Environmental group re-established

By Phil Pearson
Staff Writer

The Student Environmental Center is trying to rejuvenate itself and become more active in regional environmental issues, according to Vince Kelly, S.E.C.'s organizer.

Kelly said the center is a registered student organization that was first organized in the early 1970s but faded from sight in the early 1980s. He said there is a lot of interest in the group because of increased public awareness of environmental issues.

Kelly, who is seeking a master's degree in linguistics, said the center will have up to 14 committees concentrating on regional environmental issues. The organization is regrouping, and, once organized under an amended constitution, will become more active.

Jackie Turner, a Regional Association of Concerned Environmentalists member who spoke to the group, said public pressure is the way to get governmental agencies to do what is right for the environment.

Turner told the 50 or so people in attendance the public must be involved or the public lands will be destroyed out of greed.

"They (the Forest Service) will tell you they are caring for the land and the people, but they're not," Turner said. "They are looking out for the timber industry."

Turner said public pressure from and support rallied by R.A.C.E. caused the U.S. Forest Service to stop clearcutting, the removal of timber from large tracts of land, in Cave Valley, near Potosi.

"We feel (they stopped cutting) because the public pressure we placed on (the Forest Service)," Turner said.

Turner said one of R.A.C.E.'s biggest successes was stopping the logging in the Cave Valley, home to a number of endangered species, such as Swainson's Warbler and the Indiana Bat.

The Forest Service has regularly released environmental assessments of areas to be cut and claims clearcutting can be done without harm to the environment. Clearcutting and selective cutting is continuing in various areas of the Shawnee National Forest.

Turner said cutting timber on public lands is a method by which the government is subsidizing the lumber companies. She said many companies are careful and cut without hurting the environment, but the big companies don't care.

"I don't have any problems with the small folks. It is the big corporations that are wrecking havoc," Turner said.

Kelly said he had been "eyeing" the S.E.C. and decided to put effort into resurrecting into the organization.

"I decided early in the semester to give eight or ten hours a week of my time," he said.

Kelly said S.E.C. wants to get involved with other organizations and has laid ground work toward alliances with groups like Earth First, the National Organization for the Reform of Marijuana Laws and the Mid-America Peace Project.

Radio-Television department shoots quake documentary

By Tim Crosby
Staff Writer

A massive earthquake struck Carbondale Sunday at 3:30 p.m., causing downed power lines, water main damage and some structural damage.

At least this was the story at one house on West Hill Avenue, where a radio and television class staged the disaster for the taping of the final segment of a 30-minute documentary about the earthquake potential of middle America.

Scott Hodgson, a faculty member in the radio and television department, decided to involve his class in the project. With their help, he directed the taping of the final three minutes of "Mid America's Unsettled Earth," which will run on WSIU-TV channel 8 Sept. 26.

"We thought it was important to make it extremely visual," Hodgson, who worked in the professional field for a number of years before coming to the University, said. "We thought it would have the most impact that way."

Ken Keller, the producer of the documentary, agreed to have the final segment taped at his house. The segment dramatizes what might happen to a family during an actual earthquake.

"The purpose of the program is to set the scene and show people what is being done as far as preparing for an earthquake," Keller, who worked on the documentary off and on for the last

English department plans to offer new degree

By Carrie Pomeroy
Staff Writer

The English department hopes to offer a new master of arts degree with a specialization in creative writing within the next two years.

The department's proposal for the degree, which creative writing professor Rodney Jones said is "a reasonable and moderate extension to an existing curriculum," is being evaluated by the Illinois Board of Higher Education.

"If we can manage to get this through the IBHE, we can be going full-speed the year after next. We can start implementing courses next year," Jones said.

The master's degree in creative writing will have a core requirement of literature courses, Jones said. Students also will take a course in contemporary literature taught by a published author and a graduate workshop class, and will complete a creative thesis, he said.

Jones said the degree requirements would total 30 semester hours.

"It's a good degree for someone who doesn't know if they want to go the traditional literature route or writing," he said.

The establishment of a graduate-level creative writing program has been discussed intermittently for several years, Jones said.

"The English department investigated this years ago at the time they added a composition concentration, but at the time we didn't have the personnel," Jones said.

Jones said the department, which already offers a creative writing specialization at the undergraduate level, presently has the capability to offer a graduate specialization. He said the faculty, which includes nationally known, published authors such as Richard Russo, Philip St. Clair, Donald Hays and himself, could help give students "a sense of the literary landscape."

Russo has published two novels, "Mohawk" and "The Risk Pool." Jones is the author of "The Story They Told Us of Light," "The Unborn," and "Transparent Gestures." Poetry professor Philip St. Clair has published "Little Dog of Iron" and "At the Tent of Heaven."

Puerto Rican residents brace for hurricane

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (UPI) — Massive Hurricane Hugo aimed its eyewall at Puerto Rico Sunday after pounding the Leeward Islands with fierce winds and rains that left an estimated 3,000 people homeless on Guadeloupe.

Puerto Rican authorities evacuated coastal areas and island residents flocked to stores and stocked up on canned goods, bracing themselves for what was predicted to become one of the most destructive hurricanes to sweep the Caribbean Sea in a decade.

The National Hurricane Center in Miami described Hugo as an extremely dangerous hurricane and said the storm, with maximum sustained winds of 140 mph and gusts to 150 mph, was on target to strike Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands.

At 2 p.m., the center of Hugo was located about 185 miles east-southeast of San Juan, Puerto Rico, at latitude 17 degrees north and longitude 63.6 degrees west.

The storm was moving west-northwest at about 12 mph, and the hurricane center said the eye of the storm could pass over Puerto Rico late Sunday or early Monday. The island was expected to begin feeling the impact of the approaching storm around early evening.

Tropical storm force winds extended 200 miles to the east of Hugo's center and hurricane

Sen. Dole advocates limiting semi-automatic weapons

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., said Sunday he would like to see Congress draft a bill limiting the use of semi-automatic weapons and suggested the lawmakers "might go further than the president" in setting such limits.

The nationwide debate over limiting the use of semi-automatic weapons intensified once again this week with a 30-minute killing spree in Louisville, Ky., by Joseph Wesbecker, who killed seven people and wounded 13 with an AK-47 assault rifle before turning another gun on himself.

Dole, in an interview with NBC's "Meet the Press," noted the difficulty in limiting the sale of assault weapons.

"We've looked at ways we could ban some of the guns, and some of the domestic manufacture of some of the weapons like the AK-47, but it's hard to get, hard to describe," the Senate minority leader said.

"Will we do it?" Dole said of suggestions that Congress should take action to limit assault weapons. "We need to find out. Let's get a bill on the Senate floor. Let's find out what happens. There's a chance we might go fur-

Peace process spurred by Israeli minister's trip to Egypt

JERUSALEM (UPI) —The Israeli Cabinet Sunday approved plans for Defense Minister Yitzhak Rabin to visit Egypt in the latest round of diplomatic activity on the Middle East peace process. Government sources confirmed the expected visit but declined to specify when Rabin would travel to Cairo. Egyptian President Hosni Mubarak conveyed an invitation to Rabin last week through Cairo's ambassador to Israel. The invitation is the latest in Mubarak's attempts to advance the stalled Middle East peace process.

Hungary denies consultation with Soviets

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Hungarian Ambassador Peter Varkonyi denied Sunday that his nation consulted with the Soviet Union before allowing thousands of East German citizens to flee to the west. Varkonyi's statement, made in an interview with ABC's "This Week with David Brinkley," came in light of a Washington Post report Sunday that said Hungary did consult with the Soviets and that the Soviets had no objections to the decision, which has openly split the Warsaw Pact into two hostile blocs. East Germany, Czechoslovakia and Romania have bitterly criticized Hungary's move.

Ukrainians march for religious freedom

LVOV, U.S.S.R. (UPI) —More than 150,000 Ukrainians marched through the historic city of Lvov Sunday on the 50th anniversary of the Soviet invasion of the Western Ukraine to press their demands for an end to the ban on the Ukrainian Catholic Church. It was the biggest demonstration in favor of the church in the republic since the invasion in 1939, church officials said. On the anniversary of the Red Army's seizure of the Western Ukraine from Poland, Ukrainian Catholic faithful, who have no church building of their own, held a two-hour outdoor mass led by 15 white-robed priests beneath a canopy of trees.

Bank to increase developing nation loans

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The World Bank said Sunday it will increase its lending to developing nations to between $20 billion and $25 billion in its fiscal year 1990, up from $21.3 billion the year before. The bank's annual report covers the lending of the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development, the World Bank's official name, and its International Development Association affiliate, which leads to the poorest countries under concessionary terms. IBRD lending is expected to range from $15 billion to $19 billion in fiscal year 1990, up from $16.4 billion in the year that ended June 30.

Quayle takes fourth foreign mission to Pacific

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Vice President Dan Quayle, dispatched by President Bush, leaves Monday for his fourth foreign mission, an 11-day trip to the Pacific Rim nations of South Korea, Japan, the Philippines and Malaysia. Quayle's primary mission will be to head the American delegation to the International Democratic Union Conference in Tokyo, a gathering of conservative party leaders from Western democracies. But his itinerary also will include high-level meetings with key officials in each country, as well as his first session with British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher while in Tokyo.

Skoien kicks off campaign for State comptroller office

SPRINGFIELD (UPI) —State Capital Development Board Director Gary Skoien says his experience managing Illinois' $1 billion construction budget qualifies him to seek the Republican nomination for comptroller. Skoien planned to kick off his campaign Monday with a seven-city flyaround, including stops in Chicago, Rockford, Peoria, Springfield, Marion, Waukegan and his hometown of Palatine. Skoien has headed the state's construction management agency since 1983. He said the job gives him the experience to look after the state's finances. The comptroller's spot is the last open position on the Republican ticket.

Talent flourishes at opera benefit

Foreign language opera full of energy

By Doug Toole
Staff Writer

A Review

The School of Music gave a good argument for attending operas during the Third Annual Marjorie Lawrence Opera Theatre Gala Benefit Friday night.

Despite the intimidation of being an opera, the lack of props and the fact that most of the scenes were performed in a foreign language, the evening was light and entertaining.

The benefit was divided into two sections. The first half was made up of short scenes from a variety of operas like "Carmen" and "Madame Butterfly." The second half was the complete second act of "Die Fledermaus" performed by the entire cast.

Of the 11 scenes performed during the first half, a number of elements were particularly memorable. In "Habanera" from "Carmen," Luanne Goodson played a Carmen surrounded by men like Madonna during her "Material Girl" video. Elizabeth Weidenhoffer gave lightness to the Act III Trio from "Carmen" with her energetic and expressive characterization of the young Frasquita. Also, the "Flower Duet" from "Madame Butterfly" allowed Media Erikson and Donna Dean to demonstrate their vocal abilities.

The highlight of the first half was the Act I Finale from "Italiana in Algeri," which included seven singers and was performed in English. The music was light, visually it was amusing and the choreography was frantic. The number of people singing at once and moving about was an interesting display of organized chaos. For an opera, this was very active and fun.

What made the first half of the evening so enjoyable was the variety of the performances. No single scene ran more than five minutes, making it very easy for the actors to hold the audience's attention despite the language barrier. The mood changed with each new act; ballads were followed by tragedies and monologues and comedies. Finally, each new act featured different actors to change the sound of the music. Variety was one of the strongest parts of the show.

Following the intermission, the entire cast put on a slightly modernized version of Act II of "Die Fledermaus." The second act contained some memorable songs and laughs, but without knowing the story up to that point most of what happened was confusing. Even in English the plot is difficult, but the actors were able to carry the show without letting the storyline weigh them down.

Occasionally a modern joke would slip in. One character was asked if she spoke Russian. "Only since glasnost," she replied.

Overall, this was an extremely enjoyable evening. Hopefully the School of Music will provide other opera works in the future. If Friday's performance is any indication, there is a lot of vocal talent at SIU-C.

Saturday was a day for champions at SIU-C. Tailgate competitions came up winners along with the football Salukis at the annual Great Saluki Tailgate.

University and community teams and individuals competed against each other in tailgating, chili and business categories.

In the tailgating competition, the fraternity/sorority team of Pi Kappa Alpha/Sigma Kappa won the Grand Prize, which consists of a trip for eight to St. Louis to see a St. Louis Cardinals' ballgame.

The team also took first prize in the fraternity/sorority category.

Delta Chi/Alpha Gamma Delta and Alpha Tau Omega/Delta Zeta teams received second and third, respectively, in the fraternity/sorority competition.

Jaci Sanders and her team won first prize in the Chili Contest, which entitles her to one night's lodging for four at the Embassy Suites on The Landing in St. Louis and $200 in cash.

Rich Holladay, the second place team's captain, will receive a night's lodging for four at the Executive Inn in Paducah and four tickets to see Don Williams.

The third place winner, Ann Travelstead, will be awarded four U.S. Savings Bonds.

Board reacts fairly, gives library money

MORRIS LIBRARY is finally getting a little more of what it deserves — money.

The SIU Board of Trustees passed an 11-percent increase in the system's budget for library materials this year. As George W. Black, science librarian said, this is something that has been "badly needed" to increase purchases for research materials such as journals and periodicals.

Money has been tight across the board at this University as well as others. Cuts have been made in virtually all areas and this has had a negative affect on the campus. Not only has Morris Library been forced to stop purchasing some books, periodicals and journals; other departments have also cut their budgets to the bone.

A TEMPORARY bandage is the passage of the Madigan-Rock plan, which increased state income taxes by 20 percent. The increase will raise $726 million to be divided evenly between education and local governments. Unfortunately, this increase is only for two years. The $363 million that will go to education the next two years will most likely be used to relieve some debts and not necessarily go to a long-term plan that would improve education in Illinois.

So for now we can only use wisely the money that SIU-C has been given. This is where Morris Library comes into play. As Darrell L. Jenkins, director of library service said, "For the first time in 10 years, we're getting the chance to receive some new journals. We've barely held our own lately with the new editions of our current publications and in some years, we've even had to cut back. This has hurt us." So it seems that at the board has acted in a most judicious manner and allocated money not only for this year, but also has proposed a 15-percent increase for the next year.

As James Fox, social studies librarian, stated that there has been a fairly steady erosion of journals. At one time, he said his department had 19,000 to 20,000 journals to offer. Now they have slipped to 14,000. This is a very sad portrait that has been painted and these figures represent the loss that this University has suffered.

SO WE applaud the board for its action. There is a definite need for an up-to-date library that offers students, faculty and all other members of the campus community a chance to enhance their education is of vital importance.

Morris Library is already considered an excellent resource and equipped with some very fine books, periodical, journals and special collections. Let's not let something of such great prestige and importance slip. The need for Morris Library to be well-equipped is evident, and the people of this community should realize what a blessing it is to have such a fine institution.

It is fortunate for all concerned that the board has taken such action. As a University that is striving to be a better institution of higher education, it would be sad to see Morris Library go down hill. Hopefully there will continue to be an increase in funds for the library, as well as for the rest of the University. Unfortunately, this seems to be in the hands of politicians that are often too far away to realize the needs of SIU-C.

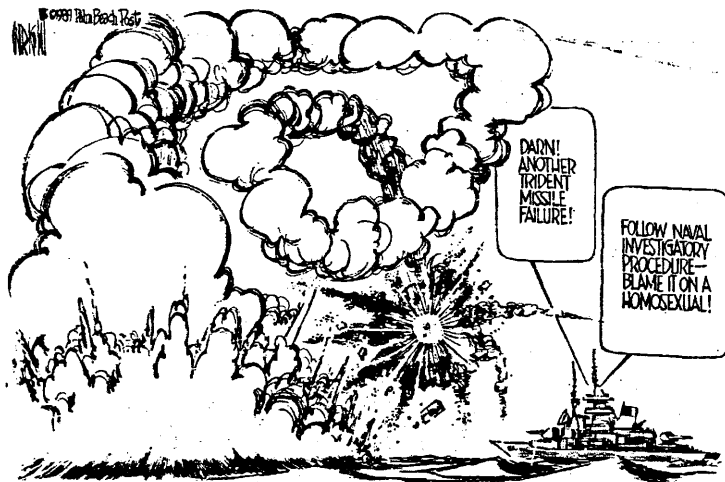

Fliers will send message that Halloween is over

THE FLYER to inform other universities of the end of the annual Halloween street party should be the final step for Carbondale and the University in doing all it can to keep visitors away for the Halloween weekend.

Developed by a subcommittee of the Halloween Core Committee, the flyer states that there will enforcement of the underage drinking law, no public consumption of alcohol, no street activities, and residence hall rule enforcement as well as a strong police presence.

THE UNDERGRADUATE Student Government's endorsement of the flyer should help the credibility of the order with students who do not believe the University is backing an end to the Halloween celebration, when, in fact, it is.

Students should let Halloween die peacefully.

Letters

Front page story in DE inaccurate, causes alarm among student body

Congratulations! The DE has once again succeeded in distorting a story and giving the University and the community an undeserved black eye. In its lead story on August 23, the DE welcomed students back with an alarming front-page story with the headline 'More victims seeking help at center.' The article, written by Phil Pearson, was vague and confusing and led the reader to infer that sexual assaults in Carbondale have doubled. Pearson's shallow reporting and failure to provide detail and definition created a sensationalistic article devoid of any news content.

Pearson did not define the population served by the Carbondale Women's Center. The center and its Rape Action Committee serves clients from much of Southern Illinois. The primary service region includes the four counties of Jackson, Perry, Franklin and Williamson. It offers the only service of its kind in more than 20 counties. The closest other facilities are in Belleville, Edwardsville, East St. Louis, Vandalia and Mattoon.

Furthermore, Pearson

neglected to indicate where reports originated. As noted in the Southern Illinoisan, there were seven cases reported to police by victims in July and six in August. Of the seven reported in July, two occurred in Carbondale, two in Jackson County, two in Murphysboro and one in Madison County. Of the six reported in August, one was in Carbondale, one in Williamson County, one on the campus of SIU-C, one in Jefferson County, one in Pulaski County and one in Randolph County.

He also failed to define the term "contact," which he referred to throughout his article. According to Julie Clausen, executive director of the Women's Center, a contact is defined as a report from a victim or a significant other. The number of contacts reported is not necessarily representative of the actual number of sexual abuse or assault cases. Frequently, the friends, and, or relatives of a victim will seek counseling from the center. These calls or visits constitute a contact. On average, eleven contacts translates to five or six reported cases.

Many of Pearson's facts were blatantly incorrect. For instance, the sub-headline of the article states 'Number of assaults reported to Women's Center doubles.' In reality, it was the number of contacts that doubled in July, not the number of assaults. Pearson also erred in reporting the August figures at the center. He reported 13 contacts rather than the nine that the center recorded. He also incorrectly stated the average number of rapes reported monthly to the center at 11. Eleven represents the average number of contacts not the number of rapes per month.

Sexual crimes against women are serious and heinous acts that occur with alarming frequency in this country. In fact, the FBI projects that one of every three women will be assaulted in her lifetime. The seriousness of this issue dictates the need for accurate precise information to be distributed to the public. Sensationalistic and irresponsible journalism is a disservice to the public. — Celeste Sullivan Baron, admissions counselor, Admissions and Records.

Cancellation of Halloween unfair says student

Ahh, Carbondale! After a hot summer of tedious work for salaries of dubious worth, it's great to be back among the students working for a real future.

In Carbondale, you can patronize one of a half dozen infamous beer gardens with your friends clear until the end of October before it gets cold. And this year the prediction for the end of October is downright chilling.

You see, there is something wrong this year in Carbondale and it has many students around here cold with disbelief. City Council members and SIU administrators are trying to cancel a student bash that they were never invited to in the first place.

The lines have been drawn between "us" and "them" and high noon strikes on Halloween weekend.

The City Council has arbitrarily decided that a cherished student event and tradition is over. Phenomenal! And worst yet, listen to what Jeff Doherty, assistant city manager had to say in the DE: "There will be no public consumption of alcohol at the carnival, and we will use any means to enforce that."

If the Council does call on it's brutes, I don't see how they are going to keep 25,000 people from descending on the strip short of mass arrests or worse yet, bloodshed.

Either alternative or both will cost the city, and the taxpayer, dearly. I guess you really do have to "fight for your right to party."

Yes sir, it all makes such perfect sense. Halloween week is going to be the City Council's Student Appreciation weekend. It's their way of thanking us for coming down to SIU and supporting their local economy, making them the largest and most prosperous town in Jackson County.

It's really too bad that it has to be this way. Both sides were just beginning to reach a compromise. The concept of a City Fair Days and the opening up of Grand Avenue for food concessions and a stage was a step in the right direction.

Thoughtful and considerate planning by the city was just beginning to tame that Halloween monster and making it profitable for everyone involved.

You know, we didn't ask for this. Most of us just want to come to school, get our degree and get on with our lives. But it seems that the Council is determined to piss us off.

I can't imagine what sort of inane conversation sparked the idea for this mess. But however the idea came about, they must really believe that the students are sleeping.

Students are smart and active, despite what administrators might think. They will probably form a committee to oppose the administrator's rhetoric.

Perhaps they will name it the Halloween Bash Survival Committee, or anything; as long as it questions the City Council's legitimacy of using armed force against unarmed citizens who oppose their legislations. That's right City Council, Halloween isn't over until the students say it is over.

I wish the City Council hadn't done this. I had invited about 15 of my buddies to come down and join me for the Halloween celebration. Now I have to call them back, but not to cancel. I'll just tell them to bring their combat boots instead of costumes. — Steven R. Sassi, senior, journalism.

Carbondale Fire Department assists with earthquake tape

By Douglas Powell
Staff Writer

In the production of the University's Radio and Television Department documentary on earthquakes in the area, the Carbondale Fire Department provided props and assistance.

The Carbondale Fire Department helped with the mock disaster by providing an aerial ladder truck, a fire truck, fire hoses and access to a fire hydrant.

The Radio and Television Department began shooting a mock earthquake disaster Sunday at the 1200 block of W. Hill Ave.

The production is the last section of a 30-minute documentary on earthquakes in Southern Illinois, produced by Ken Keller, assistant chairman of the University's radio and television department.

Cliff Manis, assistant chief for the Carbondale Fire Department, said that his department doesn't help with this sort of mock disaster very often.

"The mock disasters that my department does is strictly on paper," Manis said.

One part of the mock disaster involved a car that crashed and broke a fire hydrant water while water spewed underneath the car.

"In real life that just doesn't happen," Manis said. "A fire hydrant automatically shuts itself off if the top is knocked off."

The aerial ladder truck was used to rescue a mock victim from the top of a house at 1215 W. Hill Ave.

Carbondale fire fighter Terri Kautmann said the aerial ladder has a 100-foot reach.

"We would use the ladder for tall buildings," Kautmann said. "The aerial would reach about the 10th floor of the towers."

"Carbondale just doesn't have enough tall structures for us to not be able to handle it," Braswell said. "The tall structures in Carbondale, like Carbondale Towers on Mill (Street), are built to earthquake standards."

Carbondale has two fire stations. Four fighters are stationed at 300 S. Oakland St. and two to three fire fighters are at the station at 601 E. College St., Braswell said.

The entire city fire department employs 21 paid fire fighters and seven officers, he said.

forcewinds extended 85 miles. But the weather was generally calm at mid-afternoon, and the sun was shining in San Juan, the capital of the U.S. commonwealth that has a population of some 3.3 million.

The island's National Meteorological Service predicted the storm's force would whip up waves 8 to 10 feet higher than normal.

"Hurricane force winds are expected to destroy wooden structures, uproot trees, tear off rooftops and turn loose objects into lethal projectiles," the NMS report said.

The hurricane was expected to dump 5 to 10 inches of rain on Puerto Rico, although mountainous areas could get more than 10 inches, the report said.

Gov. Rafael Hernandez Colon and Civil Defense director Heriberto Acevedo toured by helicopter areas prone to serious flooding.

"The rains, flooding and waves will seriously affect Puerto Rico... I am certain that we will have at least strong rains and flooding," the governor said.

Hernandez, who put the National Guard on alert Saturday night, flew over the northeastern townships of Loiza and Carolina, the southeastern township of Humacao and the township of Ceiba on Puerto Rico's easternmost tip. Emergency crews in 78 cities and various regional and district offices were placed on the state of alert.

"The shelters are ready for whatever possible emergency," Acevedo said.

Residents were advised to stock up on basic goods such as canned foods, radios, battery-operated lamps and water supplies. Forecasters said heavy rains would produce flash floods and mudslides in hilly and mountainous regions, and residents in these areas and in low-lying areas were urged to prepare for possible emergency.

Meteorological authorities predicted the hurricane's center would pass over Santa Cruz around 9 p.m. and then bear down toward the southeastern coast.

The NMS statement predicted the ferocious storm could leave in its wake a path of destruction as wide as 80 miles. Many businesses were open Sunday morning and overflowing with residents loading up on canned goods, flashlights and batteries.

Puerto Rico's Aqueduct and Sewage Department announced service would be shut off shortly before the hurricane's arrival and advised residents to store water provisions. Officials also asked residents to refrain from using the telephone except in cases of emergency.

Angry residents aired their complaints over local radio stations Sunday, protesting against the sudden jump in prices on articles such as canned goods and batteries.

At 3 p.m., a hurricane warning was in effect for the U.S. and British Virgin Islands, Puerto Rico, St. Martin and surrounding islands. The government of the Dominican Republic also issued a hurricane watch for the eastern tip and northeast coast of Hispaniola, from La Romana to Puerto Plata. Forecasters said Hugo had become a Category 4 hurricane with 140 mph winds, capable of causing "extreme" damage, and it bordered on becoming a Category 5 storm, capable of causing "catastrophic" damage.

than the president has gone." Dole said Congress might consider limiting the number of cartridges that could be loaded into a single magazine.

"We ought to limit the number of cartridges," Dole said. "The president says 15 in his bill. We think we could go less."

The Kansas senator, noting that a computer system that will enable gun dealers to screen buyers is expected to be in operation in the next six to eight months, called for stricter penalties for committing a crime with a gun.

"If you commit a crime with a firearm in this country, related to drugs or anything else, you have a pre-trial detention, you're not back on the street," Dole said of a proposal included in a GOP crime package. "You can't make bond."

"If you use a gun in a crime, semi-automatic weapon, you're going to be given ten additional years," Dole said of one of the possible ways to limit use of assault weapons.

Despite his support for looking at ways to limit the use of semi-automatic weapons, Dole warned that neither Congress nor the White House was going to "give somebody carte blanche and say no guns."

three years, said. "It shows that in recent years there have been more coordinated efforts going toward preparing for this sort of thing."

work in several literary magazines.

"Because of the hirings we've done, we've gone beyond having a new writing program, to one that's really maturing," Richard Lawson, English professor specializing in literature, said.

Jones said there is a "vast interest" among students in the area of creative writing, both at SIU-C and nationally.

Students specializing in creative writing make up about a third of English majors at SIU-C, Jones said.

The majority of the program is done in a journalistic documentary style with only the final minutes involving special effects and acting.

On the preceding Sunday the crew filmed the indoor scenes, which featured falling ceilings, bookshelves and dishes. Hodgson said there were technical problems that had to be overcome.

"One of the main problems we had was creating realistic dust," he said. "It took a lot of practice really. First we used talcum powder and that nearly asphyxiated everyone. So then we tried sand, but it's too heavy and falls too fast. We finally used a combination of saw dust and particles of drywall."

Some of the other special effects included falling trees, sparking downed power lines and a collapsing porch. The porch was collapsed by building a small frame beneath the existing porch and then triggering collapse of the frame.

Another feature effect was a wrecked car made to look like it had run over a fire hydrant by jacking it up and shooting water out from underneath. Karl Rademacher, owner of the car, used in the stunt said he didn't mind using his car in this way.

"A while back someone pulled out in front of me and I took out a telephone pole on Sycamore," Rademacher said, gesturing to the passenger-side door that is caved in. "It's mangled." Rademacher said he planned on selling the car for parts later.

"This is the kind of experience is almost impossible to get in the classroom," Lance Dailey, junior in radio and television who also helped with production, said. "It's priceless on a resume," he added.

Deer project helps public and livestock

By Tony Mancuso
Staff Writer

Since 1980, the livestock industry and the public's health have benefited from the SIU-C Deer Disease Project involving the white-tailed deer, according to Alan Woolf, director of the Cooperative Wildlife Research Laboratory.

The project's main objective is to monitor the white-tailed deer herd on a statewide basis and to "use the deer as a sentinel animal to study and predict the distribution and prevalence of infectious diseases," Woolf said.

The project also enables the researchers to detect the presence of heavy metals and other environmental contaminants in the areas where the deer herds roam, he said.

When these diseases or contaminants are detected, the laboratory warns the cattle and other livestock industries if the diseases or contaminants are deemed hazardous to the industries.

Woolf said, "Both (deer and cattle) are hoofed animals and in many cases, a symptom in the deer may be used as an early warning sign for a possible outbreak in cattle."

Woolf also said in some instances a disease may affect humans, and if so, public health authorities are notified.

The project also provides diagnostic services for the Department of Conservation. If any sick or dead deer are reported, the laboratory investigates, decides the cause and assesses the significance of the sickness or death, he said.

Woolf said, "Some of the benefits of our research are surprising. For instance, in 1980 and 1981 we were testing deer livers around the state and our tests showed an excessive amount of lead in deer living in the Crab Orchard area."

Woolf and his team were the first to detect the presence of high levels of heavy metals, especially lead, in the area.

Acting upon the lab's findings, the Fish and Wildlife Service investigated further and found the cause of the high levels to be industrial activities during World War II.

Recently, the Deer Disease Project finished a study in collaboration with Laura Hungerford, a doctorate student in the University of Illinois Department of Veterinary Pathobiology.

The research involved studying anaplasmosis, an infectious disease which makes deer and cattle anemic. The disease is caused by a blood parasite.

Deer had been blamed for spreading anaplasmosis in cattle, but Hungerford disproved this theory with aid from the Deer Disease Project.

The Deer Disease Project now is beginning to study how deer use suburban habitats. Woolf has begun research on the ecology of the deer in the suburbs of Carbondale and other areas of Jackson County.

Woolf said the research is a continuing project in cooperation with the Illinois Department of Conservation, and is funded through the department by Federal Aid to Wildlife Restoration

Library has display cases for exhibits

By Dale Walker
Staff Writer

Morris Library has five display cases available to groups or academic units who would like to publicize a topic to the University community, Diana Chervinko, library technical assistant, said.

"Exhibits should be planned to inform or educate, but not to editorialize," Chervinko said. Exhibits have ranged from quilting to library orientation exhibit, which presently occupies the case, she said.

Occasionally groups have arranged an exhibit to coincide with a campus or community event, she said.

"If a group would like to use the exhibit cases, it should submit a proposal to the Morris Library Exhibits Committee at least two months before the exhibit would be scheduled," Chervinko said.

Proposals are considered according to the exhibits intellectual content, originality, design plan and appropriateness of subject matter, she said.

According to the committee guidelines, the purpose of the exhibits (should be) to display collections, to demonstrate the activities of the University and the surrounding area, and to present graphically topics of interest to the academic community.

According to library technical assistant Diana Chervinko, exhibits should be planned to inform or educate, but not to editorialize.

The guidelines suggest that the exhibit or its purpose should be clearly stated and the prospective viewers should be kept in mind.

"Most groups want to exhibit something that is too commercial," Chervinko said. "Things that are too one sided will probably not be considered. If you want to exhibit something like your art, nothing exhibited can be for sale."

She said although art exhibits usually are not appropriate, if the art is within the guidelines, they will be considered.

The exhibit cases are each 72 inches high, 46 inches wide and 16 inches deep. The committee maintains a limited supply of materials for the use of exhibitors, including shelves, burlap in assorted colors, book ends and white ceramic free-standing letters and numerals.

Those who are interested should contact Willie Scott at 453-2818.

Sheriff nominated for service award

By Douglas Powell
Staff Writer

Gov. James R. Thompson said Williamson County Sheriff Harry Spiller has done his part for community drug-crime prevention.

On the eve of his expected resignation as sheriff, Spiller will be traveling to Collinsville today, along with as many as 100 law enforcement officials from Southern Illinois, to share ideas about preventing drug abuse and drug-related crime in the 1990s.

Spiller is one of two paid professionals in Southern Illinois that has been nominated for the 1989 Governor's Award for Outstanding Achievement in Crime Prevention. The other nominee competing for the award is Sgt. Charles Eschbach of the Alton Police Department.

Spiller is expected to resign as sheriff Sept. 22 to take a teaching position at John A. Logan College, a department spokesman said.

When asked what he has done for the community, Spiller said, "I have started five neighborhood watch programs for the community, three in Lake Egypt, one in Paulton and one in Blairsville."

"I have had drug education programs since 1983," Spiller said.

"Also, I started an I-SEARCH program in Williamson County," he said.

I-SEARCH is a program for missing children that offers fingerprinting and video-taping children for identification purposes, educational sessions for adults and children, and visits by McGruff, the crime fighting dog.

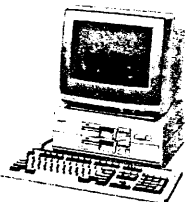

The seminar Spiller will attend is sponsored by the Illinois Criminal Justice Information Authority, the state agency that coordinates crime prevention and federally funded drug enforcement efforts in Illinois.

J. David Coldren, the agency's executive director, said, "No community, either urban, suburban or rural, is immune to the tremendous social costs of drug abuse and the crime it inevitably spawns."

"This seminar will provide police, community groups, elected officials, educators and others who have major roles to play in solving this problem with the information they need about the nature of drug abuse in Illinois and the steps they can take to prevent it in the future," he said.

The agency predicted in its "Trends and Issues 89" report from last spring that if recent trends continue, the number of arrests for narcotics-related crime in Illinois could nearly double by the year 2000.

Nobel-prize physicist to talk about particles, cosmology

By Carrie Pomeroy
Staff Writer

Nobel Prize-winning physicist Leon M. Lederman will begin the 1989-90 Honors Lecture Series on Sept. 18 with a speech entitled "Quarks and Cosmology."

The lecture will be at 8 p.m. in the Student Center Auditorium and will be open to the public. Admission is free.

Lederman, a faculty member at the University of Chicago and a state of Illinois first science adviser, earned his doctorate at Columbia University in 1951. He won the Nobel Prize in physics in 1988.

Frank Sanders, chair of the SIUC physics department, said he expects Lederman's speech to deal with "the intimate connection between the Big Bang and the nature of constituent particles."

"Quarks are the constituent particles of protons and neutrons. We're talking about the smallest things in the universe," Sanders said.

In contrast, Sanders said, cosmology deals with the structure of the universe as a whole.

"What makes it so mind-boggling is that there's a relation between the smallest and largest things in the universe," Sanders said.

Sanders said the relation between quarks and cosmology is a popular topic of discussion among physicists.

Frederick Williams, director of the Honors Program, said the lecturers in this year's series were chosen specifically "to respond to the academic community's needs."

The speakers were chosen after a lengthy process in which suggestions for lecturers were solicited from every college on campus, Williams said.

"We try to get an interesting mix of people," Williams said.

Former chairman of linguistics renamed to title after 2-year hiatus

University News Service

Paul J. Angelis, associate professor of linguistics at the University, is the new chairman of the University's linguistics department.

Angelis succeeds Glenn G. Gilbert, who returned to full-time teaching after heading the department for two years. The appointment, effective Aug. 15 is subject to the approval of SIUC Chancellor Lawrence K. Pettit and ratification by the SIUC Board of Trustees.

Angelis previously headed the linguistics department from 1981 to 1987. During this term, he hopes to strengthen and expand the existing graduate programs as well as to recruit new faculty.

"Dr. Angelis has returned to the position he had held for several years," John S. Jackson, dean of the College of Liberal Arts said. "He's a very good choice."

Before coming to the University, he was program director of language programs at the Educational Testing Service in Princeton, N.J.

He worked in Rome as a United Nations language specialist and senior Fulbright-Hays lecturer and has taught at Texas A&M University. He is secretary-treasurer of the American Association for Applied Linguistics.

The Scranton, Penn. native earned a bachelor's degree from the University of Scranton in 1962 and a doctorate from George town University in 1968.

Jackson County Red Cross seeks program volunteers

By Phil Pearson
Staff Writer

The Jackson County chapter of the American Red Cross needs more help to effectively carry out its mission, Diane Miller, executive director, said.

"We have a good staff, but we would like to have more," Miller said.

She said the lives of many of the chapter's members have changed and they now have less time to devote to their volunteer efforts.

Jeannette O'Brien, publicity person, said there were six members in attendance at the last meeting, held Sept. 7.

"We need new blood to rejuvenate (the chapter) and bring in new ideas," O'Brien said. "If we had new people and new ideas it would help."

Miller said volunteers are needed to participate in training in the areas of disaster relief, to help assist people whose homes have burned and be involved in many other public service programs.

She said the Red Cross operates enough different programs so there is room for volunteers of virtually any expertise. Help is especially needed in the area of disaster relief and fund raising, Miller said.

She said the service that keeps the local chapter the busiest is working as a liaison between military personnel and their families.

Miller said the chapter handles about 28 cases a month in which she may do something as simple as passing on a message or as difficult as getting someone home for a funeral or other family emergencies.

She said in most cases, the Red Cross network can usually get someone home in two days or less from any military post in the world.

O'Brien said she feels the small staff is doing an outstanding job, but they can only do so much.

"We're just not doing enough," O'Brien said.

Miller said anyone with time to help is invited to become part of the chapter. Miller may be reached at 529-2151 or one may call O'Brien at 529-1389.

Miller said the next meeting will be at 7:30 p.m. Dec. 4 at the St. Francis Xavier Church, 303 S. Poplar St.

Lewis Park blood drive collects 58 pints Friday

By Phil Pearson
Staff Writer

The Red Cross exceeded its goal of 985 pints for the Post-Labor Day Blood Drive with the help of an emergency blood drive held by students Friday, Vivian Ugent, regional blood drive coordinator, said.

Ugent said students in the Social Club at Lewis Park Apartments, 800 E. Grand Ave., sponsored the blood drive Friday afternoon to make up for the 58 pints that the Red Cross fell short of during its four-day drive on campus. She said 67 pints were collected.

Ugent said students organizing the drive is evidence of the commitment SIU-C has to donating blood.

She said she was happily surprised by the number of students who took a time on a Friday afternoon to give blood.

Ugent said the next blood drive in Carbondale will be from 1 to 6 p.m. Oct. 20 at Wal-Mart.

Animal shelter kicks off Adopt-a-Dog program

By Douglas Powell
Staff Writer

August dog days may be over, but the dog days are just beginning at the Humane Society of Southern Illinois.

On behalf of more than 13 million dogs that end up homeless each year the ninth annual Adopt-a-Dog Month will begin in October.

According to the shelter, only about 27 percent of the homeless dogs are adopted in the United States. The Adopt-a-Dog program helps to better that figure.

Cindy Nelson, the shelter's manager, said there is a $35 fee to adopt a dog, but the fee is actually a deposit that can go towards getting a dog neutered or spayed.

Nelson said the shelter now has two fox hound puppies that are 3 months old.

"October is the beginning of puppy season and we will soon be getting an influx of puppies from the surrounding area. We also have about 20 cats and one rabbit," she said.

"About 50 percent of the animals that are brought in to the shelter are adoptable. In some cases we might not have enough room to keep the animals and we have to put them to sleep."

"The animals that we don't consider adoptable are euthanized or put to sleep," she said.

The shelter has room to keep 25 to 30 adult dogs and 12 to 15 puppies.

Meaty Bone Dog Biscuits and Jerky Treats Dog Snacks are sponsors of the Adopt-a-Dog month.

October adopters will receive a doggie bag with Meaty Bone and Jerky Treat samples, a dog skills training booklet and coupons.

The Humane Society of Southern Illinois is open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday and 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. on Sundays.

The shelter is located on New Rt. 13 west of Carbondale.

Candidate will hold forum for students to voice views

By James J. Black
Staff Writer

Mark Fairchild, who is seeking the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, will hold an open forum to discuss issues important to his campaign at 7 p.m. tonight in the Student Center Auditorium.

Fairchild, who won the 1986 Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor, said: "I'm going to be focusing on the war on drugs."

"I think the country is in a terrible crisis - in every sense."

Fairchild added that drug trafficking is "connected to Satan-worshipping cults. Satanism is a mass-based phenomenon in this country."

"I believe I'm the only candidate who has ever called for any real solutions," he said.

Fairchild is associated with Lyndon LaRouche, a three-time presidential candidate and radical, right-wing political figure. Fairchild broke the unity of the Illinois Democratic Party in 1986 when he won the party's nomination for lieutenant governor.

Adlai E. Stevenson III, who won the Democratic gubernatorial nomination that year, left the Democratic ticket and formed another party in order to avoid running on the same ticket as Fairchild.

Fairchild ran for lieutenant governor without a gubernatorial candidate on the ticket. Both he and Stevenson were defeated by Gov. James R. Thompson.

Paramedics first to find body of mass murderer

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — An analysis of audio tapes Sunday showed that paramedics, not police, were the first to identify and locate the body of mass murderer Joseph Wesbecker and at least one rescue crew was sent to the wrong place.

"In hindsight, it's always possible to see how things could have gone smoother," said Richard Bartlett, director of emergency services. "There was an atmosphere of chaos and confusion. That is normal. This, after all, was combat medicine. We'd never faced anything quite like it."

In one case a dispatcher, according to the tapes, alerted firefighters before police. In another case a rescue crew was dispatched to the wrong room at the Standard Gravure building, site of Wesbecker's massacre Thursday, where two victims awaited evacuation.

"Yeah, I've got two people shot in the etching room at Standard Gravure," said the voice of a paramedic on the tapes.

The dispatcher said an ambulance had been sent. Later the dispatcher asked if it had arrived.

"I don't see anybody out there," the paramedic said.

"Yeah, and you're in the engine room?" questioned the dispatcher.

"Etching! Etching!" the paramedic yelled. The ambulance crew had gone the wrong way.

Contrary to initial reports, paramedics were the first to find Wesbecker's body, sprawled face down near some of his victims.

Eight died and 13 were wounded in his 30-minute killing spree.

According to interviews with paramedics, emergency medical service Capt. Randy Montague found the body on the ground floor as police searched the area. Wesbecker was covering his AK-47 assault rifle. A bag of ammunition and smaller guns were tossed to the side. Wesbecker had a single gunshot wound visible under his chin.

Montague radioed police. Police notified the police chief.

"Car One, 421 advised the man committed suicide down in the basement (ground floor).

"Are we talking about the assailant?"

"That's affirmative." Paramedics said they may have been able to evacuate lives if they'd been able to evacuate quicker. But many of the crews arrived when the killer was still killing. They had to lay low.

In the third-floor executive offices, rescuer Greg Torpey was pinned down with four victims. He heard gunshots.

"Every time there'd be a noise, these police officers would turn around with their guns," Torpey said. "You got a real good sense that you were in a very dangerous situation."

The first person struck by Wesbecker, a receptionist and new mother, Sharon Needy, was dying in Torpey's arms.

"If we could have got her out right away and got her to a trauma center," he said, "there is a possibility that she could be living now."

Needy died at the same time a report crackled over the radio that Wesbecker's body had been found.

The first moments were chaotic, according to the tapes. A woman was the first to dial 911. It was 8:37 a.m.

The first cars were reported on the scene at 8:41, roughly 3 minutes after the initial 911 call, according to the tapes.

Authorities said they were pleased with the emergency response.

"We received many compliments in the way we handled this crisis," police spokesman Carl Yates said.

Funerals were scheduled Monday for three of the victims.

Paper suggests Frank resign

Boston Globe: Representative should quit because of sex life

BOSTON (UPI) — The Boston Globe, a longtime supporter of Rep. Barney Frank, D-Mass., calling for his resignation Sunday, saying little would be gained from an "exhaustive examination" of his sex life by a House ethics panel.

"For his sake, for the Congress and the causes he has served well, Barney Frank must go," The Globe said in an editorial.

Frank, 49, an outspoken champion of liberal causes who admitted last month that he paid male prostitute Stephen Gobic for sex and then hired him as a personal assistant, responded in a statement that he would not step down.

"I made clear when I requested the ethics committee investigation, and in all my subsequent statements, that I would cooperate fully to ensure that the public knows the facts," he said. "I will not take any action which evades that proceeding, and that includes resignation."

The House Committee on Standards of Official Conduct, known as the ethics committee, said last week it would probe Frank's behavior at the congressman's own request.

In a lengthy editorial, The Boston Sunday Globe said Frank's "transgressions (were) serious enough to warrant his departure from Congress," and suggested the ethics panel probe could prove tawdry.

"Barney Frank's financial dealings are not at issue," the newspaper said. "His sex life is. What would be served by an exhaustive examination of it? Does he want to answer how many times he sought the services of a prostitute? Does it do anyone any good to learn about it?"

The newspaper, praising Frank's dedication to the elderly, the homeless and other issues, said that "for his own good, and for the good of his constituents, his causes and Congress, he should resign."

"This issue of Frank's conduct; is not homosexuality but prostitution, which is illegal and which has always been a destructive element in heterosexual and homosexual life," The Globe said. "Had the issue been heterosexual prostitution, feminist groups would not have been silent. So far, Frank has enjoyed more than the benefit of the doubt."

Witness in Bakker trial liaison for Hahn, PTL

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (UPI) — A witness testifying in the criminal trial of evangelist Jim Bakker last week said that she delivered money to Jessica Hahn for the PTL.

Bakker, 49, is charged with 24 counts of fraud and conspiracy related to PTL's so-called lifetime partnerships.

Friday, the Rev. Aimee Cortese, of Crossroads Tabernacle in New York City's Borough of the Bronx, said she was the conduit for two payments received by Hahn.

Cortese was a board member in 1984 when she was called to the office of Bakker's top PTL deputy, Richard Dortch.

"Reverend Dortch called me to his private office," she said. "He said that a particular young lady had been calling and harassing PTL."

Cortese said she was asked twice to deliver envelopes of money to Hahn.

Cortese said she was never told that Hahn received $265,000 in hush money from PTL.

Prosecutors say the payments have been a key issue in showing how money obtained from PTL's lifetime partners was spent on things that had nothing to do with the partnerships.

Bomb attacks in Colombia leave one dead in city of Cali

BOGOTA, Colombia (UPI)—Four bombs exploded in the city of Cali early Sunday, killing a security guard in the relentless wave of attacks that has rocked Colombia since a war declaration by cocaine cartels.

Authorities also reported a journalist was murdered in the Pacific coast city of Buenaventura.

Police said guard Jesus Maria Rio was killed about 1:15 a.m. in the explosion of a bomb in a commercial-restaurant zone of Cali, 180 miles southwest of Bogota.

Radio stations said the area had been filled with people celebrating "The Day of Love and Friendship," the Colombian Valentine's Day. There were no reports, however, of other people wounded.

Cali is the home city of one of two powerful cocaine cartels that have been the object of an intense government offensive since President Virgilio Barco imposed a state-of-siege. Barco launched the war on the cartels after the Aug. 18 assassination of Sen. Luis Carlos Galan, the leading presidential candidate and member of the ruling Liberal Party.

About five minutes after the first blast Sunday, two other bombs exploded in the nearby savings and loan institutions Conavi and Corpavi, police said. A fourth went off about 2:40 a.m. in another savings and loan, Ahorramas.

Police in Buenaventura, northwest of Cali on the Pacific coast, said journalist Guillermo Gomez Murillo was murdered Saturday night while watching television in his parents' home.

Gomez Murillo was a correspondent for the Bogota newspaper "El Espectador," which said Sunday he was known "for having revealed anomalies in the administration of this part of the country."

Gomez Murillo had received threats in letters and telephone calls, the paper reported. He also was a reporter for the Cali newspaper "El Pais."

Seven bombs have exploded in Cali since Friday. They appear to be part of the wave of bombs striking the country since the Aug. 24 declaration of "total war" by a death squad linked to a powerful cocaine cartel. The declaration followed Barco's launching of the all-out offensive against warring, rival drug cartels.

More than 40 bombs have exploded in Colombia since Aug. 24, most of them in Medellin, headquarters of the powerful Medellin cocaine cartel 150 miles northwest of Bogota. Five people have been killed in bombs or assassinations and some 130 wounded.

Two bombs exploded Saturday afternoon at banks in Bogota, wounding two people.

Radio stations reported heavy security measures were in force in Barranquilla, the Caribbean coast city where the national teams from Colombia and Paraguay were playing an elimination soccer match for the 1990 World Cup in Italy.

The newspaper "El Tiempo" published an interview Sunday with a man it said was a British mercenary who helped train hit squads linked to the Medellin cartel member Gonzalo Rodriguez Gacha.

Iran will use force against Iraq

Iran wants to recover 800 square miles of Iraqi occupied territory

ATHENS, Greece (UPI)—Iranian President Akbar Hashemi-Rafsanjani said Sunday that his country would eventually use force to recover 800 square miles of occupied territory if Iraq did not withdraw its troops to the 1975 borders.

Tehran radio, monitored in Athens, quoted the president as saying Iran was prepared to continue peace talks with Baghdad—even if as long as 10 years—but would not tolerate the permanent occupation of its territory.

Rafsanjani is believed to have been responsible for Iran's acceptance of the August 1988 cease-fire ending hostilities in the eight-year Persian Gulf war with Iraq. His remarks Sunday were the first indication Iran was prepared to resume the war if the peace talks eventually fail.

"If they do not withdraw, we shall push them out by force," Rafsanjani told a gathering of commanders of the Islamic Revolutionary Guards Corps.

"We have achieved what we wanted from the war and do not need to resume the war. We have good will and shall allow time to pass so that the world comes to recognize who the aggressor is, and who is in the right.

"Then we shall definitely take back our soil, because there volition cannot tolerate the occupation of its territory," one Iranian president said.

The Persian Gulf war between Iran and Iraq started Sept. 22, 1980, when Iraqi troops crossed the Shatt-al-Arab waterway, the southern border between the two Middle East nations.

The two countries began peace talks last November, some three months after the U.N.-brokered cease-fire went into effect.

Soviet foreign minister will deliver message during United States visit

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The U.S.-Soviet dialogue, which slowed in the early months of the Bush administration, moves into high gear this week with a visit by Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze that is certain to shape the outlook for a superpower summit.

Although the president's advisers profess they are not thinking in terms of a superpower summit, the prospect of a formal meeting with Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev will be very much in the background when President Bush meets Thursday with Shevardnadze at the White House.

The Soviets have told U.S. officials that Shevardnadze will deliver an important letter from Gorbachev, fueling speculation of new proposals on arms control or a possible summit.

The U.S. side, however, is not expected to offer any surprise initatives of its own in the talks with Shevardnadze that will begin with a White House meeting with Bush, then continue with Secretary of State James Baker in the scenic and isolated setting of Jackson Hole, Wyo.

A delegation of Soviet officials arrived over the weekend to lay the final groundwork for the talks, which U.S. officials expect to cover a full range of issues quite possibly without dramatic results.

Poland marks 50th anniversary of Soviet invasion

WARSAW, Poland (UPI)—Shouting "Soviets go home" and "down with communism," Poles staged demonstrations in Gdansk, Krakow and several other cities Sunday to mark the 50th anniversary of the Soviet invasion of Poland.

The demonstrations marked the first time Polish citizens have been allowed to publicly commemorate the World War II invasion by Moscow.

Elsewhere, flowers were laid on the tombs of victims executed for their political views and on the symbolic tomb of Polish officers in Warsaw. Some 15,000 Polish officers disappeared and are believed to have been executed in the Soviet Union during the war.

Cubs in the World Series?

By United Press International

The Cubbies are driving to glory in the National League East. They're on the rail and holding firm. It's been 44 years since the last World Series at Wrigley Field. World War II had just ended and the troops were lined up for their discharges.

Harry Truman was in the White House, the Giants were in New York, the A's were in Philadelphia and most big-league moguls thought of the vast expanse west of St. Louis as nothing but Indian country and Hollywood.

There was no television. Baseball teams traveled by train and it took 25 hours to go from Boston to St. Louis, five times as long as it now takes to fly coast to coast. This, of course, does not include the time spent looking for luggage once you get off the plane.

We hadn't heard of Korea, let alone Vietnam. We were still trying to get used to the idea that Franklin Delano Roosevelt was no longer guiding our affairs.

We hadn't heard of Korea, let alone Vietnam. We were still trying to get used to the idea that Franklin Delano Roosevelt was no longer guiding our affairs.

The Cardinals had dominated the National League during the war, but the Cubs finished three games ahead of the Redbirds in '45. The Cards beat the Cubs 16 times but Cincinnati was the key. The Cubs beat the Reds 21 times in 22 games.

Chicago took over first place on July 8 and never let go. It was the Cubs' 16th pennant, a big-league record at the time. Their first baseman, Phil Cavarretta, led the majors with .355 and was voted MVP by the baseball writers.

The Sporting News' MVP choice was Tommy Holmes of Boston, who hit .352 and established a modern National League record by hitting in 37 consecutive games for the sixth-place Braves. Holmes' streak was the league's best until Pete Rose hit in 44 in a row in 1978.

The man who made the biggest difference for Chicago was Hank Borowy, a righthander with a big curveball. Hank joined the Cubs in late July and won 11 of 13.

The Cubs bought Borowy from the Yankees for $97,000 after 14 other teams passed him on waivers. It was a stunning transaction.

Borowy had won 17 games in 1944 and was 10-5 as the Yanks shipped him to Chicago. No one else claimed him because no one else thought the Yankees were serious about letting Borowy go.

Larry MacPhail, president of the Yanks, had to say something. He said he didn't think Borowy could finish enough games late in the year. Borowy started 14 games for the Cubs and completed 11.

Hank Greenberg got out of the Army Air Corps at mid-season and gave the Tigers the punch they needed to win the American League pennant by a game over Washington.

Detroit didn't clinch until the final inning of the final day, when Greenberg hit a grand slam at Sportsman's Park in St. Louis. Greenberg hit .311, with 13 home runs and 60 RBIs in 78 games.

The World Series went seven games, the last four in Chicago. Borowy shut out the Tigers in Chicago took over first place on July 8 and never let go. It was the Cubs 16th pennant, a big-league record at the time.

Game 1, was clobbered in Game 5, then won Game 6 with four shutout innings of relief.

There was a day off before Game 7, so Cubs manager Charlie Grimm gave the ball to Borowy again. Hank tried, but he had nothing left. He pitched to only three batters and they all smacked singles. Detroit got five runs in the first inning.

Hal Newhouser, the American League's best pitcher with 25 wins and an earned run average of 1.81, had rested two days. He went all the way for a 9-3 win, wrapping up the World Championship for Detroit.

Expos shutout New York, 1-0

MONTREAL (UPI) — Mark Langston won his 12th game as an Expo Sunday, tossing a three hitter in a 1-0 Montreal victory over the New York Mets.

Langston, 12-7, making his 22nd National League start and 32nd overall in the majors, hurled his sixth complete game, striking out nine and walking five. The southpaw, who was traded to Montreal by the Seattle Mariners May 25, has a combined total of 224 strikeouts and ranks second in the majors to Nolan Ryan.

All-American John Jurkovic (67), last year's Gateway Conference defensive player of the year, pressures Saluki quarterback Fred Gibson during the Salukis' 20-17 victory Saturday.

Eastern defensive lineman considered a pro prospect

By Greg Scott
Staff Writer

One of the key factors in SIU-C's victory over Eastern Illinois Saturday was their ability to contain Panther defensive tackle John Jurkovic.

Jurkovic was the 1988 Gateway Conference Defensive Player of the Year and was a consensus I-AA First Team All-American last season. He is considered to be a pro prospect in the eyes of some scouts.

Saluki offensive lineman Tom Roth, who switched from tackle to guard, and center Bob Grammer got credit for holding Jurkovic in check. Jurkovic had only five tackles in the game and the Salukis did a lot of double-teaming on the 285-pound senior.

"Jurkovic is a super football player," said Saluki head coach Bob Smith. "I think Roth did a really great job just getting after him all day. He wasn't completely neutralized though; he was somewhat of a factor at times."

The Panther defensive tackle gave the Saluki team a lot of credit for its performance and thinks the conference title race is wide open.

"We learned a lesson this week," Jurkovic said. "You can't underestimate anyone in this conference. We knew SIU-C was a dangerous team coming in. We were confident but SIU just came out and played heads-up football. They had some penalties, but we had penalties of our own that killed us."

SIU-C was penalized 11 times for 120 yards while Eastern was penalized seven times for 70 yards.

Jurkovic said that the Panther defense wasn't alert at times and the talents of Saluki quarterback Fred Gibson gave them trouble.

"The game came down to our defense falling asleep for two and a half quarters," Jurkovic said. "There backs ran really hard and Gibson is a very mobile quarterback. We just made too many mental mistakes and SIU-C played excellent on both sides."

The SIU-C offense had struggled in its previous two games. The Salukis scored just 10 total points in its first two games against Nevada-Reno and Western Illinois. The Saluki offense came alive Saturday in their 20-17 win over the Panthers.

"We watched films of their previous games and they still moved the ball," Jurkovic said. "They didn't have any turnovers against us so that shows you something right there. When a team does that, they are going to win some games."

Jurkovic received the All-American honor after coming back from knee surgery that sidelined him in 1987. In 1988 he was second on the team with 100 tackles which includes a team high seven quarterback sacks and 14 tackles for loss. Jurkovic started 10 of 11 games after the knee surgery that required a 15-month rehabilitation period.

Smith and others believe that Jurkovic is a pro prospect. But that is the furthest thing from his mind right now, Jurkovic said.

"I don't think about the pros," Jurkovic said. "Right now I just want our team to do well in the conference and hopefully make the playoffs. We are not going to fold up after this loss and we do not plan on losing again."

"Every kid that plays football dreams of playing in the National Football League," Jurkovic continued. "It may be a goal of mine but it's not an outright goal. I'd rather win games right now."

Jurkovic's brother, Mirko, plays for defending national champion Notre Dame. The top rated Fighting Irish took a large step toward repeating that feat with a 24-19 victory over No. 2 Michigan.

Gateway Conference defensive player of the year, John Jurkovic.

In the past two games Gibson had trouble passing the ball because of leaks in the Saluki pass protection. However, Smith said he was pleased with the play of the line this week, particularly with guard Tom Roth, who was assigned to Jurkovic.

"Roth did a great job on Jurkovic," Smith said. Jurkovic was held to just five tackles in the game.

Even with the offense doubling its output of the first two games and the defense turning in another solid performance, lady luck still played a role in the Saluki victory.

With 5:32 remaining in the game and the Salukis leading 20-17 EIU began its final drive of the day. The Panthers had scored earlier in the quarter on a 2-yard touchdown run by Jamie Jones. Jones, the only Panther running back to get the ball, finished the day with 122 yards on 31 carries.

The Panther's last drive ended at the Saluki 10 with 47 seconds left in the game. Faced with a fourth-and-six situation, the Panthers decided to try a 27-yard field goal to tie the score at 20. Kicker Raymond D'Alesio lined up for the attempt but holder Brian Pindar fumbled the snap and was tackled by Saluki Scott Barber for a loss of 16 yards to preserve the victory.

Barber was involved in another lucky play but this time the Panthers were the lucky ones.

With 7:42 left in the second quarter, D'Alesio was attempting a 23-yard field goal following the Salukis first touchdown. Barber partially blocked D'Alesio's kick, sending the ball end over end towards the goal post. The ball struck the horizontal bar of the goal post and trickled through for three points to give EIU a 10-7 lead.

Saluki kicker Steve Wedemeier tied the score at 10 with a 37-yard field goal with 7:42 remaining in the first half. Wedemeier will be the kicker for next week's game against Murray State, replacing John Bookout.

Wedemeier added another field goal of 38 yards with 8:56 left in the third quarter on the first Saluki possession of the second half, ending a 54-yard, 10-play drive to give the Salukis a 13-10 lead.

Moore scored his second touchdown of the game with 4:37 left in the third quarter on a 4-yard run, rounding out the scoring for the Salukis.

Chicago Bears beat NFC rival Minnesota, 38-7

CHICAGO (UPI) — Neal Anderson caught a 24-yard touchdown pass and rushed for two more scores Sunday to lead the Chicago Bears to a 38-7 trouncing of the Minnesota Vikings in a matchup of the NFC Central's top teams.

Anderson, who rushed for a career-high 146 yards against Cincinnati last week, carried 23 times for 97 yards and caught three passes for 58 yards. The Chicago defense, meanwhile, intercepted Wade Wilson four times, including one by Lemuel Stinson that was returned for a touchdown with 4 minutes 39 seconds remaining.

The Bears led 10-7 at halftime. After a scoreless third quarter, Shaun Gayle picked off Wilson's first pass of the fourth quarter, giving the Bears the ball at the Vikings' 46.

Thomas Sanders rushed for a pair of first downs, and Mike Tomczak lofted a pass that Matt Suhey came back for to grab at the 2-yard line. Anderson then scooted in on a sweep two plays later to give Chicago a 17-7 advantage.

Wilson was picked off by linebacker Ron Rivera on the Vikings' next possession, setting up another Chicago score. Anderson began the drive with a 10-yard run and capped it with a 13-yard touchdown sweep, his third TD of the game.

After the kickoff, Wilson was picked off for the third time by Stinson at the Vikings' 29. He returned it unmoisted for the touchdown.

Wilson, under pressure much of the afternoon, completed 24 of 42 attempts for 253 yards. Tomczak was 10 of 26 for 142 yards with one touchdown and one interception.

Rookie running back Mark Green added a 37-yard touchdown scamper with 2:23 remaining to cap the scoring. The 28 fourth-quarter points equalled a Chicago record. Teddy Gracia missed a pair of field goals for the Vikings, including a 24-yard attempt in the closing seconds.

The Bears struck first on their second possession of the game, gaining good position on a punt after their defense held the Vikings deep in their own zone. Tomczak drove them 51 yards in seven plays, hitting a wide-open Anderson on a 24-yard strike over the middle to give Chicago a 7-0 lead with 5:10 left in the first quarter.

Gibson said the offense wanted to prove it could run the ball.

"I'm super proud of (running backs Antonio Moore and Yonel Jourdain)," Gibson said. "They would not be denied the first down and the goal line," Gibson said.

Moore ran for 104 yards on 19 carries and two touchdowns. Jourdain, a true freshman, ran for 63 yards on 12 carries.

Moore said the Salukis still have a long way to go this season but it was nice to get the win.

"We're not ready for the hall of fame yet," Moore said. "We have to go and improve week by week."

Senior center Bob Grammer said the first thing the Salukis need to do is cut down on penalties.

The Salukis were flagged 11 times for 120 yards, five for 70 yards in the first quarter.

Smith also was concerned with the penalty situation.

"We made enough penalties to lose the game, but we played hard enough to win the game," Smith said.

Grammer said it was a nice to break the losing streak.

"We really needed this one," Grammer said. "A win does wonders for a team."

Another wonder of the game was the hit linebacker Kevin Kilgallon delivered to EIU's quarterback Eric Arnold in the fourth quarter.

Arnold lined up in the shotgun formation and was forced to scramble by the interior of the Saluki defensive line. Arnold was forced out of the pocket and rolled right looking for an open receiver. Kilgallon, running at full speed, crushed Arnold for the sack and a 10-yard loss.

After the game Kilgallon described the play.

"He was running around the backfield and I came up to him and said 'happy birthday,'" Kilgallon said. "He was sneaking out the back door and I closed it."

The Salukis next action is at Murray State this Saturday, the first of three straight games on the road.

Volleyball finishes 2nd in Georgetown tourney

By Tracy Sargeant
Staff Writer

The Salukis pounded out a second place finish this weekend in the Georgetown Invitational, upping their record to 4-3 in tournament play.

The Salukis only loss was against the invitational host team, Georgetown.

"For the Georgetown match we were not ready to play," SIU-C coach Patti Hagemeyer said. "We took them 15-2 in the first game and lost the next three straight. (The team) just panicked and lost it."

The other three game scores were 17-19, 12-15 and 6-15. Hagemeyer said she blames the loss on a lack of consistency.

"(The team) is not consistent yet. It's all a matter of concentration," Hagemeyer said. "But, it's also been a long time since we've taken first or second in a tournament. This is definitely an improvement."

In the game against Rutgers,

Hagemeyer said she put in some new starters.

"I was most impressed with the game against Rutgers. We had some of the younger members playing and still took them in three (15-13, 15-2, 15-4)," Hagemeyer said.

Senior middle blocker Nina Brakins and sophomore middle blocker Debbie Briscoe qualified for the All Tournament Team. "I thought they played well throughout the weekend. I'm excited for them," Hagemeyer said.

Last season Brackins had a team-high of 309 kills, 64 block assists and a .189 attack percentage. Brackins was also named MVP of the 1988 Southern Classic. At the net she has attained a hitting percentage of .542.

As a freshman, Briscoe played 24 out of 26 matches. Last fall she had the third best offensive statistics of any returnee with 125 digs, 46 block assists and eight solo blocks.

Hagemeyer said that the team has nothing special planned for practice before their next game with St. Louis University on Tuesday.

"We are going to have a typical Monday practice, hard," she said.

"St. Louis University was in the conference finals with Butler last year," Hagemeyer said. "But as far as the team, I know nothing about them. They also have a new coach this year," she said. "But, what I'm most concerned about is what my team is doing."

"I expect this team will be ready to play (on Tuesday)," Hagemeyer said.

Come-from-behind victory second for SIU-C rugby team

By Kevin Simpson
Staff Writer

The SIU-C rugby club staged a comeback on Saturday for the second week in a row to defeat the University of Missouri (Rolla) by a score of 12-9.

As SIU-C tried to punt the ball for better field position Missouri blocked it and returned it for a "try" (4 points) in the first half and added a conversion kick (two points) and a penalty kick (three points) to establish a 9-0 first-half lead.

SIU-C, 2-1, picked up the intensity and controlled the ball on Missouri's side of the field for the majority of the second half while scoring 12 unanswered points. Senior Bob Schramm scored a try for SIU-C. Junior Nagni Kazzie had a conversion kick and two penalty kicks for a total of 8 points to conclude the scoring.

Junior Norm Smyth said the team showed a lot of character by coming from behind to capture the victory. "The team played good defense throughout the game. Other than the blocked punt, we played the game without any key mistakes. We didn't have any penalties in the second half."

"The team has great intensity," Smyth said. "We don't give up. Last year we didn't play that well, if we fell behind we would give up. This year we keep our heads up and don't give up. We're out there to win."

The B-side team won the second match by blanking the U of M B-side team, 13-0.

The rugby club will travel to St. Louis for a first round tournament match-up against the Washington University rugby club. If SIU-C wins, it could be matched up against the St. Louis Royals, who handed SIU-C the first and only defeat of the season.

Runners finish 3rd out of 27

By Greg Scott
Staff Writer

The SIU-C women's cross country team finished third out of 27 teams in the Midwest Collegiate Cross Country Championships Saturday on the strength of eight personal best times by their runners.

SIU-C finished with a total of 166 points, trailing Ohio State (41) and Wisconsin-Oshkosh (109).

The Salukis finished 16th last season and coach Don DeNoon was anticipating a better finish this season.

"Going from 16th to third isn't too shabby," DeNoon said.

The meet was also open to other runners that weren't competing collegiately. There were some grad assistants and other runners that used to compete in cross country, DeNoon said.

Freshman Leeann Conway continues to spark the Saluki effort. Conway finished sixth overall in the meet and was the fourth collegiate to cross the finish line. Conway's time of 18:15 moves her into the No. 9 position on the SIU-C Women's All-Time Cross Country List. The freshman from Overland Park, Kan. continues to please DeNoon.

"The potential is there for her to really excel," DeNoon said. "You don't typically find someone in their freshman year with a time like that, ending up there at the end of their career. She may continue to improve and we hope we'll see those results soon."

Dona Griffin, a junior, came up with a personal best time of 18:53 and finished 30th overall. Griffin, the 24th collegiate to cross the finish line, moved into the No. 20 spot on the all-time list.

"We had ran on this course before but we had never come away with some of our best times on it before," DeNoon said. "We just hope to keep improving."

DeNoon says that Conway and Griffin may not be the last two on the team to enter the Top 20 list.

"Any one of seven or eight girls on this team could move into that list," DeNoon said. "We have two already."

Sophomore Amie Padgett also finished with a personal best time of 19:10. Padgett finished 44th overall and 37th among collegiate competitors.

Junior Rosanne Vincent was 50th overall with a time of 19:16. Just a few seconds off her personal best time, Vincent was the 42nd collegiate to cross the finish line.

Dawn Barefoot, a freshman, finished 70th in 19:30 and was 59th among collegiate runners. This was Barefoot's personal best time as well.

Cathy Brown, a senior already No. 18 on the all-time list, was the sixth Saluki to cross the finish line Saturday in a time of 19:50. Brown finished 87th overall.

Laura Batsie and Leslie Tynes, two more Saluki freshmen, also came through with personal best times. Batsie finished 110th overall in 20:11 and Tynes was 128th overall in 20:23.

Tracy Guerin finished 128th overall with a time of 20:38.

Sophomore Tara Zeitler and freshman Christine Gabler came through with personal best Saturday as well. Zeitler finished 159th overall in 20:52 and Gabler 173rd in 21:14.

"There were 287 finishers in the race," DeNoon said. "That really helps you put these efforts in perspective."

The Salukis top seven finishers in this meet are all rated in the Top 20 of the Gateway Conference. The Salukis finished 21 points ahead of conference rival Western Illinois. This year's pre-season favorite, Illinois State, did not take part in the meet.

"Illinois State is the favorite but Western has defeated them in a previous meet this season," DeNoon said. "It could be a battle between us, Illinois State and Western for the conference championships if everyone stays healthy. The conference is pretty balanced with four or five schools that could compete. We should know where we stand in the conference by October."

Right now DeNoon is satisfied with his team's performance.

"It was a good strong showing for us and I have to be happy with our success so far," DeNoon said. "We are just looking for continued improvement."

The Salukis will have this weekend off. SIU-C will host the Country Fair Saluki Invitational on Sept. 30.

Cardinals split 2 with Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — John Kruk's grand slam home run in the bottom of the 12th inning gave the Philadelphia Phillies a 9-5 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals in the first game of a Sunday double-header.

Winning pitcher Dennis Cook led off the 12th with a single off Cardinal reliever Matt Kinzer. Ton Herr hit a one-out single, advancing Cook to third. One out later Von Hayes walked to load the bases. Kruk hit a 1-0 pitch over the

Cook, 6-7, took over in the 10th. Kinzer, 0-2, came on in the 11th.

The Phillies had tied the score 5-5 in the eighth. Pinch-hitter Dwayne Murphy worked reliever John Costello for a walk. Frank DiPino came on for Costello and yielded singles to Lenny Dykstra and Ton Herr, with Murphy scoring on Herr's hit.

Philadelphia took a 1-0 lead in the second when John Kruk singled, took third on a single by Charlie Hayes and scored on a wild pitch.

The Cardinals went ahead 3-1 in the third. Don Carman, 4-16, struck out leadoff batter Vince Coleman but Coleman went to first when the third-strike wild pitch bounced into the dugout.

In the second game Kris Carpenter recorded his fourth victory and singled in a run to lead the Cardinals to a 2-0 victory over the Phillies.

Ground game powers Salukis to win

By Daniel Wallenberg
Staff Writer

Head Coach Bob Smith's pass-oriented offense was scratched, at least for the Salukis' 20-17 victory over Eastern Illinois Saturday, as the offense surprised the Panthers for 238 yards rushing and 288 in total offense.

The Salukis notched their first win to move to 1-2 overall and 1-1 in the Gateway. The leading ground gainer was junior Antonio Moore, who finished with 104 yards on 19 carries. In the previous two games Moore had rushed for only 101 yards on 26 carries.

Moore's longest run of the afternoon came on the last play of the Salukis' first touchdown drive early in the second quarter, tying the score 7-7.

Moore took a hand-off from quarterback Fred Gibson and ran left for 27 yards to culminate the 72-yard, six play drive that began at the Saluki 28.

The drive would have been stopped in Saluki territory had it not been for a successful fake punt on a fourth-and-one at the Saluki 37. Junior college transfer Tim Callier, the up back in the punt formation took the snap and ran right for a 15-yard gain and a Saluki first down. Freshman Yonel Jourdain ran for 21 yards on the next play before Moore took it in

Junior Antonio Moore (36) fights his way into the end zone for his second touchdown of the game in the third quarter against Eastern Illinois for the score.

Saturday. Eastern defenders Jeff Oetting (54) and Dimitri Stewart (42) were unable to stop Moore who ran for 104 yards on the day.

EIU, 2-1, 0-1, scored on its first possession of the game on a similar 72-yard, six play drive which ended on a 29-yard pass play from EIU's Eric Arnold to Jason Cook at 7:06 of the first quarter, giving the Panthers a 7-0 lead.

Arnold had his best passing game of the season against the Salukis last year, but was held in check by the Saluki defense

Saturday. Arnold threw for 136 yards, completing 14 of 26 passes with one interception.

Bill Callahan, the Saluki offensive coordinator, said the run was part of the game plan designed to catch the Panther defense off guard.

"We knew we could run the ball on them," Callahan said. "Our plan was to run on normal downs and to stay out of the obvious."

Last week the Salukis were forced to pass in long yardage situations, giving Western Illinois' defense the advantage of knowing what the offense was going to do.

Smith said another reason for keeping the ball on the ground was the outstanding pass rush of the Panthers, led by last year's

First victory ends 7-game losing streak

By Daniel Wallenberg
Staff Writer

The Salukis' 20-17 victory over the Eastern Illinois Panthers was a game of firsts for the Salukis who were carrying a seven-game losing streak into Saturday's game.

The victory was the first for Head Coach Bob Smith at the helm of the Saluki program. Smith took over as head coach after Rick Rhoades left after 11 months for the University of Alabama.

Smith, 18-28-1 as a head coach, 1-2 as a Saluki, strayed away from his multiple passing offense for the first time this season, gaining a total of 238 yards rushing and only 50 via the pass.

Quarterback Fred Gibson was pleased the Salukis caught a break in the first victory of the season.

Gibson, referring to Eastern's fumbled snap while attempting a game-tying field goal with 47 seconds left to play in the game, said it was nice "just to get a break and get a chance to win."

On the Saluki offense, Gibson said Smith's multiple offense has not been changed.

"We went back to what we do best," Gibson said. "We ran to set up the pass."

Gibson attempted only 10 passes, completing five for 50 yards.

Cubs lose to Pirates again, 2-0

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Gary Redus and Jose Lind drove in one run each, and Doug Drabek pitched a eight-hitter Sunday to lead the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 2-0 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

Jay Bell went 3 for 4 as Pittsburgh recorded its seventh triumph in eight games, all against contenders. The Pirates went into the Cubs series coming off two victories over the New York Mets and three over the St. Louis Cardinals. Redus and Lind both picked up their RBI in a two-run fourth inning off Mike Bielecki, 16-7. The right-hander gave up a total of seven hits, walked one and struck out two over five innings.

Drabek walked none and struck out seven in notching his fourth shutout and seventh complete game of the season.

Bobby Bonilla and R.J. Reynolds led off the Pittsburgh fourth with consecutive singles to right. Bonilla scored from third when Redus hit into a force-out that erased Reynolds at second. Mike LaValliere walked and Lind followed with a single to right, scoring Redus from second.

Netters have rollercoaster weekend

Coach satisfied with performance of singles players

By Greg Scott
Staff Writer

SIU-C women's tennis coach Judy Auld described this weekend's action as "up and down" as her team went 2-1.

The Salukis defeated Bradley 8-1 on Friday before splitting two matches on Saturday. SIU-C defeated Indiana State 8-1 before losing to Western Illinois 5-4.

"It was good defeating Bradley and Indiana State," Auld said. "Losing to Western Illinois was somewhat of a downer for us. We came out of the singles competition in pretty good shape leading 4-2. But we were flat in doubles. I think at that point Western was a little more intense than we were."

Overall it was an impressive weekend for the Salukis. Beth Boardman went 2-1 in the No. 1 position with her only loss coming in a match against Western. Michele Jeffrey, Wendy Varnum, Lori Edwards and Michele Toye all went undefeated (3-0) this weekend in singles competition.

Edwards, a sophomore, is undefeated at 6-0. Nancy Mullins, a freshman walk-on, won her first match this weekend and went 1-2.

"Nancy just doesn't have the background some of the other players have," Auld said. "But she has improved since arriving on campus and it's just a matter of getting that consistency out of her."

In doubles competition, the Salukis No. 1 team of Boardman and Edwards finished the weekend with a 1-2 record. Toye and Varnum went 2-1 in the No. 2 doubles position. Jeffrey and Mullins went 2-1 as the No. 3 doubles team.

"I was very satisfied with the singles competition and fairly satisfied with doubles," Auld said. "We just need to be more aggressive against Western in doubles and needed to stay intense. We lost the first sets of each match and then had to struggle in the second set. I think we were stronger than Western. Nancy and some of the others responded well to the loss of Lori Gallagher in doubles."

Auld was worried about Indiana State and Western heading into the weekend. In a near sweep of Indiana State, the Salukis won all six of their singles matches, all in straight sets.

"That surprised me because I anticipated Indiana State to be a stronger team than that," Auld said. "There were some close sets, but we dominated them well."

The main thing the Salukis want to do is put the Western match behind them, Auld said.

"The Western loss is just one that got away and we need to take that as a learning experience," Auld said. "With it being this early in the season, we are playing well and we need to stay positive. The Western match won't overshadow our other wins."

One of the key factors for the team's success has been its early morning training, Auld said.

"Some of the other coaches have commented on how our training has been a benefit for us," Auld said. "We meet 6:30 in the morning a couple of times during the week and we do extensive training. This should really help the players for the season."

The Salukis will host Southwest Missouri State at 3 p.m. Friday on the University Courts. SIU-C will take on Eastern Illinois (9 a.m.) and Chicago State (2 p.m.) Saturday. All of these matches will be on the University Courts.

"Southwest Missouri State is a strong team," Auld said. "We are looking forward to playing at home and the girls like for their friends to come out and see them play. I am anxious to see people come out and watch them. Everyone gets up for conference play. Our conference rivals get up for us because they enjoy beating us."

Women's softball team captures title

By Daniel Wallenberg
Staff Writer

The women's softball team captured the championship game of the Bradley Invitational Sunday with a 1-0 victory over St. Francis College Sunday giving the Salukis a perfect 10-0 record for the fall season.

Junior Tracy Furlow threw a one-hitter in the championship game as the Salukis scattered five hits for their lone run in the victory.

The Salukis scored their only run in the first inning when freshman Colleen Holloway singled and stole second and scored on a triple by senior second baseman and team captain Shelly Gibbs.

Kay Brechtelsbauer, Saluki head coach, said Gibbs had a great tournament recording a home-run and a double in the semi-final game against St. Xavier.

The Salukis were down 1-0 going into the seventh inning when the team erupted for four runs sending them into the championship game.

"We just seemed to make the right pitch and get the necessary hit all through the tournament," Brechtelsbauer said.

On Friday the Salukis played a double-header against conference rival Bradley in non-tournament action and swept both games. The Salukis beat the Braves 4-0 and 6-1.

The Salukis opened up the round-robin tournament on Saturday by beating St. Xavier 1-0. The team's next two tests came against Eastern Illinois and Illinois Central College who the Salukis beat 3-1 and 4-0 respectively.

"It was a tight tournament," Brechtelsbauer said. "The players played extremely well under pressure."
