INSPECTING THE BALLOT- Voters inspect the ballots in Thursday's election to fill vacancies on the Campus Senate. Members of Alpha Phi Omega, service fraternity, manned the polling booths on campus. Student government officials said a record number of students voted in the election.

Greeks Get Nod In Referendum; Senators Named

In the most decisive vote of Thursday's elections and referendum, the students voted 1,645 to 418 that additional fraternities and sororities should be allowed to form at SIU.

There was a wide range of opinion on the question of girls' hours. 329 votes were cast for the policy remaining the same as it is now. There were 580 votes for the present hours to apply only to Freshmen women.

The choice of no closing hours for any woman student received 582 votes. The largest number of votes went to the proposition that the rules apply only to freshmen and sophomore women.

On the first of the National Student Association questions, there were 501 votes supporting the Black Power resolution and 1,252 against.

The first resolution dealing with the draft had 719 supporters and 1,047 against. The minority report on the draft was also defeated 1,050 to 688.

The fourth resolution dealing with "more equitable drug laws" had 747 for and 956 against.

In the Commuter senator race, Paul Wheeler was elected with 180 votes; Dennis Nix, 178; Louie Sauer, 145; Tim Gorman, 148; John Nystedt, 149 and Jim Sieber, 156. Of the six new commuter senators, Gorman, Nystedt, Seiber and Wheeler are members of the Action Party.

Four new senators were elected in the Eastside Dorm district: Miss Sara Kiss, 137 votes; John Haney, 170; Mark Victor Hansen, 133 and Darrell Vandermeulen, 149. Miss Kiss is a member of the Action Party.

Ronald J. Smith, independent, was elected Eastside Non-Dorm Senator with 69 votes.

Winners in the West Side Dorm senate race were Steve Antonacci, 266 votes; Robert Blanchard, 231; Dale Boatright, 280; Miss Cheryl Lamme, 256; Terry Piediscalzi, 249 and Steve Collier, 219. Collier was the only independent elected. The others were members of the Action Party.

Thompson Point elected Jack Seum with 235 votes. Seum is a member of the Action Party.

Two independent candidates won in the University Park race. Scott Ratter received 143 votes and D. J. Kennedy received 126.

Two Action Party Candidates were elected in the West Side Non-Dorm senate contest. Jerry Pauluch totaled 129 votes and Jim Baker had 123.

Jon Carlson was elected Spring Festival Chairman with 873 votes. Dave Fabian was his nearest competitor with 593.

Karr Charges Summers' Letter, Statement of Resignation Conflict

Richard Karr, student body vice-president, said Thursday that the reasons given Wednesday by Robb Summers for his resignation as elections commissioner did not agree with those given to Karr in a letter of resignation. Summers said he resigned because Karr "interfered with his handling of the election." His statement was in reference to Thursday's election to fill 20 openings in the Campus Senate.

"I'm sorry that Mr. Summers resigned," Karr said. "I feel that he would have been a good commissioner. I believe that Mr. Summers' reasons for his resignation were stated in his letter."

Karr gave a copy of Summers' resignation letter to the Daily Egyptian. The letter, signed by Summers, lists two reasons for his resignation:

"First, I have discovered, much to my dismay, that I do not have sufficient time to devote to the job. It is too demanding in light of my other commitments. My main object for being a student is to acquire an education, and I cannot do justice to this duty if I am simultaneously involved in Student Government.

"Second, I do not want to share the fate of my predecessor. There are people who seem to know the job much better than the Election Commissioner does and who are more than willing to make decisions for him. What perplexes me is this: Why aren't the ones who seem, or at least talk, like they understand the job appointed to the post? I will settle the question by leaving the running of this election up to those people who know how it should be operated.

"By way of ending, I would like to leave this suggestion with you: next time appoint an Election Commission instead of just an Election's Commissioner."

Lenzi, Eight Delegates Leave For Student Power Meeting

A delegation of nine SIU students, headed by Student Body President Ray Lenzi, departed Thursday for the National Student Association Power Conference at Minneapolis.

The Conference, involving student leaders from across the country, will deal with efforts to unify the student power movement, according to a release issued by the NSA.

As part of the movement, the NSA is seeking to establish funds for the legal defense of students challenging university authority in civil cases.

The organization is also seeking a legal area of the student power desk which will answer any questions relating to the legal status and rights of students.

According to Richard Karr, chairman of the Campus Senate, no vote will be taken on the NSA resolutions which were presented to SIU students in Thursday's referendum. He said the results of the referendum would be presented at the National Student Congress later this year. The questions dealt with the draft, a draft alternative, black power and drug legalization.

Builder Denies Prejudice In Laboratory Construction

Racial discrimination does not exist at the Forestry Science Laboratory now under construction on the SIU campus, according to the project engineer in charge.

Howard Peters of R. and R. Construction Co., Alton, said 27 per cent of its workmen presently employed at the site are Negroes. That figure, according to Peters, "is as high or higher than the national average."

Charges of racial discrimination were brought earlier in the week by three Negroes who picketed the project for alleged bias in hiring and layoff practices.

Peters said the $609,000 building is a federal General Services Administration project. As such, he said, it must be handled as a non-discriminatory undertaking.

"The first two laborers hired were Negroes," Peters said, and at present of the total work force of 15 men, four are Negroes.

Thus far, Peters said, only six men have been laid off. Four were white, the other two Negroes.

The picketing apparently was triggered by the layoff of a Negro carpenter several days ago, Peters said. Layoffs are done at the discretion of the contractor according to job requirements and performance of the workmen.

Peters said he had been in contact with the Carbondale area union local and had been assured that the pickets did not have union sanction. "Our hiring practices have nothing to do with one's color," Peters said, "except that we try to employ as many qualified Negroes as we can find."

As of Thursday, the eight-man labor force was equally divided between Negroes and whites.

Election Game

The current rash of public statements about the actions of the city based crime syndicate and its linkage to politicians and the business world of this country says only one thing, and it isn't new. There is another national election coming up.

In the past it was almost humorous to follow the hide-and-seek games that politicians pretended they were playing with the American public concerning information about syndicate operations. These escapades always seem to build momentum before every major national voting date.

But by now the American public has had as much of a historical background on the mobsters as it has had biographical information about notable actors in Hollywood. By now, the run down of the many syndicate operations and to what extent its black hand reachers is common knowledge.

All the praise to figures of crime for their performances in bringing some of the mob's top figures to justice is old hat and reports of the partial crippling effect on the national organization have lost their impact.

The syndicate is an everyday fact of life. It still rolls along as an integral part of the American way of free enterprise in the liberal sense.

No, nobody is being fooled or amazed by these so-called startling disclosures that are in the air. Not even the public can be said to be fooling itself anymore. Its apathy has made the crime syndicate a national institution with its exploits being heralded periodically like the background and play-by-play for a major league world series.

John Belpedio

Bad News

The press and other news media cannot ignore their responsibilities to the American people by refusing to report "bad news," as Labor Secretary W. Willard Wirtz has recommended.

Wirtz recently stated that he is tired of the "bad news" that has been printed about the Democratic Party in the last six years.

Yet bad news—Negro riots, slum conditions, the Vietnam conflict and inflation—are vital interests which have affected most Americans either directly or indirectly.

Until the racial question is settled, slums are eliminated, costs of living decreased, and the United States wins or withdraws from Southeast Asia, the news will continue to be "bad."

Robert Eisen

Letters to the Editor:

Does Crime Pay?

To the Editor:

Having attended Mr. Sands' speech at the University today, we, the Training Officers from nineteen different states, all presently active in rehabilitation programs for inmates, feel that Mr. Sands gave the impression that most Correctional Institutions throughout the country today still use brutality to punish inmates who have committed infractions against the rules and regulations of the Institution.

Any force used today in most institutions is only that which is necessary to subdue an inmate who is out of control, and it does not go beyond this point. The forms of brutality mentioned by Mr. Sands may have been used twenty or thirty years ago in some institutions but are not used in modern prison systems.

Mr. Sands' speech was supposed to be on work he is doing to help rehabilitate inmates who are now in prison, yet he made no mention of this in his speech. Instead, what he said and the impressions he made will do much to tear down the programs presently in force in institutions all over the United States.

Some of these programs are in force here at SIU and so far have been very successful. Many institutions have vocational rehabilitation centers where prisoners are taught trades, educational programs where they can get high school equivalency certificates, correspondence courses with accredited universities, art, drafting, etc. These programs are set up with the intent of preparing the inmate for his release to the community and a new acceptable way of life.

Mr. Sands, by his speech, places the blame for his crimes on his parents. His mother for treating him the way he said she did and his father for not bothering with him at all. There are many people in this world today who were treated worse than he was and accepted it. They didn't resort to crime as an excuse but went out and faced the world alone and made good.

Mr. Sands complained about the whippings his mother gave him but failed to tell why he used violence in committing his crimes. Put yourselves in the place of the unfortunate victims he assaulted and see how you would feel.

We would like to have Mr. Sands come out and talk to us but I doubt very much if he would care to because his story of brutality in most institutions is false.

Our presence here at the Center for the Study of Crime, Delinquency and Corrections is for the purpose of learning how to teach and train correctional officers in our various institutions, custody, security, and the proper and latest programs for the treatment of inmates. All of us are responsible officers and high ranking on the staffs of our institutions. We were deeply shocked by the speech by Mr. Sands.

Mr. Sands' speech seemed to leave the impression that crime does pay.

Therefore, we present this letter in rebuttal to Mr. Sands' speech and if he should read it, would like to know what his answer would be.

Intramural Problems

To the Editor:

The time has come for re-evaluation of the procedures for selecting members to the various all-school intramural all-star teams. Close observations of the most recent selections, the flag football all-star team, shows some interesting examples which point out the need for reassessment of the selection process.

In a sport which is composed of only seven players, one cannot help but wonder how a team with three of its seven players who qualified for membership on the all-star team could lose almost half of its football games. Even stranger is the fact that a team which won 12 games (including the school championship) could compete in the same league and have but one member skilled enough for membership on the mythical all-stars.

Another interesting fact is that the team which finished second in the school placed no one on the all-stars. Also a team eliminated in the first round by the eventual champions placed more men on the team than did the winners.

One cannot help but wonder as to the equity of the selection process. Granted, with so many students participating in each of the intramural sports, selection is difficult. Theoretically, selection is made through a combination of voting by participating team managers, referees and officials, members of the student intramural board, and graduate assistants in the intramural office.

In reality, the decision is based for the most part on the opinions of the graduate assistants. The trouble lies in the fact that managers, officials, board members, and assistants seldom have the opportunity to observe all of the participating students in the intramural program. The result is that those determining the selection of all-star teams tend to vote for those players whom they either know personally or have had close contact with.

Unfortunately, in several cases this evaluative insight and personal contact has been extremely limited.

If the school all-star team is to have any real significance, officials, board members, and graduate assistants must widen their base of appraisal and make a more conscientious effort to objectively assess and evaluate the participants in the entire intramural system.

Distortion Of Russia

To the Editor:

In regards to the political cartoon on page 4 of the Nov. 14 issue of the Daily Egyptian which depicts two freezing, ragged Russian peasants plowing a field outside Moscow, we would like to say:

It is a gross distortion of the actual conditions of life in the Soviet Union. In a country which claims to be the intellectual leader of the world, and especially in a University newspaper, the presentation of this type of biased misconception only demonstrates our general ignorance. We are not supporting the ideology of the Soviet Union, but rather we are asking for an honest representation of existing conditions.

Japanese-U.S. Relations

Okinawa-- Little Piece in A Big Puzzle

By Antero Pietila

In spite of the 70 mm Todd-A-O, you had better forget all about samurais and geishas and that tearoom of August moon. Sure, geishas still exist, but those pretty girls at Sony are much closer to the Japan of today and sons of the samurais are engineers at Datsun auto works. Reality is sayonara to many things of the past — including some in the U.S.-Japanese relations.

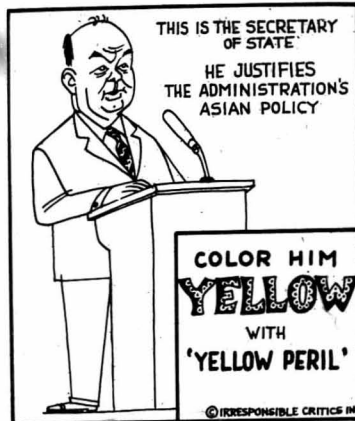

What really was discussed in talks between President Johnson and Japanese Prime Minister Eisaku Sato in Washington this week was not known at this writing. Southeast Asian economic cooperation, mutual trade problems, and Vietnam were on the agenda, expectedly. The text of an epistle for the talks was read, however, in article three of chapter two of the Treaty of Peace with Japan:

"Japan will concur in any proposal of the United States to the United Nations to place under its trusteeship system with the United States as the sole administering authority, Nansai Shoto south of 29 degrees north latitude (including the Ryukyu Islands and the Daito Islands), Nanpo Shoto of Sofu Gan (including the Bonin Islands, Rosario Island and the Volcano Islands). . . . the United States will have the right to exercise all and any powers of administration, legislation and jurisdiction over the territory and inhabitants of these islands including their territorial waters."

It was the future of the Ryukyus and Bonins that on the eve of Sato's trip sparked a fireworks of hopes and debate in Japan. Demanding those islands back has long been a rallying cry of the anti-American left. But in order to capture the play conservatives took it over and Eisaku Sato himself began to advocate the reunification of Okinawa this summer.

Before the capture in 1945 the Ryukyus were part of Japan, a neglected prefecture, the poorest of the country. And though the presence of Americans has developed the area, it is still poor. Per capita income on Okinawa is only one-half that in Japan and the prosperity there is essentially American. So as most Okinawans want to be reunited with Japan they realize that their military-generated economy would turn to chaos if Americans left.

Veltman, Hartford Times

It is that country that these Washington negotiations have been followed with strained attention. At Sato's departure from Tokyo, 333 club-swinging, stone-throwing leftist demonstrators were arrested and 215 policemen were injured. And even if those were extremists, most Japanese expect some sign of progress on this delicate issue.

President Johnson must have found himself uncomfortably sandwiched between American military interests and Japanese hopes during the talks. Since the end of World War II, Okinawa has been a key military base in the Western Pacific and U.S. military authorities reportedly are strongly resistant to any change affecting bases there. They feel the bases are uniquely strategic, just 350 miles off China. This military viewpoint is hard to dispute. Also, Mr. Sato, before he left Japan, admitted that the return of Okinawa and the Bonins (including Iwo Jima) is so intricately related to the problem of security that no immediate complete solution can be expected.

On the eve of the talks it was understood that one possible concession to the Japanese would be the appointment of a civilian governor but there would be no basic change in the status of those islands.

The future of Okinawa is perhaps not yet a crucial question is US.-Japanese relations, but it may develop into one. It is not only the opinion of Edwin O. Reischauer, the Japan-born bilingual former U.S. ambassador to Tokyo, that there can be little doubt that within 10 years Japan will be playing a major role, possibly the major role in the Far East. He also thinks that part of the present imbalance in Asia is a result of Japan's disappearance as a power after World War II.

It is known that the United States hopes Japan will take a more forceful role in promoting stability in Asia. But at the same time there seems to be some criticism in Washington about the tacit attitude of Japan towards the Vietnam war and complaints are heard that the Japanese foreign policy too much reflects her economic interests.

Partly this is true. But it is a fact also that even if the wild news about the now smoothened cultural revolution in China remained almost as enigmatic to Japanese (despite their superior news coverage), as to the rest of the world there is a sense of kinship if not friendship between Japan and China. Thus it is quite clear that the greater the tension becomes between the United States and China, the greater is also the strain imposed on the Japanese-American alliance. And the present situation in Vietnam is not followed in Japan without fear.

To date, kites launched by the Japanese government about the possible nuclear shield have been encountered with a condemnation deriving from a genuine anti-nuclear horror, the nightmare of the past being too painful to forget. But as Sen. Eugene McCarthy (D.-Minn.) recently said, "We must anticipate that the Asians in the 1970s or 1980s are no more likely to be satisfied with the protection of an American nuclear umbrella over which they have no control than are the Europeans in the 1960s."

"Our relations with Japan and Japan's with the world will soon reach a critical point. Support for the military alliance with the U.S. has diminished in Japan, particularly since the Vietnam war. We still have to consider, therefore, whether the maintenance of the present alliance beyond 1970 will be in the best interests of Japan and of the United States and of order in Asia. We will have to consider whether it might not be wiser to permit Japan the freedom to seek or to provide leadership in Asia on her own."

Okinawa may be but a wee piece in a huge puzzle. But once it has been taken into discussions at the highest level it will remain a political passion in Japan until the future of that island is decided.

Hopes for Advancement

Employment, Resource Center Aids Resident in Securing City Hall Job

By Inez Rencher

Mrs. Virginia Edwards, a resident of the northeast section of Carbondale, hopes for advancement in the secretarial field through her experience at city hall.

Mrs. Edwards was referred by the city's Employment and Resource Center and hired as clerk and machine operator at city hall in October. Her duties include operating the copying machine and duplicator in preparing notices and other business papers for all departments in city administration. She also prepares meter sheets and billings for city water utility.

"The work's not hard," she commented, "and it's interesting, too."

Finishing a seven-month course in clerk-stenography under the Manpower Development and Training Act in August, Mrs. Edwards reported she sought employment two months before she contacted the employment center for assistance.

"If I hadn't come here (to the employment center), I doubt if I would have gotten a job, she emphasized. "I'd been to several places and really I got the same old story: 'We're aren't hiring now. If something should turn up, we'll let you know.'"

The Employment and Resource Center was one result of a July 30 meeting of northeast residents. Mayor David Keene and city officials to avert riots which were being rumored in the city.

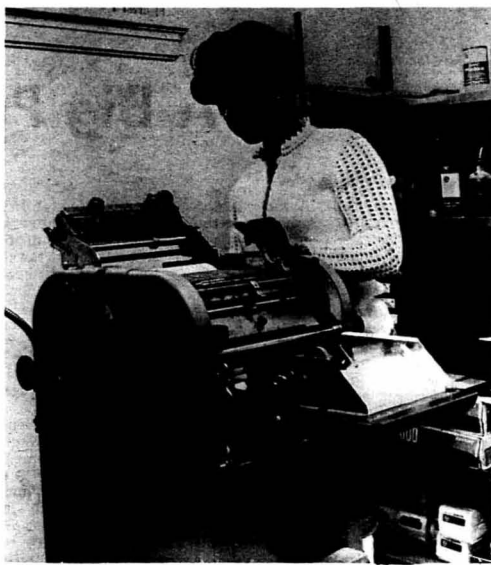

Born in Carbondale, she attended Attucks School. Her education was interrupted, but she received a high school equivalency diploma.

Mrs. Edwards, 29, is mother and sole supporter of her five school-aged children. Separated from her husband, she and her family reside at 1410 E. Ashely in the Jackson County low rent housing.

Attending Parent Teacher Association meetings at the schools, housekeeping and working keep the young mother busy. Her children, ages 13, 10, eight, seven and five, are enrolled in three schools in the northeast section of town.

Mrs. Edwards said she had thought once of leaving Carbondale to find employment to support her family, because job opportunities were limited in this city. She was hesitant about moving, however, because the children were settled in schools and she "really liked the town."

Commenting on the city's governmental structure, she said, "I think there has definately been some changes." These changes, she explained, have been for the better. She felt they are due to the recent change in administration.

Mrs. Edwards also worked several years as converter operator at the Technical Tape Corp. in Carbondale.

"You always hear that if you want a better job, get some specialized training," she said. "One thing about Technical Tape," she added, "there wasn't much room for advancement."

Mrs. Edwards said she enjoys doing secretarial work and is determined to become a professional secretary, "even if it means leaving Carbondale."

She is currently hired at city hall on a tentative basis. The city manager, she explained, is incorporating the job description and a regular salary schedule into the budget.

Narcotics Charge Holds 3 Students

Three SIU students were being held in Jackson County jail Thursday in lieu of $3,000 bond on charges of illegal possession of narcotics.

They were identified by University Security Police as Harry J. Stone, 19; Gary Frazes, 18, and Larry Bendersky, 20.

Two others, also arrested by University police Wednesday night with the SIU students, and being held in jail, were Richard L. Karnes and Harvey J. Wexelman, both 20. All listed home addresses in the Chicago area, police said.

The five were picked up by Security Police about 11:15 p.m. when they responded to complaints of a party in progress in a trailer in the 700 block of East College St.

Marijuana was found in the trailer, police said.

Oxford University To Publish Book By SIU Instructor

Lon R. Shelby, associate professor of history and associate dean of graduate studies and research at SIU, is author of a new book, "John Rogers: Tudor Military Engineer," published by Oxford University Press.

John Rogers, one of the foremost English military engineers of his time, served Henry VIII, Edward VI, and Mary as surveyor of works at Hull, Boulogne, and Calais. His career came at a turning point in the history of English military engineering during the 1540s. Rogers is described in this book not only as a military engineer but also as an architectural and topographical draftsman. Shelby holds a bachelor's degree from Baylor University, a master's degree from Vanderbilt, and his Ph.D. from the University of North Carolina in 1962. A native of Dallas, Texas, he has been on the faculty of SIU since 1961.

Fifty Draft Cards Refused by Official

BOSTON (AP) -- An assistant U.S. attorney, citing orders of the attorney general, refused Thursday to accept some 50 draft cards from four representatives of antiwar demonstrators.

The demonstrations were marked by two fights between the antiwar group and pro-government supporters.

The cards were brought to the federal building from the Old West Church where their owners had turned them in as a protest against the fighting in Vietnam. Some 200 persons participated in a memorial service for Vietnam war dead at the church where a fight broke out on the steps.

The Rev. Jack Mendelsohn, minister of Arlington Street Church (Unitarian Universalist), said 50 or 52 draft cards were turned in and another seven or eight burned.

On a half-mile march from the church to the federal building, the draft opponents were heckled and pelted with snowballs.

At first the demonstrators were locked out of the federal building. Later a Justice Department representative agreed to allow four to go to the U.S. attorney's office.

While they went inside, an estimated 1,000 persons voicing progovernment sentiments clustered around the antiwar demonstrators in Post Office Square.

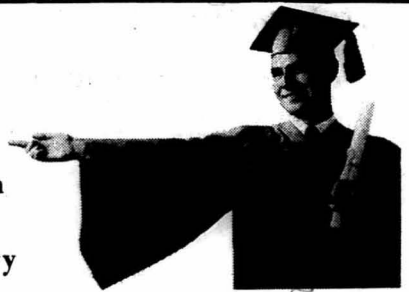

When antiwar demonstrators tried to make speeches over a sound system, pro-Vietnam hecklers attempted to get at them. Several punches were thrown before police using horses and dogs separated them.

Self-styled Polish Freedom Fighter Josef Mlot-Mroz moved in front of the speakers and tried to outshout them.

Auto Workers Walk Off Jobs In St. Louis

HAZELWOOD, Mo. (AP)-- Four hundred workers walked off their jobs Thursday at the General Motors parts division plant in St. Louis. A union spokesman said the walkout was authorized and resulted from a breakdown in grievance procedures.

A company spokesman said production on the day shift was halted.

Jim Feeler, President of Local 25 of the United Auto Workers, said that the 200 workers on the evening shift would report and work two hours, then leave their jobs.

The plant, located in St. Louis County, has only two shifts.

Feeler said management had failed to settle long-standing grievances and union members decided on a one-day walkout to protest the continued disputes. Feeler said that since the UAW contract with General Motors expired Sept. 6, no grievances have been settled.

Britain Submits Mid East Resolution

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) --Britain submitted to the U.N. Security Council Thursday a compromise resolution it hoped would break the prolonged diplomatic deadlock on a settlement in the Middle East.

Lord Caradon, British U.N. ambassador, urged a prompt and unanimous council decision. The alternative to effective council action, he said, is "too terrible to contemplate."

"So great is the need," Caradon said, "and so great is the measure of agreement among us that I cannot believe we will fail."

The resolution provides for Israeli withdrawal "from territories occupied in the recent conflict," a reference to the six-day Arab-Israeli war in which Israel seized hundreds of square miles of Egyptian, Jordanian and Syrian territory.

It also affirms the need for the termination "of all claims or states of belligerency." The Arabs have maintained a state of belligerency against Israel since the Jewish nation came into being 19 years ago.

It further makes provision for a special U.N. representative to go to the Middle East "to promote agreement and assist efforts to achieve a peaceful and accepted settlement."

Caradon said the British draft was designed to "take full account of the essential interests of both sides as they have stated them" and also to provide the "best hope" for a successful mission by the special representative.

Egyptian and Israeli representatives, speaking after Caradon, made no direct comment on the resolution, but they restated their positions on a settlement.

Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Riad declared that Egypt was "absolutely firm" in its demand for complete Israeli withdrawal from all captured Arab territories.

Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban reiterated that to his government "agreement on secure and recognized boundaries is absolutely essential."

Westmoreland Gives Senate Optimistic Vietnam Report

WASHINGTON (AP) -- Gen. William C. Westmoreland conferred Thursday with President Johnson on the Vietnam war and gave the Senate Armed Services Committee what was described as a cautiously optimistic report.

But the U.S. commander in Vietnam "does not see any early termination of the war" and suggested no timetable of when the fighting might end," Committee Chairman

Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., told newsmen.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., another committee member, said Westmoreland reported that although the North Vietnamese troops are better equipped now than before, they are not well led and their quality is going down.

"He feels quite confident," Jackson said of Westmoreland. "He sees the enemy losing steadily and continuously."

Solid Connection.

It just makes good sense for the graduate engineer or scientist, contemplating the direction of his professional career, to make sure that he has all the information he needs about every company he is considering—that he has total input information—before he makes a connection.

If you're good. If you're really good. If you have learned to use the knowledge you have acquired as a starting point from which to launch new ideas, you probably know already that your talents are in demand. There is always a seller's market for intellect.

But there can be more to your future than buy and sell. Satisfaction is a commodity that cannot be exchanged.

When you are considering where you will start in the complex world of aerospace, while you are gathering input information, we urge you to investigate the opportunity for a satisfying career here at the Pomona division of General Dynamics.

Here are five reasons why it would be a wise move for you now:

1. You will work side-by-side with nationally recognized engineers and scientists who are pioneering advanced concepts in missilery. Your reputation will be balanced by association.
2. Your compensation and fringe benefits will be on a par with the top in the industry.
3. You will pursue your profession in an area where living is pleasurable year 'round—one of the top vacation areas in the nation. Beaches, mountains, desert, a great city nearby, universities and colleges for advanced study, an atmosphere of growth and achievement.
4. Your ability will be applied to creating universally important products of engineering imagination.

5. Here at the nation's largest facility for development and manufacture of tactical guided missiles, your talents will be evaluated, recognized and rewarded.

For more information, contact your placement officer to arrange a personal on-campus interview with our representatives, or write to: L. F. Cecchi, Manager, Engineering Personnel, Pomona division of General Dynamics, P.O. Box 2507-A, Pomona, California 91766

$49,477 in Damages Sought

Former Student Files Suit Against City

Patrick T. Daren, a former SIU student, has filed suit against the City of Carbondale for $49,477.

It was filed as a result of injuries Daren received in an accident on Nov. 10, 1966.

The suit claims Daren was a pedestrian on South Wall Street when he was struck by a hit and run driver. It also says pedestrians are forced to walk on the dirt shoulders due to high embankments beside the road.

The city is charged with being negligent in not providing sidewalks, permitting the dangerous situation to exist, not warning drivers of possible pedestrian traffic in the street, permitting high embankments adjacent to the roadway to prohibit pedestrians from walking on the side of the road, not warning pedestrians of danger and failing to provide sufficient lighting.

Nine counts were listed in the suit, one against the city, itself, and one against each eight city officials.

Officials cited, according to positions held at the time of the accident are: A. E. Ramsey, public safety; Joseph Ragsdale, public property; Frank Kirk, commissioner of streets; Thomas Easterly, building and zoning; C. William Norman, city manager; D. Blaney Miller, mayor; Paul O. Hall, city engineer; and Robert McGrath, chairman of the planning commission.

The suit claims permanent injuries sustained by the plaintiff and asks $49,477.34 for personal damages.

According to City Manager C. William Norman, the city is insured against such claims, and the insurance company will be principally responsible for handling the case.

Mexican Exhibit

To Head Opening Of New Museum

A traveling exhibit of Mexican art of the 1920s and '30's is the premiere offering in the Special Exhibits Room in the SIU Museum, to have its official opening in new quarters Sunday from 2:30 to 4:30 p.m.

The art exhibit, on loan from International Business Machines Corp., includes paintings, original prints and Pre-Columbian sculpture, including such artists as Ignacio Aguirre, David Alfaro Siqueiros, Diego Rivera, Jose Chavez Morado, Leopoldo Mendez and Rufino Tamayo.

The sculptures represent four of the various Indian cultures of Mexico--the Zapotecs, Totonacs, Tarascans and Aztecs.

The public is invited to attend the open house, on the ground floor of Old Main Building. There will be no admission charge.

University Center to Undergo Changes

Clarence Dougherty, director of the University Center, said renovation plans for the Center will begin about May, 1968.

Dougherty said all levels of the Center's four floors will be utilized.

On the ground level, a refreshment stand, selling sandwiches and cokes will be added. The operation hours are tentatively planned for a 24-hour basis.

The book store and Olympic

Room will swap places to give better recreational supervision for the bowling alley and pool room.

Dougherty expects that the addition of another cafeteria will double the seating capacity of the existing one.

A south entrance near the Physical Science Building will be added, and escalators will be installed for the upper floors of the Center.

The River Rooms will be moved to the area currently occupied by the sectioning center and College of Liberal Arts and Sciences advisement section.

A new auditorium will be built to seat over 300 people, and a table service, menu-type dining room will also be added.

Student Activities offices and organizational offices will be installed on the second floor. A newspaper and periodical section will also be added for the students.

A group activities room will be available on the third floor to University - approved groups. The room will be decoratable so students may create the atmosphere needed for a specific party or get together.

"The new coffee snack bar on the first floor will continue operation as long as possible," said Dougherty. "It has been serving about 300 customers per day," he added. The snack bar has increased coffee sales and relieved some of the crowd from the ground level cafeteria.

Sociologist Says Government Funds For Alcohol Research Too Small

By Jean Messick

"Although alcoholism is one of the major health problems in the United States today, the amount of money invested by the government for the study of this problem has been very small," according to Charles R. Snyder, chairman of the SIU Department of Sociology. Snyder, a prominent authority on alcoholism who has written several books and articles on the subject, made his remarks as he reflected upon the value of the report recently published by the federal government's Co-operative Commission on the Study of Alcoholism. He said he had been offered the chairmanship of the commission when it was being formed in 1960, but turned the position down in favor of a teaching post at SIU.

After making what he termed "a cursory examination of the commission's report," Snyder was reservedly critical of its findings and its recommendations. He stated that "the commission made the mistake of jumping to some conclusions which I consider unproven."

As an example he sighted the report's statements concerning the low percentage of alcoholics in certain ethnic or cultural groups such as Italian-Americans and American Jews. The commission, which based many of its findings on Snyder's own book "Alcohol and the Jews," concluded that the low alcoholic rate was due to the fact that in Jewish and Italian families the drinking of alcoholic beverages has been incorporated into family living. Although nearly everyone in the family drinks, drunkenness is frowned upon. The commission suggests a similar situation for the average family.

Snyder contends that this conclusion was made too hastily. "Jewish drinking is integrated with a profound religious pattern, a pattern that does not exist within the average middle-class family. My studies indicate that within the Jewish culture as we get away from the Orthodox Jews and proceed to the liberal Jews the alcoholic rate seems to rise."

Snyder says that the difference in context makes the conclusion of the commission invalid. He points out,

"Although there definitely is a place for moderate drinking, there is also a place for abstinence."

Snyder further critised the report. He said, "Although the report represents a sensible pulling together of information and opinion that the layman can pick up and read, it is not any exciting news. It is more correctly a rehashing of rather prominent themes, most of which have been known and discussed for some time."

Snyder pointed out that there is very little original material in the report because the Commission's research really didn't live up to its expectations. He said that although the research staffers were men of very high caliber, they seem to have been handicapped by the government's lack of financial support.

"The government's largest grant was made to an administrative body, not to a group of researchers," Snyder explained.

Snyder added that although the rate of alcoholism has not increased in the past four years, the number of alcoholics has increased greatly because of the tremendous population growth, making the whole problem more important than ever.

Postmaster Gives Holiday Schedules

Carbondale Postmaster Hubert L. Goforth has announced that post offices will observe regular holiday schedules on Thanksgiving Day, Thurs., Nov. 23.

Mail will be picked up from deposit points on normal holiday schedules, and processed for outgoing dispatch, but there will be no regular window or delivery services.

Special delivery service will be available, and post office lobbies in many cities will be open for mail deposit, access to lock boxes and purchase of stamps from machines.

Faculty Offered Computer Course

A three-day course in basic computer programming will be sponsored by VTI in cooperation with the School of Technology and the Data Processing and Computing Center.

Registration and first meeting of the course will be Monday. The class will also meet on Nov. 27 and Dec. 4, from 4 to 5 p.m. in Room 121 of Lawson Hall.

Instructor for the course is Robert Ashworth, manager of the Data Processing and Computing Center.

The course is open to faculty and staff only. There is no tuition charge.

Kleinva Elected

Marvin Kleinva, professor of speech at SIU, is the newly elected president of the Illinois Speech Association.

Seniors Will Play Final Game Tomorrow

Eleven seniors will don their maroon jerseys Saturday and play their final game as a Saluki when SIU meets Drake in the Parents' day game at McAndrew Stadium.

None is likely to bow out quietly. All 11 players have seen considerable action and several have left their names in the SIU record book.

The two most proficient pass receivers in the school's football history, Tom Massey and John Ference, will be among the graduates. Massey holds school marks for number of touchdown receptions (11) and most yardage gained through pass receiving (1,328). Ference presently holds the record for most receptions (105).

Charles Pemberton, the Salukis' leading rusher since he gained a starting berth at mid-season in 1966, will be lugging the ball for the last time along with fullback Hill Williams.

Four offensive linemen, Isaac Brigham, Bill Blanchard, Ralph Galloway and Bill Sanders, are numbered among the seniors.

The defensive seniors are Ken Doyan, Bill Hohs and Bob Roberts.

The Salukis will be attempting to salvage a 3-7 season. It has been a disappointing campaign for the coaching staff and players. At the beginning of the season Coach Dick Towers said he felt the 1967 squad could have a winning season, despite a rugged schedule.

Drake also has had its problems. The Bulldogs will be fighting for a .500 record after winning eight games in 1966. The big difference between this year and last for the Bulldogs is the absence of Ron Royer and Manley Sarnowski.

This pair riddled the Saluki defense last season, Royer with his pin-point passing and Sarnowski with his sure hands and rugged ability to run with the ball after catching it.

Towers plans no major changes for Drake. He'll start sophomore Barry McKay at quarterback, on the basis of his impressive showing against Ball State. Doug Hollinger will probably see considerable action as a pass defender.

ALL-AMERICA TALK- Ed Mossotti, right, a collegiate All-America for SIU, talks with SIU freshmen who were high school All-Am-

17- Meet Schedule

Tankmen Launch Season Tonight

SIU's varsity and freshman swimming teams will kick off a 17-meet season at 8 p.m. tonight with a mixed intrasquad meet in the University High School swimming pool. The meet is a Jackson County YMCA benefit affair, with proceeds going to the local YMCA's new pool.

Due to a lack of varsity swimmers Coach Ray Essick will integrate the two squads with frosh and varsity members.

Scott Conkel will be favored to cop the 100-yard freestyle. He was the 15th ranked swimmer in the nation at that distance last year. But Conkel will have plenty of competition from a pair of former high school All-Americans, Vern Dasch and Gar Schloetzer, and John Curran the former captain of Loyola Academy's National Catholic champs.

Dasch is the reigning Florida state champ at 100 and 200 yards and Scholetzer, a transfer who is ineligible for varsity competition until winter, is a Miami, Fla., native.

Varsity backstroke Tom Ulrich will face two more highly touted freshmen in Jim McNaughton of Palo Heights and Vince Capriles, holder of all South American backstroke records.

Freshmen Bob Schoos and Bruce Steiner, two more prep All-Americans, and junior Bill Noyes of Urbana will swim the 500-yard freestyle.

Carey Burke is the only freshman entered in the 200-yard breaststroke. He'll swim against Bruce Jacobsen, the most versatile varsity swimmer, Wayne Thomas and John Holben. These three have covered the distance in a best time of 1:03.5, 1:02.9 and 1:05.

Dasch, Schoos and Schloetzer will also swim the 200-yard freestyle. Both Dasch

(1:48.2) and Schoos (1:47.7) have covered the distance in better times than the present frosh record of 1:48.4.

There will also be a one-meter diving exhibition.

The Salukis' next home meet will be Jan. 19 when they meet Missouri. They open the regular season Dec. 2 at the Illinois Collegiate Relays at Normal and the first dual meet is Dec. 8 against Evansville.

Saluki Flying Club to Compete

The Saluki Flying Club will take part in the National Collegiate Flying Association Midwinter meet Saturday at Auburn University.

SIU will be represented by seven students and adviser Ron Kelley.

Competition will consist of accuracy landing, navigation events, and a bomb dropping event.

The University of Ohio club is the defending champion of the meet which is expected to draw 12 universities into competition.

Students representing SIU at the meet will be Bill Allaben, Walter Gentry, Bill Holtzinger, Max Minich, John Murphy, William Doelitzsch and Mike McMann.
