Students vote for general election

By Terry Martin
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

A turnout of 4,658 students voted Wednesday and Thursday to have a general student body election for choosing student member to the Board of Trustees.

A total of 5,367 ballots was cast but 709 were invalid because of more than one response or no response at all.

It was the largest turnout in the state for the Student Trustee Referendum and the largest for any Student Government oriented election at SIU, said Sharon Yeargin, executive secretary of Graduate Student Council (GSC).

The turnout was six times the number of students who participated in the seven-day voting period at SIU-Edwardsville three weeks ago.

About 30 per cent of the student body voted, including 20 per cent of the undergraduates.

The four options available to students on the referendum were: the student body president would appoint the trustee with ratification by the Student Senate and GSC; a joint Student Government — GSC committee would develop a list of candidates for the student body to vote from; a joint Student Government — GSC committee would develop a list with the Student Senate and GSC to vote from that list; and a general student body election.

Six per cent of the turnout voted for option 1 (303 votes); 23 per cent for option 2 (1,059 votes); 29 per cent for option 3 (1,356 votes); and 40 per cent for option 4 (1,900 votes), election officials said.

The optional questions at the bottom of the ballot that asked for sex and classification were answered by 2,663 males and 1,379 females with 616 students not answering.

Graduate students voting totalled 450.

undergraduates totalled 3,653, and 555 voters did not answer the classification portion.

Both previous referendums at SIU yielded slightly more than 2,000 votes making this referendum turnout the largest in the history of the University, said Mike Carr, student body president.

The last referendum was in the fall of 1972 concerning the fee structure of the University. A referendum in January 1971 related to the question of whether or not to have the University Senate organization.

Ms. Yeargin and Carr have scheduled a meeting for Friday to discuss implementation of a general election for a student trustee.

A decision will probably not be reached until the beginning of next week, Ms. Yeargin said.

"I am very happy with the voter turnout," Ms. Yeargin said. "It indicates student interest in University politics."

Carr said, "I'd like to thank everyone who worked so hard for the election especially campaign and pollworkers."

"It was an all-out, 2½-week effort to get people out to vote and it worked," he said.

Ron Sears, graduate intern in the Student Affairs Office, attributed the high turnout to many factors.

"The high turnout is a result of the importance of the referendum, the fact it lasted for two days, and the computerized procedure that added credibility and honesty to the referendum," Sears said.

It took one minute and one second for the computer to tabulate the votes, Sears said.

London picks DE headlines successfully

By Chester Langin
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Mark London, famed mentalist, astrologer and exponent of extrasensory perception, successfully predicted both headlines at the top of page 1 of Thursday's edition of the Daily Egyptian Thursday night at a performance at the Student Center Ballrooms.

He also predicted the No. 1 headline of the Thursday Southern Illinoisan.

His choice for the top headline of the DE was "Compromise reached on pageant contest." The actual headline was, "Compromise cools protest of contest."

His choice for the second headline of DE was, "Nearly 2,000 vote on referendum." The actual headline was, "First day of trustee voting draws over 2,000."

Homecoming to offer magical signs

By Debby Ratermann
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Homecoming '73 "Houses of the Horoscope" activities will have a touch of magic Friday night when Hypnotist Irwin Ross, Mentalist Mark London, and Merlin the Magician appear from 8 p.m. to 1 a.m. in the Student Center Ballrooms.

Bill "Hard Guy" Anderson will emcee the affair and play vintage rock-and-roll records for an expected 4,000 students to dance to, Steve Paczolt, Homecoming committee member, said Thursday.

Fortune telling booths and free fortune cookies will be available in the Ballrooms.

"Mother Goose" and "Smoke Signal" will play from 8 p.m. to 1 a.m. Friday at a dance in the Roman Rooms. "Dixie Truckers," a new country blues band, will play from 8 p.m. to midnight in the Big Muddy Room.

Joe Stanes and the Melodeers, a jazz band "made up of older guys who played jazz back in the 1940's," Paczolt said, will play from 8 p.m. to midnight Friday in the International Lounge of the Student Center.

"They played at Homecoming last year," Paczolt said, "and the response was tremendous."

The Inter-Greek Council's Miss Southern will be chosen at 8 p.m. Friday in the Student Center Auditorium. The winner will receive a tuition grant paid for by Inter-Greek Council. Thirteen girls are still in the running. Diane Balch, Robin Stein, and JoAnne Brand have withdrawn.

Diane Johnson, member of the People's Coalition for a Miss Southern Alternative, said Thursday the group plans to protest the contest. Ms. Johnson said she did not say "nothing has changed except the name" about the contest, as the Daily Egyptian reported.

If anyone who participated in Friday night Homecoming activities is up by 10 a.m. Saturday, he or she can see "the biggest, best Homecoming parade in years," Paczolt said.

"We have 70 entries, including 15 floats and 26 bands," Paczolt said. "We're expecting 8,000 spectators."

"Last year they had 4,000 spectators, but they only had five bands," Paczolt said. Trophies to first, second and third place floats will be awarded during halftime activities at the SIU-Akron football game at 1:30 p.m. Saturday.

The parade will begin at the corner of Illinois Avenue and Walnut Street, proceed south on Illinois past Grand Avenue, west at McAndrew Stadium, continue past the Student Center and end at the Arena.

Homecoming registration will begin at 9 a.m. Saturday in the Student Center.

Alumni and faculty are invited to a reception immediately after the football game in Ballroom B in the Student Center.

Paul Simon will wind up Homecoming activities with a concert at 8 p.m. Saturday in the SIU Arena.

Police to foot license costs

By Rafe Klingler
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The initial funding for the University's bicycle registration program will be provided by the SIU Security Office, Jerry Lacey, special assistant to the vice president of development and services, said Thursday.

"No special funding for the initial cost of the registration will be provided. It will come out of the Security Office budget," Lacey said.

This initial outlay by the Security Office will be repaid out of the collection of registration fees, Lacey added. SIU has ordered 5,000 registration license plates which will cost students $1 each.

Earlier, Security police officials said there were no funds to cover the cost of the registration plates which they expect delivered Nov. 5.

"We're going to have a program," said Tom Leffler, Chief of Security police. "We're waiting to see where it will be funded from."

Edward McCue, assistant security officer, said, "There is a lack of money to do anything."

Bicycle registration for both Carbondale and the University is scheduled to begin shortly after the Nov. 5 delivery date. In addition, the University plans to institute a bicycle safety education program Nov. 1.

Two bike paths, which will begin at the outer boundaries of the campus and intersect at the center, have been planned at an estimated cost of $60,000, Lacey said.

To pay for these "we will have to explore a number of ways to generate funds," he added.

The bicycle registration programs for Carbondale and the University, both of which will split the 10,000 plates ordered, are identical, Leffler said. Area bicycle owners may bring their vehicles in for registration at either the city or SIU Security police offices.

However, the University will have additional regulations for bicycle riders to adhere to, Leffler said. Some of these include no bicycles parked in the buildings and no riding on undesignated paths.

Riders, who disobey these regulations, will have their vehicles impounded by University police and will have to pay a $3 fee to recover their bicycles.

The safety regulations and designated bike paths are "an attempt to regulate an even flow of traffic on campus," Leffler said.

"At present, we are having almost one bicycle accident a day involving a bike with another bike, a bike with a pedestrian or a bike with some fixed object."

One such accident occurred 11 a.m., Wednesday. An 18-year-old student was injured near Morris Library after he swerved his bicycle to avoid hitting a pedestrian and fell to the ground, SIU police reported.

Steven V. Buesinger, 116 Felts Hall, was taken to the Health Service where he was treated for scratches, bruises and a possible concussion, police said.

Soviets watched

U.S. military ordered on alert

WASHINGTON (AP) — Millions of American soldiers, sailors and airmen around the world were put on general military alert Thursday in an apparent warning to the Soviet Union to keep its troops out of the Middle East.

A midnight message from Adm. Thomas H. Moorer, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, sent all active U.S. military units into various stages of readiness to move into action if needed. But Pentagon officials emphasized that no troops were moving within the United States or overseas.

"There is a general alert of U.S. military forces for prudent precautionary reasons," said Jerry W. Friedheim, the Pentagon spokesman.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said the alert was precipitated by reports that certain Soviet military units had gone on alert in what he termed the "puzzling" actions of Russian diplomats engaged in negotiations over the Mideast.

Several hours later, however, the Soviet Union announced at the United Nations that it would agree to a U.N. peace-keeping force involving neither Russian nor American troops.

The American military alert summoned many U.S. servicemen from home leaves and vacation. Most of the Air National Guard units, responsible for defending U.S. borders, called in their men, including pilots, mechanics and maintenance men.

Pentagon officials, however, emphasized there is no general mobilization, and only a few Reserve or National Guard units were actually called to active duty.

Two units placed on the highest degree of alert were the Army's 82nd Airborne Division at Ft. Bragg, N.C., and the Strategic Air Command with B52 bomber units near Omaha, Neb., and other bases around the country.

Near Friedberg, West Germany, some U.S. troops traveled into forward positions along the East German border. Army sources said some U.S. units had taken positions along the so-called Fulda Gap, described as an ancient and often-used invasion route from Eastern Europe.

In Florida, police were asked to speed airmen returning from home or elsewhere to Homestead Air Force Base.

The alert message also went out to the U.S. 6th Fleet in the eastern Mediterranean. The Russians now have an all-time high of 80 ships in the Mediterranean, compared to the American force of more than 50 vessels.

Before the current alert, the Navy had dispatched the helicopter carrier Iwo Jima with about 1,800 Marines aboard to join its sister ship, the Guadacanal, in the eastern Mediterranean.

Also part of the 6th Fleet are two big aircraft carriers, the Independence and Franklin D. Roosevelt. A third attack carrier, the John F. Kennedy, was until a few days ago holding in the eastern Atlantic Ocean, but U.S. officials declined to say whether it, too, had moved into the eastern Mediterranean.

As a news conference, Kissinger was asked how long the approximately 2.2-million-member American military force would remain on alert.

"Until any danger of unilateral action by the Soviet Union is removed," he said.

Kissinger said the National Security Council recommended the U.S. military alert at 3 a.m. EDT.

Organizations will get opportunity to discuss social issues in Illinois

Non-profit organizations in Carbondale and Southern Illinois will have an opportunity to discuss pertinent social issues in the state if the Illinois Council for the Humanities and Public Issues is funded next spring.

Members of the Humanities Council and representatives of SIU and several civic organizations met at the Holiday Inn Thursday night to probe major concerns of the Carbondale area. Local concerns will be compared to those of other areas of the state. A statewide theme on which to center local discussions will be picked by the Humanities Council.

George McClure, philosophy professor at SIU and a member of the council, told the group big concerns might be crime, welfare, or urban-suburban-rural relationships. The council will grant money to non-profit organizations to sponsor programs or seminars at which the concern will be discussed among an "academic humanitarian" or university professor in humanities and members of the community. The exchange of views should help both public and academic sectors of communities more aware of the total problem, he said.

The Illinois Council for the Humanities and Public Issues was formed about one year ago by the National Endowment for the Humanities (NEH) which is federally funded to encourage local and statewide non-partisan programs contributing to public discussion of contemporary issues. From its $40 million annual budget, the NEH allocates monies to each state program to sponsor problem-oriented discussions. Forty-four states now have NEH groups similar to the Humanities Council.

The Illinois Council is in its planning stages. In July, it received a grant of $15,000 to conduct hearings like the one in Carbondale to isolate a problem that concerns the whole state. Executive director Marvin Vawter, English professor at the University of Illinois, expects a theme to be chosen by March, 1974.

Once the theme is chosen, non-partisan, non-profit groups may ask the Humanities Council for money to sponsor local discussion programs. The programs must involve a "professional humanist" (usually a university professor in one of the humanities) must be related to the statewide theme, must be aimed at the out-of-school adult public, and must be aimed at promoting an understanding of the selected issue.

"We won't be finding solutions to problems in these discussions," McClure said, "but alternative ways of looking at things." Even though the programs will not be action-oriented to correct the issues, he said the discussions should give all involved throughout the state a better understanding of the problem.

Vawter said in the nine hearings that have been held so far, urban-suburban-rural relationships has been a popular problem. He said this seems to stem from the lack of communication of downstate people with Chicago area people.

Funds for the issue-oriented programs average about $4,500.

Groups sponsoring the programs must avoid advocacy and "grinding their axes" on the issues involved, Vawter said.

Student Senate passes resolution in favor of alcohol on campus

By Terry Martin
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

A resolution favoring allowing alcoholic beverages on campus passed the Student Senate Wednesday night after being given immediate consideration.

Letters will be sent to SIU President David R. Derge and Dean of Students Bruce Swinburne expressing the senate's position on the issue, Jim Kania, senate vice president said.

The resolution indicated 82.7 per cent of 191 students sampled favored the consumption of alcoholic beverages on campus. The survey was conducted by the executive branch of Student Government, technically advised by the University Testing Center, and background information provided by the Dean of Students office.

Over half of the students questioned favored consumption of alcoholic beverages in dorm rooms, 78.2 per cent favored the consumption and sale of alcoholic beverages in the Student Center and 63.4 per cent favored consumption at McAndrew Stadium, according to the survey.

The resolution went on to say "The consumption of alcohol at the Student Center should be allowed in areas such as the Roman Room during concerts, the Big Muddy Room and the Student Center restaurant."

The possibility of a rathskeller in the Big Muddy Room will be investigated by Student Government and other interested University constituencies. Jeff Lohrmann, student coordinator of the survey on behalf of Student Government said.

Lohrmann said 47 per cent of those questioned were against consumption of alcoholic beverages in the Arena while 27 per cent were in favor of it.

In other action, Gary Ferguson, westside dorm senator, advised the senate that Derge will come to the Oct. 31 meeting where he will present and answer questions.

The senate allocated $500 for the Student Trustee Referendum from the Special Projects fund and $80 to Design Initiative from the third priority group fund.

Kania's decision earlier in the meeting to unseat Edgar Philpot, University Park senator was overridden by the senate.

Senators discussed at great length whether a representative can be unseated without a chance to reply if it is found that he does not live in his district. It was determined that the Internal Affairs Committee investigates impeachments and boundaries of senators, which led to the vote to override.

A motion by Ken Garrison, eastside non-dorm senator, to override Student Body President Mike Carr's veto of funding the Soccer Club with $1,000 was defeated. Ron Adams, Finance Committee chairman, said his committee would probably suggest full funding of the Soccer Club at next week's meeting.

The senate passed a bill brought up by Ferguson in which senators were to write their ideas on what they expected to accomplish this year and turn them over to him. Ferguson then will refer the suggestions over to respective committees for review.

A bill submitted by Adams resolving that a letter be sent to Congressman Ken Gray and Senators Adlai Stevenson and Charles Percy requesting the impeachment of President Nixon was given its first reading.

Carol Sims, westside non-dorm senator, and Larry Roth, eastside dorm senator, were suggested by the Committee on Committees to fill the vacancies on the Finance Committee.

VP to address U-Senate queries

Danilo Orescanin, executive vice president and vice president for administration, will address the University Senate Tuesday, explaining how SIU spending priorities are determined. U-Senate requested the discussion following the recent publicity over questions of funding for Saluki Stables, the new stadium and other matters.

"The question of priorities has to do a lot with where the money comes from," Orescanin said Thursday. He explained there are numerous state laws which strictly define where certain University monies can and can not go.

Orescanin said he will explain why the money received by SIU can not be regarded in the same manner as a personal paycheck which could be spent in whatever manner desired.

Although a formal agenda has not been prepared for the meeting, senate discussion may include:

—Possible confirmation of a U-Senate stand on alcoholic beverage policy at SIU.

—Discussion of the Saluki Stables operation.

—Plans for an SIU Student Handbook.

—Implementation of the Administration Monitoring Committee which was proposed this last summer.

The meeting will begin at 2 p.m. in the Student Center Mississippi Room.

The weather:

Mostly sunny

Friday: Mostly sunny and a little cooler with the high temperature in the upper 60s to lower 70s. Probability for precipitation will be 25 per cent. Wind will be from the west at 5 to 10 m.p.h. Relative humidity 65 per cent.

Friday night: Fair and cool with the low temperature in the lower to middle 40s. Once again the probability for precipitation will be 25 per cent.

Saturday: Fair to partly cloudy with the high around the upper 60s.

Thursday's high on campus 76, 4 p.m., low 48, 6 a.m.

Egypt says Israelis try to take city

Egypt said Israeli invasion tanks tried to storm Suez City twice Thursday despite the Middle East truce. A high Egyptian official in effect conceded Israeli claims that a large force of Egyptian soldiers had been cut off in the Sinai.

Ashraf Ghorbal, a top adviser to President Anwar Sadat, charged that Israeli troops blocked U.N. truce observers from getting to the southern front near Suez City, turning them back about 61 miles from Cairo.

That was the first Egyptian admission that Israel controlled the vital Cairo-Suez supply route. It indirectly confirmed Israeli claims that the Egyptian 3rd Army—reported to include 20,000 soldiers with 200 tanks—was stranded on the eastern bank of the canal.

Ghorbal told newsmen in Cairo fighting was still going on around Suez City at the southern end of the Suez Canal "because of Israeli cease-fire violations." He said 15 Israeli tanks launched an attack on the town but were driven off by Egyptian defenders who smashed 10 of the Israeli tanks.

The Egyptian military command said later in a communique that "a large number" of Israeli tanks supported by warplanes and artillery tried again to overrun the city of about 110,000.

"But our forces, supported by popular resistance groups, intercepted the attempt, destroying eight tanks and shooting down one plane," it added.

London picks DE headlines

London wrote down his predictions before an SIU audience Oct. 2. He said it took three hours and 20 minutes of meditation before making his decision. Then, in front of the audience on that date, he placed the prediction in a security box which has been held by the SIU Security police.

The policeman who presented the locked box Thursday night swore that it had not been tampered with. London had kept the key to the box.

A person from the audience removed his predictions from the box and read them to the audience.

His prediction for the No. 1 headline for the Southern Illinoisian was, "Nixon orders standby alert for armed forces." The actual headline was, "U.S. forces placed on alert."

London's predictions were read before a student audience of more than 200 persons after other examples of what he called ESP.

He had volunteers from the audience write their names, birthdays and other information of small pieces of paper.

He had volunteers from the audience write their names, birthdays and other information on small pieces of paper. He then burned the messages without reading them and predicted the persons' names and birthdates.

In another example, he had students in the audience look at words in books—and then he wrote the words on stage without looking at the books.

London will appear again Friday night at the Student Center ballrooms.

Press credibility

There is a great cry over the credibility of the press at this particular period in time.

What many people seem to forget is that there are other factors than just the press and reporter that enter into the newsgathering service.

The reporter, if he is going to be responsible in his position, must at least attempt to follow up whatever leads that are given him in his pursuit of a conclusion to the story.

But the reporter is only as good as the sources he seeks out. The reporter can put the facts and information down on paper, but that information may not be correct. Then is it the reporters job to dig deeper and come up with the facts that are correct. If this can't be done or if the reporter meets with a wall of silence, shouldn't this be reported?

We all fall into a routine on our jobs. This is inevitable. And tracking down leads must get pretty mundane after a while. But that is the type of job that the reporter signed on for when he put in for the job. It is very nice to sit and daydream that, as a reporter, you might be the one to break the biggest scandal of the year, but to break that scandal takes mundane, boring tracking work.

Press credibility will diminish or pickup only when those in the profession chose to correct it themselves.

Mid-east press bias

To the Daily Egyptian:

I would like to address myself to the issue of the American press coverage of the Mid-East Crisis. In my opinion; there is a general bias on the part of the American media in favor of the Israeli point of view.

First, in Newsweek (Oct. 22), the articles make the Israelis out to be underdogs (with U.S. AID), with the Arabs as schemers, in terms of their banding together in the initial strike. Didn't Moshe Dayan (Newsweek, Oct. 15) say, "Israel had faced the painful dilemma of choosing whether to launch a pre-emptive strike to gain a military advantage or to wait for the Arabs to attack in order to gain the upper-hand politically and diplomatically. The decision was to let the world see that it was the Egyptians and the Syrians who had started the war". Does this not say anything of Zionist plotting? Later in this magazine exists the most apparent contradiction stating, "Some of the coverage appeared to suffer from bias—notably in France, whose leaders lean toward the Arabs."

Second, I take CBS's special, "The Israelis", shown Friday at 9 P.M. This "most relevant" report was so blatantly bias, that it probably lost Zionist sympathizers as opposed to gaining any. The narrator answered the question about the Arabs for whom citizenship has been denied, quite simply but unacceptably by saying, "The Arab countries don't give them citizenship. Israel doesn't give them citizenship." Also stated, "The Israeli Arabs are not drafted", is misleading. This implies Israel gives Arabs a more freedom of choice, which, is not the case. Instead, Zionists find it their best interest NOT to teach Arabs how to defend themselves, for fear of internal battling.

"Third, locally in the Daily Egyptian, 'equal time' does not exist. By running Don Wright's racist cartoons portraying Arabs as fat and devilish in their white sheets, the DE clearly upholds one side. On Oct. 12th, this paper went out of its way to publish a cartoon drawn by a staff artist depicting the Arabs as Goliath and Israel as David.

Finally, the bias of the "maschigane" media in its various forms, from a subtle, often unconscious reflection of attitude to the most blatant propaganda, is just one of the socialization techniques by which a rationale justifying the U.S. Government's aggressive policies from Vietnam to the Mid-East is ingrained in Americans.

Usher spoils show

The administration has adopted a NO SMOKING policy for all arena concerts and other cultural events. The enforcement of this and other rules is administered by ROTC Cadets and by members of the APO Service fraternity. The ushers are trained to observe large crowds for potential trouble and to quell disturbances before they magnify into major incidents. The attitude and response of these crowd controllers can either make or break the enjoyment of the concert audience. The actions of one inconsiderate usher at the Stephan Stills Concert caused considerable distraction for large numbers of people. His ineptness caused overtones of harassment, stupidity, and outright viciousness.

The conspicuous nature of this glowering "Dick Tracy" type could only instill paranoia in the mood sensitive, drug induced concert goer. When the security man spotted a flick of fire, he quickly tromped to the area of incident and immediately shined his flashlight directly in the eyes of the offender. He continued the harassment for five to ten seconds, disregarding the fact that the smoker had extinguished his smoke. The long duration of his light distracted a large portion of the audience and consequently got them out of the music they were enjoying. The concert crowd can well do without this punitive revenge seeking by designated officials.

In another incident, a stumbling concert goer was having difficulty locating his seat. He encountered super agent who immediately decided to throw him out instead of helping him back to his seat. Any rock concert crowd controller should be educated to the handling of such drug related incidents. It was obvious that the drug high individual was confused and needed reassurance and help. Instead, after five minutes of physical restraint, which included shaking, grabbing, and squeezing by the security guard, a handful of SIU Police came along and professionally removed him. This entire distracting incident could have been avoided had the security guard had a helping orientation instead of an authoritarian one.

The importance of responsible and properly trained crowd controllers cannot be overemphasized in large concert crowds. The Stephan Stills Concert illustrated how one irresponsible crowd controller can change the entire mood of certain portions of an audience.

Sports pictures

To the Daily Egyptian:

Within three days last week, Oct. 16, 17, & 19, there were six sports pictures pertaining to SIU athletics. Of these six pictures one was concerned with a sport other than football. There are many other sports in the fall season—rugby, cross-country, field hockey, and others preparing for their seasons. Due to the rather unimpressive abilities of the football team, I feel unjust photographic space is spent on the antics of the football team.

City low on EPA grant listing

By Dan Haar
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Carbondale's ranking of 396th on a priority list of 706 for a $450 million grant program to improve sewer treatment plants and sewer collection lines came as good news to Carbondale.

The priority is low, City Manager Carroll Fry explained Thursday, because the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), which is allocating the grant funds, might have decided to accept Carbondale's petition for a three year delay in required wastewater treatment plant improvements.

New EPA pollution regulations requiring higher treatment standards are scheduled to go into effect Dec. 31, 1974.

Fry said the petition was submitted because improvement plans for the southeast and northwest treatment plants could not be made in time.

Preliminary analysis and design planning still need to be done, Fry explained. The petition sent to the EPA provided a schedule by which the requirements would be met. Fry said the treatment plants would meet the new standards by Dec. 31, 1977.

Fry added that he has not received any word from the EPA yet. He said he is not worried about approval of the delay because only about 1100 Illinois municipalities out of 706 would receive money this year.

When the grant program was unveiled Wednesday, it was announced that the money would be allocated over a period of several years.

The program, including $195 million from the state and $235 million from the federal government, will pay 75 per cent of the cost of projects as long as the money lasts. The cities will pay the remaining 25 per cent.

Estimated cost of Carbondale's project is $4,460,700.

Priority was set according to a formula which took into account each community's current level of water pollution, population to be served, degree of overload on existing sewage facilities and the amount of pollution each project would prevent per dollar spent.

'The Little Prince' opens tonight on Calipre Stage

By Tom Finan
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

"The proof that the little prince existed is that he was charming, that he laughed and that he was looking for a sheep. If anybody wants a sheep, that is a proof that he exists."

If you are willing to deposit your cynicism at the door of the Calipre Stage, and disentangle your mind from "matters of consequence," you may this weekend, in the space of less than two hours, have the opportunity to prove his existence to yourself.

Fraternity plans pageant to pick Miss Ebonyess

Having gained momentum from last year's event, the Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity will hold its 2nd Annual Miss Black Ebonyess Pageant at 5 p.m. Sunday, at the SIU Student Center, Ballroom D.

The pageant was announced by Ronald Brown, Alpha chapter president, and Lloyd Edgarson, a graduate member of the fraternity.

Both members agreed that the 1972 pageant had been well accepted by the student body as an illustration of the "virtues of black womanhood at SIU."

"The reason we chose to honor the black woman is because she has been too long ignored by our society," Edgarson said. "Our Miss Ebonyess Pageant should not be looked upon as a beauty contest, but rather as a cultural event."

Last year's pageant winner Miss Rosalind Winstead a senior majoring in Radio and Television was selected from 15 applicants by black faculty members who served as judges for the pageant. The judges were picked by officers of the Alpha Phi Fraternity.

Highlight of the pageant will be an appearance by Miss Black Illinois. The pageant is open to the public and no admission will be charged.

The SIU Black Affairs Council is sponsoring this year's pageant.

All the charm, elegance and import of the Antoine de Saint Exupery story have been transported to this adaptation of "The Little Prince" which opens Friday at 7:30 p.m. and has four more performances, Saturday at 10 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. and Sunday at 2 and 7:30 p.m.

Matthew Rich as the aviator who provides the narrative of the tale conveys a convincing sincerity to the role of an adult who thoroughly believes in the importance of the thoughts of children. It is largely through his efforts that the audience is able to cross from their world to that of the little prince. It is the naturalism of Rich's gestures, which appear neither strained nor exaggerated that lend a reality to the populace of Asteroid B-612.

Less convincing is Mike Mullen as the prince. His overworked innocence at times taxes the limits of fantasy. While de Saint Exupery writes of the prince as one who has seen much and has learned the meaning of friendship as a result of his experiences, Mullen plays him as an innocent child. The author contends that there are no innocent children—only adults who do not understand the wisdom of a child. Mullen's performance should however be appreciated by the young audience at the early showings.

Robin Thomas never does quite bloom as the rose. She underplays the plant's coquettishness and understates the emotion felt for the prince on his departure.

Len Spengler is no less than refreshing as in several roles as the tippler, the businessman and the geographer. In particular as the entrepreneur who proports to own the stars, Spengler presents a very professional interpretation of his part. Without creating caricatures he injects humor and warmth into his roles.

Bill Levin and Wayne Worley both perform creditably in their multiple roles.

Marion Kleinau's adaptation, while perhaps a bit taxing in length (one hour, 45 minutes) does a good job of bringing an excellent story to the stage. Cecelia Duncan's direction is competent, although the pace does drag in spots.

"The Little Prince" is an excellent production with which to entertain and educate your children—or your parents.

Drive starts for Fund

City Manager Carroll Fry, Carbondale United Fund drive chairman, said he would be "pleased" if the 1973 drive raised $75,000.

The annual drive was kicked off Thursday at a meeting of over 300 volunteers in the Student Center.

T. Richard Mager, vice president for development and services, was a guest speaker at the meeting. "Last year we raised $57,900, and this year our goal is $60,000," Mager said. "I hope we'll all take part in this goal."

Mager said the SIU Air Force ROTC and the school of business have already completed their portion of the drive.

Fry said there was no reason to talk of only the good side of the United Fund drive. "The fact you're here shows you're dedicated people. But I believe there are some somber reflections we should take weight of," he said.

"Let's take a hard look at where we're going. The most important reason we're an All-American City is citizen participation. There are about 40,000 people living or tied into the Carbondale community. To raise $60,000 we would only be asking $1.33 per person," Fry said.

The United Fund is at "fourth down, two minutes to go with our backs to the goal line," he said. "Let's see what we can do to develop an attitudinal change in our community."

United Fund University Chairman Rex Karnes explained to the volunteers the method of using their pledge cards for contributions. Karnes said the drive should end in early November.

Hens put out more

BONN, Germany (AP)—About 70.5 million hens in West Germany laid 16.1 billion eggs in 1972, the Agricultural Ministry reported.

It said, statistically speaking, every hen laid 229 eggs, five more than in 1971.

Illinois Democrats thwart passage of cut in tax

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—A Republican plan to ram a half-cent sales tax cut measure through the Illinois Senate was thwarted Thursday by the absence of a single Republican lawmaker from the Senate floor.

Senate President William C. Harris, R-Pontiac, said Sen. Roger Sommer, R-Pekin, was absent. Republicans held a 30-29 margin in the Senate and had expected to pass the sales tax cut to the House with the required 30-vote majority. But Harris declined to predict what would happen in the rescheduled passage attempt.

"I don't get too excited about these things," Harris said after the Senate adjournment. They will readjust Monday of next week. Harris said after the Senate adjournment that he "had a commitment" from Sommer but had not talked to him on Thursday.

Senate passage of the tax relief measure would put in the hands of the House the plan that Robert Blair, R-Park Forest, has backed as a complement to his proposal for a regional mass transit authority.

Blair proposes the six northeastern counties in the authority would be empowered to reimpose the half-cent sales tax as the RTA financing base.

The Republican plan runs counter to that of Gov. Daniel Walker for both tax relief and an RTA. Walker proposes a flat $10 grant to each Illinois resident annually. He has proposed an RTA plan which would use auto-related taxes, license plate fees, bond issue and a $60 million state general revenue grant.

Blair and Harris later in the afternoon called yet another special session of the General Assembly.

The new session, which begins Tuesday and will run concurrently with the regular veto session and three other special sessions, was called to consider legislation requiring the governor to submit his appropriations bills in April, a month after he delivers his budget message.

Possibility of draft becoming reality again

By Cheryl Doughty
Student Writer

The military draft may once again be a reality, Steve Budas, coordinator and draft counselor of the Carbondale Peace Center believes.

"I anticipate the draft will be reinstated within a year," he said. The Carbondale Peace Center plans to set up special sessions when it appears the draft will be reinstated Budas said.

Budas bases his opinion on what he called the failure of the volunteer army concept and on recent foreign policy developments.

During the last eight months, none of the military branches have been able to meet recruitment quotas, Budas explained. The volunteer army concept has not lived up to expectations, he said.

"In the Middle East, the United States is already involved by providing military aid, supplies and some type of troop commitments," Budas said. A potential exists for a major conflict, possibly another Vietnam, he said.

Budas says he has already received information regarding a change in draft classifications. According to his source, registrants born in 1954 with lottery numbers of 50 or lower may soon be removed from Class 1-H (a holding classification) and placed in other appropriate classifications including 1-A.

Obtaining deferments is a long and difficult process, Budas explained.

"When the draft is reinstated, many people will be caught off-guard," he said. "We plan to set up special sessions to avoid that."

In addition, draft boards have decreased in number across the country and this will mean that processing of deferments will take longer, he said. Now as there were before the draft law expired, there are about half as many draft boards, according to Budas.

New Cedar Lake policies discussed at public hearing

By Dan Haar
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Two previously undiscussed issues were brought to the attention of the Carbondale Planning Commission at a public hearing on proposed policies for the Cedar Lake area.

Herberta Beyler, chairman of the commission, said Thursday that restoration of areas cleared during the lake construction and the possibility of allowing limited use of the lake area by waterfowl hunters had not been previously discussed by the commission in their consideration of the policies.

These issues will need serious evaluation in relation to the other policies already proposed by the commission, Ms. Beyler said.

Those attending the hearing generally approved the proposed policies. The issues drawing the most response were the allowing of hunting, the extent of development in the lake area and the allowing of motor boats.

The commission voted at the end of the hearing to postpone their consideration of the policies, in light of public input, until Nov. 7.

After commission consideration, the policies will be submitted to the City Council for final approval.

Two goals spelled out in the policies considered at the hearing are that the city should maintain an adequate and safe water supply and that city owned property should be maintained in as natural a state as possible.

Proposed regulations for lake surface use include swimming in designated areas only. Boating would be permitted through annual or temporary fees with canoes, rowboats, sailboats and motorboats powered by engines up to 10 horsepower allowed. Only pole and line type fishing would be permitted.

Designated trails would be established for bicycles and horses. Camping would be permitted in designated areas only. Permanent private residential use would be prohibited.

The policies also included a stipulation that no hunting be allowed on city owned property.

James M. Williams, representing the U.S. Forest Service, said the goals and objectives proposed by the commission are of extreme importance because they give priority to the maintenance of a safe water supply.

He added that the forest service questions the regulation of some uses such as picnicking.

Williams stated that hunting of waterfowl and other game will be allowed on forest service land.

John Stotlar, 901 Taylor Drive, said he opposed the prohibition of hunting. He explained that the lake area is designed as an entertainment and recreation center and a sport such as hunting should not be allowed.

Stotlar asked that the commission consider allowing waterfowl hunting for seven weeks out of the year.

Mary Hayward, speaking for the Friends of Cedar Lake, told the commission that the group is concerned with keeping a safe water supply at Cedar Lake.

Ms. Hayward asked that all motor boats be prohibited from the lake. She said the group has a petition with 660 signatures calling for the prohibition of motorboats.

Jeffrey Kolp, president of the Student Environmental Center at SIU, said the group fully supports measures which would protect the lake area.

He suggested to the commission that camping site development be held to a minimum, motorboats be prohibited, no hunting allowed and commercialization strictly prohibited.

In other action, the commission approved a statement saying the use of a 96 acre area north of Carbondale for an industrial park is compatible with the city's land use plan.

LONG PLAYING RECORDS AT A SAVING

Homecoming game features two explosive offensive powerhouses

By Mark Tupper
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

Two high scoring teams will clash at 1:30 p.m., Saturday in McAndrew Stadium when the SIU Salukis meet the Akron Zips in what could turn into a battle of point productions.

Through its first six games, SIU has scored 175 points for an average of 29.1 points per contest. At that rate the Salukis would have 318 points for eleven games, or 24 points better than the school record of 294 by the 1960 Salukis.

According to the NCAA weekly statistics, SIU is 21st in the nation in major college scoring. Melvin Moncrief, with his eight touchdowns, is currently ranked 14th in the nation in individual scoring. Larry Perkins is ranked 18th nationally in the category "all purpose running." This category includes return yardage as well as rushing yardage.

The Salukis' total point production easily surpasses last year's total of four touchdowns and only one rushing. SIU has already scored 24 touchdowns this season, 21 of them via the run.

But the Salukis may need all the points they can get. Akron, also a dangerous offensive threat, is averaging better than 27 points per game. The team has won its last two outings convincingly by identical 31-7 scores over North Michigan and Youngstown State.

The Zips have averaged 350 yards per game behind the play of quarterback Eric Schoch. Last year Schoch passed for 956 yards and ran for another 511. Schoch's favorite target is senior Mac Thomas, who runs a 9.7 second 100-yard dash. Last week Thomas caught a 75-yard touchdown pass from Schoch.

Injury wise, the Salukis may miss the services of defensive back Edwin Bell, who bruised his knee in the Tampa game. Akron's only injury will be halfback Ernie Calhoun, who injured his shoulder two weeks ago.

The Salukis plan to use their regular offensive set-up of late. With Fred McAlley starting at quarterback, Melvin Moncrief and Larry Perkins sharing the tailback spot and Pat Forsy at fullback.

If the two teams live up to their high powered offensive reputations, quite a few points could light up the scoreboard in Saturday's homecoming showdown.

Registration for YMCA ski trip extended to Monday

Southern Illinois does not offer the most ideal climate for ski buffs. But the Jackson County YMCA is offering skiers a second chance to schuss the slopes of the Rocky Mountains during Christmas vacation, December 15-22.

The deadline for paying the $25 reservation fee has been extended to Monday. The trip is open to all high school students, college students and interested adults.

The cost of the trip is $200 and includes transportation from Carbondale to Winter Park, Colorado and return via one or two new Ford vans; seven nights lodging at the Brookside Inn Ski Resort; six full days of skiing; breakfast and dinner for seven days; shuttle service from the lodge to the slopes and back, and trip insurance.

The vans will leave the YMCA, 2500 W. Sunset Drive, at 5 p.m. Friday, December 14 and arrive at the lodge on Saturday, December 15 in time for dinner.

The group will leave Colorado on Saturday morning, December 23. Driving time is approximately 18 hours. A YMCA staff will accompany the trip.

Winter Park is located in the Arapaho National Forest, 67 miles west of Denver. The park has 34 well-groomed runs, ranging from beginner to expert, with vertical drops of 1,000 to 1,700 feet. Seven chairlifts and two T-bars are capable of servicing 10,000 skiers per hour.

For further information, call Mary Ann Stonecipher or Tom Mattio at 549-3359.

It's official: Cubs get Madlock and Harris for Fergie

CHICAGO (AP)—Ferguson Jenkins was traded Thursday by the Chicago Cubs to the Texas Rangers for Bill Madlock and Vic Harris.

The trade had been reported in Chicago newspapers earlier this week but was not made official until Thursday.

Madlock, 22, a native of Decatur, is an infielder-outfielder and Cubs Manager Whitey Lockman said of him: "Our scouts are extremely high on him as being one of the best hitting prospects they have seen in some time."

Madlock, 5-foot-11, is a righthanded hitter who spent most of last season with the Spokane team of the Pacific Coast League. He led the league in total bases with 268, in runs scored with 119 and finished second in batting with a .338 average. He also poked 22 homers and batted in 90 runs.

Harris, 23, played centerfield and second base for the Rangers and Texas' former manager Whitey Herzog said Harris was "the most valuable property in our organization."

Harris is a switch-hitter and batted .250 with 44 runs batted in and eight homers during the 1973 season. Harris also has played shortstop and third base.

Lockman said the trade was in line with his statement that the Cubs are seeking "youth and speed" for the future.

SIU because SE Missouri squeaked by the Salukis 13-12 in the first game of the season.

Pat Sullivan, All American water polo player from California, led all SIU scorers with seven points. Dennis Roberts and Rick Fox rounded out the Saluki scoring with one point each.

Goalie Randy Giefer kept SIU in the game with a total of 17 saves. The club's record is now 3-3 with all three losses by one point.

The club's next and last game of the season is a home game at 11 a.m., Nov. 4 at Pulliam Pool against Fenwick High School. Admission is free and everyone is invited to attend.

DID YOU KNOW

By Jim Simpson

Can you name the four ball carriers who have gained the most total yards rushing in the history of the National Football League? . . . Oddly enough, the first name of all top four all-time ground gainers starts with the letter "J" . . . They are, in order, Jim Brown, Jim Taylor, Joe Perry and John Henry Johnson.

I bet you didn't know that college graduates have a longer life expectancy—lower death rates and are living five years longer on the average than non-college men. The lower death rate of college men makes possible broader benefits and greater cash values in college life policies. This certainly makes good sense, doesn't it?

SIU trainer puts beliefs in writing

By Kenneth Pilarski
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

Robert R. Spackman Jr., trainer for SIU's athletic teams since 1957 is a firm believer in physical fitness.

So firm is Spackman's belief that he decided to put his beliefs on paper. The result is a series of 15 booklets describing a complete, year-round conditioning program for the entire body. The program includes strength, stretching and cardiovascular exercises.

Four of the booklets: football, baseball, gymnastics and conditioning for officials are available. A booklet on basketball will be out in about a week, followed by one on hockey, Spackman said.

Spackman's programs are designed not just for athletes, but for anyone who wants to stay in condition all year round or to help regain strength in weak muscles, especially after injury or surgery.

Each athlete is given his own booklet.

The physician, trainer or coach then examines and tests the strength and flexibility of each athlete.

The booklet is then marked to indicate which exercises should be done for the specific weakness, tightness or cardiovascular need. Each athlete is on a specific prescribed exercise program for his individual needs.

The exercises are designed so the athlete can do the exercises anywhere.

One of the reasons for Spackman writing the booklets was the condition of modern athletes. "Many of today's athletes are not in the best condition," Spackman said. "They're nowhere near as strong as their parents," he added. Spackman blamed the lack of conditioning on laziness brought on by modern mechanization.

"Youngsters today don't have any chores, like carrying out ashes or working on an ice truck," Spackman said. "They won't even cut the lawn unless you have a power mower," he added.

Even today's farm boy is weaker than his parents, Spackman said. "He doesn't have to follow the plow anymore, he rides on it. Any 70 year old farmer out in the fields could work everyone into the ground," Spackman added.

He went on to say that today's athletes are bigger but not necessarily stronger.

There are two main reasons for this, he said. First, the containment of childhood diseases, such as measles, whooping cough and mumps. Secondly, today's youngsters get a better diet, even if it is by accident, Spackman said.

"Everything today has vitamins in it," he said. "Even Hostess Cupcakes have vitamins," he added.

With all those vitamins, they're bound to be bigger, Spackman said. "Bigger, but not really stronger," he added. "That's why we have to start them on weight programs as early as junior high and continue with the programs through college," he said.

As far as physical fitness is concerned today, Spackman said. "We're doing a lot better, but there are still so many people in bad shape that shouldn't be." And cars are not helping the situation, he said. Kids today tend to throw their bikes away as soon as they learn to drive, Spackman said. "Kids just don't walk anymore," he added.

Not even the aging process can dampen Spackman's faith in fitness. "People can be strong all their lives," he said. "I believe that too many people give up playing games too young in life," he said.

Games are geared at the kids in school, but it is really the people who are 20 and older who will get the most benefit from playing games, he said.

Spackman's booklets are in use by SIU's teams and will be available in the near future at the Student Center Bookstore.

Spackman said, major college athletic conferences and several professional leagues have expressed interest in the booklets. Also, high school athletic associations in Illinois, Missouri and Kansas are interested, he said.

Before coming to SIU, Spackman worked as assistant trainer for the old St. Louis Browns. Prior to that he spent eight years playing minor league baseball for such organizations as the Cardinals, Cleveland and the Red Sox.

Spackman has a sign hanging in the training room of the Arena that beautifully sums up his philosophy. "Lots of Treatment, But No Sympathy."

Illini favored

SIU chances in state meet hinge on total team effort

By John Morrissey
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

(Second of two articles previewing Saturday's Illinois Intercollegiate Championships.)

Lew Hartzog didn't even have to think about the question asked him before shooting out a reply.

"Illinois has to be the overwhelming favorite in the meet," he answered, referring to Saturday's Illinois Intercollegiate Championships.

Does SIU still have a shot at the front-runners?

"Of course we've got a chance. We always harbor that possibility," he smiled, and then got more serious. "We don't have any defeatist kids. They always go out and do their best job," Hartzog said, adding philosophically that if he's tried to instill anything in his runners, it's been an optimistic, positive attitude.

Hartzog returned to a discussion of the upcoming meet. "They're ready for it," he proclaimed. "We had a tremendous workout Tuesday." Hartzog said the team would run "easy" seven-milers up until Friday, traveling day.

SIU's showing in the meet, he predicted, would hinge on the ability of Gary Mandehr and Richard Bracey to stay with the races top 20 through the first two miles, coupled with good performances by his top three runners, Gerry Craig, Tom Fullton and Jerry George.

"We haven't gotten five guys together running good races yet this year," Hartzog said. Using last week's Air Force meet as an example, he pointed out that "(Pat) Cook had a tremendous day, but Bracey had an extremely poor day. Mandehr's not a hill climber, he runs better on the flat."

Illinois State's course is as flat as they get.

An important fact to consider in previewing such a meet is the sheer volume of participation. The Illinois Championships draw close to 100 runners, compared to 16 or so in a regular dual meet.

A team which bunches its runners in the middle of the pack can fare better than a team which places its first two runners in the top five but strings its last three members far off the pace.

If Hartzog can bunch his runners toward the front of the race, and Illinois' backup contingent loses contact with the leaders, the "possibility" Hartzog always "harbors" could break into reality. That is, if Eastern Illinois doesn't do the same thing better.

Hartzog disclosed he will not run Jack St. John, resting fears expressed by more than one opposition coach. St. John ran unattached in his first meet of the season last weekend against Air Force, but he was still a little rusty after his prolonged idleness and did not finish the race.

"He's just not mentally ready," Hartzog said of his distance ace. "He could be our fourth man, maybe even better." But emphasizing St. John's competitive nature, Hartzog reasoned that St. John would not feel right "unless he's up there pressing the leaders. He's a proud kid."

"I'd rather just keep pressing the kids I got now," he decided. "They've come a long way." Just how far they've come is something Hartzog will find out very soon.

Robert R. Spackman Jr.

IM flag football games scheduled for Friday

The following intramural flag football games are scheduled for Friday by the Office of Recreation and Intramurals.

At 4:15 p.m.—Soul System vs. Wonder Boys, field 1; Leftovers vs. The V.Q.'s, field 2; Phi Kappa Tau vs. Alpha Epsilon Pi, field 3; Field 4, no game; and Evergreener Creamers vs. Bonaparte's, field 5.

At 5:15 p.m.—The Club vs. The Mothers, field 1; Beaver Patrol vs. Scoff n' Duck, field 2; Alpha Gamma Rho vs. A.T.O. Olympians, field 3; TKE vs. Phi Sigma Kappa, field 4; and S.E. Side Mothers vs. Lonesto, field 5.

During flag football games played Wednesday, The Clams blanked the Legal Eagles 7-0, the Ramblers rumbled to a 20-12 victory over Heep, Bolo's Boys bombed the Marks 40-18, and Lewis Park downed the V.Q.'s 13-6.

In other games, the A.T.O. Olympians out lasted Phi Sigma Kappa 14-6, Alpha Kappa Lambda shut out Alpha Epsilon Pi 20-0, and Scoff n' Duck, the Electronic Zippers, Alpha Gamma Rho and Steagall Sompers all won on forfeits.

Arena concerts demand numerous preparations

By Herman Albers
Student Writer

When you go to the Paul Simon concert this weekend, think for a minute of all the preparations that were made in an effort to please and attract you to the Arena.

The preparations included hours of contract negotiations, promotional activities, layout planning and cleaning, just for starters.

Four men at SIU are responsible for seeing that you get your money's worth when you attend a show at the Arena.

The first is William Dean Justice, Arena manager. His chief assistant is Leroy Fehrenkamp.

The other staff members are Gory Drake, assistant departmental business manager and Bill Searcy, administrator program specialist.

Fehrenkamp said each man has a particular job to do in preparation for every concert.

In addition, Fehrenkamp will assign the overall operation of a concert to one man to assure that everything goes smoothly. "We all work together to make sure things work," he said.

The first problem with any concert is to find an artist that is complimentary to the Arena's schedule. The concert must be booked around other events, both in and out of the Arena such as basketball and football games. "It wouldn't be fair to the performers to book a concert the same night a football game is scheduled," Fehrenkamp said.

Fehrenkamp said there are only two weekends in January and February when concerts may be booked. March is even worse, not only because of athletic events but also because of the high school sectionals tournament held annually in the Arena.

Once a weekend is open and an artist is contracted, the contract negotiations begin. The contracts may be anywhere from one to 30 pages.

Fehrenkamp said contract disputes can delay the booking of a concert three to four weeks. "They send us a contract. If the Arena does not have something the contract calls for or if we don't like parts of it, we alter it a bit and then send it back to them for their approval. If they don't like parts of it, they send it back to us with some changes. If time runs short before a concert, a telegram is sent confirming the contract," he said.

If booking delays only take a week, "that's great." But they can take up to a month, Fehrenkamp said.

"Normally, an artist will require a guarantee of so much money or a straight percentage of the gate receipts, whichever is greater," he said.

Fehrenkamp admires Justice for keeping the prices of the concerts so low.

"He just wants to break even on each concert," Fehrenkamp said.

Some contracts get specific. For instance, the Skills' contract called for the management to provide two Cokes at 2 and 7 p.m. the day of the concert.

The concerts are booked well in advance. The Simon Homecoming show was booked in June. Fehrenkamp said the Homecoming show is usually booked even before then.

Once a performance has been booked, things begin to happen on the SIU campus. The first thing to be done is to have the tickets printed. The tickets fall under Drake's jurisdiction. The tickets, printed by SIU's Printing Service, must be ordered about two months before the concert. Fehrenkamp said his office likes to have the tickets about a week before opening sale day.

"If we request the tickets a week before the opening sale day, it allows for some delay," the chief assistant said. But even that is not enough time occasionally. He said the roller derby tickets were not received until three days after they were supposed to go on sale. "Fortunately, there was no big rush that first day," he said.

Fehrenkamp said the main concern with tickets is that they are available on the first day and on sale the length of time required by the contract.

Students in the past have complained about the way the ticket lines are formed. Fehrenkamp feels this problem does not concern his office.

"We're not running a line. If the students want to start a line, let them start a line," he said. The only concern of his office, Fehrenkamp said, is that if people want to start a line, they should notify the Arena 24 hours in advance so the information can be given to the rest of the student body. "What we want to do is put information out to the students about the concert," he said.

Two Arena people help with the sale of the tickets the first day, but after that, it is under control of the Central Ticket Office, he said.

Drake is also in charge of accounting chores for each concert. Outside services, such as police, health services, food and ushers are taken care of by Searcy.

Meanwhile, well before the opening sale day, Searcy has been working on the promotional campaign for the event. Searcy can do much until the promotional material is mailed to him. Contained in the advance packet are such things as pictures of the group and individuals, biographical information and news as to what the group has been doing recently.

"News releases have to be written and pumped out from this material," Fehrenkamp said. He added that Searcy also must get mailers and posters printed, which may take about two weeks. It takes four to seven days to get them distributed.

Fehrenkamp said the mailers and posters go to Pinckneyville, Mt. Vernon, Cape Girardeau and "everywhere in between."

Timing is important with the mailers and posters, he said. If they are in the hands of the public too soon, they lose their impact before sale day. If they are in the hands of the public after sale day they become much less effective.

Block letters are also mailed to dorms on campus and to organizations on and off campus.

It is at this time also that radio, television and newspaper advertising is utilized.

The arrival of the advance man also aids promotion. He may be interviewed by the newspapers and radio stations. Fehrenkamp said the entire advertising program is concentrated on the SIU campus.

Fehrenkamp said if tickets are selling too fast for a concert, the advertising is slowed a bit, but if sales are sluggish the advertising is increased.

"Ideally, the way to run a concert is to have good steady sales to a point where you're 90-95 per cent sold at the time of the concert," he said.

About two weeks before the concert, Fehrenkamp's responsibilities begin. "I must tell the people in the building know what is going to happen and what adjustments will be made," Fehrenkamp said.

"I'll also take a contract and go over it with Justice about two days before the concert," he said.

Fehrenkamp said many questions must be answered.

What type of equipment will be needed and how much? What will the layout of the seating be? What will the lighting layout look like? Where will the piano go for the Simon concert? Will we need a back-drop? How long? What equipment will we need on reserve?

How much ice will we need for the soda stands? What time will the equipment truck back up to the Arena? How many men will they need to unload the equipment? How many guitar and organ amps will we need?

Fehrenkamp and his foreman then discuss what work will need to be done. One of the subjects always discussed is the number of man hours needed to clean the Arena after the concert. Fehrenkamp said

Students, graduates find jobs with Cablevision organization

By Terry Martin
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Carbondale Cablevision has created a job market for SIU graduates and students since its inception in 1971. Doug Goodman, general manager of Channel 7 said,

"Every person on our staff has either graduated from or is presently going to SIU," Goodman said. "We have an open market for jobs."

Goodman said the cable organization will be aimed increasingly at students even though its primary purpose, to serve the public interest will remain.

"Students are as much a part of the community as non-students," Goodman said. "They aren't isolated."

"Our primary interest is in giving the best service to the most people in the order they approach us," Goodman said. He added no one has preferential service, including University and city officials.

Goodman said cable television can be a major asset to a community if properly coordinated.

"We are only as good as the community that cooperates with us," he said. "Some people say cable is not a necessity but with today's hectic pace, people are isolating themselves more in their homes in search of entertainment."

Around 2,200 persons in Carbondale subscribe to cable television, Goodman said.

Two students expressed different views on cable's significance. Nancy Florey, senior majoring in journalism, said she was exposed to cable viewing one month last spring during a free-trial period but was dissatisfied.

"They say that you get perfect reception but we didn't have it," Ms. Florey said. "Anything I wanted to watch, I could see on the basic network stations."

Deed Sayadian, senior majoring in speech education, has a different opinion of cable television. "I like cable TV because I can stay up late at night and be entertained without actually spending any money," Ms. Sayadian said. "A bottle of wine and the Bijou (late show)—great!"

Goodman said cable hook-up costs $5.25 and there is a monthly charge of $6.28. All cable service calls are free, he said.

He stressed that Cablevision is not a public utility like General Telephone or Central Illinois Power Service (CIPS).

"The Illinois Commerce Commission lost a case against us recently," Goodman said. "It decided that we are a private corporation not funded in any way by the public."

He pointed out that Cablevision pays pole rental fees to REA Express, CIPS and General Telephone. "At cable TV, we can only produce what we pick up at our antenna site. Twelve stations are offered locally," Goodman said.

Goodman said many students have been hooking up to cable illegally.

Retail food costs dip

WASHINGTON (AP)—The annual retail cost of a market basket of farm-produced food declined $24 in September, the sharpest drop in 17 years, according to government figures released.

The price decline, the first of the year, would have been much greater if middlemen had passed along all the squeeze absorbed by farmers, the figures indicated.

As computed by the Agriculture Department, the cost of an entire year's food supply for a theoretical household of 3.2 persons was $1,653 in August.

The farmer's share of the market basket dropped to $744 from the August peak of $839, a decline of $95, or 11.3 per cent in one month.

"Anytime some hooks up illegally, a burden is placed on the entire system," he said. "As a result, some other person who is paying may not be getting good service."

Asked what happens to those caught with illegal hookups, Goodman said, "It is the same as stealing and will be considered as such."

Goodman said cable abusers will not be allowed back on the system unless they pay the accrued bills. "If a gross misuse of the service is determined, we will prosecute," he said.

Concert seating surveyed

student workers labor through the night to have the building clean for classes the next morning.

Fehrenkamp said a sellout crowd also present special problems. "When the lights go out, it's tough to see people for seating. At student-oriented concerts, people come late," he said.

The biggest problem with a sellout crowd, according to Fehrenkamp is that the bleacher seats are only 17 inches wide. It can get crowded.

"We have an ushering staff of 60-70 people, but the building is just too big. Some people still sit wherever they please," he said.

Although there have been only three sellout crowds at the Arena since concerts began in 1966, Fehrenkamp said. "We want to sell out every concert just like every play in football is designed for a touchdown."

The first sellout was Herb Alpert in 1966. Although Alpert was riding high at the time, the sellout was probably due to the fact that the Arena was new, Fehrenkamp said.

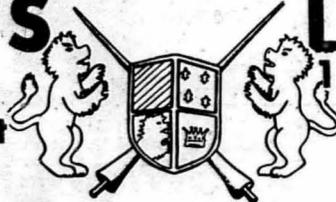

The other sellouts have been the Supremes in 1967 and Simon and Garfunkel in 1969.

Fehrenkamp said there are 8,800 seats available when the stage is in the north end of the Arena as it will be for the Simon concert and 11,000 seats available when a concert is in the round. "We'll try to get a concert in the round when it is suitable to the concert. Rock concerts do not work in the round because there is too much equipment," Fehrenkamp said.

He explained that ultimately the artist will decide if the concert will be in the round.

Senate drops judicial vote

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—The Illinois Senate voted Thursday to withdraw its approval of legislation which would let the voters in the state determine at the November 1974 elections whether judges should be elected every four years.

The vote was 30-11, and the measure now goes to the House.

It takes majority votes in each chamber to withdraw the question from the 1974 ballot.

A measure putting the question on the ballot in 1974 was approved in both houses by large margins last spring.

But many lawmakers in both chambers have since had a change of heart, and State Treasurer Alan Dixon has thrown his support behind the current method of electing judges to the bench and then requiring them every four years to run on a "retention ballot."

To retain their seats, judges must get the approval of at least 60 per cent of those voting.

Dixon said allowing voters to reinstate the election system for judges would be a "return to the bad old days" when political considerations dominated judicial decisions.

The election system is favored by groups such as the Southern Illinois Police Chiefs Association, which feels judges would hand down stiffer penalties for convicted criminals if they were subject to election every four years.

To put the question on the ballot took three-fifths votes in each chamber, but only majority votes required to withdraw the measure.

Retired actress Judith Bliss, played by Margaret Richardson, happily accepts flattery from her young boxer friend, played by Larry Lunehel, in a scene from "Hay Fever." The Noel Coward comedy will be presented by the Southern Players at 8 p.m. Nov. 2, 3 and 4 in the University Theater. Tickets are $1.75 for students and $2.25 for the general public, and are available at the University Theater Box Office and the Central Ticket Office. (Staff photo by Dennis Makes.)

Racetrack files for bankruptcy

CHICAGO (AP)—The Quad Cities Horse Racing Corp. withdrew its application Thursday for a 26-day harness racing meet this fall at East Moline Downs.

Owners of the track, East Moline Downs, Inc., have filed for bankruptcy under federal law and the track is in the hands of a receiver. Vincent J. Method, president of the Quad Cities company, told the Illinois Racing Board the racing association feared that ownership of the track might change during the meet.

The racing board, meeting Thursday, also adopted a rule that track operators must submit inspection reports at least 30 days before the start of racing meets. The reports would certify that the tracks are in compliance with local fire, health, sanitary and housing ordinances.

The board also approved a rule which requires trainers to provide workmen's compensation insurance for virtually all stable employees working at Illinois racetracks.

Fellowships open

Fellowships for graduate and undergraduate studies have been announced for advance study in Latin America and for programs of the National Science Foundation.

The Henry L. and Grace Doherty Charitable Foundation is offering a limited number of fellowships in Latin America in the field of social studies.

Grants are made to graduate students or scholars whose primary interest is Latin American studies.

Candidates must submit applications by Feb. 1, 1974. Forms are available from Doherty Fellowship Committee, Program in Latin American Studies, 240 East Pyne, Princeton, New Jersey 08540.

The National Science Foundation has announced that December 7th will be the deadline for their Student-Oriented Research Programs proposals.

The undergraduate research programs are: Undergraduate research projects; research participation projects under faculty supervision; independent study; a non-experimental project; and student originated studies.

The subjects of the research must be in the area of the energy problem and optimal utilization and come back to visit

Alcatraz Island

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif. (AP)—National Park Service official Jack Wheat says a lot of former prisoners and guards from Alcatraz have been back to visit "The Rock," which will open to the public Friday.

Some of the former convicts and guards, he said, applied for jobs as guides just so they could see the old place. The park service officials were happy to have them visit because they could supply information about the island prison that once housed the nation's most dangerous criminals.

"The prisoners and guards we've taken out seem to have a great pride in the way everything was once polished and clean and orderly," Wheat said, "and feel sort of sad about the way it looks now."

Children offered dance classes

The Southern Repertory Dance Theater is sponsoring free dance classes for children starting Saturday in Furr Auditorium.

The 10 a.m. class is for children from ages five to eight and the 11 a.m. class is for children from 9 to 12.

Consumers are saved from loss

CHICAGO (AP)—Nearly 1,000 policy-holders of the bankrupt Equity Funding Life Insurance Co. (EFLIC) have been saved from the possible loss of insurance benefits, officials said Thursday.

An agreement was reached by the Illinois Department of Insurance with National Investors Life Insurance Co. to take over the obligations that National Investors previously shared with EFLIC.

Equity Funding filed for bankruptcy in March and the Securities and Exchange Commission suspended the company's stock from the New York Stock Exchange.

Fred A. Mauch, director of Illinois Department of Insurance, said the agreement provides that National Investors will assume in its own name all the policies of the 918 EFLIC policy-holders and pay all benefits provided by the policies.

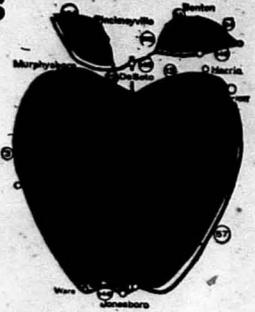

Mauch said, "When Equity Funding crashed last March, as a result of corruption among some of its executives, I pledged that no policyholder would be abandoned and all policy-holders would be protected."

Equity Funding was an Illinois corporation with headquarters in Los Angeles and the Illinois Department of Insurance was charged with law with protecting policy-holders of an Illinois corporation.

Mauch said he determined that only about 34,000 of the 97,000 policy-holders shown in Equity Funding's books are real.

Patrolman feels evening patrols center around public relations

By Rafe Klinger
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

"The biggest part of this job is public relations," said Officer Patrick Patterson, of the SIU Security Police, explaining the purposes of the foot patrol which was initiated several weeks ago.

"You get to meet people and I like that."

Patterson, 46, is one of the eight security policemen who patrol the east and west campuses from 6 p.m. to well into the morning. The foot patrols take place in addition to the regular car and Saluki student patrols. They were instituted to provide extra protection for University residents after dark.

"We check the bicycle lots to make sure no one has cut the chains and ticket cars parked in zones where they are blocking traffic," he explained.

If popularity was any sign that the six-foot-four inch, 235-pound Patterson is a friendly man, then Patterson's sign would be a giant neon billboard.

At least five times in an hour's walk from 11:30 p.m. to 12:30 a.m., Pat, as he is nicknamed, was stopped and greeted by students on the nearly empty campus.

"Hi ya, Pat. What time you got?" asked a tall young man, walking beside Mae Smith Hall in the Brush Towers complex.

"Where have you been, Pat?" asked the man's companion, a woman with long brown hair. "You been flirting with that RC at Neely?"

Patterson stopped with them and laughed. The girl reached up and straightened his collar point which was turned up.

The three of them chatted for a moment and then Patterson resumed his patrol.

"I don't mind walking," he said. "I need the exercise. Look at that." He patted his stomach which,

Rolling Stone gathers troubles in court, at hotel

LONDON (AP)—It was a bad week all around for Keith Richard, lead guitarist for the Rolling Stones.

Richard pleaded guilty Wednesday to drug and firearms charges and was fined 205 pounds — $492.

After he left court, Richard moved into a suite in the Londonberry House Hotel with his girl friend, Anita Pallenberg.

Thursday a small fire broke out in the suite. The guitarist's agent said it was caused by an electrical wiring fault.

The fire was quickly brought under control but Keith and Anita had to move to another room.

Drug ed encore

HALIFAX, Nova Scotia (AP)—A special course dealing with education and drug dependency will be offered to all Nova Scotia teachers during this year's six-week summer school session in Halifax.

Marvin Burke, executive director of the Nova Scotia commission on drug dependency said the course is being offered in cooperation with the department of education for the second year, due to the favorable results of last year's course. An evaluation of that course indicated "an increased awareness and effectiveness in the classroom," for those who participated.

although not flat, seemed an extension of his huge chest.

Across the overpass from Brush Towers to just east of the Student Center, Patterson talked about the foot patrol and its effectiveness.

"I feel the patrols will keep a decent student decent and will drive the others off campus to be someone else's problems. "But when trouble is stopped," he said, "it's not the police who stop it. I think the students help keep a lot of the trouble down."

After pausing in the Student Center to exchange a few words with a janitor, Patterson stepped out into Thompson Woods.

It was a clear night. The trees and shrubs stood out sharply from the white glare of nightlamps. But, the lights are spaced far apart, and in between the shadows and gloom of the dark woods prevail.

"This is one of the big areas for trouble," Patterson said. "Here and around the library. The patrols help, but it's hard because there is such a large area to cover and so few men."

"All these trees and buildings where students can get in trouble," he sighed, shaking his head.

The woods were silent except for a slight squeaking. Patterson stopped at an intersection of paths and pointed to his feet.

"Boy, listen to my shoes," he said. "I'd have a hard time sneaking up on someone."

He smiled and then turned his head to look up the crosspath. A couple was embracing in the shadows about 30 feet away.

"A couple of lovers down there," Patterson remarked. "Well, so long as they know each other."

On the overpass, on the way back to the Security Office, Patterson said most of the police problems on campus occur on Friday and Saturday nights. Most of it, he said, is caused by under-age acceptance of alcohol by students.

Security Officers usually just confiscate the beverages and pour them out. There are few actual arrests.

It's only the students who "don't use their heads and become belligerent," who get into trouble, Patterson said. One of the other officers in the Security Office talked about Patterson, who had gone off on another round.

"Pat gets along well with the students," the officer said. "But he can handle himself if he has to. He was the fleet boxing champ when he was in the Navy."

Cost of Living Council head favors continued wage and price controls

WASHINGTON (AP)—John T. Dunlop, director of the Cost of Living Council, said Thursday he favors continuing wage and price controls into 1974.

He said it would be neither desirable nor feasible to end them in 1973. Lifting them before 1974, he said, would bring about "a magnitude of price increases that would be unsatisfactory."

Dunlop was the first administration official of his rank to say he favored continuing the controls into 1974. Under present statutory limitations, the controls expire April 30, 1974.

In another economic development Thursday, new Agriculture

Department figures showed that the annual retail cost of a market basket of farm-produced food declined $24 in September, the sharpest drop in 17 years.

The price decline, the first of the year, would have been much larger had middlemen passed along the squeeze absorbed by farmers, the figures indicate.

According to the department, the cost of a year's food supply for a theoretical household of 3.2 persons was $1,629 in September, down 1.5 per cent from a record of $1,653 in August.

At a news briefing, Dunlop said Congress tried to undermine petroleum industry price controls and said consumers will face much higher price for heating oil and gasoline if Congress is successful. He also announced that he has asked Chrysler Corp. and the United Auto Workers to send representatives to a meeting to discuss a recent wage agreement for the auto workers.

President Nixon said last summer in announcing the Phase 4 anti-inflation program that he hoped controls could be terminated by the end of this year.

"I do not think the state of the economy, in many sectors, will be suitable for decontrol by that time," Dunlop said.

Gilda's path alerts coast

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) - Tropical Storm Gilda, described by weather men as a very large storm, moved north across the Atlantic Thursday and gale warnings were thrust from Cape Hatteras, N.C., to Manasquan, N.J.

The National Hurricane Center in Miami said Gilda was packing top winds of 60 miles per hour as she moved north at 12 m.p.h.

At noon Gilda was about 275 miles east-southeast of Cape Hatteras.

Forecasters predicted Gilda might strengthen slightly as she continued to move northward.

Stations along the North Carolina and Virginia coasts reported gale force winds.

Gilda first reached tropical storm strength in the Caribbean last week and after raking Cuba and the Bahamas was downgraded to a tropical depression. Gilda became a tropical storm again Wednesday.

Reception planned for alumni returning from 'cruel world'

By Gary T. Houy
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Where do SIU graduates wind up after they're sent out into the cold, cruel world?

"All over the country," said Robert Odaniell, executive director of the Alumni Association. "We have 15,000 members in the association as well as records on 60,000 former students living all over the place."

Many of those alumni will be in town this weekend to participate in the SIU Homecoming activities. Odaniell is ready for them. The association is sponsoring an alumni reception in Student Center Ballroom B Saturday after the football game.

Alumni from out of town are requested to register at the Student Center at 9:30 a.m. Saturday.

The association will hold a noon luncheon Friday at the Ramada Inn in honor of the 20 student recipients of the Roscoe Pulliam Scholarships.

"The 20 scholarships this year total $5,000," Odaniell said. "Twenty years ago we had two scholarships for a total of $100."

After the luncheon, the alumni board of directors will meet to discuss activities. An issue that should come up at the Friday meeting is the possibility of partial alumni funding for the renovation of McAndrew Stadium.

Any money the Alumni Association gives out is raised from contributions through a Telefund Campaign. "There are 42 geographic areas covered by the association," Odaniell said. "Twenty of these areas are conducting telephone campaigns to raise money from alumni for a variety of things."

Another issue that should come up at the meeting is the proposed raising of membership dues. Dues are now $5 annually for a single member and $6 for a family (two or more members). Lifetime memberships in the Alumni Association are $125 for an individual and $150 per family.

Alumni dues are used for the production and circulation of the Alumni News, a quarterly bulletin put out by Alumni Services and the Alumnist, a monthly magazine published by the Alumni Association.

"Alumni Services and the Alumni Association are actually two separate organizations, but very overlapping," said Shirley Blackburn, editor of Alumni Publications. "Alumni Services is the non-academic division, and the Association is our link with the university."

The governing body of the association is the Legislative Council, made up of representatives of former graduating classes at SIU. A nominating committee of the council selects the members of the Board of Directors.

Mrs. Blackburn said the association hopes to organize into groups according to different schools or professions. "The business school and Home Economics are already forming constituent alumni societies. The hopes is that all colleges will be formed into separate societies," she said.

Each year the association members vote for candidates for the Great Teacher Award. The 1973 winner of the award is James "Benziger, professor of English. He will receive a commemorative plaque and a check for $1,000.

The association went on its first group tour last March to Hawaii. This spring the alumni are heading to the Caribbean, to St. Thomas Harbour in the Virgin Islands. Reservations can be made at the SIU Alumni Office.

The Alumni Association also offers 20 per cent discounts to alumni on publications by the University Press and University Graphics. "We also have Alumni Merchandising, which sells everything from SIU license plate frames to t-shirts and sweatshirts," Mrs. Blackburn said. She said there will be a display of merchandise at homecoming activities.

Academic advisement may be revised

By Gary Houy
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Committees studying possible revision of the SIU academic advisement system are gathering information on a proposed alternative to the system.

James Diefenbeck, chairman of the educational policy committee of the Faculty Senate, said the committee is considering a proposal from the president's task force on the teaching-learning environment to return to a system of faculty advisement.

"We'll need awhile to assemble some facts," Diefenbeck said in a recent interview. "It will be two or three weeks until we have something.

The Faculty Senate and the Graduate Council are responding to a request for advice from John Leasure, vice president for academic affairs and provost. Leasure suggested they consider channeling money from a revised academic advisement system into Morris Library to buy more books.

The advisory committee of the Graduate Council discussed the matter last week. "This is a very important matter," said Phil Davis, chairman. "We've had a lot of discussion, and we'll probably have another meeting this Friday."

"If we come to an agreement Friday we'll probably write up a draft of a resolution and attach it to the agenda of next week's council meeting," Davis said. John Baker, assistant provost, met with the Faculty Senate committee recently and agreed more information is needed. "It's kind of up-in-the-air right now," Baker said. "We're studying the survey taken last year in addition to the task force report."

The survey Baker mentioned was taken last year by a committee headed by Paul J. Hurley, professor of English. The Hurley report contradicted the task force's contention that SIU should move towards a system of faculty advisement.

JoAnne Thorpe, chairman of the Faculty Senate, said the matter probably will be discussed at the senate's next meeting Nov. 13.

"These two matters aren't necessarily related," Ms. Thorpe said. "We must keep the library funded, but I personally don't believe the faculty can absorb the burden of advisement without being given a credit of the work load."

"The faculty would have to be paid a higher price to absorb the added workload so the university would not really be saving money," she said. "The student would be the one who is hurt," she said.

Relates to human body

Fetter explains computer graphics

Sounding like a term from a science fiction article, "computer graphics" has emerged as a very real part of SIU.

Computer graphics and how it may be applied to the study of the human body was the topic of Dr. William Fetter, chairman of the Design Department, in a physiology seminar recently.

"Computer graphics," a term coined by Fetter in 1960, is the fusion of computer programming and graphic designs resulting in a three-dimensional picture on a computer screen.

With slides to explain his talk, Fetter related how computer graphics came about and how they are applicable in many fields.

Speaking before about 25 persons, Fetter told about his work before coming to SIU.

"I worked for several years at Boeing Aircraft Corp. in the field of computer graphics," Fetter said. "We worked to find out how the human figure applies to an airplane.

One of his projects while working at Boeing was a cockpit visibility study which was used in the design of the Boeing 737 and 747 cockpits.

In this study, and animated human form, known as-first man, with seven movable parts, was placed in different cockpit settings to determine which setting was the best suited for pilot visibility. All work was done by a computer.

The movable human figure is used in other areas of study such as determining the best way for a human to jump over high hurdles, a feat that uses almost every part of the human body, and the study of reaching motions in a space capsule.

At SIU, Fetter explained, there is a computer graphic lab located in one of the "domes" in the design department. Their studies include the design of a monorail, mapping systems and a moveable simulation of a human hand.

Fetter closed the lecture by showing four films, concerning different aspects of computer graphics, simultaneously.

Club claims success

12,000 books sold at Friends sale

By Robert Mau
Student Writer

Approximately 12,000 books were sold at the Friends of Morris Library Book Sale, two library officials reported.

"It was definitely a success," said Mrs. Glennie King, secretary of Friends of Morris Library, referring to the book sale held in the Student Center last week.

David Koch, rare book librarian of Morris Library, also felt the sale was a success.

"The thing we feel best about," Koch said, "is that the books are recirculated. More people are able to read these books because of the sale."

Many students reported there were not as many new books this year as there were at last year's sale. "We did not have as many new books," Koch admitted, "but the books we had were of higher quality."

Koch said he felt most books were underpriced. He referred to one book a student bought for ten cents which, in Koch's opinion, was valued at about $40.

Mrs. King said most of the books, which had been donated by people throughout the Southern Illinois area, were underpriced. However, Mrs. King said it was good to see students buy books they could otherwise not afford.

Mrs. King said a report on sale receipts was not available. She said the money would be used to buy things for Morris Library "which cannot be bought with state money." This includes the publishing of the magazine "ICarbS" which describes the scholarly holdings of Morris Library, Mrs. King said.

Kickback information causes dispute

CHICAGO (AP)—Nearly a dozen prosecuting agencies throughout Illinois have contacted the Better Government Association for information about the recent investigation of kickbacks to public officials from chemical specialty salesmen.

The BGA, an Illinois citizens' watchdog group, and the The Associated Press conducted a two-month investigation of alleged kickbacks and gift-giving.

Prosecutors from several counties have asked for information learned from interviews of more than 130 officials in 56 of the state's 102 counties.

A total of 69 officials, many of them township road commissioners, told reporters and investigators they accepted gifts from chemical salesmen.

Prosecutors also were interested in information about several of the more than a dozen chemical specialty firms which do business in Illinois.

The BGA is cooperating with the various state's attorneys who are seeking to learn how widespread the occurrence of kickbacks is in their areas.

Some officials were critical of The Associated Press and the BGA for their investigation, saying it made it difficult for prosecutors to continue gathering information privately.

But some state's attorneys had been aware of the kickback practice for several months and had already instigated grand jury proceedings.

J. Terrence Brunner, executive director of the BGA, said that while the recent investigation disclosed only 69 officials who took gifts, the BGA had information that could lead to nearly 300 officials and that this data would be turned over to prosecutors.

The BGA and the news media were criticized earlier this week in Peoria at a meeting of township officials. Many supervisors said the information collected in the investigation should have been turned over to them instead of being publicized.

Brunner told the officials that the investigation showed many public officials did not take gifts but at the same time did not report to authorities that gifts had been offered to them.

He urged all officials to report to authorities any proposals that might influence their official duties.

Celebrity Series slates satirical rock musical

Inconstancy is the theme that is light-heartedly spoofed in "Two Gentlemen of Verona," the Broadway musical smash that Celebrity Series has slated for 8 p.m. Saturday, November 10 in Shryock Auditorium.

As might easily be guessed from the title, this is Shakespeare's comedy of the same name, but not as he wrote it 375 years ago. It has now been decked out with no less than 30 songs by Galt MacDermot, the composer who put "Hair" on Broadway's chest.

"Two Gentlemen of Verona" was one of Shakespeare's earliest plays, written when he was only 28—which may explain why it is all about love and its all too frequent fickleness and deception.

The adaptation, by John Guare and Mel Shapiro, has been described by one critic as "cynical and brash—in tune with the 70's. Love requited, love spurned, love betrayed and love found are all spoofed amusingly."

Another reviewer called MacDermot's score "the best collection of rock songs I have ever heard in one show, ranging from rock to blues to jazz to calypso to straight melody as square as can be."

Joseph Papp's New York Shakespeare Festival first presented "Two Gentlemen of Verona" in New York City in July, 1971 as one its free outdoor Shakespeare productions in Central Park. The production was so housingly received that an indoor presentation on Broadway became inevitable, and it was accordingly given a premiere on Dec. 1, 1971.

Iranian director arrives for visit

Majid Ziai, director of the office of international relations at Mashad University in Iran, has arrived at SIU for a three-day visit, according to John Layboorn, associate dean of international education.

During his visit, Ziai will look over SIU's foreign student counseling and publications activities, Layboorn said. He is concerned with the welfare of foreign students at SIU, and with possible student and faculty exchanges, the arrangement of seminars and conferences, and maintaining contact with foreign embassies regarding scholastic matters, and scholarships for foreign students.

At Mashad University, Ziai is responsible for the supervision of the student newspaper and all other university publications.

Simon's show praised by Stills' stage manager

By Dave Stearns
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Stephen Stills' stage manager, Michael Bowlin said Paul Simon's new show is the best he has ever seen.

Simon, who will appear at 8 p.m. Saturday in the Arena, is insisting on an extensive sound rehearsal before the concert so he can adjust the system exactly the way he wants it. Dean Justice, manager of the Arena said. Also the Arena is importing two 350-watt spectasonic speakers that were used in last winter's B. B. King concert, for the Simon concert.

After Simon's concert in Detroit, Bill Gray of the Detroit News wrote, "So who needs Garfunkel? Certainly not Paul Simon. Certainly several of his songs will remain permanently stamped on the face of Americana. He is to this generation what Cole Porter and Irving Berlin were to the one before it."

Simon was described by one rock journalist, John Eliot, as "the sort of innocuous little guy you might find sitting in the corner of a bar, quietly nursing a beer, who could spellbind you with stories for the rest of the night. I think of Paul as an urban counterpart to James Taylor."

"His trademarks are a primarily sunny disposition and the ability to talk one line and sing the next.

Duncan House set for viewing

An open house will be held from 12 noon to 4 p.m. Saturday and Sunday at the Duncan House in Cobden, home of the former SIU professor of English and Sociology, Hugh Duncan.

Duncan, extensive lecturer in architecture, modeled the house from visionary architect Bruce Goff's creations.

A small donation for a local charity will be requested, and the turnoffs to the house, two miles east of Cobden, will be marked.

making the transition completely natural."

Simon will perform half the concert with the Jesse Dixon Gospel Singers, who have made notable improvements on "Mother and Child Reunion" and "Bridge Over Troubled Waters" in past concerts.

"There Goes Rhythm Simon," his latest album, recently reached million dollar sales marks and his single "Loves Me Like a Rock," is now on the AM radio charts.

Over 3,000 seats in all ticket prices, $3.50, $4.50 and $5 are still available at the Student Central Ticket Office and Arena. Tickets will also be available at the Arena Box Office the night of the concert.

Cuban crisis remembered

WASHINGTON (AP)—It was 11 years ago this week that the United States had its biggest confrontation with the Soviet Union—the Cuban missile crisis.

On Oct. 22, 1962, the United States announced the discovery that the USSR had started building missile bases in Cuba. President John F. Kennedy ordered an immediate quarantine of Cuba by air and naval forces to prevent further delivery of weapons to the island.

The President broke off political campaigning for congressional candidates and returned to Washington, then addressed the nation on the missile threat, saying "the purpose of these bases, can be none other than to provoke a nuclear strike capability against the Western Hemisphere."

The Soviet government rejected Kennedy's blockade warning and declared Oct. 23 that aggressive American actions toward Cuba or its sea lanes, could result in thermonuclear war. Russian armed forces were alerted.

The war threat abated Oct. 28 when Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev agreed to dismantle the bases and withdraw the missiles under U.N. supervision.

Lot construction promises more parking spots this winter

Bigger and better parking spaces are in store for faculty and students this winter but construction work is forcing several lots to be practically closed until then.

Lot 1, on the west side of Lawson Hall is presently being resurfaced and approximately 30 percent of other available space is closed off. Several students and faculty members have complained about the shortage of parking space, said Facilities Planning Director Rino Bianchi.

"There is no good time to close down lots, but the work has to be done," Bianchi said. Efforts are being made to work on only one of the five lots at a time and keep part of the spaces available. All lots will be surfaced with asphalt, have permanent lighting and cement curbs.

Work on the lots will be completed by Dec. 1 "if the good weather holds out," Bianchi said. Meanwhile, he and Campus Architect Willard Hart are trying to find temporary parking lots.

A lot between Elizabeth and Forest Streets, north of Grand Avenue may be open for use in two weeks, Hart said. Other temporary locations would cost too much.

Old Bible is back

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Sheriff Bernard Waggoner, counseling a drifter at a halfway house for alcoholics, recovered a Bible he had lost 30 years ago during World War II.

The man showed the sheriff a Bible with the name Waggoner on it. Waggoner said it was the same Bible issued to him when he entered the Army in 1943.

Waggoner said the man told him he took the Bible from the dead German soldier during combat in France in 1944.

Plans set for coal, smokestack experiment

The object of SIU's coming experiment with a new smokestack emission scrubbing device is to optimize and improve on the system that has been used successfully in Japan, said Howard Hesketh, associate professor of air pollution control engineering. The experiment, recently announced by Gov. Dan Walker will hopefully clean up the process of burning high-sulphur Illinois coal. Expected tightened Pollution Control Board rules on sulphur dioxide pollution and the desire to market the state's coal have prompted the experiment.

The Illinois Institute for Environmental Quality will provide $23,000 a year for the scrubber's operations

Ambulance loss threatened by deficient funds

EAST MOLINE, (AP)—East Moline was threatened Thursday with loss of ambulance service after two vehicles were repossessed from a company recently awarded the service contract.

The mayor arranged a meeting with the current contractor, ABC Ambulance, in an attempt to extend its agreement eight days until the Nov. 5 meeting of the City Council.

On Oct. 15 the council awarded the contract to the Quad City Ambulance Service of Rock Island, headed by Richard Tamme.

Tamme has been ordered to appear in Circuit Court in Morrison Nov. 1 to show cause why he should not be charged with deceptive practices in connection with the purchase of two ambulances from the Foster Coach Co. in Sterling.

The state's attorney, L.E. Ellison, said two checks Tamme wrote to pay for the ambulances were not paid by the bank because of insufficient funds. The checks totaled more than $10,000.

and $45,000 for related equipment and supplies. The university has budgeted another $5,000 a year for operating money.

The experiment could last two years or more, Hesketh said. Chemico of New York an industrial engineering firm, will donate a pilot model of the scrubbing device to SIU. The device is a junior version of one that has operated for a year and a half at the Mitsui Aluminum Company's large plant in Omuta, Japan.

National Academy of Engineering guidelines require that pollution control devices such as scrubbers should be able to operate effectively for one continuous year on 100 megawatt coal-fired boilers. The Japanese installation has been effective for six months longer than that on a 156-megawatt boiler, Hesketh said.

The new scrubber is a chemical plant, and Hesketh said that research here will include experimentation in hopes of finding more efficient and economical chemicals for use in the process. Another goal will be finding new uses for the chemical sludge that is a by-product of the scrubbing operation.

"Such sludge is already being used to make wallboard, building blocks and aggregate," Hesketh said.

The new device has avoided the major problem of "pluggage," a buildup of mineral scales which causes scrubbing units to be shut down periodically for long and costly cleaning.

Hesketh became involved in the Chemico scrubber project after he worked for a year on an SIU-funded experiment to modify a Venturi scrubbing system for taking both sulfur particulate pollutants out of the coal-fired steam-generating campus plant. In previous research, he had discovered new liquid-atomizing principles he felt would be applicable to the existing Venturi system.

The university system designed by Hesketh worked successfully under laboratory conditions, but a pilot model set up at the campus boiler plant didn't function as well. Hesketh said one problem was apparently the design of the boilers themselves: Air currents were forcing emissions away from the main gas stream, and eluding the control equipment. The Chemico donation should be shipped to Carbondale as soon as grant contracts are signed by the Institute for Environmental Quality. Hesketh said he expects the shipment within a few weeks.

Thrift Shop serves as public's middleman

By Edie Hanafin
Student Writer

If you don't have much money to spend on clothes, in fact very little, the Thrift Shop located on 106 E. Jackson may be a good solution to your problem.

The Thrift Shop was started around six years ago by the Church Women United (CWU) as a Community Project of Carbondale. According to the rules and regulations of the Thrift Shop, it was formed "to serve the community by providing a place to accept and collect donations of new and used items and to offer these items at reasonable prices to the public."

"The written rules of the Thrift Shop also state that it is a "General Not-for-Profit Corporation of the State of Illinois." Profits from the shop are used to pay the two employees and to finance the day care center sponsored by the CWU, said Mrs. Beatrice Taylor, manager of the Thrift Shop.

Mrs. Taylor said that welfare recipients and people who have been burned out of their homes are often referred to the shop to receive free clothing.

For others, the shop offers low-priced clothes, shoes, appliances, toys and books. Prices for second-hand women's dresses and men's suits range anywhere from one to four dollars.

Used children's clothing and shoes can be bought for as little as 25 cent. Hardback books go for a dime while paperback ones sell for a nickel. Old evening gowns and formal dresses sell for 75 cent to three dollars.

Besides Carbondale residents, the Thrift Shop attracts students and migrant workers, Mrs. Taylor said. "Students have much fun going through the clothing. They especially like the old blue jeans because they like to put patches on them," she said.

Donations for the Thrift Shop can be made any time the store is open. Hours are: Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday from 9 a.m. - 3 p.m., and Friday from 9 a.m. - 4 p.m.

Anything useable can be donated to the Thrift Shop. Clothing and items should be in fairly neat condition, said Mrs. Taylor. According to the written rules of the Thrift Shop, donations are tax deductible.

Besides the two paid employees, women from CWU volunteer to help out in the store. Actually, anyone may volunteer to help in straightening tables, racks and shelves, and unpack, sort and price donations. Tasks that can be done at home include washing and mending clothes and repairing appliances and toys.

The Carbondale Church Women United is made up of women from the different churches in Carbondale, Mrs. Shirley Bass, chairman of the board of the Thrift Shop, said. "Ordinarily, women of different churches wouldn't get together." "However, she stressed that the group was "not just a bunch of women getting together to talk." Mrs. Bass pointed out that CWU is a corporate organization on both the state and national level.

In addition to the Thrift Shop and day care center, the CWU holds different church observance days, the World Day of Prayer, the World Fellowship Day and World Community Day. They also invited different ministers and speakers to talk. The CWU also sponsors the Church World Service which sends clothing and supplies to people where disasters have struck.

Young gets Haitian trip extended

By Kathy Wilken
Student Writer

Ripley Young, an SIU Community Development Services (CDS) consultant, has recently received a 45-day extension on his three-month stay in Haiti, Richard Thomas, CDS director, said. Young went to the Caribbean nation in July to conduct a University of Haiti seminar. He has been working with the Office National de l'Alphabetization et de l'Action Communautaire (ONAAAC), a Haitian government agency devoted to increasing literacy and sponsoring community action programs.

Young has been introducing community development methods to persons involved in Haitian community programs. He has been making "site visits" to various community projects.

In a recent letter to Thomas, Young said he is still in the process of gathering information on possible development of projects, with ONAAAC and SIU.

"After consultation with Edouard C. Paul, director of ONAAAC, the staff of ONAAAC and organizations involved in planning for Haiti we believe the program could be centered around research and development with teaching as the formal part of an exchange program," he wrote.

Teaching exchange would involve short courses at SIU to be worked out according to ONAAAC needs and the use of seminars in Haiti, Young's letter said.

According to the letter, it is also proposed that the research and development phase be the core of the program with research centered around rural community development. "My involvement now is to begin program development as a formal process with ONAAAC in consultation with the National office of Education and agencies associated with ONAAAC involved in some aspect of community development," he said.

Thomas said the exchange program between SIU and Haiti probably would be implemented in the summer of 1974 or 1975. Undergraduates and graduate students from the applied social sciences would be eligible, with preference given to those with language ability, he said.

Young wrote that he needed the six-week extension to talk with United Nations investigative team and other international agencies and to travel with them for community site visits for recommendations of community development in Haiti.

West Germans gave for lepers

WUERZBURG, Germany (AP)—West Germans donated more than 14 million marks or $4.8 million during 1972 to assist 345 leprosy stations throughout Africa, Asia and South America.

A spokesman for the Aid Fund said there are more than 10 million people throughout the world still suffering from leprosy.

"My active input would at least assure them of SIU's interest in Haiti and its support of somnity development, hopefully leading to funding of some aspect of the program," he said.

Thomas said the Organization of American States (OAS) is interested in determining SIU's interest in Haiti. The OAS is financing, with the Haitian government, the stay of the first exchange person from Haiti.

Edner Paul, the director of government printing in Haiti and chief of service of the ONAAAC, is now at SIU to study modern printing. Paul has been here since Sept. 6 and will stay until Dec. 15.

Paul, who is also co-administrator of a Haitian newspaper, said in a recent interview through his interpreter, Jacques Bonnefil, that he is at SIU to learn offset techniques for color printing. The process now used in Haiti for printing color is very slow, he said. He will teach the advanced technique when he returns to Haiti.

Astronomy president tells of 'earthy' side

By Beth McLouth
Student Writer

"We're a down to earth organization with down to earth goals." This may seem unusual coming from Francis Dohanich, president of the Southern Illinois Amateur Astronomy Club (SIAAC). "The purpose of our club is to further interest in the physical sciences and not just physics 'per se'," said Dohanich at a meeting featuring a film presentation and telescope observation recently.

He said some students have a misconception that the club might be over their heads. "The focus of the club in the past has been upon astronomy — this is not to say the club is entrenched in astronomy," said Dohanich. "We are interested in delving into the physical sciences, too."

Dr. Frank Sanders, club adviser, said the astronomers' group was organized about ten years ago. He said members of the SIAAC are also members of the Society of Physics Students (SPS).

Secretary-treasurer Mic Johnson learned all that he knows about astronomy from SIAAC. Johnson is a biology major and encourages non-physics majors to become interested in astronomy.

Job information in government will be offered

At least 10 government agencies, from Cook County Civil Service System to the U.S. Department of Agriculture, are expected to participate in a Government Careers Information Day Tuesday in the Student Center.

Lee Chenoweth, Career Counseling and Placement Services consultant, said the purpose of the information day is to provide students an opportunity to meet with representatives of government agencies which hire college graduates.

"Placement goes all out to bring things to students' attention that they might find to be connected with their majors," he said.

Chenoweth said although he has not received replies from all the agencies invited to participate, representatives are expected from such agencies as: the Federal Bureau of Investigation, Internal Revenue Service, Illinois State Employment Service, Federal Bureau of Prisons, Department of Agriculture, Cook County Civil Service System and City of Chicago Civil Service.

Agency representatives will be available from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. in Ballroom B of the Student Center.

Quiets own house

TORONTO (AP)—Toronto's works department is spending $80,000 for 30 quieter air compressors used by the city to power jackhammers and other construction equipment. The new compressors are 50 per cent more costly than less noisy ones.

D. J. Batty, the department's senior environmental engineer, said: "We can't put a ban on other people's noise without cleaning our own house first."

Johnston has offered to help club members build their own telescopic equipment. In the past he has constructed a telescope of his own, "Johnston ground his own mirror," said SIAAC president, Francis Dohanich, "and knows the ups and downs." "It takes time and patience," Dohanich said.

Dohanich also mentioned that field trips may be among club plans. Two possibilities are a visit to Argonne National Observatory and to the engineering open house at the University of Illinois.

The SIAAC is also in the process of building a semi-sophisticated radio telescope. Johnston said radio astronomy can be compared to a transistor radio in concept. "In radio astronomy one picks up the same things as a transistor, but in different wave lengths. In other words, radio astronomy included 'other electromagnetic radiation at a lower wave length.'" Equipment built will be used for solar flare detection or solar research on explosions from the sun, Johnston said.

High on the rooftop of Necker building amateur astronomers and the public could view galaxies, nebulas, and planets. The planets Mars and Jupiter with four of its moons, and the Andromeda galaxy were favorites in the observation.

One of the many telescopes used to view these sights was a Dynascope eight inch reflector telescope.

Doug Gougar, SIU physics major, explained that the planet earth is included in the galaxy "The Milky Way". Gougar further commented that the Andromeda galaxy is the next closest galaxy to earth and a favorite to view.

When asked about the groups' feelings upon UFO's, Johnston said, "We talk about them a lot at meetings. In fact the group is considering writing a letter to a professor in England who thinks a foreign satellite is circling the moon. We will try to help him in any way."

As far as Johnston is concerned, UFO's are a possibility. "I never gave UFO's much ground until the sighting in Mississippi. I heard on the news about one or two weeks ago that two men, 'country folk' claimed they were taken aboard a UFO. Some professors submitted the men to deep hypnosis to find out whether the men were telling the truth. As far as one of the professors was concerned, those men were taken aboard."

Johnston said that there wasn't enough proof available for him to draw any conclusive opinion on the matter. "A good scientist always want sufficient proof."
