Tornadoes hit Southern Illinois

By Pat Corcoran
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Tornadoes and high winds slammed the Jackson County area Friday night, mostly uprooting trees and belting barns.

But for two rural Murphysboro families, the twister took on a personal meaning.

Ronnie Craft, his wife and baby were sitting in their home in the Country Circle trailer park near Murphysboro when the heavy rains began falling. Next to them sat the vacant trailer belonging to Karen Reynolds.

Craft was talking on his two-way radio when he heard the sound of breaking glass and grinding metal.

"It scared the piss out of me," Craft said. "No glass in my trailer was broken, but the walls were twisted," he said.

Craft said debris from the Reynolds trailer nearly engulfed the Craft trailer. Craft said only his pick-up truck kept the last exit, the front door, from being blocked.

Craft said at first he and his wife were worried because they thought they were trapped inside.

"That truck of mine shielded the front door enough for us to get out," Craft said.

"Accidents happen," he said. "I just thank the Lord none of us were hurt. Craft said the Reynolds trailer had been vacant for nearly a month. "I think she was going to complete the deal on selling it tomorrow," he said.

The trailer was blown nearly 30 feet from its site onto the Craft trailer. All walls on the Reynolds trailer were flattened. The floor remained intact but furniture was scattered like toys.

Craft said his trailer was destroyed. No doubt existed about the complete destruction of the Reynolds trailer, he said.

Reynolds was on the scene but left, "very distressed," spectators said.

The Murphysboro Fire Department was called to the Craft trailer to inspect for possible fire hazards, but none were found. Craft said Central Illinois Power Co. turned off power at the Craft trailer as a preventative measure.

In other parts of the area unconfirmed reports of a funnel cloud fifty feet off the ground near Cedar Lake were phoned in to police.

Anna-Jonesboro, at the Daily Egyptian deadline, was under a tornado warning, but no twisters were sighted, according to police.

In Northern Jackson County near Oraville, unconfirmed reports said that debris from trees and a wrecked barn were blocking roads.

In Ava, a tornado trapped two persons in a mobile home, state troopers said. But they were rescued uninjured by firemen and police.

Jackson County deputies said property damage was moderate in Vergennes and other rural areas.

The Associated Press reported that a woman and two children were injured by the storm in Washington County.

The woman was seriously injured and her children received minor injuries.

Police said the unidentified woman was hospitalized with serious back injuries after the tornado struck her home in Hoyleton. Twisters, high winds and torrential downpours lashed the state, flooding various parts.

"The same type of clouds which hit earlier have been reported moving up from the Poplar Bluff, Mo., area, so these storms could continue all night," a state police spokesman said.

Close to an inch and a half of rain pelted the area before the high winds hit. Other unconfirmed reports of tornado activity near Dowell, the Perry County line, were given to police, but no reports came from Perry county officials on damage there.

Thousands arrive for Kappa fest

About 12,000 Karnival-goers have come to Carbondale for a big weekend at the annual Kappa Karnival, said Joseph Sanders, Karnival chairman.

Parades, parties, dances and a queen coronation add up to a busy weekend for Kappa Karnival participants.

Kappa Karnival, sponsored by the SIU chapter of Kappa Alpha Psi, is a fund-raising festival held each spring. This year's theme is "Krimson Karavan."

Saturday's events will kick off with a 9 a.m. basketball tournament at the Arena with fraternity chapters from various schools competing.

At 3:30 p.m., a parade will travel down South Illinois Avenue to the Student Center. A jazz workshop is set from 1:30 to 4 p.m. on the Student Center patio. The workshop will move indoors to the Big Muddy Room in case of rain.

From 9 p.m. Saturday to 2 a.m. Sunday the Karnival will move to the upper concourse of the Arena which has been reserved for booths, side shows and games. The main floor of the Arena will turn into a discotheque Saturday night with several bands playing.

The coronation of the Kappa Karnival queen is set for midnight Saturday. Following the coronation action will move to Merlin's, Bonaparte's and U-City bars where parties are scheduled.

The Karnival will end Sunday with an all-day lawn party at the Kappa House in Small Group Housing. A picnic and music fest are planned.

APCO cancels oil exploration plans

By Ross Becker
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The APCO Petroleum Corp. announced Friday that all plans for oil exploration on SIU property have been canceled.

Clark Baker, land manager for the Houston-based firm, said APCO decided to abandon efforts to lease University land because the negotiations had taken too long and because changes in federal tax laws would make oil drilling in Illinois too costly.

"We couldn't get them (SIU) to execute an oil and gas lease soon enough. Because some liberals in Congress are trying to wreck the oil industry by cutting out the 22 per cent oil depletion allowance, APCO will not do any drilling in Illinois," Baker said.

The oil depletion allowance, revised recently by Congress, allowed oil companies a tax break to offset the effect of their dwindling resources.

The SIU Board of Trustees on April 10 gave President Warren Brandt permission to begin negotiations with APCO for a five-year lease on 900 acres of University property.

Brandt called APCO's decision a loss to the University of an opportunity for a "major infusion of support" from oil and gas revenues.

Prior to the board's approval, the Campus Natural Areas Committee reviewed the APCO proposal to determine if the University should lease property to the oil company.

The committee, after considering the issue for several months, recommended that Brandt begin negotiations with APCO.

The APCO offer would have netted SIU profits of 18.75 per cent on any oil and gas recovered from SIU well sites. In addition, SIU would have been paid a bonus of $4,500 the first year for signing the proposed five-year lease.

During the last four years of the lease, SIU would have received $1 per acre per year until APCO determined if oil was present and the royalty went into effect.

T. Richard Mager, vice president for development and services, said that there will not be any oil exploration on SIU property in the near future. Mager, who spearheaded the lease deal, said, "I have the feeling it is off for now but not forever."

Vote to split SIU, SIU-E expected

by Laura Coleman
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

A bill which would make SIU's two campuses separate institutions will go to the floor of the Illinois Senate for a vote next week, according to bill sponsor Sen. Sam Vadalabene, D-Edwardsville.

The bill was passed out of the Senate Executive Committee Wednesday in a manner which committee chairman Sen. Gene Johns, D-Marion, called "unfair."

Johns said the bill was put to a vote in the committee without testimony for or against it. Board of Trustees Chairman Ivan Elliott was prepared to speak against the bill, Johns said.

Vadalabene, however, said Friday that he did not know of opposition to the legislation, and added that the committee had received a written message supporting the bill from SIU-E Student Trustee Donald Hastings.

Johns said that because Vadalabene is a "dear friend" and because he realized the bill would be sent from the committee, he voted to pass it. The vote was 11-2.

"I don't particularly like it that way," Johns said, "but a 'no' vote would have performed no function." He predicted the bill would be very controversial on the Senate floor, and said Gov. Dan Walker probably would not sign it.

Johns said the basis for opposition is that a bad precedent would be set for other boards of trustees in the state.

Vadalabene defended his bill, which the committee refused to hear last year, saying SIU-E should be autonomous. "Our university is different from Carbondale. 75 per cent of SIU-E students work at some other job and the school is entirely commuter."

Vadalabene said the people of Edwardsville paid $600,000 for the land at SIU-E, and added that the University "should no longer be a step-child of Carbondale."

The bill's status is that it needs to be read to the Senate twice, after which Vadalabene will have the option of deciding when it should come for a vote.

"I'm going to try to get it passed out of the Senate next week," he said.

Wilson Hall ordered to unchain exit doors

By Dave Iбата
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

City code enforcement officials Friday ordered Wilson Hall management to unchain exit doors which had been locked shut to control entrance to the dormitory because of the large number of visitors expected for Kappa Kappa weekend.

Dormitory manager Rhonda Kirkpatrick said the policy had been ordered to prevent non-residents from overrunning the off-campus resident hall.

John Yow, city code enforcement director, inspected the dorm and ordered the doors unchained about 3:15 p.m. Yow told Kirkpatrick the locking of fire exits was a violation of state law and city ordinance.

The only Wilson entrance, according to a directive to residents, was to have been the main lobby entrance. All others were to be locked from Friday morning through Sunday night.

The directive, signed by resident hall counselor Thomas L. Gharst, added, "Guests of Wilson Hall residents will be asked to register at a table located near the front entrance."

Gharst refused to comment on the order.

The registration procedure was discontinued after the doors were unlocked.

Richard Mathenia, assistant manager, said James Osberg, director of off-campus housing, had approved locking the fire exits.

Osberg confirmed he had with the stipulation that a person was stationed at all exits. He said the Carbondale Fire Department also had approved the move. Persons from the fire department inspected Wilson Hall Friday morning "and said they didn't see any major problem with it," Osberg said.

Reporters found two locked, unattended fire exits. Osberg said that should the fire alarm go off, the resident on duty was to immediately go to unlock the doors.

"Really, there was no kind of danger with this thing, or we would not have approved it," Osberg said. "If there's damage or theft this weekend, you can thank whoever it was who raised a stink about it."

Assistant SIU Police Chief Robert Harris said Friday Kappa Kappa Kappa usually is more orderly than any other large weekend event held on campus.

Kappa Alpha Psi will provide a 100-man security force this weekend. Harris said they had been extremely helpful to police in past Kappas. This security force will make sure sidewalks and roads are kept clear and will handle internal affairs, Harris added.

Carbondale Police Chief George Kennedy said the only extra patrolmen scheduled for this weekend will patrol during late bar hours. Some downtown bars have received permission to stay open to 5 a.m., Kennedy said.

Charges against four policemen dropped

Felony charges against four Carbondale policemen were dismissed Friday by the Jackson County State's Attorney.

A grand jury had indicted the four officers in March for the alleged dumping of Sylvester Moore, a 34-year-old Carbondale man, in Oakwood Bottoms, 30 miles from Carbondale.

Carbondale City Manager Carroll Fry said the officers, who have been suspended from duty, must first apply for readmission to the police force before internal disciplinary action can be taken.

Police Chief George Kennedy indicated a disciplinary decision would come next week after Fry reviewed the information gathered in an administrative hearing in February.

In a move prompted by a court ruling

Thursday which banned most of the state's evidence, Howard Hood, state's attorney, dropped charges of unlawful restraint against patrolmen Robert Goro, William Holmes, Melvin Krekel and Sgt. Marvin Voss.

"I am doing so in the belief and expectation that disciplinary proceedings already begun by the city administration will continue," Hood said.

In the ruling Thursday, Judge Richard Richman upheld the defense motion to suppress the evidence gathered by the Carbondale Police Department's internal investigation of the incident. The defense contended the evidence was illegal because the four officers were told to "talk or be fired."

Richman said this was coercion under the law.

In the internal interviews, the policeman were told that anything they said could not be used in a criminal investigation.

Fry said his internal investigation went after something different from what the state's attorney sought.

"I was seeking information for a disciplinary action. The state's attorney wanted information for a criminal case," Fry said.

"The information I gathered was privileged communication. I acted properly and legally within the judicial guidelines. If it had been illegal the judge would have taken exception to it," Fry said.

Hood said he never received copies of the suppressed evidence until this week.

In the motion hearing, Richman questioned the guidelines for the internal investigation. He also commented on Kennedy's readiness to protect the confessions of his officers as contrasted to his willingness to "blare to the press the confession of a minor in a murder case."

Kennedy said the guidelines for internal investigations would be reviewed and some revisions made.

"We are taking a good, close look, but this is a standard operating procedure. We must decide if the public's best interest is served by telling the policemen their rights and having them refuse to talk, or by them telling us the truth about the situation," Kennedy said.

Graphics art fair scheduled for Mall

By Tilden Parks
Student Writer

More than 800 entries will be shown this weekend in the commercial University Mall.

John Yack, supervisor of the commercial graphics design program in the School of Technical Careers (STC), said that there are entries from all over the state.

The amount of monetary awards depends on the number of entries, Yack said. Prizes will be awarded for the top three exhibits in each of the six categories. A "Best of Show" award will be presented to the top entry in the fair.

College students' entries will be at the west end of the mall, while high school artists will exhibit at the east end.

Three of the categories are acrylic and oils, pen and ink and mixed media. The judges for these categories will be: George Mavigliano, assistant professor of art at SIU; Don Ross, Benton artist; and Sue Stotlar, West Frankfort portrait artist.

The remaining categories are photography, graphic design and dimensional media. The judges for these categories will be: Charles Swedlund, chairman of the Department of Cinema and Photography at SIU; Lauren Finney, graphic artist for Norge; and Rick Linton, Herrin artist.

Yack said the fair is being sponsored by the Advertising Design and Illustration Club of STC's graphic design program.

Between 900 and 1,000 man-hours have been spent in preparation for the fair, Yack estimated.

The hours of the fair on Saturday are from 10:00 a.m. to 9 p.m. and from noon until 5:30 p.m. Sunday.

Viet coastal city under heavy attack

SAIGON (AP) — Radio contact was lost Friday with several points in the Saigon government's last central coast enclave and it was feared the fall of the country's 19th province was near.

The site was 100 miles east of Saigon, but close enough to add to the steadily mounting tensions in this capital which Americans are leaving in growing numbers and from which many Vietnamese are trying to escape.

Military sources said Communist-led forces were driving toward the coastal city of Phan Thiet, capital of Binh Thuan Province, as part of the offensive that began in early March and has given them three-fourths of the country.

The sources said Phan Thiet itself was still holding late Friday night, but that defense lines were under heavy attack and radio communications had been lost with four nearby district towns.

Phan Thiet is 75 miles southwest of Phan Rang, another coastal enclave which government forces pulled out of two days ago.

In addition to the fighting around Phan Thiet and at Xuan Loc, another provincial capital 40 miles east of Saigon, small probing attacks were reported only a few miles outside the capital.

While it had been generally expected that the coastal regions could not hold after the loss of the central and northern parts of the country, the moves on them were regarded as part of the momentum maintained by North Vietnamese and Viet Cong forces. Their loss also would free more Communist-led units for positioning in the immediate Saigon region.

U.S. intelligence sources in Washington say there are indications that elements of three more North Vietnamese divisions have moved into or close to the Saigon military region. The sources said such moves would bring to at least 10 the number of North Vietnamese divisions threatening the Saigon area.

Despite this powerful array of forces, military authorities here have not yet detected movements that would signal the opening of a drive on the capital. But they concede it could come at any time.

In Washington, the Senate Foreign Relations Committee approved $200 million for humanitarian and evacuation programs in South Vietnam, but Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said if Congress doesn't grant military aid, "I think the collapse would come soon."

Against this background, nervousness and rumors mounted in this capital.

Americans termed nonessential continued to leave the country under President Ford's evacuation order. Officials declined to give specific details saying only the number left in Vietnam had been reduced from 6,000 to fewer than 4,000.

Frightened Vietnamese sought ways to flee their homeland, but most were blocked by the government's rigid orders banning the issuance of travel documents.

Carbondale residents observe Food Day

By Tim Hastings
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

World hunger can be solved by teaching people to produce food, not by giving handouts, says Acharya Yatishvarananda Avadhuta, the main speaker at Food Day '75.

Avadhuta is the North American secretary of the Ananda Marga Yoga Society, an international spiritual and social service organization. Observance of Food Day '75 was held Thursday in the Student Center Ballrooms.

Avadhuta said it is a flaw in human society to give handouts—free food only makes people lethargic.

"We should help the needy get back to work. It is good for people to work hard. God has given them hands to work and minds to think," he said.

Avadhuta has worked for the Ananda Marga Universal Relief Team (AMURT) which has the motto "Food For All." This refers to spiritual as well as physical food. Hence, the solution to the hunger problem is spiritual, as well as economic, he said. By birth, every human has a claim to all natural resources, including food, Avadhuta believes.

"Food for all is impossible if I'm thinking of myself alone, we've forgotten the concept of the universal family," he said.

Avadhuta believes a cooperative economic system is the best solution for the world food problem. This would be a nonprofit, no-loss system that guarantees everyone an equal share of food. All available land would be cultivated and agricultural knowledge would be shared around the world, he said.

Avadhuta said the hunger problems in Bangladesh and Calcutta are almost beyond belief. AMURT is giving temporary relief to the most needy people, while looking for a permanent solution.

According to Avadhuta, food production and meditation go together.

Acharya Avadhuta

Attempts to solve the problem that do not include both aspects have failed, he said.

The Food Conference in Rome was ridiculous because people were spending millions of dollars in the name of politics and economy without any results, he said.

In the name of spiritualism, people in India overlook the social and economic problems, he said. "Let us meditate, God will give us food," is a common but useless prayer often heard in India," Avadhuta said.

Several fund raising activities are planned Saturday by the Food Day Coordinating Committee. A fund drive for CARE and Oxfam America will begin at 10 a.m. at the Student Christian Foundation. A yard sale will be held at 302 S. Oakland from 8 a.m. until 4 p.m. Proceeds will go to world hunger relief.

A benefit concert by the band, "Shoal Creek," will be given from 9 to 12 p.m. Saturday in the Student Center. Donations for the concert are $1.

News Roundup

Economy reportedly in 'recovery stage'

NEWTON, Mass. (AP)—The president of Ford Motor Co. said Friday that rising car sales are an indication the economy "is in the first stages of recovery."

Lee A. Iacocca told the Associated Industries of Massachusetts annual meeting, however, that hard-pressed auto makers attempting to come back from a poor year are "faced by proposals for a bewildering assortment of standards and sanctions" in bills before Congress.

"Congress is getting ready to give us manufacturers, dealers and customers the double-whammy," said Iacocca in remarks prepared for delivery to the AIM.

"First, they want to require an enormous increase in fuel economy for all cars by establishing standards," said Iacocca. "This is to be followed by a stiff excise tax that will simply do away with family sedans, whatever their mileage."

Iacocca said auto sales hit a low in November when an annual sales rate of 6.9 million cars was recorded. He said the rate rose to 7.8 million last month.

would have to use in the laboratory to produce cancer in test animals such as mice and rats.

One potential cancer-causing chemical, chloroform, was found in varying amounts in all 79 water supplies. Concentrations ranged from one-tenth of a part per billion to 311 parts per billion, EPA administrator Russell E. Train told a news conference.

Organic chemicals found in water supplies

WASHINGTON (AP)—Organic chemicals, including some known to cause cancer in laboratory animals, have been found in small amounts in the water supplies of 79 cities tested by the Environmental Protection Agency, the EPA said Friday. The agency says more study is needed to determine whether any danger exists for humans.

The concentrations generally found were far lower than those scientists

Humanitarian aid gets Committee approval

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Foreign Relations Committee reluctantly voted $200 million for South Vietnam humanitarian aid Friday, but Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said that without military aid as well South Vietnam will collapse.

At the same time Kissinger said he expects great "human suffering" in Cambodia including assassination of political opponents.

"They will try to eliminate all political opponents," Kissinger told the House International Relations Committee. "That was certainly the experience in South Vietnam."

Harried Cambodians evacuating Phnom Penh

Cambodian civilians were evacuated en masse from Phnom Penh following the capture of the capital by the Communist-led insurgents, diplomatic and other sources reported Friday. The exodus was seen partly as a plan by the Khmer Rouge victors to weed out and purge opponents.

Kissinger also said scattered reports from Cambodia indicate the majority of former Cabinet members are still there and that some have been arrested.

Sources in Bangkok said former Cambodian Premier Long Boret and Brig. Gen. Lon Non, brother of self-exiled President L. Nol, were among those in custody in Phnom Penh.

Kissinger's gloomy forecasts contrasted with Kremlin joy over the Khmer Rouge capture of Phnom Penh. The Soviet leadership sent "ardent congratulations" Friday to Prince Norodom Sihanouk in Peking and to rebel Cambodian leaders for "the glorious victory—the liberation of Phnom Penh."

On Thursday night, Khmer Rouge sound trucks touched off panic in refugee-clogged Phnom Penh by broadcasting warnings of an imminent attack and thousands of civilians headed for the outskirts in a chaotic exodus, diplomatic sources in Bangkok said.

Rail line to continue operation during repairs

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — The Illinois Commerce Commission announced Friday a plan to allow continued operation of commuter rail service between Blue Island and Chicago while the Rock Island Lines repairs unsafe track.

The ICC had ordered the financially troubled railroad Thursday to suspend commuter service as of 12:01 a.m. Monday because of bad track conditions. Some 7,000 riders who commute daily from Chicago's southern suburbs would have been affected.

ICC Chairman Marvin Lieberman told a news conference the commission voted to amend its order after the railroad's trustee under federal bankruptcy proceedings offered to make repairs.

Estimates on the cost of the minimum repairs needed ranged from $35,000 to $60,000, Lieberman said.

The agreement requires the railroad to correct all deficiencies noted by the ICC by 5 p.m. Sunday, April 27.

Transportation study on City Council agenda

The Carbondale City Council will consider formally accepting the Carbondale Area Transportation Study at its regular meeting Monday night.

The study recommends a traffic system for the future which would include relocation of the railroad through the downtown area and construction of a U.S. 51 bypass.

The council will also hear a request by Public Works Director Bill Boyd for temporary boat launch facilities at Cedar Lake. Access for the launch will be via Cedar Creek Road. Boyd recommended that a gate on Cedar Road be open between sunrise and sunset, with parking available on the south side of the road.

At last week's informal meeting, Boyd requested to "have the authority to close the gate and thereby deny further access to the temporary boat launch facility" if regulations for the use of the launch and the road were not being followed.

In other action, the council will formally approve granting $1,200 to the Carbondale Community High School (CCHS) Swing Choir and the CCHS Singers to help finance a trip to Washington, D.C., to participate in the International Music Festival.

The council is also expected to formally approve construction of a four-way stop at the intersection of Old Route 13 and Lewis Lane, and the razing of the old city hall building.

The meeting will be held in the Community Center of the University City complex, 607 E. College St., at 7 p.m.

The weather

Saturday: mostly cloudy, windy and much colder. Chance of showers, high in the middle or upper 50s. Saturday night, fair and colder, low in the middle or upper 30s.

Sunday: mostly sunny and warmer, high in the lower 60s.

Probability of precipitation 30 per cent Saturday.

Fall from grace

Henry Kissinger's recent failure in Mid-East negotiations is just another in a long series of fiascos for the Secretary of State. Kissinger, once the heralded miracle worker who could do no wrong, now finds himself not nearly as indispensable as once thought. His egotistical form of personal diplomacy has brought him glory, fame, and, in the past year, outspoken criticism from politicians, journalists and educators.

Critics are calling for Kissinger's resignation as head of the U.N. Security Council, while some have ventured to claim U.S. foreign diplomacy would be better off if Kissinger were not Secretary of State.

Although Kissinger has remained relatively clear of the Watergate scandals, his public credibility has been damaged nonetheless. At his confirmation hearings in 1973, Kissinger denied initiating wiretapping efforts. Evidence received by the House Judiciary Committee indicated that he was not telling the complete truth.

Kissinger further antagonized Congress by "doubletalking" probes of CIA operations in overthrowing the Salvador Allende government in Chile. Kissinger is chairman of the "40 Committee," the supersecret group that authorizes all clandestine operations of the CIA. Yet he told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee that the "CIA had nothing to do with the coup."

Further adverse Congressional reaction to Kissinger was generated by the Secretary's handling of the Cyprus crisis. He failed to act against the Greek colonels when they staged a coup to overthrow Makarios' Cypriot government, and subsequently failed to act against Turkey when its invasion force, armed with U.S. weapons, occupied almost half of the island. In October, 1974, Congress cut off further assistance to Turkey, overriding the appeals of Kissinger and President Ford.

Kissinger's detente policy with Russia is another point of severe criticism. Critics believe the United States is paying an unnecessarily high price to promote an unstable, and possibly temporary, detente with Russia.

The sale of American technology to the Soviets is criticized on the basis that the United States is helping the Russians while getting little in return.

Kissinger's obsession with detente has brought resentment from Europeans. There is a growing feeling among European diplomats that Kissinger attaches greater importance to promoting detente with Russia than to preserving the Atlantic Alliance.

Kissinger publicly admitted that international economics is an area in which he is particularly knowledgeable. In spite of this, Kissinger attempted to produce his own economic "miracle." In mid-February he revealed an economic proposal which is called the "Catch-23" of the oil business. The idea is that the West will need to develop vast new sources of energy to escape the oil cartel. The catch is that production of the new energy may lead to an oil glut and reduce its price, simultaneously undercutting the price of the new energy.

Kissinger's proposal is viewed with skepticism both at home and abroad. Europeans feel that Kissinger is using the energy problem to consolidate its leadership over the Western world. At home, Kissinger's plan is openly discounted as "an option among many options."

It seems amazing that Kissinger is still allowed to almost single-handedly carry out American diplomatic relations. Removal of Kissinger as Secretary of State would only create the problem of finding an adequate replacement.

Kappa Karnival has kome and 12,000 visitors prove it

By Dave Iбата

Building 112 on Greek Row blazes with lights, music and endless partying this rambunctious weekend in Carbondale. A crowd of 12,000 flocks to this academic hamlet in the armpit of America.

The Kappa's time has come.

Joseph "Coco" Sanders anticipated on the eve of Kappa's "Krimson Karavan '75" a long, roaring weekend of celebration. "We're already up for the Karnival," the Karnival chairman said. His eyes glowed. "We've been up since the first day of April. Seems like time's running so slow for us now because we've waited for it. We've worked on this year's Karnival since last June."

This year's Karnival promises to be the biggest in its 24-year history. The thought of a city of 28,000 inundated with strangers from all parts of the United States like New Orleans at Mardi Gras triggers irrational fear among white students and townspeople. While whites secure double-bolts on front doors or stuff suitcases like anxious homeowners fleeing a hurricane, the Kappas enter a frenzy of activity.

"We work -- it's like staying up four days in a row," Sanders explained. "We never get any sleep because there's always something going on. Come Sunday, we sleep 'till Tuesday. Everyone sleeps straight through Monday -- they never do see daylight."

A junior in recreation and member of Kappa Alpha Psi's SIU chapter, Sanders talked in a low, husky voice edged with expectation. He wore mostly crimson, the official color of Kappa and namesake for this year's festivities. A crotch patch warning, "What you see is what you get" pulled at the light-crimson material of his pants; as he talked he rolled a and unrolled the sleeve of his crimson-on-white sweater. A Kappa beachcomber's hat covered his head, and a medalion of the Virgin Mary swung from his neck.

Sanders described the history of Kappa at SIU: founded in 1950, SIU's chapter initiated the Karnival originally as a house party. It gained popularity, and moved its extravaganza to the Carbondale Armory on Oakland Street. Even larger crowds forced a move in the '60s a move to the SIU Arena, the focus of this year's events. By 1980 Kappa Karnival may seek even larger facilities to accommodate crowds of up to 17,000.

"That's to be thought about within the next five years," Sanders said. He laughed. "We might end up in the foot ball stadium, or the Arena parking lot -- an outside Karnival."

More high schoolers now attend Kappa, in addition to fraternity brothers and little sisters from other cities, Sanders said. "We're thinking about having a Summer Karnival, he continued. "If it keeps going like this, we're thinking about having one in Chicago at McCormick Place."

The University has cooperated well with the Kappas, Sanders said. "I think they understand our Karnival better than they understand SIU students," he observed. "Everytime we go see about something --" He snapped his fingers. "I guess we go about the right way of seeing them."

Other Greeks and city businesses have taken out Arena booths at the Karnival. More white persons are expected to attend the Karnival this year. "No discrimination against anyone," Sanders stated flatly. "This is a social event, a college event for everyone to enjoy."

The Kappas have prepared safeguards against trouble: in anticipation of crowds. "We pour security out to everyone," Sanders said. "We'd hate to see people robbed for money. We have all people escorted by police, through the woods, or anyplace where someone might be raped or robbed." Kappas will patrol with police to keep the peace, Sanders said. "SIU and Carbondale aren't that big."

Sanders responded to white fears: "All we can do is try to control the black, or white, or whoever it is who causes trouble." He toyed with a keychain and enunciated carefully. "Whoever causes trouble -- it is necessary for him to be in jail." Fears will end, Sanders added, "if (whites) come out and contribute their voluntary actions and help out in the Karnival, and be in attendance and enjoy Karnival, like everyone else. Just like Riverview was, in Chicago."

"We're going to enjoy it, we're going to be proud of it and we're all going to hold our heads up high and keep our pride, because we feel Kappa Alpha Psi is the best fraternity," Sanders said with the directness of a man stating an absolute fact.

He grinned. "We have a saying: 'We're always number one, and having a bunch of fun.'"

Trying to harness and ride bucking and overenergetic calves was part of the Block and Bridle Club's activities earlier this month. Students, faculty and staff from SIU and other schools were participants in the calf scrambling. The competitive sport begins with a three-person team trying to harness a wild calf. Once the harness is on the animal, the team pushes n' pulls the calf out of the pen (or vice-versa) and leads it into a chalk ring. Here, one of the team members mounts the calf and rides it between two bales of hay. The team with the lowest time wins the event.

(Bottom and working counter-clockwise) a team member tries to persuade the bucking calf into the chalk ring. When the stubborn animal is finally led into the ring, its rider has to further persuade it to go between the bales of hay. Stubbornness seems to be the calves' general trait as another person and its animal differ in opinion. And sometimes the calf's ideas come first as this rider found out the hard way.

'Janis' film had its start in a frozen food locker

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Five years ago, a Canadian film maker named F. R. "Budge" Crawley had a brief encounter with Janis Joplin, who was roaring through Canada on a railroad tour with a troupe of rock artists.

Although his son is a guitarist, Budge Crawley's only concept of rock was "electric guitars and loud." He knows better now.

He has spent three years producing "Janis," a film biography of the ill-starred singer he met briefly before she walked onto a Toronto stage.

It all started because of a collection of undeveloped 16 mm film resting in a frozen food locker.

"A cameraman had shot film of the Festival Express Train Tour in 1970 that had included Joplin as well as a number of rock groups," Crawley recounted.

"He had filmed almost all the performances, but very little on the train itself.

"That was unfortunate, because the train could have produced some very colorful footage. For instance, the Royal Mounted Police rode on the train, and at every stop the Mounties prevented the local police from coming on board.

That was prudent, because the cars were blue with marijuana smoke, of course.

"The cameraman had financial difficulties and never even developed the film. I paid off the debts and looked at the film. The Joplin footage was the only good part, and there was only 25 minutes of it that was usable. Then I started looking around the world for enough film to make a feature."

Crawley talked with the singer's parents, the Seth Joplins of Port Arthur, Tex., and they allowed him to go ahead, subject to their final approval of the film. The producer's search took him to London, Paris, Munich, Copenhagen and Stockholm, where Miss Joplin had appeared.

Happily, a German film crew had made a 50-minute documentary of her tour and half of it was usable.

Other sources included the movie "Monterey Pop," interviews on the Dick Cavett Show, outtakes from the "Woodstock" movie, an interview on KQED, the San Francisco public television station.

"There were 10 sources of footage in all, and I ended up with 70 pounds of legal agreements," said Crawley. "Getting clearances from the musicians was an enormous job. Also from the still photographers — we have a montage of stills at the end of the picture."

Then came the most important clearance of all — Miss Joplin's parents. Since they retained ownership of her compositions, they helped veto power over the picture. "I screened the picture in their living room," Crawley recalled. "Mr. Joplin was broken up by seeing Janis. Her passing is still a very emotional thing to the family. But they approved of the film."

After three years of being close to the Joplin legend, Crawley has formed his own opinion of her: "She was an enigmatic woman. I think she could have been a great actress; she had that panache that makes stars.

Joplin died in Los Angeles Oct. 4, 1970, from what the coroner termed an accidental overdose of heroin.

SIU employees earn $56 million in '74

SIU-Carbondale employees earned nearly $56 million last year and a good chunk of those earnings went back to hometowns in the 28 southernmost counties.

The SIU-C payroll for 1974 came to $55,674,077 and covered 13,713 employees in all categories. Main ones are faculty members and assistants, Civil Service workers, student workers, administrators, and teacher-training supervisors in school classrooms throughout the state.

A zip-code breakdown by the SIU-C Information Processing Center shows that paychecks went to persons living all over Illinois and several other states, but most of the non-regional entries are students.

More than half of all employees live in Jackson County and accounted for $37,887,949 of the 1974 gross earnings. Of those, a total of 5,430 employees listed Carbondale as their home town. They earned nearly $31,320,000 last year, according to the computer survey.

Other seven- and six-figure payroll communities in the area included Murphysboro ($4,352,003), Carterville ($2,387,239), Makanda ($1,256,082), Marion ($1,248,796), Herrin ($830,629), Cobden ($821,055), Anna ($475,371), De Soto ($436,487), West Frankfort ($339,865), Du Quoin ($335,248), Johnston City ($273,465), Hurst ($271,791), Benton ($255,995), Elkhart ($236,526), Cambria ($216,473), Harrisburg ($183,140), Jonesboro ($139,415), Royallton ($119,864), Zeigler ($119,751) and Goreville ($101,759).

By far the largest community represented on the payroll outside of Southern Illinois is Springfield, site of the SIU-C School of Medicine clinical campus.

The survey showed earnings of $3,416,689 paid to 474 Springfield residents.

Carbondale senior citizens provide variety of programs

The Carbondale Senior Citizen's Council, in its second year of operation, is doing quite well and has a lot of participation in its activities, said Ginger McNeerney, assistant director of the program.

The Senior Citizens Council provides a wide variety of activities, hot lunches and transportation. A trip to the St. Louis Museum of Art is scheduled for April 24. Twenty paintings were provided by the Illinois Arts Council for the senior citizens to study. When the class is over, the paintings may be rented to hang in their homes.

Classes in candlemaking, arts and crafts and quilting are also available for the senior citizens. These classes average around 10 to 15 people, Pegg Malone, program coordinator said.

The council has two vans which take about 40 people a day where they want and need to go in Carbondale or to the Murphysboro Courthouse. Vans run from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. five days a week for a small donation. The Senior Citizens Council also puts out 1,800 newsletters a month.

Credit session for farmers set for University April 26

Effects of the energy situation, land values and the economic outlook on farm lending and farm financing will be emphasized at the 18th annual Farm Credit Workshop at SIU April 26.

Sessions, beginning with registration at 9:30 a.m., will be in the Student Center Auditorium.

Dale Butz, executive director of commodities for the Illinois Agricultural Association, Bloomington, will address the luncheon session in the Student Center.

"Economic Prospects for 1975 and Beyond" will be the topic for opening speaker Walter J. Willis, SIU farm marketing specialist. Speakers include: William McD. Herr, SIU professor of agricultural industries. Don Handy, executive director of the Illinois Resources Committee, Springfield; Gordon L. Langford, SIU-C associate professor of agricultural industries; Neil Harl, Iowa State University economics professor; M.C. Huelskoetter, vice-president of the St. Louis Federal Intermediate Credit Bank and Donald Lybecker, SIU assistant professor of agricultural economics. The Farm Credit Workshop is sponsored jointly by the SIU Agricultural Industries Department, School of Agriculture and Division of Continuing Education.

Nurses slate audit sessions at SIU, Olney

Auditing workshops for nurses will be held Friday at the Student Center and Thursday, May 1, at Olney Central College.

The workshops will run from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Registration will be held at 8 a.m. and the fee is $4.

Improving the quality of patient care through better nursing-auditing procedures will be the theme of both workshops. Participants will be encouraged to practice with sample audit exercises.

Jean Carter of St. Louis University School of Nursing, will discuss auditing procedures recommended by the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals.

More information is available from the SIU Division of Continuing Education.

Film set Sunday on East Campus

The East Campus Programming Board will present the movie "Five Easy Pieces" at 8 and 10:30 p.m. Sunday in the field in back of Schneider Hall.

In case of inclement weather (or if the muddy field does not dry by Sunday afternoon) the movie will be moved to Trueblood Hall.

Admission is free with an East Campus meal ticket.

Vietnamese wives urge U.S. to allow family immigrations

CHICAGO (AP) — "If you wake up in the middle of the night, your wife is writing another letter or just crying," said Albert Karel.

Karel, a 33-year-old Chicago lawyer, is one of the 15,000 Americans with Vietnamese wives living in this country.

What prompts the midnight letters and tears is the uncertainty and fear of what's happening to the wives' close relatives still in Vietnam.

"These are their mothers and fathers and brothers and sisters who are dying," Karel said at a news conference Monday.

Karel's wife, Françoise, 36, is one of a small but growing number of Vietnamese spouses and friends who in the last two weeks have found themselves, but not their congressmen and government officials in a frantic effort to get their relatives out.

She has her mother and two brothers in Saigon. The brothers are in the South Vietnamese army. Three other brothers have been killed. Mrs. Karel and about 300 other persons calling themselves the Vietnamese-American Crisis Committee want a suspension of normal immigration procedures to allow into this country relatives and others believed to be in danger.

They estimate that there are 75,000 to 100,000 close relatives in Vietnam.

"There are a lot of reports in the press about getting 200,000 Vietnam nationals out of Vietnam," said John Hollister, whose wife, Hong, has seven brothers and sisters and her mother at home.

"But," Hollister said, "at no time has anyone mentioned relatives of our wives."

The persons the government is aiming to get out, he said, are American citizens and Vietnamese who cooperated with the Americans.

Some of the relatives are those who would be evacuated because they cooperated, Hollister said, but there's no telling how many more there are.

"What we want is simply this. If there's going to be any evacuation, we want our wives' relatives among those offered a chance to leave," Hollister said.

One of the problems, he said, is that the United States government believes it can't publicly commit itself to evacuating relatives, because if it does it signals abandonment of South Vietnam.

Another problem, he said, is that even if the United States says it will admit the relatives, there's doubt Saigon will let them go.

"Frankly," he said, "I'm not very hopeful anybody is going to get out." Some of the relatives and spouses in this country are convinced there will be many killings of Vietnamese who had ties to Americans.

Hollister said he doubts this, but, he said, "At the very least they won't be trusted and they'll be condemned to a second class citizenship."

City plans kindergarten registration

Pre-registration for children entering kindergarten this fall has been set for May 2. Laurence Martin, superintendent of the Carbondale elementary school board, said it is important that parents attend a conference with the kindergarten teacher in the school the child will attend during the 1975-76 school year.

Kindergarten teachers will be in their rooms to hold conferences and pre-register children. Kindergarten will not be in session that day.

Lakeland, Springmore, Thomas and Winkler primary schools will have conferences and pre-registration from 8:20 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

To enroll the child must be five years old before Dec. 1, present a birth certificate, have a medical and dental examination and reside in district No. 95.

Blue Angels set local appearance

The U.S. Navy's Precision Flight Team, The Blue Angels will be the featured performers at the Southern Illinois Airport's 25th Anniversary Open House to be held on June 14 and 15.

Assistant Airport Manager Ron

Kelley, who is in charge of planning for the event, said he is busy arranging attractions to supplement the performance of The Blue Angels.

The 29-year-old flight team gives low level demonstrations of flight maneuvers taught to U.S. military flyers. They have performed before over 122 million spectators.

Kelley said he hopes to secure three or four World War II aircraft for display along with some earlier vintage airplanes. The ultimate objective would be to present an "evolution of flight" display.

Snoopy and His Flying Doghouse, a model airplane exhibit from St. Louis, has also been booked.

Plans are being formulated for other events to take place during the celebration.

Christian Scientist sets talk

Charles W. Ferris, Christian Science lecturer and teacher from Minneapolis, will give a lecture entitled, "What is Your Life-Style," 8 p.m. Monday in Ballroom A of the Student Center.

A native of New Jersey, Ferris graduated from the University of Chicago. He entered the healing ministry of Christian Science in 1953 and became a Christian Science teacher eight years later.

The lecture will deal with insights into the basis of a productive life-style and show how "moment-by-moment decisions determine what your life pattern will be."

The presentation is sponsored by Christian Science College Organization.

Walk-a-thon will benefit local school

Archway, a non-profit school for multi-handicapped and mentally retarded children, is sponsoring a 10-mile walk-a-thon starting 8 a.m. April 26.

Proceeds will be used to purchase equipment and educational tools for the school on Tower Road in Carbondale, said George Lombardi, executive director of the school.

The walkers will begin at the Ramada Inn in Carbondale, proceed north on New Era Road to Southern Illinois Airport, turn south to Illinois Route 13 where they will turn around and return to the motel.

Child safety workshop set for next week

A workshop on safety and first aid for children will be held Wednesday in the community room at Evergreen Terrace, Julia Muller, coordinator of West Campus said.

Sponsored by Rainbow's End, the preschool program at Evergreen Terrace, the program will include an informal talk on how to avoid accidents and how to take care of a child who has been involved in an accident. Demonstrations will also be presented.

Dale Rützel, associate professor of health education will present the program.

Vehicle checks by state police termed routine

Illinois state police ran several equipment checks on vehicles
Friday morning at the intersection of Lincoln Drive and U.S. 51.
Trooper John Nordin of State
Police District 13 headquarters said the checks were routine procedures carried out during the year.
He said the inspections, which include vehicle registrations, usually are increased in warm weather when highway conditions are in good shape.

Bifocal or single vision contact lenses can be fitted now with the aid of a computer.
Bifocal lens has no segment or line to distort the vision and looks like a single vision lens.

With the use of a PhotoElectric Keratometer called PEK Mark III, a photograph of the eye is made. The photo, along with the prescription is sent to the Visual Data Center in Chicago where they are put into a computer. The computer calculates the structure size, tear layer and the RX required.

The advantage of the lens is usually more comfort and longer initial wearing time.

Fixed costs soaring for nation's farmers

WASHINGTON (AP) — No single factor, except weather, plays a more critical role in today's agriculture than the fixed costs farmers have to face regardless of how much they produce.

Government studies show that costs for purchases by farmers continue to rise, accelerated in recent years by the general inflation of the economy and the energy crunch.

Bluntly put, farmers are much less independent today than they were a few years ago and probably will grow more reliant on things they have to buy to stay in business.

The basic trend has existed for a century as the country becomes more industrialized and less agrarian.

An agriculture department survey shows that in 1973, a record year for net farm income, the nation's food and fiber system — the entire pipeline from farms to consumers — produced goods worth $243.6 billion.

Of that amount, the value of products at the consumer level, farmers grossed about $88.6 billion from the sale of crops and livestock in 1973. It cost them $65.9 billion in expenses to operate that year.

Thus, based on the 1973 figures, farmers lately have been spending about three-fourths of what they take in from cash sales just to pay their bills.

The report illustrates — without direct references — some of the reasons recently offered in Congress for support of new farm legislation, described by supporters as an emergency measure to help farmers meet rising production costs in the face of lower prices for what they produce.

Former Milwaukee mayor predicts socialist America

CHICAGO (AP) — Frank Zeidler, sees America creeping toward socialism and he likes what he sees.

"I expect to see a socialist evolution," Zeidler says. "Not in the sense of a takeover, the fall of a government, but socialist-minded senators. People who will pick up socialist programs."

Zeidler, 62, was one of the few major Socialist party officeholders in the United States. He was mayor of Milwaukee from 1948 to 1960.

Today, he spends much of his time in drafty, half-empty meeting halls, trying somehow to revitalize a party that most historians agree was killed as a mass movement in the U.S. by World War I.

In his white shirt, narrow tie and narrow lapels, Zeidler looks more like the Milwaukee land surveyor he was 40 years ago than the crusader he is today. His viewpoint seems hardly extreme compared to that of some 1970's radicals.

"I think Karl Marx was a disaster for the labor movement," he told an interviewer in Chicago recently.

Zeidler says he is the leader of what remains of the party of Eugene V. Debs and Normal Thomas. But the claim is in dispute.

The Socialist party has splintered into various factions, some of its members seeking to work quietly to gain influence in the AFL-CIO and Democratic party.

"I don't feel that Socialists can take over the Democratic party from the inside, and even if they could, they shouldn't," Zeidler says. "It is a Trojan Horse policy."

But Zeidler has no blueprint for taking power.

"How do Socialists take power?"

Forestry Club slates contest on Saturday

Existing records in old-fashioned forestry skills, from log rolling to tobacco spitting, will be assaulted Saturday when the Forestry Club sponsors their annual spring Jubilee contests.

Activities will begin at 9 a. m. at the former Upper Forty Club area near the SIU arboretum on Giant City Blacktop road about seven miles southeast of Carbondale. Interested persons are invited to join the fun, according to Jerry Bauer, Forestry Club president.

The schedule of events includes dendrology, match spitting, one- and two-man crosscut sawing, two-man log rolling, speed chopping, tobacco spitting, ball tossing, traversing and other forestry skills.

Violet Society to meet in May

The Spring Convention and Judging Show of the Illinois African Violet Society will be held May 3 and 4 at the Ramada Inn in Peoria.

The public sessions will be held from 2:30 p.m. to 9 p.m. May 3 and from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. May 4. The name of the show is "Along the Violet Trail," and it is hosted by the Metropolitan African Violet Society of Peoria.

he says. "By accident. By those circumstances that were unforeseen by anybody."

"Unlike revolutionaries who long for a worsening of the economic situation, Zeidler hopes it will improve."

"My fear is that the depression will get out of hand," he says. "Then the ball is loose on the field for anybody to grab. We want an evolution — with the least possible anguish to people."

However, the overthrow of the constitutionally elected government of Socialist Salvador Allende in Chile weighs on Zeidler. He and other socialists wonder if there ever can be a peaceful road to power for them.

"It's a severe blow to that theory," Zeidler says. "We haven't abandoned that theory, but if the situation in Chile isn't misread."

"I have a feeling that if we ever got close to power in this country there would be an attempt to kill us off," he adds.

"Farm dependency on purchased inputs is growing, up 20 per cent since 1950," said a spokesman for the department's Economic Research Service. "Thus, recent lags in supplies and sharply higher prices for fuel and fertilizer have affected farmers critically."

The agency's study, "The Food and Fiber System — How It Works," is a newly published examination of farm input costs, the investment required to get food and fiber to consumers and the rising dependence of agriculture on items and services produced by other people.

Single copies of the 47-page report can be obtained free of charge from the Economic Research Service Information Office, USDA, Washington, D.C. 20250.

Briefly, the House and Senate-passed bills would boost government price supports and target prices for cotton, wheat and livestock feed grains, set a support price for soybeans and require higher milk supports for dairy farmers.

The Senate version includes House bill. Conferees from the two bodies will soon get together after Congress reconvenes this week to work out differences. The Ford administration opposed the two bills and there is some indication of a presidential veto if the package is not made more palatable to the White House.

Meantime, because of rising fixed costs — the inputs described in the new USDA study report — net farm income is expected to plummet this year to around $20 billion from $27.2 billion in 1974. The 1974 net farm income was down from 1973's record of $32.2 billion.

Physical Plant workers begin mowing and seeding

If you're not looking forward to mowing your lawn this summer, think of the Physical Plant maintenance crews that started mowing the SIU grounds this week.

In front of them are 500 acres of grounds, fields and ditches that must be mowed continuously from spring to fall using 15 riding lawnmowers, 24 hand-pushed mowers, two tractor-pulled "batwings," and a heavy weed cutter.

Ralph Carter, superintendent of grounds, said that during the peak growing periods in the spring, as many as 10 riding lawnmowers are out at once. The gasoline used in a mowing season averages out to 50 gallons per day.

In Carter's eyes, the biggest problem in mowing is the students. "The crews have to stop to pick up paper, cans, and bottles they leave in the path of the mower," he said, adding that the problem is worse in the housing areas.

The mowers usually move in teams of six. Three riding lawnmowers get the open spaces while three of the hand-pushed mowers trim the edges.

Carter said that it would take a week for a single worker to mow an area like Small Group Housing while a crew can do it in a day and a half.

Another task that spring brings to the Physical Plant is planting grass in barren patches of ground left by construction or repairs over the winter.

Carter said the ground by three Communications Building parking lots is being reseeded. It was torn up during the paving of the lots.

A newly-constructed lot east of highway 51 is also being landscaped. A lot west of General Classrooms is being reseeded because it didn't "take" last year.

Water from 79 cities have organic chemicals

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—Two Illinois cities—Chicago and Clinton were among 79 cities nationwide whose water supplies were found to contain organic chemicals, state environmental officials said Friday.

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency was ordered last November to survey cities throughout the country after Congress passed and President Ford signed the Safe Drinking Water Act.

Eighty cities were surveyed, but the water from one of them, Hopewell, Va., has not yet been analyzed, federal EPA officials said.

Some of the chemicals found have been shown to cause cancer in laboratory animals, but only in much larger amounts than those found in the drinking water supplies.

"The fact that organic substances were found in the water should not be surprising," said Ira Markwood, division manager of public water supplies for the Illinois EPA. "The question is the type and the amount."

"There is definitely no cause for alarm," he said in an interview. "It is important that we find out whether or not substances are dangerous and that we view it with concern and don't just sweep it under the rug."

Markwood likened the quantity of chemicals found to "a drop of water in a whole tank car full of water."

Chicago was selected for the survey because it uses water from Lake Michigan and has an excellent treatment system, Markwood said.

Clinton, located south of Bloomington in DeWitt County, was picked for the survey because it gets water from deep wells, Markwood said.

Break-in nets $3 in change for burglars

Burglars netted about $3 in change and did $800 damage to three vending machines at Carbondale Community High School Thursday night, Arthur Black, school principal, said.

Black said the burglars entered through a window and damaged the machines owned by Merrimac Vending of Marion. He reported the incident to police at 7 a.m. Friday. Police presently have no suspects.

Magazine program cites local students

Two sixth grade students from Brush Elementary School in Carbondale have had their original magazines judged outstanding by the Illinois Office of Education, according to their teacher, Smelia Zunich.

Denny McGowan and Jem Hudgins each created a magazine complete with articles, advertising and illustrations.

Children throughout Illinois compete in the program. The boys worked seven weeks on their magazines. Both are in the accelerated creative language arts program in the school.

sponsored by the Egyptian Electric Cooperative Association (EECA).

A quiz will be held Monday, April 28, at the EECA office in Murphysboro. The two winners will be announced after the quiz is completed. All 12 juniors in the semifinal round will receive a guided tour of Springfield on May 7.

Migrant co-op seeks markets

The Illinois Migrant Council (IMC) is developing a cooperative with the migrant farmers of Jackson, Pulaski, Alexander and Williamson counties in Southern Illinois.

Mike San Filippo, a graduate student in the Community Development Department, is assisting the IMC in finding new markets for the migrants' crops.

"We are developing new markets for their produce," said San Filippo.

"and hope to have an openair market in the area by this summer."

San Filippo said migrants have been sending their produce to St. Louis and the openair market would help cut down on the transportation costs. San Filippo said the coop would give the area fresh produce at a lower price.

San Filippo said funds to operate the coop and the openair market are being provided by private and public institutions.

Mining degrees to be offered

Students who have completed associate degree programs in mining technology at two-year colleges can earn a bachelor's degree in industrial technology with concentration in mining technology at SIU.

The School of Engineering and Technology will begin a program next fall that features courses in such related areas as coal analysis, coal mining problems, labor relations, materials handling, surveying, motion and time study, quality control and underground and surface mining technology.

"The curriculum is primarily designed to provide a capstone of subject matter for those students completing programs in mining technology or related areas at community colleges or technical institutes," said E. Leon Dunning, industrial technology department chairman.

"In general, the baccalaureate degree can be obtained in two years after completing an associate degree in mining technology or a related field."

Specific course requirements are dependent upon individual students' work experience, Dunning added.

Regional wheelchair track meet here

By Peggy Sagona
Student Writer

A regional track and field meet for the physically disabled has been proposed by Ray Clark, president of the wheelchair athletics at SIU and accepted by Bruce Swinburne, vice-president of student affairs.

The meet scheduled for April 24-26 is for members of the National Wheelchair Athletic Association (NWAA) and is sponsored by the SIU Squids wheelchair athletes along with the men's and women's physical education and intramural departments.

"The purpose of the meet is first to help those individuals qualify for national competition and also to provide an active recreational outlet for those involved," said Clark.

"Little Egypt Regional Wheelchair Games" is the title of the event, and members from all over the Midwest will be competing at SIU to qualify for the nationals. They will be held at Champaign-Urbana and sponsored by the University of Illinois.

For 17 years, the nationals have been held in New York, but the growing interest and participation in wheelchair sports has been the tool in bringing about geographical diversity to the event.

The NWAA was founded in 1958 to organize and govern wheelchair sports (other than basketball and bowling) in the United States.

This year will be the first time a youth division has been included in a regional track and field meet of this kind. The youth division includes those persons who are 8 to 15 years old. The adult division includes those who are 15 and older.

Three committees have been formed to bring into play the proposal by Clark. They are a games committee, headed by Pete Carroll of the men's physical education department; a finance and public relations committee, headed by Richard DeAngelis of the Student Life Office, and a medical committee, consisting of a doctor from the health service and persons from physical therapy.

Persons qualified to participate were contacted individually by letter in January 1975 to encourage their participation.

An entry form and a form letter were sent out Feb. 1.

As a tradition, SIU will finance half of the cost required for the incoming participants. The university will donate the facilities for the meet.

First, second and third place medals will be awarded for each event in each class. Trophies will be awarded for all-around male and female athletes in each class. Winners will be determined by number of points.

Vincent Birchler, a representative of the 58th district; Ken Buzbee, state senator; Swinburne, and Will Travelstead, assistant dean for student life will be among the guests to be present at the awards banquet Saturday night beginning at 7 p.m. at the Holiday Inn in Carbondale.

Daily Egyptian Sports

A youth banquet will be held in the Student Center Saturday at noon.

"This occasion will serve as an educational facility and is an open door laboratory," said DeAngelis.

"This school has some of the best facilities for disabled people than anywhere in the nation," he added. "We are also experiencing generous support from the faculty."

The events for the meet are as follows:

Thursday: a coaches meeting at the Holiday Inn from 7 to 10 p.m.

Friday: Archery from 10 a.m. to noon, pentathlon archery from 1 to 3 p.m., bowling at the Student Center from 1 to 3 p.m., billiards at the Student Center at 4 p.m., swimming (regular and pentathlon) at Pulliam Pool from 6 to 10 p.m.

Saturday: field events (all classes) at the tennis court area from 8:30 a.m. to noon, weight lifting and table tennis at 9 a.m.; track for men in Classes IA, IB and from 11:40 to 1 p.m.; table tennis at 1:15 p.m.; Slalom Classes IA, IB and IC for both men and women at 1:15 p.m.; slalom Classes II and III for men and women at 1:45 p.m.; slalom Classes IV and V for men and women at 2:15 p.m.; 440-yard dash for men and women at 2:30 p.m.; 880-yard dash for men and women at 2:45 p.m.; mile run for male and female at 3 p.m.; 5-mile steeple chase at 4 p.m.; happy hour at 7 p.m.; and dinner and awards banquet at 7:30 p.m.

The same times are scheduled for the youth divisions in swimming, bowling, billiards and archery events. Track and field meets will be Thursday.

The track events will be at the stadium. Field events are set for the SIU Arena fields, slalom events at the back parking lot of SIU Arena; bowling, billiards and table tennis on the first floor of the Student Center.

Swimming and weightlifting will be at Pulliam Hall.

Newman celebrates return with a 'slam'

A little breather never hurt anyone—even in the middle of a hot spell.

And it certainly did Bert Newman no harm.

The Salukis' designated hitter, hitting 296 before an injury sidelined him, came back with a bang Friday afternoon at Indiana State.

He celebrated his return to the Saluk lineup with a grand slam homer—his first homer of the year—as SIU romped to a 20-4, seven-inning win.

Newman, who was hit in the mouth by his own foul last weekend, had to share the spotlight, though, with freshman rightfielder George Vukovich, who hit for the cycle, while driving in five runs. Vukovich also added an extra single for five hits.

Firstbaseman Frank Hunsaker, the team's leading hitter, also got in on the fun. He entered the game with a .410 average and upped it some more with three hits.

Relay third

For the ninth straight year, it has rained on the Kansas Relays, and the light rain and 49-degree temperature in Lawrence, Kan., have added to the woes of the depressed SIU track squad.

Friday, the sprint medley relay team of Joe Laws, Earl Bigelow, Lonnie Brown and Gary Mandehr finished third behind winner Oklahoma, due only to Brown's .464 quarter-mile. After poor handoffs on the first two legs, Brown took the baton in sixth place and gave it to Mandehr in third.

Saluki George Haley failed to qualify for the finals in the intermediate hurdles, and Brown failed to qualify for the high hurdles.

The Salukis iced the contest with eight runs in the top of the first, before Jim Adkins even went to the mound. They added three more in the top of the second, before heavy rains delayed the game.

When play resumed, the visitors upped the lead to 15-1 after four innings, then waited for a final five-run outburst in the seventh.

Adkins gave way to southpaw senior Bob Leja in the second inning after the Salukis mounted their big lead. Adkins probably will be used in one of Sunday's two games at SIU-Edwardsville.

Leja picked up the win, while Sycamore starter Terry Fox was the victim of the first inning explosion and took the loss.

The Salukis' record now stands at 21-7-1, including wins in 19 of their last 20 outings. Indiana State is now 10-13.

The two teams will go at it again Saturday afternoon in a doubleheader. Two out of the trio of Dewey Robinson, Tim Verpaele and Bill Dunning figure to start.

Push planned

Members of the National Paraplegic Foundation are planning a push for Archway School for Handicapped Children in conjunction with a walk-athon to be held April 25.

The push will be run Sunday, due to a schedule conflict among wheelchair athletes involved in the Little Egypt Wheelchair Games April 24-26.

The push will be 10 miles long, beginning at the Carbondale Ramada Inn at 8 a.m.
