Air Illinois ends scheduled service

By John Racine
Staff Writer
and the Associated Press

Air Illinois President Roger Street on Tuesday blamed the firm's demise on low ridership and financial difficulties caused by a month-long grounding, but said that the airline would continue to operate as a charter service.

In a statement released Tuesday morning, Street said, "It has become impossible to continue to provide scheduled air service due to financial difficulties we have encountered by virtue of the voluntary suspension of services in mid-December and the subsequent slow return of passenger traffic since resuming service."

Street announced, however, that the 14-year-old airline would continue to operate its two 73-passenger BAC-111 jets in charter service.

Air Illinois' troubles began Oct. 31 when one of its Hawker-Siddeley 748 planes crashed near Pinckneyville, killing all 10 people aboard. A Federal Aviation Administration investigation ensued and questions were raised about the airline's maintenance procedures.

The airline voluntarily grounded its planes Dec. 15. A month later, the FAA gave its stamp of approval to resume service, but it was not until March 10 that two of the company's 19-passenger turboprops were recertified.

Airline officials blamed the slow return of business partly on adverse publicity and on increased competition that developed during the grounding. They also cited operating difficulties attributed to weather and the loss of personnel who did not return from layoffs during the grounding.

ResortAir President Bob West said Tuesday that he had contacted the Southern Illinois Airport Authority about expanding his company's service. The Missouri-based carrier has been in operation in Carbondale since Dec. 26.

West said plans for expansion are indefinite. The airline flies four 18-passenger flights between Carbondale and St. Louis each day at a one-way fare of $53, the same price Air Illinois charged.

West said that only three Air Illinois passengers took ResortAir flights Tuesday. "We have not noticed an appreciable change in business," he said.

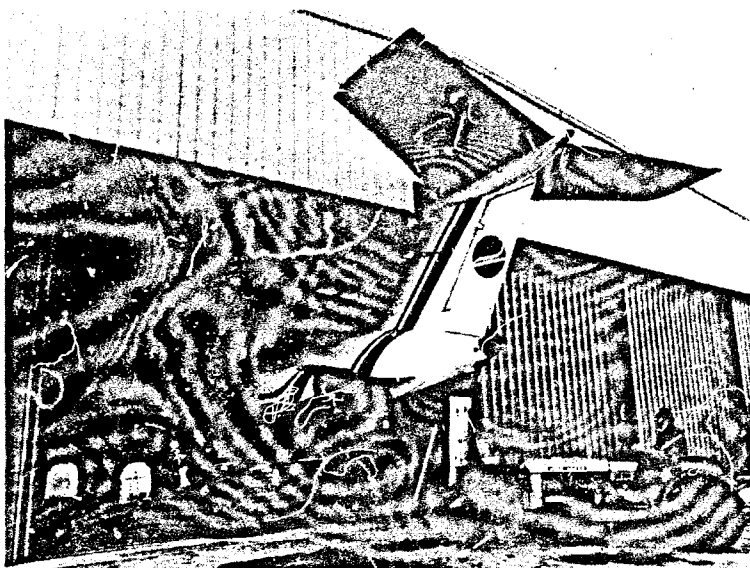

He said that boarding has been running at 60 percent in the past four months. The industry standard is about 40 percent.

Street has estimated that the airline lost more than $1 million during the FAA investigation. In 1982, the airline reported record boardings and took in $17 million.

At one time the company transported 1,100 passengers daily and employed as many as 27. The airline's workforce had dropped to 150 as of last Friday. The company plans to retain 46 employees.

Street said Air Illinois entered into an agreement in March with an East Coast-based tour operator to provide charter service to Atlantic City from Eastern and Midwestern cities.

Street said Air Illinois would continue to be based in Carbondale for the time being.

Although it has discontinued its scheduled flights, Air Illinois will offer charter flights.

End to Bracy plans brings 'delight, relief'

By Anne Flasz
Staff Writer

Constituency group leaders and others involved in the two-year controversy over the purchase of the Bracy Building seemed to sigh in relief Tuesday as they commented on the apparent end of the plan.

And although President Albert Somit said Monday that the University will "write off Bracy and look for other alternatives," Chancellor Kenneth Shaw said Tuesday that the University's official position is to wait until the Capital Development Board notifies the school that negotiations with the building's owner have been completed — successfully or unsuccessfully.

of library affairs, said the turn of events will open up the way to building a library storage facility on campus.

"I'm delighted," said McCoy, who served as dean of library affairs for 22 years before his retirement eight years ago. "I think just about everybody will be relieved."

"It seems as though we're halfway there," McCoy said. "We got rid of one unsuitable idea, and now perhaps we could do something more appropriate."

Kenneth Peterson, dean of library affairs, was not available for comment on Tuesday.

In October 1982, most campus constituency groups stated fierce opposition to the proposed purchase.

Robert Hallissey, who was chairman of the Library Affairs Advisory Committee during the peak of the struggle, said he was "tickled pink" about the final chapter of the plan.

"The Library Affairs Advisory Committee was always opposed to the purchase of the building," Hallissey said. "I think we should go for an addition to Morris Library, and I'd like to see it happen as soon as possible."

Duwayne Englert, who chairs the committee now, said he was

Hutcherson to refile to dismiss elections

By John Stewart
Staff Writer

Responding to the Student Trustee Election Commission's dismissal of her election complaint, Student Trustee Sharon Hutcherson said she'd file again Wednesday to have the trustee election invalidated.

Student trustee voting will begin nonetheless at 8 a.m. on Wednesday, but official certification of the election results will await a decision on Hutcherson's complaint from a special judicial board.

The Undergraduate Student

Organization presidential and senatorial elections won't be affected by the complaint.

Election laws provide that the presidents of the Undergraduate Student Organization and the Graduate and Professional Student Council would appoint three members each to the special judicial board to rule on Hutcherson's appeal.

Ironically, Hutcherson said that GPSC President Ann Greeley and USO President Bruce Joseph are to blame for Students will vote Wednesday to choose their next student trustee. Undergraduate Student Organization president and vice president, and 41 student senators.

For the first time, students will have pre-assigned polls where they must vote. Polls for the student trustee and USO elections will be open from 8 a.m. until 6 p.m., and will be at the Student Center for off-campus and Greek Row residents, and at dining halls for residents of Thompson Point, University Park and Brush Towers. A student trustee poll will be placed at the Law School.

There will be four polls in the Student Center for off-campus and Greek Row residents, who will be assigned to vote according to the first letter of their last names: A through E will vote at the north end, F through L at the west end, M through R near the main solicitation area, and S through Z at the south end.

Thirty-nine candidates will run for 41 senate seats. Geographic Districts: (students vote for candidates only from their district)

West Side (eight elected):

Council OK's 1984-85 funds, $10.4 million less than '83-84

By Bruce Kirkham
Staff Writer

Carbondale's fiscal year 1984-85 budget was approved for $21.5 million by the City Council Monday.

The budget is an increase of about $1.9 million, or 4.3 percent over estimated expenditures for FY 1983-84. The new budget is $10.4 million less than the FY 1983-84 authorized budget.

The largest decrease in authorized funds is in the capital projects area, which includes rail-rail relocation, parking garage construction and library construction.

The city will maintain funding levels for social programs, with the comprehensive health program to receive an increase of $9,422 to $350,662. The city will also retain the comprehensive child care program, although it will receive $417,065, about $46,500 less than FY 1983-84.

A motion by Councilman Patrick Kelley to eliminate funds allocated for Carbondale's energy department and redistribute the funds to other programs was defeated 3-2 before the budget was approved.

The council also approved a rate hike for city water and sewer services to begin Aug. 1. Rates for a family of four using 8,000 gallons per month would increase by 14.3 percent.

Industrial users of 2.5 million gallons or more per month would receive an 8.5 percent rate increase. The rate increase for the minimum monthly usage of 3,300 gallons per month will be 14.4 percent.

The rate increase for industrial users is less because of a 1979 sewer rate increase of 96.2 percent and a 1981 water rate increase of 50.5 percent for those users.

Reports to the council by Frank Moreno, director of economic development, and Jack Foster, director of water and sewer services, concluded that high rates for industrial users will not deter industries from locating in Carbondale.

City officials can assure potential industrial developers that they will receive reliable service in compliance with Environmental Protection Agency standards in exchange for the higher rates, the reports said.

The council approved a revision of the 1984 council meeting schedule that will eliminate meetings on the second Monday of each month and will consolidate agendas to consider formal and informal items at each meeting.

The council will try the new meeting format on a trial basis, with the format to be reviewed the first meeting in October.

Candidates prepare for caucuses

By the Associated Press

The Rev. Jesse Jackson accused union bosses of a "historical lockout" of minorities and Gary Hart sought to assure union aerospace workers on Tuesday, the eve of the Missouri caucuses, that their jobs would be safe under a Hart administration.

Organized labor's endorsed candidate, Walter F. Mondale, is favored to win a majority of the 75 delegates at stake in the Wednesday night caucuses, which will provide the only delegate gains this week.

Mexicans rally for Marion inmates

MEXICO CITY (AP) — About 100 protesters gathered in front of the U.S. Embassy Tuesday to express their sympathy for inmates staging a hunger strike at the U.S. Penitentiary at Marion.

A letter addressed to U.S. Ambassador John Gavin urged respect for the human rights of inmates at the highest-security U.S. prison. It mentioned Indian activist Leonard Peltier, Alberto Garza and a man identified only as Standing Deer, saying they were the inmates who started the hunger strike last Tuesday.

Boy charged with sexual assault

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — A 12-year-old boy was arraigned Tuesday on charges that he sexually assaulted a 10-year-old girl on a pool table while other children watched, and officials said he may have taken the idea from watching the Big Dan's rape trial on television.

The Pawtucket youth, described as non-violent and "pint-sized at about 4 feet tall," pleaded innocent to first-degree sexual assault in Family Court and has been released to his parents. The incident occurred March 26, the same day four men were given sentences for the barroom rape of a woman in Massachusetts.

the alleged violations because of delays in appointing the trustee election commission. Joseph is also one of the three candidates for student trustee.

Hutcherson's original complaint, dismissed Sunday by the election commission, alleged that decisions were made by the election commission before its approval by GPSC and USO, that this year's new centralized polling plan was illegal, and that candidates were not provided with a list of approved polling places.

The complaint, filed April 12, also stated that Bruce Joseph's news conference before the campaign was advertising. She also said ballots listing candidates for both the USO and Student Trustee positions are illegal.

Greeley said she would likely designate GPSC vice president Dan Venturi to appoint the three special judicial board members, to avoid the appearance of bias. Greeley said she agrees with the election commission ruling that the charges in Hutcherson's complaint are baseless, but added she will not get involved.

Glenn Stolar, campaign manager for Joseph, said it was understandable that Hutcherson would want to follow her complaint through, even though it has no merit.

Following Hutcherson's complaint, new ballots were printed which separated the Student Trustee ballot from the USO ballot, because of "an inadvertent omission of the words SIU-Carbondale" on ballots, according to the trustee election commission.

City votes to review decision of railroad

By Paul J. Finlay
Staff Writer

City officials have agreed to try to accommodate U.S. Rep. Paul Simon's request for 30 days to review the Illinois Central Gulf railroad decision to abandon tracks from Murphysboro to west of Carbondale.

The City Council voted Monday to acknowledge Simon's request, but also voted to continue with discussions on whether to go ahead with construction of a $5.75 million railroad overpass along U.S. 51 North, which is part of the Railroad Relocation Project. The council will hear a status report on the project May 21. Simon, D-Makanda, contacted City Manager Bill Dixon Sunday and requested that the council delay any action that would eliminate the two bridges that are part of the overpass project.

David Carle, Simon's press aide, said Tuesday that Simon will examine the ICG abandonment and its effect on the relocation project "to see what the best course is for the city and Southern Illinois." That does not necessarily mean that Simon will try to persuade the ICG to reverse its decision, Carle said, although Simon has successfully opposed track abandonment proposals in the past.

The ICG recently confirmed its plans to abandon the Murphysboro District Wye tracks from Carbondale, west of Oakland Avenue, to Murphysboro, saying that transportation of coal on the tracks — which connect with ICG mainline tracks north of Carbondale — had not met projections.

Eldon Gosnell, Railroad Relocation Project director, said that contractor E. T. Simonds has not yet been affected by the ICG move and that Simonds can continue work on areas of the project that are not affected by the bridges and overpass. Actual construction of the overpass and bridges has not begun, but preparations for construction — drainage structures and earth work — began last December and Simonds has purchased most of the project construction materials.

Simonds, who was awarded the $4.5 million contract last July, was told April 4 to postpone further costs pending ICG confirmation of its plans to abandon the tracks west of Carbondale.

Representatives of the city, Illinois Department of Transportation, Federal Highway Administration, ICG railroad and Simonds met last Thursday to consider alternatives to proceeding with construction of the overpass and "reached an apparent consensus" to continue with the project without the overpass and two bridges, Dixon said Monday.

Comparison of the costs of constructing the bridges versus deleting them from the plan will continue to be examined, Dixon said.

not surprised at the owner's request that the University vacate the building. Engliert said he would support a move to get funding for construction of a storage facility on campus.

"That would obviously be the wisest and most appropriate course of action," Engliert said.

Herbert Donow, Faculty Senate president, seemed to agree with the others. If the University had tried to get construction funding during the three years since the original proposal, he said, in the time it would have taken to get into Bracy the University could have been using an on-campus facility.

Donow said he plans to send a letter to Gov. James Thompson restating the Faculty Senate's first recommendation — that funds be provided for the construction of an on-campus facility.

Dan Venturi, vice president of the Graduate and Professional Student Council, said the organization will fight to have something constructed on campus.

"We're ecstatic at the fact that the deal fell through," Venturi said. "We don't have to accept this white elephant now."

Sniper in embassy kills 1, injures 11

LONDON (AP) — Hundreds of police sharpshooters encircled the Libyan Embassy on Tuesday after a gunman in an embassy window raked a protest rally with submachine gun fire, killing a policewoman and wounding 11 of the dissidents.

Blatant officers arrived at the scene by helicopters and buses, training their rifles on the embassy from rooftops and from behind trees, lamp posts and cars.

"There was no possible provocation and no possible pretext for this murderous onslaught," said Home Secretary Leon Brittan. He said Britain had protested to the Libyan government of Col. Moammar Khadafi over "the most disgraceful and barbaric outrage that London has seen for a very long time."

Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher, who was visiting Portugal, said she was "gravely concerned." Some lawmakers urged that the embassy be closed.

Brittan told reporters contact had been made with "senior people" in the Libyan Embassy, and "they are prepared to cooperate."

It was unclear if police would be allowed into the embassy to search for the gunman. Under international convention, the embassy is Libyan territory and can only be entered by invitation.

Police said they had arrested seven people for questioning, including six at Heathrow Airport outside London and one as he left the embassy. Police did not identify those arrested.

"Surprising, refreshing and informative. I cannot recommend it too highly.... Conducts the reader splendidly through Goldman's 20-year relationships with the movie business, including a good many encounters with celebrated stars and directors."
—Chicago Sun-Times

"Pound for pound, page for page, Adventures in the Screen Trade spills over with more solid, practical, pragmatic advice than any book about moviemaking I've ever read. It makes no difference whether you love Hollywood or hate Hollywood (and Goldman does both), you cannot read this volume without furthering your understanding of American moviemaking."
—St. Louis Post-Dispatch

"A fascinating look at the creative and critical process...gossipy, ironically humorous and pragmatic...Mr. Goldman has succeeded admirably."
—Baltimore Sun

"He writes entertainingly and authoritatively—and sometimes, a tad bitchily—about the neurotics, back-stabbers, tired hacks and dedicated craftsmen who spin movie fantasies...it's informative, opinionated—and a lot of fun to read."

Brantley is most qualified candidate...

As the Undergraduate Student Organization election takes place Wednesday, we will determine who we want to represent undergraduate students — a decision that shouldn't be taken lightly. Who we elect should be a person that is well educated with the issues which concern students.

Since the beginning of the election, all we have heard is trivial bickering between the Action and Trojan parties. This has really dimmed the candidates qualifications, which we should be more concerned with.

Let's hear more about the qualifications. Lamont Brantley has several years experience working with USO, which is more than double that of his opponent. He was president of his junior college and has been an honor student since he has been at SIU-C. He has been chairman of the Committee on Internal Affairs in USO and was vice president of the Mae Smith Hall Council. These are some of his qualifications.

The goals Brantley hopes to achieve, if elected, are just as important as his qualifications to do them. Some of those goals include implementing a book board, expanding the computer system to residential areas, a revised meal plan, a financial aid credit card and more student involvement. When going to the polls, I hope students elect the candidate that is qualified to work for students. —John Hickman, Junior, Electrical Science and Systems Engineering

...has shown student leadership

Lamont Brantley, Undergraduate Student Organization presidential candidate of the Trojan Party, has expressed himself as a true representative and leader of the students — contained and qualified in his approach.

He is a candidate with a basic philosophy of working for, and with students. His experience includes more than three years of working in various organizations like the Student Life Advisors and the American Marketing Association, not to mention three years in USO as an active student senator and this year's Committee on Internal Affairs.

Brantley and his running mate, Ron Orr, a student senator and member of the Finance Committee, together have more than five years experience in student government. Both have a history of opposing tuition and fee hikes in the senate.

Brantley and Orr are leaders. Give them the opportunity to work even more effectively for you when you cast your vote Wednesday. —Becky Scofield, Junior, Paralegal Studies

Bracy deal is dead but questions linger

THREE YEARS, AT LEAST $140,000 and a possible lawsuit. That's the minimum price tag for the University's desperate efforts to obtain the Bracy warehouse in Marion for library storage. So much effort has not been spent with so little result since Cardondale's conference center project died last December.

The waste is a shame — but we can't argue with the results. The Bracy option should never have been pursued, and we're better off now that the chase is over. The University should have done what it is now apparently going to do: seek funds to build on-campus storage.

Originally, the administrators at Anthony Hall wanted to build on campus, but a reported statewide moratorium on new construction — never really made clear — stopped them. So they went after Bracy, thinking, possibly, that inability to get the best method of library storage justified the heated and expensive pursuit of the worst.

A CHILD COULDN'T SEE, although apparently some administrators couldn't, the idiocy of sending SIU's library materials 15 miles away to be ferried to and from Marion.

Now the University finds itself back where it was three years ago, though minus a fair chunk of money. All that is left, other than a threatened lawsuit and an increased library storage problem, is the question "Why?"

Why did administrators who have proven themselves adept at managing on bare-bones budgets throw so many dollars down a rat hole to get the Bracy building? A little patience three years ago, and dedication to keeping Morris Library's collection on campus, where it belongs, would have been the best course. The administration must have had some reason for the decision to purchase Bracy.

With nearly $140,000 and a lot of wasted time to account for, now would be a good time to tell what that reason was.

Registration process inequitable

The problem that I am faced with, along with hundreds of other engineering students at this University, is that by the time we are allowed to register for classes, most if not all of our classes are closed. How does this happen? I, along with several of my classmates, participated in the "fast track" program offered by the University. This program offers the student an opportunity to work out his own schedule before consulting an advisor, then having it approved by an advisor before actual registration. This process is designed to ensure that the student gets a registration appointment early enough to get into the required classes for graduation. However, again this semester four out of the five classes that I need were closed. Something must be done about the overcrowding. This over population leads to anger, frustration, and quite possibly the extra cost of attending school an additional semester.

Democratic rhetoric a spiceless bowl of pap

A POLITICAL campaign is not expected to be a flow of soul or a feast of reason, but the one featuring Messrs. Mondale and Hart is not even interestingly rude. Indeed, it demonstrates that the art of political invective is, like most things, in decline.

To hear Mondale and Hart tell it — and they tell it with fawn-like eyes filled with hurt — the other fellow is being unbearably mean. Their idea of beastliness is a statement like "Warmonger Mondale will leave four jeeps in Honduras!" or "Heartless Hart would not bail when water was coming over Chrysler's gunwales!" This is rough stuff! If these guys were desserts, they would be creme caramel.

WHEN THIS Republic was brimming with youthful vigor, John Randolph said of a rival, "He shines and stinks like rotten mackerel by moonlight." Ulysses Grant said James Garfield had the backbone of an anglerworm. Teddy Roosevelt said William McKinley had no more backbone than a chocolate éclair and he said of Oliver Wendell Holmes that he, Roosevelt, could carve a judge with more backbone from a banana. Harold Ickles, FDR's interior secretary and holder of the indoor record for tartness, said that Sen. Huey Long suffered from "halitosis of the intellect."

George F. Will

Even recently, American public life has known barbed wit as well as rhetorical barbed wire. Justice Hugo Black, attending the funeral of an enemy, was asked by a late-arriver how far the service had gone. Black whispered, "They just opened the defense." Dean Acheson said you should trust J. Edgar Hoover as much as you would a rattlesnake with a silencer on its tail. Adlai Stevenson said of Norman Vincent Peale, "I find Paul appealing but Peale appalling." Gene McCarthy said Walter Mondale has the soul of a vice president. When George Romney said U.S. officials in Vietnam had brainwashed him, McCarthy said he thought a light rinse would have sufficed.

AND IN 1980, what passes for brutality? This does: "Where's the beef?" Where's the wit?

My interest in invective was whetted in 1963 when living in England, which was luxuriating in the Profumo-Christine Keeler sex-and-espionage scandal. In Parliament, a Labor member, annoyed by Lord Hailsham's moralizing, exclaimed: "When self-indulgence has reduced a man to the shape of Lord Hailsham, sexual continence involves no more than a sense of the ridiculous."

British political comment still can be as sharp as the best British cheddar. A recent editorial in The Economist said: "As for Mr. Hart, the primaries have shown him to be not much more than a loafah — abusive but without much solidity." (A loafah is a bath sponge.) But even the British are now more restrained than they were when Disraeli said of Lord John Russell: "If a traveler were informed that such a man was leader of the House of Commons, he may well begin to comprehend how the Egyptians worshipped an insect."

PERHAPS THE tang of British political rhetoric owes something to the acidity of British literary criticism. Remember the critic who said of Tennyson's "Maud" that the title contains one too many vowels and that it is a matter of indifference which one is removed. Or Samuel Butler, who said of the Thomas Carlyles, "It was very good of God to let Carlyle and Mrs. Carlyle marry one another and so make only two people miserable instead of four."

When British political and literary wit mix the result can be wonderful. When Evelyn Waugh heard that a growth removed from Randolph Churchill was benign, he said the surgeon had removed the only part of Churchill that was not malignant. When George

Bernard Shaw offered Winston Churchill two tickets to the opening night of a Shaw play, saying, "Bring a friend — if you have one," Churchill reportedly responded, "I cannot come opening night but can come the second night — if there is one."

BEAR THESE bricksbat in mind the next time Hart or Mondale gets sulky because the other guy has said something naughty. The naughtiness is apt to be one of them disputing the other's claim to have been the first to do something foolish (such as endorse a nuclear freeze) or to have done something impenetrably obscure (such as voting to table a perfecting amendment to an amendment to a bill to accelerate the depreciation of something).

The campaign is about to tumble into an abyss of blandness — no more sizzlers like "Nyah, nyah. Hart opposed the Trade Amendment Assistance Act!" So Simon & Schuster should rush Hart and Mondale galleys of the forthcoming book "Whatever It Is I'm Against It."

Bracy roots mired in history of debate

By Jay Small
Staff Writer

The topsy-turvy Bracy Building purchase effort that misfired Sunday and Monday has its origin in years of debate over solutions to lack of space for materials in Morris Library.

Here is a chronology of major events in the lease and attempted purchase of the Bracy Building, gathered from Daily Egyptian files:

Oct. 9, 1980: Kenneth Peterson, dean of library affairs, asks President Albert Somit to seek construction of a new storage facility on campus.

June 12, 1981: It is reported that library officials have asked the University for over $100,000 to plan a new storage facility.

July 10: It is reported that the 66,000-square-foot Bracy Building in Marion is available for storage.

Aug. 4-8: University and library officials meet. Somit informs Peterson on Aug. 8 that Bracy is his choice.

Sept. 11: The Board of Trustees approves the lease of Bracy at $10,000 per month for one year with an option to buy. Price tag for purchase: $1.6 million.

August, 1982: The Legislature approves a $1.6 million appropriation pushed by Rep. Bob Winchester, R-Rosiclare, for purchase of a library storage facility for SIU-C.

September, 1982: The Bracy lease expires and the University continues to occupy and store shelving in the building without paying rent under agreement with the owners.

Sept. 9: The Daily Egyptian reports that $1.6 million is five times greater than the Bracy property's market value based on assessed valuation for tax purposes. University officials say $1.6 million was the seller's offer and less than the estimated replacement cost of the building.

Sept. 20: Ralph McCoy, dean emeritus of library affairs, says no solution at all to storage woes is better than the purchase of the Bracy Building.

Oct. 1: The Graduate Student Council passes resolutions suggesting construction of an on-campus storage site and creating a committee to oppose the Bracy purchase.

Oct. 5: In debate with gubernatorial challenger Adlai Stevenson, Governor Thompson indicates that he is open to storage proposals other than the Bracy purchase.

Oct. 6: The 78,000-square-foot Lakewood Shopping Center east of Carbondale is offered as an alternative to Bracy. Price tag for purchase: $1.47 million.

Oct. 18: Guyon says the $1.6 million appropriation cannot be used for construction. That decision, he says, came from Thompson in a letter to Chancellor Kenneth Shaw clarifying Thompson's remarks at the debate.

Dec. 6: The College of Liberal Arts Council unanimously objects to the Bracy purchase.

Dec. 10: Somit recommends Bracy to the Board of Trustees, saying SIU-C has a moral obligation to buy the building. Guyon, in his report on storage options, recommends consideration of the Baptist Student Center on campus because of its proximity. The trustees ask the CDB to evaluate Bracy, the Wal-Mart Building in Carbondale and the Baptist Student Center. Lakewood is dropped from consideration.

March 10, 1983: The trustees instruct Chancellor Shaw to ask the CDB to negotiate fixed prices for the three buildings.

July 13: The trustees ask the CDB to negotiate a purchase price for Bracy, following Chancellor Shaw's recommendation that negotiations be undertaken for Bracy only, the administration's first choice.

Sept. 7: The CDB approves a formal request for funds to be sent to the state Bureau of the Budget.

October, 1983-February, 1984: SIU-C awaits a negotiated price from the CDB. The CDB says it cannot negotiate a fixed price without release of funds from the BOB. The BOB says it cannot release funds until a site is formally chosen and a price is fixed. Meanwhile, the Baptist center is scheduled for reopening and Wal-Mart is sold.

Feb. 22, 1984: Pauly says preliminary negotiations between the CDB and Bracy owners have begun following completion of a third appraisal of the site.

February-April, 1984: Vice Chancellor James Brown tells trustees in three meetings that the CDB is in charge of the acquisition process from this point. On April 12, Brown says active discussion is under way between the CDB and Bracy owners, though owner representative Harry Melvin said the day before that he had not been contacted.

April 3: Owner Virginia Cline says SIU-C agreed to buy Bracy in August, 1982. SIU-C officials deny any purchase agreement, but confirm that a maintenance worker has been on contract since September, 1982. Utilities on the building have been paid by the University since the lease expired.

April 4-5: Pauly says Bracy funds have been released, but a BOB spokesman denies the release. Pauly and a governor's aide say later that negotiations for Bracy are under way and funds are available, but do not say whether they are released.

April 15-16: The CDB offers $675,000 — half what was sought! — to Melvin and is turned down.

Melvin notifies the University that it must vacate Bracy in five days, and that he may file suit. Somit announces that the Bracy purchase has fallen through and that SIU-C will look for other alternatives, perhaps on-campus construction funds.

U.S. pension funds invested in South Africa topic of debate

By Bellada Edmondson
Staff Writer

The battle between opponents and supporters of a bill requiring Illinois pension funds to be divested from corporations doing business in South Africa promises to be a battle royale — or so predicts Rep. Carol Braun, D-Chicago, who introduced the bill into the House of Representatives last March.

House Bill 0596 would also make banks which grant loans to these corporations ineligible for state funding.

The storm of the debate centers around the question of whether the pension funds will dwindle as a result of the move. Presently, an estimated $2.5 billion worth of Illinois public employee funds are invested in South Africa.

This question and others related to the bill will be discussed at the brown bag luncheon-discussion at noon Wednesday in Quigley Hall Auditorium. Luke Tripp, assistant professor of Black American Studies, will lecture.

While supporters of the bill — mostly Democrats — declare that Illinois money should be invested in the state rather than in corporations which help to uphold a constitutionally racist government. Opponents argue that by divesting funds not only do pensioners risk losing money, but that the American corporations will forfeit the chance to improve the position of the blacks, since they guarantee equal wages and can influence the policies of the South African.

Both arguments apparently have triggered much indecision among legislators. Braun recently postponed voting on the bill in order to counter what she called the negative effects of "inaccurate information" being distributed by lobbyists for the South African government and the corporations involved in that country.

One group lobbying against the bill is the American Legislative Exchange Council (ALEC), a nationwide, corporate-funded group affiliated with the conservative John Birch Society, which intervenes on all issues before state legislature considered detrimental to a free-enterprise, limited-government philosophy.

State Rep. Penny Pullen, R-Park Ridge, director of the Illinois branch of ALEC, was unavailable for comment.

However, a spokesperson for the Coalition for Illinois'

Divestment from South Africa in Chicago attacked ALEC as a "dummy organization" of the South African government, and called its statement or the divestment issue a "carbon copy" of a pamphlet being distributed by the South African Consulate in Chicago.

Among the ranks of the undecided is Rep. Bruce Richmond, D-Murphyboro.

"I'm in sympathy with the issue of human rights in South Africa; if that was just the problem, it would be easy," Richmond said. "But I'm concerned about the impact divestment will have on the pension funds." Richmond said he has received information from "experts" that the pension funds could dwindle by as much as $15 million as a result of divestment.

"I'm not sure I have the right to risk funds which people have worked so hard for," said Richmond, although he admitted his information may be inaccurate.

Richmond said he needs more information before he makes a decision. He said most of his mail on the matter came from residents who oppose the bill because they fear losing money in their pension funds.

However, Braun vigorously denies that the funds will be at risk, pointing out that none of the states which have divested funds have lost money, and that

Connecticut had in fact made a profit of more than $5.7 million after reinvesting their funds in the state.

Braun also attacked the argument that the presence of American corporations in South Africa actually improves the situations of blacks there.

"It is a fact that American corporations do better by the blacks in South Africa than the South African government, but my reply to that is to compare it to slavery — the fact that they get treated a little better by Americans does not obviate the fact that they cannot walk anywhere without passes, and that they are treated as inferiors," said Braun. "The fact remains that American corporations in South Africa have to play by that government's rules."

Braun said she found it "interesting" that none of the opponents of the bill have addressed the issue of human rights violations in the country, which she considers the primary issue at hand.

Pamela Jones, junior in administration of justice, who along with 11 other students lobbied for passage of the bill in Springfield last week, agreed that the moral question is being evaded. She said she was disappointed with Richmond's response when the group confronted him in Springfield.

Faculty to discuss SIU-C's future

A panel discussion among University administrators and faculty on Thursday will probably focus on curriculum changes, enrollment decline and public funding in SIU-C's future, said Herbert Donow, Faculty Senate president.

The discussion, titled "SIU in the 1990s: Planning for the Future," will take place during a faculty meeting from 3 to 5 p.m. in the Student Center Auditorium.

President Albert Somit; John Guyon, vice president for academic affairs; John Baker, executive director for planning and budgeting; James Tweedy, associate dean in the College of Agriculture, and Harold Richard, director of institutional research, are the panelists. Donow will moderate.

"What it amounts to is whether we can adapt existing resources and faculty to changes as they come along," Donow said Tuesday.

Donow said members of the audience may participate, and he expects questions on issues ranging from specific short-term problems to long-term goals and expectations.

Donow said. Somit and Guyon were asked to participate because they are "principals" in the planning process. And Baker plays a key role, he added, as the top adviser on budget matters.

Richard has studied planning procedures, Donow said, and is familiar with data that are essential to planning at the University. Tweedy is a representative to the Faculty Advisory Committee of the Illinois Board of Higher Education.

High court broadens powers to search for illegal aliens, pot

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court, in a dual victory for law enforcement officials, Tuesday upheld broad government powers to search factories for illegal aliens and privately owned fields for marijuana.

The court ruled 7-2 in a Los Angeles case that the government may sweep through factories to find illegal aliens while immigration agents block the exits.

In the second case, decided by a 6-3 vote, the court said police in Kentucky and Maine did not need court warrants to enter and search "open fields" for marijuana.

The immigration raids were authorized by the former Carter administration and defended by the Reagan administration. Officials said they are an important step in discouraging illegal immigration, particularly across the Mexican border.

Justice William H. Rehnquist, writing for the court, approved the conduct of Immigration and Naturalization Service agents. Workers who were in this country legally had nothing to fear, he said.

But Justice William J. Brennan, in a sharply worded dissent in which he was joined by Justice Thurgood Marshall, said the court ignored reality in concluding that the INS had not "seized" the factories and all workers, regardless of whether employees were in the United States legally.

The decision overturned a 1982 ruling by the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals that the raids violated the rights of four legal U.S. residents or citizens who worked at the factories.

The appeals court said the INS seized the factories and interrogated workers without any reasonable suspicion of which ones they were looking for.

Critics of the agents' conduct said that because the 1977 raids in Los Angeles area garment factories were aimed at those who appeared to be Hispanic, a legal resident or citizen could be arrested or handcuffed by mistake during the factory sweep. They also said the raids most likely made all workers afraid to leave the premises.

Agents arrested 117 illegal aliens during two sweeps of the Southern California Davis Pleating Co. and 45 illegal aliens in a raid of the Mr. Pleat factory. The government obtained search warrants to conduct the first two raids, and had the owner's permission to enter the Mr. Pleat plant.

POSITION ANNOUNCEMENT

NBC bureau head featured speaker at R-TV banquet

Roger O'Neil, an SIUC graduate and head of NBC-TV's Denver, Colo., bureau, will be the featured speaker and honored as Alumnaus of the Year at the Department of Radio-Television's annual awards banquet Saturday.

O'Neil, a 1969 graduate, will join other broadcast professionals for Radio-TV Week, Thursday through Saturday.

The banquet will begin at 6 p.m. in Student Center Ballroom D. A reception in the Student Center Gallery Lounge will precede the banquet.

After graduating from SIUC, O'Neil worked for WSAZ-TV in Huntington, W. Va., WCFL radio in Chicago, WAVE-TV in Louisville, Ky., and KPRC-TV in Houston, Texas, before joining NBC as a Midwest news correspondent.

Announcing the force in office automation.

It can change from advanced word processor to personal computer to network terminal, as your company's needs change.

It can exchange information with an IBM mainframe just as easily as an IBM PC.

You can start with a single workstation, then add to its capabilities, even link it to a bigger Lanier network.

With its 16 bit capability, it's compatible with MS-DOS software as well as CP/M.

With Lanier's exclusive One-Step™ it's incredibly easy to use.

The Lanier Business Processor™

The Lanier Business Processor is the brainchild of the company that's been a driving force in office automation for fifty years. Built into it are decades of experience at helping businesses be more productive and streamline, streamline, streamline.

One machine that can do it all.

The Lanier Business Processor does virtually everything. A word processor that excels as a personal computer. A personal computer that out-word processes even machines designed to do nothing else. A workstation that can be networked to other Lanier systems. And, a modular business tool you can add to as your company's needs expand.

And thanks to Lanier's exclusive One Step™ system, it's incredibly easy to use.

One feature nobody else can offer: Lanier people.

As revolutionary as our Business Processor is, what really sets it apart is the depth of support we put behind it. Lanier offers you more real person-to-person help than any other company.

We train your people before the equipment arrives.

We watch over the installation like hawks to make sure it goes smoothly. And, if you ever have any questions, our response is to send a real person, not hand you an '800' number to call.

State-of-the-art technology coupled with genuine support make Lanier the force that it is. A force that could be pulling for your company.

5-year-old tot walking farther through SNU-C therapy clinic

By Terry Leveck
Staff Writer

Corky Broskie is learning to crawl. He can also pick up blocks on one side of his body and put them into a bucket on the other side of him. This is a child's play, but for Corky it means a lot more.

Corky is a 5-year-old who was born with a developmental disability, and he may not have progressed this far without his weekly visits to the physical therapy facility of the SNU-C Clinical Center in the Wham Education Building.

"Hospital physical therapy units won't treat him because his progress is measured over years instead of weeks," said Dale Pape, a staff physical therapist and instructor in the Physical Therapist Assistant Program.

Cindy Broskie, Corky's mother, enthusiastically tells Pape of Corky's recent progress crawling as a student assistant works with Corky's balance in the crawl position. No matter how difficult a time Corky is having, his blue eyes and wide-mouthed grin communicate his happy countenance.

The Broskies were told that their child would never be able to walk, but his progress in the past four years is remarkable, Pape said. He can walk in a walker that was made especially for him by a design student. The Broskies will not give up hope that someday he will be able to walk independently.

Corky is only one of 578 patients — children, students and adults from the community — who were treated at the physical therapy facility last year. Patients are referred to the facility by area physicians, the health service and government agencies.

Clients are charged a fraction of the cost of similar therapy administered at a hospital.

Full time students pay a base charge of $2, which is multiplied 1, 2, or 3 times, depending on the type of treatment. The base charge for non-students begins at $10, but is discounted based on income and family size. Most of the physical therapy administered at the center would cost anywhere from $35 to $70 per visit in a hospital, Edward Dirks, physical therapy coordinator, said.

The trade-off is the opportunity for students to get practical experience in working with the patients.

"It's hard to have a practical if there's nothing to practice on," quipped Dirks. The whole operation is justified as a training center, he said.

The physical therapy unit is funded by the university, with its service charges supplementing the funding and helping purchase new equipment.

Dirks said the unit is equipped with state-of-the-art equipment.

"It's good for the students to work with the equipment — it gives them an edge," when they reach the job market, Dirks said. It's also good for the patients.

A Tilt Table exercises people confined to wheelchairs by strapping them on the table and tilting the table into an upright position, giving them natural weight bearing.

Dirks' prized piece of equipment is the $20,000 Cybex II Isokinetic machine, which exercises joints by applying different amounts of weight when the joint is moved to

One of the newest pieces is the Dynawave, which sends electrical currents through muscles to relieve pain and increase mobility.

All the machines are in use most of the 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. operating hours five days a week. Scheduling at the facility has gone "sky high" since the death of "Doc" Spockman in January, who treated many acute cases at the Recreation Center.

"We handled it pretty well, though," Dirks said. "A couple times we had to call the health service and say 'help,' but it's going pretty good now. We try to put everyone that calls on the schedule, but sometimes that's tough."

The facility treats a wide range of patients, from students with broken bones and athletes with strained muscles to elderly stroke victims and arthritis sufferers working to get their mobility back.

"Students are excited about working with kids," said Dale Pape, who works with all the children. "But later the enthusiasm dies and some say 'It's not for me.'"

Working with severely handicapped children takes some getting used to, said Pape, who has been working at the facility for six years. At first, she said, she had difficulty in setting realistic goals.

"The progress doesn't bother me any more. The screaming — although I have busted my eardrum on one of the kids — I can handle during the day, but when I get home to my 2-year-old, and he's had a bad day, that's when I lose my patience — and I feel guilty about that," Pape said.

Last year the Physical Therapy Department spent 14,860 contact hours with patients — with a staff of two full-time physical therapist assistants, a three-quarters time, a half-time and a quarter-time physical therapist. First-year physical therapist assistant students — usually about 25 per semester — work four hours per week, and second-year students — about 25 — work six hours per week. All other majors work four to eight weeks in one semester. It's a hectic schedule, and the therapists could probably be making more money working for a hospital, but for Dirks, the campus environment is what he likes.

"One of the interesting things about working here is the students, because they come from all over the world," he said. "We get into all kinds of philosophy here. For everybody to get along is amazing."

Nursery school to hold desserts buffet

The First Presbyterian Nursery School of Carbondale will hold an "All You Can Eat Desserts Buffet" from 6 to 8:30 p.m. Friday, April 27 in the basement of the First Presbyterian Church, 310 S. University Ave.

Proceeds will go toward a scholarship fund for children, who could not otherwise attend the nursery school, which is a weekday, service of the church.

Tickets are $2.50 for adults and $1 for children and can be purchased at the door.

Hill House director resigns

Gary Graham, executive director of Hill House, a treatment center for individuals with drug, alcohol and behavioral problems, has resigned.

Graham, who has been the executive director for the past five years, plans to relocate in Atlanta, Ga., and open a private training organization.

Denis Dees, an employee of the Hill House for seven years, has been named acting director of Hill House until a new executive director is hired.

McLeod to close out season with Coward's 'Blithe Spirit'

By Terry Levecke
Staff Writer

Ghosts and laughter will fill McLeod Theater April 26-29 when the last mainstage production of the season, "Blithe Spirit," is performed.

This British farce was written by Noel Coward during the height of World War II as a form of escapism for the war-tired people.

Charles Condomine, an author, gets into trouble with the spiritual world when doing research for his next book, "The Unseen," a novel about a fake spiritualist. To collect some jargon and tricks of the trade, he and his present wife, Ruth, invite a local psychic to dinner and a seance.

Trouble begins when the kooky old spiritualist, Madame Arcati, brings back Charles' first wife, Elvira, who has been dead for seven years. Elvira is a fun-loving prankster who still loves Charles in her "ghostly" way.

Elvira is somehow stuck in the Condomine's house, unable to return to the spiritual world. Charles is caught in the predicament of dealing with two jealous wives. The comedy continues when Madame Arcati returns to fix things and only succeeds in making matters worse.

Graduate student Cindy Totten is directing the production as part of her master of fine arts thesis. She is an actress and playwright as well as a director. Her recent work includes the portrayal of June in "Fifth of July."

Madame Arcati, played by Mary Kevers, communicates with the spiritual world in McLeod Theater's production of "Blithe Spirit."

Last summer her play "Waldrup Fantasy" was produced in Laboratory Theater. She directed "Quilt Pieces" two summers ago in Laboratory Theater.

Curtain is 8 p.m. April 26-28 and 2 p.m. April 29. Tickets are $4 and $5 and are available at the McLeod Theater Box Office in the Communications Building.

Hospital launches cancer crusade

Memorial Hospital of Carbondale will participate with KFVS-TV and the American Cancer Society in a community campaign against colon-related cancer, from mid-April until the end of May.

Risk factors for colon cancer include age over 40, family or personal history of colon cancer, colon polyps, ulcerative colitis, and breast or endometrial cancer.

Anyone wanting to participate in a screening test for cancer may contact Marlene Matten, director of education at Memorial Hospital, at 549-0721.

SIU-C blood drive nominated

SIU-C has been nominated for a national award as the result of a recent record-setting blood drive.

The SIU-C and Missouri-Illinois records for donations were broken, earning the University a nomination for the American Association of Blood Banks Award for the top university blood drive in the country.

The drive collected 2,007 pints of blood according to Mark

Beveridge, director of Mobilization of Volunteer Effort, which sponsored the drive along with the Arnold Air Society. The old SIU-C record was 1,805 pints, and the old Missouri-Illinois record was 1,817 pints.

Beveridge said several residence halls, sororities and fraternities will receive plaques in recognition of their contributions to the drive.

Andrologist given award for research

Lonnie D. Russell, professor in physiology, has been named Young Andrologist of the Year by the American Society of Andrology.

Andrology is the study of the male reproductive system.

The award is given to someone under 40 who has done outstanding work in the field of andrology. Russell was selected for his research that attempted to observe how spermatazoa are produced in the male testes.

Russell received his doctorate from the University of Nebraska in 1974, taught three years at McGill University and began teaching at SIU-C in 1977. Russell has published extensively in the field of andrology.

Simplistic language used to teach handicapped

By Debra Colburn
Staff Writer

Eight handicapped adults from the Jackson Community Workshop in Murphysboro were happy to show kids at Archway Inc., a preschool for handicapped children, how to twinkle with the Starstuffy Puppet Show, said Straz Strzalkowski, developmental skills trainer at JCW.

"They were real happy to show kids how to twinkle. They were very proud that they could give this puppet show to somebody and said they wanted to do it again," Strzalkowski said.

A child twinkles when he or she behaves appropriately. The puppet show is used as an introduction to a program created by Strzalkowski and Joy

Sherry-Boyd about seven years ago.

The program was presented Tuesday at Archway Inc. to children ranging from a few months to 3 years old.

The adults, ranging from 22 to 35 years in age, were awed by the children and more talkative than usual, according to Strzalkowski.

"The children responded beautifully. They all twinkled throughout the whole performance," she said.

A workshop, given from April 24 to May 17 at Archway Inc., will teach parents a precise, simplistic language to use with their children. The program will show parents how to talk with their children instead of at them, Strzalkowski said.

The new language abandons the concepts of good and bad and creates an image of the whole child.

"Parents are taught how to say 'I love you even when you're not twinkling,'" she said.

The workshop is already closed, with about 12 to 15 parents signed up. Parents who had children involved in the Rainbow's Children preschool, which closed in 1983, have been waiting for training through the workshop.

Children learn how to twinkle by emphasis on their appropriate behavior. They are not made to feel bad about their inappropriate behavior, Strzalkowski said.

"We're all twinkling stars, but we don't twinkle all the time," Strzalkowski said.

Through the program, children are taught the steps needed to twinkle. For example, instead of pulling a book away and saying 'it's mine,' children are taught to share. They are shown that it's not hard to share, and that sharing is fun.

She said another performance will probably be given in two to three months.

The handicapped adults attend creative dramatic classes weekly since December in preparation for the Starstuffy Puppet Show. Some requested the class because they felt it would help their social and group interaction skills, while some wanted to use it as a tool for a creative outlet and discovery.

The audience becomes involved in the show by singing two songs. The first is "Twinkle, Twinkle Little Star," which is sung to get Starstuffy to come out. The second is the "Twinkle Man Song," which is sung to get more twinkle power.

Strzalkowski taught the program to the JCW clients by doing the puppet show for them and gradually teaching them about the program, showing how and why it is used for kids.

"They use it for themselves as far as bringing out their sparkling behavior," she said.

Five different plays involving about six puppets are performed, but never all at the same time. Only one play, lasting from 7 to 10 minutes, is done during each performance.

"The children love Starstuffy," Strzalkowski said. "They are usually very open and begin to talk about how they twinkle."

McClure apologizes to Parr for running ad with mistake

By John Racine
Staff Writer

Democratic state Senate contender Gary McClure apologized Tuesday to P.L. Parr, McClure's toughest primary opponent, for what McClure labeled a discrepancy in Parr's voting record.

"We erred," McClure said at a brief press conference in the Student Center. Parr joined the Randolph County coroner to say that he would help with McClure's campaign as an adviser.

In advertisements run three days prior to the March 20 primary, McClure claimed that Parr had not voted in the 1982 Democratic primary race.

McClure said his claim proved faulty when it was determined that a precinct judge had failed to mark the appropriate boxes to indicate whether Parr had voted and on which ticket.

"I appreciate Gary's coming forward (to clear this up)," the 37-year-old Union County farmer said. "This will help me in the future. This would be something hanging over my head."

Parr said that he plans to star active in politics. He said he has no definite plans, but that he would not close any doors.

Parr said it was hard to determine how much damage was done to his campaign by the adverse publicity. He said the publicity made a difference but not enough to cost him the nomination.

"I have had people call me and say 'I was going to vote for you until I heard that you didn't vote,'" Parr said. "I think Gary made a mistake and he's learned from it."

McClure said that he was sorry for the misunderstanding and said that Parr's advertisements with the theme "Real Democrats" prompted a change in campaign strategy a week before the election.

McClure said that he does not plan to use a similar strategy in his campaign against state Rep. Ralph Dunn, R-Du Quoin, for the 58th District Senate seat.

"If Ralph does something similar (to Parr's ads) then I am sure we will change our game plan," McClure said.

Parr said McClure should run an issue-oriented campaign. George Mace, McClure's campaign manager, referred to Dunn as a gentleman but said that the 12-term legislator has an "issue deficiency."

Mace said that the two issues most prominent in McClure's campaign will be the state's worker's compensation program and coal.

He said that while Dunn's age would not be an issue, his effectiveness in the state House of Representatives for the past 12 years would be.

Nominations open for award

Nominations have been opened for the Lindell W. Sturgis Memorial Public Service Award, a $500 cash prize given each year to an SIU-C employee by the Board of Trustees.

Established in honor of the late Mr. Sturgis, a longtime board chairman, the award is given in recognition of outstanding contributions to the community, area, state or nation.

All current SIU-C employees are eligible for consideration, including those who have been nominated, but not selected, in the past.

Nominations should be sent to Jack R. Dyer at the Office of University Relations by April 27. Information should include the nominee's name, title, campus office and a description of the public service performed.

Grad catalogs filed in library

Catalogs and information about graduate programs in agriculture from about 75 schools are now filed and available in the graduate school catalog library in Agriculture 211.

Organized by USO Senator Mark Case, the library consists of information in the form of catalogs, school applications, college descriptions and their faculty phone listings, and microfiche (with a microfiche machine available in Room 107).

If any other college departments are interested in forming a graduate school catalog library, contact Mark Case in the USO office, or call 536-3381.

Student digs unusual vehicle; his life's a one-hearse affair

By Debra Colburn
Staff Writer

The license plate frame boldly proclaims "Mafia Staff Car" and funeral flags flap in the breeze as Steve Hayslip, junior in radio and television, drives his 1959 black Cadillac hearse through quiet city streets.

The 22-foot-long car was a high school graduation present from his parents. His father is an antique car collector.

"I always had an interest in 1959 Cadillacs. I love driving that thing," Hayslip said.

Hayslip's love affair with Isabelle — his pet name for the car — began about three years ago when he discovered it sitting in a garage in his hometown of Memphis, Tenn. The owner had taken parts from an ambulance and put them into the hearse. It was his show car and he wasn't about to sell it, Hayslip said. But persistence won out, and after a couple of weeks the owner agreed to sell it for $3,000.

"Being the big, gaudy kind of car that it is, it represents the epitome of wealth in the late 1950s," Hayslip said. "That car represented a unique era, not only in automotive design, but in American history."

Hayslip said people either really like the hearse or hate it.

"I don't see it as a vehicle representing death like a lot of people do. Those people are missing the beauty of the car," he said.

"You just really can't look at the car and see it in a bad way," he said.

Hayslip is sure he will eventually become a car collector like his father.

"My mom doesn't mind my dad's hobby, but Isabelle almost pushed her over the edge," he said.

Hayslip said the car drives "like a cloud."

"It's really very smooth. I'm sure the drivers never had anybody complain," he said.

Symphonic band to play Thursday

The SIU-C Symphonic Band will present an evening of music at 8 p.m. Thursday in Shryock Auditorium.

Music by Leonard Bernstein, Nicholas Korsakov, and a Salute to Bob Hope, arranged by Warren Barker, will be performed.

Hayslip said he drives the car because it gets him where he's going in style.

"Everybody's going to ride in a hearse sooner or later," he said. "I guess I'm just getting some practice."

When Hayslip bought the car he said it was in fairly good shape. He cleaned it up and put four-inch-wide whitewall tires on it.

"It takes a lot of friends to wax it," he said.

Hayslip said the only time he has ever felt strange in the hearse was one dark evening as he was driving down a winding road through a wooded area near his home. He said the lights were on all through the hearse and he suddenly realized what kind of vehicle he was driving.

"It was pretty eerie," he said. Hayslip said he usually warns his dates about the hearse before he comes to pick them up.

"Some girls really like it," he said. "They're the ones I worry about."

Earthquake researcher says predicting 'when' still shaky

By Joyce Vonderheide
Staff Writer

Some people call him an earthquake expert, but Larry Maliniconico isn't sure he deserves that title.

The assistant professor of geology has done more research on earthquakes in Southern Illinois than anyone else. For two years he has studied them, but he said he doesn't compare to people like Otto Nuttli at St. Louis University who has studied earthquakes for 20 years.

The ability of "spectacular natural phenomena" to greatly affect daily life is fascinating to Maliniconico. He said his work is geared toward making a significant contribution to science.

Earthquake study is never routine, he said, because he never knows when an earthquake will occur or where it is happening until he calculates the earthquake waves recorded on the seismograph and calls other researchers to exchange data.

Earthquake research is cooperative research, Maliniconico said.

"You don't ever want to compete," he said. "You want to do things that complement each other."

Predicting earthquakes is difficult. Long-term research has been confined to the present century and, locally, the past 20 years.

Considering the age of the earth, the amount of research is minute. Researchers now do not have the capabilities to predict earthquakes but "we have to try," he said. Researchers are studying parameters, such as rock shape, and noting changes in such parameters months and immediately before an earthquake.

While researchers can't yet predict when an earthquake will occur, they have defined where they are likely to occur and have drawn maps showing seismic risk areas, he said.

Maliniconico's specialty is the New Madrid seismic zone, a region of faults that stretches through the Mississippi Valley. Researchers used to be puzzled about how an earthquake zone could be in the middle of a continent. Most areas of frequent seismic activity are located at plate boundaries, where tectonic plates pulled apart when the continents formed.

New Madrid, a plate boundary formed 600 million years ago, is a failed rift-zone, where the continents tried to pull apart but didn't make it, Maliniconico said. Oceans are successful rift-zones.

Predicting earthquakes here is more difficult than in California because of the lack of hard rock close to the earth's surface. Hard rock is needed to measure strain in the rock which, when released, causes an earthquake. Though it is technically feasible, he said, it is not economically feasible to drill deep to measure rock strain.

New Madrid is the most active seismic area east of Denver, Colo., Maliniconico said. The last earthquake of significant damage was an 1895 earthquake measuring 6.2 on the Richter scale. A more recent earthquake in November 1968 measured 5.5.

Oak Park approves ban on handguns

OAK PARK (AP) — Advocates of an ordinance banning handguns expressed relief when this Chicago suburb approved the ban, while opponents said they would continue their fight against it.

The Oak Park Village Board voted 4-3 in favor of the ordinance Monday night at a meeting attended by an overflow crowd of 350.

The ordinance was passed six months after James Piszczor, an Oak Park attorney, and Circuit Court Judge Henry Gentile were shot to death in a courtroom in Chicago's Daley Center.

Hutchie Moore, a former Chicago police officer, has been charged with murder in the shooting last October.

"I am relieved and happy," said Maureen Piszczor, Piszczor's widow, who attended the raucous meeting. "I'm so proud of the (village) trustees, because it was such a difficult decision.

"It would have been easy for them to back down and I am so proud of them for not doing that," she said.

OPEN HOUSE

The faculty of Northwestern University Medical School's Respiratory Therapy Program will sponsor an open house Saturday, April 28, 1984 at the Chicago Campus.

College students and/or college graduates interested in finding out about the allied health field of Respiratory Therapy, employment options and the training program at Northwestern are encouraged to attend.

To reserve your place at this session please write or call at least one (1) week in advance of the open house.

Hockey quarterfinals continue

By The Associated Press
It was a grind, but the Quebec Nordiques are even and will have the home-ice advantage again when they host the Montreal Canadiens Wednesday night in the fifth game of their best-of-seven National Hockey League playoff series.

"The razzle-dazzle wasn't working so we had to get back to grinding, and we have enough players on this team who can grind," Quebec defenseman Pat Price said after the Nordiques evened the series 2-2 with a 4-3 overtime victory Monday night at Montreal.

"They outworked us along the boards," said Montreal defenseman Craig Ludwig. "It was tough, they were pinching down and keeping the puck in."

But it took a while for the usually free-skating Nordiques' hitting tactics to take effect. They trailed 3-1 before goals by Andre Savard and Randy Moller tied it. Then Bo Berglund won it with a goal three minutes into overtime.

In other games Wednesday night, Washington is at the New York Islanders, Calgary is at Edmonton and St. Louis is at Minnesota.

The Islanders and Edmonton can clinch their series with victories. St. Louis and Minnesota are tied 2-2.

"We've won three games in a row before," said Washington's Dave Christian after the Capitals lost 5-2 Monday night to the Islanders at Landover, Md., and fell behind 3-1 in the series. "It's going to be tough, but we'll see what happens."

"Our discipline was much better," New York Coach Al Arbour said of the revived Islanders, who lost the opening game of the series and struggled through the next two. "It's the best we've played in the playoffs, our best consistency shift after shift."

Poise overcame emotion in Edmonton's 5-3 victory Monday night at Calgary and moved the Oilers and scoring ace Wayne Gretzky a step closer to the semifinals.

The Flames have been hitting, but the hitting is hurting them. One of the Oilers' goals Monday night was on a power play. Another was into an empty net.

"That was awful officiating; it was a disgrace," complained Al Coates, vice president of the Flames.

"Calgary spent more time trying to maim our team than it did trying to beat us," said Oiler coach Glen Sather. "If they get satisfaction out of hurting guys, fine — but we get satisfaction from winning."

Minnesota's Brian Bellows should be feeling better Wednesday night, but he can't make St. Louis feel much worse. Playing with the flu, Bellows scored a short-handed goal that gave the North Stars a 2-1 lead Monday night.

"It was the most important game of the year," said Minnesota right wing Willi Plett after the North Stars won 3-2 in St. Louis to tie the series.

Softball in midst of playoffs; Frisbee closing regular season

By Steve Koulos
Staff Writer

The Intramural softball league is in the thick of the playoffs in four of five divisions. Co-rec A is the only division that has finished playoff competition. The Big Woodies won the championship last Sunday by stunning the Al 1 Satchers, 14-2.

The Big Woodies, who finished 5-3 overall, edged Pack Patrol 12-11 in the semifinals. The Al 1 Satchers, the winningest team in the four-team co-rec A division with a 6-2 record, advanced to the championship game with a forfeit win over Urb & Ukulele.

Just four teams remain in the women's division: division winner Boog Woog (7-0), the S.I. Units (6-1), the No Names (4-2) and the Freebasers (4-2). The championship game will be held Monday, barring rainouts.

Four teams also remain in the men's A playoffs — Intemperate (7-0), the Snowmen (7-0), The Zoo (7-1) and BAMF (6-1). The championship game is also scheduled for Monday.

The men's and co-rec B finals will be held Friday, April 27. Forty-three out of 76 teams remain in men's B playoff action, the largest division in the league, and 12 out of 33 teams remain in co-rec B.

The Ultimate Frisbee league regular season is winding to a close and the playoffs will start either April 29 or April 30, according to Joyce Craven, coordinator of Intramural Sports.

In men's A, the Bearded Bees (4-0) and the Urban Dogs (3-0) lead the league. The top team in men's B is Disc-Grace, which is 4-0. In co-rec A, Fris People and the Big Twist are the front-runners at 2-1 each, and the Grateful Discs lead co-rec B with a 4-0 record.

In water polo basketball, Craven said she had to disqualify four of the six teams in the league with two weeks left in the season because they weren't showing up to their matches. The two teams left are the H20 Weenies and the Wet Dreams.

Donald was the second Jaguar caught off-guard on the basepaths in the inning and one of several throughout the afternoon. Meyer had picked Filoeti off second just before Simmermacher's circuit clout. "We played very sloppy," Jaguar Coach Steve Kittrell said, "but you have to give credit to Southern Illinois. They executed some pickoffs and out-executed us in every phase of the game."

Cassidy, who started his first games of the year at shortstop, called the crucial pickoff play at second base.

"A big play," Jones said, "because the next guy hits one out. Maybe we have the right guys in the right positions now."

In the Saluki sixth, Steve Finley's RBI single tied the game at 3-3. One out later, Warren Hughes entered and promptly hit designated hitter Koch, setting the stage for Severin's double.

Carter's homer paces Expos win

NEW YORK (AP) — Gary Carter slugged a grand slam home run, and Bryn Smith pitched a five-hitter, leading the Montreal Expos to a 10-0 victory over New York Tuesday, spoiling the Mets' home opener. After a 6-1 start, the Mets have lost three straight games.

Women netters crush SEMO

By Jim Lexa
Sports Editor

The Saluki women's tennis team has been losing and winning in streaks this season, and it kept its latest winning streak alive with an 8-1 win over Southeast Missouri State Tuesday at the University Courts.

SIU-C won the spring season with eight straight losses, before turning it around with six consecutive wins. However, the Salukis proceeded to lose three in a row before beating Murray State last Saturday afternoon. With the win over SEMO, SIU-C has a modest two-match winning streak.

Only the SIU-E fledged tournament and the Gateway Conference tournament are left for the Salukis. SIU-C won both tournaments last year. However, with an injured Saluki squad that had to forfeit a singles match to SEMO, SIU-C Coach Judy Auld is not going to concentrate her team's forces on the SIU-E tournament this week with the GCAC tournament next week.

"It would be nice to defend our title at Edwardsville, but we have to take a look at the conference tournament," Auld said. "That's more important."

Amanda Allen is SIU-C's No. 6 singles player, but she was scheduled in the No. 5 slot because No. 2 Heidi Eastman is suffering from an upper respiratory condition. Auld said. Allen hurt her back before the spring season, and the injury flared up again this week. After playing No. 3 doubles, Allen was unable to play No. 5 singles and had to default, just her second loss in her last 11 matches.

Stacy Sherman, the No. 5 singles player when SIU-C is healthy, missed last weekend's matches because she had the flu. She won at No. 4 singles Tuesday, beating SEMO's Yoko Mogi 6-1, 6-0. Sherman is 10-6 this spring, just behind Allen's 11-9 record. Eastman is 10-12. SIU-C's No. 1 singles Alessandra Molinari has won her last two matches, raising her record to 5-15 this spring. She knocked off SEMO's Lori Borkowski 7-5, 6-2. Molinari is still trying to find the self-confidence that left her when she was in a nine-match losing streak earlier in the year.

One of SIU-C's most consistent players, No. 3 Mary Pat Kramer, broke a four-match losing streak by beating SEMO's Susan Russell 6-0, 6-2. Kramer owns a 12-11 record that once stood at 11-7. Last fall she went 14-5, just behind Maureen Harney's 15-4 mark. At No. 6 last fall with and at No. 4 for most of this spring, Harney has done almost as well as Kramer. Harney is 10-12 this spring and has adjusted well to moving up two notches in the lineup. She has been playing tentatively lately, Auld said, but against SEMO she won in straight sets over Colette Douglass and lost just four games.

"Maureen needs to be more aggressive," Auld said. "Her style is not like that at all. She seems afraid of losing shots."

Her lack of aggressive play started last weekend at Memphis State. Auld said, when Harney was up in a match but couldn't win it.

"It was a bad experience for her," Auld said.

Kathy Harney, No. 7 on the Salukis, won at No. 6 singles 6-2, 6-3 over Julie Skaggs. Harney replaced Eastman at No. 1 doubles and teamed up with Molinari for a 6-1, 6-0 win. It was the first time they had played together in competition and Auld enjoyed the result.

"They were not too bad. They looked real well out there," Auld said. "Kathy feels comfortable at the net and Alessandra likes to set up the point. I felt confident with them out there."

Maureen Harney and Sherman racked up a straight set win at No. 2 doubles, as did Allen and Kramer at No. 3 doubles.

SIU-C could start play in the SIU-E tournament as early as Thursday, and the team will be in action no later than Friday.

Women tracksters add four distance runners

By Steve Koulos
Staff Writer

Don DeNoon, coach of SIU-C's women's cross country and track teams, must be thinking that getting four recruits out of five isn't too bad.

DeNoon said he received verbal commitments from distance runners Noeleen Mullen of Derry, Northern Ireland, and Patty Kelly from Stanton Island, N.Y. They will join distance runners Santha Gore of Wiltshire, England, and Laura Fiedler of Old Bridge, N.J., who signed national letters of intent with SIU-C on April 11th.

DeNoon said distance runner Lisa Reed, who verbally committed to the Salukis in early March, signed with Louisiana State last week.

Reed, from London, Ontario, visited SIU-C in late February, the week when a blizzard closed SIU-C, and a week later she signed a contract with the Salukis for financial aid. However, she changed her mind.

"I guess they don't have any blizzards in Louisiana and they have a good program," DeNoon said. "They sold their program over ours, even though I thought our program was good and we already sold her. She said the better weather conditions will help her train effectively."

"Fortunately we have a lot of distance runners who have signed," said DeNoon. "If we lose a couple of recruits we're still strong."

"When we sign athletes to letters of intent, we assume they will get off the airplane, start classes in the fall and go to practice. But just because they signed a letter of intent isn't a guarantee they will show up in the fall."

While DeNoon lost Reed, he gained the services of Mullen. She is a member of the Irish National Cross Country team and DeNoon said she is one of the top four distance runners in Northern Ireland.

Mullen's time of 2:08 in the 800 would be a school outdoor record at SIU-C and her 4:29 in the 1,500 would rank her second on the all-time school list.

Kelly, who is among the top 10 distance runners in New York, has run the mile in 5:06.

SIU-C's Herb Voss (right) shows his elation after taking third in the pommel horse at the NCAA Men's Gymnastics Championships. UCLA's Tim Daggett (center) won with a 9.9 and Northern Illinois' Doug Kieso took second with a 9.8. Voss scored a 9.75.

Voss ends gymnastics career

By George Pappas
Staff Writer

It's time for Herb Voss to retire, even though he's only 21 years old.

It's not the kind of retirement plan where he can sit around the house gardening and waiting for his pension check.

Now Voss has to go out and find a job.

After finishing his gymnastics career as the third-best pommel horseman in the nation last weekend in Los Angeles, the Saluki senior is packing up his gymnastics gear. After four successful years as the Salukis' specialist on the pommel horse, Voss is getting a taste of life without gymnastics, a sport he's been in since his sophomore year of high school.

"I don't know what to do with myself," Voss said while sitting in his home Tuesday afternoon. Usually, for the last four years, Voss spent his afternoons on the gymnastics' concourse working out with the Salukis. "I've started applying for jobs."

At SIU-C, Voss has scored a 9.8 three times and a 9.85 once. For a while in 1983, Voss and Brian Babcock held the SIU-C school record on the pommel horse with a 9.75 score. Babcock broke it, though, with a 9.9. Voss said he is not disappointed that he doesn't own the school record.

"If anyone were to have that record other than me," Voss said, "I'm glad it's Brian because he deserves it."

Having the record on not, his accomplishments this year alone may be worth the SIU-C Hall of Fame one day. He saved the Salukis from scoring lower than a 45 on the pommel horse everytime but twice this season. And a 45 or better score on the pommel horse is almost a must for the team to score in the upper 270s.

Voss's greatest thrill, other than his third-place finish in the nation this year, was when he dismounted off the pommel horse against Nebraska, the Arena crowd went wild and the judges gave him a 9.8. It was the turnaround for the Salukis. His score kept the meet close and enabled SIU-C to win the meet.

Voss had just one chance in each meet to help the team win, and he said he was going to give it the best effort he could.

He came up with one of his best efforts in the NCAA team competition last Friday, scoring a 9.65. Even though the team didn't make it to the finals, Voss did. He put all he had into his final routine of his career and found himself a few minutes later standing on the medals platform with a big "3" on it. He was standing next to All-Americans Tim Daggett and Doug Kieso.

"It feels good that I accomplished what I wanted to," Voss said of becoming an All-American. "The best part now is not having to say 'if I would've done this or if I would've done that' as an excuse for not making it."

But the fun and fame is over for Voss. If any employer in town needs an usher, a cashier or a cook, or a just plain dedicated employee, give Voss a call. He still has a year left before he gets his degree.

Kingman hits 3 homers as A's beat Mariners

By the Associated Press

Dave Kingman, who can be very, very good on some days and very, very bad on others, was at his awesome best Monday night as he broke out for the first time for the A's, who picked him up after the New York Mets literally begged someone to take him.

Oakland's designated hitter blasted three consecutive home runs, including a first-inning grand slam, off a pair of Seattle Mariners' southpaws in a 9-6 Oakland victory.

It was the fifth time in Kingman's 13-year, 346-homer career that he has hit three homers in a game and it was his third eight-RBI game. The grand slam made him tops among active players in career grand slams, one ahead of the Mets' George Foster.

Kingman's first two home runs were on 0-2 pitches off Mariners' starter and loser Matt Young, an All-Star as a rookie last season. The third was against reliever Ed Vande Berg and came on an 0-1 pitch. All were over the Kingdome's leftfield fence.

"I made more mistakes on Dave Kingman than I have any other batter," said Young.

SIU-C's Barry Hahn achieved All-America status on the Salukis' 800-yard freestyle relay team at the NCAA championship meet. The relay team's time was 6:35.04.

Hahn: Once a Saluki walk-on, now an Olympic team qualifier

By Steve Koulos
Staff Writer

Saluki swimmer Barry Hahn wasn't good enough to qualify for the Illinois state swimming meet in high school, but the SIU-C senior now has a chance to qualify for the U.S. Olympic Team.

It has been a rags to riches story for Hahn, who came to SIU-C four years ago as a walk-on from Sterling High School. He qualified in the 200-meter freestyle for the U.S. Olympic Trials, which will be held June 25 at Indianapolis.

A family tradition could be in the making if Hahn makes it to the Summer Olympics. His father, Ken Hahn, was a member of the U.S. Water Polo team that finished fifth in the 1956 Olympic Games at Melbourne, Australia.

"I might have dreamed of this, but realistically, I never had any idea I would qualify for the Olympic Trials," said Hahn, one of three Salukis who have qualified for the trials.

Roger VonJouanne (200 butterfly and 200 individual medley) and Larry Wooley (200 breaststroke) are the other Salukis who will compete in the trials.

Hahn qualified for the U.S. Olympic Trials with his school-record 1:37.94 performance to lead all individuals in the preliminaries of the 200-yard free at the National Independent Swimming and Diving Championships in February.

In order for Hahn to make the U.S. Olympic Team, he must finish in the top six at the trials.

At least 20 individuals have qualified for the U.S. Trials in the 200 free, and the top two finishers will represent the U.S. Team in the 200. They will be joined by the third- and fourth-place finishers to form the 800 free relay, while the fifth- and sixth-place finishers will be alternates.

"To make it to the finals I will probably need a 1:51 or better," Hahn said. "My best time converted to meters from yards is 1:52, so I have to cut it by at least two seconds."

After spending three and a half years as a walk-on at SIU-C, Hahn was finally given a scholarship this semester.

"It didn't bother me when I wasn't on scholarship," he said. "It only motivated me more."

When Hahn first came to SIU-C, he had a big adjustment to make — getting used to Coach Bob Steele's practices. In high school, Hahn said he hardly trained, but he had to make "a complete turnaround" at SIU-C.

"The first couple of days I felt like quitting because the training was so hard," Hahn said, "but after I got used to it, everything was all right."

At this past season's NCAA championships, Hahn teamed with Tom Hakanson, Joakim Sjöholm and Anderz Grillhammar to help the Salukis set a school record in the 800-yard freestyle (6:35.04) and finish ninth overall. In that relay, Hahn established a school-record relay split time of 1:36.76. In the 200-yard free, he swam a 1:37.95 to finish 16th overall. Hahn said he wasn't happy with his performance in the 200.

"When I looked up after the race I saw the 1:37.95 on the scoreboard and I was disappointed because I swam a second faster in the relay," he said. "Usually I'm six-tenths of a second faster in the relay."

Steele thinks Hahn is a silent person but is very goal oriented.

"Because Barry is quiet, a person might not know what he is thinking of," Steele said. "But Barry is thinking about good things. Working hard to get your name on the SIU record board is in the back of every kid's mind, but I think it has been in the back of Barry's mind for a long time, even though he might not have expressed it."

Hahn has shown steady improvement in his four years at SIU-C. He has improved in his four years at SIU-C. He has improved on his high school best of 1:52.8 in the 200-yard free by almost 15 seconds and dropped his split time of 48.9 in the 400 free relay to 44.1. Hahn said his greatest improvement came between his sophomore and junior seasons in college. That summer, he attended the Mustang Swim Club at Southern Methodist.

"Coach Steele has helped me a lot. He has been like a dad away from home to me and he will help any of the guys with problems they have. If I have problems with my classes or registration, he will help me legally of course."

Jays beat Birds in home opener

TORONTO (AP) — George Bell snapped a 2-2 tie with a single to center in the eighth inning and gave Toronto a 3-2 victory over the Baltimore Orioles Tuesday in the Blue Jays' home opener.

Willie Upshaw opened the eighth off reliever Tippy Martinez, 0-1, and after Cliff Johnson was intentionally walked, Bell stroked a single to center off Sammy Stewart, the third Baltimore pitcher.

Toronto reliever Jimmy Key and Dennis Lamp contained the Orioles. Key got the win.

Saluki second baseman Mike Sellinger turned a double play in the fourth inning of SIU-C's first game Tuesday.

Baseball team sweeps as Severin explodes

By Daryl Van Schouwen
Staff Writer

The struggling Salukis' double-header sweep of nationally-ranked South Alabama Tuesday at Abe Martin Field left Itchy Jones feeling good that his third baseman, Terry Jones, was feeling too lousy to play because of the flu.

Jones' absence left a vacancy in the Saluki lineup, and gave Greg Severin, a sub-.200 hitter, a chance to play.

"He probably wouldn't have played if Jones wasn't sick," Jones said.

Severin's slump has gone hand in hand with SIU-C's slow start, but Tuesday he paced the Salukis by drilling a home run to center field in SIU-C's 7-1, opening-game victory. He then delivered a two-out, two-run double in the nightcap to break a 3-3 tie in the sixth inning.

South Alabama threatened in the seventh, scoring a run to cut SIU-C's lead to 5-4, and put the tying run on third with two out. But Gary Bockhorn prevailed in relief, saving the win for Lee Meyer (4-1).

The non-conference wins upped the Salukis' record to 11-16 and dropped South Alabama's mark to 31-11. The losses put an abrupt end to the Jaguars' five-game winning streak.

"I've been hard on Severin all year," said Jones of the Nevada-Las Vegas transfer who hit .310 for the Rebels in his last full season. "That's because he hasn't played up to his potential."

"I feel like I've personally let the team down," Severin said. "It felt great today. I have to just keep contributing in the next four weeks."

Severin, though, was just one of several Salukis who had a stay in speedy South Alabama's double-dip.

In the third inning of the opener, Scott Bridges homered, Robert Jones doubled, Mike Blumhorst tripled and Severin singled — in succession — staking starter and winner Rich Koch to a 3-0 lead.

Koch (2-1) breezed along until the sixth, when he gave way to Mark Wooden after giving up a pair of one-out walks, his fourth and fifth. Wooden then retired the Jaguars' fourth and fifth hitters, Mike Theige and Jim Filota, to end the threat.

Koch's fine performance was his third straight. He blanked the Jaguars on four hits, five walks and three strikeouts. Severin's leadoff homer and Bridges' two-run single in the sixth gave Wooden, who collected the save, a 6-0 lead.

Wooden stayed on the hill to start what turned out to be a thrilling second game.

The visitors staked their ace left-hander, Marc Estes, to a 2-0, third-inning lead. Jay Burch led off the Saluki third with a line single to right. Mike Gellinger followed with a walk before catcher Frank Narvaez — who fouled off his first two bunt attempts — bunted the runners to second and third despite a two-strike count.

With Dan Cassidy up, Estes unclad a wild pitch, allowing Burch to score. On Estes' next serve, Cassidy executed the suicide squeeze, scoring Gellinger to even the contest at 2-2.

South Alabama went ahead 3-2 in the sixth on Brian Simurmacher's two-out home run over the left field wall off Lee Meyer, who relieved Wooden in the fourth. Meyer then walked the next two batters, but Steve Boyd, who replaced Narvaez in the fourth, caught Walne Donald leaning too far off first

Men's tennis team extends win streak

By George Pappas
Staff Writer

Niether the rain nor Southeast Missouri could stop the roaring SIU-C men's tennis team at the Arena courts Tuesday as the Salukis stormed to their fourth straight victory by stomping the Indians 7-2.

With the Missouri Valley Conference Championship only two days away in Wichita, Kansas, the Salukis must feel good knowing they've won their last four matches after starting the season 0-17. But, Saluki Coach Dick LeFevre was still not that pleased with his team's performance against the hapless Indians.

"Even though we beat them," LeFevre said, "it was not the best tennis we've played, but it was good enough for the win, so that's what counts."

Despite a 20 minute rain delay, the Salukis won five of six singles matches and two of three doubles.

No. 1 Per Wadmark looked sharp as he improved his record to 6-15, after being 2-13, by wasting Tony Fogarty 6-0, 6-1. Wadmark, who had a sensational freshman year last year, finishing up 17-10, suffered from the flu for a month and half this season. He has come back strong and has won four of his last six matches.

Gabriele Coch, whose 10-11 record is the Salukis' best, fought back to beat Richard Cobbing 1-6, 6-3, 6-4 at No. 2. His frustration led him to play some bad tennis in the first set, but he regrouped to nail Cobbing. Since being switched to No. 2 from No. 3, Coch has gone 7-8. Lars Nilsson continued his winning ways by romping over Antonio Campana 6-3, 6-1 at No. 3. Nilsson, who is now 5-9 at No. 3 singles, has won five of his last six matches.

Chris Visconti, who has the second best record on the Salukis at 8-13, easily beat Scott Reynolds 6-1, 6-1 at No. 4 singles.

Saluki Paul Rasch beat Chris Capps 6-1, 9-1 at No. 5. Rasch is now 5-14.

Freshman Steve Quanon (3-13) lost at No. 6 singles to Mike

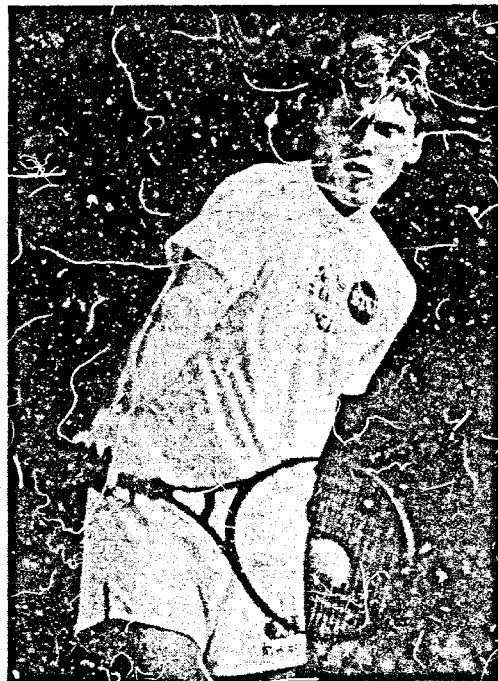

Boone 3-6, 4-6.

In doubles action, Wadmark and Nilsson (8-12) won their match against Campana and Reynolds 7-6, 6-3 at No. 1. The two Swedes have won six of their last eight doubles matches. Visconti twisted his ankle in his match against Reynolds, so Roeland deKort replaced him and teamed with Coch to beat Fogarty and Chapps 7-5, 0-6, 6-2 at No. 2.

At No. 3, Rasch and Quanon were beat by Boone and Cobbing 6-7, 6-4, 2-6. Rasch and Quanon will go to the MVC championships with a 4-9 record.

The MVC tournament is what LeFevre has been waiting for all year. Despite the Salukis' 4-17 record, LeFevre said if his team get an average draw, it could finish third. But if the Salukis draw all tough players in the first round, it could be a long weekend for them.

"The draw plays an enormous part in the Conference Championships," LeFevre said. "We can only hope we get an average one."

Softball team to host twinbill

By Dan Devine
Staff Writer

Arkansas State might be just what the Saluki softball team needs — a chance to score some runs, win some games and bolster its flagging confidence.

SIU-C hosts the 2-9 Indians in a double-header at 2 p.m. Wednesday.

Both of the Indians' wins have been at the expense of Harding University, an NAIA team. They lost 9-1 to Southeast Missouri State and lost 10-1 to Lincoln Junior College. The Salukis easily swept Lincoln in a double-header and split with SEMO.

Moreover, Arkansas State's top pitcher is freshman Karin Telle, who is 2-6 with a 5.05 earned run average — good news for the beleaguered Saluki hitters, who are hitting only

.176, while scoring 23 runs in 16 games.

"Our team batting average is not particularly good, but we've hit the ball harder than that would indicate," said Brechtelsbauer. "We've been out-hitting some teams but we can't score a run. We've had trouble getting hits or even sacrifices with runners in scoring position."

"It's a mental thing," said Brechtelsbauer, who says her team will relax once it starts manufacturing an offense. "Confidence breeds confidence."

Lack of offense has hurt pitcher Sunny Clark, who owns the sixth best ERA in the Gateway Conference, and it has magnified defensive weaknesses.

"It puts a tremendous amount of strain on the defense and it hasn't always held up under it," said Brechtelsbauer.

The Salukis have lost at least three low scoring, one-run games because of late-inning errors.

Brechtelsbauer doesn't anticipate making major changes in her lineup, but said she might move Kelly Nelis and Kathy Richert up in the batting order. The Salukis' leading hitter is still Tonya Lindsey, who has a .321 average. Richert is hitting .244 and Cindy Knight is hitting .229.

Sunny Clark will start the first game Wednesday, and may pitch in the nightcap as well. She is 4-9 with an ERA of 0.83. Brechtelsbauer said several Gateway teams are relying heavily on our starter. "Sunny has kept us in every game," said Brechtelsbauer.

Brewers beat Sox, Seaver

MILWAUKEE (AP) —

Randy Ready hit a three-run homer and Jim Sundberg a two-run single in a six-run sixth inning to power Milwaukee to a 7-3 victory over the Chicago White Sox in intermittent rain and snow in the Brewers' home opener Tuesday.

Moose Haas, 1-2, gave up three runs on six hits, three walks and struck out six before being replaced by Pete Ladd in the seventh inning. Ladd earned his first save with three innings of two-hit relief.

Cecil Cooper led off the Brewers' sixth with a single and Ted Simmons followed with a walk to chase Tom Seaver, 0-2.

After reliever Juan Agosto walked Ben Oglivie to load the bases, Jim Gantner singled to right to score Cooper and bring in reliever Salome Barojas. Sundberg then picked up his third single of the game to drive in Simmons and Oglivie.
