Pollution

SIU employe unions fear civil service staff cutbacks

By Rich Davis
 Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Members of one of SIU's non-academic employe unions voted Monday night to support the decision of its state Policy Committee, even if it means calling a work stoppage to protest proposed cuts in state employe salary increases.

Local 878, American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, AFL-CIO, said it will back any action taken by the committee, which meets in Springfield Saturday.

The federation has locals at all the state's universities and is protesting Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie's budget proposal cuts in salary increases for state employes.

Ogilvie has recommended a 4.5 per cent increase, considerably lower than the Higher Board of Education's 7.1 per cent recommendation and lower than the 6 per cent annual cost of living increase in Illinois.

The SIU union, consisting of food service personnel, mechanics, secretaries and stenographers (Civil Service Class 1), and library clerks (class 2), expressed fear of a cut-back in personnel at SIU.

A total of 14 unions represent non-academic civil service employes at SIU and contracts for all employes have been signed, according to John McDermott, director of labor relations at SIU. McDermott said an 8 per cent salary increase is now included in the contracts.

Cliff Price, staff representative for local 878, said if Ogilvie's budget is approved, with the cut in salary increases, SIU would have to make a cut in personnel to honor its contracts.

McDermott said "it is too early to say what will happen." He said a review would have to be made of the situation if the budget cuts were approved. "It might mean a vacant position would not be filled or that there would be a slowdown in hiring," he said.

There is always a possibility of a lay off, he added.

H. L. Hester, chairman of the Non-Academic Employe Council, Carbondale Campus, said he had received no indication of planned strikes by the other 13 non-academic unions.

He did say that a reduction in personnel in each union would be a must if Ogilvie's budget cuts were approved and if the University contracts were honored.

The Policy Committee, with a delegate from each of the federation's unions may call for a work stoppage at a future date if appropriations are not restored to the budget for salary increases, according to a Local member.

New ACT forms a must

Over 4,500 student workers at SIU will have to fill out a new ACT financial need analysis, according to Raymond P. DeJarnett, assistant director of student work and financial assistance.

Students will be required to have the new form on file in the Office of Student Work and Financial Assistance at the beginning of summer term, June 22, 1970.

William R. Parks, Accountant III of the Student Work and Financial Assistance Office, said that approximately 9,500 students filled out the form last year and that all forms have to be refilled.

"The ACT is also required for the purposes of fee deferments, short term loans, SIU Scholarships, National Defense Student Loans, Education Opportunity Grants, and NCAA Scholarships," Parks said.

Parks explained that it takes three to four weeks to get the form back after the student has mailed it in and that a $3 fee must accompany the form when mailed.

The filing of a new ACT financial need analysis is to reflect current information as set forth on the 1959 Income Tax return and may be filed each year.

Forms can be obtained from the reception desk at Washington Square, Building B.

Local law officers receiving guidance for planned fest

By Win Holden
 Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

"The older generation feels every kid that attends a rock fest is a sex degenerate, pot smoker, a pill taker and so on, and it just isn't so," according to Lou Yank, police chief of Monticello, N.Y.

"In ten hours that I rode cycle, I never heard one car horn," said Peter Shepherd, police chief of Liberty, N.Y.

"$24,000 was returned in lost wallets," said Donald Ganoung, an Episcopal priest.

"Woodstock may not be unique, but it certainly is so far," added Wesley A. Pomeroy of Washington, D.C. All four men, as well as several others, were connected with the now famous Woodstock held last summer in New York.

This week they are in Carbondale serving as consultants to local law enforcement and governmental agencies preparing for the proposed May Day Fest scheduled May 8, 9, 10.

To a man, the police experts grooved on the Woodstock festival during an interview after a workshop Tuesday. They cautioned, however, that extreme care had to be exercised in preparing and executing security for the festival.

Workshops were scheduled Monday through Wednesday by the Greater Egypt Regional Planning and Development Commission. The purpose of the sessions, according to James Rush, of GERPDC, is to assist local law enforcement agencies responsible for policing the May Fest.

Representing area police at the workshops are Jack Hazel, Carbondale Police chief, Thomas Leffler, Dan Keller and Virgil Trummer of the SIU Security Police and Raymond Dillinger, sheriff of Jackson County as well as representatives from the Illinois State Police and the Illinois National Guard.

The experts from Woodstock included Pomeroy, workshop chairman, who planned, organized and directed peace keeping operations and social-legal-medical services for the Woodstock festival; Ganoung, who worked on internal security at Woodstock; Yank, police chief of Monticello, N.Y., whose city was in direct proximity to the Woodstock site, and Shepherd, police chief of Liberty, N.Y., which is located near the site.

Other Woodstock experts in attendance are John Fabbri, police chief of Fremont Calif., who assisted in advance planning for Woodstock and Sheriff Lou Rattner of Sullivan County, N.Y., in whose jurisdiction the Woodstock festival was held.

After Monday's session, which included a tour of the Audion Meadows site, Pomeroy commented, "The site itself has a beautiful potential, but it's difficult to get there."

Pomeroy said it is difficult to compare the two festivals, because there are many differences and the men are simply not well informed about the May Fest.

"We're not saying how it (the May Fest) should be done," Pomeroy said, "We're saying what happened at Woodstock."

"We're trying to show what it is that goes on at a rock fest; how people react to problems and how authorities were able to maintain a semblance of order," he added.

Ganoung said a lot of work was put in before the Woodstock festival in a public relations capacity. Also, the Woodstock promoters employed local craftsmen to work on the site. "The people didn't react like the people here are," he said. "There seems to be more power here against the festival than there was at Woodstock," he said.

Yank felt the lack of trouble at Woodstock was aided by realistic and competent action by law enforcement personnel. "Because of the way we treated them when they left, I didn't receive any complaints from any of the citizens or any of the kids. There were no reports of vandalism. No broken windows, I didn't experience any problems what-so-ever. We received letters from all over the country thanking us wholeheartedly for the way we treated the kids," Yank said.

Pomeroy said another reason the promoters received such a minimal amount of static from the area residents was that "Everything associated with Woodstock showed it to be a festival for peace and music."

Pomeroy said all the men are pleased with the reaction they are receiving from the conference attendees. "We want to get from them what they want to know from us. We want to be used and used well," he said. "I find that the people are concerned and their concerns are very solid," Ganoung added.

The men came to Carbondale with funds provided by a law Enforcement Commission.

Paris Rive Gauche at Convo

The Paris Rive Gauche, performing French cabaret troupe, is returning to SIU's Convocation this week after last year's program, termed "unique and professional" by R. P. Hibbs, coordinator of special programs.

Rive Gauche is a name taken from a place, the Left Bank of Paris. The location is known as the birthplace of French poetry, satire, and song.

The Paris Rive Gauche performing troupe, starring Bernard Haller, Paul Villaz, Pia Colombo and Jacques Marchais, all began their careers on Paris' Left Bank, most of them at a small literary cabaret called La Contrescarpe.

Both Miss Colombo and Marchais are winners of Le Grand Prix du Disque, the Grammy of French song.

The production will include 13th century folk and revolutionary songs through the most avant-garde French songs from the Left Bank. Much of the musical material and all of the comedy in Paris Rive Gauche are in English.

The show will be held at 1 p.m. Thursday in the SIU Arena. A coffee hour, open to the public, will follow in the University Center.

Grad gets award

Kathryn M. Hayes, a graduate student at SIU majoring in instructional materials, has been awarded the Friends of the Library certificate and $50 award for 1970.

The award is given annually to an outstanding student who has shown interest in library science and as a contribution toward the purchase of textbooks for graduate study. Miss Hayes will receive the award on SIU Honors Day.

Funeral for Earth to be held in connection with Teach-In Two one-act readings will be presented at 8 p.m. on the Calipre Stage in the Communications Building, in connection with Environmental Teach-In.

"Rest in Peace," a funeral of the earth, written by Tom Anderson, an SIU student will be the first production.

Afterwards, during intermission, a selection of natural foods will be served by Paul Yambert, director of the SIU Outdoor Laboratory.

The second reading, "The World is Too Much With Us," was written by John J. Leonard, assistant professor of English.

An environmental display, composed of items taken from the Little Grassy Lake area will be set up for viewing outside the production area.

The program is open to the public without charge.

Fund applications being taken

Applications for possible funds for special meetings and speakers are being accepted by the Lectures and Entertainment Committee until May 11, for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

Chairman R. P. Hibbs said requests should be made for events of general interest to the University community. Funds will be allocated on the basis of specific data provided.

Applications should be sent to Hibbs' office at 817 1/2 S. Marion St.

Board is repressive in barring attendance

To the Daily Egyptian:
The following letter was written April 17, 1970 to Gov. Richard Ogilvie.
Sir:

I would like to express my concern over being barred from attending the Friday April 17, 1970 meeting of the SIU Board of Trustees. I have consulted the Office of the Jackson County State's Attorney and the local chapter of the American Civil Liberties Union, and, if my informants are correct, the actions taken by the Chancellor and the Board are "legal"; however, they also seem to me to have been expedient, if not repressive.

It seems to me that this University is too willing to exercise its "legal" powers at the expense of justice and freedom. One of the basic tenants of our society is the right of its citizens to know. I was denied that right.

I wanted to attend the meeting so that I would have first hand knowledge of what occurred at this public meeting; I had no desire to disrupt the proceedings nor to upset the orderly functioning of the Board nor to disturb the decorum of the situation; I wanted to listen. I was not allowed to. Why?

Militant tactics urged to change University

To The Daily Egyptian:

It appears that certain candidates for student government offices are trying to mislead the students as to the most effective means for achieving change at the university.

After at least one year in student government, virtually everyone (liberals, conservatives and radicals) comes to understand clearly that meaningful change almost always comes about through a militant, determined approach on the part of students. Virtually all progressive changes in recent years have been brought about through non-violent, but militant and persistent pressure from students and faculty.

Time and time again naive students have come into student government thinking that substantial changes can be made by "going through the proper channels." Almost to a man (or woman) they have gone out of their first year in student government realizing that this simply doesn't bring results when you are up against a reactionary administration and Board of Trustees.

Unity Party this year has been effective through using a non-violent, but militant and determined, approach to various demands for change. Re-election of Unity Party will help ensure continued, progressive change. Defeat would be a signal to the administration that students can be ignored.

Hodl welcomed as member of select 'Reversist' group

To the Daily Egyptian:

Congratulations Mr. Hodl! As a result of your recent scathing editorial (April 15) on the much despised and feared anarchists that inhabit our University, you have been elected unanimously to the National Reversist Association of America. As a new "Reversist", you will join an elite and effete group whose membership includes such national folk heroes as Spiro T. "I wouldn't trade one company of our fighting men in Vietnam for the whole damn Zoo. (American Youth)" Agnew, Judge Julius "Hang 'Em High" Hoffman, George "Stand Up For America" Wallace, John "Search and Seizure" Mitchell, Mayor Richard "Shoot To Maim Looters—Shoot To Kill Arsonists" Daley, and the Reverend Carl "Victory in Vietnam" McIntire, to name just a few.

As a "Reversist", it is your job to maintain America as is and prevent any undercurrents of social and political change from becoming too popular with the masses, much as George III did 200 years ago.

Your plea is open-mindedness and sanity. Ours used to be the same. It went unheard, unnoticed and unheeded.

Now The Revolution is almost upon you and you're not prepared. However, "Reversists" are by no means passive. Repression is your combative tool and in many instances (Chicago 7 Trial, purges of Black Panthers, etc.) it has been successful. But time is running out. Your pleas could be better directed toward the executive, political and institutional powers that control this country. Your political dogma is medieval in nature and your actions totalitarian in character.

"Reversists" by nature try to resist the tides of history. Well, history and change are going to march on Mr. Hodl, so you may well spend your time preparing your colleagues for their new life—one that isn't controlled by reactionary politicians, militarists or corporate polluters. Perhaps "refresher" courses in human understanding, compassion for the underdog and a granule or two of brotherly love would help the antiquated "Reversist" adapt better to his future life style.

Reason wanted for ROTC "boot"

To the Daily Egyptian:

I'd like to know just what the student senators thought they would accomplish when they voted to "kick Air Force ROTC off the SIU campus." I think this is one of the biggest blunders that the Student Senate has ever made.

Student government has been preaching "academic freedom" for a long time but is this what you senators call academic freedom, restricting the freedom of some students to take a course that they want to take? It is true that the majority of students don't want to take ROTC, but they are free not to take it if they don't want to. I feel that we ROTC cadets should have the freedom to take the course if we so desire.

Why does the Senate want to get rid of ROTC, anyway? Surely it can't be because we are hurting anybody on campus. Actually, just the opposite is the case. When you go to a basketball game, or a gymnastic meet, or a wrestling meet, or a stage show at the Arca, who is always there ready and willing to help you find your seat, or help keep the crowd under control so you can enjoy the event you paid good money to see? Arnold Air Society (an AFROTC fraternal organization) and Angel Flight (college code: closely associated with Arnold Air Society).

Is the reason because we are costing the university too much money? Come on! I'm sure that with all of the equipment they need, the P.E. Department and the Science Departments cost a lot more than we do. Why not get rid of those two? How many instructors do all of the other individual departments have each? I couldn't begin to guess. Aerospace Studies (AFROTC) only has four, and they aren't even on the University payroll, they're paid by the Department of the Air Force, so I can't see how that could be the problem.

So, come on Senate, what was the reason? What in God's name were you thinking of when you decided to "boot out" ROTC?

Campaign letter policy

During the student elections campaign period the Daily Egyptian will not publish letters written by candidates for Student Government offices. All candidates may submit statements, in accord with announced procedures, for publication in the Daily Egyptian April 24, 28, and 29.

Letters to the Daily Egyptian during the campaign period should discuss issues, not personalities. Letters dealing only with personalities, whether endorsing or attacking the individual, will not be published.

Paper pollution threat to society

To The Daily Egyptian:
Pollution is a matter of big concern to the present day society. We are concerned with air pollution, water pollution, waste pollution, sea pollution, babies pollution and many other pollutions. But our society is not in real danger by these kinds of pollutions. All are mild. The real danger comes from paper pollution to which little attention has been paid up to now.

Paper pollution is the result of the overwhelming distribution of useless paper. The problem of paper pollution is not so much a consequence of the ever increasing masses of printed paper that an individual gets every day (and that can easily be disposed in the waste paper basket) but the energy and time consumption that paper pollution is asking.

Paper pollution is nowadays increasing exponentially. The easy duplication of memos, minutes, advertisements, distribution lists and so on, either by printing or computers, contributes to the increase of paper pollution. If you are an active person and you are a member of several learned societies for instance, you are likely to receive twice as many times the same book advertisement because distribution lists are computer generated and no checking of duplication is done. And the individual has to suffer! But there are also other intrinsic mechanisms that contribute to paper pollution.

Let us see our university. Every administrator wants us to be informed and everyone is striving for paper polluting the faculty. The President's Office, the Vice-President's Office, Research and Project's Office, Deans' Offices, Personnel Office, Fiscal Authority Office, Architect Office, Security Office, Computing Center, departmental offices and many, many more offices on campus pollute the individual faculty member with lots of paper, that the patient must peruse at least. Due to this, immense human resources are wasted by time consumption.

Paper pollution has also dangerous after-effects. Paper pollution is a self-expanding disease: paper generates paper. We have to answer questions, fill out forms, prepare information, plan the future, ask for equipment, prepare syllabuses, write letters and utilize the varied mechanisms that contribute to paper pollution. Paper pollution, as every biological process, has a yearly periodicity, reaching its maximum in April and its minimum in August. Although it has a more or less bearable situation most of the time, it reaches some critical moments by the dangerous mechanism of the dead-line pressure. It happens that paper pollution generates a drastic increase of the disease by imposing mass production of paper at a given time. And this happened April 15, on which day the end of the academic year must be planned as well as the needs of the next academic year. In that case paper pollution becomes so critical as to force a standstill on all activities but paper pollution contribution.

Paper pollution is killing our society and we must do something about it now!

Excuse me for contributing to the already existing mess by writing this letter.

Blacks warned they can choke on pollution that kills whites

To the Daily Egyptian:
This is an open letter to blacks (who are together, thinking, interested in living-but blind):

The hunkie has you in a terrible fix, brother. He used you to build his "civilization." You've sweated like hell to become a part of it and now when the prospect of a future looks its brightest (DULL), the hunkie is draggin' you down with him, down a filthy (POLLUTED) drain of death (even Swift-Out won't help—can't get none in C'dale no way).

Did you think POLLUTION would only kill off the greedy pig polluters? (WHY?) You'll choke on the same funky air that the big General Motors pigs'll choke on. I mean how many niggers you know got gas masks? When you throw up your lungs on your way to get your fro shaped, how many of your Black brothers will be at your funeral? Not a damn one, 'cause they'll all be at their own damn funerals.

There's no time left—your brilliant Black minds who want to plot the plans of revolutions to get us some land to call our own have forgotten that land ain't s--- when there ain't no air (carries gases), no water (80% Ripple), no grass (OC), no animals (pork steaks), no plants (greens), there won't even be no cotton—nigger wake up—you're b.s.ing around here worrying-worrying about how you look (fro in place?), how you dress (knitabells), how you spell (AKAKAYADA-QYDAO)—worry your asses off, about that s---

How many niggers you know got oxygen tents?

The time has come to put aside all else—fashions by some Parisian faggot(maximimidi), afro sheen (ultra sheen), vo reputation (wonder who's doing it to who?), yo "friends" (of which you have none—check it out sometime while you got time—SECONDS).

DO?? If every combustion engine ceased belching poison, factories closed and planes stopped spitting super fumes it would still take 15-50 years for the air to clean itself up. During this time the world would see the worst depression you couldn't imagine (yo mama could). But at least there'd be a next generation for you to tell about this sacrifice of what you consider now to be valuable. A solution to this won't come on its own—the government ain't gonna stop its main sources of income (corporations) from making their main sources of income (oil cars, planes, metals, smoke, smoke-smoke). Nobody wants his own back to itch—but Black backs itch already, backs still itching from whips, with no one scratching a one. So it'd be no sweat off Black backs for Black necks to be stuck out to save this undeserving world (for Blacks).

Of course if you go on strivin' to be drivin' (HOGS) instead of offin' anybody drivin' anything that smokes, you'll die right along with Smokey the Bear (and his daddy—and yours) in the pig's garbage-sty-graveyard. So either go on and Oink with him, or get up and do something (Bomb G.M., Amerikkkan 747 Jets, and get you a palamino). Food, land, rights, freedom, jobs, pigs, fight for them—against them there ain't gonna be a damn place to enjoy winning the revolution unless we do something or do something to make the hunkie do something NOW!

"With him it was always just a form of relaxation anyway."

Recognition of pollution as a problem is a recent phenomenon, but the ugly vestiges of pollution have been around for a long time. Railroad right-of-ways are favorite dumping grounds. This old Illinois Central track near Carterville evidences the remains of automobiles, cardboard boxes, empty cans, even someone's sofa. (Photo by Ralph R. Kylloe, Jr.)

A less easily recognized pollution involves the land and Southern Illinois has had its share with strip mines that blight the landscape. Reclamation projects have been started in some areas, but three miles from Carterville, a family lives on the brink of a water-filled coal pit. (Photo by Ralph R. Kylloe Jr.)

A state sign prohibiting litter bears mute testimony to the lack of concern about pollution. The Colp road turnoff Rt. 51, is littered by people wastes. (Photo by Ralph R. Kylloe Jr.)

Tin cans pile up in alarming proportions, testimony to the high premium convenience brings in America. Virtually indestructible in the natural environment, these containers form a great bulk of the waste pollution found on the land. This picture was also taken along the road to Colp. FINAL DEPARTURE TO CARROLLS
 7:00-7:15 SATURDAY 6:30

Car fumes not so bad, says survey

"Carbendale autos appear to have a slightly lower air pollution emission level than is average for the United States," according to a recent study.

The study, made by the SIU Engineering Club and SOAP (Students Operating Against Pollution) was based on emission tests using 126 automobiles.

Ensembles to play

Two music ensembles from schools in Illinois and North Carolina will perform on the Carbendale Campus of Southern Illinois University this month.

At 3 p.m. Sunday the Edwardsville Concert Choral will perform in the University Center Ballroom under the direction of Nancy Vang.

The Winston-Salem State University Symphonic Band will play at the University Center at 8 p.m., April 21. Directed by Robert E. Shepherd and Fred D. Tanner, assistant conductor, the ensemble will be assisted by Emory Jones, trumpet soloist.

Election of officers for humane society

Officers will be elected to the executive board of directors of the Jackson County Humane Society 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the basement of the City National Bank in Murphysboro. The meeting is open to anyone interested in animal welfare or obtaining a membership.

The society operates a shelter on Illinois 13 between Carbendale and Murphysboro where more than 3,000 animals are cared for annually. Funds to operate the shelter come from benefit sales, dues, adoption fees, the United Fund, and from the cities that use the society's services.

Exam date nears

Foreign language proficiency examinations will be given by the Department of Foreign Languages at 10 a.m. May 9 in Wheeler Hall.

Students wishing to be tested on that date must register by noon May 1 in Wheeler Hall, Room 211.

Feb. 23-27 in the Technology Building parking lot. Results have been announced by Howard E. Heskeith, assistant professor of engineering and air pollution control.

"The results compared favorably with the recently published NAPCA (National Air Pollution Control Association) data," Heskeith announced.

The test showed that "since 1960 there has been a general improvement in the reduction of auto pollution emissions from cars."

"The HEW standard on carbon monoxide for the 1968-69 model year was 1.5 per cent carbon monoxide and the 1970 standards are 1 per cent carbon monoxide," the report said.

"American Motors products have been consistently better in low emission levels with Chrysler products running second. The Chrysler products show a strong reduction in emission levels for each successive car year."

The tests at SIU showed that "For the 1968-69 cars, only American Motors and Chrysler average results met the HEW specifications. Ford, GM and foreign cars failed to meet the specifications with foreign cars falling far below the emission levels. However, all 1970 model year Carbendale cars met the specifications except for the foreign cars."

Heskeith said the Carbendale experiment relied on volunteers for emission checks. Most of the participants were interested in their cars and the cars were in good condition.

"We can't specifically draw any smoothed data. We don't have enough information," Heskeith said. "The fact that our information does agree with NAPCO per car shows that we had accurate information."

Unions fear staff cutbacks

The Appropriations Committee meets Thursday in Springfield and could conceivably restore the appropriations, although union officials here were pessimistic.

Rep. Gale Williams, R-Murphysboro, told the union Monday night he was convinced that the budget cuts would be restored, if not in the Appropriations Committee meetings this week, then on the floor of the Illinois House.

An SIU union member who attended a Policy Committee meeting two weeks ago, said three northern Illinois unions at Western Illinois State and Northern Illinois universities were ready to strike then. The union members at those schools, she said, believe their contracts will be broken by their respective universities.

The local union is presently undertaking a letterwriting campaign to state representatives and officials, asking that funds be restored to the state budget to bring it up to the level recommended by the Higher Board of Education.

Richard Collister, administrative assistant to the executive director of the Higher Board, Dr. James B. Holderman, said in a telephone interview Tuesday that members of the Board met with Ogilvie last Friday, but nothing came of the meeting.

"It was a discussion of both sides. Each side was explaining its own views," he said. "I don't know if we expected anything to come out of the meeting."

Collister said the Higher Board and the universities are each working to get funds restored to the budget. The universities, he said, will be trying to get amendments to bills introduced by their local state representatives to restore the appropriations to the level recommended by the Higher Board.

Williams, who is on the House of Representatives Higher Education Committee, told the union members that if the cuts are approved, universities would have to lay off someone to honor contracts.

Williams attacked Ogilvie's budget proposal, saying he opposed budget cuts based solely on cutting back employees' salaries. He said it was "ridiculous" that in presenting one of the state's largest budgets ($4.9 billion), Ogilvie was talking of salary cuts and doubling tuitions. The governor cut $17 million from the Higher Education budget. Williams urged the local union to "get organized" and said that while he wasn't advocating a strike, "if the governor thought the state universities were going to be shut down, he would take a second look at his budget."

Price had told the group that if the union throughout Illinois called a work stoppage, state universities would have to close because no one would cross the picket lines.

Price said, "This is what we would do... not what we want to do."

A fact sheet passed out at the meeting said SIU could not guarantee against cutbacks in civil service employees.

250 join Cairo march

About 250 SIU students joined approximately 200 Cairo residents to rally and march through that city over the weekend in support of black demands.

According to Dwight Campbell, student body president, the march and rally were orderly, except when Cairo police arrested two men who had not kept up with the march on a disorderly conduct charge. About 100 marchers assembled on the steps of the police station to protest. The two, one a 72-year-old man, were released.

Students left Carbondale around noon Saturday in five busses as well as personal cars to participate in the events sponsored by the United Front of Cairo. The rally began about 1 p.m. and featured the United Front Freedom Choir, a group of about thirty members.

Rally speakers included Campbell, Reggie Brown, an SIU student, David Cashner, coordinator of the United Front in Chicago; the Rev. Mr. Walter Garrett, United Front liaison with Carbondale and SIU; Leon Page, statewide United Front coordinator; and the Rev. Mr. Charles Koen, director of the United Front.

At 3:30, the assemblage began the march, two abreast, winding through the streets of the black and business districts.

According to Campbell, the group was well received in the black district, but met with "open racism" during the march through the business area. Signs stating "look at the monkey," "go home niggers" and "education and anarchy" sprouted up among the bystanders, Campbell said.

Legal panel talks on pollution at Environmental Teach-In

By Stephanie Brown
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

"We don't owe anything to Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie. And we certainly don't owe anything to Richard Daley. We owe it to a continuing human being that my child shall have a right to walk upon a free and beautiful earth."

These remarks were made by Norvell Haines, a member of a five-man legal panel which spoke Tuesday afternoon on the legal problems of saving the environment as part of SIU's Environmental Teach-In activities.

Other members included: Arnold Jochems, a local lawyer; Jim Keehner, attorney from the state attorney general's office in charge of Southern Illinois; William Rutherford, former director of conservation for the state of Illinois; and Ron Miller, head of the Environmental Teach-In legal committee.

Rutherford spoke first before the gathering outside the University Center. "I'm scared to death," he said, "even with my gray hair the time looks awfully short."

Rutherford said that public officials must do more than "lip service" for the public. He urged the crowd to attack political pollution. "We have a very good system, but too much paper and too many paragraphs."

"Patronage is as out-of-date as button shoes," Rutherford said, citing examples of government misuse such as hunting lodges disguised as research laboratories, law enforcement officials who don't know how to shoot guns, and water safety officials who don't know how to swim.

"Government is still a matter of pressure politics. We must get people in office who are concerned with the general welfare," he said.

Rutherford urged the public to circulate more effective petitions, to gather more facts, to out-vote, out-talk, and out-persuade the others.

"We must get the facts," he said, "and not settle for the easy, greasy, Madison Avenue answers. When the public has information, it can find a common meeting point of fair play."

Keener spoke on improved Illinois legislation, which states that the attorney general can take independent action in pollution cases. In the last seven months, he estimated, more cases have been handled by the attorney general's office than in all previous years.

Keener was in Champaign Monday night to hear complaints from a group of 300 citizens about a local company's pollution practices. University of Illinois students had organized the meeting and informed the citizens about it. As a result, the company has torn down its faulty incinerator and is working on four other problems brought to light.

"We hope industry realizes this is the way it is going to be," Keener said, "there will be no step backward."

"We will represent you when you indicate there is a pollution problem that needs to be changed, he said. "We're your attorney, feel free to call on us."

Haines, calling the upcoming November election "the most important one since 1776," urged that the public start an active campaign for "individuals not polluted between the ears. We must vote in November to save the environment as well as the political structure."

Joachums urged economic change as well as legislative change for reforms in environmental quality. "I would say, if you have something you want to fight, pick yourself a lawyer and go fight," he said.

The session ended with a discussion about Lusk Creek, one of the last areas of natural wildlife in Southern Illinois. A spokesman from the SIU Conservation Committee said that petitions are now being circulated on campus. His group hopes to get 20,000 signatures.

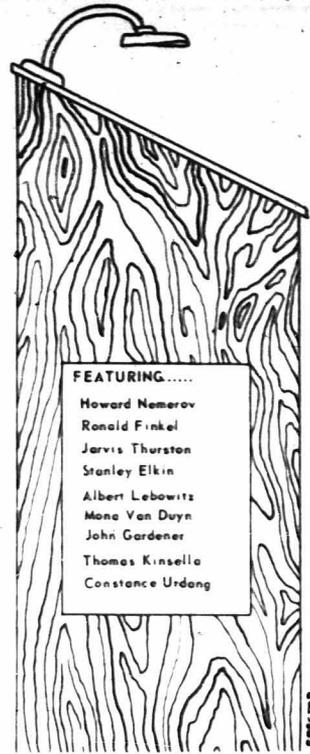

Students should pay

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—The chief of the Illinois Budget Bureau said Tuesday that recommended tuition hikes at state universities are based on the premise that those who benefit from education most—the students—should pay for it.

May denies bias charge

By Terry Peters
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Charges of bias in allocating student travel funds were denied Tuesday by Ellis John May, chairman of the Student Senate Finance Committee.

He said his denial of funds to a Republican student group was based on a state statute forbidding the use of state money to finance political groups. The SIU Young Democrats were refused travel funds for the same reason, May said.

The charges of bias were made in a letter from two officers of the SIU College Republican Club (CRC) which appeared in Tuesday's Daily Egyptian.

The letter contends that no such provision can be found in the constitution, and implies that many of the other groups fall in the category of political organizations.

May said Tuesday the prohibition on funds for political organizations was in an Illinois state statute, and that the Young Democrats, as well as the College Republican Club, had been refused funds when they asked for travel money.

No one in student government or student activities could pinpoint the statute in question.

C. Richard Grunz, University legal counsel, said he was unaware of such a statute if it does exist.

Wilbur N. Moulton, dean of students, said he knew of no such statute, and added that even if it exists it may not apply to student groups affiliated with political organizations. He said a distinction should be made between the organizations themselves and the student groups affiliated with them.

Anthony J. Giannelli, assistant dean for student activities, had said previously that he thought the rule forbidding state funds being channeled to political groups was based on a state statute.

But when no one in the administration or the student government could track it down, he said, "I'm beginning to think what we're dealing with is an unwritten rule."

"Funds for Democratic and Republican student groups have never been approved since I've been here, and they were denied this time," Giannelli continued. "It may be an unwritten rule which originated in the Senate Finance Committee."

Raymond S. (Sam) Baker, who was finance committee chairman during the administration of Bob Drinan, 1966-67, said funds were given to the Young Republicans at that time. Baker, who is resident counselor for Boomer Triad at University Park, said funds might have been given to the Young Democrats, also. He was unsure, he said, because the group was not very active at the time and may never have requested funds.

Neither of the finance chairmen during the next two student government administrations could be reached for comment.

Richard M. Shulhafer, president of the SIU Young Democrats, said his group has been refused travel funds more than once on the grounds that state money cannot be given to political groups.

Shulhafer said he had asked why organizations such as the SIU Peace Committee and other politically oriented groups were given travel funds. He was told that the regulation forbids giving state money to groups which have actually polled votes in an election, but not other political groups, he said.

"We want funds, too," Shulhafer said. "We pay student activity fees like everybody else. We didn't complain when we were turned down because we thought the reason made sense."

Shulhafer said the letter from the Republican Club contained several factual errors.

He said student government personnel were given travel funds to attend a meeting of the New Democratic Coalition, not the Democratic National Convention, as the letter stated.

"I'm not going to kid you about that—about 70 per cent of the student government people who went were Democrats," Shulhafer said.

"But the main thing we did at the convention was to learn voter registration techniques," he continued. "These techniques were used in the recent non-partisan school election as part of the Serve the People campaign."

Another error in the letter, Shulhafer said, was the statement that $120 in travel funds had been given to the Students for a Democratic Society (SDS). The group never received money from student government, Shulhafer said.

Giannelli said the Student Senate approved funds for the SDS, but he never transferred the money. The reason, he said, is that one of the conditions of the Senate's recognition of the SDS as a student organization in October, 1968, was that it could not receive student activity funds.

Regulations altered; auto plan submitted

Proposed SIU motor vehicle regulations for 1970-71 include elimination of the $5 vehicle registration fee with no other fee changes.

The proposed regulations have been signed by the Traffic and Parking Advisory Committee and submitted to Chancellor Robert W. MacVicar for approval.

The yellow registration decals would be free but permit parking only at the University Center fee lot. The committee recommended no price increase for other stickers. The annual costs would remain $65 for blue, $35 for red and $15 for silver decals, which would be applied to bumpers rather than windows.

A refund schedule was also approved by the committee for students who leave school, quit work or sell a car. The refunds would apply only to blue and red decals.

There were no proposed changes in motor vehicle eligibility for students.

The expiration date would be moved from the current August 31 expiration to Sept. 30, effective next year.

Parking after midnight would be eliminated at the large lot west of the Agriculture Building. Overnight parking would be extended to the lot at the corner of Douglas and Oakland and to the south portion of a lot behind the Communications Building.

Quads tenants organized

By Bob Carr
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The Greater Egypt tenants Union has organized and signed over 90 per cent of Wall Street Quadrangle residents as members of the organization, according to coorganizer Bob Thomas.

The group, set up to represent students and area residents in confrontations with local landlords, will concentrate its efforts on organizing the University City area this week, Thomas said.

Eventually, the Tenants Union plans to organize all University housing groups as well as interested residents of Carbondale, Murphysboro and area towns. The body was organized by student government, and is presently directed by Thomas, Ellis John May, Willie Tranquilly and Pat Handlin.

"We are trying to organize the areas now, one at a time," Thomas said. "All Tenants Union members will be organized by landlord and living areas, but once a person joins the group, he will remain a member wherever he moves. The organization is now in the process of submitting a budget for next year's operation to student government. Included in the budget will be provisions for a full-time secretary, legal fees and other related items. The group is also requesting office space. According to Thomas, not only will the Tenants Union be beneficial to the residents, it may also be of use to landlords who seek advice on matters concerning possible tenant complaints.

Communications picnic scheduled

The School of Communications will host a picnic Sunday April 26, at 2 p.m. in Giant City State Park.

The one dollar admission price includes food, fun and activities. Everyone must provide their own drinks.

No specific activities are planned, but those that attend will have a variety of games to choose from such as softball, friebee throwing and cave exploring.

Tickets may be purchased in the Communications Building.

Model Cities gets go-ahead

By Ellen Metheson
Daily Egyptian Staff-Writer

Federal officials have reacted favorably to Carbondale's Model Cities proposal, according to Robert Stalls, director of the Cities' program.

Stalls, reporting to the Carbondale City Council Tuesday night, said the program received what he thought was a "very good review" during the meeting of federal and city officials in Chicago Tuesday.

SIU President Delyte W. Morris also attended the Chicago meeting and gave a significant commitment from Southern, Stalls said.

With a few minor revisions, the proposal now goes to Washington for final approval.

The Council approved the establishment of an Economic Stabilization Service which would organize the city in case of a natural disaster or nuclear war. Members of the Service are to be appointed by the mayor.

In other Council action:
—Student appointments were made to city committees: Candace Leisner to the Citizens Advisory Committee, Ralph Killoe, Jr. to the Mayor's Youth Advisory Committee and Byron Brickley and Chris Braux to the Senior Citizen's Council.

—Approval was given for renewal of liquor license applications.

—Water line extensions were granted to the Stearns Meat Processing Plant and Styrest Nursing home.

—Endorsement was given to Mayor David Keene's proclamation of May 2 as All America Day.

City Councilman Joseph Ragsdale also commented on press coverage of the Thoroughfare Plan which was rejected last week by the Council.

Ragsdale said he felt that the Council action was not as grave as the press made it seem. The rejection did not mean the Council had turned its back on the plan, he said.

Quake wrecks Turkish town

On March 28, an earthquake struck Gediz, Turkey, ruining the town of 8,000 and killing 1,300 people.

Present in Turkey near the quake site was Walter Willis, chairman of SIU Department of Agricultural Industries and his wife Mary. Willis is currently on leave from SIU and will return in July.

The Willis sent back the following account:

"Gediz, Turkey, became a veritable hell on the night of March 28," they reported. "The shock of a major earthquake, measuring over nine points, was followed by hundreds of small tremors, violent winds and rain, eruption of underground hot springs (some victims were literally scalded to death), a Sam broke, the temperature dropped below freezing and a snow storm swept the area. Fire broke out, communications were wrecked and power failures and human shock compounded the tragedy."

The Willis reported that surrounding villages suffered isolation of the area where the quake took place. Communications to those areas were not too good even in the best of times. The result was deaths from exposure, pneumonia and shock. Getting a true death count, however, is impossible, they said.

Relief efforts to the Gediz area were hampered by mud and washed-out roads, the Willis reported. There was fear of plague sweeping the area.

To aid the victims of the earthquake, the Red Crescent Relief Organization moved at once, aided Cigli Air Base, an American Air Force installation near Izmir, where the Willis are stationed at a university.

The Red Crescent brought in tents, medical supplies and technical specialists into the area, turning villages like Gediz into "tent cities." Tents were given to the Red Crescent by the Agency of International Development.

Yet, the quake victims are still in need, despite the Red Crescent processing tons of clothing and blankets. The great need is now money, and the Willis made a plea for money to aid victims of the Gediz quake.

Many victims have left the quake area. A friend of the Willis after returning by train from Ankara reported it was full of refugees. One of the victims aboard the train was a young bride who was still in shock and could not speak. Another was a man who told of a boy whose leg was amputated by a neighbor to free him from a beam which trapped him in his crumbled home.

There were so many deaths in parts of the quake area that victims were buried in mass graves, the Willis said. Yet, there were no reports of looting, not even of the bread shops, they reported.

Among other casualties was the finest statue of Zeus remaining in Turkey.

Izmir had a brush with the earthquake too, the Willis reported. They said they had just returned from a concert when the quake hit. The apartment they were in rocked violently for a minute, causing the floors to sway like the deck of a ship. However, the building was built to adapt to quakes and there was no damage.

Jury accuses Chicago man

CHICAGO (AP) — Anthony J. Accardo, 64, reputed crime syndicate leader, was accused by a federal grand jury Tuesday of unlawful possession of two unregistered weapons.

Internal Revenue Service agents searched his suburban River Forest home with a warrant April 13 and reported finding a semiautomatic pistol with an attached shoulder stock that converts it to a short-barreled rifle, and another pistol.

Under federal statutes, such weapons are illegal unless registered with the government.

The indictment contained two counts, each carrying a maximum penalty upon conviction of 10 years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

No kite flying

WASHINGTON (AP) — Kids are getting busted in Washington for flying kites.

"The charge is kite flying," the burly sergeant said with a straight face as he pinched a 19-year-old youth for violating a 19th century act of Congress against kite flying in the nation's capital.

The National Park Police, deployed on horse and motor scooters, charged up the Washington Monument grounds and drove off 30 laughing, shouting youths on a bright spring day two weekends ago. Four kite owners were arrested as disorderly persons.

Last Saturday, the kids were back again. So were the cops. Eleven kite flyers, chanting "The skies belong to the people" and "My country, kite or wrong," were hauled in.

If you think you're getting a great shave with a razor blade, feel your face.

A razor blade can give you a good, close shave on the easy parts of your face.

Like your cheeks. Because your cheeks are almost flat, like a razor blade.

But what about the hard-to-shave parts of your face?

Feel your neck

Feel how your beard grows down on part of your neck? And up on another part? (Some beards even grow sideways.)

To give you a close, comfortable shave on your neck, we designed the Norelco Tripleheader with 18 self-sharpening rotary blades that shave in every direction.

Feel your chin

The Norelco Tripleheader has 3 Microgroove™ shaving heads that float to follow the curves of your chin.

The heads go in where your chin goes in, and out where your chin goes out. To give you a really close shave, without irritating your skin (In independent tests, the Tripleheader shaved as close or closer than a stainless steel blade in 2 out of 3 shaves.)

Feel your upper lip

The hard thing about shaving your upper lip with a razor blade is shaving close enough.

Again, the unique Norelco design lets you maneuver around your nose and mouth to shave your beard in every direction.

Feel your sideburns

The biggest problem with shaving sideburns is to get them straight, and even on both sides.

The Norelco Tripleheader has a pop-up trimmer that lets you see exactly what you're trimming. So it's a lot harder to make a mistake.

Now, run your hand over your whole face.

If your beard feels uneven, maybe you should be shaving with a Norelco Tripleheader.

It comes in two models: The Cord Model Tripleheader (with easy flip-top cleaning) and the new Rechargeable Tripleheader (the shaver that gives you up to twice as many shaves per charge as any other rechargeable). Either one will give your face a whole new feel.

Ecology bugs to participate in Earth Day

More events are scheduled today, National Earth Day, in connection with the Earth-Rebirth Environmental Teach In.

Among the scheduled events is an action perspective on what can be done about pollution. Titled "World Game-Pollution Scenario Presentation," it will be held at 6:30 p.m. in Lawson Hall, Room 161.

This will be followed at 8:30 p.m. by "What Can We Do," which will feature various people who are combating pollution. Among these people are Chuck Paprocki and Ray Lenzl of the Earth-Rebirth Environmental Fair Committee; Gene Jaeger of ZPG; Paul Nowak, who will speak on "Conservation and Outdoor Education," and Jerry Lacey and Dwight Campbell, who will give a black perspective on pollution. It will be held in the University School Gym.

Among today's workshops is a legal workshop on how environmental problems relate to the law.

It will be held at 10 a.m., 3 p.m. and 4 p.m. in the SIU Arena, Room 125.

Carbondale's environmental problems will be discussed at a workshop featuring Anne Monty of the City Planning Commission, George O'Neal of the Model Cities Program. This workshop will be held at 11 a.m. and 2 p.m. in the Arena, Room 123.

Population problems will be discussed at a workshop featuring Mark V. Hansen and Bruce Petersen at 10 a.m., noon, 3 and 4 p.m. in Bailey Hall, Room 130.

The Lusk Creek Committee of the local Audubon Society will present the facts behind a plan that would destroy the creek's natural wilderness with Roger Anderson at noon and 4 p.m. in the Agriculture Building, Room 216.

A workshop on the effects of overcrowding will be held at 11 p.m. in Wheeler, Room 203. Jim Stewart, a clinical psychologist, will lead the session.

Pam Popovich will lead a workshop on sewage treatment in Carbondale at 2 p.m. in the Home Economics Building, Room 102 and 3 p.m. in the Home Economics Building, Room 201.

Local ecological problems will be discussed by the Conservation and Outdoor Education staff led by Gary Harvey at 11 p.m. in the Agriculture Building, Room 188.

Paul Nowak will lead a workshop especially designed for teachers on educational implications of ecological problems at noon in the Home Economics Building, Room 140B, and from 4 to 6 p.m. in the Wham Building, Room 202.

Dennis Eposito, pastor of A. Frogg's Yogic Church of the Marsh, will rap on "Universal Living: The Ecology of the Soul" at 3 p.m. in Lawson Hall, Room 201.

Among the special events today will be a general systems analysis, which will look into the resource picture. Headed by David A. Lipp of the Department of Management, it will be held at 10 a.m. in Lawson Hall, Room 231.

At 1 p.m., Tom Smith will talk on "What Can Be Done About Wildlife," in the Morris Library Auditorium.

A solid wastes slide show will be given by Deward Grisoom of the Department of Health Education at noon in the Wham Education Building, Room 202 and at 2 p.m. in Wham Education Building, Room 302.

Richard Davis will discuss the limitations of resources at 3 p.m. in the Home Economics Building, Room 206.

At 4 p.m., there will be several talks on technical methods of controlling environmental pollution. It will be held in the Wham Education Building, Room 105.

Bloodmobile coming here May 6

On May 6, the Red Cross Bloodmobile will make its second visit to Carbondale. Blood donations will be taken between 11 a.m. and 5 p.m. at the First United Methodist Church, 214 W. Main St.

SIU students are urged to give blood during this visit because the Bloodmobile will not be on campus again this spring.

All persons between 18 and 65 are eligible donors. Donors receive coverage for themselves and their families under the Red Cross program.

John Mantia, a junior in the Department of Finance, has asked that students contribute for Uno Larson of Chicago, who is Mantia's neighbor. Larson has had open heart surgery and needs 20 to 25 pints of blood. Any type of blood may be contributed to replace the blood used by Larson.

The Bloodmobile visit is sponsored by six Carbondale religious organizations. Those persons wishing to contribute are asked to call the First United Methodist Church to arrange for an appointment.

Red China calls for revolution

TOKYO (AP)—Communist China marked the 100th anniversary of Lenin's birth Wednesday by calling for overthrow of the Soviet government, which it accused—in an 18,000-word attack—of disgracing Lenin's homeland.

The denunciation came as Soviet Communist party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev said in Moscow the Soviet Union favors restoration of good relations between Socialist countries "wherever they have been broken."

The Chinese quoted a statement by Chinese Communist party Chairman Mao Tse-tung that the masses of Soviet people were good an eventually would topple the rule of Brezhnev and his fellow "revisionists."

Students 'Bounce for Beat'

Sigma Alpha Mu social fraternity will sponsor a "Bounce for Beats" campaign to raise funds for the American Heart Association Thursday-Saturday.

Joel Levin, president of the fraternity, explained that the drive will begin at noon Thursday outside the University Center.

Students are invited to bounce a basketball and donate any amount they can, Levin said. The ball will be bounced continuously during the drive. Arnie Liss, a sophomore from Chicago and chairman of the drive, will attempt to break the old continuous bounce record of 23 hours beginning at 4 p.m. Friday.

The drive will conclude at 6 p.m. Saturday in front of Goldsmith's on South Illinois Avenue.

Levin said the opening ceremonies on Thursday will include addresses by Kenneth Varcoe, dean of fraternities and sororities at SIU; Steve Goldsmith; and Dave Blum, head adviser to the interfraternity council.

Towers may help

The Area Council of Brush Towers will vote Thursday on a resolution to donate $1,000 to the James Johnson Fund. The resolution was tabled last Thursday until additional information concerning Johnson's insurance coverage could be obtained.

Johnson, a former resident of Schneider Hall, was shot last month in Trueblood.

If the resolution is adopted, the money would be used to help defer some expenses which will be incurred by Johnson for a kidney operation.

What Price Marriage?

Getting married can cost a lot of money. In fact, sometimes marriage seems like a conspiracy to bankrupt the bride and groom.

But Vanity Fair is on your side. For years, we've been selling the finest engagement and wedding rings to students for far less than they would pay in a retail jewelry store.

Such savings are possible because we handle the whole process of making a ring ourselves, from buying the diamond in Antwerp to selling it to you on your campus.

And only Vanity Fair knows how to keep costs down without compromising quality. A look at our new 36-page full-color catalog will convince you of that. This coupon will bring it to you free. Or, if you prefer, visit our showrooms at 55 E. Washington Street, Chicago.

Cady cites American's need to understand Southeast Asia

John F. Cady, considered by many to be the dean of American Southeast Asia historians, said there is a vital need for Americans to understand the problems of the area.

Cady, professor of history at Ohio University and longtime opponent of the Vietnam War policies of the Johnson and Nixon administrations, was at SIU for a meeting of the editorial advisory board of Southeast Asia, a journal to be published by the Center for Vietnamese Studies and Programs. He lectured Friday night on "Problems of Modernization in Postwar Southeast Asia" under the sponsorship of the center. He said an effort is being made to organize the Southeast Asian nations into national states. Cady said the solutions to problems in Vietnam do not lie in "trying to turn them (the people) into Americans or Frenchmen," but in "finding something in Vietnamese history that they can come together on."

"Getting rid of colonialism solves some of the problems of organizing national states," Cady said. "But these problems need to be understood by Americans but not with a patronizing attitude."

Cady, who commended SIU for its contributions to establishing the center, said he spoke at the October and November Vietnam War moratoriums at Ohio University. His letter to then-Secretary of State Dean Rusk attacking Rusk's basic premise of a North Vietnamese invasion received a perfunctory reply from Rusk, he said, but a State Department man told him it circulated widely in the department.

Bakalis seeks support

The statewide coordinator of Students for Bakalis will be on campus Thursday to help organize student support for Dr. Michael J. Bakalis, who is running for State Superintendent of Public Instruction. Bakalis, who will oppose incumbent Ray Page, is assistant dean of the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences at Northern Illinois University and an associate professor of history.

Gary Kerr, head coordinator of Students for Bakalis and a former SIU student, and assistant coordinator Ed

Mahoney will be in the Illini Room of University Center from 9 a.m. until 1 p.m.

Bacchanalia/70 next week

Bacchanalia/70 is the theme for this year's spring festival, a week of activities highlighted by a film festival, a writers' platform, jazz musician Dizzy Gillespie and the Theta Xi Variety Show.

The festival will open Monday with the Grassroots' Film Festival from 7:30-11 p.m. in the University Center Ballrooms. All the film will be made by SIU students and area residents.

The Film Festival will run three nights with different films being shown each night. A $100 first place prize will be awarded along with five $25 judges awards. The Fantasy Company will provide an electrical light and music show before and between the films.

Grassroots, the campus literary magazine, is also sponsoring a writers' platform featuring such noted writers as Donald Finkel, Constance Urdang, Jarvis Thurston, Howard Nemerov and SIU faculty members John Gardner and Thomas Kinsella.

The platform will be from 1-5 p.m., April 28-29, in the University Center, Ballroom B. The writers will read their works, give literary critiques and visit various English classes during their stay.

Famed jazz musician Dizzy Gillespie will entertain at the Bacchanalia/70 Convocation at 1 p.m., April 30, in the SIU Arena. He will also perform at an open air concert at 8 p.m. that night in the grassy area north of the University Center.

A dance featuring the Tamil People will follow the concert in the University Center Roman Room.

The SIU Aquettes will perform at 8 p.m. April 30.

Opening ceremonies for the midway will be at 6:45 p.m., May 1, in the area north of McAndrew Stadium. The game booths, displays and entertainment will be open from 7-11 p.m., and the rides and concessions will be open from 5 p.m.-midnight.

A musical show, "Fresh Cookies," will be presented by the New York team of Norman and Sandra Dietz at 8 p.m. Friday in Muckelroy Auditorium. It will be sponsored by the Student Christian Foundation and the American Baptist Campus Ministry.

The midway will be open from 1-5 p.m. Saturday, May 2, and the rides and concessions will continue from 10 a.m.-midnight.

Bacchanalia/70 will be topped off by the Theta Xi Variety Show at 7:30 p.m. Saturday in the SIU Arena. A total of 56 students will perform for trophies in three categories. This will be the 23rd annual show which Theta Xi has sponsored.

During the variety show intermission, trophies for the three best booths on the midway will be awarded. Also the Leo Kaplan Memorial Scholarship will be given.

The idea of Bacchanalia/70 is to involve the entire University in a festival of creativity and fun. It has been in the planning stages since early January, according to its organizers.

Poll indicates majority opinion at SIU

In this second of a two-part series, staff writer Akihiro Sato examines a report on student attitudes at SIU prepared by David H. Everson and Roy E. Miller for the Public Affairs Research Bureau. In Tuesday's article, Sato looked at the mixed bag of student opinion. Today, researchers Everson and Miller answer the question: "Is there majority student opinion on issues at SIU?"

By Akihiro Sato
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Is there a majority student opinion on issues at SIU?

Results of a survey released last week indicate yes.

In a 99-page report, SIU researchers David Everson and Roy Miller of the Public Affairs Research Bureau found that a majority student opinion exists on 20 of the 28 issues examined.

But the report warned not to jump to conclusions from these findings.

"First, from these data we do not know the extent to which majorities coincide or shift on the various issues," it said. "It could very well be that the students making up the majorities on the various issues differ widely from question to question.

"Second, the attitudes of the student body as a whole do not appear to reflect a consistent 'ideology' of either radicalism or conservatism...

Third, the opinions of these individuals (a small number of dissenters) may reflect an active minority which has disproportionate influence in decision-making."

How strongly do the students feel about particular issues?

The report said 58 per cent of the students polled felt strongly either for or against on the question of the renaming of University Park to Martin Luther King Jr. Park, followed by 51 per cent on the University's draft counseling.

"We now know that not only is the draft counseling issue one on which a preponderant majority supports the problem, but also that better than half of the sample has strong opinion about this issue, and virtually all of those with strong opinions support the

Write to extend scholarships

Association tickets available

The first day of ticket sales for the Association concert went quite well, according to Leroy Fehrenkamp of the Arena Ticket Office. Good seats for the concert to be held 8 p.m. Friday still remain he said. Tickets are $3, $3.50 and $4 for the gen-problem," it said.

"On the other hand," it continued, "the three issues relating to the curriculum and evaluation of the faculty which attracted preponderant majorities, all fall below the median strength of opinion on the 28 issues."

How militant do the students think themselves to be on campus issues at SIU?

"In terms of self-rating," the report said, "most SIU students place themselves in the center."

Of the 606 students, 36 per cent said they were moderate, 30 per cent said they were liberal and 16 per cent said they were conservative. One per cent each said they were "revolutionary militant," or "ultra-conservative."

The rating reflected "a continuum of acts from very peaceful and traditional means of protest to acts which border on illegality and which have elsewhere produced violent confrontations."

"Majority approval is given for peaceful protest rallies, peaceful picketing, nonviolent sit-ins' and even a student strike. Clearly, a broad range of protest activity is thought justified in at least some circumstances," the report indicated.

Eighty-seven per cent of 499 students supported holding peaceful protest rallies on campus, 90 per cent agreed that students are not justified in destroying University property and 84 per cent disagreed that students are justified in seizing buildings on campus.

The report said it is clear that there are limits in militancy for virtually all of the students.

"The dividing line is reached where acts are obviously no longer nonviolent,

According to Charles Gray, counselor in the Financial Aid office, students who are taking a minimum of 12 hours this summer are eligible to receive an extension. Only those who now have the grants and scholarships are eligible.

eral public and $3 and $3.50 for students. The Arena Ticket Office requests that all student ticketholders display their SIU identification cards at the door. If no card is shown a 50c adjustment will be made on the ticket.

and it is here that approval diminishes to a tiny minority," the report said.

The report said there is "a kind of continuum of militancy" for the campus as a whole, and that at both ends of the militancy continuum, there is a tendency for strong opinions to predominate."

Eighty per cent of 499 students denied they are treated as a "unique human being" in the University when asked on their degree of alienation at SIU.

Thirty-nine per cent of the students said most courses are irrelevant to their needs and another 30 per cent of 606 students said the University is cold and impersonal. However, 63 per cent of 499 students agreed that most instructors are accessible and easy to talk with.

"While we may take some comfort from the fact that the percentage giving 'alienated' responses on these three items is far from a majority of students," it said a table "does provide some evidence for a degree of student alienation at Southern Illinois University."

Students' confidence in the University administration, faculty, and the student government is low, the report said. A total of 35 per cent of 499 students agreed and 40 per cent disagreed that the student government is trusted doing what is right most of the time; 47 per cent of 606 students said they trusted the University administration with 29 per cent disagreeing. The report added that 51 per cent of 499 students had confidence in their faculty and 28 per cent disagreed.

The report said there are two outstanding aspects in the findings in this area.

"First is the generally low level of trust indicated by the responses," it said. "The second salient aspect... is that there is a generally high amount of 'neutral' and 'don't know' responses to these items, indicating a large percentage of the student sample does not know whether or not to trust student government, the faculty and the administration."

Those neutral responses accounted for 24 per cent in the case of the student government, 23 per cent in the University administration and 21 per cent in the University faculty.

"The findings about individual feelings of effectiveness of students in influencing student government, the faculty and the administration call attention to the fact that many SIU students hold attitudes which reflect images of student discontent," the report said.

The students as individuals do not feel that they have much to say about what student government or the administration does, and neither do they feel that they have much to say on what the faculty teaches," it added.

"Sizable numbers of students believe that the student government, the administration and the faculty don't care much what they think. And many students seem baffled by the workings of student government and University decision-making."

The report said 52 per cent of 449 students agreed and 32 per cent disagreed that they don't have any say about what the student government does. Seventy per cent of them don't have any say about what the University administration does and 74 per cent said they don't have any say about what the faculty teaches. Disagreement totalled 21 per cent and 16 per cent, respectively.

Most students feel that what the administration does greatly influences their lives at SIU, while they do not believe the acts of the student government have much influence on their lives. This was revealed when the students were asked about their attitudes on the University and its effects on their lives.

The report said 64 per cent of 606 students expressed a belief that the administration has a great effect on their lives as students at SIU, while 66 per cent of 499 students disagreed that the student government affects their lives greatly one way or the other.

Everson and Miller said they had treated each item individually and that no attempt was made to correlate various items. They added that the data will be studied further.

SPORTS FANS!

I
YOU
KNOW

By Rick Shank

One of the oddest things that ever happened in a major golf tournament happened to pro golfer Tony Jacklin... He was playing in a tournament some years ago and hit a 300-yard long shot that landed right in a spectator's pocket—without any injury to the spectator!

Here's a golf question that may surprise you... Of all the pro golfers in the world active today, which one has won the most tournaments?... It's not Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus, Billy Casper or Gary Player, but Roberto DeVicenzo of Argentina, who's best remembered for the scorecard error that cost him the 1968 U.S. Masters championship... DeVicenzo has won more overall golf tournaments than anyone else, although most golf fans wouldn't guess that he had.

Here's an oddity from baseball... In 9 of the 164 10 years, the men who led the American League in batting were lefties—while, oddly enough, just about the reverse is true in the National League where righties have won the batting championship 8 of the last 11 years.

I bet you didn't know that college graduates have a longer life expectancy—lower death rate and are living five years longer on the average than non-college men. The lower death rate of college men makes possible broader benefits and greater cash values in College Life policies. This certainly makes good sense. Doesn't it?

Council election today at Evergreen Terrace

Elections for the Evergreen Terrace Advisory Council will be held from 7 a.m.-7 p.m. today at the Evergreen Terrace Community Building.

All residents of Evergreen

Four on faculty will be soloists

Four members of the woodwind faculty of Southern Illinois University's music department will appear as soloists at the SIU Orchestra spring concert at 8 p.m., April 22, in the University Center Ballroom.

George Hussey, oboe; Robert Resnick, clarinet; George Nadaf, horn; and Lawrence Intravala, bassoon, will perform with the student orchestra the Mozart "Concertante Quartet for Four Solo Winds and Orchestra."

Under the direction of James Stroud, assistant professor of music and cellist with the Illinois Quartet, the orchestra also will play Aaron Copland's "An Outdoor Overture," and Mendelssohn's Fifth Symphony, the "Reformation."

The program is free and open to the public.

Burt Kageff to sing

Burt Kageff, assistant professor of music at SIU, will sing the role of the "Evangelist" in performances of J. S. Bach's "The Passion According to St. John," Sunday and Monday in Springfield.

Kageff, a tenor, will sing each evening at 8 p.m. in the First Presbyterian Church of Springfield. The program is sponsored by the Concordia Seminary choir under the direction of Daniel G. Ruening.

SIU planning local activities

The office of SIU Services to Carbondale is planning a Summer Recreation Program for local residents. Isaac Brigham, staff assistant and coordinator of the program, said the purpose of the program is to increase the availability of a wide range of recreational activities.

There will be one inclusive program offered this summer in contrast to two recreation programs conducted last summer.

Special activities are tentatively planned for northeast Carbondale, a predominately black section of the city, Brigham said. "These special activities are being planned because University Services feels that in order to have equal opportunities for all there must be special opportunities for some," he said.

Recreational activities being planned include tot lots and sandboxes for children; arts and crafts; outdoor dances; films; regular use of playground equipment; low and high organized games; and sports. All activities will be supervised and organized by playground leaders in each designated play area. Activities are free of charge.

Applications for employment in the Summer Recreation Program may be obtained at the Carbondale Park District Office, 208 W. Elm and University Services to Carbondale, College Square B.

Terrace will vote for the three top positions on the council. Only one candidate for each of the positions has filed, but write-in space will be available.

William Moffett is running for Chairman; Rae Burkhardt for Secretary; and Sue Eng-rissel for Treasurer.

A Housing Area Chairman for each Evergreen Terrace's six areas will also be elected. Sharon Kowalzik has filed in Area 1, and Norma Brown in Area 3. No candidates have filed in the other four areas, but write-in space will be available.

The Advisory Council, made up of the three officials and the six chairmen, allocates the Housing Area Activity Fee, a $1 monthly fee charged to all the families, and handles resident complaints.

All adults at Evergreen Terrace may vote upon showing proper identification.

Women's volleyball team in national meet

The SIU Women's volleyball team will travel to Long Beach, Calif. this weekend for the first annual national women's volleyball tournament.

Also going to the west coast will be Western Illinois University. The Western Illinois team defeated SIU's coed squad 15-3 and 15-13 in the finals of the SIU tournament held over the weekend in the Women's Gymnasium.

The SIU team had its backs to the wall in the double elimination tournament from the start, losing to the University of Illinois 15-7 and 15-11 in the first game.

The SIU entry then proceeded to defeat Northern Illinois 15-11, 13-15 and 15-3;

Purdue 15-8 and 15-11; Mt. St. Joseph of Ohio 15-7 and 15-9; and Southeast Missouri State 17-15 and 15-2.

The University of Illinois, which also sustained one loss, captured the consolation championship with a 15-8, 15-11 drubbing of Eastern Illinois.

The Western Illinois team had been seeded second to SIU before the tournament began.

The Women's Recreation Association will begin its spring softball program at 4 p.m. Monday. Girls may play on both the intramural and varsity teams.

The intramural level emphasizes recreation. Games will be played from 4-5:30 p.m. every Tuesday beginning next week. All interested girls should meet on the field at Wall and Park Streets or in case of rain, in the Women's Gymnasium, Room 207.

Varsity softball offers an opportunity to compete against Western Illinois, Eastern Illinois, Illinois State, the University of Illinois, Southeast Missouri and John A. Logan Junior College.

The team is also planning to attend the Invitational Softball World Series for Women at Omaha, Neb. in May.

Varsity practice will be held from 4-5:30 p.m. every Monday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday on the field at Wall and Park Streets.

Further information can be obtained by calling Miss Kay Brechtelsbauer at 453-2297.

Saluki bunt

Coch Richard "Itchy" Jones says Mark Newman, above, is as good at picking his pitches as anyone on the team. The Saluki second baseman is a converted pitcher.

Saluki batmen dump Washington 10-1

Gene Rinaldi and Bob Blakley each slammed two-run homers Tuesday to lead the Saluki baseball team to a 10-1 demolition of Washington University in St. Louis.

Rinaldi's blast came in the first inning, highlighting a five-run Saluki outburst in that stanza. Blakley gave SIU two more runs with his long shot in the fourth inning.

Blakley, Dan Radison and Mark Newman all had three hits as the Saluki offense was in high gear against the Washington moundmen.

Left-hander John Daigle pitched five shut-out innings, giving up four hits before being lifted by SIU coach Richard "Itchy" Jones. Bob Eldridge relieved in the sixth and allowed Washington's only run of the game.

The host Bears faced another southpaw when Jerry Paetzhold came in and shut them out over the last innings.

The win was SIU's first action since the Salukis lost a 10-5 decision to Mississippi April 13.

The Salukis will carry their 15-4 record into Saturday's doubleheader against Western Kentucky. The Hilltoppers were beaten by St. Louis University in the only game played in the Governors Baseball Tournament Saturday. All other games were cancelled because of rain.

Washington is now 5-12 following its loss to SIU. The Bears collected four hits against SIU while the Salukis pounded out 16 for themselves. SIU committed no errors in the contest while the Bears were guilty of one miscue.

Robertson goes with the Bucks

CINCINNATI (AP) — Superstar Oscar Robertson was traded to the Milwaukee Bucks by the Cincinnati Royals Tuesday for Flynn Robinson and Charley Paulk.

The trade puts Robertson on the same team with 7-2 Lew Alcindor which should give the Bucks one of the most prolific one-two scoring punches in the National Basketball Association.

The trading of Robertson was no surprise. Earlier, the Royals sought to trade him to Baltimore for Gus Johnson but Robertson invoked a clause in his contract which allowed him to approve a trade. He rejected going to Baltimore.

AAU competition

Former student is champion

Larry Kristoff, former standout wrestler at SIU, won the 220-pound class Saturday, in the National Amateur Athletic Union freestyle championships in Lincoln, Neb.

Wrestling for the Mayor Daley Youth Foundation, Kristoff pinned four opponents over the weekend, the final victory coming over Leonard Pettit-grew of Ashland College in 2:35.

Kristoff has won over 230 matches since beginning wrestling in 1960 as a senior at Carbondale High School.

Presently wrestling coach at SIU Edwardsville, Kristoff has won titles and placed high in World Games competition and the Pan-American games. In 1968 he made the United States Olympic team but did not earn a medal.

In his senior year at SIU, 1964, Kristoff was defending National AAU champion but was upset in the NCAA championships. SIU placed fourth in the nation under former coach Jim Wilkinsen. Kristoff did win a college division national championship his junior year in NCAA competition.

Kristoff has competed in both freestyle and Greco-Roman wrestling. SIU coach Lynn Long cites the main difference as use of the legs.

"Freestyle is very similar to what we wrestle in college," he said. "In Greco-Roman, all holds must be made from the waist up."

Iowa State's Dan Gable was voted the meet's outstanding wrestler, winning the title at 149.5 pounds. Gable was defeated by Larry Orings of Washington this year in the NCAA finals, after winning 181 straight matches.

The Mayor Daley Youth Foundation was third in team scoring in the contest won by the New York Athletic Club.

Cubs victorious, Sox lose

The Chicago Cubs used two home runs to post a 7-4 win over the St. Louis Cardinals Tuesday. The White Sox were victimized by a Harmon Killebrew blow for a 4-3 loss against the Minnesota Twins.

Billy Williams slammed a three-run homer and Johnny Callison a two-run shot off Bob Gibson in the seventh inning as the Cubs extended their winning streak to six games.

Gibson, 1-1, was breezing along with a 4-2 lead and had held the Cubs hitless from the first inning before the two-out explosion that ended the Cardinals' four-game winning streak.

Don Kessinger walked, Glenn Beckert singled and Williams followed with his fourth home run into the right

Frazier again top defensive player, says NBA coaches

Walt Frazier, sparkplug in SIU's 1967 National Invitational Tournament championship, has been voted the outstanding defensive player in the National Basketball Association for the second straight year.

The selection is made annually by coaches of the NBA. Frazier received 27 out of a possible 28 points in the voting.

Frazier and former SIU teammate Dick Garrett will meet head-on this weekend when the NBA playoff series begins in New York.

Frazier is in his third season with the Eastern Division New York Knickerbockers.

Garrett stepped into the Laker lineup shortly after the beginning of the season and has been some what of a fixture since then.

Power serve

Getting back on the winning trail last weekend was SIU's number one singles tennis player Fritz Gildemeister. After losing four of five regular season matches, the native of Santiago, Chile bagged three wins against Bradley, Northern Illinois and Toledo as well as combining with Bill Lloyd, Ray Briscoe and Graham Snook to win doubles matches in each meet.
