Dorothy Mayo Morris earned her last college degree in 1939.

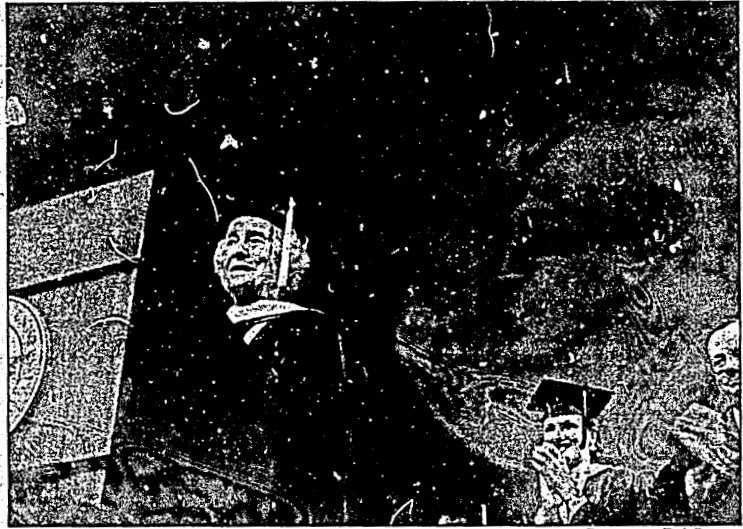

Dorothy, wife of the late Delyte Morris, was given an University Wide Honorary degree, in commemoration of her years of dedication and love for SIUC.

In the Commemorative Convocation, Friday afternoon at Shryock Auditorium, Dorothy was presented with her honorary degree from SIUC Chancellor Jo Ann Argersinger and SIUE Chancellor David Werner. This was the first time a university wide degree was awarded.

Delyte Morris was president of SIUC from 1948 to 1970. During the 22 years Morris was president, he turned a small teachers college into an internationally known university. He also created and designed the Edwardsville campus.

This year marks the 50th anniversary of Delyte's inauguration as president.

Dorothy Morris Gardens dedicated

ANGIE ROYER
DAILY EGYPTIAN REPORTER

On Friday, 50 people came to the dedication of the Dorothy Morris Gardens, located behind Faner Hall, to honor the years of service Dorothy Morris has put into SIUC.

When Dorothy Morris arrived, all cameras and eyes were on her. She was accompanied by friends and family.

Delyte Morris, Dorothy's husband, was the eighth president of SIUC for 22 years and built SIUC into the University it is today.

Ted Sanders, SIU president, said Dorothy Morris organized many important events where the gardens now stand. He said it was appropriate to dedicate the new gardens, in what used to be the Morrises' backyard.

The Morris' house, where the University Museum in Faner Hall is now, was frequently filled with students. Dorothy would throw parties and events such as Coke parties and Watermelon parties for students in her backyard.

The Dorothy Morris Gardens is where the Morris' backyard used to be.

In the rain, Dorothy Morris removed the maroon veil from the sign which read "Dorothy Morris Gardens."

As Dorothy looked around the gardens, she recalled what her backyard used to look like.

"It is nostalgic of course," she said. "It reminds me a lot of the way it used to be."

Sanders said the gardens are a symbol of the past, present and future of the University, as well as a symbol of life and growth.

"This is the last tribute of the Morris legacy and traditions," Sanders said. "May they live into the next century."

Campus debit card interest far from withdrawn

JACOB LIVENGOOD
DAILY EGYPTIAN REPORTER

A debit card for student use in Carbondale stores still is in the planning stages, but Chancellor Jo Ann Argersinger said the future of the card is very promising.

"I think it's something everybody on campus and in the community would be supportive of," Argersinger said. "What we're hoping is to have a conversation with everybody at the table that needs to be at the table."

The debit card would enable students to buy things all over town as well as on campus, and Argersinger said different models are being looked into.

"Everybody wants this to happen but we have got to make sure that it's the best possible model," she said. "We're talking to banks and we're talking to [Carbondale Chamber of Commerce] people. That will be the next step and we'll talk to other leaders of the community."

Argersinger said the goal is to have a debit card that is flexible and responsive to all of the students' needs.

"We want to make it not just campus-based, but community wide," she said. "If you look at some of the cards nationwide, you can use them on and off campus, and it gives students a lot more flexibility."

A meeting with chamber of commerce, campus representatives and business owners probably will happen next month, Argersinger said.

"All of the national data shows that a community-wide card would be good," she said. "We're also looking at other models and other cities."

She said data is being looked at from southern cities close to the size of Carbondale, like Chapel Hill, N.C. Possibilities for managing the card are also being looked into.

An option Argersinger mentioned was to have area banks piggyback on the bank card they already offer.

"It seems to me that there are a variety of options that we could pursue, and we need to sit down and have that conversation," Argersinger said. "Quite frankly, we might not want the expense of processing and doing that on campus."

Previously the debit card has been opposed by some area banks and businesses. The federal government has also posed problems to the card with its Regulation E, a guideline stating that only financial institutions can issue a credit card.

Argersinger said she hasn't heard all of the ideas of everybody else in the community or on campus.

Carbondale Chamber of Commerce President Bill Oliver said in a letter to the editor of the Egyptian that he supports the use of the debit card.

"The debit card offers a viable alternative to cash and checks," Oliver stated. "It will help avoid potential interest charges associated with credit cards."

Agreeing with Chancellor Argersinger, he said that meetings between all involved parties would be a good place to start.

Undergraduate Student Government President Kristie Ayres has been trying to aid the implementation of the debit card. She said the card could be used for items ranging from vending machines and copiers to book and grocery stores.

USG also has been working on a Student Center Gift Certificate Card, which would allow money to be placed on a card for use in the Student Center. But, that has not yet been implemented.

Ayres said Regulation E is stopping the Student Center gift card from being implemented. The cards, already printed, cannot be utilized.

Diversity week stirs up campus

MELTING POT: Week focuses on awareness, tolerance among variety of SIUC students

DAN CRAFT
DAILY EGYPTIAN REPORTER

Promoting awareness and tolerance of diversity among students is the focus of Diversity Week, which begins today.

The week's events include discussion groups, an interactive fair and a golf scramble. The events were organized by Undergraduate Student Government and various Registered Student Organizations on campus, including the Black Affairs Council; Gays, Lesbians, Bisexuals and Friends and the International Student Council.

The highlight of the week will be Thursday night, when Congresswoman Sabrina Scjournier speaks to students in the Lesar Law School Auditorium.

Scjournier, who is an African-American lesbian, is the "perfect person to have here," said GLBF's Tim Rice, who was on the planning committee.

"She has the ability to touch a lot of people with her experiences," Rice said.

Rice said the congresswoman's speech is expected to be informal and interactive.

Other groups will present their views through discussions throughout the week, and many will organize booths at an RSO Fair Tuesday in the Student Center.

USG Vice President Jackie Smith said a committee or task force dealing with diversity issues might be formed at a later date. She said that while such an organi-

CONVOCATION

This year marks the 50th anniversary of Delyte's inauguration as president.

During the time Delyte was president, Dorothy was known as his "right hand man" and was always there to help him out whenever he needed her.

Dorothy, who is in her 90s, was grateful to those who wanted to give her the degree.

"You undoubtedly appreciate his 22 years of service and dedication to the University and the community," she said.

"For this I thank you."

Following the convocation, Dorothy stood outside and was covered with kisses from old friends, University administrators and SIUC students who recently learned of the Morrises' contributions.

One of the Morrises' sons, Peter, said he was honored to have his mother and father remembered over homecoming.

"This was a way to honor his dreams for the University," he said.

"Being here brought back a lot of forgotten memories."

Keith Saunders, executive director of the Illinois Board of Higher Education, said that what Delyte has given to the University still is alive today, even after 50 years.

"The Morris vision was ahead of his time," he said.

"His footprints reached so far into the future, we are now just beginning to catch up."

ESCALANTE

learn it as well."

Escalante uses a variety of stories, jokes and anecdotes to properly enforce his teaching beliefs as well.

Escalante is an advocate of success. He is extremely proud of his students and said that he will never let anyone give up on themselves.

"You feel proud when you see your kids graduate," Escalante said. Escalante's words touched a number of students, teachers and community members. Audience members gave the speaker a standing ovation at the conclusion of his lecture.

"I feel that Escalante really cares about his students," Kathy Lerner, a graduate student from New York, said. "He wants to teach them about themselves."

The lecture was sponsored by SIUC's Hispanic Heritage Committee, College of Education, Department of Curriculum and Instruction and Graduate School.

Escalante ended the lecture with a simple but intriguing statement about teaching.

"I am proud to be a teacher," Escalante said.

games — left the field with a minor victory.

He made his claim for the title of the Gateway Conference's best running back, rushing for 199 yards on 42 carries, 73 more than reigning Gateway Conference Player of the Year Aaron Stecker (126).

Thirty of Carpenter's yards came on SIUC's only drive that resulted in points. The Salukis opened the game's scoring with a 32-yard field goal from freshman kicker Jonah Fore.

The drive reached the WIU one-yard line, but Skornia was sacked for a 13-yard loss on third down and they had to settle for a field goal.

"We had a missed assignment," Quarless said of the key third down.

"We can't have a missed assignment first of all. We know

"We just couldn't do some things in the passing game."

— JAN QUARLESS
SALUKI FOOTBALL HEAD COACH

we have to come away with some points.

Obviously you want to come away with six or seven."

WIU responded on the very next drive, when quarterback Mark Zanders hooked up with Kevin Walsh on a 58-yard touchdown to give the Leathernecks a 7-3 halftime lead. Senior corner-back Jean Baptiste bit on a play-action fake, leaving Walsh wide open.

The Salukis almost got a score from their special teams just before heading to the locker room. Sophomore linebacker Jason Nolda blocked a punt with 12 seconds remaining in the half, but WIU punter Jeff Baker managed to recover the ball inside of the 20-yard line as time expired.

That would be the Salukis' last real chance at reaching the end zone, leaving the defense the task of keeping them in the game.

With the exception of Baptiste's missed assignment on the touchdown, the defense did just that.

Sophomore defensive lineman Tavita Tovia led the unit with nine tackles.

Overall, the defense forced WIU to punt nine times.

But with offense struggling and WIU's ability eat up the clock with Stecker in the backfield, the Salukis simply were against too much.

"I think they played fairly well the last two weeks, except for a couple of big plays," Quarless said.

"You look at the play last week against Jean and then you look at the play today. But overall they're starting to play better."

"We just couldn't do some things in the passing game. In order for us to do some things, we got to be well-balanced. We just got to get consistent in every phase."

UPCOMING

Next up for the Salukis is Indiana State University. The Sycamores and SIUC go head-to-head Saturday at 1:30 p.m. at McAndrew Stadium.

5 Ways to Treat Back & Neck Pain:
(choose only 1)

- You can live with pain. Don't be silly. There's no reason to live with pain. Dr. Girado can help. He tells people all the time, "I didn't train for all these years to hear patients say they'll just go on living with pain."
- You can have surgery. What a horrible thought. It's painful, time consuming, expensive and you can't even be sure it's going to help. Don't ever let anyone talk you into surgery until we're sure that's your only alternative.
- You can take pain pills (forever). Just hiding behind pain pills is not a cure. Pain pills are just temporary relief and they are not good for you either. Some people even have adverse reactions to pain killers.
- You can do what you should have done along time ago. Call for a free exam and consultation with Dr. Girado. He treats back and neck pain everyday and knows what to look for and how to fix it. He's educated, experienced and loves making people better.

Call for a free back exam today. It's such a good solution to back pain that it is worth saying it twice, call Dr. Girado today. Pick up the phone and call: 457-0459.

This FREE exam I'm offering is exactly the same as my standard $89 exam:

controlled the rest of the match to later knock off the Salukis in game four.

With the Salukis ahead 9-8 in the final game, senior outside hitter Mario Moreland posted her 1,300th career kill, becoming only the second person in school history to reach the mark. She is 224 kills shy of Dana Olden's record of 1,545.

"I really didn't know I was that close to getting it," Moreland said. "When they stopped the game, I was like, 'What is this for?' I did feel really good about getting it, but I would really like to break the record."

By the final match of the invitational, an ugly trend reared its face in the third game of every match for the Salukis. They lost a chance to sweep the Mountaineers and lost a pivotal game three to the Otahkians.

It was no different against Syracuse Saturday night. Jumping all over the Orangewomen with 15-5 wins in games one and two, the Salukis were slapped with a 15-6 loss in game three. They rebounded to finish the weekend with a 15-7 win in game four.

"It's more or less like we come out and we play really well the first two games," junior setter Debbie Barr said. "Then we kind of lay back. We think, 'Well we've got it done. They are going to sit down for us.' And they never do."

The Salukis admit that their roller coaster season continues and they hope the ride ends soon. But, this weekend's game three woes, or lack of killer instinct, will have to be ironed out for the ride to end.

"I can't put my finger on it," Locke said of the problems creating the roller coaster ride. "I'm just learning to just take what I get and hope that I get enough."

SEMO won the Southern Invitational with a 3-0 mark followed by the Salukis with a 2-1 record. Syracuse and West Virginia finished third and fourth, respectively.

Barr and Moreland both were named to the Southern Invitational All-Tournament Team, while SEMO's Amy Henken was named Most Valuable Player.

The Salukis are now 11-9 on the season and 6-4 in Missouri Valley Conference. They travel to Eastern Illinois University Tuesday night and welcome conference rivals Illinois State University and Indiana State University to Carbondale next weekend.

"I have mixed emotions," Locke said. "I like bringing home the big trophies — but I'll take a little trophy."

four times.

"Well, I don't know if anybody's ever comfortable in the pocket when they're feeling (pressure)," Skornia said. "When you've got a 300-pound man running around you trying to tackle you, comfortable is probably not the word."

Carpenter, the leading rusher in the Gateway Conference, said the offense has put the defense in a tough situation the last two games.

"We've got to put points on the board, that's just the bottom line," Carpenter said. "I mean the defense played outstanding today. The offense has to step it up and put some points on the board."

Spikers finish second

RAIN DELAY: Volleyball head coach Locke unsatisfied with Southern invite finish.

PAUL WLEKLINSKI
DAILY EGYPTIAN REPORTER

There are no silver linings in the Salukis' rain clouds.

No matter how many games the SIUC volleyball team places in the win column, miscues, mistakes and losses, especially, overshadow victories.

Being runner-ups in the Southern Invitational this weekend with a 2-1 mark is unsatisfactory for SIUC coach Sonya Locke.

Locke knows her team can perform at a superior level and expects that at all times. But when it does not happen, she cannot help but focus on the negative.

Her team's wins over Big East opponents West Virginia University 15-2, 15-3, 9-15, 15-11, and Syracuse University 15-5, 15-5, 6-15, 15-7, were overshadowed by the loss to eventual champions Southeast Missouri State University (15-17; 15-11, 15-5, 15-13).

"I'm not happy about anything about the SEMO match because we didn't win," Locke said. "You are at home, it's an invitational, you are host... there's something about that that says you are supposed to win."

Outside of the SEMO match, the Salukis cruised through both the Mountaineers and the Orangewomen with minor setbacks in each match.

Against WVU Friday, the Salukis dominated games one and two with 15-2 and 15-3 scores. But suddenly, the Mountaineers settled down in game three opening a 8-4 lead and rolled to a 15-9 win.

Game four turned into a battle as the Salukis jumped to a 5-0 lead, but the game was later tied at 11. The Salukis took the next four points to open the invitational with a victory.

"West Virginia was nonexistent in the first two games," Locke said. "We let them warm-up. We did some good things, but when we stopped doing what we're supposed to do, the other team is going to get some confidence."

Lack of confidence was not an issue in the first two games of the SEMO match, as both teams split 15-17 and 15-11. Again, game-three woes became costly for the Salukis as they fell 15-5.

The loss was critical as the Othahkians

Western Illinois 13 Homecoming '98 Southern Illinois 3 Salukis tumble again

2-5: Lack of offense, turnovers doom SIUC, as team falls to Leathernecks.

SHANDEL RICHARDSON
SPORTS EDITOR

The story is starting to become predictable for the Salukis football team this season.

Team plays well enough to win. Team has opportunities to win. But somehow team loses.

And on Saturday, the unhappy endings only continued. They played well enough to defeat fifth-ranked Western Illinois University. They had the opportunities to end a string of 14 consecutive losses to their Gateway Conference rivals.

But in the end, they somehow found themselves walking off the field having to deal with their fourth-straight defeat of the season.

The Leathernecks (6-1, 2-0), who mustered only five first downs, ran just 49 plays and gained 218 yards of total offense, did just enough to upend the Salukis 13-3 at McAndrew Stadium in front of a Homecoming crowd of 12,600.

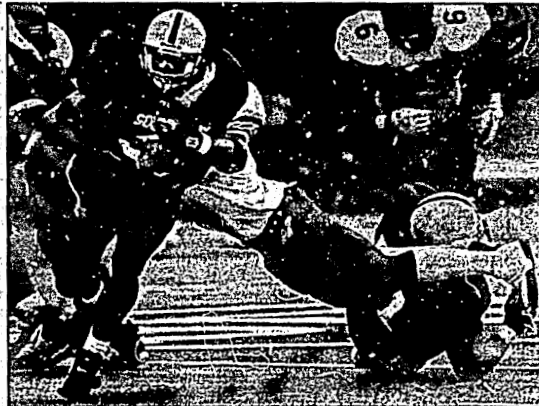

It marked the second consecutive week that the Salukis—358 total yards—outgained the opposition. It also marked the second time in as many weeks that turnovers were to be blamed for the loss.

The Salukis (2-5, 1-3) turned the ball over four times in a game senior quarterback Kent Skornia would soon like to put behind him. He had another rough day at the office—throwing two interceptions and fumbling twice—which resulted in two field goals by WIU kicker Joe Lopez.

During the last two weeks, the Salukis have turned the ball over nine times. Skornia, who hit on just 9-of-22 passes, has been intercepted five times.

"I think over the last two weeks you have to look at turnovers," said SIUC coach Jan Quarless, whose team had five turnovers in a 34-21 loss to Youngstown State University last week. "That is something we were doing fairly well early on in the year and now we've lost control of that. When that takes place, you're not going to beat people like Youngstown State or Western Illinois."

Dawgs plagued by turnovers

COREY CUSICK

SIUC junior running back Karlton Carpenter completed his weekly ritual.

He rushed for 199 yards Saturday against Western Illinois University at McAndrew Stadium, setting a Saluki record with his sixth-straight game with at least 100 yards. He has 1,202 yards for the season.

But Carpenter's feat seemed meaningless to him after the Salukis' 13-3 loss to WIU (6-1, 3-0).

"I can't get too excited without a victory, I just can't get too excited," Carpenter said.

Committing four turnovers and only mustering three points led the Salukis (2-5, 1-3) to its second consecutive dismal offensive performance. The Salukis committed five turnovers during their 34-21 loss to Youngstown State University the previous week.

Quarterback Kent Skornia threw two interceptions and fumbled twice in Saturday's defeat.

"Four today and five last week," Skornia said. "You can't win games turning the ball over—especially when we get into their territory and lose possession of the ball.

"You can't put any points on the board doing stuff like that."

Skornia fumbled in the first quarter at the WIU 32-yard line and fumbled again at the SIUC 37 in the third quarter. The second turnover resulted in a WIU field goal.

Skornia's interceptions proved costly as well. He threw one in the third quarter and another late in the game in the end zone that canceled any chance of a Saluki victory.

SIUC coach Jan Quarless has endured the same frustration as Skornia during the last two defeats plagued by turnovers.

"I just think he gets frustrated, as we all do at this point," Quarless said. "I'm sure he would have liked to have a better day, and unfortunately he didn't."

When you're trying to develop a football team you need to come away with some points, and we had the opportunity to do that."

Along with being frustrated, Skornia seemed uncomfortable Saturday, completing only nine passes for 108 yards. He also was sacked
