Both incumbents returned to council

By Pete Retsbach
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer
Incumbents Hans Fischer and Archie Jones were re-elected to the Carbondale City Council in Tuesday's elections. Fischer received the most votes of any candidate with 1,189. Archie Jones received 924 votes. Challenger Dennis Adamczyk received 594 votes, while James Hewette received the least votes with 306. Elisabeth Leighty, Carbondale city clerk, said the results of Tuesday's election will not be official until Monday. A total of 3,009 votes, including six for write-in candidates, were cast in Tuesday's election. There were 22 spoiled ballots which could not be counted into the totals. Fischer received 39.5 per cent of all votes cast for the candidates. Jones got 31 per cent, while Adamczyk received 19 per cent. Hewette received only about 10 per cent of the vote. Adamczyk's strongest showing was in the heavily student-populated precincts of 22, 23 and 25. He carried these three precincts, receiving a total of 72 votes. Fischer received 49 votes and Jones received 18 in the student precincts. Hewette received 15 votes. Precinct 21, also a student precinct, favored Fischer with 28 votes. Adamczyk received 10 less, or 18 votes, while Jones received 20 votes. Out of all the student precincts, Adamczyk received about 39 per cent of the total student vote. Fischer got about 33 per cent, while Jones received 16 per cent of the total vote in the student precincts. Jones carried precincts three, four and five. He received 180 votes, or 48 per cent, of the count. Fischer received about 32 per cent of the vote or 121 votes, counted in these three precincts. Both winners carried their home precincts. Jones also received more votes than Adamczyk in Adamczyk's home precinct. Since some persons voted for only one candidate instead of two, the number of total ballots cast could not be determined Tuesday night. "I'm very happy," Fischer said of his victory. "My win seems fairly consistent across the community. The vote is what we expected." Fischer also said he thought Adamczyk did well, especially with the students. Jones thanked the people for voting and said he would do his best to serve all the people of Carbondale. He said he expected a light turnout, but not as light as it actually was.

Archie Jones

Student election polls on campus will open 8 a.m.

Polling places will open around campus at 8 a.m. Wednesday for Student Government elections.

All SIU students are eligible to vote in today's elections. Voters must present student IDs and current fee statements at polling places.

Polling places will be open from 8 a.m. until 6 p.m. at the dining halls in Brush Towers, University Park and Thompson Point. Other locations are the north and south entrances of the Student Center, the courtyard of Woody Hall, Home Economics Building, Lawson Hall, Communications Building, Technology Building, Health Service, the main entrance of Morris Library, the School of Technical Careers Student Center and the main entrance to the classroom at the Southern Illinois Airport.

For write-in candidates, two blank lines will be provided on the ballot for voters who wish to write in names.

In the event a write-in candidate is elected, his qualifications will be decided upon by the election commissioner in the same manner as other candidates.

6 candidates vie for top student post

The following is a list of candidates in Wednesday's election for student body president, vice president and student trustee:

For student body president—Dennis Adamczyk, Environmental Action Party, a graduate student in public affairs; Pete Allison, independent candidate, senior in social welfare; Sam Dunning, independent candidate, sophomore in political science; E. Frank Marchlewski, independent candidate, senior in public relations; Garrick-Clinton Matthews, People's Party, freshman in political science and business; Don Wheeler, Action Party, junior in political science and speech.

For student body vice president—

Chris Ervin, independent write-in candidate, senior in radio and TV and public relations; Chris McMullen, Action Party, sophomore in public relations; Cindy Michaelson, independent candidate, sophomore in political science.

For student trustee—Elisabeth Byrnes, graduate in law; Robert Jenkins, graduate student in sociology; Tom McEllen junior in political science; Craig Shanklin, senior in psychology; Robert Seely, graduate student public visual communications.

For the West Side, seven senatorial seats are open. Thirteen candidates will be on the ballot. In addition, seven write-ins will compete for those seats.

On the East Side, 15 candidates and five write-ins will compete for five senatorial seats.

At Brush Towers, one seat is open and one write-in candidate will compete for that position. No official candidate will be on the ballot.

At University Park, one seat is open and one write-in candidate will compete for the position. No official candidate will be on the ballot.

At Thompson Point, four official candidates and two write-ins will compete for one and one-half seats.

The candidate who tallies the most votes here will win a full-term seat on the senate and the runner-up will win a half-term position.

Professor finds new pressures in Springfield

Pace is tense, fast for Kenney in conservation post

By Clark Miller
Student Writer
David Kenney, SIU political science professor, is finding new freedoms as well as new pressures in his job as director of the Illinois Department of Conservation.

David Kenney

Kenney, who started teaching at SIU in 1951, has been in Springfield on leave of absence from SIU since his appointment to the directorship by Gov. James Thompson in early February.

He talked about some of the differences between his new job and his faculty position at SIU Saturday in his office in Faner Hall.

"I'm more at a policy focal point now, the focal point of a great many pressures stemming from clientele, legislature and bureaucracy.

"The pace is very intense, a little faster than teaching. I'm obliged to work long hours. But in some ways the pressures are less. Teaching with a full load, day after day, is a very demanding way of life.

"I do a much greater variety of things now. My schedule is much more flexible. I spend a lot more time talking with people on a one-to-one basis or in small groups."

Kenney, who has taught a class on state government for more than 20 years at SIU, found it difficult to determine a preference for either teaching or administrating.

"In teaching I always knew what I would be doing in advance. Now I really don't know what I'll be doing three weeks from now. Both ways of life have their attractions and disadvantages.

"I enjoyed teaching very much. I have every intention of returning to academic life one day."

Kenney sees his two-year term as a valuable experience for his work as a political scientist. "It's fascinating," he said. "This is such a close-up look at the governor's office, how he works and possibly at his presidential ambitions."

Kenney said that although budget and personnel matters were his first duties, he almost immediately got involved in issues. The commission is currently considering the re-creation of a marsh area south of Peoria that has been stripmined and the use of motorcycles and off-road vehicles on state land, he said.

Kenney, a Carbondale native, has been returning to his home in Carbondale on weekends since he took over the directorship. On Friday he will move with his wife and two daughters into a house in Springfield which he has been renting for several weeks.

Kenney is the author of "Basic Illinois Government: A Systematic Explanation," and has been a member of the Illinois Law Enforcement Commission since 1973.

He will speak about his new job and some of the changes it has made in his life at 8 p.m. next Wednesday in Davis Auditorium as part of the SIU Masters of Public Affairs Program.

Gus says students may lose as badly on Wednesday as they did on Tuesday if they don't vote.

Carter plan may hike gas seven cents

By Tom Rasm
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter will ask Congress to approve substantial price increases for gasoline and other fuels, lawmakers briefed by the White House on the President's energy plan confirmed Tuesday.

If the President's program is approved, it could add about seven cents to each gallon of gasoline by 1979 and another four or five cents a gallon by 1981, said Rep. Thomas Ashley, stressing that this would be in addition to a possible "stand-by" gasoline tax of up to 50 cents a gallon if U.S. gasoline consumption continues to increase.

Ashley, an Ohio Democrat who will head a select House committee that will deal with Carter's energy program, was one of a number of congressmen briefed Tuesday by White House energy adviser James R. Schlesinger.

Carter will spell out his proposals in an address to a joint House-Senate session Wednesday evening. On Monday night, he said in a nationally televised address that the United States faces a possible "national catastrophe" unless stiff conservation measures are adopted.

Deputy White House Press Secretary Rex Granum said Tuesday that initial telephone reaction to Carter's speech was heavily in favor of Carter's views.

Carter addressed a group of congressional leaders at a White House breakfast and, according to participants, said that he knew his plan was politically unpopular but warned that "the basic fabric of our society would be destroyed" if it is not approved.

"He seemed very much aware of the political realities," said Assistant House Majority Leader John Brademas, D-Ind. Brademas quoted Carter as telling the House and Senate leaders that if it made them feel any better when they talk to constituents, "if you want to call it the 'President's program' that's OK with me."

Although drafts of Carter's plan have been widely circulated during the past week, it was the first time members of Congress have publicly confirmed its key elements.

Carter will call for a standby gasoline tax of five cents a gallon per year, to be imposed beginning in 1979; up to a maximum of 50 cents per gallon, according to Senate Interior Committee Chairman Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., and Senate Minority Leader Howard H. Baker, R-Tenn.

This tax would only take effect if gasoline consumption did not decrease. The present federal gasoline tax is four cents a gallon.

Baker, who said he received a private 45-minute briefing from Schlesinger on Tuesday, said details provided by the energy chief agreed almost entirely with published accounts of what would be in the plan.

These include the standby gasoline tax; price increases for oil and natural gas; a stiff tax on fuel-inefficient "gas guzzling" automobiles with rebates for fuel-efficient cars, and tax credits for home insulation and solar energy devices.

Ashley, in an interview, said that recent attention to the proposed standby gasoline tax overshadows another part of Carter's program that he said would lead to even higher hikes for gasoline and other fuels.

This is the proposal to add a tax to domestic oil that would bring it up to world-market prices by 1981 in two stages. The proposal would also allow natural gas prices to rise to a heat-equivalent of the oil prices.

"The implications of that obviously haven't been fully realized by the American people or the Congress yet," Ashley said. "We're talking about very, very substantial increases in oil and natural gas."

He said that the higher oil prices would add seven cents a gallon to the price of gasoline by 1979 and "four or five cents" more by 1981.

Ashley said Schlesinger indicated the administration has not yet decided how to best get the revenues from these new taxes back into the economy to help low-income Americans pay their fuel bills and for other related purposes.

On the issue of the standby gasoline tax of up to 50 cents a gallon, Jackson told reporters, "I don't think that's meaningful, I don't think it will work." However, Jackson said he fully supports the President's proposal of a "gas guzzler" tax ranging from about $400 to as high as $2,500.

Meanwhile, House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill pledged his "wholehearted support" for the President proposal. "I appreciate the toughness of the President's program, but I also appreciate the emergency that faces the nation," O'Neill said.

O'Neill said he doubted the legislation could come to a floor vote in the House until next September, so complex and controversial are its provisions.

Backlog of legislation awaits return of Illinois legislators

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—Illinois legislators return to work Wednesday after a 12-day Easter and Passover recess facing a heavy workload and the prospect of the first weekend meeting of the spring session.

The House planned to meet on Saturdays both this week and next week as it struggles to meet a self-imposed deadline of April 30 for committee action on House bills.

More than 2,350 bills have been introduced in the House and 1,378 in the Senate so far this session.

Following are among the major items on the legislative agenda for the week.

—Two measures to lower or lift criminal penalties for possession of marijuana were posted for a hearing in a House Judiciary Committee.

—A measure to prohibit the sale of beverages in throwaway containers was due to be heard in the House Environment, Energy and Natural Resources Committee.

A statewide ban would be imposed on smoking in some public places under legislation which is supposed to be heard in the Senate Public Health Committee.

Action could be taken in the House Public Utilities Committee on a "lifeline" bill designed to reduce electric rates for residential consumers.

In addition, House Speaker William A. Redmond, D-Bensenville, hopes to win approval of a Senate-passed bill to increase the number of leadership positions in the Senate.

The extra leadership jobs were created as part of the deal which ended the five-week Senate battle for the Senate presidency earlier this year.

Student spankings not illegal according to Supreme Court

By Richard Carelli
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The constitutional prohibition against cruel and unusual punishment does not protect public school students from spankings by teachers even though it could protect criminals from the same punishment, the Supreme Court ruled Tuesday.

However, Justice Lewis F. Powell, writing for the majority in the 5-4 ruling, noted that students still have the right to sue teachers and school administrators and to bring criminal charges in state courts for spankings and other disciplinary measures.

Council accepts water plant bid

A bid for funding the bond issue to improve the Northwest Waste Water Treatment plant was accepted by the City Council in a special meeting Tuesday.

The bid submitted by the Northern Trust Co. of Chicago was the lowest of the six bids submitted. The company proposed funding the $1.75 million bond issue at an interest rate of 3.9629 per cent, Paul Sorgen, city director of finance, said.

Originally the city planned a $1.9 million bond issue. An unexpected $222,200 was received from the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency as reimbursement for constructing the Southeast Waste and Water Treatment plant, making the reduction possible.

The tentative closing date for the agreement has been set for May 9 when both parties will meet in Chicago, Sorgen said.

"We are reviewing here a legislative judgment, rooted in history and reaffirmed in the laws of many states, that corporal punishment serves important educational interests," Powell wrote. "This judgment must be viewed in the light of the disciplinary problems commonplace in the schools."

The spanking case brought a sharply worded dissent from Justice Byron R. White, in which he took issue "with the extreme view of the majority that corporal punishment in public schools, no matter how barbaric, inhumane or severe, is never limited by the Eighth Amendment."

White said also that he could not agree with treating students' rights different from prisoners' rights.

"If it is constitutionally impermissible to cut off someone's ear for the commission of murder, it must be unconstitutional to off a child's ear for being late to class," White said.

"Although there were no ears cut off in this case, the record reveals beatings so severe that if they were inflicted on a hardened criminal for the commission of a serious crime, they might not pass constitutional muster," he said.

White's many references to cutting off ears, using thumb screws and other inhumane treatment, prompted the usually unflappable Powell to reply: "This rhetoric bears no relation to reality... the laws of virtually every state forbid the excessive physical punishment of school children."

Powell's opinion emphasized that common law and the laws of 21 states recognize corporal punishment as a valid disciplinary tool. But the question before the court had been whether corporal punishment in schools could ever be unconstitutional.

News Roundup

Hassan: Cubans among invaders of Zaire

RABAT, Morocco (AP) — The Moroccan expeditionary force in Zaire has "absolutely certain" proof that Cuban soldiers are among the invaders of southeastern Zaire, King Hassan II said Tuesday.

Hassan said interrogation of a prisoner taken in fighting west of Kolwezi, the copper-mining center of invaded Shaba Province, showed that Cubans and white Angolans were extensively employed in the command, logistic and training structure of the invading force. Cuba, Angola and the Soviet Union have denied any involvement in the Zaire war, which they have termed a "purely internal affair."

Farm crops to get higher price supports

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter has agreed to support higher federal price supports for major farm crops for the next four years, Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland said Tuesday.

The new levels will more than double the potential cost of the farm programs the President submitted to Congress less than four weeks ago. That proposal would have cost just under $1 billion a year whereas the new administration program is expected to cost about $2 billion.

Arson suspected in Galveston fire

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP) — Firemen dug out half a dozen bodies and searched for others Tuesday in the smoldering debris of a 60-year-old hotel where at least 12 were missing, police suspected arson.

In addition to the dead and missing, 13 were injured. A spokesman for John Sealy Hospital said four were admitted, with their conditions ranging from good to fair.

It was shortly before 2 a.m. when the fire broke out in three locations simultaneously, police said. It spread rapidly, sealed off the Central Hotel's narrow entrance, and burned the five-story brick building to the ground.

Bilandic wins democratic nomination

CHICAGO (AP)—Acting Mayor Michael A. Bilandic, backed by the Chicago Democratic organization of the late Mayor Richard J. Daley, defeated five primary challengers Tuesday night to win nomination for the unexpired two years of Daley's sixth term.

With 484 of 3,065 precincts reporting, it was 60.936 for Bilandic and 43.954 for his nearest rival, Alderman Roman C. Pucinski.

It was the first mayoral election in Chicago in 22 years in which Daley, who died Dec. 20 of a heart attack, was not running.

SIU to 'hold back' hiring professional fund raiser

By Ann Schettman
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

SIU will not hire a professional fund raiser unless there is a reversal of the current trend of increased contributions, says George Mace, vice president for University relations.

An eight-month search for a director of development ended in February when SIU could not find any candidates experienced in fund-raising programs to take the $30,000 a year position.

Mace said Monday he had met with President Warren Brandt in the last two weeks about the position and the two men agreed SIU would "hold back" before making a commitment to pay the $35,000 to $45,000 a year salary needed to attract a fund-raiser who has had experience at another university.

Contributions from 1964 through 1973 totaled about $4 million. From 1974 to 1976, the contributions totaled about $5 million. Contributions for 1977 to SIU are "way ahead of last year," Mace said.

Mace said he will assume the major portion of the duties of the director of development. Mace said he has already assumed some of the duties, and has increased his share as his responsibilities to the legislative liaison position are taken over by Clyde Choate, who took that position in January.

A number of Mace's assistants have been involved in the duties of the director of development position. Choate also will become more involved with fund raising, Mace said.

The previous fund raiser at SIU, Curtis Simic, spent seven months at SIU and left in 1974 to take a job as fund raiser for Yale University. The SIU position paid $27,000 at that time.

SIU is "putting the director of development position into a holding pattern," Mace said. "If the upward thrust of contributions continues as it has, then we will think in terms of not filling the position or of filling it from inside (the University)." If contributions do not continue to increase, SIU will probably hire someone from outside the University to fill the position, Mace said. "We should be able to arrive at a decision within a year or so," he added.

One program that is helping to increase the amount of money contributed to SIU is the Living Endowment Program, which is in its third year, Mace said. This program makes a deferred giving plan available.

Although the Community Ambassador program was not directed primarily towards drawing contributions to SIU, the communication aspect of the program has brought many people in touch with SIU, and increased contributions have been a spin-off of the program, Mace said. Increased contributions also have been an outgrowth of the SIU Alumni Association.

The Development Office, headed by Joseph Goodman, has been working on ways to attract contributions to SIU. The Development Office handles the University-related functions of the SIU Foundation.

SIU will continue to develop these programs, and will not consider hiring a fund raiser unless the contributions they draw fail to increase at the present rate, Mace said.

Deserters return to Canada after slates cleared in U.S.

By Jan Carroll
Associated Press Writer

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Nils F. Swenson and Phillip L. Gower returned to the United States just long enough Tuesday to officially get out of the Army that they deserted during the Vietnam war.

Their slates with the government cleared, they headed back to Canada. "I was a little bit scared," Swenson, 29, said as he completed processing at Ft. Benjamin Harrison, Army headquarters for President Carter's returning deserters program. "I came just to straighten out my record here to be free to go and come. I might want to go to Florida on a vacation someday."

Swenson and Gower were the first to take advantage of Carter's program offering less-than-honorable discharges from the Army. They said many other deserters also were returning merely to clear their records, with no intentions of living in the United States again.

The Army said about 1,700 deserters are eligible for the program, which covers persons who deserted between Aug. 4, 1964, and March 13, 1973. Those who deserted from combat zones or have other charges against them are ineligible.

Gower, who said he has been working as a reporter in Wallaceburg, Ontario, said, "It wasn't an emotional decision, it was a legal decision" to return to the United States.

He said Carter's program, which gives noncombat deserters less-than-honorable discharges, was "more equitable than any gesture that was made in the past. It may be the last gesture that is made."

The program indicates an "enlargement of the nation's conscience. They've buried the hatchet. The war is over," Gower said.

Swenson, a Detroit native now living in a small Ontario farming community, said his Canadian neighbors warned him against returning to the United States.

"They said, 'Don't go. Why risk it?'" Swenson said, adding that he decided to make the trip after reading about the program in a Canadian newspaper.

Both Swenson and Gower said they deserted at Ft. Knox, Ky., after receiving orders to go to Vietnam.

Two new members of IBHE will be named by Thompson

By Skip Wollenberg
Associated Press Writer

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—Gov. James R. Thompson has decided to replace two of the four Illinois Board of Higher Education (IBHE) members whose terms expired earlier this year, a top aide to the governor said Tuesday.

(Thompson told the Greater Carbondale Area Chamber of Commerce on Feb. 23 that he would name former state Sen. John Gilbert, R-Carbondale, to the IBHE.)

James D. Nowlan, Thompson's special assistant for education, said the other two members will be reappointed to the 16-member board, which oversees state universities and community colleges.

The IBHE consists of 10 persons appointed by the governor, five from the university and community college boards and one student.

Those whose terms expired in January are Edward E. Lindsay, 78, a retired newspaperman from Decatur; James Unland, 55, an insurance agent from Pekin; Robert C. Ziebarth, a 41-year-old management consultant from Chicago; and Dr. Diego Redondo, a physician from Deerfield.

State law permits persons who are serving on the board to continue serving after their terms expire until they are replaced by the governor.

Lindsay said he plans to retire. Unland said he was told he will be reappointed and Ziebarth and Redondo refused to comment on whether they expect to be reappointed.

Unland told a newsman in Peoria that Ziebarth would be replaced by Rey Brune of Moline, a former chairman of the Illinois Community College Board and an executive of the John Deere Co.

Nowlan refused to confirm or deny the report.

Vice president's post sought Senior begins late write-in campaign

By Elizabeth Boscia
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Chris Ervin, senior in radio and TV and public relations, announced her write-in candidacy for student body vice president Tuesday.

Despite the late date, Ervin said she made her decision after getting "real support and encouragement from different people in Student Government."

Ervin, who has been involved in Student Government at SIU since 1972, left her post as student senator last November, because she did not feel "Student Government was going anywhere."

"There's too much self-interest on the executive level of Student Government-a lack of communication," Ervin said.

She cited the lack of communication between the executive level of Student Government and the student senate as the basis of student government's ineffectiveness.

"Executive members are not accessible," Ervin said. "They expect students to go up to the third floor and do not seek student input."

"I feel there is a power in numbers and want to get the backing of the student body to get things done."

Ervin charged that "the tuition hike was railroaded through because the Student Government did not inform the student body."

She said she feels that such issues as fee allocations, tuition increases and the Recreation Building are areas which need more direct student input.

"Student Government should have more involvement in voter registration and provide more awareness of legislation affecting students instead of leaving it in pamphlets up on the third floor," Ervin said.

In addition to serving as a student senator, Ervin has worked on the Student Fee Allocation Board, the Campus Internal Affairs Committee and the Student Rights and Welfare Board.

"They (Student Government) don't take me seriously, but I know I can get the job done," Ervin said. "I really want to see changes."

Bell: We're determined, serious

Editor's Note: Due to an oversight, Sue Bell's statement did not appear with the rest of the Student Government candidates' statements published in Tuesday's paper.

Supposedly, Student Government is the voice and servant of the student body, but student needs and demands have been overlooked by Student Government in the past. Determined, serious-minded leadership has been lacking here at SIU. It is time to start fulfilling the demands and needs of students on this campus.

The Environmental Action Party has organized to make a united effort to implement new and innovative programs for students through Student Government. Two of the many programs which the Environmental Action Party, as a team, will be working to attain are:

- 1) the establishment of a rape prevention program and a nighttime transportation system for women students. We feel that concern for the needs and safety of women students at SIU has been ignored for too long a time. 2) The development of a comprehensive recycling and energy conservation program on campus. By minimizing our collective wastefulness on a small scale, we can encourage other universities to become more ecologically aware of their impact on the environment, and the preventative measures and possible solutions available to them. Such a program here at SIU will increase efficiency in the maintenance of this University.

We welcome all suggestions and encourage students to express their needs to us.

Experience must qualify candidates for student offices

In the last couple of weeks, we've had the pleasure of reading what the candidates for Student Body President and Vice-President want to do for us. The basic pitch is, "make me Student Body President and I will talk to you and get a lot of things done. But there is a catch to this, these people don't have to be Student Body President to get most things done. Here is a short list of things that people have done without that title: gather petitions to present to the Board of Trustees, prepare recycling projects, meet with the Mayor of Cordoba, speak to the City Council, go before the Illinois Commerce Commission to oppose utility rate increases, change fee deferment policies, plan a fund-raiser for the Special Olympics, develop a text-book exchange, go out and talk to students, and hold press conferences to publicize important issues. So I propose that you do yourself a favor, write in their names for Student Senator; they will be right on the ballot so you can spell some of the difficult ones.

Who should be elected President and Vice-President? Don Wheeler and Chris McMullen. Why? They have something going for them and that is experience. Dealing with the bureaucracy takes a knowledge of who will help you and who wants to hide behind paper shuffling. Don and Chris have a year of experience and look what it has produced: after three years there is a Student Attorney, part of a fee increase was stopped (this incidentally saved you the cost of Student Government for eight years), and they cut the cost of Student Government this year.

My proposal is that we let Wheeler and McMullen run Student Government and put the other candidates where they will do you the most good, on the Student Senate.

Thompson Woods must be made safer at night

Women make up 37 per cent of the SIU Student Body and careful consideration should be given to their special needs. Sufficient action has not been taken by the current student government and University administration to fulfill these needs, nor has needed consideration been given to the safety of women on this campus.

During 1976, 44 rapes were reported to the Women's Center, most of these rapes were students. Likewise, on campus last year, several sexual assaults were reported, but little has been done about them.

The members of the Environmental Action Party believe that Thompson Woods is currently unsafe for women, and if elected, we intend to work aggressively for improvements in lighting and security. We will support efforts to organize an overall rape prevention program and the establishment of a nighttime transportation system to insure the safety of women students.

In addition, we feel that a women's center should be established on campus, and a degree program in Women's Studies be organized here at SIU. The Feminist Union has united, in part, to address these issues; we support their goals, and hope to work with them through Student Government to resolve these issues. We support their goals, and hope to work with them through Student Government to resolve these problems. The effort must be made to insure the safety of all SIU students. We urge you to support us on these and other issues of the Environmental Action Party platform.

Wheeler, McMullen will serve students the best

Two candidates running for the Student Government Presidency are really holding a stiff contest: Don Wheeler and Dennis Adamczyk. But no matter how stiff this contest is, Don Wheeler's and Chris McMullen's ticket is the far better one, better because Wheeler's and McMullen's platform issues are real and feasible; they can be reached. Whereas, Adamczyk's issues are not feasible, they are unrealistic. Of course, I only mention Adamczyk because his running mate Sue Bell is a voiceless candidate. Adamczyk's platform issues are issues that are not new. His issues have been voiced in Student Government and City Government for some time now. For instance, Adamczyk says that he wants studies started on projects such as the railroad depression. This issue is as old as the hills and studies of the railroad depression have been going on for years.

Just because this issue is not talked about does not mean city officials are not working on the railroad depression. The biggest reason this program has not been implemented deals with the obvious: FUNDS. Dennis does a good job of telling what he wants to do, but never tells you how he's going to do it, and what the circumstances are surrounding his proposals. This program, the railroad depression, will also take 10 years to actually complete, and not overnight as Dennis leaves you to believe. So you see, Mr.

Adamczyk is not as innovative as he appears, and that's all he does... just appear.

Whereas, Wheeler and McMullen appear and are working. And these two guys never stop working...because they're not performing for themselves but the offices and the meaning behind it...STUDENTS. This is the difference. If you want action, VOTE ACTION...DON'T vote for the wrong candidate and get REACTION! VOTE WHEELER and McMULLEN FOR PRESIDENT AND VICE PRESIDENT, as endorsed by the SIU Party, Tea Party Now, and Action Party.

Student Center rush hour traffic is needless

It always amazes me to realize how inconsiderate some people are. I am referring to those persons who block the major intersection of the Student Center everyday at noon. Lately, I have been one of those unfortunate enough to have to be hurrying through the center at this time. Hurrying, that is, until I find my progress impeded by an almost solid wall of people. It is sad to find that with all the many different areas there are to sit and talk, there must still not be enough space. This can be the only possible reason that these people feel the need to congregate in such a highly traveled area. I realize that since it is so traveled that it can be a convenient spot to meet one's friends, but in all due respect to the other students trying to walk the hall, don't you think that you could move somewhere else? I feel angry enough for myself until I think of those with physical handicaps, which then increases my anger. The handicapped leave at specific times for their classes so as not to be late, must they now leave five minutes earlier so as to allow time to make it through the noon throng? I hope those of you who are guilty of participating in this needless blocking will wise up and find another place to meet. Then, maybe we can all travel a little slower, secure in the knowledge that we won't have to fight our way through your mob.

Letters

'Politics as usual'? Not with Dunning

I find that I must heartily agree with the editorial presented by Steve Lambert on April 8. The letter discussed the fact that "elections tend to be the only time Student Government attempts to mobilize the potentially powerful student body." This, I think, demonstrates the fact that we've got just another bunch of politicians pretending to represent us in Student Government.

However, I think there are exceptions to this situation. After I discovered Sam Dunning, a senator from U-Park was running for Student Body President, I decided to organize a group of Independent Students for Dunning. I'm only an acquaintance of Sam's, but I have seen his work as a Senator. He has consistently sought to maintain contact with his constituents through letters to the East Side Story and forums. He has even attempted regular contact with house council officers.

As I acquired copies of his platform I and my friends have become convinced that, if elected, Sam Dunning would not conduct "politics as usual." I urge all students to review his platform as leaflets expressing his ideas are handed out. I believe we have a chance to make Student Government work for us, if we elect the right people.

Candidate forum waste of money

We would like to offer an explanation for our absence from the candidate luncheon Tuesday at the Student Center. We had important classes to attend and we were both in class at the time of the luncheon. Also, we cannot condone the spending of University money for this type of affair.

If the purpose of the luncheon was for candidates to meet with those members of the University administration they would be working with, then we believe an informal meeting at a more suitable time could have served the same purpose.

It is our understanding that even though we did not attend, a meal was prepared for us anyway. We apologize for what may have been an oversight on our part in that we did not send our regrets before the luncheon, but we also feel it was presumptuous of the public relations director of Student Government to assume we all would be attending.

If we are elected Wednesday, we would be more than happy to meet with the proper officials and discuss our plans for Student Government for the next year.

Write representatives, clean up state

If you are tired of seeing beer cans and soda cans all over the countryside, then you can do something about it now. Your state representatives will have to vote this session on House Bill 730, the Illinois Beverage Container Act. This bill would ban the sale of nonreturnable beverage containers in Illinois by 1980. If you care about the beauty of the outdoors please write the following:

Bruce Richmond 1130 State Office Bldg
Springfield, ILL. 62706

Ralph Dunn 2034 State Office Bldg
Vincent Birchler 1107 State Office Bldg
Ken Buzbee 1061 State Office Bldg

Education and higher prices have not stopped the slob from littering. So it is time to take away the tools of the inconsiderate. Spend 52 cents and 20 minutes to help clean up the outdoors. Please write soon.

Nothing wrong nor right about collective bargaining

Nobody asked me, but

Nobody seriously requested my view on collective bargaining and perhaps for good reasons. My observation of what bodies or positions would, or would not be permitted in a bargaining unit lead me to conclude that because of my administrative responsibilities I would not be. My sometimes racist view of circumstance leads me to further conclude that my participation, as a collective viewpoint of other racist views, would be self-serving and not necessarily desired, but I express my view anyway with your kind permission.

There is nothing totally wrong with collective bargaining for SIU-C faculty and staff, yet there is nothing totally right about it either. On a time continuum, those of us with several years of service to this institution have permitted circumstances to culminate in the recurring belief that collective bargaining is the only answer left. Granted, collective bargaining may result in increased salaries, improved physical working conditions, more exact definitions of what is expected in order to secure tenure, promotions and dollars, but what does it do for self-actualization (whatever that is)? My view is that, with these possibilities, collective bargaining is not the answer to restructuring the power distribution at SIU-C. My view holds "power" as the core of the matter. We allowed the power to shift to where we feel threatened by oligarchy because we basically were unwilling to accept responsibilities for the final decision. Consequently, we acquiesced to paying someone else to take the heat while serving as our dart board. As part of the dart board, (and this may be most presumptuous) I resent providing answers to our questions and then being castigated. I don't pay that well. Had we all participated in the Faculty or University Senate, Dean's Council, and Student Government (graduate and undergraduate) rather than letting "George do it" (no reflection on Dr. Mace), perhaps we would not be debating this issue. As change agents, we did not keep up with the changes and act on the obvious results of our own research.

Smokers need to clean the air

As a student a SIU-C, I am faced with a repulsive habit which is not one of my own. While taking notes in a lecture hall last week, I was surrounded by a cloud of smoke from the discourteous person sitting in front of me. To avoid from choking, I had to stop what I was doing and clear the air. For this reason, no smoking signs have been put up, but ignored. Another side of this issue often overlooked, is that of a fire hazard. In a large building with many students, evacuation would be slow, thus increasing the chances of injury in case of a fire. Now I am not trying to advocate the abolition of tobacco, just trying to warn some people up.

The issue of smoking in public is one of smokers' vs. non-smokers' rights. In establishing the rights of any group, we must often sacrifice ourselves. The smoker, as opposed to the majority of non-smokers, seems to be in the best position to sacrifice his habit for the good of others. For example, it would be very helpful if he or she would refrain from their habit while in the hall, either by their own goodwill or teacher-enforcement of the no-smoking rule. Perhaps I should not try to dictate what someone can or cannot do, but maybe I should when their "activities" are directly affecting my health and comfort.

I am hopeful that this letter may provide some insight into this situation. Smokers, we need your help!

West Side senatorial candidates

Some people say that students are just too apathetic toward Student Government. It isn't true because students do care. The problem is with Student Government and its job in communicating to us. Students are involved in their every day lives and unless approached with a topic relating to Student Government reactions do not occur. But there is a solution. Student Government needs more output to the media, followed by questioning constituents by government members. This will mean input back to Student Government thus creating better and more effective legislation on behalf of students. I am running for student senate. West Side and I will be a responsible and aggressive representative to your needs. Please support me and prove the rumor about apathy false. Vote Action April 26th.

Due to the senate's negligence of foreign students and their needs, most of the foreign students are not familiar with the senate and what the senate is about. Being a foreign student myself, I would work to fulfill the needs of all foreign students and other minorities.

During last semester, my attempt to make a democratic Iranian student organization, open to all Iranians, was successful and now the new organization (Union of Iranian Students) is fully representative of all Believe it or not Student Government is there to help the students. Its entire function is based on representing the students needs and wants through an organized effort. The student senate is just like any other club or organization. It is only as strong as its members and the members of the Student Government are the students!

As a candidate for the senate (West Side) I feel student input is vital to success. Perhaps if 25 per cent of the student body voted in Wednesday's election the administration may wake up and take notice. Student Iranians on this campus, whereas it was not before.

I will continue to work on the issues which is in the interest of the majority of students, and I will do my best in representing their needs.

Thompson Point senatorial candidates

Being a major in the Department of Radio and Television, I am naturally very concerned about communication. Particularly disturbing to me are situations involving needless lack of communication. Unfortunately, I see just such a condition in the SIU student senate.

The student senate has a great potential for serving the needs and wants of SIU's students, yet much of this potential lies fallow in the absence of a meaningful exchange of ideas between senators and the people they represent. Students seem uninterested in what the senate does, while

I am Irma Villarreal, a freshman in political science, and I am running for the senatorial seat from Thompson Point. Being a freshman, I have had many new experiences and this election has proven to be the most exciting and rewarding yet.

As a present and active resident of Thompson Point, I know that PPoint residents have not received the representation due them in Student Government. Not once this past year were we informed of occurrences or asked our opinions on an issues pertaining to the Student Government.

Poor lighting in Thompson Woods and the tuition increase are two of the issues that I, as a Thompson Point resident, find most important. As a student senator from Thompson Point I would work hard to bring the opinions of T.P. residents on these and other issues to the attention of Student Government and attempt to work for solutions to these problems. Since living here for only a semester time I have familiarized myself with the problems that face the residents senators have only aggravated the problem by failing to promote the senate's many worthwhile activities.

Of course, I cannot force students to take an interest in the goings-on of the senate. However, I definitely can make sure that Thompson Point residents are kept informed of senate happenings and are given ample opportunity for input. I intend to keep in touch.

Kappa Karnival to offer games, music

By Gordon Collins
Student Writer

The 28th annual Kappa Karnival, hosted by the Gamma Upsilon chapter of Kappa Alpha Psi fraternity, will be Thursday through Sunday at SIU and will include games, activities and parties.

The theme of this year's carnival is "Journey to the Land of Oz." "The annual event is a time for all the fraternity brothers, nationwide, to come together, as well as a sort of welcoming of Spring," according to George Hart, last year's Karnival chairman.

Hart, this year's entertainment chairman said, "We expect some seven to ten thousand participants this year."

The Karnival will kick-off at 10 p.m. Thursday with a housewarming at the Kappa fraternity house, 102 Small Group Housing.

On Friday, there will be Hop-Scotch and Double-Dutch contests from 1 to 4 p.m. at the Old Main Mall in front of Shryock Auditorium.

An educational lecture on "Academic Survival Techniques" is scheduled from 7 to 9 p.m. Friday at the Student Center.

Kool and the Gang will be in concert at the SIU Arena from 9 p.m. to midnight Friday.

A pre-Karnival dance is scheduled from 11 p.m. to 4 a.m. Friday at the Student Center, to be followed by aftersets or dances from 2 to 6 a.m. at Merlin's and University City.

Saturday's activities begin with basketball and volleyball tournaments from 9 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.

The games will be played between the different chapters of the fraternity. Volleyball games will be played at 102 Small Group Housing and basketball is scheduled for the SIU Arena.

The annual parade begins at 1 p.m. Saturday. Starting at the Physical Plant, it will proceed down Illinois Avenue to Main Street, make a left at University, circle back to Illinois and end at the Physical Plant, according to Hart.

Following the parade is a Jazz Workshop at the Silverball Lounge from 2 to 5 p.m.

The main event, the Karnival, is scheduled from 9 p.m. to 1:30 a.m. Saturday at the SIU Arena. It will feature Karnival games, novelty sales booths and other activities with music provided by a disc jockey and the band Real-to-Real. The Karnival will be high-lighted by the crowning of the Kappa Karnival Queen.

Movie shows terror

By Karen M. Flanagan
Graduate Student Writer

Take a terrorist group and mix well with one psychopathic blimp pilot, slowly add a concerned FBI agent, an aging counter-terrorist, thousands of innocent spectators, violence, intrigue, the God-year blimp and you have the recipe for the film Black Sunday.

Black Sunday reveals the interrelationships between the major characters in a slow, methodical and sometimes dull manner with action and violence interspersed between drama sequences.

Robert Shaw, as an Israeli counter-terrorist, is good but is certainly not at his best. He shows little or no emotion throughout the film with one exception. As the body of his young cohort is placed on an airplane bound for home, Shaw portrays the intense loneliness, hurt and fear one feels when confronted by the death of a friend without uttering one word.

A Review

Bruce Dern as the psychopathic pilot gives an excellent performance. Realizing the transition from a North Vietnamese prison camp back to American society is impossible, he blames his inability to cope on society's ills and on the numerous and nameless people who compose society.

In order to have the last laugh, he along with Martha Keller, a Black September activist, engineer a plan to destroy everyone attending the Superbowl, including the President of the United States.

Keller, the actual mastermind of the plot, engages the aid of the Arab terrorist movement, Black September to finance Dern's attempt in retaliation for U.S. aid to Israel.

Black Sunday is full of people

Laserium trip planned

The Student Government Activities Council (SGAC) is sponsoring a trip for SIU students to Laserium, a fusion of music and incredible colors, produced with laser light, Wednesday night.

The Laserium show is at McDonnell's Planetarium in St. Louis and the cost of the trip is $5 which includes round-trip transportation and the cost of the admission ticket. Each performance of Laserium is working toward the same goals for conflicting reasons. Dern wants to kill the American people for what they did to him, while Black September wants the destruction in order to prevent further aid to Israel.

On the other side of the coin, the FBI, Police and Secret Service are trying to prevent the disaster because the people to be killed are Americans. Shaw's reason is twofold; he has already seen too much death and destruction in his lifetime and is trying to maintain the existing but precarious relationship between the United States and Israel.

Although the film is a violent one, a subtle analogy is developed involving the differences and similarities between physical violence and a kind of mental violence which threatens the tear the characters apart at the seams. Frankheimer's skill as a director is quite obvious as the phenomenal action sequences testify. He is at his best when faced with the types of technical and script challenges that Black Sunday has to offer.

Based on the bestselling novel by the same name, the film script fails to develop a continuity between the characters, their hopes, their ideals, their goals and their eventual fates.

The writers seemingly had a good time with the screenplay but neglected to include many essential elements that were necessary to make Black Sunday an outstanding film.

The past several years have seen scores of disaster movies come and go with one film being different from the other only in terms of type of disaster it dealt with. Here we are faced with a new and before unthought-of enemy. In spite of its obvious shortcomings, Black Sunday is a welcome change from the run-of-the-mill disaster film.

unique, with multicolored clouds, vibrating shapes and undulating patterns following the music. All of the visuals are laser-created, capable of producing the brightest, sharpest colors ever seen, and is completely safe.

The bus to St. Louis will leave the Student Center at 4:30 p.m. and ticket information can be obtained by calling the SGAC Livewire at 536-5556.

Council approves $20 million budget — fattest in city history

By Pete Ratsbach
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer
The Carbondale City Council formally approved more than $20 million for its fiscal 1977-78 budget — the largest budget in the city's history.

About half of the budget, more than $11 million, is going toward construction and planning improvements within the city. This capital improvements budget was approved by the council earlier this year.

The $20.3 million budget includes more than $1 million for the city police and $948,994 for the fire department. The police allocation increased $90,000 over last fiscal year and the fire allocation increased about $40,000 from last year.

The $1.04 million police budget allotment includes money for a better dispatch center. Some of the money — $35,000 — was given to the city from the federal government through antirecession grants.

The fire department will use its money for more personnel. A new Fire Safety and Inspection Bureau was made possible because of antirecession funds also. More ranking personnel to aid firefighters in emergency situations were also allocated into the fire department budget.

Paul Sorgen, Carbondale finance director, said the highest overall increase is about 15 per cent for water and sewer utilities. Sorgen said this is largely due to the power company's utility increases this past year.

Another $2.8 million proposal was put into the budget to cover the cost of Illinois Central Gulf railroad relocation planning. The city has yet to receive the money from the federal government, but the expenditure was placed in the budget in case the city receives the money within the fiscal year. The money would go toward design of the relocation project and land acquisition.

About $2.1 million is allocated toward the improvement of the Northwest Wastewater Treatment Plant. The Illinois Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) has said that the plant needs improvement and placed a sewer ban on the city sanitary system.

More than $1.5 million will be reimbursed by the federal EPA. About $500,000 will be paid by the seven-year general obligation bond issue the city floated this month.

The refuse and collection disposal account has already run into problems. In the past, the operating revenue was subsidized by numerous grants and funds from sources outside the city. The program is currently losing money and the fiscal budget expenditure will not be enough to bring the account back up. One way to get the account out of debt would be to require refuse pick-up from the city crews only. Another proposal would be to increase the pick-up service by 35 cents a month.

The proposed pick-up service would give about $11,000 additional into the revenue budget. The mandatory refuse collection would add as much as $45,000 to the refuse budget.

Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) funds are a major source of city revenue. The $4.6 million from the CDBG program is about one-fifth of the total revenue. But new federal legislation could spell the end of the CDBG program in the next few years and the impact on the city could be considerable.

Besides the CDBG funds, other sources of revenue include funds from sales tax, state income tax, motor fuel tax and property taxes.

NEW JOBS IN MISSOURI

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP)—Missouri's gain of 71,000 new jobs in the last five years was a factor in state's current 4.9 per cent unemployment rate, which is among the lowest in the nation, according to Don Estell, director of the state's Division of Commerce and Industrial Development.

Curriculum classification topic of lecture

A professor in education at Ohio State University will speak on research on matching classroom material to an individual's learning needs at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in Davis Auditorium.

Jack R. Frymier, a specialist in curriculum research and in the study of academic motivation, will discuss "Classifying Curriculum Materials for Human Variables." Phi Delta Kappa, an honorary society in education, and the College of Education are sponsoring his appearance.

A dinner at 6 p.m. in the Student Center for members in Phi Delta Kappa will precede the lecture. Interested persons should make reservations with Jack Huck, assistant professor in the Occupational Education Department.

Frymier is the author of four books, "The Nature of Educational Method," "Fostering Educational Change," "Curriculum Improvement For Better Schools," "A School For Tomorrow" and numerous articles on education for various journals and bulletins.

Victor Brady

Steel pianist to play

University Convocations will host Victor Brady, "King of the Street Musicians," at an open workshop at 3 p.m. and in concert at 8 p.m. Both the workshop and concert are to be held in Shryock Auditorium, and admission is free.

Brady plays a steel piano, an instrument similar to a steel drum, but with more resourcefulness and color variety. Unlike the one-note, one-vibration principle common to most instruments, each time a note is touched on the Steel Piano, the entire surface vibrates; all the notes react, the listener hears a group of corresponding notes like a group of voices at once.

Brady's career began in Greenwich Village cafes where he appeared with other artists striving for recognition. In the summer of 1967 Brady ventured into Central Park where he saw the start of what eventually came to be an exfoliation of outdoors music-making. By 1968 he had become a well-known sidewalk artist.

Now with a solo album and a night club career, Brady is playing less often on the streets. In one sense the prospect pleases him: instead of the street noise, he now plays in the quiet of a club or concert hall, so that he and the audience can concentrate and fully focus on the music. On the other hand there is much of Brady's street experience for which he is grateful. "The street turned me on to life," he says. "The street made me what I am. It expanded my awareness. I came in contact with so many varieties of people—from all over the United States, Canada, Europe, the Orient. They gave me ideas, we discussed political issues, I got a broader and broader sense of the ways in which many different people live and think. The rhythms I play reflect the rhythms of contemporary life, and so when I play the great classical masters, for instance, I integrate their feelings with the sounds and cadences of the way we live now in a completely different time."

NEW ART JOURNAL INDEX

NEW YORK (AP)—Columbia University is compiling an index of an estimated 60,000 articles in 19th-century American art journals. The publication, supported by a grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities, is entitled "Index to Nineteenth-Century American Art Periodicals." It is the first in a contemplated series of indexes to 19th-century art literature.

Journalism Day to feature speakers

Lectures, films and a panel discussion capped off with an awards dinner will highlight this year's annual Journalism Day Friday.

Sponsored by the SU Journalism Department, Journalism Day is an opportunity for undergraduate and graduate students to meet with the alumni who return to SU for the day. The panel discussion will be chaired by Richard Lorenz, copy editor for the Chicago Tribune.

This year's award recipients will be journalism instructor Wendell Crow, journalism teacher of the year; Kelly Morgan, advertising student of the year; and Richard Cox, alumnus of the year.

Eight journalism scholarships will be presented by various newspaper organizations and the Golden Era awards will be presented by Harry Stonecipher, associate professor of journalism, to three area editors.

Following a welcoming speech by Stonecipher, Reader's Digest Associate Editor Richard Cox will give a presentation on magazine editing at 9 a.m. in Ballroom A of the Student Center.

Forrest Kilmer of the Quad-city Times, published in Davenport, Iowa, will speak on "What it Means to be a Journalist" at 10 a.m. in Ballroom A of the Student Center.

Reporter Bill Gaines of the Chicago Tribune will speak on investigative reporting at 11 a.m. in the Ohio Room of the Student Center.

The afternoon session will open at 1 p.m. with a presentation from a representative of MacDonald's advertising department, followed by a career panel discussion from 2 p.m. to 3:30 p.m. in Ballroom A.

The panel will include Fred Lvnch, photojournalist for the Southeast Missourian; Barbara Leebens, editor of the SU Alumnus magazine; and David Butler, metro editor of the Southern Illinoisian.

From 2 p.m. to 3:30 p.m. will be a presentation by two representatives of Leo Burnett advertising firm in Chicago on the topic of "Advertising as a Career" in the Ohio Room.

Movies will be shown throughout the afternoon, including a 3:30 p.m. showing of the Clio Awards in Ballroom A.

The annual Awards Dinner will start at 6 p.m. in the Student Center Renaissance Room. Tickets are on sale in the Communications Building, journalism wing, at $6 each, $4 for students.

Liquor license denied for restaurant, bar

By Sue Greene
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer
In a split decision, the Carbondale Liquor Control Commission has denied a request for a Class A liquor license for a planned combination restaurant and bar in downtown Carbondale.

Bogart's, the proposed business, was to be located near the Dairy Queen between Cherry Street and West Hospital Drive. Edgar Enterprises, Inc. planned to renovate and remodel two existing residential structures into a restaurant and bar. Parking facilities and the ability of remodeled buildings to meet city fire and safety codes were issues the commission considered in denying the license.

Although businesses located in the downtown area are not required to provide parking under the current zoning ordinances, the commission decided parking was a problem to consider.

George Twomey, a Carbondale attorney representing the First National Bank and Trust Co., said the bank was concerned about the business' possible effect on their parking lot. The lot is located directly south of the proposed site.

Beg your pardon

Extended hours for the Self Instruction Center and Student Media Design Lab of the Learning Resources Service in Morris Library are 8:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Fridays, instead of 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. as reported in Tuesday's Daily Egyptian.

The bank's large, restricted parking area is often used by people frequenting the downtown area.

Commission member Hans Fischer said the parking problem was not the fault of the bank or Edgar Enterprises but that the commission should consider the problem.

Fischer also said he questioned the feasibility of renovating the structures to the point where they would comply to city codes.

"Even if the minimum codes were met," Fischer said, "from a practical standpoint complete fireproofing is not feasible."

Robert Schulhof, an attorney representing Edgar Enterprises, said the corporation thought it had met all local ordinances and specifications. He said that if parking availability is a problem, the City Council should address that problem throughout the year.

The corporation's option on purchasing the land expires April 25. Schulhof said the company is trying to take two bad areas in the downtown and redevelop them.

Gary Lotz, president of the corporation, told the commission that renovating the residential structures was feasible, showing the members photographs of a barn he had turned into a home near Carbondale.

The commission decided in a 3 to 2 vote to deny the license request. Commission members Archie Jones, Hans Fischer and Helen Westberg voted against granting the license. Joe Dakin and Neal Eckert, commission members, voted in favor of granting the request.

In other action, a Class B liquor license was granted to the Carbondale Siroin House, 622 E. Main St. A request by John Karagiannis to centralize his liquor operations was denied.

Sewer drainage questioned

Council tables land proposal

By Sue Greene
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer
Residents living near the 35 acres of Stotlar Lumber Co. voiced opposition to annexing and rezoning the land at the City Council meeting.

The council tabled both proposals after listening to the complaints that were voiced Monday night. Tommy Glisson, owner of property on East Park Street, asked the council to stop further action until he can assess the proposals thoroughly.

Glisson said that under the proposed agreement, Stotlar could develop the area using a sewage lagoon until city sewer is available.

Glisson, whose land is lower than the Stotlar parcel, questioned how excess water would be channeled in the area.

Under the proposed agreement, the land would be annexed as soon as city sewer service was available.

The company plans to build luxury apartments buildings in the area, said Steve Suslak, company president.

Edwin Bryant, 1154 Glenbeth, said he is being surrounded by high density zoning. He said that when he built his home 15 years ago the land was listed as residential in the city's 1990 master plan.

Glisson said the proposal to rezone the land before actually annexing it would permit Stotlar Lumber Co. to build without complying city ordinances until the area was annexed.

Councilman Archie Jones said he had visited the area recently and had found that water would probably drain towards the city, eventually passing City Hall. He questioned if the proposed temporary lagoon would create an odor problem in the city.

Both the proposal to enter into an annexation agreement and to rezone the land to high density residential were unanimously tabled by the council.

Blood drive needs donors to meet goal

About 800 blood donors are needed if the Red Cross Blood Drive is to meet its goal of 1,200 pints, according to Merle Fisher, St. Louis field representative for the Red Cross Blood Program.

Fisher said she has received about 800 pledges from persons willing to donate blood, but probably between 10 to 15 per cent of those persons will either be rejected or will not show up.

Persons can still make appointments to give blood from 9:30 a.m. until 3:45 p.m. in Ballroom D of the Student Center for the rest of the week, Fisher said. Persons can also give blood on a "walk-in basis," she said.

The blood drive began Monday in the United Methodist Church, 214 W. Main St. Fisher said 189 persons donated blood, most of them non-students from Carbondale. Most donations each semester come from students, Fisher said, so the blood drive moved to the Student Center on Tuesday.

Fisher said she did not know how many donations were received last semester, "but about 1,800 pints sounds right."

At any price you can afford to be choosy.

Because the value of every diamond is determined by four characteristics (cut, color, clarity and carat weight), you can always use these qualities to your best advantage.

Perhaps you're attracted by the grandeur of a large diamond. Well, sometimes a large stone can cost the same as a smaller one. Simply because it has a little more color. Or a delicate birthmark hidden inside.

On the other hand, you may feel size isn't the most important quality. Then you could choose a diamond that's small, but perfectly cut to sparkle with an icy-white elegance.

In any case, you'll be able to find one to suit your personality. Because each one is an individual, with its own combination of characteristics. And you can use these qualities any way you wish, to help you decide what's precisely right for you.

But the important thing to remember is to buy a diamond engagement ring you'll be happiest with. You'll be sharing it for a lifetime with someone you love.

And for that reason alone, you should be choosy.

Senators never policed private calls of peers

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—Two former Illinois Senate presidents say that although their signatures went on the Senate telephone bill each month, they never felt it was their job to routinely question their colleagues about out-of-state calls. "That's a very difficult thing to police because of the peer relationship between the Senate president and other senators," said former Sen. William C. Harris, R-Pontiac. "The senators are elected officials, just like I was," said former Sen. Cecil Pardee, D-Chicago. The two men were interviewed separately as part of a six-week Associated Press investigation into the legislative telephone system. The investigation, which focused only on a small part of the $400,000 annual legislative telephone tab, showed taxpayers have been stuck with the bill for dozens of personal out-of-state calls placed from legislative telephones.

The Senate telephone records for calendar year 1976 were inspected, and several instances were isolated in which legislators admitted that either they or someone else placed personal calls out-of-state at taxpayer expense.

House Speaker William A. Redmond, D-Bensenville, refused to permit inspection of House telephone records, however. He said they were "confidential."

No written rules exist for use of the legislative telephone system.

Press Council to accept fall term nominations

An organizational meeting of the University-Community Press Council will be at 6 p.m. Wednesday in the Home Economics Building Lounge.

The purpose of the meeting is to organize the council's members for the summer semester. Nominations to fill four vacancies on the council for fall semester will also be accepted at the meeting.

Two of the vacancies on the council are in the undergraduate constituency, one is a faculty vacancy and the remaining vacancy is for a civil service worker.

Any complaints or comments about the Daily Egyptian or its policies will also be accepted at the meeting. However, persons should attempt to settle any problems with the Daily Egyptian before presenting them to the council.

Tuesday last day to file student grant grievance

Tuesday is the deadline to file grievances with the Student-to-Student Grant program (STS) for dissatisfied applicants who applied for fall and spring semester benefits.

Students filing grievances should make an appointment at the Student Government Office on the third floor of the Student Center, said Eddie Gardner, STS committee chairman.

The STS program, in its second year at SIU, is state and University funded. SIU students pay a refundable $2.25 STS fee. The state matches student funds.

More than 80,000 has been awarded to SIU students for fall and spring semester, Gardner said. Qualified students can receive a maximum of $600 for fall and spring semesters.

Gardner said, "Any student wanting to file a grievance should have documentation of any extra expenses to be considered." Most grievances are filed because the applicant was denied a grant or received only a partial grant, Gardner said.

This year 1,300 STS applications were filed. Of these, 50 per cent were denied funding, Gardner said.

Any students who have not received notification concerning a STS grant for fall or spring semesters should contact Bob Eggersten, Student Work and Financial Assistance counselor, at 453-4334.

Student jobs available; ACT on file required

The following jobs for student workers have been listed by the Office of Student Work and Financial Assistance.

To be eligible, a student must be enrolled full-time and must have a current ACT Family Financial Statement on file with the Office of Student Work and Financial Assistance. Applications may be picked up at the Student Work Office, Woody Hall-B, third floor. Jobs available as of April 18:

Saddle Club horseshow planned for Saturday

More than 100 horses from Southern Illinois will jump, race and be put through their paces at a horseshow Saturday at SIU.

The horseshow, sponsored by the Saluki Saddle Club, is scheduled to begin at 9 a. m. on the field south of the Arena and east of Abe Martin baseball diamond. Spectators will be able to watch 20 different classes until late afternoon.

"We're striving to get all different types of horseman together for a fun, friendly kind of show," Doug Vineyard, manager of the show, said. Vineyard, who breeds and shows Appaloosas, explained the show has classes for individual breeds along with classes for all breeds. The entry fee for each class is $3, and ribbons and trophies will serve as prizes.

Arab, Appaloosa and Quarter horses will pose in the morning for the horse's "beauty contest," known as a halter class. In the afternoon, horses will gallop around barrels and poles in racing contests.

The show, the first sponsored by the club since Oct. 1974, will be free to spectators.

EDS

Do you want to work for a large company, or a large, growing company? The answer can make a big difference in your future.

EDS is large enough to be termed successful, yet still small enough to offer major opportunities to outstanding young people beginning their careers.

Our business is the design, implementation and operation of large scale information processing systems. Our specialty is the very large, complex, integrated, long term, operational environment.

Our industry will double in size by 1980. EDS is one of the most respected firms in the computer services industry, with an excellent record of growth, profitability, and a strong financial position.

At EDS advancement is based solely on performance without regard to artificial barriers such as sex, race, religion, national origin, or seniority. At EDS, your growth will be limited only by your capabilities.

EDS needs highly motivated people with a strong commitment to succeed in the business world.

If you have the personal characteristics we are looking for, don't be discouraged because you have not taken computer courses in college. We have trained most of our people through one of our development programs, and we anticipate training you.

Majors include liberal arts, science, education, engineering, and business.

Women's movie roles reflect men's fantasies, says critic

By Beth Purser

Staff Writer

"What it boils down to (in filmmaking) is who has the money and who has the fantasies," says writer Marjorie Rosen. "The money and the projects belong to men, so they go with their fantasies."

Rosen is a free-lance writer and film critic and the author of "Popcorn Venus: Women, Movies and the American Dream." She maintains that the way women have been portrayed in movies throughout film history is based on the ideas and fantasies of men.

Speaking to an audience of more than 100 people Monday evening in the Home Economics Auditorium, Rosen gave a brief history of the image of women in films. She interspersed her talk with clips from various films to illustrate her points.

"This is an unusual audience—most of you are men," Rosen began. She went on to discuss her view of movies and the way women are depicted in them.

"Some may say this is a narrow, hysterical approach to movies. They may be right, but I doubt it," Rosen said. "Some may say movies are just entertainment, and they may be right, but I doubt it."

Movies help shape our ideas about romance, beauty, youth, family values and personal goals, and people still look to movie stars for values and fashion trends, Rosen said.

"Movies have altered the way women look at life," Rosen said. Movies have had a tremendous im-pect not only on women but on everyone who sees them, she said. "Consider the boy who saw 'White Lightning' and went out and ignited someone in the street. Consider all the people who got sick watching 'The Exorcist.' Consider all the people who won't go swimming because they saw 'Jaws'."

Rosen traced the development of women's roles in movies in relation to the development of women's roles in society. The early movies, Rosen said, "focused on women as love objects, but as children who couldn't express their sexuality without negative connotations."

Movies of the '30's portrayed such women as Marlene Dietrich and Greta Garbo, who seemed mysterious and unattainable but eventually capitulated to men. "They were black screens on which men projected their fantasies of the ideal woman," Rosen said.

Women in the films of the '50's were divided, Rosen said, between the big, blonde "dirty-joke ideals" like Marilyn Monroe, and the "little wholesome girls you could take home with you," such as Debbie Reynolds and Doris Day. Rosen discussed the changes in society in the '60's and the changes this brought about in movies and their portrayal of women.

Among the films Rosen showed excerpts from were "Birth of a Nation," the original "King Kong," "George Girl," "Up The Sandbox," and a series of clips from Mae West movies.

The author cited Mae West and Katherine Hepburn as exceptions to the typical way women have been presented in movies through the years. "Big stars should be held accountable for the kind of films they make," Rosen said, because of the effect they have on the public. "But there are no more women's roles, no big women stars now," Rosen said.

"It's significant that the only female in the top 10 box office stars is Tatum O'Neal," Rosen said. She said that the focus in movies today is not toward the adult female but toward the child. The depiction of girls as demons in such movies as "The Exorcist" and "Demon Seed," Rosen said, points up a current misogyny (hatred of women) in Hollywood.

Rosen is from New York and has a master's degree in television-film-communication arts from New York University. Her lecture was sponsored by the College of Communication and Fine Arts, the Department of Cinema and Photography and the Student Government Activities Council.

Nation's rivers recede with mid-April drought

WASHINGTON (AP)—April showers haven't brought much relief to the drought-plagued West, where the flow of water in rivers and streams remains well below normal, according to the U.S. Geological Survey.

Only two of 40 streams checked in the drought area were flowing at above normal rates and 25 were at least 50 per cent below normal in mid-April, officials said Monday.

The levels of underground water used for wells, springs and reservoir storage also was below normal despite some precipitation.

Survey officials said the nation's "Big Five" rivers had a total flow of 1,010 billion gallons a day on April 12, nine per cent below normal.

In Illinois, the Pecatonica River at Freeport was down 54 per cent, the Rock River near Joslin was 44 per cent below average and the Sangamon River near Jordan was 88 per cent below normal.

The two western rivers, Missouri and Columbia, averaged 50 per cent below normal while the two eastern ones, St. Lawrence and Ohio, were 10 to 20 per cent above normal. The Mississippi was eight per cent below normal.

Spot checks of water available in California streams showed the Smith River near Crescent City 66 per cent below normal and the Sacramento River at Verona down 71 per cent.

Total storage in the Central Valley reservoirs is reported to be less than half of the 10-year average.

In Colorado streamflow at all index stations was well below normal with the Arkansas River at Portland 66 per cent below normal, the Yampa at Steamboat Springs down 56 per cent and the Animas at Durango 77 per cent below average.

Mississippi streamflow at St. Paul, Minn., was 82 per cent below average and the Minnesota River near Jordan, Minn., was 88 per cent down.

$60 reported forcibly stolen from local man

Sixty dollars in currency and two blank checks are alleged to have been forcibly stolen early Tuesday morning from Michael Smith, 26, of 505 S. Rawlings. Carbondale police said Tuesday.

Police said Smith stated he walked out onto his front porch, where he was attacked by a man, described as being in his 20's, who knocked Smith to the ground and removed the items from him.

$200 in albums taken from store

Albums worth about $200 were reported to have been taken from Blue Meane Records, 715 S. Illinois Ave., sometime over weekend. Carbondale police said Tuesday.

Police said the manager of the store, Robert Walton, reported the burglary Monday morning. The west windows were broken out and the albums were removed.

Police have no suspects at this time. An investigation is continuing.

Man cut, another struck in fight

One man was cut in the face with a knife and another was knocked unconscious with a club in a fight early Tuesday morning on the 1100 block of East College Street, according to police.

Robert Thompson, 23, of 1101A E. College St., and Charles Graham of 306B E. Elm St., began fighting after Graham attempted to enter the apartment of Thompson's ex-wife, police said.

Graham allegedly cut Thompson with a knife, after which Thompson allegedly picked up a club and struck Graham near the head, police said.

Both were taken to Memorial Hospital. Police said Thompson was later released, while Graham was kept for observation.

No charges have been filed as of yet.

ENVIRONMENTAL ACTION PARTY

OUR POSITION ON THE ISSUES

We support and will work to develop a book co-op sponsored by Student Government.

We believe that portion of the Student Center Cafeteria complex be designated as a no smoking area.

We believe that there should be no tuition increase without a decrease in the number of administrators and/or administrative salaries.

We propose to gather and publish evaluation of General Studies courses made by participating students.

We support efforts to decriminalize the use of marijuana and will go to Springfield to lobby for such a measure.

We believe that the Thompson Woods is currently unsafe for women students and we will work for improvements in lighting and security.

We believe that a comprehensive recycling program should be developed on campus beginning with the recycling of the Daily Egyptian.

We will work to obtain higher quality copy duplicating machines in the library at no additional cost. We will meet with photocopying manufacturers to evaluate this possibility.

Bike paths are presently inadequate in Carbondale. We will meet with the city administration to urge expansion of the bike path system.

We propose that all vending machines on campus should only dispense returnable bottles.

President—Dennis Adamczyk
Vice-President—Sue Bell

Scientists use soybeans for fake steaks

By Barry Gottlieb
Associated Press Writer

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. (AP)—Rutgers University scientists are trying to manufacture T-bone steaks out of soybeans.

"This beast is easy. It's just an engineering problem," says Dr. Stephen S. Chang. "The hard part is getting it to taste like a T-bone steak."

Chang and his colleagues at the school's department of food science have a $100,000 National Science Foundation grant to study ways of making soybeans taste like meat and potatoes—or fish or ham-burgers or milk, or anything else—as long as it tastes better than soybeans.

Soybeans are widely known for their high protein content. As world demand for protein increases scientists are beginning to think the planet's hungry billions may soon be eating soybeans instead of animal proteins.

"Unfortunately soybeans don't taste good," says Chang. "They have a beany and bitter taste. We're trying to do a basic study to find out what is responsible for the objectionable flavor. We also do basic research on what gives other foods their good flavor."

Here's how Chang hopes to build the perfect T-bone soybean steak:

The first goal is to get the right smell. Everyone knows if you hold your nose while eating, it's hard to taste your food.

Chang will take 200 pounds of T-bone steak, cook it in his laboratory kitchen and let it simmer for eight hours under a sophisticated apparatus. As the smell evaporates off the steak the machine collects the odor-laden air molecules, which is converted into a liquid.

Chang then studies the hundreds of different types of molecules in each food's aroma and tries to synthesize them by chemicals.

Once the smell is ready—and that's the hard part—the cosmetics begin.

If Chang invents his steak, or soybean peanut butter, soybean cocoa or soybean french fries, the patent will be leased by Rutgers University to food companies.

He said many of the companies are doing similar research.

Golfers' lineup still unsettled

By Dave Hena

Daily Egyptian Sports Editor

After SIU golf Coach Jim Barrett ran his team through a practice round at Oak Meadows in Evansville Saturday he was supposed to decide which golfers would round out his six-man traveling squad.

However, things did not work out like Barrett had hoped. "I'm still trying to make a decision," said Barrett. "Playing at Oak Meadows didn't prove what I wanted it to." Barrett was hoping that one or two of his golfers would make a noticeable improvement over the others and lock up the No. 5 or No. 6 spots on the squad. It didn't turn out that way, as a matter of fact none of the golfers shot well.

All-America candidate Jim Brown, Jay Venable, Jim Reburn and Walt Siemaglus make up four of the squad, while Marsh Sheffer, Jack Halter, Kevin Klaine and Tom Coffey are candidates for the last two spots.

"There wasn't any real separation between those guys," said Barrett.

"Klaine and Coffey did about the same and Halter and Sheffer were about the same."

"Oak Meadows is one of the nicest courses I've ever seen, but it's not in that good of shape yet," he added. "It's a super test of one's golf ability."

One reason the golfers did not do well, according to Barrett, was that they were up and ready to go at 5 a.m. so they could get on Oak Meadows, a private course that is usually full all day.

"Siemaglus has to stay home and catch up on his studies—so that leaves an open spot for this weekend," said Barrett, whose team will compete in the Beu Classic at Western Illinois Saturday.

"Our team lacks depth because they're (the No. 5 and No. 6 men) all lacking tournament experience," Barrett added. "I'm going to have to make a decision on who I think will be playing the best."

Barrett feels that his team should win the 16-team, 18-hole tournament at Western Saturday. In fact, he is to the point where if his team doesn't come through he will be "very disappointed."

"People are getting tired of me saying this, but I think we should win this tournament. There is no reason why we shouldn't. We can't blame the weather anymore—it's the same for everyone. You get tired of excuses. We should bring home the team trophy and a couple individual trophies."

"And I want that special plaque that goes to the coach of the winning team," he laughed.

Women tenth at Illinois women golfers do well

By Jim Miesner

Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

The Saluki women golfers played their best golf of the year, but it still wasn't enough to place high as the team finished ninth in the 12-team, 36-hole Illinois Invitational last weekend in Champaign.

SIU's Sandy Lemon shot 63-75-158 to tie for tenth place individually as Ohio State's Kathy Dupin won with 140. The Saluki team total of 660 fell behind Michigan State's winning total of 608. Play was held at Illinois' orange Savoy course, which plays to a par of 70.

The Saluki total of 660 bested their previous 36-hole low team score of 676 in a meet last fall. SIU's 18-hole total of 329 Saturday was also a team low for the 1976-77 season.

Despite the low scoring, SIU finished behind state rival Illinois by one shot. Lemon managed to tie the Illinois' No. 3 player Janice Kimpel at 158, and beat their top players, Diane Miller and Becky Beach who scored 161 and 163 respectively. Beach won last fall's state collegiate tournament.

"That was my goal, to beat Beach," Lemon said. "I played better the second day though I hit the ball the same both days."

"The first day I was going for the greens on par fives in two shots and I was getting in sand trouble. The second day I played short of the greens and pitched up. It worked because I got five birdies the second day," Lemon said.

Despite the low scoring, SIU finished behind state rival Illinois by one shot, but Lemon managed to tie the Illinois' No. 1 player Diane Miller, and beat its No. 2 player Becky Beach, who won last fall's state collegiate tournament.

Other SIU scores in the meet: Judy Dohrman, 164; Lori Sackman, 175; Marilyn Hollier, 178; Penny Porter, 180 and Jo Anne Idoux, 196. The low four scores are counted to calculate a team's total.

"We had real good play," said SIU Coach Sandy Blaha. "That's the best we've done competitively in a tournament. I was pleased, but the other teams also did well."

Blaha said Michigan State scored 280 Saturday, which figures to a 75 average over the 76 course. Blaha said the best weather she had ever seen at Illinois' Savoy course made for better scoring conditions. Temperatures in the 80's with slight winds made for fine playing conditions both days.

"We played much better the second day," Blaha said. "We scored 340 then 329. Sandy Lemon and a few of our other players adjusted to the course better Saturday. They started laying up on some of the holes instead of trying to shoot over the sandtraps and the strategy worked."

The women travel to Huntington, W. Va. for the 36-hole Marshall Invitational Friday and Saturday in their next meet.

Women netters 'B' team set

The SIU women's 'B' tennis team will face Southeast Missouri State Wednesday at Cape Girardeau for its first match of the season.

The team is composed of Thea Breite, Trina Schuh, Amy Wheel, Kim MacDonaid, Lee Bigelow and Sheila Washatka. Except for Breite and Schuh, who have played in matches on the 'A' team already this year, the other four players have been practicing for a month without playing any matches.

Coach Judy Auld said the match will be interesting because Wheel, Bigelow and Washatka will be playing their first matches for SIU.

Brewers win 5-4 over Oakland A's

OAKLAND (AP)—The Milwaukee Brewers ran their winning streak to five and their season record to 7-2 with a 5-4 victory over the Oakland A's Monday.

"We've played nine great ones," Milwaukee Manager Alex Grammas said of his team, which finished in the American League East cellar last season but it is atop the standings now.

SIU trackman from Uganda sees big difference in U.S.

By Ken Mac Garrigue
Student Writer

Editor's note: Mike Bisase qualified for the NCAA championships in the 800-meter run last Saturday after this was written. He was also a member of the mile relay team that also met the NCAA standard.

Practice was winding down. Football players, going through the motions of spring drills, littered the stadium field. Members of the track team jogged through some last minute exercises for a meet the following day.

Among this collection of athletes jogged Mike Bisase, a Ugandan, a man hoping someday to be the first SIU runner to break the four-minute mile.

Bisase, a soft-spoken man of 23, possesses a quiet confidence, a feeling that he knows where he's going at all times on or off the track.

"I'm from Uganda," he says, with a trace of a British accent. "There's a lot of tension going on there." He pauses and chooses his words carefully. "I don't know whether all of it is true. There's about 75 per cent truth and 25 per cent spice," he smiles.

Bisase does have a goal where running track is concerned and that's to break the mystical four-minute barrier. To do so would put him in some select company at SIU: himself and himself.

"That's one of the things I want to do," said Bisase, whose lifetime best mile is 4:04. "If I do that, I'll be the first person at SIU to do it."

Mike Bisase

But when?

"I can't tell," Bisase said. "Just one of these days when it comes up right. Every time I run, that's one of the things I feel I'm in the best shape of my life, so one of these days it will happen."

"Lots of times I've won races against people who have run better times than me in their lives. I go in with the feeling that it doesn't matter who you are. It's more mental, but strength and stamina are important. Plus, my mean coaches help," he said with a smile. "Put down 'mean coaches'."

One mean coach, alias Lew Hartzog, said that he found out about Bisase through—of all things—a Catholic priest from Uganda.

"The priest, who had seen my team run, wrote about Bisase and said that he was interested in coming to school in this country," Hartzog said.

Coming from the mild climate of East Central Africa to the sometimes bleak Illinois winters was at first a shock to Bisase.

"When I got into Chicago, I never expected it to be that cold," he said. "But when I got to Carbondale, it was warm compared to Chicago."

"Back in Uganda, the temperatures are usually in the 70s. It should be hot, but we don't have the humidity like here. That makes a difference."

Bisase said that he's noticed other differences between the U.S. and Uganda. One example is the relationship between men and women.

"Down here, you find that, in a way, women try to support men more," Bisase commented. "But down at home, the man tries to maintain his wife—depending on the number he has."

"We have a dowry and the wife tells the husband what she wants. If she happens to be a virgin, we have to put in something extra. That is my tribe. Other tribes have different customs."

This sometimes causes a lot of conflicts," he added. "When there are squabbles between the couple, the man might say 'I bought you.' Because of that, we now try to base it on love. Some people don't like that—they do it just to please the old people."

IM racquetball played, roommates sweep titles

Bob Kosberg and Neal Scheyer combined to sweep the intramural racquetball tournament championships in singles, doubles and mixed doubles.

Kosberg and Scheyer, who share an apartment and are both members of the SIU Racquetball Club, also have similar talents when it comes to racquetball.

"I was just playing better at the time than Neal was. Neal grounded a lot of shots while I kept the ball in play more," said Kosberg following his 21-12, 21-13 victory over his roommate Scheyer for the singles championship.

Kosberg advanced to the finals by defeating Jim Deladesmo in the semi-finals 21-3, 21-6. Scheyer won his semi-final match over Ron Young 21-17, 21-7.

Seventy-five students entered the singles competition with Kosberg defeating six opponents en route to the title. Kosberg lost in last spring's championship game.

Scheyer teamed with Chris Evon to take the mixed doubles championship, defeating Bill Kidd and Karen Denny 21-13, 21-13.

"She's really a good player and played real well," Scheyer said of his partner Evon.

In doubles, Kosberg and Kerry Forte handily defeated Jim Roland and Rich Kasser 21-4, 21-12.

"We played pretty organized. He knew what shots he had to take and I knew what shots I was supposed to take," Kosberg said. "The way we were playing, nobody would have beaten us."

Boxing Club ranks ninth in nation

The SIU Boxing Club proved to be successful in its first year as an organized club by being ranked ninth in the nation by the national collegiate boxing ratings.

West Chester State College dominated the National Collegiate Boxing Championships and earned the No. 1 ranking in the country. West Chester dethroned last year's champ, Nevada-Reno, which was ranked No. 1 throughout this season.

Nevada-Reno dropped to third place this year, behind second place California-Berkeley.

Regular season performances were considered, as well as tournament showings, in the final poll voting.

SIU boxing coach Steve Werner said, "Outstanding performances by Dirk Hall (147-pound class), Tim Miller (156), Hal Ballard (165) and Jay Zumbahlen (172) made this rating possible."

The boxing programs of the colleges in the top ten have existed for over five years, while SIU's was involved for the first time.

"The dedication and hard training that all of the SIU boxers went through was a tribute to the program," said Werner. "Once we develop loyal fans, community members and administrators to our program, we'll prosper."

"We are in the beginning stages of a fine program and support by the students, both as boxers and fans, would assure a success," Werner added. "The intramural office provided outstanding help and I hope the cooperation continues through the summer and into next year."

Anyone interested in joining the boxing club should contact club president Brian Murphy at 549-0227.

Eligibility in the boxing club is for those individuals who have not participated in an organized program after the age of 16. The season starts in January and ends in April with the National Collegiate Championships.

Valley could do better with new commissioner

At first, people thought it was going to be played at Creighton's home field, even though a Valley rule stipulates that a school must be a conference school member for two years before it can hold a tournament.

But that wasn't the case. The tournament won't be at Creighton's home field, and will instead be played at a public field in order to draw the recognition of the College World Series for the Valley's brand of baseball.

That sounds feasible, but then again, it doesn't do much to foster enthusiasm among fans at Valley schools who would like to see the baseball tournament every few years.

Those are just a few isolated points. Nothing so serious as to say that Holmes is doing a bad job as commissioner of the Valley Conference, but enough to say that he isn't doing a good job.

The Valley has possibilities of being a fine conference. But in needs leadership that it hasn't received from Mickey Holmes, the man who is supposed to provide it.

The administrators of the Valley schools will meet in May. They should bring up the topic of getting rid of Holmes and hiring a new commissioner—a forceful commissioner who can bring the Valley back to respectability.

They won't. But they should.

Valley needs a new commissioner

Four years ago, the Missouri Valley Conference was a very weak conference. Teams were dropping out one after the other, and the conference was on the verge of folding.

Three years ago, SIU joined the Valley, which is probably the only thing that kept the conference alive.

Two years ago, only five teams were playing football in the conference. A year ago, there weren't even enough teams playing baseball for the winner to get a bye into the NCAA tournament.

And this year? Where is the Valley? It seems like it is going no place.

Sure, it has stabilized somewhat with the addition of Creighton and Indiana State, but the Valley is still nationally regarded as a weak conference—even in basketball.

And you can blame it on Mickey Holmes, the commissioner of the Valley Conference since 1972.

Last October Holmes said that he could see the Valley prospering in future years, and maybe even regaining the prestige it had in the 1960s and 60s.

But it really hasn't gone anywhere in the last year.

In football, Tulsa once reached the Top Twenty, but then didn't win its last four games. In basketball, the Salukis gave the conference some national recognition by making the Top Twenty and going to the second round of the NCAA tournament.

Holmes, of course, can't win championships for Valley schools. But he ought to be providing the forceful leadership to ensure sensible scheduling of conference tournaments.

Seven in a row for Saluki nine after 7-0 win

By Lee Feinswog

Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

Rickey "Buster" Keaton threw six scoreless innings and George Vukovich drove in four runs as the Saluki baseball team won its seventh straight with a 7-0 win over the Western Kentucky Hilltoppers Tuesday at Abe Martin Field.

The Salukis were originally scheduled to play a doubleheader, but rain delayed the start of the first contest and instead of two seven-inning affairs, just one nine-inning game was played.

Keaton seemed to recapture some of the form he had last year when he was the backbone of the pitching staff with an 8-1 record and a 2.32 ERA. In Tuesday's game the righthander struck out eight and allowed just three hits in the six innings he pitched.

"Coach (Mark) Newman worked real hard with Buster all week on his breaking pitch," SIU coach Itchy Jones said after the game. Keaton, 3-1 this season, agreed it was the key to his success.

"Before this game my ERA was high because I had no breaking pitch," Keaton said, "so the batters were waiting for a fastball and getting it. Today I had a good slider, which kept them off stride and made my fastball look faster."

The Salukis hit the Hilltoppers early. Third baseman Rick Murray led off with a single and scored on Vukovich's homer and SIU led 2-0 after one.

The lead increased to 4-0 in the third when catcher Steve Steib walked and pinch runner Kevin House stole second. Murray doubled to score House, and Neil Fiala bunted Murray to third. Murray scored on Vukovich's sacrifice fly.

SIU picked up two more in the fifth. Murray hit a drive to left that cleared the fence for a solo homer. Fiala then was hit by a pitch, stole second, and came in on a Vukovich single, his fourth RBI of the day.

The seventh run came on an SIU back door play. Designated hitter Bruce Hanson tripled to the gap in left center and shortstop Jerry DeSimone walked. DeSimone broke for second, and he was thrown out by the catcher, but Hanson easily scored on the play.

Jim Kessler came in to relieve Keaton in the seventh and smoked the to make possible full slates of conference football games and to capitalize on interest-building rivalries by some sensible scheduling in basketball.

The Valley Conference is still in the same position that it was a year ago, and the future looks the same unless someone does something about it. That someone should be Holmes, but he has an uncanny knack for doing the wrong thing.

Since Holmes was named commissioner of the conference in 1972, four schools have withdrawn—Memphis State, St. Louis, North Texas State and Louisville—and New Mexico State is thinking of doing the same thing.

That doesn't mean those schools left because Holmes came into the conference—but some persons close to the Valley's inner circles believe they might not have left if Holmes had taken more interest in persuading them to stay and if he had more strongly supported SIU's bid to join the conference in 1973.

The Valley's image, which Holmes talks about improving, could use the basketball luster of Louisville and Memphis State, which some believe might have remained in the conference if SIU had joined it earlier.

As far as Holmes and SIU are concerned, it seems like he has a grudge against this University.

A year ago SIU tried to schedule a football game against conference rival Tulsa for the 1977 season. But Tulsa didn't want to play SIU. Tulsa wanted to play a strong football school, and ended up signing with San Diego State.

Both SIU and Tulsa had open dates on Oct. 15. Both schools also needed another conference game to be able to contend for the Valley football championship.

Holmes should have stepped in and demanded that Tulsa sign the contract with SIU which had been on Tulsa Athletic Director F.A. Dry's desk for half a year.

But he didn't. Instead, both schools (and newly admitted Indiana State) will play non-conference schools to count as a conference game. That's pretty stupid.

In basketball, most people know that the decision to hold the post-season championship at Wichita instead of on the court of the regular season winner was a mistake. The athletic directors of the Valley schools made this decision, but Holmes should have had the foresight to see that it would be a mistake.

Another grudge never brought up: In the two years that SIU has contended for the basketball championship, many Saluki fans have yet to see No. 1 cage rival Wichita State at home. For the last two years, the SIU-Wichita State clash in the Arena has been scheduled during SIU's Christmas break. That also doesn't make much sense.

Who makes out the Valley schedules? Mickey Holmes.

In baseball, the Valley tournament was to have been held at SIU last year, but because not enough conference schools played baseball for the winner to get an automatic bye to the NCAA tournament, the Valley tournament was canceled.

So this year, the tournament has been moved to Omaha, site of the College World Series.

Hilltopper lineup. Kessler faced 10 batters and retired nine, striking out two and not allowing a ball, except for one base hit, out of the infield.

SIU is now 20-7 and had eight hits in the game. The team has been playing "good baseball," according to Jones. "We're getting excellent pitching, the defense has been tough all year, and we're getting timely hits. And Rick Murray (three for four) is on a hitting streak, to say the least."

"We were lucky to be able to get the game in," Jones said, pleased with the win and the good, but late, turn in the weather. The game was played under a partly cloudy sky, and about 150 fans showed up.

The Salukis play a home doubleheader Wednesday against Evansville at 1:30 p.m. Jones said he will pitch Bob Knezevich, a freshman from Council Bluffs, Iowa and Jack Radosevich, a senior from Chicago.

Girls place in state gym meet

By virtue of their performances at the YMCA girls state meet held at the Arena last weekend four Jackson County participants will compete in the U.S. gymnastics Federation Meet scheduled April 30 at Highland Park, Ill.

Libby Paine, Lisa Drone, Karen Stocks and Linda Paine, all of Carbondale, will represent the Jackson County Family YMCA.

Led by Lisa Drone and Libby Paine, who placed fourth in the all-around competitions in their respective age groups, the Carbondale Jackson County Family YMCA placed third in the state gymnastics meet with 233 team points.

Twenty-seven teams and 280 participants competed in the meet, which was won by the Elmhurst YMCA which scored 271 points. Competition was divided into three age groups—6 to 11 years, 12 to 14, and 15 to 18.

Drone, 11, scored 9.4 on bars for first place in the 11 and under age group enroute to her fourth place overall placement.

Stocks, 13, also placed first on bars with a 9.1 score in the 12 to 14 age group. Stocks placed 10th in the all-around competition. Libby Paine, who finished fourth all-around, placed second on bars.

Patti Shiplett, 13, of Carbondale, placed fifth in the all-around competition and fifth on bars in the 15 to 18 age group.

"Things went real well," said Jeff Crackel, Jackson County YMCA coach and meet director. "Everyone was pleased with the facilities at the Arena."
