Unions lose in faculty, AP staff vote

collective bargaining election. Fifty-nine percent of SIU-C faculty voted against the unions.

University employees chose not to be represented by a union Wednesday night.

Fifty-nine percent of faculty and 53 percent of administrative-professional staff voted for no union representation.

The Illinois Education Association topped University Professionals with faculty, 224 votes to 175 votes, but no representation won with 588 votes.

Thomas Britton, vice chancellor for administration, said he was pleased with the turnout of voters and with the outcome.

Although IEA did not receive enough votes for a runoff election, IEA President Gary Kolb said IEA was not going to go away.

"We'll be back in two years," he predicted.

If none of the three choices had won a majority, then a runoff election would have been held Dec. 7.

University Professionals President Herbert Donow said, "It's not as bad as it looks."

Donow pointed out that the combined votes for both unions was a more unified representation of the faculty's feelings toward collective bargaining.

"It's obvious we will have to regroup, but we'll be back," he said.

Students disagree on cable

Some say TV is lost without it; others say it costs too much

This is the last in a series about cable television service.

By Theresa Livingston
Staff Writer

Students who don't like the cable television service in Carbondale say it costs too much and they don't have the time to utilize it.

But students who like the service say it makes television more interesting, sometimes saying it's the only thing that makes television worth watching.

"I like the service, but I can't afford it. When I do get a chance to see it I particularly enjoy the classic movie station," said John Folsom, junior in photography.

"I haven't gotten it because I don't feel it's worth it. I'm not home enough and since I have a VCR, it won't take two service calls to get everything working. At $25 a service call, I can't afford the installation, much less the monthly bill," said Cindy Piper, senior in radio and television.

"I can't afford it and I don't watch television all that often. I just don't have time. The only time I see it is when I'm at work. It's not very high on my priority list," Kim Kofoed, senior in speech communication disorders, said.

TCI charges $16.54 for basic service, which includes a maximum of 35 channels and $20 for installation, with additional charges for premium channels.

But many students are satisfied with Carbondale's cable system.

"Without cable, I wouldn't watch television. I get cable for the St. Louis network stations. Local TV is basically terrible," Paul E. Soria, junior in theater, said.

"I used to have cable before I moved, but I haven't gotten it installed at my new place yet. I liked it, it was a good service. The shows they offer are pretty good," Megan Hussey, sophomore, premajor, said.

Cable television is available to most people living within the city limits of Carbondale.

However, in many cases, cable television is not an option for students.

Some apartment buildings are wired for cable, and some rural areas outside the city do not have access to cable services.

"I would get it if it were available, but since I live out in the country I can't," said Ken Perkins, senior in business administration.

However, a number of students who subscribe to cable television have complained of bad service, long waits for repairs and difficulty reaching representatives.

"The billing system is terrible. We had cable, but disconnected it the first week in September and settled our account. We were still getting bills so we went in (to the TCI office) and they (TCI) cleared it up. They told us to come back if we had any other problems, but it was just a big

Talks on BAS program end in heated debate

By Diana Mivell

Seymour Bryson said he didn't want to discuss the personnel issue of the Black American Studies program Tuesday night, but Luke Tripp pressed the issue stressing that instructors are needed after he leaves in May 1989.

Bryson said he was there to discuss the direction BAS will take.

They sat side by side at the Black Graduate Student Association meeting, with an empty chair between them, each getting an opportunity to tell his side of the story about their involvement in the University's BAS program.

There were three items on the agenda. A mentoring program, networking program and the BAS program, but most of the discussion was focused on BAS.

Bryson, assistant to the president for affirmative action, said he is not directly involved with BAS, but he has appointed a task force to study the BAS issue in depth.

"My involvement this year is with the task force examining BAS," Bryson

Replacement for Poshard to be chosen

By Scott Perry
Staff Writer

The chairmen of the eleven counties composing the 59th Senatorial District will meet today to discuss filling the vacancy left by the election of Glenn Poshard to the U.S. House of Representatives.

Poshard, who was successful in his bid to replace Congressman Kenneth Gray, D-West Frankfort, as the representative of the 22nd Congressional District, will resign from his state position Jan. 2. Poshard will be sworn in as a member of the U.S. House Jan. 3.

Poshard's replacement will be decided by Democratic party leaders of the counties composing the 59th district.

Among those showing an interest in gaining the Senate seat are Reps. Jim Rea, of the 117th district, and David Phelps, of the 118th district. Rea was hoping to gain the support of his home county chairman Bennie Cherry.

Cherry, however, has placed his support with Joe Browning, the Benton Township Supervisor.

Cherry supports his choice, saying it would be bad for his county to lose Rea's 10 years of legislative experience.

"My guy's (Rea) got 10 years experience and I don't want to throw that out the window," Cherry said.

"If he goes to the Senate he'll be on the bottom of the ladder."

Cherry said Browning has the qualifications needed to fill the vacancy, but would not comment on whether or not Browning could get the support of the other chairmen.

Rea said he will search for support elsewhere.

Bhutto claims her party's win in Pakistani election

ISLAMABAD, Pakistan (UPI) — Benazir Bhutto, seeking to become the first woman to lead a Moslem nation, claimed victory for her opposition party Wednesday in Pakistan's first openly contested election in 11 years. Official results from 33 of 207 contests for National Assembly seats gave 20 seats to Bhutto's Pakistan Peoples Party.

Israel tries to stop acceptance of Palestine

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Israel waged a diplomatic offensive Wednesday to halt world acceptance of the Palestinian declaration of independence, as hundreds of thousands of Palestinians remained under curfew in the occupied territories. A leftist member of parliament said the harsh measures imposed by the Israeli army in the West Bank and Gaza Strip to stifle demonstrations had turned the occupied territories into "the biggest detention camp that Israel has ever had."

Soviets urge Manila to seek more from U.S.

MANILA, Philippines (UPI) — Soviet officials wrote a letter urging Manila to seek all the money it could get at recent negotiations with Americans on U.S. military bases in the Philippines, a newspaper reported Wednesday. The letter to Philippine authorities printed by the respected Daily Globe newspaper also said the Soviet Union was in "no hurry" to see the bases removed.

S. Africa ruling party wants extremists out

PRETORIA, South Africa (UPI) — Members of the minority white government's ruling party Wednesday demanded authorities ban an extremist right-wing group after a self-professed follower went on a shooting rampage, killing six blacks and wounding 16 others. Police Capt. Ruben Bloemerg said arraignment was scheduled Thursday for Barend Strydom, a self-proclaimed white supremacist.

Record exports pull U.S. trade deficit down

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Record exports pulled the U.S. merchandise trade deficit down 14.7 percent to $10.5 billion in September, the government said Wednesday, but financial markets rejected the good news and took a nosedive. The $10.46 billion September trade gap was a 14.7 percent improvement over the revised August deficit of $12.27 billion.

Greenspan calls for cut in huge fiscal deficit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Federal Reserve Board Chairman Alan Greenspan called for strong government action Wednesday to cut America's massive fiscal deficit, warning the budget cannot be balanced by economic growth alone. In testimony before the National Economic Commission, Greenspan's comments differed from those of President-elect George Bush, who said during his campaign the country will be able to grow out of its deficit.

Vanishing leaded gasoline has some going in circles

By Phyllis Coon
Staff Writer

People who sputter their 1973 or older model cars into a gas station on empty could be forced to move on down the road because the station they are at no longer sells regular gasoline.

Three stations out of about 15 in Carbondale have already stopped selling leaded gasoline, station employees said.

Environmental Protection Agency regulations have dropped the amount of lead in regular gasoline from 0.1 percent to .05 percent, Mark Soliday, assistant manager at the Wareco-Liberty station at Cedarview Lane and Wall streets, said.

"BECAUSE THE EPA has lowered the amount of lead in regular gas we have stopped selling it," Soliday said. "We now carry premium unleaded in its place, which has become popular with customers."

Another reason the station stopped selling regular was because many stations only have two holding tanks for gasoline and the company thought the popular move would be toward premium unleaded, Soliday said.

The price of regular gasoline at stations around town can be up to three cents a gallon more than the price of unleaded gasoline, Soliday said.

CUSTOMERS OF the station who use regular haven't had to find a different company because the Wareco station at Wall and Walnut streets still sells regular gasoline, Soliday said.

"But we have had fewer complaints from customers than the happiness from them about us selling premium," Soliday said. "If a customer needs regular, we send them on up the road to our sister station."

Most complaints the company receives are from people who have taken the cylinder off their cars to put leaded gas in the tank, he said.

THE WARECO station hopes to start selling a lead additive to customers for about 75 cents to $1.50 a bottle, he said.

"It would be just like adding a gas treatment product to the tank," Soliday said. "I really don't know when we would start carrying it because our warehouse hasn't been able to get it in stock."

The EPA can stop gas stations from producing leaded gasoline, "but they can't stop us from selling lead to people to put in their cars," Soliday said.

The two other stations to stop selling regular in Carbondale are the Clark stations on East Walnut and West Main streets.

"I DON'T know why we stopped selling it," James Leming, an attendant at the East Walnut station, said. "As far as we know the EPA is going to faze out regular by population."

Larger populated cities can't sell regular, Leming said.

"I know in the city limits of Chicago regular is not sold because of lead emissions in the air," Leming said. "I'd say within a year people won't be able to find regular in Carbondale."

People don't voice their complaints to the station, Leming said.

"They usually just look at the pumps and when they don't see regular, they drive away," Leming said.

THE AMOUNT of lead in the regular is so low that there is little difference between it and unleaded, he said.

"Regular used to have an orange tinge and now it's as clear as the unleaded," Leming said. "The truck drivers that deliver our gas say both the products are virtually the same thing."

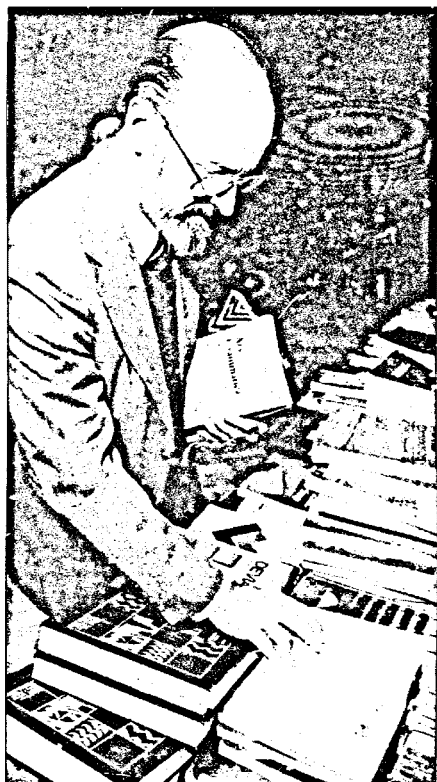

One station that still sells regular is Derby on South Illinois Avenue.

"We still have it, but it's our worst seller," Butch Brasel, station manager, said. "If it gets to where we aren't selling any at all, then the company will take it out."

SOME DERBY stations around the state have already stopped selling regular, Brasel said.

The Carbondale Derby sells regular and unleaded for the same price per gallon — 91 cents, Brasel said.

There has been no increase in the number of people who buy regular at the station since other stations have stopped selling regular, he said.

Or, adopt a smoker and help them quit for the day.

A few "quit tips"

- Hide all ashtrays, matches, etc.
- Buy a supply of sugarless gum, carrot sticks, etc.
- Drink lots of liquids, but pass up coffee & alcohol.
- Tell everyone you're quitting for the day.
- When the urge to smoke hits, take a deep breath, hold it for 10 seconds, & release it slowly.
- Exercise to relieve the tension.
- Try the "buddy system," and ask a friend to quit too.

TCI cable service gets poor reception

TELE-COMMUNICATIONS, INC., the corporation that provides cable television to the Carbondale area, should be disconnected.

Unless TCI cleans up its act before its contract expires July 1, 1990, there is no reason the city should continue to do business with the company.

The Carbondale Cable Commission is evaluating information collected from a 42-item-multiple-choice questionnaire offered to randomly selected cable subscribers. The results of the questionnaire speak for themselves.

OF THE 889 subscribers questioned, about 16 percent were either "dissatisfied" or "very dissatisfied," about 29 percent were "neither satisfied or dissatisfied" and about 52 percent were either "satisfied" or "very satisfied."

Although the questionnaire shows a slim majority of the subscribers were at least satisfied with TCI's service, some believe the complaints cited are the more important factors of the questionnaire.

POOR PROGRAMMING and poor channel reception were the biggest complaints, followed by interrupted and repetitive programming and expensive service. Other complaints include, slow repair service, problems with the installment process, frequent busy signals on Cablevision's business phone number and rude employees who often didn't show for scheduled appointments.

BUT THE MOST serious problem the company is facing, although it does not occur as often as the ones mentioned previously, is that the company repeatedly has billed subscribers for services after requested disconnection dates.

When customers refuse to pay the bill, as they have every right to do, often the company will hand the matter over to a collection agency. In some cases, subscribers are given notice to appear in court for delinquent bills.

THIS IS A headache no customer should be forced to endure. Subscribers possibly face an unwarranted bad credit listing and wasted time and effort, all because TCI has mismanaged the requests of their customers.

Obviously, TCI is not serving the best interests of the community.

As of now, TCI holds a monopoly on cable television service in Carbondale and is squeezing every penny it can by understaffing and providing the cheapest service it can get away with.

If a competing company were allowed to set up shop in Carbondale, maybe then TCI would clean up its act.

Parking snafu hinders studies

I would like to address the issue of parking and the problems created for the students and faculty here due to the lack of parking space availability.

We pay for the privilege to park in a designated area, only to find the amount of parking space entirely inadequate. Each day many of us are late for class due to the lack of parking, and, for most of the classes, three times late is the same as one absence.

Daily we wait for parking space to become available. We may wait 30 to 45 minutes for a parking space only to have some inconsiderate jackass rush in and take it. This sometimes leads to confrontations between the parties involved.

So what do we do? Double park, so we will have to pay a fine or to pay $30 to $50 in towing fees because the parking division had our car towed away.

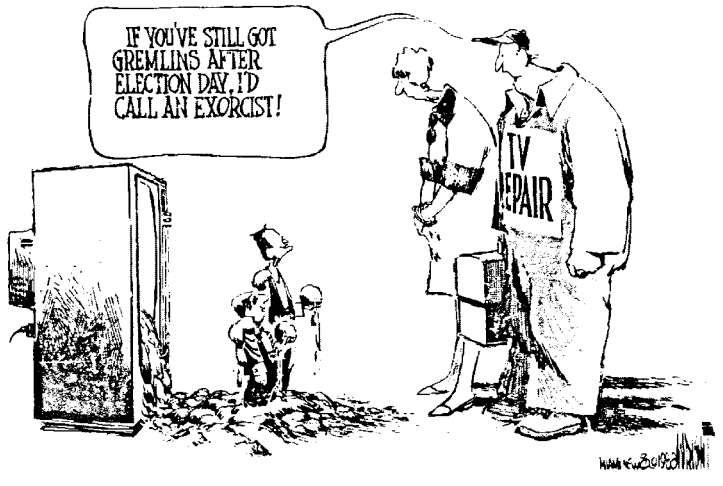

Why not expand these parking facilities so we can make it to class on time? Students and faculty need to put their thought and time into school work, instead of where they're going to park. — Tim Cox, Dental Technology.

Editorial Policies

Signed articles, including letters, viewpoints and other commentaries, reflect the opinions of their authors only. Unsigned editorials represent a consensus of the Daily Egyptian Editorial Board, whose members are the student editor-in-chief, the editorial page editor, the associate editorial page editor, a news staff member, the faculty managing editor and a School of Journalism faculty member.

Letters to the editor may be submitted by mail or directly to the editorial page editor, Room 1247, Communications Building. Letters should be typewritten and double spaced. All letters are subject to editing and will be limited to 500 words. Letters of fewer than 250 words will be given preference for publication. Students must identify themselves by class and major, faculty members by rank and department, non-academic staff by position and department.

Letters submitted by mail should include the author's address and telephone number. Letters for which verification of authorship cannot be made will not be published.

Viewpoint

Shelling out 80 grand for an auto no statement, merely extravagance

ALTHOUGH I'VE never met Frederick J. Schwab, I must assume that he's big heat in his line of work.

His stationery says he is Senior Executive Vice President of Porsche Cars North America, Inc.

I know this because he has sent me a personal invitation to drive one of his Porsche cars. And maybe buy one.

In a burst of enthusiasm, he wrote:

"Imagine yourself behind the wheel of one of the most powerful and exciting automobile machines in the world — a new Porsche 928 S4."

I did as he suggested. I closed my eyes and imagined myself behind the wheel of a Porsche 928 S4.

THE IMAGINARY vision didn't do much for me. I could hear my wife saying, as she always does: "Do you mind not smoking in the car?"

Then I saw myself pulling onto the madness of the Kennedy Expressway, being wedged between a giant truck and a '69 Pontiac belching black fumes, and everybody slowing to 5 miles an hour to gape at a family of 12, who share 20 teeth, standing on the shoulder of the road pondering a flat tire on their pickup truck.

As fantasies go, it wasn't much fun, so I opened my eyes and went on with Vice President Schwab's letter.

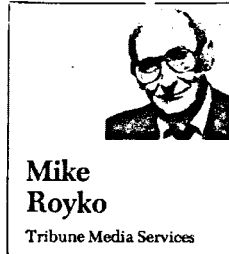

"We've got one with your name on it, and I want to personally invite you to your local Porsche dealer for a complimentary test drive.

"COME AND experience the incomparable handling, the smooth power, the pure excitement of driving this exceptional automobile. Sit behind the wheel and surround yourself with the sleek styling that made Porsche famous.

"However, one word of caution: After you drive a new Porsche 928 S4, you may be compelled to own one."

No, Mr. Schwab, you're mistaken. I will not be compelled to own one.

After receiving your invitation, I called a Porsche dealer and asked how much your 928 S4 doo-dad costs. He said between $75,000 and $80,000, depending what ac-sm.ill.

IF I WAS going to throw that kind of money around, I would want something long and flashy — an old-time, fat, bloated, Detroit gas guzzler. Then, with a big cigar cleached between my teeth and a pinky ring on my finger, I could pass for an alderman or a Mafia elder and get some respect.

But in a Porche, people would justifiably assume that I was a Yuppie who trades pork bellies or soybean futures, since those are the sort of people who buy Porphes. Who needs that kind of humiliation?

As students of the auto industry tell us, once you pass a certain prudent, sensible limit in car buying, you are no longer just buying transportation.

You are making a statement.

cessories I wanted in it.

I told him that for $75,000 to $80,000, the least I would expect to find in it would be a couple of gorgeous blond Kraut dollies. The stiff said those were not the kinds of accessories they dealt in. Well, if they did, Mr. Schwab wouldn't have to resort to sending letters to the likes of me.

My cars have always made a statement. They are covered with bird droppings, soot, grime, salt. The inside is littered with ashes, grimy coffee cups, old newspapers, crumpled candy wrappers and crumpled candy wrappers.

IN ANY CASE, he couldn't have picked a less likely prospect.

Not that I'm cheap, but I consider $75,000 to $80,000 a bit steep for a car — even one with "incomparable handling" and "smooth power."

How much incomparable handling and smooth power does one need to get around Chicago? The secrets of the survival are to get out of the way of interstate trucks, remember that Friday is drunk-driving night on the expressways, and never give the finger to someone with a tattoo on his arm who is driving a clunker that looks uninstaurable.

And while I don't want to criticize Mr. Schwab's product, frankly I don't see where they get off charging $80,000 for something that

MY CARS have always made a statement. They are covered with bird droppings, soot, grime, salt. The inside is littered with ashes, grimy coffee cups, old newspapers, crumpled candy wrappers and letters I forgot to drop at the corner mailbox.

The statement my cars make is: "Modern life requires that I own one of these things, but I don't have to like it."

But if I bought one of Mr. Schwab's trinkets, I would be making an entirely different statement.

I would be telling the world: "Look, everybody, I have paid $80,000 for a small car that is capable of going 150 miles an hour, although the speed limit is 55 where I do most of my driving. And if I leave it unattended on a city street for more than two minutes, the car thieves will have a tag team match over who gets to steal it. Therefore, the statement I am making with this car is: 'I am a real jerk.'"

Finally, Mr. Schwab, I have to tell you that I cannot buy your car because it is not made in this country. I don't buy cars made in Germany or Japan.

I'm not spiteful, and I believe in letting bygones be bygones. But I have a personal policy of waiting 100 years between wars before doing business.

Write me again in 2045.

University financial aid seeks to fill position, change duties

By Kathleen DeBo
Staff Writer

Pam Britton's old job as associate director of the financial aid office has been left open since she was named director Sept. 1.

The office intends to fill the position, but the job itself will be different, Harvey Welch, vice president for student affairs, said.

He said that in addition to previous duties, the office is becoming part of a college-wide Student Information System.

"It will eventually be better for the students but to mesh it with the current financial aid system is a big demand on the office," Welch said.

Britton said that changes within the statewide system may require changes in the job description and that the title and job description must be approved by the state merit board.

Welch said the position's new description will be written soon and a national search probably will begin no later than the spring semester.

"Pam will need a person but how she wants to place that person we haven't come to an agreement on," he said.

He said financial aid regulations usually change frequently anyway and the changes make the system difficult to explain to students.

"If the rules change every year, it creates a problem for students and every time a student has a problem, I have a problem," he said.

Welch said Britton probably will conduct a national search because the office wants to increase the number of minorities and women who work at the University. He said national searches help in this process by drawing applications from a larger pool of candidates.

"One way to ensure larger opportunities for minorities is conduct a search on a larger than local level," he said.

State committee plans seminar on education

The Illinois Committee on Black Concerns in Higher Education will sponsor a one-day seminar on issues it faces Friday in the Student Center Video Lounge, 4th floor.

The session is one of three scheduled in the state that week.

President John C. Guyon will speak at 10 a.m. about controlling enrollment and the impact on minority enrollment on higher education.

Donald L. Beggs, dean of the College of Education, will speak on the dwindling number of minorities going into the field of teaching.

During the final session at 2:45 p.m., Nathaniel Feider, director for planning and computing for the University, will discuss the declining college enrollment of black males and possible ways of reversing the trend.

Suggestions voiced in an open discussion period will be pooled with those from the other two seminars in Chicago and Urbana and discussed at the group's annual spring meeting.

The meeting is open to the public.

said. "I did not come here to get into an emotional debate."

He explained the levels of the BAS. The first aspect he named was personnel. "But, I won't get into it," he said.

Tripp, coordinator of the BAS program, outlined the history of BAS during his discussion to show that the University has targeted the BAS program for elimination.

When he joined the faculty in 1982 he was one of three full-time faculty members. Locksley Edmondson and Maria Mootry were the others.

Edmondson, a native of Jamaica, needed his green card signed by the SJC administration, but they refused so he had to leave, Tripp said.

Tripp said Mootry's request for tenure was denied in 1985.

Bryson said Mootry resigned. Tripp responded that the University didn't want to look bad, so Mootry was compelled to resign.

Bryson began explaining Mootry had resigned on her own when Tripp said in a loud voice, "Don't distort the record. Tell the truth."

Tripp said the three areas reviewed to decide tenure are university service, teaching and research. According to Tripp, his tenure was denied because his research did not meet University standards.

"I have been pink slipped. May '89 will be my last semester here. We need instructors, curriculum and students. Without instructors to teach those courses, forget it," Tripp said.

Tripp said the University teaches histories including Roman and Western civilization, but does not consider African ancestry worthy of serious systematic study.

"A course in Black American Studies should be in the general curriculum," Bryson said. "The content is debatable. Some will say the primary focus should be on the status of black Americans; others say it should deal with all minorities."

Bryson said the process of reinstating the courses has started. But said it is at a standstill because a proposal written to the administration was returned to the BAS for corrections and was never returned.

"We went back and redid it," Tripp said. "We even compromised as we had wanted two reinstated and we only asked for one. We said we'd broaden it to include native Americans, Hispanics and other minorities. We resubmitted it over and over again for five years."

"Now we want both reinstated," Tripp said. "The task force is a farce, a shield to deflect and a flim flam. Look at the record: What does history show?"

Tripp said the administration does not want a strong BAS program.

"I was making it harder for them to wipe it out," Tripp said. "I represented an obstacle for them."

Bryson declined to comment on why the administration is not committing itself financially to improve BAS.

"I prefer to wait to see what this task force says."

Bryson suggested black graduate students get involved in the search committees that help decide on hiring professors.

"It is going to take all of us working together," Bryson said.

Tripp responded, "Search committees don't make decisions, administrators do."

Russian theater troupe comes to Lab Theater

By Wayne Wallace
Staff Writer

The Riga Art Theater will wrap up its first American tour with a presentation of the 88-year-old Latvian tragedy "The Loony Dauka" at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday in the Lab Theater.

The U.S. tour was originally scheduled to open in Carbondale Oct. 5, but the Riga troupe had to postpone its performance because Soviet Union emigration restrictions prevented the Latvian cast and crew from obtaining American visas in Moscow.

Alfreds Straumanis, a Latvia native and theater professor at SIU-C, is coordinator for the nationwide tour.

Straumanis conceived of bringing the production to America after attending the Latvian Art Days in Riga last April with Keith Sanders, dean of the college of Communications and Fine Arts.

Straumanis said most of the sets and scenery for the play were designed and constructed by University theater

Straumanis said the University has worked hand in hand with Latvia's National Endowment for the Arts in funding the tour, which included stops in Chicago, San Francisco, Los Angeles, New York and Boston.

Latvian director Karlis Auskaps adapted the turn-of-the-century drama in 1986 to recapture the spirit of the first national awakening in Latvia.

The small Soviet satellite is presently witnessing a second renaissance in terms of artistic freedom, Straumanis said.

The "Dauka" road production mirrors this freedom. It is the first Latvian tour to be allowed outside the Soviet Union.

The central character in the piece is the peasant boy Dauka. His quest for truth is symbolic of his village's search for knowledge in this era of political revolution.

Student admission is $3. General public admission is $5.

Student exhibition at Museum

A reception will be held from 6 to 8 p.m. Friday at the University Museum to open the annual exhibit of works by SIU-C graduate students in the art and design and cinema and photography departments.

The "Graduate Review '89" exhibition, which will run through Dec. 14, will showcase 43 works by 21 graduate students. The show includes paintings, sculptures and photographs as well as works in metal, iron, bronze, porcelain, polychromed aluminum, glass and mixed media.

Michel apologizes for T.V. remarks

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House Minority leader Robert H. Michel, R-Ind., apologized Wednesday for televised remarks in which he lamented the passing of blackface minstrel shows.

During his remarks on "USA Today: The Television Show," Michel said he regretted the passing of blackface performances and compared the removal of racially offensive language from old songs to the Soviet rewriting of history.

VISION ATRIUM RELEASE

Movie debut planned

By Theresa Livingston
Staff Writer

Paramount Pictures will hold a special free screening of "Naked Gun," Friday night at The Varsity Theater.

The movie was produced by Robert K. Weiss, a 1972 radio and television graduate of the University.

Weiss, the producer of "Blues Brothers," "Kentucky Fried Movie," and the television series "Dragnet," will attend the screening, holding a question and answer session after the 8 p.m. show.

Described as a spoof on the television series "Police Squad" by one of the screenplay writers, the comedy centers around Leslie Nielsen as Lt. Frank Drebin, a slightly offbeat L.A. cop who stumbles upon a murder plot.

The Student Programming Council is in charge of ticket distribution.

Beach Boys' manager convicted of stealing

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The Beach Boys' former business manager, convicted of embezzling $906,000 from the pioneer surf-rock group, was sentenced Wednesday to five years on probation and ordered to make $86,000 in restitution.

Superior Court Judge Gordon Ringer imposed the sentence on Stephen M. Love, 41, who pleaded no contest Oct. 18 to one count of grand theft.

Love, a younger brother of Beach Boys lead singer Mike Love and a cousin of group members Brian Wilson and Carl Wilson, was the group's business manager for much of the 1970s before being fired.

Deputy District Attorney Steve Licker said that sometime after July 1982, Love withdrew $906,000 from a court-imposed trust account without the permission of the Beach Boys or a judge who was supervising it.

Licker said the funds Love took were proceeds from the sale of a parcel of land in Santa Barbara involving a partnership between himself and the group.

Love had been ordered by the judge supervising the trust not to withdraw any money from the account without his permission or that of the group.

Man receives own medicine

By Mark Barnett
Staff Writer

The chief executive officer of St. Joseph's Memorial Hospital in Murphysboro is getting to know patient care firsthand.

John D. Groves is a patient at the hospital after being injured in a car accident Wednesday morning, a hospital spokeswoman said. Groves, 50, is in stable condition and doing fine, she said.

Administrative staff members at the hospital were worried when Groves did not come to work Wednesday morning, the spokeswoman said. To the staff's surprise and shock, Groves had been in a car accident, she said.

The administrator's son, Wes, said his father received a concussion but not any broken bones in the accident.

"He is tired, but he's getting better," the younger Groves said. "If he hadn't had his seatbelt on, he'd probably be dead."

Wes said his father was concerned about the other driver, but after he checked with the police, he assured his father the other driver was not injured.

According to the Jackson County Sheriff's Department, Groves was involved in a two-vehicle accident on Route 13 and Country Club Road. The accident occurred at 8:36 a.m. Wednesday morning, police said.

The other driver, James R. Gogue, 20, of Rural Route 3 in Murphysboro, was traveling east on Route 13, and Groves was at a stop sign at Country Club Road and Route 13, police said.

Groves entered the intersection, attempting to go west on Route 13, police said. When Groves crossed the east lane of Route 13, Gogue's vehicle struck the driver's side of Groves' vehicle, police said.

Initially, Groves was transported to Memorial Hospital of Carbondale, then the Jackson County Ambulance Service took him to St. Joseph's Memorial Hospital at 10:55 a.m., police said.

Man pleads not guilty in stabbing

By Mark Barnett
Staff Writer

Charles Hughes, charged with stabbing a Belleville resident during Carbondale's Halloween celebration, pleaded not guilty in Jackson County Circuit Court Wednesday to the aggravated battery charge.

After hearing testimony from a Carbondale Police officer, Judge David W. Watt Jr. ruled there was probable cause and the case will go to trial. A court date has not been set.

Hughes, 23, of Carbondale was charged with stabbing David Wolf, 25, of Belleville in a fight witnessed by police at 9:13 p.m. Oct. 29.

Carbondale Police detective Don Barrett testified that he, other officers and Steven Perbix, assistant state's attorney for Jackson County, witnessed a fight between two men at the 500 block of S. Illinois Ave. The officers stopped the fight, Barrett said.

Barrett testified that Wolf said he had been stabbed. Wolf did not know who stabbed him, Barrett said.

"Wolf indicated he had been stabbed in the lower left side,"

Barrett testified. Wolf was taken to Memorial Hospital of Carbondale, treated and released, according to police reports.

The two brothers were checked for weapons, Barrett testified. While Charles Hughes was frisked, a knife fell out of his jacket, Barrett said.

Barrett testified that Lt. Tom Busch of the Carbondale Police picked up the knife and noticed blood on the blade.

will not know the results of their election for at least two weeks because of challenges in the ballots.

The AP ballots were impounded and taken to Springfield for counting because of challenges by the School of Dental Medicine.

Because 11 votes were challenged, a difference of five votes between the IEA and UP made it impossible to declare a winner for the Edwardsville faculty. There will be a runoff election Dec. 7 between one of the unions and no representation.

A hearing will be held in two weeks to determine the winner.

The Carbondale faculty first filed a petition for collective bargaining with the Illinois Educational Labor Relations Board in April 1985.

The Carbondale professional staff followed with a petition in August 1985.

The IELRB began unit determination hearings Oct. 16 1985 and finished the hearings June 29, 1986.

IELRB executive director Robert Perkovich announced the board's decision allowing faculty to bargain collectively Oct. 8, 1987, but the University administration appealed the decision Nov. 29, 1987.

After three years of discussion on the issue, both unions expected the IELRB to decide the date for a collective bargaining election by Spring 1988.

The University Professionals filed a motion with the board on Feb. 5, 1988 urging them to set an election date as soon as possible.

Perkovich followed with an announcement Feb. 18 that University employees would be able to vote that spring semester.

The following day, Perkovich recanted his announcement and said he had called the meeting with the assumption that the board had made a decision.

CABLE, from Page 1

hassle. I mean, all of this after it's (cable service) been cut off for two months," said Michael Noonan, senior in radio and television.

Noonan and his roommate, Jeff Gilbert, were billed for services they supposedly received after signing the disconnection forms and settling their account Aug. 25.

The two men had paid for cable service through Sept. 1.

They were billed for more than two months of additional service which they did not receive.

After calling Carbondale Cablevision about the situation, the two men received a statement Oct. 20 clearing them of the service charges and a billing for $144 for an unreturned converter box.

But they had a receipt showing they had returned the box.

They returned to Carbondale Cablevision with the receipts proving they had returned the cable box. They then received verbal assurance that the matter would be resolved.

TCI said they do not discuss customer accounts when asked about the situation.

Bad lines clog up 'Heart'

By Kathleen DeBo
Staff Writer

"Clara's Heart" is a mediocre film with good performances and bad dialogue.

Film Review

The film is the story of David Hart's relationship with his yuppie parents' new Jamaican maid, Clara, played by Whoopi Goldberg and how she helps him cope as his parents divorce.

The relationship between David and Clara is complicated by a secret in Clara's past. The secret, when it is revealed, is not silly or predictable. It is horrifying and the filmmakers are to be commended for taking a risk with the audience.

The biggest problem with this film is ludicrous dialogue. People don't talk like that in real life.

Unfortunately, the film has problems. Some films about divorce concentrate on the parents and ignore the children. This film does just the opposite. The mother and father are stereotypes of yuppie parents. They only are shown neglecting David, played by Neil Patrick Harris.

The biggest problem with this film, however, is ludicrous dialogue. The words may be fine when read in a book but people just do not talk this way in real life.

Clara, who is suppose to have a strong Jamaican accent and vocabulary, says things like "and I must pause to wonder." With lines like that, Goldberg sounds more like Robert Frost than Clara.

At times Goldberg looks as if she really does not want to be in this film. But then, consider the lines she has to work with.

Her character is not the only one affected. David calls his father's new apartment "ostentatious." Even a child genius, which David presumably is not, would use language like that.

His mother's new boyfriend tells David, "You're a statistic but we want you to be a happy statistic."

Community comes together to share Thanksgiving dinner

By Kathleen DeBo
Staff Writer

A lot of people cook turkeys for Thanksgiving, but most do not cook 300 pounds of turkey, 400 pounds of dressing, a bushel of sweet potatoes, 80 homemade pies and 50 loaves of homemade bread. Most people do not invite 600 people for Thanksgiving Dinner.

Linda Brayfield organizes the food preparation for the Thanksgiving Dinner at the Catholic Newman Center. This is the 20th year the center has organized the free dinner for students and local residents, and the 15th year Brayfield has been involved.

Brayfield said she went to her first Newman Center dinner when her boyfriend was out of town.

"I volunteered to come in and help part of the day and then it went from there," Brayfield said.

She said she likes meeting people and doing something for someone else.

"Otherwise, I'd probably just sit around, eat and get fat," she said.

Phyllis Rhodes, secretary at the Newman Center said the dinner is a community effort.

"Without the help of the entire community we couldn't do it. There's no way. We get help from everybody. Even the USG has helped the last few years."

"WCIL has been a real big help for many years. They really plug it day and night," she said.

Rhodes said the event got started 20 years ago when some students got together to share Thanksgiving away from home.

"It's grown by leaps and bounds from the 20 or 25 originally to the over 600 we get now," she said.

Residents of Hill House, an alcohol and drug abuse center for adolescents, help set up, serve the meals and clean up.

The Rev. Gary Gummersheimer, director of the center, said "What struck me last year was how hard the Hill House kids busted their butts."

Rhodes said the center has collected about $450 so far but usually gets most of the donations closer to Thanksgiving.

"Most of the time, it's all paid for by donations. Sometimes the center has to put in a little," she said.

"It probably costs $2,500 to put on a meal like this. You can imagine the kind of donations we need," she said.

For some, it becomes a family effort. Last year, out of one family, the parents and grandmother sent in donations and the children sent in part of their allowance, Rhodes said.

"We get anything from 50 cents to $100 checks," she said.

Monetary donations should be sent to the Newman Center, 715 S. Washington, Carbondale, with a note specifying it for the Thanksgiving Dinner. People wishing to donate food should call the center at 529-3311.

Sue Gillooly, coordinator of a similar Thanksgiving Dinner at St. Andrews in Murphysboro, said contributions for their dinner may be sent to St. Andrews or to her personally.

Gillooly said the Murphysboro dinner serves about 150 people.

"I do the biggest part of it but I have a lot of help," she said.

Rhodes said both dinners ask for $1 in advance, to be returned at the door, to get an idea of how many people to expect. The advance tickets are available until noon the Tuesday before Thanksgiving.

The dinners are served at the Newman Center between 12 and 2 p.m. Thanksgiving Day and at St. Andrew's school lunchroom.

Rhodes said a lot of foreign students and community people go because they are here over the holidays.

"We get a lot of lonely people who want to spend the day with other people," Rhodes said.

Gummersheimer, who attended for the first time last year, said, "It was an attempt to really become a community. There was a sense of reaching out to a broader base than just University students."

to avoid."
Iubelt said another thing the team will have to cut down on is the excessive amount of turnovers — something he said is even more difficult for a women's team to do.

"Cutting down on turnovers in women's basketball is difficult," Iubelt said. "Not all the women's players are good ballhandlers."

Iubelt said although there are obvious differences in the ball handling and playing capabilities of men versus women, the women take a back seat to no one when it comes to learning the game.

"The women want to learn just as bad as the men," Iubelt said. "I like to see the women play like the men. We have been very successful in this program doing just that."

"The women work just as hard and are more coachable than the men. The women's program and conference recognition are now closing the gap."

Iubelt said the overall strategy of the women's team has always been defense. The Salukis are repeatedly ranked in the top five teams in the country in scoring defense.

Iubelt has been engaged with the idea of this defensive strategy since first assisting men's coach Jack Hartman back in 1959. Hartman led the SIU-C men to the 1967 National Invitational Tournament title during his coaching career.

"Jack ran a very controlled game," Iubelt said. "We played defense with our offense by using stall tactics and keeping the scoring down."

"It's difficult to do that today with the 30-second shot clock."

Iubelt said no matter what type of game plan a team uses, it has to get the most out of its players.

"You have to evaluate what you've got and go from there," Iubelt said. "You look at what you have both defensively and offensively and make the most of it."

"It also helps to have a good working relationship within the coaching staff. We are able to evaluate from different angles."

Iubelt serves as a bench coach during games and a consultant before and after. He has played a vital role in the success of coach Cindy Scott's program.

Spikers prepare for Illinois State

By Troy Taylor
Staff Writer

Teri Noble, the volleyball team's left-side hitter, sat off by herself following the three-game rout handed down by Illinois State last Saturday evening.

Noble had led the Salukis with 9 kills and 10 digs before going out with a slight twist to her knee late in the third game.

Noble also knew that she had committed 9 hitting errors along the way — and that the Illinois State blockers had read the Saluki hitters flawlessly, totaling 14 team blocks.

But most important, the 5-foot-8 senior realized that in just six days the Salukis would return to Horton Field House for a Gateway Conference semifinal match against the very same 23-7 and top-seeded Illinois State Redbirds.

After suffering such a beating, which included a disappointing 18-16 loss in Game 2, Noble was thinking about how to approach the next few days of practice.

"We're just going to have to come right back," Noble said. "We can't forget about this loss. That's very important."

"But we can't dwell on it either. If we do that, then it's not worth even going to the tournament. We'll just have to watch the video and prepare the best we can. Nothing's going to change drastically. We just have to do the things we know already work."

For Nina Brackins, a junior middle blocker who was stymied by Illinois State's block, playing the Redbirds again is like receiving a second life.

"I'm glad we get another chance to play them," Brackins said. "I know what's happening now."

That's the theme Coach Debbie Hunter is preaching. The Redbirds won't be able to spring any surprises.

"We've got as good as conditions we could ask for, having just been there," Hunter said. "We've experienced their crowd and many of those signs tell me we can't ask for more. This is the way I'd like to finish this season off."

For Hunter, a lot is at stake personally. A loss would mean consecutive losing seasons — something that's happened during her career only once before, that being in 1979 and 1980. It also would mean the continuation of a devastating losing streak against the Redbirds. The Salukis haven't won at Horton since 1977.

"We need a total team contribution, no doubt," Hunter said. "So much of our winning results have depended on how (Lori) Simpson, Brackins and Noble can execute. We really need (Sue) Sinclair to be a steady, solid setter."

Any type of inconsistency on the Salukis' part would turn the match over to Illinois State, and Hunter is well aware of that.

"Even though we all respect their star, Chris Rehor, their team is much more than that," Hunter said.

FORMULA, from Page 20

Or maybe because junior Angie Rolf comes up with a stellar block, or her freshman sister Lisa Rolf breaks into the lineup to help defensively, or junior Donna Zajewski drives home spikes for sideout on a regular basis.

"We are a smaller team," Morgan said. "So, it's harder to compete if we don't do something a little fancy. A lot of teams key on Chris, and the other players really take advantage of that."

"Again, it comes down to the fact I truly believe there is a chemistry between them that exists off the court as well. They're very proud to compete for this program. That's the difference."

For Illinois State this season, it has been a winning difference.

Redbirds question mark to coach

By David Gallanetti
Staff Writer

Illinois State coach Bob Donewald feels puzzled when he looks at his Redbirds during practice this season. He just doesn't know what to make of them.

"I think there are two particular teams that there is absolutely no way you can get a handle on today, and that is Illinois State and Bradley," Donewald said.

"The reason I say that is I think we were the two teams who had the significant losses. Now, how are you going to sit here in early November and make some categorical statement as to how competitive Illinois State is going to be?"

For the Redbirds, the task of replacing starters Jeff Harris, Tony Hollifield, Cliff Peterson and Matt Taphorn is not an easy task.

"When you lose 71 percent of your offense, by golly, who says that the returning players are going to be at the point where they can assume that and make the plays necessary to win basketball games," Donewald said.

Two returners the Redbirds will rely on are 6-7 junior forward Jarrod Coleman and 6-3 junior guard Randy Blair. Coleman had 7.5 points per game and 30 blocked shots last season, while Blair contributed 98 assists and 28 steals.

"The strengths I would see of Michigan's leading prep scorers last year, with 28.3 points per contest.

This season will be a transition for Donewald and Co. in another way, as the Redbirds will debut in the new Redbird Arena on Jan. 11 against Chicago State. The ten-year veteran said he has some reservations about the mid-season move.

Coach Iubelt bounces back from hip surgery

By Robert Baxter
Staff Writer

George Iubelt has learned during his 25 years as an assistant basketball coach at SIU-C that the two most important things for a college basketball team to learn are poise and control. He will use both of these philosophies this season to help the Saluki women bounce back from a disappointing 16-11 record in 1987.

"Last season we made a lot of bad decisions late in the game," Iubelt said. "We would play well for 35 minutes, go out to a 10 or 11 point lead only to blow it in the last five minutes due to a lack of patience and poor judgement."

"I want to instill in the team this season patience and control throughout the game, and poise in the closing minutes."

Iubelt himself has learned the value of patience. He underwent hip replacement surgery in June, and is still rehabilitating the joint.

"I am still going through some rehab everyday," Iubelt said. "The exercise is mostly designed to help strengthen the bone and add flexibility."

Iubelt said the only time the hip bothers him is when he tries to get up after sitting down for a long time.

"It is stiff," Iubelt said. "It's understandable though. I couldn't believe the size of screws they used to attach the bones together."

Iubelt said it hasn't affected his game plan though. As part of his control game philosophy, Iubelt believes the halfcourt offense will aid the Salukis in their quest for an improved season.

"The halfcourt game will do it for us," Iubelt said. "The main thing we don't want to do is beat ourselves."

"If I look up and we've gotten beat it's one thing, but to beat ourselves in the closing minutes — that's what I want

Salukis want to ambush UNI

By David Gallianetti
Staff Writer

Be it ever so humble, the Salukis are coming home.

"It feels good even under the adverse circumstances," said coach Rick Rhoades about coming back to McAndrew Stadium after three straight road games. "We hope to finish up strong and put the year to bed the right way."

SIU-C will close out its 1988 season with Gateway foe Northern Iowa at 1:30 p.m. Saturday at McAndrew.

The "adverse circumstances" Rhoades said the Salukis may have to deal with is low attendance at the game considering most SIU-C students will have left for Thanksgiving break.

"We have played the last two weeks in front of horrible crowds," Rhoades said. "They said there were 5,000 people at Youngstown, but they must have counted everyone that walked and drove by and everyone in their homes living within a five-mile radius."

Rhoades said the Salukis are continuing their weekly preparation of focusing on their own game, as opposed to worrying about their opponent.

"The only thing we are focusing on this week is ourselves," Rhoades said. "We have got to get back to playing hard; get back to playing smart. We have done a poor job with that the last couple weeks and it has definitely caught up with us."

The Salukis will add offensive lineman Reese Youmans to the constantly growing injured list. Youmans hyper-extended his knee in practice Tuesday and will not play Saturday, Rhoades said.

Despite the losing streak, SIU-C's first-year coach said the Salukis are responding well in practices this week.

"The defense had their best practice of the year (Tuesday), which is a great tribute to the players," Rhoades said. "We have had some great practices throughout the losing streak, we just haven't been able to turn it into anything tangible."

"Youngstown did not explode against us, we just did not play well early. We just have no time to analyze other people. I don't care what kind of a season they (Northern Iowa) have had, we just want to win the football game."

Earle Bruce's Panthers will bring a 4-6 record, the same as the Salukis, to Carbondale, in what will shape up as a battle for fourth place in the Gateway. Both teams currently share the position with 2-3 league marks.

Northern Iowa will enter the game without the services of quarterback Ken Macklin, who is out for the year after having surgery on his right hand. Macklin has been replaced by junior Courtney Messingham.

Illinois State spikers find right formula

What's the secret ingredient? What's the magic formula? C'mon Coach Julie Morgan, tell us what made Illinois State the top-seeded volleyball team for the Gateway Conference championship tournament.

Morgan, in her second season at Illinois State, did not hesitate to answer the question, surrounded as she was by a handful of reporters following the Redbirds' three-game victory over the Salukis last Saturday.

"You really want to know? OK. Here it is. It's love."

The response was plausible. What else can explain the turnaround the Illinois State program took in just one year? The Redbirds were 15-12 in Morgan's first season — a season disrupted by the departure of two starters for "personal reasons."

Now Illinois State is 23-7 overall, and regular-season Gateway co-champs with Northern Iowa and Southwest Missouri at 8-1. The Redbirds are a cohesive unit, consisting of one standout — outside hitter Chris Rehoh — and a handful of players content to be in a supporting role.

"They really care about each other," Morgan said. "It's really beautiful. This team loves each other. There's something extra-special about them."

The really special player has been Rehoh, a senior outside hitter who is ranked third nationally with an average of 4.56 digs per game.

But Morgan points out that it is players like junior setter Stacey Anderson, who's not been in the limelight but still contributes an average of 11.0 assists per game, that makes the Redbirds winners.

"Stacey's not gotten the credit she's deserved," Morgan said. "If anything, she's been there for us in every match with her consistency. She's made the difference in our offense being a threat."

The offense Morgan speaks so highly of has been successful because Lisa McAtee, a 5-10 junior, can unexpectedly come alive for the 12-kill performance against SIU-C.

French National team touts tall players

By Robert Baxter
Staff Writer

The Saluki women's basketball team gets its season underway tonight at 7:35 against an extraordinarily tall French National team that is on a six-game tour of the United States.

Coach Cindy Scott's team will be trying to rebound from a disappointing 16-11 fifth-place finish in the Gateway last season, as it goes up against an experienced French team the Salukis know virtually nothing about.

"We really know very little about them at this point except that they are big and shoot very well," Scott said. "We will hopefully know more after the Murray State game."

The French were slated to play at Murray State on Wednesday night.

They are also scheduled for stops in Louisville, Memphis State and Vanderbilt.

"The game should be a valuable learning experience for us," Scott said. "We scheduled it to help us do a better job of getting ready for the season."

This is the first time since 1978 that the Saluki women will face off against a national team. They last met the Czechoslovakian team back in December 1978.

The French have seven players over 6-foot. The French team also has five players 26 years old and one 28-year-old in Paoline Ekambi, who stands 6-7.

The Salukis will be returning three starters from last year's squad, but will be without the services of starting center Cathy Kampwerth (6-4) who is still sidelined with a knee injury.

Senior Deanna Sanders (6.0 ppg, 1.6 rpg) and Tonda Seals (9.5 ppg, 1.9 rpg) are expected to start for the Salukis.

Sophomore Amy Rakkers (2.9 ppg, 3.0 rpg), may be the key as she fills in for Kampwerth at the center position.

Junior Deanna Kibelkis and senior Dana Fitzpatrick are expected to start in the forward spots.

Kansas, Illinois to take on swim team at Rec

By John Walblay
Staff Writer

The swim and diving teams hold their home opener at 3 p.m. Friday at the Recreation Center natatorium against Kansas and Illinois.

The Salukis know all they need to know about the Jayhawks. Last season, the men's team lost once and the women's team lost twice to them.

"Kansas is pretty tough,"

Dave Ardrey, diving coach, said. "They have some good swimmers and they're solid in diving — both men and women."

Kansas has already defeated top-rated Nebraska earlier this season. Nebraska beat the Salukis last weekend.

After the loss to Nebraska, the Salukis claimed Nebraska was ready for them and were well rested for the meet. This week, it is the Salukis' turn.

"We want to be prepared for them," Rick Walker, assistant swimming coach, said. "KU beat us last year. That's something we don't want to happen in our pool."

What is known of Illinois is quite a different story. The Illini have not been in any major competitions this season. "That is one of the problems, we don't know very much," Ardrey said.

With Kansas being a strong opponent and a known favorite, Walker said it would be unwise for the Salukis to concentrate solely on the Jayhawks and leave the backdoor open for Illinois.

"They could be very strong. We have to be careful with them. They could side up on us without us being aware if we concentrate too much on Kansas," Walker said.

The women's diving team is the strongest part of Illinois' program, Ardrey said. Illinois is only entering one diver for the men's team.
