Gemayel agrees to scrap troop accord

By Farouk Nassar
and R. Gregory Nokes
Of the Associated Press

BEIRUT (AP) — President Amin Gemayel has agreed to scrap Lebanon's U.S.-brokered troop withdrawal pact with Israel, Beirut radio reported, in an effort to save his disintegrating army and government.

The state radio said Thursday night that Gemayel had agreed to an eight-point Saudi peace initiative that includes renouncing the May 17, 1983, agreement between Lebanon and Israel. It added that Foreign Minister Elie Salem had communicated the decision to Saudi officials in Riyadh.

The development came as the Syrian-supported Druse and Moslem militias stepped up military and political pressure Thursday to oust Gemayel, who turned to Saudi Arabia to salvage his crumbling position.

Druse militiamen pushed the Lebanese army out of the Chouf Mountains and rolled down the coastal hills to link up with Shiite Moslem allies controlling west Beirut.

At their camps in the capital, U.S. Marines and Italian troops were packing their equipment and preparing to pull out.

A senior White House official said the Marines would begin withdrawing to U.S. Navy ships off the Lebanese coast in two or three days. The official, who spoke on condition he not be named, said the redeployment of about 1,200 Marines should be completed within 30 days.

He said 500 personnel — Marines, Army trainers and others — would stay in Beirut to guard the U.S. Embassy and perform other functions.

Earlier in the day, American officials in Washington expressed skepticism that the Saudi-mediated plan would work. Druse opposition leader Walid Jumblatt said in an interview he would veto it.

"There will never be a compromise with us and Gemayel," Jumblatt said in the telephone interview from Damascus, Syria, which was broadcast in London. "Gemayel is to be judged for crimes against the Lebanese people. There is no way to have a deal with Gemayel."

Beirut radio said Gemayel received two telephone calls late Thursday, one from his foreign minister, Salem, in Saudi Arabia, the other from Saudi mediator Rafik Hariri, telling him Saudi Arabia had received Lebanon's go-ahead. It said Saudi Foreign Minister Prince Saud al-Faisal would fly to Damascus on Friday to obtain Syria's approval.

The radio report said Gemayel had informed the parties to the national reconciliation conference of details of the Saudi initiative and sent a written message about his decision to former President Suleiman Franjeh, a member of the National Salvation Front that includes Jumblatt and former Prime Minister Rashid Karami.

In Tel Aviv, Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir said abrogation of the Israel-Lebanon accord would jeopardize any future peace agreements between Israel and its Arab neighbors.

President Reagan indicated Wednesday that the United States is neutral on what happens to the agreement.

Video show debuts on local cable

By Paula J. Finlay

Producers of WIDB Video Attractions say they don't want the local music video program, which premiered Thursday, to be a carbon copy of the nationally shown Music-Television.

"We're not trying to have a Michael Jackson and Boy George concert hour," producer Dan Manella said. "We're trying to strive for the more progressive music."

The one-hour show of locally selected videos premiered Thursday on Carbondale Cablevision's Channel 7 as part of the station's expanded local origination programming. The Rolling Stones, R.E.M., XTC and the Bongos are some of the bands featured on the first show. Thursday's show will be repeated at 5:30 p.m. Friday and next week at 6 p.m. Thursday and at 5:30 p.m. Friday.

Steve Latshaw, Cable 7 program director and executive producer of the show, said that the program, which is co-produced with WIDB radio, offers an alternative to videos that can be seen in the Carbondale area.

"Anybody can go into a bar and see what's playing nationally. Generally, the show is what's not seen in the area," Latshaw said.

Music Television won't be available through Carbondale Cablevision until 1985, but some local bars bring it in by satellite.

Manella, also the assistant manager of Plaza Records, said that he's trying to make the WIDB program as different from M-TV as possible by showing some jazz and soul videos and bands that haven't received much national exposure.

Big name bands aren't promoted much because their records will sell on name alone Manella said, but lesser-known bands need the promotion and are more willing to send videos to a small station.

WIDB Video Attractions can offer to promote up-and-coming bands through the video program, air play on WIDB and getting their records stocked at Plaza Records, he said.

"That's a triple threat as far as promotion goes," he said.

A new show will be ready in two weeks, but Manella said that he is hopeful that in about two months there will be a new show every week and that eventually it could be expanded to two hours and stereo simulcast on WIDB.

'Workfare' called slave labor

By Phillip Fiorini
Staff Writer

A new state and federally funded "workfare" project, intended to make people on public aid work for benefits and eventually eliminate them, from the welfare rolls, is causing a stir among a group of unemployed people in Southern Illinois.

The Illinois Work Experience Program would provide jobs for public aid recipients to pay for the state benefits they receive, said Karl Piepenburg, spokesman for the state public aid office in Springfield. IWEP has already undergone a trial run in Cook County.

People who have been unemployed for 60 days qualify for aid, Piepenburg said. If people fail to cooperate with IWEP, they may lose public aid benefits altogether.

Piepenburg said people would pay for benefits by working in specially created positions in private and public non-profit organizations. He said it's a valuable program because people can gain work experience which could help them find a full-time job.

But Richard Shelton, a member of the Herrin-based Job Loss Project, said IWEP is not the answer the jobless in Job Loss Project members Richard Shelton, standing, and Don Walden discuss the Illinois Work Experience Program Thursday.

Southern Illinois have been waiting for.

"We're fighting for jobs and our sanity and now they're giving us slave labor," said

Shelton, 67, a Herrin native. "They're putting us out of work."

Job Loss members, who met Thursday morning in the basement of the Herrin post office, have established a committee to research and try to stop implementation of IWEP.

"We're fighting for jobs and this cuts right into our backs," said Nick Rion, a member of Southern Counties Action Movement working with the project.

Rion said he is afraid that private industries would find ways to use IWEP to hire aid recipients at low wages.

"We want full restoration of benefits so people can survive, not so they're forced to work benefits off for $3.35 an hour," said Rion.

Under IWEP, people would earn $3.35 an hour for a minimum of 40 and a maximum of 80 hours a month, depending on the size of the household and the amount of benefits already received.

"The theory behind it is that people should work if they're able. The ultimate goal is to get them off public aid," Piepenburg said. "The idea is not to put people out of work."

IWEP, sponsored mostly by a federal jobs bill approved last year, is in early stages in 12 Illinois counties, including Williamson County.

Democrats, Republicans clash on issues

By Rod Stone
Staff Writer

Democrats calling Republicans warmongers. Republicans accusing Democrats of inviting Soviet world domination. Both parties blaming the other for the nation's large budget deficits and claiming to support education.

Wednesday night's political debate in Neely Hall had all the traditional elements of a campaign debate, as six local representatives of both parties slung verbal arrows at each other before an audience of about 50 students.

State Sen. Gene Johns, D-Marion, said increases in defense spending are causing the budget deficits to grow by "leaps and bounds" and called for cuts in defense programs to reduce the deficits.

Republican Bill Atwood, campaign manager for U.S. Sen. Charles Percy's downstate campaign, responded that social welfare spending and the "well-intentioned fiasco" of President Lyndon Johnson's Great Society are to blame for deficits.

Atwood said the United States still has a long way to go to catch up with the Soviet Union in defense. He said that by the late 1970s, the United States had fallen to a position of military inferiority and that President Reagan's defense spending increases are necessary to return the nation to the position of a superpower.

Democrat Steve Katsinas, a doctoral student in higher education, argued that the MX missile and B-1 bomber programs favored by President Reagan are wasteful and could be cut without weakening defense. He said both programs will be obsolete by 1988.

Johns said the missiles would be ineffective because the Soviets could track them by satellite and shoot them down with anti-ballistic missiles.

Democrat James Seroka, associate professor in political science, said that he opposes the MX missile "because we don't need it." He said present defense systems, such as the cruise missile, are adequate.

Atwood countered that the MX missile is needed in order to keep America's defenses modern.

"The basis of our nation's defense is resting on missiles older than you and I," he said.

Katsinas said that, as a candidate, Ronald Reagan pledged to increase middle- and

Loopholes causing problems in drunk driving law, police say

By Jeff Wilkinson
Staff Writer

Although statistics indicate that Illinois' new drunk driving law is decreasing the state's drunk driving problem, police traffic experts claim loopholes in the law cripple the law's effectiveness.

"We're here to help," Carbondale traffic investigator Buddy Murphy said Monday at a meeting of Remove Intoxicated Drivers, a citizens' group against drunk drivers.

"If we see someone whose driving ability is impaired, we get him off the street. But unfortunately, many of the drunk drivers get off in the courts on a no-probable-cause loophole because they refuse to submit to a breath analysis or blood test."

Probable cause refers to the reason the officer arrests the driver, such as erratic driving, and evidence collected, such as breath tests, which affect the state or city attorney's ability to prosecute. The factors involved in probable cause are many and confusing.

If a drunk driver does not submit to a breath test, the case is limited, the officers said. But if the driver also refuses to answer an officer's questions, refuses to take sobriety tests and is totally uncooperative, the case against him is weak at best.

"Sure, their license is suspended if they refuse to take the test," Murphy said, "but there are 280,000 people driving in Illinois on suspended or revoked licenses right now."

Carbondale police officer Steve Odum said "I've arrested people for drunk driving in Carbondale who were arrested for drunk driving in Jackson County the same night — people who still had the DUI tickets in their pockets. A license suspension does not keep the drunk driver off the road."

Another factor that limits the effectiveness of the new law, the officers said, is leniency in the court system.

"The courts in Jackson County are more lenient toward drunk drivers than many of the courts in Illinois," Murphy said. "I'm not putting down the judges and prosecutors in Jackson County — they have their reasons. One of the reasons may be because this is a college town where everybody drinks, and they want to give the kids a break."

Murphy said only 50 percent of the people he has arrested for driving under the influence have been convicted.

Jackson County Sheriff Deputy Brent Mosel added, "The judges see the drunk driver after he has sobered up. He stands there in a suit, on his best behavior. He looks like a model citizen and the judge lets him go."

"One way to get around that — and they are doing this in many states — is to video tape the booking procedure and show it to the judge in the court," Mosel said. "Then the judge sees how the drunk driver performed on the sobriety tests. He sees how drunk they were. He doesn't have to depend on the word of the officer."

While the officers stressed that the loopholes must be closed, Illinois law enforcement officials say the law is working. The 1982 figures they use to support the claim are:

- The number of fatal accidents in which a driver was drinking dropped from 543 to 326.

- Illinois traffic deaths decreased by 11 percent.

- DUI convictions increased 45 percent.

- DUI arrests by Illinois State Police increased by 70 percent.

- Drivers losing their licenses for refusing a breath test increased by 17 percent.

"It's a workable law," Mosel said, "but it can be more effective. We have to have an organized program of education. The public has to realize it is not someone else's problem, it is everyone's problem."

The major changes in the DUI law that went into effect January 1, 1982 are:

- The requirement that two breath tests must be given was dropped to one.

- Police may determine the number and type (breath, blood or urine) to be given.

- The 90-minute waiting period before testing was dropped to 20 minutes.

- The penalty for refusing a test was doubled to six months.

- The blood of unconscious persons suspected of DUI may be tested.

- A person's refusal of a test may be used against him in court.

Gorbachev named as No. 2 man

MOSCOW (AP) — Mikhail S. Gorbachev gave crucial endorsement to Konstantin U. Chernenko and is now the No. 2 man in the Kremlin, a highly placed Soviet source says.

With Chernenko selected to lead the country as general secretary of the Communist Party, Gorbachev's powerful new role was first suggested by his position next to Chernenko at ceremonies in honor of the late Andropov.

Then it was announced on television Wednesday night that Gorbachev had made a previously undisclosed statement at the Central Committee plenum Monday that named Chernenko leader.

The 52-year-old agriculture specialist, the youngest man on the ruling Politburo, was reputed to be Yuri V. Andropov's choice as successor.

Home construction, employment up

WASHINGTON (AP) — Construction of new homes jumped 15 percent in January to the highest level in five years, the government said Thursday as it released a series of upbeat reports which one analyst described as a "red letter day" for the economy.

The government also reported that Americans' personal income rose a sharp 1.1 percent during January and U.S. industry operated at its highest rate in more than two years. In addition, jobless claims fell again in the first week of February to the second-lowest level in more than four years.

Storms hit West while East floods

By The Associated Press

The latest in a chain of major winter storms fanned knee-deep snow with winds gusting to 60 mph Thursday in the mountains of the West, while in the East flooding spread from ice jams on brimful rivers in the East.

The Midwest got the left-overs from an earlier Rocky Mountain blizzard, with freezing rain or half a foot of snow making driving difficult in parts of Nebraska, the Dakotas and northwestern Minnesota.

low-management salaries in the military but instead "he's spent a lot on exotic weapons systems and as a result we're not that much stronger."

Katsinas said the money from those programs could be spent on more worthwhile programs, such as education.

"Each B-1 bomber costs $396 million under FY '82 budget figures," he said. "Federal Work Study under the first Reagan budget received only $397 million."

Atwood retorted, "All the work study programs in the world won't do us any good if we get into a war with the Soviets."

Johns said that Reagan's defense buildup is wasteful because we already have enough nuclear weapons to destroy the world many times over. He said that now it's just a question of "who can blow us up the highest?"

Katsinas noted that seven of the eight Democratic presidential candidates support a nuclear weapons freeze, while Reagan opposes it. He said Reagan is unwilling to negotiate arms reductions with the Soviet Union.

"Ronald Reagan is the first president since Herbert Hoover not to sit down face to face with the Soviets," Katsinas said.

Atwood responded, "Reagan, with all due respect to his predecessors, is the first who hasn't been screwed by the Russians." He said that the United States must negotiate with the Soviet Union from a position of strength.

"Negotiating holding nothing in your hand is not negotiating, but lends itself to acquiescence," he said.

Defense was not the only area in which the two parties differed. While both the Democrats and Republicans claimed to be friends of education, they disagreed over government aid to students and education.

Katsinas accused the Republicans of cutting student aid while increasing tuition. He said both Gov. James Thompson and Reagan are guilty of reducing access to higher education. Tuition at SIU-C has doubled since Thompson took office in 1977, he said.

Seroka noted that Illinois ranks 50th in higher education funding. He said that something needs to be done about increasing higher education funding beside "talking about it, as he said the Republicans are doing.

Former Republican state Sen.

John Gilbert argued that the Democrats were being unfair to Thompson and Reagan.

"Governor Thompson has made education his number one priority," Gilbert said.

"Tuition increases are an attempt to make it possible to give a quality education and keep faculty salaries high," he said, adding that Illinois is lagging behind many states in faculty salaries.

Gilbert also said that needy students have been unaffected by tuition increases.

"For every tuition increase, there's been an increase in the scholarship fund," he said.

Gilbert said that Thompson has not been able to make up for the loss of funding to education that occurred under Gov. Dan Walker, who, he said, let education funding slip.

Katsinas said that Reagan's cuts in student aid programs are preventing many students from going to college. He said access is the key to education and universities should "close up shop" if they can't provide it.

Atwood said the Republican party is in favor of providing opportunity for the truly needy to go to college but this doesn't mean the government should write a blank check for students to go to college.

Case rested in trial of inmate

BENTON (AP) — The government rested its case Thursday in the trial of an inmate accused of killing a federal prison guard.

Clayton Fountain, an inmate of the U.S. Penitentiary in Marion, is charged with first-degree murder in the October 1982 stabbing death of officer Robert Hoffman Sr.

The deaths of Hoffman and another Marion officer, Merle E. Clutts, prompted calls last year for a reinstatement of the federal death penalty, abolished in 1972. Because the federal prison is not under Illinois' jurisdiction, the state's death penalty does not apply to murders behind the institution's bars.

Fountain, already serving multiple life sentences for murder, also is charged with assaults on officers Roger Ditterline and J.L. Powles.

The defense was to present its case Thursday. The government presented its case Wednesday.

Last week, a federal court jury convicted two other Marion inmates, Thomas Silverstein, 31, and Randy Gometz, 28, of first-degree murder in the 1982 stabbing death of Clutts.

Like Silverstein and Gometz, Fountain, 28, faces an additional sentence of life in prison if he is convicted. A sentencing date for Silverstein and Gometz has not been set.

Clutts was killed early on Oct. 22; Hoffman, about 12 hours later. Ditterline and Powles were stabbed during the second incident when the three guards were escorting a prisoner from a recreational area to his cell. Clutts was stabbed as he and two other guards were returning Silverstein from a shower to his cell.

Since the Marion lockup opened in 1964 to replace Alcatraz as the nation's toughest federal prison, 24 inmates and three guards have died violent deaths there.

Insiders return to Democratic delegation

Editor's note: The following commentary was written by Joan Parker and Jack Van Der Slik of the Illinois Legislative Studies Center at Sangamon State University.

IN EARLY American history, members of Congress had a key role in determining presidential nominees. But in modern times, increased emphasis has been placed on primary elections and grassroots activity to choose delegates to party conventions. Democrats, particularly, reformed their party to get more ordinary people into a more heterogeneous convention. A consequence of these changes is that since 1968, when 117 senators and representatives were delegates, their numbers at subsequent conventions became minuscule — 46 in 1972, 52 in 1976, and 45 in 1980.

Democrats changed their nominating game to put more state party officials and elected officeholders into the convention membership. Many delegates will still be elected in primaries — about 55 percent of the 3,931 total membership — but a substantially smaller proportion than the 71 percent in 1980. In 1984, about 31 percent will be chosen in state caucuses and the remaining 14 percent make up a brand new class, dubbed "superdelegates."

WHAT IS supposed to be "super" about this new set of delegates is that they need to make no commitments to candidates — they are unpledged. As incumbents, they can exercise "peer review" on the candidates. They are expected to be more pragmatic than dogmatic, more interested in picking a winner who can lead a national ticket than in preserving ideological purity, and more responsible in settling on someone who can govern than one who simply can criticize. In short, choose a candidate more moderate than George McGovern in 1972 and one who is not an outsider like Jimmy Carter in 1976.

Those are rule revisions that are eminently satisfactory to Illinois Democrats. The Chicago regular Democrats never forgave the reformers for failing to seat Mayor Daley's slate of delegates in 1972. And, while the party has changed in this state during the intervening years, there has never been much sympathy in the organization for insurgents and outsiders.

DEMOCRATS SET a quota to allow 60 percent of the congressional Democrats to be named as convention delegates. That meant 164 from the House and later 27 from the Senate. There was a complicated procedure by which 12 regional groups choose 110 delegates and then the House Democratic Steering and Policy Committee selected 54 more.

The 12-member Illinois congressional delegation managed to exceed the norm. If the 60 percent quota had been applied evenly to the states, Illinois could have expected that seven of the congressmen would be named as delegates. Actually it got eight, a two-thirds representation.

THE DOWNSTATERS passed over in the proceedings were Paul Simon (from the 22nd District), Dick Durbin (20th District) and Lane Evans (17th District).

Only one Democrat from

Cook County was not included among the delegates: 9th district Rep. Sidney Yates. The district is a reform oriented one in which the dominant ethnic group is Jewish. An economic liberal and environmentalist. Yates is much more issue-oriented than most Cook County regulars.

Don't anticipate any boatrocking from this congressional contingent to the Democratic Convention. It is a group that represents compromise and accommodation.

Mondale's early advantage may turn the convention decision into a mere ratification. But the significant increase of involvement by regular politicians as "superdelegates" and the delegate selections for Illinois illustrate the orchestrated balance that professional politicians can provide.

Time to say goodbye to pass-fail option

THE PASS-FAIL grading system, that helpful friend of the academically borderline and lazy student, may be eliminated from general education courses under a proposal being considered by the General Education Curriculum Committee.

Saying goodbye to pass-fail grades would be tough — they have worked to the benefit of so many grade-point averages — but if the University is serious about its attempts to improve the general education program, ending the system is a logical step.

Offering a pass-fail grading option in general education courses is contrary to the purpose of having a general studies requirement. When the general academic program was begun in 1962, its intent was to provide a background in variety of areas that students might not have come in contact with. That was, and is, a noble aim. But it is being circumvented by a grading system that allows students to fulfill general studies requirements with a minimal amount of work.

THERE ARE REASONS for having a pass-fail option. It allows students to take courses in unfamiliar subjects without having to worry about competing with students majoring in those subjects. But general academic classes were intended to fulfill a basic need — to ensure that all students have at least some knowledge of the sciences, humanities and other basic areas. They were not intended to provide easy electives for students trying to find the least painful path to a degree.

Since most departments offer some 200- and 300- level classes pass-fail, students wishing to step outside their major and take classes in other areas have the option of taking non-general studies courses as electives.

If the GECC decides not to recommend elimination of pass-fail grades, it should at least mandate that students must complete their minimum general studies requirements with credit grades. Any electives they wish to take from the program, up to the current 16-hour limit for pass-fail from general education, could be taken after completing the required credit hours. And that 16-hour limit should be strictly enforced.

Parting with those pass-fail general studies classes, the kind students all love to skip on warm spring days, may be rough, but some sacrifices will have to be made if SIU-C is serious about gaining a reputation as an academically competitive university.

Some advice on obtaining a loan

In response to the article on purchasing a trailer, which appeared Feb. 2, some clarification is necessary. In order to qualify for a loan one must possess the "Four C's of Financing." They are collateral, capacity, credit history, and character.

Collateral can be viewed as security. In the example given, the $600 down payment is the collateral. A matured insurance policy is not collateral. However, the cash value of a policy can be borrowed to obtain the down payment. Capacity is the ability to repay. One must show sufficient funds or income to meet monthly loan obligations, such as a full- or part-time job. Credit history is needed to show intent to repay. If no credit history (i.e., previous loans) is present a co-signer may be needed. A person's character is taken into account by the loan officer. A morally upstanding citizen is more apt to get a loan, all other conditions being the same. In addition to the "Four C's", a fifth should be added. A "costume" is very important. A banker will look more favorably on a well-dressed, well-groomed person.

When you do apply for a loan be prepared to fill out a loan application. Bring evidence of employment, income and any other debts. Be respectful, courteous and polite.

The presence of these factors will not guarantee anything. However, they will greatly increase your chances of obtaining a loan.—Jim Gevas, Sales Associate, Century 21 Realty, Carbondale

Voting is a privilege; register now

"Give us the ballot!"
"Give us the ballot!"

Those words, spoken by Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. more than 20 years ago, told of the great change that could and would come if blacks and other minorities would be given their voting rights.

Today, in 1984, we can see the great good that has come with the right to vote: national policies that have significantly reduced hunger (food stamps), expanded educational opportunity (educational entitlements) and an end to an unwise foreign entanglement (Vietnam). Yet over the past decade or so, the percentage of persons, particularly young people, voting has declined.

Of course it should be added that this is the national trend. Actually, in Illinois the percent voting is a bit higher, especially in Chicago. Chicagoans can be proud of the record turnouts in their recent mayoral primary and general election — 79 percent and 82 percent respectively. This compares to a national turnout of less than 50 percent in the last presidential election.

My basic point in writing this letter is this: Make sure you register and make sure that your friends do too. This past week the leadership of the Kremlin selected a new ruler, a decision which the common people on the street had absolutely no say in. We are more fortunate here.

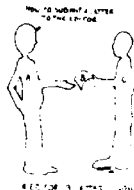

In Carbondale there are students who are doing something to provide voter registration opportunities. For the remainder of this week, there will be registration tables at the Student Center. You can also register at Carbondale City Hall (606 E. College) until Tuesday.

The right to freely exercise one's opinion through the non-violent means of the ballot is a right sacred to all Americans. I applaud the efforts of Stephanie Jackson, Bill Fuller, Bruce Joseph, Andy Leighton and Ann Greeley, as well as the great efforts of Jackson County Clerk Bob Harrell, to extend the privilege of voter registration to as many people as possible.

It doesn't matter whether or not you believe in high budget deficits or a balanced budget amendment and lower interest rates; in nuclear power, solar power or environmental protection; keeping the Marines in Lebanon or "getting government off our backs," education aid or massive defense spending increases. You are lucky to live in a country where you have these choices. And these choices are made possible through registering to vote.

You can get the ballot: take it and use it! — Steve Katsinas, Doctoral Student, Higher Education

Rail passenger route between Carbondale, St. Louis delayed

By Bruce Kirkham
Staff Writer

The Amtrak board of directors on Wednesday delayed approval of a proposed passenger route linking Carbondale and St. Louis, citing minor operating and scheduling problems, according to Amtrak spokeswoman Debbie Marciniak.

The board will consider the route at a March 22 meeting in Sanford, Fla., Marciniak said. Passenger service will begin April 29 if the board approves the route at that meeting, she said.

Amtrak President Graham Claytor Jr. has said that service will begin April 29 as originally planned, according to Barry Williams, spokesman for the National Association of Railroad Passengers. Williams said that the delay may be caused by problems with labor unions involved in operating the route.

The route would provide one round trip daily between St. Louis and Carbondale with stops in Belleville and Centralia.

Williams said that, under proposed time tables, trains would depart Carbondale about 5 a.m. and arrive in St. Louis about 8 a.m. Trains would depart St. Louis about 9 p.m. and arrive in Carbondale about midnight.

Time tables for new routes are scheduled with a high allowance for error and times are usually adjusted after six months, Williams said.

The Carbondale connection is part of an expansion of the "Missouri Mule" line, which currently runs between Kansas City and St. Louis.

The "Missouri Mule" would continue to Centralia, where passengers could connect with the "City of New Orleans" line, which runs between Chicago and New Orleans with a stop in Carbondale.

Amtrak officials rejected a route directly linking St. Louis and Carbondale because the $4 million projected capital improvements costs required to start the route were considered too high.

The proposed St. Louis to Carbondale route would cost about $250,000 for construction of a passenger platform in Belleville and track connection improvements at East St. Louis and Centralia, Williams said.

The new route would use the Norfolk Southern Railroad track between St. Louis and Belleville, and the Illinois Central Gulf track between Belleville and Centralia.

Williams said that Carbondale and St. Louis were connected by train service until 1970 when the "Panama Limited" line, operated by Illinois Central Gulf, was discontinued.

Fourth Career Placement Day set

Students will have a chance to interview with prospective employers in the Student Center Monday when over 20 organizations from various camps, park districts and commercial enterprises bring their representatives to SIU-C for the fourth annual Career Placement Day.

Sponsored by the Student Recreation Society, Career Placement Day will run from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. in Student Center Ballroom D and will provide students with the opportunity to get to know prospective employers, according to Tom Placek, director of the activities this year.

Placek said some of the organizations sending representatives to the event this year include the Tennessee Valley Authority, Wisconsin Easter Seals Society and Touch of Nature.

He said that although Career Placement Day is sponsored by the Student Recreation Society, it is not strictly for recreation majors. Placek said the society this year has included organizations such as the Carbondale Park District and the Jackson County YMCA to try to include students of all majors.

"The representatives from the organizations have the power to interview students, and even hire them on the spot if they want," he said. "A lot of students got positive responses last year."

Graduate student wins award

Michael Gould, a student in SIU-C's master of fine arts program, was awarded first prize in the second annual National Graduate Drawing Exhibition.

Gould's winning drawing, "Tim's Sculpture," done in black and white oilslick, is of a sculpture in front of a neighbor's house.

Gould received a bachelor of arts from SIU-C last May, with a specialization in painting and drawing. He is presenting a solo show of his landscape drawings at New Harmony Gallery of Contemporary Art in New Harmony, Indiana.

Eligibility for the exhibition was extended to graduate art students in the United States.

Wildlife refuge tour canceled

A tour of restricted areas of the Union County Wildlife Refuge scheduled for Saturday has been cancelled because of recent rains and warm weather, according to Cen Basman of the Illinois Department of Conservation.

Deteriorated roads caused by rain have made it impossible to travel on backroads of the refuge. Basman said, and the warmer weather has sent most of 80,000 Canada geese living on the refuge flying northward.

USO withdraws fee resolution

By John Stewart
Staff Writer

A resolution to oppose any increase in tuition, athletics fees and housing rates was introduced and then withdrawn for revision by the Student Senate Wednesday.

Earlier in the afternoon Undergraduate Student Organization President Bruce Joseph vetoed all 17 constitutional amendments passed by the senate Feb. 1. Joseph addressed the senate Wednesday night, saying he vetoed the amendments without malice.

The resolution to oppose any tuition, housing and athletics fee increases was withdrawn to be rewritten as three separate resolutions, which senators agreed would carry more strength. A 6.5 percent tuition increase, an $8 per semester athletics fee increase, and housing rate increases ranging from 3.5 to 13 percent are pending before the Board of Trustees and will be voted on March 1 in Edwardsville.

Joseph said the vetoed amendments were for the betterment of the USO, and even if he had signed them, they wouldn't have become part of the constitution. Joseph said the bills weren't acceptable because they were incorrectly titled, were submitted by more than one individual and lacked an explanation of the amendments' intent.

The committee on internal affairs, which had submitted the amendments, was not informed before the meeting that the amendments had been vetoed. Chairman Lamon Brantley said he respects Joseph's decision and he understood the reasons for the vetos.

Joseph also said he plans to voice his opposition to the Board of Trustees about the growing pressure to raise student tuition and fees, since the administration withdrew $100,000 in state funds from athletics and $100,000 to create an inventory or cash reserve for future projects or shortfalls.

A senate vote in support of the USO-Graduate and Professional Student Council voter registration failed.

Charmaine Harris, a representative from the college of education, submitted the resolution which stated "We applaud the efforts of those within our ranks who have taken on the task of educating the student population" on the importance of their vote.

However, Andy Leighton, West Side senator, didn't agree. "I don't think the bill reflects the events of the last two weeks," Leighton said.

Leighton said the drive was poorly planned and that bad scheduling and USO members missing commitments tried the patience of Jackson County Clerk Bob Harrell.

"It was chaos," Leighton said, and added that the USO shouldn't put anyone on the back for a job well done. Senate President Stephanie Jackson spoke earlier and announced that over 1000 students had been registered since the drive began Feb. 6.

The senate also approved a resolution in support of Black History Month and confirmed Franco Laterza as election commissioner.

Jackson's appeal influencing several Midwestern farmers

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — The Rev. Jesse Jackson's "Rainbow Coalition" is developing an added hue — the white Midwestern farmer.

Feeling the pinch of high interest rates and low commodity prices, many farmers in Iowa, Nebraska and Kansas are saying Jackson just might be their man because he's not tied to the politics of the past and knows how to get things done. His appearance on televised debates in New Hampshire and Des Moines apparently turned a few heads and changed some mind.

The black civil rights leader's appeal beyond the black community also is reflected in a national Gallup Poll released Thursday that shows him in a virtual tie with Sen. John Glenn for second place in the Democratic presidential race — both well behind Walter F. Mondale.

Merle Hansen, who raises cattle and grows corn and soybeans in Newman Grove, Neb., says he joined Jackson's national steering committee because he "is bringing into the political process new and important people that can beat Reagan. ... Agriculture cannot solve its problems alone. We look around for other victims."

David Rafael, director of Rural America in Washington, D.C., said he can understand why some farmers would be attracted to Jackson.

"Jackson has spoken and can speak on farm issues as a social justice issue. That must have a certain appeal to farmers who are feeling hard pressed," he said.

Gary Lamb, a Chelsea, Iowa, farmer who is supporting George McGovern for the Democratic nomination, says he nonetheless can understand Jackson's rural appeal.

"I think Mr. Jackson realizes naturally, being a black, that there are people in this country being discriminated against because of the color of their skin, and it's that factor, perhaps, that enables him to realize there are other segments of society that are being discriminated against because of their heritage or their occupation, such as the farmer," said Lamb.

David Ostendorf, who runs the Midwestern office of Rural America, said many farmers he works with out of his Des Moines headquarters have shown a great deal of interest in what Jackson is saying.

Panel eyes faculty's $5,000 pay gap

By Joan Stewart
Staff Writer

SIU-C faculty salaries are far lower than those at comparable universities in Illinois and across the nation. A discussion panel of two faculty members and the SIU-C's budget director agreed on that point Wednesday, but not on much else. The discussion featured John Jackson, vice president of the American Association of University Professors and professor of political science as moderator, and panel members John Baker, executive director of planning and budgeting; Joel Thirer, associate professor of physical education; and John Mow, a professor of guidance and educational psychology. The discussion was sponsored by the AAUP.

Jackson began the panel discussion stating SIU-C's full professors earn $5,062 less than the statewide average. Baker said state funds probably won't be allocated to close the gap between SIU-C salaries and those of other state university faculty. Without additional state funds, SIU-C would have to choose between raising tuition or cutting the size of the faculty if indeed faculty want the gap closed, he said.

Mow, a Faculty Senate member, said the distribution of 1983 pay raises favored the administration, and little money was left for faculty pay increases. Mow's statistical analysis of administration and faculty salaries says associate vice presidents' salaries were raised by an average 17.1 percent, followed by associate deans, 8.5 percent; assistant deans and chairpersons, 8.8

percent; and deans, 5.7 percent. Only executive vice presidents and directors received an average raise of a lower percentage than that of the highest of the faculty raises. Mow's analysis says professors' salaries were raised 4.5 percent, associate professors' increased 5.5 percent and assistant professors' salaries increased 5.7 percent.

"It seems like the people closest to the decision makers got the lion's share" of this year's salary increases, Mow said.

There were five variables in the 1983 salary increase, he said: a straight percentage across the board to everyone, raises for merit, raises to create greater equity among faculty and raises for promotion and marketability.

But Mow said he isn't sure merit raises were given last year, and he criticized the administration's use of equity adjustments and marketability pay.

"There's something wrong if we've been making equity adjustments every year since 1972," Mow said. The University attempts to equalize salaries of similarly qualified employees in the same positions, while disregarding accrued merit pay.

"The administration was probably even surprised when they saw how much marketability upped the salaries of faculty in law, business and engineering," Mow's figures indicated all three professorial ranks in the College of Communication and Fine Arts, the School of Agriculture and the library were significantly lower than the average.

Thirer, chairman of a Graduate Council committee on salaries, said the state has historically underfunded SIU-C. Faculty here are the "low guys on the totem pole," while SIU-C administrator's pay reaches "into the higher echelons," he said.

"Where's our lobbying?," he asked, adding the faculty is paid poorly also because of the state's reluctance to adequately fund SIU-C.

Thirer said he doesn't have a solution to low faculty salaries here, but his committee will prepare recommendation for the administration by the end of spring semester.

Escort service starts Feb. 27 for University Park residents

By Sheila Rogers
Staff Writer

University Park residents may feel a little safer walking to and from campus after an escort service becomes available Feb. 27.

About 80 residents have volunteered to escort students home from designated places on campus, according to Wendy Wanser, adviser to the University Park Programming Board.

Escorts will be available at 7, 8 and 9 p.m. at Wham Building and Lawson Hall, at 7, 8, 9 and 10:30 p.m. at the Student Center and Morris Library, and at 7:30 and 9:30 p.m. at the Recreation Center. The service, sponsored by the University Park Programming Board and the Triad Executive Council, will be available Monday through Thursday, Wanser said.

"The objective of the escort service is to discourage criminal activity, including harassment and other forms of violence," Wanser said. "The goal is to help maintain a secure environment on the college campus."

University Park residents are eligible to become escorts. A list of volunteers will be submitted to resident assistants for approval, Wanser said.

Volunteers must sign a contract listing their responsibilities before becoming escorts. Wanser said escorts will work one night a week, traveling in pairs to pick up students. Each will carry a flashlight and will be required to wear a cap and button for identification. Students who want an escort will meet in Trueblood 106 before the escorts leave for their stations. The stations will have signs so the students will know where to be picked up, Wanser said.

The service is available to male and female residents of Neely, Boomer, Wright and Allen halls.

If the service is successful, Women's Services will help with publicity and allocate money for the service, Wanser said.

A supervisor will be available at Trueblood 106 during the hours the service is available in case any problems arise. Anyone interested in volunteering may contact Nicki Glasser at 453-4291 or Tracy Stone at 453-4288.

■ In August 1982 this man received 220 volts and fell from a 7 foot ladder resulting in a rare spinal injury diagnosed as "arcane" case.

■ After a long series of tests, the prognosis was hopeful and doctors decided to sever his spinal cord to relieve the extreme pain. Thus paralyzing him from the neck down.

■ During a Sunday evening church service three days before he was scheduled for surgery, Jesus healed him and he walked out of that wheelchair.

Former Poland resident, law grad appointed to SIU positions

A former resident of Krakow, Poland, whose report on the deleterious effects of marijuana use on laboratory mice appeared in the 1982 Science magazine, has been appointed chairperson of the SIU-C Department of Physiology and Pharmacology.

Andrzej Bartke, 44, professor in obstetrics and gynecology at the University of Texas Health Science Center at San Antonio, was appointed by the SIU Board of Trustees last week, and will join the faculty July 1.

Bartke graduated from Jagiellonian University in Krakow and earned a Ph.D. from the University of Kansas in 1965. His research on laboratory mice has been used to evaluate the behavioral and hormonal effects of chronic marijuana use.

The board also appointed Denise Gale, a 1978 SIU-C law graduate, as associate legal counsel.

Gale has been a staff attorney for the Illinois State and Supreme Court, and has served as legal counsel for the Illinois Auditor General's office.

Scott H. Nichols, former assistant attorney general with the Iowa Department of Justice for three years, was appointed assistant dean and Director of Admissions in the SIU-C School of Law.

Nichols' appointment became effective last September 26.

Included among the 10 other appointments made by the board were Mary Davidson as associate professor of social and community services, Robert R. Stickney as director of the Cooperative Fisheries Research Laboratory, Nancy Zimmers as director of communications and public relations at the School of Medicine's Springfield campus and Phillip G. Wapner as associate professor in thermal and environmental engineering and at the SIU-C Coal Research Center.

Judge orders company to pay $4 million to 563 employees

CHICAGO (AP) — A federal judge has ordered Velsicol Chemical Corp. to pay $4 million to 563 present and former employees after he ruled that the company had improperly used the employees' profit-sharing funds to finance a pension plan.

U.S. District Judge Stanley Roszkowski's order will result in awards ranging from $200 to $70,000 to employees who in 1981 sued Velsicol, a subsidiary of Northwest Industries Inc.

The ruling, announced Wednesday, stems from Velsicol's 1975 decision to convert the profit-sharing plan into a conventional pension fund.

According to court testimony, company officials froze the money in the profit-sharing plan, then about $4 million, and guaranteed employees a 5 percent return on the money until they left the plan.

The company then invested the money at an interest rate averaging 13.5 percent a year, according to John G. Jacobs, an attorney for the employees.

Trojans choose candidate for USO

By John Stewart
Staff Writer

The Trojan Party has selected Lamont Brantley, a senior in political science and administration of justice, as its candidate for Undergraduate Student Organization president this spring.

Brantley has served in the Student Senate for three years and is currently chairman of the Committee on Internal Affairs. He said he hopes other parties organize and bring candidates forth for this spring's election, the date of which has not yet been set.

If elected, Brantley said his primary concern will be to get students involved in issues that affect them. He said he will take a "human relations" approach to maintaining and improving relationships with SIU-C administration and campus constituency groups.

Brantley said students are not adequately informed about USO and its purpose, which he said is to serve and represent students. Brantley said he would consider alternative funding methods to insure more stability for priority one student groups.

The USO, Black Affairs Council, Student Programming Council and Inter-Greek Council all are priority one groups.

Brantley supports the continuation of a book co-op, but he also said he favors setting up a book board, much like the ride board at the Student Center, where students could post books they want to sell on cards.

Brantley said he hopes to see the Trojan Party run a full slate of senatorial candidates this spring. Last spring the Trojans won a landslide presidential victory and swept 27 of 38 senate seats. He said he already has people in mind to help him implement programs if he's elected.

"Selection of commissioners and executive staff is vital to the success of an administration, he said.

Free tax assistance available for students

By Mike Pennock
Staff Writer

The deadline to file income tax returns is less than two months away, but that doesn't necessarily mean hours of tedious calculations.

For students and lower-income-level families needing assistance in filling out their tax forms, free help is available through VITA, Volunteer Income Tax Assistance, according to Jerry Burg, an SIU-C senior in accounting and finance.

About 40 students are working with the VITA program. All are finance students who have attended a training session with an Internal Revenue Service representative, completed a tax course and passed a tax preparation exam.

The service is available from 2 to 5 p.m. every Monday in the Eurma Hayes Center and from 6 to 9 p.m. every other Thursday in the Student Center. The next session in the Student Center will be March 1.

The service gives students the same opportunities as a professional tax service, said Dave Joy, a finance instructor at SIU-C who works with the program.

Anyone using the service needs to bring in W-2 forms, income tax forms, including the tax booklet, and any dividend or interest information. Most tax returns are completed within a half hour.

VITA is only able, under IRS-imposed limitations, to prepare tax returns for single persons who made a maximum of $10,000 or couples who jointly made $15,000. There are exceptions to the limitations: children can be claimed as exemptions, up to a limit of $20,000 including claiming of dependants.

Income tax help will be available through April 9, six days before the April 15 income tax deadline.

Burg said attempts are being made to also go to some of the local nursing homes for tax preparation.

One county officer suspended, another fired for harassment

By Jeff Wilkinson
Staff Writer

One Jackson County jail officer has been dismissed and another has been suspended without pay for 30 days pending a hearing by the Jackson County Merit Commission, both on charges of sexual harassment.

David Frost, executive assistant to Jackson County Sheriff William Kilquist, said Richard Kamminga was dismissed as a result of an internal investigation by the sheriff's department. Kamminga's case was not presented to the merit commission because Kamminga was a new officer still on probation

No date has been set for the hearing of Ronald Johnston.

Kilquist said that officers can be disciplined by the merit commission for violating an interoffice agreement that all officers must treat all members of the department with respect and must not conduct themselves in any manner which reflects badly on the department.

The merit commission is responsible for the hiring and firing of jail officers. The commission may dismiss, demote or suspend Johnston if he is found guilty of sexual harassment.

Kamminga's dismissal and Johnston's suspension resulted from an internal investigation by the sheriff's department. Kilquist had said that the charges were investigated internally because they were raised internally.

"If the charges would have come from the outside, and would have been criminal charges, then we would have asked an outside agency to investigate," Kilquist said.

Kilquist said the investigation could be handled effectively, in such a way that there would be no question that he had taken positive action.

Sheriff's department officials said they could make no comment about the specifics of the charges until the merit commission has completed its hearing.

Son indicted in man's killing

CHICAGO (AP) — A 23-year-old man was being sought by police Thursday and two of his sisters were in jail after an indictment charged that they killed their father, stuffed his body in a steel drum and dumped it in a quarry.

The indictment, charging murder, conspiracy to commit murder and armed violence, was returned Wednesday by a Cook County grand jury. It names Wendy White, 25; John White, 23; and Julie White, 19, all of Chicago.

The father, Raymond White, 50, was shot nine times with a rifle on Sept. 12 in the basement of the family's South Side home, police said.

The drum containing White's body popped up Oct. 6 in a quarry in suburban Lemont. Though the drum had been weighted with barbells and welded shut, gases from the decomposing body brought the drum to the surface, police said. A passerby noticed it and called police.

Gymnasts seek to continue hot start

By George Pappas
Staff Writer

The Salukis' 8-1 start, a 275-plus average and a ranking in the top five in the NCAA Coaches Poll could make most gymnastics teams that haven't scored more than 265 think twice about coming to the Arena.

This is not the case for Memphis State and Western Michigan, which will both be at the Arena at 2 p.m. Saturday to take on a sizzling SIU-C men's gymnastics team that has won its last eight meets after losing the opener to Ohio State.

Memphis State got a taste of the Salukis last Friday in Memphis, Tenn., when SIU-C scored a 276.05 to 261.75 victory, as well as knocking off Jacksonville State, which scored 242.30.

On the other hand, Western Michigan is 5-2 this year, but its best score is just 264.85. Bronco Coach Fred Orlofsky should be happy to present his team to his ex-coach Bill Meade. Saluki Hall of Famer Orlofsky was the NCAA still rings champion in 1961 and he went on to perform in the Olympics. He knows what to expect from Meade's team this weekend.

"It'll be a challenge," Orlofsky said. "SIU has a solid program which has produced national quality gymnasts. This will be a test of our team's depth."

That sounds like familiar words. It should because this is what Meade has been stressing since the beginning of the year. Meade has said on several occasions that the depth in the Saluki lineup is so strong that it could carry them to various heights this season. It has started to look that way with the Salukis carrying their eight-meet winning streak and with big wins over Iowa and Iowa State.

But the Salukis will change a few things around in the lineup this weekend. All-arounder John Levy and pommel horse worker Herb Voss will have a day off as freshman David Bailey will get his first collegiate gymnastics start. Bailey will perform on the pommel horse and the parallel bars.

Murph Melton will perform on the parallel bars, the rings and the pommel horse. Kevin Mazeika will replace Levy on the floor exercise and either Mazeika or Preston Knauf will replace Levy on the vault. Meade said he is not changing the lineup to give the other two teams a shot but only to give Bailey a chance.

"David is capable of scoring a 9.0 on the horse and an 8.8 on the parallel bars," Meade said. "If he puts his act together, Melton has already proved himself with his 9.1 parallel bar performance in Memphis last week. We still want to score good as a team."

The Broncos have two all-arounders in Jim LaHaie and Alan Scharns. LaHaie holds the Western Michigan school record in the all-around with a 54.40, the floor exercise with a 9.45 and the horizontal bar with a 9.6. Scharns has been averaging about a 53 on his all-around performance.

They also feature Skip Adamson on the horse and high bar, and Dan Mayer on the horse.

averaging 7.3 points and 3.2 rebounds.

According to West Texas Sports Information Director John Askins, the Buffaloes have been getting beat on the boards and consequently are giving up easy hoops underneath the basket. WTSU has averaged 34 rebounds compared to 43 for its opponents.

"We've got to keep (Saluki center Ken) Perry off the boards," Edwards said. "He's probably the best big man in the conference, with the exception maybe of (Creighton's) Benoit Benjamin. He's steady. He'll give the same performance every game.

"He's is basically their improvement. Without him, Southern is pretty much the same team as last year."

Perry is leading the Salukis in scoring, averaging 13.8 points per game and 17.1 in conference play. He trails only Cleveland Bibbins by a handful of rebounds for the team leadership in that department.

Van Winkle said that the Salukis will try to control the tempo of the game.

"They joy running up and down the floor, and that works to their advantage," he said.

Winless netter season to get tougher

By George Pappas
Staff Writer

With a season schedule that's getting tougher for the injury-plagued Saluki men's tennis team, SIU-C will travel to Madison, Wis., this weekend to face Nebraska and Wisconsin.

The Salukis are 0-3 this season, with losses coming against Vanderbilt, Indiana and Illinois. If the Salukis are still hampered with injuries this weekend, their chances of coming home Sunday with a 0-5 record are very good.

The Salukis will be facing two strong teams in Nebraska and Wisconsin. Nebraska is 3-1 with its only loss coming against

New Mexico last week. The Cornhuskers have beaten New Mexico State 8-1, Fort Louis College 9-0 and New Mexico Academy 8-1.

Wisconsin is 4-2 with wins over Illinois State, Marquette and Northern Illinois, all by 9-0 margins, and a 7-2 thrashing of Northwestern. The Badgers have lost to Minnesota and Duke.

The injury report still has the Salukis limping. Rollie Oliquino is probably out for the season with a knee injury, Scott Krueger is out with a back injury and Steve Quanon is suffering from the flu. Per Wadmark just got over the flu as did Roeland deKort.

If the Salukis bring their full healthy lineup, Wadmark, 0-3, will play No. 1 singles; Lars Nilsson, 0-3, will play No. 2; Gabriel Coch, 1-2, will play No. 3; Chris Visconti, 1-2, will play No. 4; Paul Rasch, 0-3, will play No. 5; with either Quanon, 0-2, or deKort, 0-1, playing at No. 6.

In the doubles department, Coch and Visconti have been the only Saluki victors. The pair has posted a 2-1 mark at No. 2 doubles. They beat Indiana and Illinois. Wadmark and Nilsson, 0-3, are at No. 1 and Rasch and Quanon, 0-3, will be at No. 3. Third-year Badger Coach Pat Klinghoefts' bright spots on the team are Chuck Swayne, Tim Klein and Beany Welch.

U.S. team grabs 2 gold medals

SARAJEVO, Yugoslavia (AP)—The U.S. Olympic team added two more gold medals to its collection Thursday with Scott Hamilton's men's figure skating title and Bill Johnson's victory in men's Alpine skiing.

Hamilton, dressed in the colors of the U.S. flag, won America's first men's figure skating gold medal in 24 years at the XIV Olympic Winter Games.

Canadian Brian Orser won the silver medal and Czechoslovakia's Jozef Sabovcik took the bronze.

After receiving his medal, Hamilton skated around the Zetra arena rink, carrying the American flag on a long staff.

In winning the gold, Hamilton, 25, of Denver, a three-time world champion, did not skate his best. He was outskated in both the short and the freestyle programs by Orser, the Canadian champion.

Had he not been winning by such a large margin after the compulsory figures, he may have lost the medal that America had expected him to win for some time.

Orser, on the other hand, skated a far more technically difficult program and landed a triple axel jump, something few competitors attempt.

Brian Boitano of Sunnysvale, Calif., skated a strong final program and finished fifth overall.

Johnson, hurtling down Mount Bjelasnica at an average speed of 63 mph, ended European domination of the men's downhill as he won America's first men's Alpine Olympic gold medal ever.

"Finally the string is broken," said the brash, confident Johnson, referring to the nine previous Olympic downhills, all won by European skiers, most of them Austrian. "I can win a lot more. I was glad to stick it to the Austrians. They think they should win every time."

"This is both America's medal and mine," he said, echoing the words of Debbie Armstrong who yelled to the crowd after her giant slalom victory: "Now America has it."

Johnson, 23, of Van Nuys, Calif., stunned Europe's best Jan. 15 in Vegen, Switzerland, by becoming the first American ever to win a World Cup downhill race.

The gold medals of Johnson and Armstrong in Alpine events gave the United States its best showing in the centerpiece Alpine events since it won two golds in 1952.

Franz Klammer of Austria, the 1976 Olympic downhill champion and a harsh critic of Johnson, took too much air on his run and finished 10th.

From the start of downhill training 12 days ago, Johnson insisted the course was made for him. It contains few difficult turns and several long, flat sections, perfect for "gliders"—skiers who make good time on the flats. And Johnson, one of the best gliders in the world, predicted he would win after dominating training runs.

"I put a lot of pressure on myself" with the prediction, Johnson said Thursday as his victory became apparent. "If I had gotten second, I'd be a real bum. I would have gone into manic-depression."

The Carbondale Terriers, 21-6, will be seeking another strong defensive performance from Joe Hamilton, right, when they play at Centralia Friday night in an attempt to clinch the South Seven Conference title. Quad meets provide Vogel with hope

By Jim Lexa
Sports Editor

With a chance to pull its record above the 500 mark and to improve its average overall score, the Saluki women's gymnastics team will be competing in a pair of quadrangular meets this weekend.

SIU-C travels to Stillwater, Okla., to take part in the Oklahoma State Quad Friday night before returning to host the Illinois Collegiate Classic at the Arena at 3 p.m. Sunday.

If the Salukis can take top honors in each meet, then their dismal-looking 1-6 record would turn into a respectable 7-6. Although it may seem difficult for that to happen, SIU-C Coach Herb Vogel said his squad is capable of doing it.

"We have a very realistic chance of going to 7-6," Vogel said.

Part of the Saluki chances hinge on how competitive Oklahoma and Oklahoma State are against each other, Vogel said. He thinks that the two teams will be too concerned about each other and not worry about the Salukis and Texas Women's University, the fourth team in the Oklahoma State Quad.

"I'm hoping for Oklahoma State to have a runoff with Oklahoma," Vogel said.

Oklahoma, the meet favorite, has been given the "privileged position" and will start on the balance beam, an event that "tests concentration and mental toughness," Vogel said. If Oklahoma falters on the beam, Vogel said the Sooners probably will not have enough time to regain their composure.

"It's a pressure situation," Vogel said. "If they hit their routines, though, the pressure will be off them."

The Salukis will start out on the uneven parallel bars before moving onto the beam. At Indiana State Feb. 4, the Salukis scored 45.75 on the bars.

Although the balance beam is the squad's toughest event, it also is for most other teams, Vogel said. After the balance beam, SIU-C moves onto the floor exercise before finishing up on the vault. The beam and vault are the team's top two events.

In the Indiana State meet the Salukis rang up scores of 45.65 on the vault, tops in the Central Region, and 45.95 on the floor exercise.

One area that the Salukis will be hurting in is in the number of performers. The team can take seven gymnasts because of the space restrictions on the airplane the squad will fly in to get to Stillwater.

Gina Hey and Maggie Nidifer will be the two gymnasts who will not make the trip with the squad, Vogel said, because of injuries that have limited them to part-time duty.

Margaret Calcott will perform all-around while Jeanice Nieto will perform in three events.

The Illinois Collegiate Classic is regarded by Vogel as the Illinois state championship. Besides the Salukis, Illinois State, Illinois and Illinois-Chicago will be at the meet.

The Salukis are the No. 1 seed in the ICC. SIU-C's 181.70 score against Indiana State has the Salukis ranked 10th in the nation. As the season progresses, though, the ranking will be based on a team's top four scores, with at least one score from an away meet and one from a home meet.

Illinois State's best score this season is a 179.50, with Illinois-Chicago at 174.20 and Illinois holding a 173.95.

The Salukis have the top score in three of four events in the Central Region. Michelle Spillman leads the Central Region on the floor exercise, 9.8, and on the bars, 9.75. Lori Steele leads the region on the vault with a 9.65 mark.

Single entrants will be paired with other single entrants Sunday. Single entrants not paired are still eligible for trophies based on age group handicaps determined by the National Running Data Center Standards.

Awards will be given to both members of a couples team in each age group for the top five finishers. The age groups are: under 39, 40-49, 50-59, 60-69, 70-79, 80-89, 90-99 and more than 100.

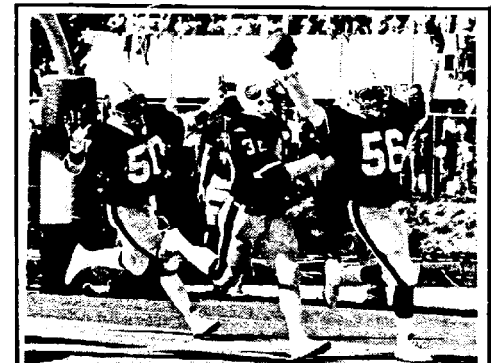

Entries should be turned in by noon Friday, including the $4 per person entry fee ($6 per person if paid Sunday). Entries can be picked up at J.C. Penny's

Sports Department or at the SIU-C Physical Education Department. Checks should be made payable to the CPR FUND, with the proceeds of the race going to the Heart Association CPR Training Program.

Race numbers are to be picked up between 12:30 to 1:30 p.m. Sunday at the Pulliam Pool entrance.

All entrants will receive a Heart Association traveling mug, while the first 100 entrants will receive a carry-all runners' gear bag.

The "Love Your Heart Run" will start at Pulliam Hall, go west on Lincoln Drive past the Baptist Student Center, go past the north side of the Communications Building, turn west on Chautauqua Street, make a turn-around at the half-way point just west of the Tower Road junction and return by the same route to the Pulliam Hall parking lot finishing chute.

Bradley coach gives Salukis edge in Gateway cage chase

By Dan Devine
Staff Writer

Bradley Coach Angela Beck has all but conceded the Gateway Conference women's basketball championship to SIU-C. Her team has little chance to decide such matters, saddled with only a 3-8 conference record, but Beck calls the Salukis the best team in the conference.

"I think this is their year," she said.

SIU-C plays host to Bradley Saturday at 7:35 p.m. in Davies Gym, where the Salukis have won six straight games this season. SIU-C has won 11 of its last 12 games, going into last night's game with Western Illinois.

Beck said SIU-C's depth, balance and experience gives the Salukis the edge on Drake, which trails SIU-C by a game in the league standings. Illinois State is a game and a half back. "They're a little more well rounded than Drake," Beck said. "They're a little more aggressive and they have a little more talent as far as the total game goes. Carbondale is Jeeper and they have more offensive balance.

"D.D. Plab is one of the best guards in the conference and I don't think Drake has a guard like her."

Beck also said she was impressed by SIU-C forward Char Warring and center Connie Price, who are in the top 10 in Gateway rebounding and field goal percentage.

She said the Salukis' style of play is well suited to post-season play, should SIU-C wrap up a conference title.

"When you get to a game in the regionals you're going to have to play strong defense, and play all 94 feet hard," she said.

Beck's team doesn't match up well with the Salukis, but she said she thinks her squad can put up a better fight than last time, when it was beaten 72-39 at Bradley.

In that game, SIU-C stymied the Braves' fast break and allowed fewer points than it has in any game this season. Price had 16 points and 13 rebounds and the Saluki reserves saw extensive playing time.

Since that game, the Braves, 6-14 overall, have rallied slightly. They have won three of their last six games, recording a road victory against Indiana State, and home victories over Northern Iowa and Southwest Missouri.

"Our offense is starting to come around," Beck said. "I think we'll give them a good game."

"We've worked on our transition game. We push the ball downcourt more and try not to rely on set plays as much."

Beck also said her team's half-court offense was relying more on specific plays and less on individual free-lancing. Whatever the offense, guard Judy Burns is still the Braves key figure. Burns, one of the Gateway's best outside shooters, is the team's only player averaging in double figures, with 16.6 points per game. She was an All-Gateway selection last year.

The Braves will be playing a team that might be feeling the effects of a disappointing loss at Drake last weekend.

"Right now our team is very low and dejected after that loss," SIU-C Coach Cindy Scott said. "We need very badly to win both of these ball games to get the spirits of our team up."

Final home berth race tightening for Salukis

By Daryl Van Schouwen
Staff Writer

Twelve down and four to go. That is where the men's basketball team is at on the Missouri Valley Conference schedule as they lead the race for fourth place in the MVC with a 6-6 conference record.

The Salukis lead Bradley and Creighton, each 5-6, by one-half game for the last available spot that guarantees a home berth in the opening round of the MVC tournament. For the Salukis, a split the rest of the way could earn them a tie for fourth place. If needed, a coin flip would then break the deadlock in the standings.

"Nine wins will get you there by yourself," Saluki Coach Allen Van Winkle said. "Eight will get you a tie and a coin flip."

Of their final four games, the Salukis play first-place Illinois State at home Thursday and the other three on the road: at Drake, Tulsa and West Texas State.

"I think we have the toughest schedule left," Van Winkle said. Saturday, SIU-C takes on West Texas in Amarillo, Texas. The eighth-place Buffaloes are 7-15, 2-10 in the conference. At home, they are 6-6.

Unfortunately, the Salukis may be catching West Texas at the wrong time. The Buffaloes tripped Indiana State at ISU Saturday 91-86 and lost at Illinois State 84-72 Monday. At Illinois State, West Texas went into intermission tied 32-32 before the Redbirds blew it open midway through the second half.

The Buffaloes are led by the highest scoring backcourt in the MVC, and in particular by point guard James Jackson. Jackson leads the conference in scoring with 24.2 points per game. His sidekick, Kendall Walling, has a 16.2 average.

Jackson is considered by some to be the best point guard in the Valley.

"I don't think there is any doubt," says his coach, Ken Edwards.

In addition to his scoring ability, Jackson, who plays close to 40 minutes a game, is a good assist man, averaging 5.4 per game. The sophomore earned the post-game praise of Illinois Coach Lou Henson after WTSU's 11-point loss to the Illini earlier in the season.

"I can't believe he does so many things," Henson said. "I was quite impressed. He is one of the finer guards we'll face this year. Aside from his shooting, he plays defense and has great stamina. It's something when you play both ends of the court like he does."

While strong at guard, the Buffaloes have been relatively weak on the front line, where 6-8 center Mark Ellerman is the tallest player. He is scoring three points a game and pulling down 1.8 rebounds.

At forward, West Texas has 6-4 Goliath Yeggins, probably its best player next to Jackson. Yeggins leads the league in steals and is averaging 10 points and 7.4 rebounds per game.

The Buffaloes' other starter is 6-7 forward Marvin Satterfield.

Women down Western, establish scoring mark

By Dan Devine
Staff Writer

Marialice Jenkins hit a 25-foot jump shot at the buzzer as the SIU-C women's basketball team eclipsed the century mark and set a school record for scoring Thursday night at Davies Gym.

The Salukis' drive for 100 points provided the only excitement during the closing minutes of the game. SIU-C had wrapped up the 101-64 victory over Western Illinois long before.

The Salukis shattered Western's full-court pressure and outscored their guests 26-2 during a nine-minute period midway through the first half.

It gave them a 36-10 lead. SIU-C led 51-29 at halftime and coasted for much of the second half until starting a closing minute rally.

"We hurt them inside, we hurt them outside, and we hurt tremendous defense," said SIU-C Coach Cindy Scott of the Saluki's first half blitzkrieg.

"I thought we played a very good, intense first half," Scott said, "and a very sloppy, unintense second half."

Char Warring scored 25 points to pace SIU-C, and Connie Price added 18, along with 12 rebounds. D.D. Plab had 15 points and Eleanor Carr had eight assists and 11 rebounds.

DeNoon not emphasizing victory in Illinois meet

By Steve Koulos
Staff Writer

SIU-C women's track Coach Don DeNoon isn't putting a major emphasis on winning the 16-team Illinois Invitational Saturday.

"I don't look for us to score a lot of points," he said. "I'm going to pull Denise Blackman out of the 300-yard dash and have her compete only in the 60. That will enable her to be fresh for the one-mile relay."

DeNoon wants to see how the one-mile relay team of Karen Cooper, Katie Santore, Debra Davis and Blackman will fare against the five other Gateway Conference squads entered in the meet. He said he hopes they can achieve the NCAA indoor qualifying time of 3:46.2.

The five GCAC schools that SIU-C will be competing against are Illinois State, Eastern Illinois, Western Illinois, Drake and Bradley. Rounding out the field will be Eastern Kentucky, Kent State, Michigan State, Purdue, Northwestern, DePaul, SIU-E, Elmhurst, Millikin, and host Illinois.

DeNoon picked Illinois State as the favorite to win the meet.

"When this meet is over, we'll have seen every school in the conference except for Wichita State, Northern Iowa and Indiana State," he said. "I think we will score points with Denise, Rhonda (McCausland), and the one-mile relay. Anybody else who finishes in the top six of their events I will be happy with."

Blackman set two school indoor records last week in the 60- and 300-yard dash at the Eastern Invitational despite getting a late start out of the blocks. She came within 0.08 seconds of qualifying for the NCAA indoor championships in the 60-yard dash with a time of 6.88.

"We worked with her Monday and she looked good getting out of the blocks," DeNoon said, "and I think she might achieve the national qualifying standard in the 60."

McCausland will try to better her NCAA qualifying shot put throw of 49-3.

'Itchy' Jones to be guest of honor

By Daryl Van Schouwen
Staff Writer

Richard "Itchy" Jones, who has compiled 500 wins in 14 seasons as the Saluki baseball coach, will be the guest of honor Sunday at a reception to be held in Herrin, his home town.

The reception, which will be held at the Illinois Cafe from 2 to 5 p.m., has been planned by some of Jones' Herrin High School classmates and is in conjunction with "Itchy Jones Day" last Wednesday, as proclaimed by Mayor Don Swinford.

"It's always a nice honor to be recognized by your hometown," Jones said.

According to men's sports information, Jones' winning percentage of .739 ranks fourth among active Division I coaches.

Jones is the associate chairman of this year's Herrin Area United Way Campaign.

Several of Jones' ex-players who have since moved on to professional baseball are expected to attend the reception, including Jim Dwyer of the Baltimore Orioles, and Neil Fiala, Bill Lyons and Jim Adduci of the St. Louis Cardinals. Virgil Melvin, a scout for several major league organizations, is also expected to attend.

Since he came to SIU-C in 1970, Jones has taken teams to three College World Series, finishing second in 1971 and third in 1974 and 1977. He has reached eight post-season NCAA tournaments, and has won three NCAA regional championships and three Missouri Valley Conference crowns.

More than 65 of Jones' SIU-C players have signed professional contracts and 17 have reached the major leagues, including Dave Stieb, Duane Kuiper, George Vukovich and Dwyer.

Jones first came to SIU-C as an undergraduate in 1956. He was a standout second baseman at SIU-C, winning All-Intercollegiate Conference honors three times.
