Italian leadership falls amid furor

ROME (UPI) — The Italian government collapsed Thursday amid a political furor over its handling of the Achille Lauro hijacking and doctors confirmed that slain American hostage Leon Klinghoffer was shot twice — once in the head and chest.

Prime Minister Bettino Craxi resigned with his government and in an address to Parliament expressed "bitterness" over U.S. protests against his decision to let Palestine Liberation Organization official Mohammed Abbas leave Italy.

Craxi allowed Abbas to fly to Yugoslavia despite U.S. assertions it had proof he was the leader of the four Palestinians who seized the Italian luxury liner Oct. 7 and killed Klinghoffer, 69, of New York, during a two-day voyage of terror in the eastern Mediterranean.

The Italian prime minister came under intense criticism at home and abroad for his release of Abbas, even though Italy helped negotiate the surrender of the four hijackers and the release of the 510 hostages aboard the cruise ship.

"The polemical tone of the first American government reactions could not fail to cause me the most unpleasant surprise," Craxi said in his speech. "It also gave me a feeling of bitterness, for the failure of a friendly government to recognize all the Italian government did to solve with success a situation that was particularly critical."

The resignation of Craxi's 26-month-old government — the second longest in post-war Italy — was forced when Defense Minister Giovanni Spadolini's Republican Party withdrew Wednesday from the five-party coalition to protest the Abbas release.

Craxi tendered his resignation to President

Francesco Cossiga who, as is customary, reserved a decision on the matter and asked Craxi to maintain his government in a caretaker capacity until the crisis was resolved.

Yugoslavia said Abbas left Belgrade last Monday for an unknown destination, although a PLO official Thursday said Abbas was probably in Baghdad, Iraq, with PLO Chairman Yasser Arafat.

USO questions alleged violations in AD selection

By Ken Seebler
Staff Writer

The Undergraduate Student Organization passed a resolution requesting answers to several alleged affirmative action violations in the search for a new director of intercollegiate athletics.

The resolution was passed during a regularly scheduled senate meeting Wednesday night by a vote of 15-1. Seven senators abstained from the vote.

The resolution was written by the Graduate and Professional Student Council, but was extensively amended by the USO before being voted upon.

The resolution originally called for a new committee and search for the AD position. As amended, it now calls for President Albert Somit and Dean Stuck, special assistant to the president in charge of athletics, to directly address the concerns pointed out in the resolution.

The resolution also invites Stuck and Nancy Bandy, the assistant director of women's athletics, to attend the next scheduled senate meeting on Oct. 30 to answer the questions raised in the resolution.

Tony Appleman, USO president and member of the search committee, told the senate he did not feel calling for a new committee would be effective, because the name of the new athletics director would be announced Friday morning. He also suggested the senate reject the resolution written by the GPSC and write a new piece of legislation.

The resolution claims several sections of the SIU-C Affirmative Action Recruiting and Hiring Procedures for Non-Academic Administrative and Professional Staff were violated in the AD search.

Most of the violations cited involve improper filing procedures, but the resolution also claims that Stuck did not follow proper procedure when he failed to advertise the AD position through "minority and women caucuses of professional organizations."

The resolution also states that the "spirit of the law" was violated in section II-A-6-b of the procedures when Stuck failed to provide Somit with "justification why a minority or woman was not selected (when, in fact, minorities and women were in the applicant pool) prior to the Sept. 27 press release announcing the five finalists of the position."

Appleman denied any wrong-doing by the committee and said he was confident the committee had chosen the five best finalists for the position.

"No matter how many search committees you want to call together, we have brought forth the five best candidates for the position of athletics director," Appleman told the senate. "You do not hire someone based on prejudices of sex or race. You hire someone based on whether they are the most qualified for the position. We, as a committee, have done that."

New athletics director to be named Friday

By Tom Mangan
Sports Editor

A news conference to announce the selection of a director for intercollegiate athletics will be held at 9 a.m. Friday in Ballroom A of the Student Center.

University officials have withheld comment on who will be named athletics director, but it is believed that Jim Livengood, associate athletics director at Washington State University, is the strongest possibility for the post.

Livengood was reported to be registered at a Carbondale motel Thursday night, while none of the three remaining finalists was a guest at any major city motels, according to motel desk clerks. It is expected that the new athletics director will be introduced at the news conference.

The other finalists are Randall G. Hoffman, associate director of athletics at the University of Maryland; Jerry M. Hughes, athletics director at Central Missouri State; and Richard A. McDuffie, director of athletics at Central Connecticut State.

Wayne Williams, director of St. Louis operations for the University of Illinois, pulled his name from the list of finalists last Friday.

Fifty-four applications for the post were received before Sept. 27, when the five finalists were named.

University President Albert Somit announced Aug. 19 that a national search would be conducted to find an athletics director to replace Lew Hartzog, director of men's athletics, who is slated to retire after the new director is named.

Dental School will be own bargaining unit

The Illinois Educational Labor Relations Board has ruled that the SIU School of Dental Medicine in Alton will be a separate collective bargaining unit.

Hearings to determine the SIU bargaining agent began Wednesday in Chicago.

Don Keck, higher education specialist for the Illinois Education Association-National Education Association, said that all parties — including the SIU administration — agreed to the decision of Hearing Officer Ira Epstein to maintain the Dental School as a separate bargaining unit.

The administration had filed a petition that all SIU campuses be included in a systemwide bargaining unit.

"What that means," Keck said, "is that the board could rule that the Dental School hold an election in 60 days" to determine its bargaining union; either the IEA-NEA, the Illinois Federation of Teachers or the American Association of University Professors.

Two issues not settled, Keck said, are the definition of "part-time employees" and whether the Dental School's five department chairpersons will be represented in a bargaining unit.

Keck said that the NEA-IEA would push for an election for the Dental School to be held in 60 days.

Molaise delivers message before hanging for murder

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) - Black nationalist Benjamin Molaise, sentenced to hang at dawn Friday for the murder of a black policeman, sent a farewell message Thursday saying, "Freedom is at hand. I will spill my blood for those who remain behind." Police later tear gassed a group of 200 youths gathered in a garden tent outside his mother's concrete home, where elderly women comforted her in a traditional death vigil.

Mormon artifact basis for church criticism

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) - The "White Salamander Letter," written in 1830, the only known link between a suspect and two bombing attack victims, is used by church critics to challenge Mormon Church founder Joseph Smith as a religious prophet. Mormon leaders contend the 19th century document, which surfaced last year, should not be the basis of attacks on the authenticity of the faith.

Lebanese communists bolt U.S. radio station

MARJAYOUN, Lebanon (UPI) - Four Lebanese communists with explosives on their belts stormed an American-owned Christian radio station in southern Lebanon Thursday in an attack that Israel said killed five people, including three of the bombers. Four to six Americans who work at the station, the Voice of Hope, were on vacation in the United States, a station source said. Israeli military sources in Jerusalem said three members of the four-man assault team, a civilian guard and a technician were killed.

Gorbachev's arms plan stresses reduction

MOSCOW (UPI) - The Soviet Union published a sweeping review of its arms control proposals Thursday and urged the United States and other Western nations to peacefully end "the historical dispute between capitalism and socialism." An editorial in the Communist Party newspaper Pravda contained an unusually detailed account of Gorbachev's initiative, announced in Paris earlier this month to reduce nuclear arsenals by 50 percent in exchange for a ban on space weapons.

Graphic artist John Michael Beardsley dies

ORLANDO, Fla. (UPI) - John Michael Beardsley, 37, a graphics artist with the Orlando Sentinel since 1977, committed suicide Tuesday. He had been receiving treatment for depression. Beardsley, a native of Bloomington, Ill., graduated Springfield (Ill.) High School in 1966 and worked as an audio-visual technician in the Air Force and as an artist in Tampa before moving to Orlando. Beardsley, was one of 10 national finalists for the 1983 Charles M. Schultz Award for promising cartoonists.

Israel's Peres ready to negotiate with Jordan

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Israeli Prime Minister Shimon Peres, urging movement at a time of political uncertainty, pledged Thursday to consider any proposal by Jordan for "honorable and direct negotiations" on peace in the Middle East. Emerging from more than an hour of talks with President Reagan at the White House, Peres said Israel stands ready to take "bold steps" toward peace in the face of terrorism that has cast a shadow over the politics of the Middle East.

Federal health officials cite AIDS needle infections

CHICAGO (UPI) - Federal health officials Thursday reported the first three confirmed cases of hospital workers who became infected with the AIDS virus through needle pricks. They also recommended that heterosexuals exposed to the AIDS virus be found and counseled to prevent further spread of the disease. The three hospital workers who became infected were not part of a high-risk group for AIDS and had not had sexual contact with an infected person, said Dr. Stanley H. Weiss, of the National Cancer Institute.

Stateville stabbing suspects named

JOLIET (UPI) - Three inmates at the Stateville Correctional Center were identified Thursday as suspects in the stabbing death of fellow inmate Leon Smallwood, a convicted murderer from Southern Illinois. Smallwood, 37, of Alton, was found dead in his cell Tuesday morning with a stab wound in his heart, said Illinois Department of Corrections spokesman Nic Howell. DOC has segregated the suspects from the inmate population while officials consider the filing of charges, Howell said.

Bishop says apartheid a spiritual problem

By Paula Buckner
Staff Writer

Apartheid is not only a social and economic problem for the people of South Africa, says Bishop B. N. Lukhele, but a spiritual one as well.

"The Gospel is the only solution to our people," Lukhele said. "The people there are ready to die for anything now."

Lukhele is the founder and pastor of about 140 churches in South Africa which are under the umbrella of the New Hope International Ministries. He and the Rev. Harold Dawson, pastor of the New Hope Church of Deliverance in Peoria, Ill., have been speaking to media persons throughout the country about the position of the black church in South Africa.

THEY SPOKE in the Student Center Illinois Room Thursday to "illuminate Southern Illinoisans about the spiritual problems in South Africa," said Don Wills, lay pastor at the Monument of Hope Deliverance Church in Carbondale. The church, along with the SIU-C Black Affairs Council, sponsored Dawson and Lukhele's Carbondale stop.

"We're trying to reach everyone," said Dawson, who heads the American delegation of the NHIM and recently returned from a visit to South Africa. "We're letting Americans know what they should be doing rather than just rallying behind an abstract cause."

THE BLACK church in America, Dawson said, should be involved in the issue not from the standpoint of divestment, but from the standpoint of "what the final result will be. If the liberation of blacks comes about," he said, "the communist influence will leave the black church in South Africa in a bad position."

Lukhele began preaching in Mozambique in 1976 and within three years founded 56 churches. Mozambique's communist government has also given him seven plots of land on which to build churches.

The "doors are open to preaching," Lukhele said, but manipulation is used "to keep blacks in place." Oppression has caused blacks to lose hope in Christ, which results in rioting and death, he said.

"WHEN HOPE in Christ is lost," he said, "there is no need, in any respect, for life."

Through the preaching of the Gospel, Dawson said, a peaceful solution to apartheid can be reached. He gave an example of some students in Alexandria who would not riot. "They said it was because of the Gospel that was preached to them."

South Africans, he said, feel that President Reagan jumped on the bandwagon, but are "glad to have the empathy of the American people."

Dawson said that the "average American" can send missionaries to stand and preach in the churches of South Africa's dominant religion, the Dutch Reformed Church. "The church pushes apartheid. There is something wrong with their Gospel," he said.

DAWSON ALSO blasted the Rev. Jerry Falwell, who visited South Africa and called Bishop Desmond Tutu "a phony." Jerry Falwell is preaching the gospel of Wall Street," Dawson said. "Why didn't he go over there before the businessmen started losing out? He accused a Nobel Peace Prize winner of being a phony, and later said it was a slip of the tongue."

"The Bible says that out of the abundance of the heart the mouth speaks, and he should have known that better than anyone."

A convention titled "Exodus '86" is scheduled for March 21-31, Dawson said. It's goal is to recruit 1,000 Americans to tour South Africa and "deal with the spiritual aspects" of the church there.

"THE PURPOSE of our American visits," Lukhele said, "is to get more people of God who'd like to come and preach all over South Africa, that the only answer is Christ."

U.S. denies trying to intercept Italian plane

ROME (UPI) — Prime Minister Bettino Craxi charged Thursday that a U.S. F-14 jet tried to intercept an airliner carrying Palestinian Mohammed Abbas from Sicily to Rome by telling the plane's Italian fighter escorts to "go away."

Italy filed an immediate protest with Washington, Craxi said.

In Washington, administration officials angrily denied Craxi's charge that an F-14 Tomcat tried to intercept an airliner while it was flying between Sicily and Rome, but acknowledged the Boeing 737 was shadowed by an unarmed T-39 military utility aircraft. "That was the only plane," one official said.

THE OFFICIALS, speaking on condition they not be identified, said the T-39 did not receive its orders from Washington but that "someone was concerned Abbas would be taken to Cairo." The officials declined to identify which military commander issued the orders to the T-39 or from where.

Before resigning his government, Craxi disclosed in a speech to Parliament new details of U.S. military action following the Achille Lauro hijacking in which Italian and American forces confronted each other twice.

CRAXI SAID the Egyptian airliner carrying Palestine Liberation Organization official Abbas and a PLO aide from Sigonella to Rome's Ciampino military airport was intercepted late Friday by the U.S. jets.

The United States had asked the Italian government to hold Abbas until it could provide enough evidence to show he was involved in the hijacking of the Achille Lauro.

Craxi said the Egyptian Boeing 737 was escorted on the flight to Rome by four Italian jetfighters, who reported that three minutes after they left Sigonella a U.S. F-14 jetfighter approached them.

"THE PILOT did not respond to demands that he identify himself," Craxi said. "On the contrary, he asked our fighter planes to go away. Our fighter pilots say it was an F-14."

"Forty kilometers (24 miles) from Ciampino Airport, the aircraft vanished off our radar screens, flying very low," Craxi said.

Craxi added that immediately after the Egyptian airliner landed at Ciampino Airport "a U.S. military T39 aircraft landed and parked a few dozen meters away, claiming it was an emergency landing."

More involvement helps Homecoming

HOMECOMING WEEKEND IS HERE AGAIN — a time to relax and enjoy the festivities. And maybe it's a good time to be thinking about how the event can continue to be improved in the future.

One improvement would be increased involvement at the college, school, department and social group levels, a development that Homecoming organizers say has been taking place. For instance, this year the School of Technical Careers plans to have a tent for its alumni set up along the parade route. But there's more that can be done.

Alumni would be more likely to return to campus if activities were planned in their respective colleges — or better still, in their respective schools or departments — because activities at that level would provide a better opportunity to meet former classmates and instructors. Alumni Services could help the various units organize activities and coordinate them with the plans at the University level.

AND MORE ACADEMIC OPPORTUNITIES, such as lectures, seminars and demonstrations of new technology, could be offered in addition to the tradition social activities. This idea has been gaining support. For example, this year the College of Business Administration will hold demonstrations of new equipment being used in the school. But this too can be further developed.

Alumni Services has been encouraging participation in Homecoming — as well as increasing efforts to get alumni to come back for other events, such as Springfest — and organizers say they are pleased with the response they have received. But more can be done.

Homecoming is a time for the entire University community — past and present — to get together and celebrate. This year's Homecoming will likely be a success. (The football Salukis are favored to defeat Southeast Missouri). But everyone should support the efforts of Alumni Services to increase participation. It can only enhance the occasion.

Will real answers...

In order to help protect the sanity of the students, I am writing in response to the letter written by Chris and Noel Oct. 15.

The thing that rotates near the Student Center is a special perpetual motion device that keeps the campus safe from U of I students, Martians, Klingons and other aliens.

The concrete blocks east of the Recreation Center serve as weights to hold down the ground on which they rest.

The tribesman in the Student Center is actually not a sculpture at all; she is a petrified woman who was found in "fat man's squeeze" by a student who dared to go in with a flashlight. The concrete structures at either end of Life Science II are obviously missile silos.

An ombudsman is a sort of guru who helps troubled students achieve oneness with the University community.

Faner Hall is not actually riot proof, but it is a trap designed to lure rioters inside, where they are lost forever.

Captain Crunch is missing because no one knows where he is.

While I'm at it I might just as well solve two other problems. Buy a non-historical cannon and put it under the flag pole. Put Charlotte West in Wayne Williams' vacated finalist position. — Mike Phillips, senior, Geology.

...please come forth

As student workers in the Neckers Building, we feel that it is our moral obligation to shed some light on the pertinent questions raised by Chris Pesko and Noel Desierto Oct. 15. We can no longer keep silent.

To begin with, the trickle from Neckers is not rain. Due to lack of proper lavatory facilities, the roof of Neckers was turned into a giant outhouse containing many large buckets. Unfortunately, a strong wind may, on occasions, result in rather unsanitary conditions. But, as any first-year science student well knows, urine is sterile. That is why these buckets drain into a large pipe which runs to the inverted structure between the Life Science buildings. This structure then recycles the liquid into coffee for the Student Center. — Kristy White, secretarial and office specialties; Kathy Foster, accounting; Sheri Smith, pre-nursing; Simone Wilson, University Studies.

Don't close the book on MIAs

In response to Dr. Turley's letter on Oct. 14, we feel we must reply. Our intent in the POW-MIA program was to make the public aware that there are still 2,477 Americans missing from Vietnam and that they haven't been forgotten.

Dr. Turley's definition of miniscule in comparison of previous wars and our — those of organizations involved in the POW-MIA awareness program, the National League of Families, Veteran Associations and the families of those still missing — definition of miniscule differ greatly.

We, as representatives of Harper Angel Flight, would not call 2,477 human beings a "miniscule" number. We do not feel that it is too much to ask to have a full accounting of MIA's and we pray that a time will come when all our people are accounted for and we will be able to "close the book." Dead or alive, families need to know if their loved ones will ever come home.

In regards to the vigil held on Oct. 4, once again our intent was misunderstood. As students and residents of Illinois, our purpose was to honor the 104 — it was 105 but one was returned April 1984 — missing from our home state.

Also, there is no way the "possibility of MIAs being held in Vietnam has been proven false." If this were true, we would have a full accounting of our MIAs and we don't.

In an article in the Oct. 7 issue of the "Air Force Times," Department of Defense spokesman Maj. Keith Schneider stated, "the U.S. Government's position is that it has been unable to prove that any American POWs are being held in Southeast Asia." However, he said, "The government has not ruled out the possibility that there are POWs being held and routinely investigated firsthand reports of live sightings."

The article also stated that two Army officers charged that their superiors squashed reports that more than 100 Americans were being held as POWs as recently as last year.

We think it is our duty as Americans to not let our government rest until a full accounting of all our men and women is established. If there is the slightest chance that they are alive, it's worth any time or effort on our part. — Kim Engelmann, commander, Angel Flight, Radio and Television and Linda Kullick, member, Angel Flight, Theatre.

Bears fan sees success for future

So, Ron Warnick hates the Bears and their loyal fans? Well, Ronnie, it's obvious that success in the city breeds contempt in the piggens and cornfields of central Illinois.

What's the matter, Ronnie? Didn't your mommy let you watch or play sports while you were growing up? I bet you were too busy in your local Future Farmers of America club to know who the Bears or any other teams were.

Granted, the Bears of the past had "boobs" in the front office, as head coaches and as players on the field. True Bears fans have always supported (though not necessarily liked) their team. Now, we have the hope of continued success for the future. Front office smarts, great coaching and superior position players have replaced the old guard.

You can make fun of Jim McMahon. His stats and a high rating speak for themselves. As for William Perry, he's making big bucks as a defensive lineman and part-time fullback in the NFL. We are still sitting in front of your plate of corn in central Illinois thinking about the moisture content in this year's corn crop. As for your comparison of Ditka to Vermeil, there is none. Vermeil left the NFL early due to stress; Ditka knows enough to let it all out, get mad and have a few drinks after winning the big game. Ronnie, Ditka and the Bears will be here for some time to come.

Well, Ronnie, let's chat again when Super Sunday is upon us. I'm sure the Bears will be in the hunt for the big prize, your Seahawks will be home for the holidays and the price of corn and pork will still be way too low. See all you true Bears fans at the Tap this Sunday. — Karl D. Schneider, graduate student, History.

For the past several weeks I have read numerous letters by Lincoln Canfield claiming that those of us who oppose American support for the contras have been duped by those crafty old men in the Kremlin.

I was just wondering. Is it possible that Mr. Canfield has been duped by that crafty old man in the White House? — Nick Rion, Anna.

The day the circus came to town

When Wayne Franzen decided to start a circus in 1974, he didn't have very much money. But that didn't stop him from living out his dream.

"With me, there wasn't much money involved. It was all ambition," Franzen said. "I could weld and I was my own mechanic. I went from there."

Franzen, a Wisconsin native, started by training animals as a hobby. Eventually, that hobby became his life.

"MY DAD had a dairy farm way up in northern Wisconsin where I started training animals," Franzen said. "I went to college for awhile and taught school for six years. Then I escaped to the circus."

The Franzen Brothers Circus made a one-day stop in Murphysboro last week for two evening shows at the Jackson County Cooperative Extension Service. The show brought a pretty good sized crowd to the big top for the first performance, but the crowd fell off considerably for the second show. Franzen said competition with area high school football games probably had an effect on ticket sales.

THE RINGMASTER for the show, a former SIU-C student, says drawing a crowd to the circus has been a problem in the last few years.

"It used to be that a circus could just advertise they were coming to town and that would be enough to draw a crowd," said William Reynolds, the show's ringmaster. "People just don't want to get out of their easy chairs anymore."

Reynolds, a native of Mount Vernon, did some graduate work at SIU-C in 1969. He was a school teacher in Breeze, Ill., but he eventually left his

S-Senate approves funds for ISA after much debate

By Ken Seeber
Staff Writer

The Undergraduate Student Organization provided funding for several campus organizations during Wednesday night's meeting.

It also passed two pieces of legislation to fund the Illinois Student Association and the United States Student Association after a lengthy debate.

Several senators expressed some concern over the relationship ISA and the USSA had with the USO. There has been some speculation over the possibility of making the ISA a Registered Student Organization so the USO will be able to fund the organization more easily.

MARK FILIPS, president of the ISA, made an appearance at the meeting to answer questions over the purpose of the ISA. Filips is a student at the University of Illinois in Champaign.

Filips told the senate that through the ISA and USSA students can have a stronger voice in the state and national legislature.

Filips also said the student governments of several state universities, including SIU-C, are considering running referenda later this year to request a mandatory student fee to provide funding for the ISA. He said part of the money would be used to open an office in Springfield.

THE USO passed the two bills after amending them to state that "the USO receive no more funding for the ISA or USSA until their position in the USO is resolved."

"I think it's good what is going on with the ISA and USSA tonight, especially with senators showing some concern over where their constituents' money is going," said Nicole Giasser, vice president of the ISA, after the meeting. "But I think it's unfortunate that some of the senators can't make the connection between the ISA and USSA and the students' voices in the legislature."

The USO also passed bills providing funds for 12 other campus organizations without debate.

FUNDING WAS approved for the following Registered Student Organizations: Creative Concepts, the Muslim Arab Youth Association, Sigma Tau Gamma, the Social Work Student Alliance, the Mid-America Peace Project, the SIU Veterans Association, Iota Phi Theta, the Student Orientation Committee, the American Baptist Students, the Singapore Student Association and the Institute of Electrical and Electronic Engineers.

The USO also approved funding for three projects for Harper-Angel Flight.

Total funding allocated at the meeting came to $10,475.

IN OTHER business, bills to seat two new senators were approved.

James R. Schnepfer was seated as a senator from the west side and Mike Miller was seated as a senator from the College of Liberal Arts.

The USO also approved bills registering three new campus organizations: The Non-Traditional Student Union, the Agricultural Computer Club and the International Folk Dance Group.

The USO also passed legislation repealing two resolutions passed last spring that called for moving the overnight parking lot for Thompson Point residents.

THE RESOLUTIONS that were repealed requested that the Parking Division and the Office of Campus Affairs designate lot 23, between Thompson Point and Greek Row, as overnight parking for Thompson Point residents and that lot four next to the Communications Building be designated for daytime parking only. The purpose of the two resolutions was to free up parking for off-campus residents.

The resolutions have received considerable opposition from Thompson Point residents.

for a REAL Homecoming

The Golden Gauntlet is gone, the same for the Club, the Longbranch, Leo's, Miss Kitty's, the Rathole, Junior Hatchet's, Stella's, Carrie's, Bonapart's Retreat and the Rumpus Room.

For a real rush take your alumni friends to the bar that replaced the Rumpus Room.

When people come back to the home of their memories, total change can be traumatic. The campus is somewhat different, and the bar scene is totally different... But nothing is different at Fred's. The same place, music, party (even the same fiddler for 17 years). Relive the good times

Limited Warranty has crowd dancing

By Alice Schallert
Staff Writer

The cool night air warmed up Wednesday night as Limited Warranty performed their versatile pop rock music on the steps of Shryock Auditorium in Old Main Mall.

The five-piece band from Minnesota, together since 1983, was a $100,000 winner on the television show, "Star Search," in February, but "we're still growing," says keyboardist Paul Hartwig.

The money won on the show was used to produce a single on the band's own label, "Serious," which held a top rating in Minneapolis this summer, according to the band's manager, Thomas Harers.

"We're negotiating with a record label right now," Hartwig said. "But it all happened so fast, we're just catching up now."

"We're danceable," he said of the band's versatile blend of pop and funk music.

"Almost everything has a limited warranty," said Hartwig of the band's unusual name. "We're a little bit of everything. We don't want to be identified with any one thing or following," he said.

Crowd reaction to the group was good, and people go up to dance after the first couple of numbers.

"I think they work together really well; they're not in competition with each other sound-wise," said one woman in the crowd. "They're very versatile. I think they'll get somewhere."

About 100 people attended the concert, intended as an alternative to a formal Homecoming dance.

Second City comedy act will perform

The touring company of Chicago's Second City comedy troupe will perform Friday at 8:30 p.m. in Ballrooms A-B of the Student Center.

The company, which has launched the careers of such superstars as Joan Belushi, John Candy, Dave Thomas and Rick Moranis — the MacKenzie Brothers of "Great White North" fame, Catherine O'Hara, Bill Murray, Alan Alda and a host of others, has been a Chicago institution since its inception in late 1959.

The company has received critical acclaim and has been received enthusiastically by the public since it began. The company has established a sister company in Toronto, Canada.

The company also spawned the cult television program SCTV, a show that parodied a television station in the fictional town of Melonville.

Among the regulars seen on SCTV were Count Floyd — the host of Monster Chiller Horror Theater, a program that featured such horror classics as "Dr. Tongue's 3 D House of Slave Chicks;" Bob and Doug MacKenzie — hosts of the all-Canadian program "Great White North;" and Station Manager Guy Caballero, who used a wheelchair to command respect.

Tim Curtis, who placed second in the Lite Beer Comedy Connection Competition, broke up the crowd in the Student Center Roman Room with a joke.

Comedy competition earns students bucks for yuks

By Mary Lung
Staff Writer

Students crowded the Student Center's Roman Room Tuesday night to see an annual Homecoming event, the Miller Lite Comedy Connection, organized by SPC's Special Events Committee.

The Comedy Connection featured amateur comedy acts performed by students.

First-place winner Kevin Hernandez pleased the crowd and judges with his White Castle and Taco Bell restaurants routine. Second-place finisher Tim Curtis did well with his impressions of Mr. T. and Andy Rooney, and third-place comic Todd Williams won with his thoughts on SIU life, including commentary on the uneven male-to-female ratio.

"I'm pleased with it," said Homecoming Chairman Connie LeBeau, "It was a lot of fun."

Each of Comedy Connection's three winners received prizes; $75 for the first-place winner, $30 for second place, $20 for third place, and Miller jackets and t-shirts for each winner. All contestants received Miller Lite Comedy Connection t-shirts.

LeBeau and Comedy Connection Coordinator John Summerhof emceed the event, introducing each of the nine comedians. As each act finished, four judges wrote down their scores, later tallied on an adding machine.

Comedians Jay Bellisimo, Joe Walters, Kevin Hernandez, Todd Williams, Tim Curtis, Michael Harrison Brown, Wesley Crum, Steve Eagen and Mark Paulson vied for the audience and judges' response with jokes, ad-libs, bodily contortions and impressions. Most of the evening's comedic routines include jokes about life at SIU, parties, childhood, women and sex.

Several of the contestant's had had previous stand-up comedy experience, although the nervousness of a few newcomers was apparent. The audience was appreciative of all the comic efforts, despite one comic having to tell his listeners when his jokes were over.

Another Miller comedy event is the Second City Comedy Troupe appearing Friday at 8:30 in the Student Center, Ballrooms A and B. Tickets are $3 and $5 at the Student Center Ticket Office.

CUB sponsors town forum on utilities act

By Jim McBride
Staff Writer

The Citizen's Utility Board, a consumer utility watchdog group, has announced it will hold a "Town Hall Meeting" at 2 p.m. on Saturday, at John A. Logan College in Carverville.

The purpose of the meeting will be to discuss the new Public Utilities Act, recent developments in the telephone industry and the 125,000-member group's activities during this year. Strategies for additional consumer action will also be discussed.

"We encourage all CUB members and other ratepayers from the area to participate in what should be an exciting event," said Robert Gustafson, CUB's 22nd congressional district representative.

During the group's first year, it has successfully lobbied for passage of the Public Utilities Act and intervened in several utility rate increase hearings before the Illinois Commerce Commission.

Utility companies are required by law to permit the statewide group to place CUB literature in monthly utility bills up to four times annually.

For additional information on the meeting, call CUB headquarters at 1-800-222-2822.

teaching position for a job with a circus playing the trumpet because "teaching got too political and not enough educational."

REYNOLDS HAS been teaching his 5-year-old daughter, Mariel, himself, using the Calvert System, a branch of the University of Maryland. Besides reading, writing and arithmetic, Mariel is learning how to perform in the circus already. She is practicing a trapeze routine and trick riding. She is also one of the few people in the world to ever ride a giraffe.

Despite all of the adventures

she has had with the circus, Mariel said she is not convinced show business is for her.

"IT'S NOT very fun, really," Mariel said. "I don't have anybody to play with."

Reynolds said he wants Mariel to get a good education and learn what other options she has in life.

"Being an artist isn't a very lucrative field, really," Reynolds said, "but I'll always be in show biz."

FRANZEN AGREED that being in show business isn't always easy. He also said that the circus business has seen better days. The cost of his liability insurance went up 1100 percent last year from $7,000 to $84,000. Eventually, the company he was with dropped him completely.

"Lawsuits involving animals have just gone nuts," Franzen said. "I've never been sued and look what happened to me! How am I supposed to buy a new tent if I have to pay $84,000 a year for insurance?"

FRANZEN'S CIRCUS employs about 30 people, although he says the number changes from week to week. The circus puts on two shows a day, seven days a week, forty weeks a year.

"You know, everybody thinks we go sit on a beach in Florida all winter, but we don't," Franzen said. "We paint and weld and fix and sit on the phone trying to line up another season."

The circus will be on the road until Dec. 2, when it will head for the warmer weather of Florida to wait out the cold.

The 13th edition of the Franzen Brothers Circus will begin in March.

SIU-C police to lock illegal bikes

Effectively immediately, the Parking Division will enforce impoundment guidelines for bicycles that don't have current decals, says parking manager Marilyn Hogan.

Hogan said that such bicycles will be bolted by SIU-C police with a "permanent type lock" to a stationary structure.

"Wherever you leave them, that's where you'll find them," she said.

Hogan said that owners will have to ask University police to have their bicycles unlocked. A $5 citation will be issued and a $3 impoundment fee assessed before a bike is unlocked.

Decals cost $2 and can be purchased at the Washington Square Parking Division office.

"You must have your bike registered on campus to ride," she said.

Sports Medicine Program offers advice on keeping fit

By Brett Yates
Staff Writer

When choosing an exercise program for the first time, such as running or weight lifting, one often has the difficulty of deciding how much exercise to start out with.

Fitness assessments, advice on exercise and nutrition and help with sports injuries are free services offered to students by the Sports Medicine Program at the Recreation Center.

FITNESS ASSESSMENTS by the Sports Medicine Program were started in January by Joanne White, coordinator of fitness and sports medicine in the Office of Intramural-Recreational Sports. White said she received her background for the fitness assessment program from workshops she attended which were offered by the American College of Sports Medicine.

WHITE SAID those who come in for fitness assessments are tested for strength, muscle endurance, body composition and aerobic capability. Some of these tests, for example, involve sit-ups; skin fold measurements to determine body composition; use of a bicycle ergometer to determine aerobic endurance; and use of a dynamometer, which involves pulling up on a bar to determine strength. After being tested, people are then advised on how much work they need to start out with in the exercise of their choice.

HELP WITH sports injuries is another service offered. White, who is an athletic trainer, said the most common problems that she sees involve joints, such as knee or elbow injuries.

Those who come in with minor injuries are treated with ice packs and are recommended exercises to do, White said. Those with more serious injuries are sent to the University Health Service to be examined by a physician to determine the severity of the injury.

A NEW service offered by the Sports Medicine Program is the Diet Energy Analysis Program. In the program, which began last Friday, participants record all of their daily activities, how much they have slept, what they have eaten and the amount of time they spent engaged in physical activity, including walking to classes, White said. This information is then fed into a computer which evaluates the data.

THE INFORMATION about food intake is broken down into the different mineral groups and compared to the amount of minerals needed to maintain a healthy body, White said. By looking at the printout and comparing the column of food intake with the column of mineral requirements one would be able to see if he or she is deficient in iron or is consuming too many carbohydrates.

The computer examines the total activity of a person and gives the total caloric output of all the activities computed, White said. From this a person knows how many calories are being burned and can determine if they are getting enough exercise.

White says many students utilize the services. About 20 students visit her office daily, and a total of about 150 students this semester have come for fitness assessments and for help with sports injuries.

"I've seen an interest in the questions the students are asking," White said.

The Sports Medicine Office is located in Room 46 across from the weight room on the first floor of the Rec Center. Appointments to see White can be made by calling 453-3020.

Oldest alumnae joining Association luncheon graduated 60 years ago

By Susan Sarkauskas
Staff Writer

When SIU alumni gather Saturday at the Alumni Association luncheon, many will brag of being 30, 40 or 50-year alumni. But none of them can top the claim Margaret Browne Karraker can make. She'll be the oldest alumnae at the luncheon — representing the Southern Illinois Normal University class of 1915.

Karraker first attended school here in 1903, when she began the second grade at the University-run elementary school. Her father, for whom Brown auditorium was named, was a chemistry professor.

THE ELEMENTARY school was in the Old Main Building, which, with Wheeler Library, comprised the campus. By the time she graduated, Allyn Hall and Shryock Auditorium had been added to the campus.

She graduated early from the school, completing high school and the two-year program Latin Normal Course in five years.

She has met all the University presidents except the first. Her family lived close to the University, at 902 S. Normal Ave. Normal Avenue is now University Avenue, and the two-and-one-half acres of land the family lived on was sold to the University for about $3,900. Woody Hall stands there now.

EACH DAY began with an assembly of students and faculty, with the hymn singing and the reading of announcements. Sometimes the president of the University, Mark Parkinson, or another faculty member would address the students.

She belonged to the Zetetic Society, which would meet weekly to discuss literature and put on shows. Karraker was also in the Young Women's Christian Association, and worked on the Obelisk yearbook staff.

AFTER GRADUATING from S.I.N.U., Karraker taught school in Jonesboro for one year. She then attended Millikin University in Decatur, where she completed her baccalaureate degree in library science. She returned to S.I.N.U. and worked in the library for two years. She then quit work to get married.

Karraker has been a resident of Jonesboro since her marriage, living in the house in which her late husband was born. She is the mother of five, a grandmother of 12, and a great-grandmother of three. Her oldest and youngest sons graduated from SIU. David George Karraker, class of 1947, is a research chemist. Robert, who graduated in the early 1950s, is a chemistry professor at Eastern Illinois University.

KARRAKER DOESN'T get back to campus often these days. But when she does, she is a little awed by the size of the place.

"It was just that one little place," she said, speaking of what is now Old Main Mall. Where Lake Ridgway — their popular gathering place — was, is now Davies Gymnasium. She misses the Old Main Building, which burned down in 1969.

But there is still one sight familiar to her — the fountain in the middle of the mall.

"It's kind of nice to still see that," she said.

TV exec, accountant, Kenyan official are alumni award winners

A television station owner, a member of Kenya's parliament and a Carbondale accountant will receive the 1985 Alumni Achievement Awards during Homecoming ceremonies Saturday at the Student Center.

Winners of the 28th annual awards are: Ralph E. Becker, of Darien, Conn., president and chief operating officer of Television Station Partners of New York City; Jonathon K. Ng'eno, minister of education, science and technology in Kenya and member of the country's parliament; and Harold I. Dycus, partner and co-owner of Dycus, Schmidt and Bradley, certified public accountancy firm in Carbondale.

Becker and Ng'eno are being cited for professional achievement, while Dycus is being recognized for outstanding service to the University and the Alumni Association.

Becker, 54, was among the first group of students to enroll in a fledgling SIU radio-television program in 1954. He helped launch the University's first radio production studio in a cramped set of Army barracks on the southwest edge of the campus.

Since graduating from SIU-C in 1955, he has worked in various areas of the broadcasting industry, including stints in sales and management for Metromedia in Peoria, Washington, D.C., and San Francisco.

In March 1982, Becker and his partner bought four television stations, which formed the basis of Television Station Partners. The company now owns and operates six network-affiliated TV stations in Michigan, Pennsylvania, Georgia, New York and Ohio.

He received this year's Alumnus of the Year award from the radio-television department.

Ng'eno, a two-degree graduate of SIU, has been Kenya's minister of education, science and technology since 1983. He was elected to the parliament in 1979 and holds the title of Elder of the Golden Heart, which is bestowed upon distinguished members of the parliament.

He has also served as Kenya's minister of basic education and minister of water development. He received a master's degree in political science from SIU in 1966 and a Ph.D. in 1972.

Ng'eno was the speaker for this year's Distinguished Lecturer Series, speaking on "Education and Development in Kenya."

Dycus, 52, has been actively involved in University and community organizations. He is past treasurer of the Alumni Association and has served as president of the College of Business and Administration alumni.

Before establishing his firm in 1973 Dycus was executive vice president and trust officer of the First National Bank and Trust Co. of Carbondale. Before that, he was assistant to the budget director at SIU from 1965 to 1968 and chief accountant from 1962 to 1965.

Dycus serves on the Egyptian Electrical Cooperative's board of directors, is past chairman of Southern Illinois Hospital Services and is past chairman of the Carbondale United Way Fund campaign.

Ralph E. Becker

Jonathon K. Ng'eno

Harold I. Dycus

Dycus is a native of Mount Vernon and received a master's degree in accountancy from SIU in 1965. He and his wife, Jane, live in Carbondale. They have one son and three daughters.

Homecoming Parade to follow different route

The route of the annual SIU-C Homecoming Parade, which begins at 9:30 a.m. Saturday, has been changed from previous years.

The parade will line up in front of the Recreation Center on Grand Avenue.

It will proceed north on Illinois Avenue to Elm Street and then turn left on Elm and then south onto University Avenue.

It will then march down University, finishing at McAndrew Stadium.

Marching Salukis plan special engagements in Chicago, St. Louis

The Marching Salukis have a couple of out-of-town dates on their schedule after their Homecoming performance Saturday.

On Sunday, Oct. 27, fans at the St. Louis football Cardinals game with the Houston Oilers at Busch Stadium will hear the popular signature rendition of the national anthem by the SIU-C band. The band also will do a halftime show.

And on Nov. 10, the Marching Salukis will be at Chicago's Soldier Field to play between halves of the Bears vs. Detroit Lions game. They'll also play some post-game numbers.

At St. Louis, the band will play its special arrangement of "The Star Spangled Banner" and do a halftime show featuring highlights from this season's repertoire. It will be the Marching Salukis 20th annual appearance at a Cardinals home game, the longest consecutive number of appearances there by any guest band.

Michael Hanes, the tuxedoed and Homburg-hatted band's director, said a jazz treat is in store for both the St. Louis and Chicago crowds. He says it is one of the best arrangements available to marching bands today but that few people would guess that it's "Home on the Range."

"It really swings," Hanes said. "It does everything I think the Marching Salukis should do."

Hanes and the band are looking forward to both performances, though for somewhat different reasons.

Fans in St. Louis, where the band played before a 1982 World Series game, have become "like family" to the Marching Salukis, he said.

"We're looking forward to that game just because of the way the St. Louis crowd always receives the band," he said, noting that St. Louis again has World Series fever.

"Our uniforms don't say SIU, but people recognize us. They give the kids a real boost."

As for the Chicago date, Hanes said that the phrase "stiff upper lip" could

'Our uniforms don't say SIU, but people recognize us.'

—Michael Hanes, director of the Marching Salukis take on new meaning for the trumpet players in November.

"There are high notes in every tune we're playing and when it gets to be 20 degrees," he said, "you can't count on even the best trumpet players being able to play them."

But the Salukis will be ready with cold-weather contingencies — the trumpeters will have the option of substituting lower notes if the temperature is below freezing.

It will be the band's fifth appearance at a Bears game.

"We're looking forward to it," Hanes said, "because so many of the band members are from Chicago and are Bears fans."

Homecoming activities promise daylong party

By Ken Seebor
Staff Writer

If ever there was a weekend to stay in Carbondale and party with your friends, this is it.

The activities for Homecoming weekend start in hot and heavy Friday afternoon with a free concert behind the Recreation Center by the Misstakes. The concert starts at 3:30 p.m.

Friday night, the Second City Comedy Troup will offer their brand of off-the-wall humor in Ballroom D of the Student Center. The show, which starts at 8 p.m., costs $3 for students and $5 for the general public.

Homecoming festivities really start to smoke Saturday morning with the Homecoming parade. The parade starts at 9:30 a.m. on Grand Avenue, in front of the Recreation Building.

Connie LeBeau, special events chairman for the Student Programming Council, said there will be about 85 entrants in this year's parade, including floats and several area high school bands, the Marching Salukis and the Saluki Shakers. Kelly Dixon, Miss Southern Illinois, will be this year's grand marshal.

Following the parade, the SPC will sponsor a tailgate party at the Free Forum Area. LeBeau said food will be served for a small charge and the Modern Day Saints will provide music for the bash.

A pregame show by the Marching Salukis at McAndrew Stadium starts at 2:10 p.m., and a team of eight Budweiser Clydesdales are scheduled to put in an appearance.

Kick off for the game against the Southeast Missouri State University Indians is at 2:30 p.m. The coronation of the Homecoming king and queen will be during the halftime.

Homecoming court to be announced at game

By Mary Lung
Staff Writer

Homecoming is upon us, and once more the tradition of electing a king, queen and Homecoming court is being re-enacted.

The candidates for king and queen will ride in the Homecoming parade Saturday morning, and the royal pair will be announced in coronation ceremonies at halftime of the football game.

Ten candidates represent five segments of the campus — Greek Row, Off Campus, Brush Towers, Thompson Point and University Park.

The Greek Row candidates are Betsy Malone, Sigma Kappa, junior in clothing and textiles from Naperville, and Tom Von Bokel, Alpha Tau Omega, senior in industrial technology from Belleville.

Off Campus candidates are Jocelyn Cruzada, junior in food and nutrition from Chicago, and Garry Huebner, senior in speech communications from Geneva.

The Brush Towers candidates are Cindy Faisl, a senior in biological sciences from Freeport, and Kevin McKee, sophomore in finance, also of Freeport.

Thompson Point candidates are Nami Herman, freshman in biological sciences from Lisle, and John Hart-ness, sophomore in secondary education from Clinton.

The candidates from University Park are Kathi Seaton, sophomore in dental hygiene from Pecatonica, and Dan Becker, sophomore in physical therapy from Peoria.

Homecoming king and queen candidates had to meet qualifications that included a grade point average of at least 2.25.

Connie LeBeau

Homecoming planner finds job exciting

By Mary Lung
Staff Writer

A 50 hour per week job, a full course load and hours of studying may sound like sheer drudgery to many SIU-C students, but not to SPC's Connie LeBeau.

LeBeau, 22, the special events chairman for the Student Programming Committee, is a senior in public relations and says of her job "I love it. It's very exciting."

Taking up most of LeBeau's time recently have been plans for this year's Homecoming festivities. Entitled "Let's Dance!", Homecoming is the biggest event of the fall semester for LeBeau and her staff, who have been working on arrangements for this week since May, 85.

Events planned for Homecoming week included a comedy competition, two free concerts, a tailgate party, the Mr. and Ms. Saluki contest, an election and coronation of a King and Queen, a parade and more. LeBeau has been working on all the arrangements for Homecoming while also coordinating the new student activities for Orientation Week and programming events for Parent's Day.

Starting the first week of summer classes, LeBeau began the preliminaries for Homecoming. Letters to high school bands, a parade permit, floats, convertibles and distinguished personages to ride in them were needed for the parade, as well as bands for the concerts, comedians for the comedy competition and a host of other details.

Working with LeBeau on Homecoming are the special events committee, the university programing office staff members, other SPC chairmen and SPC graduate assistants. Last year's special events chairman, Rick Gant, has been working with LeBeau coordinating the King and Queen competition and has continued to coordinate the SIU cheerleaders and the Saluki Shakers.

Once Homecoming week is over, says LeBeau, things will slow down a great deal. Her next big program is Springfest, a one day event in April. For now, however, "I drink a couple of cups of coffee and probably twelve diet pepsis every day just to keep up with everything that has to be done," LeBeau said.

Despite all the headaches and frustrations that come with a job that requires a lot of organization and planning, LeBeau wants to continue working at similar jobs.

Alumni Association making some changes to improve its services

By Susan Sarkauskas
Staff Writer

The Alumni Association has new leadership, a spiffy color magazine and some new ideas about how to best serve alumni and the University in the future.

C. Thomas Busch was named acting executive director July 22. He is at the helm of an organization with 10,000 members, belonging to 28 chapters in the United States. Chapters will soon open in Hong Kong and Taiwan. Busch would like to establish chapters in several countries, including South Korea, Thailand, Bangkok, Singapore, England and Western Europe.

THE ASSOCIATION is a University-related organization, but is separately incorporated, and recently received tax-exempt status from the Internal Revenue Service. It was created in 1896, when this was the Southern Illinois Normal University. May Dorsey of Carbondale is the oldest continuing member, having graduated in 1909.

Dorsey, and other alumni who graduated from the University 50 or more years ago, are eligible for membership in the association's Half-Century Club. Friday night, 24 members of the class of 1935 will be inducted at the annual dinner.

THE ASSOCIATION recruits new members from a database of 80,000 active names supplied by the Office of Admissions and Records and the Office of Computing Affairs from the University's mainframe computers. The association is helping the admissions office to develop a new Student Information System, to aid them in keeping track of students once they leave SIU-C.

The Association exists to maintain, nurture and advance the association of its members, as well as to assist the University in attaining its teaching and research goals. It also promotes and encourages communication after graduation between alumni, Busch said.

The association gives out several scholarships and awards each year. This fall, $10,000 was divided among 20 students, he said. The money was raised through telefunds by the chapters.

AT THE association's board of directors luncheon Friday, three freshmen and two transfer students will be announced as winners of Roscoe Pulliam scholarships.

And for the 25th year, the association will give the $1,000 Great Teacher award to a teacher chosen by the members.

Alumni Achievement Awards will be given to Ralph Becker, Jonathan Ng'eno and Harold Dycus at Saturday's luncheon. Becker is a co-owner and chief operations officer of Television Station Partners of New York City. When at SIU, he was one of the original students in the Radio and Television Department. Ng'eno, who spoke as a Distinguished Lecturer Thursday night, is Kenya's Minister of Education, Science and Technology. Both will receive Professional Achievement Awards.

DYCUS, A certified public accountant, will receive the Distinguished Service Award for his assistance with the association's endowment activities, accounting and organization.

The association is also encouraging colleges and schools within the University to form alumni constituency groups, to help with fundraising and recruitment of students, another service of the association.

THE ASSOCIATION organizes trips and activities for its members and its families and recently sponsored a tailgate celebration for alumni at the SIU — UI football game in Champaign. It offers health insurance and term life insurance to recent graduates from the time they leave the University until they find permanent employment.

The association also sponsors the Student Alumni Council, a service organization that assists with many University social functions. The students were tour guides at the Faculty Art Show, and acted as hosts when the Illinois Board of Higher Education met at SIU-C.

Candidates vie for Saluki title

Seven men and two women are candidates for a new honor associated with Homecoming this year — Mr. and Ms. Saluki.

The honored pair — symbols of school spirit — are to be introduced at the Homecoming Tailgate Party at 1 p.m. Saturday. The party begins at 11:30 a.m. at the Free Forum Area.

The contest, sponsored by the Student Programming Council, is aimed at recognizing students who best represent SIU-C, socially as well as scholastically.

The Ms. Saluki entrants are Lisa M. Booth, a junior in advertising, and Becky Ronachy, a junior in speech communications.

Those seeking the Mr. Saluki title are Brian Elmore, senior in data processing, Mark Case, senior in forestry; Kirk Grissom, senior in finance; Rob Hall, senior in agriculture; Michael T. Miller, senior in political science; Dennis Y. Saldana, senior, pre-major; and Richard Zimmerman, junior in cinema and photography.

Licensed love

Some Saluki fans will go to any lengths to show their devotion, some of them are even willing to display their commitment on the backs of their cars. This vanity plate was found on a car parked behind the Communications Building Thursday.

Alumni group slates full schedule of events

By John Tindall
Staff Writer

SIU-C alumni will be kept busy Homecoming weekend with activities planned for them by the Alumni Association.

Things kick off Friday afternoon with campus tours from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. to reacquaint alumni with their alma mater and the progress made on campus. At 5 p.m. until closing, the Student Recreation Center will be available free of charge to alumni.

THE ALUMNI Half-Century Club, a club honoring SIU Alumni who graduated more than 50 years ago, will induct members of the class of 1935 at a dinner in the Student Center Ballrooms at 6:30 p.m. All club members from previous class years are invited to attend. Tickets for the dinner are $10 and are available at the Alumni Services office.

Registration for Homecoming begins at 9 a.m. Saturday at the main entrance to the Student Center or at the International Lounge. Graduating classes from years ending in zero or 5 and the Class of 1984 will vote for class representatives and two alternates for the Alumni Association Legislative Council at the time of registration. The Legislative Council will meet in the Student Center Auditorium at 9 p.m. and is open to all alumni.

THE HOMECOMING parade along Illinois Avenue is another entertainment alternative on Saturday, scheduled to start at 9:30 a.m. School of Technical Careers alumni are invited to a reception at Illinois and Grand avenues, on the parade route.

The Alumni Recognition Luncheon, honoring outstanding alumni, will be in Student Center Ballroom D at 11 a.m. Ralph E. Becker and Professor Jonathan Ng'eno will receive Professional Achievement Awards for outstanding success in their careers.

The Great Teacher Award recipient will be announced at the luncheon. SIU-C President Albert Somit will give a State of the University address.

An Alumni Dinner-Dance will be in the Student Center Ballrooms from 6:30 p.m. to midnight Saturday. Tickets for the buffet dinner-dance are $15.

Salukis aim to renew Homecoming win streak

By Ron Warnick
Staff Writer

SIU-C Homecoming football games traditionally have been rich and colorful, with thrilling upsets and heartbreaking losses.

The Salukis are aiming at putting a Homecoming win streak back on track when they play Southeast Missouri State at 2:30 p.m. Saturday at McAndrew Stadium. SIU lost to West Texas State, 24-17, at last year's Homecoming.

The first Homecoming was celebrated on Armistice Day, Nov. 11, 1922. William McAndrew was head coach, and the football program was less than a decade old. Pregame activities included a human "rooster fight," tug-of-war and a hobo parade.

Those were the days when the school was Southern Illinois Normal University, football helmets were without facemasks, games were played on grass, referees wore white shirts and no caps and the players' protective pads were much lighter than those worn today.

The first Homecoming was successful, as fullback Marvin Hamilton and quarterback Denard Lee led the SINU Maroons — that was the team name in the pre-Saluki era — to a 12-7 victory over Cape Girardeau.

In 1923, however, the Maroons lost a 13-12 heartbreaker to Cape Girardeau. Late in the fourth quarter, the Maroons marched down close to the goal line with five consecutive passes, but lost when they were unable to snap the ball before time ran out. The Maroons had defeated Cape 13-0 only two weeks before.

The 1928 Maroons lost their first game of the season by falling 18-0 to Charleston in a Homecoming mud bath. Charleston killed all hope of a rally when Maroon fullback Frank Eovaldi fumbled the wet ball on the SINU 11 and a defender scooped it up for the third score. It was the Maroons' only loss of an otherwise successful

In 1932, only two years after an undefeated season, the striped-jerseyed Maroons escaped a winless season by defeating Illinois Wesleyan at Homecoming 7-0. They finished with a record of 1-6-3.

The 1938 Homecoming was a special day, as the new Southern Illinois State Normal Stadium, later to be renamed McAndrew Stadium, was dedicated by Howard Hunter, assistant administrator of the Works Progress Administration, the Depression era federal agency. Over 6,000, a big crowd in those days, attended to see the Maroons lose 6-0 to Illinois State Normal in the final two minutes of play.

A great 6-0 victory over Eastern Illinois brightened an otherwise dismal 1953 season for Bill O'Brien's Salukis, who finished 2-7. Halfback Jack Schneider had 140 yards in 18 carries and scored the winning touchdown with a "dipsy-doodling" 41-yard run.

Over 12,000 attended the 1958 game to watch the Salukis break a four-year Homecoming losing streak by defeating Washington and Lee, 36-7. SIU Hall of Fame halfback Carver Shannon, despite playing on an injured ankle, ran 103 yards in nine carries. A strong Saluki team finish the season with a 7-2 record.

Future St. Louis Cardinal quarterback Jim Hart almost pulled the 1964 Homecoming game out of the fire in a 14-13 Saluki loss to North Texas State. He threw a 15-yard TD pass to Tom Massey in the first quarter, and had the game-winning touchdown pass with two minutes left called back because of a penalty. A missed extra point proved to be the difference.

Perhaps the greatest Homecoming victory — at least one of the most stunning upsets — came in 1967 when SIU-C beat powerful Tulsa, 16-13. Tulsa led the nation in total offense, passing offense and defense, and the Salukis had been beaten 34-14 by Dayton and 37-0 by North Texas State.

The Golden Hurricane — favored by 52 points in some forecasts — jumped out to a 13-0 lead, but then the Salukis took over.

Art director says students need Glove Factory space

By Elizabeth Cochran
Staff Writer

Many graduate students in art use the facilities housed in the Good Luck Glove Factory that the University is considering purchasing, Brent Kington, director of the School of Art, says.

If the building were sold to someone other than the University and the art students were forced to move before another facility was available, "it would be a disaster," Kington said.

In the Resource Allocation and Management Program (RAMP) document for fiscal year 1987, University officials put a request for $300,000 on the "capital priority list" to acquire or construct an art facility, said Kenneth Shaw, SIU chancellor.

Clarence Dougherty, campus services vice president, said that the request is in response to a need expressed by the School of Art to obtain a more permanent facility.

The building also houses the University's surplus property facility, which Dougherty said uses less than 10 percent of the facility space.

The University rents the building for $57,535 a year, which includes $12,425 for utilities. It is owned by a trust that is "anxious to sell it," Dougherty said.

Kington said the owners have been trying to sell the building for years and he's "not sure how sellable" it is.

Dan Lurie, spokesman for the trust, was unavailable for comment.

Before the University purchases the building or starts construction on a new one, the Board of Trustees must agree on it and the Illinois legislature has to approve the funds, President Albert Somit said.

Estimates are that the initial costs of the factory building will be about $300,000 to buy it and $500,000 for renovations to make it comply to city codes and make it accessible to handicapped individuals.

This amount does not include any correction of structural deficiencies that might be found by architectural and engineering consultants now studying the building, Somit said.

The Good Luck Glove Factory has about 50,000-square-foot of space, but it will probably be more expensive to maintain and operate than a new building, Dougherty said.

But "to build a new building of 50,000 square feet could cost as much as $10 million," Dougherty said.

If a new building is to be constructed, "We'll either have to get more money or shave down the size," of the building, Shaw said.

Gandhi calls for South African sanctions

NASSAU, Bahamas (UPI) — Indian Prime Minister Rajiv Gandhi held out hope Thursday for an agreement among Commonwealth leaders on economic sanctions against South Africa, which British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher has resisted.

Gandhi also proposed a "system of international order" to forestall what he called a return to international anarchy and to resolve problems like the human rights situation in South Africa.

Gandhi spoke to delegates from Britain and its former colonies attending the Commonwealth Heads of Government meeting in Nassau.

"On the real issue, which is freedom, human rights and dignity for the people of South Africa, there is no difference with Mrs. Thatcher," he told reporters during a break from the conference at the luxurious Cable Beach Hotel and Casino.

"Every single person in that room wants it — there is no exception to that, including Mrs. Thatcher. The dispute is how to achieve it," he said.

Britain's $15.5 billion worth of investments in South Africa dwarfed those of the United States, which has imposed limited sanctions.

Thatcher has said economic sanctions would only harm the disenfranchised black majority.

Gandhi said that although he has called for "complete and mandatory" sanctions, he would consider less extreme measures "if Mrs. Thatcher can convince us it would work ... within a reasonable time frame."

Card, flower sales herald arrival of Sweetest Day

By Paula Ann Thiesse
Student Writer

The specialty gift shops display cards with archaic, ardent greetings of darlings and beaus. The local flower shops anticipate an escalation in the sales of the single, long-stemmed red rose. Newspapers offer space for readers to post love letters to their sweethearts.

The occasion might seem very much like St. Valentine's Day, but it's not.

Sweetest Day, celebrated the third Saturday in October, is only a shadow of Valentine's Day. How it began is almost uncertain.

ASK PEOPLE what they think Sweetest Day is all about and they will invariably have the same explanation as Doris Ihle, owner of Ihle Florist in Murphysboro.

"It is a day for remembering your true love," Ihle said. "Sweet gestures are what set Sweetest Day apart from other holidays."

Indeed, Sweetest Day is an occasion to surprise a friend or loved one with an unexpected note of appreciation, or a plummy, wine-colored spray of roses. Yet, who gets the handshake for commemorating this day?

Mary Louise Korando, clerk and part owner of Ihle's, said that even though the shop has flowers for the occasion, she could not recall who put it on the calendar.

"I JUST can't remember who started Sweetest Day," she said.

However, Barbara Hagler, clerk at Jerry's Flower Shop in Carbondale, offered an explanation. "Hallmark Cards is the originator of Sweetest Day," she said with a note of confidence. "Hallmark is the originator of all holidays."

Ramona Stallons of Sheridan Hallmark had a similar opinion. "Hallmark is the only company that recognizes Oct. 18 as Sweetest Day on the calendar."

The owner of the Flower Box in Carbondale, Patty Talbot, disagreed that any single card company or flower service can take credit for the budding of Sweetest Day.

"WE CAN'T pinpoint its originator," Talbot said. "Hallmark doesn't make any special claims to introducing Sweetest Day, nor does FTD."

She offered some insight about how Sweetest Day may have blossomed.

"On the inside of a greeting card, we are told that a man in a midwestern city was observing people in a park. He caught glimpses of happy children and enamored couples walking hand-in-hand. He was delighted by what he saw, and consequently, conceived the idea of setting aside a day for remembering the people that bring us joy," Talbot explained.

Ihle had a different explanation.

"I READ somewhere that Sweetest Day began in Cleveland, Ohio. A man sent a box of candy to an elderly person in a nursing home. When the man learned that the elderly person was pleased, he began sending candy to all the nursing homes in his city. Eventually, the practice caught on," she stated.

Ihle maintains that Sweetest Day does not share the limelight with Valentine's Day because publicity for the occasion is somewhat sketchy.

"It's not a big deal in this area like it is in St. Louis because there's not a whole lot of advertising on it."

Likewise, Stallons said Sweetest Day is not as glimmering as Valentine's Day because it is a relatively new whim.

"SWEETEST DAY has not been around for as long as Valentine's Day — although it's becoming more and more popular each year," she said.

Tree's girth highlight of woods hike

By Brett Yates
Staff Writer

Many people may think giant trees only grow in California or Oregon, but one is growing in Southern Illinois, seven miles southeast of Makanda, says Wayman Presley, president of Presley Tours of Makanda.

Presley, who found the sycamore tree 80 years ago while fishing in a nearby creek, says it's 25 feet and three inches around at breast height. It is 10 feet around at the first limb, 40 feet up the tree. He says he believes this is the largest tree in the entire Midwest.

"Back through the years I've read reports about trees, and decided from what I read this is the largest," Presley said. "This tree isn't like some trees that are only stout at the bottom." Presley said. "This tree is stout all the way up some 40 feet. It has more tons of wood in it than any other trees in the Midwest. It's so wide that if you cut a hole in it, you could drive a car or truck through it."

The tree is located near the proposed River-to-River road, and could become a big tourist attraction, according to Presley.

Presley is offering a free hike to the tree Saturday. The hike will leave from a nearby farm at 10:30 a.m. and will return there by about noon.

A sign which says "Big Tree" will be located by the north Cobden turnoff on New U.S. Highway 51. The sign will point eastward to a blacktop road, and five miles down that road a sign will point to a gravel road which leads to a farm owned by Irvin "Red" Toler. From there, visitors will be able to hike a mile or ride in a farm wagon to the tree.

"I believe it's a worthwhile visit just to see the autumn colors of the foliage," Presley said.

Head Start sponsors fall family get-together

By Norm Heikens
Staff Writer

Over 150 children and their parents spent a day at the Touch of Nature Environmental Center Thursday in an annual get-together aimed at helping participant families become acquainted and have a good time.

While children played in the leaves, parents enjoyed a fast-paced volleyball game. Some rode a pontoon boat and others hiked. A mini-Olympics and film festival were also featured.

POLICE WERE available to fingerprint children for the "I-SEARCH" program.

The gathering was sponsored for its sixth year by Head Start, a federally funded program begun in Southern Illinois in 1971.

Head Start, available to families within a certain in-'The whole idea is to get the parents ready.'

— Ijlal Haqq, parent involvement coordinator come framework, encompasses many aspects of family care, said Ijlal Haqq, parent involvement coordinator of the program, but its most important function is preparing parents to become involved in the school system and their children's education.

"THE WHOLE idea is to get the parents ready for the public school system, so that when their kids enter the school system, they are ready to be active on the board and in other areas," Haqq said.

Education of 3 to 5-year-olds is one of the most important components of the program, she said.

Handicapped children, who make up about 10 percent of the Head Start program, are trained in an effort to "mainstream" them physically, emotionally and intellectually, she said.

CHILDREN ARE given two meals daily and parents are provided a detailed guide to various social services, doctors and psychologists.

About 240 families in Jackson and Williamson Counties are served, she said.

The Carbondale Head Start program involves families from various cultural backgrounds, Haqq said. "We have a very culturally heterogeneous population," she said. "It's a very stimulating learning environment."

Women golfers chagrined by finish at Kat Invitational

By Anita J. Stoner
Staff Writer

Disappointment followed the Saluki women's golf team to the Kat Invitational in Lexington, Ky. this week.

Host school Kentucky captured the tournament with a 905-stroke total, edging Indiana, the Midwest's dominant team, with 916 strokes.

The Salukis finished 10th in a 12-team field for the 54-hole event played Monday through Wednesday. The team totaled 990 strokes on the Par 74 Spring Lake golf course with rounds that increased daily while the weather conditions improved daily.

"It was disappointing because the scores got higher each day and I felt they should've gotten lower. There's no explanation for it, it just happened that way. I've been asking myself why," SIU-C coach Sonya Stalberger said.

Jill Bertram carried the Salukis with a 79 and 81 in the first two rounds, but Gi Magnusson and Tina Kozlowski totaled slightly better overall.

Magnusson's rounds of 82 83 and 80 fell short of her capability, Stalberger said.

"Gi hit the ball as well as anybody in the tournament, but she just did not score. She's as frustrated as I am because she's in a putting slump," Stalberger said.

Kozlowski "played her best rounds of the season as far as consistency and improved play. But it's frustrating because she could be five, six, or seven shots lower every time she goes out," Stalberger said.

Bertram slipped to 89 on the final day, because "she just couldn't do anything right that day. All golfers have those kind of days once and awhile," Stalberger said.

Pat Putman shot 80, 84 and 83, but Stalberger said "she never got untracked."

Vicki Higginson recovered from the flu, but had "an awful tournament. She wasn't competitive," Stalberger said.

Overall, the Salukis have worked hard in practice but have lacked that element in tournaments, Stalberger said.

"The team needs to work harder in competition, when they're under the gun," Stalberger said. "I don't like finishing where we finished, and the team doesn't like being at the bottom, so they'll have to work harder to get back to the top."

Short game may key men golfers

By Anita J. Stoner
Staff Writer

The SIU-C men's golf team will play at Purdue Saturday and Sunday.

The Salukis, fresh off a third-place finish in the Illinois Intercollegiate Golf Championship two weeks ago, have worked on their short game in practice to better prepare for the Purdue South golf course.

Saluki Coach Darren

Vaughn says putting and chipping will be the key to where the Salukis finish in the dozen-or-so-team field.

"You can't tell about improvements from practice until tournament time. Hopefully, if you work to make the fundamentals sound and more consistent, you'll handle it better in competition. If you worry about your short game, then it usually breaks down in tournaments," Vaughn said. Jeff Landskroner, Bob Treash, Jay Sala, Tom Portner and Mike Kolisek qualified for the traveling squad for the 36-hole event.

Kolisek makes his first trip of the year for the Salukis.

"Over the last couple of weeks he's hit the ball good, but his strength is putting — he's been making a bunch of putts."

Women ruggers face arch rival in tourney

By Sandra Todd
Staff Writer

The women ruggers travel to Chicago this weekend for the Midwest Tournament, one in a series of qualifying stages for the spring season finale — the National Tournament — to be held in Rhode Island.

SIU-C approaches the tournament with only two losses — both to Chicago, which it will face again this weekend to vie for tournament qualification. SIU-C has never beaten Chicago.

Last Saturday, Chicago blanked Southern 12-0, but it did not turn out to be a complete loss — SIU-C knows what to expect after being beaten by their northern rival in consecutive weekends, and will be primed to do battle on Saturday.

"We needed a game like this to show us that we need to practice together and play as a team together before we go to Chicago," said Lori Hannigan, SIU-C player.

Chicago kept Southern on the defensive for most of the match by forcing them away from scoring position at every opportunity.

Southern bounced back from the shutout to annihilate Madison 20-0.

Coach Barb Cavoto benched herself for the game because of an ankle injury she suffered during the Chicago match, and Lori Hannigan played as the wing-position substitute.

Leading the scoring for SIU-C was Anita Coleman, who brought in twelve points with the help of good communication between the forwards and backs.

Hannigan said SIU-C exhibited good offensive and defensive play, and that the team did not allow Madison to advance even when they won ball control.

brand of basketball. We're going to take the fastbreak — if we can get it — to open up and loosen our offense," Herrin said.

The effect of the Perry scandal will probably be nil this season, Herrin indicated.

"That is not going to have any factor on our practice and play. It may affect our incentive in certain ballgames because we can't go to any postseason tournaments," Herrin said.

So far, the veteran players' transition from the Van Winkle to the Herrin era has been smooth, Herrin indicated.

"Everybody's got to adjust to my philosophy, and the experienced players have very graciously adjusted. They understand that every player has a chance to play, and they put out at every practice."

Because of the lack of size, Herrin expects to use a three guard offense this season.

As expected, there are no set starters for the season, Herrin said.

Sophomore Steven Middleton, 6-2, and junior Brian Welch, 6-3, are front-runners for two inside guard positions.

Sophomore Greg Matta, 6-4, junior Doug Novsek, 6-4; and senior Dan Weiss, 6-5; are competing for the third guard position. Freshman Army recruit Grant Martin, 6-8; freshman Todd Krueger, 6-8; sophomore Lonnie Spears, a 6-7 transfer from Blackhawk Junior College in Moline; and junior Ken Dusharm, a 6-7 transfer from Rogers State College; are competing for the forward or center positions.

Other offensive weapons are sophomore tight end Greg Parker, who had a touchdown reception last week; flanker Ralph Jefferson, who has five receptions for 84 yards and a touchdown this season; and junior fullback Paul Bassler, who has scored three touchdowns this season.

Passing is sophomore quarterback Jeff Brown, who has completed 55 percent of his passes this season for eight touchdowns. He completed 12 of 20 passes for 141 yards for two touchdowns and an interception against Abilene Christian.

The offensive line is made up of tackles John Gibson, a sophomore (6-2, 235), and Jeff Chylewski, senior (6-5, 256); junior guards George Cahill (6-4, 260) and Rod Gulley (6-4, 261); and junior center Dennis Sievers (6-0, 240).

Their defense is prone to giving up much yardage in the passing game, but has made the big play often enough to allow only four touchdown passes in seven games.

Making up their opportunistic secondary are sophomore cornerbacks Johnny Shelton, who has two interceptions, and Curtis Hammond, who is one of their leading tacklers; junior free safety Brady Graham and senior strong safety Dave Smith.

The SEMO front line is made up of junior ends Rob Behrmann (6-3, 245) and Bernard Brown (5-9, 215), tackles Gene Kelsey (5-11, 242), a junior, and Jack Peterson (6-2, 243), and senior middle guard Lance Anderson (6-5, 225).

Salukis shoot for third straight against SEMO

By Ron Warnick
Staff Writer

The 3-3 football Salukis are shooting for their third straight win and hoping to go over the .500 mark for the first time since 1983, but if they are to control the Southeast Missouri State Indians at the 2:30 Homecoming game Saturday at McAndrew Stadium, they must control their dynamic duo — Anthony and David Jackson.

Last week, second-year coach Bob Smith's Indians upset previously undefeated Abilene Christian 44-30, with much of the help coming from running back Anthony Jackson and split end and kick returner David Jackson. SEMO improved its record to 2-4.

"We're a little beat up with a lot of bumps and bruises, but I expect everyone to be able to play on Saturday. We'll have to have a great effort to stay in the game. Hopefully, we'll stay loose like we did last week," coach Smith said.

Anthony Jackson, a junior, carried the ball last week for 137 yards on 21 carries and a touchdown. He has 562 yards and rushing on 101 carries and two touchdowns this season. He can also catch the ball, as he has six receptions for 69 yards.

"Tony Jackson is a very good player. He runs hard inside, but has great quickness. I don't know if he has the great overall speed, but quickness he certainly has," Saluki head coach Ray Dorr said.

The other Jackson, David, a junior, caught two passes last week for 55 yards and a touchdown. He is the Indians' leading receiver in 1985 with 219 yards and four touchdowns on 14 receptions.

But David Jackson is even more dangerous on kick returns. He returned two punts for 31 yards, and returned four kickoffs for 134 yards and touchdown, a 97-yard return, against Abilene Christian last Saturday. He is averaging almost 15 yards per punt return and 26 yards per kickoff return.

"We've been able to take some big play players on opposing teams' offenses, and we've had to do some special preparation for that. We have some special things prepared for him," Dorr said.

Tough task ahead for Herrin, cagers

By Ron Warnick
Staff Writer

One could almost feel sorry for first-year Saluki basketball coach Rich Herrin.

The job he is taking may be a thankless one. He is inheriting a team that, after a mediocre 14-14 record last season, lost most of its lettermen and has little size or experience remaining.

Many potential recruits were scared away after the Ken Perry scandal last spring.

To top it all off, with non-conference opponents like Arkansas, Nebraska, Purdue and Missouri to add on to always-tough Missouri Valley play, the SIU-C cagers have one of the hardest schedules in their history.

In spite of the odds, Herrin, after 29 great years as coach at Benton High School, is enthusiastic about his new job and the upcoming season.

"I don't think there's any question our schedule is going to be tough. You can look at our roster and tell we don't have much experience.

"But what we have are a dedicated bunch of basketball players, and that's what counts," Herrin said.

Fans may have to be patient with his embryonic team this season, but it doesn't mean there won't be excitement, Herrin said.

"We're gonna be an underdog many times this season. But we're going to play hard, and we're going to play with intensity. We might have a chance of getting a few upsets right here in the Arena.

"The fans are going to see our players scramble and fight for loose balls. We're going to play so hard it's going to be unreal," Herrin said.

As one can tell, the key to coach Herrin's philosophy is generating excitement.

"We run a very exciting

The SIU-C women's cross country team goes to Macomb this weekend for the Western Illinois Invitational, their final race before the Missouri Valley Conference meet.

Coach Don DeNoon says he feels confident the Salukis can compete with Western Illinois, the pre-meet favorite.

Western Illinois bested the Salukis in the Illinois State Intercollegiate Cross Country Championships last weekend in Chicago. DeNoon says with fewer runners in this week's meet, the Salukis have a better chance to run with Western.

DeNoon says the factors for a Saluki victory this week are continued good health from Amy Marker, the Saluki's No. 1 runner; continued improvement from Vivian Sinou, the Saluki's No. 2 runner in last week's meet; and continued good performances from the rest of the team, especially the No. 5 runner, whomever it may be this week.

DeNoon says someone will have to come forward and take a firm grasp on the No. 5 position for the Salukis to be successful in the remainder of their meets.

DeNoon says running against Western this week will be beneficial because it will give the Salukis a chance to run against the favorite in the conference meet. Western Illinois is undefeated against conference opponents this year.

If the Salukis aim for Western in these next two meets, they have a chance of being pulled to better places in the Western Illinois Invitational and the conference meet, DeNoon says.

Highly recruited cager could be joining Salukis

Highly recruited basketball center David Busch, who played with Hoopston-Eas' Lynn High School last season, verbally committed himself to enrolling at SIU-C and will join the Salukis during the 1985-86 season, said Saluki sophomore forward Greg Motta, Busch's former teammate, Thursday afternoon.

The 6-foot-10 Busch averaged 13 points, 12 rebounds and four blocked shots per game with Hoopston-Eas' Lynn, which finished third in the 1985 state playoffs.

Busch was also being wooed by Kansas, Iowa State, Western Illinois and Indiana State universities before making his decision.

Busch will submit his national letter of intent during November.

Spikers beaten by Iowa in 5 games

The Saluki spikers suffered a heartbreaking five-game road loss to Big-10 power Iowa Thursday, dropping their record to 14-9 on the year.

The Salukis dropped the first game 10-15, but came back to win the second 15-10. The Salukis again fell behind in the third game, losing 7-15. In the fourth game, the spikers forced a fifth game by winning 15-11, but could not hold off Iowa in the final, falling by a 10-15 score.

The Salukis begin Gateway Conference play Friday when they travel to the University of Northern Iowa.

UNI has won three straight matches and is leading all

Gateway teams in pre-conference winning percentage; the Panthers, who have not had a losing season since 1978, are 14-3 for a .824 winning percentage. UNI has losses to Arizona and two Gateway opponents, Western Illinois (7-7) and Bradley (22-6).

The Panthers are leading the Gateway in attack percentage (.293), with three hitters ranking in the top five in attack percentage. UNI also has at least one player in four other offensive categories.

UNI has a roster that consists of eight returning players, five of whom were starters on last year's 16-16 club, which finished sixth in the Gateway race. The Panthers will look towards senior hitter Sylvia Eder, who has 199 kills and a .325 attack percentage. Eder was eighth in the nation last year in service aces and lead the Panthers in kills (251).

While UNI sits atop the rest of the Gateway teams so far this season, the Salukis find themselves in the cellar.

Drake went 5-4 in Gateway play last year and finished 13-11 overall, good for fourth place in the conference standings. The Bulldogs, however, have yet to win a game this season and will go into the match with the Salukis with a record of 0-13.

In his first year at the helm, coach Bill McLachlan was faced with a rebuilding year after losing 1984 Gateway Player of the Year Kris Hey, All-Conference selection Marcia Meyer and three other starters as well.

The Bulldogs are also at the bottom of the Gateway pack in hitting percentage, attacking at a dismal pace of 0.46 percent. Drake does not have any players ranking in the eight categories kept by the Gateway office (ratings for attacks, kills, assists, aces, digs and blocking).

The Salukis will next play conference favorite Illinois State on Thursday, Oct. 25 at 7:30 p.m. in a match originally scheduled for Friday, Oct. 25.
