Merchants discuss shoplifting woes

By Scott Burnside
Daily Egyptian Sprints Writer

Last week, a 20-year-old woman was arrested and charged with stealing four packs of cigarettes in a Carbondale food store.

Surprised at being caught, the woman said, "I took the cigarettes," and was released on bond. She will appear later in city court, and will face a possible fine $100 to $500.

Corporal Jim Rossiter of the Police Community Service Center said there were 370 shoplifters reported to police and prosecuted in 1972-73.

"Businesses often do not want to prosecute, and we probably get a small number of the shoplifters in court," said Rossiter.

"At least 50 per cent of the shoplifters are college students, and another good chunk are high school and even grade school kids," he said.

"The college kids have more than enough money in their pockets when they're caught. It's just something to do. One time, three or four years ago, there was a group of 30 to 35 girls who were given items to shoplift to stay in the group," he said.

"One kid was reading Abbie Hoffman's book, 'Steal This Book,' and so he tried to do just that," he said.

Rossiter said the first time a person is caught shoplifting, it is considered a misdemeanor and a fine is levied. He said the fine usually is $100.

The second time a person is convicted of a shoplifting offense, a prison term of one to four years can be given, Rossiter said.

Rossiter calls Ben Franklin Department Store, "one of the two toughest stores in Carbondale to shoplift."

Store manager Don Smith says "ninety percent of our shoplifters are college students. They have back packs to carry books in, and the girls have great big purses or some convenient way to carry stuff," said Don Smith, store manager.

"All the people we catch are arrested," Smith said. "We keep the evidence in an envelope and the only case we didn't win last year was because the courts waited too long."

Conveniently placed mirrors, vented doors and a well-trained staff help Smith in his campaign against shoplifters.

"We had a young man working here in the past who could tell just from looking at people what they were thinking. He wasn't afraid of anybody. I've been knocked down, banged around by these shoplifters myself," Smith said.

Smith and other shopkeepers are allowed to detain shoplifters by reasonable means, according to Illinois law.

Smith said he has noticed a reduction in shoplifting this year. "Maybe our system is working better," he said.

Another business which claims to prosecute every shoplifter is J.C. Penney on Rt. 13, east of Carbondale.

Handling security for this store is Billy Thompson, an Air Force veteran, who used to work for a private investigative agency.

Thompson says college students aren't his principal shoplifting force.

"We get a cross section of shoplifters here," Thompson said. He said the students present a problem with their knapsacks, but guards are supposed to check these items.

One shoplifting tactic used at Penney's lately, Thompson said, is people coming into the store without shoes and

Lawyer says Ehrlichman Nixon victim

WASHINGTON (AP) — John D. Ehrlichman's lawyer portrayed the onetime White House aide Tuesday as a victim of the deceit of former President Richard M. Nixon and John W. Dean III. "Richard Nixon deceived, misled, lied to and used John Ehrlichman to cover up his own knowledge and his own activities," said William Frates in his opening argument at the Watergate cover-up trial.

Frates said Nixon was "covering up to save his own neck."

Frates was the first defense attorney to make an opening statement in the trial of five former Nixon administration and campaign aides charged with conspiring to block the investigation of the break-in at Democratic national headquarters in the Watergate building on June 17, 1972.

David G. Bress, attorney for former Asst. Atty. Gen. Robert C. Mardian, followed Frates and described his client as "very minimally involved in the evidence in this case."

The other three defendants are former White House staff chief H. R. Haldeman, former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell and Kenneth W. Parkinson, one-time attorney for Nixon's reelection committee.

Richard Ben-Veniste, as assistant special Watergate prosecutor, outlined the government's case in a long opening statement on Monday. All five defendants are charged with conspiracy to obstruct justice. All but Mardian also are charged with obstruction of justice.

Security police get new shoes; University foots the bill—$1,149

By Wes Smith
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

SIU's flatfeet are a well-heeled group. And the University foots the bill to boot.

A bill for $1,149 for 50 pairs of men's oxfords from Leslie's Shoes of Carbondale for SIU Security Police was among the August purchase orders approved at the October Board of Trustees meeting.

Virgil F. Trummer, acting security director, said the plain black oxfords, sell for $22.99 for the regular foot but go for an extra buck if the size is of "canoe dimensions." The shoes are considered part of the uniform and are supplied by the University.

Trummer said security officers are clad from head to toe in state funds except for side arms. A move was underway several years ago to have sidearms provided by the University but the idea was shot down.

"The University supplies the uniforms for our men but won't buy sidearms, so they purchase their own guns," Trummer said.

"I'd like to see the University provide sidearms because that would give us more control over what type of gun the men use," he said.

Trummer said security police pack pistols ranging from .45's and .38's to state police nine millimeter handguns.

Schools may face tax collectors' fee

By Laura Coleman
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Carbondale area schools and other taxing districts will be faced with an additional expense if a law signed by Gov. Dan Walker last August is found constitutional, and approved by the Jackson County Board.

The law, sponsored by state Rep. John Lauer provides for county collectors to charge the local taxing districts a fee for collecting taxes. The law would have to be approved by individual county boards.

State Superintendent of Public Instruction, Michael Bakalis came out against the law last week saying it is "unjust and unnecessary." Bakalis said the school districts would "have to divert funds intended for educational use to pay for a normal function of county government."

Bakalis also called the law unconstitutional, citing an article in the Illinois constitution, "Fees shall not be based upon funds intended for educational use to pay for a normal function of county government."

Bakalis also called the law unconstitutional, citing an article in the Illinois constitution, "Fees shall not be based upon funds distributed or collected nor upon the levy or extension of taxes."

Lauer (R-Lincoln) responded to Bakalis saying Bakalis has "gone off half-cocked. All he sees is that the school boards get a free ride. In proportion, it wouldn't hurt them more than other taxing districts."

Lauer pointed out that "during the entire process the Illinois Association of School Boards (IASB) did not come out against it. Lauer said the actual cost of collecting the school taxes averages one and one-half to two per cent of the total revenue collected and the schools "ought to be aware of the cost."

Sullivan adds to committee for attorney

Dennis Sullivan, student body president, has appointed two more members to the Committee for Students' Attorney Program.

Edgar Philpot, president of the Black Affairs Council and Tom Kennedy, an attorney for the Land of Lincoln Legal Assistance Foundation of Jackson County, were added last week.

Forest "Rusty" Lightle, chairman of the committee, said the two additions were made because Sullivan believes they will benefit the committee.

The two members will not have a vote on the committee, Lightle said. He said it will be easy to work with the nine-member committee.

The committee has 12 members, three are non-voting members.

Lauer predicted most of the county boards in Illinois would approve of the fee, but added that Cook County probably would not.

According to the law, the cost of the collection would be determined by an independent auditing firm, and the taxing districts would be billed accordingly. Lauer said it was the first time he submitted the bill.

Area school officials are leary of the new law. Monroe Deming, superintendent of the educational service region, expressed concern over the law because school funds have to be expended within the budget which is set by state statutes. "The consensus among the schools is that they think the county should be reimbursed for its cost, but it should be done by a levy or special referendum."

Deming predicted that if the law is enacted, the funds probably would be prorated from each fund, rather than taking it all from an individual fund.

Carbondale Community High School Board of Education president Charles Hinderman said he feels the legislature should have given the school boards power to impose an additional levy to cover the cost of the tax collection. He said it is unfair to have the money taken "from the top," since the school district cannot raise its taxes to cover the cost.

Two legislators from the 58th district have voiced support of the bill. Ralph Dunn (R-DuQuoin) voted for the bill although he doesn't think it is constitutional.

"I can see where counties do need the money to help run county government, but I don't particularly like it. I supported it and I hope it's legal."

Dunn said the collection of the fee was legal until the 1970 constitution went into effect. He said "when the schools got the windfall, (a three per cent increase in funds in 1971) the schools didn't reduce their levies."

State Rep. John Holloway (D-Sparta)

also voted for the bill. A former county treasurer himself, said the county collector acts for all political subdivisions.

The county treasurer had operated his office on a percentage basis, he said. "This new constitution wiped it out and left him with the same responsibility." He added that the collection expenses were a "hardship on the county" and said the bill was "a long time coming. It should have been done before," he said.

Vito Bianco, associate superintendent of public instruction said Tuesday the legislation is "blatantly unconstitutional. If the county needs funds, it should issue a special levy," he said.

Bianco and Bakalis have requested Attorney General William Scott to take the case to court to have the law's constitutionality decided.

Scott has not yet issued an official opinion on matter, according to a spokesman for Scott.

Candidate for U.S. Senate

30-hour work week will halt unemployment, socialist says

By Gary Delsohn
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Ed Heisler, Socialist Workers party candidate for U.S. Senator from Illinois, said a 30-hour work week without pay reductions is the answer to the nation's high unemployment rate.

Heisler, speaking to about 20 people Monday night at the Student Center, said his opponents, Democrat Adlai Stevenson and Republican George Burditt, are both opposed to such a plan.

A 30-hour week, Heisler explained, would put everyone to work. He said the resistance employers applied towards workers in the early 1900's to a 40-hour week was overcome and with hard work current resistance would also dissipate.

Heisler, a 32-year-old railroad worker since 1964, was the International Secretary of the United Transportation Union's Right to Vote Committee from 1969 to 1972. This committee, according to Heisler, led a fight involving thousands of railroad workers for the right to vote on their union contracts.

Heisler said working people cannot stand for the current economic crisis. "Working people are going to fight back against this attack on their living standards and it will result in a social revolution," Heisler said.

He added, "It is time to put an end to an economic system based primarily on profit rather than producing goods and services for the good of the people."

Turning to the energy problems facing the nation, Heisler said a national strike of mine workers is inevitable and miners will "get all the blame for this year's energy shortage."

He said the coal industry has refused to negotiate with the workers concerning mine safety, higher wages and improved working conditions.

He said Congress will grant President Ford authority to order the miners back to work under threat of judicial sanctions and to order troops if violence erupts.

Heisler also spoke of the pardon Ford granted former President Nixon. He said, "I don't feel one ounce of compassion for Nixon. He should be put in jail for crimes committed against the American people."

Heisler said he is certain Ford made a deal with Nixon prior to the highly controversial pardon. He said, "Ford hoped to end all disclosures of lies, deception and corruption by Nixon's administration because Ford realized the lies hurt politicians' credibility."

He added he is certain Nixon would never go to jail and "even if he did, it would be to one of the federal prisons designed for former politicians who got caught."

Heisler said there are three such prisons in the nation. "There are no locks, no bars on the cells and the prisoners are called guests. They even get weekend passes so they can go out and have a good time," he said.

When asked about his party's problems he said, "We (Socialist Workers Party) have been Watergated to death. Phones have been tapped at our headquarters and our Detroit and New York offices have been burglarized."

The American Civil Liberties Union has filed a suit on his behalf, Heisler said, to challenge the federal campaign disclosure law of 1971 "as it applies to the Socialist Party."

Under the law, Heisler explained, "We are required to turn over the names, addresses and job places of anyone contributing to us." He said that releasing those names, has in the past, led to harassment of contributors to the party.

Bill asks IBHE to delay tuition hike

Jim Wire and Duke Koch will submit a bill requesting the Illinois Board of Higher Education (IBHE) to withhold a tuition increase until the rate of inflation decreases by seven per cent. The meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in Student Center Ballroom C.

The bill, drawn up by Student Body President Dennis Sullivan, asks the Student Advisory Committee to present the proposal to IBHE.

Sullivan said an increase in tuition costs will "hit SIU the hardest" because low-income students are attracted to the school.

Sullivan also will present the name of Robert C. Hornstein for the position of election commissioner. Hornstein is a senior majoring in advertising.

Sullivan said Hornstein's duty will be to "enforce election laws."

Four other bills submitted by Philippe Hone, chairperson of the Finance Committee, request funds for student organizations.

Two of the bills propose funds to send members of the council, Presidential Scholars and the Public Relations Club to conventions. The remaining bills request funds for the Spanish Club and the Ananda Marga Yoga Society.

James R. Wood will submit a bill proposing potholes near the Communications Building be repaired.

Another proposal, submitted by Jim Wire and Richard "Josh" Bragg, requests $75 to develop an information center for Student Government personnel.

Systems course to study host of topics

By Wes Smith
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Beginning this spring, SIU students will be able to study the Chicago Cubs, the Roman Catholic Church, the Illinois State Police, ant hills and spider webs in one course.

The course is GSAB 125, "System's Nature of Man's World," and its range exceeds the usual General Studies course categorization. It can be taken for credit in either GSA or GSB.

The cops, cubs, clergy and cobweb topics listed above share one common characteristic. They are all systems. The course will study systems as a science which began with Greeks, Plato and Aristotle, and added the analytic approach of Galileo to science and philosophy.

"The rise of the analytical method with Galileo brought about the neglect of systems concepts, initiated with Greek culture. It only has been within the past five or six years that systems literature has mushroomed," Herman J. Haas, professor in zoology, said Tuesday.

Haas is chairman of the General Systems Science Planning Committee which has been working since the spring of 1973 on development of courses in systems science.

"Everything is a system," Haas said. "It is difficult not to find a system. Practically everywhere you look, you'll find a system of some sort."

"Systems science is a science of interactions and organization. It crosses all borders because the systems laws are the result of the degree of complexity of an object rather than the special nature of each individual system.

Haas said the planning committee has prepared three courses in systems science. Two of the courses will be in general studies and a third will be under a University course number.

The course will be offered spring semester. General Studies Director, Andrew T. Vaughan said the course covers a wide range of inter-disciplinary material.

"The course is an introduction to systems study and will attempt to show the integrated relationship between all organisms in an environment—all the way from ant colonies to the Illinois State Police," Vaughan said.

"The course will teach students how to recognize and analyze a system, the properties of a system, boundaries, disturbances, constraints, organization and components of systems," he said.

Haas said the introductory course will have no prerequisites.

"This will be an introduction into systems science on an elementary level and by discussing systems within our everyday life—such as the family, which is a system—we hope to show people how they can deal with these systems. We want some rigidity but it will be a pragmatic approach," he said.

Haas and Vaughan said the introductory course will be taught by Arne Solberger, of the School of Medicine. Vaughan said experts from varying fields such as biology, psychology, technology, philosophy and others, will be featured speakers in the course.

The second systems course will be offered beginning in the spring of 1976 and is titled, "Values, Systems and Society."

The catalog description of this course describes it as one in which values and ethics in revolutionary systems and cultural perspectives will be critically analyzed. It is listed as a review of the basic problems of survival and further evolution of civilization.

"All complex systems, one way or another, show value principles," Haas explained. "But, while systems differ, value principles revolve within those systems."

"Insect societies have genetically fixed value systems but human societies have values which change with the society. At present we are evolving away from one value system and there seems to be a crisis of value systems in western societies," Haas said.

"To overcome this crisis the scientific study of values and value systems seems to be of paramount significance. The environmental crisis and the economic crisis are probably the result of a more general crisis. There are no priorities any more and we have to reinvestigate our real priorities," Haas said.

"This second course will show students why values are so important and why our value systems are presently changing more rapidly than ever before in human evolution," he said.

The third course to be offered will be called, "Tools of Systems Science." This, unlike the first and second systems courses, will have a prerequisite and will be a University number course. It will first be offered in spring of 1976.

"The third course is designed to provide a more realistic basis for the general methods of systems science," Haas said. "It has Math 140 as a prerequisite because students will need to have basic tools for simple mathematical procedures."

Haas said these courses are only the beginning of general systems science programs at SIU and the course would make SIU a "pioneer institution" in undergraduate systems study.

"We do not want to educate systems specialists but we want to expose underclassmen to systems sciences and the general applicability of systems sciences to education."

City merchants discuss Carbondale shoplifters picking up a pair to wear out of the store. Mohr Value Manager Ken Cox says college students are not one of his major shoplifting problems.

"Our shoplifters could be almost anybody. Shoplifters usually have an economic problem, whether it be adults or students," Cox said.

"We probably do get more college students as shoplifters here, simply because there are more students," he said.

Cox said, "I don't think the students realize that shoplifting could be a mark on their records and could affect them in getting ahead."

"Some people feel justified in stealing from a store, because they believe the stores are ripping them off," he noted.

"We have to sign a complaint on shoplifting. We haven't pursued that many cases in the past," said Cox.

When college students do steal in the store Cox said, "They like electronic equipment, stereo equipment or almost anything. The girls steal clothing and cosmetics."

According to Cox, Mohr Value's shoplifting losses are running even with the national average, which he says is one to two per cent.

"We have run as high as 15 shoplifting cases in a week, and we usually catch one person a day," Cox said.

New system makes registration easier

By Jerie Jayne
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

SIU students can now register faster and with fewer errors because of a new processing system at Woody Hall.

Linda Seibert, undergraduate registration supervisor, said the amount of time it now takes to register varies with crowds and processing operators, but the total time is shorter than before.

Two steps were cut from the previous keypunch system. Five terminals, which look like typewriters with screens, are used to record data from students' class request forms. Call numbers listed under the course number of the schedule book should be included on this form, she said.

"By typing the course's call number, the student's name and identification number, the terminal gives all other necessary information, such as whether a class is restricted, the maximum enrollment of a class and what the current enrollment is," Seibert said.

She said fewer mistakes should be made because terminals don't record wrong number of course credit hours, wrong type of credit to be given for a course or wrong course sections.

The electrically wired terminals record data from students' class request form. A sixth terminal, known as a spooler, gathers data from the other five terminals and sends it to a processor. The processor contains two discs. The first disc is a programmer consisting of fee codes and timetable records, which can indicate any errors punched into the terminal. The second disc takes information for fee statements and print outs, the classes the student registered for. A printing machine, called a printer, gives students their fee statements immediately after they register.

"The printer will not only give a student's data, but also tells when a class is full. This way we can keep up with our closed classes," she said.

She said if student workers make a mistake, it can be corrected quickly and easily, if it is caught. It is better for the student to look at the terminal screen while it's being punched to see if the correct classes are recorded, she said.

"We can tell how efficient and accurate the system is when grades come out. We send out class lists to instructors. If the class lists are right, grades should go smoothly," Seibert said.

Wagner replaces West as new head of IBHE

Richard Wagner will assume the post of acting executive director of the Illinois Board of Higher Education (IBHE) Wednesday replacing Cameron West, who resigned July 23.

Wagner, 26, has been a board member of the IBHE since 1969, serving most recently as deputy director for fiscal affairs. He has been involved in areas of master planning, budget development and program approval.

Wagner received his bachelor's degree from Bradley University, Peoria, and his doctorate in public affairs from the University of Pittsburgh.

He served on the administrative staffs of the University of Pittsburgh and the University of Maryland prior to joining the IBHE in 1969.

Wagner is replacing West as executive director until the IBHE determines a permanent successor to the post.

West is returning to his home state of North Carolina to become president of the Association of Independent Colleges and Universities.

Wagner and his wife, Judy, live in Springfield. They have four children.

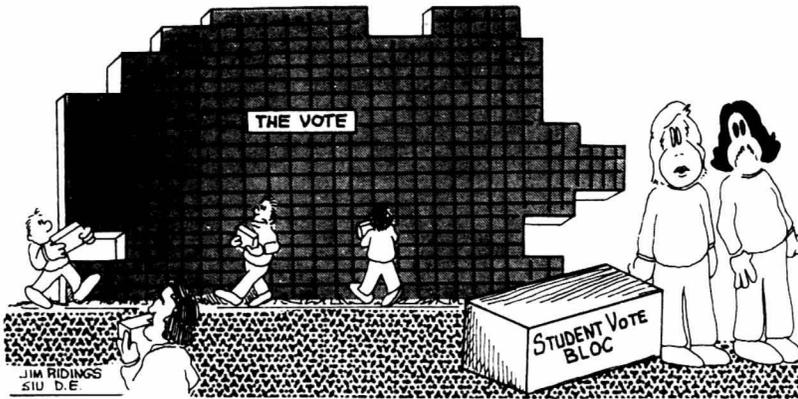

The IBHE approved the appointment of Wagner as acting executive director at its monthly meeting Oct. 1 in Chicago.

Ford's surcharge unrealistic at best

By Jon Kartman
Student Writer

President Ford's surcharge is to remain in effect for only one year. If it were permanently imposed, it would tend to lower prices.

The basic reasoning for applying the surcharge is to take money out of circulation. With less money in circulation, prices will be forced to come down.

But apparently President Ford has not looked at the fact that people are declaring bankruptcy at increasing rates.

The middle class Americans, already severely hit with higher prices, will be forced to pay higher taxes if the proposal is passed by Congress. One is forced to wonder where the middle class Americans will get the money to pay for the taxes.

While it is understood that many Americans waste untold amounts of food, energy and natural resources, many families are now trying to figure out how to pay for this month's mortgage payment or how to pay for new shoes for their children.

If the American families and corporations were forced to share the burden equally, it would be another case. But corporations get an increase in investment tax credit which more than offsets the surcharge. In the end, it will be families that earn $15,000 or more and individuals that earn $7,500 or more that will finance the fight against inflation. To single out any one group to fight inflation is grossly unfair.

President Ford's surcharge is to remain in effect for only one year. If it were permanently imposed, it would tend to lower prices.

But, at the end of the year, businesses will see that with the lifting of the tax, there will be more money available to the middle American.

With more money available, prices will go up again.

The surcharge does nothing to take into account any rise in prices if there is another bad year for crops or if the Arab oil producing states decide to raise oil prices.

If inflation is to be curbed, a freeze on prices should be imposed. It is the rise in prices, not the subsequent rise in wages that is causing the present inflation.

It is time to realize that the people who suffer the most from inflation should not be forced to pay for the fight against inflation.

A weak inflation plan

By Deborah Singer
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

A little action is better than no action at all, but President Ford's economic program is in fact, far too weak to break inflation by the proposed early-1975 date.

Although it may be a useful beginning, critics seem to agree that Ford's plan is at best, a timid one. A necessary step in dealing with the recession gripping our economy, would be to impose mandatory gasoline taxes, or gasoline rationing in order to conserve fuel.

Arthur Burns, Federal Reserve Board chairman, said the financial problems caused by high oil prices are "simply unmanageable. The only way to make them manageable is to force down the price of oil."

To force down prices, oil-consuming countries should drastically reduce their consumption levels. According to the Wall Street Journal, Energy Administrator John Sawhill may push for stronger conservation steps than the basically voluntary efforts Ford is requesting.

The Journal went on to say, "Sawhill favors mandatory fuel-conservation rules for industry, tax breaks to encourage insulation of homes, pricing schemes to discourage use of electricity and natural gas."

Ford's assumption that the American people will respond willingly to voluntary gasoline rationing is naive. Although he said people responded well during last year's oil embargo, the oil-consuming habits of this country were not measurably affected by it.

We need to become more independent of the oil-producing countries if we are to effectively deal with the rampant inflation in this country. Weak measures initiated by a possibly weak leader will do nothing to move us out of this dilemma.

With oil companies reporting higher earnings for 1974, and much of the responsibility for this economic crisis resting with a handful of oil-rich countries, it is obvious that strong action is needed.

American people must be forced to alter their lifestyles if we can ever hope to stabilize our economy. If President Ford is hesitant to take necessary actions because he is afraid they may be unpopular, he had better start to wonder how popular he will be if the recession is not halted.

Students need unified voting block to win

By Mary Whittier
Student Writer

Standing 19,147 members strong, SIU students should be able to influence city elections. However, no student has ever been a Carbondale councilman or mayor.

An SIU undergraduate hopes to change that. Richard "Josh" Bragg, 23, has announced his intention to seek election as Carbondale's mayor in April of 1975.

Mayor Eckert won the mayoral election in 1971 by only 992 votes. Total votes cast for Eckert were 22,002. If SIU students can form a voting block, they could influence the outcome of the mayoral election.

Currently about 10,000 students are registered to vote in Jackson County. Bragg will try to have 12,000 students registered to vote prior to the April election. If Bragg can pull the student vote, it will have a great impact on the election results.

The critical question is, "Will SIU students form a voting block?"

Many things will tend to divide the student vote. Among these things are party loyalty to either the Democratic or Republican party, honest opinion that an older person with political experience would be able to better lead the city, or perhaps a disagreement upon which student to back for mayor. If more than one student decides to seek the position of mayor, the student voting block would be weakened.

To believe that students will do anything as a group is perhaps unjustifiable. Yet, if students want to achieve a set of common goals, or elect a common "voice of the students", the best way to do that would be to form a block of votes. If a student coalition is formed, a first step to having a voice in city government will have been taken.

A second step to gaining a strong voice in city government, would be election of students to the City Council. A change from the present system of electing Council members at large would help students elect a member to the decision making body of Carbondale. Presently, any force the student voting block has is diluted because it is diffused among all votes in the city.

Whatever the outcome of the elections, student participation in the election process is a vital stimulus for having issues of concern to the students openly debated.

Perhaps students can identify with a statement of Bragg: "I've been an armchair critic of government for a long time, and I've decided that I'm going to give our form of government a fighting chance before I give up on it."

Some advantages of a lowered drinking age

By Bill Layne
Editorial Page Editor

The campaign by the Thompson Point Executive Council to have the beer and wine drinking age legally lowered to 18 is definitely right-on.

It's right-on because: 1. The increase in the number of persons eligible to buy beer and wine should force local beer and wine merchants to lower their prices due to increased sales.

2. The increase in the number of persons eligible to buy beer and wine should force local merchants to build more establishments in order to accommodate the increase in patrons.

3. 18-year-olds have as much on their minds today as 19-year-olds, thus just as much to try and escape by drinking.

4. Fathers won't have to worry about their 18-year-old daughter getting busted for drinking under age.

5. 18-year-olds won't have to buy some wine a pint of Muscatel so he'll buy them a six-pack of Busch.

6. 18-year-olds won't have to worry about losing their 19-year-old friend's IDs anymore. (This might cut down on the number of duplicate IDs made at registration, but someone has to suffer when reforms are being made.)

7. And finally, it's right-on because 18-year-olds should become accustomed to taverns closing on election day. After all, 18-year-olds also vote now.

War on inflation moves to the streets

By Arthur Hoppe

What a dramatic scene in my neighborhood! As church bells pealed, we gathered in the street to enlist in the President's War on Inflation.

The crowd joined arms to sing the war's theme song, "Over Here," as pretty girls wearing WIN buttons handed out the White-House-approved enlistment forms. "I enlist as an Inflation Fighter and Energy Saver for the duration," they grimly read.

"It sounds so exciting," said old Mrs. Murdoch, eagerly penciling in her name. "I can't wait to tighten my belt and eat more peanuts."

"It's not so easy in the front lines," I warned her. "You've got to eat more rice and cotton, too."

The crowd had taken up the patriotic chant: "Grow more! Waste less! Grow More! Waste less!" A bearded young man squatted in the street, folded his arms and began shouting, "Hell, no! Won't grow!"

We gathered angrily around him. "The least you could do is apply as a conscientious objector for two years' alternative service," I said, "maybe punching extra holes in a belt factory."

"I won't cooperate in an immoral war," muttered the scowling youth.

"Immoral!" cried Mr. Crannich, lifting his cane. "How can you say that when we're going to eliminate oil-fired plants from the nation's base-loaded electrical capacity, liberalize investment tax credits and provide that all dividends on preferred stocks, issued for cash, be fully deductible by the issuing company?"

But the kid didn't have the guts for combat and he fled to Canada. Judging by the mood of the crowd, there'll never be an amnesty for the likes of him.

A gaunter colonel in a white suit and string tie, passed among us, crying, "Support the war effort—waste less!" He was selling Kentucky Fried Chicken Bones.

The crowd, now choking with emotion and chicken bones, changed the chant to, "Drive less! Heat less!"

An unwary passing motorist was stoned and severely injured. Within minutes, every street light on the block was shattered.

Ten-year-old Billy Breen was cut on the cheek by a shard of flying glass. His mother gathered him in her arms. "I didn't raise my boy to be a soldier," she sobbed.

Under the circumstances, we tolerantly forgave her pacifist sentiment. "Don't you know there's a war on, Mrs. Breen?" I said quietly.

"War," she said, lifting her chin bravely, is hell. But what isn't?"

Half the crowd was not chanting, "More taxes! More taxes!", while the other half, in counterpoint, was responding with, "Hit us again, hit us again, harder, harder!" A young man, carried away, shouldered his old kit bag, embraced his tearful mother in fond farewell and marched off to join The Future Farmers of America.

A brass band struck up the Winssocki Fight Song, to which we sang, "Buckle tight, America, buckle tight. You can win, America, if you'll buckle right..."

That grizzled combat veteran, old Sarge Sergeant, was called on to make a speech. He tottered up on the bunting-draped stage, his chest festooned with campaign ribbons from The War on Poverty, The War on Pollution, The War on Crime and the ought-eight War on The Boll Weevil.

"I fit in 'em all and I'll fit in this 'un," he said.

The crowd went wild, screaming, "WIN! WIN! WIN!" But I think old Sarge is getting senile. For an odd look came in his eye.

"But jest once," he said, "I'd sure like to settle for a tie."

Another side of the raft trip

To the Daily Egyptian:

It was an exciting and rewarding experience for most of the 140 Design 201 students and friends that participated in the Fifth Annual Float Trip Project of that class. Students wishing to go had to design and build a craft to carry them and their gear for the 36 miles, three-day float trip. The otherwise, beautiful experience was marred when 21 of the group's cars were towed away from out take-out point in Doniphan, Mo.

The Daily Egyptian on October 11, printed a letter from Dennis Rezag, Senior, Creative Writing, who was a participant in the float trip, but was not a Design 201 student. Dennis said, "...irrate rafters were forced to pay a $12 towing fee and had to delay their return to Carbondale two or three hours before finding the sheriff's house to retrieve their confiscated vehicles." Dennis also said that I (being the instructor) should negotiate their refunds from the sheriff's office.

We were indeed frustrated by this incident, especially in light of the fact we had asked for assistance in finding an appropriate parking place from the Doniphan City Police. In past years they had allowed us to park in the area of the police station, but this year firmly said "no" and suggested we park in the general area where we subsequently did. The next day these cars were towed away by a tow service owned by a deputy sheriff. Frustrated we were, but not irrate, for we solved our immediate problem by having a boat go down river in advance of the rafts and begin to shuttle the cars back to the river, having paid the towing charges. Since Rezag's raft was the 18th to arrive and my list shows none of that crew contributed anything toward the $252 that was paid, I doubt if he was seriously inconvenienced, yet alone deserving of a refund.

As for the "red-necked harassment" he stated "locals circled SIU rafts until the rafts became swamped with water and sank, causing students to lose their equipment and forcing them into the icy, swift-moving current." I am certain this is more fish story than fact. It would have been far more representative if Rezag had mentioned the Doniphan fisherman who started out before dawn Sunday morning to come up river and find our camp in order to forewarn us that our cars had been towed, or he might have sighted another local resident who came to the river on our last evening and offered his yard for our parking lot next year, or possibly you might have mentioned the many jon boats that waited to assist rafts at difficult bends in the river, at such appropriately named places as "Bugger Boo Bay" and "Gooseneck Bend." The very purpose of the project was to deal with creative comprehensive planning and problem solving. I feel the group did a marvelous job of doing just that. Rezag might want to consider taking one or two design courses second semester to supplement his creative writing courses. Apparently each of the areas of study are rather well taught.

Casting doubts on campaign

To the Daily Egyptian:

We would like to object to the misleading campaign advertisements of Gale Williams as printed in your paper. While we do not endorse any one candidate we cannot but abhor the deceptive campaign advertisements employed by this man.

In the ad, "Meet Your Candidate", we specifically object to the following:

1. His use of the concept of seniority. There is no seniority system in the Illinois General Assembly.

2. Even if there were a "seniority system" in the Illinois House, Mr. Williams would have lost his seniority in 1972 when he gave up his seat to run for the Illinois State Senate.

3. In his campaign advertisements Mr. Williams implies that he is currently a member of the Illinois House. This is not true, and we cannot help but believe that this is a deliberate attempt to mislead the public through the use of ambiguous statements.

In a second ad, "Are You Paying High Real Estate Taxes?", Gale Williams accuses one of his opponents, Bruce Richmond of Murphysboro, of reporting an assessed value of $9,460 of his property to the tax assessor, while at the same time reporting to the public an assessed value of $58,128 for his home and property. The implication being that one of his opponents has cheated the taxpayers by under-assessing his own property.

Again we object,

1. Richmond does not list his own property assessment, this is done by the Supervisor of Assessments for Jackson County.

2. The $58,128 is Mr. Richmond's total net worth, while $9,468 is the assessed value of his property. It is logical that the assessed property value would be substantially smaller than his total assets.

And finally, the Daily Egyptian and Student Tenant Union have exposed yet another false and misleading ad of Gale Williams. We refer to the Royal Rental housing ad placed by an apparently non-existent student housing group, whose members are not students. This appears to be a blatant attempt to win SIU student votes through deception.

It is our opinion that Gale Williams is conducting a campaign based on lies, innuendo, and character assassination of one opposing candidate. There are four candidates for three seats in this race, yet Gale Williams is the only one who has resorted to these tactics. We hope the voters of the 58th District will be able to see through these ads and defeat such a candidate. This is not the type of representative that Southern Illinois needs in Springfield.

Replace garage with bike paths

To the Daily Egyptian:

The whole idea of a parking complex to help eliminate the overcrowding of four-wheeled tin cans is a great idea. With a huge parking complex such as this it will help to secure our concrete airship (Fanner) from blowing away. But $800,000 or so for another concrete block? That is a hell of a lot for only 360 plus self-propelled tin cans. One might remember that there are many bicycles on campus and that on the inner campus, bike paths are needed as well as convenient and well-built bike racks. Now we must build a complex for 360 Detroit wonders and ignore the 10,000 bicycles on campus. As a bicycle committee member last year, I recall looking at plans for paths and routes as well as parking spaces and I remember that the cost of the most elaborate of these was much less than half of a new proposed waste of money. Improved paths and racks for bicycles will help 19,000 students and thousands of University workers. A parking complex will only benefit building contractors and the lucky drivers of some 360 over powered go-karts.

Letters to the Daily Egyptian

The Daily Egyptian welcomes expression of opinions from all members of the University community. Winners are requested to be concise and, in the event the subject has a time element, to bring letters to the Daily Egyptian newsroom as early in the day as possible. The editors reserve the right to condense letters to permit a larger variety of opinions, to correct minor typographical and grammatical errors, and to edit out material that is considered libelous or in bad taste. Letters should be typed, double-spaced, and accompanied by the full address and signature of the writer.

Pro photographers paid well

By Tim Hastings
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

If making a bundle is the college graduate's goal, then the commercial photography students have it made.

Starting pay for commercial photographers is between $25 and $30 an hour.

Commercial photography is taught as part of the professional photography specialization in the Department of Cinema and Photography.

It is a broad field that includes promotional and advertising pictures of products, Gareth Goodger-Hill, assistant professor of cinema and photography said.

Paul Kluber, a senior majoring in commercial photography would like to have a career as a fashion photographer. The high pay is a big attraction, Kluber said.

With one cover photo for Cosmopolitan magazine a photographer can make $25,000. It also is fun to work with beautiful models, Kluber said.

Goodger-Hill, commercial photography teacher, said he worked professionally in California, Oregon and Canada before coming to SIU.

Goodger-Hill said he never worked at exotic locations like moonlit beaches or rugged mountaintops. However, he almost was trampled when he slipped and fell in the path of a marching band he was photographing in Canada.

"Rather than walking on me they broke formation and marched around," he said.

Commercial photographers take pictures for mail-order catalogs, billboards, point-of-purchase advertising, book jackets, record covers and greeting cards.

Because most commercial photos are taken indoors, knowledge of studio lighting is important.

Good lighting improves the visual impact and reproduction value of the photo, Goodger-Hill said.

The commercial photographer also learns how to arrange products for still life shots, and how to work with models.

Many commercial photography students put themselves through school by taking pictures for weddings, newspapers and advertising agencies, Goodger-Hill said.

Kluber had summer jobs with a firm in Peoria, Ill. doing catalog and promotion photography. Presently he is making pictures for an SIU campus housing brochure.

Internships give students on-the-job training and academic credit. Communico, a general advertising agency in St. Louis is one company that uses interns from SIU, Goodger-Hill said.

In September the commercial photography students attended a seminar in St. Louis on photographing metal sponsored by Kodak.

For their first job, most graduates from the commercial photography program will go to work for an established studio, Goodger-Hill said.

The best job markets today are in Atlanta and Dallas, Kluber said.

Jury reprimands newsmen

METROPOLIS, Ill. (AP)—A Massac County special grand jury has returned no indictments in its investigation of alleged official misconduct, but it issued a report critical of newsmen and others for precipitating the inquiry.

In a statement issued with the grand jury report, Judge John Clayton of Marion, said the investigation, begun July 8, was so expensive it "will break the financial back of Massac County government in 1975." He did not disclose its price but noted a special prosecutor and other personnel had to be hired.

Clayton, who supervised the grand jury's work, said the investigation was begun after reports of alleged misconduct were "given widespread circulation by certain of the news media." He named no news outlet.

The jury was formed after the discovery of a $13,207.03 shortage in the county treasurer's office. Mary Ann Smith, a bookkeeper, pleaded guilty to charges of taking the money over a four-year period and was sentenced last Wednesday to five years probation.

A special audit made in connection with the grand jury investigation found no other shortages but did point out some "minor irregularities" and recommended bookkeeping changes.

'Wizards' to compete

Pinball enthusiasts from all over the midwest are expected to participate in the Third Annual Wizards Tournament Nov. 22, 23, and 24 at the Downstairs Arcade, 611 S. Illinois.

Phil Viator, Arcade manager, said he expects 75 participants. Viator said the tournament was "a pretty special thing last year." It was covered on national television and by the Associated Press.

The entry fee is $5 which entitles the player to play 20 machines, Viator said. The tournament will have 13 semi-finalists. On the last day, seven finalists will compete for the first prize of 2,001 dimes.

Door prizes and other awards will be given.

Applications available for exchange program

Applications and information on International Research and Exchange Board (IREX) exchange programs with the Soviet Union and Eastern Europe are now available according to J.R. Kupeck, of the Department of Foreign Languages and Literatures and SIU representative to IREX.

Anyone interested in the 1975-76 programs should contact Kupeck at room 2043 in the Fanner Building or phone him at 536-5571.

Kupeck listed several important deadlines for the various programs covered under IREX.

The deadline for application for 1975-76 exchange of graduate students and young faculty is Nov. 1. This program will be limited to 40 U.S. participants.

Nov. 15 is the deadline for senior research scholars wishing to apply for exchange with the Soviet Union. The limit is 10 Americans for this program.

Deadline for language teachers wishing to engage in the summer, 1975 exchange, which will include 30 teachers, is Dec. 1.

Exchange of senior scholars in Humanities and Social Sciences with the Soviet Academy of Sciences has an application deadline of Nov. 15.

IREX exchange with Bulgaria, Romania, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Poland and Yugoslavia carry a Nov. 15 application deadline.

Any students of Russian or Soviet area studies interested in study and travel opportunities in Eastern Europe and the Soviet Union should contact Kupeck, who is also the Director of the Russian Study Tour, to the Soviet Union in the summer of 1975.

Kupeck has brochures, booklets and memorandums available concerning finances and other pertinent information.

Residents protest rezoning

By Robert Mau
Student Writer

Residents of Valle-Hi Subdivision oppose a proposed ordinance which would allow rezoning of Pennant Supply Company's land.

The ordinance, if passed by the Carbondale City Council, would rezone eight acres of the Pennant Supply Company from residential to light industrial.

Dorothy Smith, owner of several lots in the area, said, "If Pennant Supply is allowed to expand, land value will reduce and it will be much more difficult for me to sell."

Bill Nickell, R.R.M. 2, Murphysboro, said "It is not true that Pennant was there first." Nickell told the council in Monday night's informal meeting that the surrounding area "had already been planned residential before Pennant came."

"There is still a considerable amount of nice land," Nickell said. "It will not remain attractive if Pennant is allowed to expand."

Russel Dutcher, resident of Valle-Hi Subdivision, said if Pennant Supply Company were allowed to expand, "it would increase the truck traffic along Wood Road, which is already hazardous."

Sewage facilities are insufficient to allow Pennant to expand, Dutcher said.

'Waist lands' to be beautified

By Kathleen Takemoto
Student Writer

TexTan Welhausen Co. wants to beautify America's "waist lands."

So the Texas firm is sponsoring a men's belt and buckle design contest, open to any university or college student.

Scholarships of $1,000, $750 and $500 will be awarded to entries. Winners also will receive a trip to Los Angeles in February to attend the Annual Men's Wear Retailers of America Show.

All entries must be submitted to TexTan by Dec. 1, and must be accompanied by an official entry form, which requires the signature of a professor or department head. Forms are available from Thelma Berry in the Department of Clothing and Textiles.

According to contest rules, only one entry per person is allowed.

Oshel, Simon to campaign in Carbondale Wednesday

Paul Simon and Val Oshel, Congressional candidates from Illinois' 29th district, will appear in Carbondale Wednesday to partake in several campaign activities.

The two will appear at a meeting at the First Presbyterian Church, 310 S. University, sponsored by the League of Women Voters and the Golden Goose Senior Citizens Club.

Oshel, R-Harrisburg, also will campaign at the Student Center at 10 a.m. He will appear in the area designated for interest group tables in the center's first floor corridor.

Simon, D-Carbondale, and Oshel will attend a church luncheon which will be followed by a "meet the candidates" session.

Both candidates will speak for 15 minutes, followed by a question and answer session. The meeting is open to the public.

WSIU-FM-TV

Programs scheduled for Wednesday on WSIU-TV channel 8 are:

7 p.m.—The Men Who Made Movies (c), "Vincente Minelli." Spotlighting the MGM director, the program is studied with excerpts from his musicals, including "Meet Me in St. Louis," "An American in Paris," "The Pirate," "Ziegfeld Follies," "Cabin in the Sky," "Bandwagon" and "Gigi."

8 p.m.—Rubenstein: "Great Performers" (c); 9:30 p.m.—Video Visionaries (c), "Violence Sonata" by Stan VanDerBeek. The thesis of this work is "violence is the inability of man to communicate." Using videotape, film, slides, live actors performing before a studio audience and call-ins, the production creates a rare opportunity for immediate two-way communications using television.

10:30 p.m.—Bergman Film Festival (c), "Winter Light" (1962) Drama. Second in Bergman's trilogy of stories about human loneliness. Max Von Sydow, Ingrid Thulin and Gunnel Lindblom co-star.

Morning, afternoon and evening programs scheduled for Wednesday on WSIU-FM (91.9):

Peanuts kids brighten stage

By Deborah Singer
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Although none of the cast members are actually six-years-old, they still do justice to the musical production of "You're a Good Man Charlie Brown."

Opening Friday at the Market Street Dinner Theatre, the production concentrates on the philosophies expressed in the Charles Schultz comic strip, "Peanuts."

New talent has been brought to the Market Street stage for the production. This talent includes George Sterling Smith, an actor who received professional training at the New York Academy of Dramatic Arts, Jane Killingsworth, Robin Olderman, Tom Mescher and Bob Cerchio.

A well-known performer on the Market Street stage, Kevin Purcell, rounds out the cast. Purcell appeared in past productions of the "Fantasticks," "Butterflies are Free," and a children's show, "Androcles and the Lion."

Directing the show is Brad Trowbridge, a permanent member of the Market Street Theatre company. Trowbridge is no newcomer to the Market Street stage, having performed in the "Fantasticks."

Under Trowbridge's direction, the show deals with the openness of early childhood, and the true fondness which the characters of Charlie Brown, Lucy, Schroeder, Linus, Patty and Snoopy feel for each other.

"Charlie Brown" will run every Friday and Saturday through Nov. 9. Tickets are $9.50 on Fridays and $10.50 on Saturdays. Student night is every Thursday. Tickets are $3. For reservations call 997-9909.

Zionism seminar topic

"Zionism" is the topic of a seminar co-sponsored by the Hillel House and the Upper Room Coffeehouse Wednesday night.

At the invitation of both organizations, Richard Stoehr, a Christian Zionist from Jerusalem, will speak and show a film at 8 p.m. in the Hillel House.

Hillel, the Jewish student organization and the Upper Room, a Christian fellowship share a related interest in Zionism.

Zionists believe in the reconstruction and defense of Israel. Many Zionist Jews are returning to live in Israel. Rabbi Earl Vinecour of Hillel House said.

The founding Israel and the rebuilding of the temple in Jerusalem are prophesied in the New Testament, Jerry Bryant, spokesman for the Upper Room Coffeehouse, said.

Stoehr, a Christian pastor and tour guide in Israel, will show a film describing recent archeological explorations of the temple and explain the religious significance of the rebuilding the temple.

Vinecour said the seminar's purpose is not to convert Jews to Christianity.

Tuesday Stoehr will show the film, "The World Conference on the Holy Spirit," at 7:30 p.m. at the Upper Room Coffeehouse. The public is invited to both meetings.

Ex-narc to speak on pot laws

By Diane Solberg
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

John Finlator, retired deputy director of the Bureau of Narcotics will speak at the Student Center Auditorium on the reformation of marijuana laws, Thursday, at 8 p.m.

R. Keith Stroup, executive director of the National Organization for the Reform of Marijuana Laws, (NORML), will also speak.

The speakers are sponsored by the local chapter of NORML, which is a recognized student organization.

Finlator spent 37 years with the bureau searching for narcotic's dealers and arresting them. He is the author of "The Drugged Nation," which describes his years at the bureau.

Finlator agrees with the philosophy of NORML, which is to reform marijuana laws, even though it does not condone the use of the drug, according to Bruce "Buzz" Talbot, Jackson County coordinator for NORML.

Stroup, who was raised in Southern Illinois, was an attorney for the National Commission on Product Safety before forming NORML.

Highlights of the film "Reefer Madness" will also be shown.

The Graduate Student Council Speakers Bureau, the Student Senate, Student Government Activities Council, and the local chapter of NORML are funding the speaker's visit.

Joliet prison faces desegregation suit

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court told a lower court Tuesday to reconsider a decision on charges of racial discrimination in the Illinois State Penitentiary at Joliet.

The 7th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Chicago, where the case

SIU airplane force-landed

A university owned plane force-landed in a cornfield near Marion Tuesday.

Gene Seibert, director of operations at the Southern Illinois Airport said the airfield was contacted shortly after 3 p.m. by John Downen, who checked out the plane, and told of the forced landing.

Seibert said the Cessna 150 airplane, owned by Air Institute and Services of SIU, is rented out to individuals with proper flying credentials.

Downen told airport officials no one was injured, although he was bruised from the landing, Seibert said.

Tom Podraza, a flight instructor, was also in the plane, Seibert said. Podraza is not connected with the University, he added.

Seibert said Podraza as pilot-in-command apparently took over the plane when engine trouble developed.

The flight plan registered at the airport, said Seibert, called for a solo flight, but Podraza was picked up at the Harrisburg Airport.

returns, had ordered a new trial on the charges. The appeals court was directed to reconsider its decision in view of a Supreme Court decision earlier this year on prisoners' rights.

The case was originally brought by Charles Thomas and Luther W. Miller, black inmates at Joliet who charged discrimination in cell assignments.

Judge Richard B. Austin of U.S. District Court ruled against them, saying they had not shown discrimination.

The appeals court, in a 2-1 decision, disagreed with Austin and ordered the new trial. It held that once the prisoners had shown there was separation of the races, it was up to the prison officials to prove that there was no discrimination.

MEET YOUR CANDIDATE

Gale Williams is your candidate in the 58th District for State Representative. Gale has been a member of the Illinois House of Representatives for the past 10 years. Due to the retirement of so many members from Southern Illinois, Gale will be No. 1 in seniority on the Republican side. With seniority he will be able to serve you more effectively than the Freshmen members of the House of Representatives from this area. Gale also has a 97% voting record on significant legislation concerning Southern Illinois. He has a superior attendance record as he had only missed five days out of his ten years of service before June 21, 1972, when he had an acute muscle spasm. He was then forced to take two weeks rest by his physician.

GALE WILLIAMS CARES ABOUT SOUTHERN ILLINOIS

When he returns to Springfield next year, Gale Williams hopes to accomplish many things. A few of them are:

1. Reduce real estate taxes on all homes by returning a larger share of the state income tax back to the counties.
2. Abolish real estate taxes on the homes of senior citizens who at age 65 earn less than $10,000 per year.
3. Abolish tuition at all state universities for students whose parents earn less than $15,000 per year.
4. Completion of the long overdue four lane highway to St. Louis.

Do you care about Southern Illinois? GALE WILLIAMS CARES. Vote for Gale Williams on November 5 to show you care.

Arena has 'exotic' appetite

By Geof Skinner
Student Writer

September marked an important occasion in the life of the SIU Arena—the tenth anniversary of its official opening.

Situated on the south edge of campus, the Arena rests like a giant, tan turtle, forever basking in its four-acre domed roof in the sun, rain, snow and sleet.

This beast was built with funds from a $53 million bond referendum passed in 1961. $4.5 million was allocated for Arena construction.

Before the actual vote, former SIU President Delyte Morris campaigned throughout Southern Illinois for passage of the referendum.

Morris promised the structure would be a multi-purpose facility, used by the entire community. The voters apparently liked what they heard.

Although it was not approved until 1961, the Arena was on the drawing boards in 1952, waiting for the funds which would breath life into it.

Arena construction began in March, 1962. It was opened prematurely, in June of 1964 when rain forced graduation exercises into the building before it was totally completed.

Although born early, this offspring of man's engineering abilities was hale and hardy. It sported a dome 300 feet wide that was supported by 36 steel ribs. An armour of hundreds of cement and wood fiber panels, each weighing over 200 pounds, covered the roof.

An earthy tan glass fiber added the finishing touches to the dome. To complete its attire, the Arena was robed in aluminum panels, brick and native Crab Orchard stone.

Almost immediately after its opening, the Arena's schedule became as varied as an exotic menu. The many activities reflected Morris's promise that the Arena would be a multi-purpose facility.

The menu has been a year-by-year and day-by-day delight. For breakfast, the Arena has gobbled up physical education classes, health classes and various research programs.

For lunch, the Arena has taken in hefty helpings of athletic practices and faculty workouts.

For dinner, the Arena has gobbled up varsity basketball games, gymnastics meets and student intramural activities.

Occasionally, the Arena has helped itself to dessert. This has usually been in the form of live concerts, family shows or other forms of entertainment.

Through all of this, the Arena has maintained a body temperature of 72 degrees. Even crowds of 10,000 don't upset the balance, although indigestion may be caused by clutter and congestion in the system.

In 10 years, the Arena has welcomed enough people to overflow Philadelphia. To be exact, 2.35 million people have passed through the building.

Even after ten years, the Arena sits unmoved by the events that have passed through and by it.

Chop-chop you're dead

Flicks distort karate image

By Mark Reid
Student Writer

Ever since Bruce Lee first kicked his way into the hearts of millions, not to mention their heads, chests and stomachs, the martial arts have been going through a tremendous period of growth.

Kung-fu and karate, two of the many martial arts now practiced in the U.S. have received the greatest amount of exposure.

Good guys no longer have to rely on fast draws or big guns. As a matter of fact anyone who carries a gun in a kung-fu flick has got to be a bad guy and will ultimately be defeated by some unarmed master of the martial arts.

All this hand-to-hand fighting makes for some exciting action scenes but it is no more a true representation of kung-fu and karate than is TV wrestling a representation of Olympic wrestling.

People who enroll in karate training with the idea that they will immediately become deadly masters of the oriental art of self-defense soon realize they had better give that bully down the block a stay of execution.

Real practitioners of kung-fu and karate spend long hours perfecting their basic punches and kicks. Witnesses of beginners practicing basic movements knows there is nothing mystical about the training.

Proficiency takes tedious hours of repetitious training. Most people are only exposed to the finished product and don't realize that even the best practitioner was once a beginner.

A regular karate training session usually begins with warm-up exercises. Stretching exercises are stressed along with a few conditioning exercises such as push-up and leg lifts.

After the students have "Loosened-up," the actual training begins. Basic blocking kicking and punching techniques are practiced.

It is important for students to become proficient in executing basic movements in order to advance in the ranking system. The rank of first degree black belt is conferred on those who have "mastered the basic techniques."

Once a student can perform the basic movements, he is ready to practice kata. A Kata combines the basic techniques of blocking, kicking and punching into a prearranged self-defense form.

A Kata is comparable to a dance routine in which the dancer combines basic steps to produce a flow of movement. The movements in a kata simulate an attack by multiple opponents.

Besides kata, students are taught sparring techniques. Sparring techniques usually consist of a combination of offensive and defensive movements such as kicking and punching or blocking and punching.

Many of the sparring techniques are taken from the practice of kata. Those students exhibiting control over their sparring techniques are well as over their tempers are allowed to "free-spar."

Free-sparring, like kata, simulates actual fighting. The difference is that sparring is done with a partner while kata is practiced singularly. Sparring is simulated in that punches and kicks are pulled and certain vital areas of the body may not be attacked. A student who loses control of his techniques or his temper while sparring is asked to sit down.

Because mental as well as physical discipline is important for development, karate becomes more than just a self-defense or a sport.

Those who stay with the art long enough find their attitudes undergo a subtle change. Self perfection becomes the main goal of the practitioner.

Kung-fu and karate films are exciting to watch but like any Hollywood presentation they are more fiction than fact. The karate killer image is just that, an image.

CLASSIFIED INFORMATION

DEADLINE—Deadline for placing classified ads is 2 p.m. two days in advance of publication, except that deadline for Tuesday ads is Friday at 2 p.m.

PAYMENT—Classified advertising must be paid in advance except for accounts already established. The order form which appears in each issue may be mailed or brought to the office, located in the North wing. Communication building. No refunds on canceled ads.

RATES—Minimum charge is for two lines. Multiple insertion rates are for ads which run on consecutive days without copy change. Use this handy chart to figure cost:

No. of lines	1 day	3 days	5 days	7 days	20 days
2	80	150	200	250	600
3	120	225	300	375	900
4	160	300	400	500	1200
5	200	375	500	625	1500
6	240	450	600	750	1800
7	280	525	700	875	2100
8	320	600	800	1000	2400

One line equals approximately five words. For accuracy, use the order form which appears every day.

REPORT ERRORS AT ONCE

Check your advertisement upon first insertion and please notify us if there is an error. Each ad is carefully proofread, but still an error can occur. The Daily Egyptian will not be responsible for typographical errors except to cancel charge for such portion of advertisement as may have been rendered valueless by such typographical error. Each ad is read back to caller for confirmation. If you notify us the first day of error, we will repeat the ad without charge. SORRY, WE ARE NOT NOTIFIED WITHIN ONE DAY. THE RESPONSIBILITY IS YOURS.

SIU major leaguers

Righthander Rob Klass hurled for Boston's Class A team at Winston-Salem in the same league, winning his only decision in 14 games. Klass started once, while pitching 22 innings with a 4.09 ERA. He fanned 20 and walked 17 batters.

Claude Crockett, a righthanded-hitting outfielder, hit .273 in 44 at-bats for the Cardinals' rookie club at Sarasota, before he was moved up. Crockett completed the year at St. Petersburg in Class A, hitting .238 with two homers and eight RBI's in 122 at-bats.

He joined the team July 26, and remains there now for the Florida Instructional League.

Former firstbasemen Mike Wilbins played mostly second base for the Giants' Class A Decatur team, while hitting .216. Wilbins hit one homer and drove in 19 runs.

Overtime win

The SIU water polo club defeated Southeastern Mo. in double overtime-sudden death, 11-10.

Jamie Powell scored SIU's winning goal during sudden-death play. Powell, a member of the second unit, was called into action after five of SIU's six starters fouled out. It was Powell's second goal of the season.

"The second team pulled the game out for us," SIU coach Bob Steele remarked happily.

Dave Swenson was high scorer for the Salukis with six goals.

"He was very sound fundamentally," Decatur coach Tom Sanchez, a former Saluki player, remarked. "All SIU players are, which is a credit to Itchy Jones. The Giants like to get players from Southern."

Dark on DH

OAKLAND (AP) — Manager Alvin Dark says the rule prohibiting use of designated hitters in the World Series doesn't hurt his Oakland A's against the Los Angeles Dodgers.

In the American League, batting orders include a player hitting in place of the pitcher. The National League still requires pitchers to take their turns at the plate.

World Series play follows the traditional approach of the National League.

"Not being able to use a designated hitter does not hurt our ball club this year," Dark said Wednesday. "I'd put the hitting of our Ken Holtzman and Jim Hunter against the pitchers hitting for the other team."

In the first World Series game at Los Angeles, Holtzman hit a double, went to third on a wild pitch and came home on a suicide squeeze as the A's won 3-2. Holtzman's initial trip to the plate Saturday was the first time an Oakland pitcher had batted this season.

Dark implied that the Dodgers might have stronger men in a designated hitter's spot if the rule were in effect.

Former Salukis eye the big leagues

By Ron Sutton
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

A half-dozen or so former Salukis are getting "Itchy" to reach the big leagues. That's the outlook after another year of seasoning for 16 former prodigies of SIU baseball coach Itchy Jones.

Five Jones-coached players reached the "biggies" this year, four of them appearing ready to stay on the scene for some time.

Jim Dwyer, Cardinal flychaser, sat on the bench for much of the 1974 season, but delivered a key sacrifice fly in the last week to beat Pittsburgh in the eleventh inning. At best, the number four Redbird outfielder this year, Dwyer figures to stick, anyway, while veterans Jose Cruz and/or Luis Melendez are traded this winter.

The son of a Chicago tavern operator batted .279 in 86 at-bats for St. Louis, with two homers and 11 RBI's. In a mid-season stay at Tulsa, the Cards' Triple-A team, the lefty hit .336 with a homer and 15 RBI's in 119 at-bats.

Duane Kuiper, who graduated in 1972, a year after Dwyer, was the most impressive Saluki in the majors this season. After batting .310 with 172 hits in Triple-A action at Oklahoma City, Kuiper sizzled at a .500 pace in 22 at-bats for Cleveland in late September.

The lefthanded-hitting second-baseman scored seven runs and drove in four in his brief stay, impressing new manager Frank Robinson.

"I think we can use some strength at second base, although Duane Kuiper might be able to help," Robinson told reporters at a press conference after the season ended.

Skip Pitlock, '69, was the only former Jones player to keep his head above the minor league water throughout the season. Pitlock, originally drafted by the Giants, but since traded, was 3-3 with a 4.42 earned run average for the Chicago White Sox.

Pitching in 106 innings, the young lefty struggled with his control, walking 55 batters while fanning 68.

Pitlock's college teammate Bill Stein, originally drafted by St. Louis, was reunited with Pitlock in late September. Stein started at third base for the Sox' Triple-A team, Iowa, all year, finishing with 175 hits, 16 homers, 72 RBI's and a .325 average.

With the White Sox, the righthanded hitter hit .279 and drove in five runs in 43 trips to the plate.

Mike Rogodzinski, another member of the '69 Saluki team which went to the College World Series, saw sparing action with Philadelphia this season. A lefthanded hitter, he managed just a single in 15 pinch-hit attempts for an .067 average.

With the Phillies' Triple-A Toledo club, Rogodzinski hit .228 with nine homers, 29 RBI's in 259 at-bats as an outfielder.

Two other former Salukis—Mike Eden and Dan Radison—surfaced to Triple-A in 1974.

Eden, '72, finished the year as third-baseman for Phoenix, hitting .313 with 15

Giants' farm club. He opened the year with Amarillo, Tex., in Double-A, hitting .296 in 372 at-bats. A spray hitter, he banged just four home runs over the year, but fanned only ten times in 131 atbats with Phoenix.

Radison, also a '72 graduate, opened the year catching for the Cardinals' Triple-A team, but hit just .207 in 40 games. Sent down to Arkansas in Double-A, he saw little action, hitting .176 in 12 games.

Danny Thomas, '72, had his Double-A season interrupted by a broken leg, sitting out June 4 to July 20. For the year, the firstsacker hit .255 with two homers and 26 RBI's in 188 at-bats for the Brewers' Shreveport, La., team.

Joe Wallis, '73, a lefthanded-hitting outfielder, opened with the Cubs' Double-A Midland, Tex., team, hitting just .204 in 108 at-bats, before a demotion to Key West, Fla. For the Class A team, Wallis ripped 16 roundtrippers with 39 RBI's and a .221 average in 281 at-bats.

"The last week or two, he started switch-hitting," said Cub farm director Verdie Hins. "He's working on it now in the Arizona Instructional League."

Lefthanded pitcher Rick Ware, '73, followed the same trail. He pitched three innings with a 3.00 ERA, before moving to Key West, where he won three, lost eight, saved ten and posted a 2.59 ERA in 41 games.

Ken Kral, '73, followed his former teammates to Key West, but struggled to a .184 average with three homers, 21 RBI's. The previous year, the righthanded outfielder sparkled for Bradenton's rookie club, hitting .310.

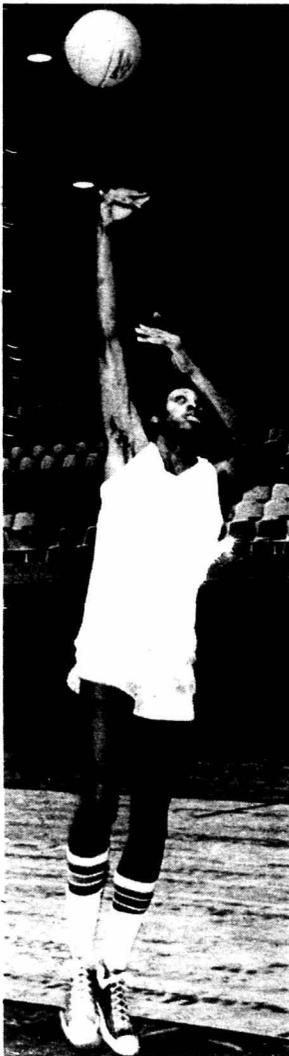

Another member of the '73 team, Larry Calufetti, hit .233 while catching in 69 games for the Mets' Class A Visalia, Calif., squad. In 245 at-bats, he slammed 14 doubles and a pair of homers with 26 RBI's.

None of last spring's draftees fared particularly well in his first year.

Righthanded pitcher Scott Waltemate completed one of nine starts for Montreal's Class A Kingston club. He won two, lost six and posted a 4.76 ERA in 13 outings, covering 70 innings.

"The statistics are not that good, but he did a pretty good job," Bill McKenzie, Expo's assistant minor league and scouting director, said. "We had a very young club going against veterans and older players, because it was our first year in the Carolina League."

Major scores another first in football career

By Bruce Shapin
Daily Egyptian Sports Editor

To Vic Major, college football is starting just like it did in high school, with a touchdown.

Last week against Temple, Major ran a kickoff back 97 yards for a TD the first time he touched the ball in his collegiate career. He accomplished the same feat in high school when he started his football career.

"The first time I touched the ball in high school I scored on a 30 yard sweep," the freshman from Biloxi, Miss., remarked, as he suited up for Tuesday's practice.

Major fumbled the Temple kickoff on the three yard line, but picked it up at the five. "I wanted to catch it, but I dropped it," Major explained. "When I picked the ball up, I looked and saw that it was clear down the right sidelines. The guys on the kickoff team really blocked well, and the hole opened up."

Major ran untouched down the sidelines, as he galloped to the only SIU six-pointer of the day.

"Coach Weaver told us to go out and get good field position," Major laughed. "I guess we did that."

"Major had a nice run," Weaver said. "He is one of the players we will look at on the depth chart and see if there is some way to work him in."

Major, who also carried the ball twice for 23 yards against Temple, has now been promoted to second string tailback, behind Joe Laws.

Major played his high school ball at Biloxi High School, where he played in the defensive and offensive backfields. As a junior, he intercepted three passes to help lead his team to a 39-21 victory in the Meninack Bowl, held in Jacksonville, Florida.

Even though the 190-pound running back is only 18 years old, he has seen the world. "I have lived all over the world because my father has been in the Air Force for 19½ years," Major said. Major, who has lived in Miss. for the last three years, has lived in Japan, Hawaii, and Okinawa.

Major was recruited by Weaver and defensive backfield coach Bob Hailey. "After talking to the coaches from SIU I really liked the program," Major said.

"Some kids can go to Alabama where they have a great football team already. I wanted to go to a school that was average and try to make it a good team. I'll get a better feeling doing that, instead of going to a school that already was good."

Major's 97 yard touchdown run was the second longest in Saluki history. The record is held by Bob Hasberry and Carver Shannon.

Major should have several other opportunities to break the kickoff record during the next four years.

SIU football fans will get their first look at Major and the 1974 Salukis when they entertain Northern Illinois Saturday at McAndrew Stadium. Game time is 1:30 p.m.

Oakland wins

OAKLAND—The Oakland A's scored two unearned runs in the third inning and went on to defeat the Los Angeles Dodgers 3-2 in the third game of the World Series.

The win gives Oakland a 2-1 edge in the best-of-seven series.

The A's broke through for two runs in the third inning, both of them unearned following Joe Ferguson's error.

Jim Hunter, who checked the Dodgers on one hit through the first three innings, struck out to open the bottom of the fourth.

But Bill North singled to left for his first hit of the Series. And on a hit-and-run play, he went all the way around to third when Bert Campaneris grounded to Ron Cey, who made a sparkling stop of his hot grounder.

North's daring running paid off. gaffer Sal Bando walked, Reggie Jackson hit a concner in front of the plate and Ferguson bobbled the ball for an error.

Famed ghost will reappear

CHICAGO (AP) — It's Red Grange Day Saturday at Champaign, Ill., and the appearance of the famed Galloping Ghost of a half-century ago may help Illinois keep alive its title bid in the Big Ten football race.

The Illini, tied with defending co-champions Ohio State and Michigan for the conference lead at 2-0, play host to Michigan State in the Golden Anniversary of Memorial Stadium.

It was at the dedication of Memorial Stadium on Oct. 18, 1924 that Harold Red Grange exploded for one of the most memorable performances in college football history.

Against a power Michigan team, Grange streaked for four long touchdowns runs in the first 12 minutes of play, later ran for a fifth TD and passed for a sixth in a stunning 39-14 Illini victory.

"I have never met Red Grange, but his name still means a lot to me and to our players," Illini coach Bob Blackman told the Chicago Football Writers by telephone Tuesday.

"There's no question that Red Grange is the most famous name in college football, and many agree that he's the player who really made pro football the great attraction it is today."

Grange is due to arrive in Champaign Thursday and, after holding a press conference late Friday afternoon, will be honored at a banquet Friday night along with fewer than a dozen of Grange's surviving teammates.

"Grange will be introduced to the Illinois players, but I don't think he will give any big oration," said Blackman.

"He's a very modest type. He tells how he got his famous jersey number 77, by saying 'I just happened to be standing in line between the guys who got 76 and 78.'"

Grange, 71, resides in retirement at Indian Lake Estates, Fla., and last made an appearance at Champaign as a football broadcaster at the Illinois-Minnesota game Oct. 19, 1957.
