Board votes not to raise fall tuition

By Sue Roll
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The Board of Trustees voted unanimously Friday not to raise tuition fall quarter as had been scheduled.

The Board acted in response to President Nixon's wage-price freeze at its meeting in Ballroom A of the Student Center.

The Board also approved a preliminary segment of the SIU operating budget request for fiscal 1972-73.

Tuition will be collected at the rate of spring quarter, 1971. The decision not to raise tuition applies only to fall quarter.

Board member William Allen pointed out that the SIU Board and the Board of Regents were the only Illinois boards of trustees to retain increased tuition after the Illinois General Assembly's failure to approve the tuition raise. He said imposing an increased tuition when it is not being done in other schools, would place an undue burden on SIU students.

The Board also passed a resolution to refund tuition already paid by students for fall quarter at the increased rate to be handled by each of the campuses individually.

C. Richard Grunz, Board legal counsel, pointed out that tuition that has already been paid is in the income fund and cannot be refunded. Refunds can be arranged, but this will be a slow process, he said.

The possibility of using overpaid tuition fees as credit toward the next quarters tuition was discussed.

Chancellor John S. Rendleman of SIU-Edwardsville, said he was "very pleased" with what he called a "splendid resolution."

Carbondale Chancellor Robert G. Layer said he viewed the action with mixed feelings. He said he was sympathetic with students hard-pressed to meet rising costs of education, but also expressed concern about holding high-quality faculty and staff at the University who he said have experienced an erosion of income due to inflation.

Before Nixon's action on the wage-price freeze, SIU had expected to implement faculty and staff pay raises. Income generated from the tuition raise would have been used mainly for this purpose.

In approving the University's operating budget, the Board reserved the authority to alter it if necessary.

The operating budget, totaling $10,915,011 will be forwarded to the Illinois Board of Higher Education (IBHE) before Sept. 1.

This approved portion of the budget includes new, improved and expanded programs with $3,685,460 for Carbondale and $3,600,776 for Edwardsville; operation and maintenance of the physical plants with $1,847,764 for Carbondale and $578,905 for Edwardsville; and price increases on goods and services with $767,751 for Carbondale and $434,355 for Edwardsville. This comes to a total of $6,300,975 at Carbondale and $4,614,036 at Edwardsville.

The School of Medicine led the list of priorities for the Carbondale campus with $1.47 million requested for the Springfield center and $1 million for Carbondale. Second priority went to the proposed School of Law and third to the proposed College of Human Resource Development.

Significant increases were estimated in the cost of water, sewage and coal. Both campuses used the IBHE index of 6.7 per cent to compute their anticipated general cost increases on goods and services with the exception of salaries.

Top priority for the Edwardsville campus was given to its dental school with a $1.78 million appropriation. Other high priorities were its master of science degree programs in nursing and urban and environmental studies.

Board limits vehicle rules to on-campus

By Cathy Sprengle
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

SIU moved two steps away from its policy of "in loco parentis" Friday after the Board of Trustees approved new regulations affecting motor vehicle use on campus and the organization of group housing facilities.

The Board also passed tightened admissions policies, effective summer, 1972, which may be felt by low-ranking high school graduates and transfer students.

The practice of "in loco parentis" (the University acting in place of parents to regulate students) was weakened by a new motor vehicle policy which limits the University's regulatory powers to on-campus parking and driving.

Present regulations prohibit students from using, operating or owning motor vehicles while enrolled at SIU, unless they have special permission. This permission has generally been granted to upperclassmen, graduate and married students, commuters and students who can show special need.

The new regulation, effective Sept. 1, reads, "No person affiliated with SIU at Carbondale shall operate or park an unregistered motor vehicle on University property except with permission of the Security Office."

Students still must register cars to park them on campus. The privilege of registration has not been extended to freshmen and sophomores under 21.

The Board said one of the reasons for the regulation's passage is "to confine the geographical area of jurisdiction to University property in keeping with the trend of judicial decisions."

The Board also repealed a 1957

Board takes no action on fee changes

By Cathy Sprengle
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

President Nixon's wage and price-freeze came home to SIU Friday as the Board of Trustees deferred action on changes in student fees, stadium development and rental rates for University-operated apartment.

The Board approved only 20 per cent of SIU's Student Government's student activity fee budget allocations and Action labeled 'standard practice'

Board affirms house for officials

By Sue Roll
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The Board of Trustees in a statement Friday justified its provision of a University-owned house for Chief of Board Staff James Brown as a "standard practice" and a necessity in recruiting high quality administrators.

The Board in another statement said its position on the veto power of the University Senate had been misunderstood and that it neither accepted nor rejected this provision in the University's new governance system.

requested more information on allocations to student organizations.

The Board also deferred an agreement to act as a fee collector for the Illinois-Public Interest Research Group (IPIRG).

Chancellor Robert G. Layer asked the Board to withdraw the fee changes and stadium development items for further study and consideration at its September meeting, because of the Presidential sanctions against price changes.

The statement on Brown's house said "every attempt" had been made to use University funds "efficiently and economically" and that the costs of renovating the house had been less than the original estimates.

"Providing housing for top University officers is a standard practice in the nation," the prepared statement said. "The Board of Trustees does not intend to provide exorbitant salaries, unreasonable perquisites, or extravagant housing to officials. On the other hand, if (SIU) is to maintain its reputation for excellence and quality, it must recruit and hold administrators of high quality.

Explaining that discussion concerning the house had been held in executive session when the salaries and perquisites of the chief of board staff and presidents of the two universities were under consideration the statement said, "It is necessary to hold such discussions in advance of action so that the board can carefully consider such actions and therefor arrive at the wisest possible decision."

Layer's commentary said, "Not only is that now illegal, there are many straws in the wind which indicate that the freeze will extend through the Christmas holidays and beyond. Thus, it is not feasible to plan now for fee changes whose implementation date is so unsure."

Fees levied at the 1970-71 rate will be used for the remainder of the year, with the exception of the Student Center fee which was changed before the Nixon freeze.

Layer said the SIU Health Service, which would have received increased funds from the proposed fees, had been hard hit by the deferrals and would need financial support from other sources.

Layer then announced that no additional funds from fees are to be deposited in the Stadium Development Fund. The money which would have been deposited, approximately $387,800, will instead be channeled to the Health Service.

Trustees approve study of pollution

By Cathy Beach
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

SIU's Board of Trustees Friday approved the launching of a $25,000 pilot project to study ways to clean up emissions from the campus steam plant.

A report in April from a chemical engineering company showed the Plant and Plant 2 to be in violation of Illinois pollution standards.

The study by the Wisconsin Chemical and Tanning Co. confirmed earlier predictions by the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency that particulate emissions were being generated at the rate of 1.17 pounds per million BTUs of energy generated. The acceptable level is 3 pound per million.

A study by the engineering firm of Concor, Townsend and Associates concluded that the installation of mechanical dust collectors would bring the existing boilers in the steam plant into compliance with state standards for particulate emissions only. The dust collectors would not remove gaseous pollutants or sulfur oxides from gases emitted by the stack.

The pilot study aims to develop a method of simultaneously controlling particulate and gaseous emissions.

The Board resolved that "SIU take the leadership in this locality by reducing pollution to include both particulate and gaseous pollutants, even though currently the latter are not a requirement under the standards."

The pilot program will be directed by Howard Hesketh, assistant professor and air pollution control specialist in the School of Engineering and Technology.

Hesketh said the project will involve adaptation of a process called wet scrubbing to the steam plant stack. The process uses a scrubbing machine to capture particles by forcing high velocity particles to strike a cloud of liquid droplets. Sulfur and nitrogen oxides can also be removed.

The SIU study will determine if a combination of processes can make the wet scrubbing technique effective for the SIU stack.

Board justifies house for Brown

The statement said that the position of chief of board staff is not an unusual post at a university, with similar positions now established in both the Board of Governors and the Board of Regents.

The statement said the Board's action "is perfectly consistent with the long standing practice of governing boards in the State of Illinois."

Explaining that Brown had been asked by the Board to move to Carbondale from Collinsville because of the nature and bulk of his duties, the statement said the Board had the choice of purchasing a home for Brown, building a home, or providing housing in properties already owned or leased by the University.

The Board decided to provide the house at 807 S. Oakland which is being purchased by the SIU foundation for Brown. Brown and his family moved in about six weeks ago. No announcement was made of the Board's action and it became known only through newspaper reports after Brown moved to the Carbondale campus.

The statement said that original estimates for repair and renovation were over $27,000 and that Brown had said he did not feel such extensive repairs were necessary. He then recommended that the work could be done for $17,232, and this estimate was presented to the Board at its June meeting. Expenditures on the house have been reported to be $15,218.56.

The statement said that funding for repair and renovation of properties owned or leased by the University comes from operating funds and that the work was ordered by Laver following the direction of the Board, since the property in question is under the administration of the chancellor of the Carbondale campus.

A large percentage of the work done on the property was necessary to maintain its value regardless of its use, the statements said, adding that additional expenditures were made for landscaping, fence, a dishwasher and a disposal totaling $1,833.96.

Harold Fischer, chairman of the Board, also read a telegram from John Holderman, director of the Illinois Board of Higher Education (IBHE) which denied previous reports that that agency was planning an investigation into Brown's house.

Holderman said he had been misquoted and misrepresented in a story in the Alton Evening Telegraph which had reported the alleged IBHE intention.

The Board also passed a resolution affirming its ability to provide housing for University administrators.

Two Board members, Martin Van Brown and Earl Walker voted against the resolution.

On the Senate veto override issue, the Board's statement said newspaper reports "had indicated misunderstanding" about the Board's attitude toward the charter of the U-Senate and the veto provision in particular.

The issue developed after last month's Board meeting, when Chancellor Robert G. Laver reported to the Senate that the Board in an executive session had taken a position against allowing the Senate to override the president's veto of Senate proposals.

The Board statement emphasized the administrative authority of the presidents or chancellors "and pointed out that the U-Senate is a body which deals with the internal self governance of the University at each campus.

"The Board neither accepted nor rejected the University Senate's right to override the Chancellor of the University, soon to become president," said the statement. The statement said the prerogative to delegate authority with other University officials or bodies is the president's right.

"The Board on the other hand has the right, and the obligation, to judge the President's performance based on his wise use of the delegation of authority for which he and he alone is fully accountable to the Board of Trustees," the statement said.

The Board expressed its concern that each of the university systems develop constituency involvement in their governance but said it "cannot hold a president accountable for the operation of his University if it then removes some of his authority for the operation and places it in other hands."

William Simeone, U-Senate president, who appeared briefly before the Board, said the power to override the chancellor or president's veto was "in no way an attempt to undermine the authority of the Board or president" but was an attempt to share the governance responsibilities.

No action taken on fee revision

Layer said the sum represents a $5.50 per student amount, an increase from last year's fee of $4.15. The fee still falls short of the planned $7 fee.

Layer also said that no monies from the Athletic Fund will be deposited in the Stadium Development Fund, because athletics will not receive allocations from the student activity fee this year.

His statement read, "Since such funds would not be so allocated this year, the entire proceeds from the Athletic Fund, estimated at $765,000, would be necessary for this year's athletic program. Thus, we have come full circle and can see why it is necessary to discontinue further deposits in the Stadium Development Fund."

Donald N. Boydston, head of intercollegiate athletics at SIU, spoke before the Board and said Layer's action had come as a "complete surprise" to him.

"I thought we were going to discuss stadium renovation and now I'm wondering if we're going to have a facility at all," Boydston said.

Layer said that even if no more funds are allotted to stadium development, the remaining portion could cover renovations. He also said that SIU is in a state of flux concerning its participation in the Midwest Conference. Layer said the Intercollegiate Athletics Committee had recently unanimously recommended that SIU withdraw from the conference.

Layer's commentary said, "That it would be desirable from several standpoints to defer any action on a stadium until a future time when the financial picture is more favorable."

Dr. Martin Van Brown, Board member from Carbondale, urged that a stadium financing study be completed for the Board. He also said students should be polled on whether or not they support stadium development and fees paid for it.

The other deferred item on the Board's agenda was an increased rental rate for Elizabeth Street Apartments and University Courts apartments. The change would have raised the rental rate $10, from $115 per month to $125.

The Board briefly discussed the increased housing rates for fall at on-campus dormitories. Small Group Housing and the University Trailer Court and how the increases are affected by the price-freeze.

It was reported that over 80 percent of the housing contracts were paid by Aug. 12. The Board took no official action on the increases, so they apparently will stand.

The Board also deferred action on the assessment and collection of a one dollar fee for IPIRG, a group which would hire professionals to do environmental and social research for students.

Members of the Board said the central issue in the collection of the fee is a legal one. University statutes prohibit the Board from collecting public funds for use by a private agency.

Irving A. Elliott, Board member from Carml, said he agreed in principle with IPIRG's goals, but said the fee could not be imposed upon students, even if they would have the right to refuse to pay it.

T. Richard Mager, SIU legal counsel, praised the IPIRG steering committee for responding affirmatively to an original 27 legal objections and working down to only one.

Elliott said, "We have reached the end of the line legally." He gave a reluctant assent to a motion to give IPIRG another month to work out legal complications, saying that he didn't think any solution could be worked out.

Two Board members criticized Student Government's presentation of the student activity fee budget allocations. The allocations provide operating funds for 61 student groups for the 1971-72 academic year.

Van Brown and Elliott said the presentation was an attempt to make the Board rubber stamp the budget and asked why the information had not been presented earlier to the Board.

Jim Peters, student senate vice president who helped compile the allocations, said the information had been available since June and Student Government had tried and failed to get the budget on the Board's July agenda.

Witness says automatic weapons used

By Courland T. Milliey
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Testimony on the use of automatic weapons by police continued Friday as the trial of three men charged in the shootout with police in Carbondale moved into its fifth day.

Testifying were Carbondale police officers William Brewer and Levia Moultrie, who said they were together when the shootout occurred Nov. 12.

In questioning by defense attorney Jeffery Hass, Brewer testified that automatic weapons were apparently fired by two Carbondale police officers.

Brewer said that he saw Officer Paul Uraski firing a Thompson sub-machine gun and Officer Jim Rossiter firing a Smith and Weston .78.

Later, Moultrie testified that shots had been fired by police into the house at 401 N. Washington from the house next door, 403 N. Washington. "I heard about four bursts from an automatic weapon coming from police at the house next door," said Moultrie.

He testified that tear gas had been fired by police into the house at 401 N. Washington from a house next door at 403.

Moultrie later said that Patrolman Michael Maurizio had fired a service revolver for about 20 minutes. He said that Maurizio also had a rifle. "He moved north of the house and began firing the rifle and the revolver," he said.

Moultrie said the house had been surrounded and fired upon by police who used among other firearms, automatic weapons.

(Prior to the hiring of Police Chief Joseph Dakin, police officers purchased their own weapons. New department policy makes all weapons property of the city and bans use of privately-owned weapons. The city now purchases the guns, a standard 357 magnum revolver.)

Conflicting statements developed in some of the testimony Brewer said he and Moultrie had received two radio calls concerning the shooting the morning of Nov. 12. Moultrie later testified they had received four calls.

Brewer testified that they had tear gas in the car when they arrived in the 400 block of North Washington. Moultrie said they had none. Moultrie was later asked what position was occupied by Officer Marvin Voss who was with the two during the shootout. Moultrie testified that Voss was on the driver's side of the patrol car. Earlier, Brewer testified that Voss was on the passenger's side.

Brewer said a call was made to them concerning the shooting and that the officers "happened to run upon it." Moultrie later testified that he had answered the call and had been told to go to the scene of the shooting.

Brewer testified that he arrived at the scene and that his police car was struck by 10 bullets fired from the house at 401 N. Washington.

Moultrie stated that the car was struck "at least twice." Brewer testified that he shot tear gas into the house.

Moultrie testified that he fired about 30 times into the house from a six-shot revolver. He said that Patrolman Voss held a machine gun but did not fire it. Moultrie said Voss used his service revolver but that he did not know how many times Voss fired.

Moultrie later said that Patrolman Michael Maurizio had fired shots from a service revolver for about 20 minutes. He said that Maurizio also had a rifle but did not know what kind it was. "He moved north of the house and began firing the rifle and the pistol," said Moultrie.

Moultrie testified that there was about a "30-minute silence" at one point. At this time some civilians were coming down Washington Street, he said. "They were ordered not to come any closer and when they continued, tear gas was fired upon them," he said.

Moultrie said he recalled one of the defendants saying that those in the house would surrender to the community and asked that someone from the community be sent into the house. The officer said it took about 30 minutes to get someone from the community into the house.

The defendants, Milton Boyd, 22 of Chicago, James K. Holley, 21, and Leonard Thomas, 20, both of Carbondale, are each charged with seven counts of attempted murder, seven counts of aggravated assault and one count each of criminal damage to property and mob action.

Janis Stotlar of Murphysboro, the third juror selected for the trial, was excused Thursday afternoon on a doctor's order. Miss Stotlar became ill during a noon recess.

Circuit Court Judge Everett Prusser recessed the court until 9 a.m. Monday.

Blind student helps others learn campus

By Tom Deben
Student Writer

Jim Rhoades is the man to know if you're a blind student entering SIU and don't know the campus.

Rhoades, a senior in music education from Springfield, who lost his partial vision 16 years ago and now has only light perception, has been conducting campus tours with blind students for a year and a half.

Lemuel Phipps, a blind 1970 graduate of SIU from Chicago, taught Rhoades the SIU campus. Phipps used the same basic technique as Rhoades uses now to teach blind students. Rhoades said Phipps would take him over several areas of the campus each day for a week. Phipps had Rhoades to go out on campus by himself each night and review the places they had gone that day. At the end of a week, Phipps would tell Rhoades to go to a specific place on campus without any help.

Edith C. Spees, coordinator of Handicapped Student Services, got Rhoades involved in conducting tours when she asked him if he wanted a job orienting incoming blind students to the campus. He took the job, and when the program for the orientations ran short of money, Rhoades continued conducting tours for blind students privately.

Main purpose of the tours is to teach new blind students how to locate their classroom buildings. Rhoades will take the student on campus for a week and guide them to the buildings they should know to get to their classes. Then he will tell new students to take him to a specific building.

Once a new student has located the building, Rhoades will ask him how he knows what building it is. Rhoades will then explain the characteristics of the building as a blind person would perceive them.

Rhoades gave an example of the characteristics of Altgeld, the main music building, and how you can tell you are there. He said as you approach the east entrance there are five steps to climb to get to the first door. If you miss the steps, there are bushes on both sides of the steps you will walk into. The north sidewalk near the building is where other students park their bikes.

"Bikes are definite danger to some blind students. At SIU some blind students have been known to be injured because of bikes being parked on sidewalks instead of grass," he said.

Once the new blind student has learned how to get to his classes, Rhoades will teach him how to locate other buildings, such as the University Center or Morris Library.

Rhoades said the SIU campus is a hard place for a new blind person to learn because of the many buildings and the many streets that must be learned.

A sighted person could understand this situation, according to Rhoades, if he would imagine himself new to the campus, then imagine himself on campus with a blindfold that wouldn't come off. Now imagine how hard it would be to learn the campus.

Some new blind students experience anxiety when trying to learn the campus, according to Rhoades. He said he can tell when this happens because the students will get scared when they can't locate the buildings at first.

"I know what they're going to go through, because I went through it myself," he said.

Rhoades said the best method for new blind students to learn the campus is by trial and error. He said once the new student knows how to get to classes he should get out on campus and learn how to get around on his own.

The new blind student must learn the campus from all directions, according to Rhoades. "One thing you have to know around here is your directions," he said. It is of little value for a blind student to know the campus from only one direction, for the student may not be able to start off from the same direction all the time, he said.

If a blind person gets lost while learning the campus, Rhoades said, he should learn to find his way "by whatever means he has to use." This may mean asking a sighted student or a policeman or using any technique he can think of.

According to Rhoades, if you are blind and can't use a cane you should not be admitted to SIU. Rhoades said a cane is one of the most valuable tools to a blind person.

Jim Rhoades takes Mary Ann Busch, a freshman in General Studies, on a tour of the campus.

U-Senate to consider statement on Vietnam

The agenda for the Monday meeting of the University Senate includes consideration of a statement on the Vietnam war and a governance resolution.

This resolution, drafted by a subcommittee of the U-Senate's Governance Committee, seeks approval of the governance system including the U-Senate's power to override a veto by the University president.

Once passed by the U-Senate, the Board of Trustees can accept the governance system in its entirety, including U-Senate override of a presidential veto, reaffirm its position indicated on July 14, which would delete the override provision, or make further reductions in U-Senate governance power.

The statement on the Vietnam war was drafted by an ad hoc committee appointed last May.

The resolution states

"That it considers the American role in the continuation of the Indo-China War as abhorrent and reprehensible.

"That it urges an immediate termination of the American involvement in that war and with the Saigon government.

"Calls for the most expeditious American withdrawal of American armament, material and men from Vietnam, Cambodia and Laos.

"And, finally, that our Illinois representatives in the state and federal legislatures be notified of this resolution."

The U-Senate has the options of accepting the resolution in toto, rejecting it, or modifying it.

The meeting will be at 7 p.m. Monday in Lawson 101.

Wills honored at Illinois State Fair

Walter J. Wills, chairman of the agriculture industries department at SIU, was honored at the Illinois State Fair during Farm-City Day.

An award, which Wills described as "The Illinois Farm City Award," was given for his efforts in the agricultural marketing field and his service to the Illinois Rural-Urban Committee of the State Chamber of Commerce.

Wills said, "I feel quite honored to be given this award. It makes a person feel good that somebody appreciates a sustained effort on solving a problem."

Nutgrowers association will hold conference at SIU

The 62nd annual Northern Nutgrowers Association Conference will meet at SIU Monday through Wednesday.

Dave Funk, adjunct professor in the Department of Forestry, said, "This is traditional meeting for the members of the association to get together and exchange notes."

Funk said that he expects more than 200 members from 20 states and Canada.

The members of the association will stay at Wilson Hall, where on Monday they will conduct informal discussions on ways to improve the quality of nuts. The type of nuts most members of the association grow are hickory, filbert, pecan and walnut.

Tuesday evening there will be a dinner at the University Ballroom where they will elect new officers. Wednesday there will be more discussion and a field trip to study in the improvement of the quality of nuts.

Funk said that not many of the members grow nuts as a profession. "Most of them grow nuts as a hobby, and a few commercially at times," he said.

SIU presidents to begin fall

The Board of Trustees voted Friday to designate the heads of each of the Edwardsville and Carbondale campuses as presidents beginning September 1 and assigned specific duties to the presidents and chief of board staff.

John J. Roudsman will become the president of the Edwardsville campus and Robert G. Leyer will serve as president at Carbondale until the appointment of a president on a permanent basis.

The title change had been recommended by the University Administrative Council and was decided by the Board at an earlier meeting.

Vice Chancellor Willis E. Malone will become executive vice president at Carbondale. Andrew F. Kochman, vice president of academic affairs at Edwardsville will become vice president and provost there.

The duties of the president, as spelled out in a Board resolution, are to serve as chief executive and administrative officer and to propose policies relating solely to his campus. The president will interpret the university's goals and achievements in areas concerning his university and hold responsibility for other functions pertaining to the administration of his university.

In his relationship with the Board and the chief of board staff, the president will be directly responsible to the Board and will receive direction solely from the Board, the resolution says.

The president cannot be directed to take action by the chief of Board staff but may be informed of Board policy or action by him.

The resolution states that the president will have direct access to the Board.

The duties of the chief of board staff as outlined by the Board include representing the university as a whole when necessary and signing documents not signed by Board officers on behalf of the Board relating to the entire system rather than one university. The chief of board staff is responsible for preparing an appropriation bill for the system from the budgets prepared by the two universities. He also carries out overall administrative duties regarding the entire system including the preparation of system-wide policies and statutes and the review and coordination of the affairs of the separate universities and the system as a whole.

Regarding Board procedures, the chief of board staff is responsible for preparing Board agendas, maintaining Board records and reviewing items to be considered by the Board.

The chief of board staff also advises the Board regarding its own organization, procedure and legality of its actions.

In other action the Board also decided to designate the two university systems as SIU at Carbondale and SIU at Edwardsville instead of SIU-Carbondale and SIU-Edwardsville.

resolution which required students negotiating for use of property for group housing arrangements to secure approval from the Office of Student Affairs and the University Legal Counsel.

The Board said the original policy, directed primarily at fraternities and sororities, appeared "inappropriate in principle and ineffective in practice."

The Legal Counsel said requirement of its approval was unnecessary, as it gave the appearance of legal representation, but not the full service students should receive in contractual matters. Current policy for fraternal organizations provides joint student-administration action in granting and withdrawing University recognition of fraternities and sororities.

The Board said, "These procedures provide adequate safeguard against misuse of off-campus fraternal housing."

The Board also said new policies approved in February which removed all housing restrictions from students 21 years old or above provide adequate controls on housing.

New admission policies adopted by the Board Friday will affect students entering from high schools and transfer students beginning next summer.

Students admitted summer quarter on a conditional basis must now take 11 quarter hours with at least a "C" average to continue fall quarter. The former policy required only eight quarter hours.

Conditional students are those who cannot enter SIU in the regular academic year because they did not rank in the upper half of their high school class, or upper 40 per cent for out-of-state students, or their entrance test scores ranked too low.

Under the new policy, transfer students entering in the regular academic year must have an overall "C" average and be in good academic standing at the last school they attended. Present policies allow transfer students with below "C" averages to enter on probation any quarter except fall.

The new admission policy will consider transfer students with below "C" averages for summer quarter admission on probation, if they have completed 90 quarter hours of credit. Transfer students with fewer than 45 quarter hours earned at another school will have to meet the same entrance requirements as freshmen.

Students suspended for academic reasons from their last school will have a year's wait before they can transfer to SIU, and then only in the summer. The student will be required to have completed 90 quarter hours of credit and be able to show ability to complete a degree.

The Board gave the study of classics a boost by authorizing SIU to establish an interdisciplinary program in classical studies to replace the Latin baccalaureate program. The move is subject to the approval of the Illinois Bard of Higher Education.

The new degree, to be offered by the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, will redirect the Latin program and allow undergraduates to branch out into classical study in philosophy, history, anthropology, art and government.

Chancellor Robert G. Leyer said it is expected that six degrees in classical studies will be awarded in 1975-76.

Woman in pro baseball? 'Why not?'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jackie Jackson, who says she grew up with a bat in her hands wants to become the first woman to play pro baseball. She'll find out if she can make the grade this weekend.

Miss Jackson, a 23-year-old cost analyst in Bethesda, Md. will try out Saturday with the Pittsfield Senators, Washington's Eastern League franchise.

"This is a lifelong dream," she said. "I grew up with a bat in my hand. I always wanted to be a major league player."

Miss Jackson, who pitches and plays first base in a men's unlimited softball league, asked for a tryout with Pittsfield when she learned about the plight of the team, owned by a junior high school teacher, Pat McKernan, which is losing $100 a week.

"I figured he could use the publicity," she said. "He was talking about getting a giant to play, so why not a girl?"

McKernan, in the market for a money-making gimmick, said he was speechless when Miss Jackson phoned him.

"Then I said to myself, 'Why not?' There's no law that I know to prevent women from trying out. I've got nothing to lose."

McKernan said he will run Miss

Jackson through some drills and if she looks good, "I just might sign her."

Miss Jackson, a 5-foot-7, 135-pound, blue-eyed blonde who lives in Burtonsville, Md., was voted the outstanding female athlete in her senior class at Andover High in Lanthicum, Md.

She has played organized softball since she was eight in the Lassie League. She joined an unlimited women's softball team when she was 17 and began pitching for the men's club this year.

Miss Jackson says her experience with the men's club are excellent preparation for the tryout. "I've learned how to take verbal razzing from the other players," she said.

"Some of the guys told me to go back to my own league and stuff like that. At first, they would either throw real softly to me or try to throw right through me. After a while, they accepted me."

She compiled a 6-3 pitching record. For the women's team, she batted .335. Her ability impressed the owner of a catering firm enough that he agreed to sponsor her trip to Pittsfield.

"I haven't played much hard ball," she said. "But I know I have the ability. I just hope they don't overlook my ability because I'm a woman."

Two other women have been signed to minor league contracts in the past, but their contracts were voided by the league presidents.

Carbondale's first

When Herschel Gibbs won the midget boys 50-yard dash at the state Sports Jamboree last weekend in Joliet, he was the first Carbondale youth to win an event in the meet's 16-year history. SIU graduate students (standing 1 to 4) Ernest Gardner and Willie Clayton were assistant coach and coach respectively for local group that included (1 to 4 kneeling) Don Edwards, Charale Vinsin and Gibbs. Both grad students concluded their studies this summer. Garner will teach at Parris School in Carbondale and Clayton will instruct at a school in Crystal River, Tex. (Photo by John Burningham)

SIU gymnastics duo has strong showings

Strong showings by two SIU gymnasts in international competition during summer may earmark the Salukis in 1971-72. Bill Meade, SIU coach says.

SIU's Tom Lindner finished sixth in the 1971 Pan-American Games at Cali, Colombia and teammate Gary Morava emerged as the outstanding performer on the United States team which toured Romania and France in July.

"We were the only school in the country with more than one individual competing on those teams," said Meade. "This will probably put us in the unenviable position of being tabbed to win this year's NCAA."

Lindner is a senior from Milwaukee, Wis. who helped guide SIU to a runner-up finish in the 1971 NCAA championships. He placed fourth in both the floor exercise and parallel bars at Cali, and sixth in the side horse and All-Around competition.

Morava, a sophomore from Prospect Heights (Ill.), was the most consistent performer on the U.S. European Tour team in dual meets with Romania and France.

His 55.25 All-Around score good for fourth place, was his team's high against Romania Against France, he finished third with a 55.10 All-Around effort despite an injury early in the meet.

Morava suffered a cut lip during the third event, the horizontal bar, but still managed scores of over 9.0 in the last three events.

"That type of grit," says Meade, is always a good indicator of a young man's determination. Both Morava and Lindner should be really strong candidates for the 1971 Olympic team.

"Maybe we will be worthy of the high recognition they are going to put on us," he said.

Essick happy over Miles, U. S. tankers

Ray Essick, SIU's swimming boss and assistant coach of the 1971 Pan American swim team, was elated over the strong showing of the United States men's team at Cali.

He also was somewhat proud of a certain individual on the U.S. team.

The individual, Pat Miles, is an amazing 18-year-old distance swimmer from Hall High of Little Rock, Ark., and the Little Rock Racquet Club.

Miles, who splashed to a record-breaking first-place finish in the 1,500 meters (16:32.03) at Cali, had signed a letter of intent to attend SIU two months earlier.

"The greatest thrill I had during the Pan Am games was seeing our young men doing such a tremendous job as a team," Essick commented on U.S. team's domination in Colombia. "Our swimmers were so gracious and mature as a group from the start of our workouts in Ft. Lauderdale (Fla.) until the end of the games."

"Of course, it's needless to say that Miles' performance also gave me a personal thrill," Essick added with a wry smile.

The Saluki coach who described Miles' efforts in training for the Pan Am games as "fantastic," says he plans for the Little Rock youngster to develop into a more versatile performer at SIU.

"Pat has the ability, and as a more versatile swimmer competing in shorter races as well, he will be of more value to us during our collegiate schedule."

Essick also has Miles ticketed to join a super training program at SIU called the Munich Crew—a small number of Saluki swimmers aiming for spots on the U.S. team for the 1972 Olympics in Munich. Miles will join current swim standouts Bob Dickson, Dale Korner, Bill Tingley, Rob McGinley and junior Geoff Ferriera.

"Because of their intensive training, we may take our lumps during the dual meet season," Essick admits, "but in the long range it should pay off."

Cardinals to test Redskins tonight

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fans in the nation's capital get a preview Saturday of the 1971 season opener as the Washington Redskins, after two weeks on the road, take on the St. Louis Cardinals in a National Football Conference preseason contest.

Coach George Allen, who came to Washington from Los Angeles in the off season, will make his home debut and will attempt to show that "the future is now," a slogan he's been using for the past eight months.

He also will try to persuade doubters among Redskins' followers who believe the current club, its face changed drastically by 18 Allen trades, bears a strong resemblance to the 1970 team that finished with six victories and eight losses.

The Redskins have failed to mount an offense with a consistent thrust in two games against American Football conference teams which had losing records last year, the San Diego Chargers and Denver Broncos.

They lost to San Diego 19-10 and defeated Denver 17-13.

The Redskins again will be without the services of running backs Larry Brown, last year's leading ground gainer, and Charley Harraway, both out with injuries.

Saturday's exhibition will be a preview of the regular season opener for the Redskins, who go to St. Louis Sept. 19 to face the team that led the Eastern Division most of last season.

Although he coached mostly against Western Division teams as boss of the Los Angeles Rams for the last five seasons, Allen recalled opening the last two years against the Cardinals.

"They have an excellent offensive line with three fellows who have played in the Pro Bowl—Bob Reynolds, Ernie McMillan and Irvin Goode," said Allen. "They have great receivers and runners and a fine defensive line, linebackers and a very good defensive backfield. The Cardinals are one of the strongest teams in the field."

The Redskins have an ace in the hole when they face the Cardinals, who gave new coach Bob Holtway his first victory at the helm in his first outing by defeating Houston 16-14 last week.

Cubs sweep 2

CHICAGO (AP) — Fergusson Jenkins became a 20-game winner for the fifth straight season as Chicago defeated Houston, 3-2 on Johnny Callison's three-run homer in the first game of a Friday doubleheader.

The Cubs completed a sweep with a 5-4 second game victory on J.C. Martin's two-run double in the eighth inning.

Jenkins, 20-9, scattered nine hits in becoming the first pitcher to win at least 20 games in five consecutive seasons since the Braves' Warren Spahn did it from 1956-60.

Daily Egyptian
Sports

The Redskins' defensive backfield coach, Charley Winner, was head coach for five years at St. Louis before being fired last season despite the Cardinals' 8-5-1 record.

In Saturday's only day game, the Chicago Bears (1-1) will visit the Minnesota Vikings (2-0). The Bears have scored just one touchdown on offense so far, while the Vikings have only given up one.

In other night games, Atlanta (0-1) will play Denver (0-1) at Memphis, Tenn.; Kansas City (2-0) visits New Orleans (0-2); Philadelphia (2-0) is at Houston (1-2); Los Angeles (1-0) faces Oakland (1-1) at Berkeley, Calif.; and Miami (0-1) plays Green Bay (0-2) at Milwaukee.

In Sunday games, New England is at Buffalo, the New York Giants battle their cross-town rivals, the Jets, in the Albie Booth Memorial Game at New Haven, Conn.; Baltimore meets Detroit at Ann Arbor, Mich.; and San Diego visits upstate rival San Francisco.

Finally, Pittsburgh will play at Cincinnati Monday night, completing the weekend's action.
