Student Senate leaders say conflicts are resolved

By Steve Kropia
Staff Writer

Student President Dennis Adamczyk and Vice President Sam Dunning have formally announced to the Student Senate that personal conflicts between the two officials have been resolved.

Differences between the two leaders came to a head this week when petitions were started to impeach both Adamczyk and Dunning. Both petitions were later withdrawn.

At Wednesday night's senate meeting, Adamczyk said the events of the past week had shown that significant problems were present in the student administration. But, he added, those problems have since been reconciled.

"I offer my apology for the role I played in allowing the breakdown in communication between us to occur," he said.

Dunning also addressed the issue at Wednesday's meeting, saying, "I apologize to Dennis, the student government office and the Student

Vote shows students want SIU to break MEG ties

By a margin of nearly four to one, student voters in Wednesday's election expressed their desire that the University discontinue its involvement with the Southern Illinois Enforcement Group (MEG).

Official results, released Thursday, of the MEG referendum showed 1,542 students voting in opposition of SIU's involvement with the undercover drug unit, while 394 students voted in favor of retaining the University's ties with the group.

The University has been supplying two security officers, with combined salaries totaling $27,000, to MEG.

On the basis of the referendum, student President Dennis Adamczyk said Thursday that he will ask the Student Senate for funds to hire a lawyer and initiate outside action to prevent the University from continuing its support of MEG.

The request will be made at the next senate meeting, Nov. 30, Adamczyk said. He estimated that about $1,000 will be needed to hire an attorney.

Mike Malone, election commissioner, said Thursday that the voter turnout of more than 1,900 persons—less than 10 percent of the student population—showed an increase over past elections. The average turnout in recent elections has been about 1,700, Malone said.

Also in Wednesday's election, voters elected 10 new senators and re-elected two incumbent senators. One incumbent senator was defeated.

Official election returns are as follows

(all candidates are independent unless otherwise noted):

West Side

Elected to fill the seven open seats were: Michael C. Waynen (Action Party), 141 votes; Jodi Ann Gaden, 138; Mark Alan Rouleau (Action Party), 129; Kellie Watts, 119; Gary Figgins (incumbent), 112; Nadja M. Papillon, 109; and Renee Miyauchi, 103.

Incumbent Eugene Frankowski, with 81 votes; Richard C. Ingram, 76; Lawrence Luebbers, 67; and Michael Thomas Richerson, 61, were each defeated.

East Campus

Those elected to fill the five open seats were: Melody Svec, 144; Joanne Looser, 141; Stewart Umholtz, 123; Victor Eklau, 112; and Mike Johnson, 106.

Also running, but not elected, were: Dwayne Bumpers, 100; Pamela Speils, 97; Jackie Clayton, 96; and Edward Jones, 94.

East Side

Elected to fill seven vacant seats were: Brian Reed, 157; Keith Kibler (Action Party), 145; Keith Faison, 143; Reginald King, 138; Blair McDougall, 122; Bob Saal (incumbent, Action Party), 118; and Russell Kupowski, 69. No one else ran.

Thompson Point

Elected to fill the one vacant seat was Mary Haynes, with 138.

Also running, but not elected, were Jane Baker, 46, and Steven Strickland, 41.

Sadat's Israel visit set

By The Associated Press

Egyptian President Anwar Sadat has set his historic visit to Israel for this weekend despite growing alarm among fellow-Arabs dramatized Thursday by the resignation in quick succession of two Egyptian foreign ministers.

Israeli Prime Minister Menahem Begin said Sadat's 36-hour visit would begin Saturday night, after the Jewish Sabbath. On Sunday, Sadat is to worship at a Moslem mosque, meet privately with Begin and then address the Knesset, the Israeli parliament, at 4 p.m. 9 a.m. EST.

Sadat has pledged not to negotiate a separate peace, and in his address to the Knesset he is expected to list the standard Arab demands for a Palestinian homeland and Israeli withdrawal from lands occupied in 1967—demands Israel rejects.

But if the visit comes about, Sadat will be the first Arab leader ever to visit the Jewish state, a breakthrough that could open a new chapter in the search for a Middle East peace after four wars.

Observers said the boldness of the mission, which Sadat described as a "sacred duty," reflected how badly he wanted peace so he could shift his attention to Egypt's acute economic problems.

For the Israelis, the visit falls just short of answering their 30-year quest for Arab recognition.

Sam Dunning

Senate for any conflicts that I think were apparent that existed between Dennis and myself.

"The whole experience taught me quite a bit about the people in student government and myself," Dunning said.

He went on to say that he felt "humbled" by the incident and that he hoped he and Adamczyk could avoid any future conflicts through better communication.

"The Daily Egyptian—and the media on campus in general—presented an internal conflict and conveyed that message to the University administration," Dunning said.

"One thing I do pledge is my support for Dennis," he added. "The University can count on a unified student government from now on."

Laura Ducey, east side senator, said following the meeting that former student Vice President Sue Bell was instrumental in reconciling the differences between Adamczyk and Dunning.

News Roundup

U.S. denounces Cuban presence in Africa

WASHINGTON AP—The United States served public notice on Cuba that the presence of 27,000 Cubans in 16 African countries "will have an impact on the pace and even the possibility of normalizing relations." Confirming reports on an intelligence study, the State Department said that rather than fulfill a promise last spring to reduce the military level in Angola, Cuba has increased its forces there by about 20 percent. The Marxist government of Angola is fighting to suppress insurgents who keep a civil war flaring. Regarding the Carter administration's steps toward resuming relations with Havana after a 16-year break, department spokesman Hodding Carter said: "In light of the military activity it appears we have gone as far as we can go at this time."

Ban on state welfare abortions takes effect

SPRINGFIELD, (AP)—Heeding arguments that it should not subsidize murder, the Illinois General Assembly barred the use of welfare funds to pay for abortions. The Senate voted to override Gov. James R. Thompson's veto of a bill which had banned welfare-fund abortions. The House earlier this month voted for an override, so the ban takes effect immediately.

Ex-House speaker Blair to run for comptroller

CHICAGO AP—Former Illinois House Speaker W. Robert Blair, trying for a political comeback three years after voters rebelled and ousted him from the legislature, announced he is a candidate for the Republican nomination for state comptroller. Blair, 47, thus plunged into a possible primary fight with the hand-picked candidate of Gov. James R. Thompson, intergovernmental affairs Director John Castle. If Blair wins the comptroller's office it would put back on the political chessboard a man whose mercurial temperament and wheeling-dealing threw GOP lawmakers into an uproar in his two terms as speaker, ending in 1974. But he said his plans do not extend beyond the current race.

Illinois 13th state to legalize Laetrile

SPRINGFIELD, AP—Illinois became the 13th state to legalize the use of Laetrile for terminal cancer victims. The State Senate overrode Gov. James R. Thompson's veto of a bill authorizing use of the disputed anticancer substance. The House had already overridden the veto, so the Senate action made legal the immediate use of the substance. Interstate shipments of Laetrile are banned by the federal Food and Drug Administration. The FDA claims the substance is useless in combatting cancer. Laetrile is extracted from the crushed kernel of several fruits, but primarily from the apricot. It comes in liquid or powder form and can be eaten or injected into the bloodstream.

Bargain-hunters get their revenge as 'luxury' sports store goes broke

NEW YORK (AP)—For 35 years it provided playthings for presidents, potentates and plebeians with healthy pocketbooks. But Thursday, after a year of fighting off bankruptcy, Abercrombie & Fitch began its going-out-of-business sale.

In the next four days, the elegant sporting goods and accessories chain expected to clear out an $8.5 million inventory of luxury clothing and quality hardware for indoor and outdoor sportsmen.

Hundreds of bargain-hunters strode purposefully through the main floors of its Madison Avenue store here at 8 a.m. after waiting hours in rain.

"What brings me here? A venerable old store going belly up—and the vultures are gathering," Ron Bose, 41, a Manhattan insurance man, said self-deprecatingly.

Bose and his girlfriend, Michele Peimer, in jeans and down jackets, were in the first wave of thousands going through the main doors. They headed for the clothing on the third floor and stroked approvingly a natural-color short shearing cat, marked down to $39.

"Too much," mused Bose. "We may end up getting nothing. I'm looking for a leather coat, then possibly some fishing stuff."

"I shopped here rarely," he said, "just for good cutlery and arcery stuff that I couldn't find elsewhere." He ended up buying a filleting knife.

Southern Illinois 'UFO battlefield' seeks truth after magazine story

CHESTER, (AP)—This quiet Southern Illinois town of 5,300 humans is still here—and not destroyed by flying saucers.

According to a magazine called Official UFO, Chester was pulverized in an attack by a fleet of alien invaders on Aug. 2.

Chester's supposed sheriff-turned-freelance-writer Luke Grishalm said he called Chanute Air Force Base at Rantoul to get Strategic Air Command jet fighters to repel the invaders, but was unsuccessful.

The story recalls Channel 8 television went blank on Chester sets and all TV screens held the image of an alien figure.

As most everyone in town knows, Chester has no city sheriff, but there is a chief of police named Harold Howie.

"Believe me," said Howie, "I'm not a writer. I didn't have a thing to do with that story."

He adds that the city government has received calls about the story for the past week.

A headline in the magazine speaks of the looting and burning of Chester and also mentions that the story was suppressed by officials.

"I wondered what the hell I was covering up in Chester," said Mayor Stanley Maciejski-named Mayor Ullian Moulton in the story.

"I think somebody nearby really wrote the story," the mayor said.

Official UFO is printed at Spartan Printing in Sparta, a city near Chester.

Kent Weatherby of Spartan said Official UFO is one of about 100 magazines printed weekly by the division of World Color Press Inc.

Circulation figures for the magazine, which is distributed throughout the United States, Canada and overseas, were not available.

The editor of Official UFO, Jeffrey Goodman, said from New York that the story had come from a free-lance writer who asked to remain anonymous. He said the magazine staff had tried to "check out" the story as best it could.

Man sent to mental health center following reckless homicide charge

Ottie Reeder, 27, Murphysboro, who was charged with reckless homicide after an accident Wednesday, was committed Thursday to the Chester Mental Health Center by Jackson County Circuit Court Judge Richard Richman.

Reeder was charged with reckless homicide, indecent exposure and driving in the wrong lane following an accident in which his car collided with one driven by Eileen Borgia, 32, also of Murphysboro.

Peter Borgia, 6, a passenger in the auto that collided with Reeder's, was killed in the accident, which occurred about a half mile west of the Carbondale Clinic on Illinois 13. Eileen Borgia, Peter's mother, was treated for minor injuries at Carbondale's Memorial Hospital and released.

Richman ruled that Reeder is "not fit at this time to cooperate with counsel or understand the nature of the proceeding."

Jackson County State's Attorney Howard Hood said that Reeder would be examined and treated at the mental health center.

Bond for Reeder has been set at $100,000.

Committee narrows search for personnel manager

By Jean Ness
Staff Writer

Narrowing a field of 33 candidates to four, the search committee for a new manager of personnel services has recommended two SIU employees and two persons from outside the University for the position.

The position has been vacant since October, when Donald Ward, then manager of personnel services, resigned to accept a similar job at the University of Illinois.

The names of the four candidates were forwarded to Robert Gentry, vice president for financial affairs, who will make the final selection.

Declining to name the four persons recommended for the position, Gentry said, "I'd like to savor the nominations for a while. In fact, the letters to candidates not among the final four have not all gone out yet and I'd prefer they learn it from a formal letter than read it in a newspaper."

However, Allan Lachman, chairman of the search committee, said the nominations were "spread between the sexes as well as the races."

Gentry, who received the names Wednesday afternoon from the search committee he appointed, is now in the process of reviewing the applicants' qualifications.

"I am trying to come to a decision by the first of December," Gentry said.

Lachman said Gentry had previously wanted to fill the position by Thanksgiving but said because of the number of applicants the committee was unable to finish screening them until now.

Although the exact figure is negotiable, Lachman said the manager's salary range will be from $22,000 to $25,000. The previous director's salary was $26,280

"We have other people who operate at somewhat the same level (as a personnel manager would) and my intention is that this person would fit into the same (salary) limitations," Gentry said.

Lachman, a visiting assistant professor in political science, said when a selection is made the new manager will start as soon as possible and will be responsible for processing and hiring University employees, auditing positions and keeping records for personnel services.

Candidates were selected on the basis of administrative experience, academic degree, knowledge in the field of labor relations and general knowledge of personnel administration.

"I'm looking for someone familiar with the personnel problems in Illinois," Gentry said. "I don't want to hire someone and have to train them."

Senate allocates funds

Parachuters to attend nationals

By Steve Kropla
Staff Writer

The Student Senate voted 11-5-1 Wednesday night to allocate $1179 to the SIU Sport Parachute Club (SIU-SPC) so it can send a team to the National Collegiate Parachute Meet later this year in Deland, Fla.

Tom Halley and Mike Harfst, representatives of SIU-SPC, told the senate that the club expects to do well in this year's meet. The competition is sponsored by the National Collegiate Parachute League and the United States Parachute Association to determine the best collegiate parachute team in the country.

Halley said that although the club requested a large amount of money, it is the first request for funds made by the club since 1973. That year the SIU-SPC was chosen as the best non-military school in the country, he said.

In making the request, Halley noted the club has independently raised nearly $338, including proceeds from the raffle of a first jump course. The course had been donated by the Archway Sport Parachute Center, Sparta.

Each participant will also have to provide at least $250 for food, travel and lodging costs, Halley said.

The money allocated by the senate will pay for entrance fees in the team and individual events and the cost of practice and competition jumps made by the contestants.

The money was allocated from Student Organization Activity Funds (SOAF).

Events SIU skydivers will compete in will be relative work, accuracy, and style, Halley said.

Relative work is a timed competition in which a four-person team exits the aircraft individually and then joins in mid-air to make a "star" formation.

The accuracy competition is an individual event in which the jumper exits from 2,500 feet and then attempts to steer his parachute to a landing on a four-centimeter disc. The club will enter one jumper in both the advanced and intermediate classes and five contestants in the novice class.

Style is a timed individual event in which the jumper performs a group of left and right turns and front and back loops known as the International Style

Series. This event is considered the most demanding form of skydiving competition.

The club will enter one jumper in each the advanced and intermediate style classes, Halley said.

In other business, the senate: —Voted 14-2-1 to allocate $113 from SOAF to the Coalition Against Racial Exploitation (CARE) to present a movie titled "The Last Grave at Dimbasa" and to print and distribute a statement to the SIU Foundation made by Leland Stauber, associate professor of political science.

—Voted 15-1-1 to allocate $1004 for the purchase of two typewriters to expand the typewriter rental program at the Self-Instruction Center in Morris Library. The money was allocated from Student Senate Special Projects funds (SSSP).

—Unanimously passed a bill placing the Student Services Committee in charge of distributing Student Bating Power Cards (SBPC). The committee is also to investigate the costs involved with placing a SBPC distribution booth in the registration center in Woody Hall.

State to fund Eddyville prison by '79?

By Andria Straumann
Staff Writer

SPRINGFIELD--Gov. James Thompson will try in fiscal year 1979 or 1980 to get funds appropriated for the construction of a medium security prison in the Southern Illinois town of Eddyville, a downstate representative says.

The representative, Robert Winchester, R-Rosiclare, said Wednesday that he met with Thompson about a week ago and was told the governor would try for the money to build a prison in the Pope County town, located about 40 miles southeast of Carbondale.

The state has already approved the construction of two medium security prisons in Southern Illinois. One of the prisons is to be located in Hillsboro, the other in Centralia.

Eddyville had been one of the finalists for one of the prisons, but Thompson announced in October that Hillsboro and Centralia had been chosen because of an availability of public transportation and a large work force in those towns.

Winchester said Thompson told him he recognizes the need for another prison in Illinois. Another prison in Southern Illinois, Winchester said, would be welcome because of the jobs it would bring to the area.

Placing another prison in the area, however, may not be that easy.

"I see a lot of problems," Winchester said.

He said he would expect Chicago area legislators to oppose the idea. Winchester said those legislators would want the next prison built in their area, since Southern Illinois has already been approved two new ones.

Opposition to building a prison in Pope County has also been voiced.

Poor communication blamed for invalid poll

By Steve Kropla
Staff Writer

Student President Dennis Adamczyk said Thursday that a "communications breakdown" caused the wording error which invalidated the Health Service referendum in Wednesday's student election.

Adamczyk said election commissioner Mike Malone was not provided with a copy of the amended referendum passed by the Student Senate on Nov. 9. Instead, he said, Malone was provided a copy of the original bill sponsored by east side senator Michael Hampton.

The difference between the two versions of the bill is that the original one asked students to vote for one of three alternatives—a cutback of non-essential programs offered, increased services for services offered, and increased student health fees in the range of $5 to $10 a semester—toward solving a projected $377,000 Health Service deficit, while the amended version added a fourth alternative—increased state funding—and asked that the four items be ranked in order of preference.

The amended version also struck out the word "non-essential" from the first alternative.

Malone said that Lynn Anderson, student government executive assistant, had notified him of the added alternative and ranking procedure, so they were included on the referendum. He added, though, that no one from student government had told him the word "non-essential" had been deleted.

Adamczyk said, "The blame can't really be placed on anybody."

"All the senators know that our current constitution and by-laws have many, many holes in them that have to be plugged," he added.

He's back!

Ex-Saluki great Mike Glenn acknowledged the fans' applause when he was introduced at half-time of the SIU-Czechoslovakia game Wednesday night. Wednesday was officially proclaimed "Mike Glenn Day" at SIU.

City should not pay employees' legal fees

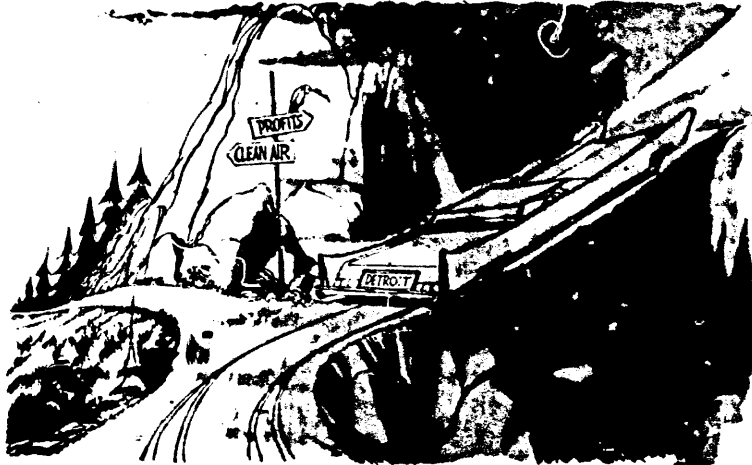

By James Hewette
Citizens for Better Government

We object to the proposed ordinance that would pay the legal expenses of individuals in the city government who might be sued for alleged wrong doing in the execution of their office. We object to this ordinance because it suggests a lack of confidence in the courts in making a determination based on substantive evidence necessary to support a charge of wrong doing by any city employee. Moreover, in event a charge is upheld by the courts, the City Council should not underwrite possible wrong doing on the part of any city employee.

We object to this ordinance also because it portends a negative and prejudicial view with respect to any individual or any group of individuals who the city administration feels might have a probable cause for initiating any court action for alleged wrong doing by any city employee.

We assume the duties and responsibilities of all city employees are clearly defined by respective job descriptions and responsibilities, and that each city employee executes an oath to perform those duties and to uphold those responsibilities.

In accordance with the foregoing, there should be an abundance of checks and balances concerning the

Tony's song is silenced

By Gertha Coffee
Staff Writer

"It's boring day after day just wiping tables and picking up dishes. The singing adds something to the job and I sing because I'm a happy person," says Tony Wallace, administration of justice sophomore and food service student worker.

If you've had lunch in the Oasis Room of the Student Center this semester, that place where the perpetual luncheon special is hamburger, chips and a pickle spear for 65 cents or two aged hot dogs and dehydrated fries for 90 cents, then you've probably heard Tony sing.

He is an attractive, pleasant sort of guy whose smooth melodious tenor has a way of lifting sagging spirits as he goes about his work humming gospel tunes.

But, if you've had lunch in the Oasis Room recently, you've probably noticed that Tony isn't singing anymore.

"To set the air with voices bravely ringing is far from wrong, is far from wrong," or so the song goes.

No, according to Bob Lipovsky, food service general manager, and James Sheppard, assistant director of the Student Center.

"He was singing religious tunes in a loud manner while performing his duties and obviously annoying the customers," Lipovsky said, adding that he had received two complaints.

"Lipovsky has every right not to ask him to sing anymore," Sheppard said. "If a student is disruptive, we have to make sure he isn't disruptive anymore."

"He has to perform his duties in a manner that is responsible and right. We don't fire anyone unless there is no alternative," he added.

I wandered over to the Oasis Room to find Tony, to ask him if he was aware he had been disruptive.

I spotted him going about his duties in a responsible manner: towel over shoulder, cleaning tables and carrying dishes, but with mouth clamped shut.

"Hi, I said, and repeated it because I was drowned out by the "Ker-chang," "bum-bump," "dammit" coming from a couple of guys playing pinball machines in the corner.

"Is it true you've been asked not to sing anymore?" I asked as a worker dropped a load of silver, "clink-clang-clatter," and placed a pile of dishes, "crash, kerplunk," on a returning cart.

"Hey, watch it," someone yelled and Tony raised his voice to compete with the jukebox blaring from the corner.

"Yes," he said. "I was asked last Thursday not to sing anymore. It's hard and I sometimes have to catch myself and remind myself not to sing."

"Tony," I asked, raising my voice above a couple of customers who had joined the jukebox blare, "is singing automatic with you? Do you think you'll be able to stop it?"

"It'll be hard, but I can still sing my own songs," he said, going one octave higher to be heard above the noise of the noon-hour customers who were pouring in.

"Thanks Tony," I shouted above the clamor.

"Good luck," I yelled.

"Nice guy," I thought.

But, after all, his unprofessional and loud religious tunes had disturbed the peace and tranquility of the cafeteria and annoyed the customers.

"And customers are our first concern," Lipovsky and Sheppard had said.

Viewpoint

performance of all city employees. Therefore, any additional legal protection proposed in this ordinance could be misleading, in that it might suggest participation by certain city employees in borderline activities instead of making sure that their official conduct is above reproach and as such could not be characterized as having even the slightest hint of any wrong doing. However, in the event any city employee is exonerated as a result of any court action, then the city council could decide whether or not to reimburse him for his legal expenses.

We feel the City Council should devote its time to more essential matters. In this connection, we refer to a code of ethics and to a moral code which the city of Carbonale needs so urgently today even though this has been apparent for the past several years. A code of ethics and a moral code are necessary to clarify the gray areas of city administration, in particular to delineate and to codify all aspects of city government where it is now necessary to lean on a legal opinion for justifying questionable actions of city employees.

We feel that a legal opinion does not respond to all the ethical requirements of a city employee's job description or for fulfilling the public trust that prevails in his performance of duty.

In summary, we would like to say that just because it's legal doesn't make it right from a moral or an ethical point of view; and this is the view that the people take in passing judgment on their city employees.

While you're at it, fill in appropriate headline

By Tom Casey
Staff Writer

The man from the Newspaper Trivia Service stopped by the other day with his briefcase of tricks and treats for creative newspaper filling. Naturally, I was assigned to talk to him.

"All right, whardya got?" I asked, looking up from my typewriter at the eager representative, whose lapel pin reading "BOB" shone in the fluorescent lights of the newsroom.

"Why, Mr. Casey, I've got a wonderland of items here," Bob replied, his smile lighting up the general vicinity like a neon pizza sign.

"Now, this here is a big seller," he said, reaching into his briefcase and handing me some triple-spaced sheets. "Prewritten apologies to the readers!"

I looked at the top paper. "BEG YOUR PARDON," it read. Then below that headline, a tersely worded statement from the editors, with a space left for filling in their names.

"We at the (fill in paper's name) apologize for the piece run in last (fill in date) edition, in which we referred to (fill in name of public official or ranking bureaucrat) as a 'baboon.' This was not an intentional action on the part of the editors. The word, of course, should be spelled 'baboon.' We regret any embarrassment this error may have caused."

"And that's not all!" Bob gurgled, shuffling through the other pages. "Look here! Apologies for unintentional obtusities, for embarrassing misspellings in criminal arrest and child abuse stories, for bungled facts and outright fabrications!"

Bob's eyes were glowing by now. "And look! With every series of prewritten apology statements, we supply a book of commonly used alibis for newspapers! Dozens of ways that your paper can cover its tracks when it messes things up!"

I took the book from him and opened it to a page. "We apologize for our recent series on tax money abuse in government," the first entry under "Scandals and Reprisals" read. "Our publisher felt that it was in the best interest of the public to run this timely, important account at the time, even though we were aware that certain facts contained therein were deliberately erroneous."

Under "Student Publications" the list was longer. "Our typesetters were not feeling very well that day," was the mildest alibi. Others included "Our information came to us from a supposedly reliable source who has since proven to be lying (fill in appropriate word)," and "This publication does not receive any funds from the state. We therefore do not have the money to afford to hire reporters who bother to get their facts straight. Our apologies."

At the bottom of the column were two alibis labeled "ULTIMATE! USE ONLY IN EXTREME CIRCUMSTANCES!"

The first read "Would you believe we were only kidding?" The second, more aggressive approach, put it right on the line. "Well, what do you want out of us? Huh? Hell, you're getting this paper for free, aren't you? It's no skin off your nose what we print and what we don't print! So shut up and leave us alone!"

I closed the book and looked up at Bob. "Uh, Bob, I don't think our editors would be too hot on the idea of prewritten apologies. They usually assign them to the night desk. You got anything else?"

Bob looked into his briefcase. "Are you interested in famous people in embarrassing poses? Got a great shot here of Dan Walker and Adlai Stevenson meeting Jim Thompson's dog for the first time!"

"Uh, I don't think so, Bob."

"Hey, then what about riot and demonstration coverage kits? We got a good selection of prewritten stories here, just fill in the blanks! Women's rights, gay rights, student rights, left-wing rights, right-wing rights, black rights, senior citizen rights, the works!"

I looked at the pile of stories. "You got any SAVAK-CIA protest stories?"

Bob frowned. "Nope, fresh out of them. Should have some next month, though."

"Well, I guess that's it then," I said, turning back to my typewriter. "I don't think we need anything this month."

"All right, Mr. Casey, I guess so. Hey, wait a minute! I've got one more thing here that you especially would be interested in!"

Bob reached back into his case and pulled out a stapled stack of papers. I took them from him, read them carefully, and then smiling, I handed him a ten-dollar bill.

"Thank you very much Mr. Casey," Bob said shaking my hand. "I'm sure you'll find that you made a good investment." He left the newsroom whistling.

Well, I thought it was a good investment anyway. I mean, where else can you buy genuine, fill-in-the-blank, prewritten humor columns these days?

(Fill in appropriate closing joke.)

Marching Salukis earn publicity for SIU

The SIU Marching Salukis were outstanding in their performances at the St. Louis Cardinal-Giant game in St. Louis and the Chicago Bears-Kansas City Chiefs game in Chicago.

The acceptance at both games was tremendous and SIU gained immeasurable publicity as a result. I talked with TV broadcaster Jay Rancolph after the Bears game and he informed me that the NBC broadcasting crew had "goose pimples" after the anthem. Well, I did too as well as a "lump in my throat" feeling and a great sense of pride. The band members even danced for the fans and the roar of approval for that. And for the entire performance, was ear shattering!

The players weren't the only "pros" on the field. Congratulations and thanks to Mike Hanes and crew—they are outstanding people. Why, they even gave a referee a cheer—probably, the first time ever!

No wonder Mr. X Express prefers anonymity

Although the Mr. X Express, a recent student transport endeavor, is not connected to the University and is a privately-owned business, my experience as a passenger on the express this past weekend compelled me to alert my fellow students to what can appropriately be described as highway robbery.

The "Mini-Bus" meets each weekend (Friday at 2 p.m.) in front of the Student Center and carries a load of 12 or less students to their Chicago-based destinations, including the north and southwest suburbs. The fee is $24 round trip (if you are a suburbanite). This may be less than Amtrak charges but you get far less for your money.

The advertisement refers to the vehicle as a Mini-Bus, and boasts of comfort, etc. It does resemble a bus in one way. It has four wheels. But the similarity ends there. Actually, it is a van, and unless changes have been made since the weekend, it is a van in rather faulty condition.

At a rate of $24 one would expect at least adequate comfort and quality conditions; however, the Mini-Bus allows for 12 passengers—which means squeezing them in like donuts minus the holes. Not only is this procedure uncomfortable, but when one considers the conditions of the van itself, it appears to be unsafe.

These disturbing facts would have been palatable at least if it weren't for the exorbitant fee being charged. At $24 a person and with 12 people, even accounting for inflated gas prices...well, I'll let you do the arithmetic. It just doesn't add up.

My final grievance is with the driver himself. My understanding was that on the return trip to Carbondale, the passengers would be deposited at the Student Center where we would call and arrange for transportation home. It wasn't until we were several blocks past my home that I discovered the Student Center was closed, and our driver was servicing the crew door to door. This, I thought, was commendable. Unfortunately, we were well past my house and the driver had no intention of turning back. Although the confusion was my own mistake, I was rather unnerved by the episode. When I asked to be dropped at Neely Hall instead, he suggested I walk from Mae Smith since one of the other passengers was being dropped there. Despite my willingness to vacate the van, I had some rather weighty luggage. When I mentioned this he agreed reluctantly.

I must admit the idea of a service providing alternative means of transport to students lacking cars could be a very valuable one, but a service that takes advantage of these same students is the opposite. I can't blame "Mr. X" for preferring his anonymity.

Ticketing policy is like shooting first, questioning later

I received a ticket on Nov. 9 for parking on a cement slab. There were no signs present to indicate that I could not do so. The slab was at least twenty feet away from the nearest red-blue parking area, and was separated from it by mud and grass.

When I went to contest the ticket, I stated that a warning would have been sufficient to inform me that I could not park there without my vehicle being registered. This, unknowingly, was an understatement on my part.

I was promptly informed that operating an unregistered vehicle on campus grounds is cause enough for our "men in maroon" to issue a ticket. I was also informed that one should not infer from the signs which state, "a decal is needed from 7 a.m. to 5 p.m." that one can park there before 7 a.m. or after 5 p.m. and not receive a ticket. This whole procedure seems a bit like shooting first and asking questions later.

Now this may seem trivial or uninteresting, but it strikes me as typical of the efficient system the University has for ensuring income. For a mere $10 anyone can find out the rules and regulations governing the vehicles on campus. The $10 is no guarantee of course. I could have just paid the ticket and gone about my business, and judging by the lack of information on the ticket concerning the methods of contesting it, this is presumably the procedure the parking division would prefer.

My point, although it may seem moot now that I have discovered the intricacies of the ticketing system, is that a warning ticket would be appropriate for informing students of the special "laws" characteristic of SIU.

So, beware all of you illegal operators. The SIU police has no method of warning other than randomly shooting into a crowd to prove that they'll shoot.

Student government critic is responsible for problems

In reply to Mr. Wheeler's letter of Nov. 15, there's nothing like a crusade that gets the facts wrong. First, the charges presented against the Black Affairs Council were accepted by the Campus Internal Affairs Committee as being specific and straightforward. Secondly, the BAC is accused of violating its constitution, not the Student Government constitution.

The bill passed two weeks ago provides for control over monies appropriated for this fiscal year because Mr. Wheeler's administration of last year neglected to place restrictions on allocated monies. As far back as our records go, Mr. Wheeler's administration was the only one when restrictions were not put into effect.

I suggest that in the future if Mr. Wheeler finds it necessary to complain about student government, he make sure that he is not the one directly responsible for the problem.

Humor in advertising no cause for mirth in School of Journalism

Humor and advertising have always been associated but here in the School of Journalism the advertising program is based on humor. Did you ever hear of a school that had a 100 percent turnover in the faculty of a particular program like advertising has? HA-HA, it happened this fall. True, now there's one advertising instructor who is very capable and whose 30 years experience will be valuable to those in the program, but can he be expected to do the work of the three who left?

Here's a good one for you. Did you know that the policy at SIU is to deny graduating seniors work experience in the advertising department of the D.E., not because of the qualifications of the individual, but simply because it's more "convenient" for the advertising manager to train people who can work a full year?

The reason for this is because the D.E. must invest its own growth and income over the rights of students who want the experience. Maybe the D.E. should invest in South Africa to secure its income. Wouldn't that be a great joke on SIU? HA-HA.

And all this time you thought there wasn't any humor in advertising at SIU. Well, the joke isn't on you. It's on those poor students like myself who paid $371.25 and acutely thought they were getting a quality education at SIU. HA-HA-HA! I'm not laughing any more.

Enthusiasm ISA used to put up posters is needed to remove them

The First Amendment to the U.S. Constitution guarantees the right of all people to freedom of speech, but it does not give any of us the right to deface public property. The Iranian Students Association in their protest interrupted the main show during of Iran's visit to the United States thoroughly glued hundreds of posters to nearly every building and many of the light poles on campus.

Now that the Shah is here despite their efforts, maybe it's time for these inconsiderate ISA members to take off their masks and put the same enthusiasm into removing these eyesores as they did into gluing them up.

EAP has restored professionalism to student government

This letter is written in reply to Don Wheeler's letter of Nov. 15. I find it rather amusing that Mr. Wheeler has finally taken a look at possible causes for the downfall of student governments. Mr. Wheeler, have you figured out what happened last year yet? During the '76-'77 school year, under the student government administration of Tom Jones and yourself, tuition and fees were raised nearly $40 per semester, this action being taken with virtually no reaction from your office on behalf of the student body. I do believe that an enumeration of concentrated efforts toward programs which benefit students conducted during last year's administration of student government would constitute a very short list.

In reference to your accusation that the charges against the Black Affairs Council are unspecified, this is a matter of opinion on your part. The charges were accepted unanimously by the Campus Internal Affairs committee and will be used as the basis for the procedures during the hearing.

It is also highly incorrect for you to refer to the BAC investigation as a witch hunt. Student Government surely does have more pressing concerns and is attempting to process the affair as quickly as possible.

Further, it is incorrect for you to say that the Environmental Action Party has not fulfilled any of their platform promises. The EAP has restored professionalism to student government and through this action has efficiently implemented programs for students. You also state that the EAP is now harassing groups like the BAC. No one is harassing any group, as you may wish to believe. Let's get the facts straight.

Student dances enthuse crowd

By Curtis Clarke
Student Writer

The Southern Repertory Dance company, under the direction of Linda Kostalik, has once again reaffirmed their love for the dance. The centerstage vibrated with energy, and fluid movement. Oh, how they danced. How good it felt to be there, to be watching, to be alive.

The dancers, like finely tuned instruments, played concertos for an appreciative crowd. Or at least, an appreciative me. It was Mozart, in movement instead of musical notes. It was cool fresh breezes in the evening, relish, and savory, and anything else that evokes a smile when you think of it.

Some performances stood out from the rest. They were not necessarily better, but the feelings expressed were more easily identified with. "Shelter" by Carl Weingarten was one such performance. The stage discreetly lit, the music hauntingly soothing, the one performer, so alone...in need of protection.

"Her Eyes Like Windows..." choreographed and performed by Kathy Casey, was another piece full of feeling. One could easily get involved and seemingly move along with Casey as she floated, magically, majestically...

Dancers perform well

The stage went dark, and performers silently took their places for the performance of "Mirror" by Sally Idoune. Somewhere, the magical flute of Pan played a mysterious tune as 'wood nymphs' danced in what could have been a lush green forest, to the tune of the flute, and poetry, read by Julie McQuinn. For a moment, Olympus held the audience in one giant bear hug for the duration of the show. The audience left with a secure feeling of well being, and uplifted spirit.

As reviewer, one is supposed to be able to give a factual critique of a dance concert. I, on the other hand, must admit my ignorance. For when I attended the Student Dance Concert, Wednesday night in Ballroom D of the Student Center, I did not critically dissect each composition. I ask an indulgence, for I seem to have run away with dramatic license.

Something has to be said for the production and technical staff. The Center Stage productions are a welcome addition to the Student Center schedule of events. This in itself, is a very good thing.

'Lovers' presents story

By Kathy Flanigan
Entertainment Editor

"Lovers," the first part of a two-part play by Brian Friel, will be presented at 8 p.m. Nov. 30 and Dec. 1 and 2 in Ballroom D of the Student Center.

"Lovers" is directed by Kim Quigley, graduate student in theater. Center Stage, the Student Center and the theater department are a chance to present the shows of students like Quigley who are going for their MFA degrees in directing. Quigley said she chose Friel's "Lovers" because of its statement. "It has some practical values too, there's no set, very little props and it's a beautiful story."

"Lovers" deals with a two hour time period in the lives of two Irish youngsters who are very much in love. The setting is a hill called Ard-nageeha in Ireland outside the city of Ballymore. Commentators act as a guide for the audience, they explain the past of the lover's lives and then deal with their future.

The couple has to get married in three weeks because the girl Mag (portrayed by Cheryl Holliday) is pregnant by her boyfriend Joe (portrayed by Bob Modaff). The commentators, Theresa Pucek and Wayne Adams depict a guardian angel type guidance over the two as they tell the story from above the lovers.

According to Quigley the play is set up with an Irish Catholic structure. Subliminally the two go through the seven sacraments of Catholicism while the stage is set up in a Trinity shaped triangle.

"The play is about capturing and eternalizing the essence of young love," Quigley said. "That moment we wish we could all have for about six months in a relationship."

For her thesis, Quigley has attempted through costuming to add innocence to the young lovers. Her choice of dark colors, a grey or green, on top and a lighter color underneath adds the depth of uncertainty that Quigley is striving for.

"Lovers" is actually the first part of a two part play by Friel. Entitled "Winners and Losers," "Lovers" is the "Winners" half.

"Mag and Joe are winners because they don't go through the disillusionment process like their parents did," Quigley explained.

The lovers are portrayed in love eternally and they keep their contemporary love forever in the view of the audience.

The show is open to the public, admission is $1.50. Tickets for "Lovers" can be purchased at the Student Center Central Ticket Office or at the Theater Box Office in the Communications Building.

Edible art to be exhibited

By Kathy Flanigan
Entertainment Editor

"Four envelopes of Knox unflavored gelatin, four cups of boiling water...." Though it may sound like a recipe for the upcoming Thanksgiving feast, guess again. It's a recipe for an art exhibit piece.

"Eat Your Art Out" is the theme for the school of art exhibition. Everyone is invited to enter an exhibit, with a $1 registration fee, for display on Dec. 1 and 2 in the Allyn Gallery of the Allyn Building.

The clincher to the exhibit is the reception which will be at 3:30 p.m. on Dec. 2. Awards will be made to prize-winning entries and all entries will officially be eaten.

Jean Lintault, assistant professor in art, organized the exhibit and has offered a few ideas for the creative types.

There's ideas such as gingerbread sculptures, macramés made out of licorice whips, weavings out of apple and orange peels, spaghetti wall hangings, gelatin mold sculptures, cake paintings, bread dough sculptures and cookie wall hangings.

Lintault said the deadline for the entries is 9 a.m. Dec. 1. They will be accepted at the Gallery until then but persons are cautioned to fix exhibits that will keep for the two day display.

Lintault also offered a couple recipes for exhibit pieces. Gelatin molds can be made with four envelopes of unflavored gelatin, three packages of flavored gelatin and four cups of boiling water. In a large bowl combine the unflavored and the flavored gelatin, add water and stir. Pour the liquid into a mold and chill until it's firm.

Lintault said using more than the average amount of gelatin will help the mold keep longer.

Other recipes are on posters that advertise the exhibit around campus.

Students give thanks for fall break

By Frank Harris III
Student Writer

Thanksgiving was first observed in 1621 by the Pilgrims and Indians of Plymouth Colony in Massachusetts as a day where family and friends would feast and express their gratitude and appreciation for the harvest as well as the blessings they received during the year.

Now, 356 years later, what does Thanksgiving mean to SIU's students?

Sharon Brown, senior in family economics from Danville, said Thanksgiving means "a week out of school and a time to visit my family, friends and my boyfriend. She said she plans on shopping, eating and sleeping during the break and that she won't miss the classes. In fact, she "dreads" coming back.

Eddie Watts, senior in psychology from Chicago, said Thanksgiving is his favorite holiday. "I associate it with being home with my family, enjoying each other, eating and sharing good times and feelings. My family is what makes it special to me." He says he won't miss SIU because he won't be thinking about anything but his family.

Michael Ward, an undecided

freshman who commutes from DuQuoin, said "it is a time for the family to get together and have a big meal as well as being away from school." He said he will probably catch up on school work and work around the house. "I think we need the break before exams," Ward said. He said he will be glad to come back to classes because "school is a part of your life and it gets to be a daily routine."

Joan Fuller, sophomore in journalism from Robbins, Ill., said Thanksgiving means "a week of money" because she plans to work at home over the break. "I'll be with my family and eat a 'meal,'" she said, emphasizing the word "meal." She also will visit the Alpha house (she's an Alpha Angel) and go shopping for winter clothes. "If it wasn't working, I'd probably miss SIU, not the classes, just my friends," she said.

Brenda Coleman, graduate student in anthropology from Pine Bluff, Ark., said "it is a time to get together with my family and loved ones. If I'm away from home it is a holiday where I can go home." She also mentioned that her high school class is having a reunion. "I won't miss the classes because school isn't what I live to do, but what I have to do to achieve a goal. Whereas, with when you're with your family, it is a thing where you want to be with your family, with no goal in mind," Coleman said.

Craig Thorpe, junior in administration of justice from Philadelphia, said that being an out-of-state student, Thanksgiving means "getting away from the monotones and pressures of school."

He mentioned that he is going to Chicago to stay with some friends and normally he would consider it a time to be with his family, but since he is so far away from home, it is a little different.

WHAT IS FREE SCHOOL?

Free School is an attempt by many people to offer classes of current interest for students and residents of the community for free. Most of the work is done by the teachers who enjoy sharing their knowledge and experience of some topic or skill with other interested individuals. Free School teachers are all sorts of people: insurance salesman, store owners, students, professors, to name a few. They are not paid. There is no registration and it costs nothing except some of your time and effort. We hope you enjoy this course catalog (We like it!) and use it as a tool.
 Some notes about the courses. Most classes are held at night on - campus. Some classes are held at various, nearby off - campus locations.
 For more information about classes, sign-up sheets, etc., or if you are interested in teaching a class, stop by the Free School office, third floor of the Student Center or call 536-3393.

Free School also needs staff members to work on special programs for the remainder of Fall Semester and to begin work for Spring and Summer Semesters.

Free School is a member of Student Government Activities Council. Other members of SGAC include Cultural Affairs, Films, Video, Lectures, Student Center Programming, Orientation, Homecoming, Spring Festival, Parents Day, and new to SGAC this year, Travel.

Ever notice how it's easier to ace the courses you like?

It finally comes down to commitment.

When you don't like a course, it's hard to excel. The class gets tedious. The texts get boring. The lectures get dreadful. Your work suffers. And so do your grades.

Compare that with the courses you really believe in. You care more. You try more. And without even noticing, you just naturally do better.

It's true in school. It's true outside of school.

For example, we believe there's just one way to brew Busch beer. The natural way. With natural ingredients. Natural carbonation. Natural ageing.

We believe that's the best way to brew a beer.

And when you believe in what you're doing, you just naturally do it better.

Taste a Busch and we think you'll agree.

BUSCH.

When you believe in what you're doing, you just naturally do it better.

Birth control service expands through SIU Health Service

By Chris Meechick
Staff Writer

Editor's Note: This is the third installment of a three-part series on birth control.

Not unlike Carbondale's Women's Center and Jackson County Health Department Family Planning Center, SIU's Health Service had its beginnings with comprehensive birth control services in the 1970's.

Dr. Edward Knapp, medical director for Health Service, said "Up until 1970, Health Service offered little help for students with contraception." He said there was little demand by the students for the service.

Knapp, who began at Health Service in 1970, said that at that time there were only two physicians who would work with students requesting contraceptives. He said Health Service, at that time, was counseling people with problem pregnancies and helping with problems stemming from illegal abortions.

When student interest began to increase, Knapp encouraged the staff to change their moral bias on contraception and to offer a more complete service for counseling on the methods for birth control.

Knapp said that staff accepted his recommendations and that since 1970, the physicians have treated birth control the same way as any other medical examination. If counseling is desired by the student, the student is referred to Human Sexuality Services which is a part of Health Service operations.

Now, about 15 percent of Health Service operations is gynecology. Knapp said that at one time there was some discussion for opening a gynecology clinic at the Health Service. Knapp said it would cost about $40,000 to open the clinic which would include a certified gynecologist.

The idea for the clinic is now in limbo because of the projected Health Service deficit. Knapp said that the clinic is not needed because 90 percent of the primary gynecological care women request is now provided at Health Service. Referrals to an outside gynecologist, though, are made if required.

Health Service provides prescriptions for contraceptives. Before a prescription is made, however, Health Service conducts a breast examination, pelvic examination, Pap smear and gonorrhea culture. Knapp said no physicians at Health Service can administer the tests.

The same day the tests are taken, oral contraceptives can be prescribed provided the test are negative. The pap smears take up to 10 days for results, but Knapp said, "The results are negative for 99 percent of the women who take the test." After the oral contraceptive is prescribed, the woman can start the prescription following her next menstrual cycle.

Health Service normally prescribes the combination estrogen and progesterone oral contraceptive. If a patient requests the straight progesterone oral contraceptive, it will be prescribed.

Knapp said, "The straight progesterone oral contraceptive is very rarely used because of failure rate and side effects, such as irregular bleeding from the vagina."

Knapp said, "It's my personal feeling that having the presence of medical contraindications and troublesome side effects, the birth control pill is the contraceptive of choice for young, sexually active women."

Aside from the pill, Health Service will prescribe the diaphragm. If a student comes to Health Service and requires birth control method counseling, Knapp said the student is referred to Human Sexuality Services.

Human Sexuality Services became a part of Health Service in 1973. Prior to 1973, it had been a service offered through Jackson County Health Department Saddy Landis, Human Sexuality Service's coordinator, said the service was moved to the University when it was realized a majority of the clients using the service at the health department were students.

Landis said the Human Sexuality Services have expanded since it has started. The program has grown from a center for birth control information and counseling to a service with problem pregnancy counseling, referrals, staff training, outreach programs, seminars and workshops.

Both women and men use the service. Landis said, "It was basically thought that the program was for women only because it was women who requested contraceptive methods." Landis said they are trying to change the attitude by conducting rap sessions for women and men in dorms and seminars to discuss male responsibility.

She said Human Sexuality Services is an important service for students because there is more to sexuality than contraceptives. "It's a whole dynamic part of life.

Alumnus directs U.N. talks

A graduate of SIU recently conducted power talks with South African Prime Minister B.J. Vorster in his capacity as U.S. Deputy Representative in the United Nations Security Council, according to Frank Klingberg, professor emeritus of political science.

Donald F. McHenry, who received his master's degree in political science and speech from SIU in 1958, has served on the U.N. Security Council since he was appointed early this year by President Carter. Klingberg said McHenry was the official U.S. representative at the funeral of Steve Biko in South Africa earlier this fall and also counseled Vice-President Walter Mondale on his European trip earlier this year.

Born in St. Louis, McHenry joined the State Department in 1963 in the office of U.N. Political Affairs. He served as adviser to several U.N. delegations and received the State Department's Superior Honor Award in 1966.

McHenry also was assistant to Secretary of State William Rogers in 1969 and special assistant to the counselor of the State Department from 1969-71.

Klingberg, who co-chaired McHenry's thesis committee ("The Presidential Press Conference in Foreign Policy: A Rhetorical and Political Critique"), said McHenry will lecture at SIU in February for the U.N. Symposium on American and European attitudes toward U.N. political concerns in the Middle East and South Africa. The two-day symposium is set for Feb. 26-27.

Study program plans summer trips

Eleven tours are on the tentative schedule for SIU's annual travel study program next summer. Trip proposals include a work-study program in Haiti, a Scandinavian tour, a cultural trip through Italy and a European concert tour by the SIU choir. The purpose of the travel study program is to encourage students, faculty and staff to enrich and broaden their own education, according to Joseph Lynch of the university's Division of Continuing Education. Two of the tours will take participants into the Rocky Mountain area for botanical and ecological studies. Scandinavian trips will include a study of consumers, social services and housing progress and a month-long (June 1-30) look at the work methods of Scandinavian craftsmen, architects, designers and manufacturers. A seven-week (June 19-Aug. 10)

Mexican tour will introduce students to the people, culture and history of that country through firsthand experience in a Mexican university, Mexican homes and travel. A Russian study tour has been proposed for July. Students will study the language and culture of the Soviet Union (at Moscow International University).

An eight-week program called "Cross-Cultural Work-Study Experience in Haiti" has been proposed to "allow students a chance to participate in a culture socially and linguistically unlike their own." The choir's tour, set for May 14-June 10, will cover 10 concert performances in France, Italy, Germany and Austria.

University police investigate thefts

University police said someone broke into all the sanitary napkin dispensers in both Morris Library and the Student Center, taking napkins and money having a total value of $32.50.

The banjo. A rich American tradition is reborn.

The banjo is a uniquely American instrument. Its brilliant penetrating sound has always been an important part of American musical history.

Throughout the years, playing styles and banjo designs have varied. In the earliest days, all banjos used gut strings. As the popularity of the instrument grew, performers required an instrument that could project a fuller tone. About this time, the resonator banjo was invented. Unlike open-backed banjos, the resonator banjo captured the sound coming off the head of the instrument and reflected it forward. The resonator gave the banjo the carrying power it needed.

An lida banjo plays and sounds like the great banjos of the 30's. These original instruments have set lasting standards for tone and playability.

Yet, their scarcity has placed them well beyond the means of most players. The best lida banjos are modeled after these pre-war instruments.

Using classic designs, the finest woods and plenty of time, the lida craftsmen have fashioned a whole line of banjos that rival the great pre-war banjos for tone and beauty. The finest lida banjos are handcrafted: the skill of the lida craftsmen is apparent in every instrument.

Try several lida banjos for tone and playability. You'll find that for value and performance, it's hard to beat lida.

Sawyer qualifies for nationals; Hartzog not surprised by effort

By Steve Conran
Staff Writer

Mike Sawyer, the cross country team's leading runner this season, has won many races that he wasn't expected to during his three years at SIU. But the many individual championships he has won haven't seemed to phase his coach, Lew Hartzog.

"I'm not surprised at what he does anymore," Hartzog said. "The little guy has become a quality athlete. He just missed making All-America last year, so he knew he could run."

To qualify for All-America status, a runner must finish among the top 25 runners at the national meet. Sawyer came close to qualifying in last year's national meet as he placed 36th in a field of 322 of the nation's top runners.

"He got lost in the pack last year and must have passed 50 or 60 runners by the end of the race to finish where he did," Hartzog said.

"Naturally I'm happy he's going out there (to the NCAA cross country meet) and I think he has an excellent chance to be an All-America."

"I'm sure the little man will know more about what to do this year."

Sawyer will get the opportunity to make Hartzog's prediction come true Monday, when he competes in the NCAA championship cross country meet at Spokane, Wash. Sawyer qualified for the national meet by winning NCAA District 5 qualifying meet last week. It wasn't the victory as much as the ease of the victory that surprised Sawyer.

"When I made my move at two miles, I did it at the beginning of a hull, and no one went with me," said Sawyer. "Maybe I was just running stronger Saturday, but I thought that the Illinois Intercollegiate was a tougher race."

"I just felt awfully good," continued Sawyer. "I guess it was the fact that I had to win to get to the nationals that made the difference. That was the inspiration."

Hartzog was extremely impressed by Sawyer's finish.

"He beat some awfully good people," Hartzog said. "Because Kansas and Kansas State each had their top runners there, as did everyone. Nobody sent a runner to the meet unless they thought he had a chance to qualify for the nationals."

Sawyer, who was the first-place finisher at the Illinois Intercollegiate earlier this season to establish himself as the top runner in Illinois, believes he has progressed as a runner.

"I've matured and improved in the mental aspect of running that goes along with the training aspect," Sawyer said. "When I run, I just try to concentrate on my form and to just keep pushing. Concentration is really the basis or the arm part of running."

"I really didn't have a personal goal, but it has turned out to be a good season," said the soft-spoken Sawyer. "I'd like to have the team going with me to the nationals, though, because that would make it a lot more fun."

Monaghan, George winners of annual cross-country race

In just a little over 19 minutes SIU law student Katherine Monaghan made sure she could have her parents visit her from Springfield for Thanksgiving dinner.

That's how long it took her to win the women's division of SIU's 11th annual Turkey Trot held Monday. The 3-mile cross country race, which rewards the winners with a ready poultry, was sponsored by the recreation and intramurals department.

Monaghan, a dedicated jogger, finished the race in 19:06, more than a minute ahead of second place finisher Theresa Burgard, a junior in speech pathology. Graduate student Rebecca Ann Brinkman ran third.

Jerry George, a former Saluki trackman and cross country runner, was first in the men's division.

George, a senior in physical education, ran a 13:57 race, slightly a minute ahead of Kent Davis, a senior in geology. James Wadsworth, a junior in agriculture, placed third.

Ten-pound turkeys were awarded to entering who came closest to matching times they'd predicted before the race. Graduate student Marilyn Geninatti won the women's class and Timothy Cawley won the men's prize.

Alabama swims past Salukis

George Cosiak
Staff Writer

Alabama's No. 2 ranked Crimson Tide swimming team swept 11 of 13 first places from the Salukis Thursday at the Recreation Building pool, and headed for Ohio State with a 72-41 victory in the first dual meet of the year.

The Salukis won both the one and two meter diving events and also took second place in each. Rick Theobald and Bill Cashmore placed first and second in the one meter dive with scores of 268.40 and 251.95. Theobald also took the three meter diving event with 283.20 and Cashmore placed second with 258.55. The two divers accounted for 16 of the team's 41 points.

"I never thought we'd get first and second in both diving events," Coach Bob Steele said. "All of the swimmers scored 25 points and two divers scored 16. Man that's a bonus and against Alabama, it's an even bigger bonus."

The 400-yard medley relay event began the meet and the Salukis team of Dean Ehrenheim, Steve Jack, Greg Porter and Pat Looby were ahead of the Crimson Tide through the first three splits, but Looby was nomatch for 100-yard freestyle world record holder Jonty Skinner. Skinner swam away on the final split and the Tide, with a time of 3:29.7, edged SIU which finished with a 3:31.

"The medley relay was the key to the meet for us," said Alabama Coach Don Gambrell. "If SIU would have won that, it would have given them seven more points... that event could have really turned things around. The meet was a lot closer than the score indicated."

"I think it's a terrific pool," Gambrell said. "It's so fast—you can tell by all of the good times in the meet. I thought that the lighting was excellent and the water and everything around it was very clean."

K. C. Converse, the American record holder in both the 1000 and 1650 freestyles, won both events as he edged Saluki David Parker.

Second place finishers for SIU included Bob Samples (21.6 in the 50 yard freestyle), Greg Porter (1:58.2 in the 200 yard individual medley and 1:54.6 in the 200 yard butterfly), and Marty Krug (2:16 in the 200 yard breastroke).

"Chris Phillips did a fantastic job in the 1000 freestyle—he dropped his lifetime best time by nine seconds (9:36)," Steele said.

Gymnasts set to open season

Steve Conran
Staff Writer

The men's gymnastics team opens its season Friday when it competes in the Windy City-Gary Morava Memorial Gymnastics Meet at the University of Illinois-Circle Campus.

"I believe that they are as ready as they can be," Coach Bill Meade said of his gymnasts. "We are ready to compete and score about 415 points which would be 17 points better than last year."

The meet is named after Morava, an SIU all-around gymnast from 1970-74. According to Meade, Morava was the top all-around man in the country in 1974 right before he was killed in practice one day.

"It happened while he was doing a trick he had been doing for six years," Meade said.

Meade contributes a trophy each year at the meet to the top all-around man. Meade will need solid performances from his all-around men if the team is to improve on last year's fourth place finish at the meet.

"Iowa State is well-known for getting ready early," Meade said of last year's meet champions. "I'm just trying to bring us (SIU) along slowly but still be competitive."

"If you get them ready early, they stick to the same routines without progressing in difficulty," he said. "It is hard to keep them there."

The meet should give the Salukis an idea of where they stand as compared to last season's NCAA champion, Indiana State.

"We have to beat Indiana State to win our region; and advance to the nationals," Meade said. "This will give us some idea of what our potential is and what their potential is."

Another interesting aspect of the meet, according to Meade, will be the performance of his top specialist, Dave Schiele. Schiele was one of the nation's top performers on the side horse last season and earned a 9.45 on his first routine of the season.

"We want to see if his 9.45 from the Indianapolis meet was valid and how it holds up," Meade said. "He will be meeting some of the finalists from last year's nationals."

Dempsey predicts high scoring game

By George Csolak
Staff Writer

One would think that a football team with a 1-9 record would be an easy victory on any Saturday in college football. But Saluki Coach Rey Dempsey doesn't see things being easy when the Drake Bulldogs (1-9) invade McAndrew Stadium at 1:30 p.m. Saturday.

"They are better in their overall game than they were last year," Dempsey said. "It used to be that they would get a drive going and eventually make a mistake, but they have been playing better as the season goes along."

Dempsey referred to the Bulldogs' 18-13 loss last week to Louisville.

"That game was the most impressive to me," he said. "Louisville is contending for the Independence Bowl, but Drake could've won the game."

Drake has been known as an offensive power this season—averaging 17 points a game, but the Bulldogs have had trouble keeping opponents from scoring.

Their offense has had trouble getting a running game established," Dempsey said, "but they showed that they can run in the game against Louisville. Their defense has been their weakness—they've allowed a lot of points (31 a game) and they can't seem to gain any consistency."

Most teams are able to score against Drake by probing around and finding a weakness, because the Bulldogs tend to use many pass defenses, according to Dempsey.

"They use so many that I think they get confused," he said, "and it's helped the opponent."

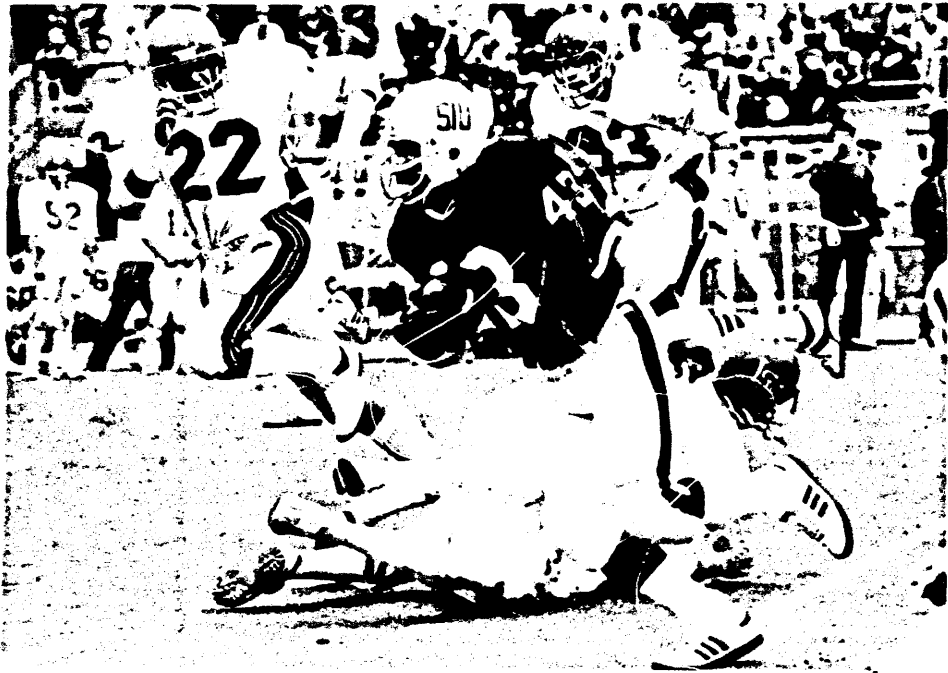

The Salukis, like the Bulldogs will be looking for their first Missouri Valley Conference (MVC) victory. SIU is 0-4 in the Valley and Drake is 0-5.

Last year, the Salukis beat Drake, 27-15 as A. dre Herrera rushed for 201 yards on 35 carries to give Dempsey his first win as a coach at SIU.

Dempsey said the layoff last week has helped his team. He said the Salukis have had a good week of practice.

Kevin House, the speedy split end from St. Louis, may see action in the game. House suffered a shoulder separation earlier in the season, and it was originally thought that he would miss the remainder of the year after undergoing surgery for the injury.

"I don't know if I'm going to start him or not," Dempsey said of House. "He has had a couple of bad days in practice lately, but I hope that he can come around and be ready by Saturday. Raifield Lathon, who replaced House at split end, will probably start at wingback in place of Dave Short."

Mike Gibbons

Wash Henry, Saluki tailback, sweeps wide left outside of Illinois State's defensive pursuit. Henry teamed up with fullback Bernell Quinn for 217 yards in leading SIU to a 23-17 victory Nov. 5 over the Redbirds. The Salukis play Valley for Drake at 1:30 p.m. Saturday at McAndrew Stadium.

Short has an elbow injury. Dempsey plans to start the same backfield that he did against Illinois State, which the Salukis defeated 23-17.

John Cernak, a 6-4 freshman from Chicago (Mount Carmel), will start at quarterback and the "New Orleans Twins", Bernell Quinn and Wash Henry will start at fullback and tailback, respectively.

"I think if Cernak plays as sound a game as he did two weeks ago, I'll be pleased," Dempsey said. "He is growing into the position. I'm hoping that he'll have a good game against Drake and against West Texas State, so I can say that now we have our quarterback."

The other players are showing a lot of confidence in Cernak, Dempsey said. Defensively, the Salukis will be getting some help at linebacker as Billy Hadfield returns after a leg injury that was supposed to put him out for the year. Kevin Woods, a cornerback, will also be ready to play after early season shoulder surgery.

"Hadfield has been playing in a lot of pain—that shows the kind of dedicated player he really is," Dempsey said.

The Saluki coach said that the game will be a high scoring affair and it will be difficult for either team to stop the other cold or shut them out.

"I think that it will come down to the team with the least turnovers and the best kicking game," Dempsey said. "They have good return men and their kickers are better than average. We have been working on our coverage, and our kickers (punter Steve Mick and kicker Les Petroff) have been looking good, so it should be a good ballgame."

Saturday's game will be the final home game appearance for 11 Saluki

Glenn signs Bulls' contract, but problems still exist

Students from the Windy City who escape to Carbondale for their schooling were elated last June when the Chicago Bulls of the NBA selected ex-Saluki star Mike Glenn on the second round of the college player draft. The fans envisioned a reincarnation of the famous "iv o, two, two" chant that permeated the Arena whenever Glenn arched one of his jump shots.

Contract difficulties and an August auto accident delayed Glenn's signing, but fans still had hope. Many thought Glenn's signing would solve a problem the Bulls have had forever—the lack of a shooting guard.

It is said that good things come to those who wait. If that is the case, Tuesday should have been a day for rejoicing and stampedes to the ticket windows because Glenn finally inked a contract—but not really.

The four year starter signed a two-year contract at the NBA minimum salary for a rookie—$30,000 the first year and $35,000 the following year. After signing the contract, Glenn was promptly suspended. It may not have been that simple, but that's what happened.

Mike McClure, the Bulls' public relations director, said the suspension was the only option the team had. He said that although Glenn passed a team physical, the team physician did not think he was in "game condition." McClure said the suspension allowed the Bulls to keep the rights to Glenn.

"Since it is the opinion of our team physician that Mike is not ready to play competitive basketball," McClure explained, "we did not feel we could put him on the active roster. But we are still very high on Mike and we did not want to release him."

"The only option we had open to us was to suspend him as a technicality—not a disciplinary action. It is within our rights to suspend a player indefinitely if it is our opinion that he is not in shape to play. So in order to protect our rights to him, we suspended him with pay and we'll wait and see how he progresses physically."

McClure said the Bulls have devised a training program for Glenn and he will be working out on his own until Nov. 29 when the team returns to Chicago from a road trip. When the team physician decides that Glenn is in "game condition," the Bulls will either have to cut a player currently on the 11-man roster or release him. McClure said if Glenn is still on the Bulls' payroll Dec. 1, the team will have to pay his salary for the entire season.

Glenn said the suspension was the Bulls' idea, not his. He and his attorney, Ron Grinker of Cincinnati, thought he should have been put on the active list after passing the team physical. He said Grinker is in the process of trying to get the suspension lifted.

"The Chicago Bulls have not been fair with me," Glen declared. "I am not sure what they mean by 'game condition.' I feel I am ready to play after working out for awhile and I should have been put on the active list or released."

"I signed the contract with the intent of being put on waivers so I could negotiate with some other teams that are interested in me. The suspension will at least be taken to arbitration, or we (he and Grinker) may file a lawsuit against the Bulls."

Glenn's contract problems stem from the early negotiations after he was drafted when Grinker and Jonathan Kovler, the Bulls' managing partner, got off to a slow start in their relationship. Glenn said Grinker called Kovler "a moron" and he said their relationship has not made contract negotiations any easier. He said, however, that he was pleased with Grinker's work as an agent.

The complicated situation has left the easy-going Glenn in a quandary. He was as excited as his fans were when he was drafted by the Bulls. He has been hurt by the situation, but he said he will not let himself get bitter. He would still like to play for the Bulls if the contract problems are solved.

"My problems with the Bulls are the result of the actions of the front office," Glenn said. "I have met the players and have become good friends with some of them. I still would like to play in Chicago because I think their offense is made for me."

There are many fans who share Glenn's wishes. The chant of "two, two, two," would blend in well with Nancy Faust's organ music at Chicago Stadium.
