U.S. will succeed in gulf, says Bush

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Declaring that "time will not be Saddam's salvation," President Bush assured a nervous nation Tuesday night that only America had "the moral standing and the means" to wage war for peace in the Persian Gulf.

"We will succeed in the gulf," he said in a State of the Union address to a joint session of Congress. "And when we do, the world community will have sent an enduring warning to any dictator or despot, present or future, who contemplates outlaw aggression."

Article II, Section 3 of the Constitution requires the president to report "from time to time ... on the state of the Union." And for Bush, reporting Tuesday night at the midpoint of his first term, that was no small challenge.

Traditionally a showcase for political goals and national objectives, his speech was delivered against a backdrop of high anxiety over the sacrifices — human and financial — wrought by twin crises.

Speaking at "a defining hour" to a nation gripped by war abroad and recession at home, Bush conceded the stakes were high but said, "the cost of closing our eyes to aggression is beyond mankind's power to imagine."

"This we do know: Our cause is just, our cause is moral, our cause is right," he added.

The task of confronting economic as well as war jitters was made more daunting by

POW allegedly killed; spill stopped by bombs

United Press International

Iraq said Tuesday that an allied prisoner of war being held at the Ministry of Industry building in Baghdad was killed during raids on the Iraqi capital, and Saddam Hussein warned that in the future his Scuds could carry chemical, biological and nuclear warheads.

U.S. military officials said as many as 90 Iraqi aircraft were in Iran but remained puzzled why they were there.

"I haven't the foggiest idea," Gen. Colin Powell, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, said before a Cabinet meeting Tuesday.

Allied officials said the giant Persian Gulf oil spill they maintain was unleashed by Saddam has been stopped by a weekend bombing raid.

Baghdad Radio, in a broadcast monitored in Cairo, did not give the nationality of the allied airman allegedly killed in the air raid on Baghdad, but it speculated that the POW may have been British because the British government had directed the Iraqi ambassador in London to explain the report and provide more details.

SIUC selects Capie to serve as acting V.P.

By Natalie Boehme

William S. Capie was named SIUC acting vice president for financial affairs Tuesday by President John C. Guyon.

"I'm nervous about it, not that I'm uncertain of my ability, but the fear of the unknown is a little overwhelming," said Capie, executive director of personnel services.

Capie will replace Charles Hindersman, who will retire Feb. 28. Hindersman has held the position since 1985.

"I've worked with Bill in the past, and he has been a very capable director of personnel," Hindersman said. "I'm sure he's going to do a great job."

Capie will maintain his position as executive director of personnel services while filling in as vice president for financial affairs. Eventually, as acting director of personnel probably will be named to serve in his absence, Capie said.

"I think it will be physically impossible to maintain both positions for a

Sea life losses severe in Persian Gulf oil spill

EASTERN SAUDI ARABIA (UPI) — The flow feeding history's largest oil spill — estimated by some at more than 11 million barrels — has stopped and the slick may be breaking up in the war-torn Persian Gulf, the U.S. military's central command said Tuesday.

Saudi officials said the spill was causing tremendous damage to wildlife in the gulf and it could take three to five years to fix all the damage.

Saturday night, U.S. aircraft bombed pipes feeding the slick with oil from on-shore Kuwaiti storage tanks through a pipeline buoyed offshore.

Brig. Gen. Pat Stevens IV told a reporters at the Central Command's daily briefing Tuesday that oil had stopped pouring from the deep-water pipeline, which is used to load supertankers.

He also said the fire that burned for days at the buoy end of the pipeline was all but out, and the slick was moving southeast — away from the shores of Saudi Arabia — and appeared to be breaking up.

The Pentagon estimated its size at 60 miles by 20 miles.

Soldiers get financial breaks

Military students granted extension on loan payments

By John Patterson
Staff Writer

SIUC students who withdraw from classes for active duty in the Persian Gulf are entitled to financial privileges.

Students who have been activated for duty do not have to immediately pay off loans, said Dianna King, coordinator of public relations for the Financial Aid office.

"The first step is for the student to withdraw from the University. Once they withdraw, if they are approved for a student loan, but haven't received it, the check is sent back to the bank," King said. "If the student withdraws after receiving the loan, they keep the check and can defer repayment." King said banks issuing the loans will seek repayment, but if students notify the bank they are on active duty, they can defer payment until after returning from duty.

Under the Soldier's and Sailor's Relief Act, civilians who are mobilized into the military are given protection from mortgages, insurance premiums, credit card bills and car loans.

Soldiers and families of soldiers in the Army Reserve and the Army National Guard on duty with Operation Desert Storm may qualify for help from Army Emergency Relief if the family faces financial hardship.

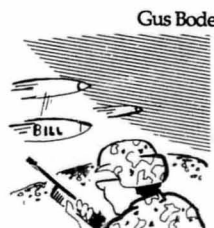

AER assistance is available for emergencies that arise after, or as a result of, a soldier's activation to military duty, said Chris Koller, spokesman for state Rep. David Phelps, D-Eldorado.

The relief fund provides interest-free loans and grants during emergencies for food, rent, required travel, utilities, medical bills and other essentials.

Emergency situations occur when the usual pay is not received or funds are lost because of military activation, Koller said.

He said mobilized reserve soldiers and their families can obtain AER assistance from Army AER sections, American Red Cross sections, and Navy and Marine Corps relief societies.

Those eligible for AER financial assistance include soldiers on extended active duty, and their families. Also eligible are military Reserve and Guard soldiers ordered to active duty for more than 30 days and their families.

Bears try to protect free agents

CHICAGO (UPI) — The Chicago Bears reportedly have offered sweetened contracts to about nine players they will leave unprotected and open to Plan B free agency.

Among the 15 players to be left unprotected when the Bears submit their list to the NFL office Friday are starting outside linebacker Jim Morrissey and punter Maury Buford, according to the Chicago Sun-Times. Backup quarterback Mike Tomczak already revealed he has been informed he won't be protected.

King chosen as NBA All-Star

NEW YORK (UPI) — Bernard King of the Washington Bullets, who missed nearly two seasons following knee surgery, and three members of the Portland Trail Blazers were among 15 players added Tuesday for the NBA All-Star game.

King's career almost came to an end in 1985 when he injured his knee, but he currently ranks third in scoring in the NBA with a 30.0 average, his highest in the four seasons since his successful comeback.

This will be King's fourth All-Star appearance, and his first since the injury.

The league coaches voted for their choices to complete the All-Star team after fans voted for the starting teams. The game will be played at Charlotte, Feb. 10.

Clyde Drexler, Terry Porter and Kevin Duckworth were selected from the Trail Blazers, who have the NBA's best record.

Joining them on the West squad were James Worthy of the Los Angeles Lakers, Tom Chambers of the Phoenix Suns, John Stockton of the Utah Jazz and Tim Hardaway of the Golden State Warriors.

Chosen to the Eastern Conference team, in addition to King, were Milwaukee Bucks guards Ricky Pierce and Alvin Robertson, Kevin McHale and Robert Parish of the Boston Celtics, Dominique Wilkins of the Atlanta Hawks, Brad Daugherty of the Cleveland Cavaliers and Joe Dumars of the Detroit Pistons.

Since Isiah Thomas of the Detroit Pistons, who was voted to the starting team, will be unable to play because of a wrist injury, eight players were added by the East coaches instead of seven.

Previously announced as starters for the West were guards Magic Johnson of the Los Angeles Lakers and Kevin Johnson of the Phoenix Suns, forwards Karl Malone of the Utah Jazz and Chris Mullin of the Warriors and center David Robinson of the San Antonio Spurs.

Voted as East starters were guards Thomas and Michael Jordan of the Chicago Bulls, forwards Larry Bird of the Celtics and Charles Barkley of the Philadelphia 76ers and center Patrick Ewing of the New York Knicks.

Chris Ford of Boston will coach the East and Rick Adelman of Portland will coach the West.

Both Bird and Barkley are nursing nagging injuries, leaving open the possibility that King will start for the East. He was third in the fan voting at the forward position.

If any other players are forced to withdraw because of injuries, their replacements would be selected by NBA Commissioner David Stern.

Parish will be making his ninth All-Star appearance, the most of any player named Tuesday. Porter, Pierce and Hardaway were selected for the first time.

Giants nix NYC ceremony

NEW YORK (UPI) — One day after the city said it couldn't afford a ticker-tape parade, the Super Bowl New York Giants said Tuesday they won't take part in a City Hall ceremony honoring the team.

The Giants said they would not participate because of the war in the Persian Gulf. The city then canceled Wednesday's City Hall tribute.

"I understand and respect this gesture and share their desire to support the young men and women fighting in the Persian Gulf," Mayor David Dinkins said.

The city had already erected a large platform on the City Hall steps. Dinkins had planned to present keys to the city to Giants Coach Bill Parcells and the team's owners, Wellington and Tim Mara.

But in a statement, Wellington Mara said: "In recognition of the hundreds of thousands of men and women serving in the Persian Gulf area, we respectfully request that no such additional public celebrations be held."

City officials said Monday they could not afford a parade for the team, which beat the Buffalo Bills 20-19 in Sunday's Super Bowl in Tampa, Fla. The city would have to pay overtime for police and sanitation workers.

"Naturally, I am disappointed that the people of New York and I will not be able to demonstrate how proud we are of our Giants."

—New York City Mayor David Dinkins

"Everyone is delighted that the Giants triumphed, but these are very tough fiscal times," a city official said.

This marks the second time the Giants and their fans were deprived of a big Manhattan welcome.

Four years ago, then-Mayor Edward Koch rejected any parade for the Giants when they won Super Bowl XXI, deriding them as a "foreign team" because of their move across the river to East Rutherford, N.J. The City Council ended up throwing them a small, sparsely attended party.

This time they had a devoted fan in Dinkins who not only traveled to the Giants Stadium to see them beat the Chicago Bears in the divisional playoffs and to Tampa for the Super Bowl, but also challenged all comers to bet against them.

He cleaned up on deep-dish pizza from Chicago Mayor Richard Daley. But

Gov. Mario Cuomo and Buffalo Mayor James Griffin didn't bet at the Super Bowl wager, even though the Giants were underdogs.

"Naturally, I am disappointed that the people of New York and I will not be able to demonstrate how proud we are of our Giants," Dinkins said.

Promotional touring begins for Foreman, Holyfield bout

BOSTON (UPI) — The George Foreman-Evander Holyfield promotional tour began Tuesday with vaudeville replacing villainy as the gimmick of choice for their heavyweight title fight.

Neither Foreman, the 43-year-old overweight former champion, nor Holyfield, the reserved and respectful reigning champion, carry the malcontent of a Sonny Liston or the brutality of a Mike Tyson.

But, as every pro wrestling promoter knows, Hero vs. Hero doesn't sell tickets.

The wise-cracking Foreman created the demand for the April 19 fight at Atlantic City, N.J., and he will keep talking until the mouthpiece is spat in.

With a shaved head and lots of jokes, Foreman is trying to build the image of a middle-aged man with a love of food and a loathing of exercise.

"If you want some strength, just eat some food," says Foreman, who weighs more than 260 pounds. "I'm strong—I can lift any plate in the world." And he if he can't knock Holyfield down with a left or right, "then I'll give him a belly bump," said Foreman, thrusting forward his prominent girth.

Lou Duva, who is helping train Holyfield, said that Foreman's idea of cutting down on food "means cutting his pizza into four slices instead of eight," and that "Evander will be fighting a cafeteria with arms."

When Holyfield announced his own weight at 210 pounds, Foreman interrupted to say, "One of my legs weighs 210."

And he laughs at the number of conditioning coaches hired by Holyfield.

"I don't have a strength coach and my dancing coach is MTV," said Foreman, who readily admits to his combined roles as promoter and product.

"I'm a pichman myself. I'm out here trying to sell tickets. If I don't talk, nobody will buy tickets," he said on the first day of the 10-city promotional tour.

Holyfield, who became undisputed heavyweight champion in October by knocking out Buster Douglas, said, "George has a lot of humor about it (the upcoming fight), so at least people pay attention."

Despite his quietness, Holyfield says, "I have a lot of confidence about my ability to win. I don't really have too much to say."

He noted that during Foreman's reign in 1973-74, "When George was younger, and was knocking everybody out, George never did say anything because he let his fists speak for him in the ring."

Foreman was out of boxing from March 1977 to March 1987. He won all 24 fights since coming out of retirement, with 23 by knockout.

Chicago's Murray OK

VANCOUVER, British Columbia (UPI) — Chicago Blackhawks center Troy Murray returned to practice Tuesday afternoon, less than 24 hours after a terrifying episode in which he was felled by a puck.

Murray, 28, collapsed on the ice at Pacific Coliseum during the third period of Monday night's 1-0 win over the Canucks after an errant pass by Vancouver's Ronnie Stern hit him in the mouth.

Hunched over on his knees and bleeding, Murray gasped for breath while choking on a permanent dental bridge that was knocked loose and stuck in his throat. He left the ice conscious and sitting on a stretcher.

"He was rushed to the hospital, doctors inserted a tube and retrieved it," Blackhawks spokesman Jim DeMaria said from Chicago.

Murray actually returned to practice Tuesday with the team in Banff, a resort area near Calgary. The team plays next at Edmonton Friday, and Murray should be ready, DeMaria said.

"They will try and fit him with a new bridge by then," he said.

Lithuanian shot by soldiers ordered not to use weapons

MOSCOW (UPI) — Soviet soldiers Tuesday shot and seriously wounded a young Lithuanian man trying to flee a military checkpoint on a highway between the Baltic republic's two largest cities, the Lithuanian Interior Ministry said. Juozas Tautkus, 20, underwent emergency surgery for a head wound. President Mikhail Gorbachev's spokesman, Vitaly Ignatenko, said "If there was such an incident ... then this would be the subject of a very thorough investigation." He said Soviet soldiers in the tense Baltic region have no direct orders to use weapons against civilians.

Palestinian leader assassinated near home

CAIRO, Egypt (UPI) — A prominent Palestinian leader was shot and killed in Kuwait Tuesday, the fourth Palestinian to be assassinated this month, Palestinian sources said. The sources said Rafik Shafiq Kiblaw, was killed when gunmen ambushed him in front of his home in Kuwait, killing him instantly with a shot to the head. An unidentified companion was wounded. "The culprit managed to flee in a bus after carrying out their crime," Zuhdi Qidrah, a representative of Yasser Arafat's Fatah guerrilla organization in Cairo, said in a statement.

Black leaders want peace in South Africa

DURBAN, South Africa (UPI) — Rival black leaders Nelson Mandela and Mangosuthu Buthelezi, whose followers have fought each other for years, ended their long-awaited peace talks Tuesday with a joint call for an end to factional violence. Mandela, deputy president of the African National Congress, and Buthelezi, president of the Inkatha Freedom Party, also said after the seven-hour meeting their movements would set up "joint mechanisms" to monitor moves to peace and suggested an impartial peace-keeping force to oversee an end to the conflict.

Medical reservists called up; brings total from Scott to 550

SCOTT AIR FORCE BASE (UPI) — Officials at Scott Air Force Base announced Tuesday that about 45 members of two reserve units have been called to active duty to give their medical support to Operation Desert Storm. About 30 members of the 932nd U.S. Air Force Clinic (Associate) began their active duty Monday. The deployment means almost 550 personnel from Scott are on active duty in support of Operation Desert Storm. The majority of reservists are from the St. Louis area of Illinois and Missouri.

Chicago car thieves race to Southern Illinois

WEST FRANKFORT (UPI) — Four Chicago youths were in custody Tuesday because they led dozens of local, county and state police officers on a high-speed, 218-mile chase across central and Southern Illinois. State Police Lt. John Wrichter in Du Quoin, said the chase began at about 5 a.m. Tuesday at Gilman in Iroquois County, where a police officer identified a car reported stolen in Chicago. Wrichter said troopers in Southern Illinois heard the chase on the radio but didn't pay attention to it at first.

Police look for leads in murder of Texas girl

COLLINSVILLE (UPI) — The Illinois State Police is asking the public to help in the agency's effort to solve the murder of a Texas teen-ager whose remains were found last year in a barn near Greenville in Southern Illinois. State Police Lt. Wayne Watson said he is out of "fresh leads" in the killing of 15-year-old Regina Kay Walters of Pasadena, Texas. Walters' body was apparently dumped in the loft of the barn in March but it was not found until last September. The teen was first reported missing by her parents on Feb. 3.

Mental illness support group helps local residents cope

By Rennie Walker
Staff Writer

Murphysboro resident Elizabeth King has dealt with a mental illness for the past 12 years.

Her son Mark, 34, was diagnosed as a manic depressive at age 22. For the past year, lithium has been effective in helping him deal with the illness, but King said she remembers when times were not that easy.

Under her manic depression, Mark lost control of his emotions. He would slip into periods of deep depression and mania, a state of high energy euphoria.

"It is a frightening thing to see your child like that, knowing you can't do anything, and wondering what you did wrong. It turns out you haven't done anything wrong, because it is a brain disease," King said. "If it wasn't for the Lord, I don't know what I would have done."

Mark has gone through two divorces. King said while the disease was under control, the marriages were fine, but when the up-and-down cycles of the disease began, there were problems.

Sit-in at Simon's office ends with eight arrests

By John Patterson
Staff Writer

A sit-in demonstration at Paul Simon's office in Carbondale ended in the arrest of eight people for criminal trespassing Tuesday.

Members of the Coalition for Mid-East Peace, Mid-America Peace Project, SIUC students and Southern Illinois residents staged a sit-in to demand an immediate call for a cease-fire and negotiations in the Persian Gulf war.

The group of approximately 15 began their demonstration at 9:45 a.m. when they walked into the reception area of U.S. Sen. Simon's, D-Makanda, office in the Federal Building, 250 W. Cherry St.

The peace activists demonstrated because of a recent address by Simon in which he said Congress acted correctly in authorizing the use of force to remove Iraqi forces from Kuwait.

Simon said he believed most Democrats had voted correctly in urging the continued use of U.N. economic sanctions against Iraq.

Simon said, "Following the course laid out in the Constitution, Congress authorized the use of force, and the President has acted. "Now our only option is to pursue the war vigorously and get it over quickly," he said.

Tom Hensold talks on the phone with Paul Simon's secretary in an attempt to schedule a meeting.

A list of guidelines released by Simon's office Tuesday stated that all protesters could remain in the reception area as long as it did not become overcrowded. Disruptive behavior, signs and banners were not allowed, but demonstrators sang throughout the day.

The most pressing of the guidelines stated that the office closed at 4:30 p.m. and the office must be vacated by no later than 4 p.m.

"We are willing to get arrested," said Tom Hensold, a social worker from Makanda. "It means we won't leave until that happens, unless Simon calls and is willing to talk."

In a statement prepared for Simon, the group listed four demands: that Simon publicly call for an immediate cease-fire and a U.N. negotiated resolution to the conflict; that he make public the real costs of this war including accurate civilian and military casualties; that a public issue be made of press censorship by the Pentagon; and that Simon not support additional taxes to fund the war.

At 4:30 p.m. Carbondale Police Chief Ed Hogan announced to the protesters and media representatives that the building was closed. He asked everyone to leave the premises.

Shortly after 5 p.m., the demonstrators were released from the building on their own recognition and given summons to appear in court Feb. 13.

Despite the arrests, several group members said they would return to protest again Wednesday.

David Carle, spokesman for Simon, said the protesters were sent information during the day about Simon's views on the Persian Gulf war.

"Sen. Simon's office has to continue to serve the people of Southern Illinois and will continue to function," Carle said. "Disruptions would prevent work from being done."

Simon spoke to the group for about five minutes by telephone, but no time or date was agreed upon for a discussion with the group.

Amit Srivastava, president of MAPP, was one of the demonstrators who called for an immediate cease-fire and asked for a meeting with Simon.

Although the group did manage to meet some of their goals, Srivastava said he was disappointed the group was unable to set up a discussion with Simon.

"He offered us 15 minutes, but in 15 minutes you cannot do anything," Srivastava said. "We're trying to have a meaningful discussion. An hour is the absolute minimum."

Athletes will run out without scholarships

IN ATTEMPTING TO CUT costs, the National Collegiate Athletic Association may be cutting off the lifeline to some athletes instead.

Its recent decision to reduce the number of scholarships—10 less in football, two less in basketball and a 10 percent cut in all other Division I sports—will help universities financially by reallocating funds to other departments.

The costs to the athletes, however, cannot be determined.

MONIES SAVED BY DECREASING scholarships still will be reallocated for various athletic programs.

But because the plan takes effect in the next three years, the effects cannot be foreseen, and the specific programs cannot yet be determined.

Many athletes would not be running at the level they're at now if scholarships had not helped clear the road ahead of them a little.

Not only that, but many potential athletes would not have been given the chance to play in the first place if some financial backing hadn't carried them a little.

AND HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS cannot be forgotten.

Those students whose best chance at entering college lies in receiving an athletic scholarship may not receive that needed boost.

On the other hand, the NCAA did pass other rules that should improve college athletics.

By reducing practice time to four hours a day (or 20 hours a week) in the on-season, athletes will be expected to carry out as much studying as those who hold part-time jobs.

This would not only improve grades but help break the widely held perception that athletes study less than non-athletes.

THE COMMISSION ALSO recommended dissolving athletic dormitories.

Although such dormitories provide a "team spirit" atmosphere by creating friendships, the benefit of expanding social circles can create well-rounded student athletes.

Without financial backing through athletic scholarships, many athletes will not be able to recognize their dreams. And admirers could lose future role models.

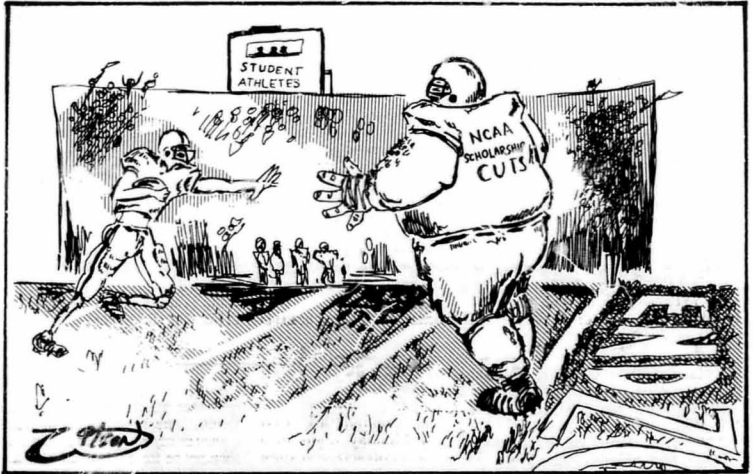

Quotable Quotes

"In the part of the world where we are sublimely ignorant, it seems all the more rash for us to go in and try to set things straight."—said historian Arthur Schlesinger Jr. on the United States' involvement in the Middle East.

"Under this government, you are considered anti-democratic if you stage a protest."—said the head of a telephone company in Panama in reference to a law allowing the dismissal of workers who protest the government.

"We don't know how we're going to be hit. We just believe we are going to be hit."—Jack Russ, White House Sergeant-at-arms, said in reference to expected terrorists attack during Bush's State of the Union address Tuesday night.

"It doesn't make people patriotic—it proves they are."—Tattoo artist Tom Moore said in reference to the increased request for American flags, eagles and other symbolic tattoos.

America's 'might-is-right' attitude blocking peace

I would like to express myself as a new transfer student

Although the concepts are unfortunately about as new as ancient Babylon itself, we as a country are representatively engaged in a war to hail the "New World Order", which actually disguises the old American way.

Ethnocentrism seems to be the "order" of the day.

World policy dominated by the powerful few is a world of repression and fear.

When we support our nation, we defend a blatant disrespect and intolerance regarding unaccustomed or different influences.

We support endless inconsistencies.

Here, I am speaking of the institutions, and not the victimized people of whom may or may not conscientiously object.

For example, no nation from the United Nations firmly confronted the renegade U.S. invasion of Panama. Why?

Very simply, the overwhelming power of the United States, the "might-is-right" attitude, falsely prevented any nation from opposing us.

Now we point the finger at the Soviet Union for their actions.

In the Gulf, many of our Allies were forced into a war which they were not yet ready to commit to! "The impatient intervention of the U.S. determined that decision."

Yes, Hussein is guilty of outrageously illegitimate annexation of Kuwait, but no one should be less righteous than the United States.

Historically, we are witnessing the collapse of peace efforts directly resulting from WWII.

Disregard for U.N. policies, revolution in the Baltic states and finally the conflict between Palestinian factions and Israel (each one Allies) over rightful homelands, religious supremacy, and oil.

However, these are not excuses for a "New World Order"!—Timothy Vaughan, sophomore, pre-major

People should stop shouting, start supporting

THE COMMENT that I have heard most often from pro-war protesters is that anti-war is a disrespectful failure to support our troops already at war.

This comment seriously misses the point.

Anti-war protest should be taken as a cry of moral outrage at the wicked acts of our president and the other craven masters of war.

THEY have shown themselves to be incapable of making the slightest step toward a "new world order."

Instead they take the same old imperialist path that has done so much to create tensions in the Middle East.

How many times must the rulers in Western Europe and the United States send young people to fight as they cover behind a fog of fiction?

AFTER ALL, Kuwait is merely a contrivance of the "British" Empire passed along to a few sycophants of big oil and the CIA.

How can anyone believe yet another promise of a new world order after the slaughter is over? History tells a different story.

So who really supports our peers in the Gulf?

IS IT the hoodwinked masses, or those who pray for peace—those who know that Saddam Hussein is not the world's only evil leader, those who weep for the fates of innocents so close to our hearts.—Lawrence Lofgren, graduate, law.

Too late to protest gulf war; troops need nation's support

TO STOP this war by protest now is folly pure and plain. To fold up now and come back home would only aid Hussein.

While you haste to protect in streets where freedom reigns, your loved ones may be dying now your freedom to retain.

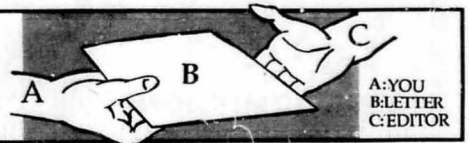

TO FUEL your selfish ego of glory now to gain, you lay or stand and ride and bring us all to shame.

To have commitment bold and strong is admirable indeed. We beg you exercise it now in channels we all need.

BE PATIENT, friend, and hold your peace for someday you may face a firing squad on other soil for dreams you here embrace.—Bob Givens, WWII veteran, Carbondale.

reports of consumer confidence at a new 10-year low and that the federal fund insuring bank deposits could fail without more money.

But just as he spoke of "a new world order" emerging from conflagration in the gulf, he asserted there were "reasons to be optimistic" even with some parts of the country "in genuine economic distress."

Describing the longest peacetime economic expansion in history as only "temporarily interrupted," Bush prodded banks to lower interest rates and predicted, "we will get this recession behind us and return to growth soon."

With virtually the entire government leadership present, security at the Capitol was tighter than ever. Police cleared the building of visitors hours beforehand and sealed off all streets within a four-block radius.

Keeping with tradition, a single member of the Cabinet — Interior Secretary Manuel Lujan — was instructed to not attend the speech to preserve the line of presidential succession in the event of a catastrophe.

Though an annual ritual, Bush attached special significance to this year's trip to the Capitol: to show that the business of government goes forward even in the face of war and threats of Iraqi terrorism.

Short on sweeping new initiatives, in large part due to budget constraints, but not without a few surprises, Bush pointed a way to better times in a 47-minute speech interrupted more than 50 times by applause.

Democrats joined Republicans in cheering his vow to drive Iraq from Kuwait. "So that peace can prevail, we will prevail," Bush declared. Praise for the almost 500,000 American men and women of Operation Desert Storm brought an extended ovation that Bush welcomed as "a wonderful, fitting tribute."

So too did his recognition of the wives of two key architects of Desert Storm: Gen. Norman Schwarzkopf, the commander in chief of allied forces in the gulf, and Gen. Colin Powell, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Politics may end at the water's edge, but Democrats signaled disapproval with their silence at his renewed call for a capital gains tax cut and displayed a definite lack of enthusiasm toward other elements of his domestic agenda.

logistics director for the U.S. Central Command in Riyadh, Saudi Arabia, said he could not confirm the report on the death of the allied POW.

Baghdad Radio said, "We hold the United States responsible for the crime of killing this captured pilot and injuring others ... because it attacked civilian and economic installations, such as the Ministry of Industry, in which a number of (allied) pilots were held."

A previous Iraqi radio broadcast Tuesday said several captured allied airmen had been injured in the raids.

Iraq has provoked outrage by parading captured allied airmen on state-run television and saying it would use them as human shields sites.

Saddam granted his first interview Monday night to a Western news organization since the war began Jan. 17, speaking with Peter Arnett of the Cable News Network at a house in suburban Baghdad.

Video tape of the complete interview was not available early Tuesday but Arnett quoted Saddam as saying the missiles fired into Israel and Saudi Arabia could have been equipped with "nuclear, chemical and biological" warheads.

But he said Iraq had not done so yet because such tactics were unnecessary and that his forces had "maintained our balance using conventional weapons."

now that has come upon us has failed," the Iraqi president was quoted as saying. "We pray that we shall not be forced in taking a force measure."

Western experts say Iraq has yet to develop nuclear weapons but believe he possibly could build some sort of crude nuclear device.

Asked if his forces would use chemical weapons in a land war, Arnett quoted Saddam as saying only, "Iraq will use weapons that equate the weapons used against us."

Asked about this renewed threat at the Riyadh briefing, Stevens said, "We will never ignore a single capability that he may have ... and make every effort to guard against his ability to use it against

"The effects of the oil spill ... are compounded by the physical shape of the gulf, which is basically a closed environment, which has very slow water turnover," said Dr. Abdul Azia Abazeneda, secretary-general of Saudi Arabia's National Commission for Wildlife Conservation. "It is estimated that it would take three to five years to replace the water in the gulf."

He told a news conference the spill, which he described as "the largest oil spill in history," threatens the lives and reproduction of sea turtles and dougongs, also known as manatees, along with whales, porpoise, coral reefs and the viability of the shrimp and fishing industries. He said about 7,000 dougongs inhabit in the gulf.

Destruction of the coral reefs, which "sustain a myriad of fish and invertebrate species as well as sponges and soft corals ... would result in lower commercial fishery catches," he said, adding Saudi Arabia is considering transplanting some of the coral in the Red Sea to guarantee its survival.

Saudi Minister of Petroleum Hesham Nazer estimated the spill volume Monday at 11 million barrels of oil. A barrel of oil is 42 gallons.

A spokesman for Dr. Nizar Tawfiq, vice president of the Meteorological and Environmental Protection Agency, said he could put no dollar figure on the loss to the fishing industry.

But he likened the disaster to one in the Florida Keys, which he said was pegged at about $10 million per acre of seawater covered by oil. That figure, he said, might be a little high for the gulf spill but not by much.

Additionally, "The offshore islands ... serve as nesting grounds for thousands of birds and sea turtles, as well as resting stops for many of the migratory birds," from Europe. "Their loss would signify the destruction of the primary nesting habitat in the gulf," he said.

California for the past three years, and King said she spends summers there with him. He has held the same job for more than a year, King said.

Along with about 15 other area residents, King is a member of a Carbondale-based support group for friends and family of the mentally ill. King has attended the monthly meetings ever since the group was formed two years ago.

"We can come together and just talk. People on the outside just cannot understand what it's like to deal with mental illness," King said.

Mary Gray is a registered nurse and group adviser. She has been with the group since it first began. "It gets to be really lonely when people must deal with chronic mental illness on a day to day, year to year basis," Gray said.

"When we began, our main focus was to just get a place for people to come just to share their feelings so they wouldn't feel isolated," she said.

The group is registered as a chapter of the Alliance for the Mentally Ill. Its main purpose is still coming together for members to support each other emotionally, but it also strives to educate members, Gray said. Videos are shown once in a while.

"One of the things the families have to face is a strong stigma. We've seen that this society is very slow in getting rid of that," Gray said.

This stigma stems from a misinformed public which does not realize mental illness is actually a physical disease, Gray said.

"People with mental illness have an illness. It is a brain disease. It isn't something that they have caused themselves," she said.

Gray said the most common diseases she has seen in Carbondale are schizophrenia, manic depressive illness and major depression.

For the next meeting the group has invited C.J. Dombroski, the state president of AMI, as a guest speaker. The meeting will be at 7 p.m. on Feb. 5 at Our Savior Lutheran Church, 700 S. University Ave.

prolonged period of time," he said. It is indefinite how long Capie will serve in this position, Guyon said.

Capie said he is pleased to be named to the position, but stressed it is not a permanent move. "My first love is human resource management, not financing," he said. "I like what I do here in personnel."

In 1984, Capie replaced Hindersman as executive director of personnel services, when Hindersman was named acting vice president for financial affairs.

Before coming to SIUC, Capie directed Springfield's human resources office and worked as a personnel management specialist for Illinois' Office of the Comptroller.

House hires scientists to study Agent Orange

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Taking what could be a major step in resolving the controversy over Agent Orange, the House voted Tuesday for an independent scientific study to determine the extent that the chemical caused health problems for Vietnam veterans.

The bill puts into law a decision already made by the Department of Veterans Affairs that veterans suffering from three specific illnesses are eligible for disability benefits.

Additional illnesses could be declared service-related if the study by the National Academy of Sciences determines they are linked to Agent Orange, an herbicide used to defoliate vast areas of Vietnam.

For more than 10 years, a controversy has raged over whether Agent Orange is responsible for cancers and other diseases in veterans who were exposed to the chemical.

The Department of Veterans Affairs refused for several years to provide disability benefits to veterans who claimed they became ill because of exposure to Agent Orange.

Studies by the department and by the Center For Disease Control were widely criticized as inconclusive by veterans seeking compensation.

The bill, passed by the House on a unanimous vote and sent to the Senate, represents a long-sought compromise on how the issue should be resolved. The Senate was expected to give quick approval and send it to President Bush, who supports it.

The bill would establish a statutory presumption that three diseases thought to be associated with Agent Orange exposure — non-Hodgkin's lymphoma, soft-tissue sarcomas, and chloracne — are service-connected disabilities.

Also, the bill requires the Department of Veterans Affairs to commission a study by the National Academy of Sciences to examine medical and scientific evidence on possible links between herbicide exposure and human diseases.

Speaking for the compromise bill, Rep. G.V. Montgomery, D-Miss., said it offers "the opportunity to take the final step to end a long and difficult journey."

He said the bill "can perhaps ease the bitterness and anxiety and disappointment that have engulfed both this issue and the earnest attempts to respond to our Vietnam veterans' concern in a fair and rationale manner."

Rep. Lane Evans, D-Ill., criticized the government's handling of the Agent Orange issue. "As we take this action, we cannot ignore the facts that our government's efforts to deal with this issue have been a woeful tale of footdragging and unmet obligations," he said.

Dave Hagediek plays drums with an intense malaise that well complements the unique semblance of T.Thomas on bass. Bill Carter, on lead and Steve Danley on fiddle share vocals... a yle of intersecting parallelism that defies comparison. And Terry Mueller plays with everything else to fill the gaps. Tattoo business booming from patriotic feelings

HOUSTON (UPI) — Tattoos are becoming an expression of patriotism.

Tom Moore, an artist at Shaw's Tattoo Studio, said demand for flags, eagles and other patriotic images is up 40 percent. Business reportedly is booming at tattoo parlors across the nation, particularly those near military installations.

"It doesn't make people patriotic," Moore said. "It proves they are."

Most popular these days are tattoos showing an eagle surrounded by the words, "Mess with the best, die like the rest!" and others showing the Marine Corps' famous Devil Dog with its globe and anchor. Moore said.

Rising interest in military tattoos has gone hand-in-hand with the escalation of hostilities in the Middle East, said "Uncle Bob" Atkinson, owner of Artistic Design Tattoo Studio.

"It makes me feel proud that someone is actually caring," he said. "I knew people who lost their lives in Vietnam and nobody gave a damn."

Atkinson said two servicemen returning from Turkey made his tattoo studio one of their first stops.

Persian Gulf war hits home

Muslim students pray for peace

By Jefferson Robbins
Staff Writer

For many Americans, the Persian Gulf war is something seen on a television screen.

But for SIUC's population of Muslim students from the Persian Gulf region, the war is much closer to home.

Islam, the Muslim religion, teaches obedience to the god Allah through prayer, fasting and a pilgrimage to Mecca, the birthplace of the prophet Mohammed.

Islam is an all-encompassing way of life that does not separate religion from politics, according to the Institute of Islamic Information and Education in Chicago.

In the eyes of some Muslims, the American government pursues an agenda concerned with oil and economics, not the real human issues in the Middle East.

Mustafa Abusaoud, a student from Palestine, said the U.S. military action in the gulf is an interference in the affairs of the Arab world.

"I don't agree with the presence of American soldiers in the gulf area," Abusaoud said. "In my opinion, this conflict must be solved between Arabs themselves."

Acknowledging that no Arab government supports Iraq's conquest of oil-rich Kuwait, Abusaoud said some Muslims admire Iraqi President Saddam Hussein for his bold action.

"It is accepted that (no Third World country) can challenge the superpowers," Abusaoud said, "but Saddam has done that."

A graduate student from Turkey, who asked not to be identified by name, termed Americans' reactions to the war unusual.

"Many Americans have the strange attitude that this is a patriotic war, fought for the American way of life or something," he said. "I don't believe in that."

He said other wars of aggression waged by Third World leaders go unchecked, while the invasion of Kuwait has caused global distress.

"And what is the reason for that?" he asked. "The reason, simply, is that there is oil under Kuwait."

He was quick to point out, however, that Saddam is no friend to most Muslims.

"I think the overwhelming majority would agree with me that (Muslims) do not condone his action," he said. "They see it as pure aggression."

But the continued military action against Iraq, particularly America's huge bombing campaign, makes some Muslims fear for the safety of Iraqi civilians.

Ahmed, a graduate student in economics from Jerusalem, said Islam is a bridge that unites Muslims of different Arab countries.

"Under Islam, we are all one nation," he said. "Whatever happens to the Iraqi people makes me sad."

Although last week's polls showed only 12 percent of Americans disapprove of the war, seeing peace demonstrations on television makes Ahmed wonder if America is really of two minds on the subject.

"The people are saying something, but the government is saying and doing something else," he said. "It makes me feel like the U.S. administration represents the interests of only a few people."

Riazuddin Zobairi, an associate professor of Religious Studies who is a Muslim, said although the Arab world basically is united against Saddam, the question of a Palestinian homeland may divide the coalition in the future.

Discrimination and prejudice are real concerns for Arabs at this time, Zobairi said.

He said an acquaintance with a common Arab name was forced to change his phone number after receiving threatening calls.

Although most Americans are tolerant of Arabs, the Turkish graduate student pointed out that "There are a lot of narrow-minded people."

"Some attacks (on Arabs) have happened in Ohio. It cannot be granted that the same thing is not going to happen in Carbondale," he said.

But he remains hopeful for a resolution to the gulf situation, he said.

Far East religion offers inner peace

By Jefferson Robbins
Staff Writer

Students may have wondered just what "Eckankar" is after seeing the organization's pink fliers posted on campus bulletin boards in the past few weeks.

Dubbed by its fliers as the "religion of the light and sound of God," Eckankar is a Far East spiritual practice transplanted to the United States with a history, according to tradition, that goes back six million years.

Jim Skerie, an Eckankar practitioner and spokesman from Minneapolis, described the Eckankar experience as "the art or science of returning back to the source."

The source is the Eck, a universal spiritual power present in all things. The Eck can be contacted and understood through Eckankar practices, Skerie said.

"The Eck is the force, or God, or the Holy Spirit," Skerie said. "A rough translation of Eckankar is 'co-worker with God.'"

"There are things you can know about (the Eck), and it's a fascinating study," Skerie said. "Through dreams and spiritual exercises you start seeing how it operates in you."

Fundamental to the practice of Eckankar is the figure of the Master, a single spiritual leader. Skerie said he likens the Master to the Dalai Lama of Tibetan Buddhism.

The role of the Master is to guide Eckankar students toward inner peace, Skerie said, and the Master is always aware when the Eck is contacted by others.

"As people discover within themselves this force, and become attuned to it, the central figure of the Master is always there," Skerie said. "It doesn't matter (whether the Master is physically present at the time.)"

While Eckankar's tradition may stretch back six million years to the ancient Orient, Eckankar in the United States began in 1965 with Paul Twitchell, Skerie said.

After years of study, Twitchell returned to the United States from Tibet with the status of Master and began a series of books and lectures to spread the word of his new discipline.

Twitchell worked for a decade to spread Eckankar teachings until his death in 1975. Based in Minneapolis, the organization's membership is estimated at 50,000 nationwide, Skerie said.

Eckankar is a practice with the power to change lives, said Sheila Sudit, a Minneapolis businesswoman and Eckankar member.

"(Eckankar) has opened my heart and allowed me to discover truth, and to discover who I really am as Soul," Sudit said. "Not as a person, but as Soul, which has always existed. My body will drop away (at death), but Soul is always there."

"Just getting in touch with Soul allows you to experience life to its fullest," Sudit said.

Skerie said personal stress led to his discovery of Eckankar in 1971.

"It was the Vietnam War era and I was in the service," Skerie said. "I had a strong desire to escape from myself, from reality."

"As soon as I started Eckankar, I couldn't hide anymore," Skerie said. "It led me into an active and very fulfilling life."

Eckankar may not be for everyone, Skerie said. Some may be uncomfortable with Eck meditation and may not find it a positive experience.

But sometimes the setbacks are part of Eckankar's appeal, he said.

"It's the adventure," he said. "If you thought you were going to climb Mount Everest and not skin your knee even once, you were wrong."

The benefits of Eckankar are often very personal and difficult to express in words, but the benefits still are there, Skerie said.

Learn how men and women's expectations, roles, and interactions lay the foundation for the problem of date rape. Discussion in this presentation will focus on how to identify high risk and coercive sexual situations. Skills for protecting yourself and preventing unwanted sexual encounters will also be discussed.

Live speeches, music highlight teleconference

By Amy Cooper
Staff Writer

As a preview to Black History Month, the SIUC community will get a chance to learn about African American issues in a teleconference Thursday in the Student Center Auditorium.

The conference is scheduled for noon to 2 p.m., and an opportunity for open discussion will follow if time permits, said Harriet Wilson-Barlow, associate director of Student Development.

SIUC will sponsor "Beyond the Dream III: A Celebration of Black History," presented through the Black Issues in Higher Education organization based in Fairfax, Va., Barlow said.

The teleconference is the third presentation of Black Issues and is produced in Washington, D.C., said Taris Mullins, director of public relations for Black Issues in Higher Education.

The teleconference will feature about 20 different speakers and musicians, including Edward J. Perkins, former ambassador to South Africa; Asa Hilliard, an educational psychologist and historian; U.S. Rep. William Gray and singer Stevie Wonder, Barlow said.

Many of the speakers and singers will perform live from the studio in Washington, D.C.

Musical reveals ending after 'happily ever after'

By Karen Hadius
Staff Writer

Cinderella finds her slipper and marries the prince, Little Red Riding Hood's grandmother is saved and Jack climbs back down his beanstalk after the giant dies. Everyone lives happily ever after, of course.

Playing its only show at 8 tonight at Shryock Auditorium, Stephen Sondheim's Broadway Musical "Into the Woods" tells what happens after several of "Grimm's Fairy Tales" characters live "happily ever after."

The musical, sponsored by WSIL-TV 3, is the first show in Shryock's spring celebrity season.

Luisa Cariaga, director of publicity for Main Stage Management, said the production is based on such Grimm's fairy tales as "Rapunzel," "Cinderella," "Little Red Riding Hood," and "Jack and the Beanstalk."

"The Baker and his Wife," another fairy tale included in the play, is an original work, she said.

Cariaga said the first act of "Into the Woods" tells the traditional fairy tales and the second act explores beyond the ending.

"I love it, and all the music is very wonderful," Cariaga said. Lyricist Sondheim created the music for "Into the Woods" with the help of writer James Lapine. The musical has been selling out for two years.

It won several Tony Awards in 1989, including Best Score and Best Book, and a Drama Critics Desk Award for Best Musical.

Pegasus Players from Chicago will perform the production and have been touring with "Into the Woods" since summer 1990.

Seats cost between $13 and $15 at the Shryock Auditorium Box Office.

Bob Hageman, departmental business manager at Shryock, said the cost difference of the tickets is because of seat location. Rush tickets are available 30 minutes before curtain time.

"All remaining tickets will be available for $5 each on a first come, first serve basis," Hageman said.

"Into the Woods" is Sondheim's 14th Broadway musical. He wrote lyrics to "West Side Story," "Gypsy" and "Do I Hear a Waltz?"

He also wrote scores for "Sweeney Todd," "A Little Night Music," "Pacific Overtures" and "Sunday in the Park with George."

Heimlich saves choking pup

WHITTIER, Calif. (UPI) — The woman on the telephone was distraught but a sheriff's deputy managed to calm her and instruct her how to perform the life-saving Heimlich maneuver.

The conversation saved the woman's 2-month-old puppy, who was choking on a chicken bone, authorities said Tuesday.

Anna Mora, 33, called the Pico

Rivera sheriff's station Monday and told Deputy James Stroud that her puppy was choking.

Mora told the deputy that she had tried doing something like the Heimlich maneuver, but it hadn't worked.

Stroud told the distraught woman that was exactly what she had to do.

"The puppy's fine," Hom said.

Retired reporter returns to coach writers at SIUC

By Sherri L. Wilcox
Staff Writer

Harlan Mendenhall, professional writer and emeritus professor of journalism, has returned to the University to teach two creative writing courses for the Division of Continuing Education.

The first course, Creative Writing - Basic, began Tuesday and runs through March 5. It will be on Tuesday nights from 6 to 9 p.m. in Technology Building A, Room 308.

The second course, Creative Writing - Advanced, is aimed at students who already have a considerable amount of writing experience. It begins Thursday and runs through March 7. The course will be on Thursday nights from 6 to 9 p.m. in Quigley Hall, Room 202.

The cost for each course is $40. Mendenhall taught journalism at SIUC from 1967 to 1985 and was voted Teacher of the Year in his final semester.

His experience includes reporting and photographing for the Daily Oklahoman in Oklahoma City, writing for the CBS radio program "Gang Busters," and writing for ABC-TV. He also wrote U.S. government propaganda during World War II.

His most recent work was "Operation Greylord," published in January 1989. The book is a factual account of corruption in the Chicago judicial system over the last 10 years. The book is now in its third printing.

"I'm having a lot of fun at SIUC. I really enjoy teaching and always have," Mendenhall said.

Mendenhall returned to teaching at SIUC as part of DCE's Life Long Learner Program.

"There is a difference between regular undergraduate students and the continuing education students," he said. "I think that there is more interest from the students I teach now because they are taking the class purely for the knowledge they will gain, not because they need the credit hours."

Additional information on the courses is available from the Life Long Learner Program, Division of Continuing Education, 536-7751.

L.A. Gear complains about ban on ad

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Troubled sneaker-maker L.A. Gear Inc. said Monday it plans to file a formal protest with CBS and NBC over the networks' refusal to air a commercial for the company's new Catapult line of shoes.

The 30-second commercial, called "It's not a Shoe, It's a Machine," debuted Sunday on ABC's Super Bowl telecast and features Karl Malone of the Utah Jazz.

L.A. Gear, which has disappointed investors recently because of poor performance of new products, said CBS and NBC objected to the computer animation that shows the shoe's "catapult" action, and Malone's phrase at the end of the spot: "Everything else is just hot air."

That phrase refers to key shoes sold by L.A. Gear's competitors: Nike Inc.'s "Air Jordan" shoe and Reebok International Ltd.'s "The Pump," which features an adjustable air bladder. L.A. Gear, with about $900 million in annual sales, ranks third in the athletic shoe market after Nike and Reebok.

Beth Bressan, a spokeswoman for CBS, said the network refused to run the L.A. Gear ad because it suggested the attributes of competitors' shoes were "meaningless and not to be believed."

"We believe the L.A. Gear ad is audaciously denigrating to the competition," Bressan said, adding that the refusal to air it reflects a long-standing CBS policy not to air such spots.

Bressan also said the network refused, for the same reason, to run an advertisement recently that attacked an L.A. Gear product, but she would not identify the ad or the company that sought to place it.

"Our policy protected L.A. Gear recently, so we are being consistent with it," Bressan said.

NBC was not immediately available for comment.

Sandy Saemann, executive vice president of L.A. Gear, pointed out that Nike has recently run TV ads that poked fun at the Catapult. "The networks have no problem showing a competitor's commercial knocking Catapult, but they refused ours," he said.

"This will not have a major impact on our media strategy," Saemann said. "If necessary, we can reach our target audience through ABC, cable and a host of other national and regional television outlets."

L.A. Gear said the Catapult will be come available in stores over the next few weeks at a retail price of under $100.

The shoe uses a "spring-like" carbon graphite and fiberglass heel insert and what the company calls "an anti-fatigue rebound system that uses the wearer's body thrust to gain added lift."

Some retail analysts have viewed L.A. Gear's foray into "performance" shoes with dismay. The company made its reputation as a savvy marketer selling flashy sneakers to teenage girls. It was one of the hottest fashion stocks in recent years until last May, when it announced that its quarter earnings would decline for the first time in four years.

Last week, L.A. Gear said it would lose $4 million to $6 million in the fourth quarter, its first loss ever as a public company. Analysts have blamed its diversification and the failure of its Michael Jackson "line of shoes to catch on last fall.

Additionally, retail consultant Jack Trout of Greenwich, Conn., said the new Catapult ad, which debuted in the second quarter of the Super Bowl, is not particularly effective since it does not specifically tell potential buyers why the shoe is better. The ad's computer animation graphic was only on the screen for about five seconds, Trout noted.

"I don't think another leaper like Malone makes much of a difference to the consumer," Trout said. "The idea of why this is a better shoe was buried in the ad."

Trout said the spot could have been more effective had it been longer than 30 seconds and explained how the new technology works for a basketball player.

The estimated cost of a 30-second ad on the Super Bowl telecast was $800,000.

"When George first started back on his (comeback) trail, I was like: 'Who is this guy ki'ing?'" Holyfield said. "But with his performances and hard work, he's proven that he's legit."

Foreman claims his powerful punch overcomes his lack of speed.

"Footspeed is very important—if you're trying to run away from someone," he said.

Bob Arum, a co-promoter of the fight, said of Foreman's return, "Can there be any story in sport better than this? ... Make no mistake about it, this is the best that boxing has to offer."

Whether that's good or bad remains to be seen.

Washburn signs with Tulsa after NBA ban

DENVER (UPI) — Chris Washburn, banned for life by the NBA for drug violations, Tuesday signed a contract with the Tulsa Fast Breakers of the Continental Basketball Association.

Washburn, the third pick overall in the 1986 NBA draft by Golden State, last played in the NBA in 1987-88 before the league banned him following his third violation of the league's Drug Testing Program.

The 6-foot-11 center played sparingly for the Warriors in his rookie season before he was traded to the Atlanta Hawks during the 1987-88 season.

Washburn recently applied for entrance in the CBA after completing a rehabilitation program at John Lucas' Drug Treatment Center in Houston.

"Chris Washburn is clear to play in the CBA at this time," CBA Commissioner Ira Kaze said in a statement. "He has gone through an excellent rehabilitation and after-care program at John Lucas' Center, which is a tremendous facility. We feel that Chris is entitled to another start."

Washburn was to be in uniform Tuesday night for Tulsa's home game with the Oklahoma City Calvary.

Assistant coach Shula leaves for Cincinnati

DALLAS (UPI) — Dallas Cowboys assistant coach David Shula, son of Miami Dolphins head coach Don Shula, cleaned out his office and told associates Tuesday he was taking a position with the Cincinnati Bengals.

An announcement from the Cowboys was expected later Tuesday.

Shula, offensive coordinator for Dallas under Coach Jimmy Johnson for the past two seasons, was demoted by Johnson earlier this month to a position of passing game coordinator-receivers coach.

Within a week after Shula's demotion, the Bengals called the Cowboys to ask permission to talk to Shula about a position on their staff. Shula was offered the head coaching job of the World League of American Football's Orlando Thunder prior to accepting the Cincinnati position.

The Cowboys have yet to hire a new offensive coordinator. Gary Stevens, an assistant with the Dolphins and a former assistant, Stevens turned down the offer.

Of those players left off the protected list, the Bears offered bonuses and or new contracts to about nine of them as incentives to stay, the Chicago Sun-Times said. Among those players are Morrissey and Buford, as well as cornerback John Mangum, linebacker Mickey Pruitt, guard John Wojciechowski, wide receiver Glen Kozlowski and tight end Cap Boso.

Last year, the Bears sweetened the pot for 10 of their Plan B unprotected players and seven returned, including Morrissey, Buford, Kozlowski and Pruitt.

"I had chances last year, but I didn't go," said Morrissey, who plans to stay again. "I'm happy here, and they've always been fair with me."

Kozlowski also has told the Bears he has no intention of leaving.

Also to be left unprotected reportedly are guard Kurt Becker, defensive backs Maurice Douglass and James Lott, linebacker Glenn Sanders, wide receiver Tom Waddle and running back Lars Tate. Defensive tackle Dan Hampton, who retired, also will be left off the list.

First place seat up for grabs in Atlantic Coast Conference

RALEIGH, N.C. (UPI) — No. 7 Duke and No. 22 Georgia Tech play their second Atlantic Coast Conference game Wednesday night, with first place in the ACC at stake.

Duke won their first meeting 98-57, and leads the ACC with a 5-2 mark. The Blue Devils are 16-4 overall. Georgia Tech is 12-5 overall and 4-2 in the ACC.

Georgia Tech Coach Bobby Cremins said his team has improved since its 41-point blowout loss to Duke.

"That night we just got out butts beat bad," Cremins said. "I just chalked it up as one of those nights. The team had a bad night. I had a bad night.

"We've got to play our best basketball. Everybody knows about the first time we met (Duke). They have a lot of talent."

Wednesday's game is in Atlanta, the first of three Georgia Tech ACC home games in five days. The Yellow Jackets play Maryland Friday and North Carolina State Saturday.

"I'm very concerned about these three games," Cremins said. "There's nothing we can do about (the scheduling). What's really important is we keep a good emotional level—not too high or too low. They're all ACC games."

Duke Coach Mike Krzyzewski

said the Yellow Jackets are playing their best ball of the season.

"They are getting better each game. I think a lot of that has to do with Kenny Anderson's play. He's showing outstanding leadership," Krzyzewski said. "We're improving, too. We've been able to play well on the road and air a few."

Duke is 6-4 on the road.

Anderson, a sophomore expected to enter the NBA draft after this season, is the second-best scorer in the ACC with a 27.2 point average. Rodney Monroe of North Carolina State leads the ACC with a 28.9 point average. Anderson also is averaging 6.4 assists and 2.9 steals.

Braves sign Berenguer

ATLANTA (UPI) — The Atlanta Braves announced Tuesday they have come to terms on a guaranteed two-year contract with free agent relief pitcher Juan Berenguer.

Berenguer, 36-year-old righthander, was 8-5 with a 3.41 ERA in 51 relief appearances with the Minnesota Twins last season. Financial details of the contract were not disclosed, but Berenguer reportedly would have received $1.05-million this coming season if he had resigned with the Twins.

Braves General Manager John Schuerholz said Berenguer, who was third among American League relievers last season in innings pitched with 100, 1 and fourth in strikeouts with 77, "is a talented, hard-throwing pitcher who could fit into our staff in a number of ways."

Huber to meet Graf in Tokyo

TOKYO (UPI) — Anke Huber, Germany's brightest new tennis hopeful, took advantage of five service breaks to sweep past Elizabeth Smylie of Australia, 6-1, 6-4, Tuesday in the first round of the $350,000 Toray Pan Pacific Open.

The 16-year-old Huber next meets Steffi Graf, the No. 1 player in women's tennis. The second-round matchup will be the first between the two Germans.

"I don't think about it," Huber said of the comparisons to Graf. "I just try to go out and play my game."

Pam Shriver of the United States earned her best victory in a year by crushing seventh seed Natali Zvereva of the Soviet Union, 6-2, 6-0.

In other first round matches, American qualifier Alysia May scored an upset victory over Marianne Werdel, 7-6 (7-4), 6-3.

May, ranked No. 318 in the world, surprised Werdel, No. 38, to advance to a second round matchup with Japan's Nana Miyagi, who beat Maria Lindstrom of Sweden, 6-2, 6-2.

The tournament's top five seeds, Graf, Monica Seles, Martina Navratilova, Mary Joe Fernandez and Gabriela Sabatini, were all idle on the tournament's opening day.

Japan's Mana Erido overcame American Andrea Leand, 2-6, 6-4, 6-3, American Peanut Louie-Harper beat Japan's Akiko Kijimura, 6-4, 6-2, Laura Gildemeister of Peru edged Japan's Kumiko Okamoto, 7-6 (7-4), 7-5, and Japan's Kimiko Date beat compatriot Naoko Sawamatsu, 6-4, 7-5.

Baseball's Dale Long dies

PALM COAST, Fla. (UPI) — Dale Long, who homered in eight consecutive games for the Pittsburgh Pirates in 1956, has died from cancer. He was 64.

He died Sunday. Family members said he had been suffering with cancer for months.

Long's home-run feat was one of baseball's more remarkable accomplishments. It was equaled only by Don Mattingly of the New York Yankees in 1987.

Long started his 10-year career with the Pirates in 1951 and also played for the Chicago Cubs, San Francisco Giants, Washington Senators and New York Yankees twice. The first baseman played on pennant-winning teams with the Yankees in 1960 and 1962 and retired in 1963.

His stretch of eight straight games of home runs took place May 19-28, 1956.

"All the time I have been in baseball I have never seen a streak of hitting like that," said former Pirates center fielder Bill Virdon. "I'm not just talking about the eight games. I'm talking about where everything he hit was a line drive or out of the park. We couldn't wait to watch him hit."

Added former Pirates shortstop Dick Groat: "I never saw anything like it: Batting practice, games — everything he hit was hard."
