Legislators urged to fight Medicaid cuts

By Kathy Kamiliewicz
Staff Writer

Complaining that Governor Thompson's proposed Medicaid budget cuts would be "just a hidden tax on the backs of hospitals," representatives of 20 Southern Illinois hospitals urged legislators Friday to fight the cuts. Some 200 doctors, nurses, hospital volunteers and administrators attended the session at SIU-C, some brought in by the busload. The audience broke into applause as one, then another of the eight legislators from the 20th and 21st districts agreed to seek a solution to the funding problem. Most, however, warned that it wouldn't be easy.

Medical officials cited figures supplied by the Illinois Hospital Association and hospital accountants to detail the ramifications of Thompson's proposed cut in Medicaid reimbursements. If the proposal is approved, the reimbursement level would be cut to 70 percent of actual costs.

George Maroney, administrator of Memorial Hospital of Carbondale, told officials: "It's a ludicrous situation in any business when you receive less than what your product or service costs. These cuts are an unfair, hidden tax on hospitals."

Maroney added that Medicaid costs would have to be spread among other hospital users, primarily those covered by commercial insurance or those who pay the bill outright.

With the shortfall in Medicaid funding estimated at $3.4 million for the 20 hospitals in the two Southern Illinois legislative districts, hospital officials anticipate having to raise charges to patients by about $24 a day or about $351 per average 6-day stay. That would add $1.5 million a year to hospital budgets. For Medicaid patients, a hospital would be left to cover $1,064 unpaid by the state under the governor's proposed budget, Maroney calculated.

The economic impact of the cuts was detailed by Jerry Hickman, a CPA and president of Southern Illinois Hospital Services. Hickman said the 20 hospitals account for about $10 million in economic impact on the area from salaries paid and goods and services purchased. About 18,400 employees are employed by the region's hospitals: about 100 or 1.3 percent would be laid off because of the cuts, Hickman projected.

Other speakers stressed decreases in the quality of medical care to be offered if budget cuts go through and most claimed "disasters" all-around effects on personnel and services.

Maroney complained that although the governor called his budget "fair" in that cuts were spread among all state agencies, some 43 state agencies are projected to get increases.

One solution, Maroney told legislators, would have the state reduce medical services allowed under Medicaid. Hickman said the federal government mandates five standard services but Illinois offers only two.

State Rep. Bruce Richardson, D-Duphshurboro, responded, "I want to make it crystal clear that we don't all support the governor's position. A proposal is just a proposal and it's unfair to make one part of society to subsidize another.

Nuclear war is topic of week's events

By Randy Renfield
Staff Writer

"Ground Zero" is the military term for the center of detonation and destruction caused by a nuclear bomb.

"Ground Zero Week," which continues until April 26, is a week of events designed to educate and involve people about nuclear war.

"Ground Zero Week is something that is going on all over the world," Joe Proffitt, director of the Student Environmental Center, said. "It's an international issue."

Ground Zero Week's activities are:

- A film, "The Last Epic: The Medical Consequences of Nuclear War," will be shown at noon Monday in the Murray Library Auditorium. The film, produced by Physicians for Social Responsibility and its showing is sponsored by Coalition for Change and Southern Illinoisans for Nuclear Freeze.

- Harvey Wasserman, an investigative reporter and nuclear activist will give a speech entitled "Killing Our Own: Nuclear Power in America" and present a film, "Two Victorias from Three Mile Island," at 7 p.m. Tuesday in Ballroom D of the Student Center. This event is being sponsored by the SEC and the Student Programming Council.

- An address entitled "20th Century Dinosaurs: The Military Establishment," will be given at noon Thursday in Browne Auditorium by William S. Minors, a professor and director emeritus of the Foundation for Philosophy of Creativity. Minor will speak and lead a discussion on the topic. Two short films, "Save Our Own" and "Health and Radiation" will also be shown. It is sponsored by the Coalition for Change.

- "Loverly's Nuclear War," a documentary about nuclear power in New England will be shown at noon Friday in the Murray Library Auditorium. The film is sponsored by the Illinois Public Interest Research Group, SEC and SPC.

- At 2 p.m. Friday, a "Ground Zero March" will be held. The march is being held "to protest nuclear weapons," Proffitt said, and it will begin at the Wesley Foundation, 318 S. Illinois Ave. The march will proceed north on South University Avenue, then west on Cherry Street. The marchers will then walk south on South University Avenue before ending up at the Newman Center, 715 S. Washington Center, 715 S. Washington St.

- At the Newman Center a silent interfaith prayer vigil will be conducted.

- A "Silent Vigil in Opposition to Nuclear-Military Build-up" will be held from 2 to 3 p.m. Saturday at the northeast corner of South Illinois Avenue and Main Street. The vigil is sponsored by the Southern Illinois Friends Meeting.

- "Thinking Twice About Nuclear War" is a documentary that explores the personal risks the arms race and how some Americans are working to end the arms race. The film will be shown from 7 to 8 p.m. Saturday on KSIU-TV.

- Michael Meyerson, member of the "Drop the Bomb" Coalition, will deliver a speech entitled "Nuclear War in the 1980s." The event will be held at 7:30 p.m. April 26 in Browne Auditorium. Meyerson's speech is sponsored by Coalition of Progressive Social Scientists.

Mavericks sweep S-Senate

By Lyndall Caldwell
Staff Writer

Mavericks candidates for Student Senate seats won 19 of the 16 seats available in geographic districts at the Undergraduate Student Senate meeting Thursday. A Yugoslavia was re-elected four Mavericks and unveiling a current String Party senator in the process.

A String candidate and an minority of seniors were the only two seats in the senate election Wednesday, April 25.

The other four Maverick winners in the district were Stephanie Jackson, with 510 votes, Judy Vonneveld, 442, Phillip Groene, 439, and Jim Lewis. 382. String candidates were Brian Blank, 312, Douglas Dillard, 333, Brantly, 759, and Gary Holt, 683.

The Maverick Party also swept the East Side district, with two winners in both the Senate and the Assembly. String Party candidates were Mike Husen, 369, with 178, and Lisa Alrich, 279. The only Maverick candidate waslanması, 135.

On Thursday morning, Joe Ferrero received more than twice as many votes as his opponent in the Senate election, 366 to 132. Only in the West Side district did the Mavericks fail to shut out other candidates. Four Mavericks — incumbent Sen. Karen Singer, who received 123 votes, Bill Fullter, 316, Bob Holmes, 379, and Greg Woodruff, 369 — were elected. String candidates Susan Drence, 111, and independent candidate Christine O'Connell, 109, were defeated. String candidates were Ronald Banks, 335, Nancy Noreen, 251, and Tony Perdikin, 136.

Williams also said that several String candidates who are freshmen probably will be selected for the senate half terms for fall semester. Williams said this is because String Party candidates were elected last fall and ran in different districts this spring will resign to assume their new seats.

SPRINGFIELD (AP) — Gov. James R. Thompson's proposals to raise state liquor taxes and create a domestic insurance premiums tax are in trouble, two Senate sponsors of the bills say.

They say Thompson faces a big battle to sell his tax hike plans to the public, and predict that the action won't happen soon.

"I'm getting banged over the head by liquor dealers in my area," said Senate Minority Leader Fred "Pate" Philip, R-Ralphurst.

Philip is sponsor of Thompson's plan to raise state alcohol taxes by about 66 percent.

Thompson wants to make uniform the state's varying taxes on liquor, beer and wine.

"Basement boy' gets adoption offers

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo. (AP) — Offers of toys, clothing and loving homes are pouring in for a still-terrified boy who was abandoned and barely breathing in the padlocked basement of a burning house Tuesday.

The community is aroused and touched by the whole situation, said Barbara Linn, a social worker with the state Division of Family Services.

She said a dozen families from Oklahoma to Georgia had volunteered to adopt 7-year-old Dejan Koceski.

The young man, who weighs just 22 pounds, awoke Thursday from a day-long coma, and Southeast Missouri Hospital took him off its critical list.

He was reported in serious but stable condition under fairly heavy sedation.

"There is terror in his eyes when he comes around a corner," a source at the hospital told the Cape Girardeau Southeast Times. "He is extremely frightened."

The boy is now in custody of the juvenile court, which can place him in a foster home. No hearing date has been set.

Olgaica Koceski, his mother, was held on $25,000 bond in the Cape Girardeau County Jail, charged with child abandonment. Her boyfriend, Aikar Estek, was charged with felony child endangerment and cash bond was set at $50,000.

Neighbors said they never saw the child at the one-story home until it burned Tuesday night. Then firefighters burst into the padlocked basement, found the unconscious boy at the foot of the stairs, and brought him out.

"I wondered what they were carrying out," said Maurine Brackenbush, a neighbor. "When I saw it was a child, I got sick. I didn't sleep all night. It gave me nightmares."

She said the emaciated boy looked like a refugee.

Police said Dejan wasn't enrolled in Cape Girardeau schools. Fire Chief Charles Mills said the boy apparently slept on a sofa in the basement, where firefighters found a plate of cookies and a banana cake. A cupboard by the sofa contained a few articles of clothing, but no toys. Mills said the house had been dark for four days before it caught fire Tuesday night.

News Roundup
Percy names judge candidate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-III., has asked President Reagan to nominate attorney Paul E. Plunkett for a vacancy on the U.S. District Court in Chicago.

Percy made the recommendation after Jayne Carr Thompson, wife of Gov. James R. Thompson, pulled out of contention for the senator's recommendation. The president usually bases his nominations for judicial vacancies on such recommendations.

Plunkett, 46, is a partner in the law firm of Mayer, Brown and Platt, the firm of former U.S. Sen. Adlai Stevenson, and is in charge of federal cases involving such clients as the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust Co. and the International Paper Co., a Percy aide said.

Plunkett, a graduate of Harvard College and Harvard Law School, was an assistant U.S. attorney from 1963 to 1966 and has taught at the John Marshall and Loyola University law schools.

Nuclear plant is behind schedule

DECATUR (AP) — Construction of Illinois Power Co.'s Clinton nuclear generating station is more than four years behind schedule and will cost four times the initial estimate, company officials have reported.

IP officials said the Clinton plant will cost at least $2.2 billion and will not produce electricity for customers before August 1986. IP originally said the plant would cost $492 million and be complete in 1980. Work began in 1976.

The most recent problems involve a stop-work order imposed on some electrical work by the Nuclear Regulatory Commission and the redesign of water valves in the containment structure, the company said.

The Illinois Power Co. began a hearing on IP's request for a $414 million increase in electric rates. The rate increase would help pay for construction at Clinton.

Repeat vote on school consolidation set

By Christopher Kade
Staff Writer

The board of Carbondale Community High School District 165 has decided to hold another referendum on consolidation of the school’s three campuses.

The consolidation proposal, authorizing the board to issue $8 million in bonds to finance the expansion of East Campus, was defeated in the November referendum. District’s 1100 students to that facility, was defeated in the March primary referendum by a vote of 2,710-2,084.

The five board members present at a meeting Thursday voted 4-1 in favor of another referendum, to be held in February 1983.

The dissenting vote was cast by board member Barbara Bennett, who argued that the board shouldn’t rule out holding the referendum in November 1982.

By board member Carol McDermott said that should the February referendum fail, it could be held again, given board approval in April 1982.

The board also decided that, regardless of the outcome of the February referendum, the Vocational Campus, 410 E. Main, will be closed in fall 1983.

It did not decide, however, to which of the remaining two campuses the vocational students and programs would be moved if the consolidation is not approved.

The district has said consolidation of the campuses would trim operating costs, eliminate schedule conflicts and enhance educational opportunities.

If the bond issue passes, the district will build an 85,000-square-foot addition to the East Campus and move students there by fall 1983.

Approval of the bond issue will mean an average property tax increase of 67 cents per $100 equalized assessed valuation.

District Superintendent Reid Martin told the board that because of the amount of support for the proposal in March, school officials “almost have an obligation” to hold another referendum.

McDermott agreed with Martin, saying that “we have the momentum and a large core group of people who are willing” to support the consolidation.

The board referred the proposal to its consolidation committee for further consideration and recommendations. It was asked to report back to the board at the next regular meeting, scheduled May 20.

State farmers trim bean acreage

WASHINGTON (AP) — Most farmers intend to plant less corn and more soybeans this spring than they did in 1981, the American Soybean Association reported.

In Illinois, however, farmers said they would do just the opposite.

An ASA survey of growers in 29 states, indicated they will plant 68.8 million acres of soybeans, up by 364,000 acres, and 83.3 million acres of corn, down by 809,000.

City’s budget goes before council for vote

Carbondale’s $34.7 million budget for fiscal year 1982-83, given tentative approval by the City Council last Monday, will be voted on by the council at its formal meeting Monday.

The meeting will be held at 7 p.m. in the City Council Chambers at 609 E. College St.

The budget, for the fiscal year that starts May 1, includes $4.7 million to be spent on the Railroad Relocation Project. $1.5 million for construction of a City Council building, $1.5 million to be spent on the new public library on West Main Street and $1.7 million for formal Railroad Relocation Project, expansion of East Campus, 1301 E. Walnut, and move the district’s 1100 students to that facility, was defeated in the March primary referendum by a vote of 2,710-2,084.

Jackson County is still not another 'Fort Apache'

FEAR HAUNTS the residents of Jackson County and Carbondale. A string of unsolved murders and a recent unexplained death have many of the county's citizens jittery, and losing confidence in their police forces.

The notions have grown, especially among students from out of town, that Carbondale is not safe. The notion is not ungrounded. "They can give out tickets, but they can't solve murders," goes one particularly absurd complaint.

Both those notions, that this is an unusually dangerous area and that the police can't do their job, are wrong. Existence of such notions is also unfortunate, because it promotes fear and rumor mongering.

The facts do seem frightening. The murders of Marie Azuvedo, Minnie Williams, John Johnson, Joe Vassallo and Sion Raveed, all of which occurred within the last year, are very unusual. Other murders from previous years—of Lucille Fliger in 1977 and Kathleen McBarry in 1976—are also unsolved.

MOST RECENTLY, a young SIU-C student, Deborah Sheppard, was found dead in her home. The cause of death has not been determined. Police have not classified it as a homicide, and there was no indication of sexual attack, according to police.

Public reaction to the Sheppard death showed the extent of fear in the community. Rumors following the death ran rampant. It was said, for instance, that the Sheppard and Raveed deaths were somehow related, but police have said there is no indication this is true.

The fact is, despite these murders, that Carbondale and Jackson County are no more dangerous than other places in Illinois. With the widespread nature of violence in our society, that notion is hard to maintain that this area, overall, is no more dangerous than Rockford or Chicago or East St. Louis. It is probably less so.

Police are equally competent than police forces elsewhere. Carbondale presents unique problems for law enforcement, but police forces elsewhere are not immune to such problems. Hundreds of police in Carbondale exist to police a largely transient community, with many students and visitors attracted by the University coming and going frequently.

BECAUSE OF THIS, it is a community in which the unusual is usual. People don't notice unusual occurrences, because the unusual occurs frequently.

Loud screams late at night, screeching tires, strangers on dark sidewalks, the sounds and sights of a student party as a crime victim.

The point is, few things strike people as unusual. So, when something suspicious and police are looking for clues, people often have nothing to tell them.

Finally, the experience most people have in solving crime is limited to what they've seen on television, where the world is saved and murders are solved every night within the hour, even allowing time for commercials. The real thing, sadly, is not so easy.

Solving crimes as serious and complex as murder requires days, even months, of tedious footwork. It is not unusual for police to talk with as many as 300 people in a search for clues. The search may involve as many as 100 police officers, and includes interrogations with nearly 500 individuals, according to police officials.

IT'S ALSO ABSURD to suggest that the police are incompetent because they give out traffic tickets while murders go unsolved. Hundreds of traffic violations are committed in Jackson County each month. They are less frequent and, obviously, much more secretive. The two just don't compare.

The presence of police in no danger in Southern Illinois. There is, and it would be foolishly to ignore it. Don't walk alone late at night in lonely places. Keep your doors locked. Let friends know you're going out.

But don't live in constant fear. There's no reason for it. With reasonable caution, people can be safe in Jackson County. Even as safe as in Chicago.

Letters
Faculty to miss student leaders

I was delighted to find the editorial. Students losing friends like Brad Edmondson in the Daily Egyptian April 16 is to be congratulated.

In all the years I've been associated with student leaders, there is a sense that the Faculty Senate, I've never enjoyed the confidence people can vouch for that in meetings with upper-level administration and the faculty, Debbie Brown and Todd Akin are outstanding advocates for the student cause and, I might add, for the welfare of this University.

The thing I liked best about them was their ability to communicate their ideas so well. What a shame.

In light of all this, why there was a sense of mutual appreciation, more than just a polite understanding. The faculty will miss Debbie and Todd Akin. I regret that Kissinger's plans to close the university's student newspaper and cut funding for student activities. That can convulse a confluence of students, and make for future problems.

American art museums have lost sight of a principal purpose underlying their creation — they don't serve the public with art's moral and educational eye to raising the moral and cultural awareness of the masses.

The early 19th century was to have been the golden age of art, with the public with art's moral and educational eye to raising the moral and cultural awareness of the masses.

Museums all too often fail to provide quality educational programs which familiarize the public with art's moral and educational eye to raising the moral and cultural awareness of the masses.

In addition, the museum administrator tends to be isolated from the average spectator, "in reality, the goal is to expand," he said. "Art and the public gets lost in the shuffle.

In effect, exhibits become a "three-ring circus," he said, and the educational purpose falls by the wayside. Janson's comments were part of a slide presentation, in which he also demonstrated methods of conveying infrared and ultraviolet photography, X-rays and cross-sectional samples of paintings, used to verify the authenticity of works of art.

The University Museum currently owns more than 25 duplicates of 5 sculptures created during the week. Each artist donated one duplicate to the University, keeping the other for himself.

The University Museum presented the University Museum seven works of art procured over the past two years, included are two works by woodcarver Fred E. Myers and five bronze castings of works by participants in the Visiting Sculptor Program in 1980 and 1981. Originally a pilot program of the National Endowment for the Arts, the visiting sculptor project received $8,000 in MAGA funding to enable nationally known artists to visit the University, each for a week. In return for sharing their artistic know-how, the artists were granted the use of the University foundry and materials to cast two bronze sculptures. The sculptures were purchased with funds from the Fred Myers, a Works Progress Administration employee who created a number of woodcarvings during the 1930s and 40s.

African congressmen sets talk

A senior member of the African National Congress of South Africa will deliver the keynote address at SIU-C's Africa Day celebration. Fred Dube will speak at the Lutheran Student Center at noon Saturday. A buffet is scheduled for 2 p.m. Dube is acting director of African studies at the State University of New York at Stony Brook. African Day, set this year for Thursday through Saturday, is a yearly international event commemorating establishment of the Organization of African Unity in 1963. SIU-C's African Student Association and the Office of International Education are local sponsors. Scheduled events include an African film presentation at 7 p.m. Thursday in Lawson 231, a symposium at 7 p.m. Friday in seniors 257 and an African arts and crafts exhibit starting at noon Saturday in the Luther Student Center.

Advance tickets for the buffet on Saturday are $3 in advance or $4.50 at the door. Other events are free to the public.

At Stan Hoye's, we want to show our appreciation for all secretaries during National Secretary's Week.

Each day this week we will give away a free brunch to one lucky secretary. Every secretary is eligible to register for the drawing to be held each day during lunch.

Winners to be announced next week.
Lack of image raises concern, service agency seeking notice

By Moody McCormack
Assistant Writer

If you're a pancake lover from way back, quality of Life Services will reward your fondness for a pancake-a-thon on Saturday, May 8 at the Newman Center.

Life Services is a not-for-profit organization that provides in-home care to seniors in eight Southern Illinois counties. A pancake-a-thon was held at the Newman Center on Saturday, May 8.

Dorsett-Robinson organized and operated the Pancake-a-Thon, which raised money for the agency. She said QLS staff help unemployed clients with the job search, activity seeking out job opportunities, providing courses on job hunting and providing supportive services such as paying for babysitters while the client looks for work.

Like most human service agencies, QLS is subject to substantial budget cuts in the near future. A federal proposal for 1981 states that human service agency clients will have to pay five percent of the services. Dorsett-Robinson said the proposal will make it very difficult for clients on fixed incomes to receive services.

In one case, QLS staff members visited and counselled an elderly woman in Jackson County who was living in an abandoned bus without any facilities. Because their funds had been cut, QLS could not provide in-home health services for the woman. After four years, however, they were able to help the woman find a home.

Despite the cuts, QLS staff members have been able to extend help to clients in need. Dorsett-Robinson said she is concerned about the lack of community awareness of the agency.

"People are not sure of what we do," she said. "There is a need for consumer education regarding home health services.

In 1978 Dorsett-Robinson organized and operated QLS, then called Jean Dorsett-Robinson Associates, out of her home. Most of her services were extended to the elderly. In 1978 she established QLS and broadened her services to families, single adults, the elderly and the handicapped.

Though the central office is in Carbondale, one located in Herrin County, Dorsett-Robinson emphasizes that "the offices are where the clients are," since QLS volunteers work directly out of their homes.

Home-health services include skilled nursing, home-health aids, nutritional counseling and physical therapy.

Homemaker services include household management, child care, money management, transportation and support.

Clients are referred to QLS by physicians, family members, clergy members, health and social service organizations and friends of the client. As a registered nurse, Dorsett-Robinson sometimes works with physicians and the Department of Rehabilitation to determine if a client is eligible.

According to Dorsett-Robinson, a person referred as "Ready Reckless" or minoritied women has the highest usage rate. The QLS staff helps unemployed clients with the job search, activity seeking out job opportunities, providing courses on job hunting and providing supportive services such as paying for babysitters while the client looks for work.

Author seeks senatorial seat to improve 'inadequate' senate

SACRAMENTO, CALIF. (AP) - In his novel "Piers," author Gore Vidal depicts George Washington as a vain, dull, military failure and Thomas Jefferson as a charming but devious man.

He harbors equally iconoclastic views of current members of the U.S. Senate - yet he aspires to join the club, California voters warning.

"I have never seen a time when the Senate is seen to be inferior to a harsh word - inadequate members of the Senate" who don't know languages, history or geography, says Vidal, who is seeking the Democratic nomination in California.

He is far behind Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. in the June 8 primary. The latest Mervin Field poll, the first in which Vidal was listed, put Brown at 57 percent and Vidal at 10 percent.

"A senator now is just a figurehead on a huge staff... Most of them don't know very much." Vidal said in a recent interview. "They're not meant to know very much. It was a great power that put them there and they're not going to put in a very independent or irresponsible person."

It was this cynical view of politics that led the 56-year-old writer to seek the seat he has wanted since he accompanied his grandfather, Sen. Thomas Gore of Oklahoma, to the Senate chambers 46 years ago.

"Actually, I'm better placed in the hierarchy of the world than any senator is now. So it's time for me. The Senate is a place where I can get things done," he said.

What he wants to get done is to air his views, which he said would fail on the Senate "like an earthquake." Some of them:

- The CIA, "the president's personal hit squad," should be investigated and audited by Congress, as is every other agency.
- A 10 to 15 percent tax or "license fee" should be imposed on the gross adjusted income of every corporation, and people with incomes under $11,750 should not have to pay income taxes.
- A national referendum should be held on gun control, and people buying guns should have to take out insurance, "in case they shoot somebody."
- NATO should be phased out, since the European nations have larger per-capita incomes than the United States.

Vidal brushes off the constant hue and cry that perhaps his candidacy is a lark by a rich intellectual looking for amusement.

"I have been speaking all around the state for two years. That is not a sign of seriousness, I don't know what is," he said. "I am in a funny way, the grass roots candidate."

He says his liberal speech, which he labeled "a gentle survey about problems facing our nation," was enthusiastically received at conservative club luncheons and radical campus gatherings.

And it prompted him to "get politically active" again after a decade.

When he announced his U.S. Senate candidacy in March, he called himself the "only peace candidate."

The question remains whether voters will perceive him as a real candidate rather than a witty entertainer.

China to be topic of Counts lecture

Oliver S. Caldwell, professor emeritus in the Department of Higher Education, will present the 1983 George S. Counts lecture at 4 p.m. Thursday, marking the first time that an SIU-C scholar will have delivered the lecture since its inception in 1973.

Caldwell, an outspoken advocate of peaceful relations between the United States and China, will discuss "China and World Civilization" in Davis Auditorium in the Wham Building.

The Counts lecture was inaugurated following Counts' retirement from the education faculty. Counts had been a distinguished visiting professor from the education faculty after a long career at Columbia University. He died in 1974 in Belville.

The 77-year-old Caldwell was born in China and spent over 25 years there. He left after the Japanese invaded in 1937. At the time, he was acting head of the foreign languages department at the University of Nanking.

During World War II, he served in China with the American Office of Strategic Services during World War II. Caldwell came to SIU-C in 1966 to direct the University's Division of International Services. He had been assistant commissioner for international education in the U.S. Office of Higher Education.

Professor is resident fellow

Jerome S. Handler, an SIU-C anthropology professor, has been named a senior fellow by the National Humanities Institute at Research Triangle Park, N.C.

He will become a resident fellow of the Institute for Advanced Study in the Humanities in August and will "walk" at the Center during the 1982 to '83 academic year on a manuscript for a forthcoming book on Caribbean slavery.

To research slavery in Barbados, Handler received a $9,402 grant from the Social Science Research Council and the Joint Committee on Latin American Studies of the American Council of Learned Societies.

Focus of Earth Week to be on environment
By Randy Rendfeld
State Journal-Register

Earth Week, which runs Monday through Saturday, is a program of events that will attempt to bring attention on energy and environmental problems and solutions, according to a Student Environmental Center release.

The week's activities are centered around Earth Day, which is Tuesday, and the program in Carbondale will be part of a national celebration of the day.

The first Earth Day celebration in 1970, awakened the country to the devastation the world, to the fact that nature is not disposable, that resources are not limitless, and that we are not individuals and organizations, can and must play an active role in protecting the earth," the SEC release states.

Earth Week events are:
- The "Last Epidemic," will be shown noon, Monday, in the Library Auditorium. It describes the aftermath of a major disaster, scheduled by Coalition for Change and SEC.
- "Other Voices," a presentation by Dr. Salten, professor at SIUE, dealing with interspecies communications of which we are a part, will be shown noon, Tuesday, in the Library Auditorium, sponsored by Coalition for Change and SEC.
- "Little Big Man," the epic Western starring Mel Gibson, will be shown at noon, Wednesday, in the Student Center Auditorium. The film will be followed by a talk about cinema by William S. Minor, director emeritus of the Foundation for Philosophy of Creativity. The event is sponsored by Coalition for Change and SEC.
- "Save Our Planet," will be held 7 p.m. Tuesday, in the Student Center Auditorium. The show will be followed by a discussion. The event is sponsored by the Energy Conservation Coalition.
- "The Shawnee Solar Project" will be shown 7 p.m. Monday, in the Student Center Auditorium. The project features a slide show of the Old Main mall between noon and at 3 p.m. Wednesday, in the Student Center Auditorium. The show will be followed by a talk about the epic Western by William S. Minor, director emeritus of the Foundation for Philosophy of Creativity. The event is sponsored by Coalition for Change and SEC.
- "A Whole Foods Dinner," will be held 5:30 p.m. Friday, at the Lutherins Center, 790 S. University Ave. In the all-you-can-eat dinner is $2.50 per person. The event features Northern Italian-style organic and vegetarian foods. The event is being sponsored by the Coalition for Change and SEC.
- "The Camp Olympia 10-Mile Walk Runathon" will begin at 10 a.m. Saturday across from the Student Recreation Center. Proceeds go to the Gymnastics Touch of Nature Environmental Conservation Program, sponsored by SEC, SPC, the Southern Illinois Road Runners and Old-Style beer distributors.
- A workshop, "Landscaping for Energy Efficiency," will be presented by Jeff Mitchell, landscape architect and manager of the Community Energy Conservation Program with the Illinois Department of Commerce and Community Affairs. The workshop will be held from 11 to 1 p.m. April 29 at the Shawnee Solar Project, 908 S. Forest St.
- A "Spring Earth Festival," will be held 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. April 30 at the Old Main mall between Shryock Auditorium and Davies Gymnasium. The festival will feature carnival games and activities, food specials, live music and crafts. Information on environmental concerns will be available at the festival, which is sponsored by SEC and SPC.

The SIUE chapter of the Society for the Advancement of Management will present a National Management Award at a top marketing executive of Rousell Inc. of Milwaukee as part of 1982 Business Week.

The College of Business and Administration is sponsoring the annual event, which will be held Monday through Friday. Business Week spotlights business and administration at SIUC, recognizes outstanding business students and faculty at SIUC and lets students meet top professionals from the business community.

Tom W. White, a 1965 master's degree graduate of SIU-C, will receive the National Management Award at SAM's annual banquet Thursday at the Carbondale Elks Club.

"Professors-for-a-day," executives from outside firms, will lecture in business and administration classes. Other sponsored events are SAM's annual recognition banquet, an annual Parade of Honors by the college's Student Council and a college picnic at Crab Orchard Lake.
Singer to perform jazz and blues

Jean Kittrell, ragtime and blues performer, will present a program of jazz and blues at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in Carbondale at the University Union Music Hall on the corner of 11th and Saluki St. The concert is sponsored by the University American Association of University Women. Admission is $1.50.

Kittrell will also give a free performance at 10 a.m. Thursday in the Logan College gymnasium and will conduct a workshop in blues and ragtime.

A native of Birmingham, Ala., she is an assistant professor of English literature at SIU-Edwardsville. She has been playing jazz piano and singing blues for 25 years, both as a soloist and with bands.

To Your Health—Sun worshipers beware; burns cause skin cancer

By Chris Berkowitz, R.N.
Family Nurse Practitioner

With the advent of nice weather, many of you will be out basking or bruning in the sun. There is no doubt that too much sun is terrible for your skin.

Too much sun can result not only in severe sunburn, including blisters and fever, but also in prematurely aged skin and cancer. There are 300,000 new sun-related skin cancer cases each year.

The sun causes the skin to lose its elasticity, which causes wrinkling. These effects are cumulative and irreversible.

HOW LONG CAN YOU remain in the sun without burning depends upon the thickness of your skin and its amount of dark pigment.

Atmospheric conditions greatly affect the amount of ultraviolet rays reaching you. A burn is more likely to occur at higher altitudes where the atmosphere is thinner and the ultraviolet rays are greater.

Haze and fog filter out some small amount of ultraviolet rays; therefore, you can still become badly burned on an overcast day. Ultraviolet rays are scattered and reflected from surrounding surfaces. Fresh snow reflects up to 95 percent of these rays, so you can get burned while playing in the snow.

There is no reason to look like a lobster if you know how to acquire a tan gradually. The first exposure should be limited to 15 minutes in the morning or midday. Extend your exposure by 15-minute increments on subsequent days. After this initial exposure, apply a sunscreen if you are planning on remaining outdoors.

Sunscreen has ratings from 2 to 15, with 15 offering the most protection. This rating is stated on each vandant product. People who are especially sensitive to the sun should use a brand with a rating of 8 or higher.

The best available sunscreen contains PAHA (para-amino benzoinic acid). For especially sensitive skin areas, such as nose and lips, a sunscreen or block may be necessary. You can block out the sun by covering the nose and lips with zinc oxide ointment.

Protection can be increased by heavier application of sunscreen products, but too much of the body is covered with greasy cream it may interfere with sweating and predispose you to heatstroke.

Many people use a mixture of baby oil and iodine. The iodine, however, merely stains the skin and the droplets of oil funest the ultraviolet rays to the skin and could produce a severe burn. In other words, you burn twice.

Certain drugs, such as tetracyclines, antibacterial agents in mouthwashes, soaps and creams, can make the skin more susceptible to burning. If you are using any of these medications, be even more careful when sunning. Prevention of sunburn is much less troublesome than the painful effects of too much sun.

Treatment for sunburn consists of aspirin for pain, cool compresses and some type of lotion for the dryness.

SIU Alumni Club to present award to Morris’ aide

The Jackson County SIU Alumni Club will present its Service to Southern Award to a former assistant to Joe Delo, W. Morris, director of the University, at a banquet May 17.

The award will go to Charles C. Feich of Carbondale who was an assistant to Morris for 17 years. Mrs. Dorothy Morris, widow of President Morris and Bill Lyons, retired director of the University News Service and information officer of the Board of Trustees, will present the award.

Theobald second at U.S. meet

By JoAnn Marszczewski
Affl Writer

Saluki diver Rick Theobald became the first diver ever to make finals at all three heights in a single meet during the U.S. Diving Championships in Brown Deer, Wis.

Theobald placed sixth in three- and 10-meter competition, and seventh on the one-meter board. Placing in the finals earned him a spot on the national team and the opportunity to compete in international competition, World Games trials and Olympic trials.

Theobald had the highest score on an individual dive with 81 points on three-and-a-half off the three-meter board Wednesday. This was the first time he had reached finals in that event in the nationals.

The hard work of the five-day competition was made more difficult for Theobald after he struck the board on his first dive in the finals of the one-meter event Thursday.

Theobald had started the press of his back dive when he fell out of balance, the diver said. Starting over would have meant a disqualification of that dive total, through with the dive.

"I tried to camouflage the fact I was off-balance," Theobald said. "When I was down, I knew I was probably going to hit the board, but I tried to act normal."

Although he received a cut that required five stitches in the head, along with numerous scrapes on his back, Theobald had no bad feelings.

"At first I was on the shaky side," he said. "But I felt there was no way I could do worse than I had started with, so I wanted to finish."

Between rounds, Theobald applied pressure to stop the bleeding, and by the fourth round, he was shaking off the effects. Rick had received a standing ovation from the crowd when he dove again, according to Coach Denny Golden.

For the platform competition, Theobald wore a diving cap padded with a sponge. He performed 10 dives in preliminary competition before coming back to repeat the list of dives in the finals.

Also competing in the nationals were Saluki divers Tom Wentland and Tracy Terrell.

Wentland did a respectable job, finishing fifth on the platform, according to Golden.

"That will be a good event for him for the future," said the Saluki coach about the sophomore diver and former national trampoline champion. Terrell finished third in 30-meter, 30th in three-meter, and 20th in the 10-meter platform in the three-meter competition, which was alternated with the men's events.

"He has a very long collegiate season, and maybe he'll get ready for that," Golden said. "She's missed five dives, I was happy with her platform dive. She missed just one or two that would be well in the standings."

Terrell said she wasn't exactly sure what caused her to be off at the nationals.

"It could have been a loss of concentration or maybe my strength was down," Terrell said.

"I didn't have that confidence that I would do well than I had started with, so I wanted to finish."

The women's rugby team won the first Mid-West Rugby Ball Union tournament when they defeated Wisconsin-Madison, 16-7.

The Saluki team played 25- and 30-minute halves during the season, but played 40-minute halves in their current games, which was tiring, according to the players.

"In practice, we would work an endurance for half an hour, then take an hour break before starting again," Wesol said. "The long-distance runnmg was very hard."

Endurance and strength were needed to get through the two- day tournament.

"On Sunday, after the two games on Saturday, you woke up feeling like someone beat you," Wesol said. "But when you get ready to play, you get psyched up and don't feel the effects of the games." The women's rugby team is 18-2 this season, and they are working to win the national championship this year.

"We have people from other teams on the sidelines saying they were pretty sure we were going to win," Wesol said. "It was pretty good, too," she said.

A Mid-West college team tournament will probably be used to play against more with teams, Wesol said.

Lady netters split pair

The women's tennis team split a pair of matches this weekend in Kansas, 4-1, but bouncing back to defeat Louisville, 7-2. Both matches were played outdoors.

"Saluki players will play Murray State at 3 p.m. Tuesday. If it rains, we will switch to the University Tennis Courts to the Court Club, an indoor court behind the Coliseum."

"Each year we improved, but this year, we didn't play well and practice well," said the coach. "We have some strong players, but they were not able to get together."

The Saluki players will look to improve next week in Murray State when they face the Racers Tuesday. Auld said the team didn't play well against Murray State the first time, but added the team should be different this time.
Stengel pitches Salukis to 2nd

As expected, the softball team finished second to Western Illinois at the Saluki Invitational. But what wasn’t expected was Saluki righthander Meredith Stengel pitching all three tourney games.

An injury to Gena Valli’s right arm, which has kept her out of the pitching rotation for the last two weeks, and a virus picked up by Donna Daspon on Thursday, forced Stengel to pitch the entire series.

Stengel won two of three games. She shut out Indiana State-Evansville on Friday, 2-0, in 12-3 in five innings, to WU, as six Saluki errors contributed to their demise. In the third game, Stengel gave up five runs and nine hits to Southeast Missouri State, but SIU-C scored eight runs on 13 hits, giving Stengel her seventh win against nine defeats.

Coach Kay Brechtelhauer said Stengel is in extremely good shape, and pitching three games won’t hurt her arm.

Stengel said her arm feels good, and she hasn’t changed her pitching style to compensate for the amount of work she’s had.

In route to winning the tournament, the Westerwinds beat Semo, 6-0, and EU-E, 11-1, as well as SIU-C. Western Illinois scored 35 runs and 28 hits in three games, and committed just five errors.

Because of inclement weather forcing postponements, the tourney champ wasn’t decided in a title game. Instead, a round-robin tournament was played, and the team with the best record was the champ.

WIU improved its record to 13-4. Finishing high in tournament play is becoming a habit for the Westerwinds, who won the Gateway Tourney at SIU-Edwardsville earlier this month. They finished third at the Sooners Invitational in Norman, Okla., in March.

The Saluki record stands at 13-13. SIU-C will be in action Friday and Saturday when they compete in the Illinois Invitational.

start Sunday, but got the call when catcher Richardson told Jones that Johnson, the slated starter, was getting his pitches up in game one.

"Usually I start getting ready the day before I start," said Wysoki. "I was ready and when he (Jones) handed me the ball, I knew it was all business."

Wysoki took care of business as well as the Braves, striking out eight batters allowing just two hits and four walks in his "best performance" at SIU-C.

The Salukis got all they needed in the second when third baseman Mike Roberts - ripped a two-out, full-count pitch from Brave John Young to the right-field corner for a triple to score three runs.

They went on to score one in the third, four in the fifth, and one in the sixth. Left fielder Scott K. Johnson, who has "swung the bat well and has got some key hits this year," according to Jones, was three-for-four with two RBIs.

In Saturday’s first game starter Rob Clark allowed just six hits. The trouble was four of those were batters. Clark fell to 0-2.

The Salukis tied it 3-3 in the seventh but Mike Kendrick hit a homer in the eighth for a one-run Bradley lead. The Salukis rallied in their half, but a Schranz grounder to short with the bases loaded was cleanly fielded to end both the threat and game.

Mike Mesh, Reid, Richardson and Schranz all hit round-trippers in the 9-1 win in game two. Mesh’s was the first of his SIU-C career. Rod leads the team with eight homers. Ken Klam, 3-4, went the distance.

"Ken overpowered their batters. He had a better breaking ball and more control of his pitches," said Jones.

The Salukis will put their three-game win streak on the line We-Lee Monday when St. Xavier comes to Abe Martin Field for a twin-bill at 1:30 p.m. SIU-C is 5-4 on this homestand and 13-1 at home this season.

Netters split with MVC foes

By Bob Merrod

After a 9-0 drubbing by visiting Missouri Valley for Wichita State Saturday, the men's tennis team redeemed themselves with a 7-2 MVC victory over Indiana State at the University Courts on Sunday.

In singles action against the Sycamores, the Salukis were able to pull away with four victories. Mike Anscombe, playing at No. 1 seed for SIU-C, beat Daryll Whitesley, 6-3, 6-4. No. 2 seed Brian Stanley didn't fare as well, however, as ISU's Jeff Weber hung on to take the match 7-6, 1-6, 6-4.

Salukis John Greif, David Doublas and Gabriel Coch were also winners, while David Filler lost in three sets to Sycamore Todd Dorman.

Coach Dick LeFevre, who knew Wichita State was going to be a problem, was satisfied with the netters' performance against Indiana State.

"I'm happy we were able to take four of the six singles against them. We looked pretty good," he said. "Brian (Stanley) kept coming with his man until after the tiebreaker, which he lost."

The Salukis doubles teams assured SIU-C of victory when they swept all three matches. The No. 1 doubles team of David Filer and John Greif won the first set 7-6, but dropped in the second and lost 6-4. They came right back, though, and took the match with a 6-4 performance in the third set.

The other Saluki doubles teams disposed of their opponents with less difficulty. Anscombe and LeFevre teamed up for a 6-1, 5-4 victory, while Stanley and Coch put away their opponents in two sets 6-3, 6-1.

Against Wichita State Saturday it was a different story. The Shockers, regarded by LeFevre as the best team in NCAA Region 5, powered over the Salukis in their unblemished victory.

The Saluki record now is one victory away from the 10 seed SIU-C travels to Memphis State Monday for a non-conference matchup after the week's competition SIU-C's MVC record is 2-1.

Saluki sports round-up

Trackster, Patty Pinyerd-Houseworth qualified for the national competition at the Midwest Invitational in Charleston over the weekend, while the men's golf team finished 18th in the 30-team Shockers Classic in Wichita.

Pinyerd-Houseworth recorded a school-record 36-687 in the 10,000-meter run to win the event. The time qualified her for the AIAA Outdoor National at the end of May. Teammate Cynthia Joy tossed the javelin 126-10 to record the Saluki's other win at the non-scoring meet.

The golfers finished with a 94 total. Wichita State won the tourney with an 848 score, followed by Oklahoma at 904, Texas Weslyan at 908, and Oral Roberts at 908.

Hartog said, "I don't know why he wasn't named the meet's outstanding runner. I thought he did one heck of a job." The 18-year-old from St. Louis ran a blistering 6-2 split on the mile relay, "all by himself," Hartog said, and in the 400 relay, he came from behind to beat Oklahoma State's James Bohler.

John Sayre and Terry Taylor will make the trip to Provo, Utah, for the national meet, by virtue of their performances. Sayre's decathlon score was 62 points more than last year's total that cost him the title, but this year it wasn't enough.

Gary Finler's 7,619 forMississippi State surpassed the Saluki's total of 7,566. Sayre also took third in the pole vault. Sayre turned in personal records in five events, the discus, javelin, pole vault, 110-high hurdles and the 4,500-meter run. Taylor, a sophomore from Youngstown, Ohio, leaped a 5-7-5 in the long jump, surprising everyone when he surprised everyone one bit," said Hartog. "I know he can jump. When he can hit the board like he did, he's a great jumper. And at the meet, he did just that."

Mike Keane had an easy time winning the 5,000 in 14:15. Sam Nwosu, who Hartog said is "on the verge of being the next qualifier," ran a 5:19 in the 1500-meter hurdles to place second.

Saluki high jumper Stephen Wray, who started at the height of 7-3, cleared it easily, "before he even took off his center," said Hartog, and barely missed clearing 7-4. He ended up clearing 7-3. Saluki Ken Mattias placed second in the javelin with a throw of 215 feet. The distance medley and four-mile relay teams both recorded fourth-place finishes.

Salukis Kevin Baker and John Smith are still seeking to qualify for the NCAA meet.

Craig Deiren led the Salukis with a score-total of 240, and shot the best individual round for SIU-C with a 73 on Thursday, morning. Mark Young shot a 242 for the Salukis, seconded by John Wieland and Tom Jones at 246 and Glen Carpenter at 258.
Salukis find right mix; move into Valley lead

The Salukis "may be the best non-hitting team in the country."
"I'm still not convinced we're a good offensive club," said the SIU-C skipper.
"The Salukis might not be exactly ripping the cover off the ball, but they proved over the weekend that just because a team doesn't always get the hit doesn't mean it can't be a winner.

SIU-C blunted just enough hitting, with top-notch pitching and near-flawless fielding to defeat the Bradley Braves three times in four tries at Abe Martin Field over the weekend.

The Salukis swept a twinbill Sunday, 4-3 and 9-4, and split two games Saturday, losing 4-3 in eight innings and winning 8-1.

The Salukis improved their record to 20-12 and dropped the Braves to 12-20. More important, Southern moved into first place in the Missouri Valley Conference's Eastern Division with a 3-1 record. Bradley is second at 1-3. Illinois State and Indiana State have yet to play any MVC games.

The Salukis can win three of every four Valley games. We'll win it," said Jones. "We could easily have been 2-2 or 4-0 this weekend. The important thing now is to translate first or second place and get in the playoffs.

"Jones wasn't far off when he said the Salukis could have had a different record against one Braves twice over the weekend, games were decided in the last inning.

The Salukis squandered a seven-run lead in the first game Sunday only to come back and win the game in the bottom of the seventh.

The Salukis drew first blood when first baseman Kurt Reid tripled home right fielder P.J. Ernst in the first inning for a 1-0 lead. It was Reid's 24th RBI of the year, the team high. They added a run in the sixth when catcher Joe Richards doubled to score Reid.

Starter Jerry Halstead survived a rocky first inning, and was cruising through the Braves' order until trouble struck in the seventh when a seemingly simple pop fly dropped in front of Schrann in right to put men on first and third with one out.

Schrann said he didn't catch the ball because the wind right field tends to blow fly balls back in.

"I had to run a long way, but I should have had it," said Schrann. "Coach Jones said I should have dove for it, and I agreed with him.

The base hit opened the door for the Braves, who went on to score three times to take a 3-1 lead.

Schrann atoned for the pop fly hit in the Saluki half of the inning when he hit a grounder to shortstop Jim Lindeman with one out and men on second and third. The Brave booted the ball to allow the two Salukis to score and give SIU-C the victory.

"That's one thing that amazes me about this club; we get dives and are able to put men on base," said Jones. "I've told them we have to play that way the whole ballgame.

Tom Johnson, who relieved Halstead with two gone in the seventh, got the win to improve his record to 3-6.

Jones said Halstead, who allowed just seven hits, "did a good job and was strong all the way through.

The Salukis received their second fine pitching performance of the day in Game Two when junior Rick Wysoki went the distance to improve his record to 3-6.

Trackmen win, qualify six for NCAA meet

Dedication

It's been the code word for the men's track and field team this season. This weekend in Lawrence, Kan., that dedication paid off as the Salukis qualified six tracksters for the NCAA meet out of a total of 20 teams to win the 57th annual Kansas Relays.

We ran a fantastic meet," Coach Lew Hartung said. "I didn't expect as much as we did by running only one individual event. But the tracksters ran extremely well.

The Salukis, competing in the first scoring meet in the history of the track meet, became a field title holder by snapping second-place Western Illinois. They did it by winning the 400- and 5,000-meter and mile relays, and second place in the long jump, 400 intermediate hurdles, javelin, high jump, 800 relay and decathlon.

SIU-C captured third and fourth in the long jump and distance medley, respectively. Kansas State finished just ahead of the tracksters with 79 points, Oklahoma State fourth with 72. Illinois fifth with 70 and Michigan sixth with 65.

For a team that competes for good outing, Parry Duncan, Randy Cerny, Tony Anderson, Mike Franks finally shook off the "qualifying syndrome" and ran a team of 9-10-10-20-20 to win the mile relay and secure a spot in the championship meet.

The 400-relay team of Duncan, Marvin Hinton, Adams and Franks ran a 44.06 to win, but failed to qualify. The 800-relay of Hinton, Geary, Adams and Franks broke the SIU-C record to 1:21.32, finishing second the 1975 mark of 1:22.20.

Hartung said he was very pleased with freshman sensation Franks.

"He had a fantastic meet.

Golf team, Meador take firsts at Illinois

Meador captured first place individually with a score of 153. She scored 78 and 86 in her two rounds Friday and Saturday on the Orange Course at Savoy, a par 72 course.

"I'm happy for Dazia," said Coach Mary Beth McFerrin. "She worked hard on her game.

The scheduled 36-hole tournament was shortened to 36 holes Saturday because of 40-mph winds.

"It's easy to give up with high winds. In those kind of conditions, it's not the best golfer who wins, but the best athlete," McFerrin said.

"This is the second tournament they've won as a team," she said, "and the first big tournament they've won. They're playing smart and working behind the scenes.

SIU-C won the 12-team tournament with a score of 289. At the end of the first three rounds, SIU-C was tied with Missouri for first place with 222 strokes each.

"We hung in there and missed some putts in the second round," Meador said.

As of Monday, the Salukis were 5-4 in Missouri. They have three more tournaments this year, including the Western Invitational in St. Louis and the Edwardsville Invitational.

"We're real excited," she said. "We've never been mentioned as a contender, and it was fun to see what we could do. This weekend wasn't a fluke. Games are never going to come easy, but I think we will have good things to come.

Next weekend the golf team travels to Purdue to play in the Boilermaker Invitational.
