One-man stand

John Hiland, a recent SIU graduate, protests the protesters Saturday—or rather the lack of them. He was irked by protesters who didn't show for a Jackson County Libertarian Society demonstration against high taxes. One reason for the slim turnout might have been other pressing business with the Internal Revenue Service—like filling out tax returns before Monday's midnight deadline. ## Moore's chances to win board seat called good

By Terry Martin
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Chances are good that Willis E. Moore will be approved Tuesday by the Illinois Senate as an SIU trustee. State Sen. Kenneth Buzbee (D-Carbondale), said Monday.

Gov. Dan Walker's appointment of Moore Jan. 7 to the board was turned down in March by the Illinois Senate Executive Committee by an almost straight party-line vote of 10-5.

Moore is a registered Democrat but has said he wants to be considered an independent. There are 30 Republicans and 29 Democrats in the Senate. If he receives 30 votes Tuesday, it will override the negative advisory vote cast by the executive committee.

Buzbee said he plans to vote for Moore's appointment at the session Tuesday in Springfield. "I really have no way of knowing how many (other Democrats) will be there," Buzbee said. He sponsored Moore and introduced him to the executive committee.

Moore said Monday he thinks he has a 50-50 or better chance of getting confirmed, but that he has no data to support this. He also said the Senate may postpone the vote as it has done once before.

Asked if he would be disappointed if not approved, Moore said, "In one way, I'll be relieved because the board has so many problems right now. But, on the other hand, a lot of people would be disappointed because there would be no faculty input."

Moore, 69, is a retired Philosophy Department chairman. Even though his appointment was turned down by the advisory committee, he has remained a voting member on the board.

Both Doug Whitley, co-director of the Association of Illinois Student Governments, and Tim Renn, assistant press secretary to Walker, said Monday the chances of approval are good if enough

Search committee will meet Tuesday

By Terry Martin
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The 13 members of the Presidential Search Committee will have their first meeting at 3 p.m. Tuesday.

Willis Malone, committee chairman, said Monday the meeting will give the members a chance to get acquainted and to discuss general responsibilities. "The work in earnest will possibly begin next week," Malone said.

The committee has been directed by the SIU Board of Trustees to screen presidential candidates and advise the board as to whom will be the successor to former president David R. Derge. The board will then make the final selection from not fewer than four and not more than six candidates recommended by the committee.

Committee members were also directed to observe affirmative action and equal opportunity regulations.

104 settlement labeled 'a plan'

By David C. Miller Jr.
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The "termination settlement" proposal outlined Friday by Acting SIU President Hiram Lesar is "at this point still just a plan," Keith Leasure, vice president for academic affairs, said Monday.

"Nobody has told me to pay the people," Leasure said. "I do not have the details, but I expect to begin talking with (terminated) people when I do."

Leasure was unsure when SIU's administration would begin working out details of the plan to pay terminated faculty lump-sum amounts, previously described as in lieu of one-year notice of dismissal. He said that budget operations require the money to be spent or committed not later than June 30.

The plan was read to the trustees "for the board's information," Lesar said Friday. Trustees' approval of the termination settlement idea is not necessary, Lesar said, in light of the board's granting SIU-C authority over the terminations in December.

Up to $442,299 may be used, Lesar said, to affect a one-year notice for terminated teachers with tenure or continuing appointments.

The 104 faculty members got six month notices of termination in December.

The payments might provide the equivalent of another three or six months of salary, depending on individual contracts.

But, Leasure said Monday, "it might be that none" of the six month notice given in December could count towards the one-year notice of dismissal. In such a case, he explained, SIU would pay the equivalent of one academic year's salary for the period after June.

Lesar told the board this would be in keeping with the custom of paying employees for nine months past the academic year in which they are terminated.

The settlement money, and another $1.35 million for switching faculty salaries to a nine-month pay period, is available in this year's budget, Lesar said. But the question of whether SIU can legally make the settlements is undecided.

University Counsel John Huffman was optimistic about the payment plan. "There are disputed claims from the Dec. 13 resolution (of financial exigency)...it's money used in settlement of a disputed claim."

Richard Grunz, board legal counsel, said if the payments are "clearly a settlement, there's no legal question." He said the monies are not in lieu of salary payments for a year's work, but are instead settlement amounts as determined by employees' relative salaries.

With a definite payment plan still in the works, Robert Harrell, terminated assistant professor of English, called the proposal "another propaganda device."

"I haven't been offered a damn thing," Harrell said. "Plans are not action...it's similar to grandiose statements in the past."

Harrell criticized the administration's route of going to directly the terminated faculty, rather than through legal counsel for the 104. The money appeal, he said, caused a "real division" among the teachers, and the temptation to "sell out" hurt the united efforts for the 104.

Carbondale show draws more than 1,100 dogs

By Brenda Penland
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Fat dogs, skinny dogs, tall dogs, short dogs—almost any type of dog could be found at the Crab Orchard Kennel Club's dog show Sunday.

More than 100 breeds in the form of about 1,100 dogs were represented at the show. Trophies worth $700 were awarded.

The Best Local Dog trophy went to Todwill's Golden Boots, a Yorkshire terrier, owned by Glenn T. Willis, coordinator of Continuing Education, and Virginia Knoche.

The Best In Show trophy was won by Champion Sallilyn's Classic, owned by F. Gasow and Barbara Gates from Troy, Mo.

The dogs were divided up into six variety groups and four local variety groups. The groups included sporting breeds, terrier breeds, toy breeds, non-sporting breeds, hounds and working breeds.

Charles Chapman, show chairman, said he thought the show was very successful. He said there were very few problems.

"A couple of judges were bitten when they became tired and grouchy," Chapman said. "The dogs that is—not the judges," he laughed.

"I was just saying that bulldogs have a history of being lovable and gentle when the bulldog bit the judge," Lee Schillinger, announcer for the show, said. "The audience really cracked up."

Dogs from all over the United States participated. They came from as far away as Alaska, Texas, California and Pennsylvania.

Pat Jones brought her dog all the way from Nashville, Tenn. She said she thought it was definitely worth it, especially since her dog won a first place trophy.

Ms. Jones, who has 14 dogs, said she has shown her dogs from California to Florida.

It takes her 12 to 18 hours to prepare her poodle for each show. Ms. Jones said. She said she enters dog shows just for the satisfaction of seeing her dogs perform.

Geraldine Cline from Rosewood Heights said she and her husband, Lawrence, enter shows "for the love of our breed and the love of competition." "It's like a cancer, it spreads," Mrs. Cline said. She said she really enjoys the shows because something new happens each time.

She said she was once accused of trying to steal a dog at a show. She said her dog and another dog were identical except for one very important detail.

"I told the man he had better check my dog out a little more," Mrs. Cline said. "My dog was a male and his was a bitch."

Roger Macha, an instructor at Murray State University, owns a Kerry Blue Terrier who was the third ranked dog in the United States in 1973.

"His name is Champion Mac-Haven's No Regrets," Macha said. "But I call him Skeeter."

Council approves sewer, water fund

By Dan Haar
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The Carbondale City Council approved the allocation of nearly $2.5 million for the water and sewer fund of the 1974-75 budget at its formal meeting Monday night.

The water and sewer fund is nearly $1 million less than this year. The council approved the budget with no amendments.

The largest reduction in the budget was in the construction fund because of the near completion of Cedar Lake, the city's future water source. A total of $425,000 has been budgeted compared to $1,840,236 spent this year.

The surplus fund has been allocated $432,221, an increase of nearly $300,000 from this year. The surplus fund is used to finance additions and extensions to the water and sewer system.

The depreciation fund also received a substantial increase over this year. A total of $125,000 has been budgeted for an increase of about $90,000. The fund finances repairs and replacements to the water and sewer fund.

An amount of $3,843 was budgeted to a newly-created fund to finance the operation of a water and wastewater

Journalism group to study DE changes

By Jeff Jouett
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

An ad hoc committee of journalism faculty and students will study procedure to implement changes in the Daily Egyptian editorial structure recommended after a study by five professional editors.

The committee was set up at a journalism faculty meeting Monday at the request of Bryce Rucker, director of the School of Journalism.

Among changes suggested for the Daily Egyptian by the group of editors were a student editor-in-chief, a journalism faculty member as managing editor, a "publications and review board" to establish editorial policy, and a faculty "ombudsman" to handle reader complaints.

Vice President for Academic Affairs Keith Leasure, who released the report suggesting the changes on Friday, said that he and Acting SIU President Hiram Lesar would attempt to implement the recommendations by the beginning of fall semester.

"We will implement the spirit of the report as it best fits our situation here," Leasure added Monday.

Leasure said he asked Rucker to advise him how the report might best be carried out. He will also seek input from Howard Long, Daily Egyptian editor and fiscal officer, concerning the best way to affect suggested changes, Leasure said.

Faculty members on the ad hoc committee will be journalism professors Harry Stonecipher and Robert Trager, and instructors Bill Harmon and Ralph Johnson.

Four journalism students will comprise the rest of the ad hoc committee.

The report suggesting changes was received by Lesar on March 22. It detailed findings of a committee of editors commissioned to study operation of the Daily Egyptian last fall by former president David R. Derge.

laboratory for chemical and biological analysis.

The laboratory will centralize all testing for water, waste water and requirements. A chemist is now being sought to operate the laboratory.

Councilman Hans Fischer, citing the increases in the surplus and depreciation funds, said the budget reflected "good and sound management in a tight situation."

In other action, the council directed City Manager Carroll Fry to report back to the council on alternative ways to perform services which the city had previously contracted the Carbondale Mosquito Abatement District (CMAD) to perform.

The CMAD had been contracted to mow lawn on city property and report abandoned vehicles to the city. The CMAD has asked that the contract be renewed. City Attorney John Womick recommended to the council that CMAD's contract not be renewed because of a possible conflict of interests. Councilman Clark Vineyard is the director and chief executive officer of CMAD.

Womick said he had checked state law and court cases involving similar situations and decided that a conflict of

The report advocates a closer relation between the School of Journalism and the Daily Egyptian and stresses recommendation for "more ke positions given to students."

The proposed publication and review board would establish policy and provide a forum for complaints. The suggested board is to be comprised of the director of the School of Journalism, an elected faculty member, the managing editor, student editor-in-chief, a representative from the Student Senate, and three professional journalists from outside SIU.

Socialist plans campaign visit to SIU Tuesday

Ed Heisler, the Socialist Worker Party Candidate for U.S. senator from Illinois, will be on the SIU campus Tuesday.

Heisler, a 31-year-old railroad worker will speak at 1 p.m. in the student government offices. He is running against Democrat Adlai Stevenson II and Republican George Burditt.

Heisler is a member of the Coalition for Jobs and Economic Justice, which organized a demonstration in Chicago Sept. 8 to protest high prices and unemployment. He served as chairman of its labor committee, which helped to organize the march. Heisler contends that the fuel shortage has been designed to increase the profits of the oil trusts at the people's expense.

Heisler's platform includes promised fight against high prices unemployment and minority oppressor.

Heisler joined the Socialist Worker Party in 1960.

interests did exist. "Because of the situation, it is my opinion that the city cannot enter into the contract," Womick said.

"I do not particularly like to give this opinion," Womick told the council. He emphasized that Vineyard's two posts were well publicized and Vineyard had not participated in any council discussion or vote concerning the CMAD.

Even though there seemed to be an unethical practice on the part of Vineyard, Womick said the situation was expressly prohibited by state law.

Letters

By Arthur Hoppe
Chronicle Features

One of the most popular road shows to hit America since the days of Gallagher and Shean has been that great extravaganza, brought to you at a cost of millions—"Dick Nixon, Songs & Patter."

After a smash opening on that beloved television program, "Grand Ole Opry," Mr. Nixon played before wildly-cheering, patriotic audiences in Chicago and Houston.

Constantly polishing his material, he wowed them on "Hee Haw" and gave what Variety called a "boffo" appearance at a tryout before that New Haven PTA Kindergarten Bake Sale. At last he felt he was ready for Broadway.

Who will ever forget his opening number that brought down the standing-room-only house at the Orpheum? With one hand, he played "God Bless America" on the piano and with the other, he spun a yo-yo 'round-the-world', while at the same time waving an American flag clenched between his smiling teeth.

But the loudest applause was reserved for his rapidfire patter with his troupe of touring performers—the everpopular Dan Rather, the kindly, philosophical Pete Lisagor and that lovable curmudgeon, Sarah McClendon.

"Opening night jitters" were blamed for what few mix-ups occurred that historic evening. Handsome, young Mr. Rather received the usual cheers and whistles when he joined Mr. Nixon on the stage.

"In answer to your question, Dan," said Mr. Nixon, "while it might be an act of courage to resign and run away from the job that you were elected to do, it also takes courage to stand and fight for what you believe is right and I have a lot of courage."

"Excuse me, sir," said Mr. Rather, "I haven't asked that question yet."

"Oh, sorry," said Mr. Nixon. "I will now turn to my left, which is very hard for me, ha, ha, Pete?"

"What steps are you taking, sir," asked Mr. Lisagor, "to avoid a recession?"

"Just let me say this," replied Mr. Nixon. "I am not going to be diverted by any criticism from the press, fair or unfair."

"Hey, that's my question," protested Mrs. McClendon. "Do you still feel you are being victimized by what you called 'vicious, distorted and outrageous reporting'?"

"In answer to that," said Mr. Nixon, "let me say we feel the House Judiciary Committee already has enough information as to whether any charges against me are true or false."

"Sir..." began Mr. Rather.

"I'm glad you asked that question, Dan," said Mr. Nixon. "My job is to continue to bring a generation of peace and prosperity without war or inflation to every American, no matter what his or her race, creed or color. And I'm going to do it!"

So sock-o was Mr. Nixon's Broadway opening that he told critics afterward he was considering taking his show—piano, yo-yo, professional troupe and all—to Washington for a one-day stand before the House Judiciary Committee.

"Do you think you'll bring down the House?" he was asked.

"Either that or the House will bring down me," he said with the philosophical smile of the old troupier he's become. "But that's show biz."

Who took the rib

To the Daily Egyptian:

Although I can see that it is quite flattering for men to think that they have so impressed the language with their importance that it is incapable of being non-sexist, I can't let Mr. Rasche's humorous offering on the subject go by without commenting on what is obvious to most people. The "man" in manipulate, manuscript, mandate, etc., is a Latin prefix meaning "hand" and is quite different in origin than the suffix "man" in such words as chairman, spokesman, ombudsman, etc., which are discriminatory to women.

Isn't it possible that "man," "woman," and all their variants evolved during the hundreds of millennia of people's existence from the term "human," whatever its prototype in lingual antiquity was? Or what is to prevent us from thinking that "female" is the original denominative and "male" is a derivative thereof?

I don't believe we can discover the answer to this question philologically. Western religions and civilizations have conditioned us into thinking of woman as a biological afterthought to man. Sex prejudices predate recorded history (probably because in the early struggle for the species to survive, woman was more biologically necessary than man, and he resented it) we must turn to the evidences of biology to verify what every woman secretly knows: she is the equal of, if not ascendant to, man.

The sex of a female is determined by the pairing of X chromosomes, one from each parent; males by XY—the Y being the deciding factor of the sex. The Y is called a broken chromosome, since it is in fact an X with one leg missing. A male human being, then, could be considered as an altered female. Other biological evidences of this are many; to mention a few: the presence of mamillary glands in men, the clitoris in women, the predisposition of men to congenital diseases such as colorblindness, hemophilia, etc.

Who took the rib from whom?

Toward more light

To the Daily Egyptian:

I was reading last Wednesday's Daily Egyptian and I came across a letter written by Steve Crabtree. It seems to me that he's quite a prolific writer and that the DE should make him a regular columnist. That would leave more room for others to express their opinions on the editorial pages.

Because I had not seen any of his letters printed in the DE for quite some time (except for the one only a few days sooner), I thought maybe that he had resigned himself to a life of celibacy in a monastery somewhere so he could stick his nose in his Bible and up at all of those who threaten his way of life. And all of you homosexuals, hippies, freaks, long-hairs, commies and marijuana-smokers should know, deep down in your hearts, that his way of life is the only way to live.

It might appear to some that he is close-minded. But that's only because he knows that he is right and he is just trying to help you see the light so you can realize the errors of your ways. All of you sinners out there should realize what he is trying to do for you.

I'm sure that if he hadn't previously dedicated his Christian life to writing letters to the DE he would sell everything that he owns, then give the money to the poor, and move to some ghetto or slum to start his work of converting the world to Christianity. He is giving up a potential sainthood for you sinners. So I wish that you would stop writing all of those nasty letters to him and getting him so upset.

Babe no baby

To the Daily Egyptian:

To clear up a point in Wednesday's editorial on Hank Aaron: The Baby Ruth candy bar was not named after Babe Ruth. Rather it was named for a newborn niece of the owner of Curtiss Candy Co., makers of the Baby Ruth bar.

All my life I've heard people say that the candy bar was named for the Babe. Just thought I'd try to clear it up for some people.

Fight for fair share

To The Daily Egyptian:

In response to the letter written on April 9, by Richard "Josh" Bragg, President of Gay Liberation: From the statements therein contained it appears that Gay Liberation is still on Cloud Nine somewhere as usual, dealing with feelings, and not with facts. From what I know took place at the Student Senate meeting, and what Mr. Bragg's states, I can see that he did not listen to what was said.

The statement was made by one of the senators that the budget was cut, because it was felt that black students could join any organization on SIU campus. I replied as follows, "Ever since black students have been coming to SIU, you, (meaning student government), have asked us to drop our identity, and adopt white middle class values, we can see this from the fact that $250.00 has been earmarked to gay liberation. How many black sissy have you seen on this campus?"

That is all I said, and left the room. As to Mr. Bragg's information that the secretary of Gay Liberation is black, and that gay lib has other black Members, I can truthfully say that they to me, and I am sure to the black student body, "ARE BLACK IN SKIN COLOR ONLY."

Black Affairs Council has not requested any more than what black students have paid into Southern Illinois University. When you look back over the years that we have been attending this university. If money is the only means of obtaining respect in this nation, and on this campus, that we are a sick nation, and SIU, is equally as sick.

It is true that we do employ student workers from our budget, the same as Student Activities, but it was not a lady who explained this, Mr. Bragg, this is to inform you that Mr. Edgar Philpot, the coordinator of Black Affairs Council, is a man, not a young lady. You do know what a male is and looks like don't you?

We will continue our fight to get a fair share of the pie on this campus, we may lose, but we will continue to fight for what we the members of Black Affairs Council feel we are due on this campus. We will not lose our self-respect as black people, or BLACK MEN and WOMEN, like those various black Members of gay lib, who can not cope with life.

If because of this we lose friends, then we really never had any friends in the first place.

The devil to pay

Ed Husayko
Student Writer

One of the most controversial films in cinema history, "The Exorcist," will arrive in Carbondale Friday. This film will be shown at the Fox Eastgate Theater, at $3 a head, for a minimum of twelve weeks. The film garnered so much publicity during its early run that many were surprised it didn't cop Hollywood's coveted prize "Oscar," as best picture. It has been judged by many as a work of art, but at same time many have called it a prostitution of cinema art.

Today, very little is reported about the film and its audience reaction because basically it is old news. At this time, the city of Carbondale will get a chance to see what the excitement was all about.

Is this such an important film to deserve a three month run? Many think not. The solid booking will cut indoor first run film availability 33 per cent. In a town where film viewing is one of the few forms of entertainment, this is a major reduction. Hopefully, the Varsity and Saluki Cinema will continue to change their bills frequently. However, a two or three week run at these theaters is usually expected.

Why is this film being brought to us, for an extended period of time, almost four months after its initial release? Will the huge crowds that are anticipated come? Probably at first, but any film shown for such a long period of time in a town such as Carbondale will eventually have to depend on people coming more than once. Many students will not be able to afford this.

Doesn't the manager of the Fox realize many of the people who wanted to see the film have already seen it? The film has been playing in Chicago and St. Louis since Christmas. The influx from surrounding towns and local people are the films and the Fox's only hope. For the average college student, "The Exorcist" will prove to be a white elephant. Student discount rates will not be acknowledged and the higher price will not sit well at all. Serious film students who wish to see the film over and over again will be financially unable.

Currently at the Fox, "The Sting," is playing at a 25 cent price increase, but student discount cards are being honored. The crowds are turning out, including students. The student audience is an important asset to Carbondale theater owners. Have you ever been to a movie when the students are home on break? Empty isn't quite the word.

Sure, the deal to book the film was made a long time ago and we are stuck. Perhaps having, "The Exorcist," in town will inspire other theater owners to run better films, as well as teach the Fox a lesson. Notice how quickly, "The Great Gatsby," has come to town. However, is this really a step in the right direction? Rumor has it that "Gatsby" isn't that great.

At this time there is nothing we can do about a three month deal with the devil, but hope that bad business and student neglect will make it go away, fast.

Daily Egyptian Opinion & Commentary

EDITORIALS: The Daily Egyptian encourages free discussion of current issues through editorials and letters on these pages. Editorials are labeled Opinion and letters on these pages. Editorials are written and signed by members of the student news staff and by students enrolled in journalism courses and represent opinions of the authors only.

LETTERS: Readers are invited to express their opinions in letters which must be signed with name, classification and major or faculty, rank, address and telephone number. Letters should be typewritten, and their length should not exceed 250 words. Letter writers should respect the generally accepted standards of good taste and are expected to make their points in terms of issues rather than personalities. Acceptance for publication will depend on limitations of space and the timeliness and relevance of the material. Unsigned letters will not be accepted, and authorship of all letters must be verified by the Daily Egyptian. It is the responsibility of the Daily Egyptian to determine content of the opinion pages. Other materials on pages four and five include editorials and articles reprinted from other publications syndicated columns and articles, and irrespective of opinion articles authored locally.

Angle not so good

To the Daily Egyptian:

This letter is in response to the letters from Ms. Raggi and Ms. Blumenthal concerning the photograph on page 20 of Tuesday's (April 9) Daily Egyptian of the female gymnast. I re-examined the picture after reading each letter and I must agree with Ms. Raggi on the obvious poor taste of angle from which the photograph was taken.

While not a photography major, I hope to make it my minor by fall of this year. I have been taking pictures with a 35mm SLR (single lens reflex) for about 5 years and a 2 1/4 x 2 1/4 TLR (twin lens reflex) for about two and a half years before that. I am continually practicing with my 35mm to develop more and better skills in terms of adaptability and choice of angle by which to improve either the appearance of the picture itself or that of the subject.

I believe that, while the picture is a fairly good one of the gymnast's routine, it could have been made equally well from at least three different angles. I don't really believe that a female photographer could have been so callous as to have shot the picture from that particular angle. I don't even think that a reputable male photographer would have taken the picture from that angle, at least, not without certain misgivings.

Sorry Leslye, but I think that you're wrong.

It's in the mind

To the Daily Egyptian:

In regard to your comment about the photograph of the gymnast in Tuesday's Egyptian, I feel I must make a reply. Gymnastics as a spectator sees it is the viewing of the human body in one of its most beautiful and disciplined forms. As in modern dance or ballet, the human body, with few exceptions, transcends its sexuality and becomes a form used for creative expression. I'm not even sure what you find distasteful about the photograph, but whatever, it is something in your mind. Perhaps watching more gymnastics would help, but then again maybe it wouldn't.

Newsman at Wounded Knee helped FBI

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP)—A photographer for The Associated Press testified today that he had given information on one occasion to FBI agents at a roadblock outside Wounded Knee during the village's 71-day occupation.

James Mone, a photographer in The AP's Minneapolis bureau, testified at an evidentiary hearing which has interrupted the trial of two American Indian Movement (AIM) leaders in St. Paul. He said he had responded to questions about how many people were inside Wounded Knee and had given details of statements made at a press conference by Indian leaders.

After his testimony, Mone was suspended from duty by Wes Gallagher, president and general manager of The AP, who issued this statement:

"It is apparent from his own testimony in court today that AP photographer Jim Mone acted improperly as an impartial newsman. It is against Associated Press policy for any AP man to be involved in any way in any news story. Under the circumstances, Mone has been suspended from all further duties with The Associated Press."

Mone testified that an FBI agent had asked him at a government roadblock on March 12, 1973 about how many persons were inside the besieged village.

"I'm quite sure I discussed an estimate," Mone said, adding he believed he said there were about 350 to 400 persons in Wounded Knee that day.

"And I believe there was the usual conversation 'did you see any guns?'" Mone said.

Mark Lane, defense attorney for two AIM leaders, asked Mone, "You felt it was a stupid question?"

"Oh sure," answered Mone. "I believe they asked numbers and I may have given them a figure." Mone said that if he had answered the question, he probably would have estimated about 60 weapons.

An FBI teletype report entered in evidence last week quoted an unidentified source who had left Wounded Knee March 12, 1973 as saying he had observed 200 to 300 weapons, including rifles with scopes and an estimated 350 to 400 persons in the village.

Mone testified that he relayed to agents other statements about use of liquor and drugs in the village, which Indian leaders had made at a press conference. Mone said he had added personal observations about problems of control in the village.

The special hearing before U.S. District Judge Fred Michol is about defense charges of an illegal wiretap at the main roadblock where Mone said today he had talked from time to time with FBI agents during the occupation which began Feb. 27 and lasted until May 8.

Meanwhile, the trial of AIM leaders Russell Means and Dennis Banks has been in recess since March 15, with the jury absent.

Means and Banks are charged in 10-count indictments in the takeover. The charges include larceny, burglary, assault on federal officers, illegal possession of firearms and conspiracy.

SIU football coach claims people are 'hung up' on success concept

Too many people place too much importance on success, Doug Weaver, SIU head football coach and athletic director, said Monday afternoon.

SIU to host singing group from Texas

Madrigal Singers from Tarrant County (Texas) Junior College, on tour in the Midwest, will perform at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the Home Econ. Auditorium.

The group is directed by Leonard McCormick, chairman of the music department at the Texas school. McCormick and his wife Patty were members of SIU's Summer Playhouse in 1973. Both had leading roles in "Oliver," playing Mr. and Mrs. Sawyerberry, and Mrs. McCormick portrayed the secretary in "Promises, Promises."

The Madrigal Singers are making their sixth annual concert tour. They dress in authentic costumes from the sixteenth century when they perform music from that period and sit around a decorated semi-circular banquet table to recreate the authentic Madrigal era. They change into contemporary formal attire for the modern numbers.

The public is invited. No admission will be charged.

Weaver gave a luncheon lecture to about 20 persons at the Student Christian Foundation as part of the week-long "Festival of Hope."

Speaking on "Hope in My Life," Weaver said people are hung up with success. He said many people who have made a commitment to a goal and have worked hard to attain it are tremendously let down if they do not succeed.

Weaver said a person should not feel this way because God asks for people to have faith, not for people to succeed.

Personally, Weaver said, he has a "tremendous need to compete and be successful," but he does not feel that being successful is essential to leading a Christian life.

Many persons put too much faith in their own abilities, he said, and feel they succeed because they have driven themselves to be successful. Weaver said talent comes from the grace of God, and not from the amount of work a person puts himself through.

He said Christ has helped him to get through hard times, and that he often asks Christ to just "help me through this day."

In answer to questions posed after his speech, Weaver said he feels the athletic programs at SIU should be equal to the programs at universities that SIU is in competition with. He cited the University of Illinois and the University of Missouri as two of these foes in the academic and recruitment fields as well as athletics.

He said athletics should hold an important place in the university because sports events bring people together, if only for a moment.

The "Festival of Hope," is jointly sponsored by the Lutheran Student Center, Newman Center, Student Christian Foundation, Wesley Community House and Canterbury Club.

Dell Hymes

Language use to be discussed

The editor of "Language in Society" and president of the American Folklore Society, Dell Hymes, will speak on "The Ethnography of Speaking," at 3 p.m. Wednesday in Lawson 151.

Hymes is a professor of anthropology and associate director of the Center for Urban Ethnography at the University of Pennsylvania. He has written and edited a number of articles and books dealing with ethnography and language in culture.

He is currently working on a "cultural grammar" for a few remaining speakers of Wasco, an Indian language of Oregon and Washington. He is also studying the ways in which uses and organizations of verbal means are evaluated, shaped and made consequential in our society.

Hymes is coming to SIU as part of the joint speakers program on "Recent Advances in Applied Linguistics" co-sponsored by the departments of Linguistics, Speech and Speech Pathology and Audiology.

Evaluation forms are ready at SAEC

Instructors may pick up instructional improvement questionnaire forms at the Student Affairs Evaluation Center at Washington Square, Building C.

The forms are given to students to evaluate courses and instructors at the end of quarters.

Two forms are available. One is submitted to Mirror, a campus publication of course and instructor evaluations. The other form is kept by the evaluation center.

School board elections show votes cast favored incumbents

By David Ambrose
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Voters in Saturday's school board elections generally cast their votes in favor of incumbent trustees. All incumbents who ran in area board elections were re-elected to a board position.

Three incumbent trustees defeated two challengers for 3-year terms on the John A. Logan Junior College District Board of Trustees.

Unofficial election returns show Richard Hunter, Carbondale, receiving 4,617 votes, James Alongi, DuQuoin, receiving 4,274 and Clifford Batteau with 3,978. Student Trustee challenger Bruce Fine, Carterville, received 2,314 votes and James Fiorino, DuQuoin, 1,977 votes.

In the Carbondale High School Board election for three 3-year terms, unofficial results give Carol McDermott 2,109 votes, incumbent Charles Hintersman 1,945 votes and Mary Walker 1,369 votes. William Coracy received 1,167 votes and Robert Artz received 464 votes. There were 93 write-in votes cast.

Unofficial returns show Ray with 604 votes against Raymond Lacy's 228 for a 3-year term inside Murphysboro Township. Newcomer James Dawson received 486 votes to defeat Ray Nowacki's 323 for the seat representing areas outside Murphysboro Township. Charles Meadows received 747 votes to retain his appointed seat for a one year term to complete the term of Bill Riseling who resigned earlier this year.

No write-in ballots were cast in the Murphysboro election. Unofficial returns from Carbondale Elementary School District 95 give Charles Reno with 1,322 votes and David Rosenthal with 1,268 votes three year terms on the board. They were followed by Mrs. Duane Lanchester with 1,037 votes and Lawrence Weisman with 826 votes.

3,000 join state payroll

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—There were nearly 3,000 more employes on the state payroll in January than in the previous month. Comptroller George Lindberg reported Monday. The increase was attributed primarily to the addition of the Cook County Public Aid Department to the state payroll.

There were 114,738 state employes in January, 2,943 more than in December 1973.

The January employe count was 1,536 less than in January 1973. However, the payroll for January was 5.8 per cent higher than that for the same month a year ago.

Elderly blacks are deprived, claims community specialist

Black over 65 in Illinois are being deprived of the benefits due them as social security recipients. John Holmes said Saturday at the Black Aging and Aged workshop.

Holmes, community specialist from the Governor's Office of Human Resources, said about 63 per cent of the black senior citizens in Illinois are currently receiving social benefits, while 80 per cent of white residents over 65 are receiving the same benefits.

Many of the blacks receiving social security are widows receiving their husbands' benefits," Holmes said.

The above schematic design shows what the two-story, 365-car demountable parking structure will look like. It will be assembled from pre-fabricated sections that may be taken apart for relocation if necessary.

He attributed the difference to the black senior citizens' lack of awareness concerning the benefits to which he is entitled. He recommended that steps be taken to provide more information for the black senior citizen and to educate him on the services available to him.

Holmes said the entire government approach to the senior citizen and his problems should be changed. He said assistance is often refused senior citizens not because the funds are not available, but because funds have been appropriated for a specific program and cannot be used as needed.

He said the problems should be approached from an overall standpoint rather than directing persons to specific agencies for their various problems and needs.

Walter Robinson, the other scheduled guest on the program "Training Community Persons to Provide Quality Services for the Aged," was out of town and unable to attend the workshop.

Newsman dies at 78

WEST FRANKFORT—W. Henson Purcell, executive editor of the West Frankfort Daily American, died at 10:50 p.m. Saturday in Union Hospital.

Mr. Purcell, 78, worked for the Daily American for 58 years. He was probably best known for his "Mine Run" column, which appeared on the editorial page. In it, he discussed national, international and local events.

Mr. Purcell began his newspaper career as a "printer's devil" on a weekly newspaper in Carrier Mills. He joined the Daily American staff in 1916, working in the press room.

Serving as editor and general manager, Mr. Purcell became executive editor in May, 1968. He won many awards in his long career.

He is survived by his wife, two daughters, Mrs. Ray Curry of St. Louis and Mrs. Andrew Patterson of El Cajon, Calif.; and a son, Dr. Thomas Purcell of Carbondale.

Funeral services will be at 1 p.m. Tuesday in the First Baptist Church. The Rev. Otto Brown and the Rev. T.H. King officiating.

Physicians urged to control health fee increases by AMA

CHICAGO (AP)—The nation's 60,000 physicians were advised Monday by the American Medical Association (AMA) to exercise "continued restraint" in raising their fees if wage and price controls in health care are allowed to expire April 30.

The AMA also urged President Nixon to abandon efforts to have Congress continue the controls.

The AMA's position was stated in letters to the doctors and the President signed by Dr. Richard E. Palmer, chairman of the board of trustees and published in American Medical News, a weekly AMA newspaper.

Noting that during the Economic Stabilization Program physicians' fees increased at a rate far below that of the rest of the economy, Palmer told the physicians, "We advise continued restraint."

Under the program, physicians were limited to increases of 2.5 per cent during Phases I, II and III and 4 per cent under Phase IV.

Palmer said that when controls are lifted "physicians will have the opportunity to remedy conditions that in some cases have endangered the quality and availability of medical care."

He added, "In these instances, and in those cases where severe and unjustified personal loss has occurred, immediate adjustments by physicians will be essential."

But he pointed out that physicians "have a responsibility to their patients, and to their profession, and to themselves" to "consider the political, economical and personal consequences of fee adjustments at this time."

"Impulsive action could seriously and irreversibly affect the health of the public, the future of the individual physician, and the nature of the medical profession," he wrote.

Labeling controls on physicians' fees as discriminatory, Palmer said physicians "are entitled to do their work in a free economy on the same basis as other men and women in other walks of life."

Palmer told President Nixon that physicians' cooperation "has helped curtail inflation in the health field" but that "we believe that a continuation of controls would be unfair and unequitable."

Blood drive this week at SIU Student Center

The Jackson County Red Cross will hold its spring blood drive for the Carbondale area Tuesday through Friday in the Student Center Ballrooms.

The drive will be held from 1 to 6 p.m. Tuesday and 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Wednesday through Friday. Qualifications for giving blood require a person be in good health and weigh at least 110 pounds. Persons who haven't made an appointment still can come to the drive and donate blood.

This week's drive, the first of two nearly drives sponsored by the Red Cross, will be staffed by volunteers from local churches, several fraternities and sororities and AFROT. said the Rev. Charles Watkins of the First Christian Church.

Rev. Watkins, coordinator of the blood drive, said sandwiches, coffee, cookies, and punch will be provided by participating churches for persons giving blood during the drive.

"We're hoping for 225 donation per day," Rev. Watkins said, "and for each donation one is assured of free replacement blood for himself and his immediate family, in any amount, for one full year."

"This, along with the knowledge that one's donation may save the life of someone else, should be more than enough encouragement for us to take 15 minutes of our day," he added.

For more information about the drive, contact Arnold Air Society at 453-2481.

Keep arms from Chile, says group

The SIU Chile Solidarity Committee has received letters from three Illinois members of the U.S. Congress supporting the committee's call for an embargo on U.S. arms supplies to the Chilean junta.

The junta is the result of a military takeover of the socialist Allende regime in Chile last September, said Fred Whitehead, committee member.

Since the coup, the Chilean constitution has been abolished, as were all political parties, and the people have been subject to total censorship, Whitehead said.

A petition, signed by 200 SIU students and faculty, called for an immediate full-scale Congressional investigation into CIA involvement in the coup, the withdrawal and cancellation of U.S. diplomatic recognition of the junta and an embargo on arms supplies to the junta.

Rep. Kenneth Gray, D-West Frankfurt, said in reply to the petition. "I shall support Congressional initiative to limit or withhold such military assistance to the Chilean junta."

Sen. Charles Percy, R-Illinois, said "The undemocratic measures which have been taken cannot be condoned." Percy disagreed with the second provision of the petition which called for "withdrawal and cancellation of U.S. diplomatic recognition of the junta."

Sen. Adlai Stevenson III, D-Ill., said "This is indeed a sad affair and I agree that we should do what we can to persuade the junta to restore constitutional democracy to that country."

Foes of ERA give Assembly apple pie issue

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—A group of women opposed to the passage of the Equal Rights Amendment (ERA) said Monday it will present apple pies to members of the Illinois General Assembly Tuesday.

"Just as apple pie is traditionally associated with home, motherhood and family, we believe our legislators can vote for these basic values by opposing ERA," said Harriet Mulqueeny, chairman of Stop ERA.

Mrs. Mulqueeny said the presentation was planned to coincide with Women's Rights Week, proclaimed by Gov. Daniel Walker.

Two attempts to ratify the ERA were turned back in the Illinois legislature, but supporters of the measure say they will try again to win its approval in 1974.

Retired local tourism head envisions giant pyramid here

Goffrey Hughes, the retired director of Southern Illinois Inc. which promotes local tourism, said a plan is under "serious consideration" to attract tourists to Southern Illinois by building a giant pyramid, hanging gardens, a castle and other structures reflecting the theme "Five Thousand Years of Civilization."

Hughes, who was director of Southern Illinois Inc. for 22 years, described the plan to a group of students at a program entitled "What to See in Southern Illinois" in the lounge of Mae Smith dorm Thursday night.

Leon Russell scheduled for May 4 show

Leon Russell will perform in concert at 8 p.m. May 4 at the SIU Arena. Tickets to the show will go on sale at 7:30 a.m. April 24 at the Student Center Central Ticket Office.

Ticket prices will be $4.50, $5.50 and $6 with a 50-cent discount for SIU students.

Russell's last album is "Hank Wilson Is Back," an anthology of country and western songs written by Wilson and performed by Russell.

Russell's last appearance in the Midwest was a short walk across the stage during Bob Dylan's January concert in St. Louis. He has performed with George Harrison, Ringo Starr and Eric Clapton and has played on albums by Delany and Bonnie.

Russell, once called the Master of Space and Time, formed Joe Cocker's Mad Dogs and Englishmen band for an American tour in 1970 and labels his latest music "Swamp Rock."

SIU coed falls in contest

Jennifer Hensch, a 21-year-old SIU senior of Wilmette, advanced to the semi-finals in the Miss Illinois-Universe pageant held Saturday and Sunday at the Holiday Inn in Decatur.

Karen Morrison of St. Charles won the title. Melinda Staiger of Aurora was runner-up.

Contestants were competing for a total of $4,500 in awards, including a $1,000 scholarship.

Ms. Morrison will compete in the Miss USA contest May 9 to 19 in Niagara Falls, N.Y.

Fraternity rush scheduled

Phi Sigma Kappa national social fraternity will hold an informal rush Tuesday at 8 p.m.

The fraternity has 33 members and was organized at SIU in 1957. Members of Phi Sigma Kappa have participated in campus activities including homecoming and welcome week homecoming steering committees.

Election planned for top teacher

All students who have taken a course from instructors in the College of Liberal Arts during the past year are eligible to vote this week for the year's outstanding Liberal Arts teacher.

A ballot box located in the reception of the College's Advisement Office, Room E-203 Woody Hall, will be available this week.

Liberal Arts advisers and the Mirror's historical files will also be considered sources for helping make the selection.

According to Hughes, the pyramid he envisions for Southern Illinois would draw people from all over the world.

A parking lot could go on the first floor structure, and the rest of the 12 to 15 stories could house banks, doctor's and lawyer's offices, restaurants and motels, he speculated.

Relics from Egypt would be brought over, since the area is known as "Little Egypt."

Eventually Hughes would like to see a Babylonian-style hanging gardens, a Greek temple, a Roman arch, a medieval castle, pioneer log cabins and a geodesic dome in scattered locations over Southern Illinois.

Also, he would like to see Shawneetown and Cairo restored to their former glory.

"People get a bad first impression of Southern Illinois when they see Cairo," he said. "It's the slummiest place."

He admits that raising money for "Five Thousand Years of Civilization" might keep the plan from becoming reality.

Hughes also spoke about the past and present of Southern Illinois. After describing the geology and history of the area, he passed out maps and described various spots of interest in response to questions from those present.

Here's a tough question that very few fans can answer...Before Babe Ruth came along, who held the record for most home runs in a lifetime?...Oddly enough, he is a forgotten man today—a little-known player named Roger Connor who played in the majors from 1889 to 1897 and hit 136 lifetime homers...Although he was the all-time home run champ before Ruth, Connor isn't even in the baseball Hall of Fame.

Here's a tough sports question...A 19-year-old girl was once chosen over Babe Ruth and Jack Dempsey as "Athlete of the Year"...Babe Ruth finished second in the voting that year, 1926, and Dempsey wound up third...Who was the girl that beat them out?...Answer is Gertrude Ederle who that year became the first woman ever to swim the English Channel and finished first in the best athlete voting.

Nixon administration serves notice on job discrimination

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Nixon administration used the signing Monday of a historic job discrimination settlement with nine major steel companies to serve notice that it will take similar action against other industries.

Undersecretary of Labor Richard F. Shubert said that in industries where race and sex discrimination exist "we will be knocking on their doors and moving forward against them as we did with AT&T and the steel industry."

Shubert declined to identify the next civil rights targets, but government sources said these are likely to be the copper and aluminum industries.

The sources said the copper and aluminum companies have the same discriminatory job seniority system as the steel industry, and "it will be easier to convince them of the changes needed to be made."

The voluntary agreement negotiated with the United Steelworkers union and the nine companies which produce 73 per cent of the nation's steel calls for payment of $30.9 million in back pay to about 40,000 workers, mostly blacks. About 4,000 women also will share in the payments.

In addition, administration officials estimated it will cost the industry another $25 million to $30 million the first year alone in wage adjustments aimed at elevating minority males and women to equal standing with white males in similar jobs.

It is the largest job discrimination settlement in the nation's history, surpassing the $38 million agreement negotiated last year with the American Telephone & Telegraph Co.

In outlining details of the pact, Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe said it "marks a new day." The NAACP and a major women's rights group sharply criticized it as inadequate.

A spokesman for the nine steel firms said terms of the agreement, entered as a consent decree in U.S. District in Birmingham, Ala., "represent an equitable settlement and eliminate the need for protracted litigation."

The $30.9 million in back pay will be distributed to 34,449 blacks and Spanish-surnamed male production and maintenance workers hired before 1968, to 5,599 women employees and to minority and women employees who retired from those jobs in the past two years. Payments will range from $250 to $3,000.

The union voluntarily agreed to contribute a share of the payments.

Campus Briefs

Jennie Jones, Head Start regional training officer in the Department of Elementary Education, was one of the participants in the National Center on Educational Media and Materials for the Handicapped Product Review at Ohio State University on March 27 to 29.

Tom Parady, chemistry graduate student, was presented April 11 with this year's award as the outstanding chemistry major at Indiana State University-Evansville. The award is sponsored by the Evansville Section of the American Chemical Society.

Parady completed undergraduate studies at Indiana State University this past January, and then came to SIU to work for his Ph.D. in organic chemistry. He is now carrying out research with Professor Cal Y. Meyers on organic sulfur compounds in Illinois coal.

At Indiana State, Parady did senior research with Professor Howard Dunn; Dunn spent the summer of 1971 with Professor Meyers at SIU in sulfone research sponsored by the Research Corporation.

William S. O'Brien, assistant professor in the SIU department of thermal and environmental engineering, has received a $17,000 grant from the National Science Foundation Division of Engineering.

The NSF grant will support 18 months of research into improved approaches to the design and evaluation of coal pyrolysis and devolatilization reactor chambers, which are used in the conversion of coal into gas- or fuel oil-type energy sources.

O'Brien's research project is entitled "Research Initiation-Gaseous Product Equilibrium Compositions During Coal Pyrolysis Reactions."

Howard N. Rosen, adjunct assistant professor in the SIU department of thermal environmental engineering, published an article entitled "The Importance of Slip Velocity in Determining Growth and Nucleation Kinetics in Continuous Crystallization" in the March, 1974 issue of the Journal of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers.

Rosen's article examines various aspects of continuous crystallization of inorganic salts from aqueous solutions.

Raymond D. ## Summer quarter shortened to aid semester change

Summer quarter 1974 at SIU will run only eight weeks, instead of the usual 11-week full quarter, according to Henry Andrews, assistant registrar.

The shortened quarter will facilitate the transition from quarter to early semester system, Andrews said. Final exams are scheduled August 7-8, with commencement August 9.

Thursday, July 4, will be a holiday and Friday, July 5 has been designated as an authorized "floating holiday," Andrews said.

Summer 1974 class schedule is available at the Admissions and Records at Woody Hall or may be ordered by mail from University Graphics Office. The bulletin is free.

A well-known scribe reviews an 'olde, faymous' production

Editor's Note: Daily Egyptian reviewer Dave Stearns tried to put himself in the shoes of the Bard. William Shakespeare himself, last Friday at the performance of "As You Like It." Here is how he thinks Shakespeare might have reported what he saw.

Dave Stearns
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The time was out of joint, alas, when upon a Friday eve (a windy cloudbapped one at that) I happen'd upon the piazza Shryock when lo, a madman cloth'd in gold and white came hither exulting "As You Like It, As You Like It,"—a title of a play I compo'd many a score ago.

Whence came a merry motley crew of wandering actors performing my work with much fervor and facility, and far more amusing than I had imagin'd. Calling themselves the San Francisco New Shakespeare Company, these players chang'd my work considerably. Many changes were for the better but occasionally spill'd into tendencies of vulgarity.

A tangl'd farce is my play, concerning much romance at first sight and persons denying rightful inheritance to their fair kin. And from his wick'd brother unto the forest flees our merry hero, Orlando, where he is unknowingly court'd by his love, Princess Rosalynd (who for purposes of royalty as a man is dressed).

Meanwhile, a shepardess becomes enamor'd with Rosalynd's male disguise, while her servant, Touchstone, speaks with a satirical tongue and romances a forest-born libertine, firmly embosem'd.

Enacted by Kevin Gardiner, Orland alive did come as an appealingly humorous fellow—a prankster, a clumsy musketeer, a Robin Hood. Said Gardiner is indeed a bloody good player possessing a bellyful of expressions

Petition deadline Wednesday for CSEC positions

Nominating petitions for the Civil Service Employees Council (CSEC) must be delivered to the campus post office no later than noon Wednesday.

Any eligible Civil Service employee who has not received a ballot may pick one up at the Civil Service personnel office, 803 S. Elizabeth St.

Council members from seven Civil Service categories will be determined in this election. The categories are trades and occupations, secretarial, general, custodial, administrative, professional and services.

CSEC officers will be elected by council members at the first meeting following Wednesday's election.

A Review

for each one of my words. The lad woo'd and won his audience with more skill and facility than Orlando woo'd his love Rosalynd. Verily, he hath much improv'd since his skillful role in "A Midsummer's Night Dream" one year hence. Would that he could have trod upon the stage of my globe.

And ah. Such a statuesque damsel I have seen only rarely as Diana Stagner, the portrayer of Rosalynd. Such sensuous frailty, spirit and mirth—I commenc'd to crave her as did her ardent Orlando.

Not to be readily dismiss'd, Frank Rustin Boyd as Touchstone combined the role's witlessness and wisdom, its bawdiness brought forth to a point as to make one blush.

As I recall, the entire company is more consistently facet than their "A Midsummer's Night Dream" one year hence. And how fine art their mother-director, Margrit Roma. Paced for players with the fleetness of Mercury, large areas of the piazza Dame Roma did use. Moreover, Dame Roma utilized my words as a guide for the players' actions and the grand movement was pleasing to viewers of all sides.

However, I prithee fair Dame Roma, to exercise more forbearance in interpreting my works. Curious four letter words interject'd I did hear—the meaning of which is a mystery to me.

Moreover, Dame Roma, must thou giveth my various minor characters an exotic savage accent—that of the southern regions of the New World? Aren't not my words amusing enough? Must my verse be cheapen'd in this fashion?

Ah well, in my day, no uniform spelling had we, and me thinks in this day there is no uniform pronunciation. Most essential, your enactment of "As You Like It" overflow'd with joy, mirth and warmth—something which, I fear, other players overlook when producing my plays.

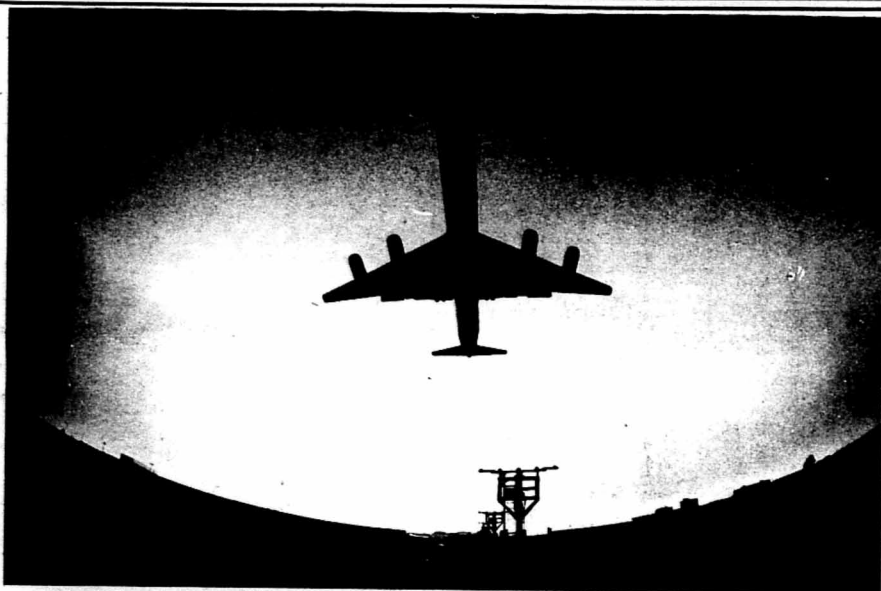

New Shakespeare Company, I would follow thee to the ends of the earth were't it possible. But alas, I hear Ben Johnson calling and I must be off to the bear baiting pits, to savor a saucy wench.

You're serious about photography. So is the Canon F-1.

To you, photography is more than a hobby. You may never want to become a professional. Yet, your photography is as important a means of self-expression to you as your speech. You demand the same excellence in your photographic equipment as you do of your photographic skills.

The Canon F-1 is the camera that can fulfill any photographic task to which you put it. It can stand up to your ability in any situation.

Naturally, a great camera like the F-1 won't ensure great results. That's up to you. Yet—it's nice to know that your camera can grow with you as a photographer.

Part of the reason for this is the F-1 system. Since it was designed in totality, it offers total performance. There is nothing "added on" in the F-1 system. Everything works as it was designed to, and integrates superbly with everything else. You'll spend less time worrying about operating the camera than in shooting. And that's what creative photography is really all about.

Controls fall into place under each finger. It's no accident. Professionals who depend on a camera for their livelihood have a deep regard for the F-1's handling. It's amazing how much a comfortable camera can improve your work.

Sharing these lenses and many of these accessories are the new Electronic Canon EF, with fully automatic exposure control, the FTb, now improved with all exposure information visible in the finder, and the TLb, great for a second camera body or for getting started in Canon photography. Canon. For serious applications. For serious photographers. Isn't it time you got serious?

Student Government candidates give views

Editor's Note: Daily Egyptian reporters Brenda Penland and Dabby Rahermann have conducted interviews with all president, vice president and student trustee candidates. Following is their report.

Presidential

Garry Barker
President

Garry Barker, independent candidate running with Marc Kamm, said his main goal is to "organize large numbers of student voters so we'll have greater say in state and local government."

Barker said he would try to rev up voter interest through concerts every other week. "If elected, I'll spend the summer organizing concerts," Barker said. "We've got no concerts and a bunch of people who like to dance down boogie woogie rock and roll."

"Everything I'll do is part of my goal to have students vote in local elections," Barker said. "When student leave home and come here they get their first chance to compete in the real world. If they withdraw, they're fighting themselves. They need to express themselves, and they can do that by voting."

Currently SIU's image is unique. A lot of administrators and legislators see it as long haired, dope-smoking freaks," Barker said. "But the real image is diverse students and diverse programs. We're the most aware of any college students. I'd like to see us connect political awareness and input."

Matt Chaney
President

Matt Chaney, independent candidate running with Harry Yaseen, said the most important issue is "gaining credibility for Student Government."

"The students I know view it as a joke, an exercise in futility," Chaney said. "No one takes us seriously, but we could have considerable influence if we had student votes and support."

Chaney is a government major and commuter Senator. He lives in Murphysboro, his hometown, and plans to go to law school after graduation.

Chaney said he would like to see the University Senate regain the veto power it lost under former president Derge. "Derge was so authoritarian in the way he ran things," Chaney said. "He didn't know how to handle dropping enrollment."

"This area depends on SIU for economic reasons," he said. "We have to progress and attract students."

Chaney said he will, if elected, "work my butt off."

Executive officers should stop being all 'holler' and should be cooperative but not give in to faculty and administrators who make demands," he said.

T. C. Cottingham
President

T. C. Cottingham is running for president on the alternative platform with Gary Jaquet. Cottingham is a junior speech major from Peoria.

Cottingham said both himself and his running mate want to offer students an alternative.

"We want to speak for the students," he said. He said if he is elected, the salaries of president and vice president will be decreased to $2,000.

"In a time of financial crisis, we would use only the bare necessities," Cottingham said.

He said he is advocating a special vote of confidence election to be held to show if students still want his party in office. If the students vote no, no court confidence, he would resign.

"This is the only way to make the position responsible to students," Cottingham said.

He said he parties' philosophy is to make only campaign promises they can fulfill.

"Most campaign promises aren't carried out anyway," he said.

Cottingham said he thinks undergraduate students should work closer with graduate students.

"Grads should be allowed to vote in the student government election because it's not prohibited in the constitution," he said.

Mark Harris
President

Mark Harris said he and Larry Roth are running under the Socialist Students Alliance "because the University's problems and society's problems are so basic the entire society needs to be changed."

Harris, a speech and philosophy major from Glen Ellyn, said the University "should be run by the people who make up the University; that's the most democratic way. Instead it's in the hands of a few rich businessmen and bankers."

"We should get rid of the Board of Trustees and have a council of students, faculty, and campus workers," Harris said. "We're affected by the policies, so we should decide them. It's more democratic and more efficient."

Harris, a student senator, said he and Roth "are trying to deal with the real problems. The University should be used as a resource for oppressed people—blacks, women, farm workers. Student Government has access to the University's resources and we'd use them for these people."

"Although Student Government has no power now, it could have the power to represent students and fight for their interests," Harris said. "As it is now, most people in it are training to be petty bureaucrats."

Donald Kotz
President

Donald Kotz, independent candidate for president, is a philosophy of theatre major from Chicago.

"One of the main reasons I want to be president is that student government is a farce," Kotz said. "Apathy is unmeasurable. I would venture to say that one half of the student body doesn't even know the President."

Kotz said he thinks the president should organize more places where students can go for help and guidance.

He said he thinks students should have more say.

"The teacher-rod relationship to the student-slave is ridiculous," he said. "There should be check and balance power to hold teachers in line."

Kotz said he thinks student should vote for him because he has a "greater awareness of the situation in student government and the honesty to say so."

He said he is very flexible with no dogmatic beliefs.

"I have no preconceived notions of which channel of action is best to follow which is in the best interest of those concerned," Kotz said.

He said if he is elected he will try to "get the SIU Karate Club funded."

Jeff Lohrmann
President

Jeff Lohrmann, Reform candidate and president pro-tem of the Student Senate, said Student Government "needs a complete change."

If elected, Lohrmann and his running mate John Sheridan plan to implement a whole new governance system "if the students vote to approve it in a constitutional referendum."

"The plan is similar to a city-manager system in city government," Lohrmann said. "A student association of 20 members, elected at large, will hire three or four executive directors. One director will head personnel, another will be comptroller, and the third will implement projects."

Lohrmann said the new system will employ "fewer paid people, who will not be as politically embroiled and are professionals."

"Student Government shouldn't be a workshop to show students how government works," Lohrmann said. "That's trash. This place is ready for innovation. People are up against the wall."

Lohrmann is an economics major from Downer's Grove and likes to spel and scuba dive. He served in Vietnam for two years and is currently SIU's representative to the Association of Illinois Student Governments.

Sean Lopez
President

Sean Lopez, independent candidate and a resident fellow at Schneider Hall, said he has seen "nothing but apathy and lack of student involvement" in Student Government.

"I would form a base to complete student involvement instead of doing things the way they have been done," Lopez said. "Student Government is not just students, but also has a relation to the faculty, administration and the city of Carbondale."

Lopez, a four-year veteran of the air force, said a student body president "must get 15 to 20 per cent of the vote or he's just a figurehead, not a representative. If he's got only five per cent of the students behind him, no one will listen."

Lopez is a junior in accounting from Chicago and likes to water-ski, play pool, and drive his '59 Plymouth.

"The first step is to get people interested and motivated," Lopez said. "The Student Government constitution and by-laws also need revision so we don't keep going in circles."

Terry Mullins
President

Terry Mullins, candidate for president, is running on the Unity Party platform. His running mate is Charles Ward.

Mullins was formerly a combat medic in the Air Force. He is a veterinarian major from Houston, Tex.

"The major thing students need is a strong voice in student affairs," he said. "In the past the student government has been a token type of organization. They voice opinions but the opinions don't get much reaction."

He said if he is elected, he will advocate such things as improved transportation and parking facilities, a student credit union, beer in the Student Center and a salary for the Student Trustee.

"I'm not afraid to hurt feelings," he said. "I will stand by the student."

Mullins said he thinks the Senate should concentrate more on student problems and not "try to solve all the world problems."

He said he will be available to students and his office will be open to suggestions if he is elected president.

"As far as hobbies is concerned Mullins said, "You name it and I do it."

Michael Olson
President

Independent candidate Michael Olson said his primary aim is "to help students get a job. A lot of students have to drop out because they don't have money."

"I've been working downtown for $1.60 and $1.70 an hour," Olson said, "so I sympathize."

"Summer is only two months long this year because of the semester system, so that'll hurt students who work during the summer," he said.

Olson is a government and administration of justice major from Oak Park. He said he "likes politics" and would like to go into politics after graduation. His main hobby is "partying."

Olson said his campaign "is kind of a Dan Walker attempt to talk to students." He said he is running independently "because all I know is what I want to do and how to get it done."

Olson said he would like "a lot more power for students. Like in the firing of the 104, students had no say about the firings."

Monroe Smith
President

Monroe Smith, independent candidate for president, is a business major from St. Louis.

Smith said he wants to overhaul the student government so it will become an effective organization.

"Student government is also as strong as the students working behind student government," he said. "So I would seek student body involvement."

Smith said if he is elected president he will revise the health program, and strengthen the financial aid program. He also said he thinks the ombudsman should be in an independent position, answerable only to the president.

"Student government should be more for the students and not go along with the administration," Smith said. "It shouldn't be just a figure head. Students should be put back in student government."

He said he would instill some managerial theories in order to change the organization of student government.

"I believe in getting things done," he said.

Smith said he is involved in many campus activities so he is well-informed on campus matters.

Dennis Sullivan
President

Dennis Sullivan said he is running with Robert Seely under Tea Party Now "because most of the stuff the other parties—Action or Unity—lay down isn't worth a hill of beans."

"The other parties are all clicks," Sullivan said. "The party in now, Action, ignores the students and concentrates on fraternities. You have had the choice of voting for an idiot or not voting."

Sullivan, a sociology major who plays chess and the guitar, said Student Government "is more than having lunch with the administration every Thursday. I don't think its image could be any worse."

Sullivan said Tea Party Now's platform includes hiring a student lawyer, allowing students to control the Joint Fee Allocation Board and hiring a student advocate who would be rather like an ombudsman, but solely for students.

"I also think Student Senators should be elected by academic units rather than geographically," Sullivan said. "That would draw in more people from the areas we don't think of as political."

"Most students are alienated by student government because no one in it comes near to representing them," Sullivan said.

Scott Wallin
President

Scott Wallin, a junior and independent candidate from Rockford, said he wants to be student body president "because I need the money."

Wallin, a government major with a radio-television minor, said he is "campaigning with as little effort as possible."

"I want students to vote for me out of sympathy," he said. "I need money; most students can sympathize with that."

Wallin drives a '49 Plymouth and likes to fish, watch television and ride motorcycles.

He said the student body president "should definitely get a salary. Put that in capital letters."

"I can do the job as well as anyone else," Wallin said. "I'll embarrass the University every chance I get."

Bill Wesely
President

Bill Wesely is a junior public relations major running for president on the Action Party platform. Both him and his running mate, Al Jacobson, are running on the slogan of "Let's get things done—together."

Wesely said he likes action party because it doesn't pertain to one interest group.

He said he thinks he can handle the president's job because he's had experience in student government. He has served as assistant to Student Body President Mike Carr and worked on various committees. "One of the most important things in life is to talk and listen to people," Wesely said. "Personal contact is important."

Wesely said he believes students should have more input and play a major role in selecting the new University president.

"One of the biggest problems is that only one per cent of the students know what's going on," he said. "I want to let students know what's happening."

He said he thinks he is "pretty representative of students as a whole" and "open-minded enough to listen to any student."

VP candidates

Allan Jacobson
Vice President

Allan Jacobson is an Action party candidate for vice president. He is running on the same ticket as Bill Wesely. Jacobson is a Radio-TV major from Homewood.

"I think I can serve the students," Jacobson said. "I'm not promising to save the world. But I think I can solve some problems on a day to day basis."

He said he thinks the student senate should be changed to make it more representative of students. He suggested electing senate representatives from schools and colleges as well as residential areas. "SIU has a lot of problems, but nothing too serious that students can't solve by student input," Jacobson said.

He said the whole idea of student government is to get involved together and to take things step by step.

"I don't try to come off as Santa Klaus and solve all the problems of the University," Jacobson said. "But I will work for the students." Jacobson said he enjoys playing the drums in his spare time.

Gary Jaquet
Vice President

Gary Jaquet is a junior journalism major running for vice president on the alternative party. His running mate is T. C. Cottingham.

Jaquet said students should have first priority at SIU.

"I want to work for a more effective student government and a closer liaison with the administration," he said. "We need an alternative to the present system. One that will represent students."

He said the alternative party will show their sincerity by instilling a vote of confidence and reducing salaries.

"Student Senate should have a 'closer working relationship with STC students and GSC," he said.

"The election rule should be ironed out," Jaquet said.

"The rule saying grad students may not vote is a direct violation of the constitution."

The Student Senate has been inefficient often "getting bogged down in little details," Jaquet said.

He said bicycle paths need to be improved and cushions (three-wheeled cars) should be kept off the sidewalks. "Sidewalks are for people," he said.

Jaquet said he enjoys flying, photography and politics.

Marc Kamm
Vice President

Marc Kamm, who if elected vice president would also be chairman of the Student Senate, wants to "change the Senate's image. It's been Mickey Mouse, with students spending two or three hours on one unimportant bill. It can be changed if we adhere to Roberts' rules of order and limit debate."

Kamm, a Senator and Radio-TV major, said he "will support other causes, but I won't go off and work for them and neglect the students. Also, I have no political ties and will work for the students instead of a party."

"People say Student Government is a farce, and I don't like that image," Kamm said. "The last administration didn't tackle problems right. SIU isn't run for the students, but it is here for the students."

Kamm and running-mate Garry Barker's platform includes hiring free legal counsel, longer library hours, and deferred fees even if they are under $50.

"I think we need a far bigger input on the presidential search committee, too," Kamm said. "Students should comprise at least 50 per cent; the two on it now are unrealistic."

Richard Riggio
Vice President

Richard Riggio is an independent candidate running for vice president. He is a junior, majoring in Government and administration of justice.

Student Government candidates give views

Riggio said he has politics in his blood.

"I live and breathe student government," he said. "I'm a down to earth person and I don't want to let the voters down."

He said if he is elected he won't take a salary. "It robs students," he said. "I know I would do a damn good job whether I get paid or not. Knowing students are well pleased is my payment."

Riggio said if he is elected he will be truly representative of students.

"Individuals are more important to me than any interest group," he said. "I put aside my own opinions and values. I vote for what students want."

He said if he is elected as vice president he will make sure bills are submitted early, work by the check and balance system and "just mainly talk to students."

In his spare time, Riggio plays three instruments; the guitar, drums and the organ.

Larry Roth Vice President

Larry Roth, a junior from Chicago majoring in design, said he is running with Mark Harris as a socialist candidate "to truly show my beliefs."

Socialism is where the majority of the people decide what takes place as opposed to the minority which rules this University and the country. The campus isn't a separate entity in itself. We can't forget about the outside world.

"Mark and I see ourselves as the true alternative to get things done and get more power," Roth said. "We hope we get the same salary they do now, but we won't use it the same way. We'll use the money to sponsor events, print leaflets and posters and publish ads. Right now we use the money out of our own pockets to do that for groups like the United Farm Workers Support Group, which Mark and I founded."

Roth, who has been a student senator for three years, said Student Government has "been childish in the past. It's a nursery school for rising bureaucrats. We'll run it for the people."

"Just because students don't come out to vote doesn't mean they're apathetic," Roth said. "They're active in their ideas, and they talk about it, but they're disgusted. We want to show these students that we can fight and change things."

Robert Seely Vice President

Robert Seely is a junior psychology major from Rockford. He is running on the Tea party platform with Dennis Sullivan.

"I don't have any political experience so I don't owe anybody anything," he said. "And I won't be bogged down in the bureaucratic system."

Seely said he thinks student government needs new ideas. He advocates the return of the Student Center to the students and the improvement in legal rights of students, especially dorm resident's rights.

Seely said he thinks a talent soliciting group should be organized to bring better entertainment to SIU.

He said it is important that students have access to student government.

Seely said if he is elected, he plans to start a newsletter so "students know how the government is run and can keep an eye on us."

"We realize since the Derge administration is gone, now is the time to do something," he said. "If we're united we can determine who the next president is."

John Sheridan Vice President

John Sheridan, Reform Party candidate, said Student Government "hasn't gone anywhere since 1968. There are Student Governments that completely run their schools. Those students are satisfied. Why go to school if you don't like it?"

"If SIU is going to stay around, it's going to have to have a student body. It's not here to support the administration and civil service," Sheridan said.

Sheridan is a junior from Glenview majoring in journalism. He served in Vietnam and is currently head of the SIU Veterans Association and a member of the National Association of Concerned Veterans.

Sheridan said he sees himself "not so much as a student leader as a mechanic." He and his running mate, Jeff Lohmann, have worked out detailed plans to run Student Government "like a non-profit organization," eliminating the president and vice president.

"This is a good time to make a move," Sheridan said. "The administration is in confusion and the faculty has a blow. With chaos everywhere else, if we don't get ourselves together we're damn fools."

Charles Ward Vice President

Charles Ward is a junior majoring in finance from Murphysboro. He is running on the unity platform with Terry Mullins.

"I'm fed up with the inefficiencies of student government," Ward, a current student senator, said. "Specific changes should be made."

He said a big problem in the Student Senate is the lack of communication between the student body and student government.

"I plan to directly communicate with students," Ward said. He said he thinks students are at the bottom of the totem pole.

"It's time to quit catering to the whims of the university, and time to listen to students," he said.

He said he will implement the policies of the people that elect him if he becomes vice president.

"I'd like to see student government finance themselves," Ward said. He said he thinks the student trustee should be allowed to vote and should also receive a salary.

He said he believes Student Government can become a positive influence on the University community and an effective organization if it would employ definite, rational goals.

Ward plans to become a pilot and is in the process of getting his pilot's license. He said he also "doodles in stocks and bonds."

Harry Yaseen Vice President

Harry Yaseen, independent candidate for vice president running with Matt Chaney, said one of his "biggest peeves is the party system on this campus."

"I can testify from previously being in Action Party that parties are a joke," Yaseen said. "They have no party line or cohesiveness. That's why I'm running independent, although I'm up against ridiculous odds. I don't have the money for beer parties or parades. All I've got is experience and desire."

Yaseen, a government major and Student Senator, said Student Government's image "is admittedly poor. I try to defend it to people as a vehicle from which students can express their opinions on matters directly affecting them."

Yaseen said he was "elated" over Derge's resignation and that the Student Senate's censure "had an impact on Derge. It was the high point of the year."

Yaseen's platform includes restoration of the veto power to University Senate, an alternative newspaper, more student input for selection of a president, a new recycling center and more athletic funds for women.

Trustee

Ron Adams Student Trustee

Ron Adams, a junior public relations major, said he is running for student trustee in order to represent the views of students.

"I've been in student government ever since I've been on campus," he said. "And I think I can do a better job than anybody else."

Adams said he would like to establish a student affairs commission. He said the commission would "facilitate and coordinate student input" and would include representatives from living areas, academic units, undergraduate and graduate students and special interest groups.

He said he thinks the student trustee should be "a very concerned person who is able to work with the Board and facilitate student input."

Adams said if he is elected he will represent the views of students and reflect them at the Board meetings.

"I'm dedicated to working for students on campus," he said. "Student input is the most important facet."

He said he doesn't believe in a "rigid academic atmosphere." Students learn more by participating in extra-curriculum activities, Adams said.

Kathy Jones Trustee

Kathy Jones, a graduate student in higher education, said the trustee position appealed to her because it is not political and not tied in with campus political machinery."

Ms. Jones said she "can effect changes" because of her experience as senator and student body vice president at Northwest Missouri State, where she received her undergraduate degree in English and history.

As a resident hall counselor on Thompson Point, Ms. Jones said she is in contact with students every day and has plenty of time for the position "because I don't have to be in an office all day; I'm in my apartment and can do the work of the trustee." She estimated that if elected she'll put in at least twenty hours a week as trustee.

Ms. Jones said the student trustee should have a vote "once the person elected has proved responsible and well-grounded on issues. Then the vote will come naturally."

"The current Board members don't have contact with current educational concepts," she said. "But as a grad student in higher education, I learn about it every day in my classes. I'll have some idea of decisions' impact in the long run."

Steve Nuckles Trustee

Steve Nuckles, a junior from Rockford studying government and Spanish, said the trustee position "is a leadership position, and I think I can provide the character for that leadership."

"Leadership is the most important thing because the student body president doesn't do anything but collect a paycheck," Nuckles said. "The trustee's primary role should be advice and campus leadership."

Nuckles said he hopes to go to law school and become a professional politician. "I have a good background in government and public administration, and was election commissioner last fall," he said.

"I don't think the student trustee should have a vote right now," Nuckles said. "I don't think students here at SIU have proved themselves able to handle a vote."

Nuckles said a student trustee

"must circulate among all the different student groups and come up with different ideas." He said his hobbies are "piloting and world travel."

Matthew Rich Student Trustee

Matthew Rich, a junior journalism major, is again running for student trustee. Rich was elected trustee in the first trustee election which was later declared invalid.

Rich thinks a student trustee should be "responsible to students by being responsible to himself and the people he works with."

He said he definitely thinks the student trustee should be able to vote at the Board meetings. He said he will lobby for the student trustee vote no matter if he wins the election or not.

"I found the student trustee did get the respect of nonstudents, Rich said. "With a vote, a higher degree of attention would be paid to him."

He said he thinks SIU has a good image.

"A lot of things wrong have been corrected," Rich said. "With the resignation of Derge, we can have a fresh start."

He said he thinks the Board of Trustees' image needs to be improved by more input.

In his spare time, he likes to swim, play tennis and ride horses. Rich said.

House Rules Committee may limit number of topics

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—The Illinois House Rules committee instructed its staff Monday to draft a proposal limiting topics the House will consider this spring to those relating to the state budget, reapportionment and "emergencies."

The proposal allows a good deal of leeway for consideration of nonbudget matters, however, by leaving it primarily to the leaders to define "emergencies."

The committee scheduled a vote on the matter for Tuesday morning. The House and Senate return to begin a 10-week session on Tuesday afternoon.

The recommendation that the rules committee ordered drafted would allow consideration of non-budget matters under special conditions.

The sponsor of a bill could either get 11 of the 19 members of a committee to deem his legislation an "emergency" matter or persuade 89 of the 177 House members to do the same.

13 states urge convention for antibusing amendment

By The Associated Press

Thirteen states have passed resolutions urging Congress to call a constitutional convention to consider an anti busing amendment, an Associated Press survey shows. Similar measures are pending in four other states.

Two-thirds of the 50 states—34—are required to petition for a constitutional convention in order for one to be called.

The AP survey showed that Nebraska and Virginia have asked Congress to pass an antibusing amendment, but did not call for a convention. A similar measure is pending in Ohio. The issue of a constitutional amendment to prohibit busing has not come up in the remaining 30 states.

The busing issue has spurred debates, protests, boycotts and court suits with proponents of busing arguing that it is necessary to end discrimination in schools. Opponents say they do not want their children bused out of their neighborhoods.

Two antibusing provisions were included in a school aid bill passed by the House on March 27. One provision restricts the power of the courts to order busing; the other would prohibit the use of federal funds taken on their bills since it is an election year. Incumbents running for re-election would like nothing better than to tell their constituents they sponsored a measure directly benefiting them as the Nov-ember election approaches, they said.

Blair and Minority Leader Clyde Choate, D-Anna, told the committee that Senate leaders have indicated that chamber will discuss only bills dealing with the budget and emergency matters.

Wills bass prize

HEMPHILL, Tex. (AP)—Hulon Walker, a 37-year-old nursing home superintendent from Vidor, Tex., won the second annual invitational fish-off in the national Bass Buster Club sponsored by Evinrude Motors. Walker boated 30 pounds three and a half ounces of largemouth bass in the two-day event held on Toledo Bend Reservoir here.

House Speaker W. Robert Blair, R-Park Forest, estimated that more than 700 bills have been so introduced and many of the committee members said they thought this would be too heavy a load for a 2½-month session.

But they conceded that that there would be a great deal of pressure from the House members to have

March, urged Americans to support legislation that would curb what he called excessive busing. He said parents value neighborhood schools and are "naturally concerned when the courts, acting on the basis of complicated plans drawn up by far-away officials in Washington, D.C., order children bused out of their neighborhoods."

Two antibusing provisions were included in a school aid bill passed by the House on March 27. One provision restricts the power of the courts to order busing; the other would prohibit the use of federal funds for busing to overcome segregation. The bill is now pending in the senate.

The 13 state legislatures that have passed resolutions, either this session or in previous years, calling for a constitutional convention are: Mississippi, Indiana, Tennessee, Delaware, Georgia, Nevada, Alabama, Texas, New York, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Kentucky and Michigan.

Resolutions on the subject are pending in Pennsylvania, California, Rhode Island and Massachusetts.

Owner of pizza restaurant disputes official cause of fire

MONMOUTH (AP)—The owner of a pizza restaurant disputes the official cause given for a fire that destroyed seven stores in a downtown city block last week.

Authorities originally said the blaze began when Vincent Pizzo, 19, restaurant operator, spilled some grease, which caught fire.

Pizzo later termed the reports untrue and said the fire began in the second floor of another building that used to house the pizza restaurant.

Richard Evans, assistant fire chief, refused to comment Monday on Pizzo's statements. He also said no official damage estimate has been set.

SGAC Spring Festival to begin on May 1

"Southern Silly Slapstick Spring" will be the theme of the annual Spring Festival to run May 1-5. The festival is sponsored by the Student Government Activities Council (SGAC). The Rockets, a rock band, is scheduled to play for a dance May 1 in the Student Center ballrooms.

A slapstick film festival is set for May 2. The festival will feature films of The Three Stooges, Laurel and Hardy, Abbott and Costello and the Marx Brothers.

Head East, a rock band, is to play

May 3 from 8 to 12 p.m. in the Student Center.

The Arena will sponsor a stage show May 4. The festival was originally scheduled to run four days but it may run five days, if Spanky McFarland, the star of "The Little Rascals" film series is scheduled. Thom Brackett, chairman of the Spring Festival committee said.

If scheduled, McFarland will show his films of the 1930s May 5 in the Student Center, Brackett said.

Other activities planned for the festival include prune eating, pie throwing, water balloon, tug-of-war, hula-hoop contests and wheelbarrow and sack races.

away will be gag awards including two free tickets to the Fleetwood Mac Concert and a round trip to Makanda with a stop at the local gas station and a free coke, he said.

Students interested in joining the steering committee to assist planning of the Spring Festival should attend the committee meeting Wednesday at 7:30 p.m., in the Student Center Activities Room C, he said.

New STP group plans celebration dance tomorrow

A dance sponsored by the Sisters of Thompson Point (STP) will be held from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. Wednesday at Lentz Hall to celebrate the STP's recognition by the Student Government Activities Council.

Joyce Thomas, a spokeswoman for the group, said the recognition will mean the group will be able to use University facilities for its activities.

STP is an independent group organized in fall quarter, 1971 to "enrich the lives of Thompson Point residents and to encourage students to visit the Thompson Point area," Ms. Thomas said.

Ms. Thomas said the group also familiarizes new students and transfer students with the University.

Women's tennis team suffers through four losing meets

By Kenneth Pilarski
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

The SIU women's varsity tennis team suffered through a frustrating day Saturday by dropping a 13-0 decision at home and falling 6-1, 5-4 and 3-1 on the road.

The women netters were rudely treated in their home opener as a tough Illinois State Redbird team defeated them, 13-0. The Redbirds marched through nine singles and four doubles matches in straight sets.

On the road, SIU did little better as Memphis State came out on top, 8-1. The only winner for SIU was Meg Putnam who took her match in straight sets, 6-3, 6-0.

Against Austin Peay, SIU racked up four wins as they dropped a close one, 5-4. Ms. Putnam captured her second victory of the day with a 6-4, 6-1 decision. Other winners for SIU were Peggy Conroy, 6-4, 7-5; Robin Nelson, 6-3, 6-3 and the doubles team of Nelson and Trish Kehoe, 6-4, 6-2.

In an abbreviated meet with the Memphis ladies team, SIU lost 3-1. Ms. Putnam kept her win streak intact as she won her match, 6-4, 6-4.

Even though the women netters have yet to win a meet, tennis coach Sally Cotton is still optimistic about her team's prospects.

She credited Sharon Smoski with playing really well in the No. 1 singles match. Ms. Smoski lost to the Redbird's Pam Zwer, 2-6, 3-6. Ms. Cotton said, "Sharon is what I call a retriever, she keeps the ball in play and is basically a back court player."

The women netters will take to the road for their next meet when they tangle with Southeast Missouri State, Wednesday.

The following is a summary of the Illinois State meet. SIU players are listed first.

Sharon Smoski lost to Pam Zwer, 2-6, 3-6.

Joan Lugosi lost to Julie Mignin, 1-6, 2-6.

Linda Levine lost to Judy Hay, 1-6, 1-6.

Connie Howe lost to Blair Anthony, 2-6, 1-6.

Jane Natal lost to Sue Decapp, 0-6, 0-6.

Marilyn Geninatte lost to Laura Lawlor, 0-6, 1-6.

Kim Smith lost to Elaine Kaup, 3-6, 1-6.

Sandy Schenck lost to Sue Ninness, 2-6, 1-6.

Karen Tesling lost to Dagmar Rozbaril, 1-6, 3-6.

Smoski-Lugosi lost to Decapp-Mignin, 1-6, 2-6.

Levine-Warner lost to Hay-Lawlor, 1-6, 2-6.

Geninatte-Howe lost to Kaup-Ninness, 0-6, 0-6.

Smoski-Kuppeck lost to Rozbaril-Anthony, 0-6, 0-6.

Women's softball team sweeps doubleheader

By Kenneth Pilarski
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

The SIU women's varsity softball team displayed a potent offense and a nearly airtight defense as they swept a doubleheader from the Evansville Purple Aces 23-2 and 14-5, Saturday afternoon.

In the first game, the Salukiettes offense produced 11 hits and was the recipient of 19 walks. Annette Griffin led the SIU attack with four hits and drove in four runs.

Kathy Lies was the winning pitcher. She gave up only four hits and struck out nine for her first win of the season.

The most improved aspect of the SIU game was the defense. The Salukiettes tightened up the weak spots and committed only one error.

In last week's opener with Southeast Missouri, SIU was charged with six errors. Coach Kay Brechtelsbauer said she was pleased with the much improved defense.

The game was decided in the second inning when the Salukiettes broke the game open with 11 runs on two hits and nine walks. SIU added five more runs in the fourth inning and pushed across seven runs in the fifth inning to round out the SIU scoring.

In the second game, the Salukiettes scored 14 runs on 18 hits and committed only one error. Annette Griffin kept her perfect day intact with a five-for-five performance, including three RBI's.

Ms. Griffin finished her day's work with nine hits in nine at-bats and seven RBI's.

Phyllis Adkisson was the winning pitcher, her first against one loss. She struck out eight and drove in six runs to help her own cause.

SIU spread their scoring out as they scored three runs in the first, five in the second, one in the third, two in the fourth, two in the fifth and one in the sixth.

The Salukiettes will play their first home game of the season at 5 p.m. Thursday against Southeast Missouri. All home games are played on the field behind Wham.

Kings, Black Hawks to clash in Chicago Stadium Tuesday

CHICAGO (AP)—The Los Angeles Kings are not conceding anything to the Chicago Black Hawks who are hopeful of wrapping up their National Hockey League first round Stanley Cup series when the action returns Tuesday night to Chicago Stadium.

The Kings averted losing the series by a whitewash Sunday night in Los Angeles when they stopped the Black Hawks 5-1. Chicago won the first three games of the series.

"We were making the plays, shooting good and once we got going we would have scored on anybody," said Tom Williams who fired in three goals in six minutes against reserve netkeeper Mike Veisor who was working in place of Tony Esposito.

"I thought our shots would have gone through Esposito as well as through Veisor," Williams said.

Baseball team streaking toward SIU record of 19 straight wins

By Mark Tupper
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

"I said we would probably see some streaking around here," Saluki baseball coach Richard "Itchy" Jones said following SIU's Easter doubleheader win over McMurray. "But everyone took that the wrong way. Now I hope to streak to the record."

The record Jones speaks of is the consecutive win streak record of 19 games his team is rapidly approaching. A doubleheader sweep of Louisville, Saturday and two wins against McMurray, Sunday moved the Salukis' record to 20-5 and stretched the team's win streak to 13 games.

Locascio's line single which scored Mann.

Klass gave up six hits, striking out four and walking three. Klass's ERA is now 2.03 and he leads the club in strikeouts with 33 in 31 innings.

The same score won game two for the Salukis as Ron Hodges and Ray Huelsman teamed to pitch SIU to its 18th win of the year.

SIU took an early lead, grabbing two runs in the first inning. After Wilbins walked, John Hoescheidt smacked a single to right. The Cardinal rightfielder scooped up the ball and tried to fire across the infield to get Wilbins going into third. His throw was wild and the error allowed Wilbins to score. Hoescheidt advancing to third. Shartzter then drove Hoescheidt across with his RBI single.

A single run in the second came when Wayne Rueger led off the inning with a double and scored on Newman's long single to the power alley.

Hodges left the mound for SIU in the third inning and was replaced by DuQuoin junior Huelsman, who went the rest of the way for the Salukis. Locascio's bases loaded single in the sixth ended the Saluki scoring for the day.

The win was credited with Huelsman, but Hodges moved to within a single strokeout of Klass's team leading figure.

McMurray came into Carbondale hoping for some Sunday luck, but instead took back two losses, narrowly averting a double Easter egg on the scoreboard.

The Salukis pounded out 13 hits in the first game as lefty Robin Derry and Bob Blank combined to do the Saluki pitching. Derry (2-1) got the win and Blank got the save.

Saluki hitters battered out their 12 runs in the first three innings, getting four in the first, three in the second and five in the third.

Newman singled and went to third on two ground outs to begin the game. An error on the Highlander third baseman allowed Newman to score and Shartzter to be safe at first.

Claude Crockett singled to keep the two-out rally alive and Stan Mann came through with a towering fly ball that got caught in the jet stream and cleared the left field wall, driving in two runs ahead of him. It was Mann's second homerun of the year.

With the Salukis leading 12-0 going into the sixth, it appeared Derry and Blank would get their shutout. But a walk, a double, a single and a fielder's choice sent two across for McMurray to make the final score 12-2.

Hoescheidt, Wilbins and Mann combined to go six for nine and drive in eight runs for SIU.

Game two against the Highlanders was called short in the fifth inning, as the Salukis opened up an 11-0 lead and the two head coaches agreed that the outcome had already been decided.

Newman, Hoescheidt, Shartzter and Locascio each collected two hits and Hoescheidt and Shartzter also had three RBI's apiece.

Scott Waltemate pitched all five innings for the Salukis, getting his third win of the year.

The game was called in the fifth after Wilbin's lead off single and Hoescheidt's second home run of the season. The loss dropped McMurray's record to 6-9.

"I think the biggest improvement we've had has been in our pitching staff," Jones said. "Our kids have become serious about their duties both on and off the mound. I am especially impressed with Rob Klass and Jim Bokelmann, although we have received great performances from Waltemate, Hodges and Derry and some of our newcomers."

The four wins boosted the Saluki team batting average to a hot .336 against a .205 average for SIU opponents. The combined ERA of the Saluki pitching staff is 2.54.

The Salukis get back on the field Tuesday with a single game against Washington, Mo., at 3 p.m. at Abe Martin Field.

Daily Egyptian Sports

SIU took Louisville 4-1 in the opener as senior Rob Klass picked up his fifth win of the season without a defeat. Klass lost his try for a shutout in the sixth inning when Cardinal centerfielder Bob Roberts tagged a solo homer over the left field fence.

SIU scored a run in the second when Steve Shartzter scored from third on Stan Mann's sacrifice fly to center. The Salukis came up with two more in the third on Howie Mitchell's lead off double. Bert Newman's single and stolen base and an error on the Louisville secondbaseman.

The Salukis ended their scoring for the first game in the fourth inning on Jim

SIU track team sweeps meet from Illinois

By Bruce Shapin
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

A sweep of the sprints and some fine individual performances sparked the Saluki track team to a 85½-59½ victory over Illinois Saturday in Champaign.

The Salukis captured all three places in the 100, 220, and 440, to take 27 unanswered points. SIU's Terry Erickson ran a 46.8 in the 440 to set a new meet record. Erickson was followed by fellow Salukis Ed Wardzala and Wayne Carmody.

In the 100-yard dash, SIU's Joe Laws edged out teammates Mike Monroe and Gerald Smith at the wire for first place honors. Laws ran a 9.5 to tie the meet record, while Monroe and Smith finished at 9.6.

Monroe, the freshman speedster from East St. Louis, came back in the 220 to take first place, running a 21.1. Smith and Laws finished right behind Monroe, with a 21.9.

Saluki coach Lew Hartzog had a big smile on his face after the meet, brought on by some fine individual performances. SIU's Dave Hill, who has been injured most of the season, ran a 14:01.9 in the three-mile, to take first place honors. Hill ran away from the field as he defeated the Illini's Rich Brooks and Mike Durkin by over 30 seconds.

"I'm happy to have him back," said Hartzog after Hill finished up. "It's been a long time and now he's getting into great shape." Hill, who hadn't competed this year until last week's meet at Oklahoma, ran a smart race keeping the pace slow for the first mile. After the first four laps of the 440 track, Hill slowly began pulling away. He had previously won the three-mile run in the 1972 SIU-Illini track meet, setting a meet record of 13:35.9. Durkin, who finished in third place, won last year's three-mile.

Durkin took first place in the mile, but it wasn't as easy as the Illini had been predicting. SIU's Gary Mandehr stayed with Durkin all the way as he finished second, two-tenths of a second behind Durkin, who ran a 4:09.6. Mandehr improved his season's best in the mile by six seconds against the Illini. "Mandehr did a great job and sparked

'Wind a factor' as netters defeated at Oklahoma City

Playing in a gusty Oklahoma wind, the SIU tennis team lost the consolation championship of the Oklahoma City tennis tournament, 6-3, to Arkansas. The Salukis earned a spot in the Saturday afternoon match by defeating Lamar 6-3, Friday morning.

The eight-team tourney began Thursday for the Salukis as they dropped a 6-3 decision to Oklahoma. SIU's Steve Temple was the only Saluki to win in singles, as he scored a 6-1, 6-2 victory.

In the Arkansas match, Dane Petchul lost to Brian Sakey, 6-2, 6-4; Jorge Ramirez was beaten by Joe Hickey, 6-3, 6-4; Felix Ampon defeated Mike Vogl, 6-3, 7-6; Scott Kidd beat Tom Griskak, 6-3, 6-1; Mel Ampon lost to Randy Jackson, 6-3, 7-6; and Temple was defeated by Bruce Clark, 6-3, 6-1.

The doubles matches saw Arkansas continuing to hold the upper hand as Petchul and M. Ampon lost to Hickgey and Jackson, 6-4, 6-1; Ramirez and Kidd were defeated, 6-2, 7-5; by Sakey and Vogl; while Temple and F. Ampon broke through with a 4-6, 6-3, 7-6, victory.

The Salukis No. two singles man, Wayne Cowley, did not make the trip due to an ailing elbow. Ramirez replaced Cowley at the no. 2 spot, while M. Ampon joined Petchul in the no. 1 doubles spot.

"The wind was definitely a factor in the tournament. Two of our three matches were played in 30 mile per hour winds," said coach Dick LeFevre.

the team on," Hartzog said.

The upset of the day came in the triple-jump as Saluki Phil Robins jumped a lifetime best 51-11¼, to set a new meet record and beat the Illini's Charlton Ehizuelen from Nigeria. "I figured if I got a lead on Ehizuelen, it

College student wins Boston run

LeFevre said that the winds were so powerful that it was difficult to serve.

The Salukis return home this weekend to take on Memphis State, Oklahoma State and Missouri in a triple dual meet, Friday and Saturday at the university courts.

College student wins Boston run

BOSTON (AP)—Neil Cutsack, a 22-year-old East Tennessee University student from Limerick, Ireland, wore down a record field of 1,705 starters with a blistering early pace and won the Boston A.A. Marathon Monday in the second fastest winning time in the 78-year history of the Patriot's Day classic.

Slender, bushy-haired and sporting a knob of a black beard on his chin, Cusack left the field a shambles as he covered the 26-mile, 385-yard course from Hopkinton to Boston in 2 hours 13 minutes, 39 seconds.

He was just 40 seconds off the record pace with less than two miles to go, but then eased up, missing the course mark of 2:10:30 set by England's Ron Hill in 1970.

Tom Fleming, 22, a graduate student at William Patterson College in New Jersey, suffered another heart-breaking setback, finishing as runnerup.

would be hard for him to catch me," said Robins. Ehizuelen's best jump of the day was 51-5¾, after he jumped 54-1¾ the week before to set a new Illinois and Big Ten record. Ehizuelen won the long jump earlier in the day with a 24-8.

In one of the most exciting duels of the meet, SIU's Tom Fulton edged out Illinois' Paul Adams to take third place in the 3,000-meter steeplechase. Fulton's third place finish marked the first time the sophomore from Meadville, Pa. has placed in the grueling steeplechase.

"Fulton's performance was probably the best today," said Hartzog. Fulton was behind the entire race until the last water jump. There, Adams stumbled and Fulton picked up 10 yards. Fulton caught Adams at the last hurdle to race home nine seconds ahead of Adams.

SIU's Lonnie Brown became a double winner for the Salukis, nipping Illinois Jim Hanlon in the 120 high hurdles, then setting a new meet record in the 440 intermediate hurdles with a 52.9. Southern's Bill Hancock took third in the 120 hurdles, then jumped 6-10 in the high jump to take first place honors.

Guy Zajonc took first place in the pole vault for the Salukis, vaulting 15 feet.

The Salukis finished off the Illinois in the mile relay, running a 3:14.1. The team of Wardzala, Carmody, Brown and Erickson finished 70 yards ahead of Illinois. Erickson teamed up with Smith, Laws and Monroe earlier in the meet to win the 440 relay in 40.4, setting a new meet record.

Hartzog was quite pleased with his team's showing, while retiring Illini coach Bob Wright said, "We got beaten by a better team. We're not a dual-meet team, but we have some outstanding athletes."

SIU now leads in the series 4-3. The Salukis will meet up with most of the Illinois team again this week at the Kansas relays. No team scoring will be taken in the relays, which will be this Friday and Saturday.
