Registration for draft begins

By Scott Canon
Staff Writer

19- and 20-year-old men expressed mixed feelings as they began registering for the draft Monday.

The registrants were met by television cameras, reporters and protesters from the Coalition Against Registration and the Draft as they entered the Carbondale Post Office at the University Mall to register with the Selective Service.

Some of the men came to the post office on the first day of registration in five years and they felt it was their duty to register. Others, however, said they were frightened at the idea of registering because it could mean serving in the army and going to war.

Engineering major Jay Robinson said a core group of people came to register because they felt it was their duty to register.

Steve Harren, a 20-year-old Engineering major, said he is upset by the idea of registering.

"I'm upset. I'm against it. I think Conscientous Objection is something that every man has the right to do. If he feels he can't go to war, he should register as a Conscientous Objection," Harren said.

The draft board has said they are not going to force people to register. A person can be fined. A 20-year-old could be sentenced to five years in prison and a fine. A person can be forced. A person can be sent to prison.

"I've been writing to my congressman stating my position to the draft," Robinson said. "I hope it doesn't mean anything. I'm hoping for the best.

Graff said he felt it was his duty to register.

"If all the things America has done for me, like helping to pay for my education, it's the least I can do for my country," Robinson said.

"I think Conscientous Objection is something that every man has the right to do. If he feels he can't go to war, he should register as a Conscientous Objection," Robinson said.

"I think it's a way to protest," Graff said. "I think it's probably won't even be used.

Delegate defends Republican platform

By Diana Penner
Staff Writer

Although Rose Vieth went to the Republican National Convention in Detroit last week as a supporter of Sen. Howard Baker as Ronald Reagan's running mate and of the Equal Rights Amendment, she said Monday she is pleased with both the party's platform and the selection of George Bush as vice presidential candidate.

Vieth, of 30 Hillcrest Dr. in Carbondale, was a delegate to the convention and a member of the platform committee, which drafted the party's platform.

Vieth said although the platform does not explicitly endorse the actual proposed constitutional amendment barring sex discrimination, there are enough guarantees in the platform to reaffirm the party's support of women's rights.

The platform is spelled out very carefully against all forms of discrimination against women, Vieth said. She said it was "pragmatic and political" and designed to include support of the ERA in the platform since Reagan, confirmed as the Republican presidential candidate last Tuesday, does not support the amendment.

"The Republican party came under fire by pro-ERA groups when the amendment was not included in the platform, but Vieth said "it would have been rather foolish to include ERA when the nominee is on record as being against the amendment."

The Republican platform had included support of ERA since 1940. Vieth has been on record as supporting the amendment for several years. Reagan says he supports equal rights for women, but does not support the proposed amendment.

Vieth, who was also a Reagan delegate to the Republican convention in 1976, said she supported Bush at the Tennessee, for the vice presidential slot when she went to Detroit, but said the feeling there was that Baker could not get the support he would need to be confirmed by the convention.

"They are totally unable to forgive his vote on the Panama Canal treaty," Vieth said. Baker was a major force in getting the treaty, which provides for a gradual turnover of control of the canal to Panama, passed in the Senate. The measure was opposed by the conservative wing of the Republican party.

With Bush as a running mate, Reagan will be able to equiped to counter the campaigns of President Carter and independent candidate John B. Anderson. Vieth said the Reagan-Bush ticket "totally diffuses Anderson's campaign."

Vieth said she feels the platform is a strong document of the party's stands on issues.

She said overall, the platform is designed to get government out of the hands of people in Washington and back into the hands of state and local people.

One of the planks of the platform worked out in the subcommittee on Housing and Urban Development, on which Vieth served, states the party's support of programs such as the block grant program. In this program federal funds are released to local government for community development plans.

Vieth said although the block grant programs are geared toward metropolitan areas, rural areas such as Southern Illinois have many of the same problems metropolitan areas do and may also receive federal funds for community development.

New station cause network change

We're simply going to take the feed and broadcast it," he said. "We're just an affiliate in the network.

Meanwhile, SIU-C's chief business officer Robert Gentry said Monday he intends to rule Tuesday on an appeal by Murphysboro radio station WINI protesting the awarding of the University's exclusive broadcasting contract to SSAN.

In a hearing last Tuesday, WWIN general manager Dale Adkins said SSAN violated the specifications for procedures and provided false information about potential St. Louis and Springfield affiliates.

Mace said he had only requested "a proposed tentative network" and reminded Adkins that he had once told Mace that there could be no firm commitments until after a contract with the University was consummated.

SSAN was awarded Saluki broadcasting rights on June 25 after submitting a bid of $30,000 for the next two years.

Polls say Ford of little help to Reagan

NEW YORK (AP) — For most Americans, a Republican “dream ticket” of Ronald Reagan and Gerald Ford would have made little difference in support for the Reagan candidacy, a new Associated Press-NBC News poll says.

Reagan’s decision to pick George Bush as his running mate instead of Ford also makes little difference to most Americans. Bush does have a slight positive affect on the ticket, but that margin is small.

Most people surveyed showed a strong 54 percent said that the addition of Ford would not have had an affect on who they voted for in November.

Wrong turn caused hostage’s captivity

WASHINGTON (AP) — Richard Queen said Monday he made a wrong turn as he fled the mob streaming into the U.S. Embassy in Tehran last fall, a fateful error that separated him from a group of Americans later smuggled out of Iran by Canadian officials.

“I got captured because I was lollygagging along and turned down the wrong street,” said the 35-year-old consular official as he met with reporters during an emotional visit to the State Department.

Striking movie actors walk off sets

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — About 47,000 members of the Screen Actors Guild — from bit players to Burt Reynolds — walked off sets around the world Monday, while a union representing 20,000 television actors prepared to follow suit.

At a half-hour meeting, the western section of the national board of the American Federation of Television and Radio Artists voted unanimously to join SAG members in a strike.

But before walking out, AFTRA members were waiting for strike votes later in the day in Chicago and New York.

Illinois sues to stop waste dumping

EAST ST. LOUIS (AP) — Illinois Attorney General William Scott filed suit in federal court Monday to block the federal government from pouring millions of gallons of radioactive waste water into the Missouri River west of St. Louis.

But Wayne Hibbitts, a U.S. Environmental Protection Agency official at Oak Ridge, Tenn., said Scott’s suit was “unnecessary.”

Hibbitts said the Energy Department already is attempting to develop new treatment techniques to satisfy Missouri’s stringent state requirements for a discharge permit.

Missouri requires the federal government to remove any contamination from the water before it could be dumped in the river.

Heat wave begins moving into Northeast

By The Associated Press

An eight-lane commuter bridge in Baltimore buckled and New York City and Philadelphia asked their residents to conserve water Monday as the nation’s month-long heat wave continued to spread into the populous Northeast.

The death toll from the hot weather since June 22 rose to at least 1,175 in 20 states, according to an unofficial tally compiled by The Associated Press.

On the brighter side, rain brought temporary relief from the intense heat in the Dallas area and helped bring the temperatures down by as much as 30 degrees in parts of Kansas.

The Russell Street Bridge, a main route between Baltimore and Washington, D.C., sunk 2 to 3 feet during the morning rush hour, forcing authorities to reroute thousands of motorists. No one was injured.

New directory stalled by lack of time, money

By Charity Gould

Staff Writer

Time and money are hinderin' the 1980 Student Directory, said Diane Johnson, executive assistant to the vice president of the Undergraduate Student Organization.

Since no money was allotted in the USO budget to pay for printing costs, the total cost of the directory will be funded by what is raised by advertising, Johnson said.

Johnson said she hasn’t estimated the total cost of the directory.

Johnson said she has contacted several companies that would print the directory but none can do it in time for the scheduled October distribution date.

Because of the limited money base, new specifications had to be made:

“The book will be a reproduction of a computer printout. It will be staple bound with a student-designed cover. An estimated 10,000 copies will be printed,” Johnson said.

The original specifications called for boldface printing which would make for easier reading, Johnson said.

The directory will include the student’s name, local address and phone number as well as their home address and phone number.

Currently, a contest is open to allow students to design the cover for the directory.

Johnson said the cover should include the names of the University and directory, and the students names and block should be incorporated into the design. The deadline for entries is Aug. 2.

Johnson said that even though this year’s directory isn’t what they really wanted, the 1981 edition is going to be really nice.

“We’ve found an excellent company who has given us a good price range. It’s the same company that printed the Illinois State University’s directory,” Johnson said.

Important election variables include Anderson, economy

What is the task ahead of Ronald Reagan and George Bush? It's not a big deal. The Republican candidates, representing a minority party, have only one goal: to become president. The significant contribution in the House and Senate, for instance, is that Republicans in both houses have the power to stop or slow the Democrats in Congress. To the Republican candidates, it's all or nothing. They're going to try to win.

What are their prospects? Good. I think. Their supporters believe that the national economy depends on their victory. And they are right. If the Republicans win, the economy will improve. And if the Democrats win, the economy will decline. It's a simple and clear issue. The voters understand it.

The election is not about the candidates. It's about the economy. The candidates are just the tools to implement the policies of the party. The voters know that.

The economy is the key issue for the election. The voters want to see a strong economy. They want to see a healthy economy. They want to see an economy that will provide jobs and opportunities for all.

The candidates are just the tools to implement the policies of the party. The voters know that.

James J. Kilpatrick

The Anderson factor is elusive. On many election maps, the Anderson factor is marked. It's a symbol of the hope for change. People believe that Anderson will bring about change.

But Anderson is not a candidate. He's a former candidate. He's a former candidate who ran for president in 1980. He's a former candidate who was defeated by Ronald Reagan.

Graduate student plans pamphlet to give advice on drying hardwood

By Randy Roguski

A graduate assistant in the Forestry Department is doing research to produce a pamphlet explaining quick and inexpensive methods of drying small quantities of hardwood with the least amount of destruction to the wood.

Charles Miceli said his research is in response to inquiries to the Forest Service, frequently heard from hobbyists or people wanting to build furniture, cabinets or "knickknacks" with woods such as walnut, hickory or oak.

A Forest Service worker for more than three years, Miceli said all agency projects are conducted in the public interest. "When you work for the Forest Service," he said, "any research you do isn't yours. It's everybody's.

Miceli said his booklet will outline to the layperson why hardwood must be dried, how thick it should be cut, how long it should be stacked, how long it will take to dry, how controlled conditions, what defects can be expected, how defects can be minimized.

"A lot of people like to work with wood," Miceli said. "They know the wood is on their property, but they don't understand how to process it or dry it." Miceli said: "Drying is a very important step in processing wood. There is probably more money spent on that step than any other step in the process."

Trees are about 50 percent water, according to Howard Spalt, chairman of the Forestry Department and Miceli's supervisor in the project. When wood dries, it naturally assumes the moisture content of the surrounding air. If a hobbyist fails to calculate moisture content in dry wood before working with it, the finished product will check, split or warp.

Some drying methods will provide faster drying, and others will cause less wood breakdown. Miceli said. The completed report will allow the woodworker to select the method which best meets his objectives, he said.

Miceli said hobbyists can dry their wood in kilns within weeks. But he said small kilns fail to calculate moisture in wood dries. It naturally assumes the moisture content of the surrounding air. Network to provide housing assistance

By Colleen Moore
Staff Writer

A network is being formed in Illinois to provide technical assistance to low- and middle-income households in rural areas and to look at the government's priorities for housing for those people, according to Walter L. Coleman, co-chairman of the Chicago Association of Neighborhoods.

Representatives from various housing task forces met Friday in Quincy Hall to discuss the network.

"The average American family now spends 40 percent of their income on housing," Coleman said. "On the national average, a family should not spend more than 20 percent." There's an increase in cost since the Depression, he said.

The Rev. Charles Koern, president of the National Association of Neighborhoods, said exorbitant rents and redlining are factors that are hurting the lower and middle class.

Redlining is the practice by financial institutions of not making loans in high-risk districts.

"People are just living day to day and are trying to figure out how they will maintain in their rent goes up," Koern said.

Although there has been assistance for urban housing, the government and task forces need to target rural housing, Koern said.

The Department of Housing and Urban Development has been very helpful, Koern said, "but there has not been an overall state mechanism to work with HUD and the administration."

"The network is the beginning to do it."

"In the rural areas, many of the agencies prefer to work with the housing agencies and there's been a trust formed. It's clear that there's a need for a coalition of groups to work on the delivery of low- and moderate-income housing," he said.

Koern, who is also director of the United Front housing development corporation, said "People, Johnstone, Saline and Pulaski counties in Southern Illinois are some of the primary areas with housing problems."

The network is seeking a $6,000 grant from the Community Service Administration, a division of the federal government.

"We will meet regularly to share experiences, to plan our thrusts, and reinforce our plans," Koern said.

Commoner gains place on Illinois presidential ballot

CHICAGO IAP: The Citizens Party has collected enough signatures to put its candidate for president, Barry Commoner, on the Illinois ballot, a party spokesman announced Monday.

Spokesman Marty Cohen said volunteers collected more than 60,000 signatures on petitions, well above the legally required 25,000. The signatures are subject to certification by the state Board of Elections.

Commoner is a well-known environmentalist and author and was one of the persons who founded the party last winter.

The party's platform includes strong support for environmental issues, opposition to nuclear power and nationalization of the oil industry.

Instead of looking for a job after graduation, Mike Kociela decided to do a dream-riding across America alone. Kociela is from the small town of Hatfield, Mass., population 3,000, graduated in May from North Adams State College where he majored in business administration. Instead of canvassing the country with resumes, Kociela decided to bike to San Diego for the American Cancer Society. It is pretty ironic how I get the ACS to sponsor me," Kociela said. "I was working for a tobacco firm, Consolidated Cigar Corporation. when my boss threw me a sponsor. He introduced me to Mike. My boss thought it would be this hilly, but he was surprised at what he found. "It was a surprise. I didn't think it would be this hilly," Kociela said. "I thought it would be flat, and not have as many trees." Kociela's next stop is Campbell Hill, then the Missouri Ozarks. From there, he is planning to bike through Colorado, Wyoming and Montana, then traveling down the coast of Oregon into California. He is hoping to reach his destination of San Diego the first week of September.

Kociela decided to bike alone because "most people are intimidated when they're approached by two people." "I don't stop and talk to as many people as I could because they seem more comfortable when they're one-on-one or two people than if I was with a group," he said.

What has impressed Kociela the most about his trip has been people. "This trip has given me a positive outlook on people," he said. "The only bad thing that has happened to me was a water balloon was thrown at me in New Jersey, but I just laughed it off. "People have been really nice so far. I've never been turned down when I ask someone for gas or ask to pitch my tent in their yard." "In Western Kentucky and Illinois, people will wave at me a lot," Kociela said. "This is really encouraging. Even though he has thought about giving up, Kociela believes he will make it. "It's very tough and lonely at times. But I'd definitely recommend this to someone else. I would even do it again myself."

DEATH BY INJECTION

By The Associated Press

The chief doctors of two state prison systems Monday urged the American Medical Association to take a strong stand against physician involvement in the newest form of legal execution—death by injection.

Dr. Armond H. Start and Dr. Jay K. Harmon urged requiring doctors to supervise or administer the lethal dose would undermine medical ethics and make it harder to give inmates ordinary medical care.

Sciatica — A Painful Experience for Anyone

BY DR. Roy S. White
Doctor of Chiropractic

Sciatica, often mistaken-ly referred to as a disease, is actually a symptom of pressure on or irritation of the sciatic nerve caused by a physical injury, malfunction of the nervous system or disease.

Since the sciatic nerve is the largest and longest nerve in the human body, it is not surprising that many authorities consider it the most susceptible nerve.

While sciatica can occur in either sex, seventy-two percent of its victims are men. "He is usually chiefly caused by over-exertion, a fall down a stairway, or a kick from a mule, the result a pain. The pain may be only minor or in its first stages, or it may be so crippling and intense as to make weak athletes weep."

Pain may appear anywhere in the region of the sciatic nerve, from the low back down to the feet. Applying heat or cold to the painful area, or gulping pain-killing drugs might bring temporary relief. But the problem will remain.

Trained in spinal disorders, Dr. Roy S. White knows that nerve interference in the low back can be the cause of the problem. And his training and experience enable him to concentrate on the cause of the trouble. If the nerve interference can be eliminated, the sciatic nerve can once again function properly, eliminating the pain and discomfort normally from within.

Utopia, Ambrosia to be in concert at River Festival

Todd Rundgren's Utopia will perform in concert at 8:30 p.m. Sunday, July 27 with special guest Ambrosia.

Tickets are $5 for reserved and $7 for lawn seating.

Since the group's formation in 1974, Utopia has established a reputation for technological exploration. Utopia members include Todd Rundgren, "technological synthesizer genius" Roger Powell, bassist Kasim Sutton and drummer John Wilcox.

Formed by singer-songwriter Todd Rundgren, Utopia has toured the world for five years and recently recorded a double live album, "Back To The Bars." Utopia's third album, "Adventures in Utopia," was recorded in Utopia's own studio and is partially based on a future television show which the group intends to produce.

Ambrosia, whose recent hit "Biggest Part Of It" is currently climbing the charts, is set to perform in concert at 9 p.m.

Tickets may be charged by telephone by calling 314-996-5333.

Tickets are $9.50 for reserved and $7 for lawn seating.

Newman happy with new job

By Bill Turley

Mark Newman, the former SIU assistant baseball coach who resigned to take the head coaching job at Old Dominion University, said Thursday his new team hasn’t had a winning season in four years, but he expects that “We’ll have a good year next year.”

Newman, who in a telephone interview still hadn’t decided on a coach’s job yet, but he has some possibilities in mind, including a former SIU player. He declined to name the candidates.

But that former player may be the only person associated with Illinois that Newman may have at the Norfolk, Va. school. He wasn’t talking to anybody squad coach, but he said, although he had been talking to one prospect from Glen Ellyn but nothing was definite.

Newman said he was getting recruits from Ohio and Iowa. However, he was especially high on Terry Bell, from Ohio. Bell is a pitcher who owns a great arm and was a 400 hitter in high school, according to Newman.

He said Bell was a top player in the sixth round of the recent professional baseball draft.

Newman said he was excited about coaching at Old Dominion for several reasons, especially the future.

“The (baseball) facilities right now are not good,” he said, explaining that the team had to play at a minor league park.

He said that during his second year construction should be finished on a new, 4,000-seat baseball stadium that will be situated on the school’s campus.

“We will have the best facility in the country,” said Newman. The players were excited about the new facility, he said, and will make recruiting easier.

Newman said another thing about Old Dominion he enjoys is the area. There are no major towns, he said, and the local businesses are great.

Local businessmen recently raised $60,000 for athletics and he thinks that is a reflection of that they sponsored.

Newman said he was also impressed with the athletics program at Old Dominion. The women’s basketball team has won two national championships in the last two years. The program has only 11 sports — six for men, five for women — and Newman said this allows the administrators “to do a great job of trying to hire some good people.”

Newman said his schedule for the fall will be played at a minor league park. There is a trip to Florida planned for March, he said, and the team would play in the Detroit Tiger spring training complex then.

Dirk Johnson, the sophomore most of the East Coast Athletic Conference Newman said some of the schools on the team will play are in the South Carolina, North Carolina, North Carolina State. The Citadel, and Virginia. But Newman said his toughest competition will probably come from division rivals James Madison College.

Newman said they are always tough. They reached the NCAA playoffs last year, he said, and his team will be glad to beat them in order to advance.

Outfielders head list of 7 recruits

By Andrew Zinner

Staff Writer

Seven new baseball recruits were introduced Monday by head coach Ithch Jones. Three outfielders, a pitcher and catcher, and two infielders will attend SIU-C this fall. Three of these are local products and the others are Southern Illinois high school graduates.

The recruits will be called on to fill 11 spots that were left unoccupied by the 22 players who had decided not to return to the 1980 team.

Kurt Reid, a left-handed hitting outfielder from Monmouth College in Kirkwood, Mo., is counted on to fill the shoes of five starters (Kevin House, Jim Adduci, Gerry Miller, Mike Fiala) and two pitchers (Bob Hume and Bob Schrock).

Zawadski is a left-handed hitting centerfielder with excellent speed and defensive ability, Jones said. He added that he is a good average hitter, and should give us the speed we need for centerfield.

Zawadski is currently playing in the Cape Cod League. According to the local boosters are great.
