry Waite, sitting beside three freed American hostages, said Monday reports of a U.S. arms deal with Iran have "done immense harm" to his efforts to free other hostages in Lebanon. "I have valuable and reliable contacts within the Shiite community in Beirut," Waite told a news conference. "The speculation of the past week has meant that, quite understandably, many of them have now gone underground and they may not surface again."

Argentina proposes cessation of hostilities

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (UPI) — Argentina proposed a formal cessation of hostilities with Britain Monday as a conciliatory gesture prior to reopening negotiations over the disputed Falkland Islands. A Foreign Ministry statement said the permanent cease-fire would be offered in exchange for eliminating the 150-mile-British "protection zone" around the islands from which Argentine ships and aircraft have been barred since the 1962 Falkland Islands conflict.

Nicaraguan official urges U.S. to negotiate

ATLANTA (UPI) — Nicaraguan Vice President Sergio Ramirez called for negotiations Monday with the Reagan administration and warned that if fighting by U.S.-backed rebels escalates there will be war with the United States. "Nicaragua shall never be a military platform for any power or superpower on the face of the earth," Ramirez said. "We are proposing a dialogue. Are we asking too much?"

Arab reps discuss secret arms sale to Iran

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Representatives of 16 Arab nations met Monday to discuss their concern over the difference between the administration's arms embargo policy toward Iran and its secret sale of arms to the Tehran government. The representatives of the Arab states met at the Washington office of the Arab League and ended the discussion with an agreement to study the implications of the administration's actions on the Arab world.

Court will weigh war camp damage claims

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court, returning to one of the most controversial cases in its history, agreed Monday to decide whether Japanese-Americans herded into war camps 44 years ago can sue the government for damages. The justices will hear arguments early next year in the administration's appeal of a lower court ruling that enabled World War II internment camp survivors — who number about 60,000 — to seek compensation for violation of their constitutional rights.

Police arrest 15 CIA recruitment protesters

BOULDER, Colo. (UPI) — Police arrested 15 people on the University of Colorado campus Monday as officers using nightsticks and Mace scuffled with hundreds of demonstrators trying to stop student recruitment by the Central Intelligence Agency. More than 300 people took part in the demonstrations, staged outside the university Events Center where CIA recruiters interviewed 83 students.

"Established Service You Can Depend On"

Service groups face cuts

By John Baldwin
Staff Writer

The deadline for social service organizations to request funding from the city is noon Jan. 12, although large cuts may be made in the amount of funding available.

The city used about $20,000 last year, from the $500,000 it received in federal revenue sharing funds, to fund social service programs, but the federal government eliminated federal revenue sharing funds.

Last year the city used about $37,000 from its general fund for social service programs in addition to the $20,000 in revenue sharing funds.

"I don't know how much money will be allocated by the City Council (for social service programs)," said Don Monty, director of community development, in a telephone interview Monday.

He declined to speculate on whether there would be cuts in the amount of funding available.

The City Council has not yet discussed the matter, he said.

"The city is going to have to adjust to the loss of revenue sharing," he said.

Since all of the city's revenue sharing funds was eliminated, Monty said, the city is going to need to work hard to keep within budget limits.

Although the city has denied funding requests to organizations not already being funded by the city because of cutbacks, that should not be the only criterion for requesting funds, Monty said.

If an organization can show it needs the money to provide an important service not currently provided to the community the city council may consider providing funds, he said.

Programs currently funded by the city include the Council on Problems for the Aged, $21,150; Women's Center, $7,500; Youth Services Program of the Jackson County Community Health Center, $2,805, and the Attucks Community Services Board, $25,313.

Assassins shoot Renault president

PARIS (UPI) — The president of the French automaker Renault was shot and killed Monday night by a young couple who jumped from a motorcycle and shot the industrialist after his chauffeur dropped him off at his Paris apartment, police said.

Police suspected that the leftist French terrorist group Direct Action was responsible for the assassination of Georges Besse, 58, who is credited with the financial turnaround of the state-owned automaker — the nation's largest — since he took over in January 1985.

A CHAUFFEUR who had driven Besse home from Renault headquarters in a Paris suburb had just dropped off the industrialist about 50 yards from his hotel about 8 p.m. (3 p.m. CST) when a young man and a young woman, both dressed in raincoats, rode up on a motorcycle, witnesses told police.

The assassins jumped from the cycle and fired several shots at Besse, hitting him in the head and chest, then ran off, leaving their bike behind, the witnesses said. "We heard four detonations," one neighbor said, while another reported hearing six shots.

ONE WITNESS spoke of a possible third person involved, but police said details of the assassination remained unclear early Tuesday.

"I saw a man and a woman run toward the Boulevard Raspail, as well as a silhouette difficult to identify — I can't say if it was a man or a woman — run in the direction of the Montparnasse Tower," one witness said.

Moments later, one of Besse's five children, a daughter, ran out of the hotel to her father's aid, and was soon followed by other family members, but the industrialist was dead by the time they reached him, police said.

Prime Minister Jacques

Chirac and Defense Minister Andre Giraud rushed to the scene, and were joined by Security Minister Robert Pandraud and Police Commissioner Jean Paolini.

POLICE DREW a chalk line around the body and washed away a pool of blood while a large crowd gathered nearby. Pandraud later chaired a meeting of anti-terrorism officials, but no details were revealed.

The bombing presented a new challenge to the conservative government of Chirac, which came to power in March with a promise to "terrorize the terrorists."

Chirac told French radio he was "horrified by this heinous assassination," and said "nothing can justify or explain this. Such behavior demands that all be done to found and punish those responsible."

Terrorist bombings in Paris linked to two Arab groups have killed 13 people and wounded more than 250 since last December in efforts to free three convicted Middle Eastern terrorists who are being held in French jails.

But the murder of Besse appeared more the work of Direct Action, which is responsible for a series of assassinations of industry leaders, so-called symbols of capitalism, in the last two years, police said.

The salary differences between male and female administrative-professional staff have decreased from a female average salary of 47 percent less than males in 1963 to 26 percent this year. Administrative staff included in these figures exclude coaches, scientists and researchers.

An article in the Nov. 13 Daily Egyptian improperly included these job titles in the administrative-professional staff salary figures.

Star Wars is silly but research isn't

IF YOU WANT TO HOOK UP with a topic of protest, for whatever reason, the trendy object of ire at SIU-C this semester appears to be Star Wars.

Twice this fall there've been protest rallies around the campus' Technical Buildings, principally because two professors there — Stelios Themopoulos and Ramanara Viswanathan — received about $362,000 in grants for Star Wars research.

The protests weren't much in the way of shows. They made some noise, brandished posters with protest slogans, wandered around where they thought they'd draw attention. They said Star Wars didn't have much humanistic value as a research effort.

ON THE SURFACE, IT SEEMS the protesters were right. Why spend money on military-oriented pursuits if it's only purpose is to perpetuate killing people?

But research and its benefits never stay within strict boundaries. Take the space program. We owe our high-tech livelihood to man's unbridled desire to reach the moon.

The Star Wars concept is rather silly but the research isn't. Like the moon program, there's a lot of good that could come out of it.

Star Wars, the title, is trendy too. It's what nearly everyone who isn't an official in the Reagan administration, but has seen the 1977 movie, likes to call the Strategic Defense Initiative, or SDI.

STAR WARS IS PRESIDENT REAGAN'S grand plan that would, in effect, we are told, put an invisible security dome over the United States. The plan, once implemented, is supposed to protect this nation from nuclear destruction via Soviet intercontinental ballistic missiles.

Put simply, laser-armed satellites, ground-based missiles and whatever other weapons we could devise would be used to shoot down incoming Soviet missiles, making us virtually immune to nuclear attack, while, at the same time, rendering the Soviet's nuclear intercontinental war machine ineffective.

Not so simple is how Star Wars is to be assembled. Thousands of research projects and billions of dollars are needed. What's more, once it's all assembled, assuming that it ever is, it won't be one big nuclear-hunting machine. It'll be hundreds of individual machines that must work in unison to be effective.

THE PLAN, HOWEVER, Reagan and his scientists also tell us, won't be 100 percent effective, even without mechanical failure or human error. Some SDI "experts," depending on which of them you talk to, say its effectiveness would be closer to 90 percent, if even that high.

Las Vegas gamblers wouldn't wager with those odds. The percentages don't allow room for us to come out ahead on a bet. Even with all the federal government's good intentions, in the way of protecting its citizens using SDI, nobody would make it through a nuclear exchange unscathed.

A surer bet would be SDI's research benefits.

RESEARCH RELATED TO SPACE TRAVEL yielded such things as personal computers, pocket calculators, better synthetic fabrics, improved food packaging, more fuel efficient automobiles and foot-saving running shoes, to name just a few.

Besides, telling the University what it can or can't research smacks of hypocrisy, which is the same thing most people accuse the federal government of practicing.

Star Wars is supposed to be the most comprehensive research program humans have ever undertaken, surpassing even moon travel. Who knows what kind of benefits the SDI findings could yield?

We'd like to find out.

Quotable Quotes

"I'm gifted, I'm young, I've got the talent. Whatever I need, I've got it. Even modesty." — Former heavyweight boxing champion Larry Holmes on why he won't give up life in the ring.

Letters

Purcell's solution is warped

In his Oct. 28 letter, Thomas Purcell Jr. expressed his anger over bicyclists who ride through pedestrian crosswalks. As a driver, I can appreciate his concerns.

However, Mr. Purcell's "solution" of simply ignoring the presence of a bicycle in the crosswalk and continue driving is rather warped.

Mr. Purcell feels since the bicyclist has no legal right to be in the crosswalk, he has the legal right to hit them. This is ridiculous. A driver is required, legally and morally, to use reasonable caution.

Drivers have no more right to hit a bicyclist in a crosswalk than a farmer has to shoot a trespasser simply because it is the farmer's right to shoot a trespasser on his land and the trespasser has no right to be walking there.

Mr. Purcell also states that, last year, he witnessed the results of an auto and bicycle accident and "felt sorry for the car because it got scratched." Having worked for a number of years in Emergency Medical Services, I, too, have seen the results of a number of these accidents.

One such accident nearly resulted in the death of a 14-year-old boy. The car was traveling under 10 miles-per-hour at the time of impact, considerably slower than the University's speed limit. The fact that the car had the right of way did not lessen the child's injuries in the least.

Mr. Purcell, cars can be repaired; people are not always so fortunate. If you are truly concerned about this matter, I suggest you work to persuade campus police to concentrate on the problem. Anyone who puts their personal convenience above the lives and safety of others should not be allowed to drive. — Douglas Marshall, first year medical student.

How much more must we tolerate?

How much more double-talk and double-standard will the American people tolerate before they stand up and shout "Enough!"?

On the one hand, our administration has been assisting the Marxist government of Mozambique with economic aid and food and criticizes the government of South Africa for supporting rebels who are trying to unseat that government.

But on the other hand, we are trying to "destabilize" the government of Nicaragua because Reagan is convinced it is Marxist! Our country seems to be able to deal routinely with the Communist (Marxist) and Socialist governments of the USSR, China, Portugal, Poland, Yugoslavia and others without raising our national blood pressure.

And although we don't like the Communist Cuban government at our doorstep, it doesn't seem to cause us much trouble. Is this an inconsistency in our policy? Of course it is. It also is a double standard.

The Iceland talks are another example of our administration's less-than-truthful reporting to the American people. Naturally there would be some differences of opinion or interpretation as to exactly what was said and agreed to there.

But why is it that interpretations by our administration as to what happened are presented as "the truth" and all Soviet interpretations are labelled "propaganda"? Even Reagan's several versions of just what he agreed to or didn't agree to were glossed over in the press and in the media.

And now in the last few days we learned the Reagan administration has been selling arms to Iran to free some hostages being held in Lebanon. I thought our policy was not to deal with terrorists, so what if, as seems to be happening, the Iranians and others see this "revolving door" strategy as a way to continue to get all the arms and spare parts they need? All they have to do is make a deal to release one or two hostages in exchange for the military goods they want, then capture other Americans in Lebanon or elsewhere to get more needed supplies.

Americans don't want double-talk and double-standards. The Reagan administration has lied to us about Libya, Iran, Hafesuf and all of our questionable Central American activities...and who knows what else!

If we are to function as intelligent and informed citizens, the American people deserve information, straight answers and policies that make sense and are consistent with our laws. We must let Reagan and the Congress know we want the truth and that our sordid machinations in Central America and Iran and elsewhere should be brought to a halt and investigated by a special prosecutor.

"Disinformation" and propaganda are what one expects from devious governments. Surely the American people deserve better than that from their own government. — David E. Christensen, Carbondale.

Take a straitjacket because parking is a madman's game

By Tom Mangan
Staff Writer

WHEN IT'S 9:54 a.m. and your final project is due in six minutes, you find there are only two kinds of people in the world — those who have found a parking place and those who are looking for one.

You know the first kind — The Finder. The Finder climbs out of his car, 20 yards from where he needs to be with time to spare, and laughs derisively at all poor the suckers — The Seekers — still pensively scouting for the last parking space on campus.

The Finder will hang around in the halls outside class, light a smoke and brag about what a great parking place he found. His companions, most likely a group of war-torn ex-Seekers, usually reply something like, "Wow, some people have all the luck. Can I touch you? maybe some of it rub off."

IN THE PRESENCE of The Finder, The Seeker will never admit he had to park six blocks away, showed up 20 minutes late for the most important test in his college career and is seriously considering entering a Peruvian monastery because it's rumored to have plenty of free parking.

The Seekers secretly want to toss The Finder into a pool of gasoline and offer him a light. They won't, however, because they remember the false admiration they received a few days back when they were the show-off Finders. Some of them may have even landed in a pool of gas, but escaped a fiery end only because the enraged Seekers had forgotten to bring a flame.

Finders are a pretty harmless bunch as long as they don't get too cocky. Seekers are okay too if they become Finders in time to make it to class.

BETWEEN 9 and 11 a.m., however, The Seekers metamorphose into horrible, sub-human creatures who will stop at nothing to find a parking place. If a low-yield nuclear warhead would get them a parking spot within two minutes' walk from class, they'd push the button without blinking.

The experienced Seeker has eyes like a hawk and tracking abilities that would impress a Comanche scout. Pity the unfortunate one who gets out of class early and becomes a Target in a battle zone riddled with sharp-witted Seekers.

The situation usually goes like this: The Target heads toward the parking lot. Within seconds, four or five Seekers have spotted him and start jockeying for position. Each tries to outguess the other and be the first to grab that soon-to-be-vacant spot.

THE TARGET starts feeling like a celebrity and walks up and down a few extra rows just for the fun of it. Lucky for him, the Seekers have left all their hand grenades at home.

Finally, the Target makes it to his car with two to four Seekers in tow. Only one of them will win that precious space between the yellow lines, but none is willing to forfeit it without a fight. Finally, the Target backs out, meanders through the obstacle course of Seekers and goes his merry way.

Typically, the two Seekers who tailed the Target from doorway to doorhandle will be foiled by another Seeker who sneaks in at the last moment while they are busy psyching each other out for that interminable second before the back-up lights come on.

IF YOU EVER sneak in past a couple of those Seekers, be prepared to defend yourself. Seekers who have just been robbed of their quarry can't be expected to act in a rational manner. If you plan on entering the Seekers' domain, better keep a flak jacket handy.

There's one final character who enters the parking lot jungle — let's just call him The Fool. He's the one who forgets his book bag and walks right into the middle of the fray to retrieve the bag and scurry back to class. The above-mentioned scene replays itself with Seekers following The Fool to his car, only to find he has no intention of leaving a vacant slot for the hungry Seekers.

THE PHRASE "pity The Fool" no-doubt was born in the lot north of the Communications Building or the one south of the Tech Building. The Fool has but one saving grace — The Seekers are too busy looking for another Target to waste time retaliating against mere Fools.

You've probably thought your tribulations — whether as Finder, Seeker, Target or Fool — have been wasted, but take heart. If you can't find a job after graduation, the Armed Forces always need brave people with extensive training in jungle warfare.

Death penalty isn't murder

I would like to take this opportunity to congratulate American society and the U.S. judicial system on their recent mood swing concerning the issue of capital punishment.

In the 1960s our society seemed to enter a motherly sort of stage and began treating murderous criminals as little children who just happened to make small mistakes. Consequently, we, as a society, have been subjected to these "mistakes" for more than two decades. The 1980s signaled a change in the attitude of our society. We have been victimized too many times and we are now beginning to fight back.

The weapon we have chosen to fight with is the death penalty. It is intended for those who feel the laws of our land and a code of moral and human decency do not apply to them. Opponents of the death penalty argue it treats members of the human race as non-humans, but I argue that those who are sentenced to death are not qualified or worthy to be called human.

Those who willingly and knowingly commit murderous, violent and sadistic acts of crime are nothing more than dumb animals. There is little question of guilt in the vast majority of murder cases, and as an American, I am proud to see our society controlling the situation and sending murderers to their well-deserved fate.

I realize there will be those who criticize me for my opinions and ask the long debated question, "What makes us civilized if we murder the murderers?" My argument is that capital punishment is not murder, rather it is a justified means of simple extermination of unwanted filth.

In war the enemy must be exterminated through killing, rabid animals must be put to death to prevent them from endangering the population and cold-blooded murderers, who for some ungodly reason commit their hideous crimes, must also be dealt with in the same manner. — Jeff Roberson, senior, Marketing.

Credit Union should get new name

Most patrons of the SIU Employees Credit Union do not know that within the last year their bank has completely disinvested from U.S. Government Securities holdings. In September 1986, Credit Union investments totaled over $1 million. In September 1986 and presently, they are zero.

Talking with a Credit Union spokesman, I was told the reason for disinvestment (a feeble one, in my opinion) was that government securities don't pay high enough interest and that the Credit Union's purchase intentions are to buy only high-paying securities (to treat their customers better).

Besides earnings from employee loan payments, they earn interest from certificates of deposit bought from other banks, an obscure California Savings and Loans, whose means of income is unknown, for instance. Clearly, profit is the main consideration.

The assumption the Credit Union makes is that SIU employees are most concerned with greedy acquisition of funds, no matter where the money comes from. They are very wrong.

Our Credit Union, whose name implies it is affiliated with the State of Illinois, should either act more responsibly or change its name to Greed, Inc. of Carbondale.

From now on, anyone who complains to me about "Reagan's budget deficit" will be talking through their hat unless they can tell me they are doing something about it. If Americans don't invest in America, who will? How many U.S. Savings Bonds do you have? — Linda G. Nelson, Admissions and Records.

Public Works law will fund harbors, waterway plans

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan signed the first comprehensive public works bill in 16 years Monday, significantly changing how harbor and waterway projects are selected and financed by boosting the share paid by state and local authorities.

Although Congress has yet to appropriate any money, the new milestone law authorizes more than 300 projects nationwide at a cost of $16 billion, for which the federal government would pay $3 billion. The Army Corps of Engineers fought for the legislation for five years.

"FOR US, IT'S a very historic moment," Assistant Army Secretary Robert Dawson told a Pentagon news conference. "This is a new era for water resources development. It was our last chance to get a water resources program and we got it in the nick of time."

The Water Resources Development Act, as it is called, marked the first omnibus water projects bill signed into law since 1970.

THE LAW REFORMS the way projects are chosen by requiring state and local governments to foot up to 60 percent of the bill on some civil works programs, "guaranteeing that non-federal interests will play an important role in planning, financing and maintaining" the projects, the Corps of Engineers said.

Until now, the federal government paid nearly the entire cost of waterway projects that largely were chosen by members of Congress seeking to aid their districts.

"THE REFORMS remove the pork barrel epithet that used to be hung around our neck, frequently with much justification," Dawson said. "We do have many challenges ahead to make sure the new law works."

Some of the major changes will come in flood control programs and in commercial navigation projects in which local authorities will have to pay between 25 and 50 percent for the former and up to 60 percent for the latter, a corps spokesman said.

THE LAW ALSO imposes a new user fee on commercial cargo using U.S. harbors and channels, increases the existing inland waterway fuel tax, establishes new cost sharing formulas and authorizes 12 new Corps of Engineers or Interior Department water resource programs. The bill passed after months of negotiations between the House, the Senate and the administration.

DURING THE floor debate, Rep. Thomas Petri, R-Wis., said the bill put "some economic rationality into the process of deciding which water projects to build with our scarce federal dollars."

AMONG OTHERS, the law authorizes 50 navigation, seven inland waterway, 115 flood control, 24 shoreline protection and 61 water resources conservation and development projects. They will cost local authorities $4 billion, the money to come largely from the sale of bonds.

Freed hostage recalls peers' prayers

GARDEN GROVE, Calif. (UPI) — Freed hostage David Jacobsen told a congregation at the glass-walled Crystal Cathedral Sunday that he and his fellow captives prayed daily in a room they called "the church of the locked door."

Speaking at two morning services before flying to London to meet Anglican church envoy Terry Waite and other freed American hostages, Jacobsen recalled the importance of prayer during his 17 months as a captive in Lebanon.

"Every freedom was removed from us except the two most important one — the freedom to think and the freedom to pray," he told more than 3,000 worshippers at the huge, glass-walled cathedral of evangelist Robert Schuller.

The worshippers, wearing yellow ribbons, gave Jacobsen a standing ovation as he sat down on stage next to his sons, Paul and Eric. Hundreds of yellow flowers in front of five American flags served as a backdrop to honor the remaining U.S. hostages in Beirut.

"It is my trust in Christ and my great belief in God that got me home," he said. "I spent the first five to six weeks with chained hands and feet to the floor. There was no exercise, except what we could do in place."

"It was amazing how many push-ups and (how much) running in place I could do. If you have faith you could do anything."

Jacobsen, 55, shared a room with Rev. Benjamin Weir and Rev. Lawrence Jenco, before they were released, and Terry Anderson and Tom Sutherland, both who are still being held by members of the militant Moslem group Islamic Jihad.

He said that twice each day the hostages held services in a small room they humorously dubbed "the church of the locked door."

"I thought only surgery would relieve my back pain."

Then, a friend referred me to his chiropractor. A thorough examination determined my back pain might respond to chiropractic treatment. Now, I'm back at work — and almost pain-free — so there's no need for risky, major back surgery."

Surgery to relieve severe pain should be considered only as a last resort. Many painful conditions of the spine respond to gentle, natural chiropractic care — so the need for surgery is eliminated.

Soviet family returns to America after spending 5 days in USSR

LONDON (UPI) — A Soviet family who spent 10 years in America and returned to the Soviet Union complaining about their "nightmare" life in the United States flew to New York Sunday after undergoing a change of heart.

"I'm looking forward to getting back to America," said Faina Gonta as the family boarded a flight to New York at London's Heathrow Airport.

Mrs. Gonta, her husband David and their two sons, Alexander, 19, and Igor, 14, only spent five days in the Soviet Union before changing their minds and deciding life in America was better.

"Moscow was nice and it would have been good to return to our home town in Moldavia in the Ukraine, but it was obvious from the start that the boys were never going to adjust," she said.

"I AGREE," said her husband David. "We don't regret what happened. We are doing what is best for our boys."

They arrived in London from Moscow Saturday night on their way back to the United States clutching their U.S. passports.

"I would never give these up, I'm too clever," Mrs. Gonta told reporters.

The family emigrated from the Soviet Union in 1976 and settled in Jersey City, N.J.

As they boarded the flight for New York Sunday, she said they would be returning to their old apartment in New Jersey, and the jobs they had given up. The boys would return to class.

THEY SAID said they had been greatly assisted by the U.S. Embassy in Moscow and the State Department. The Soviets had not tried to stop them leaving a second time, even though their change of heart was a deep embarrassment to Soviet officials who had trumpeted their charges of American social injustice.

"We can't thank those people enough," Alexander said of the help given by U.S. officials. "They did everything possible to help us. They were wonderful."

"In all honesty, the Soviet authorities were very good as well," he said.

Security adviser balks at disclosing Iran deal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — National security adviser John Poindexter, who ran secret contacts with Iran from the White House, indicated Sunday he will not appear before congressional committees to answer questions about the operation.

Poindexter raised the prospect of a legal tangle between President Reagan and Congress as House Democratic leader Jim Wright accused the White House of violating laws requiring "timely" notification of covert operations.

"We have to call attention to the fact that these laws were written for a very clear purpose, and that purpose was to avoid mistakes in foreign policy. It's like the safety catch on a gun," he said on CBS's "Face the Nation."

WITH CONGRESSIONAL leaders angry at having been kept in the dark and clamoring for explanations, Poindexter said the formal task of reporting to Congress on the dealings with Iran will go to CIA Director William Casey.

The operation, in which Reagan broke with his public stricture against arms sales to Iran to gain influence with less radical elements in Tehran, "will be laid out in great detail" while largely kept shrouded in secrecy, Poindexter said.

How that is done, however, could cause President Reagan and Congress to collide over the issue of executive privilege.

POINDEXTER STOPPED short of saying he would refuse to appear if subpoenaed, but contended on NBC's "Meet the Press" that there are ample precedents that senior White House officials "are not in the habit of testifying before Congress."

"I have talked to some of the appropriate leadership (in Congress) and I will make arrangements to talk informally with them," Poindexter said. "There will be hearings in which I will not participate, but I am anxious that they hear from me to understand the thinking on our part behind this project and understand some of the subtleties that were involved."

THE ADMINISTRATION briefed selected members of Congress last week on 18 months of clandestine overtures only after the operation was exposed by Iran.

The decision to withhold the information, even from key congressional oversight committees, was defended by the White House as one aimed at safeguarding the lives of the Iranian contacts or American hostages in Lebanon.

Poindexter said the Constitution and amendments to the National Security Act of 1947, which establish requirements for reporting covert actions to Congress, "clearly provide" Reagan with the legal right to withhold details.

HOWEVER, SEN. Patrick Leahy, D-Vt., vice chairman of the Senate Intelligence Committee, which holds hearings on the matter later this week, said Reagan's right to report to Congress "in a timely fashion" did not authorize him to keep the secret for 11 months after signing a directive that authorized the arms shipments.

"That was put in there in case something happens at three o'clock on Sunday morning," Leahy said. "You're not going to bring the congressional committees together at three o'clock on a Sunday morning. But 11 months? Nobody can call 11 months timely."

1986 FALL EXAM SCHEDULE

The examination schedule attempts to avoid examination conflicts by providing separate examination periods for Tuesday-Thursday lecture classes. Other information about final examinations is listed below:

1. The class final exam period is scheduled based on the meeting time and days configuration listed on the first line of the class entry in the Schedule of Classes book (which should be the same as the first printed line for the section on the registered student's schedule print-out). For example, a class section is listed in the Schedule book on two lines in the manner:

08:00 T Th
09:00-10:50 W

The listed starting time for the first line of entry is "8:00". The meeting days of that first line are "T TH", and therefore are in the category "Only T or TH or T TH". The Exam Date and Period is by the attached Fall '86 Final Examination Schedule to be Friday, Dec. 19 at 5:50 - 7:50 p.m.

2. Classes should plan to hold their final examination in their regularly scheduled class rooms. The space scheduling section of the Office of Admissions and Records will forward to departments information relative to the location for examinations for those classes, that cannot hold examinations in their regularly scheduled rooms because of a space conflict. This will be done sufficiently in advance of the final examination days to provide sufficient notice for all.

3. Students who find they have more than three examinations on one day may petition, and students who have two examinations scheduled at one time should petition their academic dean for approval to take an examination during the make-up examination period on the last day. Provision for such a make-up examination period does not mean that students may decide to miss the scheduled examination time and expect to make it up during this make-up period. This period is to be used only for students whose petitions have been approved by their dean.

4. Students who must miss a final examination may not take an examination before the time scheduled for the class examination. Information relative to the proper grade to be given students who miss a final examination and are not involved in a situation covered in the preceding paragraph will be found in the mimeographed memorandum forwarded to members of the instructional staff at the time they receive the final grade listing for the recording of grades.

1. Classes with a special exam time.

Sadat's wife paid $300,000 for teaching

COLUMBIA, S.C. (UPI) — The University of South Carolina board will consider limiting pay for visiting professors following the revelation that the wife of slain Egyptian leader Anwar Sadat received hundreds of thousands of dollars, the board chairman said.

"The administration is going to recommend to the board, which will in turn set policy in that particular area," said Chairman Othniel H. Wienges Jr. of the USC board of trustees. The board is expected to receive a recommendation at its next scheduled meeting, Dec. 5, he said.

SIU Press plans anniversary book sale, party

SIU Press, which has published works by University and local writers for 30 years, will hold an anniversary book sale from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday and from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. Tuesday in Student Center Ballroom A.

The book sale will feature an autograph party for the Shawnee Books series from 10:30 a.m. to noon Monday.

The Shawnee Books series, first published in 1986, features four books about Southern Illinois by local authors. Cleo Carraway, whose father Charles Carraway wrote "Foothold on a Hillside," Robert Hastings, author of "A Nickel's Worth of Skim Milk" and "A Penny's Worth of Minced Ham," and Art Reid, author of "Fishing Southern Illinois," will be available for autographs.

Professor nets Fulbright award

A professor at the School of Medicine has been named a special Fulbright Lecturer in medical sciences.

Robert P. Lehr, the first Fulbright Scholar for the School of Medicine, will lecture on anatomy and neuroanatomical sciences at the Hacettepe University Medical School in Ankara, Turkey, during spring semester.

Lehr was selected as a special lecturer because of his knowledge of integrated teaching systems.

Lehr has a bachelor's degree from Austin College in Sherman Texas and master's and doctoral degrees from Baylor University in Waco Texas.

Jehan Sadat received more than $300,000 to teach a single course on women in Egypt for three semesters.

USC President James Holderman first refused to disclose the pay, but USC journalism student Paul Perkins filed a lawsuit and a judge ruled last month the university must disclose the pay. Perkins sued under the state's Freedom of Information Act.

Other documents disclosed since the lawsuit show public television newsmen James Lehrer and Robert McNeil are getting $37,500 each to teach this semester, and that former Washington Post managing editor Howard Simons was paid $45,000 to teach one semester.

Holderman defended the expenditures, saying hiring well-known people to teach helps attract top scholars, contributions and research grants to USC.

Jonathon Knight, associate secretary of the American Association of University Professors, was quoted in The New York Times last week as saying the pay was unusually high. Knight said universities often hire distinguished visiting professors as a "kind of calling card" to gain favorable attention.

Court says workers to get time off for religion

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court ruled unanimously Monday that employers have a duty under federal law to try to meet employee requests for time off to go to church or for other religious reasons.

The decision in a Connecticut school case is an important interpretation of a 1972 amendment to the Civil Rights Act that employers must try to accommodate the religious practices of employees. In the opinion, written by Chief Justice William Rehnquist, the court set standards that employers must meet when faced with requests for days off for religious observances. But the court rejected arguments employers must always defer to such requests.

The ruling said an employer meets its obligation under the law "when it demonstrates that it has offered a reasonable accommodation to the employee."

"By its very terms the statute directs that any reasonable accommodation by the employer is sufficient to meet its accommodation obligation," Rehnquist said.

Before turning down an employee's request, he wrote, the employer must prove that granting the request would place an "undue hardship" on the employer's business.

The court's ruling Monday came in a case that pitted the Ansonia Board of Education against Ronald Philbrook, a teacher who requested additional days off for religious observance.

However, the court did not settle the case for Philbrook. Instead, the matter was sent back to lower courts to determine whether the school board's leave policy meets the "reasonable accommodation" standards set by the court.

Connecticut Attorney General Joseph I. Lieberman, who supported Philbrook, called the ruling "only a partial victory."

While the court recognized there are standards employers must meet when faced with requests for days off for religious observances, Lieberman said, the ruling was too arbitrary in saying "any reasonable accommodation by the employer is sufficient to meet its accommodation obligation."

Justice John Paul Stevens, in an opinion concurring in part and dissenting in part from the ruling, suggested that Philbrook may lose.

"The employer has no duty to provide Philbrook with additional days of paid leave," he said. "Nor can the uses for which the board has historically allowed personal leave days possibly create a duty to pay (Philbrook) to perform the work he missed on days of religious obligation."

In a parallel action, the court may have offered an example of what it considers a reasonable accommodation. In a similar case, the court refused to review a ruling by the 3rd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals that ordered Volkswagen of America to give back pay and benefits to an employee who was fired after insisting she have Saturdays off for religious reasons.

In that matter, the appeals court ruled that under the law, companies must be able to show they did try to accommodate the religious beliefs of employees — even if it means weekends off — or be liable for damages. The appeals court ruled it would not have hurt Volkswagen to give the employee the time off.

The Ansonia case also is similar to a June 1985 high court ruling that struck down a Connecticut law that required employers to give employees their Sabbath day off. The court, on an 8-1 vote with Rehnquist dissenting, found the law promoted religion in violation of the First Amendment that requires the separation of church and state.

SIU-C debaters win four in a row with tournament

SIU-C's debate team won a tournament for the fourth time in a row Nov. 14-16 at the Samford University Invitational in Birmingham, Ala.

Two of the squad's teams won in semifinal rounds and were awarded co-champion honors.

The teams of Nathan E. Dick and Mary F. Keehner, and Amy L. Johnson and M. Scott Parsons also swept the tournament's individual speaking awards, which recognize delivery and analysis. Keehner took first; Johnson, second; Dick, third; and Parsons, fourth.

"It's the best we've ever done (for individual speaking). I can't be humble about this," said Gregory D. Simerly, assistant coach.

SIU-C will compete Nov. 21-23 in a tournament at the University of Alabama in Tuscaloosa.

Rash of injuries mars Jets' record-setting 10-1 start

NEW YORK (UPI) — The New York Jets must begin to ask themselves a question: has the best record in the NFL come at an injury price that will cost them down the stretch?

The Jets are 10-1 and owners of a team-record nine-game win streak after a 31-16 triumph Sunday over the Indianapolis Colts. But, as has been the case repeatedly this year, the victory was tainted by an injury.

In this case the injury was to All-Pro defensive end Mark Gastineau, who suffered a torn anterior cruciate and a partial tear of the lateral meniscus in his left knee. The tear was trimmed during arthroscopic surgery Monday, and the knee was fitted with a derotation brace.

The team said Gastineau will miss a minimum of six weeks, but did not immediately place him on the injured-reserve list.

The loss of Gastineau leaves the Jets without any of their starting front three and creates extreme problems as far as roster juggling.

In the Jets' previous game against Atlanta, New York lost Pro Bowl nose tackle Joe Klecko for a month with torn knee cartilage and defensive end Marty Lyons for at least four weeks with a shoulder injury. New York already had lost Pro Bowl linebacker Lance Mehl for the season with torn knee ligaments.

The Jets placed Lyons on the injured-reserve list, but not Klecko. New York has three moves left off the injured reserve without having to subject a player to waivers to bring him back on the active roster. It is almost certain those three moves will be used to recall center Joe Fields, tackle Reggie McElroy and Lyons.

New York would receive an additional injured-reserve move if it makes the playoffs. But if the Jets place Gastineau on IR in hopes of using the extra maneuver on him, they will face a dilemma if another short-term injury comes up.

However, if they keep Gastineau on the active roster, he would join Klecko as a non-participating uniformed player.

"We may look at some people (defensive linemen) again," Jets Coach Joe Walton said Monday. "It's hard to go with 43 guys, so we have to think about putting Gastineau on IR."

Without Gastineau, the Jets are down to four defensive linemen and one, Jim Stuckey, was signed last week. Walton said the starting line will be Tom Baldwin at nose tackle, and Ben Rudolph and Barry Bennett at ends.

"We'll do what we always do — we'll line up our best available 11 defensive players and our best three or four linemen and do the best we can," Bennett said. "When I line up, no disrespect to those (injured) guys, but they're the furthest thing from my mind."

very difficult games to close the season. No. 15 Cornell faces No. 6 Pennsylvania, No. 17 Akron faces Youngstown State and No. 18 Massachusetts faces Connecticut. A loss by any of the three teams could increase the Salukis' chances of making the playoffs.

"I'd venture to say we have the worst defensive line situation in the league. But we can't go feeling sorry for ourselves, because it won't do us any good. If we feel sorry for ourselves we'll be home for Christmas. We know feeling sorry for ourselves won't bring us any points or any wins."

1986 FALL EXAM SCHEDULE

The examination schedule attempts to avoid examination conflicts by providing separate examination periods for Tuesday-Thursday lecture classes. Other information about final examinations is listed below:

1. The class final exam period is scheduled based on the meeting time and days configuration listed on the first line of the class entry in the Schedule of Classes book (which should be the same as the first printed line for the section on the registered student's schedule print-out). For example, a class section is listed in the Schedule book on two lines in the manner:

08:00 T Th
09:00-10:50 W

The listed starting time for the first line of entry is "8:00". The meeting days of that first line are "T TH", and therefore are in the category "Only T or TH or T TH". The Exam Date and Period is by the attached Fall '86 Final Examination Schedule to be Friday, Dec. 19 at 5:50 - 7:50 p.m.

2. Classes should plan to hold their final examination in their regularly scheduled class rooms. The space scheduling section of the Office of Admissions and Records will forward to departments information relative to the location for examinations for those classes, that cannot hold examinations in their regularly scheduled rooms because of a space conflict. This will be done sufficiently advance of the final examination days to provide sufficient notice for all.

3. Students who find they have more than three examinations on one day may petition, and students who have two examinations scheduled at one time should petition their academic dean for approval to take an examination during the make-up examination period on the last day. Provision for such a make-up examination period does not mean that students may decide to miss the scheduled examination time and expect to make it up during this make-up period. This period is to be used only for students whose petitions have been approved by their dean.

4. Students who must miss a final examination may not take an examination before the time scheduled for the class examination. Information relative to the proper grade to be given students who miss a final examination and are not involved in a situation covered in the preceding paragraph will be found in the mimeographed memorandum forwarded to members of the instructional staff at the time they receive the final grade listing for the recording of grades.

1. Classes with a special exam time.

Chicago QB outlook open to questions

LAKE FOREST, Ill. (UPI) — Jim McMahon, who will resume practicing Wednesday, still remains a question mark for the Chicago Bears for this Sunday's game against Green Bay and possibly for the rest of the season.

Bears' trainer Fred Caito said Monday that McMahon, who has missed the last three games, had received the go-ahead from team Dr. Clarence Fossier to resume full-scale practice.

"He threw Friday, Saturday and before the game Sunday," Caito said. "He'll throw again Wednesday. If he's OK and doesn't have any pain, he'll practice again."

BEARS' COACH Mike Ditka said Mike Tomczak, who shook off a poor first half performance and led the club to a 13-10 win at Atlanta Sunday, would again start next week if McMahon can't play.

"My plans are to start Mike Tomczak at quarterback unless I see otherwise," Ditka said. "We'll see how Jim does. If he practices and throws Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, he can play."

McMahon said on his morning radio show he was ready to play at least one half against the Packers.

"It's not a half time job," Ditka responded. "We have to play a full day, an eight hour day."

DITKA SAID he was anxious for McMahon to return as soon as possible, despite the fact the Bears have all but wrapped up another playoff spot and a NFC Central Division championship.

He did give another vote of confidence to Tomczak, who nearly was pulled in the Atlanta game but stayed in the lineup and helped Chicago win its ninth game in 11 tries.

"I like his qualities of leadership. Leadership comes in radical forms," Ditka said. "I think people are going to have to realize that he may be the guy we have to go with."

Center Jay Hilgenberg said the club should be prepared that McMahon might not return.

"We haven't had Jim for much of the season so we better be ready and not just go into the playoffs and be surprised if he isn't ready," Hilgenberg said.

BUT TIGHT END Emery Moorehead said some of the offensive members don't have the same type of confidence in Tomczak they have in McMahon.

"We just don't seem to execute for Mike or Steve (Fuller) the way we do for Jim. Jim's a leader," Moorehead said. "Jim took us to the Super Bowl last year."

But Moorehead did concede the club was still capable of going all the way without McMahon at quarterback.

"We can make it without Jim," Moorehead said.

Outside of McMahon's nagging shoulder problems, the Bears came out of the Atlanta game relatively healthy.

Left guard Mark Bortz suffered a sprained ankle and will be X-rayed Tuesday. Backup running back Neal Anderson has a sore hand and sore ribs. Moorehead also suffered a hand injury but all three will be ready for Green Bay.

Sinou takes 12th at district to close season

By M.J. Starshak
Staff Writer

Vivian Sinou, the Saluki's top female harrier, ended the cross country season with a 12th-place finish at Saturday's District 5 Championship. Only two other SIU runners competed in the race.

The Big 8 Conference is the strongest in the nation, said Saluki coach Don DeNoon. He added that Sinou was the only non-Big 8 athlete to finish better than 23rd.

"We went in there and got beat," said DeNoon. "We didn't give up, we just got beat."

He added that Sinou's time of 17:35 was better than her time recorded at the Sept. 12 Bradley Open.

"All three athletes had their best performances on the course," said DeNoon.

Sophomore Lisa Judiscak crossed the line 29th with a time of 18:09. DeNoon said this was a good performance for the O'Fallon native.

Freshman Susan Johnson ran an "OK" race, DeNoon said. The Waunakee, Wis., native finished 59th with a time of 19:48.

Saluki harriers Amber Wienczek and Amy Marker were originally scheduled to race, but sore calves prevented Marker from competing. Wienczek had been suffering from the flu all week, so she did not run either.

Colorado, Kansas State and Nebraska, the teams that finished first, second and third, respectively, will advance to NCAA competition. Only the top three individual runners go to NCAA competition, said DeNoon. Sinou was the fifth individual finisher.

"Maybe I was looking for us to sprint before we could walk," said DeNoon. "Now that we can walk, maybe next year we can run."

Salukis still in hunt for NCAA grid bid

By Steve Merritt
Staff Writer

The SIU-C football team has moved back into the NCAA Top 20 poll and is still in the running for an at-large berth to the I-AA playoffs.

The Salukis ranked No. 20 this week, an improvement over the "others receiving votes" category. Saluki coach Ray Dorr predicted the ranking would be "a very positive factor when the final bids are considered."

Dorr said the good word — that SIU-C was still in the running — came straight from the NCAA Football Committee on Monday morning.

"I've talked to both Jerry Miles (NCAA Director of Championship Events) and the NCAA Football (Committee)," Dorr said, "and we are among 24 teams still in the running for a playoff berth."

Dorr is hoping for one of seven at-large berths to be awarded. Of 16 total bids, seven are automatic for conference winners, two are for independents and the remainder for at-large teams.

The Salukis have a realistic shot at a bid, Dorr said, and would likely get one of the last bids awarded if the NCAA goes with the SIU-C.

Dorr said his squad will proceed with a series of light conditioning practices this week and will eagerly await the final word.

"I'm supposed to get a call at in between 3 and 4 p.m. on Sunday (Nov. 23)," Dorr said. "That's when we'll finally know."

A week ago, the third-year Saluki coach said that it'd be tough for the 7-4 Salukis to move back into the poll without playing any games.

"Some good teams will have to lose," Dorr said.

And lose they did. Five top 20 teams, including the bottom three teams — No. 18 Northern Arizona, No. 19 Delaware State and No. 20 New Hampshire all suffered losses this weekend.

In another important contest, Murray State downed Middle Tennessee to take the lead in the race for the Ohio Valley Conference's automatic playoff berth. An early-season Murray win over Eastern Kentucky and a 27-24 EK victory over Akron this weekend put Murray State in the OVC driver's seat.

That race is important because the OVC title team would be, from a geographical perspective, a logical first-round opponent for the Salukis. Another logical first-round opponent would be No. 4 Eastern Illinois.

Three teams ranked in the poll — No. 2 Holy Cross, No. 6 Pennsylvania and No. 15 Cornell — will not accept bids to the playoffs, if offered, because of conference academic guidelines.

Four of the seven conferences with automatic bids have already been wrapped up. Eastern Illinois (Gateway), Appalachian State (Southern), North Carolina A & T (Midwestern Atlantic) and Nevada-Reno (Big Sky) will all attend the playoffs on Women cagers sign recruit

By Anita J. Stoner
Staff Writer

Amy Rakers, a 6-1 forward from Belleville West, will join the women's basketball Salukis next season.

Rakers becomes the first high school senior to accept an SIU-C scholarship during the early signing period, which started Nov. 13 and wraps up Nov. 20.

Saluki coach Cindy Scott described Rakers as "the top senior player in the state."

As a junior Rakers averaged 19.8 points and 12.5 rebounds per game on 58 percent shooting. She's notched career highs of 31 points and 22 rebounds. She also ripped off 48 steals and 85 blocks.

Rakers will complete her high school career at Belleville West under Coach Larry Betz, an SIU-C grad.

Betz calls Rakers "the most versatile player and the best big girl I've had in 12 years of coaching."

Scott likes the well-roundedness of Rakers, an All-St. Louis Area selection and Honorable Mention All-Stater.

"Amy is as solid as they come," Scott said. "She is aggressive, shoots well and handles the ball like a guard. In fact, she played point guard as a freshman. That tells you plenty about her ability. In the paint, she's just about unstoppable."

Bonds suffers slight ankle sprain

By Anita J. Stoner
Staff Writer

Saluki forward Bridgett Bonds suffered a mild ankle sprain in a women's basketball practice scrimmage Saturday.

"I guess I jumped too high," Bonds said after the injury. Team trainer Sally Perkins said the junior's left ankle sprain looked good. Bonds got off crutches Sunday.

Saluki Coach Cindy Scott expressed relief that X-rays proved the ankle was not fractured.

"It will depend on her pain threshold and how hard she works at rehabilitation," Scott said of Bonds' return to the lineup in time for the first game at Memphis State Nov. 29.

The Saluki standout will remain questionable for a scrimmage scheduled Friday at Mascoutah, but should recover fully for the first game, Perkins said.

Preseason coaches poll picks Louisville cagers team to beat

NEW YORK (UPI) — Defending champion Louisville edged North Carolina by one point Monday for the No. 1 spot in the preseason college basketball rankings by United Press International's Board of Coaches.

The Cardinals received 17 first-place votes, three fewer than the Tar Heels, but still finished in front with 584 of a possible 630 points. Nevada-Las Vegas, Indiana and Purdue rounded out the first five selected by UPI's 42-member panel.

The rest of the Top 10 was Kansas, Oklahoma, Kentucky, Pittsburgh and Georgia Tech. Georgetown was ranked No. 11 followed by Alabama, Auburn, Navy, Iowa, Syracuse and Illinois tied for No. 16, Arizona, North Carolina State and Wyoming.

Louisville loses three 1,000-point career scorers from last year — Milt Wagner, Billy Thompson and Jeff Hall — but still has Pervis Ellison, the Most Valuable Player from the NCAA championship game, and Herbert Crook. The Cardinals open the season Nov. 28 at the Great Alaska Shootout.

"It used to be you could pick four or five teams and say these will be the four or five at the end, and probably three or four of those will be there," Cardinals Coach Denny Crum said.

"This year, and in the past six or eight years, I think we've seen such good balance in the college game that it's hard to say what it's going to take."

North Carolina will be without Brad Daugherty — the top pick in June's NBA draft — but returns seniors Dave Popson, Joe Wolf and Kenny Smith. Tar Heels Coach Dean Smith also recruited J.R. Reid, considered last year's top high school player.

"More than ever, most coaches agree that college basketball is extremely balanced," Smith said. "Any number of teams could be ranked No. 1."

Trail Run surpasses club expectations

By Peter Rechenberg
Staff Writer

The first annual Trail Run, sponsored by the Southern Illinois Orienteering Club, was a success according to club president Jess Pirron.

"It went really well," Pirron said. "Most of the runners were from Southern Illinois."

The Trail Run was held at Giant City State Park, and Pirron said he received a lot of compliments on the race.

"I may have it again in the Spring around March," Pirron said. "If I don't have it in the Spring, there will definitely be a second annual Trail Run."

Pirron said he surpassed his goal for the number of participants in the Trail Run.

"I was hoping to get 15-20 runners, but we got 30," Pirron said. "We also had 17 volunteers who made sure the runners knew where to go and would assist the runners if they got injured."

Pirron was counting on orienteering groups from St. Louis and Cape Girardeau, but because of a conflict in their schedule they were unable to come.

"They had an orienteering meet later that day, so they couldn't make it," he said. "We did get some runners from the River-to-River Running Club."
