Dean of Students optimistic about resolution

Board approval expected for liquor proposal

By Diane Mizialko
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Dean of Students Bruce Swinburne said Friday he expects the Board of Trustees will "almost certainly" approve in January the policy on consumption of alcoholic beverages submitted Thursday by SIU President David R. Derge.

Interviewed during a third-floor Anthony Hall Christmas party, Swinburne said he foresees no problem in winning board concurrence to the policy, which, among other things, allows possession and consumption of alcohol in private living areas by persons older than 19.

"Private living areas," the administration resolution says, are individual rooms in or on property owned or controlled by the University.

Current alcoholic beverages policy prohibits inhabitants of single undergraduate residence halls from possessing and consuming alcohol.

Board approval is not necessary to put the policy into effect, Swinburne said. The policy was submitted only for the board's concurrence.

Swinburne said he doesn't know if the administration would put the drinking rules into effect over the board's objections.

The board deferred consideration of the new drinking rules Thursday because the trustees needed more time to consider the administration position, Swinburne said.

Conflicting messages from the board staff also delayed board consideration of the issue, Swinburne said. The board staff first recommended the policy be granted board concurrence, then withdrew the recommendation, Swinburne said.

The recommendation was withdrawn, Swinburne said, because the board staff wanted time to consult with the SIU-Edwardsville administration on its alcohol policy.

"Edwardsville just doesn't care," Swinburne said. He explained that SIU-E housing is mainly apartment-style, and therefore SIU-E has never felt the need to establish any policy guidelines on drinking.

Swinburne said he backs the policy, but he "can't get to excited about it."

On one hand, Swinburne said, the state has granted 19-year-olds the right to consume alcohol. On the other, Swinburne continued, half of all automobile accidents are alcohol-related.

"I feel rather schizophrenic about the question," he said.

The policy paper submitted to the board says the Student Senate, the Graduate Student Council and the University Senate all support the new rules. Joanne Thorpe, chairperson of the Faculty Senate, has given her personal approval, the policy paper says, but no opinion has been received from the senate as a group. Furthermore, "University officers are aware of no specific disagreement by any constituency," the paper says.

The administration determined effective date of the new policy is Jan. 15. The board meets again Jan. 10.

Walker returns 23-year-old favor, appoints SIU man as ethics chairman

By Tom Finan
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Gov. Dan Walker returned a 23-year-old favor this week when he appointed Jack F. Isakoff, SIU government professor emeritus, as chairman of the Illinois Board of Ethics.

Isakoff replaces Abner J. Mikva, who resigned recently to run for Congress.

When Walker was fresh out of Northwestern University Law School, Isakoff, then director of research of the Commission to Study State Government, hired him as a research assistant. Through their years of friendship, Walker has continued to refer to Isakoff as "my first boss."

He will serve on the board without pay and expects to spend about one day a week on his board work.

Isakoff said he will try to have the board offices moved to Springfield from Chicago "because most of the state employees are in Springfield."

Isakoff, 63, retired from full time teaching in March in order to cultivate his "fishing and loafing," as well as a crop of salt-and-pepper beard.

The board which Isakoff will chair was created by an executive order issued by Walker earlier this year. That order was upheld in the Sangamon County Circuit Court after it was contested by a group of state employees, but is currently under injunction until the employees' appeal is heard in the State Supreme Court.

The authority for Walker to create such a board is stated in Section 2 of Article 13 of the new Illinois Constitution, which states in part: "These Sections shall not be construed as limiting the authority of any branch of government to establish and enforce ethical standards for that branch." "This whole aspect of financial disclosures is a significant question at all levels of government," Isakoff said.

Currently, because of the court order, the decision to submit a financial statement is entirely voluntary.

Those employees asked to submit such statements are gubernatorial appointees, employees of agencies reporting to the governor and anyone who occupies a "sensitive" position, which is subject to outside influence, Isakoff said.

The statement is an eight page questionnaire, which is accompanied by copies of state and federal tax returns. The staff of the board examines the statements and reports any irregularities to the board for investigation.

Any employee found to have conflict of interest will be subject to dismissal. Isakoff said a procedure for hearings in such cases has not been established by the board.

Isakoff said that Walker took the move toward an ethics board because financial disclosure statements at the state level in the past have been "quite prefatory."

"Courts have had the machinery for enforcing a code of ethics all along," he said.

During the special session of the Illinois legislature, Gov. Walker introduced financial disclosure legislation, which was not acted upon before the session closed.

Such legislation is almost sure to be introduced again when the legislature reconvenes in January, Isakoff said.

Santa's in town

Joice Bonhan, a volunteer worker, checks out one of over 1,000 toys collected by volunteers from Carbondale business and social groups and SIU's Inter-Greek Council for "Operation Merry Christmas." In addition to the toys, 2,500 canned goods, 78 boxes of clothes and $2,132 which will buy turkeys and potatoes were donated by local businessmen and residents. The items will be distributed to needy Carbondale-area residents Dec. 21-23. "Operation Merry Christmas" was coordinated by the Carbondale Police Community Service Center. Personnel cuts not final despite day-long Anthony Hall conference

By Marcia Bullard
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

By 5 p.m. Friday, Academic Vice President Keith Leasure still hadn't finished his faculty-staff mailing list for the holidays.

Leasure, his assistant provosts and other SIU vice presidents met in closed-door session all day Friday drawing up the names of those to receive termination notices next week. Administrators expected to continue meeting Saturday so letters can be mailed this weekend.

More than 100 faculty members and an undermanned number of staff members will be notified their jobs have been eliminated to save money for next year. Civil Service employee termination notices may not be issued until winter or spring quarter, according to Dan Orescanin, executive vice president.

The job cuts were approved Thursday by the SIU Board of Trustees after lengthy discussion and strong opposition by faculty members.

Both the Carbondale Federation of Teachers (CFUT) and the American Association of University Professors (AAUP) are expected to bring lawsuits against SIU after termination notices are issued. SIU's defense will rest heavily on a provision in the Bylaws and Statutes of the Board which allows tenured faculty to be terminated because of "bona fide financial exigency" and "cutbacks in programs."

CFUT president-elect Herbert Donow claimed the administration could have cut many 12-month appointments back to 9-month appointments, thus saving nearly $1 million.

"That makes me think a 'bonafied financial exigency' doesn't really exist," Donow said. He added that scheduling of 9-month appointments can be altered to cover all periods during the academic year.

AAUP president Robert Harrell said some faculty members are "bitter and anxious" over the cuts he claims the administration made "arbitrarily and without faculty input."

Harrell told the Board Thursday that administrators should consult further with the faculty on the budget cuts after the board meeting.

before making any final decisions. He said his appearance before the trustees "at least emphasizes to them the exclusion of the faculty in these decisions."

"Some faculty members would probably consider retiring a year or two early if only given the chance to consider that alternative," Harrell said.

Although "it depends on the way in which faculty cuts are finally handled," Harrell indicated the AAUP may file suit against the university on behalf of tenured faculty members who lose their jobs.

Police capture Chester escapees; found armed on Illinois Avenue

By Rafe Klingler
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Two escapees from the Chester Mental Health Center, who had allegedly kidnapped and transported two Chester policemen to Carbondale, were captured by Carbondale police Thursday morning.

Lloyd M. James, 26, and J.B. Boston, 30, were arrested 3:41 a.m. Thursday by Carbondale officers Mark Hurling and Art Berkowitz in the 200 block of North Illinois Avenue after a "stop and frisk" revealed that Boston was carrying a revolver.

Carbondale, Jackson County and State police were alerted 11:30 p.m. Wednesday to be on the lookout for the men who allegedly kidnapped Chester police officers Glen Lorbert, 66, and Lloyd J. Huey, 54. Both Huey and Lorbert made their way to the Carbondale police station after escaping from a basement room at 203 E. Oak, where they had been handcuffed to a pole by their kidnappers.

Roadblocks were set up at all exits from Carbondale and motels, restaurants, train and bus depots were notified by police to keep a look out for James and Boston.

The Chester officers told Carbondale police that they stopped to check James and Boston late Wednesday on Valley Street in Chester. They said the men told them they were out of gas. The officers said they were jumped from behind and disarmed by Boston after inviting the men into their car to help them find a gas station.

James and Boston then allegedly forced the officers at gunpoint to take them to Carbondale, the officers said. On the way, the men wanted to stop and rob a gas station, but were talked out of it by Chester officers who gave Boston and James their money, $65, the officers said.

In Carbondale, James and Boston handcuffed the officers to a pole in the basement of the East Oak Street house and left, the officers reported.

Broadcast Services makes move

Broadcasting Services has been moved from the Development and Services Division to the Academic Affairs Division, the SIU administration announced Friday.

The announcement was made jointly by T. Richard Mager, vice president for development and services, and Keith Leasure, vice president for academic affairs.

Despite the shift, no reference was made to any further administrative action on the resignation of the Director of Broadcasting Services. Leasure has confirmed that the director, Charles W. Shipley, has submitted a request for reassignment to teaching in the College of Communications.

Leasure explained the reorganizational move as the result of recent budget cuts recommended by the Illinois Board of Higher Education. Both Shipley and Herbert Fink, dean of the College of Communications, recommended the move, Leasure added.

Broadcasting Services personnel recently unanimously adopted a resolution requesting a realignment of their unit with academics. Mager said.

Broadcasting Services has been a public relations and services unit under the direction of Don Hecke, SIU director of communications. Mager said this mission will be less emphasized in the future.

Hecke said the loss of Broadcasting Services as one of the communications units under his direction "will create a void that will be difficult to fill."

A complete academic program in broadcasting will be built as a result of Broadcasting Services coming under his area of responsibility, Leasure said.

Salt peak draws tourists

BUCHAREST, Romania (AP)—At Slanic in the Carpathian Mountains north of here, a sparkling white mountain of salt rises among the other peaks.

The mountain was pushed up in a convulsion after receding seas left deposits of salt millions of years ago. The Carpathians are lined with underground salt deposits.

Berkowitz said he and Hurling, patrolling in separate cars, noticed two men fitting the descriptions of the Chester escapees crossing Jackson Street on Illinois Avenue.

James and Boston were stopped, but could not produce proper identification. Berkowitz said. The officers then patted the men down and found two revolvers.

They were arrested and taken to the Carbondale police station where they were identified by the Chester policemen.

James and Boston were returned to Chester Friday afternoon.

Chester Mental Health Center officials said James and Boston escaped from the center by sawing through bars on a janitor's closet window.

Peak should end next week

Mail situation looks good Post Office employee says

The mail situation is looking good with little chance of late Christmas mail this year, Jim Montgomery, superintendent of mailing at the U.S. post office in Carbondale, said Friday.

Montgomery said that so far there has been no backlog of incoming or outgoing mail. He said the carriers have been getting the mail the same day it comes in the post office.

The post office has been handling more mail this year than last year, Montgomery said. "It appears that outgoing mail has passed its peak and should decline after Monday Montgomery said.

"The incoming mail has not reached its peak yet. The heaviest volume should come Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week," he said.

A spot check on first-class mail Thursday showed that it took two days for letters to come from nearby states, three days from the east coast states, three to four days from the Southern states and four days from the West Coast states.

For parcels, it took about three days from Texas, four days from the East Coast and five days from the Southeastern states.

Montgomery said the main problem that has been encountered is no return addresses on many letters. He said the post office receives about 200 letters a day that cannot be delivered and have no return addresses.

He said the percentage of these dead letters may not be great but a stack of 200 to 500 dead letters is unnecessary if people would just include a return address.

Other problems during the Christmas mail rush include the forgetting of stamps, the absence of zip codes and no street address.

Montgomery recommended that people mail early, make the addresses complete and include a return address.

Employees will be interviewed

A committee named by SIU President David R. Derge to review the operation of the Daily Egyptian will meet at 9 a.m. Saturday in the paper's conference room to talk with SIU faculty, staff and students.

The visit is part of a review of the paper that began in October when Derge appointed five professional newspaper editors to study the Egyptian. The committee will evaluate the present operation of the paper, possibly recommending some changes to Derge.

Recommended rules for drinking alcohol on University land

These are the regulations on the possession and consumption of alcoholic beverages which the administration has proposed to become effective on Jan. 15:

1. The possession and consumption of alcoholic beverages in or on any property owned or controlled by the University is strictly prohibited, except in the following cases:

A. Beer and wine may be possessed and consumed by persons 19 years of age or older in private living areas.

(Private living areas shall be defined as the individual room of the resident. A private living area does not include main lounges, indoor recreational areas, multi-purpose areas, general TV rooms, snack bars, dining rooms, libraries or grounds surrounding any University housing unit.)

B. The possession and consumption of alcoholic beverages will be permitted in faculty or family housing owned or controlled by the University.

C. Possession for the purpose of transporting alcoholic beverages to the above prescribed areas is not prohibited except in accordance with state and local laws governing the transportation of alcohol.

2. Whenever possible individual residents will be given an opportunity to move into a room where beer and wine are not possessed or consumed.

3. Additional restrictions on, or the total prohibition of the use of alcoholic beverages by tenants of legal age may be established by a majority action of tenants of that housing unit.

4. Monies collected through or by the University for any campus organization will not be allowed to be used for the purchase of any form of alcoholic beverage.

5. The sale or delivery of alcoholic beverages in or on any University property is prohibited.

6. All guests of legal age who visit the University housing units may enjoy only the regular drinking privileges accorded to the residents of University housing.

7. The basic responsibility for compliance with this regulation will be incumbent upon all members of the University community. The overall responsibility for enforcement of this regulation will rest with the administrative staff of the University, especially the University residence hall staff, and in accordance with the established procedures of the discipline system.

Challenge to City Council set for Monday

The Carbondale City Council will discuss a letter from H. Carl Runge, attorney for the Board of Fire and Police Commissioners, challenging the validity of an ordinance realigning the board's functions, at the formal Council meeting set for 7 p.m. Monday in the University City Cafeteria.

In the letter, addressed to Mayor Neal Eckert, Runge said it is his understanding that the ordinance passed by the City Council is not the ordinance which has been codified and published.

Runge further charges that the minutes of the City Clerk Elizabeth Leighty are incomplete or erroneous in regard to the actions of the council during the meeting at which the ordinance was passed.

Runge stated in the letter that he has advised the board to "call to the attention of the city the material discrepancies in the manner in which the ordinance was procedurally handled."

He also advised board members to "conduct themselves in a manner consistent with the statutes of the State of Illinois and specifically to ignore any instructions or demands that are inconsistent therewith."

Runge also suggested that a referendum rather than an ordinance is the proper method of altering city government.

Other topics on the council agenda for Monday include:

—A letter from Carbondale Police Chief Joe Dakin regarding "Operation Merry Christmas."

—An ordinance annexing the new industrial park property.

Senate approves Carbondale federal building

U.S. Rep. Kenneth J. Gray (D-Ill.) announced Friday that the Senate gave its approval to plans for a $5 million federal building to be built in Carbondale.

The project was engineered by Gray through his House Committee on Public Works, the General Accounting Office and finally, the U.S. Senate Committee on Public Works.

The project will be privately financed and "bought back" by the government over a 30-year period. Gray has said the arrangement will result in long-range tax savings.

One aim of the project, Gray has said, is to "revitalize downtown Carbondale." A spokeswoman for Gray's Washington office said Friday the building will be downtown.

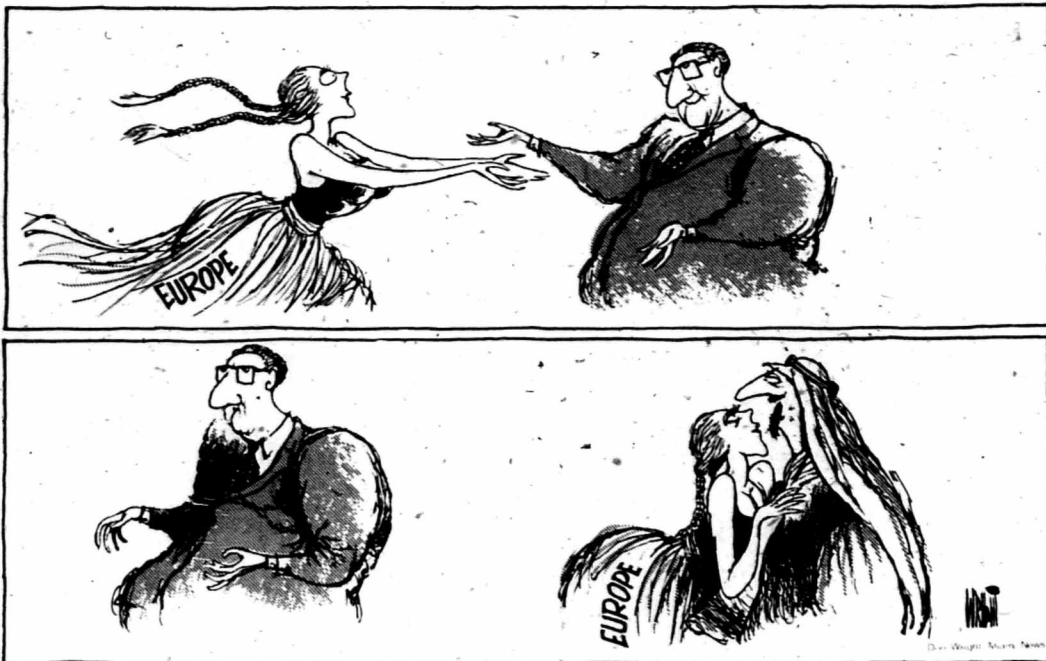

DE review committee to meet

Ten persons received letters from Derge this week asking them to appear before the committee Saturday. They are Bryce Rucker, director of the School of Journalism; Harry Stonecipher, assistant professor of journalism; Adrian Combs, Egyptian business manager; Ed Horn, Egyptian managing editor; John Curtner, Egyptian advertising manager; John Gardner, editor of the Southern Illinoisian; John King, chairman of the Department of Higher Education; Mike Carr, student body president; Tom Finan, staff writer for the Egyptian, and Pia Raggi, student composing room employme at the Egyptian.

Committee members have met with Derge and studied background materials provided by the School of Journalism faculty and Egyptian fiscal officer Howard R. Long.

Members of the committee are C.L. Blanton III, editor of the Sikeston (Mo.) Standard; Thomas Phillips, editor of the Pana News-Palladium; George Killenberg, managing editor of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat; Wendell Philippi, managing editor of the Indianapolis News, and William Morgan, publisher of the Sparta News-Plaindealer.

Editorial

End of an era

There is much wailing and gnashing of teeth in Little Egypt this winter, as a political era ends.

Both Kenny Gray and Clyde Choate have announced plans to abandon their respective legislative seats. Both men claim physical impairment and fatigue as the reason for their retirements next November. There is no doubt each has good reason to be worn out.

During his 21 years in the U.S. Congress, 24th District Representative Gray has been instrumental in channelling thousands of federal projects worth over $4 billion in federal funds into Southern Illinois.

During his 27 years in the Illinois House, 59th District Representative Choate has climbed to the top of the Democratic leadership ladder. He has wheeled and dealt enough important legislation through the House to keep Illinois afloat for years.

Both Gray and Choate have run their political extravaganzas at fever pitch. Gray's machine-gun stream of verbiage and Choate's incessant smoking are trademarks—and symptoms of the hectic lives the two legislators have chosen.

Both men are retiring over the protests of Democrats who realize the party has lost two shoo-in candidates. Southern Illinoisans of both parties certainly realize our region will lose two strongly influential voices.

There will be moves in and out of the Democratic party structure to persuade Choate and Gray to change their minds and again stand for re-election. Politics is a cruelly demanding game—and the godless of power never thinks twice about wringing the last ounce of strength from her adherents.

Instead of dumping our disappointment on the tired shoulders of Kenny Gray or Clyde Choate, we must let these men rest, if that is their wish. We must stop wringing our hands and looking back.

At least half of Little Egypt's problems can be attributed to this one particular flaw—its propensity for trying to cling to the "good old days," days before heavy traffic, zoning laws, equal opportunity for blacks and air pollution.

If we are going to catch up with the rest of the state—in industrialization, in income level, in employment opportunity, in the number of doctors and hospital beds, in modern transportation systems—we must not look back anymore.

There are men ready to fill the gap left by Gray and Choate. Rather than mourn our losses, we must welcome these new candidates, help them shape new goals for Southern Illinois and support their efforts in the legislatures.

Choate and Gray have been effective leaders. But both of them, in their retirement statements, noted the style and demands of political life have changed.

Dutch treat

It's no wonder the oil companies are in dutch with the public. As an example, Shell Oil earned 200 per cent profits last year in Holland.

Events are more complex and move faster than ever before. Next year seems to rush upon us with a new set of problems before this year is even through.

With respect and gratitude to Kenny Gray and Clyde Choate for their years of service, we must turn and look at the sleeping hills of Southern Illinois. It is time to look up, wake up and forge ahead.

Prepaid legal service

Legal services for the poor have been improved substantially by programs financed by the government and private organizations. The wealthy can afford counsel for their legal problems. But middle-income Americans are priced out of the market.

Prepaid legal plans, similar to those for medical and hospital care, seem to be moving toward this void. Congress recently amended the Taft-Hartley law to permit legal services to be a benefit under collective bargaining. This change is expected to touch off an increase in legal service programs during contract negotiations next year.

The American Bar Association has sponsored a prepaid program as a pilot. Other plans have been formulated. In California a lawyer's service offers a choice of lawyers while in other places lawyers are designated for consultation.

Prepaid plans would fill a need. Chesterfield Smith, president of the American Bar Association, estimates that 80 to 85 per cent of American citizens have the least access to legal services. In Smith's words they are "above the poverty level, but below the wealthy category." He elaborated:

"Unmet legal needs of the middle American are of great concern to the A.B.A. Part of the problem is that legal services cost too much. What I am saying is that on a routine day, if a person needs a doctor, he will go to a doctor, if a person needs a lawyer, he most often won't go to a lawyer."

In a country that prides itself on justice and a fair day in court, these unmet needs that Smith talks about must be filled. Prepaid legal plans may well be one of the most practical ways to get the job done.

An apology

It has been demonstrated by persons not associated with the staff that the Daily Egyptian on Nov. 29 carried a review of the motion picture, "American Graffiti," the text of which contained portions almost identical with the review of the same film published by the Chicago "Sun Times" on Aug. 27. The Daily Egyptian writer presented this material as his own and with no credit to the original source.

For this lapse there is no excuse and none is offered. Glenn Amato, Daily Egyptian staff writer joins the undersigned in this formal apology to our readers, to the management and staff of "Sun Times" and specifically to all students of the University conducting themselves with honor during this week of final examinations.

Mideast distortion

The Editorial of Dec. 12, 1973 by Mr. Rafe Klinger was misleading and erroneous.

First, to state that three months ago the Arabs started a war saying "they would push Israel into the Mediterranean Sea" is not only untrue but also an insult to the intelligence of the student body. The Arabs did not say they would push Israel into the sea, and the war, as the Arabs saw it, was dealing with Israel on its own belligerent terms. This would seem to be an act of desperation in view of Israel's indifference to continuous efforts of the Arab states to settle the problem diplomatically, and Israel's refusals to comply with the United Nations Resolutions demanding that Israel return the occupied Arab territories.

Mr. Klinger should realize that there are many students on this campus who are conscious of the problem, aware of the true nature of the Middle East situation, and informed of the facts. The students will no more accept such misconceptions and misrepresentation.

Secondly, just what are the Arabs' terms? Mr. Klinger asked this question but failed to supply an answer. He only offered some emotional comments in a vain attempt to veil the real issues.

The "unacceptable" Arab terms are:

1—The implementation of the United Nations Resolutions demanding Israeli withdrawal that must serve as a prerequisite to any negotiations.

2—The recognition of the human rights of the Palestinian People to live on their land.

3—A just settlement leading to permanent peace in the area.

4—A democratic, non-sectarian, non-partisan state in which Christians, Jews and Moslems can live together, as they have done in the past, in peace and harmony.

Are these "unacceptable" terms?

And what are the "acceptable" Israeli terms? Is it the denial of the legitimate rights of the Palestinian People? Or is it the rejection of all the United Nations resolutions that would lead to an ever-lasting peace in the area?

If Mr. Klinger does not know the facts, it is not too late. But if he has deliberately attempted to mislead the student body, I'm afraid he has no chance because IT IS TOO LATE!!

'73 yearbook goes on sale

The 1973 Obelisk, SIU's yearbook, will be on sale from 9 a.m. to noon Saturday and 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday and Tuesday in the hall of the west wing of the Communications Building.

The yearbooks arrived at SIU Friday morning and went on sale in the afternoon.

The 1973 Obelisk is $4 for students and $6 for others.

Copies of the 1970, 71, and 72 editions of the Obelisk will be on sale at a $1 each.

Of the 1,500 yearbooks ordered, 600 were bought in advance and the remaining 900 are now on sale, Marion Rice, advisor of the Obelisk, said.

"We're selling quite a few of the old ones at a $1 each," Rice said. "Especially the 1970 edition which has a beautiful color picture of the Old Main fire."

Students who advanced ordered their yearbook should bring a receipt in order to get their copy, he said.

Rice said the yearbooks will also be on sale during winter quarter.

They move to Berlin

BERLIN (AP)—Slightly more than 22,000 West German workers moved to Berlin in 1972. Fifty-six per cent were men and three-fourths were under 30. One in four was married. Only 27 were blue-collar, the rest white collar.

The biggest single attraction was the city's night life, museums, parks and general ambience. For 19 per cent, the deciding factor was money. Only 19 per cent took a cut in pay to come to Berlin to work.

each of the two upcoming holidays

On Dec. 24 and Dec. 31 motorists will be able to get gasoline. But most of the gas stations in Carbondale will be closed the Sundays before each holiday and on the holiday themselves, which fall on Tuesday.

Only two out of nine gas dealers surveyed Friday said they would be closed Dec. 24, the day before Christmas.

The two dealers are Ken Garner, owner of the Standard Station, 941 W. Main, and Paul McCalla, owner of the Marathon station, 923 W. Main.

Six of the gas dealers said they would be closed on both Christmas and New Years day in addition to the now-normal Sunday shutdowns.

Two said they would "probably" remain open New Year's Day, but would close for Christmas. They are Ken Marquard of Ed's Standard station, 302 E. Main, and Rich Taylor of the Shell station, 422 E. Main.

One dealer said he was uncertain about closing for the holidays. "It depends on how many people are here. I'll stay open if I think I can pump enough gas," said Ken Salus, owner of the Clark station, 801 E. Walnut.

Many of the dealers have also raised their prices an average of two cents per gallon within the last two weeks.

"I wonder if the public knows all this gas price increase is caused by a wholesale increase—dealers are not making any more money," Taylor explained.

Several of the dealers said they expected another gas price increase next month. In addition, they predicted that there would be a motor oil shortage and resulting price increase.

"I'm already having trouble getting motor oil," Marquard said.

Three dealers said their next month's gas allotment would be cut.

Jim Lorenc, manager of the Clark station, 910 W. Main, said his January gas quota has been slashed by 50 per cent. "I'm being cut from 54,000 to 27,000 gallons on my January quota," he said.

Marquard said his supply has already been reduced by 10 per cent. He expects it to be cut another 20 per cent by the end of the month. He said all Standard Oil dealers will face the same cutbacks.

Area politicians criticize IBHE

By Diane Mizialko
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Two area political figures have jumped into the fray over the SIU 1974-75 budget cuts recommended last week by the Illinois Board of Higher Education (IBHE).

In a statement released Friday, State Sen. Kenneth V. Buzbee (D-Carbondale) accused the IBHE of acting "completely outside the limits of the law by which it was created."

State Rep. Norbert Springer (R-Chester) in a statement released a few days after the IBHE budget decision, accused the Executive Director of the IBHE, Cameron West, of "bias" against SIU.

Buzbee cited Chapter 144, paragraph 186 of the Illinois

Revised Statutes: "The board (IBHE) shall enact in a continuing study an analysis and evaluation of the Master Plan so developed and it shall be its responsibility to recommend from time to time as it determines, amendments and modifications of any Master Plan enacted by the General Assembly."

Because the IBHE has declared a "considered abandonment" of Master Plan Phase III by making its SIU budget recommendations, the IBHE has exceeded its authority, Buzbee claimed.

Springer's statement contended that SIU has been unfairly treated by the IBHE. "It (SIU) should not be the only one to shoulder the economic burdens of a shrinking budget," Springer said.

Buzbee pledged an "all out battle" in the state legislature against the IBHE budget slashes. Springer said he will be "keeping a very careful eye on Dr. West to make sure SIU gets a fair shake."

Referring to the upcoming legislative struggle to restore SIU's budget, Buzbee noted it is "mad-dening" that nothing can be done in the legislature until April, while notifications of firings must, by law, be sent out immediately.

Gov. Walker will present his state budget to the General Assembly in March, Buzbee said. In mid-April, the legislature will convene to begin discussion of the budget.

The IBHE-recommended budget revisions would "set the university back ten years," Buzbee said. Buzbee also said personnel cuts dictated by the IBHE action will mean "a tremendous loss to the economy of the area."

Each SIU faculty termination will result in a chain reaction loss of three or four other jobs in the Carbondale area, Buzbee said. He based his figures on a Carbondale Chamber Commerce survey of a few years ago, he added.

Springer and Buzbee, who will be contenders next year for the senatorial seat Buzbee holds, agree that SIU has been treated unequally.

Buzbee pointed out that the University of Illinois and other state institutions received special increases in appropriations for salary equalization, deficiency in operations and maintenance and equipment deficiencies, while SIU "received not one penny for any of these."

Buzbee called for local support in the fight against the IBHE and especially for support from the SIU trustees, administration, faculty, civil service employees and students.

"On the surface," Buzbee said, "politics doesn't have anything to do with this issue." Therefore, he added, he does not feel uncomfortable in forming an alliance with administrators whose political philosophy is known to be opposed to his own.

Buzbee declined comment on Robert Harrell's "devil theory" presented at the SIU board meeting Thursday. Harrell, president of the local American Association of University Professors chapter, intimated that the SIU administration welcomes budget cuts as a weapon against the faculty and that the faculty had been deliberately excluded from decision-making on terminations.

Buzbee said he heard only part of Harrell's statement at the board meeting, but he felt it is improper for a political figure to comment on the "internal operations" of a university.

Elementary School Board delays school day question

By Randy McCarthy
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The Carbondale Elementary School Board Thursday night postponed a decision to alter the school day until an agreement with Carbondale teachers is reached.

Laurence W. Martin, superintendent of schools, said that because teacher's hours are set in their contracts the board and the teachers must come to a mutual agreement before deciding on a recommendation to begin the school day 25 minutes later.

The proposed adjustment would be implemented on a trial basis through spring vacation. The school day would start at 8:55 a.m. instead of 8:30 a.m. if President Nixon signs a bill putting the nation on year-round daylight saving time beginning Jan. 7.

Martin said he didn't know if the board would have to renegotiate the teachers' contracts if they refused to agree to the change.

Carbondale grade school children currently gather at bus stops around 7:30 a.m. to await the first pickup at 7:37 a.m. With daylight saving time, students would in effect be out on the corners at 6:30 standard time, over half an hour before sunrise.

If starting time were moved up 25 minutes under daylight saving time, the first bus pickup would be at 8:02 a.m., much closer to the 7:05 winter sunrise listed under standard time.

In order to retain the same amount of academic time without lengthening the school day, lunch time would be reduced from 45 minutes to 30 minutes and rest breaks from 15 minutes to 10 minutes. The school day would end the same time as in the current schedule.

Terry Thalman, chairman of the board, said a special board meeting might be called to come to an agreement with the teachers concerning the change. He asked James Pope, president of the Carbondale Education Association (CEA) to take the proposal back to the teachers to get their consensus on the plan.

Pope told the board that a meeting of representatives of elementary school teachers showed that teachers are not in favor of the change.

He said the CEA hopes to have a meeting of the full body Tuesday night to "get answers to specific questions and clear up doubts about the change." Pope said he received the proposed schedule Monday and didn't have time to call a meeting of the full CEA. He said he met Tuesday with representatives of the teachers and said they voiced opposition to the recommendation.

During the discussion of the change Martin said the main reason for starting school later was not for the energy crisis but for the safety of school children.

Board member James O'Donnell suggested parents be encouraged to wait before dropping their children at school. He said twilight is a dangerous period and if children have to wait for a bus before sunrise it would cause a "tremendous increase of danger for children."

Pope said the CEA representatives felt "the number of students affected doesn't warrant changing the life-style of students, teachers and the families." He said a great many students and parents will be inconvenienced by a later starting time.

"Since many parents must continue to go to work at 8 a.m. what happens to the supervision of the children?" he said.

Pope said many teachers are involved in other commitments which would be affected by the change.

Christmas spirit lights up SIU—despite crisis

By Terry Martin
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

"Bah, Humbug on the energy crisis!"

These words spoken by Betty Caraker, main secretary in the

Oakdale House to offer sewing

Sewing classes for senior citizens are offered each Monday and Tuesday at the Carbondale Senior Citizens Oakdale House.

Beginning sewing classes meet from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. on Mondays and intermediate classes meet during the same time on Tuesdays.

"Learning to sew and mend is one way for senior citizens to combat the high cost of living," said Carol Johnson, director of the house.

"These classes not only offer senior citizens an opportunity to learn to stretch their dollars, it also offers an excellent social outlet during the long winter months ahead," she said.

Ms. Johnson said transportation can be arranged. Interested individuals should contact Oakdale House by calling 549-1731 or 549-8241.

Law Library sets

Dec. 22 closing

The School of Law Library will be closed from Dec. 22 to Jan. 20 because it is being moved from Building 0720 to Building 113, Wakeland Hall.

In order to house the expanding collection and to provide adequate service for faculty and students, it is necessary that the move be made at this time, School of Law Librarian Roger F. Jacobs explained. Jacobs apologized for the inconvenience.

School of Journalism, voiced the same feeling that many people had on campus when a survey was taken Thursday and Friday to see what kind of Christmas decorations were on display.

Even though it's not too Christmas-y looking outdoors on campus, spot checks indicated many offices and housing facilities showed the Christmas spirit.

Some places were elaborately decorated, like the reception room for SIU President David R. Derge's offices and the Alpha Gamma Delta sorority house on Greek Row while others were not decorated at all including the Daily Egyptian newsroom, Health Service and the Saluki Track house on Greek Row. "That little tree with those little lights can't hurt anything," Mrs. Caraker said. "If they can leave lights on all over campus, we can leave lights on this tree."

"They're still exporting oil out of the country to other places so I don't see why we can't have our lights on," Mary Morthland, student worker in the School of Journalism, office said.

The Learning Resources Center, located in the basement of Morris Library, had ornaments hanging from overhead fixtures and a five-foot tree with lights, ornaments and a tinsel garland.

A modern tree made of white scrap packing material decorated with ornaments made of colored illustration board was put together by workers in the Graphics department of Learning Resources, Sherry Delmastro, remployee, said. The tree was put together during two lunch hours with chewing gum and rubber cement, Helen Austin, another worker added.

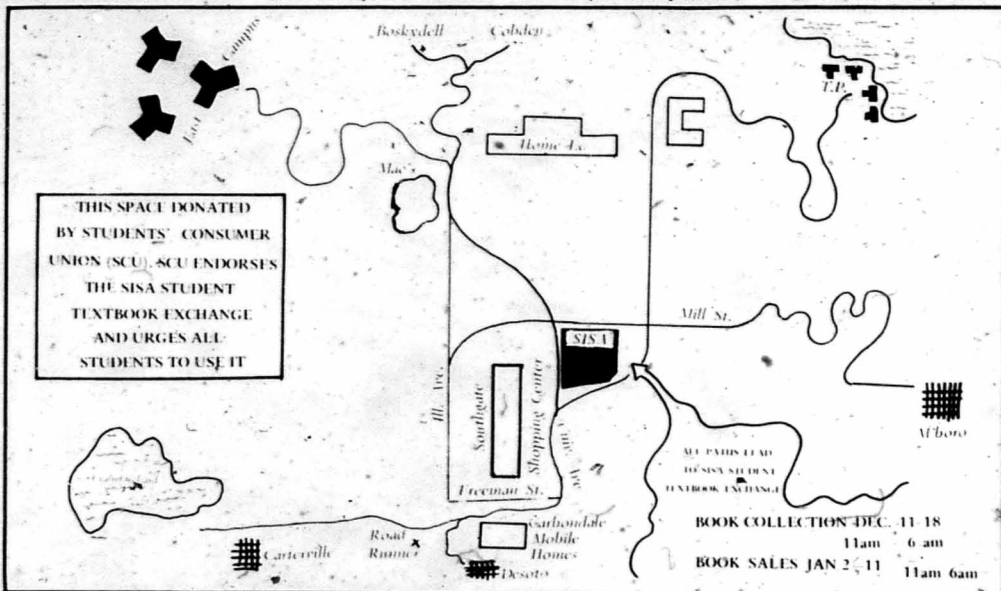

Administrative offices in the Library and Anthony Hall were for the most part lavishly decorated with the only exception noted being the offices in the Student Center.

James Sheppard, assistant director of the Student Center, explained that the reason for not decorating the Center this year was that "no funds were provided by the Student Center Programming Committee."

Some decorations were up in the Student Government and Student Activities offices on the third floor of the Student Center but no lights were utilized.

The only tree seen in any office or building on campus without decorative lights of any kind was in the Student Activities office.

Carbondale Task Force recommends noise limits

By Dan Haar
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

While the energy shortage has forced curtailment of many pollution controls, attempts at noise pollution regulation are picking up steam in Carbondale.

City ordinances controlling vehicular and stationary noise levels in Carbondale are under consideration by the city staff.

The Carbondale City Council received a list of recommendations from the Noise Pollution Task Force and the Planning Department's draft of a stationary noise pollution ordinance at its informal meeting Monday night.

The council suggested model ordinances dealing with vehicular noise pollution be considered and an ordinance drawn up for council action.

The council also agreed with the suggestion of James Rayfield, city planning director, that a stationary noise pollution ordinance not be acted on until a proposed zoning ordinance is adopted.

The recommendations by the pollution task force include the city's purchase of a noise measurement device and accessories to be used by the Carbondale Police Department.

Tom Bevirt, chairman of the task force committee, said Friday that the city is looking into prices of such a measuring device.

The task force also recommended that a public relations campaign be staged to educate the public on the ordinances.

Members of the council suggested that some sort of grace period be set up after the noise ordinances are passed to allow the public to become acquainted with its provisions.

The vehicular noise pollution ordinance will be acted on by the council as soon as it is drawn up.

Rayfield said he recommended the passage of the stationary noise ordinance be delayed until after the adoption of the zoning ordinance because the noise ordinance deals with zoned areas that would be created by the zoning ordinance.

Different acceptable noise levels for three classifications of zoned areas are spelled out by the ordinance. Rayfield said the ordinance should be held up until those areas are specified directly by the zoning ordinance.

The stationary noise pollution ordinance is an almost verbatim copy of the Illinois Pollution Control Board's regulations with only a few minor changes.

The changes include fitting the regulations into the new city code format and adjusting the area classifications to apply to Carbondale.

Rayfield said the ordinance which was presented to the council Monday night will be the same one that is considered again once the zoning ordinance is adopted.

The ordinance authorizes the Code Enforcement Division to enforce the provisions. Rayfield said a more expensive device than the one for the police department is needed for enforcement of the ordinance.

He said the city will probably not purchase the device, which would cost about $6,000, but would borrow one from the state when needed.

Rayfield added that the ordinance will probably be enforced on a complaint basis rather than the Code Enforcement Division going out and finding violations.

He said a limitation on manpower was the main reason for this type of enforcement.

John Yow, code enforcement director, said he was concerned over some of the difficulties in enforcement of the ordinance.

Yow singled out noise from construction work as one of the main problems in enforcement.

"I can't see how they can cut down on construction noise," Yow said. "The noise is going to be there. It's just a matter of containing it."

Yow was against one of the pollution task force's recommendations that a provision be included in the noise ordinance requiring "the newest type of equipment technique should be used in all construction work."

"I can see a lot of complications and difficulty in enforcement in regards to this recommendation," Yow said. He added that he thought it was impractical and unfair.

Yow said he thought some noise controls were needed for factories but that there is no problem yet.

However, he cautioned that the city is trying to attract more industry and industrial noise control is important.

The noise ordinance should not have too great an effect on the residents of Carbondale when it is finally passed. He said that the ordinance will be useful in enabling the city to control noise pollution.

"As far as the Code Enforcement Division is involved in non-moving noise pollution, I don't think there are many violations," Yow said.

Board members vote to keep school food service authority

By John Morrissey
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Board members of Carbondale School District 95 Thursday rejected a resolution granting the Jackson County Health Department authority to assume regulation of the district's food service facilities and general school sanitation.

The resolution was introduced at a November Board meeting by Health Department representative John Amadio, who asked that his department be made the agent of the school district in matters of sanitation. Unlike most food operations, Amadio said state statute does not include school districts among establishments open to health department investigations.

Coping with genetic defects discussed on 'The Killers'

The problems of genetic defects and what can be done about them will be examined on this week's documentary "The Killers," to be shown at 7 p.m. Monday on Channel 8.

"The Killers" is a 90 minute series designed to explain what causes diseases and how they can be prevented. This week, a wide range of screening and testing procedures will be examined and how parents of children with genetic defects are coping with the problem.

Following Monday's show will be Telethon pledges go unpaid.

Merle F. Howard, chairman of November's Lions Club Telethon of Stars for Handicapped Children, has announced that $12,000 of the $71,000 pledged in the drive remains unpaid.

Howard has appealed to persons

Laurence W. Martin, school superintendent, said passages in the Illinois School Code delegate duties of safety inspection to local school boards and the regional offices maintained by the Superintendent of Public Instruction.

Martin concluded that Board members "cannot abdicate their duties to another agency, which we would be doing" by giving the Health Department authority to act as the school board's agent.

Although the Board denied formal authority to the Jackson County Health Department, several members said the school district would still make use of services the Health Department has to offer.

The Board also requested further details from the City of Carbondale regarding a plan to build a sidewalk along the south edge of Lewis School property.

In a letter to the Board, Acting Public Works Director Thomas G. Wells asked for an easement on district property. He said the city has tried to build at the location several times, but did not have enough municipal room to build.

Martin was agreeable to the move, but Board members were reluctant to approve Wells' request before they knew exactly how much property was involved. A motion was accepted to "authorize a positive response and request further details" from the city.

The Board contacted the city of Carbondale earlier in the fall about installing sidewalks along East Grand Avenue, which borders Lewis and Lakeland Schools. The semi-rural area is beginning to develop a young population, but no sidewalks are presently installed to keep children away from fast-moving traffic on Grand Avenue, which has a speed limit of 40 mph.

a locally produced "Inquiry" program, in which host Charles T. Lynch and his guests will answer phoned-in questions concerning genetic defects.

According to "The Killers" producer, David Prowitt, "The Killers" is being used in high schools and junior colleges across the country. "We don't know exactly how many classrooms are using the project, but we do know we will have distributed more than 125,000 specially prepared cards for the teachers by the time the series ends," he said.

who have not paid their pledge to try to do so before the end of December. Contributions are allowable income tax deductions. Pledges should be sent to: Lions Telethon, P.O. Box 716, Metropolis, Ill. 62960.

Bicentennial group members to be named during January

Members are needed for the Carbondale Bicentennial Commission before it can plan projects commemorating the 200th birthday of the United States.

Councilman Clark Vineyard, who is in charge of the council's plans for the commission, said Friday that a meeting to appoint members will probably not be held until some time in January.

Vineyard said he would like to meet before Christmas but will be out of town most of the time.

The City Council established the commission Monday night to receive grants for its projects.

A $7,000 project to upgrade the Woodlawn Cemetery on East Main Street has already been submitted to the state.

Half the money for the project would be furnished by the state and half by the city.

The city claims Woodlawn as the site of the nation's first Memorial Day services.

Vineyard said he has talked with area people to get some idea on possible projects. Some of the people he has met with include representatives of the SIU Museum, the Garden Club, the Girl Scout Council, the Veteran's Administration and the Jackson County Historical Society.

Some of the suggestions which have been made include an historical medal, a compiling of a history of the immediate area and the setting aside of some land for a memorial park.

Vineyard said he hopes the Woodlawn project will act as a catalyst for the future projects of the commission.

County jobs rise slightly

The Illinois State Employment Service has determined that from August to October, 1973 the Carbondale-Murphysboro area unemployment rate decreased from 4.4 to 3.6 per cent due mainly to the beginning of the fall quarter at SIU.

In the two-month period Jackson county employment expanded by 2,400, chiefly in government, trade and services. Because of a reduction in the size of the college-age work force, the unemployment rate declined from 4.1 to 3.6 per cent between October, 1972 and October, 1973.

Unless the petroleum shortage produces layoffs, December employment is expected to decrease by 0.3 per cent, mostly because of seasonal factors in construction and agriculture. In February employment should fall by 1.1 per cent, chiefly due to seasonal conditions in trade, construction and related activities.

Dowd surprised by $20,000 suit

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Edward L. Dowd, the unsuccessful Democratic candidate for Missouri governor last year, said Wednesday he was surprised by a suit seeking payment of a $20,000 campaign loan.

The suit was filed Tuesday in St. Louis Circuit Court by the Tower Grove Bank and Trust Co., which approved the loan Sept. 1, 1972. The suit also seeks $2,128 in interest through Dec. 10 and $4.44 a day in interest after that date.

"We've been talking with representatives of the bank and have been making arrangements to pay off the loan," said Dowd, who lost to Gov. Christopher S. Bond. "The bank will be paid within the next few weeks."

Dowd said both the Democratic primary and general election campaigns ended in deficits by substantial amounts.

Salukis take streak to St. Louis

By Mark Tupper
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

The SIU Salukis will try to extend their three-game winning streak at 1:45 p.m. Saturday in the St. Louis Arena against the rival St. Louis Billikins. The game will be a warm up to the battle for the nation's No. 1 college basketball ranking between UCLA and North Carolina State.

The Billikins are a big team, but do not have the speed SIU has shown in its first four outings. SIU Coach Paul Lambert scouted the Billikins in their victory over Colorado, and he feels the Salukis will have to control the tempo of the game and bother St. Louis with their full court press.

Lambert has been pleased with the progress of his team's defensive play. "Our defense made things happen," Lambert said following Thursday's 109-82 thrashing of Louisiana Tech. "We got the momentum going our way midway in the first half, when we took the ball to them and things started happening."

An interesting individual match up in the SIU-St. Louis game will be a battle of two outstanding centers. The Salukis send 6-11 Joe C. Meriweather up against 6-10 Robin Jones in a contest of jumping-jack offensive and defensive intimidators.

Meriweather will enter the game coming off a 37-point performance in the Louisiana Tech win. Joe C.'s 37 points led the Salukis to their third win of the year.

The Billikins will go with 6-8 Bill Morris at one forward and 6-5 Lewis McKinney at the other. Leartha Scott, a 6-3 freshman guard who scored 18 points in the second half of the Billikins loss to Notre Dame, will start with 6-1 Jim Hackman at the guards.

SIU is listing Perry Hines as the probable starter for the Salukis at forward. But Hines has taken a second seat to Eddie James because of a slowly healing foot injury. Corky Abrams, SIU's second leading rebounder, will open at the other forward.

Dennis Shidler and Mike Glenn will start as the SIU guards, but Lambert may give Ricky Boynton more time at that position. Boynton looked very effective in the second half of Thursday night's contest.

"St. Louis is always tough," Lambert said of the Missouri rival. "They have the most physical team in St. Louis in a long time, and they are a strong rebounding team. Even though Notre Dame beat them by 29 points, St. Louis out-rebounded Notre Dame, 52-37. We will have our work cut out for us."

When asked whether or not the unusual attention focused on the UCLA-North Carolina State would make any difference on the SIU-St. Louis game because it will occur in the same arena, Lambert replied: "The fact that UCLA will not be on the same court as we will at the same time will make the only difference."

Superpowers clash, Wolfpack vs. Bruins

By Paul LeBar
Associated Press Sports Writer.

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Freewheeling North Carolina State pits its run-and-shoot offense against UCLA's defense in a delayed matchup of college basketball's superpowers Saturday.

The contest between the nation's top two teams, both carrying lengthy victory strings, was deferred last spring while N.C. State sat out a year's NCAA probation.

Wolfpack Coach Norm Sloan, whose charges have won 19 in a row, says his plan is to "run offensively and press defensively" following the 5 p.m., EST, tipoff.

A sellout crowd at the St. Louis Arena and a national television audience will see if that strategy can derail the mighty Bruins' express at 78 straight victories.

While N.C. State promises full court harassment, UCLA Coach John Wooden has indicated the Bruins will be more conservative.

"As far as Monte Towe's concerned," Wooden said referring to the Wolf-pack's 5-foot-7 guard, "he wouldn't have to be a good ball handler to handle our press."

"I've been disappointed with our press," Wooden acknowledged. "I doubt we'll use it much in conference action if it doesn't improve."

Top targets of the defense will be the Bruins' deceptively agile Bill Walton, who will uncustomarily give away height, and N.C. State's shotmaking David Thompson.

Wooden has thrown out the gauntlet to the Wolfpack's 7-foot-4 Tommy Burleson, who he says will "look awkward" against the 6-foot-11 Walton.

"As far as David Thompson's concern," Wooden said, "I plan on putting Keith Wilkes on him. It depends on whether they bring another man into low post, which I doubt they'll do."

A game with relatively low scoring is foreseen by the 62-year-old Wooden, whose team shaded fourth-ranked Maryland 65-64 two weeks ago at home.

"Neither team shot well," Wooden reflected. "Of course, shooting's being off is usually the result of good defense."

Foreman under pressure to box; Norton possible

NEW YORK (AP) — Heavyweight champion George Foreman, under pressure from boxing authorities to fight, said Friday he hopes to defend the title soon and indicated his opponent would be Ken Norton.

Foreman, here for Friday night's Jerry Quarry-Earnie Shavers fight, said the World Boxing Association "sent me a letter saying they'd take action unless I had serious negotiations by Jan. 21 for a fight."

The champion said the letter did not state what the action might be.

"I'd like to fight Norton," said Foreman. "I think he's worthy. My people are closer to him in making a fight than to anyone else."

In Sao Paulo, Brazilian promoter Marcos Lazare said Friday that Foreman will fight Norton in Brazil in March or April.

Foreman, however, indicated here that he would prefer his next bout in the United States.

CCHS plays host for 10th annual basketball tourney

The Carbondale Community High School (CCHS) will host 16 teams in the 10th annual Carbondale Holiday Basketball Tournament, Dec. 26-29, in the SIU Arena.

David Lee, head basketball coach at CCHS, said the tournament is double elimination with the losers of first round games playing in the consolation bracket and the winners advancing towards the championship. Lee said every team will play at least two games.

The teams to appear in the tournament are Thornridge, Chicago St. Patrick, East Moline, Peoria Manual, Decatur Eisenhower, Normal, Collinsville, Alton, Belleville East, Lawrenceville, Marion, Herrin, Murphysboro, DuQuoin, Meridian and Carbondale.

Lee said the teams are paired in the tournament according to their won-lost records. He said local teams are usually scheduled to play at night so their fans can attend and give them support.

Collinsville, defending champion, is the pre-tournament favorite, according to Lee. "It's hard to say, but Collinsville has about the best chance of winning the tournament," Lee said.

"I don't know how we'll do in the tournament," Lee said of the outlook for Carbondale. He said he did not know who the Terriers will play since the schedule will not be out until Monday, Dec. 17.

Lee said the Arena is a "good place to play" basketball and is a "much better facility" than the CCHS's gymnasium. Lee said the tournament will begin at 9 a.m. and last until 10 p.m. each day.
