Two candidates withdraw; one reinstated

Five left in race for student trustee

By Elizabeth Boeza
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Since Friday's extended deadline for student trustee petitions, two candidates have removed their names from contention who one who had been disqualified was restored to the ballot.

According to Jonathan Dennis, election commissioner, the two withdrew because they could not attend summer school. This is a postelection requirement for the position.

Candidates for Wednesday's official ballot are Tom McClen, a junior in political science; Robert Jenkins, a graduate student in sociology; Craig Shanks, a junior in psychology; Robert Seely, incumbent trustee and a graduate student in public visual communications; and Betsy Byrnes, a law student.

Last week, Jenkins' petition for the trustee's position was challenged because of the amount of time he has been enrolled at SIU. Jenkins will compete for a seat at SIU in May.

Before Jenkins' petition was challenged, two other candidates for trustee, Robb Seely and Doug Stillberry, the surviving last men, leaving Jenkins as the sole candidate.

As a result, Jenkins' petition being challenged, the deadline for trustee petitions was extended. During the extended deadline, six candidates submitted their names for the election including Seely. Two of the six, Steven H. Boanheard and Randall Bethme, have withdrawn since Friday.

Under Article VII, Section 2, Part B of the Student Government by-laws concerning election procedures, candidates for student trustee must have attended SIU-C as a full-time student for two consecutive semesters prior to the election.

Part C of that same article stipulates that this candidate must have one year matriculation at SIU before the end of the election commissioner, Jonathan Dennis, Jenkins failed to qualify under both parts A and B.

Jenkins appealed the action to the Student Government Judicial Board which will be available selected by Student Government to study the matter. It was comprised of three undergraduates and three graduate students.

Scott Somowski, senior in administrative justice and chairman of the judicial board, said that although Dennis was justified in his actions, the board ruled in favor of Jenkins.

Somowski said that the board felt Part B was discriminatory in that it excluded first-year freshmen, graduate students, graduating seniors, transfer students and those participating in associate programs.

In regards to Part C, Somowski said the board felt it was too vague and should be rewritten or removed from Student Government by-laws.

Carter asks nation to help save energy

By Ria Benjamin
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter asked the nation Monday night to make sacrifices and support what he called a painful, unpopular programs to conserve energy because "the alternative may be a national catastrophe."

"With the exception of preventing war," Carter said in a televised address, "this is the greatest challenge our society will face during our lifetimes. The energy crisis has not yet overwhelmed us, but it will if we do not act quickly.

Carter warned that the nation's oil and gas supplies are running out and that reserves in other parts of the world will not be able to meet the rising demand for more than a few years longer.

He said his energy proposals "will cause you to put up with inconveniences and to make sacrifices. Many of these proposals will be unpopular."

However, he stressed, the energy crisis "will get worse every day until we act."

Carter declined to outline the details of his program. The chief executive plans to do that when he addresses Congress on Wednesday. Instead, he cited specific goals to be achieved and (Continued on Page 2)

Polls open for City Council election

Building service workers, who have been working without a contract for eight months, will receive a 25-cent-an-hour raise under terms of a soon-to-be-completed working agreement with the university.

The pay increase, retroactive to November 1, will apply in all campus janitorial, said John McDermott, assistant to the vice president of financial affairs.

The final draft of the settlement is being completed and will be available for signing by the end of this week McDermott said. The one year settlement was agreed upon verbally in early April.

For the last eight months, building service workers have been receiving the same salaries they received before Aug. 1, when the old contract with the University expired.

Attempts to renew that contract ran into difficulty after Gov. Daniel Walker sliced $4 million from SIU's proposed budget.

Robert Gentry, vice president for financial affairs, said at the time that the building employees were asking for substantially higher wages than the University could afford.

However, Bob Brewer, former president of the building service workers union, said last month that all the workers wanted were "higher hourly wages to make our salaries more equitable with the salaries of service workers in other state universities."

"We make less than the "minorial staff at Edwardsville," Brewer has said. "and this is a much larger institution."

After several offers were batted back and forth, a compromise was finally reached 2% weeks ago.

the principles used to formulate his program.

"We must be fair," he said. "Our solutions must ask equal sacrifices from every region, every class of people, every interest group. Industry will have to do its part to conserve, just as consumers will. The energy producers deserve fair treatment, but we will not let the oil companies profit forever."

To meet the energy challenge, Carter set seven goals to be met by the nation by 1980:

- Reduce the growth rate of U.S. energy demand from its 3.5 percent per year to less than 2 percent per year.
- Cut gasoline demand 10 percent by 1980.
- Cut oil imports, currently close to 9 million barrels per day, down to about 6 million barrels a day.
- Establish a strategic petroleum reserve of one billion barrels, enough to keep the nation going through at least a six-month interruption of petroleum supplies.
- Increase coal production by about two-thirds by 1980.

Byrnes would solicit student opinions

Byrnes also said he would work closely with Student Government, the Graduate Student Council-GSC, dorm governments and other student organizations to help obtain a consensus of student opinion.

"The basic question she must learn to answer," Byrnes said, "is 'How will this decision affect the students?'" He then continued with that question every time a decision is made. Byrnes said her answer would depend on student feedback.

He also said that proposed legislation would be sent to the Board of Trustees for review and that "certain actions will be taken to remove the six tons of chemicals dumped underground into the Ohio River system last month."

From the chemicals, hexachlorocyclopentadiene and octachlorocyclopentene, were detected in the Ohio River near the site of the dump. March 29 and it was closed after "personnel in the area had come into contact with it." Thereafter, 100 million gallons of raw sewage and other wastewater has been diverted daily into the Ohio River, which supplies water to many communities downstream from Louisville in Kentucky, Indiana and Illinois. Some have said the Ohio River "seemed to go back on line."

"We are going to let the nation know we are going to remove the six tons of chemicals and we will do it quickly," Byrnes said.

"We are going to move as quickly as possible to prevent further use of the Ohio River as a dumping ground," Byrnes said.

Carter urges stopping 15 water projects

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter said Monday that Congress should kill a bill that would transfer hundreds of millions of dollars from the federal treasury to the Saint Louis area to a tiny southern Illinois town, a Macoupin County Circuit Court judge ruled.

Judge John Russell said in granting a preliminary injunction that he was concerned about the safety of Wilsonville's 700 residents. In stormy meetings Friday and Saturday, a U.S. government-erected Earthline Corp. has been accused of dumping PCB-laden soil in the firm's landfill at Wilsonville.

IPRIG board on the ballot Wednesday

Students may vote in the first campuswide IPRIG (Illinois Public Interest Research Group) board member elections at the same polling places as Student Government elections. Separate ballots for the IPRIG elections will be provided.

Students may vote for seven candidates. Six candidates are officially on the ballot and students may vote for any number of candidates listed and up to three write-in choices. The total number of votes cast will be seven, with any combination of listed candidates and write-in candidates.

Byrnes would solicit student opinions

By Lynn Woller

The student trustee position is tremendously important and a position that should be used to its full potential," says Betsy Byrnes, a student trustee candidate.

Byrnes, a second-year law student, said that while the student trustee's basic responsibilities are preparation and attendance at Board of Trustees meetings, the student trustee has almost anything short of voting rights.

Byrnes said, "I'm there to present my views, which will reflect the views of the SIU student body.

She said she would submit articles to the Daily Egyptian informing students of board proceedings and soliciting student opinion on current issues and problems.

"Byrnes said she would work closely with Student Government, the Graduate Student Council-GSC, dorm governments and other student organizations to help obtain a consensus of student opinion."

Shanklin would inform students through media

By Pam Bailey
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Craig Shanklin, student trustee candidate, says he would use the newspaper, radio and television to inform the students of the issues before the Board of Trustees and encourage them to come to his office to express their views.

Specifically, Shanklin said in an interview Monday, he would like to have a monthly or bi-monthly column in the Daily Egyptian.

In the past, the student trustee has not kept the student body aware of what has been up before the Board of Trustees, Shanklin said.

"After what little campaigning I've done, I've seen that a lot of students don't even know what the student trustee does," Shanklin said, "but I believe that if the question comes up before the board and the students hear about it, then the opinion of the students could come up before the board.

The student trustee is a nonvoting member of the board who serves in an advisory capacity. Although Shanklin believes the board is fairly receptive to student interests, he would like the student trustee to become a voting member. He said this would give the student trustee more clout.

Two issues to which Shanklin would give priority would be tuition increases and admission policies.

Shanklin said he approves of the recent tuition increases because the effects of inflation had made it necessary to either increase tuition, or cut existing programs.

"However," he said, "I'm against the Illinois Board of Higher Education's (IBHE) proposal to require all students to pay one-third of the costs of their education.

Shanklin also said he would oppose any stiff admission policies.

Shanklin is currently president of the Psychology Club and is a student representative on the Recreational Facilities Planning Committee.

Active representation: the key, Jenkins says

By Elizabeth Beccia
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Robert Jenkins, student trustee candidate, says that at present the SIU Board of Trustees can only infer what student interests are.

According to Jenkins, a graduate student in sociology, the student trustee can actively represent those student interests. This, he says, is the key to the position.

"I feel the student trustee and president of the Student Senate are the most important positions in Student Government," Jenkins said. "The problem is that most students aren't even aware of these positions or what they do.

If elected, Jenkins said he would immediately direct all his efforts into contacting the groups and organizations to familiarize them with his ideas.

"The student trustee has a lot of information that most students don't," Jenkins said. "I think the student trustee should look at the student body as a kind of consumer group and will have to act accordingly with the board.

At present, the student trustee acts in an advisory capacity for the Board of Trustees. If elected, Jenkins said he would push for state legislation to permit student trustee voting privileges.

This voting privilege would improve both the student trustee and Student Government's effectiveness in representing student needs, Jenkins said.

Seely bases campaign on experience

By Kenia-Lee Hicks
Student Writer

Robb Seely, a student trustee for re-election, said Monday, "I strongly feel that the student trustee should not have a last minute homework form. The candidates do it, just comes out as a clutch.

Experience is the basis of Seely's campaign. "It takes at least six months before you have any idea of what's even going on," Seely said.

Seely said it takes even longer to get to know people's personalities. "The people who you say you 'just go out and talk to' is not how its done.

Marchlewski will 'kick some ass,' 'make noise,' and be president

The time has come for Student Government to respond to the needs of the students. We feel that one candidate, Marchlewski, truly speaks to the issues that concern students most. Frank Marchlewski.

Marchlewski tends to categorize decades by his dominant spirit. There were the Roaring 20s, the "Happy Days" of the 50s and the social upheavals of the 60s. The 70s have been for the most part, a slumbering, damnable decade. Marchlewski wants to change that. He says it's time to "make noise"—the students' stopto be darned. "We don't have to have to get vocal, to keep pushing away on issues that are real hard to win.

Marchlewski sees several student issues in the offing. Parking regulations on campus must be improved. Specifically, he calls for the opening of blue sticker lots to students, an idea whose time has come. He favors opening the Cardboard housing market to all students 19 years old or over, and 17 and 18-year-olds who have parental permission to live off campus. He says this will be a step toward making the University more responsive to complaints of dormitory residents.

It doesn't necessarily follow that the town's largest landlord will become more responsive to student complaints because of this, but his idea is a step away from the "never had a sick day" attitude and hopefully a big step toward undergraduate responsibility, something which life in the dorms harden people to in their winter fucking at the Towers and the Triads if you have any doubts.

Marijuana smoking at SIU is so common that students who live in the dorms and are caught smoking or writing up for "noise evidence," should not have that charge put on their permanent record, Marchlewski says. Students who live off campus don't have RA's sniffing around their rooms for smoking. Why should just a few be penalized, especially when if they had a chance, they wouldn't be living on-campus anyway.

Marchlewski at the seat candidate who has no prior connection to Student Government and who each represents some much needed new blood for the organization. He would also be the first to likely, as he himself puts it, "kick some ass" to solve some things all over campus.

There are other good candidates for student body president. They have some sound ideas on how the Student Senate could improve life at SIU. Dennis Adamscryk and Pete Allison both cite the need for improved lighting in Thompson Woods. Don Wheeler, like Marchlewski, wants to see blue parking stickers available to students.

Sam Dunning, along with Wheeler, Allison and Adamscryk have spoken out against fee increases. Dunning, Wheeler, and Garrick-Clinton Matthews see the need for improved communication between the Student Senate and students.

All of these ideas are good. But now there needs to be more than only good ideas; there must be leadership of the issues which much the majority of the candidates lacking.

These candidates should follow up on their ideas by running for Student Senate next fall. The Senate can use their help.

Ralph Waldo Emerson once said, "There are men, who, by their sympathetic attractions, carry nations with them, and they are the activites of the humane.

Marchlewski's sympathetic attractions are those of SIU students. The fluent the Siouxcities is that no issues are earth-shaking like the Vietnam war. Students want to park their cars with ease, they want to live their lives the way they want, where they want. Their freedoms aren't diminished as much by a national monolith like the draft, as they are by a local monolith—symbolized by a parking garage.

It's time for a candidate who can follow the sympathetic attractions of the people and lead the fight for them. It's time to march with Marchlewski.

Religion is merely search for God

This is in response to Don Petrot letter dated March 29, 1977. "Religion is merely search for God" is a second chance approach to learning, Mr. Petrot begins his letter by telling us that because of increasing confusion and fear in this world, many people are turning to religion as a source of comfort and security.

My friend, you are only partially right. Religion is merely man's search for God. Men have always tried to find answers, through the ages. This is the very basis of religion. Unless we are unable to discuss the meaning of life from our own creative ideas, we must go to someone for the answer.

Petrot later goes on to say that the Christian faith is a second chance approach for learning. This brings up the question. From whom do we require? A first-hand source? That makes our very religion unexplainable, because we are accepting the validity of that information.

Joan McDowell indeed uses a second hand, not first-hand approach. He finds his answer from God's Holy Bible. His message is not his own. It is the message of God to his people, passed from the Bible itself (which is according to Christian tradition and the Lord Jesus Christ).

We must all agree that man's quest for truth. While on earth, Jesus addressed some Hebrew Christians with the following conclusion of the Bible: You shall know the truth, and the truth shall set you free. (John 8: 32)

Man's search for God through his own creative ideas has resulted in the confusion of what we today call religion. But God says His wisdom has provided the answers that we can never discover on our own. God has revealed Himself in His word. Don't be confused by endless searching. He has the answers. Millions of Christians verify included: can testify that with endless read comfort and security in knowing Jesus Christ. We also found a lot of love, joy and peace in knowing Jesus Christ. We also found a lot of love, joy and peace in knowing Jesus Christ.

It may be true. Mr. Petrot, that many ships may find that there is a second-hand source to answer the question: What is the meaning of life? But the Bible is the one book that stands alone in giving any remittent answer. It is the one book that stands alone in giving any remittent answer. It is the one book that stands alone in giving any remittent answer.

Some people are fortunate that they have never had a sick day in their lives. Students who have required the services of Student Medical benefit are fortunate too! I think we need to be very fortunate to have a number of people working at the Health Service. I have heard many students talk down Health Service and refer to it as "Dickie Mine." I would like to commend the Health Service staff for a job well done. Keep up the good work.

No endorsements for other races

Because of the awkward timing of the elections and the confusion in the student trustee race, the Daily Egyptian editorial board made no endorsement for Student Senate, student body vice-president or student representative to the Board of Trustees.

The short span of time between the filing deadline and the election day has prevented the Daily Egyptian from making a sound endorsement for Student Senate, student body vice-president or student representative to the Board of Trustees.

EDITORIAL POLICY—The general policy of the Daily Egyptian is to publish the truth concerning issues of ideas and opinions expressed on the editorial pages of student organizations, other newspapers, or any department of the University. Signed editorials represent the opinions of the authors only. Unsigned editorials represent a consensus of the Daily Egyptian editorial staff. The Daily Egyptian reserves the right to print any article, signed or unsigned, on any subject. LETTERS POLICY—Letters to the editor are invited and published only if they are pertinent to the Daily Egyptian. Letters should be as brief as possible. Letters containing profanity or obscene material will not be printed. Letters to the editor should not exceed 150 words. Letters which are political in nature must be as brief as possible. All letters must be signed by the authors. Students Should identify themselves by their colleges, majors and years as students. All letters to the editor published in the Daily Egyptian will be verified, and a copy of the letter will be made available to the author. Letters to the editor must include addresses and telephone numbers where the writer may be reached at any time.

6 candidates in race for presidency

For too long, hundreds of students in Student Government have worked tirelessly to serve as trustees of student interests within the community. Unfortunately, as the time has come for more open, honest, involved Student Government.

My personal experience qualifies them for the office of student body president. Students have told me that they would do not make Student Government more than a group of four or five members. When I am president, any student can be involved in Student Government and be given the opportunity to have their voices heard. Each student can contribute their ideas and suggestions to the programming policies and the activities of Student Government.

I firmly believe that Student Government should be a tool for each student to actively participate and be involved in the student body. The Student Government is a tool for students to take an active role in their lives on campus. It is time for students to be involved in Student Government and have their voices heard.

I am running for the office of student body president and I am committed to making Student Government more involved, more accessible, and more approachable. I believe that the only way to achieve this is by giving every student the opportunity to have their voices heard. By running for this office, I hope to make a difference in the lives of students and to show them that Student Government can be a true representation of their interests.

If I were to be elected as student body president, I would implement the following policies:

1. Increased transparency: I would ensure that all decision-making processes are fully transparent and accessible to students.
2. Increased participation: I would encourage more students to participate in Student Government, not just those who are already involved.
3. Improved communication: I would work to improve communication between the student body and Student Government.
4. Greater accountability: I would hold Student Government accountable for its actions and decisions.

I hope that you will consider my candidacy for student body president and that you will vote for me in the upcoming Student Government elections.

Sincerely,

Five candidates in the race for student trustee

When I first took office as student trustee, I was impressed by the amount of things I had to learn. It takes at least six months to become adequately familiar with all the procedures and materials. This may be why some students do not have a clear understanding of the role of a student trustee. However, I believe that it is important for students to have a clear understanding of the role of a student trustee.

As a student trustee, I have had the opportunity to work closely with the Board of Trustees and to get involved in the decision-making process of the university. I have learned that the role of a student trustee is not only to represent the interests of students, but also to work towards the best interests of the university as a whole.

If elected as student trustee, I would work to promote the following goals:

1. Increased student representation: I would work to ensure that student voices are heard in the decision-making process of the university.
2. Improved communication: I would work to improve communication between the students and the Board of Trustees.
3. Increased transparency: I would work to ensure that all decision-making processes are fully transparent and accessible to students.

I believe that it is important for students to have a clear understanding of the role of a student trustee. I hope that you will consider my candidacy for student trustee and that you will vote for me in the upcoming student trustee elections.

West Side senatorial candidates

As a student senator now, I have helped to maintain a voice of conservation in the senate. Unfortunately there aren't that many students who have an idea about the environment and have convictions about whom they represent.

I hope that students will vote for me from the West Side as students of Chris Mullen and Mike Cartus. I also hope that the student body will elect Dan McGee and Cindy McNeilson for president and vice president of the student body.

Kathleen Verbetter, a new candidate for student environmental Action Party Graduate, public affairs, problem: to involve students in the tenure process.

This brings us back to the question: what can students do about the tenure process? It is through the decision-making process that issues are made public. It is through the decision-making process that students can have a voice in the decision-making process. It is through the decision-making process that students can have a voice in the decision-making process.

Now more than ever, the student body needs students to work with the Student Senate and with the Student Environmental Action Party to work together to solve the problems that students face. The Student Senate, in cooperation with the New Student Environmental Action Party, will have a voice in the decision-making process. It is through the decision-making process that students can have a voice in the decision-making process.

I, Kathleen Verbetter, have chosen to run for student senator in order to bring the Student Environmental Action Party to the forefront of the student government. Funk band to appear

Love, happiness, energy and growth, Kool and the Gang are a group of musicians who agree to inspire people with these four things through their unique blend of jazz and boogie music. The eight-man group from Jersey City, New Jersey, who have recorded such songs as "Who's Gonna Take The Weight," "Funky Stuff," and "Hollywood Swinger," approach life and music from a scientific and spiritual standpoint.

Kool and the Gang will appear in concert at the UI Arena Friday at 8 p.m. as a part of Kappa Kappa Kappa Weekend. Ticket prices are still available in the $4, $5, and $5.50 price ranges, with a 50 cent discount off the two top prices for UI students with I.D.

The band's members believe there is a formula to everything set down by the creator and that they are the actors playing out the parts.

Recitals to be given

SENIOR RECITAL

Ms. Dana Perrine, senior piano and voice major will present a free recital of classical, romantic and contemporary music Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the Old Baptist Foundation Chapel. Ms. Perrine will be accompanied by Deborah Cooper and with Gloria Long. The recital will feature piano works by Chopin, Brahms and vocal works by Haydn, Mozart, Britten and Vaughan Williams. Ms. Perrine is a member of the University Choral Society.

PACIFIC RECITAL

William Stokes, organist and choirmaster of the Second Presbyterian Church in Richmond, Virginia and organ instructor at Virginia Commonwealth University, will present a free recital with UI faculty cellist Anne Bakker Wednesday at 8 p.m. in Shyboy Auditorium. Solo organ works will include Mendelssohn's "Sonata No. Three" and Bach's "Prelude and Fugue in G Major," and Verdi's "Pilgrimage from Symphony Number One for Organ." Organ and cello works will include Raphael's "Sonata for Cello and Organ," Dupre's "Sonata for Cello and Organ in A Minor," and the world premiere of Dr. Perrine's "Little Suite. Number Two for Cello and Organ," written in 1977.

A first-year faculty member this will be Ms. Bakker's second recital, and coming to UI state performed with the Winnipeg Symphony, the CBC Winnipeg Festival Orchestra, the Royal Winnipeg Ballet Orchestra. the National Ballet of Canada and the Richmond Symphony.

A graduate of the Eastern School of Music and the School of Sacred Music of Union Theological Seminary, Stokes interest in choral conducting has taken him to England and the Aspen Choral Institute, where he received a Rockefeller grant for study in the summer of 1974.

MRF to limit crowd size

EDWARDsville (AP) — Eighteen entertainers led by Arlo Guthrie and Bob Hope will highlight the annual Mississippi River Festival at Southern Illinois University June 23 to Aug. 17.

Festival officials, weary of a recent performance of last year's festival, say that attendance will be limited to some 5,000 persons for each performance instead of last year's 10,000.

It is necessary in some instances that the festival organizers limit the size of a name recognition and less current popularity in trim management. Andrew Kochman, an SIU theater professor and artistic director of the university sponsored festival, said the major emphasis this year they were meant to fill. If the group doesn't have a successful concert, then the group will be communicated properly with the audience. We are concerned with communication, with interaction between the audience and the artist, conveying the message to them and having them react to it. Allightful musicans, Kool and the Gang feel that a leader's responsibility is always necessarily make the largest contribution to the group, and that if one player has an idea for a song, that idea is embraced upon by the entire group. They feel that even in those situations there is a balance that can be achieved, and achieved balance is just what they did in the cooperative effort of their latest release, "Open Sesame." Kool further explains the concept of this album is geared towards all people with special attention to little children.

Establishing intelligence committee could be mistake, Simon tells ACLU

By Joe Greene
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

"I have an uneasy feeling that a special committee could be set up more easily than a scattering of several committees," Simon said at a meeting of the American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU) Sunday night in the Student Center. About 30 people attended the lecture.

Simon said some senators are now questioning the value of the Senate's Special Intelligence Committee. Such committees receive a lot of attention from the staff in intelligence divisions. Soon it becomes hard to tell who is running the show, he said.

The question of civil liberty is at a peak because of the Watergate affair, Simon said. He said Watergate was a healthy thing in some ways because it brought the possibility of abusing government before the public.

Disclosure of financial backgrounds and lobbying campaign contributions for people running for public office were two areas where Simon said he disagreed with the ACLU.

Simon said that a limit on campaign contributions did not limit a candidate from writing letters to the editor or appearing on call-in radio programs.

"Wealth does not justify anordinate voice in public policy," he said.

Although the ACLU feels financial disclosure is an invasion of privacy, Simon said politicians owe it to the public to put their interests above their own.

He said politicians cannot always abstain from voting on issues that affect themselves. All legislators, with children cannot stop voting on education issues, he said. It is practical to disclose politicians' assets and liabilities in detail.

Just as law officers cannot enter without a search warrant, Simon said, the same type of rule should apply to wiretapping conversations.

He said Americans should not see wiretapping as an invasion of privacy, and other activists argue wiretapping condones the dictatorships policies by imitating them.

"The reason we are a free country is that we don't permit anyone to go contrary to procedure," he said. "Letting the procedure work is the strength of this country, he added.

Public opinion is moving in the wrong direction as far as capital punishment is concerned, Simon said. People don't fully understand the consequences of possibly executing an innocent person and the effect of the publicity of an execution on the public.

United head says airlines hurt by fuel cost

By Rich Cohn

Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Richard Ferris, president of United Airlines, says the fuel situation in the United States is "a crisis in the case of United Airlines.

Ferris addressed his remarks to the 14th annual Alpha Eta Rho aviation fraternity banquet Saturday night.

Ferris cited the United States’ dependency on foreign sources for 50 per cent of its crude oil as part of the decline in airline profit and expansion.

United Airlines “has no plans to abandon small cities” from its 15-city schedule, Ferris said.

Ferris, elected president in 1974, said United Airlines spent $500 million two years ago for fuel. Now, he said the airline spends $500 million, while using six per cent less fuel.

Government regulation is the cause for the airline industry’s economic problems, Ferris said. The industry can not earn enough of a profit to finance further expansion.

“The industry needs to spend $5 billion by 1980 to build new planes” for greater efficiency and less noise,” Ferris said the banes that land his airline’s time FRAME have noticed that no more money is to be borrowed.

Ferris said the airlines “could suffer as dearly as the railroads.” He said out of 26 major corporations, the airlines were last and railroads were ahead of them.

“to come back from these economic problems,” Ferris said, “we need to get down the prices the airlines can charge, and give that power to the airlines themselves with a 10 per cent ceiling on increases.”

Ferris said, “it would take a gradual transition to get the in-

African women figures of authority according to Cameroon ambassador

By Naiyana Dousson

Student Writer

African women have always been a symbol of authority in the family and this tradition has been carried on to administration and politics as well, says Pamela E. Martin, cultural attache of the Embassy of Cameroon, West Africa.

"The African woman does not need to be liberated, she already is," said Martin at a gathering at the University City complex.

Martin's speech on "The Role of The African Woman in Politics" was a major part of the Africa Day Celebration, a yearly event to commemorate the birth of the Organization of African Unity and to pay tribute to African freedom fighters. At ISU, the celebration lasted three days from April 14 to April 16.

Martin's appearance was sponsored by the African Student Association, the International Student Council and the Black Affairs Council.

Citing the United Republic of Cameroon as an example of the "developing Africa," Martin said the role of women reflects closely on the cultural, social, economic and political situation of the nation.

In African societies where sex roles are fixed and where family activities center around the mother, women control the family without taking over power from their husbands. They have always taken active part in the family's decision-making process, she said.

This observation still holds true outside the family, Martin said. In many African nations, women occupy important positions in society and government - the cabinet, international affairs, social welfare institutions and so on.

She added, however, that at one time in Cameroon, to have women in politics was like having window display.

"It looked good to have a woman there even though she wasn't always qualified to be there," she explained.

In a traditional African society, Martin said, roles of boys and girls are not interchangeable. African women willingly accept the fixed roles assigned to them. There is no competitive tension between men and women in the division of duty and work.

"In America, men can wash dishes, but in Africa, they can't," Martin said when asked to cite a specific example during a short interview following her speech.

In African families, it is important that parents have seen to carry the family name whereas daughters are not considered as part of the family, Martin said. However, this does not deny the prominence of the female. Once married, she always governs the family.

"What we first learn about the world comes from our mothers and this is a natural role. We are getting more specialized in various fields, but no university have ever offered a specialization in being a mother," Martin said.

Martin stressed that African women are not considered inferior to men. However, "since every man is not equal to every other man, it's not possible for every woman to be equal to every man," she said. Equality is only in terms of the potential and the opportunity available.

"I am not a feminist," Martin said, "and I don't subscribe to the idea that women have to become or act like men.

"The difference in the role of women between Western countries and Africa depends on what the struggle is about," Martin emphasized. "In Africa, the struggle is for every human being to be liberated. African women are talked about, not as women, but as human beings."

Before Sound Guard*, the only way to prevent your records from wearing out was not to play them.

The villain behind this destruction is friction. If a diamond cuts through steel, you can imagine what a diamond stylus does to vinyl records. Fortunately, from outer space has come a solution to record degradation. It's called Sound Guard.*

A by-product of research into dry lubricants for aerospace applications, Sound Guard record preservative puts a microscopically thin layer of 0.000003" dry film on records to protect the grooves from damage. Yet, remarkably, it does not degrade fidelity.

Independent tests show that Sound Guard preservative maintains full amplitude at all audible frequencies, while at the same time significantly retarding increases in surface noise and harmonic distortion.

In other words, when applied according to instructions, a new record treated with Sound Guard preservative and played 100 times sounds the same as one in "mint" condition played the first time!

Sound Guard preservative comes in a kit complete with non-aerosol pump, spray and velvet buffing pad. It is completely safe and effective for all discs, from precious old 78's to the newest LP's including CD's.

Recently introduced to audiophiles, Sound Guard preservative is now available in audio and record outlets.

Mail order rip off

IPIRG's Consumer Action Center (CAC) and the Carbondale Attorney General's Office have received many complaints about R.G. Enterprises, a "make money in your spare time stuffing envelopes" operation.

Two persons who sent complaints to CAC have lost their $7.50 fee for "complete and simple instructions on how to make $500 per thousand stuffing envelopes." The Attorney General's Office in Carbondale is forwarding all complaints to the Carbondale Postal Inspector. A spokesman for the Attorney General's office said this is a typical "make money at home" scheme and that the company is operating on the fringes of the law.

Any similar complaints should be addressed to the Postal Inspector, Post Office Building, Carbondale, Ill. 62903.

In a "Guide to Federal Consumer Services," published by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, the Postal Service's function to consumers is outlined. The Postal Service provides mail, operates the Office of Consumer Advocate to assist customers with mail problems, offers insurance for valuables sent through the mail, and provides numerous other services.

The service also acts through its Consumer Protection Program, to resolve unsatisfactory mail order transactions even when no action has occurred.

For service, contact local post offices. Report unresolved mail service complaints to Thomas Chadwick, Consumer Advocate, U.S. Postal Service. Washington, D.C. 20260; phone: (202) 245-4514.

Report suspected postal violations, including failure to receive ordered merchandise to your local post office or the Chief Postal Inspector, U.S. Postal Service, Washington, D.C. 20260; phone: (202) 245-5445.

SCHOOL STRUGGLE
NEW YORK (AP)—The epic struggle for school desegregation that culminated in the 1954 Supreme Court decision outlawing segregated schools will soon be seen on national television.

The television rights to "Simple Justice," a book by Richard Kluger, have been acquired by Children's Television Workshop, producers of "Sesame Street" and "The Electric Company." Joan Ganz Cooney, CTW president, says the 235-page book will be translated into a dramatic TV series for prime time broadcast on the Public Broadcasting Service.

Proposed legislation would make leghold, bear, steel jaw traps illegal

By Ann McManus
Shawnee WRiter

Any person who sets an animal trap in a state park may be guilty of a misdemeanor.

A bill introduced in the Illinois House of Representatives by Rep. John Porter, R-Evanston, would prohibit the use of animal traps and provide a penalty for their use.

"Leghold traps are the cruelest traps that man has ever created," Porter said. He said the bill was introduced because of the enormous response from animal-protective agencies across the state.

The bill is being co-sponsored by 180 other legislators around the state.

Porter said he introduced legislation similar to that in 1973 which passed in the Illinois House but he added, "That the bill was killed in its final form.

The present law allows any type of trap to be used. It is not until the court has considered the trap's design and granted permission that it may be used in a park.

The new law would make traps illegal if they are not allowed on public property unless special permission has been granted by the department. He said they have had problems in the past with traps.

The present law includes a penalty of $25 to $500 for each trap that has been set.

The bill has been assigned to the Environment, Energy and Natural Resources Committee. The committee hearing date has been set for April 22. Cleveland Amory, president of Fund for Animals, will speak in favor of the legislation.

Porter expects the bill to be amended to include water sets which would allow the use of leg traps under water. That would allow the animal to drown and would decrease the amount of suffering for the animals. He said he would agree to such an amendment.

Porter pointed out that the main opposition at the present time is at the Illinois Trappers Association, which involves approximately 18,500 trappers in the state.

The new law would provide that any person who sets steel jaw, bear, or leghold traps would be guilty of a misdemeanor. The Department of Conservation would offer a reward not exceeding $300 to anyone providing information leading to the arrest and conviction of anyone using a steel jaw, bear, or leghold trap.

Medicine award presented to SIU medical school student

An SIU School of Medicine student, Stephen C. Ulrich, took first place in this year's American College of Legal Medicine competition, winning the Schwartz Award for outstanding student papers on legal medicine.

Ulrich's paper, "PSRO—The Law and the Physician," was judged to be the best of all the papers submitted by medical school candidates throughout the United States. Ulrich was announced the winner of the Schwartz Award in March.

The award carries a $250 honorarium, and the winning paper will be published in the National Journal of Legal Medicine. In addition, Ulrich will be a guest at the 1977 International Conference on Legal Medicine to be held in Scottsdale, Ariz., in May.

Ulrich, the son of James and Ilia Ulrich of Grand Chute, Ill., graduated from St. Henry's Prep School in Belvidere and received his bachelor's degree in chemistry from SIU in 1974. Ulrich, 26, will graduate from the SIU School of Medicine in Springfield in June. After graduation, he plans to move with his wife Theresa and their two children to Ohio, where he will take a residency in Family Practice at Grant Hospital in Columbus.

AP writer awarded Pulitzer

NEW YORK (AP) - Walter Moore of The Associated Press won the Pulitzer Prize for national reporting Monday for his coverage of last year's presidential primaries and the campaign and election.

The LATFAX, Yes, News, a small newspaper with limited resources, won the public service award for bringing about fundamental reforms in recruiting and training practices of the U.S. Marine Corps.

The award for general local reporting went to James Bonam of the Milwaukee Journal for an investigation into nursing homes, where she found conditions miserable.

Ariel Moore and Wendell Rawls Jr. of the Philadelphia Inquirer won the award for special local reporting for an investigation into the treatment of the criminally insane at Fairview State Hospital.

There was no award given this year for international reporting.

The other 1977 Pulitzer awards:

Editorial cartooning - Paul Snee of the Boston Globe.

Feature photography - Robin Hood of the Chattanooga News Free Press.

Commentary - George F. Will of the Washington Post Writers Group.

The Pulitzer Prizes were announced by Columbia University upon recommendation of an advisory board on the prizes. Jurors in the individual categories submitted their decisions to the board.

The Pulitzers were endowed by the late publisher Joseph Pulitzer and were awarded first in 1917.

It was not immediately known why there was no award for international reporting.

Years ago, an AP special correspondent, was cited for his work under the pressure of continual deadlines of both morning and afternoon newspapers.

"This world, spread to the nation, and the world, were probably read by more people than those of any other political reporter.

A Phi Beta Kappa graduate of Middlebury College in Vermont, Moore joined the AP in Boston in 1954 and transferred to Washington in 1961.

Bilandic appears to lead competitors by 2 to 1 margin in Chicago primary

By Mike Robison

CHICAGO (AP)—Acting Mayor Michael A. Bilandic, who got into politics through the back door of Richard J. Daley's Loop office, appeared likely to be the front-runner in his closest challenge among six Democrats seeking Daley's mayoral primary election.

A preliminary count late Tuesday of 780,000 votes was forecast in the voting Tuesday, the first mayoral election in 23 years in which Daley wasn't on the ballot and Dec. 30 is not on the ballot. Voting is the primary and should be tantamount to election as mayor for the rest of Daley's sixth term, which expires in 1979. Republicans have a last minute to admit they lack anything like the resources or momentum for a primary election in June.

Bilandic emerged into the City Council eight years ago and rapidly progressed to chairman of the powerful Finance Committee. He has been endorsed by the regular Democratic organization, which has dominated in city elections for 48 years.

MetroPoll, commissioned by the Chicago Sun-Times, found Bilandic leading his closest challenger, Alderman Samuel J. Hurewitz, 53, by a 2-to-1 margin in polling April 8 through April 9.

The results showed the 57-year-old Bilandic, a former congressman who is fighting the regular organization he once supported, taking the step between himself and Bilandic. Democratic strategists were ready to concede perhaps 12 of the 50 wards, mostly in the West and South Sides, to an Eastern European tinge to Pucinski, but there appeared to be little time for him to catch up.

State Sen. Harold Washington, 55, the candidate of the search committee for black community, was running third in MetroPoll. Former State's Atty. Edward V. Hanrahan, once a favorite of the regular organization, was following Washington closely along with attorney Elia Reid and wealthy political gadfly Arthur R. Martin-Tyrona.

Among Republicans, Alderman Daniel S. O'Flynn, handicapped by Gov. James R. Thompson, was favored to win, although South Side under­taking A.A. Sammy Rynear, a former alderman, has made a fight of it. Also on the ballot are protest candi­dates James O. Rothert and Businessman John A. Atwood.

When you start going to class via the jewelry store, it’s time to start thinking diamonds.

Think Vanity Fair and save up to 50%.

The first time, you snap the arm off your watch. This gives you a legitimate excuse to go into the jewelry store and just "browse" at the rings while your watch is being fixed.

Two days later you’re back again. You thought it was about time you changed the name on your D. Brubaker 14th— and browse at the rings, as long as you’re in the store.

Suddenly, you’re hooked on browsing.

Well, here’s something to think about.

Vanity Fair has been selling diamonds for over 55 years. And we’re specialists in engagement rings. Our staff of expert gemologists are very discerning when helping you choose a ring. Nothing but the finest.

And the nicest part is that you can enjoy Vanity Fair diamond rings at a price that averages 50% lower than anyone else’s. That’s right— the best at half the price.

What’s more, we want you to be 100% happy with your ring. So if for any reason you decide to return it within 30 days, we’ll give you a full refund. No questions asked.

Send for our free 52 page diamond catalog for a complete idea of the stones and settings you can find at 50% savings.

Och better yet, visit our showrooms at 55 E. Washington, Chicago.

And next time you’re thinking of "browsing" at a jewelry store, think of Vanity Fair.

Mistaken age saves Carbondale boy from criminal charges against him

By John Robakchi
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

"I was too young to do this," says the 17-year-old boy who could be channeled by a 16-year-old boy for criminal activity according to two criminal charges against him discussed on April 2.

When the youth was charged last month with the theft and burglary of a Carbondale residence's home on Jan. 5, he told John Clemons, Jackson County assistant state's attorney, he was 17 years old. The boy's mother also said her son was 17.

In Illinois a 17-year-old is tried as an adult, which Clemons explained to the boy and his mother.

The boy had been arrested by the Carbondale Police with four other juveniles. Since the boy was believed to be an adult, his name and address appeared in the Daily Egyptian.

About a week and a half ago, the Department of Public Aid telephoned the State's Attorney's Office and said he had according to their records the boy is 16 rather than 17 years old.

The Jackson County Public Defender's Office immediately asked that the criminal charges be dropped against the boy.

Clemons wrote the Mississippi Bureau of Vital Statistics for a copy of the boy's birth certificate. The boy was born on Aug. 13, 1980 and not on Aug. 13, 1989 as the boy and his mother had repeated to Clemons.

So on April 27 Clemons will ask that the criminal charges be dismissed and file a juvenile delinquency charge against the boy.

The four other juveniles arrested have been declared delinquents by Circuit Judge Richard Richman. Clemons said Monday that the boy's mother still doesn't know the correct age of her son, but he will give her a copy of the boy's birth certificate if she wants it.

Student jobs now available; ACT form on file required

The following jobs for student workers have been listed by the Office of Student Work and Financial Assistance.

To be eligible, a student must be enrolled full-time and must have a current ACT Family Financial Statement on file with the Office of Student Work and Financial Assistance. Application forms may be picked up at the Student Work Office, Woody Hall, third floor. Jobs available include:

- 1 1/2 Clerical, typing required—11 openings; mornings, afternoon, late afternoon to be arranged; summer openings, eight mornings, three afternoons, six to be arranged.

- Miscellaneous desk worker, one, 4-10 p.m., mornings, one, for afternoon, one for 6-10 p.m., one for weekends.

Education day focuses on jobs

Students majoring in education will have the opportunity to learn more about the job market and teaching positions in elementary, secondary and special education on Education Career Day, from 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Wednesday at Student Center Rooms A and B.

Principals and superintendents from 23 school districts in Arkansas, Illinois, Indiana, Missouri and Wisconsin, will speak to undergraduate and graduate students about job markets and teaching positions.

Jane Tierney, Career Planning and Placement Center (CPCP) consultant.

Two government agencies, the Peace Corps and the Shawnee National Forest's Golconda Job Corps Center, a rehabilitation job program for disadvantaged youths between 16 and 25 years, will also be available to discuss job trends in education.

Tierney, Education Day coordinator, said possible administrative positions may be available. These openings include assistant superintendents and principals.

She said Education Day is mainly an opportunity to "talk informally about things to teach possibilities."

No registration is required for interested students. Tierney said Education Career Day is cosponsored by CPCP and the College of Education.

Briggs finally loses as netters bow out

By Rich Karch
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

Last Friday was a bad day for the SU women's tennis team as the Massac Hypchos Invitational, everyone on the team except Sue Briggs lost.

Breggs, who had won 11 straight matches, finally had her string broken by Kay McNiel of Louisiana State. 94. 14. Briggs had won her first two matches of the tournament Thursday.

Marsha Bledel, who also won her first two matches went down 64. 14 to Elizabeth Sharp of Tennessee-Chattanooga.

SU's two other singles competitors, Shari Dewan and Sue Caspary, both lost first round matches Thursday and then lost in the consolation bracket Friday. Caspary lost to Lee Bottomer of Louisiana State, 64. 84, and Dewan lost to Karen Wes of Murray State, 64. 84.

The doubles team of Mauri Koller-Trice Schub, which had won by default in the second round after a first-round bye, finally got knocked out, 64. 84 by the No 3 seeded team from Rollins College of Felicia Hatfield and Nancy Newnam.

The second doubles team of Thea Breier-Carol Foss, lost in the consolation round, 14. 64, to Sherry Shores and Sally Swayne of Florida State.

Netters split matches

By Jim Manus

The Saluki netters split their two dual matches last weekend as their bid to move their season record over .500 fell short. SU's dual record is 4-6.

SU defeated Valley Conference member Indiana State, 8-3, before losing to Big 10 defending champion Michigan, 9-6.

Novelle Cottin won her No. 5 singles match and teamed with Sue Dean for a doubles victory to pace the Indiana State win. The Sycamores led 2-1 after doubles, but SU won five of six singles matches to seal the victory.

No. 1 Salukian player Mel Angon defeated Curt Williams of Indiana State in a tiebreaker. The match, 8-6. Angon's team played Tuesday for the 12th Annual Student Center Ballroom B Everyone is Welcome.

Softballers split four games

By Les Pavanic
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

The women's softball team had a busy weekend. Saturday the team split a doubleheader with Northern Illinois at DeKalb. Sunday the team lost to Illinois State at Normal, but came back to defeat Illinois Circle. To win two of the three games played, the Illini season record is 9-5.

In the first game with Northern, which the Illini won 8-5, Sue broke a 5-5 deadlock in the seventh inning with a run that was scored on a broken play. With the bases loaded and one out, Robin Deterding squared to bunt for a sacrifice play. The ball popped up and sailed behind the mound. Sue hit the unperturbed runner on the field fly rule. When the ball hit the ground, Lynne Williams exhibited some head-up, base running and scored from third.

Sue Meyers was the winning pitcher and went the distance. Lute Dennis had a pair of hits in three trips and five players had one hit each.

The second game was a pitcher's battle for five innings, with neither team scoring. Sue broke the tie with a run in the top of the sixth when Deterding homered to left with none on. Northern came back with two in the bottom of the sixth to lead 3-1.

Dee Stull tripled in the seventh for the Illini and came home on a Passt Rendino triple, but Rendino was stranded on third to end the game.

The final was Northern 3, Sue 2. Stull went the distance for the Illini and struck out two.

Southern came out on the short end of a 5-2 score with Illinois State in a game that probably decided the Illini's chances for the Redbirds as Sue had just one hit in the contest. Sue scored first, getting two in the fourth. The Redbirds added one in the fifth to make it 3-0, but Sue answered with two in the top of the sixth.

Pat Mazza started it off with a walk and was sacrificed to second by Lula Dennis. She scored when Nancy Chasey's groundball was mishandled and thrown out of play. Chasey scored on Meyers' single, but the only hit of the game against Chicago Circle was a popout.

Five team records set in trackster victory

Five team record-setting performances paced the Illini women's tracksters to a win in the SIU Invitational Saturday. Four of the record breakers were first-place finishers.

The final score of the meet was SIU 108, Western Illinois 66, Illinois State 78 and Principa 2.

For the second meet in a row, Sue Phillips beat the Cub's 3-1

CHICAGO (AP)—Rookie Randy Leach, backed with home runs by Garry Maddox and Mike Schmidt, hurled the Philadelphia Phillies to a 5-1 victory over the Chicago Cubs Monday for his first major league triumph.

Just his second major league start, Leach had a no-hitter through the first six innings behind the strong hitting of Manny Trillo opened the seventh with a triple and scored on Larry Bittner's infield out.

Leach, a 12 year-old lefthander, gave up two more hits in the seventh and left the game in the eighth for a pinch-hitter Ron Reed finished up and relieved the save.

Ray Burris, who last week defeated the Phillies with a no-hitter for his seventh lifetime triumph over Philadelphia against one loss, was the victim of his second defeat against one victory.

Lerch opened the Philadelphia sixth with a double and scored ahead of Maddox. Ediler one out later, Mike Schmidt blasted his third homer of the season to wrap up the Phillies scoring.

Lerch opened the Philadelphia sixth with a double and scored ahead of Maddox. Ediler one out later, Mike Schmidt blasted his third homer of the season to wrap up the Phillies scoring.

After the win for Chicago by Joe Torre in the ninth inning. Bob Gibson got the save for the Indians. Mike Schmidt was hit by the ball, and then doubled to open the next inning. Then lead off batter Leon Durham hit a single to score Schmidt. Mike Schmidt was hit by the ball, and then doubled to open the next inning. Saluki nine on winning binge, face Western Kentucky next

By Dave Hess
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

"You can't get depressed when things aren't going well, but you also can't get too excited when they are. Those were words of warning from SIU assistant baseball coach Mark Newman, commenting on the turn-around the Saluki nine has made.

Things are going well for the baseball Salukis. In fact, they are as hot now as they were a few weeks ago.

The Salukis ran their record to 19-7 by sweeping a three-game series with Indiana State and a doubleheader with SIU Edwardsville Sunday.

The victorious gave the Salukis six wins in a row, and 16 wins in their last 11 games as they go into a 1-30 p.m. Tuesday doubleheader with Western Kentucky at Abe Martin Field.

After a 2-2 win over Indiana State Friday, the Salukis came back to take two more from the Sycamores, when Newman called "The most improved team on our schedule." Kevin Waldrop pitched a complete game in the opener as SIU rolled 7-3. Craig Robinson, who leads the team in RBI's with 36, carried the big stick by cracking a two-run homer and collecting three hits.

In the second game Bob Koenervoort was a three-hitter as the Salukis scored by with a 2-1 win. The big story came in the ninth inning when Bruce Hansen slapped a two-out, two-run single. Dewey Robinson relieved in the seventh inning to save the game for Koenervoort by retiring the final two batters, with two men on base.

Sunday, the Salukis pitchers turned in two more complete games in sweeping SIUE, 9-2 and 11-1. Bob Simon went the distance in the first game to boost his mark to 4-3. The Salukis put the game away early by getting four runs in the first, a pair in the second and a solo in the third.

George Vukovich put the icing on the cake with a two-run homer over the centerfield fence in the sixth inning.

In Sunday's nightcap, Dewey Robinson worked the complete game, while designated hitter Chuck Curry stroked four hits in the rout.

The Salukis led 4-0 after three innings and 6-2 after six. They pushed across three more in the seventh and did the same in the ninth.

The Salukis smashed 19 hits in the nightcap, giving them 36 hits for the twin bill. The Salukis had 10 hits in the Indiana State series.

Clockwork wins softball title

Clockwork defeated the Bombers, 8-4, Sunday in the championship game of a 16-team softball tournament at Williams Field. The tournament consisted of the 14 top teams in SIU's intramural spring softball league, and was designed as a tune-up for the IM playoff.

"We played when it was time to really play, and everybody gave their full effort," said winning coach Bob Mikul. Clockwork also beat Wonder Boys, who had just come off an upset victory over the Jaguars, one of the pre-tourney favorites.

Bomber first baseman Lee Fronswig, who had to leave the game when he broke two fingers, was just happy to be in the finals. "We played well the entire game to get into the final, and we played good defense in the final game, but we couldn't generate any hitting. The Bombers beat another favorite, The Waiters, in a semifinal game, 10-0."

Ali Leray, graduate assistant in charge of intramural softball and the tournament sponsor, said, "Everybody had a good time and I was glad the tournament was continued." He also said, "A lot of good teams got beat and it showed that anything can happen in the playoffs."

Clockwork coach Stephen praised Bomber pitcher Dave Horr, saying, "Their pitcher was baffling. I've been in many situations and he was one of the best pitchers in new pitch I've ever faced."

Pheeta Th's upset Proc Tap, 7-3, in the championship game of the consolation bracket in the tournament.

"We're swinging the bats pretty well right now," said Newman, who also pointed out that the Salukus played excellent defense last weekend going errorless in four of the five games. Guys like Delhomme, Reaves and Murray are hitting now and hitting like they are capable of.

"Bunter Keaton and Jim Krebsler are slated to work the Tuesday doubleheader and Newman said, "If Keaton gets rolling, we'll be in good shape."

Trackmen shock Illini by 33 points

By Rick Karch
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

Gary Wieeneke won the battle of the coaches, but Lew Hartzog won the meet.

Wieeneke, Illinois track coach, said the week before the SIU-Illinois dual meet that SIU would win. He was right, as the Salukis trounced the Illini, 98-60. And Hartzog was wrong, although he probably doesn't care.

The SIU tracksters led from the first event in the 10th dual meet between the two teams as they went on to 13 of 19 events. It was SIU's seventh win against three defeats in the series.

Two Saluki tracksters and both relay teams qualified for the NCAA championships. Mike Bisase's 1:48.8 in the 800-meter run, and Ken Lorraway's 25.2 in the long jump met the NCAA standards.

Hartzog was a happy man throughout the meet as he figured his time had the meet wrapped after the fourth race. Meanwhile, Wieeneke couldn't be seen until he came out of hiding after the meet ended.

SIU swept two straight races in the meet. First was the 110-meter high hurdles which was won by Andy Roberts. Tracy Meridith was second and Lawrence Love lunged across the finish line to beat Illinois' Ron Sterrenberg.

Next up was the 400-meter dash and the Saluki runners swept the hurdles by sweeping this one, with all three Salukis under 47.8. Scott Dorsey was under the NCAA qualifying mark, which he had already met, while Karl Bigelow and Steve "The Fink" Lively were just tenths of a second off.

Mike Kee thrilled the crowd of about 2,000 by doubling when he left everybody else behind in the 100- and 200-meter dashes. Kee was also a member of the 400-meter relay team which set the NCAA mark.

In the long jump, Rick Rock and Lorraway had to settle for second place. When Illinois' super jumper Charlton Ehizuein jumped 26-7½ for a new stadium record, and also best jump of the season in the nation, Ehizuein also won the triple jump to match Kee's doubling feat. Lorraway was second in the triple jump.

Ed Kajewski finally came on strong by winning the high jump with his 6-6 leap.

Even with 25 stitches in his face after an injury last week, Tom Johnson managed to pole vault 17-6 to win that event. Clay DeMattei was second, beating out Illinois' Doug Las, a 17-foot vaulter, on fewer misses.

Stan Podolski set an SIU record in the hammer throw with a heave of 164-10 for first place. John Marks won the shot put at 57-7 while Bob Roggy was first in javelin with a toss of 265.1. Podolski and Marks were also two, three, in the discus.

Probably the biggest surprise in the meet was Rick Harnage third place in the 1,500 meters, an event Hartzog didn't figure a Saluki to place.

Both teams ran like madmen in the mile relay and qualified for the NCAAs. The SIU team of Lively, Bisase, Dorsey and Bigelow held off the Illini in the last 100 meters to win in 3:36.8, which is fantastic according to Hartzog since every runner had already run in another event.

"There was never a doubt in my life that the kids would do anything other than 100 per cent," Hartzog said. "We got to them, but we're not close to being that much better than Illinois."

After the meet, Wieeneke could only remark, "We'll see Southern again in three weeks in the Illinois Intercollegiates and I'm looking forward to that."
