Asbestos in library 'not a threat'

By Dave Wrone
Staff Writer

Although pipe insulation removed from Morris Library's shipping and receiving room has been tested and found to contain asbestos, John Meister, director of Pollution Control, says it presents no health hazard. "We cannot say there is no asbestos being released," Meister said, "but it is well below the normal health hazard limits. We do not feel there is any health threat to the public."

The University's asbestos problem is "a thousand times less than the exposure limits by the Occupational Safety and Health Administration," he said. The asbestos content in the library insulation was "somewhat over one percent," according to Meister, which he said put the level below OSHA's limit.

Meister emphasized there are no federal regulations requiring the University to search for and remove asbestos.

"The University is going above and beyond what is legally required to do," he said. Concern over the asbestos issue was raised when library employees complained to Pollution Control in 1985. A sample of ceiling insulation was found to

CIA head nominee denies keeping Congress in dark

WASHINGTON (UPI)—CIA Director-nominee Robert Gates, facing tough Senate questioning, disputed charges Wednesday he played a role in misleading Congress about the Iran-Contra affair and loyally supported William Casey.

Gates, during a second day of confirmation hearings before the Senate Intelligence Committee, pledged to keep the panel fully informed of agency activities and said he had issued new orders, as acting CIA director, to assure the CIA does not get pulled into covert actions without proper authorization.

For more than three hours, senators probed at Gates' explanation of his role in the Iran arms-Contra aid scandal, particularly why Congress was kept in the dark about the secret weapons deals and not told of suspicious money from the arms sales had been diverted to the Nicaraguan rebels.

Despite some harshly worded questions about

"dissembling" and "passing the buck," the session yielded no revelations that appeared to jeopardize his confirmation to succeed Casey and become the youngest CIA director ever.

"There has been no new information gathered here," Sen. William Cohen, R-Maine, vice chairman of the panel, said as the hearing wrapped up.

The committee, however, will not vote on whether to recommend the nomination to the full Senate until after Feb. 26, when the Tower Commission is to deliver a report on its investigation of the National Security Council, the White House agency that carried the ball on the secret Iran arms sales.

Also, the panel plans a closed meeting with Gates, a 20-year CIA veteran and now officially deputy director, after the Tower report, ordered by President Reagan, is presented.

Tower investigation to end with McFarlane interview

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Tower Commission, wrapping up its investigation of the Iran arms-Contra aid affair, will have a second crack today at former national security adviser Robert McFarlane, a spokesman said Wednesday.

The spokesman, Ray Kempster, said investigators will question McFarlane at Bethesda Naval Hospital, where the former White House aide has been recovering for more than a week from a drug overdose police labeled a suicide attempt.

McFarlane was to have appeared before the panel Feb. 9, the same day he was rushed to the hospital.

The interview today is expected to be the last to be conducted by the Special Review Board.

The three-member board, headed by former Sen. John Tower, R-Texas, held a second interview with President Reagan on Feb. 11 and won a weeklong extension of its mandate at that time to examine new material obtained from the computer files of the National Security Council.

Convention center issue heats up candidate forum

By JoDe Rimar
Staff Writer

Carbondale's railroad relocation project and the city's downtown hotel convention center were two of the most talked about issues at a city candidate forum held last night at the Eurma C. Hayes Center.

The forum, sponsored by the Attacks Community Service Board, gave residents a chance to compare City Council and mayoral candidates.

Of the 13 candidates running for city positions, seven attended the forum. All five mayoral candidates showed, along with one candidate for City Council and one representative for a council candidate.

The coordinator of the event, Brenda Garrison, said she was pleased with the number of candidates who participated.

The primary election on Tuesday will narrow the five-way mayoral race to two and trim the eight-way council race to four. The general election will be April 7.

The youngest of the council candidates, David Madlener, a 24-year-old SIUC student in psychology and political science, said he is interested in changing the present at-large system of electing council members to a ward-aldermanic system.

Madlener, who lost a bid for City Council in 1985, says he has attended 60 percent of the council meetings since 1984.

Madlener and mayoral candidate Norvell Haynes submitted a petition to the city at the beginning of this month requesting that a referendum for the ward-aldermanic system be put on the general election ballot.

Haynes, a black political activist, stressed the need for equal representation. If the referendum is not passed, he said, the city is risking a lawsuit because of unfair representation.

WSIU gets prime cable slot; KSDK gets boot

By Duane J. Crites
Student Writer

WSIU Channel 8 will be placed back onto one of the first 12 channels in local cable systems and KSDK Channel 5 in St. Louis will be dropped.

Telecommunications Growth Inc., based in Denver, announced the change Monday.

In December, WSIU was moved to cable channel 19 in Harrisburg, Eldorado and Marion. Non-cable television and cable systems in Carbondale were not affected by the changes.

TCI said it will return WSIU to a top 12 slot because local school districts have had problems receiving the station's instructional programming, said David Bach, manager of Southern Illinois TCI properties.

The Carbondale school system has not had difficulty receiving WSIU, but other schools have, said Candy Isberner, director of the Southern Illinois Instructional Television Association.

Converter boxes used by school districts in Marion, Eldorado and Harrisburg accommodate only 12 channels, Isberner said. WSIU had been placed on channels higher than 12 in those communities.

Lee O'Brien, executive director of the SIUC Broadcasting Service, agrees with Isberner. "I am delighted that TCI has recognized the problem and is trying to rectify it," he said.

TCI is dropping KSDK because of reception problems and to eliminate duplicating the systems' line up, Bach said. The St. Louis station and WPSD Channel 6 in Paducah are NBC affiliates.

Defense questions witness' ability to recall death camp

JERUSALEM (UPI) — The defense lawyer in the war crimes trial of accused Nazi torturer John Demjanjuk challenged Wednesday the ability of an expert witness on the Holocaust to recreate events at the Treblinka death camp 44 years ago. Demjanjuk, 66, who was extradited to Israel last year, is accused of being a Nazi guard known as "Ivan the Terrible," who whipped and tortured Jews as they were sent to Treblinka's gas chambers in World War II.

Iraq agrees to halt bombing raids on Iran

By United Press International

Iraqi jets bombed six Iranian cities Wednesday, but Baghdad heeded a plea for a cease-fire by a prominent Iranian resistance leader and announced a two-week halt of attacks on Iran, the state-run Iraqi News Agency reported. The truce was called after Iraqi President Saddam Hussein met for two hours with Massoud Rajavi, leader of the Mojahedin Khalq organization, who called for a stop to the bombardment, the INA said.

Aquino orders inquiry of Marcos' cronies

MANILA, Philippines (UPI) — President Corazon Aquino Wednesday named a special task force to investigate associates of deposed ruler Ferdinand Marcos, who are suspected of cheating state banks out of as much as $7.3 billion. The government also announced that some $5 billion, the "bulk" of the money Marcos, his relatives and associates are accused of taking, has been traced to secret Swiss bank accounts and that some of it may be returned later this year.

Ireland's leader concedes defeat in election

DUBLIN, Ireland (UPI) — Prime Minister Garret FitzGerald conceded defeat Wednesday night in Ireland's general election, but it was unclear whether opposition leader Charles Haughey would win a majority in Parliament. Computer projections showed Haughey's Fianna Fail party would win around 80 seats. Eighty seats would be four short of an outright majority in the 166-seat Dail, Ireland's Parliament. But political analysts said Haughey could form a coalition administration, probably with independent politicians.

Motion opposed to release details in spy trial

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Prosecutors, dismissing defense motions for admitted spy Jonathan Pollard, said the damage he did to national security in selling U.S. secrets to Israel was as great as any espionage case in U.S. history, court documents showed Wednesday. U.S. Attorney Joseph diGenova, opposing defense motions for release of top secret information in the unrelated spy case of Ronald Pelton, said the request "ignores the principle that each case must be judged on its own facts."

GAO chief says agency traced weapons' path

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The head of the General Accounting Office said Wednesday his agency traced the path of the weapons that went from the United States to the Middle East in the Iran-Contra scandal, and he expected to give the data to Congress next month. Comptroller General Charles Bowsher said the GAO report to the special congressional committees investigating the foreign policy affair would include details concerning the disputed price of the weapons and would look into what laws may have been broken.

Bipartisan panel to run presidential debates

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Republican and Democratic national chairmen, muscling out the League of Women Voters, announced Wednesday their parties will run the debates between the presidential candidates in the 1988 elections—but the League vowed not to quit. Democratic leader Paul Kirk and GOP chief Frankahrenkopf named a 10-member bipartisan commission that will conduct the debates next year and in the future. They said the parties will not hold debates during the primaries. The League of Women Voters has been conducting the debates since 1976.

Administration to lift sanctions against Poland

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The administration has decided to lift the remaining economic sanctions against Poland put into effect in response to the 1981 imposition of martial law, a senior State Department official said Wednesday. Plans were being made for President Reagan to make the announcement in a Rose Garden ceremony Thursday to which Polish-American leaders have been invited.

Legislators seeking phone billing choices

By David Sheets
Staff Writer

Two Southern Illinois state senators are sponsoring legislation that calls for regional phone companies to provide customers a choice of billing procedure and free changes in their billing address.

But a General Telephone and Electronics spokesman said the cost incurred by the provisions could outweigh their convenience.

The legislation, sponsored by 58th District State Sen. Ralph Dunn, R-Du Quoin, and 59th District State Sen. Glenn Poshard, D-Carterville, would require, in part, that phone companies with "usage-sensitive" service offer their customers the option of a flat rate bill.

USAGE-SENSITIVE service means that each phone customer is billed on a per-call basis, where as the flat rate option has the customer charged a flat monthly fee for an unlimited number of local calls.

In Jackson County, Carbondale is the only city that doesn't have USS. But a new telephone switching system now being installed will give the city USS capability by March.

"Our legislation doesn't force anyone to accept either measured service or a flat fee," Poshard said in a news release. "We're simply making sure customers have a choice."

call for one year of dual USS-flat rate billing, with the customer choosing the most cost-effective phone service through the billing comparisons.

But John Green, GTE customer service manager, said USS customers must get USS billing.

"To do it otherwise would be too costly," he said. Green explained that long-term comparison billing costs would be passed on to consumers because GTE wouldn't get subsidies to cover researching and printing the extra bills.

THE LEGISLATION also provides for "lifeline" service under USS billing arrangements. This service would guarantee 90 minutes worth of free phone calls each month.

"For senior citizens, for example, a telephone is not a luxury," Dunn said in a telephone interview. "It's a necessary tool that lets them tell others they are safe and healthy."

Green said, however, that the lifeline service, like comparison billing, would be paid for by non-lifeline users.

DUNN AND POSHARD'S legislation also requires phone companies to give customers one change of address per year without charge and require phone companies to make free address changes, provided the change isn't customer-caused and the customer doesn't actually relocate.

Illinois should limit smoking in public

SEVERAL BILLS AWAITING discussion by the Illinois Legislature would ban smoking in schools, restaurants and elevators. In the interest of public health, the legislature should pass the bills.

A significant body of evidence suggests that smoking is the cause of emphysema and severe bronchitis in 85 and 95 percent of all cases, respectively. Health experts say smoking also increases the chances of contracting lung cancer and heart disease. The evidence linking smoking to life-threatening ailments has been building over the past two decades, but many smokers say they are willing to take the risk.

We have no problem with that. As long as smokers are aware of the possible consequences of their actions and are willing to accept them, their puffing is nobody's business but their own. When their puffing adversely affects others, however, government has a responsibility to step in.

A RECENT REPORT by the surgeon general of the United States says that sidestream smoke—the smoke wafting off the end of a cigarette—may significantly increase non-smokers' chances of contracting certain forms of cancer. Smokers are exposing non-smokers to a serious health threat. Viewed from this angle, passing laws curbing smoking in public places only makes sense.

Predictably, smoking advocates say such laws curb smokers' personal freedom. This is true enough. But the courts have ruled that where an overriding public concern is present, such laws are constitutional.

Enforcing bans on smoking in public places is one of the biggest problems the bills present. The bills would carry provisions to fine violators, but who's going to take care of monitoring compliance?

Sponsors of the bills say they are counting on non-smokers to bring complaints against individuals and establishments violating the laws. Given the increasing militancy of non-smokers, it is very likely this would be an effective method of enforcement. And, perhaps, after a few cases are decided in the state's favor, smokers who insist on violating the laws will discover that a puff in a school, restaurant or elevator is just not worth the time and money they may have to spend in court defending themselves.

Illinois is one of only eight states that lack limits on smoking in public places. For the public's sake, it should fall into line with the rest of the country.

Beauty contests live on inhumanity

GOOD OLD BOB BARKER. After twenty years of being host to the Miss America Pageant, Barker took a stand against animal exploitation by threatening to boycott the show if semifinalists wore real furs in a production number.

"There's no way to make a fur coat without causing pain to one of God's creatures," Barker said in a historic display of humanity.

Of course, if Barker had wanted to take his stand for animals a bit further, he could have forbade the use of cosmetics, since new cosmetics are often tested on lab animals to make sure they are safe for people. He could have banned the use of certain hair sprays and conditioners that contain animal fat and placenta.

But if Barker had extended his regard for our furry friends to his own species, he would have forbade the Miss America contest altogether. The pageant is a shameful, anachronistic meat market that pretends to judge between well-rounded personalities when it is really looking for well-rounded bosoms. Contestants pinch, prod and starve themselves into a competitive frenzy, all trying to be perfectly formed, featherheaded models of American womanhood.

We are sorry that Barker is so offended by real mink. But as this animal-lover sings another dirge-like chorus of "There she is, Miss America," he is furthering a sort of exploitation that makes his pre-pageant protests look as artificial as the contestant's furs.

Playing ponies can make Carbondale richer

Last Thursday's DE editorial rejected the idea that Carbondale should have an off-track betting parlor because people would be "tempted to throw their money away on a bet" and also because "local government should not seek to enrich itself through gambling." The public is frequently tempted with gambling, sometimes by churches having Las Vegas nights in hopes of filling the collection plate. Is this gambling so sinful?

C'mon, many persons throw money away on the Lottery with little chance of winning. In race betting you can look at the odds of the horses to see which will win. This gives people a much greater chance of winning than the Lottery, and given the great tradition of harness racing in Southern Illinois I am sure there are those who wouldn't so much think of it as throwing money away as merely making a great bet on a great sport.

Let's face it—Carbondale needs extra income. I feel that a surcharge on gentlemanly wagering is a good way to get that income. If Carbondale can collect revenue by allowing a legitimately-run parlor that can bring the great sport of horse racing closer to the fans, so be it. What's with the sheepishness Carbondale—place your bets.—Bill R. Ash, sophomore, radio-television.

'Platoon' has real sense of war's reality

For every good work, there is always someone lurking around ready to denounce it, usually for the sake of denouncement. In the case of the movie "Platoon," that critic is Michael Brant (Letters, DE, 2-17). Deeming "Platoon" but a "marginal improvement" on previous Vietnam films, Brant comments that the film "never breaks through to the realities of the experience." I would certainly like to know his definition of the word "reality." Brant's objection to the film's "steady succession of firefights, explosions, bodies—all of which we know are staged" suggests that he is ignorant of what happened in Vietnam. What is the reality of war if not a steady succession of death? I was particularly pleased to see that finally, an American-made film had the guts to portray Americans as being as ruthless as the enemy.

As for Brant's desire to know the motivations of "Platoon's" characters, suffice it to say that most vets were there because they had to be, and what they hoped was to stay alive and what they feared was to die. As for a lack of characterization, did Brant forget that one of the film's major themes is the conflict between the good and evil in two principal characters?

"Platoon" may not go down in history as the greatest film ever made; however, neither will it go down as unrealistic. If it were, would so many "Nam vets be so moved by the biting truth of the film, would they be so earnestly warned not to see it alone? When a Vietnam vet claims that "Platoon" is merely Hollywood's version of war, I'll take heed.—Barbara Brewer, graduate student, journalism.

Morris and Ruben can reunite city, citizens

In the upcoming Carbondale City Council elections, the citizens of Carbondale will have an opportunity to bring fairness and leadership back to the City Council. In the past years the gap between the city and its citizens has grown larger and larger. This can change if leaders are elected to the City Council that can bridge the gap between the government and the many segments of our city including the university community, the students and the northeast side. Two candidates that can make this change are Harris Ruben and Richard Morris.

Mr. Ruben and Mr. Morris see that reason must prevail before the city invests another ten years of our community's time and money into an increasingly elusive convention center. They see that there are better ways to preserve our neighborhoods than to pursue more and more restrictive zoning ordinances. They see the need for an improved business climate in Carbondale as well as the need to support the many fine community programs that enrich our city. These things can happen if we elect people who represent all of Carbondale with all of its varied groups.

—Tim Larson, geography.

Forget the pitcher ban, let's have a glass ban

The pitcher ban that the city of Carbondale has imposed on Gatsby's, The American Tap and Hanger 9 is really ridiculous. This only makes the student who is of legal age have to pay more. I propose we have a "glass ban." Since sneaking a drink out of a glass is easy, why don't we have just all pitchers? A person is going to have a tough time trying to sneak a drink out of something as large and conspicuous as a pitcher!—Beverly Piper, Carbondale.

Shamir, Reagan disagree on peace forum possibility

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Reagan and Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir disagreed Wednesday on the feasibility—and even the possibility—of an international forum to revive the stalled Middle East peace process.

Paying only the vaguest attention to the Iran arms-contra scandal and Jerusalem's role in it, Reagan and Shamir instead focused on what methods could be used to bring peace to the troubled region.

In a statement concluding his meeting with Shamir, Reagan said, "Our goal is setting in motion a process acceptable to Israel and all the parties."

"Any reasonable measure, including an international conference should be considered," Reagan said.

But Shamir did not mention the possibility of an international conference during the farewell ceremony at the White House.

However, after a Tuesday meeting with Secretary of State George Shultz, Shamir described the concept as "a Soviet-inspired invention."

Shultz said Tuesday, "You can sense from our statements here we don't see exactly eye to eye" on an international conference.

The notion of a conference that would put down a foundation for actual peace talks was one of several issues on the agenda for Shamir's four-day U.S. visit. Later Wednesday, Shamir, the highest-ranking Israeli leader to visit Washington since the scandal was revealed in November, was scheduled to face questions on the affair during an informal, brief meeting with the leaders of the special congressional committees investigating the scandal.

A senior administration official said after the Reagan-Shamir meeting the president told the prime minister that the United States believes there should be no further arms sales by any country to Iran "until it cleans up its act, in terrorism and human rights."

The official said Shamir also was advised that Israeli government officials should cooperate with all U.S. investigative bodies looking into the affair.

Israel was closely involved in the U.S. policy toward Iran as a supplier of U.S. arms and by its officials urging Washington to open discussions with "moderates" in Tehran's radical Islamic government.

However, Meister said a recent test of pipe insulation that had fallen from the ceiling tested positive for asbestos. On Jan. 15, United Thermal company removed a portion of the material.

Meister said for reasons unknown to his office, the insulation in shipping and receiving had not properly bonded to the concrete and had fallen.

"It wasn't flaking off. It was the whole chunk," he said.

"Because that stuff came down, the other insulation probably is not properly bonded," he said. "Our plans are to finish removing everything else in that room."

According to Meister, only the insulation that had fallen was removed, mainly to provide safety assurances to maintenance workers.

"That was a rush job only to remove the ceiling's insulation in that one room, because the insulation removal firm was already on campus," Meister said.

He said it was understood by Pollution Control that the job would be only partially completed because of the short notice given to the removal firm.

"The process is not finished," Meister said. "If it has to be removed, it will be removed."

Pollution Control, he said, has been planning ways to identify and remove asbestos at the University for at least four years.

Any future renovation or remodeling done to University structures will be monitored by Pollution Control to ensure the use of materials that do not contain asbestos, Meister said.

He also said his department will try to obtain additional funding to conduct surveys on areas not designated for remodeling. But it is difficult to get money from the University on an emergency basis without hard evidence, Meister said.

After Pollution Control studied the blue prints and construction contract for the library, which was built in 1956, Meister said it was decided the asbestos-containing insulation has been present since the structure's completion. He said the insulation was used on the ceiling because it was an effective soundproofing agent.

Rubin read a statement which said Rubin is against the railroad relocation project. He calls the "big ditch" project a waste of time and money.

Rubin, who originally was a fan of building the hotel convention center, says he now feels "luke warm toward it."

Mayoral candidate Mark P. Robinson, 27, said he thinks Carbondale "is a really nice town filled with really nice people."

He said he plans to be around for people 24 hours a day if he's elected. "If it doesn't listen to you it's not good government."

Robinson said he is against the convention center and the railroad relocation projects, calling the latter "another waste of time."

"It's bad for business; it's bad for Carbondale," he said.

Neil Dillard, city councilman running for mayor, considers Carbondale "the cultural center of Illinois."

He supports the hotel convention center, and said that if elected, he will work closely with council members to get things done for Carbondale.

Daniel DeFosse, 40, an SIU-C student in education, says he's running for mayor because he thinks Carbondale needs stronger leadership.

He said the City Council lacks leadership because the city manager doesn't have to respond to voters. As mayor, DeFosse said he will be receptive to the citizens of Carbondale.

Earl Czaykowski, a blind SIU-C student who has lived in Carbondale for 10 years, urged quick implementation of mass transit, more hiring of handicapped and minority people, and said that students bring in most of the revenue for the city. He favors a ward-aldermanic form of government.

NOMINEE, from Page 1

At the end of the hearing, Gates said, "I believe the committee has been very fair." He added he looked forward to "a very good relationship to Congress" if confirmed.

Sen. David Boren, D-Okla., the committee chairman, said the two days of open hearings—unusual for a CIA nominee—"demonstrates to the people of this country that we are a government of laws."

Boren said the "thorough" questioning was not spawned by "any hostility toward the nominee but because we have a responsibility to the Senate and the country to be thorough and careful in this process."

"The picture quality of KSDK has been marginal because of atmospheric interference and the distance the signal must travel to reach TCI tower sites," Bach said.

The cable company had planned in December to eliminate KSDK, which drew criticisms from many subscribers.

Baseball fans will see fewer Cardinal baseball games as a result of the move, KBSI Channel 23 in Cape Girardeau will air 30 Cardinal games, Bach said.

KSDK was slated to carry 44 games this season.

But the charge "reflects the cost of processing the address change," Green said. "This is an example of the cost causer being the cost payer."

"THE ALTERNATIVE is to say that the cost should be covered by all the customers in their rate payment," he added.

Mark Gordon, a communications spokesman for the Illinois State Senate, said the bill would be presented soon after the 85th General Assembly reconvenes March 3.

The legislation, if passed, would apply to all Illinois phone systems excluding the metropolitan Chicago area.

Experts say humans losing war against 'monster bugs'

CHICAGO (UPI)—Humans are losing the battle against insects by using more pesticides than common sense, creating armies of invincible "monster bugs" no product on the market can stop, experts warned Wednesday.

Insect resistance, growing with each new chemical challenge, threatens global agriculture and international health and costs about $2 billion annually, said Brian Croft, a professor of entomology at Oregon State University.

"We have definitely created a big problem for ourselves," he said.

ROBERT METCALF, professor of biology and entomology at the University of Illinois in Champaign-Urbana, said: "The short-sighted and irresponsible use of pesticides ... is producing strains of monster bugs. There are now about 30 species that nothing can kill."

The insect experts gathered Wednesday at the American Association for the Advancement of Science annual meeting at a symposium intended to bring the pesticide problem to the attention of Congress and other governmental agencies.

The scientists suggest the prevailing insect control effort, which typically involves developing a new pesticide and then saturating the intended victim, results only in making an insect immune to that pesticide.

THREE OF the more significant cases:

—Malaria had been nearly eliminated from many parts of the world until the World Health Organization decided to eradicate it, Metcalf said. The WHO spent 21 years and almost $2 billion before giving up in 1976; all they had to show for their effort was a race of malaria-carrying mosquitos virtually immune to all applicable insecticides.

—Cotton bollworms "weren't a big problem" until farmers decided to spray them. "Most of them were fairly well regulated by their natural predators and when we started throwing pesticides all over the place, we killed our friends," Metcalf said.

—Since 1950, the destructive Colorado potato beetle has been treated with 15 different insecticides and now enjoys a sort of blanket immunity.

METCALF AND Croft contend these cases need not have happened and that prudent "integrated pest management" may prevent future such occurrences.

"The main thing is you don't want to give an insect too many looks at the same pesticide," Croft said. "What we're suggesting is that you mix up your bag of tricks."

The scientists said that in the past the insecticide industry helped create the problem by pushing for the continued use of a single product, but that many are beginning to cooperate with integrated management efforts.

Senate panel votes to end all American aid to Contras

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Senate Foreign Relations Committee voted 11-9 Wednesday to cut off all American aid to the guerrilla army fighting to overthrow the Marxist-led Nicaraguan government—an effort that even supporters said will ultimately fail.

The action, approved on largely party lines, was the opening round of another bitter congressional debate on President Reagan's policy of supporting the Nicaraguan "freedom fighters."

Opponents said that while Congress might have the votes to pass the measure, Reagan would veto it and there are not the votes to override a veto.

The measure would block delivery to the Contras of the remaining $40 million of $100 million in military and other assistance narrowly approved in 1986.

Reagan has also asked for $105 million in new military assistance for the estimated 15,000-17,000 rebels and it is uncertain he can win congressional approval for it.

The furor over secret American arms sales to Iran and the reported diversion of excess profits to the Contras in violation of a congressional ban has seriously damaged administration hopes of winning congressional approval of future aid.

Reagan says the Contras are fighting to force Nicaragua to enact democratic reforms and oust their Soviet and Cuban advisers. Critics say the Contras are ineffective and will ultimately pull U.S. troops into the fighting—a step Reagan says he opposes.

The bill by Sen. Christopher Dodd, D-Conn., bans any U.S. government assistance for the guerrilla force which was recruited in 1981 by the CIA.

Sen. Nancy Kassebaum, R-Kan., asked the committee to wait until Reagan sends a report to Congress, expected within a week, on efforts by the Contras to improve their civil rights policies and broaden their political base. The report is required as a condition of releasing the final $40 million.

Nicaraguan visitors blast U.S. agencies

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Dozens of American citizens and groups critical of President Reagan's policy on Central America say they have been harassed by the Internal Revenue Service, FBI or the Customs Service following visits to Nicaragua.

Twenty people who had traveled to Nicaragua as tourists, on cultural visits or for temporary work in the last few years said in interviews that after returning to the United States, they were subjected to tax audits or intrusive searches by Customs Service officials.

Two of these travelers told United Press International they were "strip-searched," while others said they had materials seized or became subjects of FBI files.

Spokesmen for the IRS, FBI and Customs Service denied the agencies have harassed visitors to Nicaragua.

One former Nicaraguan rebel official, Edgar Chamorro, alleged that the IRS has harassed him in retaliation for his 1984 decision to break with the rebel movement and publicly criticize administration actions in Nicaragua.

Four organizations critical of the administration's policy in Nicaragua said they also have been audited by the IRS, which decides whether they qualify for non-profit tax status, group officials said.

Hoopster, 17, dies at game

BALTIMORE (UPI)—A high school basketball player dropped dead at halftime during a game and medical officials said Wednesday he died of heart problems associated with high blood pressure.

Jon Ausby, 17, a 6-2, 190-pound senior for Andover High School in suburban Baltimore, scored 15 points before intermission against Brooklyn Park Tuesday night before collapsing in the locker room shortly after 8 p.m.

He was taken to South Baltimore General Hospital, where he was pronounced dead about 9:30 p.m.

The state medical examiner's office said Wednesday the death was caused by "hypertensive cardiovascular disease."

Dr. Elijah Saunders, head of the hypertension division at the University of Maryland School of Medicine, said the disease causes enlargement of

"We do see blacks having the disease at a younger age than whites, but for a youth to die at this age" of hypertensive-related problems "is very unusual," Saunders said.

Ausby, who is black, had played three years of varsity basketball and football. The youth's coaches in both sports said Ausby had always passed pre-season physical examinations with flying colors.

"Jon was an all-American type of kid," said Andover football coach Jon Appelt. "He was one of the kids everyone at school looked up to."

Ausby had been nominated as Andover's Scholar-Athlete to the Greater Baltimore chapter of the National Football Foundation and Hall of Fame Awards. He had a 2.85 cumulative grade point average and had received early admission to Penn State.

Saluki men tumble to towering 'Toppers

By Scott Freeman and Wendell Young
Staff Writers

Western Kentucky's three-man tag team of Bryan Asberry, Tellis Frank and Kannard Johnson combined for 51 points and 30 rebounds as the Hilltoppers clubbed the Salukis 78-58 Wednesday night at the Arena.

The Toppers front line looked "real big in the paint" to Saluki center Tim Richardson, who was over-matched by the taller, more muscular Western Kentucky players. Richardson finished the night with 7 points, 5 rebounds and five fouls playing against the Toppers' 6-6, 240-pound Asberry.

Western cruised to a 37-28 halftime lead on the inside strength of Frank and Johnson, who each chipped in 10 points. Johnson also rattled home two dunks.

The Salukis managed to stay within reach on the three-point shooting of guards Doug Novsek and Kai Nurnberger, who combined for four bonus goals and 17 total points.

But in the second half, WKU put the 6-10 Frank at the front of a tough 2-3 zone to nullify the Saluki sharpshooter, holding Novsek to five points and one three-point play.

SIU-C coach Rich Herrin said the Toppers' "size caused us a big problem, and caused us to miss quite a few shots." The Salukis shot only 24-62 for the game. "It was a rather lackluster performance for the team," Saluki guard Steve Middleton said after the game. "But tonight was just a builder to get prepared for Saturday night's (conference) game against Creighton."

But the junior guard went on to add that "this game won't make us or break us. We'll put it in the back of our minds."

In the second half, Western Kentucky came out to take a 10-point lead at the 14:30 mark.

as Frank, Johnson and Asberry scored at will over the shorter Salukis.

At times, Herrin resorted to a four-guard set in hopes of countering the Toppers' purported lack of quickness, but the short lineup only opened the floodgates for the eventual 20-point WKU victory margin.

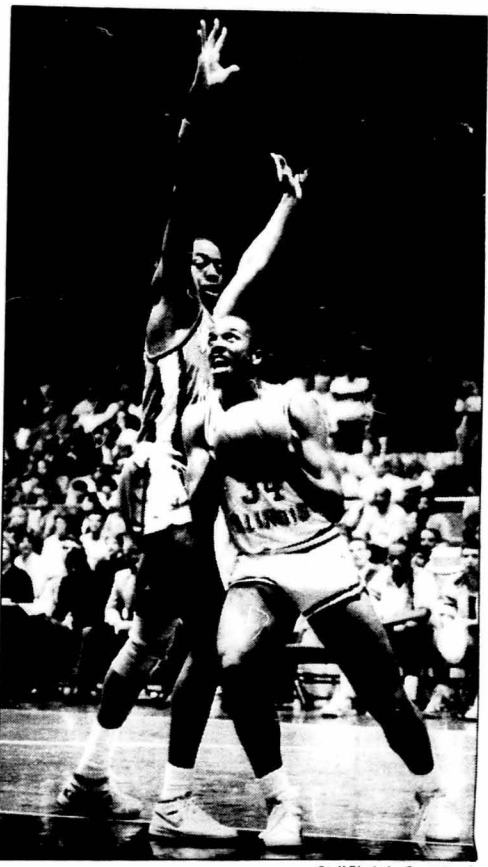

Asberry, filling in for injured Topper center Clarence Martin, finished with 17 points and 11 boards in what WKU coach Murray Arnold said was "a tremendous game after making his second consecutive start."

Frank ended up with 19 points and seven rebounds, while Johnson added 15 points and 12 rebounds for the 25-6 Toppers.

Novsek led the way for the Salukis with 16 points, five rebounds and 4 three-point shots. Nurnberger followed with 11 points and one three-point.

A key factor in the Saluki loss was Middleton's 3-16 field goal shooting. Herrin said the major reason for the off night by Middleton was the quickness of James McNary and Brett McNeal.

With the nonconference loss, SIU-C falls to 10-14 on the year.

Seve, stars to shine for LA Open

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The Los Angeles Open, rebuffed in recent years by the television networks and many of the PGA's top stars, begins Thursday with a new television contract and an appearance by Spain's Seve Ballesteros.

Ballesteros, considered by some the best golfer in the world, gained entry to the four-day $600,000 tournament when a UCLA sophomore gave up his spot. The Spaniard's European commitments prevent him from playing in enough tournaments to qualify for the tour, and he was suspended by PGA Commissioner Deane Beman last year for failing to participate in more than nine tournaments in 1985.

This year, Ballesteros is allowed to accept five invitations from tour sponsors. Since he's won two Masters and two British Opens, Ballesteros can participate in the Masters, U.S. Open, the PGA and the World Series of Golf.

"I think we should be able to play any place they want us," Ballesteros said. "I think it's better for golf if the top players can play all over. It would be better for the spectators, better for the sponsors, better for the golfers, better for everybody.

Ballesteros said he chose to play in last week's San Diego Open and this week's event to prepare for the Masters in April. In San Diego, he finished one of 13 players tied for eighth.

Among those who could give Ballesteros the most competition this week at the Riviera Country Club are Corey Pavin, Lanny Wadkins and Bob Tway.

"I think of all the tournaments besides the majors, the L.A. Open would be the one I'd like to win the most," said Pavin, who grew up in Southern California.

WBA may strip Hagler's title before bout with Sugar Ray

MARACAY, Venezuela (UPI)—Marvin Hagler may climb into the ring to face Sugar Ray Leonard in April minus one of his middleweight titles.

Hagler is the undisputed champion, recognized by the World Boxing Association, the World Boxing Council and the International Boxing Federation.

But the WBA is in the process of receiving the votes cast yesterday by its 23 of its Executive Committee members and WBA President Gilberto Mendoza of Venezuela will announce the committee's decision here next week.

Alberto Aleman of Panama, chairman of the World Championships Committee, recommended the WBA strip Hagler because he did not defend his title against top-ranked Herol Graham by Dec. 10 as the WBA's rules call for.

Hagler has been guaranteed $12 million for his April 6 bout against Leonard in Las Vegas, Nev. The WBC is the only group sanctioning the bout.

Women cagers set to gain win without Bonds

By Anita J. Stoner
Staff Writer

As the women's basketball Salukis departed for a game against Western Illinois, Coach Cindy Scott left behind this message: Gateway teams better not count the Salukis out just because Bridgett Bonds is injured.

Scott's squad will try to instill that idea in the Westerwinds at 7:30 tonight in Macomb.

"Our kids know we can be just as good a ballclub but in a different way," Scott said.

Losing Bonds does create a bit of a quirk, or at least an uncertainty. There's also the change to holding practice at the Arena.

"I'm interested to see how we do because right now, we're not a mentally sound ballclub. We haven't practiced well," Scott said. "Our staff's concerned, but then again, we've had two adjustments to make. Sometimes we play better when we don't practice well."

The 6-4 sophomore center Cathy Kampwerth will fill the fifth Saluki starting position.

The 6-2 junior Mary Berghuis will move from center to Bonds' spot at power forward.

Although this lineup gives the Salukis more stature, the taller people have a greater tendency to collect fouls.

"We had the luxury of great depth inside but now that Bridgett's hurt, foul trouble becomes more of a factor," step toward rebuilding under first-year coach Kelly Hill.

In the teams' last meeting at Davies Gym, the Westerwinds played the Salukis to a six-point deficit at halftime. But since the 73-51 loss, WIU's sophomore guard Michele Preuss left the team because of personal reasons and team-leader Laura Jensen has had to take a bench role because of a nerve injury in her shooting arm.

The league-leading Salukis bring a 14-0, 21-2 record into the contest while the cellar-dwelling 'Winds enter with a 3-11, 5-17 mark.

"Coach Iubelt's done a lot of work getting us ready to play Western. If we lose, it's his fault," Scott joked.

But the last-place Gateway team plays hard, Scott said, and the 'Winds have taken a
