COE cuts summer teacher program

By Christy Gutowski
General Assignment Writer

Budgetary cuts made earlier in the semester have resulted in the end of the SIUC Renewal Institute, a program designed to help teachers upgrade their skills in areas such as math, science and writing.

The decision to cut the program was made in January because of the 3-percent budget cut for state operations endorsed by the Illinois General Assembly.

The institute, which provided graduate level courses designed only for practicing educators, was offered through the College of Education.

The program's functions will end in May, after growing from its original 58 teacher participants to an overwhelming 700 teachers in the last 7 years, said Donald Beggs, the program's director.

The success of the Renewal Institute is a result of the quality of teachers involved in the program, he said.

"The people who have taught for the program did a magnificent job," he said. "If they hadn't been so good, then the program would not have been as successful as it was."

The elimination of the institute reduced the College of Education's budget by $180,000, said Donald Beggs, dean of the College of Education.

"It was such a credited program but in times of financial rescissions, colleges and universities have to make tough decisions," he said.

"But this is not a new round of cuts," he said.

The 3-percent cut for state agencies made in January, left the department with only three options.

Officials in the College of Education had to make a decision to either break contracts, reduce summer programs or eliminate the institute.

"In reality, we're not going to break contracts," he said. "And our mission is to be responsible for academic programs for students on campus."

"We were delivering a service to the area's teachers," Beggs said. "It was not a degree program."

Despite the rain, many people gathered atop Bald Knob Mountain under umbrellas for the 56th annual Easter Sunrise Service, above. About 300 people came out in the rain Sunday morning to worship the resurrection of Jesus Christ. Rain reduces crowd size for service at Bald Knob

By Casey Hampton
General Assignment Writer

Fog engulfed the Cross of Peace atop Bald Knob Mountain and rain caused fewer people to gather for Easter sunrise service, but the spirits of those in attendance were anything but dampened.

About 300 people gathered near the cross Sunday to worship the resurrection of Christ at the 56th Easter Sunrise Service at Bald Knob.

The crowd moved indoors and filled the Welcome Center because of the weather, but some people had to stand outside to be part of the service, said Lorene Lingle, secretary of the Bald Knob Cross of Peace Board.

"Some people stood outside with their raincoats and umbrellas, but nobody left during the entire service," she said.

Worshippers come to Bald Knob to await the sunrise in the pre-dawn air because the atmosphere is different than Drew Hendricks, president of SIU NORML, wore a T-shirt Friday afternoon that read "God doesn't make mistakes - End hemp prohibition," suggesting a naturalistic philosophy at the NORML marijuana taxation rally.

"What we're pressing for is taxation of marijuana, just like taxes on alcoholic beverages," said Hendricks. "The way to end the war on drugs is to quit arresting people for smoking pot."

Clean up day nets more than 5 tons of garbage in city

By Teri Lynn Carlock
City Writer

A massive spring cleaning swept through the city Saturday as residents worked together for Carbondale Clean and Green's fifth annual Spring Clean Up Day.

About 395 people gathered at Turley Park to help collect trash throughout Carbondale. More than 10,200 pounds of garbage were collected by representatives from 35 different groups and assorted individuals.

Pi Kappa Alpha won first place in the category of a large University group by collecting 2,419 pounds—more than a ton of trash. This was the third year in a row the fraternity won first place in the event.

Saluki sophomore golfer Lieschen Eller chips a ball out of the sand traps at the Jackson County Country Club. Eller and the rest of the women's golf team played a

SIUC's Van Gilder, weather rain on Panthers' win hopes

By Scott Wuerz
Sports Writer

After a third consecutive loss by the baseball Salukis Thursday, SIUC baseball coach Sam Riggleman said he was unsure if the Salukis had enough strength left to secure a spot in the Missouri Valley Conference baseball tournament.

Despite the fact the Salukis have averaged only four hits in their last three games, starting pitcher Mike Van Gilder was able to keep the Dawgs' postseason hopes alive, taming North Iowa in a 1-0 victory Saturday.

Van Gilder out-duelled UNI starter Chad Rezac, allowing three hits and no walks through eight innings in a game that was shortened by rain. Van Gilder's victory brought his record to 5-5 for the season.

The Salukis were able to collect only two hits, an Ed Janke single in the fourth and a Brian Heather triple in the eighth. But they scored the deciding run of the contest in the third when Janke walked, advanced to third as right fielder Scott Foster and left fielder Jeff Cwynar were hit by pitches, and scored on a passed ball by Panther catcher Marty Schilmoeller.

Riggleman said Van Gilder's clutch performance came at the right time, as the Salukis were desperate to stay in the MVC

Softball team splits games with Bradley

By Norma Wilke
Sports Writer

The SIUC softball team continued to struggle against Gateway conference competition.

The Salukis, 23-18-1, split a doubleheader with a weak Bradley ballclub Friday, losing 1-0 and winning 10-3.

The Salukis were not playing with intensity in the first game, coach Kay Brechtelsbauer said.

"They weren't concentrating in the first game, but they came out strong early in the second game," Brechtelsbauer said.

SIUC is now 4-5-1 in the conference. Bradley is 2-6 in the Gateway and 10-15 overall.

In the first game the Braves won with an unearned run in the fourth inning on a single and two errors by the SIUC defense.

SIUC freshman pitcher Shelly Lane and Bradley pitcher Michelle Riggio, 2-6, each gave up four hits. Lane, who has a 1.48 earned run average, dropped to 7-7 on the season.

SIUC pitching coach Gary Buckles said Lane pitched good enough to win most games.

"Shelly's lost some tough ball games lately," Buckles said. "Errors gave the other team the win. For a freshman she's showed me a lot of stability and confidence

Men's track team strong in shortened meet

By Scott Wuerz
Sports Writer

The SIUC men's outdoor track team broke into the Top 20 last week for the first time in its history, but the Salukis had little time to enjoy life at the top as they battled the elements at the Kansas Relays.

SIUC coach Bill Cornell said the Dawgs had a strong meet despite bad weather that cut the competition short on Saturday.

"It was a very good meet for us considering the terrible weather," he said. "I was concerned about the possibility of a letdown after (the Salukis' victory) last weekend, but we had some excellent individual performances in some miserable weather."

Among top finishers was the Salukis' four mile relay team, which finished second with a 16:59.30 clocking.

The 4x110 yard relay team finished second in its heat Friday in 41.65, qualifying for the finals on Saturday. In the finals it finished third with a 40.85 showing.

Senior Marion native Mike Danner turned in a personal best 30:47.53 in the 10,000-meter run, finishing fourth, and senior Mark Stuart finished fourth in the 3,000-meter steeplechase with a personal best 9:01.34. The time was fifth best on the SIUC all-time list.

The Salukis were washed out of the jumping events by a torrential downpour. Cameron Wright had cleared 6-9 before the competition was stopped.

Saluki junior distance runner Nick Schwartz was injured at the meet when he twisted his ankle, Cornell said, although he is unsure about the extent of Schwartz's injury.

"He stepped in a hole near the track and at the very least twisted the ankle very badly," Cornell said. "He'll undergo X-rays (Monday) and I think he'll be out for a couple of weeks at least. It's a real shame when an injury like this happens so close to the conference meet (starting May 14)."

Cornell said he doubts the invitational will have any bearing on the Top 20 poll.

The Salukis' next meet is a non-scored competition at the Georgia Tech Invitational Friday in Atlanta, Ga. He said the meet will give the SIUC athletes a chance to work on their individual specialties before the Missouri Valley Conference championship.

Four-run rally in fifth propels DeLeon, Cardinals by Cubs

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — For once, Jose DeLeon did not lose his cool.

The hard-luck St. Louis hurler usually finds a way to lose a close game. But Sunday afternoon, he managed to pitch around two errors and ended up with a victory as the Cardinals stopped the Chicago Cubs 4-3.

"It's been a long time since I have won," said DeLeon, who last won on July 28, 1991. "It's been a while. I haven't beaten Chicago in some time (June 1, 1990) but then again, it's been some time since I beat anybody."

The rap on DeLeon is he usually folds when the going gets tough against him. He never seems to win the close games.

have to work on," DeLeon said. "I think I did that today."

His big moment came in the fifth. Trailing 1-0, the Cardinals made two consecutive errors with one out. But DeLeon bore down and retired the next two batters.

"That was marvelous," St. Louis Manager Joe Torre said. "That was some great pitching."

"Before, I might have said, 'Here is it, hit it.' But I went after them hard. I didn't want to lose this game," DeLeon said.

Torre pulled DeLeon, who allowed four hits and a run to go along with three

Bulls top Pistons 103-95 in finale, end 4th best regular season ever CHICAGO (UPI) — Michael Jordan scored 32 points Sunday and the Chicago Bulls completed the fourth-best season in league history with a 103-85 victory over the Detroit Pistons.

The Bulls won six of their last seven, to finish 67-15, the best record "the 1972-73 Boston Celtics went 68-14. The top two records were recorded by the 1971-72 Los Angeles Lakers, who went 69-13, and the 1966-67 Philadelphia 76ers, who finished 68-13. Both of those teams featured Wilt Chamberlain at center.

Jordan wrapped up his sixth consecutive scoring title, finishing with a 30.2 average. Only Chamberlain has won more consecutively, winning the title his first seven seasons in the league.

Detroit's Dennis Rodman pulled down 13 rebounds, finishing with a league-leading 18.6 average per game. That is the highest average since Chamberlain averaged 19.2 per game for the Lakers in 1971-72.

The Bulls, who have homecourt advantage throughout the playoffs, will play either Atlanta or Miami in the first round. Atlanta had to beat Cleveland on

The education minister recently set the conditions for teaching religion in public schools.

Awards recognized students for work inside, outside of class

By Christy Gutowski
General Assignment Writer

Seventh in a 10-part series

The College of Business and Administration awarded $30,000 to deserving students at Honors Day Sunday in recognition of their academic endeavors.

The awards and scholarships were offered to more than 30 students who have attained a grade point average of at least 3.5, had a financial need and were involved in extracurricular activities and organizations, said Brien Leahy, president of COBA Student Council.

Leahy, a senior from Lombard, said he took the opportunity at the ceremony to stress to recipients the importance of getting involved in student activities.

"I wanted to get a message to students who were already excelling in class to get involved with organizations," he said. "More and more employers are asking graduates about how active they were in extracurricular activities."

SIUC students Carrie Bettenhausen, Donna Graziano and Jennifer Tygett were awarded the Robert W. Davis Memorial Scholarship.

The award is given annually in honor of the first Chairman of the SIUC Board of Trustees to juniors who show high academic achievement and potential.

SIUC student Nancy Lanter was the recipient of the Edward J. Schmidlein Accounting Award.

Kyoko McCawley, an SIUC student from Tokyo, Japan, was presented the Illinois Bankers Association Region V Scholarship at the ceremony.

"I was awarded for my effort and was encouraged to keep trying hard," she said.

McCawley said her high grades and involvement in different student activities helped her obtain the scholarship.

Jerry Lawrence was the recipient of the Leah M. Reef Memorial Scholarship.

Angela Cutright was the recipient of the Walt Cunningham Scholarship.

Marcia Cornett, associate dean of the college, said honors day is a good opportunity to recognize student's accomplishments.

"It's a nice day to be able to recognize the best and brightest of students," she said.

Jason Peterson was awarded the Delyte W. Morris Scholarship.

The award is given to graduating seniors who have the highest potential in scholastics, character,

A College of Technical Careers professor described Honors Day as a wonderful tribute to hard-working and diligent Southern Illinois University students who put their studies first.

Eileen Trout-Erving, associate professor of advanced technical studies at CTC, was a speaker at the Honors Day program last Sunday.

In her speech, she paid tribute to the students, their parents and the staff and faculty of the CTC and praised the students for "excelling in their work at SIUC and striving to attain the best for their future."

Trout-Erving, who had been nominated for the Outstanding

Teacher of 1992 Award, said after 20 years of teaching experience, she took her profession seriously and tried to be concerned about her 100-odd students on an individual basis.

Good students take their work very seriously and in the end they deserve the recognition Honors Day gives them, she said.

Leadership apathy reflected in policies

When Gov. Jim Edgar looks in the mirror, his reflection must remind him somewhat of President George Bush. Whether or not the physical resemblance is present the two politicians are beginning to behave like twins.

BUSH INSTITUTED AMERICA 2000, an educational plan that covers up his administration's shortcomings. Soon after, Edgar came up with Illinois 2000, a program with surprisingly the same goals and effects.

Bush and his shadow continue to pull the covers over the heads of U.S. and Illinois citizens, passing on the costs and responsibilities of programs they could not successfully manage.

IN A POLITICAL LESSON OF "repeat after me," Edgar now follows national policy of decentralizing responsibility by refusing to raise taxes himself, but making it necessary for others to commit political suicide and up the tax levels.

Bush, and Reagan before him, has initiated the shifting tax responsibility from the federal level to the state level while the power to create new taxes remains in Washington, D.C.

IT'S A "READ MY LIPS" POLICY that keeps the president's hands clean. But now "the bill" of responsibility is being passed down again.

Not wanting to appear the bad guy and raise state taxes, Edgar is trying to wash his hands of the matter and leave the responsibility of coming up with tax money to local communities.

Transferring responsibility to others has become the theme of both Bush's and Edgar's leadership careers. Ultimately the citizens will be the ones to suffer. Obviously vast budget problems exist, but passing the problems down the line will not solve them. Once at the local level, they have no where else to go.

MEANWHILE, LOCAL GOVERNMENTS remain helpless, paralyzed to act against the policies being implemented on them. Most local governments cannot begin new taxes and instead will have to raise already existing rates.

In the end the average citizen ends up paying more while the Teflon leaders marvel over their successful programs. Political responsibility cannot continue to be passed along blindly until it reaches the end of the line. If local governments are going to suffer the circumstances of the state's inability to challenge mounting deficits and be responsible for generating new money for the state, then they must be allowed the ability to create their own tax systems.

IF THE STATE IS GOING TO KICK local governments out of the nest, it should also let loose the apron strings. The contradicting policies of giving more responsibility while limiting authority will only add to the financial nightmares and economic hardships falling upon every citizen's shoulders.

Letters to the Editor

Sexual content of Bible stories distorted in letter

I would like to address the distortion in Terry West's sardonic letter about pornography and the Bible.

First, there is no basis in Numbers 31 for West's blasphemous depiction of "God as rapist/murderer."

The passage deals with prisoners of war being taken as wives, not as "sex slaves" (the details of this procedure are outlined in Deuteronomy 21). God hates sin.

That a Holy God commanded the death of the Midianites as punishment for their sin is consistent with His nature as depicted from Genesis to Revelation.

And lest I be labeled a fascist, let me add that only God can make such a judgment.

Second, none of the examples cited by Mr. West's letter are "graphic" in their handling of subject matter.

The passages dealing with Onan, Lot and David go far enough to specify the sin committed without crossing into the realm of the pornographic as is suggested by Mr. West.

Solomon's Song of Songs is an artistic, and I would argue tasteful, depiction of physical love between husband and wife. None of these examples are titillating.

So it is a straw man for Mr. West to claim that the Bible would be banned with his voyeuristic skin magazines.

And he should note that in the same chapter where Jesus said, "Judge not, that ye be not judged."

He also said "depart from me, ye that work iniquity."

Christ offers, not tolerance of sin, but forgiveness.—David Burke, graduate student, theatre.

Deadbeat: Rufus members expel ex-drummer

Before I wrote this letter, I had to think: "Should I even dignify Scott's words with a response?"

Apparently the answer was yes, so here are my counterpoints to Irvin Scott Strait's letter:

1) Yes, Scott's drumming was on the two song demo which got us the Springfest gig, however, our new drummer has since come up with his own parts for the songs in question.

And I don't understand the "breach of contract" question. No money is involved in the gig, it is unpaid, and we were going to kick him out of the band anyway. Kicking out band members is not unheard of.

2) The storage building that Scott is paying for is for the storage of his drums we used it as a band for the two months for $108, not four for $300 as he had mentioned in his letter.

One band member has paid his share as requested by Scott, and the other shares are forthcoming.

3) (see number one)

4) A major bone of contention Scott has with the members of Rufus was that we didn't allow him enough leeway to create his own drum parts.

He exploded at us on more than one occasion. This was one of the factors that led to his dismissal from the band.

We have more confidence in our new drummer and allow him to come up with his own drum parts, which he very capably does. I don't know what legal action you had in mind to take against us, Scott, as we owe you no money from any gigs, and I or other members of the band legally own the rights to our own songs.

And a final piece of advice: for you Scott: This is music, it's supposed to be fun. Lighten up. Your maturity level belies your 29 years.—Todd Weitraub, senior, advertising.

Shattered images

Explicit magazines extend stereotyping

I would like to present a more personal viewpoint on the "skin" magazines/sexual violence issue.

I can understand how threatening it would be to be called a potential rapist for looking at a picture, and how unfair too.

But society in general slowly "wakes up" to the consequences of even minor actions.

The word "racism" was coined in the 1950s to identify a personal link to social policies. Is laughing at a racially biased joke racist? It ratifies the joke.

Maybe you wouldn't recognize it until someone else reacted in a sensitive way, but you could be brought to see and understand this.

You certainly wouldn't defend the sale of pictures of blacks tied up and treated as animals as casual entertainment or art.

This kind of message is dangerous and destructive. It removes the personal identity of the victim, making them into a nameless class of victim/objects. Does you enjoy imagining you are the victim, the torturer? Either is a personally damaging exercise.

Now consider the hostility and violence towards women, as a class, in the worst of these magazines. Yearly they sell more copies than "Time" and "Newsweek" combined.

This is the "current events" agenda going out, and repeatedly viewed.

No personality attached, not a person but an object, or even just parts of a person (bits and ass).

The damage is done to both parties, as the astounding incidence of rape and attempted rape indicates (one in every four college aged women).

Women (people, sisters, mothers, daughters, friends) are part of that mental context, men are trained to respond sexually to women and in another way to "the rest of the species."

Students are here to learn. What do you buy into when you buy these images of hostility or people as body parts?—Mara Loeb, graduate student, speech and communication.

school for a number of years were offered the opportunity (in the program) to bring their backgrounds up in changing area and upgrade any new teaching techniques, Stuck said.

"(The teachers) responded well to the program and used it for what it was intended to accomplish," he said.

Beggs said although teachers involved with the program are disappointed, they also understand what happens when budget cuts occur.

Bruce Appleby, an SIUC English professor who has taught classes in the Renewal Institute, said the program was a success.

"It was one of the best in-service teacher training programs in the any indoor church ceremony, Lingle said.

"It's real picturesque to look to the east and see the sun rise," she said. "It makes you feel closer to God, I guess."

The crowd this year was unable to view the sun coming up to cast light over the landscape below, but the enthusiasm to worship Christ's resurrection radiated throughout the crowd, said Dan Wilson, president of the Bald Knob Cross of Peace Board.

"The spirits weren't dampened even though our bodies were," he said. "The worship commitment and spirit was there just as much as it always is. I'm sure the mediocre-spirited weren't there."

The service has been a yearly event since 1936, when Rev. William Lirley of Goreville and

The program was given the "Christa McAuliffe Award" from the American Association for State Colleges and Universities in July 1987 for excellence in the area of strengthening relationships with local school districts.

"The award meant we were the best new program in the country," Stuck said. "To my knowledge, we're the only universities to have such a program in the United States."

The program has been taught in 26 different sites besides SIUC campus including, Mount Vernon, Fairfield, Belleville and Metropolis.

Wayman Presley of Makanda announced an outdoor mass that would unite worshippers of all denominations.

"It's an experience all in its own that you can't find anywhere else," Wilson said. "We had a couple this year who has made it 30 times to these services."

The first service in 1936 drew a crowd of 250 people.

A collection was started in 1949 to build a cross on the site and was completed in 1952. Since the first sunrise service, the crown of Bald Knob has supported three crosses, the most recent of which was built in 1963.

The Cross is constructed of steel, concrete and porcelain and stands about 111 feet high. The cross can be seen for more than 7,500 square miles when lit at night.

Tony Svach a junior in foreign language and international trade from Glen Ellyn, said waking up at 7:30 on a Saturday morning was not easy to do, but this was a good reason.

"We want to do this just to help the community," he said. "We like letting them know we care about Carbon Dale even though we're only living here for four years—we consider this a home."

He and about 30 of his Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity brothers took part in the clean up.

"We cleaned up three blocks north and south of South University Avenue and Beveridge Street," Svach said. "We'd be cleaning off people's porches and they'd say come on in, we've got some more inside."

Edwin Sawyer, a member of the SIUC Undergraduate Student Government, won second place in the individual group by collecting 156 pounds of garbage. He cleaned up the area around South Route 51 and Lincoln Drive.

This was the first year Sawyer had participated in the event, and said he volunteered because he wanted to give something back to Carbondale.

"Part of our mission at USG is to get the recycling program going on campus," Sawyer said. "I thought this is my way of saying if I can do this, everyone else can too—it's my way of being a role model."

The 12-member Lincoln Junior High School Conservation Cats won first place in the category for large community groups.

The Southern Illinoisan won first place in the business group division by collecting 709 pounds of trash. Cub Scout Troop No. 60, with three members, won first place for a small community group by collecting 454 pounds of trash.

Stan Parrott won first place in the individual group by collecting 257 pounds of garbage.

The event closed with a free lunch for all volunteers and an awards ceremony.

scholarships. Negishi Chieko, one of the award recipients, said she was very happy to be chosen to receive the award. "I felt great when I got the scholarship, because I don't have any financial aid and I needed support very much," said Chieko, graduate student in office system and specialties.

"I think Honors Day is a very good program to encourage students," she said. Chieko, a native of Saitama Prefecture in Japan, said she was an Honors student for most of her undergraduate studies as well. "I worked very hard to get good grades, and I think if other students put in extra effort, they could be awarded too," she said.

Jared Haugh received the Robert W. Davis Memorial scholarship which is given in honor of the first Chairman of the SIUC board of Trustees to students in their junior year who have shown high academic achievement and potential. Undergraduate James W. Oxyb received the Leah M. Reef Memorial scholarship for demonstrating his potential in the field of technical careers. Oxyb, sophomore in automotive technology, was unable to attend the ceremonies to receive his award because he was not well that day, but said he appreciated being selected for two scholarships. Six CTC Alumni scholarships also were presented.

SIUC religious studies prof delves into Jesus' sayings

University News Service

Jesus didn't die on the old, rugged cross to save rugged individualists, an SIUC religious studies professor believes. "I don't think Jesus was about making each of us right with God by dying for our sins," said Michael L. Humphries, who in addition to his doctorate in New Testament has a divinity degree from the Caremont School of Theology. "I think Jesus was more about dealing with social injustices. Scholars are beginning to identify the historical Jesus as being primarily concerned with social justice—he was critical of social and religious conventions." Humphries is a member of Westar Institute, a Sonoma, Calif.-based association of New Testament scholars that six years ago organized a search for what members call "the historical Jesus." Dubbed the "Jesus Seminar," this search has focused on first the words and now the deeds of Jesus in an effort to find out what he actually said and did. Members compare early accounts of sayings and deeds, trying to peel away portions that seem to reflect the writers' ideology, culture or times. Twice a year the members submit their findings to a panel of about 50 scholars from around the world. These scholars review that research, combine it with their own and then vote on the authenticity of adage or action. Using this technique, the Jesus Seminar concluded last summer that Jesus uttered only 17 of the 111 statements attributed to him in the Gospel of Mark. In analyzing Jesus' sayings, the seminar concentrated on Mark, generally considered the earliest of the Gospels. But this new study will use all of the Gospels, even though the fourth is a Johnny-come-lately. "John was written after the others and doesn't depend on them for content," said Humphries. "John is off by himself—except for the miracle stories. This suggests that he got those stories from an earlier source that the other writers also used," he said. This reliance on sources outside the traditional Gospels for insight into the life and thought of Jesus has offended many theologians.

SIUC farm offers vital experience, service for public

By Annette Holder
General Assignment Writer

Al Konkel reached his fingers into the pen to pet the calves that live across the road from the milking cows.

"It's not too bad of a life for them," Konkel said. "All they'll have to do is eat all day and get milked two times a day. The males are the ones that get sold for food."

Konkel, agriculture major from Pinckneyville, said he likes working at University Farms because the work is familiar to him, although he wants to be a salesman when he graduates. He grew up in Pinckneyville working on his family's small pig farm.

University Farms always has had a difficult time financially because it only receives part of its funding from the state, said Anthony Young, associate dean of animal science and food nutrition.

The farm receives about $180,000 from University funds and about $250,000 from the sale of pigs and milk.

The cost of inputs, such as seed and fertilizer, continues to rise with inflation, but the money given to the department has remained stable, Young said. The farm raises most of its food for the animals. About 60 students work on the farm.

The highest expense for the farm is labor costs, Young said.

"We've had two recent increases in minimum wage," he said. "And a typical farm family would be working 60 hours in a week."

The purpose of the 2,000-acre SIUC farm is to provide hands-on learning for students and to provide a public service, said Elden Shaffner, University farms manager.

The public service includes field trips for grade school students in Jackson, Perry and Union Counties and livestock competitions for junior high school students.

The animals are fed from grains grown on the acreage provided to the farm. In one week, about 15 tons of grain is eaten by the pigs, cows and horses.

"The higher feed prices are what is hurting the family farm," Shaffner said.

"These things go in cycles, and the production costs right now are higher than the value of the product—the animals," he said.

The students who choose to work on the farm are able to use their experience to work for the large corporation-owned farms when they graduate, Shaffner said.

"Many students who come down here have a family farm that can't support them," Shaffner said. "They're picking up broader work experience so that when they graduate they've not only worked on their family farm, but they've also had experience with other farm animals."

At the cow farm, 92 black and white heifer cows are used for milking and breeding.

A Prairie Farms sign hangs outside the door of the building that is used to milk the cows. The smell of warm milk permeates the building.

The cows produce about 160 gallons of milk a day, said Dennis Devore, dairy farm manager. The milk is sold to Prairie Farms.

But the horses are the most popular farm attraction for SIUC students, Shaffner said.

"The horses are the drawing card," he said.

"A lot of students enjoy taking horse courses. This will sometimes inspire them to take other agriculture classes," Shaffner said.

The horse farm has 33 horses. The thoroughbreds and standard breeds are used for breeding at SIUC, said Brenda Weedman, horse farm manager.

SIUC photography group puts on show

By Trumier Camphor
General Assignment Writer

The shared photography efforts of members of the student organization Photogenesis will be on display tonight at the Student Center.

Rob Shields, co-president of Photogenesis said the photography exhibit is an opportunity for students to show their work and to bring people together.

The exhibit begins at 7 p.m. in the art alley area of the Student Center.

Shields said there will be 27 photos on display through May 1st, 1992 ranging from black and white to color form.

"The exhibit has been done every year for the past eight years, but this year is the first time there was no competition for the exhibit and we still got people to put their best work forward," Shields said.

Shields said he wanted the exhibit to emphasize a community of artists.

"We have basic first year students all the way up to graduate students," he said.

Shields has one photograph of a woman in the exhibit and describes the process used with the photograph as one that is meant to evoke a pleasing emotion.

Ted Gridowski, a photography student who also has a photo in the exhibit, said his photo is a self-portrait.

"My photo is a collage of photographs and color xerox materials," Gridowski said.

Other photos in the exhibit include different variations dealing with alternative photographs.

Both Shields and Gridowski agree the most important element for the exhibit is photography students get together to share ideas.

Photogenesis, a part of the cinema and photography department, is open to any student with a common interest in photography.

Women correspondents climbing network news ladder—professor

University News Service

Women correspondents at the three major television networks in 1991 dented a decade-old glass ceiling that has barricaded their rise to the top, said media watcher Joe S. Foote.

"More women rose from the lowest ranks of exposure to the mid-ranks and three women were among the most visible," said Foote, a professor of radioand television at SIUC.

Foote said 1991 was the first year that more than half of female correspondents appeared in the top 100, a list of the "most visible" network news correspondents.

Foote annually compiles a Network Correspondent Visibility Study. He released his ninth report April 16.

The study tracked correspondents with five or more on-air appearances. News anchors and reporters at magazine-style programs were not included.

A record 16 women made Foote's 1991 list of the Top 100. That is nearly double the 1990 showing, and more than the previous record of 15 set in 1988.

"For one year at least, women have achieved significant upward mobility. Of course we don't know if this is an overall trend or a one-year aberration," Foote said.

He based visibility rankings on the number of times network correspondents appeared on evening newscasts as recorded in the Vanderbilt Television News Index and Abstracts.

Three women enjoyed top 10 status. NBC's Capitol Hill reporter Andrea Mitchell (No. 3) led women correspondents for the second year straight with 123 on-air appearances. CBS White House reporter Susan Spencer grabbed the No. 5 slot with 118 stories, and CBS Justice Department correspondent Rita Braver came in ninth with 98 reports.

Typically, women have been relegated to the lowest rungs of TV journalism. In 1983, the first year Foote tracked the trends, 57 percent of women labored with visibility rankings of 150 or below.

For years, top story assignments were handed to men, making it impossible for women to compete on equal footing, Foote said. But that is changing.

He pointed at recent gains by women at ABC, a network that previously boasted of "news leader" status but was berated on all sides for failing to bolster the careers of females.

"ABC has done the most recently to put women in the field," Foote said. "And employs the most female correspondents."

"Three ABC women have been plucked from the depths and shot right up to top 100 correspondent status," he said.

and more expensive law enforcement systems.

"We think drug education is important because people should know how to use drugs responsibly, just like with alcohol," Hendricks said.

In addition to naturalistic philosophy, NORML gave attention to refocusing the perception of the drug war, which according to Hendricks, is devoted to the governmental myth that all drug use can be stopped.

"NORML supports the war on drug abuse," he said. "The problem is that the government wants to arrest people for possession of drugs rather than educate people against abusing them."

The rally was supported by four Carbondale bands, Hippies With Guns, Carnival of Souls, Mild Sights and Padded Cell, along with guest speaker Eric Sterling of the Criminal Justice Policy Foundation who further discussed the drug war perception refocus idea with participants.

The Sunday matinee will be signed for the benefit of the hearing impaired.

A psychological drama about a doctor's quest to unlock the troubled mind of a teenager who has blinded six horses. The playwright, Peter Shaffer, is the same brilliant mind behind Amadeus, and he brings both a sense of humor and humility to this intelligent drama.

America3 opens Cup defender finals with win

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — America3 overcame a disastrous start to beat Stars & Stripes, and New Zealand lived up to its reputation for perfection in beating Italy Sunday in the first races of the America's Cup challenger and defender finals.

America3 crossed the starting line early, but cruised past Dennis Conner on the second leg with a half-a-knot more speed and beat the defending America's Cup champion by two minutes and nine seconds.

New Zealand was flawless as it squashed Il Moro di Venezia at the starting line and led the entire 20 miles to a 92-second triumph.

The 13-race defender finals and the best-of-nine challenger series resumes Monday. The victors will meet in one day to race for the America's Cup itself.

The defender finals had started Saturday, but the race was called off when the wind disappeared on the third leg.

Stars & Stripes had a 31-second jump on America3 at the start Sunday after Melges wandered across the line early and was forced to turn back at the gun.

Melges chopped the lead to 15 seconds on the first leg and then caught a slight wind shift and shot past Conner's older boat on the second leg, finishing the downwind run 40 seconds ahead of Conner.

America3's lead hovered around 60 seconds until the seventh leg when it again displayed better upwind speed in the three-foot swell and increased its lead to 1:34. Stars & Stripes was left to wallow in the dying wind on the final downwind run and lost another 35 seconds.

Paul Cayard, Italy's aggressive skipper, attacked the more conservative Davis during the pre-start maneuvering. But the Kiwi boat, which had been considered less maneuverable than Il Moro, was able to cover and leave the Italians struggling to build up speed at the gun.

New Zealand crossed the line 18 seconds ahead of Il Moro and added one second to the lead at the first mark after Cayard's strong bid to close the gap with a 23-tack duel.

Davis, who learned to sail in San Diego as did Cayard, again held off

Six bodybuilders win at Shryock competition

Six bodybuilder division winners took home the gold this month in the second annual Natural Bodybuilding Competition at Shryock Auditorium.

Gail Virzi, an aerobics instructor at SIUC, won the women's division and the women's best poser award.

Jane Byrne, adjunct professor in mechanical engineering, and Jeff Judd, junior in engineering, won the couples competition.

Mike Kochnier, a senior in health education, placed first by one point over Judd to win the men's short class title. Charles Hicks, junior in business and administration, won the men's tall class. Hicks defeated Kochnier for overall title of Mr. Natural SIU 1992. Kelly Gleason, a senior in radio-television, won the best poser award for the men.

The contest this year had two female competitors and nine in each men's class.

This is the second year the competition has required drug-testing. All competitors were required to take a polygraph test, and the winners of each division were tested by urinalysis.

No. 1 Courier stops Chang in two sets

HONG KONG (UPI) — Jim Courier, the world's No. 1 player, put in a full day's work Sunday by capturing the $300,000 Hong Kong Open with a 7-5, 6-3 victory over Michael Chang.

Earlier in the day, Courier beat Brad Gilbert 6-4, 6-1 to win the semifinal that had been postponed because of rain Saturday.

Courier relied on a strong serve and accurate ground strokes to win the all-American final — his 10th straight match victory.

"It was not until the last point was won that I felt it was all over," said Courier, the top seed. "Chang never gives up and he's very talented player."

Courier, Dade City, Fla., has won two straight tournaments, having captured the Japan Open last week. He has won three tournaments this year, the other being the Australian Open. Chang was seeking his fourth title of 1992.

Chang, the No. 3 seed from Henderson, Nev., was able to play his semifinal Saturday before the rain.

He crushed Australian Todd Woodbridge 6-3, 6-7 (5-7), 6-1.

Against Courier, Chang began strongly, breaking in the first game.

Courier broke through in the fourth game and the next seven games went with flawless service games.

In the 12th game, Courier benefited from errors by Chang and excellent cross-court passing shots.

Chang saved one set point when Courier pushed a ground stroke long.

But a poorly hit shot by Chang allowed Courier to take the set.

"I played a pretty loose game at 5-6, and that hurt me," Chang said. In the second set, Courier broke in the fourth game to go up 3-1 and had no trouble the rest of the way.

In the doubles final, Gilbert and Jim Grabb defeated Byron Black and Byron Talbot 6-2, 6-1.

strikeouts, for a pinch-hitter in the fifth.

"We had a chance for a big inning and it paid off," Torre said. "Plus, he pitched two innings Friday night when we got rained out. Also, he did a lot of pitching today. That inning with the errors was a big inning for him. It seemed like a good move."

The Cardinals made it work, sending 10 men to bat in the inning and scoring four runs on six hits for a 4-1 lead.

Rex Hudler and Tom Pagnozzi doubled for a run. Tim Jones laid down a bunt single and pinch-hitter Craig Wilson singled home Pagnozzi.

Lankford singled to load the bases. Bernard Gilkey singled home Jones and Chicago brought in Dave Smith to relieve Danny Jackson, who fell to 0-3.

Todd Zeile's sacrifice fly scored Wilson. But Smith pitched out of the jam. He intentionally walked Pedro Guerrero. Brian Jordan grounded to first and Mark Grace threw out Lankford at home. Hudler ended the inning by flying out.

"We could have blown the game open with a hit but we respect the arms they have in the outfield," Torre said. "I'll take it like that."

Chicago took a 1-0 lead in the second on a triple by Dwight Smith and a double by Joe Girardi.

The Cubs added a run in the sixth on a double by Andre Dawson, a single by Smith and a sacrifice fly by Girardi.

Chicago closed to 4-3 in the eighth. Dawson led off with a single and scored on Luis Salazar's two-out double off Kris Carpenter. Lee Smith relieved and got pinch-hitter Chico Walker to ground out.

Smith pitched a perfect ninth to earn his fourth save of the season.

on the mound. She can be in serious situations and jams, and she doesn't get shook up."

Buckles said if SIUC pitchers keep pitching the way they have been, the Salukis should be in the driver's seat by the conference tournament.

SIUC took off with six runs in the first inning in Game Two. Junior right fielder Colleen Holloway had a RBI single, and junior pitcher Angie Mick drove in a run with a double. Holloway was two-for-four, and Mick was two-for-three on the game.

Two errors by the Bradley defense and a hit batter brought four more runs home for the Salukis in that inning.

Junior left fielder Karrie Irvin continued the offensive attack in the second inning with a leadoff home run, her first of the season. After the two games against the Braves, Irvin is batting .262.

In the third inning, senior shortstop Cheryl Venorsky, who was three-for-four in the game, had a single and then stole second for her 20th steal of the season. Venorsky scored on a sacrifice by Irvin.

Holloway counted her seventh triple of the season to bring in another run, and Wilson singled to bring Holloway home.

Holloway is leading the Salukis with a .317 average so far this season.

Mick, 11-6, has a 1.31 ERA. She struck out nine batters in the game to give her 79 strikeouts on the year.

An error and two singles gave the Braves one run in the third off Mick. Bradley scored two more runs in the fifth, but that was all it could muster.

SIUC did not complete its weekend road series because a doubleheader against Western Illinois was rained out Saturday.

The Salukis play their last non-conference doubleheader against St. Louis at 3 p.m. Wednesday at the IAW Softball Complex.

postseason hunt.

"That's as good as I've seen Mike pitch all year," he said. "He got ahead of the batters and had command of all his pitches. He really got outs when he needed."

The Salukis were scheduled to play a three game series at UNI, but the other two games were cancelled because of rain, Riggelman said.

"It was a tough call for the umpires to make," he said. "But there wasn't much that they could have done. We waited as long as we could but there was no way the series could have gone on."

late Sunday night to secure the final Eastern Conference playoff berth.

Isiah Thomas scored 28 points for Detroit, which won six of its last eight to finish 48-34. The Pistons, who fell short of 50 wins for the first time since 1986, are seeded fifth in the East and will play New York in the first round.

Jordan scored 18 points as the Bulls raced to a 47-36 halftime lead. Chicago led 78-66 after three quarters and put the game away by scoring 10 of the first 12 points of the final period for an 88-68 lead.

Scottie Pippen and Bill Cartwright added 14 points each for Chicago, while Scott Williams contributed a career-high 12 points and 16 rebounds.

John Salley had 14 points and Joe Dumars added 13 for Detroit, which shot just 42 percent (31 of 74) from the floor.
