Barringer: need strong comptroller

By David L. Mahsman
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Dean Barringer, Democratic candidate for state comptroller, Thursday night called for the newly-created office of comptroller to be given a stronger hand in handling state expenditures.

Speaking at a $25-a-plate dinner in his honor in the SIU Student Center, Barringer said he wants the state General Assembly to vote for complete pre-audit authority for the comptroller over all branches of state government. This would mean that the comptroller must approve all state purchases before they could be made.

"The new constitution sets authority for accounting procedures with the General Assembly," Barringer noted. "The comptroller must have authority to require agencies and departments to follow sound principles of accounting and internal control. The strongest safeguard would be to give the comptroller clear pre-audit authority over all branches of government."

Currently, the state auditor of public accounts, which will be replaced by the comptroller under the 1970 Illinois Constitution, has pre-audit authority over some 35 per cent of the state's purchases. The auditor must sign the checks for the remaining purchases after they have already been made.

"When the comptroller is presented with a bill to pay, he must do what any individual does," Barringer said. "He must be satisfied the bill is valid, that the merchandise has been received or the service performed. When an agency presents a voucher to the auditor for payment, that agency is certifying that the work was performed or the material was delivered as ordered."

The first state comptroller in Illinois history will be sworn into office on Jan. 8, 1973. He will be the state's chief fiscal control officer charged with maintaining the central fiscal accounts, a job similar to keeping the balance in a checkbook, according to Barringer.

Kent State legal director joins SIU

By Sue Roll
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

John W. Huffman, former director of the legal affairs office at Kent State University, has joined the staff of legal counsel at SIU.

Huffman started work Monday as assistant to Legal Counsel T. Richard Mager. Mager has two other full-time assistant legal counsels, Irving Adams and Robert Artz, and another assigned to the office part-time, Lawrence Auten.

The University currently is involved in at least four major legal actions, including a suit filed by the American Civil Liberties Union on behalf of Douglas M. Allen, assistant professor of philosophy, who was denied tenure by the Board of Trustees, and a suit filed by C. Harvey Gardiner, research professor of history who has charged he was denied a pay raise because of his political activity.

The University also is appealing a circuit court decision on parking regulations and withholding of parking fines from paychecks, and damage suits are expected to be filed in connection with the recent construction crane accident in which a student was killed.

Mager said Huffman's position on the legal staff had been approved for some time "because of the demand for the service of this office." He said the recent sprouting of lawsuits has obviously increased the workload for the legal office but that the need for a fourth legal counsel was apparent long before the recent suits materialized.

"When you work 18 hours a day six or seven days a week for weeks in a row you realize that there are things that need to be done that you just aren't getting around to," he said.

Mager said the legal counsel office is not able to devote time to preventive law.

"We're having to spend all our time beating out the brush fires that keep popping up all over the place, he said." And most of these are old problems that have been lying around here for a long time. They're not new problems. They have just manifested themselves now in legal problems of one type or another."

Mager said it was "regrettable" that the University has to spend its money on this type of service, but said the office has been terribly understaffed. He also said he expects the office will continue to increase its staff in the future if the present trends continue.

Mager praised Huffman's abilities and said he was especially attractive to the University because of his diversified background.

Huffman was born and raised in Olney, and went to law school at the University of Illinois. After about six years in private law practice in Mattoon, Huffman went to Kent State in 1969, and served as executive assistant to the vice-president for student affairs, instructor of management, dean for judicial counsel and special assistant to the president for crisis operations and assistant professor of management.

Earlier this year he was named director of a newly established office of legal affairs at Kent State.

Huffman will also teach a finance course on a temporary basis this quarter.

His salary is reported to be approximately $23,000, but his appointment has not been approved by the Board of Trustees.

"I am delighted that a man with the experience and background of Mr. Huffman has been attracted to this University," Mager said.

Student opinions sought

Summer quarter to be evaluated

By Richard Lorenz
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

A questionnaire which will try to determine student opinion on summer quarter is going to be distributed to 6,000 undergraduates.

According to James Benziger, chairman of the University Senate Subcommittee on Calendar and Scheduling, the questionnaires will be distributed through the different colleges as soon as possible.

"The questionnaire might be distributed next week to the deans of the colleges," Benziger said. "The deans will be asked to distribute the questionnaires among the classes of their college."

The questionnaire is an attempt to get student opinion on what would constitute the most effective summer quarter. Special emphasis will be placed on the possibility of changing the length of summer quarter.

Students will be given a choice between a full summer quarter of approximately 11 weeks, an eight-week summer quarter or two successive terms of equal length. The students will be asked to list their preferences on a one to three scale.

"We would ask the students to only fill out one questionnaire," Benziger said. "The questionnaire might only be given to freshmen, sophomores and juniors."

Benziger said the questionnaires would be given to Roland Keene, professor in higher education. Keene would tabulate the results.

In addition to the undergraduate opinion, Benziger said, Dean Stuck, assistant dean of graduate studies in the College of Education, will send the questionnaire to several thousand graduate students and teachers who might attend SIU summer quarter.

The questionnaires are another part of the subcommittee's attempt to get some input about summer quarter. Previously, the subcommittee sent questionnaires to all deans and department heads.

"Roughly ten per cent of the deans

Gus

Gus says it ought to tell you something when a university fires teachers and hires lawyers.

favored the present system," Benziger said. "About 45 per cent favored two equal sessions and about 45 per cent favored one, eight-week session."

Benziger has proposed that the summer quarters be split into two, six-week terms or one eight-week and one four-week terms.

Under a six-week plan, the class periods would probably be extended to 75 minutes. Also, the classes would probably meet more often than they do during the other three quarters.

"I have found 75 minutes excellent for teaching," Benziger said. "We used to have an eight-week session. This was changed by President Morris."

Benziger said Morris changed the length of summer quarter to the present 11-week session in order to have a more efficient use of the University.

Benziger has stated that a change in summer quarter would give students a choice which they do not have now—to attend school for only part of the summer. He has also said that the faculty would have more options under a change.

Polish director Jerry Skolimowski's surrealistic fantasy "Barrier" studies the generation gap in modern Poland. Starring Joanna Szoerbic and Jan Nowicki, "Barrier" will be shown Friday at 7:30 p.m. on Channel 8 as part of the Film Odyssey series.

7:30—Film Odyssey, "Barrier." Jerry Skolimowski's film is a satire adventure from modern Poland. The young filmmaker, a contemporary of Roman Polanski, shows the generation gap in Poland in the postwar years. The film begins with a medical student winning a drinking contest in his university dormitory and then seeking adventure in the streets. The enemy in the film is complacency, which is fought through the student's deadpan eccentricity. Through the film and through his ignoring of reality, Skolimowski shows how the youth of a nation are filled with the energy to fight apathy.

'Gallery 51' art exhibits open

The new art gallery, called "Gallery 51," will open Friday in the old bookstore in the Student Center, Dotti Davis, co-chairman of the cultural affairs committee of the Student Government Activities Council said Thursday.

Ms. Davis said that the gallery derives its name from the fact that before the Student Center was built, U.S. 51 ran through the site of the building.

The first exhibit, she said, will be a collection of oil paintings by Larry Clark, student in the SIU Department of Art. The Clark paintings will be on display for two weeks, she said.

Ms. Davis said that a gallery committee composed of representatives from the Student Center, the Department of Art and art students will be responsible for selecting exhibits for "Gallery 51."

Anyone may exhibit work in the gallery, which has about 40 feet of wall space, said Ms. Davis, who is also chairman of the "Gallery 51" committee.

Post office in Center opens

By Daryl Stephenson
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The new self-service mini-post office in the south end of the Student Center is now open, James Sheppard, assistant director of the Center, said Thursday.

The mini-post office, had been scheduled to open in February but delays in installation of equipment had caused a postponement of the opening.

The facility is completely automated, said Sheppard, and contains a stamp dispenser, a dollar bill changer, a machine for buying letters, cards and envelopes and a weighing device for packages. It is open 24-hours per day.

Sheppard said the mini-post office also has a parcel post drop.

The mini-post office is under the supervision of the Carbondale Post Office. Sheppard said an employee from the Post Office is now on hand to see that all the equipment performs well.

Currently, he said, it has not yet been decided whether the mini-post office will handle campus mail. However, the mail drop at the Information Desk will continue until such a decision is made.

IC hikes rates by 7 per cent

CHICAGO (AP) — The Illinois Central Railroad was authorized Thursday to raise its commuter fares 7 per cent.

The rail-line applied to the Illinois Commerce Commission for the fare hike a year ago.

The company said the new rates will be effective as soon as new tariffs can be filed with the commission.

The action covers commuter train service in the Chicago area.

SIU student injured in motorcycle mishap

A SIU student riding a motorcycle was injured Thursday night when another SIU student driving an automobile pulled in front of him. The Jackson County sheriff's office said the accident occurred at 8 p.m. on old Rt. 13 in front of Midland Inn.

Injured in the accident was Edwin H. Lindberg, of East Orange, New Jersey. The driver of the car was David Passoni, of Taylorville, Ill. Lindberg was taken to Doctors

Memorial Hospital. Late Thursday a hospital spokesman said Lindberg suffered a broken leg and several cuts and scratches.

A spokesman for the Jackson County sheriff said Passoni had turned off old Rt. 13 into the Midland Inn parking area crossing the path of Lindberg who was traveling in the opposite direction on the same road.

Derge says city can grow

SIU President David R. Derge told the Carbondale Chamber of Commerce that the city's All-America City award can be a psychological spur to help the community grow and diversify its industry.

Derge spoke at the Chamber of Commerce quarterly meeting Wednesday, recalling his experiences and impressions in Bloomington, Ind., also an All-America City award winner, where he served on the city council and where he was a vice president of Indiana University.

An All-America City should be thought of as a state of mind and not a tangible asset, Derge said.

Bloomington's business and industry grew with the help of Indiana University, Derge said, and Carbondale can look to SIU for the same kind of help and opportunity in making the most of its resources.

New deadline set for civil service election petitions

The deadline for the return of nominating petitions for the April 12 election of members to the Nonacademic Employees Council has been extended from March 20 to April 3.

According to Lee Hester, chairman of the council, only permanent nonacademic civil service employees may vote and/or be nominated to the council.

He said petitions are needed for one to be eligible to run in the election and ten signatures are needed on each petition.

Petitions may be picked up at the Personnel Office, 803 S. Elizabeth St., or from any member of the council. The signed petitions must be returned to any member of the council or to the Personnel Office by April 3. More information may be obtained by calling Al Schweigel at the Personnel Office at 453-5334.

Sunshine patriots?

"The summer soldier and the sunshine patriot will, in this crisis, shrink from the service of their country, but he that stands it now deserves the love and thanks of man and woman."

It was nearly two centuries ago that Thomas Paine wrote these words that helped start the Revolutionary War. Ironically, those same words are now the official inspiration for an organization that opposes a war waged by the government Paine was so instrumental in creating.

Vietnam Veterans Against The War (VVAW) is an organization that believes its members are "winter soldiers," men serving their country in a time of crisis.

VVAW members, it seems, have returned from one war to fight another. They are on a search and destroy mission. They are trying to seek out American complacency concerning the Vietnam war and kill it before it kills the nation.

The VVAW demands an immediate withdrawal from Vietnam. They see no honor in gradual withdrawal. They believe five deaths a week is as bad as 500—if the war is an immoral one.

The "winter soldiers" use various psychological warfare tactics. They provide speakers to anyone who will listen. They stage mock battles to bring the horror of war closer to home.

We hear most about the VVAW when some of its members stage headline grabbing events. Through network television, the entire nation has seen them stage mock battles on the "sacred" battlefields of Valley Forge and seize a floor in the "hallowed" State of Liberty.

Last April the VVAW shocked the nation when hundreds of its members came to Washington D.C. to throw away their medals. Military decorations, a nation's highest honor to its soldiers, were tossed in the dirt.

And what about the rest of the Vietnam Veterans? Why are they so silent? What about the men who were in Vietnam and hated it and yet are not heard? Are such men shirking their duties to the rest of the nation by remaining silent?

Today such men are classified as silent, unsung heroes who came home from war and tried to forget. History may regard that same group as sunshine patriots, men who were too complacent and turned their backs on their country for selfish personal reasons.

In the future, if our nation is lucky enough to have one, our children may come to us and ask, "Daddy, what did you do to help end the war?"

Chauvinists made, not born

By Nick Howell
Student Writer

An open letter to women, in general, Women's Lib and my wife, in particular, and fellow male chauvinists, as an afterthought.

It is evident that women haven't been getting a fair shake for a long time, so, over the expressed disapproval of my wife, I have decided to write this letter explaining the attitude of many male chauvinists.

You see, ladies, we male chauvinists sympathize with you—we really do—and we are trying to change our attitude; but it takes time.

Your sex has been exploited far and wide—especially in the field of advertising. The insipid, idiotic TV advertisement expounding Geritol is a farce and a slam against womanhood. To say, "I think I'll keep her," is a blatant attempt at subjugation of women. Do you think the guy in the commercial would trade her in on a newer model like a used car?

Psychologist Robert Lajonc says, "Associating so many products with sex gives sex an unprecedented amount of exposure. Does this really increase sales, or does it only make potential customers more interested in sex?" It seems as if advertisers, in the name of increasing sales, are making Americans the horniest consumers in the world.

Women don't get a fair shake in the working world, either. Both unions and employers treat women as if they were inferior. It is interesting to note that there are virtually no women in national labor union nierarchies, except in one teacher's union where four of twenty leaders are women.

It is a well known fact that women get the shaft when applying for jobs, too. Although it is illegal to discriminate against sex in job applications, many personnel departments have skirted the law by classifying jobs as "heavy" or "light". You know who gets the lower paying "light" jobs with no possibility of attaining the better paying, so called, "heavy" jobs.

In defense of we "chauvinist" males, who realize the inequities that exist, I say that we are trying to change. You have done an outstanding job in bringing it to our attention, but ladies, it takes a long time to change a deeprooted opinion.

You see, women, since the time they are old enough to know the difference between the sexes, try to look attractive to men in a basically sexual way. Since women try to look attractive to men, we men are imprinted by increased exposure to this sexual attractiveness. As soon as men are old enough to know the difference, we are taught that women are merely sexual objects.

I have been viewing women as such for 27 years, and it's damn difficult to change. Even though I am married—for reasons that are higher and larger than mere sex—it's hard for me not to "check out" a well turned, miniskirted leg or an open cleavage that is designed to do just that.

So, ladies, please forgive us for committing that grossest of sins, ogling, when we have been taught just that all our lives—things will change.

Letter to the editor

Open letter to Nixon

To the Daily Egyptian:

Dear President Nixon

I am writing to request that the Canut-Amoros hearings be made public. I am enclosing recent newspaper clippings on her case to update you on events in case you are not aware of these happenings.

The overview of my sex discrimination case is also attached. As you can see, I do have a personal interest in the findings. However, the results will have far-reaching effects for all women faculty. Having been in the United States only a few years, Marisa's faith in our system is admirable.

Since it took one year for Marisa's findings to be released and since there are 44 other complainants ahead of me, I will be dead before any decision is reached. But at least give her a break and a few other women as their turn in line occurs to be taken representatives of Caucasian women faculty in U.S. universities and colleges.

By Tom DiFilippo
Student Writer

It is believed by many experts that this epidemic could be brought under control by case finding. One main obstacle is that the federal government has not been willing to spend enough money in this area. In 1962, the U.S. Surgeon General created a major stir when he commented on the rising incidents of syphilis in this country.

To date some $6.3 million has been dispensed annually, largely to pay for the case finders. But this expenditure has not kept pace with the inflation and the situation is as bad as ever. In 1970 and 1971 syphilis cases rose eight and 16 per cent, respectively.

Another problem is the lack of education. Many teachers are not comfortable about teaching this subject matter and have not done so.

A recent clash occurred in Highland, Ind., when the school board wanted to initiate a sex education class where sex and related subjects would not be taught in a moralistic manner.

The board wanted a free discussion on all topics without the usual do's and don'ts. The largely Dutch population objected to the program on the basis that there was to be no religious teaching associated with the class. They felt this was a necessity and almost brought about the collapse of the entire program.

What the sex education programs throughout the nation need is a breakaway from the traditional moralistic approach. They should give the students something they can remember on a Saturday evening, not on a test.

What is also needed is a campaign like the ones that helped to conquer heart disease and produce polio vaccines.

As the Newsweek article stated, "if men started to get pregnant or a dozen senators came down with paresis, we would have all the money that was needed."

Sometimes the more drastic the measure, the speedier the results. But should men really have to get pregnant in order to get something done?

Recently, in the District of Columbia, a nine-year-old girl was treated in a public health clinic for an advanced case of syphilis. The girl had contracted the disease from her 13-year-old boyfriend.

A high school coach in Los Angeles had a winning team until this year. But now his players were not responding correctly. The trouble was not ironed out on the chalk board but in a public health clinic. Nine members of the team had gonorrhoea. Subsequent checking found 48 other boys and girls from the same high school who had VD.

A 35-year-old businessman contracted syphilis. He admitted to having an extramarital affair and listed four possible women from whom he might have contracted VD. All leads proved false. As it turned out, he had contracted the disease from his wife, who was also having an affair.

These are not isolated incidents. There is a growing epidemic of venereal disease throughout the nation. A recent Newsweek article entitled, VD: The Epidemic, brought to light some very startling facts.

Syphilis and gonorrhoea are outranked in incidence only by the common cold. VD is now among the so-called reportable communicable diseases, and in 1972 an estimated 624,000 new cases of gonorrhoea will be reported. But one must also consider the fact that four cases occur for every one reported. This figures out to a projected total of more than two million cases in 1972.

Public attitudes towards VD, which range from ignorance to downright repugnance, help to make the current epidemic worse.

There are doctors in the Illinois Health Clinic, according to the Newsweek article, "who don't want anything to do with VD, treatment or otherwise."

The Newsweek article went on to state the roots of this VD epidemic are the "three P's—the pill, promiscuity and permissiveness."

Leader admirably suited to the times.

The New Leader was a short, dark, intense man. An avowed racist, he headed a small Southern party. His initial attempts to depose The Old Leaders failed miserably. For he had little nationwide appeal.

At first, The Old Leaders laughed at him. The intellectuals poked fun at him. The bureaucrats ignored him. The experts wrote him off as merely another Southern demagogue.

But as the malaise that infected the country deepened, so did The New Leader's appeal.

Partly it was his racism. It made some people feel better to think they were inherently superior to the minorities in their midst.

But mostly it was his uncanny ability to capitalize on the people's distrust of Their Old Leaders and their disillusionment with The Old Answers to the country's growing problems.

The New Leader was a fiery, spell-binding speaker. His rallies were masterpieces of showmanship. His vote grew. His crowds swelled. And he told them what they wanted to hear.

He told them all their troubles were caused by Their Old Leaders and the intellectuals and the bureaucrats and the experts and the fuzzy-minded way they were running things.

And he told them that once in power, he would throw out these lily-livered nincompoops and with a firm hand restore Law and Order, the Old Values and National Pride.

For what he promised the people was what they desperately wanted in these times of vague unease, obscure fears and nameless forebodings. He promised them Authority.

And so it was, on January 3, 1933, that Adolph Hitler became Chancellor of Germany.

Once upon a time, the country was in terrible shape. The people were filled with vague unease, obscure fears and nameless forebodings.

For they had lost faith in Their Old Leaders.

Their Old Leaders had sent their sons off, flags flying, to fight a Glorious War. But it had been long and bloody and now it all seemed for naught.

And the people felt betrayed by Their Old Leaders. They felt, too, that Law and Order had broken down. Riots and demonstrations swept the land. The people no longer felt safe in their homes and streets. Yet it seemed nothing was done.

And the people blamed Their Old Leaders.

Unemployment was widespread. Inflation spiraled. Taxes soared. No matter how hard an honest man worked, Big Business and Big Government took it all away.

So the people cursed Their Old Leaders.

All around them, too, the people saw Their Old Values crumbling. Artists painted pictures the people couldn't comprehend. Satirical plays attacked the traditional virtues and even National Pride. The movie screens showed little but nakedness, violence and decadence. And the young were wrathful and rebellious, going off on strange new paths the people didn't understand.

To the people, the country appeared rootless and drifting, being carried along by mysterious currents to God-knows-what frightening depths with no one in control. And Their Old Leaders just kept saying The Old Answers would work.

But the people no longer believed Their Old Leaders.

Then, in the South, a New Leader arose—a New

Two workshops scheduled at Outdoor Laboratory

By University News Service

Two Conservation and Outdoor Education Workshops offering graduate credit will be held at the Outdoor Laboratory at SIU this summer.

Principal goal, according to Paul F. Nowak, chairman of conservation and outdoor education, will be to assist leaders in implementation of conservation and outdoor education programs in schools, parks, social agencies and nature centers.

Each course, COED 510 and COED 596, offers four quarter hours of credit. Course 510 will be held June 12-23 and the second will be from June 26 to July 7. The courses will feature field trips, films, guest speakers, independent research and group discussions, and will focus upon philosophical and historical development in the field, ecological concepts and field studies, current environmental issues and problems, and curriculum and field planning.

Room and board at the site will be available. There are also nearby camping sites. A pre-registration fee of $5 should accompany registration forms. Fee deadline is June 1. Tuition may be paid at the first class meeting. Evidence of eligibility for graduate credit should accompany registration form.

IPIRG sets Friday meeting to outline plans for quarter

The SIU chapter of the Illinois-Public Interest Research Group (IPIRG) will meet at 5 p.m. Friday in Activity Room C of the Student Center in order to outline its plans for spring quarter.

Bob Peele, president of the organization, said the meeting will deal with topics concerning consumer research surveys. The regular meeting will be open to the public. An executive session will follow the regular meeting.

According to Peele, the organization is composed of graduate and undergraduate students, faculty, an engineer and some lawyers. The lawyers are working on a voluntary basis, said Peele.

IPIRG's function is to provide students with an active voice in legislation, lobbying and court actions. The organization is funded by a $1.35 fee collected from each student when quarter fees are paid. The SIU chapter of IPIRG is allied with a chapter at the University of Illinois.

Seeing, not believing

What you see is not necessarily what you have to pay, at least not yet. This parking lot south of Grand Avenue and west of the Illinois Central Railroad tracks will remain free, the sign notwithstanding, until meters are installed by the city. When that occurs, this lot will join three companion lots leased by the city from the railroad in offering parking within easy access to the University. But, until then, it will likely remain the most heavily patronized of the four. (Photo by Jay Needleman)

Education sets appointment dates

Students in the College of Education are to pick up appointments for advisement for summer quarter next week—not to register, as reported in Thursday's Daily Egyptian.

Mary White, office supervisor, said that seniors can pick up their appointments on Wednesday, juniors on Thursday and all other students on Friday.

Students must supply proof of their class standing, she said. The appointments will be available in Wham 110.

Play tryouts for 'Grendel' set Monday

Tryouts for John Gardner's "Grendel" will be at 8 p.m. Monday in the Main office of the Speech Department.

Gardner, author of the novel, is an instructor in the English Department. The production is an adaptation of his book. The book deals with the Beowulf myth which says that Beowulf saved the Danes by killing the monster Grendel.

The production is the story from the monster's point of view. To the Grendels way of thinking the Danes were not worth saving; mankind would be better off without civilization and the whole Beowulf thing was an accident.

Louis Ceci, director of the production, said that students from all levels and departments are being sought for parts in the production. He said there are at least 10 male and three female roles open.

The production is being done in conjunction with Alternative '72 and will be put on May 4-7 in the Calipre Theater.

Navy recruiters to speak here

Navy recruiters will visit SIU April 4-6 to explain the Navy's officer programs for students attending colleges where no Naval Reserve Officer Training Corps (NROTC) programs are available. The recruiters will be in the Iroquois and Saline Rooms, Student Center, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Two of the programs are the Reserve Officer Candidate (ROC) and Aviation Reserve Officer Candidate (AVROC). Lieutenant Junior Grade Lawrence A. Dennis, head of the recruiting team said these programs allow college freshmen to enlist in the Naval Reserve. Participating students do not have to attend weekly or monthly drills, but they must attend college full time and maintain at least a C average.

Dennis said that the students spend eight weeks at officer candidate school the summer after their junior year.

show will be Jeanna McFarland, Sylvia Zei, Diane Korpitz and Pam Loftman, all members of the Southern Repertory Dance Company.

Movies on the dance will be presented at various times throughout the quarter. The objectives of the dance workshop are to give an idea of theater, to give a chance to be more more physically fit and to have alot of fun.

Ministers award eight in art show

By Sue Millen
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Eight places were awarded Wednesday evening at the Wesley Community House for entries in the all-campus Liturgical Art Show sponsored by the Campus Ministers Association.

Karen Lynn Pittman won first place for her work entitled "Trinity." Janice Hannagan took second place with "For We Have Been Saved Though Only in Hope." "Polymorph No. 3" by Don Manning placed third. Four students received honorable mention. They were: Cheri Johnson, "Opus No. 1;" Greg Pelzoni, "Fresh Green Hearts;" Mike Chancey, "Masculine One" and M. Wood, "Thessalonians 5:8." Sally Lorenz won the Newman Foundation Purchase Award. All entries had to conform to the theme of "hope."

James Sullivan, judge for the event, said that he was impressed with the quality of work submitted.

"The theme hope," he said, "is today an especially appropriate one. In selecting the awards I attempted to choose those works which most closely incorporated the expressive spirit of the theme hope, while also demonstrating compositional and structural excellence."

The exhibit will be open to the public until Thursday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Wesley Community House.

The Campus Ministry is also sponsoring other festivities for the Easter weekend. Friday at 9 p.m. in the Newman Center there will be a multi-media interpretation of the rock opera, "Jesus Christ Superstar."

Also slated for Friday is a concert at the Lutheran Student Center at 8 p.m. "The St. Matthew Passion" by Heinrich Schutz and Solemn Good Friday Prayers led by "Collegium Musicum," directed by John Boe, will be featured.

On Saturday the Jesus People will lead a "Rally-Offering" in the back of the Newman Center at 8 p.m.

A special Easter service musical program will be held at the Unitarian Fellowship Church at 10:30 a.m. Sunday. Performers will be Jervis Underwood and Lawrence Dennis on the flute, recorder and piano. They will perform pieces by Cluck Bach, Rubbra, Edmund and Hindemith.

Also on Sunday, the SIU Drama Department will present two one-act plays by Eugene O'Neill, "Before Breakfast" and "Anna Christie." The plays will be held in the basement of St. Andrews Episcopal church.

Information on individual church services can be obtained by calling the respective denominations centers. Information on the Passover services can also be received by calling the Hillel Foundation.

Celebrity Series adds international ice show

Paul Hibbs, director of the Celebrity Series at SIU, announced the addition of "Biljana," an international ice show, to this year's program.

"Biljana" is a dance presentation in colorful costumes on ice skates. It will be presented in Shryock Auditorium, at 8 p.m. Sunday.

Hibbs said the dance show was obtained when it was learned there was an open date available on the company's tour of the U.S.

Tickets may be obtained at the Central Ticket Office in the Student Center. Prices are $1.50, $2 and $3 for SIU students and $2, $3 and $4 for others.

Other attractions in this year's program are John Raitt in "Carousel," at 8 p.m., April 16 and Duke Ellington, May 14. Both will be in Shryock Auditorium.

Citizens to establish goals for Carbondale

By Barry Cleveland
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

A series of meetings designed to determine goals for the Carbondale area will continue next week, with public hearings set for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, Donald Monty, coordinator of the Goals for Carbondale program, said Tuesday.

Public response to two meetings held last week was spirited but limited to a small turnout, which Monty attributed to the quarter break.

The need for more and better housing and for better recreational facilities dominated discussion at those meetings, he said.

In a statement released earlier this month and also signed by program chairman Basil C. Hedrick, Monty said the program steering committee has been pleased by public response to the program but is "concerned that some citizens still feel that they have been unable to provide any meaningful input for the goals program."

The series of 15 hearings by five program subcommittees was planned in order to stimulate further public input into the program. Interested individuals are invited to present their ideas about what goals Carbondale should strive for at the hearings, the statement said.

Members of Goals committees will be available to talk with clubs and organizations during March, April and May.

The Goals program "is based solely on the belief that the citizens of the community need to provide their government agencies with the goals which they, the citizens, want for their community," the statement said.

"What would you like Carbondale to be like five, ten, 20 years from now? What about the environment, facilities, health care, code enforcement, transportation systems, government structure, education, culture, recreation, safety, etc.?" the statement said.

The schedule for public hearings: Facility planning and utilization of the physical environment: 8 p.m., April 17, Carbondale Savings and Loan Association; and 7 p.m., May 1, Newman Center.

Human relations, community interaction and social concern: 8 p.m., April 4, Attucks; 8 p.m., April 17, Newman Center; and 8 p.m., May 2, Carbondale Savings and Loan.

Government structure and revenues, economic growth: 7 p.m., April 3, Newman Center; 7 p.m.,

April 17, Attucks; and 7 p.m., May 1, Carbondale Savings and Loan.

Education, culture and recreation: 8 p.m., April 5, City Hall; and 8 p.m., April 19, Newman Center.

Transportation systems and urban design: 7 p.m., April 10, Newman Center; and 7 p.m., April 24, Carbondale Savings and Loan.

Monty invited all segments of the community to make their views known to the committee by submitting a written statement, testifying at the public hearings or by inviting a goals committee member to meet with clubs and organizations.

Egyptian Council to honor former Eagle Scouts

SIU students, faculty and staff members who are former Eagle Scouts will be honored at a Boy Scout breakfast at 7:15 a.m. April 13 in the Student Center Ballrooms.

The breakfast is being sponsored by the Egyptian Council of the Boy Scouts of America.

Tickets for the breakfast are $25 each which entitles the purchaser to a sustaining membership with the Egyptian Boy Scout Council. Profits from the breakfast will be used to expand the scouting program in Southern Illinois.

Speakers for the breakfast will be SIU President David R. Derge and John E. King, chairman of the Department of Higher Education and a member of the national Boy Scout Council.

Kenneth Miller, executive director of the SIU Foundation and publicity director of the breakfast, said that a list of university personnel who hold the Eagle Scout award has been compiled. He said that those university personnel who are Eagle Scouts and are not on the list should contact the Boy Scout Office in Herrin.

Also, he said, student Eagle Scouts interested in attending the breakfast should contact Clarence G. Dougherty, director of the Student Center, for reservations.

Lipizzan stallions highlight versatile 50-horse show

By Sue Millen
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The Wonderful World of Horses featuring 50 stallions including Royal Lipizzan Stallions, Andalusians, Morgans, Saddlebreds, Thoroughbreds, Palominos, Arabians and other breeds of show horses comes to the SIU arena at 8 p.m. Tuesday.

Produced by twin brothers Gary and Philip Lashinsky, the show mainly features 24 Lipizzan stallions. Among the many little known facts concerning this rare breed is they are born grey or brown, and do not turn white until they are 10 or 12 years old.

The horses are renowned for performing amazing feats of balance including "Airs Above the Ground,"

"Courbette," "Levade," "Capriole," "Pesade" and "Croupade." When first used 400 years ago, these maneuvers were tactics of war. Horsemen trained the intelligent Lipizzans in such a way to inspire terror in the enemy.

Currently on its third national tour of the United States and Canada, the show has been performed before over 2,000,000 spectators.

The opening number for the four-part production is the "Dixie Jubilee," featuring Morgan horses and Palominos. Riders will be dressed in 19th century, southern style costumes. A harness presentation and a solo high school presentation featuring the American Morgan horse will also be done.

A special salute to the American Morgan horse is another featured production of the show. The American Morgan horse, considered the most versatile breed of horses in North America, will have a three part number.

Part one is the story of Justin Morgan and Figure, the first Morgan horse. Part two will be the famous Morgan in history. Part three will be the Morgans of today featuring steps and movements of the American Morgan horse in Haute E'cole.

A Russian Winterland, with the costumes of 18th and 19th century Russia, will be presented by the Bale family. Horses pulling sleighs,

Student workers group to hear job complaints

The Student Workers Association will meet at 4 p.m. Sunday in the Activities Room of the Student Center.

Diane Oltman, east side non-dorm student senator, said the purpose of the organization is to provide a service to student workers for gripes or complaints about their jobs.

Miss Oltman said in the future the group hopes to publish a news letter to be distributed with pay checks and will try to seek recognition as a local of a national labor union. She said the group will be working closely with the University administrators and will be in contact with the American Civil Liberties Union.

All interested students are invited to attend.

Med school test slated May 6

The spring, 1972, administration of the Medical College Admission Test (MCAT) will be offered in Muckelroy Auditorium Saturday, May 6. Deadline for applications is April 14.

The MCAT, conducted by the Psychological Corporation, is for applicants applying for entrance to medical schools in the fall of 1973, according to Harley Bradshaw of the SIU Testing Center.

A copy of the 1972 announcement containing specific information about the MCAT and a description of the annually revised book, "Medical School Admission Requirements, U.S.A. and Canada," are available at the Testing Center, Washington Square, Building C, Telephone 536-3303.

buggies and some horseback riding acts will be included. Background music from Tchaikovsky and other Russian composers will also be used.

For the children, the Lashinsky producers have planned a story about a magic horse. The story involves the search for a magic horse by a little girl named Wendy. She goes to sleep dreaming of finding the magic horse. Almost like an Alice in Wonderland fantasy, she searches for the magic horse and encounters many people and animals, but finally finds the magic horse, who delights her fantasy and imagination.

Other small acts in the show are Albert Ostermaier, the Smaha Family, Edith Evans, Charles Skelton, the Bale Family and comedy by Maynard and Cristiana.

Tickets for The Wonderful World of Horses are now on sale at Penney's, Sav-Mart, Tempo, the Arena and the Student Center. Tickets are priced at $3, $4 and $5 with a discount of $1 on all ticket prices available to those under 16.

Committee to study abolition of textbook rental service

The Executive Committee of the University Senate will meet at 4 p.m. Monday to appoint the members of an ad hoc committee to study the possibility of abolishing the textbook rental service.

At the March meeting of the senate, approval was given to a motion which stated that the ad hoc committee consist of three faculty, three undergraduates and Ralph McCoy, dean of library affairs. The ad hoc committee would then make a study of the rental service with the possibility of eliminating the service for the junior- and senior-level books. A report from the committee would be made no later than the May senate meeting.

The executive committee will also decide the agenda for the April 10 senate meeting.

Rock chief given re-trial

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—A new trial for the chief promotor of the Kickapoo Creek Rock Festival was ordered Thursday by the Illinois Supreme Court.

The court held that the promotor, L. David Lewis, on whose Heyworth-area farm the mass gathering was held over the 1970 Memorial Day weekend, had been denied a jury trial in his criminal contempt case. He was convicted of defying a court ban on the festival.

Drawing thousands of young people, some of whom lounged nude, puffing on marijuana cigarettes, the event exploded into a controversy that raged for months in central Illinois.

Lewis was fined $10,000 and ordered jailed for a year by a Circuit Court in McLean County. Kickapoo Creek, Inc., of which he was president, was fined $20,000. It also was granted a new trial by the high court.

Near the close of the Circuit Court case, the prosecutor urged a severe fine and jail term for Lewis. At this his lawyer interjected he had been under the impression that the trial was merely a petty offense hearing. The attorney argued that Lewis had not waived his right to a jury trial.

The high court held that Lewis was "convicted of a serious offense entitling him to a jury trial unless waived and this right is also afforded to the corporate defendant for its fine exceeded $500."

There was no proof, the court ruled, "that Lewis knowingly or expressly waived the right to a jury trial by remaining silent during the proceedings."

Chief Justice Robert C. Underwood, who lives in Bloomington where the trial took place, did not take part in the deliberations.

SIU students to run in county board race

By David L. Mahsman
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Jackson County voters will go to the polls Tuesday to elect a new county board of supervisors, and two SIU students and a recent SIU graduate are among the 28 candidates seeking the 14 seats on the board.

William "Bill" Kelley and George Crane are the students on Tuesday's ballot. Thomas Bevirt, another candidate, received a degree in speech at SIU a year ago. Kelley is a senior majoring in government, and Crane is a doctoral candidate, also in government.

In an interview Thursday, all three agreed that the big question in this election is whether students will be interested enough to vote Tuesday. The three are counting heavily on student support to win their bids for election.

Kelley said the county board is an important body because it handles an annual budget of some $1.8 million, can impose taxes such as a mobile home tax and imposes county liquor laws. Bevirt added that the board controls nearly 200 county jobs.

"Who is getting these jobs?" Bevirt asked. "Blacks? The young? Students? I think not, although their tax money is certainly contributing to the support of this county."

Bevirt also said that students should take interest because the county board has the power to appoint interim county officials. As an example, Bevirt said that if something should happen to County Clerk Delmar Ward, the current Republican-dominated board could appoint someone not so sympathetic to registering students to vote. Bevirt, Crane and Kelley are Democrats. There are no students running on the Republican ticket.

All three candidates said they hope to bring the students' point of view to the county board. They also emphasized getting more citizen participation in board affairs.

"Prior to this, the board has been a closed corporation," Crane said. "There has been a lack of communication between the board members and the public. I want to publicize open meetings and hold them at convenient times for the public."

Kelley, who is 22, said he is running for a seat on the board to bring new ideas and younger representation to the body.

Bevirt, who lost a bid for a seat on the board by a narrow margin a year ago, said he is stressing "sensible zoning, a better relief program, citizen participation and more state and federal programs" in his campaign. He added that public officials should take the side of the public before such bodies as the Illinois Commerce Commission in cases involving utility companies.

Crane said that his platform includes establishing a county-sponsored day care center and an effective county billboard ordinance.

Bevirt and Crane are both running in the fifth district, which consists of Carbondale precincts 15, 16 and 17. They said that precinct 15 is split between Republicans and Democrats, precinct 16 is Republican-dominated and precinct 17 is nearly 100 per cent student voters.

Kelley is running from the seventh district, composed of Carbondale precincts 2, 3 and 18. He said that precinct 2 is split between Republicans and Democrats if students are not considered, precinct 3 has over 500 new student voters (more voters than voted in the entire district in the last board election) and precinct 18 is two to one Republican.

The county board currently has 26 members, but an entirely new board of 14 members will be elected Tuesday. The board recently reappointed itself, creating seven districts with two board members in each district. Board members elected Tuesday will take office May 1.

Here is a list of all the candidates in Jackson County as released by Jackson County Clerk Delmar Ward:

District 1 (consisting of Bradley, Ora, Vergennes, Elk, Levan and DeSoto Townships and two precincts of Somerset Township): Democrats—Louise Wolfe and Alvin Lange (both are incumbents); Republicans—C. E. "Buster" Brantley and James D. Gillmore.

District 2 (consisting of Degonia, Kincaide, Fountain Bluff, Makanda, Grand Tower, Pamona and Sand Ridge Townships and precincts 9 and 10 of Murphysboro Township): Democrats—Robert E. Masters and Reginald "Bo" Starnes (both are incumbents); Republicans—Mary Miesner and Wilburn Lippe (both are incumbents).

District 3 (consisting of precincts 1, 2 and 8 of Murphysboro Township and precinct 3 of Somerset Township): Democrats—Eugene Chambers and Albert Mileur; Republicans—Russell Marshall and Eugene "Lamie" LeMarchal (incumbent).

District 4 (consisting of precincts 1, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8 and 9 of Carbondale Township and precinct 11 of Murphysboro Township): Democrats—Edward O'Day and E. Lyle Sparks; Republicans—J.C. Penn and Charles E. Gray (both are incumbents).

District 5 (consisting of precincts 15, 16 and 17 of Carbondale Township): Democrats—Thomas Bevirt and George Crane; Republicans—Douglas Eriksen and Frank Bridges.

District 6 (consisting of precincts

Board candidates

10, 11, 12, 13 and 14 of Carbondale Township): Democrats—John F. H. Lonergan and Susan Casey; Republicans—Noel Stallings and John R. Gasaway (incumbent).

District 7 (consisting of precincts 2, 3 and 18 of Carbondale Township): Democrats—William "Bill" Kelley and Mildred Harrington; Republicans—Randall Chapman and Mary Nell Chew (incumbent).

We've developed an exciting new idea and we want to share it with you. What we have is a apartment complex. Its not just another bunch of boxes, though. Far from it.

No, what we have tried to develop is a community. When you really get down to the bones of it, what we have isn't really new. Its old. We designed a neighborhood. Remember them? A place where friends were almost family and people did things together; where it was but a short walk to the corner grocery, or to the movies? We combined the great qualities of the neighborhood with the conveniences of modern living. What we created is LEWIS PARK APARTMENTS. From your apartment, its but a short walk to several fine restaurants, or to a couple of grocery stores, or to a theatre, or to a large department store. With in the apartment area itself are a swimming pool and clubhouse, a post office, a laundramat and a community building.

Each apartment is fully carpeted and fully furnished, right down to the dishwasher in the kitchen. All units are equipped with central air conditioning to beat back the Southern Illinois heat. And each is fully pre-wired for both cable TV and telephone.

The apartments have everything anyone could ask for in a home - and then some. We have designed them to be flexible so that they can easily meet the requirements of families, young couples and students. And for our non-human friends, we allow pets.

If you to accept our invitation; if you want to join us in a new/old experience, give us a call at 457-6522. We'll make an appointment for you so that you can see for yourself all we've been talking about.

New BBC TV code orders less broadcasted violence

LONDON (AP) — The British Broadcasting Corp. has ordered producers to soften violence and bloodletting on the nation's television screens—even in news bulletins.

Color television has added to the impact of violence with the sight of red blood, it emphasized.

The clampdown came in a new code of stricter rules governing television violence. It was written by David Attenborough, television programs director of the state-run broadcasting giant.

He pulled no punches. Violence for its own sake must be checked, he decreed. It "ought not to be presented in ways which might glorify it or present it as a proper solution to interpersonal conflicts," his code said.

The new code replaces one written 12 years ago. It comes amid mounting concern over television violence and permissiveness. It followed a BBC-sponsored survey that said half the television programs shown in Britain contained some violence. About 60 per cent of them were U.S. imports.

In the United States, a government-funded study cautiously concluded on Jan. 17 that television crime and violence contribute in only a small way to violence in America. Critics immediately called it a whitewash.

The BBC runs two of the country's three television channels and has had a policy of permitting greater realism—including nude love scenes—than its rival, the commercial Independent Television Authority.

Attenborough, brother of movie star Richard Attenborough, put down detailed instructions Wednesday to his producers, directors and writers on toning down violence, specially in children's programs.

Cliff-hanger serials should always show the hero to be safe because "tomorrow is a long way off, next week an eternity away" for children, he said.

Scenes showing cruelty to children, family quarrels and the death of an animal should be sparingly portrayed because things that seem trivial to adults can be tragedies for petting youngsters, his code cautioned.

Attenborough ordered a total ban on details of fights and weapons—the use of knives, broken bottles, karate chops, nooses and the locking up of prisoners in undesirable places.

He emphasized that the goodies must be seen to be good and the baddies as villains.

News bulletins and documentaries, Attenborough added, were the most difficult programs to control as violence is accepted as being news.

He ordered producers to edit out scenes of violence unless their news value outweighed the objections likely to come from viewers.

In adult drama shows, he said, violent scenes must arise "naturally from the story and not be used simply to bolster a flagging plot or give dimension to slender characterization."

Attenborough emphasized he was not advocating the BBC should portray a never-never land.

"To exclude all scenes of violence from the screen would be to falsify the picture of life presented to the viewer," he said.

Married students, spouses invited to MSAC meeting

All SIU married students and non-student spouses interested in joining the Married Students Activities Council have been invited to attend a meeting at 7:30 p.m. Sunday in the home of Dan and Judy Koehler, council co-chairmen, at 810 West Walnut.

MSAC planning sessions are held the first Monday of every month.

MSAC was created to provide organized recreational activity for SIU married students. MSAC past activities included a "Sadie Hawkins' Dance and Barbecue," bussed shopping trips to St. Louis before Christmas and an Easter Egg Hunt for the children of married students.

Future MSAC activities include a children's farm tour to be given April 15. Admission is free. MSAC will sponsor their annual "Buffalo-Tho Barbecue" later in the spring. The Married and Graduate Student Office, 433-5379, can be called for further information.

The MSAC is partially funded by an allocation from the Student Senate. Certain MSCA activities have a small admission fee.

Witness recounts 1970 shootout

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) — A sad-faced woman witness, who was held hostage in a wild shootout, wept Thursday at the Angela Davis trial as she conceded that her testimony may have been influenced by the prosecution.

Maria Graham, 50, after some two hours of cross-examination by defense attorney Howard Moore Jr., broke down and said perhaps the prosecutor had encouraged her to weep during the hours she was held hostage.

"But you didn't recall that until Mr. Harris (the prosecutor) planted the suggestion in your mind?" asked Moore.

"I guess so," the witness said tearfully.

"I hate to admit that I can be influenced so easily," Mrs. Graham said at another point.

Mrs. Graham was the state's first witness in the 28-year-old black Communist's murder-kidnap-conspiracy trial, which opened Monday. She had been questioned Wednesday by prosecutor Albert Harris Jr.

She wiped her eyes as Moore dramatically lay down on the courtroom floor and re-enacted Mrs. Graham's position in the van in which she and other hostages were locked during the shooting.

During the demonstration, she conceded that she really doesn't know who did any of the shooting.

"But the shooting was loud," Moore asked, "and glass was broken and people were screaming, is that right?" Crying visibly, Mrs. Graham whispered: "Yes."

She testified that she had "worked hard to forget" the day she was held hostage, but insisted her memory now is crystal-clear.

She clung to her recollection that Jonathan Jackson, alleged leader of the courthouse shootout, had cried out for the release of the Soledad Brothers, three unrelated black prisoners who included his brother George.

Moore sought to discredit the statement. The defense claims there was no connection between the shootout and an alleged plan to free the Soledad Brothers, held in San Quentin Prison on charges of murdering a white guard.

The state claims Miss Davis was in love with George Jackson and plotted for his freedom.

Moore asked Mrs. Graham why she had not mentioned in initial talks with law enforcement officials that both Jackson and convict James McClain had said: "Free our Soledad Brothers."

"I just remember," Mrs. Graham said, her voice trembling. "I had worked so hard to forget the whole thing that it was very difficult for me to remember when I gave the statement. No one has reminded me. No one has told me what to say."

Miss Davis is charged with plotting and supplying guns, but not with being present at the Aug. 7, 1970, courthouse shootout in which a judge and three blacks were slain.

She said in her own opening statement Wednesday there would be no evidence to link her to the crime nor to link the crime to the Soledad Brothers.

But Mrs. Graham, in her direct testimony, gave details of the judge's shooting and insisted that demands for the Soledad Brothers' freedom were repeated many times.

Turkish rebels kill two

ANKARA, Turkey (AP)—Police stormed a mountain village house Thursday and killed 10 Turkish kidnapers but not before the terrorists turned their guns on three foreign hostages and shot them to death, a government communique said.

The hostages were a Canadian and two Britons, radar technicians who were working at a Turkish Air Force radar station when they were seized Sunday. One of the dead terrorists was Turkey's most wanted fugitive.

First government reports from the scene, the village of Kizildere, said all died in an explosion of ammunition in the house.

A government spokesman said the confusion about an explosion arose because the terrorists threw grenades at the police, who rushed the house wearing bullet-proof vests. The police threw in tear gas grenades.

The communique made no mention of casualties among the police. The government announcement said the hostages were found shot in their heads with their hands tied behind their backs. It added that the three were killed before the terrorists opened fire as police closed in on the house.

Premier Nihat Erim sent messages of condolence to Prime Minister Edward Heath of Britain and Pierre Elliott Trudeau, Canada's prime minister.

Jury begins deliberation

Berrigan trial nears end

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP)—A federal jury began deliberations Thursday on government charges that the Rev. Philip Berrigan and six others plotted to kidnap presidential aide Henry Kissinger and destroy federal property.

Judge R. Dixon Herman of U.S. District Court told the panel of nine women and three men before giving them the case. "This is not a political trial. This is not a trial of a war in Vietnam."

The jury began its deliberations as the trial, which began Jan. 24, neared the close of its 10th week. The Harrisburg Seven trial is regarded as a test of the government's power to limit radical acts by means of federal conspiracy laws.

The jury took with it to its deliberations room more than 100 prosecution and defense exhibits.

Included were copies of 24 letters exchanged between Berrigan inside the Lewisburg, Pa., federal penitentiary and his trusted lieutenant in the Catholic left antiwar movement, Sister Elizabeth McAleister.

Berrigan, 48, a gray-haired Roman Catholic priest, faces a maximum 50 years in federal prison if convicted on six counts in the indictment. He already is serving six years for destroying draft board records.

Sister Elizabeth, 32, could get 40 years on five counts.

The others are liable to five years each on a single conspiracy count. They are the Rev. Neil McLaughlin, 31, the Rev. Joseph Wenderoth, 33, both priests; Anthony Scoblick, 33, a former priest, his wife, Mary Cain Scoblick, 33, an ex-nun, and Ghalib Ahmad, 41, a Pakistani educator in a resident visa and the only non-Catholic defendant.

The seven were charged with an escalating conspiracy beginning with board raids to recruit followers, followed by a plot to blow up Washington's tunnel heating system and finally the planned abduction of Kissinger, the White House national security adviser.

The aim, the government said, was to call antiwar and antigovernment views to the attention of the public.

The name of FBI informant Boyd F. Douglas Jr. went into the record at the very outset of the trial. At its conclusion, his name appeared again, as Herman cautioned the jury: "It is not a trial of Boyd Douglas."

The defense had denounced the 31-year-old Douglas as a "liar, a scoundrel and a confidence man."

The prosecution argued that Douglas story of conspiracy involving Berrigan and the others had stood the test of a grueling, two-week cross-examination by the defense.

Besides Douglas, the government presented 63 other witnesses before resting its case one week ago. The following day, the defense rested without calling any witnesses.

"You will draw no inference from the fact that these defendants did not take the stand," Herman admonished the jurors. "That is their right and privilege."

He told the jury the government has every right to make use of paid informants, but he cautioned that their testimony must be weighed with greater care than that of a normal witness.

The defense had suggested to the jury that Douglas was eventually be rewarded with money for his undercover FBI work and his trial testimony.

Code committee kills motion to drop drug possession violation

By Richard Lorenz
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The Community Conduct Code Committee decided Wednesday to retain a violation dealing with the illegal possession of narcotic drugs.

Fred Hafferty, graduate student representative, made a motion to eliminate the violation dealing with illegal possession of narcotic drugs, depressant or stimulant substances and hallucinogens.

Hafferty's argument was that mere possession of such drugs should not be prohibited by the code. The motion failed for lack of a second.

In addition to approving six sanctions, the committee approved the use of a letter of warning in cases where the infraction does not warrant a sanction. The letter would be sent by a hearing officer or panel. The letter would be entered on the individual's permanent record, but not on official transcripts. The letter would warn the individual that if he is found guilty of the charge or repeats the same action a more severe action might occur.

The committee approved Willi Hardenbergh, professor of government, to serve as chairman designate. Hardenbergh's appointment followed an announcement by Stephen Wasby, present chairman, that he (Wasby) would be leaving SIU for 15 months.

Wasby told the committee he will be leaving at the end of spring quarter. He will do research over the summer and then will be a visiting professor at the University of Wisconsin at Milwaukee during the next school year. Hardenbergh will become committee chairman after Wasby leaves.

A feature of the campus crusade will be fraternity members in a 500-mile "ride" on a stationary bicycle with an odometer attached. This is to start Monday night at the fraternity house in Small Group Housing and end Tuesday night in the Student Center as part of the Activities Fair. Pledges of contributions per "mile" will be accepted, Blake said.

Donations and pledges were to be accepted all day Thursday at the Student Center and during the dinner hour at Lenz Hall, he said. This phase is to be continued all day Friday at the Center, Friday night during the dinner hour at Trueblood Hall, then Monday night at Grinnell Hall during the dinner hour and all day Monday and Tuesday at the Center.

Home Ec chefs cook delicacies

By University News Service

Fried grasshoppers, broiled snails, smoked whale meat and squid in its own ink were among the delicacies an SIU home economics class served at a food tasting session recently.

Faculty members of the School of Home Economics were the guests at the lavish buffet table arranged under the supervision of Pohle Wolfe, who heads the institution management program in the food service and nutrition department.

"These students are planning to become managers of food service establishments, and while grasshoppers and squid are not everyday foods, they are on the market and in fine restaurants they may be ordered by discriminating epicures or hostesses wanting catering service for a special occasion.

"Delicacies of other lands are becoming increasingly popular, and our students need to be acquainted with these items, and to know how to serve them with flair, in an appealing manner."

Other esoteric items on the buffet table included fried silk worms, red and white fish cakes, fish soup, barbecued sea eels, fried burdock, smoked kill sprats, seaweed, pickled baby corn on the cob, kosher smoked tongue, artichoke hearts and pate de foie.

Cheese trays displaying imported cheeses including the pungent limburger were provided, and Japanese tea—green and jasmine—was offered.

Asked his reaction to the unfamiliar items, Thomas M. Brooks, dean of the School of Home Economics, replied, "All very good. The broiled snails? Best of all."

Same judge sentences, marries man

CHICAGO (AP)—A convicted murderer was married Thursday in a courtroom ceremony performed by the judge who a week ago sentenced him to serve 50 to 164 years in prison.

Harvey Morrow, 33, asked Judge Saul A. Epton in a letter post-marked from the Cook County Chicago Jail to officiate at the marriage for the sake of his six children born to Emma Kiaupa with whom Morrow had been living. In the letter, he also told the judge he felt he had received a fair trial.

Morrow was convicted in Circuit Court of the August 1971 murder and attempted rape of Joyce Eng, 18, and was sentenced by Epton.

"After the ceremony, his wife, who is 29, told newsmen, "I know he is innocent." Pointing to friends and relatives gathered in the courtroom, she added, "If we didn't all know that, we wouldn't be here. I hope an appeal of the case will result in acquittal."

Morrow's best man at the ceremony was his attorney, George Samens. Rick T. Mackins, 22, a codefendant in the murder trial who was sentenced to 30 to 75 years, also attended.

Morrow had lived with his new wife since 1963. They have three sons and three daughters, all living with Mrs. Morrow in a four-room apartment on the West Side. None of the children attended the wedding.

During the ceremony, the bride and bridegroom stood smiling hand in hand near the same spot where Morrow a week ago stood with Mackin for sentencing.

Two-car collision hurts pair of SIU students

Two SIU students were slightly injured in a two-car collision in east Carbondale Wednesday evening.

Carbondale police said Larry D. Bolles, 20, and Beatrice Tankson, 18, both of Carbondale, were taken to the Health Service following the 9:52 p.m. accident in the 700 block of South Wall Street.

Miss Tankson was treated and released, while Bolles was held overnight for observation.

Police said a 1971 Chevrolet driven by Thomas J. Kiemczak, 20, Chicago, was proceeding south on Wall Street when Kiemczak reached over to grab one of two dogs riding in the car. His car left the right lane and went into the path of a 1964 Chevrolet driven by Bolles, which was proceeding in the opposite direction near the Wall Street-Grand Avenue intersection.

Passengers in the Bolles auto were Miss Tankson and Bonita Norris, 20, Carbondale. Debra Barnes, 19, Carbondale, was a passenger in the Kiemczak auto. Kiemczak, Miss Norris and Miss Barnes were not injured.

Kiemczak was charged with improper lane usage.

'The Hospital' is intelligent, funny

By Glenn Amato
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

After enduring a string of expensive, expensive clinkers over the past few weeks, it's downright exhilarating to come across a picture like "The Hospital," which is in its second week at the Fox.

Clinkers—there's no other way to describe "Nicholas and Alexandra," wherein one can't wait for Russia to collapse so that the not-so-story about these two royal dillards will declare itself finished, and "X, Y and Zee," in which Elizabeth Taylor, costumed like a hooker who's been on a Dali binge, hemorrhages rather than speaks her lines and the otherwise impeccably ladylike Margaret Leighton flounces around in a transparent dress.

And then there's "The Cowboys," which I'll get to shortly.

"The Hospital," on the other hand, is perceptive and funny and intelligent, and the aftertaste it leaves is both bitter and satisfying.

The Manhattan hospital the story is set in is a microcosm for our advanced technological society. Put a perfectly healthy man in such a hypertense environment, blur his identity, push a few wrong buttons and in a matter of days—sometimes hours—he'll be dead. Those responsible for this mass recklessness eventually buckle from outside pressures for reform, which is what happens to the director of this not-so-imaginary hospital. The chief of medicine, played by George C. Scott with his usual fascinating mixture of brute strength and ham on wry, decides to stay on and work within the system to initiate change.

Paddy Chayefsky's Academy Award nominated screenplay is funny in a way that's unusual, which is to say that there aren't any hard-core obvious yokes. It's all understated and naturalistic, but Chayefsky piles absurdity upon absurdity—doctors dropping dead, patients being neglected in the emergency room, the endless red tape—within this routine framework, and the results are often priceless. It's refreshing to find at least one comedy writer steering clear of the Neil Simon-type school of humor, thereby reminding us of the joys to be found in writing that is, by turns, adult and aware and aesthetically pleasing without striving for machine-gunned laughs.

There are a few problems. Some of the early expository dialogue has a stagey ring to it—not the kind of lead-footed talk that "Desperate Characters" floundered in, but obvious still—and Scott, who has the bulk of it, doesn't sound entirely comfortable as he talks about his broken marriage and irresponsible kids. And Diana Rigg, one of the most asexual of all actresses, gives another vapid performance as Scott's love interest.

The rest of the performances are splendid. I liked and pitied Bernard Hughes as the put-upon chief of staff, and Nancy Marchand, an unfailingly accomplished actress, is perfection as the resident nurse. Arthur Hillier, who laddled fresh tears all over the gilt-edged trash of "Love Story" and all but hacked "Plaza Suite" to a TV-sitcom death, bounces back here with poise and style. Yes, "The Hospital" has its flaws, but there is so much about it that's sharp and knowing one soon begins to wish that every movie had its problems as well as plusses.

"The Cowboys"

For anyone who's interested—and considering his enduring box-office popularity, I have to concede that there ARE people who will welcome the news—John Wayne is back in town at the Varsity in a film titled, simply enough, "The Cowboys." It's as simple-minded as its title, and twice as nauseating as far as its point of view is concerned.

And lo, what a point of view! According to this bit of whimsy, which was shot in extremely handsome wide screen and Technicolor, a boy becomes a man when he learns how to defend himself—in other words, how to kill. It's somewhat akin to "Straw Dogs," and maybe those who embraced director Sam Peckinpah's philosophy in that movie will find cause for celebration here. I couldn't; it's all in the name of bloodletting without purpose, and it's rated GP, too, because John Wayne, along with hot dogs, Fourth of July picnics and the Statue of Liberty, is a purveyor of the true-blue, inherently hypocritical American "way of life." I felt cheaped and disgusted when I left this movie, and so, I think, will anyone else who at least claims to be half-sensitive.

Colleen Dewhurst, who never seems to find a useful outlet for her talent, provides a few bright moments as a madam, but the story heaves and wheezes like great-grandpa's accordion, and the John Williams soundtrack thunders away like hell unleashed.

McClain to introduce a bill for alcohol sale on campus

A bill calling for an amendment to the Dram Shop Act to allow the sale of alcoholic beverages on the campuses of Illinois State universities and colleges will probably come before the state legislature the week of April 30 according to Elmo McClain, Illinois State Representative from Quincy.

McClain, sponsor of the bill, said Wednesday that he expects little opposition to his proposal.

"I can't see where any reasonable thinking man could oppose it," he said.

McClain said he is basing his opinion of the subject on the example set by a private college in Quincy.

"The kids have done an excellent job of policing themselves," he said. "It has worked out to be beneficial for both the college and the surrounding community."

If passed, McClain said the new law would become effective July 1 and alcoholic beverages would probably be served on state campuses by next fall.

When asked if he was in favor of lowering the drinking in Illinois to 18 the representative would not commit himself one way or the other. McClain said he has not discussed either of the issues with SIU President David Derge or any of the SIU Board of Trustee members.

McClain did say however, that he has been in close contact with Jim Peters, student body vice-president.

The student senate passed a resolution early last quarter in support of amending the Dram Shop Act and also of lowering drinking to 18.

Dormalee Lindberg, assistant professor of elementary education, presented a two-day, in-service education workshop recently in Quincy. It was sponsored by the Region III Area Service Center for Gifted and Talented Students.

The workshop's central theme was creative teaching of science in the elementary school with emphasis on openness and on activity-based curriculum. The informal, activity-centered workshop provided a model of theory in practice.

Campus Lake boathouse and dock will reopen for spring Monday

By Daryl Stephenson
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The Campus Lake boathouse and dock facilities will open at 1 p.m. Monday and will remain open from 1 to 6 p.m. Monday through Sunday for the rest of the quarter, C.W. Thomas of the Student Activities Office said Tuesday.

Thomas said that all persons who use the Campus Lake facility must have university identification.

Faculty and staff, he said, can obtain identification cards for their families at the Intramurals Office at the Arena or by phoning 457-2710.

Spouse cards issued by the Office of Married and Graduate Students will also be honored, said Thomas. Children under 16 must be accompanied by an adult member of their family when using the facilities.

Recreational equipment, such as bats and balls, can be checked out at no charge, said Thomas. Rowboats and canoes can be rented for 50 cents an hour, bicycles for 20 cents an hour or 75 cents a day and tandem bikes for 30 cents an hour.

Thomas said that groups who would like to reserve one of the six picnic areas can do so Monday through Friday at the Student Activities Office. However, he said, applications for reservations should be made at least five days in advance.

Thomas said the Campus Lake beach will not open until May 8. Swimming will not be permitted until the beach is officially open, he said, and then only when authorized lifeguards are on duty.

AN OPEN LETTER TO READERS OF BIKE SHOP ADS

Look, this elf comes up to me and says: "Write me an ad for our bike shop." So I ask him what it's called, and he says it's the Turin Bicycle Co-op, but it's not in Italy, it's in Chicago and also in Evanston as of now. Fine, I say -- what does it sell? And he tells me it sells Adidas and Tiger running shoes, and there's a girl named Frannie who will custom-make you a hat -- and, of course, you can buy a bicycle, or rent one, too. And would I put in something that will keep their Turin-trained expert mechanics busy? And could he have a cookie? Please go see what's happening at either of the three Turin Bicycle Co-op shops. Get this elf off my back. Running shoes? With little pointy toes and bells? How does he keep them in his toeclips?

Fence improves safety at construction site

By Monroe Walker
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The fencing around the Humanities Building construction site is scheduled to be expanded and improved to increase safety precautions, according to Safety Coordinator Oliver K. Halderson.

About a month ago, the construction site was the scene of an accident that resulted in the death of one student and the injury of two others.

Halderson said that the old wooden snow-fence presently surrounding the area, is inadequate and that it will be replaced with a more durable steel cyclone fence.

"The fence is not to aggravate," he said. "It's to help keep people out of the danger area."

He said that the old fence is not high enough and that people have been climbing over it and coming into the construction area in spite of safety precautions. He said that sections of the fence had been torn down.

"I don't know if it's intentional," he said, "but it happens."

The new fence, he said, will be more difficult to break through than the old one.

The new fence will be six-feet high and banded together on steel poles. It will extend south from the back of the Black American Studies Building (Old Baptist Foundation) to the Student Center, and west from Shryock Auditorium to the Ombudsman Office.

Halderson said that this allows the contractor a bigger area in which to work while extending maximum safety to pedestrians.

The new cyclone fence will be installed as soon as bids are called in and approved, according to Cody Russell, of the campus architect's office.

Russell said that one bid is already in and that others are expected. It will probably be three or four weeks before all the bids are in, he said, and hopefully the fence will be up within six weeks.

Ailing tennis team opens season in four-team meet

By Ernie Schweit
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

Jorge Ramirez and Ray Briscoe's shoulders were still hurting Thursday afternoon as Southern Illinois' tennis team went through final preparations for its season opener at 2 p.m. Friday on the SIU courts.

The Salukis, holders of a 2-5 spring road trip record, will head a field including Indiana, Missouri and Northern Iowa in the first of two home quadrangular meets this season.

Southern will take on Missouri at 2 p.m. today, Northern Iowa at 9 a.m. Saturday and finish off with Indiana at 2 p.m. Saturday.

The injury problem which has plagued the Salukis since returning from their southern trip brightened a bit Thursday when Chris Gunning reported his back is nearly healed. The freshman netter twisted it during the trip but has since undergone treatments and will be available for play today.

As far as Ramirez and Briscoe, the outlook still looks bleak. Ramirez practiced Thursday afternoon but the results weren't encouraging.

Ramirez, who injured his shoulder on the spring trip, took some light hitting practice but came off the courts shaking his head in disgust.

His injury restricts the use of his backhand but doesn't affect the forehand. "It feels better," Ramirez said, "but I still don't have the confidence in it yet."

SIU tennis coach Dick LeFevre hasn't made any decision as to playing Ramirez in the opener, but he did say any final move would be "a last minute thing."

Ramirez said that sitting out the opener and not risking any further injury to the shoulder would probably be the best alternative. "If Ray Briscoe can't play then I'll try it," he said.

Briscoe was scheduled to see a specialist Thursday afternoon. A decision on his availability was to be made after examination.

Ramirez and Briscoe's injuries throw every position in LeFevre's starting lineup up for grabs except No. 1 where Graham Snook will be playing.

Snook, last year's No. 2 singles man, has been SIU's most consistent winner over the past three years with a 41-11 record. Last season the native of New Zealand recorded the best singles mark on the team at 14-6.

LeFevre said Snook will be at No. 1 Friday because "right now he is the better player. He has been playing well of late and Jorge is just out of shape."

Regardless if Ramirez and Briscoe play or sit it out, Gunning and David Whitehead will be seeing collegiate action at SIU for the first time. Whitehead is a junior college transfer from Mesa Junior College in San Diego, Calif.

Gunning, who was ranked third in New Zealand's junior division before entering Southern, has greatly improved according to LeFevre. "Don't forget, he won the only match for us against Alabama on our (pre-season) spring trip." The Salukis lost that match to the Crimson Tide, 3-1.

The Salukis' biggest competition in the quadrangular will probably come from Indiana. The Hoosiers finished second in the Big Ten Championships to Michigan last season and are expected to give the Wolverines another run for their money this year.

Indiana is led by No. 1 singles man Mark Bishop, rated as one of Indiana's all-time greats. The Hoosier netter, a former Illinois state high school champion, finished with a 22-5 season last year and is currently 4-1.

The Salukis lost to Indiana last season, 7-2, and the tennis team is expecting another tough match. "Indiana is going to be the toughest team there," said Snook. "I think we can beat them, but without Jorge we might be in trouble."

As a team Indiana shows a 2-2-1 record from its spring trip through the South. The Hoosiers lost to Texas A&M and Tulane while beating Louisiana State twice.

It's Baltimore anyway you look at AL race

By Hal Beck
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — There are two ways to look at the American League pennant race this season.

One is to assume that Oakland's Vida Blue, Chicago's Dick Allen and Frank Howard of Texas will stick by their holdout guns and refuse to play.

That way, Baltimore looks like the winner for the fourth consecutive season.

The other is to anticipate that Blue, Allen and Howard will yield to the stand-pat offers of the owners and sign.

Baltimore still wins.

The Orioles, quite simply, are too much. It is a team that was so deep it could afford to trade one of its top sluggers, Frank Robinson. And hardly notice the loss.

Baltimore unloaded the aging Robinson to the Los Angeles Dodgers for some young pitching help, primarily Doyle Alexander and Bobby O'Brien. More pitching. That's just what the staff with four 20-game winners needed.

In the West, Chicago's refurb-bished White Sox should replace Kansas City as runnerup, behind Oakland. Manager Chuck Tanner made considerable progress with the Sox last year, much of it with the help of knuckler Wilbur Wood, who won 22 games.

If Wood has help from Stan Bahnsen, acquired from New York, and some promising youngsters, the Sox could make some ripples. They'll make even more if Allen signs.

Even without the reluctant Allen, Chicago has an interesting attack with Carlos May, Bill Melton and Rick Reichardt.

The picks:

West Division:

Oakland
Chicago
Kansas City
Minnesota
California
Texas

East Division:

Baltimore
Detroit
New York
Boston
Milwaukee
Cleveland

Memphis State here for baseball series

When the SIU baseball team hosts Memphis State at 3 p.m. Friday, it won't be another "joy ride" for the Salukis.

In Wednesday's home opener, the host team had no problems disposing of Monmouth College, 21-0 and 5-0. However, Memphis State is obviously not Monmouth—in fact, it's very different.

The Tigers from Memphis have compiled a 6-3 record this season which includes an impressive 11-2 win over Mississippi State. Mississippi State played in the College World Series in 1971. The Tigers also beat Vanderbilt, who will be SIU's opponent for an April 23 home doubleheader.

Memphis State has hitters whose averages are comparable to the Saluki batsmen. The visitors' first baseman Brad Bradshaw is hitting .375 followed by catcher Mike Dlugach (.360) and shortstop Don Rhoton (.323). Bradshaw has hit four homers.

According to SIU statistics to date, centerfielder Joe Wallis is hitting .394 followed by first baseman Danny Thomas (.370) and second baseman Howard Mitchell at .364. Third sacker Dan Radison has driven in 19 runs and has connected for five home runs. Radison's homer total is only six short of the SIU season record set by Barry O'Sullivan in 1969.

Saluki coach Itch Jones will send pitcher Jim Fischer against Memphis State while the Tigers will counter with Mike Paxton. Both hurlers have 2-0 records, but Fischer has an 0.75 earned run average while Paxton has recorded a dismal 6.92 ERA.

There is no doubt that SIU will be the favorite in today's contest and again at 1 p.m. Saturday when the same teams meet for a doubleheader. However, the score won't be 21-0 in any of the games. The Salukis have played the Tigers 15 times in recent years, with SIU winning 10. However, Memphis State was one of SIU's nine losses last season.

Jones says that he will probably go with the same lineup as in Wednesday's game. What does the coach think of his team's performance so far? He is pleased, but not totally.

"Some of our pitchers have been outstanding," he said, "and yet some still need to work on changing speeds."

Jones described the hitting as "great," but mentioned that his hitters must discipline themselves better.

New York, Bullets series begin today

BALTIMORE (AP)—The New York Knickerbockers and Baltimore Bullets, old foes in the National Basketball Association playoffs, open another postseason series Friday night.

The Bullets will have the home court advantage in the best-of-seven Eastern Conference semifinals even though their 38-44 record was 10 games below the mark posted by New York.

Baltimore gained the extra home game by winning the Central Division while the Knicks finished second in the Atlantic Division.

Coed gymnasts eye title

reversed. But Vogel said it was too late to trade trophies. They deducted 1.5 points for a certain flaw in one of our girl's routines," he said, "but should have only taken off three-tenths. The judges realized their mistake too late."

Nineteen-hundred and Sixty-nine and 1971 were the only years that Southern wasn't at the top since the championships originated in 1965. But SIU women gymnasts had been the pre-meet favorites all seven seasons.

This year Springfield has taken the favorite role away from Southern. According to the observers, the University of Massachusetts is ranked second. Vogel's girls are rated third along with Fresno State and Southeastern Louisiana State. However Vogel thinks that his team is tougher than the predictions indicate.

"We were stronger than all the schools in the regionals last month, and I feel that we have more balance than all the teams in the nationals."

Vogel's belief in SIU's balanced attack lies in the strength of all four girls. The squad's "mini-team" of Ms. Riddel, Val Fugali, Juliette Mayhew and Carole Donnelly qualified in 16 positions for this weekend's meet. All four girls advanced in the balance beam and floor exercise.

"Springfield and Massachusetts appear to have balanced teams," Vogel said, "but other than Springfield's Patty Corrigan, they don't have outstanding individuals."

Springfield and Massachusetts scored 106.25 and 104.10 respectively in placing one-two in the eastern regional. SIU scored 103 points.

Ms. Riddel also wants to retaliate against Springfield. The junior Recreation major hails from that Massachusetts town but selected SIU instead of Springfield.

Why the switch? "I don't have as much respect for the coaches out there as Herb," she said. "I think that I improved much more at Southern than if I had decided to stay home."

Ms. Riddel qualified in all four events plus all-around. In addition, she captured the regional floor exercise title while placing second and third, respectively, in vaulting and all-around. She won the collegiate vaulting crown two years ago as a freshman.

"I'm pretty good on vaulting but I really stink on the balance beam and floor exercise," Ms. Riddel said at a concentrated workout Tuesday evening before the team departed.

But her coach wouldn't buy that. "She's a four event gymnast now," beamed Vogel.

Ms. Riddel has been bothered by a sprained left ankle for the past three weeks and she says it affects her most in tumbling and on the vaulting landings.

Vogel thinks she has the potential of winning all four events this weekend. But she will have plenty of competition. Some other individuals appearing include:

—Adele Gleaves. The University of Louisville product is presently the fourth ranked American female gymnast. She has already appeared in the World Games and Pan-American Games.

—Patty Corrigan and Kathy Kolemmainen of Springfield. Ms. Corrigan was a Pan-Am qualifier and both scored 35.0 all-around marks in the regionals, bettering all-around marks by Southern's gymnasts.

—SIDEBARS: SIU's television station, Channel 8, will provide local videotape coverage of the gymnastics meet at 4 p.m. Sunday.

LAS CRUCES, N.M. (AP) — Northern Illinois defeated New Mexico State, 2-0, Thursday night in the first game of a baseball doubleheader.

Northern Illinois' first batter, Lindie Dailey, reached third because of a throwing error and scored on Jim Yagen's sacrifice fly.

The visitors got their second run when shortstop Bruce Frase walked, reached second on Ralph Radtke's single and scored on Yagen's single.

Coed gymnasts seek crown this weekend

By Jim Braun
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

Both Carolyn Riddel and her coach Herb Vogel of Southern Illinois' perennially strong women's gymnastics team are out for a little revenge against Springfield (Mass.) College.

The pair will be seeking to achieve their "eye-for-an-eye" retaliation this weekend at the National Collegiate Championships in Des Moines, Iowa.

Two sessions are slated in Veterans Memorial Auditorium starting at 7 p.m. Friday with the team and all-around championships. Scheduled at 7 p.m. Saturday are the individual event finals between the top 10 preliminary qualifiers.

Now on with the story, beginning with Vogel's case.

The eight-year coach thinks the SIU squad is in a favorable position to recapture the coveted collegiate crown which it lost to Springfield last year. Southern later won another amateur team title in 1971 but had been ruled ineligible for the collegiate affair due to alleged illegal financial dealings.

The charge stemmed from monetary assistance given to girls who were labeled "hardship cases" by Vogel. He maintains that without certain financial aid, the gymnasts would have found it impossible to attend college. The girls were granted scholarships based on athletic rather than academic excellence. The National Committee on Women's Intercollegiate Sports has recently deemed this act illegal.

"I think it's safe to say that the girls are very close to being eligible for academic scholarships," Vogel stated. The team's individual grade-point averages in the classroom is 4.6.

So SIU had to forfeit its right to possible sixth team championship in the then seven-year history of women's intercollegiate gymnastics.

"I'm sure that in everyone's mind, the best team wasn't at the college nationals last year," Vogel said. "I figured out after that meet that with our lowest scores entered, we still would have won the title."

In 1969, Southern's women gymnasts were thwarted out of the collegiate championship by Springfield. SIU succumbed in the finals by two-tenths of a point on a decision later

Day on the field

Jim Bokelmann's pitch was high, very hard and coming ever-so-much inside as it soared home.

Danny Thomas backed off, but not far enough as the darkened baseball ramed his left forearm, then fell to the ground. Thomas hurled his bat away and charged from the batting cage.

Bokelmann, who had started toward the plate, stopped halfway. "Get out there, Boke," shouted Richard "Itch" Jones between swings of his fungo bat. "You're okay. I expect you to hit people once in a while."

The sophomore right-hander retreated while Thomas stamped around behind the batting cage, uttering unprintables.

"There's a medicine kit over there," Jones called to Thomas. More unprintables.

"Get that spray."
"That's alright, I'll live," retorted Thomas, a sophomore slugger upon whom much of Southern Illinois' season success depends.

"I'm sure you will, you're tough," Jones replied.

More unprintables.
Thomas' pain was short-lived. Next time at bat, he took freshman Robir Derry for a tremendous liner to center.

All the while, Jones swatted fungoes to outfielders taking turns at second base—and kept the show on the road.

"What was that, a slider or a curve?" he called out.

"Curve," answered catcher John Raibley.

"It had the spin of a slider and didn't have the speed of anything," Jones shot back.

Jones is a serious 34-year-old who looks nearly as young as the players he tutors. He's an ex-Southern Illinois star turned Baltimore Orioles' minor leaguer, then coach and finally family man.

His Salukis may be the nation's finest collegiate baseball team. That matter will remain undecided until the NCAA College World Series, next June in Omaha, Neb.

But this Southern Illinois team shouldn't backfire. Partially because it's talent-laden. Mostly because Jones won't let it.

"Moose, don't loaf coming out of that batting box," he shouted to Larry Caluffetti. "You guys are slow enough the way it is. And if you loaf, you won't get a chance to get up here."

He'd have other words for Caluffetti later. "C'mon Caluffetti, run. You can't be that tired. You haven't been on base in a week."

Recovering from pulled leg muscles, Caluffetti pleaded soreness. "Well, then, go in and get treated," Jones said. Caluffetti stayed.

"I've never been much for talking about injuries," Jones had said earlier while sitting in the Saluki dugout. "Injuries are for players to talk about. I've never bothered with them."

Jones is not a man given to excuses, whether for himself or others. His remarks are occasionally caustic and will draw a muffled reaction, but they have one purpose—return to the World Series.

The Salukis finished second in Omaha last year and won the crowd's loving approval.

But when Jones replaced popular Joe Lutz two seasons ago, questions immediately arose. Could Jones recruit? Win with Lutz's players? Earn their respect? Take Southern Illinois back to national prestige it attained by finishing second in 1968.

The answers must be yes. And for that reason, he'll take the Salukis to Omaha again in 1972. Only difference will be they should do it up right this time.

Trackmen host Northwestern in home opener this weekend

The last time the SIU track team competed on campus over 10 months ago, it handled the University of Illinois, 87-76.

And now 12 meets and a winter season later, the Salukis return to their spring stomping grounds, hosting another Big Ten squad—Northwestern University—Saturday afternoon.

The running events will begin with the steeplechase at 1:30 p.m. in McAndrew Stadium. The field events will start 30 minutes earlier with weight competition in an area east of the SIU Arena. The jumping events will be in the stadium.

The weight competition was removed from the grassless football field which awaits a carpeting of artificial turf.

The weekend contest marks the first contact between the two schools in track and Northwestern coach Donald Ambeil has belittled his Wildcats, who finished last in the Big Ten indoor championships this winter.

But Saluki head man Lew Hartzog isn't buying that kind of talk.

"Actually all the running events will be highly competitive," said Hartzog Thursday afternoon. "and two or three field events will be highly competitive."

"If Northwestern were to come through in all the places its capable of, this meet will go right down to the wire," he added.

Here are some contests that could break or make either team:

—440-yard dash with five top people: Salukis Terry Erickson and Eddie Sutton against Wildcats Jim Gibish (48.9 indoors), Paul Zalucky (49.0) and Doug Koski.

—high jump: A seven-foot effort is almost a certainty with Southern's Mike Bernard and Bill Hancock against NU's Rick Rogers.

—mile run: SIU standout Dave Hill versus their Jim Noe (4:04 indoors) and favored Tom Bach, who was 1,000-yard runnerup in the indoor NCAA meet.

—triple and long jumps: Salukis Lonnie Brown, Jim Harris and Pete Totman facing outstanding Wildcat jumper, Joe Harper.

—100 and 220 yard dashes: if—and a big if—NU top-flight sprinter Ted Edwards is well enough to enter the race against Ivory Crockett, Stanley Patterson and Gerald Smith. Edwards is still nursing a pulled leg muscle suffered in the indoor season.

—mile relay: Southern Illinois defeated the Wildcats by three-tenths of a second to win the indoor Illinois Intercollegiate. It should be Ed Wardzaia, Smith, Sutton and Erickson against NU's Roski, Zalucky, Bach and Gibish.
