Iraq promises to free hostages soon

By United Press International

Iraq said in a surprise announcement Sunday that starting Christmas Day it would free thousands of foreign hostages held in Iraq and occupied Kuwait as human shields against attack by U.S. and forces in the Persian Gulf. U.S. officials, however, dismissed the announcement as "cynical manipulation" and called for the immediate release of the hostages.

Meanwhile, a chartered Iraqi airliner left Kuwait Sunday carrying 133 foreigners, including 108 American women and children and some British women and children, the semi-official Middle East News Agency reported in Cairo.

The plane, chartered by the United States to bring home Americans who did not want to leave the occupied emirate last month, was expected later Sunday in London. Iraq has said for months that Americans, whether military or not, were free to leave.

In the international debate over whether military force should be used against Iraq, U.N. and German officials called for a peaceful end to the crisis triggered by Iraq's Aug. 2 invasion of Kuwait.

But President Bush called for greater efforts against "naked aggression," and Canada's prime minister suggested the multinational force in the gulf could strike against Iraq without prior U.N. approval.

U.S. forces meanwhile stormed a Sussex beach in a highly publicized military exercise, but the amphibious landing part of the exercise was postponed because of high waves.

A brief dispatch by the official Iraqi News Agency in Baghdad said the announcement to release hostages beginning as Christmas came after President Saddam Hussein met with government officials Sunday.

"It has been decided that foreign guests would be allowed to travel in peace to the occupied zones, inasmuch as the withdrawal of the foreign guests from Kuwait would take place beginning today at 2 p.m."

Observers said Iraq may be trying to buy more time by announcing the release of the hostages over a protracted period. There are about 3,000 foreign nationals, most of them men, in Iraq and Kuwait who have been unable to leave for home — either because they are being held against their will at key economic and military sites or because they are in hiding from authorities.

The SIUC Rehabilitation Institute was awarded a $120,000 grant in October to use for training programs.

The Rehabilitation Institute, originally formed in 1957 under the now defunct College of Human Resources, is the first of 11 training centers in the country to train rehabilitation personnel and to help disabled people.

The institute received the grant from the U.S. Department of Education's Rehabilitation Services Administration to use for needed programs, said William Crimando, rehabilitation services coordinator.

The money will be used for special training workshops for rehabilitation personnel, to provide financial assistance to students and to offer on-campus assignments, Crimando said.

"The services are highly needed. We have people trained in rehabilitation who need to be trained in administration," he said.

Crimando said the training workshops will include lessons on basic management for rehabilitation professionals, leadership changes and management to professionals make changes and face resistance from employees and current and workshops to help professionals cope with issues of sexual harassment and discrimination.

Part of the money will be used to pay for the transportation costs of students enrolled in the off-campus graduate degree program in Springfield, Crimando said.

The money also will be used to offer about 10 assistantships to off-campus graduate students, he said.

Demonstrators opposed to the United States' Eaging a war with Iraq took to the streets of Carbondale Saturday, but they may not represent the feelings of the majority of the people. The Southern Illinois Ad Hoc Coalition Against War in the Persian Gulf demonstrated along Illinois Route 13 to display what the group believes is a growing opposition to U.S. military policies in the Persian Gulf, spokesman Everon G. Hughes said.

State Sen. Ralph Dunn disagreed and said opposition is not growing.

"I don't think the feelings grow stronger," Dunn said. "This is not a Vietnamese thing, and people don't want to be. Of the people I know and the people I talk to, I don't think anybody's real critical of the president."

Dunn said the administration has done a good job of keeping people informed.

"It's too bad we have to be there, but I think it's necessary," he said. Hughes, a Vietnam veteran, said See DEMONSTRATION, Page 7

Omar Kasem, president of the organization, said he felt a sister-university relationship between Birzeit and SIUC is needed to give Palestinian students the opportunity to complete their education and to place pressure on the government to stop intergrating Palestinian education.

Kasem, a junior in electrical engineering, said universities in Israeli-occupied West Bank and Gaza have been closed since January 1988.

Congress has many questions to ask the administration before deciding whether the United States should go to war with Iraq, Rep. Glenn Poshard said.

Poshard, Danversville, criticized President George Bush for leaving Congress in the dark. Congress needs to be informed on the situation now because it may be asked to declare war if U.S. military Forces in the Persian Gulf are attacked, Poshard said.

"One small flare-up there could lead to a huge war in a matter of minutes," Poshard said. "Congress will have to make a decision on the basis of very little information.

Rolling Salukis fall quickly at own invite

The Rolling Salukis basketball team played host to seven area teams in the Rolling Saluki Invitational Saturday and Sunday in the Recreation Center.

Though the Salukis did not win a game this weekend, Coach Todd Hatfield was enthusiastic about the effort of the players this weekend.

"I think it was a great tournament," Hatfield said. "I think it was a lot better than last year. All the teams that participate were very happy. They’ve all expressed an interest in coming back next year. I just think it went as well as it possibly could have.

SIUC lost to St. Louis in the first round, and St. Louis went on to win the consolation bracket.

The Salukis lost to the Invitational.

Kansas City No. 2 defeated SIUC in the second round of the tournament and with a win on the consolation bracket championship.

The championship game was between Kansas City No. 1, led by former coach Fred Lindsay, and Kentucky, coached by Steve Miller. Kentucky won the championship by a score of 72-69.

Miller, of Lexington, Ky., seemed relieved at the end of the game.

"It was a hard victory," Miller said. "We won the game, we’ve had this year. It was a lot of teamwork.

Hatfield said wheelchair basketball follows NCAA rules with a couple of exceptions, including the "bounce once, push twice" rule. With this rule, a player is allowed to hold the ball in his lap and push the wheels twice for each dribble he makes.

Hatfield also said that wheelchair basketball players are allowed five fouls in a lane as opposed to three in NCAA basketball.

Hatfield has coached the Rolling Salukis for three years. He said he came to SIUC looking for an opportunity to coach basketball and found it with SIUC’s wheelchair basketball team.

"I’ve learned a lot along the way and I hope the players will learn from me," Hatfield said. "We kind of learned together.

"We’re providing disabled students with an opportunity to compete in a sport. That’s something everyone should be entitled to.

The Rolling Salukis ended their season with a record of 1-7.

The Saluki women’s swimming team earned its first victory of the season Friday defeating the University of Missouri 120-57.

The Saluki women, who were ranked 17th in the nation, defeated the University of Missouri 120-57.

"It was a real good feeling to get that first win," SIUC head coach Doug Ingram said. "It was also happy that we accomplished two goals we had set which were to win on the road and to win in our first meet.

"We were out there the same way we go out for any meet, but we knew that it was important that we get our first win," Ingram said.

Junior Toni Mahairah and junior Cindy Soble led the Salukis to victory with a time of 25.46. Mahairah broke the 100 freestyle record with a time of 25.77. The Saluki men’s swimming team won 10 of 13 events in a 149-81 victory over the University of Missouri Friday but couldn’t keep up the momentum against Missouri State Saturday.

The weekend’s action puts the Saluki record at 3-1 in dual meet competition. Against Missouri, seniors Eric Bradac and Chris Gally led the Salukis with each winning two events.

Bradac placed first in the 1000-meter freestyle and the 200 butterfly, while Gally won both the 100 freestyle and 200 individual medley.

The Salukis also swept Missouri in diving with freshman Rob Siracusa winning both the one-meter and three-meter boards.

NATO, Warsaw Pact nations sign armament limits treaty
PARIS (UPI) — Overall ceilings on various weapons are only a small part of the massive Conventional Forces in Europe Treaty being signed Monday by 16 NATO and six Warsaw Pact nations. The pact contains strict armament limits by zone and subzone throughout Europe, restricts any or of nation's weaponry and carefully outlines rules for verification and on-line monitoring. "The treaty will create a new, more binding security framework among 23 countries which are the most heavily armed in Europe and indeed the world," said a senior NATO official. Under the treaty, NATO and the Warsaw Pact are each allowed 20,000 tanks, 20,000 artillery pieces, 30,000 armored combat vehicles, 6,800 aircraft and 2,000 helicopters.

Chicago police investigate two rapid transit rape cases
CHICAGG (UPI) — Chicago police Sunday investigated two separate sexual assaults that each involved women waiting to catch West Side rapid transit trains. Authorities said they were uncertain if the rapes, which happened within seven hours of each other, were related or coincident. In one case about 4 p.m. Saturday, police said a 29-year-old woman was accosted by a lone gunman as she waited for the Lake Park-York train. Police said the man told her he intended to rob her and forced her to go to an abandoned building, where he raped her. The man got away with just $40, police said. Only jewelry and a sweatshirt were taken in the second West Side attack, police said.

Delta Sigma Phi gets wet to collect more than $400

By John Patterson Staff Writer

SICU students doused their swimsuits and trunks to help raise money for the Leukemia Society in the first Delta Sigma Phi Ball Saturday afternoon at Pulliam Pool.

The event involved eight teams participating in six events.

Teams were awarded points for their efforts in the inner tube relay, dolphin swim, belly-flop contest, shallow end sprint, sweatshirt relay and Susuki swim.

Kevin Sanders, junior in marketing from Chicago and Delta Sigma Phi project coordinator, said the event was a success and will hopefully be bigger in the future.

"This is going to be an annual event for us," Sanders said.

"It'll be a lot bigger next year when we get things going a little earlier," he said.

Sanders said they chose the Leukemia Society because of its good rating for the money going to the kids involved.

"The administrative costs for the Leukemia Society are less, so most of the money goes toward the needy children," Sanders said.

The benefit has raised over $400 with money still coming in, Sanders said.

"The idea behind this program is to allow the student groups of SICU to get together and help raise money for a good cause while getting to know each other in a competitive setting," Sanders said.

The $20 registration fee was included in each team's donation.

Money was also raised through the $1 entrance fee and donations from local businesses.

The Sigma Kappa sorority won the overall event, Phi Sigma Kappa came in second followed by the Kellogg Hall team.

Somit Award available to immigrant students

By Brandi Tips

Immigrant students often lack the advantages that other students have, such as financial support from family members. A special scholarship program, however, offers new Americans a helping hand.

The scholarship is in honor of former SICU President Albert Somit and his wife Leyla. The scholarship is awarded to students who are immigrants or whose parents immigrated to the United States, said Lori Ort, assistant to the vice president of Academic Affairs.

Ort said financial need and grade point average will be considered but will not be the only factors in the selection of the recipient.

The student must be a "first generation college student," meaning they are the first in their family to attend college.

The student must also be enrolled as a full-time student at SICU and have completed at least 25 semester hours at the University, she said.

The scholarship was set up in 1988 and three students have received the award since that time, Ort said. The first recipient of the award in 1988 was Houi Nguyen from Vietnam. In 1989 the award was given to Miezczyslaw Urbanczyk from Poland and this year it was awarded to Hing The Vu from Vietnam, she said.

The award is a minimum of $250 and may be awarded to one or more qualified students," Ort said, adding that the recipients name will be engraved on a plaque along with the year the award was received.

Ort said there is no limit to the scholarship.

The committee is made up of five members which include the vice president for Academic Affairs, the donor of the University Horizons fund, the director of Financial Aid, the director of International Programs and Services and the director of Undergraduate Academic Services.

Students must until Feb. 1 to apply for the 1993 Somit Scholarship Award.

Applications are available at the Office of the Vice President for Student Affairs at 307 Anthony Hall.

International Night yields friendships, fun times

"Mini carnival" promotes American and international relations

Promoting friendship between American students and international students was the theme of the first International Night.

The event was sponsored by the International Student Council and resembled a "mini carnival," said Natasha Ghose, president of ISC.

Between 300 and 400 students participated in the festivities.

Harvey Welch, vice president for student affairs, stressed the importance of interaction between the international students and American students, Ghose said.

The Kuwait team was awarded first place in the ISC Soccer Tournament. The Greeks United team took second place and the United Nations Team took third.

The Malaysian Student Association won first place for the best display on International Oak each day.

The Japanese Student Association took second place and the Indonesian Student Association and the Pakistani Student Association said for third place.

After the trophies and certificates were presented, students attended a dance party complete with a disc jockey, free cake and popcorn.

"The event gives them an inexpensive social opportunity," said Ramsey, president of the Graduate Professional Student Council and graduate student in higher education from Carbondale.

Ramsey said he believes the international students feel more comfortable in a social setting on campus rather than on the Strip.

"This kind of event helps us to drive away the misconception that the programs and activities of ISC are for foreign students alone," Ghose said.

"The event was a success and will hopefully be bigger in the future," he said.

By making the event free, it might help encourage American students to interact with the foreign students, Ghose said.

The evening ended with an hour long limbo contest in which almost everyone participated.

"Everyone really enjoyed this game the best," Ghose said.

There were other games such as the balloon bashing game and the tug of war on a rope, he said.

Syed Asim Husain, a graduate student in civil engineering from India, said he thinks that ISC should have at least two or three international Nights a semester.

"The more the better," Husain said.

"We are very pleased that so many American students came," said Chenfang Sari Ramsey, a doctoral student in curriculum and instruction from Taiwan.

New center helpful in fighting poverty

SEVEN STATES ALONG the Mississippi including Illinois, are struggling to keep their head above water economically. And hopefully, a newly created center will lower the tide.

The Lower Mississippi Delta Development Center, a product of a report revealing the Mississippi Delta is one of the poorest in the country, recently received a $50,000 grant from the state to help combat poverty.

But more artillery is needed.

RURAL POVERTY IS REACHING epidemic proportions in mid-America, and Southern Illinois has been afflicted with the disease. It's no secret that Southern Illinois is becoming one of the poorest areas in the state.

Things look pretty bleak on the economic horizon as the biggest industry, coal mining, is dwindling because of the oxygen-depleting level of sulfur in the coal.

BUT THIS CENTER MIGHT BE THE beginning of the cure for this disease.

Every state government in the Mississippi Delta region needs to institute more money to help the center continue lobbying Congress for legislation that gives the area priority funding.

And priority funding on bills such as rural health, farm industry, coal mining, is dwindling because of the worst to grandmother's house for Thanksgiving off the menu.

I have recently learned that if you own a bike and plan to ride it in the fall, legally, must be registered on campus. Students lack a law because yesterday, I received eight dollars in tickets for not having it registered.

I came out to find my bike locked to a rack, with a lock that was not mine. I then located a bright orange sicker telling me what to do to get it unlocked. With just five minutes to get to class, I made my move.

Just then, I noticed two campus cops locking up other unregistered bikes. I asked one of them to unlock my bike. Then the cop began to write me out two tickets, one for an unregistered bike and the other for impounding the bike.

I have seen a lot of stupid things on this campus, but this has got to be the biggest waste of time, money and energy. I have never seen if then. It was better to do than walk around campus and lock up bikes and write tickets to bicyclists, then get rid of them.

Like in scholarship funds, more books for the library, or maybe we could purchase some doors at the stalls in the men's men in Morris Library — Andy Johnson, junior, hotel restaurant administration.

I have been rather difficult to walk around the campus lately, trying to avoid hearing the pleas of those hapless students, asking people, asking me to donate my blood. If I took the time to explain why I don't, I would end up feeling like a spent polisian.

These clowns tempts us with brightly colored balloons, and a team effort is placed upon donation so we can regain the record that was not to MEZZOU. A game is made of it.

Blood collection is done in a so-called "noble" effort to help our fellow man.

However, we try to grant equal rights to all humanity, but the line is drawn when another species is involved.

The very act of donating blood is species selective and takes another step of Mother Nature's tools of checks and balances away. This "continues to allow overpopulation of our planet and make big bucks for the industrial giants of medicine who continue to grow chievably unchecked."

Therefore, if we are to help the one and only Mother Earth, aid ourselves, don't give them the kill. Then the nature will remain. After all, who decides what is morally right, modern technology or us — Joe Barts, junior, biology.

UNDER UNSEASONABLY warm skies for November, Santa threw candy from his sleigh along the parade route which started at the corner of South Illinois Avenue and Main Street and ended at the University Mall via Grand Avenue and Lewis Lane.

THE PARADE, sponsored by University Mall, attracted 34 entries from the Optimist Club to area county queens.

Cobden High School and Carbondale Lincoln Junior High School bands each won $1,000 in the Class A band competition.

Hardin County High School and Vienna High School bands each won $500 in the Class AA band competition.

The United States, which has led the world since the invasion of Kuwait, has about 500 American military personnel stationed in Saudi Arabia. "Since the birth of Jesus Christ constitutes a significant place with the world's military history, the United States has decided to allow the travel of foreign guests (in) batches from Dec. 25, the Iraq News Agency said.

The news agency did not make it clear if some or all of the foreigners would be allowed to leave, citing P.W. Bush's projected trip to hospitals and hostages held by authorities at key sites.

Secretary of State James Baker, in Paris with Bush for a summit of the G-7, the Group of Seven nations and Cooperation in Europe, said, "This is further cynical manipulation of international relations. He never should have taken them in the first place." Deputy White House Press Secretary William Jansen called the trip a "serious attempt to manipulate the hostage issue," and called for the immediate release of all hostages.

U.S. military officials in Saudi Arabia, including the U.S. and Saudi Marines transported by helicopter from off-shore ships stationed 290 miles from the border with occupied Kuwait.

"I don't know his motives, but the people need to be informed. Congress is in the dark on the issue."

Bush's decision to be answered by the administration, he said.

"There is no clear reason why National Guard troops who are trained for only two days a month, are being sent to Saudi Arabia instead of regular Army divisions which are trained for combat.

He said he also was worried about inexperienced troops facing near-homeland, one war-hardened soldiers.

And if Kuwait is freed, Poshard said he wants to know how long the United States will have to remain in the Persian Gulf.

Kasam said, "They want to shut down education.

Although professors have attempted to hold classes elsewhere, the Israeli army has stopped recruiting those individuals involved, Kasam said.

Starting an exchange at SIU is the only way we can help," Kasam said, "but if a student exchange program is conducted across the nation it could help.

Kasam said more than 20 universities nationwide have already started an exchange with Birzeit University, including: University of Illinois, which just recently set up an exchange.

Iksandar, a senior in industrial technology, said the SIU group is focusing on Birzeit University because it is one of the largest and oldest universities in Palestine.

"Birzeit suffered more than the closed over 700 school days since 1987 and having over 10 percent of their students detained in the course of the last year," Iksandar said.

Lower education has also been interrupted, Iksandar said.

"The schools are open for a month or two and then Israelis come and close them down again," Iksandar said.

Iksandar said the United Nations has passed a resolution for all Palestinian schools to be kept open, but Israel has ignored this request.

"Education is a basic, fundamental right, and Israel is violating this right," Kasam said.
Supreme Court refuses to lift order barring CNN broadcast

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court refused Sunday to lift an order barring CNN from broadcasting tapes of telephone conversations between imprisoned former Panamanian dictator Manuel Noriega and an Atlanta-based CNN network. The court was weighing whether CNN violated the privacy rights of Noriega, imprisoned on criminal charges in the United States military. CNN has been seeking access to the tapes for use in a lawsuit alleging that the government had a right to use them as evidence against Noriega.

The court had been asked to lift the order pending a hearing of the case, which was scheduled for Monday. The court had previously denied CNN's request to lift the order, saying it was necessary to protect Noriega's constitutional rights.

The court's decision was expected to be announced shortly. CNN had been seeking access to the tapes in order to prepare its defense in a lawsuit against the government for alleged violations of the company's rights.

The court had previously ordered CNN to cease broadcasting the tapes, saying they were protected by the company's constitutional rights. The court had also ordered CNN to turn over the tapes to the government, saying they were evidence in the government's case against Noriega.

The court's decision was likely to be closely watched, as it could set a precedent for future cases involving the use of tapes in legal proceedings.

Suppressing anger could be deadly — study

BOSTON (UPI) — Women who do not show the anger they feel could contribute to their untimely deaths, a Michigan researcher said Sunday. A survey of 372 women and 372 men aged 18-74 revealed that women who had suppressed high levels of anger were three times more likely to die of heart disease than men who had not, although the same was not true for men who scored low on a scale for cardiovascular problems.

In the study, women aged 18-74 who had high blood pressure were compared with those with low levels of anxiety and those who had not. Researchers found that women with high blood pressure were more likely to die from heart disease, even if they had been told that their blood pressure was high. The study also showed that women with high blood pressure were twice as likely to die of heart disease as those who had not.

Scientists are still uncertain of the identity of the infectious agent or why the symptoms appear. Some people may not even be aware they are infected. Levy said.

Several viruses have been implicated in the disorder, including the Epstein-Barr virus and a relative of the AIDS virus known as HTLV-1. Faro and his colleagues have been unable to find consistent evidence of the agent in their studies.

The Pilgrims depicted incorrectly

Historian says Pilgrims stole, drank, burned and fornicated

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (UPI) — Legend depicting the Pilgrims as a pious, straight-laced people who fled the Indians and began a society that could be found in the popular image is riddled with error, a Texas A&M historian said Saturday.

Farrow, a 19-year-old student at the University of Michigan School of Public Health, found that even high-sounding statistics had inflated the number of deaths in Pilgrim society and they could be popularly understood.

John Canup, an authority on New England disease, said people undergoing the ravages of survival have a disease known as "the more devilish behavior of man." This is a barbituric disorder in which patients with chronic fatigue syndrome (CFS) are prone to sleep late, found Canup said, on a daily basis.

"They were human. Rigorous A&M historian Abraham Lincoln declared an official day of prayer in the last war, "to pray for our Pilgrims on a day and perhaps by some something they were not," said John Canup, an authority on New England disease.

"We forget that the Pilgrims were human. Rigorous self-discipline and order was not for them, but they were far from prudish Victorians," paraphrased Farrow. "They lived much closer to the Earth. Some pilfered, murdered, drank, too much and, contrary to popular belief, they were not always chaste. Stills, the Pilgrims hoped to create a model society, but the modern-day social dozen could be restless in pursuing their goal."

Martinez up for drug czar

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Florida Gov. Bob Martinez is the leading candidate to replace William Bennett as federal anti-drug chief, while Bennett is the top choice of the National Anti-Drug Council, officials said Saturday.

While House press secretary Marilyn Fitzwater said Martinez, described by his term as re-election bid by Democrat Lawton Chiles, has the "right track for the drug fight," officials were more guarded.

Meanwhile, Republican sources said Bennett, who served as director of the Office of National Drug Policy for 20 months, has not been contacted by Martinez and that an announcement is expected next week.

Bennett recently was director of the Office of Natl and Drug Policy Control for his last term, effective May 1, 1990.

Fitzwater said no announcement has been set on the possible nomination of Martinez, but confirmed an earlier report that the outgoing Florida governor "was the leading candidate" to head the anti-drug office.

Last week, Martinez brushed off questions about a possible tenure in the Bush administration and said he had only immediate plans when he takes office in January, until he was able to spend time fishing and golfing.

"I think that, I don't have any immediate plans," the former governor said.

As governor, Martinez spearheaded efforts to expand drug testing in the workplace and to reduce the "sentence for narcotics knowings".

Bennett would replace the aging of the Reagan administration director.

Sources said Atwater, who was called a brain tumor since March 1989, will be the "battling party".

Thanksgiving dinner cheap despite rising turkey prices

PARK RIDGE (UPI) — The traditional turkey dinner with all the trimmings will go up 28 cents in price this Thanksgiving, but it’s still a bargain compared to other meals.

The American Farm Bureau Federation Saturday released its annual survey of 80 volunteer shoppers around the country and the consensus was Thanksgiving Day dinner will top $2.89 per person, an increase of 42 cents from last year.

The menu includes turkey, stuffing, sweet potatoes, peas, rolls, cranberry sauce, pumpkin pie, whipped cream, a relish dish and beverages.

Marsha Purcell, AFBF spokesman, said an increase in the cost of turkey is the factor in the higher price but added the holiday dinner is still a bargain for consumers.

"Consumers really save money on Thanksgiving Day meal because so many ingredients are only offered at special prices," Purcell said. "Stores sell products at less than normal prices as loss leaders to entice customers in November.

The national survey found a 16-pound turkey costs an average $14.90, and cooks prepared enough stuffing for 10 people for $4.40.

The survey found a turkey with all the sides cost 10 people to cook $28.85. The national trend toward healthier eating has not been abandoned for the holiday.

The survey found shoppers are buying more lightweight, less expensive turkeys, which are now in short supply.

Consumers in Illinois and California who don’t want to cook during the holiday can buy ready-to-eat complete Thanksgiving dinners for about $45 per person.

"We think there are lots of people who will opt for a pre-plated meal this year," Purcell said. "They want to get the turkey and all the sides together and have it delivered to their door."

Although there is an 8 percent increase in the turkey supply the average price is up to 6 cents per pound higher, he said. "But the wholesale price for turkey hens ranges from 74 cents to 77 cents per pound nationwide, while a 16-pound turkey costs between 70 cents and 74 cents per pound."

"Part of this can be explained by the growing demand for turkey, both at Thanksgiving and year-round," Johnson said.

Purcell noted that Americans will eat 46 million turkeys this year.

"Last year, we estimated that Americans would eat 45 million turkeys. It seems they like the turkey and the rest of the Thanksgiving meal too much," Purcell said.

Woman celebrates 116th birthday

PALATKA, Fla. (UPI) — The world’s oldest person celebrated her 116th birthday Sunday with a "Sweet 16" party and a congratulatory call from former President Reagan.

Carrie White is certified by the Guinness Book of Records as the oldest living person in the United States and the oldest American ever.

One person ever has been ascertained as having lived longer, Shigeo Ichims of Japan, who died in 1986 at age 120, according to the Guinness Book. When White was born in Gadsden County, Fla., Nov. 18, 1874, Ulysses S. Grant was president of the United States.

President Ronald Reagan sent her a recorded birthday message he taped at Beverly Hills.

"Carrie, we know you’ll have a prayer for you in my heart while I’m in church today," Reagan said.

White lives for the last four years at the Putnam Memorial Nursing Home in Palatka, where more than 200 people ice cream and birthday cake under aicot at an afternoon lawn party.

Mayor Tim Smith proclaimed

Sunday "Carrie White Day" in the northeast Florida community.

White is a widow housewife. She is childless and has no known relatives.

On a recent call with her "granddaughter," Marjorie Allen.

"She has very good distance vision, no anxiety worse than what I call a teardrop. She can hear. She can communicate with her caretakers, she is very well and communicates very well," Allen said.

"She has senile dementia but she lets us know what she wants, if she’s pleased or displeased."

Holiday feast may cause ‘cornocoria’ of problems for Rover

URBANA (UPI) — Pet owners should resist temptation to slip their pet a sampling of the feast this Thanksgiving, a University of Illinois veterinarian says.

"If you have a small animal Extension vet at the College of Veterinary Medicine, says even a small piece of the main course can cause a ‘cornocoria’ of problems for your pet."

"But what they probably don’t realize is that the fatty skin from the turkey can cause problems as equally as severe," he said.

"He says fatty foods not only can cause stomach upset, but they can also trigger the pancreas.

Officer Doug Caldwell still was hospitalized Sunday, suffering from injuries he received when he was knocked to the ground and beaten about the head and face Friday night.

Police said Caldwell had stopped 41-year-old Wayne Bidner for speeding along a rural road south of Saybrook when the officer was attacked.

Bidner ate Saturday what exactly, but once the officer was knocked to the ground and the beating began was unclear.

Bidner died of a gunshot wound moments after he was shot.

Biden died of a gunshot wound to the chest moments after he was shot, police said.

Bidner said police uncovered a will of aggressive behavior before Bidner’s encounter with the officer who had been an officer for 20 years.

Biden said he had been thrombosed out of an M.C. Lanham City for ‘earlier than intended and was being sought for aggravated battery.

Mail ballot could boost voter turnout

WASHINGTON (UPI) — More than 13 years ago, the Flood Control District in Monterey, Calif., was faced with one of those special elections that excite only apathy. It seemed a waste to even set up polling booths.

So Moten advocated to hold the first all-mail vote in which a ballot is sent to every registered voter. The result was stunning.

The Flood Control District was inundated by 16,500 ballots, an increase of more than 50 percent over any previous election in that jurisdiction, and the election saw saved nearly 10,000.

Since then, jurisdictions in Oregon, New York, Kansas, Montana, Missouri, Washington, Nevada — perhaps as many as 1,000 — have used the all-mail ballot, most in local, uncontested elections.

A new General Accounting Office report suggests Congress consider mail voting, as well as other, more conventional methods, to reverse low voter turnout in the United States.

In the Nov. 6 general election, only about 35 percent of all Americans eligible to vote bothered to cast ballots.

That tied the record for the lowest turnout ever in off-year elections, set four years earlier.

Among the suggestions made by GAO, the investigative arm of Congress, is using toll-free numbers on each state with which the voter could request an official absentee or mail ballot and find out if she is about to be purged from registration rolls.

The report also suggested mailing pamphlets explaining propositions and referenda and conducting mock election in high schools.

GAO has offered for consideration by Congress on proposals to make registration automatic and also suggested setting registration deadlines closer to the day of the election. As many as 37 states might reduce the number of more than 65 percent or more by adopting election-day registration.

Although many members of Congress back changes to increase participation in elections, resistance to new methods has been strong.

In 1989 the House approved the "motor voter" bill that would have required states to include a registration section in the application for a driver’s license.

That bill was killed in late November of this year when the Senate failed to crack a Republican filibuster 53-42, 5 short of the needed 60.

"Resistance to any proposal for reform in this area appears to be broad and based on some extent on concerns for maintaining the security of elections from fraud and abuse, and possibly because there has been little public awareness of the registration reform," the GAO said.

"Resistance has also been noted among officials who may seek to perpetuate the administrative ground rules by which they were elected.

"The GAO said all-mail election would have the "most dramatic effect on turnout" an analysis of data showed the range of increase between 20 and 40 percent — and acknowledged that the major concern in the possibility of fraud and abuse was probably the one study conducted showed "little evidence" of fraud or abuse.

Mark Ryplen returns to toss Redskins to 31-17 victory

WASHINGTON (UPI) — After six weeks of uncertainty, the Washington Redskins can finally feel comfortable with their quarterback.

Mark Ryplen returned from an early-season knee injury to throw four touchdown passes Sunday, leading the Redskins to a 31-17 victory over the San Francisco 49ers.

"It's like the guy sat at home with his knee brace and took a shot at on a dart board," said Redskins center Jeff Bostic, flicking his hand forward to illustrate his view. "He was very sharp today in a game we really needed to win."

The victory, over the San Francisco 49ers, 31-17, in a superior position for an NFC wild-card playoff berth heading into Thursday's road game at Dallas. The Saints, who have lost their last five games in the Redskins, dropped to 4-6 and decreased their chances of making the playoffs.

Rypien, who suffered ligament damage to his knee in the third game of the season against Dallas, came back strong. He completed 26 of 36 passes for 234 yards and had no interceptions.

He threw two TD strikes to Gary Clark and one each to Art Monk, Keoko Keo and Randy Washington. Ryplen's four TD passes equal his single-game career best.

The Redskins were 3-1 in games Ryplen missed and replacements Mark Horsch and Jeff Bostic both had fine moments around great play. Both are hurt in low week's loss to Philadelphia, opening along Ryplen's return.

"I wasn't surprised that I was as sharp as I was today," said Ryplen, who added that his knee felt fine after a quick one-alarm.

"I had a good practice and I just did the game plan that was set up for me. That was my attitude coming in and I had a good feel, for the game today."

Clark was the biggest beneficiary of Ryplen's comeback, catching eight passes for 131 yards and scoring receptions of 8 and 19 yards. The 8, 0 gave the Redskins a 24-10 cushion in the third quarter that was never in doubt.

"A lot of the times I was the third receiver on the plays, but I was able to get open and get loose for more yardage," said Clark. "Ryplen was on target all day. They were very compact and covered us. It had a lot to do for him."

Ryplen's 3-yard scoring catch early in the fourth quarter swelled the Redskins' lead to 31-10. Saints quarterback Steve Walsh tackled on a 6-yard scoring pass to Floyd Turner with 5:53 left.

"They just dominated," said Saints coach Jim Mora. "We could not stop them. We just got whipped."

The Saints got on the board first after a 24-yard punt by Ray Maguierekos that set up New Orleans at the Washington 32. Seven plays later, Walsh hit former Miami Hurricanes teammate Brett Perriman for a 16-yard touchdown.

The Redskins countered on the ensuing possession with a 39-yard field goal by Chip Lohmiller, narrowing the deficit to 7-3. Washington reached the end zone the next time it had ball, Ryplen flipped a TD toss to Ce-Cee from 8 yards out, giving the Bucs a 10-7 early in the second quarter.

New Orleans came back with a 35-yard drive for a field goal, a 36-yard kick by Morton Anderson to knot the score at 10.

Buffalo stands at 9-1 with win over Patriots

ORCHARD PARK, N.Y. (UPI) — Thurman Thomas rushed for two touchdowns, including an 80-yard run late in the game, Sunday to lead the Buffalo Bills to a 14-0 victory over the lowly New England Patriots.

The Bills upped their record to 9-1 in winning their eighth straight, leaving them a half game ahead of the Miami Dolphins in the AFC East. The Dolphins play the Los Angeles Raiders Monday.

The Patriots lost their eighth straight in falling to 1-9, the worst record in the NFL.

Buffalo took a 7-0 lead which it held throughout most of the game. It was up 18-0 at halftime.

The Bills, who have won nine straight and a franchise-record 10 in a row, scored touchdowns on a 5-yard run by Thomas, capping a nine-play, 65-yard drive. Thomas finished the game with 16 yards on 11 carries.

New England still soar trailed 7-0 with less than two minutes left in the first quarter when quarterback Marc Wilson's pass for Irving Fryar was intercepted in the end zone by Bills free safety defensive back Lamar Williams. On the next play, Thomas capped a 80-yard drive down the right sideline, with James Lofton, providing escort with a decisive block, to make it 14-0 with 1:38 left.

The Bills featured stingy defense last week: two interceptions, one defensive end by Albert Ellerby and a 4-yard run by Thomas, aattacked his nine, 65-yard drive.

The Chiefs finally break end zone in 27-10 win

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — The Kansas City Chiefs offense was starting to feel more than a little pressure.

At the most key section of the Chiefs schedule, the offense went into what Coach Marty Schottenheimer called a scoring slump. Kansas City was in a position to make a move in the AFC West and instead was just able to tread water as the "Chiefs with the fewer quarters without a touchdown."

J.J. Burde broke that drought by amongst a 12-yard pass from Steve Deleberg into a 90-yard touchdown. The play turned the game into the game and Deleberg Billy Jones with a pair of short scoring passes, firing the Chiefs to a 7-0 victory over the San Diego Chargers.

The decision pulled Kansas City 6-4, within one-half game of the AFC West-leading Los Angeles Raiders. The Raiders play at Miami Monday night and that host the Chiefs next Sunday.

Steve Deleberg, who had won in last three games overall and five consecutive against Kansas City, fell to 5-6.

Kansas City was lucky to go even 1-2 during its touchdown drought, with touchdown victories coming against the Raiders, 9-7. The Chiefs had not scored an offensive touchdown since just before halftime of a Oct. 21 game in Denver.

"It was very important for us to score," said Birden, "We were starting to feel the pressure. We were going to need to score some touchdowns.""

The Chiefs didn't waste much time against San Diego as, after two predictable running netted just 2 yards, Deleberg dropped back and went long, toward the end zone, who was surrounded by Donnie Elder and Sam Scale.

Day of reckoning nears for Manley

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Washington Redskins owner Jack Kent Cooke and his players were silent Sunday, but a spokesman said the team does intend to issue a statement Monday following the National Football League ruling on whether to suspend defensive end Darrell Manley.

Manley, the Redskins' all-time sack leader, was suspended for life on Nov. 13, 1989, for a third violation of the league's substance abuse policy. However, the rules allow Manley to apply for reinstatement after a year.

NFL Commissioner Paul Tagliabue met with Manley Friday in his New York office to discuss Manley's rehabilitation from cocaine and alcohol addiction.

The 32-year-old Manley has been enrolled in a substance abuse program in Houston and says he has been drug-free for more than a year.

Reputedly, Tagliabue intends to reinstate Manley Monday. The Redskins would then have to decide whether to re-sign Manley to their roster or release him.

Cooke refused comment Sunday when asked about Washington's game against New Orleans if he would like to see Manley back on his team.

The Redskins players did likewise after their victory over the Saints. "There's no comment until the decision is made," said lineback coach Monte Coleman.

Sources have said Washington does not want Manley back. The Los Angeles Rams, the Phoenix Cardinals and the Philadelphia Eagles all have expressed an interest in Manley should he become available.

Some fans attending the Redskins game made their feelings known, hanging banners in support of Manley, whose off-field endeavors made him a favorite among the faithful.

Denver loses third consecutive game at Mile High, falls to 3-7 on season

DENVER (UP) — Kevin Butler kicked a 44-yard field goal with 1:46 remaining in overtime Sunday, after missing a 41-yard attempt 2:1 as time expired in regulation, lifting the Chicago Bears to a 16-12 triumph over the Denver Broncos.

Butler's restituent kick was set up when Johnny Bailey's 20-yard punt return gave Chicago the ball on Denver's 34. Although the Denver defense yielded only 7 yards, Chicago moved the ball close enough for Butler.

Field position played a crucial role in the overtime period.

The Broncos' three overtime possessions began at their 12, their 8 and their 4-yard line. The Bears' began on their 37, 39 and the Denver 34.

Butler also kicked field goals of 77 and 32 yards and Brad Muster scored on a 10-year run. Nearly all Denver's punts were rushed 28 times; 111 yards to lead the Chicago defense and control.

Chicago's record moved to 9-1 while defending AFC champion Denver fell to 7-3 with 1990 season.

Denver lost the third consecutive time at Mile High Stadium and dropped its third straight. Kicker Dave Treadwell kicked field goals of 77 and 24 yards and quarterback John Elway ran for a 9-yard touchdown with only 1:14 remaining to tie the score.

After the teams traded punts to start the game, Denver's Kevin Clark returned Maury Buford's second punt 23 yards to the Denver 42. Elway's 34-yard pass to Mark Jackson on third-and-11 moved the ball to the Chicago 12-yard line. After Bobby Humphrey gained two yards, Elway threw two through the end zone. Treadwell's first field goal, Denver's 3-0 lead to begin the ballgame.

Chicago took the ensuing kickoff quickly down the field, never facing a third-down situation during the first 13 plays. However, on third and nine at the Denver 14, Steve Atwater sacked Jim Harbaugh for a 5-yard loss. Elway kicked a 37-yard field goal to tie the score midway through the second quarter.

The Broncos added three more points on the next possession, marching to a first and goal at the Chicago 2-yard line. Shaun Gayle tackled Humphrey for a 5-yard loss, and Melvin Bratton and Sammy Winder dropped passes to stall the drive. Treadwell's second field goal put Denver ahead 6-3.

Typically, the third quarter proved disastrous for Denver as 14 turnovers led to Chicago's 10 unanswered points.

Humphrey broke into the secondary with a 14-yard gain on Denver's second possession of the second half. Humphrey made the ball free. Mike Singletary recovered at the Denver 35 again Chicago's lead, but a holding penalty and two incompletions ended the drive. Butler's second consecutive field goal.

On the second play of Denver's next possession, Jim Morrissey made a diving interception to gain 36 yards. Elway led the ball to the 40, on the Broncos' 40-yard line. Anderson gained 16 yards on four consecutive carries, and Muster gained 14 on the next two plays beforeumbles 10 yards. Elway then kicked a 35-yard field goal with 14 seconds left in the left quarter.

Denver started its final possession 70 yards away from the Chicago goal line with 3:57 remaining. Denver's consecutive deep passes to Jackson for 18 and Michael Young for 55 on the wildcat's key play. Elway's quarterback draw covered the final 9 yards with 1:14 left. Chicago didn't score on the drive.

Chicago drove quickly into the red zone on a 24-yard completion from Harbaugh to Anderson. But Butler's 32-yard field goal attempt as time expired hit the left upright to sent the game into overtime.

Sinceroano said, "They only had one divider, we were better prepared than he was," Sophmore Brian Gargan, junior Jeffrey Williams and freshmen Randy Roberts and Sean Wicdon teamed to take first in the 400 medley relay.

Other Salukis to place first in an event include senior David Morovitz, who won the 200 freestyle, junior Shane Cushing, who won the 50 freestyle and Gargar and who won the 500 freestyle.

The Salukis didn't fare as well against Southwest Missouri, which defeated them 146-87.

"We ran a team that was a little short," said coach Doug Ingram said. "We made the season for them, it was a very big step for us to beat a nationally ranked team."

The Salukis placed first in six of the seven events against Southwest Missouri. Senior Sean Morovitz placed first in the 50 freestyle, Roberts won the 200 individual medley, Williams won the 100 butterfly, junior Todd Edinson placed first in the 500 freestyle and freshman Chris Hagenheuser won the 100 breaststroke.

Gargar, Brador, Morovitz and Edinson also teamed up to win the 800 freestyle relay.

The Salukis did not earn a win as junior Greg Tests was SIUC's best diver finishing second in both the one and three-meter events.

"They (Southwest Missouri) had light practices all week and were shaved and tapered," Gagar said. "They put all their marbles in one bag to beat us."

Seles beats Sabatini in Virginia Slims finals

NEW YORK (UPI) — Monica Seles celebrated her promotion to the No. 2 world ranking and helped create tennis history Sunday when she outlasted Gabriela Sabatini in five sets to win the Virginia Slims Championships.

Seles, a 16-year-old Yugoslav, defeated Sabatini, 6-4, 7-6, 6-4, 6-1, in what is believed to be the first five-set match by women in nearly a century.

This season-ending championship is the only one on the women's calendar that calls for a five-set final, but this is the first time it was required since the tournament's inception in 1946.

"It was an unbelievable match, we both played great," Seles said. "I had a hard match today, but I enjoyed every minute of it."

Referring to the crowd support she added, "We couldn't ask for anything better or anything more."

The decisive break came in the fourth game at the final set. After saving one break point, Sabatini netted a forehand to fall behind 3-1.

Sabatini had a break point in each of the first and third games of the set, but was unable to convert, and Seles squandered a triple break point opportunity on the second game.

Seles, the French Open champion, needed only one set point to close it out, searching Sabatini with a backhand crosscourt.

The two women were still pounding the ball hard and moving well at the end of the 3-hour and 47-minute marathon and a near-sellout crowd at Madison Square Garden was loud in its approval of action.

In 1901, at the U.S. Nationals, Beatrix Moore defeated Myrtle McAteer in five sets at the Philadelphia Cricket Club.

Seles, who on Monday will replace Martina Navratilova as No. 2 in the world rankings, earned $250,000 for winning the championship, and took home $670,000 including her bonus money.

Sabatini, the U.S. Open champion, takes home $120,000.

"I am happy to reach the finals here," said Sabatini, who upset defending champion Steffi Graf in Saturday's semifinals.

"I have proved a lot this year."
