BEIRUT (AP) — President Amin Gemayel has agreed to scrap Lebanon's U.S.-brokered troop withdrawal agreement with Israel. Beirut radio reported, in an effort to save his dwindling power, that Gemayel and Israel had added that Foreign Minister Elie Salem had communicated the decision to Saudi officials in Riyadh.

The development came as the Syrian-supported Druse and Moslem militant stepped up military and political pressure Thursday to ask Gemayel, who turned to Saudi Arabia to salvage his crumbling position. Druse militiamen pushed the Lebanese army out of the Crucifix Mountains and rolled down the coastal hills to link up with Shiite Moslem allies controlling west Beirut.

At their camps in the capital, U.S. Marines and Italian troops were packing their equipment and preparing to pull out. A senior White House official said the Marines would begin withdrawing to U.S. Navy ships off the Lebanon coast in two or three days. The official, who spoke on condition he not be named, said the redeployment of about 1,200 Marines should be completed within 30 days.

He said 500 personnel — Marines, Army trainers and others — would stay in Beirut to guard the U.S. Embassy and perform other functions. Earlier in the day, American officials in Washington expressed skepticism that the Saudi-mediated plan would work. Druse opposition leader Walid Jumblatt said in an interview he would veto it.

"There will never be a compromise with us and Gemayel," Jumblatt said in the interview. "I mean, if we agree, they will call us traitors, and if we don't agree, they will call us terrorists."

The radio report said Gemayel had informed the parties to the national reconciliation conference of details of the agreement. In a written message about his decision to former President ank Reagon and the leader of the National Salvation Front, He said that he had chosen former Prime Minister Rashid Karami.

Gemayel, Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir said in a statement of the Beirut agreement would jeopardize any future peace talks and Syria has its Arab neighbors.

An aide to the United States indicated Wednesday that the United States is neutral on what happens to the agreement.

A new state and federally funded program, intended to make people on public aid work for benefits and eventually eliminate them, from the welfare rolls, is causing a stir among a group of people employed in Southern Illinois.

The Illinois Work Experience Program would provide jobs for public assistance recipients in private and public non-profit organizations. It said it's a valuable program because people can gain work experience and eventually find a full-time job.

But Karl Piepenburg, a member of the Herrin-based Job Loss Project, said IWEP is not the answer the jobless in the Southern Illinois Work Experience Program.

Democrats calling Republicans warmongers. Republicans accusing Democrats of being soft on Soviet world domination. Both parties blaming the other for the nation's bad economic deficits and claiming to support education.

Wednesday night's political debate in Neely Hall had all the trappings of a typical campaign debate, as six local representatives participated in a slogging verbal arrows at each other before an audience of about 50 students.

State Sen. Gene Johns, D- Memorial, said increases in defense spending are causing the budget deficits to grow by "leaps and bounds" and called for cuts in defense programs to help balance the budget. Republican Bill Atwood, campaign manager for U.S. Sen. Charles Percy's downstate campaign, responded that social welfare spending and the "well-intentioned fiasco" of President Lyndon Johnson's Great Society are to blame for deficits.

Percy said the United States still has a long way to go to catch up with the Soviet Union's defense. He said that by the late 1970s, the United States had fallen to a position of military inferiority and that President Reagan's defense spending increases are necessary to return the nation to the position of a superpower.

Democrat Steve Katinas, a doctoral student in higher education, argued that the MX missile and B-1 bomber programs favored by President Reagan are wasteful and could be cut without putting the nation at risk. He said both programs would be obsolete by 1988.

Johns said cuts in military spending would be ineffective because the Soviets could track them by cruise missiles. Atwood, associate professor in political science, said that he opposes the MX missile because we need it. He said present defense weapons are adequate.

Atwood countered that the MX missile is needed to keep America's defenses modern. "The basis of our nation's defense is resting on missiles older than you and I," he said.

Katinas said that, as a member of the House Armed Services Committee, he pledged to increase middle-and-high school music classes and reduce class sizes.

Job Loss Project members Richard Shelton, standing, and Doc Walden discuss the Illinois Work Experience Program Thursday.

A Southern Illinois University job has been waiting for the program.

"We're fighting for jobs and our families and now they're giving us slave labor," said Jo Bon "a harrin native who's putting in the work.

Job Loss members met Thursday morning in the basement of the Herrin post office, have established committees to research and try to stop implementation of IWEP.

"We're fighting for jobs and this cuts right into our backs," said Nick Ron, a member of Southern Counties Action Movement working with the project.

Ron said he is afraid that private industries would find ways to use IWEP to hire aid recipients at low wages.

"We want full restoration of benefits a person can survive, not so they force us to work benefits off for $3.35 an hour," said Ron.

Under IWEP, people would earn $3.35 an hour for a minimum of 40 hours a month, depending on the size of the household and the number of benefits already received.

"The theory behind it is that people who can't do it are inable. The ultimate goal is to get them off public aid," said Piepenburg. "The idea is not to put people out of work.

IWEP, sponsored mostly by a federal jobs program, is in early stages in 12 Illinois counties, including Williamson County.

Producers of WIDB Video Aficionado, a new local music video program, which premiered Thursday, to be aired weekly on WIDB. "We're not trying to have a Michael Jackson and Boy George type of show," said producer Dan Manella. "We're trying to show the more progressive music."

The one-hour show of locally seen artists will be broadcast Thursday on Carbondale's Channel 7 as part of the station's expanded local origination programming. The show features WIDB's DJ TC and the Bongs are some of the first to be featured.

Thursday's show will be aired from 7 to 8 p.m. each week.

Steve Latash, Cable 7 program director and executive producer of the show, said that the program, which is co-produced by WIDB radio, offers an alternative to videos and computer-generate images that can be seen in the Carbondale area.

"Anybody can go into a bar and turn on WIDB radio and see a triple threat," said Latash. "We're giving the people who live here an area."

"Music Television won't be available here," he said. "We're just seeing it on cable television until 1985, but some show has been a hit.

Manella, also the assistant manager of Records, said that he's trying to make the WIDB Video Aficionado program from M-MTV as possible by showing some jazz and soul videos and bands not seen in the other national programs.

Big name bands aren't promoted much because their records are stocked at Plaza Records, said Manella, but lesser-known bands need the promotion and airplay and for the audience to a small station.

WIDB Video Attractions can offer a positive marketing tool for bands through the video, air play on WIDB and get their names out there," said plaza Records. He said that a lot of people are saying that as promotion goes, he said.

A new show will be in the week, but Manella said that the shows will be about every two months there will be a new show. But they will eventually be simplified to two hours and stereo simulcast on WIDB.
Looopholes causing problems in drunk driving law, police say

By Jeff Wilkinson
Staff Writer

Although statistics indicate that Illinois' new drunk driving law is decreasing the state's drunk driving problem, police traffic experts say that the loopholes in the law cripple the law's effectiveness.

"We're here to help," Carbondale traffic investigator Buddy Murphy said Monday at a meeting of Remove Intoxicated Drivers, a citizen group against drunk drivers.

"If we see someone whose driving ability is impaired, we get him off the street. But unfortunately, many of the drunk drivers get off in the courts on a no-probable-cause loophole because they refuse to submit to a breath analysis or blood test.

"Probable cause refers to the reason the officer arrests the driver, such as erratic driving and evidence collected, such as breath tests, which affect the state or city attorney's ability to prosecute. The factors involved in probable cause are many and confusing.

If a drunk driver does not submit to a breath test, the case is limited, the officers said. But if at any time during the investigation, the officer can answer an officer's questions, refuses to take sobriety tests, and is caught, it is probable cause, the case against him is weak at best.

"Sure, their license is suspended if they refuse to take the test," Murphy said. "But there are other drivers who refuse in Illinois on suspended or revoked licenses right now.

Carbondale police officer Steve Odum said, "I've arrested people for drunk driving in Carbondale who were arrested for drunk driving in Jackson County the same night — people who still had the DUI tickets in their pockets. A license suspension does not keep the drunk driver off the road.

Another factor that limits the effectiveness of the new law, the officers agree, is leniency in the court system.

"The courts in Jackson County are more lenient toward drunk drivers than many of the courts in Illinois," Murphy said. "I'm not putting down the judges and prosecutors in Jackson County — they have their reasons. One of the reasons may be because this is a college town where everybody drinks and they want to give the kids a break.

Murphy said only 50 percent of the people he has arrested for driving under the influence have been convicted.

Jackson County Sheriff Deputy Brent Molas added. "The judges see the drunk driver after he has sobered up. He stands there in a suit, on his best behavior. He looks like a model citizen and the judge lets him go.

"One way to get around that — and they are doing this in many states — is to try to tape the booking procedure and show it to the judge in the court," Molas said. "Then the judge sees how the drunk driver performed on the sobriety tests. He sees how drunk they were. He doesn't have to depend on the word of the officer."

While the officers stressed that the loopholes must be closed, Illinois law enforcement officials say the law is working. The 1982 figures they use to support the claim are:

- The number of fatal accidents in which a driver was drinking dropped from 443 to 126.
- Illinois traffic deaths decreased by 11 percent.
- DUI convictions increased by 45 percent.
- DUI arrests by Illinois State Police increased by 70 percent.
- Drivers losing their licenses for refusing a breath test increased by 17 percent.
- 'It's a workable law," Molas said, "but it can be more effective. We have to have an organized program of education. The public has to realize it is not someone else's problem, it is everyone's problem.

The major changes in the DUI law that went into effect January 1, 1982 are:

- The requirement that two breath tests must be given was made.
- Police may determine the driver's type (breath, blood or urine) to be given.
- The 90-minute waiting period before testing was dropped to 30 minutes.
- The penalty for refusing a test was doubled to six months.
- The blood of unconscious persons suspected of DUI may be tested.
- A person's refusal of a test may be used against him in court.

Storms hit West while East floods

By the Associated Press

The latest in a chain of major winter storms fanned a deep snow and wind gusting to 60 mph Thursday in the mountains of the West, while in the East flooding spread from Virginia to New York.

The Midwest got the leftovers from an earlier Rocky Mountain blizzard, with freezing and below freezing temperatures and snow making driving difficult in parts of Nebraska, the Dakotas and northwestern Minnesota.

low-management salaries in the military but instead "he's spent a lot of time in the wars and as a result we're not that much stronger.

Katsinas said the money from those programs could be spent on more worthwhile programs, such as education.

"There is a budget cut $96 million under FY '92 budget figures," he said. "Federal Work Study under the first Reagan budget received only $397 million."

Atwood retorted, "All the work study programs in the world won't do us any good if we get into a war with the Soviets."

Johns said that Reagan's defense buildup is wasteful because we already have enough nuclear weapons to destroy the world many times over. He said that now it's just a matter of getting into a war. The world won't do us any good if we get into a war because it won't do us any good."

"Ronald Reagan is the man," he said, "but the figures, he said, "Federal Work Study..."

Atwood responded, "Each of those programs could be spent on more worthwhile programs, and as a result we're not that much stronger."

Katsinas accused the Republicans of cutting student aid while Reagan opposes it. He said Reagan is unwilling to negotiate arms reductions with the Soviet Union.

"Ronald Reagan is the first president since Herbert Hoover to sit down face to face with the Soviets," Katsinas said. Atwood responded, "Reagan, with all due respect to his predecessors, is the first who's been screwed by the Russians." He said that the United States must negotiate with the Soviet Union from a position of strength.

"The negotiating holding nothing in your hand is not negotiation, but leads itself to acquiescence," he said.

"Defense was not the only area in which the two parties differed. While both the Democrats and Republicans claimed to be friends of education, they disagreed over government aid to students and education.

Katsinas accused the Republicans of cutting student aid while increasing tuition. He said that both the House and Senate Thompson and Reagan are guilty of reducing access to higher education. Tuition at SIU has doubled since Thompson took office in 1977.

Seroka noted that Illinois ranks 50th in higher education funding. He said that something needs to be done about increased education funding besides "talking about it," as he said the Republicans are doing.

Former Republican state Sen. John Gilberg also said that needy students have been unaffected by tuition increases.

"For every tuition increase, there's been an increase in the scholarship fund," he said.

Gilberg said that Thompson has not been able to make up for the loss of funding to education that occurred under Gov. Dan Walker, who, he said, let education funding slip.

Katsinas said that Reagan's cuts in student aid programs are preventing many students from going to college. He said access is the key to education and universities should "close up shop" if they can't provide it.

Atwood said the Republican party is in favor of providing opportunity for the truly needy to go to college but this doesn't mean the government should write a blank check for students to go to college.

Case rested in trial of inmate

BENTON (AP) — The government rested its case Thursday in the trial of an inmate accused of killing a federal prison guard.

Clayton Fountain, an inmate of the U.S. Penitentiary in Marion, is charged with first-degree murder in the October 1982 stabbing death of officer Robert Hoffman Sr.

The defense was to present its case Thursday. The government presented its case Wednesday.

Last week, a federal court jury convicted two other Marion inmates, Thomas Silverstein, 21, and Randy Gomez, 28, of multiple life sentences for a 1982 stabbing death of Clutts.

Like Silverstein and Gomez, Fountain, 28, faces an additional sentence of life in prison if he is convicted. A sentencing date for Silverstein and Gomez has not been set.

Clutts was killed early on Oct. 22. Hoffman, about 12 hours later. Ditterline and Powles were stabbed during the second incident when the three guards were escorting a prisoner from a recreational area to his cell.

Clutts was stabbed as he and two other guards were returning Silverstein from a shower to his cell.

Since the Marion lockdown opened in 1964 to replace Alcatraz as the nation's toughest federal prison, 24 inmates and three guards have died violent deaths there.

Time to say goodbye to pass-fail option

The PASS-FAIL grading system, that helpful friend of the academically borderline and lazy student, may be eliminated from general education courses under a proposal being considered by the General Education Curriculum Committee.

Saying goodbye to pass-fail grades would be tough — they have worked to the benefit of so many students to take courses in unfamiliar sciences, humanities and other basic courses. A recent review showed that 71 percent of all general education electives were taken for a grade rather than pass-fail.

WHAT is supposed to be eliminated is a new set of electives that are not collateral. The Chicago regular Democrats never forgave Adlai for failing to seat Mayor Daley's delegates in 1972. And, while the party has changed in this state during the intervening years, there has been much sympathy in the organization for insurgents and outsiders.

DEMOCRATS set a quota to allow 60 percent of the congressional Democrats to be named as convention delegates. That means 96 from the House and 27 from the Senate. There was a complicated procedure by which 112 regional groups chose 110 delegates and then the House Democratic Steering and Policy Committee selected 54 more.

The 12-member Illinois congressional delegation managed to exceed the norm. If the 60 percent quota had been applied evenly to the states, Illinois could have expected that seven of the congressmen would be from the delegation. Actually it got eight, a two-thirds representation.

Voting is a privilege; register now

One's opinion through the ballot is supposed to be.

"Give us the ballot!" "Give us the ballot!"

Those words, spoken by Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. more than 30 years ago, told of the great change that could and would come if blacks and other minorities would be given their voting rights.

Today, in 1984, we can see the great good that has come with the right to vote national policies that have been denied to citizens for years (food stamps), expanded educational opportunity education, debts, and an end to an unwarranted Vietnam. Yet over the past decade or so, the percentage of persons, particularly young people, voting has decreased.

Of course it should be added that this is the national trend. In Illinois, the percent voting is a bit higher, 50 percent. Chicagoans can be proud of the record turnout in their recent mayoral primary and general election — 75 percent and 62 percent respectively. This compares to a national turnout of less than 50 percent in the last presidential election.

My basic point in writing this letter is this: Make sure you register and make sure that your friends do too. This past week the leadership of the Illinois group selected a new rule, a decision which the common people on the street had absolutely no say in. We are more fortunate here.

In Carbondale there are students who are doing something to provide voter registration opportunities. For the remainder of this week, there will be registration tables at the Student Center. You can also register at Carbondale City Hall (606 E. College) until Tuesday.

The right to freely exercise one's opinion through the ballot is a right sacred to all Americans. I applaud the efforts of Stephanie Jackson, Bill Fuller, Bruce Joseph, Andy Leighton and Ann Greeley, as well as the great efforts of Jacksonville Clerk Bob Harrell, to extend this privilege to voters registration to as many people who may want to vote.

It doesn't matter whether or not you believe in high budget deficits or a balanced budget amendment and lower interest rates; in nuclear power, solar power or environmental protection; keeping the Marines in Lebanon or "getting the money off of Wall Street," education aid or massive defense spending increases. You and I, as well as the people in the country where you have these choices, and the choices that are made possible through registration, can vote.

You can get the ballot: take it and use it! — Steve Kasinsky, Doctoral Student, Higher Education
Rail passenger route between Carbondale, St. Louis delayed

By Bruce Kirkham

The Amtrak board of directors Wednesday delayed approval of a proposed passenger route linking Carbondale and St. Louis, citing union operating and scheduling problems, according to Amtrak spokesman Debbie Marciniak.

"The board will consider the route at a March 22 meeting in Sanford, Fla. Marciniak said. Passenger service will begin April 29 if the board approves the route at that meeting," she said.

Amtrak President Graham Claytor Jr. has said that service to interview students, hire them on the spot and allow improved facilities for students and others involved in the activities.

The board rejected the route after Williams said that Carbondale and St. Louis were connected by trains service until 1970 when the "Panama Limited" train, operated by Illisouri Central Gulf, was discontinued.

The new route would cost about $200,000 for construction of a passenger platform in Belleville and track connection improvements at East St. Louis and Centralia, Williams said.

The new route would use the Norfolk Southern Railroad track between St. Louis and Belleville, and the Illinois Central Gulf track between Belleville and Centralia.

Williams said that Carbondale and St. Louis were connected 'y train service until 1970 when the "Panama Limited" line, operated by Illinois Central Gulf, was discontinued.

The "Missouri Mule" would continue to Centralia, where passengers could connect with the "City of New Orleans" line, which runs between Chicago and New Orleans with a stop in Carbondale.

Amtrak officials rejected a route directly linking St. Louis and Carbondale because the $4 million projected capital improvement costs required to start the route were considered too high.

Williams said that Carbondale and St. Louis would begin passenger service will begin April 29 if the board approves the route at that meeting, she said.

Saying Jackson just might be appealing beyond the black community, the Rev. Jesse Jackson's national Gallup Poll released for second place in the virtual debates. Many farmers in Iowa, Nebraska and Kansas say they joined Jackson's appeal because of his Midwestern office of Rural America in Washington, D.C., said he can understand why some farmers would be attracted to Jackson.

"Jackson has spoken and can speak on farm issues as a social justice issue. That must have a certain appeal to farmers who are feeling hard pressed," he said.

Gary Lamb, a Chelsea, Iowa, farmer who is supporting George McGovern for the Democratic nomination, says he nonetheless can understand Jackson's rural appeal.

"I think Mr. Jackson realizes naturally, being a black, that there are people in this country being discriminated against because of the color of their skin, and it's that factor, that enables one to realize there are other segments of society that are being discriminated against because of their heritage or their occupation, such as the farmer," said Lamb.

David Ostenfeld, who runs the Midwestern office of Rural America, said many farmers who works with out of his Des Moines headquarters have shown a great deal of interest in what Jackson is saying.
Panel eyes faculty’s $5,000 pay gap

By John Stewart
Staff Writer

SIU-C faculty salaries are far lower than those at comparable universities in Illinois and across the nation. A discussion panel of two faculty members and the SIUC’s budget director agreed on that point Wednesday, but not on much else.

The discussion featured John Jackson, vice president of the American Association of University Professors, and professor of political science as moderator, and panel members John Baker, executive director of planning and budgeting; Joel Thirer, associate professor of physical education; and John Mouw, a professor of guidance and educational psychology.

The discussion was sponsored by the AAUP.

Jackson began the panel discussion stating SIU-C’s full professors earn $6,002 less than the statewide average.

Baker said state funds probably won’t be allocated to close the gap between SIUC and those of other state universities. Without additional state funds, SIUC would have to choose between raising tuition or cutting the size of the faculty if indeed the faculty want the gap closed, he said.

Mouw, a Faculty Senate member, said the distribution of 1985 pay raises favored the administration, and little money was left for faculty pay increases. Mouw’s statistical analysis of administration and faculty salaries says associate vice presidents’ salaries were raised by an average 17.1 percent, followed by associate deans, 8.5 percent; assistant professors, 5.5 percent and assistant professors’ salaries increased 4.7 percent.

“It seems like the people closest to the decision makers got the lion’s share” of this year’s salary increases, Mouw said.

There were five variables in the 1983 salary increase, he said: a straight percentage across the board to everyone, raises for merit, raises for promotion and marketability.

But Mouw said he isn’t sure merit raises were given last year, and he criticized the administration’s use of equity adjustments and marketability.

“There’s something wrong if we’ve been making equity adjustments every year since 1972,” Mouw said. The University attempts to equalize salaries of similarly qualified employees in the same positions, while disregarding accrued merit pay.

“The administration was probably even surprised when they saw how much marketability upped the salaries of faculty in law, business and engineering,” Mouw’s figures indicated all three professional ranks in the College of Communication and Fine Arts, the School of Agriculture and the library were significantly lower than the average.

Thirer, chairperson of a Graduate Council committee on salaries, said the state has historically underfunded SIUC. Faculty here are the “low guys on the totem pole,” while SIUC administrator’s pay reaches “into the higher echelons,” he said.

“Where’s our lobbying?” he asked, adding the faculty is paid poorly also because of the state’s reluctance to adequately fund SIUC.

Mouw said he doesn’t have a solution to low faculty salaries here, but his committee will prepare recommendation for the administration by the end of spring semester.

Escort service starts Feb. 27 for University Park residents

By Sheila Rogers
Staff Writer

University Park residents may feel a little safer walking and traveling downtown after an escort service becomes available Feb. 27. About 80 residents have volunteered to escort students home from designated places on campus, according to Wendy Wanser, adviser to the University Park Programming Board.

Escorts will be available at 7, 8, and 9 p.m. at Wham Building and Lawson Hall; at 7, 8, and 9:30 p.m. at the Student Center and Morris Library; and at 7:30 and 9:30 p.m. at the Recreation Center. The service, sponsored by the University Park Programming Board and the Triad Executive Council, will be available Monday through Thursday, Wanser said.

“The objective of the escort service is to discourage criminal activity, including harassment and other forms of violence,” Wanser said. “The goal is to help maintain a secure environment on the college campus.”

University Park residents are eligible to become escorts. A list of volunteers will be submitted to resident assistants for approval, Wanser said.

Volunteers must sign a contract listing their responsibilities before becoming escorts. Wanser said escorts will work one night a week, traveling in pairs to pick up students. Each will carry a flashlight and will be required to wear a cap and button for identification. Students who want an escort will meet in the Recreation Center before the escorts leave for their stations. The stations will have signs so the students will know where to be picked up, Wanser said.

The service is available to male and female residents of Neely, Boomer, Wright and Ellen halls.

If the service is successful, Women’s Services will help with publicity and allocate money for the service, Wanser said.

A supervisor will be available at Trueblood 106 during the hours the service is available in case any problems arise.

Anyone interested in volunteering may contact Nicki Glasser at 453-4291 or Tracy Stone at 453-4288.

A former resident of Krakow, Poland, whose report on the deleterious effects of marijuana use on laboratory mice appeared in the 1982 Science magazine, has been appointed chairperson of the SIU-C Department of Pharmacology.

Lamont Brantley, a 1978 SIU-C law graduate, has been appointed assistant dean and Director of Admissions in the SIU-C School of Law. Nichols’ appointment became effective last September 26.

Included among the 10 other appointments made by the board were Mary Davidson as associate professor of social and community services, Robert S. Stockley as director of the Cooperative Fisheries Research Laboratory, Nancy Zimmern as director of communications and public relations at the School of Medicine’s Springfield campus and Phillip G. Waeger as associate professor in thermal and environmental engineering and at the SIU-C Coal Research Center.

Brantley has served in the Student Senate for three years and is currently chairperson of the Committee on Internal Affairs. He said he favors setting aside post cards they want to sell on cards.

Brantley said he hopes to see the Trojan Party run a full slate of senatorial candidates this spring. Last spring the Trojans won a landslide presidential victory and swept 27 of 30 senate seats. He said he already has people in mind to help him implement programs if he’s elected.

“Selection of commissioners and executive staff is vital to the success of an administration, he said.”

Judge orders company to pay $4 million to 563 employees

CHICAGO (AP) — A federal judge has ordered Velsicol Chemical Corp. to pay $4 million to 563 present and former employees after he ruled that the company had improperly used the employees’ profit-sharing funds to finance a pension plan.

U.S. District Judge Stanley Beswick said Velsicol’s order will result in awards ranging from $200 to $250,000 to employees who in 1981 used Velsicol, a subsidiary of Northwest Industries Inc. The ruling, announced Wednesday, stems from a class action suit filed by employees who claimed the company improperly used its profit-sharing program to finance a pension plan.

According to court testimony, company officials from the company’s algebraic counsel and the employees’ attorney for the employees.

Judy M. McKeen, a senior in political science and administration of justice, as its student organization president.

Brantley has served in the Student Senate for three years and is currently chairperson of the Committee on Internal Affairs. He said he hopes other parties will consider alternative funding methods to improve funding for student groups.

Brantley said the purpose, which he said is to serve and represent students.

The Trojan Party has selected Lamont Brantley, a senior in political science and administration of justice, as its candidate for Undergraduate Student Organization president this spring. This year the Trojan Party is running a full slate of senatorial candidates this spring.

Brantley has served in the Student Senate for three years and is currently chairperson of the Committee on Internal Affairs.

Brantley said his primary concern will be to get students involved in issues that affect them. He said he will take a “human relations” approach to maintaining and improving relationships with SIU-C administration and student constituent groups.

Brantley said students are not adequately informed about issues and its purpose, which he said is to serve and represent students.

One county officer suspended, another fired for harassment

By Jeff Williamson
Staff Writer

One Jackson County jail officer has been dismissed and another has been suspended without pay for 30 days pending a hearing by the Jackson County Merit Commission, both on charges of sexual harassment.

David Frost, executive assistant to Jackson County Sheriff William Kilquist, and Richard Kammenga was dismissed last Thursday because Kamminga was a new assistant to Jackson and must treat all members of the department with respect and must not conduct themselves in any manner which reflects badly on the department. The merit commission is responsible for the hiring and firing of jail officers. The commission may dismiss, demote or suspend Johnston if he is found guilty of sexual harassment. Kamminga's dismissal and Johnston's suspension resulted from an internal investigation by the sheriff's department. Kilquist had said that the charges were investigated internally because they were raising internally.

"If the charges would have come from the outside, and would have been criminal charges, then we would have asked an outside agency to come in," Kilquist said.

Kilquist said the investigation could have been handled effectively, in such a way that there would be no question that he had taken action.

The sheriff's department officials said they could make no comment about the specifics of the charges until the merit commission has completed its hearing.

Son indicted in man's killing

CHICAGO (AP) — A 23-year-old man was being sought by police Thursday and two of his sisters were in jail after an indictment charged that they killed their father, stuffed his body in a steel drum and dumped it in a quarry.

The indictment, charging murder, conspiracy to commit murder and armed violence, was returned Wednesday by a Cook County grand jury. It names Wendy White, 25; John White, 21, and Julie White, 19, all of Chicago.

The father, Raymond White, 56, was shot nine times with a rifle on Sept. 12 in the basement of the family's South Side home, police said.

The drum containing White's body popped up Oct. 5 in a quarry in suburban Lemont. Though the drum had been weighted with barbells and welded shut, gasses from the decomposing body brought the drum to the surface, police said.

A passerby noticed it and called police.

The Salukis’ 8-1 start, a 275-plus average and a ranking in the top five in the NCAA Coaches Poll would make most gymnastics teams that haven’t scored more than 260 think twice about coming to the Arena.

This is not the case for Memphis State and Western Michigan, which will both be at the Arena at 2 p.m. Saturday to take on a sizzling SIU-C men’s gymnastics team that has won its last eight meets after losing the opener to the Ohio State Buckeyes.

Memphis State got a taste of the Salukis’ last Friday in Memphis, Tenn., when SIU-C scored a 276.06 to 261.75 victory, as well as looking off Jacksonville State, which scored 241.30.

On the other hand, Western Michigan is 5-2 this year, but its best score is just 260.45. Bronco Coach Fred Orlofsky should be happy to present his team to his ex-Coach Bill Meade Saluki Hall of Famer Orlofsky was the NCAA still rings champion in 1961 and he went on to perform on the Olympic team.

Meade has been stressing what the team is doing, however. It will be a test of our team’s depth.

That sounds like familiar words. It should because much of what Meade has been stressing since the beginning of the year. Meade has said on several occasions that the depth in the Saluki lineup is so strong that it could carry them to various heights this season. It has started to look that way with the Salukis carrying their eight-meet winning streak and big wins over Iowa and Iowa State.

But the Salukis will change a few things around in the lineup this weekend. All-arounders John Levy and pommel horse worker Herb Voz will have a day off as freshman David Bailey will get his first collegiate gymnastics start. Bailey will perform on the pommel horse and the parallel bars.

Murdy Melton will perform on the parallel bars, the rings and the pommel horse. Kevin Mazurka will replace Levy on the floor exercise and either Mazurka or Preston Knaut will replace Levy on the vault. Meade said he is not changing the lineup to give the other two teams a chance but only to give Bailey a shot.

"David is capable of scoring a 9.0 on the horse and an 8.8 on the parallel bars," Meade said. "If he puts his routine together, he may already proved himself with his 9.2 parallel bar performance in Memphis last week. We still want to score good as a team.

The Broncos have two all-arounders in Jim LaHaie and Alan Scharm. LaHaie holds the Western Michigan school record in the all-around with a 9.6.

The Bronco’s team average is 191.12, which is so strong that it has given Meade no problems in changing a lineup to give the other two teams a chance but only to give Bailey a shot.

Winless netter season to get tougher

By George Pappas

With a season schedule that’s getting tougher for the injury-plagued Salukis men’s tennis team, the squad faces this weekend in Madison, Wis., to face Indiana and Illinois. The Salukis are 0-3 this season, with losses coming against the Mid-Continent, Illinois, and Illinois. If the Salukis are still hard hit by injuries this weekend, their chances of coming home Sunday with a 0-5 record are very good.

The Salukis will be facing two strong teams in Nebraska and Wisconsin. Nebraska is 3-1 with its only loss coming against New Mexico last week. The Cornhuskers have a New Mexico State #1, Fort Louis College 9-4 and New Mexico Academy #1. Nebraska is 4-2 with wins over Illinois State, Minnesota, and Northern Illinois, all by 90 margins, and a 2-2 thrashing of Northwestern. The Badgers have lost to Minnesota and Duke.

If the Salukis bring their full healthy lineup, Wadmark, 1-3, will play No. 1 singles; Lars Nilsson, 9-3, will play No. 2; Garberiel Cock, 12, will play No. 3; Chris Visconti, 1-2, will play No. 4; Paul Reich, 2-3, will play No. 5; with either Quanor, 0-3, or Decker, 0-3 playing at No. 6. In the doubles department, Coch and Visconti have been the only Saluki victors. The pair has posted a 2-1 mark at No. 2 doubles. They beat Indiana and Illinois. Wadmark and Nilsson, 9-3, have lost No. 1 and Reich and Quanor, 0-3, will be at No. 3.

Third-year Badger Coach Pat Klageshues’ bright spots of the team are Chuck Swaney, Tim Klein and Beany Welch.

U.S. team grabs 2 gold medals

SARAJEVO, Yugoslavia (AP) - The U.S. Olympic team added two more gold medals to its collection Sunday as in combination with Scott Hamilton’s men’s figure skating title and Bill Johnson’s victory in men’s Alpine skiing.

Hamilton, dressed in the color of light, took America’s first men’s figure skating gold medal in 24 years at the 1980 Winter Olympics.

Canadian Brian Orser won the silver medal and Czechoslovakia’s Jozef Sodecek took the bronze. Orser was victorious in both the short and free style programs by America had expected him to have lost the medal that Sobovcak took the bronze.

Johnson, 23, of Calgary, the three-time world champion, skated at the Zetra arena rink, carrying the American flag on a long staff. Hamilton skated a victory program and Calif., stunned Mount Bjelasnica at an average speed of 33 mph above his run and finished 10th.

From the start of downhill training 12 days ago, Johnson insisted the course was made for him. It contains few difficult turns and several long flat sections, perfect for “gliders” — those who make good time on the flats. And Johnson, one of the best gliders in the world, predicted he would win after dominating training runs.

“I put a lot of pressure on myself,” he said. “The prediction, Johnson said Thursday his victory became apparent. “If I had another second, I’d be a real bum. I would have gone into manic-depression.”

Johnson, hurtling down Mount Bjelasnica at an average speed of 83 mph, ended European domination of the men’s downhill as he won America’s first men’s Alpine Olympic gold medal ever.

“Finally the string is broken,” said the brash, confident Johnson, referring to the nine previous Olympic downhill, all won by European skiers. “This is America. We can win a lot more. I was glad to stick it to the Austrians. They think they should win every time.”

“Not both America’s medal and mine,” he said, echoing the words of Debbie Armstrong to the crowd after her giant slalom victory, “Our America has won.”

Johnson, 23, of Van Nys, Calif., won in Europe best July 18 in Vegen, Switzerland, by becoming the first American ever to win the World Cup downhill race.

had to beat the favorites at Johnson and Armstrong in Alpine events.

Quad meets provide Vogel with hope

By Jim Lea

With a chance to pull its record above .500, the Salukis women’s gymnastics team will be competing in a pair of quadrangular meets this weekend.

SIU-C travels to Stillwater, Okla., to take part in the Oklahoma State Quad Friday night before returning to host the Illinois Collegiate Classic at the Arena at 3 p.m. Sunday.

If the Salukis can take top honors in each meet, then their overall looking back record would turn into a respectable 7-4. Although it may seem difficult for that to happen, SIU-C Coach Herb Vogel said his squad is capable of doing it.

“We have a very realistic chance of going to 7-4,” Vogel said.

Part of the Salukis chances hinge on how competitive Oklahoma and Oklahoma State are against each other, Vogel thinks. He says that the two teams will be too concerned about each other and not worry about the Salukis and Texas Wesleyan. Vogel said that Texas Wesleyan is leading the fourth team in the Oklahoma State Quad.

“I’m hoping for Oklahoma State to have a runoff with Oklahoma,” Vogel said. “The Oklahoma, the most favorite, has been given the "privileged position" and will start on the balance beam, an event that will stress concentration and mental toughness," Vogel said. If Oklahoma falters on the beam, Vogel said the Sooners probably will not have enough time to overcome their competition. “It’s a pressure situation,” Vogel said. “If they hit their routines, though, the pressure will be off them. The Salukis will start out on the uneven parallel bars before moving onto the beam. At Illinois State, the meet favorite, the Salukis can take top position,” Vogel said.

The Salukis have the top score in three of four events in the Central Region. Michigan State’s Spillman leads the Central Region on the floor exercise, 9.8, and on the bars, 5.75. Lori Steele leads the region on the vault with a 9.65 mark.

Ball blockade
The Caudnalate Terriers, 7-14, will be seeking another strong defensive performance from Joe Hamilton, right, when they play at Centralia Friday night in an attempt to clinch the North Seven Conference title. Hamilton held Benton’s Bruce Baker to just six points in the second half of the Terrier’s 65-47 come-from-behind win Saturday.
Bradley coach gives Salukis edge in Gateway cage chase

By Dan Devere Staff Writer

Bradley Coach Angela Beck has all but conceded the Missouri Valley Conference's basketball championship to SIU-C. So what's the point of deciding such matters, saddled with only a 34-1 conference record, but Beck calls the Salukis the best team in the conference.

"I think this is their year," she said.

SIU-C plays host to Bradley Saturday at Davies Gym, where the Salukis have won two of their last 12 games. SIU-C won 11 of its last 12 games, going into last night's game with Western Illinois.

Beck said SIU-C's depth, balance and experience gives the Salukis the edge on Drake, which trains SIU-C by a game in the MVC, trailing Illinois State a game and a half back.

"They're a little more well rounded than Drake," Beck said. "They're a little more average as far as the total game goes. Carbondale is Jeeper and they have more offensive balance."

ODD'S隱约 suggests one of the best guards in the conference and I don't think Drake has a guard like her.

Beck aid; she said she was impressed by SIU-C forward Charlee Conner Price, who are in the top 15 in Gateway rebounding and field goal percentage.

She said the Salukis' style of play is similar to Drake. "If I have to have a seven play to post season play, should SIU-C wrap up a conference title."

Beck added the Salukis defense in the regions you're going to have to play well if you play all 4 feet hard," she said.

Beck's team doesn't match up well with the Salukis, but she said she thinks her squad can still compete at Bradley.

"I don't think we'll have a shot at this game and will end up with a loss," she said.

In that game, SIU-C stymied the Braves' fast break and allowed fewer points than it has in any given game this season.

Price had 16 points and 13 rebounds and the Salukis saw extended time on the court.

Since that game, the Braves 6-14 overall, have rallied slightly. They have won three of their last six games, recording victories over Eastern Illinois State, and home victories over Northern Iowa and Southwest Missouri.

"Our offense is starting to come around, but I still think we'll give them a good game," she added.

"We've worked on our transition game. We push the ball, get a shot to go and try to rely on set plays as much." Beck added her team's halftcourt offense was relying more on specific plays and less on the individual.

Whatever the offense, guard Judy Burns is still the key figure. Burns, one of the Gateway's best outside shooters, is the team's only player averaging in double digits per game. She was an All Gateway selection last year.

The Braves will be playing a team that might be feeling the effects of a disappointing loss at Drake last weekend.

"Right now our team is very close, and the players are very excited," Beck said.

SIU-C's first half blitzkrieg eliminated the Illini earlier in the season.

"I can't believe he does so well because he's been so good," Beck said. "It was quite impressive. He is one of the finer guards we've face this year. Aside from his shooting, he plays defense and steals."

"He is something that when you play both coaches agree on," Beck said.

While strong at guard, the Buffaloes have been relatively weak in the post. Center Mark Ellerman is the team's leading rebounder with 12 points three a game and pulling down 1.8 rebounds.

The Buffaloes have lost six games by ten or more this season, Beck said. "Whatever the offense, guard Judy Burns is still the key figure."

The Buffaloes' biggest spark is their ability to score 14 points on the court.

According to men's sports information, Johnson said with 738 ranks fourth among active Division I players.

Jones is the associate chairman of the MVC's Area United Way Campaign.

Several of Jones' players who have shown promise to professional basketball have attended the reception, including Baltimore Orioles, and Neil Folds, Bill Lynn and Jim Chappell.

"We've gotten 104 for several major league organizations, is also expected to attend.

Women down Western, establish scoring mark

By Steve Kelen Staff Writer

Marialice Jenkins hit a 25-foot jump shot at the buzzer as the SIU-C women's basketball team eclipsed the century mark and set a school record for scoring Thursday night at Davies Gym.

The Salukis' drive for 100 points provided the only excitement during the closing minutes of the game. SIU-C had wrapped up the 80-64 victory over Western Illinois long before.

The Salukis shattered Western's half-court pressure and outscored their hosts 37-19 during a nine-minute period midway through the first half.

Char Warring scored 15 points to pace SIU-C, and Connie Price added 16, long along with 27 with 17 and 15 points and Eleanor Carr had eight assists and 11 rebounds.

DeNoon not emphasizing victory in Illinois meet

By Steve Kelen Staff Writer

SIU-C women's track coach Don DeNoon isn't putting a major emphasis on winning the 16-team Illinois Invitational Saturday.

"I don't look for us to score a lot of points," he said. "I'm going to pull Denise Blackman out of the 300-yard dash and have her compete only in the 440. That will enable her to be fresh for the one-mile relay."

DeNoon wants to see how the one-mile relay team of Karen Cooper, Katie Sautner, Denise Davis and Blackman will fare against the five other Gateway Conference squads entered in the meet. He said they hope to achieve the NCAAs' national indoor qualifying time of 4:33.43.

The five GCAC schools that SIU-C will compete against are Illinois State, Eastern Illinois, Drake and Bradley. Rounding out the field will be Eastern Kentucky, Kent State, Michigan State, Purdue, Northwestern, DePaul, St. Lawrence, Marist, and host Illinois.

It gave them a 26-16 lead. SIU-C led 52-25 at halftime and coasted for much of the second half until starting a closing minute rally.

"We hurt them inside, we hurt them outside, and we played tremendous defense," said SIU-C Coach Cindy Scott of the Salukis' first half blitzkrieg.

"I thought we played a very good, intense first half," Scott said, "and a very sloppy, unfortunate second half.

DeNoon picked Illinois State as the favorite to win the meet.

"When this meet is over, we have seen every school in the conference except for Wichita State, Northern Iowa and Illinois State," he said. "I think we will score points with Denise, Rhonda McCauley, and the one-mile relay. Anybody who finishes in the top six of their events I will be happy with."

Blackman set two school indoor records last week in the 440- and 300-yard dash at the Eastern Illinois Invitational despite setting a late out start of the blocks. She came in within 0.68 seconds of qualifying for the NCAA indoor championships in the 600-yard dash with a time of 1:39.

"We worked with her Monday and she looked good getting out of the blocks," DeNoon said, "and I think she might achieve the national qualifying standard in the 600."
