Students will be asked to vote on visitation

by Jan Tranchita
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Students returning to on-campus housing facilities fall quarter will be asked to vote on the specific visitation hours they prefer, according to Samari L. Rinella, housing business services director.

Visitation on off-campus dormitories is a housing policy which allows dorm residents to have guests of the opposite sex in their living quarters during set hours.

The vote will be taken on each floor, allowing students to approve a 24-hour visitation plan. Rinella said if a floor disapproves of the 24-hour visitation plan, it can determine its own visitation program, he explained.

Consequently, there may be many variations of visitation plans within one dormitory.

Rinella admitted the plan might cause problems. "It's an administrative nightmare," he said. "But everybody has the right to determine his own type of visitation hours."

Tentative plans for the housing poll suggest that students must approve a plan by a three-fourths majority before it can go into effect. Rinella explained.

If students on a particular floor are not satisfied with the adopted plan they will have an option to move to another floor which has implemented the visitation hours they prefer, he continued.

This is the first time SIU housing officials will allow unlimited room changes. Rinella said. Previously, room changes were made only on special request and not for visitation reasons.

Neocolonialism charged

N.Viet damps peace hopes

PARIS (AP) - The North Vietnamese on Thursday dampened speculation that a major breakthrough toward peace had been made in the secret talks with President Nixon's adviser, Henry A. Kissinger. A spokesman at the Paris Peace talks said the private meetings between Kissinger and the North Vietnamese are a form of negotiation, just as the four-party plenary sessions are another form.

The spokesman, Nguyen Thanh Le, added at a press briefing: "I want to stress that in the negotiations the Nixon administration always maintains its position of aggression and neocolonialism."

In the 15th session itself, Mrs. Nguyen Thi Binh, head of the Viet Cong delegation, declared that President Nixon has realized "one of the most favorable opportunities to put an end to the war" when he arrived in the White House in January 1969.

She did not spell out details of her accusation, which paralleled a recent charge by the Democratic vice presidential candidate, Sargent Shriver, that Nixon "blew" a chance for peace at that time. The charge by Shriver, former U.S. ambassador to France, was denied by Secretary of State William P. Rogers.

Mrs. Binh said the U.S. government did not at that time seek "a correct negotiated solution, based on the respect of the fundamental national rights of the Vietnamese people and the right to self-determination of the population of South Vietnam."

"On the contrary," she continued, "what is sought was a solution which would allow the perpetuation of the American neocolonialist yoke in South Vietnam.

She said this was why Nixon started his plan for "Vietnamization of the war while seeking to impede and sabotage the work of this conference." She said the U.S. rejected her 10-point plan for a solution of the war in May 1969.

U.S. spokesman David Lambertson replied to this at a press briefing.

Morocco official commits suicide after attempted assassination fails

RABAT, Morocco (AP) — Morocco's military chief Gen. Mohammed Oufkir committed suicide Thursday, the government said, seven hours after rebel pilots of the country's air force made an unsuccessful attempt on the life of King Hassan II.

The king named a loyal but aging old soldier to replace Oufkir.

A diplomatic source said the appointment of Gen. Driss Ben Ouamrane as defense minister may be a sign the 49-year-old monarch is having increasing difficulty keeping control of the air force. Ben Ouamrane, 61, is a strong supporter of the king but has been perceptibly weakened by bleeding ulcers, the informant said.

The rebel pilots attacked the king's plane with rockets and machine guns Wednesday night. Hassan tricked them into believing he was seriously wounded but when the fliers discovered the deception they strafed the Rabat air terminal and the royal palace. The government said the attacks killed eight persons and wounded 45, including five Cabinet ministers, one of whom still was hospitalized.

Pilots loyal to the king drove off the rebels in dogfights over the capital. Rabat was quiet Thursday but a few troops patrolled the city.

The government said four air force officers who flew the planes that tried to kill the king were under arrest, including commander Lahcen Kouira, who headed the Kenitra air force base. Two pilots of the Noratop F5 planes were missing.

Five men, said to be led by a lieutenant colonel, flew to Gibraltar in a helicopter and the Moroccan government was asking for their extradition. The British Foreign Office in London said three noncommissioned officers were returning but no decision had been reached on the other two.

An official communique said Oufkir shot himself in the head with a single bullet at midnight.

“Negotiations, as the Communists use the term mean acceptance of their demands without question,” said Dr. Lambertson, adding that “We have tried to get the other side to negotiate for 31 years.”

The chief of the North Vietnamese delegation, Nguyen THAN, said that in 1969, 1970 and 1971 “opportunities were not lacking to put an end to the war and repatriate the captured American military men, but the Nixon administration knowingly let them all go by.”

SIU-owned tape recorder, amplifier reported stolen

University police reported Thursday the theft of an SIU-owned tape recorder valued at $3.200 and amplifier valued at $234 from College Square B, SIU S. Graham St.

Police said the theft occurred sometime between Friday and Monday. A University employee discovered the Aampex tape recorder and amplifier missing Monday while checking several items which had been moved to College Square B from Anthony Hall.

Richard Dunstue, 22, of Brookside Manor Apartments, told police he was the owner of a white Aircycle, valued at $150, was stolen Wednesday afternoon from the south stairway of Lawson Hall. Dunstue, who was attending a class in Lawson at the time, told police his lock and chain were left behind.

They charged that the United States continues to "cause bombs on the dikes, cities and populated areas" of North Vietnam.

This brought an acid reaction from U.S. Ambassador William P. Porter.

Another example of the complexities you place in the path of negotiations concerns your protests against United States air and naval actions against military targets in North Vietnam. By making such protests, while passing over in silence your invasion of South Vietnam, you attempt to reject the consequences of what you yourselves have caused. This is unconvincing. The arsenal obtains no sympathy for its searched fingers.”

Board to review health services

More on health care

To the Daily Egyptian:
The Health Negotiating Commission was created by the Student Senate and the Graduate Student Council to represent the students of the University. On August 18, this commission will approach the board with information pertinent to the future state of a comprehensive health care delivery system on the Carbondale campus. The Health Negotiating Commission supports and applauds the basic recommendations for revision of the health program made by the University's health consultant, Donald DuBois. The students have indicated, however, that they will not support a health program with an increase in fees.

As a result of our studies, the Health Negotiating Commission is convinced the program can be implemented within existing financial resources. The Health Negotiating Commission enlists the Board's cooperation in implementing a comprehensive health care delivery system which will not increase current aggregate fees.

Charles J. Newling, Chairman
Health Negotiating Commission

The ‘Other’

To the Daily Egyptian:

It has come to my attention that the students are given a greater voice in fee allocations by the survey about the university. Failure to open this option not only would be disrespectful to the students, but also a total or partial refusal of activity fees.

If the student would like to apply pressure to the Board of Trustees and have the option of getting his fees completely refunded simply mark the ‘other’ block of the survey (No. 30) and include a letter explaining why the student would like to see your unallocated fees refunded to you.

Story criticized

To the Daily Egyptian:

Rita Fung wrote a feature story that appeared in the Daily Egyptian on August 16 which began with the following: "So who wants to go to Quito, Ecuador, where one is constantly besieged by lepers and children who defeat in the streets? Somehow, Quito appealed to William Garner..."

I've been to Quito and I did not see any of the things Miss Fung claims. The city appeals to many people for its beautiful Spanish colonial architecture, its mountains, pleasurable climate, and many other assets.

Letters to the Editor

More on health care

If Miss Fung has been there and she has that opinion of it, she would do well by keeping it out of news columns what is her personal impression. It is Garner’s opinion that she is transcribing it shouldn’t be given as a statement of fact. He’s probably one of those people who goes around the world and wants to have everything just as he has it at home. With such an attitude, you fail to see the value in settings and cultures different to your own, and that’s my personal opinion.

Let’s start making some responsible journalism. Miss Fung’s story is offensive to SIU students from Ecuador and to Ecuadorians in general. I do not see the purpose. I join in reporting teachers who advise one time and another, get those facts straight!

SIU’s better

To the Daily Egyptian:

On August 11 we took our little girl to see the St. Louis Cardinals play against the Houston Astros. It was the first time we were impressed chiefly by the fact that SIU’s spring production of ‘Mary Poppins’ was infinitely better.

‘Bombs for Peace’ works!

By Arthur Hoppe
Chronicle Features

It was in the 43rd year of our lightning campaign to wipe the dread Viet Nam guerrillas out of West Vietnng. Our Bombs for Peace Program was proving a smashing success.

In order to force the recalcitrant East Vietnngians to talk peace, we had been dropping bombs on their heads. In fact we had dropped 82 tons of bombs on the heads of every East Vietnngian man, woman and child.

But for some reason, instead of making them think peaceful thoughts, this only made them angry. In fact, they wouldn’t even speak to us any more.

This strange silence from East Vietnng puzzled our Ambassador, Henry Cabbage. “If bombs won’t create peace,” he said, scratching his head, “what will?”

So he called up the beloved Premier of West Vietnng, General Hoo Dat Don Dar. “I’am-for-peace democracy—another-billion-bucks-hello?” said General Hoo.

“General,” said our Ambassador Cabbage, “there is a strange silence in East Vietnng. It’s so quiet you can hardly hear our bombs drop.

“Good,” said General Hoo. “They’ve been talking too much.”

“I would respectfully suggest you select your most loyal and trusted advisor and parachute him in to East Vietnng, if you think it’s a good idea,” said our Ambassador politely, “or I’ll cut off your allowance.

So General Hoo’s most trusted and loyal advisor, Kris Ma Phut, bravely volunteered for the dangerous mission, after delicately pushing the muzzle of General Hoo’s pistol away from his temple. A week later, by prearrangement, he was picked up at midnight from the summit of East Vietnng’s highest mountain, Mount Oop Nga.

Waiting eagerly aboard the helicopter for his top-secret report were General Hoo, our Ambassador Cabbage and General Zip X. Zapp, head of our Bombs for Peace Program.

“I have glorious news,” said the exhausted spy, Kris Ma Phut, as the helicopter soared skyward. “The reason East Vietnng has been so strangely silent is there’s nothing left alive down there but three cockroaches. And they won’t talk.”

General Zapp triumphantly slapped his thigh. “I always knew that by dropping 82 tons of bombs on each of their heads, we could bring them the blessings of peace.”

“Eternally,” agreed Kris Ma Phut. “Wait until the world hears the war is over. I can’t wait to tell.”

There was a moment of silence. “Of course, with the war over,” said General Hoo thoughtfully, “there goes my billion bucks allowance.”

“Of course, with the war over,” said General Zapp thoughtfully, “who are our fine boys in our fine bombers going to bomb?”

“Good heavens!” said our Ambassador Cabbage. “It wasn’t supposed to end until a week before election day.”

The three leaders looked at each other then looked at Kris Ma Phut, sitting beamingly by the open hatch. There was a brief moment of struggle and the helicopter lifted slightly, as though relieved of a heavy burden, before sailing on into the night.

And so our Bombs for Peace Program continues to be a smashing success night and day in making people happy. It makes General Hoo happy. It makes General Zapp happy. It makes our Ambassador Cabbage happy. It makes everybody happy.

Except maybe those three cockroaches.

Health monies sought

By Jan Tranchita
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The Health Negotiating Committee is looking to the future by looking into the Student Welfare and Recreation Fund as a prime source of financing for the proposed new health system for SIU.

But that recommendation from the HNC will not be included in the information and progress report on the health plan which Dean of Students George Mac will present Friday to the Board of Trustees.

The report to the trustees includes the original Blue Plan, recommendations, and revisions suggested by the HNC and all student input, according to Charles Newling, HNC chairman.

Newling is vice president of the Graduate Student Council.

While this is only an information report, Mac has indicated that a vote on the health system proposal will likely come at the Board of Trustees meeting in September, Newling said.

All HNC recommendations have been included in the report, Newling explained, with one exception—fee reallocation.

We're saying we want the health proposal, but not at the suggested cost.

The cost of the Blue Plan as estimated by its author, California health system consultant Donald Dubois, and without any kind of subsidization, would be $25 per student per quarter.

The major consideration of HNC has been study of possible fee reallocations to finance partially the Blue Plan, Newling said. The committee suggests that the existing fee allocation system for the Student Welfare and Recreation Fund (SWRF) be changed to allocate specific monies to health care. HNC members question whether the April 30 deadline for the $25 per student per quarter.

HNC proposes revisions to break down the existing fee allocation categories into more specific areas, as requested by the graduate student union.

HNC recommends that a Student Health Care Program Fee—this is a Recreational Building Fund replace the SWRF category.

McGovern not given usual welcome by Demos at fair

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—In election years past, hundreds of Democrats in Illinois appearing at the Illinois State Fair were welcomed by thousands of campaign workers brought in from Chicago by train.

There aren't many for George S. McGovern.

The Democratic presidential candidate who is appearing this week for the first time since the March 21 primaries and the general election was hardly typical of the greeting given other presidential candidates here.

Even Mayor Richard J. Daley, of Chicago, who had pledged his full support to McGovern, cancelled out at the last minute.

The South Dakota senator is conceded to be behind in Illinois, which he hopes will provide him with electoral votes. A Chicago Sun Times poll taken between the removal of Thomas F. Eagleton as the presidential candidate and the naming of Sargent Shriver showed him trailing President Nixon by 21 percentage points.

McGovern's basic problem in Illinois seems to be an image as his well-publicized courtship of Daley.

He's in a lot of trouble downtown, said an industrial Democratic stateWide officeholder when asked about McGovern's chances to carry Illinois.

People downstate see him as a liberal and sometimes that doesn't go over well.

Although state Democratic leaders publicly stressed their support for McGovern, privately some said that their own chances may be jeopardized if they latch too hard on the McGovern coattails.

"We don't want to get too close in case he doesn't come out over the voters," one Chicago legislator said at a McGovern reception Wednesday night.

The legislator said he had been offered an opportunity to share a campaign headquarters with McGovern, but declined the offer.

Republicans gather for dinner, harness races

Gov. Winfield Dunn of Tennessee is scheduled to be the featured speaker at the Republican Pre-Hambeltonian Dinner on Aug. 29 in the SHL Student Center.

The Hambeltonian is one of the nation's largest harness races, held each year at the Doggon State Fairgrounds. Reports from the 8th district Republican state central committee indicate that Sen. Charles Percy (R-Ill.), Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie and Sec. of State John Lewis will attend the dinner in addition to other state Republican candidates for office.

Joe Hale, central committeeman, said the Student Center building will be decorated for a dance to be held after the dinner. Jack Staudup and his Orchestra will provide entertainment for the GOP's.

Hale said a "Governor's Brunch," is scheduled for Aug. 30 at which Franz Bentler and his Royal Strings, a Chicago group, will entertain.

Gov. Winfield is the first GOP governor of Tennessee in 90 years. The election in 1970 was the first time Tennessee has had both a Republican governor and Republican U.S. senators.

Hale said the pre-Hambeltonian activities will be the "biggest political event of either party south of Springfield during the 1972 campaign.

Hit-run victim's mother receives anonymous gifts

DETROIT (AP)—Regularly each week since 18-year-old Rosemary Reske was killed by a hit-and-run driver two months ago, her widowed mother has received an anonymous letter containing a $5 bill and a handwritten note: "Please pray for my sentiments."

The hit-and-run driver who killed Rosemary must be in a hell of his own making, and I try not to have any personal feelings about him any more," Rosemary's mother, Catherine, said Tuesday.

"But he has to understand that I don't want his letters because they only trouble me," she said.

"They make me remember the night of the accident, my daughter's death, and the driver's disappearance."

Mrs. Reske said it was possible the letters came from "some religious person or well-wisher who simply has read about the accident and wants to help our family."

But she added that if it is the hit-and-run driver, "I appeal to him to look for some other method of silencing his conscience."

Mrs. Reske said: "We leave it for the police to open the envelopes now.

Police and postal authorities say they have been unable to trace the letters and know only that they are mailed in Detroit each week, "about one payday apart."

"It's like black money," said Patrolman Alvin Kaltz, of the Accident Prevention Bureau.

Rosemary was killed the night of June 1—three days before she was to turn 19—and has been gone from Detroit's Ferndale High School. She was struck down while returning to her East Side home after walking 10 blocks to get an ice cream cone.

Rosemary had planned to go to college but when her father died of cancer in April she decided to get a job after graduation to help her disabled mother and two younger sisters and a brother.

Witnesses said the driver who ran down Rosemary was in his 30s, had sandy or gray hair, was of medium build, weighed perhaps 175 pounds and wore glasses.

Teen Center calls off trip to Six Flags

The trip to Six Flags planned Friday for the Carbondale Teen Center has been canceled, according to Allan Litcher, assistant director of the center.

Litcher said the trip was canceled because of a lack of interest.

Agenda Item No. 1. Roll Call.

The meeting was called to order by President Kenney at 3:00 p.m. in Room 131 of Lawson Hall. New member Frank Simpson was introduced. The roll was called and the following Senators were present: Ralph Bedwell, Sylvia Mark (for Patricia Benziger), Phyllis Dubnas, Thomas Busch, Gary Dailey, Bill Edwards, Jim Fatur, Joseph Gasser, Dennis Goodman, Neil Carrier (for Jack Graham), John Hawley, William Herbert, Donald Kenney, Robert G. Lay, Jay Boulanger (for Patricia Benziger), Dickerson, William Hertter, Jim Peters, Jerry Nickell, Jim Peters, Bill Edwards, Jim Fatur, Joseph Gasser, Dennis Goodman, Neil Carrier (for Jack Graham), John Hawley, William Herbert, Donald Kenney, Robert G. Lay, Jay Boulanger (for Paul Lougeay), Joe Moore, Phillip Olsson, Anthony Marconi (for Bob Peele), Chris Pretkel, Wayne Rapp, Bryce Rucker, Linda Rucker, Frank Sehrent, Frank Simpson, Russell Trimble, James Tweedy, Bill Boysen (for Nicholas Vergelette), Judy Willford, Bill Woiwotch.

The following members were absent and not represented by proxy: William Atkinson, David Bateman, Bill Beebee, Jim Cazel, John Conlisk, Morris Eames, Ross J. Fligor, Tom Kelley, Jerry Lauer, Sydneiy Moss, William E. Nickell, Jim Peters, Dan S. Rainey, Herbert Snyder, Bill Steele, Cheryl Stoner, Buzz Talbot.

Agenda Item No. 2. Minutes of the meeting of July 24, 1972.

Adoption of the minutes of July 24 was moved by Mr. Marconi, seconded by Ms. Willford and passed unanimously by voice vote.

Agenda Item No. 3. Report of the Sub-committee on Traffic and Parking of the Committee on Campus. Implementation of the annexation to the monorial system.

R. Clifton Andersen, chairman of the subcommittee, introduced the report (distributed with agenda). After discussion, Mr. Layser moved that the Senate receive the report and thank the committee for the report. Mr. Boysen seconded. The motion passed by voice vote. Mr. Kenney indicated that the report will be placed in the hands of the Campus Management Committee.

Agenda Item No. 4. Report from the Executive Committee.

Mr. Kenney reported that Mr. Russell Trimble will chair the Campus Management Committee and Mr. Kenney will chair the Government Committee.

Agenda Item No. 5. Report from the Subcommittee on Calendar and Scheduling of the Campus Management Committee on the study of the length of summer session.

Mr. Jim Benziger briefly reported on the progress of the committee and indicated that the results of the questionnaire tabulation would be ready by the end of the quarter.

Agenda Item No. 6. Report from the Government Committee.

Mr. Layser, chairman of the Government Committee, reported on the past three meetings of the committee dealing chiefly with problems of amending the Campus Governance System document. After discussion, Mr. Kenney commented upon and distributed copies of a letter University President David R. Derge sent to Mr. Kenney. President Derge had asked that the letter be shared with the Senate. Mr. Kenney indicated that if the policies outlined by President Derge prevail, a substantial reworking of the governance document is necessary since the very core of the document is legislative enactment.

Following a lengthy discussion, Mr. Dickerson moved and Mr. Marconi seconded the adoption of the following resolution:

"Be it resolved that the University Senate express its dissatisfaction and disagreement with the decision of the President with regard to the Campus Governance System.

Be it further resolved that the various constituency councils as well as individuals be called upon to discuss this matter as it concerns them and to make their respective opinions known publicly."

Mr. Layser proposed that the Governance Committee, which would be meeting Wednesday, consider what action to take and that the committee make a recommendation to the Senate. After discussion, Mr. Edwards moved that Mr. Dickerson's motion be referred to the Governance Committee as a matter for substantive study. Mr. Hertter seconded. Mr. Woitovich moved the previous question, seconded by Mr. Marconi and it passed with 24 for and 4 against. The motion to refer was then passed with 23 for and 4 against.

Agenda Item No. 7. Adjournment.

Mr. Dickerson moved and Mr. Edward seconded that the Senate adjourn until Monday, August 21, at 3:00 p.m. in Room 131 of Lawson Hall. After approval by voice vote, the meeting adjourned at 5:00 p.m.

Respectfully submitted,

Blind coed hopes to go to Vietnam following studies

By University News Service

A coed from Joliet has begun study of the Vietnamese language at SIU without the aid of textbook or drillsheet used by other class members. Rita Dillon, who enrolled at SIU this summer, is the only girl in the class, and is blind.

Rita had done college work at Joliet Junior College and spent one semester at an outstate university. She came to SIU after she heard that study of the Vietnamese language was available through the SIU Center for Vietnamese Studies. She had planned to stay here only for the summer, but likes SIU and has enrolled for the fall quarter.

It's an intensive course for beginners that Rita is taking. It requires three hours of class work and one hour in the laboratory five days a week, for 15 hours a week, for the five day, week, which breaks down into three quarterly courses, five credits each. The course and the upper level classes are taught by Prof. Nguyen Dinh Huu, new director of the SIU Center for Vietnamese Studies, and his two assistants. His aide in the elementary course is Nguyen Hong Cuc, a graduate student in foreign language.

Rita, attractive and pleasant, listens attentively as the instructor drills the class in Vietnamese phrases. She wears a near-constant smile as she absorbs and recites the words of a language new to her. Instructional aide is a Braille writer, with which she takes down notes she can use in study. She learned Braille through a correspondence course while in high school.

Although it was the Vietnamese Studies Center and the language offering that brought her here, Rita would like to obtain a degree to teach early childhood education, she said.

"I would like to teach young children—not necessarily sightless children," she said. "But I recognize this would be a difficult area as one must be perceptive—must be able to know if you're getting across to the children or not." If there's a possibility, she would like to go to Vietnam in some capacity where she could put her knowledge and dedication to good use. "I hope it will work out, too," she said. "But if I find out from an internship that visual impairment is too much, I'll drop this."

She mentioned such possibilities as working with handicapped children in Vietnam, or becoming an interpreter of the Vietnamese language, or maybe a staff job in Vietnam or some job in the United States related to Vietnam, where she could put her knowledge to good use.

Rita will be weighing all the options.

Liquor stores criticize SIU for ID change

By Monroe Walker
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The Carbondale Liquor Dealers Association voted unanimously Wednesday night to forward letters opposing the new SIU student identification cards which omit birthdates, Steve Hoffman, owner of Eastgate Liquors and author of the letters, said Thursday.

"We sent out a series of letters," Hoffman said, "to city and university officials. The gist of the letter is that we feel that an undue burden is created by the University on liquor dealers and students because the old ID was valid for presentation in order to be served alcoholic beverages."

He said issuing new ID's without birthdates was discriminatory to women and foreign students because they "no longer have a valid ID if they do not have a drivers license or a draft card."

He said changing the ID's because they are an invasion of privacy is a throwback to the old days when people were reluctant to reveal their age but "who is so concerned about his age in this day and age?"

He pointed out that state law requires a person to prove his age when purchasing alcoholic beverages and thus, "privacy must be invaded" to comply with the law.

He said the old student ID made it easier for a person who is of age to purchase alcoholic beverages.

The student ID has been recognized as the one card that we will accept," he said, "Forgeries have turned up in drivers licenses and draft cards but it is difficult to forge SIU ID's."

He said a few people have tried to forge SIU ID's but the forgers are easy to spot.

"If the ID's are issued without birthdates," he said, "it will be difficult for some students to prove their age and if they can't prove it, I can't serve them."

Hoffman said letters have been forwarded to SIU President David R. Derge, Vice-President of Student Affairs George Mace, Student Body President Jon Taylor, the Carbondale Police Department, City Attorney Evelyn Lockwood, Liquor Commissioner Neil Eckert and Jackson County's Attorney Ron Briggs.

SIU began issuing new ID cards without birthdates on May 1 because many persons complained that issuing the date was an invasion of privacy. The cards have been issued to new students and as a replacement card to continuing students.

College-Level Examination registration to close soon

Registration closes Aug. 22 for the College-Level Examination Program to be held Sept. 12 and Sept. 13.

Registration packets and additional information are available at Testing Center, 205 Administration Building, according to Rutter Bradley, coordinator of national testing.

Jerry Hunt, professor of administrative sciences in the School of Business, will keynote the Lake Okoboji Educational Media Leadership Conference Sunday at Spirit Lake, Iowa.

He discussed organization leadership as it affects the Association for Educational Communications and Technology, one of the co-sponsors of the media leadership conference.

Admission officers, advisers and counselors at junior colleges in the midwest are expected here, Sept. 25-27, for the "Admissions-Advisement Workshop on Foreign Students in Two-Year Colleges" to be held at the Little Grassly Outdoor Lab facilties.

The workshop, sponsored jointly by SIU and the National Association for Foreign Student Affairs, is designed to help organize and implement foreign student admissions-advisement programs at the two-year college level, said Ron Thomas, assistant director of admissions, international division, at SIU.

J.L. Larson, assistant professor of administrative sciences in the school of business, was on the program at the 33rd annual meeting of the Academy of Management at Minneapolis Aug. 13-16.

Larson, in collaboration with Kenneth M. Roland of the University of Illinois, presented the paper, "Leadership Style, Stress, and Behavior in Task Performance."

Rosemary Carter, associate professor of home economics education, was a speaker at the 33th annual In-Service Conference of the Illinois Vocational Home Economics Teachers Association, this week in Chicago.

Miss Carter spoke on "Enriching the Poor" as an objective for consideration in the conference theme "Key for 72: Priorities."

A year later, can Nixon win the economy battle?

By Bill Neikirk
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON—A year after President Nixon declared his freeze on prices and rents for 90 days, his broad economic program appears to be on the road to reaching at least its first goal.

But the first anniversary of Nixon's dramatic economic experiment finds even his closest economic advisers wary and uncertain about the future.

Although they are pleased with the economy's recent performance, including a slower inflation rate and unemployment, they say the battle is not over.

They think the Nixon administration will achieve its targets of reducing unemployment to the range of 5 per cent and cutting inflation to a range of 2 to 3 per cent by the end of the year.

But next year is another question, they say, and it may be a critical one for the nation's economy.

"With labor negotiations coming up and with the economy operating much closer to potential, 1973 will be a year of decision," said Dr. Herbert Stein, assistant secretary of the Nixon economic council.

The administration is now pondering some of the tough questions: When and how can Nixon's wage-price control system be safely lifted? How can the gold defense be increased? "If prices are bailed out," the federal budget gets out of hand, can the wage-price control system stand non-inflationary increases? Can the jobless rate be brought down to four per cent, or "full employment"?

One of the big challenges facing the program is the continued sharp rise in wholesale prices, which have already passed consumers. In July, wholesale prices rose 0.7 per cent. In the eight months since Nixon's freeze, the wholesale price index increased 5.2 per cent, while in the eight months after the freeze, it has advanced more sharply, by 6.9 per cent.

Phase Two a success

For now, anyway, the administration is banking on the successes of the Phase 2 economic program. Retailers, consumer price and job indicators have shown definite improvement and consumer confidence has survived so far under overseas pressure. Profits are booming. Real earnings of workers are up.

Richard Nixon entered the opening round of the 1972 presidential race with some glowing economic reports on his side. In the second quarter of the year, for instance, the economy grew at a healthy 9.4 per cent rate, while the rate in the first quarter was 6.8 per cent.

A year ago, it wasn't that way. The inflation rate was showing signs of accelerating. In the three months before the freeze, the Consumer Price Index advanced at an annual rate of 4.8 per cent. The unemployment rate remained at a seemingly intractable 6 per cent.

In Europe, the dollar was in deep trouble. A new wave of speculation in currencies threatened to erupt. The years of large U.S. balance-of-payments deficits had finally caught up with the nation.

With a surplus of about $50 billion overseas, foreign nations weren't anxious to take in more dollars to maintain the dollar's historic relationship to gold. But they had to take in dollars to maintain the value of their own currencies.

One by one, Nixon began to ease in their dollars for gold. But the United States had only about $40 billion in gold. If all countries had lined up at the Treasury, the gold stock would soon be depleted and the country would be broke, Nixon said then.

Nixon decided to suspend convertibility into gold, a move cutting the dollar loose from its fixed value and threatening other currencies as well.

"If you are going to close the gold window, you can't keep it around," Nixon said in recalling that action. "You had to take decisive action" on the domestic front.

Nixon's abandonment of his opposition to wage-price controls wasn't all that hasty.

Faced with a shortage of high inflation and joblessness, he decided in principle to take bold action several weeks before the announcement, insiders said.

The secret was well kept. Only then Secretary of the Treasury John B. Connally, Budget Director George P. Shulte; Paul McCracken, then chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, and maybe a few others knew.

Stein said he had an inkling of what was going on about 10 days before Nixon acted when the entire council met with the President. It was then that McCracken was given the assignment of studying in detail a wage-price freeze and a wage-price review board.

"He (Nixon) indicated that if he moved, he intended to leapfrog the argument. He would do something very strong."

The secret had to be kept because if any word got out people would start trying to beat it by raising wages and prices, Stein added. "We were advised by the fact that nobody would have believed it."

On Friday, Aug. 13, Nixon summoned all his top economic advisers to Camp David, Md., for a weekend of work. It was there the details of the new economic program were hashed out.

On Sunday night, Aug. 15, Nixon went on nationwide television to announce the freeze and suspension of the convertibility of the dollar into gold. He put a temporary 10 per cent surcharge on imports.

Drastic tax measures

To spur the economy, he asked Congress to give industry an accelerated investment tax credit of 10 per cent for one year and 5 per cent after that. To remove the 10 per cent automobile excise tax, and to drop several personal tax exemptions—a program that Congress modified and adopted later.

The next day, the government was flooded with inquiries. Connally, named to head the Council of Living C onditions, which would administer the freeze, went on television to give a few details. They would be a few exemptions from the freeze, he said.

The small office of Emergency Preparedness was, in fact, set up to handle exemptions, but eventually those duties were given to the Internal Revenue Service. Compliance depended heavily on voluntary action by Americans.

"The freeze gave us time to set up Phase 2," Stein said. "The phase was thinking about voluntary wage-price guidelines to follow the freeze."

Marvin Kosters, an economist who worked with the Cost of Living Council, said Phase 3 had to be flexible "to avoid waste, distortion and inflation" that might be true with tighter controls.

"Our mandate was to reach the goals, do it without chipping the system, and get out," said Dick Cheney, director of operations for the council.

IRS handles enforcement

The shape of Phase 2 became known more than a month before it went into effect: a seven member Price Commission, a Pay Board composed of five members each from labor, business and the public, and the Cost of Living Council continuing in effect.

The Internal Revenue Service was assigned to handle enforcement, depending heavily on voluntary compliance.

The largest economic units in the nation—big labor and big business—were required to clear all wage and price increases with the government in advance. There were two tiers, with the second largest group of companies having to submit quarterly reports. The small "non and pooled" stop following the guidelines, but make no reports.

The Pay Board set a 3.5 per cent standard to ceiling wage increases. The Price Control Board's rules were more complicated.

Basingly, higher prices were to be allowed only if they could be justified by allowable costs. And the administration put a restraint on profit margins, to organize labor's surprise.

"The commission said the profit margin of a firm could not exceed its "phase period" level of the average of the best two of the last three fiscal years.

Nixon weathered his first crisis when AFL-CIO President George Meany, who heavily criticized the freeze, finally agreed to serve on the board after receiving assurances that the Cost of Living Council would not veto the board's actions.

Five months after Phase 2 started on Nov. 14, Meany walked off the board, taking four of the

The impact of President Nixon's recent exchange trip with Russia recently hit SIU.

John H. Wotiz, professor in chemistry, travelled to five European countries in March as part of the U.S. government's cultural and scientific exchange program.

"I was on leave of absence and was travelling under the auspices of the National Academy of Sciences," Wotiz said.

The purpose of Wotiz's trip was to study the higher education system in chemistry and sciences in Bulgaria, Hungary, Romania, Yugoslavia and Poland.

"We know little of the scope and quality of their educational system," he said. "Before this trip, I did a study on Higher Education and Research in Chemistry in the USSR in Fall 1960, so I think I was able to be applicable for me to continue with this in the eastern European countries."

Spending from three to six weeks in each of the countries he visited, Wotiz lectured and explained the American system of higher education in chemistry to an audience of eastern European students, faculty, researchers and administrators who will be coming over to the United States to complete the cultural exchange.

"The lectures were given in universities and chemical societies," Wotiz described. "I made a really proud to be able to lecture [to] the Polish Chemical Societies in a house where Marie Sklodowska Curie was born. The house was broughed out in Warsaw but was restored to be the meeting place for the Polish Chemical Societies."

"I was able to appreciate the quality of education in the atmosphere in which they were given," Wotiz continued. "We could make a comparison of the Eastern European system vis-a-vis the Russian system."

"Education in the Eastern European countries developed on a primary and secondary level," Wotiz explained. "In universities, however, pre-graduation and post-graduation courses are not up to the level of American accomplishment."

"They lose a lot of ground in university education," he said. "Surprisingly, American students work very hard when compared to Eastern European students."

Wotiz attributed the difference in the quality of higher education to three factors.

First, their system is very traditional and old-fashioned. This is difficult to believe since these countries were born in revolution," he laughed.

"Their academicians are aristocrats. They are pretty old and conservative, fighting for the status quo. They are the holy cows that nobody can touch," he joked. "Youth scientists have no chance to demonstrate their ability, and they are gradually swallowed by the system as they get older.

A second problem with them is over-specialization. I think in my opinion, a university should educate broadly but they specialize in narrow fields, giving it the appearance of training rather than education.

In the five-year program in Eastern European universities, specialization in chemistry begins in the third year. Wotiz explained. "The five-year program corresponds with a master's degree in the United States. However, Eastern European universities do not have a doctoral program; students merely take a field of specialty to fulfill what may be called a doctoral degree."

The lack of modern instrumentation is the third factor causing the difference in education quality, Wotiz said.

"Their doctors are inferior to the American PhD. They don't take courses on a broad graduate level and don't do research. This weakness is generally recognized in all the countries I visited."

General studies in Eastern European universities simply "doesn't exist," Wotiz continued. "Their general requirements are taken care of in high school. Their high school graduates are equivalent to our junior college graduates, but when they enter the university, they only take courses relating to their own field. Of course they also take foreign language and Marxist philosophy and materialism which is a requirement."

Wotiz noted that "interestingly enough, all these countries followed the German education system before World War II."

"After the War, they adopted lock, stock and barrel the Soviet Union system which stipulates a strong academe of science where instruction leading to a doctor's degree or the equivalent can be carried on in a research institute," he said. "Researchers are in a way faculty members. All countries I visited have this system."

The Czechoslovakia-born gray-haired chemistry professor also noted that the academy system "did not work well for Russia, and it didn't work well in the smaller socialist countries I visited."

In 1984, Yugoslavia dropped the academy system and Poland dropped a part of it. Wotiz said. In 1979, Romania gave the system up. Bulgaria, meanwhile, is modifying it. Hungary is the only country that maintains both the academy and the university system.

"They know their system is not as productive, and they think that the American system is to be imitated," Wotiz said. "The American system is definitely superior in mass education. It is flexible."

"Because of the conservatism among the aristocratic academicians, it may take a scientific revolution to change the system," he chuckled. "There is a lot of friction between the researchers in the academy and the university. It is interesting to learn of the infighting going on. They hate each other's guts."

As Wotiz saw it, "it all boils down to the haves and have-nots."

"The academicians are better paid. They have better equipment and more opportunity to travel in Western countries," he said. "In any kind of change, the academicians will lose out because their systems is unattainable," Wotiz predicted.

Wotiz said he intends to publish his study of the Eastern European higher education system in chemistry and sciences in the near future.

Can Nixon beat the economy?

five union members with him. The anger about the board's Poor economic performance, a lack of Social Security taxes, and the national Browder's deficit threatened to bring about the resignation of the board.

But perhaps the worst crisis was the company's big decision to freeze wages. The administration had expected to write a freeze after the freeze ended Nov. 13, but no one thought the amount would last until Easter. The most recent figures on the cost of living show that consumer prices have risen at an annual rate of 5.3 per cent in the first six months of the year. In the six months before the freeze, they rose at a rate of 4 per cent.

While the overall rate of inflation stabilized, the administration had trouble with food prices, which went up sharply in the final half of the year despite its effects.

Last month Nixon established price controls to curb agricultural products for the first time, but only after the freeze at the producer level. He also suspended all meat import quotas for the remainder of 1972.

Nixon, in December, devalued the dollar for the first time since 1934 by raising the official price of gold to $38 an ounce at an international meeting at the Smithsonian Institution. The value of other key currencies was raised upward.

The devaluation ended weeks of trouble-some negotiations over Nixon's import surcharge and the Aug. 15 decision to close the gold window. After the agreement on currencies was reached, the surcharge was lifted, but the gold window remained closed.

But, for all practical purposes, the international monetary system worked out 25 years ago at Breton Woods, N.H., had been scrapped.

How to remove the controls is a big problem for the administration. The legislation under which Nixon acted expires next April 30, but could be extended by Congress. Nixon has not yet made a decision to extend controls.

A trying twosome

G. B. Shaw play may be last, but it is ‘best’ of the season

The last of the non-musical Summer Theater plays is also the best of the lot—partly because the best-written script of the season is being used.

"You Never Can Tell" is a comedy by George Bernard Shaw, who constructed the wittiest and most intelligent plays of his or any time. The actors seemed to work well with the Shaw material, which goes far beyond the surface of situations in a manner rare to comedy.

Many players who in former plays did mediocre work were a pleasant surprise in this play—and one suspects that the scripts rather than the actors were the problem in some Summer Theater productions.

Jan Vest and Charles Stransky were among these. Their performances were acceptable in previous productions, but in "You Never Can Tell" they both were outstanding.

Vest was really surprisingly strong in a relatively minor role, as the lawyer Finch McComas. In one scene, particularly, where two of the protagonists are being informed of their father’s identity, he is really marvelous.

Stransky also brought out the eccentric character in his role—the conservative, bad-tempered father—in a notably good manner. His performance in the children’s play “Land of the Dragon” and this one seems to show a good versatility in character acting.

Lis Kuningas and Steve Webster are also good in the love interest—the sections in which much of the philosophy of the play emerges.

Most of the other players are good in the roles, although not particularly notable—except for Bruce Mogen as the lawyer, Mr. Bohun, who is notably bad.

The play is witty and funny, which caused one of the defects in the play. The actors failed to pause long enough for the audience to laugh, covering several lines. The play also may have other technical flaws, but from the enjoyment angle, "You Never Can Tell" has to score highly. It is really a very amusing play.

The Chicago White Sox victories against Minnesota...

Chicago White Sox lead in the American League West.

Baltimore's Eastern Division lead to a half game, pending the result of runner up Detroit's two-night double-header against Minnesota.

The game, the third try to make up a contest originally postponed May 3, was delayed a half hour by rain and it drizzled during the eighth inning. The weather was cold, the lowest in Baltimore history.

In addition to his two-run single in the sixth, on the first pitch from reliever Roric Harrison, Alvarado doubled to set up a run-scoring single by pitcher Dave Lemouch in the second.

In the fifth, Kelly rapped one of Chicago's six doubles and scored on a single by Mike Andrews. Then he doubled again in the sixth.

Lemonds, 9-4, was replaced by Cy Acosta after Don Baylor doubled for Baltimore's sixth hit, leading off the seventh. Finch hitter Tom Shopay's two-out single scored Baylor.

The loser was Pat Dobson, 13-12, who has lost four of five decisions since the All-Star game.

The Chicago White Sox, Fisher went to the Baltimore Orioles in 1966, spent 1968 with Cleveland and then signed with California in 1969.

Fisher, who had a 10-8 Angel mark last season, is the second new bull pen pitcher acquired by the pennant-winning White Sox this week. They signed Joe Drabowsky, a St. Louis Cardinal castoff, on Tuesday.

U.S. runners tune-up for Olympic kickoff

MUNICH, Germany (AP) - Chuck Smith, one of the United States' bright Olympic hopes, ran the 200 meters in 21.1 seconds in a violent thunderstorm in a tuneup for the Olympic Games Wednesday.

Smith of Los Angeles won his race in heavy rain, sparking through pools of water at Munchen's Dante Stadium on the second day of the Hans Braun Sports Festival.

The United States 400-meter relay team also got the worst of the weather but scored the most convincing victory of the day. The Americans clocked 38.95 seconds and opened up a 30-meter gap in front of the second place Ivy Coast team.

Another American winner was Rod Milburn of Okeecousa, La., who took the 110-meter hurdles in 15.78 seconds. Milburn ran on a dry track before the storm broke.

The rain was so heavy that competition was held up for 20 minutes while a new style mobile spout was driven around the track to soak up the water. This machine has been developed by a German firm for use in the Olympics which start in 11 days.

The men's high jump was interrupted by the rain and never got started again. The weather worsened again later and officials also cancelled the hammer throw for the women's 400-meter relay.

While the African nation threatened to take their teams home in protest against Rhodesia's participation in the Olympics, African runners again dominated the long distance events.

Regassa Shibrow of Ethiopia staged a 200 meter finishing burst and held off Mike Boit of Kenya in the 1,500 meters. Shibrow won in 3:42.88 on the wet, heavy track.

Tolou Kisu led a 1-2-3 sweep for Ethiopia in the 3,000 meters won in 7:55.00.

Sox buy Eddie Fisher to strengthen bull pen

CHICAGO (AP) - The Chicago White Sox, seeking to beef up their bullpen pennant-striving White Sox, have acquired Eddie Fisher, who attained his major league career high of 13 victories with the White Sox in 1965.

Fisher, won in 4-5 record in 42 games for the Angels this season. After a four-year stay with the White Sox, Fisher went to the Baltimore Orioles in 1966, spent 1968 with Cleveland and then signed with California in 1969.

Fisher, who had a 10-8 Angel mark last season, is the second new bull pen pitcher acquired by the pennant-winning White Sox this week. They signed Joe Drabowsky, a St. Louis Cardinal castoff, on Tuesday.

Shoe business

Baltimore is another Sox victim, 6-1

Baltimore (AP) - Luis Alvarado and Pat Kelly each drove in two sixth-inning runs as the Chicago White Sox whipped the Baltimore Orioles 6-1 Thursday and moved to within a half game of idle first-place Oakland in the American League West.

The loss cut Baltimore's Eastern Division lead to a half game, pending the result of runner up Detroit's two-night double-header against Minnesota.
