Will Sanders’ resignation affect local businesses?

Tom Chammasiyan and Kelly Hipple
Daily Egyptian

Though area legislators and business owners may not be directly affected by SIU President Ted Sanders’ resignation, their questions are much the same on people on campus.

Sanders announced Tuesday he will leave the University by Feb. 3 to take a position as president of the Education Commission of the States, an educational policy group based in Denver.

Rental for the 15,000-square-foot facility is about $5 million a year.

The Illinois legislature will decide on SIU’s budget this spring, and Luechtefeld said that would be a critical time for the University.

Luechtefeld said their hopes are that the SIU Board of Trustees, if not themselves, in choosing a new president, though Sanders’ Feb. 3 departure puts some pressure on them.

The first thing that comes to mind is that they really do need to be selective, even if it takes a little more time,” Luechtefeld said. “It will be very difficult to do by February.”

“Some of the things that we can’t ask is to let this affect relationships between the legislators and the University.”

Local business owner Honey Fisher said she thought relations between the community and the University may improve with a new leadership in the President’s Office.

“Being a local business owner who has had dealings with the University in the past, I think the University may improve with new leadership,” Fisher, owner of Home Renovations, said. “I want the University to grow.”

This Day in 1992:

- A state law was overturned to prohibit a "no disturber" sign on the doors of a possible hotel on SIU campus. Although President John C. Guyon emphasized the construction of a hotel on University land left off in the "embryonic stage," the State College Housing Construction Act of 1991 mandated that if the University decided to follow through with a hotel project, it would just be too be approved by the Illinois General Assembly before commencement.
- Then-SIUC President Guyon said he would not be moved by a petition signed by several hun­dred people opposing insurance coverage for student abortions. Students in opposition of the abortion insurance continued their protests against Guyon. Guyon, a Christian registered student organization, was offered a discount on a Carbondale Catholic health insurance plan for allowing Romney termination as a health insurance benefit at SIUC.

Hale says his position advantageous

World Church of the Creator leader believes denial of license would help him better promote his views.

Mount Hale and his new attorney are gearing up for the U.S. Supreme Court after the Illinois State Bar Association denied his law license. Hale is appealing the decision to the Illinois Supreme Court. The bar association has not decided whether to allow him into the Illinois State Bar. Hale was denied his law license by a three-member review board in December. Hale is appealing the decision to the Illinois State Bar Association, which is yet to rule on Hale's appeal.

Letters may be published as a letter to the editor, a guest column or in the online archives at siu.edu/dailyegyptian.

In 1990, the Illinois General Assembly concluded that...
S.E.E. what you've done now?

Dear Editor,

A quick walk through Finn Hall has revealed to me that the students of SIU are not doing their part. Now, I'm not as na"ive as some of the administration. The students will do. What are the things that are being done anything to you? Are you planning on finding something wrong with them? I'm not that bad of a person.

If Ted Souders was an ineffective leader, then why is he running for his seat? He has failed. He can't display your pleasure in such a format.

Election, not selection should govern the USG

There has been much controversy over the last couple of years concerning the grade point average requirements for involvement in the Undergraduate Student Government. Those in power in student government have proclaimed that certain subgroups of the student body are prohibited from serving. They cannot run for a Senate seat. A student classified as a minority is prohibited from running for certain offices. A student must pay Robert M. Buysse before being considered. Why should lives of the common core students be impacted by these requirements? What education does the University have to offer? That led to the death of Matthew Shepard.

The Daily Egyptian recently reported on an exchange between Robert and some concerned students about proposed changes to Illinois laws. The changes would prevent homophobia from discrimination regarding employment, real estate, access to financial credit and public accommodations. I am convinced with Public's logic concerning his opposition to the changes.

First, the Daily Egyptian reported that Bost opposes the bill because current changes would lead to more future ones. If he is talking about more bills protecting people from discrimination, then what is the problem? There is nothing wrong with disagreeing with a lifestyle, however there is something wrong with discriminating against that person based on their lifestyle. I think it should be illegal for someone to be discriminated against based on their sexual orientation.

Bost fear lays groundwork for hate

Fear and intolerance are the foundation of hate, and Bost is a clear example of that. Bost studied the past position of his President, Mike Bost (R- Murphysboro) allows the continuation of fear and intolerance.

I hope this conversation will never experience that. Bost is going through it. However, do not think your representative is doing anything to avoid the hate that led to his death of Matthew Shepard.

Constitution already grants protection to homosexuals. I respectfully disagree.

The Constitution does not grant protection to any-one from discrimination. Presumably, Bost is discussing the Civil Rights legislation of the last 30 years. That legislation relies on the 14th Amendment, which guarantees people equal protection under the law.

The legislation only extends protection from discrimination against listed protected classes, and sexual orientation is not a listed protected class.

However, if the U.S. Constitution does protect homosexuals from discrimination, that is a strange argument to support the bill. There is nothing wrong with the State of Illinois ensuring that its citizens have state relief against discrimination.

The state could also choose to grant some protection than that granted under the U.S. Constitution. In essence, the state would be natalizing an already protected status, and saying that the State of Illinois will not tolerate discrimination.

Bost may have reasons that he does not support the proposed legislation other than the fact that the ones given. However, the reason is that Bost does not support the changes, because he supports discrimination against people based on their sexual orientation. If this is the case, then I am afraid that he may not be representing his constituents.

Alternatively, is the reason that your representative does not support the bill because he is pandering to homophobia? If that is the case, then I hope the people of Southern Illinois will remember this when they go to the polls next year. Bost for re-election.

In this case concerns you, and you want to let your representative know what you think, write him at 2032-B Stratton Building, Springfield, Ill. 62706.
Charles Swedlund will leave SIUC in August

By JOSE SANSERI

A PART 29 YEARS AT SIUC, CHARLES SWEDLUND WILL ACTUALLY GRADUATE IN AUGUST.

With his razor-sharp and relentless love for the photographic medium, Swedlund, a professor in the Cinema and Photography Department and Chicago native, has been nothing but inspiring and entertaining SIUC students since 1971. But even the end of summer seasons, Swedlund and his students (a term he prefers rather than retiring) from a program that he raved a large role in shaping.

"A lot of times when a program exists, they make radical changes," Swedlund said. "I thought of starting, I think of fishing and play-..."

After high school, Swedlund wanted to get an education that would help him think, not just teach him how to make money with his cameras. He attended the Institute of Design in Chicago where he met well-known photographers Harry Callahan and Aaron Siskind. He credits the two as a catalyst for his photographic career.

might deter candidates from applying," Henry said.

Larry Dietz, one of two candidates for the new chancellor for Student Affairs position, is aware of the current situation, but has not formed an opinion.

"To me when these kind of things happen the value proposition normally" said Dietz, vice chancellor of Student Affairs and Enrollment Management at the University of Missouri-Kansas City.

Dietz, and Sharon Whiteside, vice president for Student Affairs at Stillman College in Tuscaloosa, Ala., visited SIUC this fall in regards to the position Harvey Wutch检查 when he retires Dec. 31.

Goldman said the University's first concern has to be to bring stability to the chancellor position. "The vice chancellor report directly to the chancellor and people say it would have more of an effect if it was the Board of Trustees."

However, during the last major administrative shakeup when Argersinger was terminated, Ahart said faculty shifting did influence Goldman said the University's first concern has to be to bring stability to the chancellor position. people's opinion.

Dietz takes a more philosophical approach to the whole situation. "I want to move the campus forward, and I believe I've made some progress on doing that," Jackson said.

"I think those other people filling other positions are acting with vigor and momentum. I think we are managing quite well."

"If the new leader has expansion of new programs and new ideas, it's possible that the Supreme Court may have a major focus for the University during the next several months, but Fisher takes a more philosophical approach to the whole situation.

"Overall, you can't look at it as a good or bad thing. It's just a part of the job," Fisher said. "The average person doesn't pay much attention to all of this. It's just an inconvenience for most of the people.

protesting the actions of the school board.

The debate in Harrisburg over whether the 10 Commandments should be posted in a school also peaked Hale's interest.

"If they post the 10 Commandments, we might use use our 16 Commandments posted," Hale said, referring to the doctrine of the World Church of the Creator. "You have to have all the religions if you are going to have peace."

"I don't think it will affect our business at all," Ahart said. "I would have thought that the Supreme Court may uphold the previous court's decision or choose not to review his case. This, he said, will leave his inhibitions in pursuing issues within the World Church of the Creator."

"I will be free to promote my cause in a way that I will no longer have the possibility of rubbing people the wrong way concerning my law license," he said.

A final salute to No. 81

SIU basketball begins this weekend, a perfect excuse to pay minimal attention to Saluki football action. Why can't the Salukis win a Saluki last football game Saturday afternoon against Western Kentucky University? The result has been two losses, seven games played, and seven games lost. The loss of the season came Saturday against the Salukis. They are the only team that can lose seven games and still have a winning record. The Salukis have won six of seven games and continually play strong defense.

Here's a reason the game will be senior wide receiver Cornell Craig's last at a Saluki. Bidding a fond farewell to Craig should be a priority for all Saluki fans this weekend, because if anyone deserves warm recognition in his final college game, it's Craig.

Being a star on a losing team is not a role relished by many elite athletes. Great players have tremendous fire in their belly, and it's that fire that enables them to push themselves to excellence.

That same principle is what makes losing so tough to take. Craig has been a part of four losing teams during his Saluki career, a fact that is the only speck on an otherwise flawless collegiate career. Although Craig will leave team and the coaches, that cannot be denied.

Craig's final season will be a perfect excuse to pay a fond farewell to Craig should be a priority for all Saluki fans. Bidding a fond farewell to Craig should be a priority for all Saluki fans this weekend, because if anyone deserves warm recognition in his final college game, it's Craig.

It's a pity when you leave. Craig said of his nomination. "It's always a goal to be ranked among the best in the sport."

There is no debating Craig is SIU's best wide receiver ever. He will leave SIU owning nearly every significant Saluki receiving record, far too many to mention here.

He was a star for the Salukis from day one, and has only gotten better with time. With Karlton Carpenter's absence this season, Craig has taken on his offense on his shoulders and made it the most prolific unit in Saluki history. The fact that you can catch a pass per game and have caught a pass in each of his final 28 college games is an incredible athletic job but not great, and some think that may preclude Craig from an NFL career. But whether or not the hard-working Craig ends up playing on Sundays, nothing will ever dimish his phenomenal college career.

Craig will be missed dearly by SIU football fans, but memories of his four years of excellence as a Saluki will only grow more legendary in years to come.

"It feels good to leave your mark," he said. "I would like people, when they see the number 81, to think of me and the things I've done."

It will be impossible not to.

LAST MEETING: 1995, SIU won 26-22 ATTEMPT TO PLAY WITH GREATNESS COMPETITIVE EFFORT FOR THE SALUKIS AND HILLTOPPERS WILL BE KEY.

Tilmon scored a season-high 38 points and added 10 rebounds in SIU's first game of the season against Missouri State. The Salukis outscored the Bears 43-34 in the second half to come back and win 75-69.

On the injury front, SIU will be without senior guard Gerald Lampley, who has been out since early October with a sprained ankle. The Salukis will also be without freshman guard Demetrius Howard, who is still recovering from a knee injury. Senior forward Marcus Thouvenot is questionable due to a shoulder injury.

Despite the losses, SIU head coach Barry Hinson is optimistic about the team's prospects.

"We have a lot of talent," Hinson said. "We just need to get them all playing together."
