U.S. demands access to Iraqi sites

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The administration demanded Thursday "unconditional acceptance" in writing by Saddam Hussein's regime that it is ready to grant U.N. inspectors full access to Iraqi nuclear, chemical and biological weapons sites.

State Department spokesman Richard Boucher said the "principal focus" was at the United Nations in New York, where the United States is consulting with other Security Council members to force Iraqi compliance.

Under U.N. Security Council Resolutions 687 and 707, Iraq is obliged to eliminate its weapons of mass destruction and missile capabilities and to permit U.N. observers to conduct surprise inspections by using helicopters.

"We've been awaiting an Iraqi unconditional acceptance of the resolutions in writing," Boucher said. At this point, we have no firm indication of when the Iraqi response will come."

Boucher said that the United States is not making threats despite President Bush's strong condemnation of Iraqi non-compliance and reports of U.S. willingness to use force, if necessary.

"We're expressing our determination, a determination that's shared by other members of the international community to see that Iraq complies with mandatory resolutions of the Security Council," Boucher said.

The Iraqi ambassador to the United Nations, Abdul Amir al-Anbari, said earlier this week his government would go along with the helicopter flights provided an Iraqi navigator was permitted to be on each aircraft.

Witnesses testify against Thomas

Rights advocates say court nominee to overturn Roe

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Leading abortion rights advocates told the Senate Judiciary Committee Thursday they are convinced Clarence Thomas would vote to overturn the 1973 Roe vs. Wade decision legalizing abortion if confirmed to the Supreme Court.

"To vote to confirm Judge Thomas when he has responded with only evasion would be to treat the right to choose abortion as a second-class right," testified Texas attorney Sarah Weddington, who successfully argued Roe before the high court.

The testimony came during a marathon seventh day of hearings that included appearances by dozens of witnesses supporting and opposing Thomas.

The confirmation hearings were expected to conclude Friday after another full day of testimony. A committee vote on the nomination would likely be held within two weeks.

Former Vermont Gov. Madeline May Kumin said Thomas's failure to disclose his views on abortion during his five days of testimony had created a "quiet fury" among American women.

Thomas, 43, a black federal judge and former head of the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, testified he had no personal opinion of Roe and had never discussed the case, despite a public record opponents say shows he has sided with anti-abortion positions.

"I just don't have a doubt in my mind," said Kate Michelman, executive director of the National Abortion Rights Action League, that Thomas would vote to overturn Roe.

Much of the afternoon's testimony involved characterization of Thomas as everything from a distinguished man of "keen intellect" to a "monstrous negative role model."

Rep. John Lewis, D-Ga., a respected former civil rights activist, called Thomas a nominee who "refused to answer your

New drug law to catch multi-county dealers

By Rob Neff
Police Writer

Drug dealers who operate in more than one county in Illinois will have a tougher time escaping the law through the Statewide Grand Jury Act, designed to help the Illinois Attorney General track down and prosecute drug dealers.

The Statewide Grand Jury Act allows the attorney general, in cooperation with state's attorney's offices and the courts, to call a statewide grand jury to hear the cases of drug dealers caught operating in more than one county.

Gov. Jim Edgar signed the bill into law last week, ending a 20-year campaign by the attorney general's office.

Ernie Slottag, spokesman for Attorney General Roland Burris, said the law is long overdue.

"The law allows one grand jury to hear the case," he said. "There may not be enough evidence in each county these people are operating in, but when one grand jury can hear all the evidence, we can be more effective."

Slottag said state's attorney's offices often lack the resources and manpower to effectively follow the trail of illegal drug assets.

The new law allows a team of prosecutors based in the attorney general's office to pursue cases through several counties at once and allows the use of trained

Homework hotline

Phone number helps students with math, science problems

By Christiann Baxter

Jean Cowell is bombarded with math and science questions for three hours during school nights—and she answers the questions for free.

The St. Louis engineer helps students with their homework through a new homework hotline staffed by McDonnell Douglas engineers and retired school teachers.

Since the service expanded to Illinois, the phones have not stopped ringing, Cowell said.

"It seems like we are more busy," she said. "You don't even have to hang up the phone and another caller is there."

Cowell said she answers mostly math and science questions during calls that usually last between five to 10 minutes.

SIUC fans unleashed for 'walks'

By Cyndi Oberle
Sports Writer

On Saturday Saluki football fans will get the chance to witness an SIUC tradition in the making.

Saluki Athletics announced a new attraction to Saluki home games will allow fans to line the area between the Arena and McAndrew Stadium to boost the team's spirit as it walks to the field.

Dubbed as the "Dawg Walk," the plan sprang from Kirby Wilson, Dawgs' linebacker coach.

"We are trying to establish a bit of tradition," Wilson said. "There is no real tradition with the players' walk from the Arena's locker room to the stadium's locker room."

"We want to build a human tunnel where people can be themselves and cheer on the team. They can bark, yell, anything. We want a lot of emotion involved with this."

Wilson said the walk will begin at around 12:10 p.m. and will extend from the stadium gate to the travel services building.

The football home opener against Northern Iowa begins at 1:30 p.m.

"For this first time fans can go as far back as they want if the tunnel grows, but in the future, we hope to always see it up to the Arena doors," Wilson said.

"We just want the crowd to go nuts and wreak havoc before and during the game."

Head coach Bob Smith said the object of the walk is to put some discipline and spirit into the players.

"In the past, the players usually just wander up from the Arena to out of the ordinary.

"Pursuit of Northern Iowa's quarterback will have to come from the front four. We don't believe in stunting too much on defense," Smith said. "They like to throw the deep ball and they catch it as well as any team we'll play."

The Salukis have proven that they can defend against the aerial game. They only have allowed one touchdown pass in their first three games and have intercepted three tosses — one more than they picked off in all of 1990.

"Southern Illinois has improved on offense and defense," said UNI

Unbeaten Dawgs come home

By Todd Eschman
Sports Writer

The football Salukis have leaped out to their best start since 1983, winning their first three games on the road. But the Dawgs will be at home Saturday to face their biggest challenge.

The Dawgs will meet the undefeated Northern Iowa Panthers at McAndrew Stadium at 1:30 p.m. in SIUC's home and conference opener.

Northern Iowa, 1990 Gateway Conference champion, was picked to win the Gateway in a preseason coaches survey and is ranked fifth nationally in the NCAA Division I-

SIUC to play No. 5 N. Iowa

AA poll. The Panthers have blown away their opposition this year, beating McNeese State 30-5 in their opener and Augustana 45-22 last week.

Saluki head coach Bob Smith has seen first-hand how strong the UNI football program has become. In his first two years as head coach, Smith watched the Dawgs get thrashed 38-14 and 30-9.

"From a skill standpoint, Northern Iowa is probably the second best team we'll face all season," Smith said. "Northern Iowa is a legitimate No. 5 team."

Junior quarterback Jay Johnson struggled in UNI's opening day win against McNeese State but rebounded against Augustana last week.

Johnson, a second team all-conference selection in 1990, completed six of nine passes for 139 yards and two touchdowns in the first half. He was replaced late in the second quarter after leading the Panthers to a 38-0 lead.

Smith said the Saluki defense will have its hands full containing the Northern Iowa air attack, but the Dawgs have planned nothing

Spikers ready to impose on imposing foes

By Cyndi Oberle
Sports Writer

Even though the SIUC volleyball team has a 6-4 record, it has yet to win a match on the road.

And on the road is where it will be today and Saturday as it faces University of Oklahoma, Texas-Arlington and Colorado State in the Oklahoma Invitational.

SIUC, who is on a two-tournament, six-game winning streak, must overcome the odds of playing in an alien environment to win, SIUC head coach Sonya Locke said.

"We will also be up against three of the most physically imposing teams we'll see this season," Locke said. "All have outstanding athletes who will put up outstanding blocks."

Locke said the team will have to show it can win on the road since the Salukis road record stands at 0-4.

"Our six home victories should have us better prepared mentally," Locke said.

"These teams are big physically, but we have worked hard and know how to play hard. We know how to play tough teams and win because we have done it before."

Colorado State posts a 8-1 opening

Investigation set on Olympic bigwig

International committee to look into business of ex-USOC president

BERLIN (UPI) — Robert Helmick, under scrutiny for his private business dealings, faces an unprecedented investigation by the International Olympic Committee following his resignation as president of the U.S. Olympic Committee.

"I have been a member of the IOC for 25 years and I cannot remember any similar case," IOC President Juan Antonio Samaranch said Thursday upon closing a three-day meeting of his organization's executive board.

Helmick announced his resignation, effective immediately, "with deep regret" Wednesday. He requested a leave from the IOC board. Approval was granted and Helmick left for the United States.

The IOC then announced it would investigate "potential conflicts of interest" in Helmick's business arrangements.

Helmick, a 54-year-old lawyer from Des Moines, Iowa, resigned amid questions of whether he used his position as a paid consultant to several organizations, among them Turner Broadcasting System and the Brunswick Corporation, to influence the USOC.

He reportedly received $275,000 in fees over several years, but he has yet to comment on the precise amount. Helmick denies his outside dealings posed any conflicts with his USOC duties.

"The recent trial by the media has made it impossible for me to continue to function effectively and I cannot allow this

Olympic commission offers greeting to newly independent Baltic teams

BERLIN (UPI) — International Olympic Committee President Juan Antonio Samaranch Thursday welcomed the return of three Baltic states to the Olympic movement after their years as part of the Soviet Union.

The three countries, Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania, were readmitted during a three-day meeting of the IOC executive board.

"This was what got headlines around the world," Samaranch said, a pointed bid to deflect attention from the resignation Wednesday of Robert Helmick as president of the U.S. Olympic Committee amid questions of conflict of interest in his private business dealings.

The Baltics participated as independent states at the Olympics from 1920 to 1936. In 1940 the three states were absorbed by the Soviet Union. Earlier this month Moscow and much of the international community recognized the independence of the Baltics states.

Representatives from all three Baltic states said they would send teams to the 1992 Winter Games at Albertville, France, and to Barcelona.

"We have waited 50 years for this decision," said Arturas Povliunas, head of the Lithuanian delegation to the meeting.

Board members stressed the Baltic states were being readmitted to the Olympic movement, reaffirming its policy of no new admissions before the 1992 Barcelona Games.

Samaranch declined to answer questions concerning the composition of teams from crumbling multi-national Yugoslavia and the Soviet Union at the 1992 Games.

Sports officials from the Soviet republics met in Moscow recently and agreed to compete as a unified Soviet team, at least in 1992, though athletes may want to indicate in some way which republic they represent.

"We are speaking about 12 Soviet republics," Samaranch said. "I don't know if they will have different flags and different anthems."

organization to be paralyzed by the situation," Helmick said in a statement. "No one has asked me to resign or forced me to resign. Anyone who feels I am running from the heat is dead wrong."

The IOC inquiry is to be chaired by IOC Vice President Keba Mbaye. He will be assisted by Marc Hodler, an IOC executive board member, and Francois Carrard, the IOC director general. They will report their findings at an executive board meeting in December.

Internship experience offered by University women's group

By Teri Lynn Carlock
General Assignment Writer

The University Women's Professional Advancement now is accepting applications for its 1992-1993 Administrative Internship Program.

Positions are available for two women who have completed five consecutive years at SIUC as a faculty, administrative/professional or civil service employee.

Applicants will be judged on their potential to carry out their career goals.

The internship will run Aug. 15, 1992 to May 15, 1993.

Interns will serve on a half-time basis, making it possible for them to maintain a part-time position at their other job on campus. Fifty percent of the intern's salary will be funded by U.W.P.A.

The program is intended to enhance career development opportunities for women who have the potential to succeed in administrative positions.

Janice Schoen Henry, coordinator, said the program was reinstated in 1988 to offer internship experience to qualified women so they can develop opportunities for growth and advancement within SIUC.

"I believe the University is dedicated to helping women further their careers and enhancing their status on campus," she said.

Henry will work with the selected interns in choosing the appropriate office position for them on campus based on their individual qualifications and needs.

Henry served an internship herself at the College of Liberal Arts. She worked with Robert Jensen, associate dean for fiscal, personnel and research, on budgeting, new hires and research activities for the faculty.

Henry said her internship provided knowledge she could not have gained somewhere else.

"I doubt I would have developed the business skills and confidence I have without my internship. It gave me the experience I needed to advance in my career," she said.

U.W.P.A. has had other interns who also have had a great deal of success through the program.

Jane Evers was one of the recipients last year and currently is serving her internship in the College of Liberal Arts.

Evers works with Harry Miller, associate vice president for academic affairs and research. She investigates grant writing and external funding potentials for the University.

"The internship is designed to strengthen the administrative skills you do not normally possess," she said.

Serving an internship exposes the person to professional development opportunities and gives them a different environment to work in, Evers said.

"The variety of working in two different places on campus has been a pleasant experience," she said.

The deadline for receipt of applications is Oct. 23. Applications must be sent to Janice Schoen Henry at U.W.P.A..

The Administrative Internship Program committee will screen the applications and interview the top candidates. Those selected will be notified by Dec. 15.

Greatly divided: Call-in show affirmative action forum

By William Ragan
Entertainment Writer

A radio program examining the effects of affirmative action on the consciousness of the United States will premiere this Sunday.

"The Great Divide: Affirmative Action in America" will broadcast from 2 to 4 p.m. Sept. 22, on 91.9 WSIU-FM.

The program is the culmination of a week-long series that began last Sunday with daily broadcasts on National Public Radio News.

"The Great Divide" will examine the history of affirmative action, the way it affects people in the workplace and its perception by the press and the administration.

The program Sunday is a nationwide call-in, hosted by Susan Starnberg and Vertamae Grosvenor of NPR. A toll-free number will be available for listeners to call in and voice their opinions on the subject.

Affirmative action is a term describing a series of executive orders, rules and procedures designed to protect minorities from discrimination in employment, housing and education.

On this campus, affirmative action also protects the disabled, veterans, non-traditional students, women or anyone who feels they are being discriminated against.

John Dinges, editor of "The Great Divide" said the series was designed to bring the topic out into open discussion.

"Part of the inspiration for the series is the perception that problems involving race, ethnicity, and gender are often understated, even suppressed, in conversations among all but the most intimate of friends," Dinges said.

Charlotte Taylor, publicist for NPR, said it was a good news decision to cover the topic.

"The editors decided a long time ago that they wanted to look at the issue," Taylor said.

This week marks that 30th anniversary of affirmative action, and it is still a hot topic

Sex Talk

PROTECTING YOURSELF

You can protect yourself against HIV infection if you abstain from sexual intercourse and avoid contact with anyone else's blood.

If you do have sex, there are ways to reduce your risk of HIV infection. The best way is to have only monogamous sex with a partner who is not infected. If you or your lover have not been monogamous you should take these precautions:

- Have sex in less risky, more responsible ways. Lovers can give each other pleasure without actually having intercourse. Experiment with other kinds of sexual enjoyment which doesn't involve transferring semen.
- Reduce the number of your sexual partners. The more partners you have, the greater your chances of acquiring HIV infection and other sexually transmitted diseases. Get to know your partner well before having sex. If he or she has been repeatedly exposed to infection, you are at greater risk. Individuals are more likely to be infected if they have failed to protect themselves regularly, or if they have had many male partners.
- In some underdeveloped countries the disease has spread chiefly through heterosexual intercourse. But in the U.S., the main cause of HIV infection in women has been the sharing of drug works. When women have caught the infection sexually, their partners have usually acquired the virus by abusing drugs or having sex with another man.
- If you have been sexually active you should be alert to the possibility that you may have acquired a sexually transmitted disease. Any chronic itching, genital sore, or abnormal discharge should be promptly reported to a physician. Chlamydia, herpes virus, Papillomavirus, and other infections are present in perhaps 20% or more of the sexually active individuals in a typical campus community. These various diseases not only increase your risk for cancer, infertility, and other problems, but may also render you more vulnerable to HIV infection.

• If you have sexual intercourse, use a new latex condom from start to finish. When correctly used, a latex condom can prevent the passage of HIV from one body to the other. Using a spermicide with nonoxynol-9, which destroys HIV, will give you extra protection.

Use the condom properly by rolling it over the penis right after erection and leaving a collapsed space at the tip to receive the semen. After ejaculation, and before the penis becomes soft, grasp the condom at the base and pull the condom and penis out together.

Do not use oil-based lubricants (like petroleum jelly or hand lotion) with a condom, for they may weaken the latex and cause the condom to fail. Water-based lubricants such as K-Y Jelly and Ortho Lubricant are much safer.

Sexual intercourse can never be completely safe. But a condom will reduce the chances of infection or pregnancy; using one ought to be a standard health practice, like washing your hands, and a common courtesy between lovers.

- Avoid the abuse of alcohol and other drugs which reduce your powers of judgment. You are more likely to have unprotected or even unwanted sex if you abuse alcohol or drugs.
- Whenever possible, avoid receiving blood or blood products taken from others. If you expect to have surgery, you may have your own blood placed in storage ahead of time. It is NOT a good idea to ask friends and relatives to donate blood for your use. You may pressure someone to give blood who is HIV infected without your knowing it.
- If you must inject drugs, do not share works or, at the least, wash the used works beforehand. Rinse twice with diluted bleach (1 part bleach to 10 parts water), and then twice with plain water.

The act of donating blood is entirely safe. If you are sure you are not infected, you will help your community by giving blood. You run no risk of catching the virus in the process.

Breathalyzer-test law should reduce DIUs

DRINKING IS A social pastime for many Americans, but when mixing drinking and driving, the result is usually devastating.

In 35 percent of the traffic fatalities last year, one of the drivers had a positive blood alcohol concentration, which is down from 38 percent in 1989 and 36 percent in 1988.

A new law put into effect in January this year requires that all motorists involved in an accident, where the driver is believed to be at least partially at fault for an injury or death, must submit to a Breathalyzer test.

IF A PERSON refuses to take the test, his or her license will be suspended for six months.

The law is designed to determine how big a role alcohol plays in accidents and to reduce accidents resulting from drinking while driving.

The difference between the old and new law is that more people will be tested.

People may refuse the test, but that means more people will have their licenses suspended.

Under the old law a person involved in an accident resulting in a fatality had to submit to a Breathalyzer test.

So the percentages for last year and previous years are based on only those people who were tested after an accident involving a fatality and do not include those who refused to be tested.

EACH YEAR, at least 22,000 people are killed in alcohol-related accidents and nearly 55,000 people are injured throughout the country.

In Illinois, an estimated 725 people were killed in 1990 because of alcohol-related crashes.

Since January, 211 people have refused to take the Breathalyzer test in Illinois and 373 people in Illinois have taken the test and failed. All 584 people were involved in accidents.

Recently, the law was ruled unconstitutional by a Cook county judge on the basis that it permits unreasonable search and seizure.

THE CASE IS currently in limbo waiting to be heard by the Illinois Supreme Court, but in the meantime a stay has been granted by the Illinois Supreme Court so law enforcement agencies can continue to enforce the law.

The principle of the law is basically good. It is trying to protect those people who are victims of drunken drivers. The good and rights of the many are more important than the rights of the one.

Sometimes it is difficult for a police officer to determine whether there is evidence enough to give a person a Breathalyzer test.

If an officer lets the person go and later discovers evidence, it is too late.

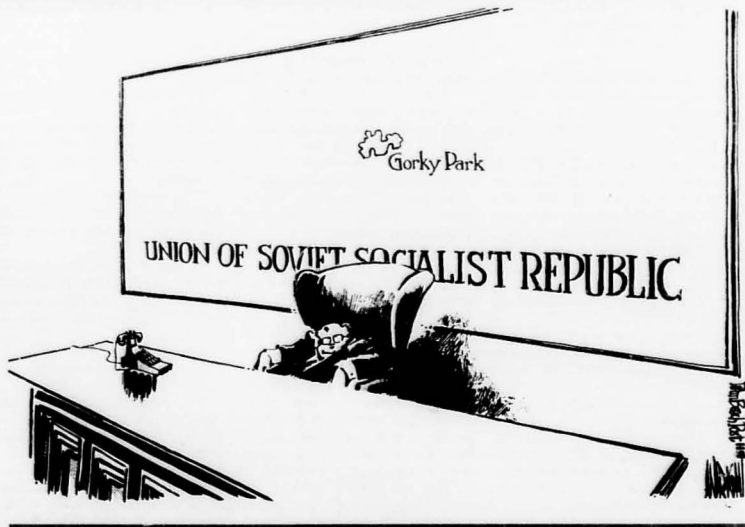

Driving is a privilege not a right and the more people who treat it as such, the safer public roads will be.

IF THIS LAW helps people to realize that their "privilege" can be taken, then so be it.

Think about it this way: How would you feel if a loved one was seriously hurt or killed in an accident, but the person responsible was allowed to leave because there was not enough evidence to make the officer think the person was drinking, and later, evidence indicated the person might have been drinking.

A Breathalyzer test after an accident, is for the peace of mind of the victim's family.

The new law is out to get those people who are endangering the lives of others.

Letters to the Editor

Affirmative action still needed to fix disparities in job market

The recent Clarence Thomas nomination hearings and the tired rhetoric of "no quotas" has placed the issue of affirmative action in the spotlight once again.

It seems that elements of the "white-male" club (of which I am a member) feel that unqualified and underserving blacks are out to take their jobs.

This irrational and desperately misguided fear, which is strengthened by our nation's chief executive, is a sad commentary on the damage that the years of Reagan-Bushism has done to the status of race-relations on our country.

The inane theme that whites have "paid enough for the crime of slavery" ignores two very important facts in this issue. First, slavery has absolutely nothing whatsoever to do with inequities in the job market. Also, affirmative action means a great deal to more than just blacks.

How many have stopped to think of the discrimination faced by Hispanics, Asians, native-Americans, persons with disabilities, homosexuals and women?

It is getting rather frustrating to hear the argument against affirmative action being reduced to a "black vs. white" issue.

If we ever get to a point in our society where an individual stands the same chance of succeeding in the job market as anyone else, then I will admit that there would be no need for affirmative action.

Currently, this is not the case. If anyone disputes this, I suggest you do a bit of research.

How many of the top positions in our nation's job markets (public and private) are held by white men? What do women currently earn in relation to men? What do minority workers earn in relation to white workers?

I challenge anyone who takes exception to this letter to offer a substantial statistical argument that would dispute the need for affirmative action in this country.

Anyone can offer philosophical and emotional opposition to helping out select members of our society.

Yet, if one is to examine the real issues involved, it is impossible to conclude that white males do not still continue to reap the benefits of a tremendously biased culture.--Don A. Motz, graduate student in community development.

University needs to weigh priorities when funds falter

Budget complaints are making me sick. We all know that SIUC did not get all the money it wanted from the state, but at my home when money gets short we start cutting out the frills first.

I understand the College of Engineering can spend about $60,000 to bring people over from Taiwan, but can not come up with $4,000 to get computers operating for the students to use. After all, I was under the impression the main reason for this University was to give the students a chance for a well-rounded education, at least it seemed that way when President Morris was here.

The administration can come up with money for raises for their chosen few because the University could not operate without them. "they say," but I have to wonder about the hundreds of dedicated teachers and civil service workers who didn't get raises. I think this University would be in worse shape if we lost them than we would be by losing a few of these people.--Harry Lawrence, building custodian for Building Services.

Scenario from failed coup sends inaccurate message

Mikhail Gorbachev and Boris Yeltsin are both unrepentant Communist criminals. As Politburo members, they are both responsible for numerous Soviet crimes, including the rape of Afghanistan all during the 1980s, repression in the Baltic states and throughout the USSR, and many other crimes against humanity.

They are now putting on a show of ruling with a velvet glove, instead of the usual iron fist. We American taxpayers should not be tricked into financing anything touched by them.

I agree with the John Birch Society in believing that the recent "failed coup" in Moscow has set up a "good cop, bad cop scenario."

The establishment media now portrays Gorbachev and Yeltsin as heroes and as the supposed good alternative to the bad hard-liners. But the supposed good guys are themselves arch criminals. Sending them aid will only help keep the Socialists in power and enable them to continue spending huge amounts for military purposes.

All this talk about a free economy in the USSR is nothing but talk. What those two are after is not a free market, it is a regulated market, which is not free.

We should realize that our own nation, with its growing debt, taxation, controls, regulations and bureaucracy, is being taken into socialism.

What is happening in the USSR and what is happening here in the United States fit very well into the plans of those who want a New World Order, which is really Socialism and world government with a nice sounding name.

It is long past time to cut off all aid, loans, trade and help of any kind whatsoever to the tyrants who have oppressed the Russian people and the people of the surrounding nations for so long.--Bruce Taber, Kansas.

Businesses a-blooming

Incubator fostering growth

By Annette Holder
City Writer

The Southern Illinois Small Business Incubator is helping some new and expanding businesses grow.

The incubator, which opened Oct. 17, has 10 business tenants and several SIUC offices. The center provides office space and service to businesses in the area. The services vary from business planning to marketing support to loan assistance.

David Hampson, incubator manager, said the incubator is a way for the University to give back to the community. A business must be either new or expanding to locate in the incubator.

All of the businesses that originally located in the incubator are still operating, Hampson said. Two of the original businesses, Key Connections and Desk Top Publishing, have moved to downtown Carbondale.

Business owners pay $8 to $13 a square foot for office space and in return SIUC provides utilities and janitorial service to the incubator, as well as offices that provide assistance to the business owners.

Joyce Basler, incubator administration assistant, said SIUC has three offices in the incubator. The offices are designed to assist the small business owners.

Among these are the Office of Economic and Regional Development that helps small business owners with demographic information; the Small Business Development Center that offers business and financial assistance to new businesses; and the Technology Center that provides research and development information.

Other services offered to the businesses include seminars sponsored by Business Entrepreneur Support and Training and Service Core Of Retired Executives.

Incubator employees are developing the nationwide model for BEST. Funded by the Department of Labor, it provides free entrepreneur training for displaced workers.

"There's a real need here for the program because of unemployed miners and a large number of plant closures," Hampson said.

SCORE, a free service to business owners, provides free counseling by retired executives in everything from electronics to advertising.

Hampson said he and others are available to guide the business owners by offering the programs without trying to tell them what to do.

"You'll find the clients will come looking for you if they need help," he said. "They're independent. Some folks hit the ground running, others don't. There is no single formula."

Becoming a successful new business owner begins with

The Southern Illinois Small Business Incubator, located on Pleasant Hill Road, has made an impact on small business in the area despite the fact it has yet to reach its first birthday. Currently, the incubator, housing 10 businesses, is 60-percent full. David Hampson, incubator manager, said this is quite an accomplishment because it takes most facilities three years to achieve 80-percent occupancy.

Small businesses hatching at local incubator

By Annette Holder

Colleen Rennison, owner of Paralegal Resource Group, said the incubator has helped her realize a dream.

"I stopped my formal education at 14 when I married and later had three children," Rennison said. "Poverty made me who I am today. It allowed me to dream."

Rennison returned to school 30 years later and graduated in May 1990 with a bachelor's degree in Paralegal Studies.

Rennison's work as a paralegal includes legal document preparation, witness investigation and law research for lawyers.

Her main goal will be to help other people, especially foreign students, who choose to stay in the area and work, she said.

International students must be certified by the U.S. Department of Labor to be allowed to work in the United States. The nearest areas that provide the service are St. Louis and Chicago, she said.

Although the service costs from $5,000 to $20,000 in Chicago, Rennison said she offers the service starting at $2,000, depending on how much time she works.

"In the beginning I had a problem with international students holding jobs in the U.S.," Rennison said. "However, the international students are not taking jobs from U.S. citizens because a company must prove it tried to hire an American before it can hire a foreign person."

Rennison continues to dream since opening her business.

Her vision for the future is to open a not-for-profit legal clinic under the direction of a couple of attorneys and a large staff of paralegals.

Infoquest Service Manager Chuck Searby from Anna repairs a computer Tuesday. Infoquest is located in the Southern Illinois Small Business Incubator.

The Southern Illinois Small Business Incubator has helped hatch many dreams along with new and expanding businesses.

The 10 businesses in the incubator include everything from a paralegal assistance office to a not-for-profit agency, all with owners working to make their dreams come true.

Incubator business owner, Charles Strusz, began his dream from the basement of his home five years ago.

Infoquest owner Charles Strusz said the incubator provides many benefits, including the opportunity to easily expand. He has expanded his floor space twice since he opened in the incubator in August 1990.

Infoquest sells computer software and wholesale priced computer components. The most popular service is computer repair and upgrading.

Strusz said he likes having his office in the incubator because of the support facilities within the incubator. Support facilities include free programs offered to the business owners that teach them basic skills needed to start a successful new business.

The owner of Executive Search, Michael Shields, said he also appreciates the services the center provides.

Project Manager Leslie Ferraro said the expanding business was able to grow and keep costs lower than most new businesses.

She said the incubator provides the business with copy machines and other offices equipment so the business did not have to purchase expensive equipment.

"As we've grown, we've become more self-sufficient," Ferraro said. "We've gone through all the ropes because we've been in business since the early 70s."

Executive Search provides qualified candidates to firms seeking employees. The fee charged is a percentage of the employees salary and paid when the applicant begins the job.

The not-for-profit Children's Survival Fund is another business that takes advantage of the reduce costs of starting a new business the incubator provides.

Barbara Hampson, acting executive coordinator for Children's Survival Fund, said the organization can use the money it raises for relief and development nationally and internationally, instead of spending it for expensive office equipment.

Money raised by the corporation has been sent for relief and development to every continent, but mostly Eastern Europe and Africa.

Children's Survival Fund also keeps some of the money in Southern Illinois.

The organization sponsored the Southern Illinois program Project Survival. The program allowed 17 area children the opportunity to learn skills such as camping and computers.

It is the dream of Adam's Printing to assist in Carbondale's growth.

presenting a business plan that is analyzed by a committee. The committee consists of University professionals as well as business people in the community.

Hampson said some of the business owners in the incubator provide services and sell products in other parts of the country, but choose to live in Carbondale because of the quality of life.

Executive Search, a company that matches jobs with individuals, and 7-L, a company that makes mouthwash, are two incubator tenants that do business out of the area but have chosen Carbondale for their offices.

Leslie Ferraro, project manager for Executive Search, said owner

Michael Shields, from Elgin, located his branch office in the Incubator because of a visit to friend who lived in the area.

"He came to Carbondale and loved it," Ferraro said. "Without hesitation, he built his home here."

Companies such as these have the opportunity to network and learn from each other because they are located in the same building.

"A lot of the tenants start buying from each other," Hampson said. "They are supportive of each other and also swap war stories."

The incubator is 60 percent occupied, which Hampson said is good considering it has been officially operating less than a year.

California calls victory in battle against Medfly

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The Mediterranean fruit fly, which has threatened California agriculture since its first discovery there in 1975, has established itself in the state, a researcher said Thursday.

The Medfly is one of the most destructive agricultural pests in the world, attacking 260 varieties of fruits, vegetables and nuts. High loss rates are not uncommon in regions where the Medfly is established.

Agriculture officials spent a record $52 million to eradicate the pest during the most recent infestation. They declared victory on Nov. 8, 1990, after 16 months battling the pest.

BUSINESS, from Page 5

Sales Manager Lee Danhour said the company wants to help Southern Illinois grow because that is where owners, Doris, Frank and Kirk Adams, are from.

"Our goals are to satisfy local needs," Danhour said. "And everyone needs printing."

Other incubator businesses include A Plus, a company that does tutoring at the elementary education level; Enterprise South, a company that sells recycled products like ledger pads; Kinney Graphics, a commercial graphics art business; Lindsey Assoc., a company that does industry and governmental engineering research; and 7-L Corp., a company that makes a low-alcohol mouthwash.

WHY GO TO FRED'S

Feed's always Free on your Birthday week

You've come all the way from Will, Cook & DuPage Counties, and every weekend you do the Strip Stumble and meet West Rogers Park cowboys and Homewood cowgirls. Like people who order only hamburgers & fries at the best ethnic restaurants, you're missing the opportunity to try something different.

You know about Giant City and Little Grassie - those are easy. But what about the Pomona General Store and their Green River Floats - The Goreville Horse Auction with 300 real cowboys bidding on horses from four states - the Anna Library built in 1906, an architectural design breakthrough that was a precursor to good ol' Frank Lloyd - the Jonesboro Park Square where Lincoln & Douglas debated 123 years ago.

And then there's FRED'S - only 4 1/2 miles east of C'dale. From Harrisburg & Herrin, Carterville & Creal Springs, Galatia & Grandtower come coal miners, truckers, farmers & factory workers to dance to country music that has its foot in the Appalachians.

You've come a long way baby - now leave your cultural snobbery behind & come a little bit further. Come to FRED'S and become a part of the real Southern Illinois ethnic.

question, she said. If volunteers cannot answer a question, they take the student's name and phone number and call them back after consulting textbooks and other teachers.

The hotline serves 500,000 students kindergarten through twelfth grade in Missouri and Illinois, but college students can use the service, too, Cowell said.

"We try to help anybody," she said. "If it's a specially difficult problem, we'll work it out and call them back."

Frank Puttman, principal of Caruthers Elementary School in Murphyboro, said the hotline should be beneficial to students.

"A number of children don't have much help with their homework," he said. "It's quite possible the parents did not have that material when they were in school."

Richard Gray, principal of Dongola Unit Schools, agreed.

"It'd be like a telephone tutoring system," he said.

A Carbondale student who has used homework hotlines in the past said hotlines give students extra help.

Patrick Starratt, 12, a student at Lincoln Junior High, said he has used hotlines in the past and would use one again.

"Some are pretty good," he said. "They give you good answers."

Melody Hesketh, 14, a student at Carbondale High School, agreed.

"If I was having problems and nobody else could help me, I'd use it," she said.

The hotline combines McDonnell Douglas' six-year-old Homework Control Center with the Missouri National Education Association's three-year-old homework hotline.

Ellen LeMond-Holman, spokeswoman for the McDonnell

Douglas Corporation, said the Homework Control Center had dealt exclusively with math and science problems.

"By merging, we were able to cover all the grades and all the subjects," she said.

There is no danger of students getting answers to their homework from the tutors, LeMond-Holman said.

"They can't just get answers," she said. "It's there to provide the solution to get the answer. It hasn't served a purpose if we just give them an answer."

The hotline, which started Sept. 10, is equipped with 10 phone lines.

The most calls received in one night has been 269.

The hotline is open from 6 to 9 p.m. Monday through Thursday. The toll-free number is 1-800-879-2000.

Lewis is a member of the Congressional Black Caucus that opposed Thomas's nomination. The Caucus is comprised of the 25 blacks in the House of Representatives. Its single Republican member was the only dissenter in the vote to oppose Thomas.

Rep. Major Owens, D-N.Y., another member of the Caucus, said Thomas showed an "open contempt for the law" during his controversial tenure at EEOC.

"For the youth of America and all people of the world who believe in rule by law, Judge Thomas is a monstrous negative role model," Owens said in stinging testimony.

Owens said blacks feel the way colonists would have felt had George Washington promoted Benedict Arnold — the Revolutionary War traitor — to the position of general.

"He is going to be in a position where he can do great harm ... to the things that we believe in," Owens testified.

But Robert Woodsen, president of the National Center for Neighborhood Enterprise, a Washington-based self-help organization for low-income Americans, said polls show some 60 percent of blacks support Thomas.

He called black leaders such as Owens "out of touch" with blacks. "There is no single black America."

And Alphonso Jackson, a longtime friend of Thomas's and director of the Dallas Housing Authority, called him a man of "keen intellect" and "strong values ... capable of recognizing racism when it comes before him on the Supreme Court."

professionals to locate and seize these illegal profits.

Michael Burke, assistant state's attorney for Randolph County, said although he has not personally noticed a strong need for a statewide grand jury, he welcomes the added help.

"We're not worried it will be a hindrance," he said. "Frankly, we welcome any help we can get. It will allow investigation and prosecution of the bigger drug dealers and make it easier to put them in jail."

Attorney generals since the early 1970s have tried to obtain statewide grand juries on a variety of case topics but have been unsuccessful.

Slottag said the Statewide Grand Jury Act was passed this time because of the absence of politics from the legislation.

"Other bills had some political overtones," he said. "There were parts of it the Republicans liked but Democrats didn't like or the Democrats liked but the Democrats didn't like. This was focused narrowly on drug investigations, which played a very important role in getting bipartisan support."

Slottag said care will be taken to make sure the Attorney General team does not step on the toes of the state's attorney's office in carrying out the investigations.

"We will set it up with them ahead of time," he said. "We're not going to just walk in. They are in on the investigation from day one."

convene in October.

"We see where things are headed already, and that the Americans are already identified with the Arab stance," Eitan said. "We need to check the whole matter again, including our behavior and the promises America is making to others."

Yossi Ben-Aharon, a top aide to Shamir, insisted that Israel had met the Bush administration's demands that funds not be directed to settlements in the occupied territories, and that any further promise was "an impossible demand."

Ben-Aharon said it was unfair to say that the loan guarantees would pave the way for more settlement by freeing up treasury funds for construction in the West Bank and Gaza. "Using that kind of logic would mean that no money could come into Israel," he said in an interview with state-run Israel Radio.

The Bush administration fears the Arab states will boycott the peace parley unless Israel stops building in the territories it occupied during the 1967 Six-Day War. Though Israel says American loans are funneled into construction in other areas, Washington believes it enables settlement activity to continue by freeing up other monies for the purpose.

Dedi Zucker, a left-wing member of the Knesset, Israel's parliament, stood behind Baker. "We must decide if we are going to fight with a country which provides us with $1.8 billion in military aid or meet its interests — for our own good."

today, Taylor said.

"It's an issue that's more and more coming into public discourse," Taylor said. "It's a controversial issue that has created a lot of conversation."

Listeners are encouraged to call in and discuss the topic, Taylor said.

"We're hoping to get opinions from the listeners, positive or negative," Taylor said.

Guests for the first hour of the program are Arthur Fletcher, chairman of the U.S. Commission on Civil Rights and John J. Butler, district director of the Equal Employment Office, Philadelphia office.

Guests for the second hour include Eleanor Norton, congresswoman for the District of Columbia and former chair of the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, and Linda Chavez, former staff director of the U.S. Commission on Civil Rights.

"The point here is that ... inspectors have to have the ability to conduct surprise inspections," Boucher said in rejecting the condition. "They can't be allowed to be hampered and thwarted and hung up by Iraqi conditions, and that under the resolution the Iraqis have no right to establish any conditions."

Boucher said U.S. policy remains that it's up for the Iraqi people to decide on their government, and that the United States was not in the business of overthrowing Saddam.

"We haven't changed our opinion of Saddam Hussein, and we certainly haven't changed our view that there can't be a normal relationship between Iraq and the rest of the world with Saddam Hussein still in power," he said.

'Freddy's Dead' ends nightmare series well

By Casey Hampton
Entertainment Writer

Dream-king Freddy Krueger gets the cut in what is being promoted as the final installment of the "Nightmare on Elm Street" series, "Freddy's Dead: The Final Nightmare."

Springwood, home of Krueger, is now a desolate town with no trace of children because all have fallen victim to him.

The movie opens with Freddy, played by Robert Englund, inhabiting the dreams of a newly introduced character, who in turn unknowingly brings to him another new character, one of blood relation to Freddy.

Freddy needs this relation to bring him a whole new clan of victims elsewhere.

By the end, it finally is realized that Freddy, cannot be eternally killed on his own turf—in dreamland—and a ploy to bring him out of a dream and into unconquered territory is sought.

This sixth installment follows its predecessors in being so confusing its almost captivating. One never knows when to separate dreams from reality, but admiration for the way the dream sequences are handled is inevitable.

The biggest disappointment in the film is the lack of Freddy's infamous one-liners. He always has had a knack of stabbing fun at his victims, and quite honestly, always has been able to make people laugh at the expense of another.

Although Freddy still has his moments in "Freddy's Dead," it is almost as if he knows he is going to bite the big one in the end and gives up trying.

In one scene, a boy's hearing is increased dramatically and Freddy pursues by scraping his blades across a chalkboard. The entire audience cringes in this scene.

Thrillers that play with people's minds in harmless ways are in demand, but are few and far between. The "Nightmare on Elm Street" series is one of these rare occurrences. Outside of his disfigured facial features, Freddy Krueger is not physically scary but psychologically scary.

The most intriguing aspect of "Freddy's Dead" is the opportunity to take a look at the past that has made Freddy the ruthless killer he is today, a fact that audiences have longed for since the beginning and have only been partially told.

Alice Cooper serves up a cameo appearance as the drunken, abusive step-father of Freddy. Appearances also are made by Johnny Depp and Roseanne and Tom Arnold.

Bringing the film to an exploding close, the final battle is shown in 3-D, a creative visionary effect as rare to movies these days as popcorn without butter.

On a whole, "Freddy's Dead: The Final Nightmare" is an honorable end to this intriguing slasher series, and out of due respect, Freddy's fans are not tortured with watching him take Manhattan like one of his horror film counterparts.

"Freddy's Dead: The Final Nightmare" is Rated R for violence and language and is playing currently at the Fox Eastgate Theater.

Math mission

Professor wants to make subject interesting to grade schoolers

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (UPI) — Frank Lester, an Indiana University education professor and specialist in math education, is involved in shaping a new era in the way mathematics is taught in the United States.

Lester and other IU researchers have just finished a three-year project, "Preparing Elementary Teachers to Teach Mathematics: A Problem-Solving Focus," directed by Professor John LeBlanc, head of IU's Mathematics Development Center. More than 80 percent of elementary math teachers are deficient in mathematics preparation, according to a recent study by the Carnegie Commission on Science, Technology and Government.

"Every school day, students in these grades come to school naturally curious about the world and go home having learned to hate science and mathematics a little more," said the report, released this week.

Mathematics educators across the nation have been working on reforms for several years amidst widespread dissatisfaction with the way children are learning to add, subtract, multiply and divide.

Two 1991 headlines in the New York Times tell the story: "Eighth Graders' Math Survey Shows No State Is Cutting It" and "Changes Are Proposed In How Math Is Taught."

Most elementary teachers are expected to teach all subjects, but most are more comfortable with reading and language than with math — hence a traditional reliance on exercise books, Lester said.

There were several goals of the IU project, funded by nearly $1 million from the National Science Foundation: to wean elementary teachers from stale math texts; to help teachers develop more engaging materials that emphasize real-world problem-solving; to give children a more solid and relevant math foundation; to revise math courses for education majors; and to improve the practice-teaching experiences of IU students.

"This goes beyond mathematics," Lester said. "Because of the change in the opportunity to get at information, educators are thinking they should do things computers and other technology can't do very well, and that is teach people how to think."

USG delays bill to increase fee for expansion of WIDB

By Katie Fitzgerald
General Assignment Writer

The Undergraduate Student Government Wednesday night tabled a bill until its next meeting that recommends a $2 student activity fee increase to expand student-run WIDB radio.

Tony Svach, USG vice president, said the bill was tabled until the Housing, Tuition and Fees Commission and USG senators can meet with their constituents about the increase.

The activity fee increase would cover the costs for WIDB to change from a commercial to a non-commercial FM frequency to enlarge its listening audience.

WIDB has been a station that limits its signal to people living in the campus residence halls and to TCI cable subscribers.

"WIDB would be well served by the expansion; students would be well served by it, but we need to find if the students think they will be well served," said Jack Sullivan, USG president.

A fee increase would cover equipment and construction permit costs.

In addition to these expenses, salaries for a full-time general manager and a part-time engineer must be obtained to meet Federal Communication Commission regulations.

These costs in addition to start-up expenses total about $100,000. The fee increase proposal would generate $80,000. The remaining $20,000 would be acquired from underwriting and grants, said Curtis Halton, general manager.

WIDB wants to acquire a 3,000 watt frequency to cover an audience similar to WTOA-FM in Murphysboro, Halton said.

Helmsley wants more time

Hotel queen lawyer says lawsuit should wait until audit finished

NEW YORK (UPI) — The lawyer for hotel queen Leona Helmsley Thursday blasted the federal government for prosecuting his client on tax fraud charges as they sought more time to audit the tax returns covered in the indictment.

Attorney Alan Dershowitz, at a press conference Thursday morning, said the IRS has asked for another four years to complete audits of the Helmsleys' tax returns even though they want her to go to jail in the meantime.

"The U.S. government, the IRS, sent Mr. and Mrs. Helmsley a notice requesting that the completion of the audit on their taxes be postponed until 1995," Dershowitz said.

"They want to put her in jail in 1991 and she'll be finished with her sentence in 1995."

"It's shocking that the government indicted her without auditing the tax returns," he said.

"They need four more years to finish the audit and yet they're convinced enough to send her to jail now.

"It sounds like Alice in Wonderland justice."

Dershowitz said he thinks the government will eventually issue his client a refund, adding that the government is likely to say it made a mistake after she serves her time.

An emotional Leona tried to bar New York Post reporter Ransdell Pierson, author of a best-selling book on the Helmsleys, "The Queen of Mean," from the morning news conference.

But when other journalists, led by New York Daily News reporter Alex Michelini, began to walk out in protest, Helmsley quickly relented.

Helmsley reportedly was enraged by comments Pierson made about her son in the book, Dershowitz said.

"He has a financial interest" in her going to jail, Dershowitz said.

Later, Helmsley said Pierson had written unfairly about her but apologized for initially trying to exclude him from the briefing.

Leona Helmsley has been free on $25 million bail during the appeal process, but the government has been attempting to get her to serve her time this year, her lawyer said.

Dershowitz said he received a letter from the IRS last week and responded by granting the government's request for more time to complete its audits.

IRS officials were immediately unavailable for comment.

Helmsley, 71, was sentenced to four years in prison for a 1989 conviction on tax fraud charges.

In July, the Second Circuit Court of Appeals in Manhattan upheld the conviction but ruled that the U.S. District Court must resentence her on some counts.

Her attorney said he was appealing the four-year sentence, which may not change even with resentencing.

Senate democrats pledge fast action on job bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate Democrats promised swift action Thursday on a bill to extend jobless benefits for up to 20 weeks and dismissed a Republican plan as inadequate to meet the needs of America's unemployed.

At a heavily attended news conference, Democratic Leader George Mitchell said of the legislation, "We'll get to it as soon as we can and complete it as soon as we can."

The bill is identical to the one approved by Congress five weeks ago that was signed by Bush. But the president refused to declare the nations' unemployment an "emergency," thereby freezing the money for the extended benefits.

Taking a different approach, the House approved the same legislation 283-125 earlier in the week, but in a way that would force Bush to veto the measure to prevent the payment of benefits. The margin in the House was large enough to override a veto.

Senate Democrats, however, decided to use the language of the original bill in an effort to speed passage in their chamber and hinted strongly that they would adopt the House language in conference.

"We're trying to expedite this," Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, said when asked why Senate Democrats were splitting with their House counterparts.

"This is a crisis, Bentsen said. "We can move much faster with an identical bill."

But when asked whether the Senate would give in to the House in conference, Bentsen replied, "I'm not about to speculate. We don't turn over all the cards in advance."

The Democrats' plan would cover all states and provide four levels of added benefits based on the total unemployment rate in a state during the preceding six months. The added benefits would be on top of the 26 weeks now in effect.

Six states with unemployment rates of 8 percent or higher would provide 20 additional weeks of benefits; 13 states and the District of Columbia with rates 7 percent or higher would provide 13 weeks; 15 states with jobless rates of 6 percent would provide 7 weeks; and 16 states with rates under 6 percent would be limited to four weeks.

The legislation, which would take $5.8 billion out of the unemployment trust fund, would also provide benefits for unemployed former members of the military on the same basis as civilians.

The Republican plan, offered by Senate GOP leader Robert Dole, is almost identical to the one the Senate rejected five weeks ago.

Infant mortality falls to new low rate

ATLANTA (UPI) — The rate of infant mortality in the United States has dropped to 10 for 1,000 births, the lowest ever recorded, but still higher than that of many other developed countries, federal health officials reported Thursday.

The Centers for Disease Control said 38,910 infants less than 1 year of age died in 1988, the latest year for which statistics were available, and 502 fewer than the year before.

The death rate for black infants was more than double that of whites, 17.6 for 1000 live births compared to 8.5 for whites.

Birth defects accounted for nearly 25 percent of all deaths among white infants while for blacks the leading mortality cause was sudden infant death syndrome which killed nearly 13 percent of the infants, the CDC said.

"The four leading causes of death accounted for 54.3 percent of all deaths among white infants and 45.3 percent of all deaths among black infants," the CDC said. They were sudden infant death syndrome, disorders related to short gestation and low birth weight, birth defects and respiratory distress syndrome.

"Infant mortality is one of the most widely used general indices of health in the United States and other countries," the CDC said. "The United States continues to have an infant mortality rate higher than that in many other developed countries."

CDC noted the decrease has slowed for both white and black infants in the last two decades.

One of the national health objectives for the year 2000 is to reduce the infant death rate to no more than 7 for 1000 live births.

EPA proposes treaty to protect Earth's ozone

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The EPA, fulfilling U.S. commitments under an international environmental treaty, Thursday accelerated the phaseout of chlorofluorocarbons and three other ozone-depleting chemicals to meet a 2000 deadline.

The Environmental Protection Agency proposed rules that would require U.S. companies to start cutting production and imports of the four chemicals by January 1992 and complete the phaseout by the turn of the century.

In addition to CFCs, a widely used refrigerant and industrial solvent, the new EPA plan targets two other solvents — carbon tetrachloride and methyl chloroform — as well as halons, which are mostly used in fire extinguishers.

Those four chemicals are believed to be the largest contributors to depletion of Earth's ozone layer, which screens out harmful levels of ultraviolet radiation from the sun.

The new phaseout requirements supersede rules issued by the agency in 1988 that required a 50 percent cut in CFCs by 2000 and a freeze on halons.

The accelerated phaseout meets U.S. obligations under the Montreal Protocol, an international treaty that requires industrialized countries to halt production of CFCs and the other three chemicals within 10 years. Developing nations are given until 2010 to achieve the ban.

The United States and other nations last year moved to strengthen the treaty, which previously required only a 50 percent CFC cut and freeze on halons.

The accelerated phaseout was prompted by new atmospheric monitoring data that showed the erosion of the ozone layer was occurring more quickly than previously believed.

Medical experts believe heightened ultraviolet radiation resulting from the the weakening of the ozone layer could cause millions of additional skin cancer deaths and also harm plant growth and marine life.

The schedule will help limit health and ecological effects.

Judge schedules hearing for wire service bankruptcy

NEW YORK (UPI) — A bankruptcy judge scheduled a hearing for Friday on a motion by United Press International to modify its labor contract with domestic employees as part of the news agency's bankruptcy proceedings.

A clerk to U.S. Bankruptcy Judge Francis Conrad said Thursday the hearing on UPI's emergency motion was set for 9 a.m. Friday in U.S. Bankruptcy Court in Manhattan.

The action was made possible when U.S. District Judge Thomas Hogan in Washington lifted a temporary stay freezing action in the case.

UPI told the court in Washington that the company needs changes in its labor contract with the Wire Service Guild to reduce costs.

Guidelines Regarding Alcohol Policy/Football Games

The University Alcohol Policy prohibits all possession or consumption of alcoholic beverages on campus unless an exception is specifically authorized. As done by many colleges and universities for football games, the University has permitted what is known as "tailgate" activities in designated areas intended to give persons attending football games the opportunity to arrive early, park and have their own food and beverages (including alcoholic beverages if they wish) prior to the game. Since these events are permitted through exception to the University Alcohol Policy, the following guidelines have been formulated and will be in effect for your health and safety throughout the football season:

1. Possession and consumption of alcoholic beverages within the intent described above will be permitted only during the period from three hours prior to the kick-off up to fifteen minutes prior to game time on Saturdays of home football games and during the half-time of those games in the following areas (these spaces to be available for set-up three hours prior to kick-off):

- a) Parking Lot 13, directly west of the stadium;
- b) Lot 13A, southwest of the stadium;
- c) Lots 10A and IOB, North of the stadium;
- d) Lots S3 and 43, near the Physical Plant;
- e) The Free Forum Area.

Consumption of alcoholic beverages on campus other than at the times and locations specified is prohibited by the University Alcohol Policy, unless specifically authorized.

2. The above limited exception applies only to those persons of legal drinking age (21 years of age or older). Under age possession or consumption of alcoholic beverages in any public place is illegal. Violators will be subject to prosecution.

3. The sale or delivery of alcoholic beverages, direct or indirect, is strictly prohibited. (Sale of other items are permitted only if approved in advance and meet the other requirements of the University Policy on Solicitation.)

4. It is recommended that containers be limited to individual servings, but kegs will be permitted, except in the Free Forum Area, subject to provisions of number one above. Only individual servings will be permitted in the Free Forum Area.

5. For safety reasons, the use of non-glass containers is encouraged for all beverages.

Dropout rate high for inmates; department pushes studies

By Rob Neff
Police Writer

More than 72 percent of inmates polled in Illinois prisons do not have a high school education, according to a study by the Illinois Criminal Justice Information Authority.

The study surveyed 693 adults entering state prisons on their educational background, educational experiences and their attitudes toward education.

The average Illinois inmate stayed in school until the end of tenth grade but the average inmate operates on the same level as a beginning eighth grader, according to their performance on the Test of Adult Basic Education, a standardized test on reading and math skills given to every inmate entering the state's prisons.

Almost 30 percent of the 13,800 inmates who took the TABE during 1990 scored below the sixth grade level, and many who dropped out did so before reaching high school.

More than 60 percent of the Hispanic and white dropouts in state prisons and more than 40 percent of the blacks reported they dropped out of school in junior high school or earlier.

Kevin Morrison, spokesman for the Illinois Criminal Justice Information Authority, said most of the dropout inmates dropped out of school because of violence and delinquency.

"The main reason they dropped out was their own violence and delinquency, and many were expelled," he said. "Some of those and others said the felt they weren't dropouts, but 'pushouts' because the schools didn't want them there."

Kim Kanuer, spokeswoman for the Illinois Board of Education, said the education system tries to make students welcome, not to alienate them.

"The system isn't designed to do that," she said about students who "aim they were pushed out of school." "The major project in the schools right now is to help make the students feel successful. If you talk to all of the teachers, they'll tell you we try to meet their individual needs and build their self esteem, and when we think they're at risk of dropping out, we try to get them some help."

But the study said 46 percent of the inmates who dropped out said nobody tried to keep them from leaving school and only one in eight inmates reported school officials tried to keep them in school.

The study also indicated problems such as crime in schools, poverty, drug abuse and neglect also hamper the educational process and the number of school-age children in the state with multiple risk factors is increasing.

Despite the problems inmates had staying in school, only 17 percent of inmates who dropped out said nothing could have kept them in school and 82 percent of inmates expressed an interest in enrolling in Illinois Department of Corrections educational programs through School District 428, the prison system school district.

Nic Howell, spokesman for IDOC, said a school district tries to accommodate all the inmates who wish to enter adult education courses, but the number of inmates they can handle at a time is limited.

"We're limited by space availability and the number of educators we can hire with a tight budget," he said. "Depending on the class and institution, waiting lines can be a couple of hundred people long."

Inmates who score below the sixth grade level on the TABE when they enter state prisons are required to enroll in a 90-day adult basic education course. After 45 days in the class, they can take the test again and if they score above the sixth grade level, they are excused from the rest of the course.

Howell said inmates who still do not pass the test at the end of the course are not required to stay in the program but are encouraged to remain enrolled because uneducated inmates are paid less for their work and extra privileges are often extended to educated inmates.

Other academic and vocational education programs are available through IDOC and inmates who enroll in these programs are less likely to be arrested than inmates who do not enroll in the courses.

The study reported 30 percent of the inmates who enrolled in vocational education and 21 percent of the inmates who enrolled in academic education were employed a year after they were released from prison, compared with the 24 percent of inmates with no prison education who were employed after release. Almost 40 percent of those enrolled in both vocational and academic education were employed a year after their release.

Man unsure how he lost ears as police collect information

ROLLING MEADOWS (UPI) — A man scheduled to appear in court for driving with a suspended license wandered into a courtroom early Thursday bleeding from both sides of his head. Investigators determined his ears were missing.

Hector Garduno, 27, Chicago, told investigators he was unsure what happened. "We don't know exactly what happened," Rolling Meadows Police Cmdr. Larry Carson said. "I know he's missing two ears." Carson said police recovered a pair of small scissors but had not yet determined whether the injuries were self-inflicted.

Getaway geese elude chasers but lose egg

ALSIP (UPI) — Two Canada geese — one with a broken leg and the other tangled in a fishing line — led animal control officers on, well, a wild goose chase.

"If you get a goose, it's because they want to be gotten," said Deleasa Pepitone, a DuPage County animal control warden.

Pepitone and Bill Lietz, a humane investigator from the Animal Welfare League, chased the geese for two hours Wednesday at Commissioners Park in Alsip but came up with a goose egg.

Even though they didn't catch the geese, the two caught some criticism from people in the park upset by the chase. Pepitone said one of the park users told them the geese "were better off left alone."

Perry County lawyer loses license to state

SPRINGFIELD (UPI) — The state Supreme Court Thursday suspended the law license of a former Southern Illinois state's attorney for two years because justices said the man was guilty of a "flaunting of the law."

Gerald Sims Jr. resigned his position as Perry County's chief prosecutor in 1985 in return for a promise by federal prosecutors not to indict him on charges he used marijuana and cocaine while state's attorney from 1980-85.

Justice James Heiple, who wrote the court's opinion in the case, said justices found no reports of misconduct by Sims since 1985. However, Heiple decided to increase a review board's majority recommendation that Sims lose his legal license for only one year.

"Any sanction less than the two-year suspension would denigrate the seriousness of his conduct and would erode public trust in the accountability of its elected officials," Heiple wrote.

Sims is currently an assistant attorney general for the Virgin Islands, a position he began in 1985 when he resigned in Perry County. Justices said the attorney general of the Virgin Islands knew about the circumstances of Sims' resignation when he was hired in the island nation.

Sims used cannabis in the presence of other people in Perry and Jackson counties from 1979-84 and also used cocaine from 1979-82. He did not take criminal action against those who sold and used the controlled substances in his presence, which was part of the reason justices gave him the harsh penalty.

In other decisions issued by the court Thursday:

—Justices ordered a new sentencing hearing for a man convicted of killing a tavern manager and a customer in Chicago in 1984. The court ruled James Seuffer should get sentenced again because of the improper exclusion of a prospective juror.

Kuwait calls for U.N. to subdue Hussein

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Kuwait's defense minister said Thursday the United Nations should "subdue Saddam Hussein" to eliminate what Persian Gulf nations consider a continued threat to the region.

While not specifically calling for renewed military action against Iraq, Ali al-Sabah al-Salim al-Sabah added, "With a person like Saddam Hussein, I think he only understands force."

Al Sabah was at the Pentagon to sign a 10-year defense cooperation agreement that allows the United States to store military equipment in the emirate and conduct joint air, land and sea operations and training with Kuwaiti forces.

The minister said the agreement — the first in the region Defense Secretary Dick Cheney has sought that has been publicly announced — is an agreement "for a peaceful gulf, for a secure and peaceful gulf, and we don't want any Saddam Hussein in that area any more."

He also used the occasion to seek international pressure on Iraq to

Iraq allowed oil exports by United Nations

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — The U.N. Security Council voted Thursday to allow Iraq to export $1.6 billion worth of oil for six months to buy food and medicine for Iraqi civilians.

Iraqi Ambassador Abdul Amir al-Anbari said the amount fell short of his nation's need for the coming winter. Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar has asked the council for an additional $800 million.

The 15-member council voted 13-1, with one abstention, to adopt a resolution permitting the resumption of oil exports by Iraq, but oil revenues will be deposited directly by purchasers into an escrow account to be administered by Perez de Cuellar.

Cuba voted against the resolution and Yemen abstained.

The council said it "confirmed" the amount of $1.6 billion, which was sum agreed by it to buy food and medicines, to compensate war damage that Iraq inflicted on Kuwait and migrant workers, and to meet the cost of destroying Iraq's heavy weapons by U.N. inspectors.

It said it will review the amount "on the basis of ongoing assessment of the needs and requirements" of the Iraqi people.

The council allowed the immediate release of one-third of the amount for the buying "foodstuffs, medicines and materials and supplies for essential civilian needs."

Perez de Cuellar proposed last month that Iraq be allowed to export 515,000 barrels of oil a day for six months and that Baghdad take care of the marketing and selling of crude from its main Kirkuk oil field. He said the oil should be shipped via the 600-mile Kirkuk-Yumurtalik pipeline, which runs through Turkey.

Diplomats said Iraqi oil will begin flowing from the Kirkuk field as soon as Iraq, Turkey and Perez de Cuellar agree on the oil price.

Ireland violence claims 46th life in timber yard

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — The director of the largest timber yard in Northern Ireland was shot dead by IRA gunmen Thursday morning as he arrived for work in northern Belfast, the Royal Ulster Constabulary said.

John Haldane, 54, who was married with four children, died instantly when two men walked into his first-floor office at the McCue-Dick timber yard in Duncree Street and opened fire at point-blank range.

In claiming responsibility for the killing, the outlawed Irish Republican Army said Haldane was shot because his company supplied building materials to the British security forces.

Police said the unmasked gunmen drove into the timber yard before carrying out the killing, which was witnessed by Haldane's secretary and several office clerks who had to be treated for shock.

Haldane was the 46th civilian to be killed this year in the sectarian violence that has torn the British-ruled province and has also claimed the lives of 15 members of the security forces.

return Kuwaitis he said are still being held prisoner in the defeated nation.

At a signing ceremony, Cheney told the minister, a member of the ruling Sabah family, that, "All Americans have great admiration and respect for the very difficult time and the great courage demonstrated by the people of Kuwait in not knuckling under to the invaders."

Police Blotter

Delowence J. Key, 23, of 411 Boomer II, was arrested at 3:30 a.m. Sept. 19 in his home on a warrant for failure to appear in city court.

He posted $200 bond and is scheduled to appear in court Sept. 23.

A vacuum cleaner worth $450 was discovered missing by a student worker from Bowyer Hall at 1 p.m. Sept. 16.

University Police said the vacuum cleaner was last seen in a maintenance closet at 3:30 p.m. Sept. 13.

John D. McIntyre, professor in curriculum and instruction, told University Police a VCR he was using in a class was stolen from Wham 203 between classes.

The loss is valued at $325.

Deborah A. Scott, 31, of 206 E. Willow St., told Carbondale Police her garage was burglarized between 2:15 and 6:45 p.m. on Sept. 18.

She said a bicycle worth $90 was taken.

A four car accident occurred at 12:05 p.m. Sept. 18 on Lincoln Drive, causing more than $250 damage to the cars involved.

University Police said the first car driven by Beth L. Payton, 21, of 800 E. Grand Ave. Apt. 27-A, was turning left on to Physical Plant Drive when a pedestrian walked out in front of her.

She stopped and police said a second car driven by Kyle P. Wieter, 20, of 800 E. Grand Ave. Apt. 7-D struck the rear of Payton's car.

The third car driven by Jennifer D. Tapen, 18, of 608 Neely Hall, managed to stop in time, but was struck from behind by a fourth car driven by Andrew B. Darnell, 20, of West Frankfort.

The collision forced Tapen's car into the second car, which in turn hit the first car again.

Darnell's car had to be towed from the scene.

No tickets were issued in connection with the accident.

Super powers must reduce warheads—scientists

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States and Soviet Union need to dramatically reduce their nuclear weapons stockpiles and back off from the "hair-trigger" response on which nuclear defense is based, the Union of Concerned Scientists said Thursday.

"We are not in a nuclear confrontation with the Soviet Union," said physicist Henry Kendall, chairman of the group. Nuclear weapons positioned for immediate use are "an astonishing anachronism," he said.

In a letter to President Bush, the group noted that the breakup of the Soviet central government poses new potential for nuclear proliferation and instability among nuclear powers. This and other world developments warrant a major change in nuclear policies, the group said.

"National and global security therefore demand a profound change in nuclear postures and policies, as profound as the one that has already taken place on the world's political stage," the letter said.

U.S. official thinks widespread hunger unlikely for Soviets

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Some Soviet citizens may face food "hardship" this winter, particularly in cities in northern Russia, but widespread hunger is unlikely despite a small grain crop, a well-informed U.S. official said Thursday.

The Agriculture Department official, just back from a 10-day fact-finding tour, said the effect of the small crop and lagging grain procurements by the central government was being mitigated by an increase in private sales of food.

"I think our basic conclusion

... is that there are going to be some areas this winter where there will be food hardship, but we saw nothing to indicate, heard nothing to indicate, there will be the sort of widespread famine that one or two accounts ... have indicated," the official told reporters.

The judgment, he said, "has to do with the degree of supply we saw" as well as the views of officials they interviewed in Russia, Kazakhstan, Uzbekistan and Armenia.

The regions "that seemed to be most vulnerable" included cities in northern Russia from the Urals eastward through Siberia — cities that traditionally import food from the fertile regions of the south — as well as mountainous Armenia with its long supply lines.

The official, who spoke on condition of anonymity, declined to specify the amount of food aid requested by Soviet leaders and leaders in four republics. Nor would he discuss the recommendations of the eight-member U.S. team would submit to President Bush.

The proposal also was sent to Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev, Russian Republic President Boris Yeltsin, and the Soviet Congress of Peoples Deputies, as well as other U.S. officials.

The UCS proposes that the United States and Soviet Union both cut their nuclear weapons arsenals to between 1,000 and 2,000 strategic and tactical warheads by the year 2000.

The two nations each will have between 8,000 and 9,000 warheads under the existing START treaty, the UCS said.

"The idea is to revert back to the idea of retaliation, to have a force (only) large enough so that there would be no incentive to attack," said Bruce Blair of the Brookings Institution at a news conference.

Kendall, a Nobel laureate, said cutting the warhead stockpile as the group wants would make it impossible for the United States or the Soviets to destroy the others' command and control capability in a surprise attack.

"Because command and control is vulnerable, we have this policy of launch on warning," Kendall said. The group estimates that both the United States and Soviet Union have nuclear weapons positioned for launch within minutes of a decision by the most senior officials.

The scientists also call for negotiations to reduce the nuclear stockpiles of other nations and to limit their ability to produce weapons-grade nuclear material.

"Destruction of warheads has got to be part of the deal," said Jonathan Dean, a former U.S. arms reduction negotiator and arms control adviser to the UCS. He raised concern that ethnic fighting in Soviet republics raises the risk created by the presence of nuclear weapons.

Patriots, crews head to Saudi; no troops move

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Pentagon official said Thursday Patriot missiles and their U.S. crews being sent to Saudi Arabia will come from Europe. He insisted that no order has been given for contingency plans to escort helicopters on inspections of suspect weapons sites in Iraq.

Defense Department spokesman Pete Williams said the Patriot missiles that took on Iraqi Scud missiles during the Persian Gulf War would head to Saudi Arabia soon, but he said the number to be sent is still under discussion.

"No orders have been issued to carry out any plans with respect to an Iraqi contingency," he said. "No troops are moving."

Williams said the threat to Saudi Arabia from any remaining Iraqi Scuds is low, but the Patriots are being provided to protect the kingdom just in case.

Photo prompts military to set up POW agency

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Pentagon officials said Thursday a photograph purporting to show a Navy pilot downed in the Vietnam War is a fake and that new access to Vietnamese records has prompted the agency to create a separate high-level job to deal with POW-MIA affairs.

Recently, two photographs have surfaced purporting to show Navy Lt. Daniel Vernon Borah Jr. of Olney — photographs members of his family said appeared to be him.

But Carl Ford, the Pentagon's senior official on the POW-MIA issue, said agency investigators and officials in Laos found an elderly man in Laos who identified himself as the person in the picture. He said the department is satisfied with the man's story that a trader asked him to pose for the photographs and a search is now on for the unidentified trader.

Ford said the case of Borah, whose rescue radio beacon was heard after he safely parachuted out of his A-7 Corsair in September 1972, remains open. The Navy says circumstantial evidence suggests he was immediately captured.

Pentagon spokesman Pete Williams said that another 14 personnel will be added to a previously announced addition of 88 staffers for the POW-MIA effort, bringing to 252 the number of people working to resolve the 2,273 unresolved cases of servicemen missing from the Vietnam War.

Williams said that because of the added access to records, eyewitness accounts, crash and burial sites and other information, the Pentagon will create a new position, a deputy assistant secretary of defense for POW-MIA affairs.

Ford, who is a deputy assistant secretary for international security affairs, said the extra access "means we have a lot more work, but our people are delighted."

He said the United States has now been able to set up five teams to operate within Vietnam checking records and sites instead of the two it previously was able to operate.

Ford said additional access is evolving in Laos.

He offered a word of caution about the outstanding cases, saying that "despite of all the cooperation, I can't tell you today that we have made any real progress in terms of results of ending what is our primary mission, the uncertainty for the families."

Men's tennis begins season in tournament

By Norma Wilke
Sports Writer

The Saluki men's tennis team has its eyes on a first place finish in their season opening tournament.

All that stands in its way are eight other teams.

Their season opens today at the Redbird Classic at Illinois State in Bloomington/Normal.

Coach Dick LeFevre said he thinks his team is a strong competitor. The final results depend on how well the new players fend.

"We should do reasonably well," LeFevre said. "We have three guys that have never played. A lot depends on how well they do in the tournament."

Entries in the tournament include in-state foes Western Illinois, Eastern Illinois, and DePaul and Missouri Valley rival Illinois State.

Western coach Art Peterson said he expects the Salukis and the host team Redbirds to battle for the tourney title.

"I think that SIU and Illinois State will be the biggest competition," Peterson said.

"Those schools have very competitive Division I programs. We're trying to get our team to that level."

But he said he expects his team's balance will make it competitive.

"Our strength is team depth," Peterson said. "We have no great players at the top, but our bottom three are almost as good as the top three."

The tournament is flighted, which means all the No. 1 players from each school will play in one division, all the No. 2 players will play in the another division and so on. Each team will compete in six singles matches and three doubles.

LeFevre said junior Tim Derouin, who played the No. 4 position last season, will play in Flight 1.

Jay Merchant, who was last season's No. 3 player, will play in Flight 2 singles, and freshman Altar Merchant of Bombay, India, who was the No. 1 junior in India, will play the No. 3 position.

Freshman Uwe Classen of Herzogenrath, Germany, sophomore Kai Kramer, who was named all-conference in Flight 6 singles last year, and freshman Patrick Greathouse will fill the remaining three slots.

Derouin and Classen will team up to play in Flight 1 doubles, the two Merchants will play in Flight 2 doubles and Kramer and Greathouse will compete in the third slot.

LeFevre said the team has a good chance of winning flights 2, 3 and 4. There is always fierce competition in the No. 1 division, so Derouin will have a tough time, he said.

"All four of my top players are very competitive," LeFevre said.

"We've lost our No. 1 and No. 2 players from last season, so the new top players will have to play stronger."

Men cross country runners to battle No. 38 Fighting Illini

By Scott Wuerz
Sports Writer

The Saluki men's cross country team is looking forward to renewing its rivalry with the Fighting Illini, said head coach Bill Cornell.

The SIUC men's cross country team will go on the road for the first time this season to battle the No. 38 University of Illinois in Champaign, which it last faced in 1985.

"The Big Ten schools are traditionally strong in cross country," Cornell said.

"So we realize a challenge awaits us. We have had some great meets with them in the past, and I'm looking forward to reviving the series."

Cornell said fans have good reason to be optimistic about his team's potential.

"There have been some things happening early that excite us about the season," Cornell said. "We gave Kansas a run for their money in our home opener and they're the No. 14 team in the nation."

Senior Mark Stuart dominated the meet against Kansas on an individual level, winning the race handily with a time of 19:36. The Salukis lost the meet to KU by eight points.

But Cornell said Saturday the Salukis will be without the services of No. 5 runner Neil Lisk. Lisk is suffering from a back ailment and will be replaced with junior Bernard Henry.

Henry competed in four meets in 1990. His best finish was 21st against the University of Kansas in the Salukis' opening meet last season.

"Henry did well in our opener," Cornell said.

"We know we've got the talent to do well. We know we have to do well, too. Illinois is ranked No. 38 in the nation, and if we want to crack the Top 40 we have to be able beat them."

German leaders may strengthen drug abuse laws

BONN, Germany (UPI) — The German parliament is demanding stronger measures by the country's sports federations to combat drug abuse.

"Evident drug abuse was only treated half-heartedly, doping allegations against coaches, doctors and officials were not followed up," the parliament's Sports Committee said a statement issued Wednesday night. "The Sports Committee demands that the federations take effective action."

The committee also said a general amnesty for athletes who admitted using banned substances before Jan. 1, 1991, as recommended by an independent drug commission, should not be absolute.

record for 1991, losing only to top-ranked Stanford. Oklahoma has a struggling 2-8 1991 mark despite five returning starters.

Texas-Arlington also posts a 0-4 road record. UTA's total 1991 record is 2-6.

Locke said the team will have its work cut out for it, but she thinks it can handle it.

"It will take better play than the last two weeks, but we are capable of doing it," Locke said.

"We really need to win these matches on the road though because it will count come conference play."

Senior outside hitter Lori Simpson, who was the Gateway Conference Player of the Week, also said the team will have to pull together more in order to win these matches on the road.

"We didn't let the early losses stop us from believing in ourselves," Simpson said. "But after gaining confidence through winning, we are communicating better, and I think that helps, but there is still work to do."

Simpson leads the Salukis in kills (122) and attack percentage (.246), and she is second in digs (126).

Junior middle blocker Stacy Snook, tourney MVP in the 15th Saluki Invitational, said the teams SIUC will face are tough, but she thinks it is ready.

"We won the last two tournaments, but this weekend is another weekend," Snook said, "and there are different teams to face."

Locke said her goal for this tournament and for every tourney this year is to be in the top two teams.

"That means we must win at least two matches," Locke said. "It will be a tough job, but I think it is within grasp. I think, no, I know we are up to that challenge."

the stadium two or three at a time," Smith said. "We think this organized walk will help them focus on the game while boosting their spirits at the same time.

"We are hoping this will turn into something big, but all we hope to do is get lots of students to the game and yell for us. It would be nice to have spirited fans during our warm-up, but we will have to see what happens."

The players appreciate the fans' interactions because it gives them even more of the home field advantage, Wilson said.

"The kids are really fired up for this game," Wilson said, "and the crowd should get involved. We should all join into our university's sports because that is how it is supposed to be.

"There is nothing like a high-spirited football game in America, and it is just great to get people involved with it."

head coach Terry Allen. "One thing that has helped them is that they can create turnovers and they take advantage of the turnovers."

Along with three pass interceptions, the Dawgs have recovered two fumbles. The Salukis have turned three of their take-aways into scores.

"It's important to make turnovers count on the scoreboard," Smith said.

"Teams that end up in the (win) column usually turn turnovers into something positive."

SIUC is ranked second in the Gateway Conference in total offense averaging 379 yards and 26.7 points a game.

The Dawgs have racked up 511 rushing yards to compliment their conference-leading 676 yards in the air, a balance that has caught Allen's attention.

"I think their biggest improvement is their running game," Allen said. "They proved that they are not just a passing team. Our defense really hasn't been tested yet.

"They have a lot of ability on offense and I think they are going to test us."

The Salukis have defeated the Panthers five times in their nine-game history, but UNI has won the last four contests.

The Dawgs haven't beaten UNI since 1986.

"We know what the odds are, but our kids won't give up before the game is over," Smith said.

HELMICK, from Page 20

"Helmick did not inform the IOC president of deals where there might have been a conflict of interest, but that's not the question," Mbaye said. "The question is if there was a conflict of interest."

During Sunday's World Gymnastics Championships in Indianapolis Helmick said he would not seek re-election as USOC president, but made no mention of resignation. His four-year term was to expire at the end of next year.

The USOC last week appointed Arnold Burns, a former deputy attorney general, to review Helmick's conduct. The USOC's executive committee issued a statement Wednesday in support of Helmick.

"The USOC has been forever changed, for the better, by the work, commitment and dedication of Robert H. Helmick," the statement said. "During his presidency, he moved the organization through a period of its most dynamic growth to a vibrant sports organization."
