SIU pay increases cut 3 per cent by Walker

By Jeff Jouett
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Governor Dan Walker has lopped off three per cent of the eight per cent pay boost for SIU employees approved by the General Assembly earlier this month.

Making the announcement at a press conference at Southern Illinois Airport, Walker said he reduced pay hikes for SIU and the University of Illinois to bring them in line with wage increases of other state employees.

SIU workers will receive the five per cent raise, or about $50 per month per employe, recommended by the Illinois Board of Higher Education (IBHE), this month, the governor said.

Gus Bode

Gus says even student workers get better raises than faculty and staff.

Dele A. Knight, SIU vice president for administration and campus treasurer, said he was "not surprised by the cutback."

"It really wasn't a cutback because SIU's budget for fiscal year 1975 was built on the IBHE recommendation of five per cent," Knight explained.

"The need is greater than five per cent, but this is what we were able to get," he added.

Walker told reporters he had no qualms about issuing pay hikes of less than the inflation rate.

"I feel it (the five per cent hike) is a good increase and is what the state can afford," Walker explained. "It is also comparable with private industry," he added.

Use of his item veto power to reduce SIU salary increases, was part of a rash of vetoes announced Monday by the governor resulting in reductions of $351.8 million from the legislature's spending proposals for 1975.

Walker vetoed 16 bills outright and reduced items on 70 others, he said Monday.

"There will be more vetoes later because there are still bills to be reviewed," Walker promised.

In a statement read at the airport, Walker blasted "irresponsible Republican leadership" in the legislature for "monumental overspending."

After claiming Republicans tried to force increased taxes, Walker declared he intended to keep his promise that "there would be no increase."

"I don't care how many millions or billions of dollars I have to veto, I don't care how many special interests start screaming, and I don't care whose political toes I step on."

The governor has yet to act on measures providing money for state aid to local schools, mental health, children and family services and public health.

The General Assembly is scheduled to return to Springfield Nov. 7 for a session devoted primarily to consideration of the governor's vetoes. It takes a three-fifths vote of both houses to override vetoes in whole or in part or to restore amended bills to their original form. However, it takes only a majority vote to restore reductions to the original amount.

The General Assembly, narrowly controlled by the GOP, approved a record fiscal 1975 state budget of $8.7 billion, nearly a billion dollars above the $7.886 billion originally requested by Walker in March.

Electrician spoons up jewelry

By Karl Plath
Student Writer

Most people, after a hard day's work, are content to go home and watch television or just plain relax.

Not so for Ken Depew, 50, an electrician at SIU's physical plant.

When Depew arrives at his Carterville home, more often than not he will go to his garage-workshop and pull out some old spoons and forks.

Some of these tarnished old relics are sterling silver; others are simply silver plated. At any rate, to the untrained eye, they don't look like much.

But Depew sees beauty in these and it doesn't take him long to deftly turn them into handsome jewelry.

Watching Depew working over one of the spoons he has chosen makes it look easy. But anyone who has ever tried knows it isn't.

He clips off the handle of the spoon and puts it on a form in a vise. He begins pounding on it with a rubber mallet, at the same time keeping up a steady stream of conversation explaining the process, how he got interested in it and what his future plans are.

After he has formed the handle to his satisfaction, Depew takes it over to his grinder and polisher. He takes off the rough spots and buffs the new ring until it shines like an expensive piece of jewelry.

In the space of less than five minutes he has transformed an old cast-off spoon into a ring that anyone would be proud to wear.

Depew says he became interested in making spoon rings about three years ago.

"We took a little trip and saw someone making rings in Tennessee. I had him make my wife and two girls' spoon rings.

"About three months later I started getting some old bolts and things and making rings from them. People saw them and wanted them.

"That's how I got started," Depew said.

Now he has a hobby that is not only relaxing but also quite profitable.

Two traveling dealers buy Depew's rings and necklaces (a fairly recent addition to his creations) regularly. In addition he has four or five others who buy occasionally. All the dealers also bring him old silverware they have acquired in their travels.

Depew will do custom work for anyone who has silverware they want transformed into jewelry. He can shape it any way they want, and even add stones to the piece. He has been working with turquoise, jade and agate, among others.

After his expected retirement in about five years, Depew plans to make jewelry full-time. He sees it as an excellent opportunity to do something he likes and still have the freedom to go wherever he wants.

"After I retire I want to do what I want with my life," Depew said.

One of the things he is considering is making use of the small camper-trailer in his backyard. He would like to live in it and travel around the country, selling his jewelry and going where he pleases.

Ken Depew is one of those rare people who will be able to realize a dream many have shared—doing something he really likes without being tied down anywhere.

Anti-impeachment brief filed

Panel urged to weigh nation's interest

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House Judiciary Committee was told Monday that even if it finds President Nixon engaged in impeachable conduct it should consider whether it would be in the best interest of the nation to allow him to remain in office.

In an anti-impeachment brief and oral argument presented to the committee, minority counsel Sam Garrison said it is "not only proper but necessary for Congress, having concluded that an officer has engaged in conduct for which he could properly be impeached, then to step back and assess the situation more generally, to determine... whether the best interests of the country would be served by his removal or continuance in office."

Garrison presented his argument as the committee moved toward the start of debate on whether to recommend impeachment of the President. Meanwhile, the House voted 348 to 40 to amend its rules to permit television and radio broadcasting of the debate which is scheduled to begin on Wednesday. The final decision was up to the committee. Votes on proposed articles of impeachment are expected to come early next week.

The House vote came after committee chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr., (D-N.J.) assured the House the committee debate would be broadcast from start to finish and would not be interrupted by commercials.

At the start, each of the 38 committee members will have 15 minutes to state his views, for a total of nearly 10 hours. Then, there will be another 20 hours of debate devoted to specific proposed articles of impeachment. During that period members will be able to offer amendments to any of the pending articles. Each member would have five minutes to speak on an article or motion.

Garrison sought to counter the argument presented last week by John Doar, chief counsel of the impeachment inquiry, that the President's refusal to comply with committee subpoenas was undermining the ability of the House to conduct its inquiry and was threatening "the integrity of the impeachment process."

"For this most fundamental reason the President's refusal to comply with the committee's subpoenas is itself grounds for impeachment," Doar argued.

Garrison argued that "an apparent noncompliance with an impeachment committee's subpoena is the beginning not the end of the question."

He said the committee "lacks any independent evidence that the conversations or other materials subpoenaed involved the commission of a crime or other offense.

"What is not lacking is suspicion. To build a case upon inference based in turn upon a suspicion is inappropriate for this inquiry."

On other allegations, he said: "The committee staff made no attempt to determine whether abuses of power attributed to President Nixon and his aides were not also customary practice in previous administrations.

—There is serious question whether the President's tax problems would constitute a ground for impeachment.

Nixon, St. Clair meet to review proceedings

By Frances Lewine
Associated Press Writer

SAN CLEMENTE, CALIF. (AP) Watergate defense lawyer James D. St. Clair met with President Nixon Monday for a wide-ranging review of the impeachment proceedings as the White House stepped up its attack on the actions of the House Judiciary Committee.

Plans were under way for St. Clair to hold a televised news conference Monday evening, two days before the Judiciary Committee was expected to begin final deliberations on proposed articles of impeachment.

The House voted earlier in the day to permit live television and radio broadcast of the committee's debate and vote. The impeachment panel was expected to go along with the House decision.

A Supreme Court decision also is awaited on whether Nixon should turn over 64 White House conversations sought by special Watergate prosecutor Leon Jaworski as possible evidence in the Watergate cover-up trial.

The high court also was asked to decide whether the Watergate grand jury had the legal right to name President Nixon as an unindicted co-conspirator in the cover-up.

The pace of the impeachment drama quickened Friday as the Judiciary Committee's staff issued proposed articles of impeachment charging Nixon with being responsible for the Watergate burglary and with taking part in a cover-up in permitting "a pattern of massive and persistent abuse of power for political purposes."

Greek, Turkish forces begin to honor cease-fire; communal fights go on

By The Associated Press

The United States said a cease-fire on Cyprus had begun to take effect among Greek and Turkish forces Monday but that communal fighting between Greek and Turkish Cypriots was still going on and may be difficult to stop. Britain set up a peace conference with Greece and Turkey.

Turkish reinforcements were seen coming onto the island as heavy fighting continued before the truce deadline. The Turks claimed eight Greek vessels were attempting to land troops in western Cyprus.

Despite the truce agreement, the United States ordered the evacuation of its citizens from the island to a 6th Fleet carrier.

All sides in the conflict that began with Turkey's invasion on Saturday agreed to stop fighting at 9 a.m., CDT—4 p.m. Cyprus time—but about 2½ hours after that deadline U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim informed a special session of the Security Council in New York that fighting was continuing at that time.

About an hour and a half later, however, W. Tapley Bennett, the No. 2 man on the U.S. mission at U.N. headquarters, told the council that "to the best of our recent information" Turkish and Greek forces "have begun to observe the cease-fire."

He added that there was "still communal fighting going on—that could be the most difficult to stop."

The Greeks living on Cyprus outnumber the Turks by about 4 to 1. They live in separate communities and Turkey said its invasion was to protect the island's Turkish residents.

Waldheim had told the council that Turkish planes attacked the airport at Nicosia, Cyprus' capital, after the truce deadline and that a bomb hit a U.N. installation, wounding a British soldier.

The secretary-general added that he had received reports of fighting elsewhere on the Mediterranean island after the deadline but he gave no details.

Associated Press dispatches filed from Nicosia about three hours before the truce deadline reported heavy fighting was continuing and that Turkey was landing fresh troops on the northern coast.

The Greek Cypriot radio claimed that a hotel was bombed by the Turks and that 21 foreign tourists were killed. The broadcast, monitored in Athens, Greece, identified the hotel as the Salamis Palace but did not say where it was. An area in southern Cyprus is called Salamis. There was no independent confirmation of the broadcast report. It was not known when the alleged attack took place.

Britain announced a meeting with Greece and Turkey in Geneva either Tuesday or Wednesday on a new Cyprus peace settlement. The three countries are responsible for maintaining the independence of Cyprus, under the 1960 treaty establishing the island as a republic.

Communications with Cyprus were spotty and slow.

Travelers reaching Nicosia from the north before the truce deadline said the Greek Cypriots were still in control of Kyrenia but that the Turks appeared to control a 10-mile-wide corridor running west from Kyrenia to the Turkish sector of Nicosia. The road to Nicosia from Kyrenia is about 16 miles.

Archbishop Makarios, ousted from the Cypriot presidency a week ago by the national guard led by Greek officers, conferred in Washington on Monday with Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

AP dispatches were subjected to Greek Cypriot censorship. After the cease-fire deadline, the Pentagon in Washington ordered units of the U.S. 6th Fleet in the Mediterranean to start evacuating about 350 American citizens from Cyprus.

A Pentagon spokesman said the orders were to fly the Americans by helicopter during the remaining daylight hours from the British military base at Dheklia on the southern coast to the amphibious carrier Inchon about 20 miles offshore.

Walker trims budget

SPRINGFIELD, (AP)—Here is a summary of specific actions taken by Gov. Daniel Walker Monday in cutting some $352 million from the $8.7 billion fiscal 1975 budget approved by the General Assembly.

PUBLIC AID—Walker cut the 10 per cent hike in benefits for welfare recipients approved by the General Assembly to 5 per cent. This means the average grant to a family of four will rise some $14 to about $300 a month. The cost to taxpayers will be about $28 million.

PAY RAISES—The governor cut the $100-a-month, across-the-board increase for employees under his jurisdiction to $50 a month. At the same time, Walker aides said the governor would spend the $28 million he set aside in his budget for a sliding scale pay increase for other purposes. Walker also cut the 8 per cent pay hike for state college and university employees approved by the legislature to 5 per cent. The 5 per cent hike had originally been requested by the Board of Higher Education.

LOCAL SCHOOLS—He cut the amount appropriated by the legislature for local school construction grants by $65 million. He said the remaining amount, some $235 million, was $35 million above the 1974 level and would be enough "in view of the sharp decline in enrollment."

HIGHWAYS—Walker trimmed nearly $100 million from the Department of Transportation appropriation approved by the legislature. He said $16.4 million of this was for 11 "pork barrel" projects sought by legislators for their own districts and $78.8 million was for roads which could not be started during the fiscal year but were added for political purposes. A list of the specific projects was not immediately available.

RAILROADS—The governor cut operating subsidies for passenger trains by $1.9 million and trimmed funds for railroad relocation and grade crossings by $2 million. Money for $3.4 million in subsidies and $9 million for grade crossings remained in the budget.

Presidential candidates to meet with committee

By Jeff Jouett
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Presidential Search Committee members and selected campus constituency representatives will continue meetings this week with visiting "potential" candidates for SIU President, chairman Willis Malone said Monday.

"We have no official candidates yet," Malone said.

The two-day visit of a potential candidate scheduled for this week, like the first one last week, is "basically an information session," Malone explained.

Candidates will not be "official" until, after their informational visit, they "make it known to us they wish to be further considered for the position."

Malone said he did not know whether names of visiting candidates will be released to the public when they become "official."

The first two potential candidates have requested meetings with the full search committee, campus constituency heads, and constituency representatives chosen by their group leaders, Malone said.

"This pattern may not be followed by all the people visiting," he added. Malone said he expects two visits per week until Aug. 15.

"There are individuals on campus who are receiving consideration," he continued. Malone said an on-campus candidate becomes "official" when the search committee decides meetings should be arranged for that person similar to the meetings now being conducted with visiting "potential" candidates.

No committee and constituency meetings have yet been arranged for an on campus candidate, Malone said.

Malone said he did not know whether names of on-campus candidates will be released as they become "official" candidates.

The search committee, Malone explained, will deliberate and, by the end of August, hopes to submit a list of between four and six "official" candidates to the Board of Trustees along with the committee's recommendation for the position.

Malone said he did not know whether the list of four to six candidates would be released to the public. He added he would have to await the advice of legal counsel before saying whether candidates names and recommendations would be presented in open or executive (closed) session of the Board.

Monday Malone said a number of potential candidates have indicated that "wide publicity" might discourage their candidacy.

Two escapees caught, charged in kidnappings

Two Franklin County jail escapees who eluded SIU and area police Thursday night were apprehended early Monday morning in Nashville, Tenn.

The escapees, Richard Maceri, 25, of Valer, Ill. and Ricky Sledge, 20, of Flora, were captured by Nashville police at 1:40 a.m.

FBI agents in Indianapolis have charged Maceri and Sledge with kidnapping in the abductions of a Carbondale couple and an Evansville, Ind., woman.

Police said the two escapees entered the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Crafton, Rt. 5, Carbondale, Saturday, and forced them to drink some wine and smoke some marijuana before they departed the Crafton residence with the couple and their car. The Craftons were driven to Evansville, and left bound in a rural area. A $10 bill and a knife stuck into a tree were left by the abductors.

Police said Maceri and Sledge ditched the Crafton car and stole another automobile belonging to Jo Anne Bruce, 32, of Evansville, with Bruce in the car.

The two escapees then drove to Corydon, Ky., where they released Bruce, the FBI said. Police say the men then kidnapped Phyllis Jean Teverbaugh, 17, of Madisonville, Ky., near Nebo, Ky.

The Bruce car was spotted by Nashville police entering a closed park. The officer yelled that the park was closed, and then the convicts sped away.

Nashville police took pursuit and pulled the car over to the side of the road, and apprehended the two escapees. Police said Maceri and Sledge offered no resistance. The two escaped from Franklin County jail in Benton on July 14.

Water district requests aid from council

By Charlotte Jones
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The South Highway Water District asked the Carbondale City Council Monday night to help them work out water shortage problems.

The water district board told the council the district was not getting enough water through the city lines to supply its customers. The board recommended that the South Highway water line be connected to a large city line running down Grand Avenue in Carbondale.

City Manager Carroll Fry said hooking to an inner city line might create a water shortage within Carbondale. He recommended that engineers draw up possible solutions to the water shortage problems.

The council agreed to instruct the city and water district engineers to work jointly on a solution and report to the Council in a few weeks.

The water district serves 934 customers south of Carbondale including private homes, Giant City state park, Little Grassy lake area, the Forest Service and University Farms.

In a city employment matter, Fry told the council the city could hire 23 new employes with grant money from the Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA) and the Emergency Employment Act, (EEA).

The council agreed to let Fry fill the job slots beginning this week. Fry said he will hire two street department personnel, one environmental and one housing inspector, one custodian, and replace two firemen who were laid off earlier this year.

The other job slots will be distributed throughout city departments.

Fry said the jobs may be only temporary—lasting up through the end of the fiscal year next June.

Before retiring

Rally welcomes Ken Gray home

By Diane Solberg
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Despite the mid-90s heat, more than 4,500 persons attended the "Welcome Home Ken" barbecue and rally in honor of retiring Rep. Kenneth Gray at West Frankfort City Park.

Gray is retiring after 20 years in the House because of "poor health." He was hospitalized about a year ago after a heart attack.

Gospel music filled in gaps between speakers as the audience baked in the hot sun in front of the bandstand. Gray tasted some of the barbecue chicken prepared by a 60-member food crew and quipped: "I'm a politician; I've learned to eat while I talk."

During the rally, Gray endorsed Paul Simon as his successor. Dean Barringer, director of the Illinois Department of Registration and Education, representing Gov. Daniel Walker, thanked Gray for the 25,000 new jobs he brought to Illinois through his legislation.

Gray is a member of the committee on House Administration and a high-ranking member of the Committee on Public Works.

He said before he leaves office in November he would like to be sure enough money is appropriated for the building projects in the nation's capitol, among them a National Convention Center and large parking garage for visitors.

Thomas Gray, the lawmaker's father, sat in a lawn chair under a tree and watched his son's first race.

Tom Gray said he used a flatbed truck to drive his son around on his campaign. Another son, Ralph, was in charge of getting water in the leaky radiator in each town. And a gospel-singing group, "The Prophets Quartette" was their campaign come-on to draw crowds.

Gray lost that first race, but a similar campaign was successful the second time.

He said of his son's retirement: "He's not quitting the people, he's just quitting the office."

Tom Gray said his son had several job offers including lobbying, but his son will take a vacation before he makes any decisions.

Among the projects Gray helped bring to Illinois are an organization to aid coal miners disabled by black lung respiratory disease, funds to complete the Devil's Kitchen Dam and four more Social Security offices for the district.

Grand jury to meet again on SIU funds

A Jackson County Grand Jury will meet in a special session Wednesday to investigate alleged irregularities in purchases of liquor and misuse of research funds at SIU.

Asst. State's Atty. Lawrence Rippe said Monday the grand jury will be "looking into matters at SIU."

The grand jury completed a four-day session Friday, but was unable to finish hearing testimony and witnesses concerning misuse of the funds.

The grand jury started to hear witnesses last week in connection with the purchase of about $5,000 of liquor from the Carbondale Holiday Inn over 19 months.

Funds for the liquor were supposedly allocated to other areas.

Rippe said there will be no grand jury report until the probe has been completed.

Brennan to host 2 STC students

Two automotive technology students from the SIU School of Technical Careers will be luncheon guests of U.S. Secretary of Labor Peter Brennan Thursday in Washington, D.C.

They are Wayne Wagner, 20, of Mt. Sterling, and Larry Ernst, 20, of Alhambra, winners of the 1974 Plymouth National Trouble Shooting Contest.

The STC students defeated teams from more than 100 schools throughout the nation in taking top honors at the competition in Dallas. It was the second year in a row that STC students won the contest.

Ernst and Wagner will be accompanied by instructor Joe R. Cash, who coached them to victory in regional and national competition. Also attending will be John Moore, Chrysler-Plymouth national manager, and other company executives.

The economy goes crackers

By Arthur Hoppe

In a bold move to curb inflation, the Government announced today that henceforth all U.S. currency would be printed on graham crackers.

The dramatic development could have been predicted as early as 1974 when pennies disappeared from circulation — their value as copper being worth more than their value as coins.

The nickel, the dime and the quarter soon followed the penny into oblivion — or, more precisely, holes in backyards and boxes in basements.

But coins were, of course, the only form of money people saved. Paper currency was spent with the speed of summer lightning. With the value of the dollar dropping more than ten per cent a year, there was obviously no point in saving one. For in ten years, the dollar obviously wouldn't be worth a plug nickel, which was already worth 38.2 cents.

The cherished American heritage of thrift and "putting aside a little nest egg for your old age" became patently ridiculous. Banks closed. Life insurance salesmen were laughed out of town. The national motto became: "A penny saved (unless it's copper) is a disaster."

So the people rushed out to spend their paper currency on useless junk they didn't want — such as commemorative medallions, antimacassars and hockey pucks — before the price of the useless junk they didn't want soared sky high.

Their foresight was rewarded when the overwhelming demand for useless junk that nobody wanted forced the price of useless junk to soar sky high. And by 1976, the all-important Useless Junk Index (1974 base: 100) broke through the psychological barrier of 1000.

Unfortunately, the Government had to print more paper money to meet the increasing demand for more paper money to meet the increasing demand for more increasingly-expensive useless junk. And this, of course, increased inflation.

Inevitably, the inevitable happened: Dollar bills, like coins before them, disappeared from circulation — their value as paper being worth more than their value as currency.

House Beautiful noted that "handy homemakers can now put together a lovely 9-by-12 rug with only 957 dollar bills." Better Homes and Gardens featured an article on "How to Wallpaper Your Fun Room for only $2780 plus Paste." And a money-saving best-seller was a pop-up tissue box that popped up dollar bills.

In this hour of national crisis, it was the noted economist, Sempole J. Simon, who proposed the ingenious solution of printing currency on graham crackers. There were three denominations: the plain dollar, the chocolate covered $20 and the $100 ice cream sandwich for the wealthy.

"The cause of inflation," said Simon simply, "is inflation. It creates a vicious cycle of worthless paper money and useless junk. The answer is to increase the value of money while decreasing the amount in circulation.

"People will certainly value nutritious, wholesome graham crackers more than worthless paper or useless junk. And we can decrease the amount in circulation merely by making it tasty enough."

Simon said he doubted the new monetary system would crumble if people treated the currency with the proper respect. And, anyway, he said, "all previous solutions to inflation have been a lot crumbier."

Semester system--is it worth it?

The end of summer quarter brings relief from the constant pressure of studying as well as apprehensive and questioning minds concerning the success of the semester system.

Now that the administration has gone through all its structuring and restructuring, its adjustments and readjustments, they may sit back and wonder, is it all worth it?

And now that the student must go through all of his scheduling and rescheduling, adjustments and readjustments, in the attempt to figure out how to fulfill the new modified requirements, and frantic running around from one advisor to the other, he may collapse from exhaustion and ask, is this all worth it?!!

The quarter system was fast and easy to become accustomed to. It made classes go quickly, which in turn made them and the instructors easier to bear. The transition after 12 weeks was a nice change of pace and starting the school year in September gave a grand old farewell to the end of summer.

Of course semesters provide a long summer also, with the school year ending in May. But attending classes for four to five months with no break might become dull, frustrating, and very difficult. Class attendance is sure to decrease and instructors' workloads on the students are sure to increase.

During the semester system more exams covering less material would be given and the student would have the chance to earn a better grade. But who wants more exams and think of a 20-week comprehensive final!

Semesters might be helpful in that the student doesn't have to register as many times but it lacks all the variety and chance to experience new classes and new instructors offered by the quarter system. Besides, now most classes are only two and three hours which means students have to take more courses a semester if they ever want to graduate. It will take forever to get out of here.

A summer quarter swiftly comes to an end, wrapping up the entire quarter system at SIU, students prepare to face a new environment of teaching and learning with the hopes that it is all worth it.

Letters

Motorcycle insurance

To the Daily Egyptian:

Once again the riders and owners of motorcycles across the nation must face the fact that overnight they could be put off the roads by the stroke of a pen. Also a huge dent in the nation's economy could be made as a result of the thousands of motorcycle dealers closing their shops and the large manufacturers and importers of motorcycles and supplies and accessories closing down due to the lack of customers.

People who are using their cycles for basic transportation are saving thousands of gallons of gasoline per day and causing much less air pollution than car users will have to revert to the air-polluting, gas eating vehicles.

At this time House Bill 10 is in the committee in Washington, D.C., proposing a mandatory no-fault bill for all of the United States. Since it is a fact that approximately 80 per cent of the car-motorcycle accidents reported turn out to be the fault of the car, and since if motorcycles are included in this no-fault bill the insurance premiums on cycles will increase over 40 per cent their present rate, we are asking that the interested public write letters to their Representatives in our Nation's Capitol before July 23 when the bill may be voted on, and request that motorcycles be excluded from this, or any other no-fault bill being proposed.

The address is U. S. House of Representatives, Washington, D.C. 20515. The members of the sub-committee involved in the first stage are: Robert C. Eckhardt, John E. Moss, Henry Helstoski, John Breckinridge, James T. Broyhill, John H. Ware and John Y. McCollister.

Special thank you

To the Daily Egyptian:

The Advisory Committee on Goals and Objectives wishes to thank all members of the university and Carbondale community who attended the public hearings on July 16 and 17 regarding university mission. Special thanks to those who presented statements for our consideration.

Also, the committee will hold another public hearing on Wednesday, July 24 at 7 p.m. in the Student Center Mississippi Room to hear further statements. The public is invited to listen or take part.

'Fantasticks' speaks for all in musical parable of love

By Michael Hawley
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Conventional themes such as boy meets girl and the resolution of conflict through maturity, all held together with a haunting musical score and dreamstuff, lets "The Fantasticks" speak a language for all times.

Described as a parable of love, "The Fantasticks" "tries to remember a kind of September," and is currently being produced by the Market Street Dinner Theatre in Marion through Aug. 10. Its production of this eight-player musical does this longest running off-Broadway show the justice it deserves.

A company of talented actors mostly from SIU, they work the love story of Matt and Luisa into a feeling, although occasionally strained, two hour show.

Matt and Luisa are young neighbors in love, as long as their fathers vehemently disapprove. But secretly, the fathers want them to marry but they don't dare tell their offspring. As the fathers explain in the song "Never Say No," "to manipulate children you merely say no."

The fathers, brilliantly played by Paul Klapper and Brad Trowbridge, secretly arrange an elaborate attempted rape "with all the trimmings," in which Matt is permitted to rescue Luisa and be the hero.

The second act watches the love affair fall apart as the couple separates to achieve some maturity.

Luisa sulks, Matt goes off to explore the wicked ways of the world, and the fathers rebuild the wall of animosity which divides their yards and their lives. Everyone ends up somewhat wiser, more willing to give and be fantastick.

Thomas Sheppard plays the special role of El Gallo, the rapist, and is the play's guide. As usual Sheppard's voice is extremely listenable, injecting more life into this character than he has in past productions. The amusing rape 'ballet' is handled with style, a compliment to the entire cast, which this scene involves.

As Matt and Luisa, John Pape and Valerie Barth are good, perhaps portraying their characters as much more immature than they're intended to be. Barth has a light, laughing voice which harmonizes well with Pape's. As a musical production, most of the numbers go very well, particularly those involving the two fathers and El Gallo.

Equally talented cast members Art Langan and Robert P. Gottlieb deserve note for their eccentric portrayals of Henry, the aged actor and his assistant Mortimer. Kevin Purcell, who has often demonstrated his fine acting ability at SIU, puts pantomime to work in the role of the mute.

An effectively simple set and props, and a fine company of players make this production of "The Fantasticks" not quite the adjective the title describes, but something close to it.

Metal, ceramics exhibit opens with reception

The combined MFA thesis exhibition of Jan Brooks Loyd and Kathleen Mary Thielen will open with a public reception in Mitchell Gallery from 7 to 9 p.m. Thursday. The exhibit will run through July 31.

Ms. Loyd's exhibit, "Unique Metal Objects," consists of 35 pieces of jewelry and other metal work.

Ms. Loyd has been a teaching assistant in the School of Art. She recently conducted a metal workshop at Helena, Ark., on "embellishing the metal surface," and she has participated in 22 national, invitational and regional exhibitions. Her work is currently on exhibit in the Goldsmith '74 at the Renwick Gallery, Washington, D.C.

"Clay Forms" will exhibit Ms. Thielen's recent work in ceramics. Aspects of her work in progress will be shown through a reconstructed view of her studio with tools, materials from nature and memorabilia pertinent to her vision.

Ms. Thielen, who also has been a teaching assistant in the School of Art, received her bachelor's degree in fine arts from the University of Wisconsin-Whitewater in 1966. After further study at Carthage College and the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee, she taught in high school art classes in Racine, Wis.

Ms. Thielen has exhibited widely and recently received an award from the American Association of University Women for a ceramic work exhibited at the Mississippi River Craft Show in Memphis.

Mitchell Gallery is located in the Home Economics Building. It is open weekdays from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.; admission is free.

Threat of water shortage averted by weekend pumping

By Dave Iбата
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Threat of a water shortage in Carbondale vanished over the weekend after emergency pumping transferred enough water from the recently completed Cedar Lake to prime the city reservoir.

Because of round-the-clock pumping, the water level in the reservoir near Evergreen Terrace rose from an unusable 11 feet below spillway Friday night to a satisfactory 5.5 feet below spillway Monday morning, according to Bill Boyd, director of public works.

Reservoir water then augmented Carb Orchard Lake water to surpass demand by 450,000 gallons a day, Boyd said. The surplus water was used to replenish the clear-water holding tanks at the South Wall Street water works, Boyd added.

"We're in the clear," Boyd said. Since the pumps were activated the water level in the clear-water tanks rose from a critical 2.5 feet on Thursday to more than nine feet Monday morning, water works officials said. By Monday the Wall Street plant was processing 3,300 gallons of water per hour, the officials said.

Full capacity in the 3.45 million gallon clearwater reserve will be reached when the water level rises to 13 feet in all tanks, water works officials explained.

Transfer of water from Cedar Lake to the Carbondale reservoir eased up Monday from a three-pump-24-hour shift to a single pump 8½-hour shift at night, water works officials said.

"Our plan is to go ahead and pump the reservoir full," Boyd said. "This will give us a 30-day supply."

Water works officials said that at present, "we've got an adequate supply up there to hold it."

A two-year-old registered Holstein cow, Saluki Deacon Prilly, in the SIU Dairy Center herd is among cows recognized this month for milk and butterfat production during the animal's last lactation period.

The SIU cow produced 18,250 pounds of milk (470 pounds of butterfat) in a 365-day milking period ending June. The cows cited for high production are from dairy herds enrolled in the Dairy Herd Improvement Registry (DHIR) official testing program. The production reports are issued by the Holstein-Friesian Association of America.

Only a two to four inch downpour will significantly add to Carbondale's water supply, water works officials said. According to the officials, the .16-inch and .05-inch rainfalls, respectively, of Sunday and Monday "didn't help usage any—just cooled off the weather."

Library course scheduled for fall

Two sections of "The Library as an Information Source," a one-credit hour course, will be offered fall semester at 9 a.m. and 1 p.m. Tuesdays.

The course, GSD 199-A, will be taught by librarians and will involve direct use of library materials to help students learn to find information quickly and efficiently.

If enough students are interested in the course other sections may be added. For further information students should contact their advisors or the Undergraduate Library, 453-2818.

Local art gallery to open Sunday

The grand opening of the art gallery at the Long Branch Foundation for the Arts and Sciences is scheduled for Sunday.

Artists and craftspersons in the Carbondale community are invited to display and sell their creations.

Persons wishing to display items should contact Pete Allison or Denise Porter at the Long Branch Foundation, 100 E. Jackson Ave., phone 549-6455 before Thursday.

Women planning lakeside camping

A women's camping trip at Little Grassy is being planned by Virginia Britton, staff assistant in Specialized Student Services. "All women are invited," Britton said. A meeting for interested women will be held at 2 p.m. Tuesday in Activity Room B of the Student Center. Britton said the purpose of the meeting was to find out how many women will attend so food supplies can be bought, to introduce the women to each other and to talk about basic camping information. She said the only cost item the women will have to pay is the food cost.

Britton said she is hoping 15 women will want to attend, and she said, they do not have to know each other or know about camping to attend.

The campout, Britton said, will be at a local primitive site and will include some hiking, swimming and other camp activities. She said the group will leave at 4 p.m. Saturday and return at noon Sunday, with transportation provided.

Britton said, "I don't want to give away where it will be." Not giving the exact location was a safety measure, she said.

Little equipment will be needed, Britton said. She said she will bring tents in case of rain and cooking utensils. She said all that is basically needed is a sleeping bag and sleeping bags will be provided for those without them.

Britton said the purpose of the campout is to meet other women and to introduce women to camping. She said she got the idea from hearing about groups of men who camped in the Ozarks during the last break. She said she never hears of groups of women camping.

Anyone interested in attending the campout should attend the organizational meeting or call Britton at 453-5738.

Construction bids to be taken for new 509-car parking lot

Construction of a 509-car parking lot at the site of a one-time campus trailer park should start in October, according to the SIU Facilities Planning Office.

Chicago youth found drowned in swimming pool

A Chicago youth, who was in Carbondale to register for fall classes at SIU, apparently drowned Saturday in an apartment swimming complex.

Herman Smith Jr., 18, of 3846 W. Monroe St., Chicago, apparently drowned Saturday evening in the Wall Street Quadrangles swimming pool, 1207 S. Wall St.

Smith was taken to Doctors Memorial Hospital where he was pronounced dead on arrival.

Smith had gone swimming with Dexter Goss of Apt. 346 and Melfield Warfield of Chicago. Goss and Warfield returned to their room while Smith continued to swim, police said.

At 6:15 p.m., Smith's friends noticed that his body was no longer visible at the pool.

The SIU Health Service was called at 6:24 and took Smith to Doctors Hospital.

Jackson County Coroner Donald Ragsdale said an inquest is pending.

The new lot—east of Brush Towers University Park residence halls complex—is part of a $697,000 parking lot improvement program announced a year ago.

Cost of the Wall Street lot then was estimated at $295,000. It will be asphalt-topped, curbed, lighted and provided with access sidewalks.

Construction bids will be opened Aug. 6, but actual work probably couldn't be started before Oct. 1, according to Willard Hart, assistant director of Facilities Planning. The project isn't expected to be completed until late next spring.

The site formerly was developed as a trailer court and SIU rented 53 spaces to student families. It was vacated last fall.

Hart said tennis courts at the south side of the site will not be affected in the parking lot development, but could be later if the lot has to be expanded.

Art Association to discuss events

The second meeting of the Southern Illinois Community Arts Association will be held at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at Shawnee College, Ullm.

The purpose of these planning meetings will be to develop performing arts events in Southern Illinois. The meeting will be held in the administration building.

Ragtime, fifties music to be featured at River Festival

Ragtime and rock n' roll will highlight the Mississippi River Festival when The New England Conservatory Ragtime Ensemble and Sha Na Na are presented at the SIU Edwardsville campus this week.

The New England Conservatory Ragtime Ensemble will appear on Tuesday at 8:30 p.m. Originally designed to acquaint the 1972 Romantic American Music Festival audience with the works of Scott Joplin, the ensemble has expanded their repertoire to include the works of James Scott, Joseph Lamb, Debussy, Charles Ives and Jelly Roll Morton.

The New England Conservatory Ragtime Ensemble has won a Grammy award and consists of flute, piccolo, clarinet, trumpet, trombone, tuba, piano, drums, two violins, viola, cello and bass.

Greasy fifties rock n' roll, epitomized by Sha Na Na, will occupy the Mississippi River Festival stage on Wednesday at 8:30 p.m. Sha Na Na obtained its first national exposure at the Woodstock music festival and has been selling out concert dates since. The group has released six albums to date, the latest being "Hot Sox." Tickets for both shows range from $2 to $5.50 and may be purchased at the Central Ticket Office in the Student Center.

Winning poster to be distributed by Peace Center

The Carbondale Peace Center is distributing copies of the winning poster in its amnesty poster contest.

The blue-on-white poster was designed by Jean Giguet of Carbondale.

The Peace Center plans to distribute the poster locally and nationally. A fifty-cent donation is requested for single copies available at the Student Christian Foundation at the corner of South Illinois and Grand.

The posters are meant to raise public concern over the American citizens in exile, in prison or in legal jeopardy for resisting participation in the Vietnam war.

Groups to honor health volunteers

A Recognition Ceremony for the past year's volunteers at all shelter care homes and nursing homes in Jackson County will be held at 7 p.m., Aug. 6, at the Lutheran Center, 700 S. University.

Certificates and plaques will be presented to the volunteers and to volunteer groups.

The Ceremony will be sponsored by the Department of Mental Health at Anna State Hospital and by the 708 Board of the Jackson County Mental Health Association.

Medical claims should be filed

The SIU Personnel Office wishes to remind all employees that they should file all prescription drug and major medical claims to Blue Cross-Blue Shield.

These claims should be filed immediately with the benefit section of the Personnel Office.

Beach nuders stir authorities

By The Associated Press

Angered by what they fear may become Son of Striking, authorities in some coastal areas are doing slow burns over an outbreak of beachfront nudity.

Others, however, say they consider the practice of going nude something less than a threat to the Republic and have concluded that the show must go on.

"I'm willing to be busted for this because I think it's a worthy cause," declared Giselle Rodulfo, 22, who reclined topless at New York's Jacob Riis Park over the weekend.

"I go naked because I don't like a bathing suit sticking to me in the water and the sand getting in it and scratching my skin," was the explanation from Annette Rosenow, a 22-year-old nurse interviewed at Black's Beach near San Diego.

The Misses Rodulfo and Rosenow are among hundreds of beachgoers who have concluded bathing doesn't necessarily mean a bathing suit. That conclusion, however, is under some dispute.

The Veterans Administration has tentatively assigned Charles Crews and Robert Feusahrens as the new VA representatives to SIU.

Assertive training program planned

"An Introduction to Assertive Training" program will be held at 8 p.m. Thursday in Activity Room B of the Student Center.

The discussion program will be led by Yvonne Hardaway of the SIU Counseling Center. Hardaway is responsible for developing an assertive training method which has been widely used at SIU.

The program, sponsored by the Feminist Action Coalition (FAC) is free and open to the public.

Following the program will be an FAC general business meeting.

VA to name SIU assistants

Joseph Zimny, coordinator at Student Work and Financial Assistance, said SIU has responded to the tentative appointments. The final decision on the appointments will be made by the VA within the next few weeks.

As VA representatives, Crews and Feusahrens will be part of a nationwide VA program set to begin Aug. More than 1300 Vet Reps have been hired nationally to assist veterans in filling out forms and to check with colleges on certification to assure that the veteran receives his assistance check.

Crews and Feusahrens have just completed an intensive two weeks training course sponsored by the VA at Case Western University in Cleveland.

Buzbee to speak on wheat problem

State Senator Kenneth Buzbee, D-Carbondale, will hold a public hearing on the severe discounts area farmers are taking because of garlic in their wheat at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at the Knights of Columbus Hall, 312 N. Gordon, Pinckneyville.

"The wheat farmers of Southern Illinois are suffering great losses and I want to find out now if anything can be done before they have sold all of this year's wheat crop," Buzbee said.

Buzbee said Monday a state House of Representatives subcommittee is being formed to study the problem.

All-rookie exhibition season?

NFL strike negotiations breakoff

WASHINGTON—Negotiations in the National Football League labor dispute collapsed Monday—further threatening the start of the exhibition schedule—and the federal mediator said no further meetings between the owners and the striking players would be called "until there is reason to believe that the talks will result in progress."

In New York, Wellington Mara, owner of the New York Giants and chairman of the owners' executive committee, said there was a likelihood "that we are going to play our preseason games without many of our established veterans."

"Accordingly," Mara said, "the NFL Management Council has implemented a league-wide policy on ticket refunds, consistent with the belief that the fans should in no way become involved in a dispute that is not theirs."

The announcement in Washington by mediator James Scarce came minutes after he had met briefly with representatives of the players' union and an attorney for the 26 club owners.

"There was no progress made today toward reaching an agreement and negotiations have broken off," Scarce said. "The Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service will continue to make its services available but there is little we can do until both parties are willing to consummate an agreement."

"We do not plan to call another meeting until there is reason to believe that the talks will result in progress," Scarce said.

Mara, explaining the owners' belief that there is "the real possibility" that rookies and free agents would make up a large part of the teams in exhibition games, said: "We have reached a total impasse in our negotiations with the NFL Players Association. We are confident the games will be attractive and competitive, but we feel the fans should have an opportunity to decide that for themselves."

"We believe holders of tickets for the Hall of Fame Game in Canton, Ohio, Saturday and for the first week of preseason games Aug. 2-5 should be entitled to refunds if they so desire. Sponsors of the Hall of Fame Game have joined in this decision."

"Any holder of a ticket to any one of those games can ask for his money back, with no effect on future games or on season-ticket priority," Mara said, "provided the refund is applied for no later than 48 hours before the game."

Bill Curry, president of the NFL Players Association, led a group of seven players to the meeting, which lasted only 10 minutes, until Sargent Karch, an attorney for the NFL Management Council arrived, entered the room, and left the Labor Department building within two minutes. As he walked down the hall, Karch told newsmen: "There are no proposals. I'll be back when there are proposals the Players Association wishes to give us."

After bargaining talks all but collapsed Sunday, following three days of talks, representatives for the owners said they would not attend any further meetings unless the association came up with some new proposals.

Curry said after the Monday session: "We'll be back tomorrow, the next day, the next day and the next day. As soon as they show up, we'll continue to bargain."

Ed Garvey, the NFLPA executive director, told newsmen: "We're all here and they sent a messenger. We tried to continue as we were proceeding on Saturday and yesterday. But obviously we can't sit in there and talk to the mediators."

At a later news conference, Curry and Garvey said they believed Theodore Kheel, the owners' special counsel, was undermining the negotiations.

"We were making some progress over the weekend," Garvey said. "We backed off on some of our demands. Then they were coming up on some of theirs. The more progress we made, the more uptight Kheel got, so he called of the negotiations."

"Kheel should stop tying the hands of the mediator," Garvey said. "Kheel is more a part of the problem than of the solution."

Curry said that, during the weekend, the Players Association made what he called "substantial changes" in its position. But he declined to discuss them because he said the membership had not been contacted.

He said, however, that none of the changes dealt with the freedom issues because the negotiations had not gotten into them yet.

Asked how long the strike might now last, none of the players cared to comment. Garvey said, though, that strike will last until "the owners stop trying to union-bust and stop trying to play pickup games with rookies and free agents."

NFLPA leaders said they would attempt to keep the Hall of Fame Game and other exhibitions from being played—but again they declined to give specific, such as asking other unions to honor the players' picket lines.

The players' strike began July 1 when it became apparent that the two warring parties could not agree on a new contract.

Purse in Women's Open far below men's pay-off

By Jerry Liska
AP Sports Writer

LA GRANGE, Ill. (AP)—When it comes to United States Open Golf championships, it is still Beast over Beauty on every county by a country club mile.

The National Women's Open which wound up at Grange Country Club Sunday jammed with excitement and eye-catching competing dolls set records of dubious distinction, compared with any U.S. Men's Open.

The top feminine prestige tournament drew a record four-day attendance, a record closing-day crowd and paid off a record purse.

But the four-day attendance of 15,839 scarcely was a drop in the turnstile bucket compared with the men's U.S.

Tuesday's 18 games scheduled

The following games have been scheduled for Tuesday by the Office of Recreation and Intramurals:

At 5:15 p.m. on field 1, Boogie Boys vs. Club's Commandos; and on field 2, Mothers vs. Up Your Alley.

At 6:15 p.m. on field 1, Phi Sigma Kappa vs. Third Floor Turkeys; on field 2, The C.I.A. vs. Ballbusters; and on field 4, Phantom Hawks vs. Matza Ballers.

On Friday, there will be a meeting of all team managers whose teams have won 50 per cent of their games or more. A team representative must be present at 10:30 a.m. in the Office of Recreation and Intramurals, Room 128 of the SIU Arena.

Open and ditto for the final-day throng of 6,500 and the winning purse of $6,073 grabbed in a hectic finish by Sandra Haynie.

The best previous overall attendance in the 29-year-old women's Open was 15,644 in 1966 at Hazeltine Country Club near Minneapolis.

Best closing day crowd had been 6,000 last year at Rochester, N.Y. Country Club.

The $40,000 overall purse automatically paid better this time because the sponsoring United States Golf Association didn't hold back any money for soots in the finishing 54-player field won by amateurs.

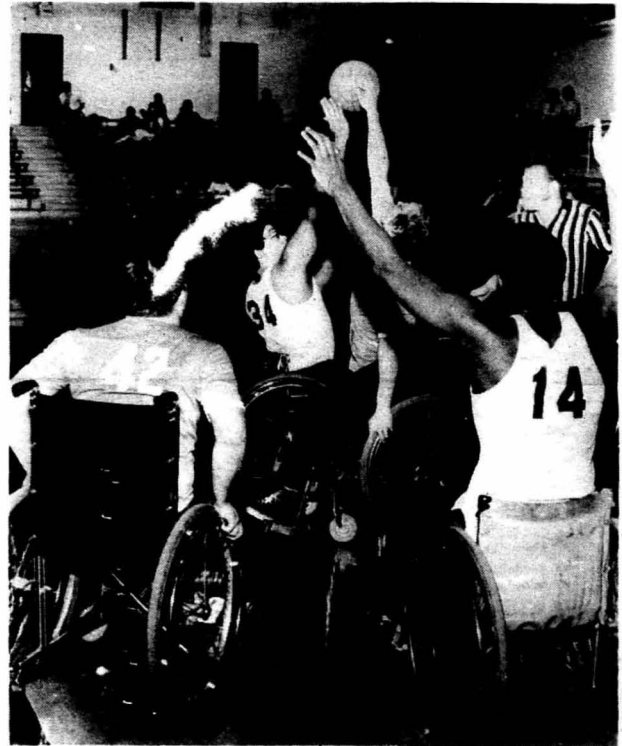

There were 14 amateurs, including the United States entire 1974 Curtis Cup team, who were around at the finish. They were led by Debby Massey who tied for seventh, four strokes behind Miss Haynie.

The Ladies Professional Golf Association is pressuring the USGA for a fatter Open purse, but even if it is boosted to $60,000 or $70,000 as the LPGA wants, it still will fall far short of four stops on the four worth $100,000 or more.

"What we need is better promotion, like the fine job done on the Dinah Shore Winner's Circle tournament," said JoAnne Carner, who tied for fourth here Sunday.

"We can't keep our Open a secret and expect the kind of turnout this tournament deserves."

The prestige of a women's Open title offers paltry return, compared with the financial windfall in endorsements heaped on the U.S. Men's Open winner.

International Squids

Wheelchair basketball will be one of the sports that four members of the SIU Squids will be competing in this week during the Stoke-Mandville Games for wheelchair athletes in London, England. Eilyn Boyd, D. Wenado Howard, Ray Clark and Leon Sturtz are representing SIU in the international meet.

All-Star philosophies differ

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Andy Messersmith of the Los Angeles Dodgers, starting pitcher for the National League in Tuesday night's All-Star game, said Monday he is not taking the game as seriously as the American League.

Messersmith will oppose Cleveland's Gaylord Perry in the nationally televised game before a sellout crowd of more than 50,000 in Three Rivers Stadium.

"Putting a lot of emphasis on this game is wrong," said Messersmith as the two squads assembled for the renewal of the mid-season rivalry. "I think it can be taken too seriously."

The AL, however, is taking it quite seriously since it has lost 10 of the last 11 All-Star games and dropped behind in the series, 25-18 with one tie. American League Manager Dick Williams of the California Angeles is committed to ending that dry spell.

"We are going to try our best to keep our best players out there, whether they are starters or reserves," said Williams. "The National League has dominated this game recently. Maybe we have to try for a little more pride in our work."

Williams said he would hold a pre-game meeting with his club and then send the AL out to "try and win at all costs." That followed the feelings of American League President Lee MacPhail, who had suggested recently that AL teams avoid using All-Star game pitchers on the Sunday before the game so they would be available for use by Williams Tuesday night. Only relievers John Hiller of Detroit and Rollie Fingers of Oakland were used on Sunday, so Williams has a rested staff.
