Student borrowers climb Mount Debt money.

"It adds terribly to a student's loan indebtedness," he said. "Students are coming out of school with too much indebtedness as it is, and this program does nothing to alleviate it."

Under the new program, undergraduate students can borrow $4,000 each of the first two years and $5,000 in each of the following years. Graduate students can borrow $10,000 a

Income contingent loan repayment rates are based on the borrower's annual income. "The amount is adjusted by how much you earn," Camille said

For the first two years of repayment, the borrower pays $30 per month for each $10,000 of loan indebtedness.

Oil tankers arrive in Gulf unthreatened

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The first convoy of U.S. Navy-escorted Kuwaiti oil tankers made it safely through the Strait of Hormuz and into the Persian Gulf, beyond the range of Iranian Silkworm missiles, the Pentagon said Wednesday.

"We're relieved that they're out of the Silkworm missile envelope," Pentagon spokesman Robert Sims said after the 1 p.m. passage of the five-ship convoy through the strait strait

The envelope covers the 50-mile range of the Chinese-made mobile missiles, which are armed with 1,000-pound explosive warheads.

The only incident occurred when a helicopter chartered by the media came within a 1,000 yards of the guided missile destroyer USS Kidd and the ship had to warn it away by firing a flare, Sims said. The helicopter then clattered off.

There were no displays of hostile intent toward the convoy by Iranian aircraft or ships when the three warships escorted the tankers Bridgeton and Gas Prince through the 30-mile wide, horseshoe-shaped strait, Sims said. "This is the first mission and we're happy that it's going so well as it is," Sims said. Only two of the 11 Kuwaiti oil and gas tankers have been reflagged and the next escort operation will take place after the Bridgeton and Gas Prince load up and head southward through the gulf. Sims said he did not have a scheduled departure of the ships from Kuwait.

The convoy is expected to arrive at the Kuwaiti oil terminal of Al Ahmadi Friday morning, he said.

Soviet, Syrian cosmonauts to linkup with space station

MOSCOW (UPI) — Three cosmonauts, including a Syrian air force officer, blasted off from the Baikonur launch site in Soviet Central Asia early Wednesday for a mid-space rendezvous with two other cosmonauts in their 167th day aboard the orbiting Mir space station, Radio Moscow said. The joint Soviet-Syrian mission, scheduled to last until July 30, is the 12th Soviet flight inschizing a pitterpricipal crew. involving an international crew

Arab leader ends Israeli trip on positive note

TEL AVIV, Israel (UPI) — Egypt's foreign minister ended a long-awaited visit to Israel Wednesday saying he was cautiously optimistic about prospects for an international peace conference on the Arab-Israeli conflict. Foreign Minister Esmat Abdel-Meguid, who also is Egypt's deputy prime minister, arrived Monday saying he was on a "mission for peace" and urging Israel to stand united behind the concept of a peace conference.

Chinese, Soviets resume land dispute talks

BEIJING (UPI) — China and the Soviet Union will resume talks next month to try to resolve their long-standing boundary dispute, the Foreign Ministry said Wednesday. Spokesman Li Zhaoxing told reporters at a weekly news briefing that the negotiations would begin Aug. 7 in Beijing, but gave no further details. China claims it lost more than 600,000 square miles to the Soviets through unequal treaties in the 19th century, but is not demanding a return of all the land.

Aquino passes agrarian land reform bill

MANILA, Philippines (UPI) — Pres dent Corazon Aquino, battling rural poverty and a stubborn communist insurgency, signed a sweeping agrarian reform program Wednesday that orders the division of privately owned agricultural estates and provides plots to millions of landless tenant farmers. Aquino said her own family agreed to divide its own 15,600-acre sugar plantation among its tenant farmers and submit to voluntary profit sharing, saying, "No one is above the law."

Cuban radio interferes with U.S. stations

WASHINGTON (UPI) — High-powered Cuban radio transmissions knocked two clear channel stations in Iowa and Utah almost entirely off the air for six hours Tuesday night, prompting the FCC to alert the State Department Wednesday. The interference, apparent retaliation for the Voice of America's U.S. Radio Marti broadcasts to Cuba, was aimed at WHO in Des Moines — the station where President Reagan once worked as a sportscaster — and KSL in Salt Lake City, a Federal Communications Commission spokesman said.

Senator says scandal good lesson for future

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate Democratic leader Robert Byrd said Wednesday that the Iran-Contra scandal should serve as a warning to future administrations of the "corrosive damage" inflicted on the United States by secrecy, evasion and deception. Byrd said in a Senate speech that an "epidemic of amnesia" and contradictory testimony has made it difficult to "sort out the real truth" in the scandal.

Catastrophic insurance bill passes House

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House, ignoring a veto threat, overwhelmingly approved legislation Wednesday that would protect 31 million elderly Americans from the excessive medical costs that come with catastrophic illnesses. The catastrophic illness insurance bill passed 302-127, enough votes to overri _a veto, and was sent to the Senate. The 241 Democrats voting for the bill were joined by 61 Republicans; 14 Democrats joined 113 Republicans in opposing the measure.

Government gets tough with unpaid loans

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government stepped up its drive Wednesday to collect unpaid federal loans, warning deadbeats it would try to impound their cars and homes if it failed to recoup the money from tax returns and federal paychecks. Miller said the government has collected $471.1 million in the past 18 months by tapping the tax refunds of people with overdue loans, and it will try to take people's property if it fails to recover the money. He said the government also plans to garnish the wages of federal employees with overdue loans.

Drug charges filed against 6 residents of Jackson County

Six Jackson County residents have been arrested and charged with felony drug trafficking, John R. Clemons, state's attorney for Jackson County, and Dennis Bowman, Director of the Southern Illinois Enforcement Group, announced Tuesday.

Suppressed grand jury indictments were filed June 26, but information about them was withheld until the sileged offenders were arrested.

Arrested were, Gracie Garner, 29, Murphysboro, Bruce Leggans, 33, Carbondale; Terrence Reese, 22, Carbondale; Bevley Bullard Jr., 33, De Soto; Terry Stewart, 27, Mur-physboro; and Forby H. Myers, 31, Carbondale.

Garner was apprehended July 6 and charged with one count of unlawful delivery of a controlled substance. She is accused of delivering less than 10 grams of Pentazocine on Nov. 26. Pentazocine is a drug used in the treatment of epileptic seizures. Bond was set at $15,000.

Leggans is charged with one count of unlawful delivery of between 2.5 and 10 grams of marijuana. He also is charged with one count of unlawful distribution of a look-alike substance. Both charges stem from alleged activities on Oct. 9. Leggans was arrested July 14 and bond was set at $10,000.

Reese is charged with one count of unlawful delivery of a controlled substance June 17, 1986, involving less than 10 grams of cocaine. He also is charged with one count of unlawful delivery of marijuana on May 30, 1986. The quantity was between 2.5 and 10 grams. Reese was arrested July 15 and bond was set at Bullard faces two counts of unlawful delivery of less than 50 grams of a controlled substance, methamphetamines, on Jan. 10 and Jan. 13, 1986. He was arrested July 15 and posted $15,000 bond at the time of his arrest.

Stewart, arrested July 8, is charged with one count of unlawful delivery of less than 10 grams of a controlled substance, cocaine, on August 14, 1986. Bond was set at $50,000.

Myers faces three counts of unlawful delivery of marijuana that allegedly occurred in November and December. He also is charged with one count of unlawful delivery of a controlled substance, cocaine, on Dec. 23. Myers was arrested July 16 and bond was set at $100,000.

The indictments and arrests were the result of an investigation by SIEG officials, Clemons said. More information on other indictments involving area drug activities will be released as soon as arrests are made.

Pettit's 'secret' trip needs to be public

FOR SOME UNEXPLAINED REASON, the University has blown a great opportunity for publicity.

Last week, Chancellor Lawrence Pettit began a three-week trip abroad that will take him to four European

According to a brief itinerary prepared by the office of International Programs and Services, Pettit will visit universities and military bases in England, Brussels, Austria and Germany. Each of the stops offers SIU-C exchange programs or classes.

business, not for vacation purposes.

We're sure the trip is on the up and up. Afterall, Pettit, not the University, paid for his wife Libby's trip costs, which he might not have done if the trip was an under-thetable bonus. So why is everyone involved so close-mouthed about it?

THE CHANCELLOR'S OFFICE never announced the trip. It should have. It would have been good for public relations to say that the SIU chancellor is going abroad to visit our foreign cousins.

The trip itinerary shows that Pettit gave a commencement address in Cambridge, England, for servicemen who completed SIU-C classes at overseas bases. That shows that the University is interested in all members of its community, not just those in Southern Illinois.

And that would be a good point to publicize.

In government and business, bigwigs make it a practice to publicize their overseas travels. Why didn't Pettit?

Just as the Reaganauts have turned economics upside down,

Just as the Reaganauts have turned economics upside down, so have they perverted the language, squeezing strange new meanings from old familiar words. For example, they refer to Democrats, or anyone who doesn't support the administration, as "elitists." A conservative columnist blustered thusly on the opposition to President leagan's nomination of Robert Bork to the Supreme Court: "What is about to be unveiled in the Bork confrontation is the true, new, inside-the-Beltway, elitist, hungry Democratic coalition that replaces the New Deal alliance." Quite an accusation from a group that believes in government of, by and for rich white men. Committed to and controlled by the privileged few at the top of the economic ladder, the Reaganauts still dare to drop this "elitism" business on those below, constituting the bulk of the Reagan opposition — blacks, Hispanics, organized labor, uppity women and anybody else who doesn't belong to the country club. Only in America would the richest and most powerful whine about the snobbery of wage-earners.

Pro-life film requires clarifications

I am writing in response to the movie "Eclipse of Reason." No, I'm not opposed to it, but neither am I completely for it.

Near the beginning, it says that there are about 1.5 million abortions per year in the U.S. and only 300,000 per year in the United Kingdom. This sounds like a big difference, and the only reason I can see for the comparison is to show U.S. women and doctors as un-caring or blood thirsty. I checked the figure using 1983 population figures, and it turns out that in each country. turns out that in each country, about 1 percent of women had abortions each year. The figures I used were 234 million people in the United States and 55.8 million people in the 55.8 million people in the United Kingdom; I divided the figures in half, assuming a 50-50 ratio of men to women in each country.

Also, the movie should say something about alternatives to abortion, i.e. adoption, birth control and sex education in schools

I was not able to talk to the novie sponsor because he did not return for at least 20 sinutes after the movie was over, at which time I had to leave. — Scott Rose, junior, education.

Shultz expected to offer differing testimony

WASHINGTON (UPI) Secretary of State George Shultz, the highest-ranking U.S. official to appear before the Iran-Contra panel, is expected today to offer testimony that dramatically differs from other accounts of the worst scandal of the Reagan presidency.
Shultz, who already has testified privately to the select House-Senate committees investigating the foreign policy affair, is scheduled to sit at the witness table today and Friday for a public description of his role in the U.S. arms sales to Iran and the diversion of profits to Nicaraguan rebels.

Earlier reports on the candal — the Tower Comscandal mission's Feb. 26 study and the 28 report by the Senate Intelligence Committee — have said Shultz offered initial opposition to the initiatives then distanced himself, thus allowing the National Security Council to take them over.

However, Shultz is expected to highlight significant discrepancies between his recall of events and that of other officials, especially from former national security advisers Robert McFarlane and John Poindexter and their former NSC aide, Lt. Col. Oliver North.

"The federal government is trying to push off on the students the in-school interest payments," Camille said. "It wants to reduce its own costs."

THE INTEREST rate equals the 91-day Treasury bill rate plus 3 percent, which is about 10.75 percent. Interest rates will change from year to year due to changes in Treasury bill

The current loan programs, the Perkins Loan and the Guaranteed Student Loan. have fixed repayment rates every month for 10 to 20 years based on the amount borrowed.

"Students pay the amount every month, so they are paying on both the interest and the principle from the very beginning," Camille said.

A NEW BORROWER can take out a GSL at 8 percent interest and a Perkins Loan at 5 percent interest, Dan Mann, associate director of Student Work and Financial Work and rinancial Assistance, pointed out. The interest rate remains fixed throughout the life of the loan. Most SIU-C students have borrowed under the 8 percent rate, Mann said.

The federal government suspends and pays the interest on guaranteed loans and loans and Perkins loans while students attend school and during a sixmonth, after-school period.

OPPONENTS OF the new program also are concerned that borrowers won't be able to afford to pay back the loan, Camille said.

Borrowers would use 12 to 15 percent of their incomes to pay back a contingent loan, and that would be difficult for graduates with low starting salaries, Camille said.

Higher Education Amendments of 1986 authorized the Income Contingent Loan pilot program for the next five years at 10 universities including DePaul University in Chicago. The administration's 1988 fiscal year budget proposes ex-pansion of the program.

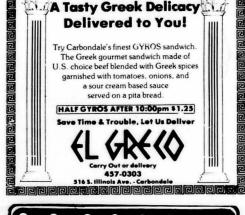

THE REAGAN ministration also has proposed elimination of the College Work Study program, the Supplemental Education Opportunity Grant programs and the Perkins Loan program

Mann said he feels the ad-ministration would be wrong in eliminating the options open to students and in promoting loans.

"Traditionally SIU-C has a large student work program and a large number of needy students." Mann said students," Mann said.
"Eliminating the student work program and grants in favor of income contingent loans would harm more students at SIU-C than it would help."

Brother Rapheal, played by Jerry Morey, sophomore in theater, prays for divine guidance in the production of Tommy Westerfield's "Monasteries."

Monasteries' illuminates conflict of religious values

By Mary Caudle

Conflicting spiritual and traditional social values concerning AIDS and homosexuality are examined in "Monasteries," the last Playwrights Workshop production of the season.

Written by Tommy Westerfield, a graduate student in playwriting, "Monasteries," which is set in Midwest Archabbey, deals with its subject matter with frank, realistic sensitivity that doesn't coddle the audience in its honest portrayal of its characters.

THE STORY of Luke Williams, a former novice who returns stricken with acquired immune deficiency syndrome to the abbey which had discharged him years before for "blatant homosexuality," "Monasteries" follows the lives of abbey members who are affected by his presence, a presence that exists as a glaring beacon of everything they have tried to "sweep under the rug" and ignore.

As portrayed by Frank Hilt, Luke Williams is unrepentant for the actions that led to his dismissal, but he has matured during the time outside the abbey, spent in sleazy backroom bars and hotel rooms, and later working in hospices for AIDS patients.

THE REMAINING four cast THE REMAINING four cast members give solid, believable performances as members of the abbey. Jerry Morey does a fine job as Luke's friend, the gentle brother Rapheal, who, though racked with constant pain from a terminal disease entering its final terminal disease entering its final terminal disease. tering its final stages, wants to bring about a reconciliation between Luke and the church.

JOHN M. WEAGLY and A.J. Armley add a touch of lightness to the production in their enjoyable performances as the lovable and effeminate Brother Matthew and wise-but-senile Father George.

Weagly is both funny and touching in his performance, while Armley does a wonderful job as Father George, por-traying the old monk with warmth and believability.

Although the action of "Monasteries" drags at the onset, director Bill Kincaid Jr., does a good job staging the play in a believable manner in dealing with the frank treatment of manuscript and the stage of the st ment of many serious issues.

WESTERFIELD HAS doné west extracted has done an admirable job of bringing the conflict of homosexuality within the church into the public realm with "Monasteries," without trying handle of the broatful the issue. "Monasteries," without trying to modify or beautify the issue for mainstream society. This is definitely an adult-oriented play, containing coarse language and sensitive subject material—but it gets the point across: the subjects of homophobia, hypocrisy and AIDS are not pretty. The result is explosive and thought-provoking, performance of "Monasteries" will be held at 2 p.m. Sunday, July 26 in the Laboratory Theater in the Communications Building. Tickets may be purchased for $2 at the McLeod Theater Box Office or by calling $433-3001. Office or by calling 453-3001.

IEA-NEA CALLS ON PRESIDENT GUYON TO ABOLISH THE 2% PLAN NOW.

Illinois Education Association-NEA

805A South University

Carbondale, Illinois 62901

618/457-2141

July 16, 1987

Dr. John Guyon, President Southern Illinois University Carbondale, Illinois 62901

Dear President Guyon:

For the past two years, IEA-NEA has consistently worked for the elimination of the 2% Plan. Our position has been clear from the beginning. We have repeatedly pointed out the harmful efforts of the Plan on academic programs at SIUC. We have repeatedly called for its elimination.

In view of personnel reductions that may result from the austerity budget recently enacted by the state legislature, and the further budget reductions mandated by the Governor, the IEA-NEA Faculty Organizing Committee calls upon you to immediately abolish the 2% Plan.

Personnel reductions that could result from the 2% Plan compounded by the budget cuts would produce disastrous consequences for the academic programs of the University. As newly appointed President of SIUC, you are now in a position to take immediate action to put an end to the 2% Plan. We trust you will act swiftly to do so.

Hulking Georgetown coach prepares for 1988 Olympics

DURHAM, N.C. (UPI) — John Thompson has worked hard to be misunderstood.

The Georgetown basketball coach doesn't need his hulking 6-foot-10 presence to reinforce a reputation for intimidation. He could drop half of his 300 pounds and still be accused of being a bully.

Thompson appears to relish his image as college basket-ball's smart aleck. His Hoya teams, always successful on the court, reflect the Thomp-son personality: aggressive, relentless and analytical. As coach of the U.S. men's team coach of the U.S. men's team at the 1988 Olympics, Thomp-son will try to teach Georgetown basketball to 12 players thrown together for the first time.

"I like the way we play at Georgetown," Thompson said Wednesday at the U.S. Olympic Festival before at-tending the gold medal game.

tending the gold medal game. "I like to coach in the style I enjoy watching the game. enjoy watching the game. We've gotta press. You need quickness, you need speed, you need perimeter defense, especially with the 3-point shot. It's very important to have people that can move laterally."

Thompson rarely moves laterally. His answers are always straight ahead, in your face. The former Boston Celtic teammate of Bill Russell could find a loophole in questions asked by the dean of Harvard

Thompson can also be charming and humorous, poking fur at interviewers and at himself. Asked whether NBA rosters included players he might like to have on America's Olympic team in Seoul, South Korea, Thompson eered over the glasses on the peered over the glasses on the bridge of his nose: "Let me ask you something," he said to the questioner. "If you were coaching a basketball team, would you want Larry Bird?"

would you want Larry Bird?"
Thompson is traditionally protective about his emotions, preferring to cloak his feelings behind bluster. But Thompson makes it known the opportunity to coach an Olympic basketball team is important to the man who threw a protective media net around All-American center Patrick Ewing for four years. Ewing for four years.

"I bring all kinds of emotions and passions to this assignment," he said. "This means a lot to me. In 1976, it all kind of hit home in Montreal when I was an assistant to Dean Smith. When Dean and I came into that stadium and came into that stadium and they started playing our song, well ... I'm not a real sen-timental person by nature, but I was very touched by that moment."

Like his Georgetown team. Thompson likes to dictate the pace. Sometimes, you can see him catching himself being gracious. Something clicks and the tone changes. Hoya Paranoia comes to life. Thompson was asked whether the 1988 Olympic team will benefit from the experience of playing in the era of the 3-point shot, a rule Thompson openly

"The experience gives us a little help playing internationally," he said. "Let's give them (NCAA Rules Committee) some credit. Not too much, or they'll think I'm mels." Thor. soon mellow?

Thor., son mellow? Don't hold your breath. Forget Syracuse's 7-foot Rony Seikaly, Thompson remains the dominant big man of the Big East Conference. He will continue to bait officials, baffle staid Georgetown alumni and win basketball games. All this, while maintaining one eye on the court and another or his player's academic standing.
"Our academic institutions will have to determine whether the kids on the Olympic team can miss a school year," he says, referring to the late start of the Summer Games "Is it okay to miss school for your onary to this school for your country? It's very important in this Olympics to find out how these people are doing in school. You have to deal with the exploitation of the college athlete."

Thompson ducked under the doorway while entering the room for his news conference. He's made his reputation by ducking little else.

Aouita moved into the lead after 3,000 meters, while running a hot 7:46.370-minute pace, and had the final 2,000 meters to himself.

When the Italian-based Moroccan clocked 10:26 through 4,000 meters, the sparse crowd knew they were watching a serious record attempt.

Cheered across the finish line, he took a victory lap waving a large Moroccan flag as he ran alongside his pacemakers.

In the 400 meters hurdles. Amadou Dia Ba of Senegal beat Americans Kevin Young and Danny Harris. Dia Ba finished in 48.12, Young in 48.72 and Harris 48.74.

Harris, whose owns the fastest time in the world this year — 47.56 seconds — lost time when he stumbled slightly after clearing the next-to-last hurdle.

On June 4, Harris handed world record holder Edwin Moses his first 400 meters hurdles defeat in almost a decade at a meet in Madrid.

Harris repeated the feat six days ago in Paris as he nipped double Olympic and world champion, previously vincible in his speciality.

New Zealand veteran John Walker, whose best 1,500 meters of 3:32.40, set 12 years ago still rates as the 13th best of all time, surprisingly won the event by catching Alessandro Lambruschini of Italy over the last 50 meters. Walker clocked 3:34.79, with Lambruschini second in 3:35.27

That defeat was a blow to Italy's hopes at its prestige meet since its leading athletes, Alberto Cova, Stefano Mei, Giovanni Evangelisti and Gabriela Dorio were all absent because of invites. because of injuries.
