Units combat defense budget cuts

By Todd Welvaert
Politics Writer

Soldiers in Southern and Central Illinois stationed at bases in Decatur and Springfield may lose their jobs as a result of nationwide cuts in National Guard and Naval Reserve units.

The Department of Defense announced nationwide cuts Thursday that may hurt more than 600 soldiers from Southern and Central Illinois.

The combined cuts will save $20 billion in defense spending and leave 145,400 part-time soldiers without companies.

The Department of Defense plans to cut the Illinois National Guard by 1,195 and cut the U.S. Naval Reserve in Illinois by 263 for a total of 1,458 military reservists in the fiscal year 1992.

The 1993 cuts in Illinois will reach deeper into the military reserves. The U.S. Air Reserves will lose 3,519 military personnel and the Illinois National Guard will lose 489. The U.S. Naval Reserve in Illinois will lose an additional 413 for a total of 4,421 cut personnel in 1993.

The new list comes on the heels of a congressionally approved cut of 1,458 Illinois National Guardsmen and naval reservists last January.

Although the DOD is confident in the proposed list, government advisers believe the list will not go through Congress without change.

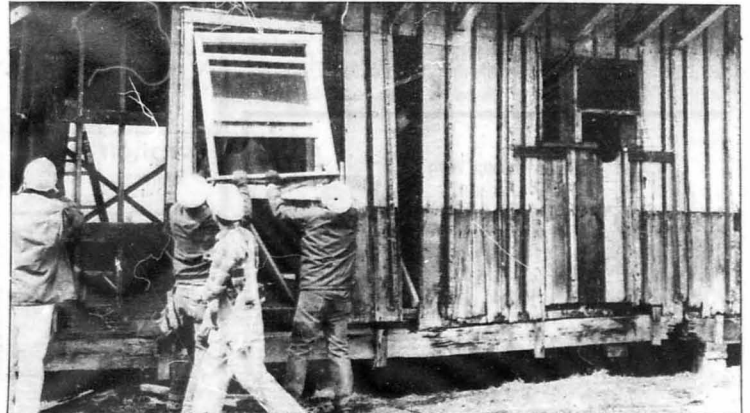

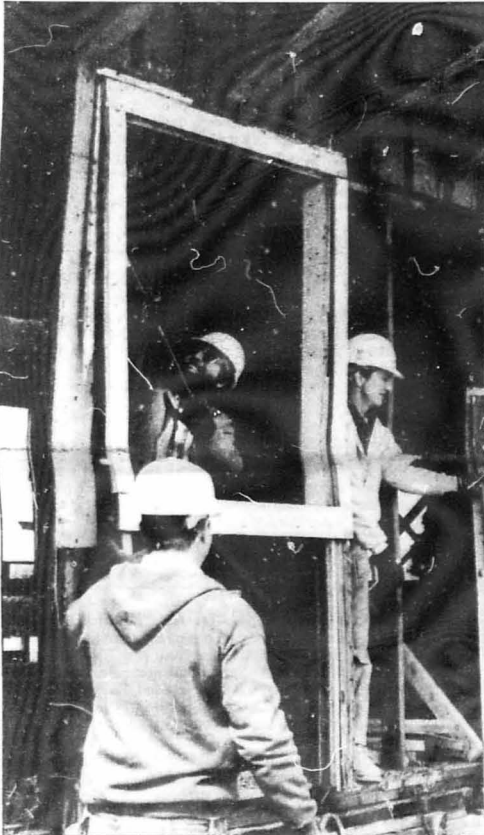

"There are some real doubts as to whether or not this list will pass through Congress,"

Construction workers dismantle the Old Freight Building in downtown Carbondale. The 138-year-old building was built by the founder of Carbondale, Daniel Brush. The dismantling began Thursday and the city will try to identify and document the pieces of the building.

Carbondale Old Freight Building being dismantled in three phases

By Teri Lynn Carlock
City Writer

The oldest existing building on the Illinois Central Railroad system is being dismantled in Carbondale after 138 years.

The Old Freight Building in downtown Carbondale was built in 1854 by Daniel Brush, the founder of Carbondale. It was built for the arrival of the first train in the city on July 4, 1854.

In the past year and a half, the City Council has reviewed the idea of renovating the building but the matter was tabled. But during a February council meeting, the members agreed to have the building dismantled.

Preparation for the dismantling began Monday, and the official initiation of the dismantling began Thursday when Mayor Neil Dillard pulled the first nail from the building.

The freight building will be dismantled in three phases. The newer siding, asphalt and partitioning will be removed first, said Downtown Coordinator Tom Redmond.

In about a week, the city will take a three-day break to identify and document pieces. Then the contractor, J and L Construction of Carbondale, will dismantle the building to the floor.

The day the storm came: Murphysboro residents remember killer twister; unmarked graves whisper eery story of deaths

By Jackie Spinner
Special Assignment Writer

The weathered markings on small inconspicuous gravestones off the narrow pathway at City Cemetery in Murphysboro whisper the story over and over again—March 18, 1925.

The names on the white tablets are no longer legible, but the engraved dates are left virtually untouched except for the rain that collects in their rocky beddings.

It is a date that appears on markers in cemeteries that stretch from the eastern part of Southern Illinois across the river to Indiana. The date appears eerily in row after row in the cemeteries surrounding Murphysboro, where the destruction of the Tri-State Tornado stole the heart, but not the soul, from the booming railroad town 67 years ago last week.

"I walked past my wrecked car to a school building three blocks away and there helped in the rescue work," William J. Boatman recalled in memoirs for the Jackson County Historical Society.

"In this building, 10 children lost their lives," he wrote. "As I walked by a heartbroken mother holding her dead son in her arms, I tried to say some comforting words, and the answer was 'But he was all that I had.' It was then that I began to fully realize that it was an unforgettable day."

On March 18, 1925, the deadliest tornado in U.S. history tore apart the lives of Southern Illinois residents from Gorham to Murphysboro through DeSoto to West Frankfort, leaving millions of dollars in property damage and hundreds of lost lives in its wake.

Scientists at the Illinois Water Survey later estimated that the Tri-State Tornado averaged 62 mph forward speed and 180 mph rotational winds.

It originated in the western part of Reynolds County and finally dissipated 16 miles past Princeton, Ind. It killed 695 people and injured 2,027.

In Jackson County, the tornado damaged 107 farms, 92 farm houses, 89 barns, 91 outhouses and killed 31 cows, 26 horses and 696 chickens.

But the death toll was by far the worst the nation ever has seen.

The tornado took 37 lives in Gorham, 69 in DeSoto, 7 in Bush, 24 in Zeigler, 148 in West Frankfort, 22 in Parrish and 65 in rural Southern Illinois.

In Murphysboro, 234 people lost their lives.

And the deadly string of tornados came without any warning.

Tyson gets 6 years

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — Former heavyweight champion Mike Tyson, insisting "I didn't hurt anybody" before being led away in handcuffs, was sentenced to six years in prison Thursday for raping a beauty pageant contestant last summer.

Marion County Superior Court Judge Patricia Gifford said the 25-year-old boxer must begin serving his sentence immediately.

"Charles Manson is emotionally disturbed — I'm not," Tyson told the judge. "This is totally unbelievable. It's like a dream being in this courtroom. I'm totally devastated. I'm not coming here to beg for mercy. I've been humiliated but I don't cry."

The judge denied Tyson's request to remain free on appeal because he may rape again or flee the country.

Before being hustled off by deputies, Tyson hugged Camille Ewald, the elderly surrogate mother who helped raise the troubled youngster in Catskill, N.Y. As he walked toward a car, Tyson smirked and jiggled his handcuffed wrist: from under a tan raincoat.

In a case that drew worldwide attention, Gifford closed the book on one of boxing's most turbulent careers in which Tyson rose from a New York street mugger to become the most lionized heavyweight since Muhammad Ali.

The judge sentenced Tyson to 10 years on each of three counts but suspended four of them.

Dawgs split twin bill with Northeastern

By Scott Wuerz
Sports Writer

The baseball Salukis still are scratching their heads as they prepare to begin the Missouri Valley Conference season Saturday at Southwest Missouri State.

The Dawgs split a pair of games Thursday against Northeastern Illinois, but they had hoped to do better, coach Sam Riggelman said.

The Salukis won Game 1 9-3, on the power of tape measure home runs from third baseman Brian Heather, designated hitter Ed Janke and center fielder Leland Macon. SIUC starter Bobby Richardson threw five shutout innings, allowing only four hits as he struck out three.

But the Salukis were far less fortunate in the second game.

The Dawgs took the early lead in the second inning. Shortstop Clint Smothers singled in a pair of runs after right fielder Scott Foster reached on a fielder's choice and Macon singled.

In the fifth, Riggelman called in Saluki right-hander Mike Van Gilder, who could only record two outs while surrendering four hits and five runs.

The Dawgs were unable to recover, dropping the late game 7-4 to Riggelman's frustration.

"We did a great job for 11 innings," he said. "Mentally we were just unable to tough (the second game) out. We did a terrible job on the mound and on defense and just allowed the momentum to get away from us."

But on a positive note, the Salukis did show more offensive firepower in the twin bill.

Heather, who went four-for-seven with two homers, a triple and five RBI, raised his batting average to .373 for the season. He leads the team with three home runs and 13 RBI.

Macon, who went three-for-five in the doubleheader, improved his batting average by 44 points.

Softball team searches for consistency

By Norma Wilke
Sports Writer

The SIUC softball team will try to repeat last year's flawless performance at the 12th annual Saluki Invitational starting today.

SIUC, which is 11-11 overall, is coming off an 8-10 road swing during spring break. The four-team round robin includes Southeast Missouri State, 12-7, Evansville, 8-9, and Gateway fce Bradley, 3-7.

In 1991, the Salukis were favored to win the tournament, but coach Kay Brechtelsbauer said no team will come in as the dominant favorite this year.

Invite title up for grabs—Brechtelsbauer

"I expect it to be a good tournament with very stiff competition," Brechtelsbauer said. "Southeast split with Southwest two games, and they beat Iowa State, two very good teams. Bradley lost a couple games when the other team came from behind. Evansville could come in and win. You never know in any game."

SIUC beat SEMO three times last season, but Brechtelsbauer said they were playing without their No. 1 pitcher. SIUC also beat Bradley once.

Early on in the season, the Salukis have been led offensively by sophomore third sacker Maura Hasenstab, who is batting .370, junior left fielder Karrie Irvin, who is batting .262, and sophomore catcher Laurie Wilson, who is batting .255.

Junior right fielder Colleen Holloway and freshman first sacker Marlo Pecoraro lead the team with eight RBI each. Holloway also has three home runs. Senior shortstop Cheryl Venorsky leads the team in stolen bases with 11.

Brechtelsbauer said the Salukis' strength lies in the balance of players up and down the lineup.

"If our hitting comes around, we should do very well this weekend," she said. "We have a strong pitching staff all around, and we also have excellent base running. But with it being so early in the season, we still have inconsistencies."

On the mound, junior Angie Mick, who was Gateway pitcher of the week, is 5-3. In 52.6 innings pitched, she has a 1.73 earned run average with one save and 31 strikeouts.

Freshman Shelly Lane, 4-4, leads the pitching staff with a 1.55 ERA. In 54.3

Coach: 'Healing period' prepares women netters for rest of spring

After a two-week break, the SIUC women's tennis team will start a whole different season, coach Judy Auld said.

The Salukis will play Memphis State, Southern Mississippi and Tennessee-Martin this weekend in dual matches. SIUC started the season 0-6, but Auld said she has high hopes for the team.

"The time off has helped us regroup and helped heal the injuries we were suffering," Auld said. "The competition we played earlier this season was very good, and we had major injuries with two of our starters out. The early part of the season gave people who hadn't played as much match time."

SIUC started the season without junior all-conference player Lori Gallagher, who hurt her wrist in the fall. She still is unable to play this weekend, but Auld said the team has adapted to her being out of the lineup.

Men, women track teams set for Saluki Invitational

By Scott Wuerz
Sports Writer

The SIUC men's and women's track teams will get a rare opportunity to perform in front of a friendly crowd Saturday at McAndrew Stadium.

The Salukis will play host to an eight-team field, including squads from Illinois, Illinois State, Ball State and Austin Peay in their only home meet of the season.

SIUC men's track coach Bill Cornell said the meet should prove to be exciting for competitors and fans.

"It's good for the kids to get a chance to perform in front of the home crowd," he said. "The meet should be especially exciting because everyone is hoping to start the season on the right foot, so the competition will be tough."

The Saluki Invitational kicks off Saturday with throwing events at 9:30 a.m. Running events begin at 10:20 a.m. and jumping events start at 11 a.m.

Both teams opened their outdoor seasons last weekend at the Florida State Relays in Tallahassee, Fla. At the meet, junior high jumper Darrin Plab, who finished second in the nation indoors, qualified for the outdoor NCAAs with a first-place leap of 7-4 1/2.

PAKISTANIS PROTEST ISLAMIC LEADER — Ignoring government warnings, thousands of people demonstrated against an Islamic fundamentalist leader accused of atrocities during the 1971 war for independence from Pakistan. Protesters poured into the capital's largest park to attend a "people's court" to pronounce Professor Gholam Azam, Bangladesh's most powerful fundamentalist leader, "guilty" of helping to orchestrate death squad killings of intellectuals and others.

SERBIA ASKS FOR HELP TO END VIOLENCE — Serbian leaders Thursday charged the newly independent Croatia of backing paramilitary units in neighboring Bosnia-Herzegovina in escalating clashes with Serbs. The Serbians called on the United Nations and European Community to intercede to end the violence. The charges came a day after Croatian officials alleged that units of the Serb-dominated Yugoslav federal army were supporting Serbia paramilitary.

FRENCH NAVY STOPS GREENPEACE MISSION — The French Navy Thursday intercepted five small boats belonging to the environmental group Greenpeace heading toward two Pacific atolls in an effort to disrupt underground nuclear tests, military sources said. The interception of the five Zodiacs heading toward the islands of Mururoa and Fangataufa occurred without incident, according to the sources. Greenpeace members were arrested and charged with illegal trespassing.

UKRAINIAN MINISTER FAULTS ECONOMIC PLAN — Just two days after the Ukrainian Parliament adopted a new economic plan, the republic's minister of economy faulted the plan for pushing Ukraine to world market prices too quickly. "This is not a market transition to a market economy," said Volodymyr Lanovoy. "It is not creating a competitive economy. It is a totally non-market approach to Ukraine's foreign economic policy."

LEGISLATION MAY RELEASE JFK DOCUMENTS — Virtually all the secret files on the 1963 assassination of John F. Kennedy would be made public under legislation proposed Thursday to make certain no documents contain new information on the "most heinous and enigmatic crime of this century." Sen. John Glenn, D-Ohio, a close friend of the late president, said the disclosure has the support of the Kennedy family, which has given autopsy material to the National Archives.

NATION'S COAL RESERVE LESS THAN HOPED — A federal geologist said Thursday preliminary studies in the Appalachian coal region indicate only a quarter of the nation's coal reserves, once thought to be enough for centuries, may be available in the future. M. Devereux Carter, appearing before a Geological Society of America's meeting, said the studies indicate only half of the reserves is available for development, and of that half less than half is useful.

Charles Hayes, D-Chicago was named as one of the 24 worst check-kickers.

DEVELOPERS PUSH CHICAGO CASINOS — Efforts intensified Thursday to win support from established gambling and sports interests for a plan to build a $2 billion gambling and entertainment center near downtown Chicago. Developers of the proposed project said they would add racing and sports betting to their collection of casino games if the Illinois General Assembly changes state law to allow the project. Three big names in the gambling industry proposed the mammoth project.

Hearing set to address complaints about state's unpaid medical bills

By Christine Leninger
Administration Writer

The SIUC Joint Benefits Committee will sponsor a campuswide hearing today to discuss problems created by the state's late payments of medical bills.

The State of Illinois has stated it is out of money to pay for medical benefits, so many of the claims from employees will not be paid until fiscal year 1993, which begins July 1.

Dennis Anderson, chairman of the Joint Benefits Committee, said committee members decided to sponsor a hearing because of the large number of University personnel who contacted them about the problems arising from medical bills not being paid on a timely basis.

"The hearing is designed to assess these problems that exist and to increase the awareness of the problems," said Anderson, an associate professor in the Center for the Study of Crime. "The results of the hearing will be summarized and sent to the necessary officials in hopes that someone will hear us."

The hearing will be at 3 p.m. today in the Mississippi Room of the Student Center.

JoAnne Pitz, employee benefits manager, said many employees bills are not getting paid 4 to 6 months after the service has been rendered, so many providers are asking individuals to pay their own bills.

"University full-time employees have a fair expectation that their bills will be paid," Pitz said. "It is not that the bills will never be paid, the

Committee: Eliminate 481 red parking spots

By Casey Hampton
General Assignment Writer

The parking subcommittee established Thursday is final recommendations to the Traffic and Parking Committee to reduce student parking spaces and to require students living near campus to walk.

The Ad Hoc Committee to Revise Traffic and Parking Regulations completed discussion on proposals to alleviate the parking congestion on campus.

The final recommendations include replacing 481 red decal spaces with blue, requiring all full-time faculty and staff to purchase blue decals and not allowing on-campus residents to park anywhere on campus between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m. except in their designated parking lots.

Another proposal would require all students living within a jagged one-mile perimeter of campus to walk or park only in Lot 56 past the Arena.

Committee members will vote by mail on the latest proposals and the final results will be sent to the Parking and Traffic Committee for approval. The subcommittee was charged with formulating ideas into proposals on which the larger committee could make formal decisions.

But Herbert Donow, chairman of the ad hoc committee, said any further discussion on the proposals is inappropriate because the committee's job essentially is finished and any regulation changes will be left to the discretion of the standing committee.

"The final proposal remains for the standing committee to determine," he said. "Since (the proposals) are still in flux, individual assumptions are not necessary."

Rick Fasano, the Graduate and Professional Student Council representative to the ad hoc committee, said the committee should have input from its constituents now.

"In the committee this morning there were some proposals made, but by the direction of the chairman of the subcommittee, were inappropriate to bring up at this time," he said.

"I highly encourage and strongly recommend that students, faculty and staff relay their input to the appropriate constituencies because at face value, these proposals may not be in the campus population's best interests," Fasano said.

One of the proposals that has struck a nerve with some student leaders would require students within a rough perimeter from campus to walk or park past the Arena.

Jack Sullivan, Undergraduate Student Government president, said the perimeter is hostile to the student perspective.

"In a strange way, the perimeter is gerrymandered to affect the largest student complexes such as Lewis Park (Apartments) and Meadowridge (Apartments)," he said. "It is directed to the largest complexes to assure none of (the residents) drive to campus."

Fasano made a secondary motion to include everyone in the perimeter, including faculty, staff and employees, which will be attached to the proposals for vote by the ad hoc committee members.

"I'm against any perimeter," he said. "But if it's going to happen, it should include everyone."

Sullivan said the parking issue has improved considerably from the original plans, but students still have a job to finish.

Men find NIT home; women win in NCAA

SALUKI BASKETBALL TEAMS are finding familiar company among the best in the nation. Although both the men's and women's teams have ended their seasons, the accomplishments of both should be recognized.

The women Salukis squeezed into the NCAA tournament field of 48 teams and advanced into the second round before being beaten. Coach Cindy Scott's young team was expected to have a strong season despite a rebuilding effort following the graduation of All-American center Amy Rakers. But the Salukis surprised everyone by going 23-8 and hanging tough against fifth-ranked Ole Miss before bowing out of the tournament.

The team unveiled a new up-tempo style of play, raising scoring totals and making the team exciting to watch. The giant-killing Salukis knocked off No. 8 North Carolina and No. 23 Wisconsin on their way to becoming big shots themselves. The 1992-93 season will feature the renewal of a growing rivalry with South-west Missouri State, which won the 1992 Gateway Conference and defeated the Salukis three times.

FOR THE SALUKIS, IT WAS THE FOURTH TRIP to the big dance in six years, a tradition that may continue with the caliber of talent returning for next season.

Return trips also are nothing new to the Saluki men's team. After a disappointing conference tournament performance, the Dawgs again were buried by the NCAA selection committee. A share of the regular season crown in a weak conference forced the committee to shy away from the Dawgs, a situation that has been repeated during the last few seasons. But the team avoided a bare season when Herrin pulled an NIT tournament bid out of his post-season closet.

UNFORTUNATELY, THE DAWGS ALSO continued another streak, losing in the first round for the third time in four years. The 78-69 loss to Boston College dropped the team to a still outstanding 22-8.

The 20-win season has become expected of Rich Herrin's teams. Hopefully they soon will step beyond the expected and make the NCAA tournament.

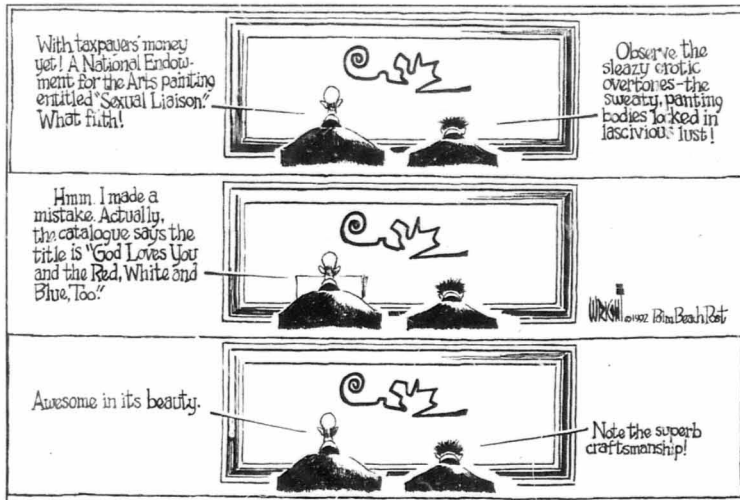

Both the women's and men's teams have proven they can play with the best in the nation and will be forces to reckon with in upcoming years. Each year the women get a step closer to national attention and a possible high ranking, while the men continue dominance in regular season Missouri Valley Conference play.

THE 1992-93 SEASONS WILL MARK the first time both teams will compete in the MVC. The women's Gateway Conference has been dissolved leaving the possibility for complete domination by SIUC throughout basketball. With the talent returning to both teams, each should come away with tournament championships and automatic trips to the NCAA.

I am a member of the Student-Athlete Advisory Board (SAAB). At our meetings, the issue of study table has become exhausted, and dropped from any further agendas. This is due to the fact that a certain party has persistently argued against being forced to go to study table. Instead of trying to find solutions to improve study table, this party acts as though a constitutional right has been taken away.

At one of our recent meetings, I asked Evan Taylor, the writer of recent letters on study table, about being "forced" to go to practice every day. His response was, in short, it is understood that by going you will get better. Well, I say to you now, "If it is understood that by being "forced" to go to practice, you will get better, then why should you not improve your grades by going to study table?"

If the student-athletes at SIU who are complaining will stop their moaning and start making suggestions on how to improve study table, the problems could be alleviated. I know I am required to attend, therefore I will attend—unlike Mr. Taylor, who has not attended a single session and will not. His point is moot.

My final and very personal gripe about the issue is Mr. Taylor's negligence with which he has presented the issue. Mr. Taylor's facts were inadequately documented; a student-athlete with a cumulative grade point average of 2.25 or less is required to attend, not a semester GPA.

Also, multiple letters have been printed by the DE including letters from Mr. Vaughan Harry, Mr. Mark Stuart, and Mr. Connor. It has come to my attention that apparently Mr. Taylor wrote all of the letters that these gentlemen submitted.

Anyone has the right to write as many letters as they want; I just wish they would have the courage to sign their name to all of them. —Sean English, senior, recreation.

Grade 7 minds just as dirty as they want to be

After reading the article on Judy Blume's book, and the response in the March 24 DE, it seems to me that many are not aware of the state of mind of many middle-school students.

As a former substitute teacher at the secondary level, the excerpt that was printed in the March 12 DE was mild compared to what really goes on at the 7th and 8th grade levels. The language that is used by a majority of students at this age would turn most parents green if they were allowed to view things through a two-way mirror. The days I spent just patrolling the halls were shocking. If I had sent every student to the office who said something similar to what was printed in the DE, over half the school would have been empty every day.

Attempts at banning this book will fail. Now, because of all the publicity, I'm sure that many students who haven't read the book will want to check it out.

And for anyone who is curious as to what young teenagers are thinking about, just take a stroll by the Carbondale Junior High around noon. I think you'll find they're past X-rated movies.—Terry Wunder, graduate assistant, theater.

Most rapists were victims

Anyone who has ever suffered the nose-traumatic indignity of riding in a slow-moving elevator with an incontinent older guy who's forgotten to wear his grandpa diapers knows what it was like to read the March 24th DE letter "Porn contributes to sex crimes" by Professor Dennis T. Lowry.

It was insulting to the intelligence and other sensibilities of every person to have read it.

Sex offenders, as any professor should know, invariably have a history of being sexually abused themselves. This abuse is often perpetrated by a relative or close family friend. "Soft porn," good professor, is no more to blame than the miniskirt for the harmful, perverted primal urges of sex offenders.

Professor Lowry's misleading, recriminating letter, replete with a bogus solution, mindless statistics, and its own "soft porn" offense on women, ranks among the all-time worst ever published by the DE. —John Middleton, Carbondale.

University fingers in too many pies; no air for WIDB

I am writing in regard to your editorial which appeared in the Feb. 28th edition.

Your suggestion that student radio station WIDB be blessed with administration approval to seek FCC licensing is an incorrect position.

The University should have no interest in further competition with free enterprise and private business in broadcasting or any other field. If SIU's vaunted Radio and Television Department cannot properly prepare students for our industry, turning them loose with another "on-air" station will not help. The University is currently the licensee of two television and an FM radio station in Southern Illinois. It is absurd to suggest that yet another SIU-owned radio station is needed.

And to accuse the owners and managers of our local radio stations of attempting to limit competition is even more foolish, when there are already twelve commercial stations operating in Jackson and Williamson Counties.

The University should concentrate on teaching, and the editors of the Daily Egyptian should remove their heads from the sand.—Dale W. Adkins, managing partner, WINI Radio, Carbondale.

Timeless Trade

Pomona General Store offers variety, nostalgia

Visitors often stop in Pomona for an ice cream sundae from the soda fountain, for a sandwich from the deli counter or just for a refreshing chance to shop where the cash register only rings to $9.99.

In an age where merchandisers are becoming increasingly more specialized, the Pomona General Store sells items as diverse as gum, candy, cigarettes, beer, baseball hats, pottery and leather crafts, food, T-shirts, auto parts, paint, over-the-counter drugs, shoe polish and paperbacks.

"(The store) brings people together who might not otherwise interact with each other," said Jackie Turner, who owns Pomona's only store with her husband Joe Glisson. The couple, both SIUC students, bought the store in 1985 because they wanted the independent lifestyle that owning their own business could provide them.

Opened in 1876 by James Etherton, the Pomona General Store was built on land originally bought from the Illinois Central Railroad. The wooden building burned to the ground in 1917. At that time, the Independent Order of Odd Fellows, a partner with Etherton, bought the store for $500 and rebuilt it with brick.

problem is that the bill payment is being delayed."

Faculty, staff and retired employees of the University will present their own personal experiences at the hearing.

Anderson said because of the delay in payment by the benefit provider, many health care providers are asking the patient to pay up-front for services because when the health care provider is not paid it also sets them on the verge of bankruptcy.

"The committee is trying to see how extended the problems are so we can make them visible to the people who need to be aware of this," Anderson said.

Brazil supports worldwide coffee quota

BRASILIA, Brazil (UPI) — Brazil, the world's leading coffee grower, will support setting up a new international coffee quota agreement aimed at shoring up failing bean prices, President Fernando Collor de Mello said Thursday.

Collor said his representative will present a 10-point document favoring a new quota agreement for international growers at the April 6-10 meeting of the International Coffee Organization in London.

"The position (of Brazil) is positive" on a quota system, Collor said.

"It is possible that we will reach an agreement on quotas ... compatible with our needs," the president said.

The announcement ended a year of meetings between Brazilian officials and national coffee growers aimed at defining the Brazilian position.

The leading coffee growing nations in Latin America and Africa had appealed to Brazil to support the quota system and an international agreement that would help raise falling coffee prices.

The international coffee agreement fell apart in 1989 after more than two decades when Brazil refused to adhere to a lower export quota, supported by the United States and aimed in part at helping struggling Central American coffee growers by increasing international bean prices.

Brazil, which before the international coffee agreement in the mid-1960s produced half the world's coffee, was limited under the agreement to providing just 25 percent of the bean to international buyers led by the United States.

Coffee, formerly the leading crop in Brazil, is now only the third leading agriculture export after soybeans and orange juice.

Agriculture Minister Antonio Cabrera said this season's coffee crop will be the worst in 12 years, predicting it will yield 18.9 million 60-kilo bags of coffee — 28 percent fewer than last year's 27.4 million.

Jose Bras Matiello, advisor to the national agriculture policy secretary, said many Brazilian farmers lost interest in coffee growing in 1989.

the building's floor to look for original floor pieces. The contractor will remove the flooring and some of the large floor beams will be saved, but the majority will not, Redmond said.

"Everything above the floor will be put back on a concrete slab with a wooden floor," he said. "We have to make it look as closely to the original as we can."

Bill Schremp was born in Carbondale and grew up in the 1930s. His father worked for the railroad part of his life, he said.

"The day was Wednesday, March 18," reported the staff of the Murphysboro Independent. "It was the quarter of three. Murphysboro's 12,000 souls were about their workday tasks."

"Then came ramparts of cloud out of the southeast—a black shawow. It lurked. 'Rain,' the wisecracks said. Thunder clapped. Lightning spat. Calm again. Then—the holocaust."

Clifton Swafford of Murphysboro was born two years after the tornado, but his grandfather perished along with 233 other Murphysboro residents.

"For anybody who went through it, there was a great fear of storms," Swafford said. "To the day my mother went to her grave, she went to the basement at the first sign of a storm."

Since 1925, experts have come a long way in understanding the dynamics of thunderstorms.

But Chris Novy, training officer for Emergency Services and Disaster Agency, said there still is a lot that is not understood about tornado formation.

The Journal of the Western Society of Engineers reported in September 1925 that local instability of air produced the tornado that tore through Southern Illinois.

"The prime cause of tornadoes appears to be local instability of the air due to an accumulation of heat near the surface, combined with an said Charlie Smith, national security adviser to Sen. Alan Dixon, D-Bellefonte. "There are no air guard units being cut because the Air Force has been actively integrating the air guard into the Air Force. They have been successfully moving missions to the air guard. In comparison the Army has always treated its reserves as a step-child."

The Illinois National Guard units slated for cuts in '92 and '93 in Southern Illinois are: the 34th Division, 66th Infantry Brigade, Decatur; 1st Battalion 106th Aviation Unit, Peoria and 744th Engineering Detachment and 644th Personnel Service Company, Springfield.

Army Reserves cuts are the 159th Aviation Management Company, 657th Movement Control Air Terminal Detachment, 633rd Bakery Team, Belleville; HQ Company 687th Service and Supply Battalion, Decatur and 75th Field Artillery Battalion, Peoria.

The Naval Reserve in Illinois will lose Unit 8013, USS Paul, Danville.

The cuts also affect helicopter bases in Chicago.

Smith cautioned reservists to be concerned but not to panic.

"Congress will take a hard look at the active army and may propose more cuts there," Smith said. "This is not the final Department of Defense list."

Local reservists are placing their hopes in Congress to stop the list or slow the cuts to the reserves.

"I think the reserves are in the same boat as the active duty personnel," said Mai. Dennis Reaser of the SIU. "I am going to take it one day at a time. The list that the DOD released today is not the bottom line."

The Army should use its reserve as more than support units to avoid deeper cuts later, Smith said.

"The cuts really don't affect the U.S. Air Guard units because they have integrated the reserves into active duty," Smith said. "The feeling is there is a sense of animosity towards the reserves from the active Army. The best example of this was the Persian Gulf War. The Marines called up combat reserves that performed admirably, the Army called up support units and the combat units they did call up basically just trained."

But Reaser said he does not sense there is an animosity between the two groups.

"The typical role of the reserves is to support the active duty Army. You will not be able to find many combat forces in the reserves, they are very few and far between," Reaser said.

The cuts, which are in response to President Bush's budget and will free up funds for other programs, now will be debated in Congress.

"With the changing world it makes sense to restructure the military. We have to maintain the force so it's credible but we don't want to cut so deep we are unprepared," said Reaser. "If they cut into the active force, it will make sense that cuts to the units that support them will follow."

"As we grew up in those days, we grew up in families of railroadmen and were accustomed to the smell and sight of the railroad," he said. "I don't ever remember it not being there."

And he distinctly remembers the freight building.

"Across the street from the building used to be a restaurant and dance place called Entsmingers," he said. "It was the hangout for kids during the war and we all looked at the freight building from our hangout."

The freight building always has been an important part of Carbondale, Schremp said.

When he was growing up, before air shipment was popular, stores ordered stock and it was delivered by train. The stock was unloaded in the freight building then distributed by trucks around the city.

The high-priority items were delivered to the railway express office instead. Trains were the best way to get anything anywhere, Schremp said.

shouldn't do," Novy said. "They stand in the streets and look for it."

Ralph Waldo Lioy recalled the day the tornado hit. It came unexpectedly from a blackened sky over the west end of town.

"I was making a pastoral call in the large brick Logan residence on Walnut Street," Lioy wrote in his memoirs to the historical society.

"Suddenly there was a whistling and roaring sound of wind, a darkening sky and atmosphere and flying debris in the air," he recalled. "I saw people hurrying past our house out Spruce Street toward the high school and was told that the gymnasium roof had fallen in on several students."

The rest of the tragic afternoon was filled with frantic efforts to find out what we could do for people, and what had happened to homes and other buildings."

Swafford, who works with the Jackson County Historical Society, said tracing the victims of the tri-state tornado has been difficult.

Most of the residents were buried in family plots in City Cemetery and in Tower Grove on Illinois Route 149.

But because the death toll was so high, many of the bodies were laid to rest in pauper's graves or in neighbor's plots.

Some of the death records never were filed.

And so many of the victims lay in unmarked graves with not even a date to whisper their story.

Student's dog to have day on funny home video show

By Kristi Rominger
Entertainment Editor

Animals can do the funniest things. And when they do, their owners may witness actions the rest of the country may never see.

But that is not the case for Dudley—a six-year-old, 10 and 1/2 pound dachshund, who will appear on "America's Funniest Home Videos" Sunday night.

Dudley's owner is SIUC student Traci Barrow.

Barrow, a junior in accounting from Carbondale, said when her dog is scolded or punished, he runs out the doggie door in her home and attacks the downspouts on the side of the house.

"Once he bit a bracket in two," Barrow said. "This is how he takes out his aggressions, I guess. He gets angry that he has been scolded."

Barrow said she and her family watch "America's Funniest Home Videos" almost every Sunday.

She thought it would be a good idea to make a video of her dog reacting to punishment, and send it in.

Barrow said she sent the tape in about three months ago. She was sent a letter asking her to sign a release for her dog to appear on the show and assure "America's Funniest Home Videos" that no others had received the video.

She sent the release and received a call from the show saying her video will appear this Sunday.

At that time, she was told "America's Funniest Home Videos" only accepts about 1 percent of the videos it receives each week.

Paula Davis, public relations assistant for the show, said the show receives about 1,500 to 2,000 videos a week.

"The market is very high for this type of entertainment," Davis said.

Bob Saget, who also stars on ABC's "Full House," is the host of the show.

Prizes for $10,000, $3,000 and $2,000 are available for the first, second and third place videos.

"America's Funniest Home Videos" airs at 7 p.m. Sunday on ABC.

Festival to promote awareness on issues of peace, human rights

By William Ragan
Entertainment Writer

Local groups will gather today in the Free Forum Area on campus to disperse what one organizer calls a "gloomy mood" that settled upon activist organizations during the Gulf War.

The organizations bring students in contact with local progressive organizations.

Students will be able to meet representatives from student, local and national organizations. The organizations will have information booths set up and vendors will sell food and jewelry.

"People working for progressive change were feeling defensive after coming out of the Gulf War," said Brad Hendershott, president of the Mid-America Peace Project. "The general political atmosphere is shifting to the conservative side."

"We believe in peace and justice and the non-violent resolution of conflict," he said. "We also believe in having fun, and that's why the bands are there."

Musical entertainment will begin at 1 p.m. with acoustic musician Anne Chamberlain. Tony Ventura will perform at 2 p.m., followed by the Celtic music of the Dorian Brothers.

Local hardcore groups Itchy Rash and Unless will play at 4 p.m., followed by the tribal noise of Hippies With Guns.

The Freedom Festival will begin with a march to protest the imprisonment of Leonard Peltier, a Native American activist that Amnesty International claims was wrongly jailed.

Peltier was the leader of the American Indian Movement 17 years ago, when it seized Pine Ridge reservation in North Dakota and would not allow federal agents to enter.

According to congressional investigators, the FBI launched "a full-scale military invasion" of Pine Ridge. When the smoke cleared, two FBI agents were dead and Peltier was tried and convicted for their murders.

Hendershott said the evidence against Peltier was inconclusive and full of holes. Amnesty International called Peltier's trial unfair and has repeatedly requested a new trial.

"Court testimony has shown the FBI falsified documents and testimony," he said. Amnesty International has made repeated calls to get a new trial, they declared his trial was unfair.

Those wishing to protest the imprisonment of Leonard Peltier will meet at the Free Forum Area at noon and march to the Federal Building and back again.

Some of the organizations attending the Freedom Festival include: Friends of Native Americans, Student Environmental Center, Southern Illinois Latin America Solidarity Committee, the National Organization for the Reform of Marijuana Laws, Feminine Action Coalition, National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, the Sierra Club, College Democrats, Peace Corps, Amnesty International, Peace Coalition of Southern Illinois, Recycling Coalition, Mid-America Peace Project, Satyagraha and Gays, Lesbians, Bisexuals and Friends.

The event is sponsored by the Mid-America Peace Coalition, Student Environmental Center and Satyagraha.

Analysis of food topic of seminar by researchers

By Annette Holder
General Assignment Writer

People in the past may have eaten less fat and more corn, but they were not necessarily healthier, an SIUC archaeologist said.

Corn increased the predictability of the food supply, but people in the past learned to rely too much on it as a food source, said George Gumerman, professor of anthropology.

"There were also more infectious diseases as people started living close together," Gumerman said.

The Carbondale Center for Archaeological Investigations is sponsoring the seminar at 8:30 tonight, so archaeologists and others can learn more about the way people ate 16,000 years ago. The seminar will be conducted by 28 researchers from around the nation.

The analysis of food is determined by searching for items such as corn, animal bones, teeth and coprolites, said Robert Corne, a bioanthropologist at SIUC.

Coprolites are feces that are preserved by fossilization. Fossils are preserved in a variety of ways including carbonization, a process caused by burning, Gumerman said. Another way objects are preserved is by drying out in caves.

History cannot be determined with written records from this period of time, so fossilization becomes important in learning about history, Corne said.

The most difficult thing about studying food is that plant material does not preserve as well as animal material, said Wolf Gumerman, a researcher from California who studies the way social classes ate differently.

Bones carbonize better than plants, he said.

Archaeologists can learn implications for health in the future such as the way to eat better.

Registration is $35 at the door or $30 if preregistered. To register, call 536-7751.

Woman's life 'haunted by God' in play

By Kristi Rominger
Entertainment Editor

A penny by itself hardly buys anything today, but a publication that costs 1 cent has been bringing good news to people since 1933.

Now in its 59th year of publication, the Catholic Worker was co-founded by Dorothy Day, a woman who did not take the easy way of life.

The Newman Catholic Student Center sponsored a biographical drama Thursday on the life of Day titled "Haunted By God."

Sister Kate Reid, director of the Newman Catholic Student Center, said the one-woman production shows the way Day lived her convictions throughout her life.

"She dedicated her whole life to helping the poor," Reid said. "She put forth a lot of personal cost and struggle at a time when government could not provide assistance."

The message touches people at a feeling level as well as an intellectual level, Reid said.

Bob Shearn, campus minister for the Newman Center, said the title "Haunted By God" is typical of Day's experience of God in her journey.

"She lived her life in the way she saw fit," Shearn said. "But God haunted her in the way that his plans and purpose to her life surpassed her own expectations."

Shearn said Day was a strong advocate for the poor—a voice for the voiceless—who wanted to see justice for all.

Day co-founded the Catholic Worker Movement in 1933. The publication, Catholic Worker, is biased in favor of peace and justice, Reid said. The publication still costs only a penny.

The Catholic Worker Movement has established more than 100 soup kitchens and shelters throughout the United States, including four in Chicago.

Catholics are celebrating more than 100 years of Catholic social teaching as part of women's history month, Reid said.

All proceeds from the show are given to the Women's Center shelter project and Mary's House, which is affiliated with Good Samaritan.

Day is portrayed by Lisa Wagner, 28, an actress from the Call To Action Players, based in Chicago.

The drama, which lasts about an hour and 15 minutes, was performed about 59 times its first season. About 35 shows have been performed this year, Wagner said.

The play is an example of someone who followed their own beliefs, she said.

"It is not always easy to do that," Wagner said. "It is good to see how someone struggled with being haunted by God."

Day, in the course of her life, had an unwanted pregnancy and an abortion. She then had another child, but she was not married.

"She was a strong woman to be able to deal with so much hard ship," Wagner said. "She had a strong single-mindedness and perseverance for overcoming discouragement. Perseverance was the fruit of her deep spiritual life."

Wagner said the Catholic Worker has been an incredible place to grow and discover and learn from the people that come through it.

"I learn so much—it is a mutual relationship," Wagner said. "It has been a very life-giving experience for me, personally."

Student group to have concert for fund-raising

The Community Development Graduate Student Organization will present a fund-raising concert at 9:30 p.m. Sunday at Hangar 9.

Featured bands will be Mr. Wonderful and the Magdaddies, an uptempo jazz group; blues rockers the Gravediggers; and St. Steven's Blues, which will present a unique acoustic set of rock and blues.

Two dozen door prizes will be given away.

Gifts have been donated by Tres Hombres, Plaza Records, Hair Brains, Booby's, Varsity Movie Store, Old Town Liquors, El Greco's, The Pettin' Place, Happy Inn, Papa John's Pizza, Discount Den, Kaledoscope, Independent Music Network and the Sierra Club. Gifts include T-shirts, CDs, free video rentals, and gift certificates for food and merchandise.

Admission is $2. Doors open at 8 p.m., and music begins at 9:30 p.m.

Miami leaders worried over Columbus statue

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — A millionaire's plan to erect a 311-foot, 500-ton bronze sculpture of Christopher Columbus near the Port of Miami has some leaders pondering the political implications. "I don't think people realize how serious this project is," said Fisher Island millionaire Bennett LeBow.

"It really hasn't sunk in yet. The molds are done and it's already half done."

Miami Beach leaders are somewhat taken back by the offering.

"This idea is monumental," said Mayor Seymour Gelber. "And not just because of the size of it. There are so many things to consider."

Columbus has been criticized as a slave trader and destroyer of the culture of American Indians. Also, the monument would be 6 feet taller than the Statue of Liberty.

"Politically speaking, we have to ask whether we want a monument that's going to outdo the Statue of Liberty," said Public Works Director Dick Gatti. "This has a tremendous potential for controversy."

Zurab Tsereteli, the Russian sculptor who is building the statue, said plans to put it in New York Harbor were scuttled because of conflicts over Lady Liberty.

Newman Center to offer Mass with world flavor

By Sherri L. Wilcox
General Assignment Writer

The Newman Catholic Student Center will offer parishioners a chance to expand culturally this Sunday by experiencing the Catholic traditions of other countries at an international Mass.

Sister Kate Reid said the Mass gives people an opportunity to celebrate the universality of the Catholic faith.

"The Catholic faith is very diverse and this is our way of recognizing it and celebrating its growth," she said.

The Mass begins at 11 a.m. Sunday. This is the seventh year the Newman Center has offered an international Mass and it is sponsored by Newman International Friends, a group of International and U.S. students formed in 1985 as a support to the international community.

The Mass will feature performances by international choirs composed of SIUC students, faculty and staff and several readings will be presented in foreign languages.

"The church will be decorated with artifacts of other countries," she said. "There will be wall hangings, prints and cloths, and we will also display flags from around the world."

Parishioners are encouraged to wear native dress to the Mass, she said.

Nancy Schmitt, a senior in elementary education from Joliet, said she is looking forward to Sunday's Mass.

"I think it will be interesting and entertaining to see how other countries celebrate the Catholic faith," she said.

Tonya James, a freshman undecided major from Chicago, said she enjoyed the African Mass because it helped her to get in touch with her cultural roots while practicing her faith.

The international Mass always has brought a large crowd, which makes the service last a bit longer, Reid said.

"When there is a bigger crowd, the communion line is longer and that takes a bit more time," she said.

A reception will follow the Mass and attendants can eat from an assortment of international hors d'oeuvres and other finger food.

Comedian on HBO tour to work SIUC audience

By Ronn Byrd
Entertainment Writer

Comedian Jimmy Tingle has a modest opinion of his own comedy.

"I am a genius," he said. "I am all things to all people. I am probably a messiah."

Tingle, best known for his appearances on HBO's "One-Night Stand" will perform at 8 p.m. Saturday at SIUC.

Tingle is a comedian in the HBO Campus Comedy Club Tour.

The tour covers 23 campuses and includes comedians from HBO's "One-Night Stand" and "Def Comedy Jam" specials.

The tour is conducted in association with Comic Relief, an annual comedy benefit for the homeless aired nationally on HBO.

Tingle has been performing comedy for 12 years and has appeared on Showtime's "Young Comics," "ABC Comedy Club," "Star Search" and "The Tonight Show."

Tingle also has opened for Dionne Warwick, Kenny G and Stanley Clark.

Tingle gets the material for his act strictly from within, he said.

"I get it from my life, from observations, from the moving element of my soul," Tingle said. "It's instinct."

Tingle's comedy consists of his observations about humanity and social and political commentary.

He has been described by the Columbia Dispatch Weekender as "a physical comedian who works hard for his laughs. Jimmy frequently crouches over and then throws out his arms in exasperation, shouting a punch line to cap a story about some silly human contradiction."

"I like to talk about what's going on with the world and the issues that affect us all," he said.

"It's social commentary. I enjoy it if I have an audience that's in tune with what I'm talking about, but that's not always the case," Tingle said.

Tingle will perform solo at SIUC, something he prefers over performing with other comics.

"I love doing a show by myself," he said.

"For one thing, I get more time. I can describe more things and I can get more points across. Plus, if it's just me, I can set the tone for the whole evening."

"If another comedian goes on before me, and they're talking about family, or talking really dirty about sex, then it's hard to change gears and move into my routine," Tingle said.

Tingle said having played college crowds before, he actually prefers them to the nightclubs.

"College kids are much smarter and much more in tune with what I'm talking about," he said.

"They tend to be more sober, too. I don't pander just to the college crowd, though. That's probably my downfall."

A national sweepstakes is being presented in conjunction with the tour.

One winner chosen from entries on all 23 campuses will be awarded an all-expense paid trip to Comic Relief at the Universal Amphitheater in Los Angeles.

Tickets can be purchased at the door of the Student Center Ballrooms.

Tickets cost $2 for SIUC students and $3 for general public.

International council to sponsor dance to celebrate yearly festival

By Fatima Janvekar
General Assignment Writer

The International Student Council is sponsoring an international dance night at 8:30 tonight at Checkers, 605 E. Grand Ave., to celebrate the success of International Festival '92.

"This night serves as a change from the tense excitement of the festival and to bring people from the community and other cultures together in a light, friendly atmosphere where they can get along with each other and enjoy

"We hope to attract as many as 1,000 people."

—Azher Bandukwala

themselves," said Azher Bandukwala, ISC vice president for internal affairs.

The dance night is an annual ISC event, which has been at the Elks Club for many years. This is the first time it will be at Checkers.

"In previous years, a large crowd would gather at the Elks Club."

"We would not be able to accommodate so many people and consequently had to turn some away," he said.

"This time, since we will be at a larger setting, we hope to attract as many as 1,000 people," Bandukwala said.

A local disc jockey will provide a variety of music, including international music on request, Bandukwala said.

Tickets are $2 a person and will be sold at the door.

AMA to sponsor 'Mr. Irresistible' contest at SIUC

By William Ragan
Entertainment Writer

Anthony Logan's fraternity brothers at Sigma Phi Epsilon thought he was simply irresistible.

So they signed him up for the sixth annual "Mr. Irresistible" contest and told him at the last minute.

"I'm going to go through with it," Logan said. "I just want to have fun."

Logan, a junior in sports medicine from Villa Park, and six other contestants will compete for the title of "Mr. Irresistible" at 8 p.m. this Saturday in Shroyok Auditorium.

The sixth annual contest is a major fund-raiser for the American Marketing Association, a non-profit organization designed to help students gain experience in marketing.

Ed Ness, public relations officer for AMA, said the contest is a less-serious, masculine beauty pageant.

"It doesn't carry the weight of a female pageant," Ness said. "It's more entertainment oriented. It's just to have fun."

The contest is a reversal of the traditional image of beauty pageants for women.

"You always hear women complaining that men look at them as sex objects," he said. "Now the shoe is on the other foot."

The contestants will be judged by University staff and faculty in five categories: introductions, talent, swimwear, formal attire and final questions.

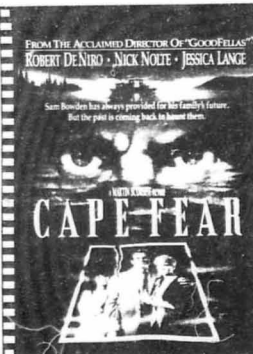

The masters of ceremony for the contest are John Riley, morning show host for WCIL-FM and Jennifer Krause, news anchor for WCIL-FM and WSIL-TV.

The first place winner will receive $50 cash, a dinner for two and a limousine service for the evening. Second and third place winners will each receive a certificate stating their "irresistibility."

Tickets are $5 and are available at the Student Center and at the door on the night of the contest.

Student Trustee Nomination Petitions

Tax rate change to lower refund checks

By Christy Gutowski
General Assignment Writer

Additional take-home pay in employee paychecks this year may result in decreased refunds for taxpayers who are not aware of an automatic change in tax withholding rates.

IRS tables for withholding federal income tax from wages were adjusted for 1992. President Bush said the adjustment was made to pump more money into the economy and to stimulate recovery from the recession.

The automatic adjustment was effective March 1, 1992.

But taxpayers have not been informed enough by administrations to take action to adjust their accounts, said David Carle, spokesman for U.S. Sen. Paul Simon, D-Makanda.

"There has not been enough done by administrations to alert taxpayers of this change so they can know and control the withholdings they want in their accounts," he said.

Although Simon is concerned taxpayers are not aware of the automatic change, if more money is generated in the economy, the move will be positive, Carle said.

"If the contributions to that result in a stronger economy, then the decision clearly would be a helpful one," he said.

The new withholding rates will increase weekly paychecks for single status taxpayers by $3, biweekly and semimonthly payments by $7, and monthly paychecks will increase $14 a pay period.

Taxpayers filing married status will see an increase of $7 for each weekly paycheck, $13 for each biweekly paycheck, $14 for each semimonthly paycheck and an increase of $29 for monthly paychecks.

But the increase will result in lower refunds at the end of the year, and in some cases, taxpayers will owe the government instead of receiving a refund.

University officials have taken extra measures to inform employees and staff of the tax change, said Michael Heath, director of payroll and disbursements.

A newsletter was sent to University faculty and staff informing them the 1992 exemption would mean more take-home pay but less of a refund or possibly owing money on their tax bill at the end of the tax year, he said.

Local tax consultants are informing clients of the drawbacks to the new withholdings as well, said Tulasi Reddy, tax preparer for H & R Block in Carbondale.

"We don't want our clients at the end of the year to be surprised when their returns are considerably less," Reddy said.

University officials are concerned taxpayers do not know the repercussions of the new tax withholding rate.

Bill Capie, acting vice president for financial affairs, said the key issue is that although fewer dollars will be withheld, which increases taxpayers' spendable income, taxpayers still are responsible for the amount withheld.

"The reality is that your tax liability doesn't change," he said. "(Taxpayers) are still responsible for the same taxes at the end of the tax year."

Many employees within the University have changed their withholding status as a result of the changed withholding rates, Capie said.

But he is concerned many employees are not aware of the new withholding table and may be surprised when they receive their next refund.

"The difficulty (with the new withholding rates) is that many people aren't aware," he said. "We want people to be informed."

The situation requires taxpayers to re-evaluate their present withholding status and be aware of their options, Capie said.

"Taxpayers will see more spendable income in their paychecks but at the end of the tax year, they'll be responsible for a tax re-payment," he said.

Employees who do not want the exemption should inform employers to adjust the amount of exemptions on their 1992 W-4 forms.

The average refund for Central and Southern Illinois employees is $833.

The IRS recommends employees to check their withholding status with employers to see if they want figures adjusted, said Kris Zini, spokeswoman for the IRS in Springfield.

"Our concern is people are not aware that they will not end up with the same refunds at the end of the tax year," Zini said.

Employees who do not want less withheld from their paycheck should give their employer a new Form W-4 titled "Employee's Withholding Allowance Certificate," claiming the same number of withholding allowances.

Employees should ask for extra tax to be withheld from each paycheck in order to balance the amount withheld and the amount that they will be liable for at the end of the tax year, Zini said.

Local students to present state history projects

By Jeremy Finley
General Assignment Writer

Local students will have a chance Saturday to be a part of history.

The third annual Southern Regional Illinois History Fair will begin at 7:30 a.m. this Saturday at the SIUC Arena, where local students may participate in competitions dealing with areas of local history.

Kay Carr, SIUC assistant professor of history, said students may enter five areas of competition with models, performance, papers, media and miscellaneous, all concerning Illinois state history.

"The purpose of the competition is to reward students in their historical studies and promote interest in history," Carr said.

Registration will begin at 7:30 a.m. and students will have until 9 a.m. to set up. The exhibition, in the concourse area of the Arena, is open to the public and will run from 9 a.m. until 10 a.m.

Miami company to screen illegal alien employees

WASHINGTON (UPI) —

Miami-based American Bankers Insurance Group is taking part in a year-long telephone test program to determine whether their alien employees are legally entitled to a job in the United States, the Immigration and Naturalization Service announced Thursday.

American Bankers is one of nine companies in California, Texas, Illinois, New York and Florida involved in the $500,000 project for which the INS will pay.

"We're determined that the program will make our enforcement of immigration laws more effective and less of a burden on businesses," said INS Commissioner Gene McNary.

"This will help businesses overcome fraudulent document problems by tapping into a data bank with 16 million names," McNary said.

The INS demonstrated the Telephone Verification System at a press conference Thursday.

The system is hooked up to a national data bank in Orlando, Fla. that houses the names of legal U.S. immigrants.

Employers enter a worker's name, alien I.D. number and birthday into a computer that looks like a credit card verification machine.

Expert: King cooperating, not attacking

SIMI VALLEY, Calif. (UPI) — Rodney King may have been trying to comply with police commands to put his hands behind his back halfway through a videotape that shows officers beating him with batons, a police tactics expert testified Thursday.

The expert, retired Los Angeles police Capt. Robert Michael, said it was possible that on the videotape — as King is on the ground — that he was reaching behind himself to place his hand on his back as ordered, rather than moving to attack or escape. The four officers on trial contend they continued to strike King with the billy clubs because he was not complying with their orders and was trying to lunge at them or get up and run away.

Michael was the last witness to testify in the defense of Sgt. Stacey Koon, whose attorney rested his case, and the defense began for Officer Laurence Powell, who is seen on the tape administering the most baton blows.

Four white Los Angeles police officers are on trial for assault with a deadly weapon and excessive force for the March 3, 1991, arrest of the black motorist following a high-speed chase through the San Fernando Valley.

The arrest, witnessed by more than a dozen other law enforcement officers, was documented on videotape by a nearby resident. The tape, shown repeatedly on television news reports around the world, stunned viewers and led an appeal court to order the trial moved to Ventura County because of the political uproar the incident created in Los Angeles.

Michael, who has watched the videotape more than 100 times, testified he counted only 20 blows from police batons that hit King, not 56 as prosecutors have alleged.

Michael, a consultant who trains departments around the country in force tactics, testified that not all the baton swings in the infamous videotape made contact with King's body, estimating only "around 20" actually struck the motorist.

Michael had testified earlier that he has seen the unedited 81-second tape more than 100 times and has studied specific segments of it more than 300 times.

The attorney defending Powell questioned the captain about circumstances under which officers should use their 24-inch steel batons.

Michael said an officer is justified in using his baton as long as he perceives a suspect is a threat, regardless of whether the suspect has attacked him or tried to flee.

Michael also testified that it would be "inappropriate" for an officer to hit a suspect in the head.

NHL player-owner negotiations hit third day

TORONTO (UPI) — With a strike deadline four days away, representatives for NHL owners and players Thursday spent a third consecutive day at the bargaining table.

The two sides met in smaller groups, discussing specific areas in dispute.

Negotiations at a downtown hotel in Toronto started at around 8:45 a.m. Thursday and continued well into the evening.

An NHL spokesman said the talks were likely to continue longer than those of the previous two nights because the strike deadline is nearing.

The players have been without a contract since Sept. 15.

They are seeking a more liberal free agency system, salary arbitration similar to major league baseball's and a significant cut in the number of draft rounds.

The players also have expressed demands for more money for pensions, playoffs and awards.

Both NHL President John Ziegler and NHL Players Association Executive Director Bob Goodenow have refused to comment on the talks.

But other NHLPA representatives said the groups were probably discussing the economic issues Thursday, after two days of other items.

The talks resumed Tuesday after the players broke off negotiations on March 13, following a meeting of the full negotiating committees in New York.

At that time the players offered a projection of what they feel the league's profit is this year ($24 million).

The owners contend they stand to lose $9 million.

A strike Monday would come nine days before the start of the Stanley Cup playoffs and mark the first walkout in the 75 years of the league.

The players have been unionized for 25 years.

The sentences will run concurrently. The judge also ordered Tyson to undergo psychotherapy at his cost.

"Something needs to be done about the attitude you displayed here," Gifford said.

Tyson's lawyers petitioned the Indiana Court of Appeals to overturn the denial of bond. A hearing on the matter will be held Friday.

Tyson may be eligible for parole in three years with good behavior, but the self-described "baddest man on the planet" questioned whether he could handle prison.

"I expect the worst," he said, calmly reading a statement for 10 minutes before his sentencing.

"I don't know if I can deal with it."

After prison, Tyson will be on four years' probation and must work in a community youth program for 100 hours a year.

Gifford denied a motion that Tyson pay $150,000 to the state for court costs and the extra security he requested. However, she fined him $30,000 — $10,000 on each count.

Tyson, wearing a dark suit, entered the court room surrounded by his entourage. Crowds lined the corridor and a few women grabbed his hands and shouted words of support. It was a scene repeated throughout the two-week trial.

Tyson was convicted Feb. 10 of one count of rape and two counts of sexual deviate behavior. He could have been sentenced for up to 60 years in prison. The prosecution recommended 6 to 12 years in prison. The defense asked the judge not for leniency, but compassion.

The rape of Desiree Washington, then 18, took place in the boxer's hotel room in Indianapolis July 19. The Providence College freshman from Coventry, R.I., was not in court for the sentencing.

Freshman Pete Schlosser, who is filling in for injured left fielder Dan Esplin, reached base four times with a single and three walks. He is batting .294 on the year.

Senior catcher Derek Shelton, who went hitless in his first four games, improved his average to .264 with a two-for-five performance Thursday.

But Rigglesman said the team needs to find a consistent offense.

"We are swinging the bats better, but people are hot-and-cold at different times," he said. "And that creates problems because you never know who will be there for you day in and day out."

Rigglesman said he is not sure what to expect from the Dawgs in the Missouri Valley race, which begins Saturday.

"If we would have won both games (Thursday) we would really be on top emotionally, but to lose like we did (in the second game) really leaves a bad taste in your mouth," he said. "We need to regroup."

The Bears are 10-5 on the season and will be tough to beat on the road, Rigglesman said.

"We're going to have to scratch for every run we get," he said. "SMSU has a tough pitching staff, and we expect them to be a force in the Valley this season."

The Dawgs play a double header on Saturday at SMSU. Rigglesman said senior George Joseph will pitch the opener, and freshman Mike McArdle will start the late game. Van Gilder is scheduled to start a single game Sunday.

Lefties key in Braves' hopes to repeat as NL champions

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — Tom Glavine of the Atlanta Braves, the National League's 1991 Cy Young Award winner, likes talking about the pitching staff on his team.

"The arms on our staff are as good as the arms on any staff in baseball," said Glavine, one of two NL pitchers to win 20 games last season. "We're still young and we have guys who have things to learn, including me. It's hard to say we're the best pitching staff in baseball but we certainly have the ability to be the best pitching staff. If we stay healthy and keep progressing the way we have, in the not-too-distant future people will say our staff is the best."

As Glavine prepares to defend his Cy Young trophy, he realizes his top challenger could be teammate Steve Avery, the baby of the Braves' pitching corps.

Avery, a 6-foot-4, 180-pound lefty from Taylor, Mich., won't turn 22 until the new season is a week old. In 1991, his first full major-league campaign, Avery won 10 of his last 13 decisions to finish with an 18-8 record, then pitched a record 16 1/3 consecutive scoreless innings against the Pittsburgh Pirates in the NL Championship Series. His overpowering victories in the second and sixth games earned him Most Valuable Player honors in the playoffs.

Though he did not receive a decision in the World Series against Minnesota, Avery did little to tarnish his reputation. From Aug. 30 through the World Series, he went 7-0 with a 1.94 earned run average. That certainly attracted the attention of pitching coach Leo Mazzone.

"We think Steve is something special," Mazzone said. "What we noticed about him last year is the more the games meant — as we went down the stretch in pressure situations — the higher he elevated his game."

"He was certainly something to watch in 1991 and we look forward to seeing him for many years."

A strikeout pitcher with good command of a fastball, change, and overhand curve, Avery has an even greater asset: an ability to keep his cool when the pressure is greatest. He helped lift the Braves into postseason play by firing consecutive complete-game victories over the arch-rival Los Angeles Dodgers in September. Avery owns a career mark of 5-0 against Tom Lasorda's club.

"It doesn't matter whether it's the Dodgers or any other club," said Mazzone. "When Steve's at the top of his game, it doesn't make a difference what team he's facing."

On the field, Avery is an intense competitor who takes his job seriously. In the clubhouse, however, he's a prankster and video games addict who is extremely popular with his teammates.

Atlanta's first-round selection in the amateur free-agent draft of June 1988, Avery spent only one full year in the minors before reaching the Braves. Pitching for a poor defensive ballclub, he went 3-11 for Atlanta in 1990.

"You have to face adversity at some time in your career," Mazzone said, "and Steve faced it at the major-league level. When you talk about Steve Avery now, everybody talks about his power. But the difference has been the command of his curveball and changeup. He uses all three pitches in any situation, any count."

One of four Cinderellas to get crown in Midwest

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Four years ago, a Cinderella team came to Kansas City and won the Final Four. This season, Cinderella is likely to come from Kansas City.

In 1988, the Kansas Jayhawks — a No. 6 seed — made an unlikely run for the NCAA championship that ended on the floor of Kansas City's Kemper Arena. In 1992, the Jayhawks were expected to a more conventional path back to the Final Four, this time going through Kemper in the regional.

But instead of a near-home floor advantage for Kansas, Cinderellas have popped up like daffodils in the Midwest Region. Only fourth-seeded Cincinnati was expected to earn a spot in the regional semifinals and now the Bearcats are favorites.

"I don't think we can be considered the favorites," Cincinnati guard Anthony Buford said. "I think UTEP should be considered the favorite since they beat the top-seed in Kansas. We've never considered ourselves the favorite."

Cincinnati will take its favorite role, like it or not, and 27-4 record into Friday's regional semifinals against No. 9 seed Texas-El Paso, 27-6. The other semifinal pairs sixth-seeded Memphis State, 22-10, and No. 7 seed Georgia Tech, 23-11. Friday's winners play Sunday for a Final Four berth against the champion of the Southeast Region.

The regional at Kansas City was supposed to belong to Kansas. The No. 2-rated and top-seeded Jayhawks were coming off a Big Eight Conference Tournament title on the same floor and seemed destined for at least one game in Minneapolis next week.

And if it wasn't to be Kansas' plum, Southern Cal, seeded second, was poised to jump in along with third-seed Arkansas.

The favorites, however, all turned pumpkins. Memphis State eliminated Arkansas 82-80 when David Vaughn tipped in his missed shot with eight seconds to play. Memphis State turned in the Miracle in Milwaukee to knock off Southern Cal 79-78.

sprained her ankle early this season, will be at full strength, Auld said.

Besides Wasser at No. 5, junior Wendy Varnum will play the No. 1 position, senior Lori Edwards will play No. 2, sophomore Leesa Joseph will play No. 3, freshman Irena Feofanova will play No. 4 and sophomore Wendy Anderson will play No. 6.

In doubles action, Edwards and Joseph will play No. 1, Wasser and Feofanova, No. 2, and Varnum and sophomore Anna Tsui, No. 3.

The netters beat Memphis State in the fall exhibition season 5-4, but the team was without Joseph.

"Our strongest competition will be Memphis State," Auld said. "They're a solid team, and they have good depth. They are playing well in the bottom part of their lineup at Nos. 4, 5 and 6."

"We'll have to play really well to beat them. Our teams really respect each other and have always had a good intense, competitive rivalry."

Auld said the Southern Mississippi should be the next toughest match. SIUC beat Tennessee-Martin last season, and the team did not have a lot of depth, she said.

"It will be a good weekend for us to get started back into our competition," Auld said. "We're refreshed from our injuries."

The Salukis play Memphis State at 2:30 today. They play Southern Mississippi at 9 a.m. and Tennessee-Martin at 2 p.m. Saturday.

SOFTBALL,

innings pitched, she has 16 strikeouts. Senior Dede Darnell is 2-4.

Bradley coach Joe Dalfonso, who became the Braves' coach Wednesday after Clint Wilson resigned, said the tournament will be more of a learning experience for himself.

"I don't expect to win four games, but I also don't expect to get swept," Dalfonso. "I think we have enough good players to do well. If we play well, and we're relaxed, I think we'll win a couple."

The Salukis will play SEMO at 1 p.m. and Evansville at 3 p.m. today. SIUC plays Bradley at 11 a.m. Saturday, and the championship game will be at 1 p.m.
