$4.1 Million Lab Building to Mark Start for Physical Sciences Home

Construction of a huge laboratory wing of a new SIU Physical Science Building is scheduled to start this year.

University Architect Charles Pulley said the structure, to be used by the Departments of Physics, Chemistry and Geology, will be constructed south of the University Center. Three houses will be razed before construction starts and one used by the School of Technology will be torn down when the technology group of buildings is completed. Work is proceeding on this project south of the projected Physical Science Building.

The Phase I construction of Physical Science, for which $4,100,000 has been set up by the Illinois Building Authority, will be a four-story wing, built of brick and pre-cast concrete, and will be windowless in the laboratory space, Pulley said.

Present plans indicate a call for bids in May, Pulley said. The structure will be financed through the Illinois Building Authority, which will issue bonds.

The construction will take about two years, Pulley said.

Pact Ends Threat of Rail Strike

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — President Johnson announced Wednesday night an agreement ending the threat of a nationwide rail strike at midnight Friday.

Johnson said in a statement prepared for nationwide radio and television broadcast "the terms of the agreement are just and fair."

"They take account of the modernization necessary for railroads to survive and prosper," he said.

"They take account also of the human needs and human aspirations which are affected by technological progress."

The settlement was reached in the Oval Room of the White House living quarters at 5:30 p.m., EST, White House officials said.

Johnson went on the air with his announcement at 6:50 p.m.

"This is a good day for our country," the President said.

The agreement ended 4 1/2 years of conflict and controversy between the nation's railroads and five of the operating unions.

Johnson hailed the agreement as a victory for collective bargaining and industrial democracy.

"But most of all," the President said, "this agreement prevents—we hope for all time—a crippling and disastrous strike in the railroad industry. This strike, had it occurred, would have put 6 million workers off their jobs."

SUNNY SIDE UP — Soaring temperatures and sunny skies Wednesday caused sunbathers to pop up around campus like mushrooms in a damp forest. Among them was this bevy of beauties getting an early start on their suntans near their Thompson Point dorm. The weatherman promises more of the same — weather that is — today.

Leisure on Campus

'Southern Is Like a Resort in Springtime'; Students Swarm Outdoors to Bask in Sun

"During the spring quarter SIU is like a resort," says a senior on Thompson Point.

"Everyone just takes it easy after the winter term. It's usually pretty rough on them and they just want to relax."

"Quite a few students take fewer hours so they can be outdoors more when the weather is so pretty. Everyone just wants to get outside," says another.

To some, however, it's harder to study when everyone wants to be outdoors.

In spite of this feeling of leisure, there isn't really an appreciable increase in the number of disciplinary cases during the spring term over any other term, according to Joseph Zaleski, assistant dean of student affairs.

He says students seem louder because they are outdoors more, in larger groups, and spread out more.

He quotes the number of cases brought before the disciplinary boards for several quarters, and no one quarter is much higher than the others.

The 1963 spring term represents about the average. A total of 334 cases were brought before the boards. Of these, 223 were men and 111 were women.

On the lighter side, one girl at Thompson Point says during the spring men in nearby halls call the girls whose rooms they can see, by guess-

Folio, 'Pericles' Acquisition Marks Bard's Anniversary

Morris Library has acquired two rare Shakespearean items.

One is a Fifth Quarto of the disputed play, "Pericles, Prince of Tyre," only nine copies of which are known to exist.

The other is a Fourth Folio of Shakespeare's collected works, gathered a short time after his death.

The SIU acquisitions were in recognition of the bard's quadricentennial anniversary, according to Ferris S. Randall, acting librarian.

The Fourth Folio was published in 1685. The first was published in 1623, the second in 1632, the third in 1663 and reissued in 1664 with additional plays, and the fourth in 1685.

They represent what many scholars call the most important volumes in English literature, because they provide the collected works of one of the western world's greatest writers and were gathered within a comparatively short time after his death.

Scholars disagree about the authorship of "Pericles" but the consensus is that Shakespeare was probably responsible for most of the last three acts.

The two new acquisitions are on exhibit in the main hallway of Morris Library. Eventually they will be housed with the Rare Books collection.

Southern to Mark Shakespeare's Birth

SIU today joins in the observance of the 400th anniversary of the birth of William Shakespeare.

Thomas J. Baldwin, professor of English and a noted Shakespearean authority, will speak at a public lecture at 8 p.m. today in the auditorium of Morris Library.

His subject will be, "William Shakespeare, Scholar."

Throughout this year, SIU has joined the universities of the western world in presenting a series of special events in commemoration of the 400th anniversary of Shakespeare's birth.

Today is the actual birthday, and the quadricentennial committee arranged tonight's public lecture.

Baldwin came to Southern in 1958 after a distinguished career as a professor at the University of Illinois. He is author of many books and articles on Shakespeare and is currently preparing "The Comedy of Errors" for the Variorum Edition of the works. SIU Press has announced his book "On Acts and Scenes in the Shakespeare First Folio" for fall publication.

Baldwin is serving as honorary chairman of the SIU quadricentennial committee.

Grand Ave. Traffic Blockade Extended 60 Days by Council

SIU has been given permission to extend its blockade on West Grand Avenue an additional 60 days.

The Carbondale City Council approved a request for the extension at its Tuesday night meeting.

Due to unfavorable weather and union problems, the University requested the additional time to finish construction work on a sewer under the street, Grand Avenue was originally slated to be reopened by April 30.

The Council also agreed to formally withdraw its offer to help the University to a maximum of $7,000 for the installation of a six-inch pipeline to the city reservoir. The action was based on the discovery of a 1959 contract wherein the University agreed to build the pipeline on its own.

A letter of protest from four Carbondale residents was read. The letter objected to plans to build a dormitory at the corner of Mill and Poplar Streets. It said that the site is not large enough to allow adequate parking facilities in the area, which already has serious traffic problems. It further stated that the dormitory site did not include sufficient recreation area to keep the students off adjoining property.

The letter asked that the Council deny a petition now on file requesting rezoning of the Mill and Poplar site to allow building of the dorm. The Council referred the request to the City Planning Commission.

Actor Philip Hanson to Stage One-Man Show at Convocation

Actor Philip Hanson will appear at the Freshman Convocation at 10 a.m. and 1 p.m. today in Shryock Auditorium.

Hanson will present a one-man show, "Villains and Fools," in which he plays 25 of William Shakespeare's famous and infamous characters.

Hanson is a veteran of more than 10 years of Shakespearean repertory production at the Shakespeare Festivals in Oregon and California. That experience along with 2 years' observation of repertory companies in France and Germany paved the way for his initiation of a living repertory for himself in his seven one-man shows.

Fast-Growing Market Group

Survey of Purchasing Habits Of Students Underway Today

Forms are being distributed beginning today to five per cent of the student body in an attempt to conduct a comprehensive survey of the purchasing habits of SIU students.

The market study is being conducted by David J. Luck, professor of marketing at Southern, who will be assisted by 25 graduate and upperclass students in his marketing and research course.

The Daily Egyptian and several university offices are cooperating in the study.

Purpose of the study, Luck explained, is to supply data concerning student purchasing habits, for use by universities and business.

American university students are the fastest growing segment among consumer market groups, according to Luck, with a growth rate of eight per cent per year.

Forms are being sent this week to a selected group of students, with the greater part of them to be distributed next week.

Representative students were selected on the basis of location and by class. Students will be notified by mail, through their living areas or by members of the marketing research class.

Two forms will be used. The first is a diary of weekly purchases; another will require the student to record his major purchases over a year's period.

The Daily Egyptian will prepare a report to be made available to Carbondale businessmen and will publish the results of the study.

Romeos Make Scene on Roof But Get Probation -Not Juliet

Two freshmen Romeos, who played the big scene on a roof instead of a balcony, have been placed on disciplinary probation through this quarter by the Office of Student Affairs.

The office said that Lawrence Tucker, 22, of Campaign and Paul Pals, 19, of Teutopolis would be suspended if they are involved in further behavior problems associated with alcoholic beverages.

Authorities said the two climbed on a roof April 16 and were talking to some girls through the window of the girls' room when a neighbor called police. The office said the two freshmen had been drinking.

Tucker and Pals were each fined $25 plus $2.50 costs in Magistrate Court. They were charged with trespassing.

Housing Contracts Ready Next Month

Fall contracts for on-campus housing will be offered the first part of May, according to the Housing Office. Contracts will be sent to freshmen and upperclass men at that time.

Glee Club to Hold Tryouts; Eligible Students Invited

The University Male Glee Club will conduct auditions for the 1964-65 school year beginning Tuesday in Room 115 of Altgeld Hall.

Students eligible are upper classmen, including graduate students, who have at least 96 hours and are in good standing at SIU. Credit for participation is one hour.

Previous musical training is not necessary for the Glee Club.

"Many of the men in the Club cannot read music. The important thing is their desire to sing," said Robert Kingsbury, director of the Glee Club and university choirs.

Johnson Opens Fair While CORE Chants

NEW YORK -- President Johnson, speaking over the chanting of racial demonstrators at the opening of the New York World's Fair, said Wednesday that "free and unhindered criticism of men and ideas" is the "vital nourishment of freedom."

Johnson opened the huge United States exhibition building, where representatives of the Congress of Racial Equality were waving placards and chanting "Freedom! Freedom!"

Perhaps 15 or 20 persons were assembled 75 years from the chief executive. They were blocked by a pool and by police barricades from the pavilion entrance where Johnson stood.

They waved aloft red and white banners. One said "CORE demands a fair share."

The multimillion-dollar Fair opened with its international glitter undimmed by the threatening dark clouds of rain and racial protest.

The promised stall-in by a CORE faction did not materialize on the complex maze of highways leading to the fair in time to disrupt the opening.

A huge force of police--2,000 city patrolmen and 3,000 private guards in and around the grounds acted quickly and decisively to thwart any interference.

The purpose of the CORE demonstrations, according to James Farmer, national director, was to "spotlight the issue between the glitter and fantasy of the World's Fair and the real world of discrimination."

Violence broke out in two subway stations in Queens.

In one, some demonstrators jumped to the tracks in the city's first subway lie-in. More than 20 were arrested. Three pickets were arrested at another station in a clash with police.

Faubus Is Running For Sixth Term

LITTLE ROCK, Ark.-- Democratic Gov. Orval E. Faubus announced for a sixth two-year term Wednesday, setting up a two-party showdown with Republican Winthrop Rockefeller.

Faubus must first survive the Democratic primary but he has done that without difficulty in his last four campaigns.

Two years ago Rockefeller worked for Republican candidates and campaigned personally against Faubus.

Senate Foes of Rights Bill Demand Jury Trial Provision

WASHINGTON--Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., floor manager of the civil rights bill, expressed willingness Wednesday to meet in part the demands of Southern opponents for a provision for jury trial in civil rights contempt of court cases.

This was the first concrete sign of a compromise. It could mark a major breakthrough in the marathon Senate debate, now in its 38th day, on the House-passed measure.

In a surprise move Tuesday night, Sen. Herman Talmadge, D-Ga., called up for the Dixie forces an amendment providing for the right of trial by jury in criminal contempt of court cases.

An identical amendment was written into the 1957 Civil Rights Act by the Senate by a 51-42 vote, but it was watered down by a Senate-house conference committee before the act was passed.

Humphrey told newsmen a jury trial amendment to the pending bill -- although not necessarily Talmadge's -- "has real merit."

He said that speaking for himself only, he feels it would be reasonable to revise the House measure to provide the same limited right to jury trials Congress enacted in '57.

Junta Asks Souvanna Phouma To Head New Laos Government

VIENTIANE, Laos -- A spokesman for the rightist junta declared Wednesday the aim is to form a new unit government of all factions, and neutralist premier Prince Souvanna Phouma will be asked to head it.

Col. Etam Signvongsa, the spokesman, was acutely aware of the threat of a withdrawal of U.S. aid unless the leaders of Sunday's coup restore Souvanna.

Etam said the junta is urging Souvanna to resign and then form a new government, although he did not explain how such a new coalition would differ much from the old one.

"We must have unification of the three rightist, neutralist and pro-Communist Pathet Lao armies and a strong government within the framework of the 1962 Geneva agreements," Etam said.

As Etam talked with two reporters, Souvanna was in the royal capital of Luang Prabang, 120 miles north of Vientiane, conferring with King Savang Vathana. Although kept under house arrest while in Vientiane, Souvanna insists he still is premier. By asking him to resign, the junta appeared to agree with him that they never actually deposed him.

Also in Luang Prabang were U.S., British, French, Soviet, Australia and India diplomats, who have been trying to get the leaders to call off their coup and restore the status quo.

Nobody's a Loser

We're glad to see there were no losers in the recent TP elections.

Often we soon forget the nonwinning candidates and they're lost in the background; their talents unscathed, their energies unused.

Fortunately, Ron Centanni, TP president, apparently has appointed his chairmen on the basis of their ability, rather than as political favorites. Centanni has chosen Joe Beer, his presidential opponent, as chairman of the Judicial Board and Tom Gaby, a nonwinner in the vice presidential race, as cochairman of the Education Programming Board.

And from what we hear, Larry McDonald, the only other nonwinning candidate, hasn't given up politics either.

Our superiors would do well to take note of such action. Their political ostracism of past presidents and nonvictorious candidates is one of the most unreasonable policies we know.

We're of the theory that there should be no such person as a loser; only runners up.

Closed-Circuit Radio Urged For Operation by Students

As the world we live in changes with ever increasing speed, the need for a faster means of communication also increases. This need for a faster means of communication also becomes evident on this campus. Such a means of faster communication is a radio station.

For the past several years there has been talk and some constructive progress toward placing a closed circuit radio station on the campus. The last such attempt was defeated by the University Council at its meeting January 11 of this year with the recommendation that the Communications Council study the feasibility of placing a closed circuit radio station on the campus with the programming being that of the University's radio station, WSIU-FM.

In doing so, the University Council ignored the needs and the wants of the students of the university. Numerous surveys taken at various times of the students living in the campus residence halls have continually indicated that they wish to have a student-operated closed circuit radio station on campus.

WSIU-FM, due to its objectives set forth by the University, is aimed primarily at the communities of the area and NOT at the students on campus, therefore a minority of students listen to WSIU-FM.

We feel that the University Council has two alternatives it can take. One, to continue with this short-sighted approach to the problem by placing WSIU-FM programming on a closed circuit radio station. If this is done, they should give the students a stronger voice in the programming policies of WSIU-FM. Or, two, pass a resolution creating a student-operated closed circuit radio station, which would, in effect, make the programming policies of both stations clear and distinct, allowing WSIU-FM to fulfill its responsibility to the area communities, and the closed circuit station to fulfill its responsibility to the students.

Chicago's American

Congress Wasting Time

One of the sorriest aspects of the filibuster against the civil rights bill is that a tremendous amount of valuable congressional time is going down the drain. Were this time constructively used, urgent legislation could be considered and passed.

There is, for example, the matter of Presidential succession. There is also the matter of Presidential disability. Each deserves attention and action by Congress. How can our memories be so short that we are not demanding of Congress that it face these potentially grave issues?

Irving Dilliard

As everyone knows, the country does not have a Vice President. We have not had one since Lyndon B. Johnson moved up to the Presidency after the tragedy in Dallas. We will not have one until next January, when the Vice Presidential choice in November is inaugurated.

Old, Dangerous Story

This is an old as well as dangerous story. Some one has totaled all the years when the United States has not had a Vice President and it amounts to 38 years. That is a substantial part of the nation's history.

The belief is increasing that the 1947 succession act was a mistake. Under sponsorship of President Truman, Congress placed the speaker of the House next in line after the Vice President on the theory that the speaker was an elected official. But now the possibility that the country might turn to a speaker who was not equipped for the Presidency has caused citizens to take a more favorable look at the 1886 succession act which put the secretary of state in line after the Vice President, followed by other cabinet officers in seniority.

A proposal that is gaining favor is to give the President authority to name a Vice President, when that office becomes vacant, the appointment to be approved by both branches of Congress. Former President Eisenhower has sponsored this plan. An expert on Presidential problems, Richard E. Neustadt of Columbia university, calls it "most sensible." Able Sen. Frank E. Moss (D., Utah) urges its adoption. A committee of the American Bar association also has dealt with this problem.

Can't Risk 'Sick Room' Rule

No less urgent is the need to provide a sure means for handling Presidential disability. Presidents Garfield, Wilson, and Eisenhower all were disabled. During these periods of disablement, those around the sick or injured Presidents governed as best they could. We should not risk a "sick room" administration again.

The Constitution says plainly that "Congress may by law provide for the case of removal, death, resignation, or inability, both of the President and Vice President, declaring what officer shall then act as President, and such officer shall act accordingly, until the disability be removed, or a President shall be elected."

This constitutional provision not only gives Congress power to meet the problem. It obligates Congress to act. Congress ignores a sworn duty when it does not act. One sure way for this session to go down in history as a constructive Congress would be for it to eliminate the blowholes that now endanger national security with respect to Presidential succession and Presidential disability.

Bomarc Display Is Defended

I don't consider the placing of the Bomarc a strong-arm tactic anymore than a display of Shakespeare or Frost in the Library. They both are put there for demonstration and for something to look at. There wasn't any hidden or propaganda purpose behind bringing the Bomarc to campus. The Air Force, in displays such as this, tries only to give the American people a sense of security. I'm not opposed to free thinking, but I am opposed to being forced to believe something adverse to my way of life. Deterrent weapons such as the Bomarc make it possible for Mrs. Winold to write what she thinks. I sometimes wonder what would happen to her if she wrote the same letter under a Communist government.

Mrs. Winold is correct in saying, "I try not to indoctrinate my students with my beliefs." I know, because she was my instructor last quarter, and she took no political stands in class. Unfortunately, I can't understand why she believes we in the Cadet Corps are being indoctrinated. I'll agree that our beliefs don't always coincide with our commanders, but they are never repressed, as Mrs. Winold would have you believe.

Eyes Upset at Drake Relays

Woods Faces Texas Foe Again

Shot putter George Woods faces an old friend—or maybe a new foe—when he leads the Salukis in the annual Drake Relays at Des Moines, Iowa tomorrow and Saturday.

Woods will come face-to-face with Texas A&M's Danny Roberts for the second weekend in a row and is determined to stop the Aggie star's bid for a repeat championship at the Drake affair.

Roberts nosed out Woods for the championship at last week's Kansas Relays with a toss of 60 feet 2 3/4 inches—only two and one quarter inches better than the Saluki's heave.

Woods, who less than two years ago was hospitalized after accidentally shooting himself while hunting and was in a car accident involving members of the track team last year, has gained new confidence after hitting the 60-foot mark for the first time outdoors.

The Sikeston, Mo. junior established new indoor Central Collegiate Conference and U. S. Federation records of 60 feet, 7 inches and 60 feet, 2 inches, respectively, earlier in the year.

Both Roberts and Woods have shown marked improvement over last year, when the Texan won the coveted Drake Relays title with a 56 feet, 7 inch mark and Woods was fifth at 55 feet, 2 3/4 inches.

Southern's other entries in the Des Moines classic will include Jim Dupree in the open mile run, John Jaeger in the three-mile open event and Herb Walker in the 440-yard intermediate hurdles.

Depree, a former NCAA half-mile champion who still runs for SIU in open competition although he has completed his intercollegiate eligibility, will be competing against Loyola's Tom O'Hara.

Both Jaeger, a freshman, and Walker earned the trip to Iowa by virtue of fine performances at Lawrence, although coach Lew Hartzog is leaving other team members at home to compete in an intra-squad meet tomorrow.

BATTER UP - Jim Long, Saluki first baseman who broke out of his slump with three hits and 2 RBI's in Tuesday's 5-3 win over Southeast Missouri.

Long Casts Off Slump

Saluki Nine Stops Cape, 5-3; Victory Skein Now at Seven

Seven must be the lucky number—at least for Southern's baseball team and its slumping first baseman, Jim Long.

The Salukis pulled out their seventh win of the season without a loss Tuesday against Southeast Missouri State 5-3 and Long chose the game against the Indians to break out of his prolonged batting slump.

Long delivered three big hits to the Saluki cause, producing the winning run and two RBI's. It wasn't Long along who stood as the Saluki hero.

With the score tied 3-3 going into the ninth, Long led off the inning with a base hit and was scored later by pitcher-turned-hitter Gene Vincent.

Vincent, who has been a bulwark on the mound all season, along with Tuesday's winning pitcher Johnny Hotz, changed roles on the rain-soaked Cape Girardeau field, and went into rightfield for Al Peludat in the fifth frame.

Vincent smacked a double in the Saluki ninth to bring home Long with the winning run with two out. Shortstop Terry Lynn then gave the Salukis an insurance run with a single, driving in Vincent.

Kent Collins emerged as the defensive star for the afternoon with a spectacular run-saving catch against the left-field fence of a drive by Jim Kesterson in the Indian sixth. Collins fell over the short fence two plays earlier in a futile attempt to stop Dan Waddington of a home run. Collins also collected a double and a triple for the afternoon.

Denny Gentsch started on the mound for the Salukis, but was replaced by Hotz after walking one man in the bottom of the seventh. Gentsch chalked up two strike outs and four walks.

Hotz picked up his fifth win of the season and fourth in a row. Hotz dropped one decision this season, on the spring tour. He added three strike outs and gave one base on balls to the Indian batters.

Tom Bahr went the distance for the Indians and received the loss. The Indian hurler struck out four Salukis and did not yield a walk.

Southern's leading batter, Rob Bernstein, was held to one hit in four trips to the plate.

The Salukis committed three errors against Southeast. They will go after their eighth and ninth wins this Saturday against the University of Cincinnati in Murphysboro's Riverside Park.
