BEIRUT (AP) — Israeli warplanes bombarded and strafed rebel-held positions on the coast and in the Israeli-controlled central mountains Sunday, while radio reports said Lebanese forces had fought off a three-pronged Druse attack at Souk el-Gharb.

The U.S. Marines were being transferred out of Beirut to ship off the coast, presidential advisor Robert McFarlane said in New York, and the Italian contingent of the multinational peacekeeping force began moving its equipment to freedom fighters in preparation for a withdrawal of most of the 1,400 men starting Monday.

The military command in Tel Aviv said the targets of its air raids were Palestinian guerrilla bases near Damour, 12 miles south of Beirut, the Israeli-controlled Mediterranean coast, and at Khan Younis and Hammana in the central mountains near the Beirut-Damascus highway.

Eight aircraft flew over for five-bombing Israeli jets, which hit the mountains fired on, but did not hit the attacking planes, radio reports said.

The planes made a second run at the targets only minutes after the first attack, according to the radio reports, which said the villages of Aley, Mhigheiyeh, Dohi and Aramoun also were hit. The Israeli announcement did not mention them.

The Israeli command said its targets were "terrorist positions. And in Jerusalem before the air raids were announced, Cabinet Secretary Dan Meridor warned Israel would not let them (the Palestinians) build bases from within their (Druse) lines. I hope this message is clear to the Druse and others."

Police sources said initial casualty figures from the aerial raids said three people were killed and 15 wounded in the villages of Nahameh and Damour. They said they expected the toll to climb.

The raids followed an attack on an Israeli military outpost earlier in the day in south of the Israelis' Awali River frontline in southern Lebanon. The state radio said a few Israelis were wounded in the attack at Souk el-Gharb, the government fought off Druse attacks from nearby Aita, Kafrnin and Aley, according to a report from the rightest Christian Voice of Lebanon. The radio report said the army scored direct hits, causing heavy casualties among the attackers.

In southern Lebanon, Christians and Moslems clashed in Jiyeh, Saad and a string of nearby villages. ... plans from the fighting could be heard nine miles away in Sidon. Christian Phalangists were driven out of that area from the coastal town of Damour by Druse and Shiite fighters last week.

Buzbee: Students could decide election

By John Race

State Sen. Ken Buzbee believes he will win the March 29 Democratic primary and continue to campaign full force since Labor Day across the 21-county, 22nd Congressional District.

He said 11 months of involvement in all aspects of the campaign stressed two areas as important. Buzbee said registering voters should be a top priority, especially because Tuesday is the registration deadline. Getting people out to vote during the primary is also very important, he said.

Stating that if he is elected to Congress 1975-1977, he would work in the area where "you have experience," Buzbee said that has been the case with his own background. He has experience in education, education and children's rights.

As state college president, Buzbee has been chairman of the 1972 Democratic National Convention and is an associate professor of international marketing, was registered. Buzbee said he is working on his own in the area of international marketing, was a former associate professor of international marketing, was registered.

If he wins, Buzbee said he will be the only registered Democrat in the 22nd Congressional District.

Meese appointment may face stiff opposition from Democrats

WASHINGTON (AP) - Senate Democrats plan to grill White House Counselor Edwin Meese III about allegations of political cronyism, his personal finances and his stand on civil liberties when he testifies before Congress on his nomination as attorney general.

Although Meese's strict law-and-order stance may ultimately propel the confirmation of President Reagan's aide through the Republican-run Senate, Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, charges that Meese's record is an "example of government by political cronyism" and plans to pick a fight.

Democratic members of the Senate Judiciary Committee have parceled out areas of Meese's background for investigation in preparation for the hearings, scheduled for March 1 and 2.

Metzenbaum has had his staff looking into Meese's finances ever since he was appointed by President Reagan Jan. 23 to replace William French Smith, Sres. Joseph Biden, D-Del., and Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., for example, are planning to focus on Meese's civil rights record.

Meese plans to quy Meese about $453,000 in personal loans and the appointment to government positions of people connected to some of the loans, said Roy Meyers, aide to Metzenbaum.

"We are not charging illegality, but we are interested in questioning him or the circumstances," Meyers said.

A spokesman for Meese said he would not comment on the matters until after the confirmation hearings.

In particular, Meyers said, the Ohio senator intends to look into whether Meese has repaid two loans totaling $60,000 that had been arranged for Meese by his tax advisor, John R. McKean.

The General Accounting Office, Congress' investigative arm, had investigated the loans to determine whether there was any connection between them and the appointment shortly thereafter of McKean to a $10,000 post on the U.S. Postal Service Board of Governors.

Both men denied such a link.

The GAO suspended its inquiry last year, having found that there was "no wrongdoing" and after receiving assurances that Meese was in the process of securing a commercial mortgage on his McLean, Va., home to repay the loans arranged by McKean.

Glenn a distant second in Iowa polls

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) - Walter F. Mondale's prospects for a strong showing in the Iowa precinct caucuses were heightened Sunday by a state poll that showed a growing interest in his Democratic presidential rival, but Sen. John Glenn said: "I'm still out to win this thing." However, the latest Iowa poll suggested a two-way race and the battle for second place was a virtual tie among Glenn, Sen. Alan Cranston of California and Sen. Gary Hart of Colorado.

In an appearance on the CBS program "Face the Nation," Glenn said, "The polls go up and down. They're very volatile and the polls have shown all the way through there are a lot of people still undecided." Don Foley, a spokesman for the Mondale campaign, also was reluctant to give too much weight to the survey conducted in the Des Moines Register.

"The poll is obviously encouraging," said Foley, adding that "the campaign is in a position to let down its guard." The poll suggests that among Democrats who plan to attend Monday's precinct caucuses, 44 percent support Mondale. Conducted by telephone Feb. 15-16, the survey also found 17 percent backing Cranston, 14 percent Hart, and 11 percent Glenn.

Former Sen. George McGovern was at 7 percent and the Rev. Jesse Jackson at 4.

But of the Democrats interviewed only 66 said they would attend the caucuses, so the findings had a potential sampling error of plus or minus 12 points.

About 15 percent of all Iowa Democrats said they would attend the caucuses, or perhaps 90,000. Predictions of turnout Monday range from 90,000 to 125,000.

Shultz to defend Central America aid

WASHINGTON (AP) - Democratic lawmakers are likely to shift their focus of attack on President Reagan's foreign policies from Lebanon to Central America as Congress returns Monday from a 10-day recess.

Secretary of State George P. Shultz will get a chance to defend the Reagan package proposing $9 billion in aid for Central America over five years. The proposals embraced the aid recommendations of the commission headed by Henry Kissinger and are intended to stem leftist advances in the region.

France to talk with striking truckers

PARIS (AP) - The government reversed itself Sunday and agreed to talk with striking truck drivers in an effort to end a four-day highway blockade that has snarled traffic across the country and sparked violent confrontations between truckers and police.

In response, truckers lifted blockades in 16 of France's 86 departments, the National Highway Information Agency said Sunday night. That left blockades still up in 14 departments - or administrative districts.

But there were early indications some truckers intended to continue their traffic protests to press their demands for lower fuel taxes, changes in border crossing procedures and relaxed truck safety regulations.

One escapee caught; four still sought

BLOOMSVILLE, Tenn. (AP) - One convict was recaptured beside a highway Sunday as police hunted four other who executed a "well-planned" escape from prison using pistols that apparently had been planted for them in a prison field.

Officers searched through woods Sunday afternoon looking for two more of the inmates who escaped from Fort Pillow State Prison on Saturday. The five, all considered "armed and extremely dangerous," were serving terms ranging from 15 to 19 years.

Congressman endorses Parr

By Philip Fiorini
Staff Writer

U.S. Rep. Lane Evans, D-Rock Island, came to Southern Illinois to endorse a state senate candidate who he said can give the small farm family what it deserves.

Evans said that man is P.L. Parr.

"Some people say I'm sticking my neck out, but I'm down here for a reason," said Evans, who is seeking re-election in the predominantly Republican 17th District in northwestern Illinois.

Evans, 32, only the second Democrat elected from his district in this century, said Thursday night that Parr, a Union County farmer, has impeccable agricultural credentials and has the power to build a "clear coalition" among farmers, laborers, small business owners and the unemployed.

"The small businessmen, those in agriculture and the working people of our country aren't adequately represented at the state and national level," Evans told about 100 people at a Parr campaign rally at the Southern Illinois Airport.

"P.L. talks about those issues," he said. "He's the public official who has those responsibilities in mind."

Parr, who is seeking the vacated seat of Sen. Kenneth Parr, is running for Congress, is the second Southern Illinois Democrat to receive an endorsement from Evans. The first was U.S. Senate candidate Paul Simon of Makanda.

"I hope the next time I return to Carbondale I'll be endorsing two senators," Evans said of Parr and Simon.

Evans, co-founder of the House Populist Caucus, said he agrees with Parr that a natural connection exists between small business and agriculture in the United States.

The Populist Caucus is a small group of Midwestern representatives trying to preserve the themes of the century-old Populist movement, which led to the founding of the Grange and the Farmers Alliance, Evans said.

"If the farmers can't do well, we'll have a problem in our cities," he said. "If the unemployed don't receive benefits, then they can't purchase goods. Then the farmers are hurt."

Evans said Parr has helped farmers in Southern Illinois face foreclosures on their land and has helped the hard pressed farmers.

Parr, 37, who is active in the National Farmers Organization, said on Thursday the state must work to bring money to the coal miners, farmers and small businesses in Southern Illinois in order to improve the economy. He emphasized his commitment to a progressive income tax structure, which he said will take the burden off of local taxes for the support of public education.

"There's no such thing as a trickle down," said Parr, a Lack Creek native. "I'm a farmer. I believe in things growing up."

Ruzbee, also present at the rally, urged Parr to continue his pursuit for the nomination in the March 20 primary. Ruzbee, however, has not endorsed any of the four Democratic candidates for his post.

Murphysboro Mayor Sydney Appleton, also vying for the state senate seat, was endorsed Friday by the Jackson County Democratic Party Central Committee.

Commerce Commission on comprehensive energy plan development by Illinois utilities.

Eleven communities and the Egyptian Area Agency on Aging, have raised nearly $5,000 for the intervention effort and have indicated their willingness to participate, according to background information supplied to the council.

Speed limit changes on S. 4th Street and Pleasant Hill Road will also be up for approval by the council. In formerly, the council accepted the requests of the city administrative staff, public works and police departments to increase the speed limits from 30 to 40 mph on portions of those two streets.

A slide film presentation on the railroad relocation project and a report on the proposed temporary trainway corridor will be presented at the meeting Monday.

At a Local Liquor Control Commission meeting following its regular meeting, the council will consider the transfer of the Class A liquor license for the Lick Gold Mine, 611 Illinois Ave., from Donald M. Medley, Inc., to Maxam, Inc. and the transfer of the Class A liquor license for The Great Escape from 609 S. Illinois Ave. to 603 S. Illinois Ave., presently John Dough's.

City should allow more bars on Strip

THIS WEEK, the Carbondale Liquor Advisory Board will discuss the decision of the City Council to allow more bars on the Strip which limits the number of liquor licenses for use on the Strip.

An overhaul of the ordinance is long overdue. It is clear that the city may be losing potential investors who would like to open bars on South Illinois Avenue. This is a valid concern, particularly in times of continued municipal belt-tightening, but there are other good reasons to change the ordinance.

The City Council, who have the authority to change the ordinance, should take a tour of the bars along the Strip on a weekly basis and talk to the owners to find the establishments' profit capacity - at times, perhaps, beyond capacity. Small places jammed with people - particularly people who have been drinking - are very profitable.

THE ORDINANCE which limited the number of bars on the Strip was adopted in an effort to disperse drinkers to other parts of the city. That effort, however, has been unsuccessful. If anything, the Strip has become an even better place to be, the most popular area for thirsty students. While bars along the Strip have grown in number, other areas of the city have not.

This can be explained in part by the fact that the locations in the city have, at times, experienced financial difficulties. Allowing more bars on the Strip would not divert parties from the bars on the Strip.

While the council seems to be amenable to allowing current license holders to expand their establishments, and thus relieve some of the overcrowding problems, this policy merely exacerbates the unfairness of the monopoly granted to current licensees.

ENDING THE license monopoly system would create greater competition among bars, which would in turn provide incentive for improvements inside the establishments. Some bar owners might be motivated to keep the toilets clean.

This would be in contrast to the unsuccessful downtown redevelopment projects, which should welcome such a proposal. For the State Journal-Register, who University of Illinois students converge to drink, is proof that areas in the city have at times, experienced financial difficulties. Allowing more bars on the Strip would not divert parties from the bars on the Strip.

While the council seems to be amenable to allowing current license holders to expand their establishments, and thus relieve some of the overcrowding problems, this policy merely exacerbates the unfairness of the monopoly granted to current licensees.

I am a biddable and vindictive old man, one who would find pleasure in seeing merely Reagan, Edwin Meese and persons such as Eugene Dougherty homeless and standing cold and alone in the line: "You see, I've been there. I have slept under the bridges and alleys with a Flower Station in Los Angeles, slept under bookshelves of newspapers, and have seen my legs swell to twice their normal size and shape, and my following standing on those swollen legs in a line as I waited to get a cup of day-old coffee and a doughnut, and I can remember that sometimes there would be more left when I reached the front of the line, and I would go hungry. In those dark days, I learned that 'Christian love' was a deception and a fraud, and I learned to hate deep, a lesson I have not forgotten. It is because I can remember that I was not because I wanted to be a damn fool that didn't and still doesn't give a damn for its outcasts: the homeless.

I have been unemployed for nearly 10 years: it is my experience to work my way into the Oval Office. When it did, the current occupation of the White House decade behind the times in his thinking and his work.

This has taken about 10 years for the public to catch up. In the meantime, all those that seem to be behind the times in his thinking and his work.

These and similar horrors are on the minds of citizen groups and church organizations that run shelters for the homeless. An article in the Dallas Morning News in late January told of the House Subcommittee on Housing and Community Development that as soon as the line is filled and another is needed. New York City operated three shelters in 1979. Today it has 18.

Without knowing that in a few days Ronald Reagan in his ignorance would perpetuate the "by choice" myth, one witness after another told the subcommittee the opposite.

An official from St. Martin's Center in Tucson, with between 1,500 and 1,900 homeless in his city, said that all are unemployed and none have "sought their homes by choice." In Orange County, Calif., where the longest is older in 1981, more than 400 citizens are homeless. In Orange County, Calif., where the longest is older in 1981, more than 400 citizens are homeless. In Orange County, Calif., where the longest is older in 1981, more than 400 citizens are homeless.

The National Law 1981, New York City ran from 50,454 rooms in 288 lower priced hotels to 19,619 rooms in 138 buildings. If that 61 percent decline continues, the trend believes, "the low-income residential hotel will be gone by 1987" in New York City.

REAGAN HAD 48 such hotels in 1979. Last year, the number was 17 and dropping. In the past five years, San Francisco lost an average of 40 units a year. The National Law Housing Project estimates that 2.5 million people are on waiting lists for housing in the six cities, and it reduces potential safety hazards and allow competition which could generate some much-needed downtown redevelopment.

Flooded with red, yellow and blue spotlights, the stage proved to be more colorful than the Police’s performance at the Arena Friday night.

Opening the show with “Synchronicity I,” the trio stepped onto the colorfully-lit stage surrounded by a fog which presented a dream-like aura to the nearly sold-out crowd. But through many of the songs, lead singer Sting’s powerfully rough vocals were overshadowed by a mediocre female back-up trio, especially during the performance of “King of Pain,” in which Sting relied too heavily on the back-ups in what seemed to be an effort to save his own voice.

The majority of the 10,200 people who paid $15.50 to see the group were pleased with the performance. But only Chief of Police Sting seemed to put any effort into entertaining. Guitarist Andy Summers looked bored with the whole performance and drummer Stewart Copeland played well, but playing and entertaining are two different things. Overall, the performance was somewhat lackluster.

To the band’s credit, the performance lasted over an hour and a half, which is unusually long for any group riding the wave of superstardom, as the Police are with three platinum and two gold albums under their belts.

The only big hit omitted from the performance was “Every Little Thing She Does is Magic,” a song that the trio has played during their second encore in previous concerts. But Friday night, just one encore was played.

Not surprisingly, the show featured most of the cuts from the Police’s latest hit album “Synchronicity,” including “Every Breath You Take,” a cynical song Sting wrote about jealousy as he went through a divorce, and “Wrapped Around Your Finger,” the latest cut from the platinum album to hit the top 40 charts. The audience cheered when Sting sang the latter number, particularly at the line “I have only come here seeking knowledge, things they did not teach me in college.”

The only songs from “Synchronicity” omitted from the performance were the two songs Sting didn’t write — “Mother” by Summers and “Miss Gradenko” by Copeland.

The Police gave their best effort — and received the best audience response — with their performance of “Roxanne,” the group’s classic trademark song about a man in love with a prostitute, and “Can’t Stand Losing You.” Both were hits from “Outlandos de Amour,” the group’s reggae-flavored premier album.

Sting was in touch with the audience throughout the concert, not aloof as many big-name performers are. At one point he said, “Carbondale — that’s a funny name.”

isn't it? Makes me think 'If a coal mine." This seemed to be an obvious introduction to "Canary in a Coalmine," but disappointingly, the song was not included in the performance.

With this being the third leg of their "Synchronicity" tour, it is understandable that the band was tired and didn't put as much energy as usual into their show. But when a crowd pays a top price to see a band, they deserve a top performance as well.

The English band Re-Flex opened for the Police, playing cuts from their "The Politics of Dancing" album, including the top 40 hit cut. They played with polished flair for 40 minutes. Unfortunately the material didn't offer anything different from the dozens of popular new wave bands running rampant in the music industry.

Animal specialist:
Hogs turn the tap, adjust thermostat

WOODHULL (AP) — Arnold, the pig who was addicted to television, the old TV comedy "Green Acres," may have been more typical of swine than many Hollywood creators ever thought.

Scientists have found the animals, known for their intelligence, will turn on the tap to get a drink of water or turn up the thermostat to stay warm — if they're given a chance.

Stanley Curtis, an animal behavior specialist at the University of Illinois, says pigs are capable of controlling their own environment to an extent that was unimaginable just a few years ago.

Allowing swine to operate their own water faucets when they want to drink is commonplace these days, a step more advanced than the ancient practice of letting them have access to self-feeders.

Research shows, pigs prefer warm temperatures in daytime and cool at night, Curtis said. Recent experiments have found that heat-control devices in hog houses are put to efficient use by the pigs, who prefer warm temperatures in daytime and cool at night, Curtis said.

SUSSEX UNIVER-
Dance troupe delights packed crowd

By Anne Fiasza
Staff Writer

From the first few steps, one knew the performance would end much as soon as the Hubbard Street Dance Company captured the hearts of the sold-out audience in Shryock Auditorium Saturday night.

And if anyone had more fun than the audience, it had to have been the troupe itself, whose professionalism showed no strain or fatigue even at the end of the two-hour program.

Under the artistic direction of Lou Conte, a Du Quoin native and former SIU student, the dancers took control from the riveting opening number, "Line Drive." The action was fast, the movement almost beyond human capability. "Line Drive" showed that dance can be much more than beautiful art, it can be competitive athletics.

The Southern Illinois' thirst for quality dance was quenched in part by the "Bill Robinson Tribute," a flashy little tap number in the style of the great movie musicals of days gone by. Who says they don't dance like that anymore? Hubbard Street showed how, and how much fun it could be.

The most moving number, in terms of emotion, was "Diary," an enchanting pas de deux by Bataille and Gregory Begley. Bataille's humanity portrayed by Bataille and Begley's strength of movement were highlighted by the choreography of Lynne Taylor Corbett.

The music for "Diary" was written and performed by Judith Lander, and deserves special mention. Lander's music speaks of both the pain and exuberance of life, and the frustration of examining decisions made. One couldn't help but fall in love with the humanity portrayed by Bataille and Begley as they moved alone and together in a tingly denouement.

Hubbard Street dance seems to exist for the movement itself, and for the joy which can be experienced through that movement. Although the numbers are not bogged down in heavy symbolism, each number still holds a special meaning.

The closing number, "The 40's," has already become a classic. Cindy McGee's energy carried the troupe through the most exhilarating of all the numbers. Two were tapping throughout the audience as Conte's choreography saw the dancers hoofing their way to a standing ovation. Hopefully, "The 40's" will always serve as a reminder of Conte's insight into movement and melody.

"At the Rosebud," a sizzling tango combined the forces of superior dancing and costuming to bring St. Louis during the early 1900s into focus during "ELIEE Sympathies." Conte puts the dancers on stools and lets the smallest movements achieve the largest effects.

Bataille, assistant artistic director of the company, choreographed "Full Moon," a sometimes moving, sometimes hilarious number that confronted the audience while nearly filling the stage. Conte was studying choreoography in the early '60s when he met Marie Hale, a ballet teacher who inspired him to pursue a career in dance.

Conte's Broadway credits include "Cabaret," "How To Succeed in Business Without Really Trying" and "Manne." Since the Chicago-based company's inception in 1977, it has enjoyed a storied career rise to critical acclaim and is gaining the reputation of being something of a dance phenomenon. It is a reputation the company has earned.

SIZING UP DISCOUNTS FOR YOUR BUSINESS
Placement Center helps students find jobs

By Dave Sarlems
Staff Writer

It's Friday morning, and a Woody Hall office is bustling with activity. Phones ring every minute as dozens of students wander in and out—some in three-piece suits, others in blue jeans and tennis shoes.

This may sound like a scene in a movie, but it's actually the Career Placement Center on an average Friday.

The CPC is one of the first places many graduating students go to begin their job searches. The center offers a variety of services.

Mike Murray, one of six career counselors at the center, said, "We try to have students know what their career goals are, but there is a gap between those goals and the student's first day on the job."

"Our office helps fill that gap," he said.

One of the services the center offers to students who register with the center is a career library. The library contains students' resumes, letters of recommendation, and any other information pertinent to a job search.

Murray said copies of information in the file can be mailed at the student's request to an employer who has a job opening and given to on-campus recruiters with whom the student has an interview.

The CPC charges students a $15 fee to register with the center. Murray said the fee is used to cover the cost of the paper work involved in the mailing, referral and on-campus interviewing services.

One of the most widely used services offered by the center is the arrangement of on-campus interview schedules between students and corporate recruiters.

Murray said the system involves students calling the office to obtain a number which is similar to line reservation cards used to sell concert tickets. These numbers designate a time at which the student can come into the center to select the recruiters and interviewing times.

Although the system is more complicated than students want to believe, it alleviates some problems, Murray said. "Before this system, we had people with sleeping bags camped outside of Woody Hall," he said.

Murray said the center also has a career information library which includes information on resume writing techniques, government job outlooks, federal job openings lists and annual company reports—all available to students.

"We correspond with about 70 universities across the country and that information is also placed in the library," he said.

The CPC also provides one-hour workshops on campus throughout the semester on topics including interview skills, resume writing and job search strategies.

Other services offered by the center include providing videotapes and films about various companies for students to view, sponsoring Career Days when students can meet representatives from different businesses and supplying students with a barrage of information from salary surveys to company literature.

Murray said they often get feedback about students' interviews, resumes and cover letters from companies that recruit students. He said they use this information to help students be even more prepared for their job search.

"We act as a liaison between the real world and students and help them become what they want to be," he said.

Meeting set on summer travel program in Italy

Those participating in the program will live in Rome during June, then spend two weeks in Northern Italy. The cost will be less than $150, plus tuition and charter flight.
Victim's rights at issue after shooting death

By Mark Peterson

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP) — It was Verbanic, 36, in his first thought when two holdup men entered his liquor store of friend Wanda Noahglash and shot to death on the floor of his store. Then he thought of his blue steel revolver.

Verbanic was the second man to fire five bullets into the 21-year-old Nathaniel Bell, authorities said. But Verbanic believes he acted reasonably to protect himself and his store.

Witnesses, however, say they saw Verbanic methodically shoot into a motionless body lying in the store's parking lot on Jan. 3. Apparently no one except Verbanic saw a second robber.

The district attorney called for a coroner's inquest. The coroner's jury concluded that the fatal shot, fired inside the store, was justified. It said, however, the shots after that were not.

Verbanic, 36, was charged by the prosecutor with attempted second-degree murder. He is accused of shooting a man who, if not already dead, was dying.

Cases in which either a prosecutor or grand jury decides that a crime victim should be charged and tried for allegedly using excessive force are uncommon, authorities say.

However, at least a half-dozen prosecutors and legal experts contacted by The Associated Press believe the number is increasing because many people have bought guns to defend themselves.

“As crime goes up and the citizenry arms itself, more and more people are afraid to get blown away,” said Robert Blakely, a Notre Dame law professor.

There are about 1.200 cases a year in which either a prosecutor or grand jury decides that a crime victim should be charged and tried for allegedly using excessive force, according to the police. The police department is at least a half-dozen prosecutors.

During the coroner's inquest into Bell's death, several witnesses testified that Verbanic shot an obscene at Verbanic after he had dropped the gun, prompting him to turn around, wait back and shoot again.

Model solar access ordinance in third year

ASHLAND, Ore. (AP) — When Scott Rogers complained about the shade that would be created by a house under construction next door, a city ordinance forced the builder to lower the roof line.

“It could have been pretty disastrous as far as neighborhood relations go,” Rogers said. “But we seem to have come out of it fairly well.”

Ashland, in the shadow of the Siskiyou Mountains, in a state renowned for its rainfall, seems ideal for solar technology. Still, the sun that sneaks through is enough to make solar technology pay.

“We have solar apartments, solar low-cost units, solar morons and even a solar cat-wash,” said Fregonese. “I think it’s been pretty well established that solar access is a pretty good idea.”

“Because there is a lot of sympathy around here toward the kind of thing where energy conservation is involved — small-scale things — I think there is a nationwide impact,” Fregonese said.

The first year after the ordinance went into effect in October 1980, Ashland sits on the northeast slope of the Siskiyou Mountains. The cloudy winter skies screen an average of 75 percent of the sunlight. Still, the sun that sneaks through is enough to make solar technology pay.

“We have solar apartments, solar low-cost units, solar morons and even a solar cat-wash,” said Fregonese. “I think it’s been pretty well established that solar access is a pretty good idea.”

McCausland shines for Salukis as track squad finishes 13th

By Steve Koutos
Staff Writer

Rhonda McCausland was probably not feeling any ill effects after her performance Saturday in the shot put at the Illinois Invitational in Cham­paign. McCausland, despite having the flu, had a throw of 49-25 to claim second place and shatter her school indoor record in the shot put for the fourth consecutive time this season. Liz Policky of Kentucky won the shot put competition with a throw of 50-4.

"At one stage Rhonda wasn't throwing that well and with a couple of throws left she told me she felt drained," women's track coach Don DeNovo said. "But she rose to the occasion and that's what makes her such a unique individual." McCausland's throw was the sixth best in the country in NCAA competition this year.

Win puts Illini back into first place

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — With 6-foot-4 George Montgomery dominating the low bar with a 9.5. Lutterman and Rushing recorded a mark of 9.15. Lutterman and Rushing. with the team of Mike Colvin and Andy Marcec and Nancy Muggs Colter, who recorded a 61:15 mark.

The team of Chuck Arehart, Steve Upperman and Price won the one-mile relay in 3:57.60. They shattered the school indoor record of 3:59.10 set last year at the GCAC meet.

Distant runner Sally Zacc suffered misfortune when she couldn't finish the three-mile run because of a mistake by the official. Zacc was in seventh place and had a lap remaining when the officials told her to stop the clock.

"There were so many people on the track they miscounted the laps and they told her to stop the clock. Even though people were all in front of her," DeNovo said. "With time and pace she had, she was on the verge of a team record."

In the triple jump, Sue Ander­son finished fifth with a 34.2 effort.

"I started this team from scratch with no funding from the University in 1966," Orlofsky explained. "We've gotten better every year. Now, we're finally getting financial help and that 270 mark is coming real close."

In the meet, Lutteman won the all-around with a score of 26.15. Memphis State's Ralph Johnson finished second with a score of 25.75.

Upperman and Price won the floor exercise with 9.6. Lutteman won the pommeled horse exercise with 9.5. Lutterman and Rushing won the rings with 9.55. Price won the vault with 9.7 and the parallel bars with 9.45. Lutteman and Upperman won the one-mile run with a combined time of 27:30.

The one-mile relay team of Katie Santore, Debra Davis, Karen Cooper and Denise Blackman finished sixth with a time of 3:57.60. They shattered the school indoor record of 3:59.10 set last year at the GCAC meet.

Once again the balance beam took its toll on the Saluki women's gymnastics team, as ISU lost a first-place lead and finished second at the four-team Illinois Collegiate Classic Sunday at the Arena. Coupled with a third-place finish on four of the athletes, the Salukis dropped to second place for the first time this season.

The Salukis had a 90.60 to 89.70 lead over Illinois State after two events, but a 1.70 mark on the beam dropped the Salukis into third place, leaving them finishing third behind ICC winner Illinois State and second-place Illinois.

ISU scored 180.10 to out-distance Illinois' 178.75. ISU was nosed out of second place by 30 points, scoring 178.65. Illinois-Chicago finished fourth with 173.25. ISU scored 180.10 to out-distance Illinois' 178.75. ISU was nosed out of second place by 30 points, scoring 178.65. Illinois-Chicago finished fourth with 173.25.

ISU scored 45.30 on the floor, and Redbird Coach Janet Anthony said she thought her squad could pull out the win after performing on the beam, her squad's second event.

"We hit a real good beam performance," Anthony said. "I felt that if we hung in there in the floor exercise and in vaulting, then we had a good shot at winning.

"It was our best meet of the year.

"ISU sophomore Betty Cekander won another with a 27.75 mark. It was the third straight time we've had the SIU-U freshman Michelle Spillman, who scored 27.15. Illinois-Chicago's Lori Zabel and ISU's Beth Arbuckle tied for third with scores of 27.65, while Saluki Lori Steele claimed fourth with 27.35.

ISU had four falls on the balance beam that totaled two points in penalties, while Maggie Nihi had three falls, but her score was not in the squad's top five and it did not count in the scoring.

Saluki Coach Herb Vogel said he was disappointed.

"Our problem is we can't stay on it," Vogel said. "We had too many b"rks in concentration.

"A lot of it comes from doing enough routines with full difficulty in practice.

"Spillman fell off the beam for the first time this season, Vogel said, while Steele stayed on it. For the first time this season, Vogel said, while Steele stayed on it, to keep her on the mat.

"Michelle's only bug...

Vogel said.

Steele broke the 36-point barrier for the first time in her Saluki career. Her previous best was a 35.95 earlier this season. Vogel has said throughout this season that Steele will be a 36-point scorer once she gets her act together. Now she knows she can do it," Vogel said. "But she did not hit her bar routine. She needs to get that square away.

Steele rang up a 9.45 in the vault, 8.60 in the bars, 9.10 in the beam and 9.20 in the floor exercise.

Saluki Pam Turner turned in a 38.85. she has not turned in a good score since she injured her knee against Illinois-Chicago Jan. 28.

Turner reached the 9-point mark just once during the meet, with a 9.0 in the vault. She scored 8.65 in the uneven parallel bars, 8.45 in the beam and 8.75 in the floor exercise. Last year Turner won the ICC all-around.

Margaret Callcott scored 9.20 on the parallel bars. ISU's second highest total behind Spillman's 9.46.

Spillman claimed top honors in the meet in the floor exercise, 9.55, and in the vault. 9.60. She took second in the parallel bars with a 9.49, just behind Spillman.

Spillman and Steele made the all-state all-around team, along with Cekander, Zabel and Arbuckle.

Chicago beats Blues for 2nd place

CHICAGO (AP) — Steve Yzerman scored a goal 14:50 after puck out from behind the St. Louis net and drilled in his 28th goal of the season to give Chicago a 4-0 lead in a 4-3 NHL hockey game against the Blues Sunday to lift Chicago to a 6-3 NHL hockey league victory over the Blues.

Larmer, who had helped give the Black Hawks their 2-0 lead, took a pass from Tom Lysiak and beat goalie Mike Liut from point-blank range for the goal.

His winning goal helped save the Black Hawks from being embarrassed by St. Louis. Chicago won 5-0.

Men cagers stumble in key MVC game

By Daryl Van Schouwen
Staff Writer

West Texas State dealt a serious blow to SIU-C's hopes of hosting a Missouri Valley Conference tournament game by coming from behind to beat the Salukis 84-74 Saturday in Amarillo, Texas. The loss was the Salukis' fifth in their last six games and drops them into a fourth-place tie with Creighton, which defeated Drake Saturday. The Salukis fell to 14-16, 6-7 in the conference.

Inability to finish, the Salukis are now faced with having to win two of their remaining games against Illinois State, Tulsa and Drake -- in order to secure a fourth-place tie in the MVC. The top four teams will qualify for a round-robin tournament and win the tournament.

"The Salukis led the contest by as many as 17 points in the first half, and by 14 at the instant but Drake roared back to capture its third straight victory," Van Schouwen said in his report to 3-10, 9-14 overall.

"They just outplayed us in the second half," Salukis' coach Allen Van Winkle said. "This game was a turn-on type, looking at it at halftime, with up by 14, your feeling is that you have control."

Point guard James Waring led SIU-C's rally, pouring in 27 of his 29 points in the second half. Not only did he score, he handed out 10 assists, had seven steals and played the entire 40 minutes.

Jackson and the run-and-gun Braves were threatening with tempo in the second half, created largely by WTSU's offensive pressure. The place, and the results, were Waring's 32 points and 21 rebounds, the first half. The Salukis operated their offensive well, guiding 15 of 17 free throws and overspent WTSU 29-29 while managing 2-33 half-time lead.

The momentum shifted at the outset of the second half, however, when West Texas State's 10-2 run in the opening minutes to pull to within 47-41. The Salukis, however, were able to withstand the scoring parade with 15, and Sanders had seven as the Salukis extended their lead to 11.

"That was an unexpected one for us," Waring said. "I probably should have come out at him and said, 'Okay, you're going to have to bring your A-game for 40 minutes.'"

Despite his team's poor showing, Waring was the only Saluki to reach double figures in points.

Men gymnasts record 2 more lopsided wins

Brendan Price, David Lut­termann and, surprisingly, six men 9-2 on the rings. Mark Ulmer also surprised the Mackinac County Community College with his best performance: a 9.4 vault.

"This meet gave me a chance to show the guys I was not a bad player could perform," Meade said. "Now we've got a couple of more events and will now evaluate the best possible lineup for our conference." This meet also marked the return of Western Michigan's Coach Fred Orlofsky, Orlofsky is a Saluki gymnast who went to the United States and qualified for the 1984 Great Britain Olympic Team, but he couldn't have a chance against SIU, but we did want to beat Nebraska, which we did. I was a little disappointed with our point total and our pommel horse event, but we still had fun," Orlofsky is now coaching Western Michigan's gymnastics team, and Orlofsky had said the program is finally starting to come along. Last week, he went to the Southern Conference and scored a point total of 157-4, almost 20 points better than we'd like to score 207 before this season ends.

Women cagers back on track; crush another conference foe

With another routine, workmanlike exhibition, the Salukis' women's basketball team hardly distinguished another Gateway Conference fee Saturday night at Devine Gym.

The Salukis overpowered Bradley 96-57, to run their overall record to 18-4. Their 12-0 conference mark is still a game ahead of Drake, which beat Illinois State Saturday and effectively knocked the Redbirds out of the Gateway chase. The Redbirds are two and a half games back.

SIU-C got double-figure scoring from six players and continually pulled away from the Braves, who could not handle the Salukis' offensive balance or defensive tenacity.

"I was happy with the way the first five played," SIU-C coach Cindy Scott said. "I thought we played well until the end. It got sloppy towards the end but you expect that in games like this." The Salukis have played a lot of close games this season.

Discounting a convincing loss at Drake, the team has walked through the conference. Seven of 12 conference wins have come by 29 points or better and the average victory has been by almost 26 points.

Whether the Salukis are that good will have to be demonstrated, possibly in the NCAA tournament. On the other hand, it seems certain that the rest of the conference is that bad.

"Scott can't be happy that her kids are talked about Sparingly and that they've been overpowered and not handled both well," Scott said. "As a coach, I wasn't ready to attack Drake,"

The SIU-C bench probably downplayed Scott's absence, had been able to give extensive second-half playing time to her subs. The SIU-C starters played between 22 and 30 minutes.

Scott was also pleased with guard Ann Kattreh and Petra Jackson, who scored 16 and 14 points, respectively, in the second half. Williams backed up Connie Price and Sanders with his best score a 9.3.

Stanton increases chances of becoming Britain Olympian

Saluki diver Nigel Stanton's chances of making the British Olympic team took a turn for the better this weekend during the Austin Morrison Memorial Championships.

"It was a good weekend for me," Stanton said in an interview following the competition.

"I won all three events, with my best score a 10.5 and scored above 550 on the reverse." Stanton is a member of the West London Aquatics Club and scored a team-high 11 points at the event, which was won by the University of Bath and 65 points won the world record event, except the high bar, where Malaysia's 9.5 tied Malaysia's 9.5 tied. Stanton said he was pleased with his swimming and diving.

"We had fun," Orlofsky said of his team. "And we didn't have a chance against SIU, but we did want to beat Nebraska, which we did. I was a little disappointed with our point total and our pommel horse event, but we still had fun," Orlofsky is now coaching Western Michigan's gymnastics team, and Orlofsky had said the program is finally starting to come along.
