4-21-1993

The Daily Egyptian, April 21, 1993

Daily Egyptian Staff
President supports FBI action

Newsmore

WASHINGTON—President Clinton, who launched his own investigation into the Waco, Texas, cult tragedy Tuesday, again underscored his support for Attorney General Janet Reno and scoffed at charges that he was trying to distance himself from the FBI operation that left David Koresh and scores of his followers dead.

But, despite publicly taking "full responsibility for the implementation of the decision," Clinton blamed "the far left" for the weekend's unrest. Clinton VP office rep, Karen, killed those he considered "terrorists" who bear ultimate responsibility for the carnage that ensued.

And the president strongly defended Reno and his decision to approve the FBI's plans to fire tear gas into the Waco, see WACO, page 5.

---

Students to vote on transit service

By Katie Monroe

Administration Writer

SIUC students will be asked to decide whether to pay $20 a semester more in fees to provide Carbondale with a mass transit service.

Students also will vote today for student body president, about 30 senate positions and student trustee. It remains to be seen whether the transit issue will draw more students than the usual turnout of about 10 percent.

Only the 1,325 students voted last year in a tainted election. In 1991, 2,270 students voted and in 1990, 1,371 turned out.

Students can vote from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. today at the Student Center, Old Main Lobby, Kaseta Hall, Trueblood snack bar at University Park, and Lentz snack bar at Thompson Point.

Dave Madlener, chairman of the Jackson County Mass Transit District and the Saluki Mass Transit Advisory Board, worried earlier that another tainted election might hurt the chances for passing a transit service.

Madlener's fears were alleviated when Mike Swiak, Alliance Party presidential candidate, was disqualified from the first debate. However, Swiak appealed to the judicial board last Wednesday and got a second chance.

"Mike (Swiak) was given another chance, which was really good," Madlener said. "There shouldn't be any problems—no news is good news, I guess.

Swiak said the controversy may have worked out for the best. "It awakened people's interest," Swiak said. "That's one thing coming up to me in the Student Center that I didn't even know talking about the election."

Swiak also is on the Saluki Mass Transit Advisory Board. The $20-a-semester increase would allow students unlimited access to the service.

Other riders would pay 50 cents a ride.

The service will have 13 buses on eight routes to cover the Carbondale area, including University Mall, the Murdale shopping area, the campus and off-campus residential areas.

Buses will run from 7:30 a.m. to 11 p.m. weekdays with a midnight shuttle that will run 11 p.m. to 3:30 a.m. on weekends.

Presidential candidates are incumbent Undergraduate Student Government president Brad Cole, Student Party; and, USB senator and challenger Mike Swiak, Alliance Party.

---

Yow, Flanagan win city seats

By Sanjaya Seth

City Writer

Incumbent John Yow retained his position on the Carbondale City Council, and challenger Maggie Flanagan associated Keith Tushorn in a election decided by less than 20 votes.

More than 4,000 voted in the election, according to the Jackson County clerk's office. Flanagan and Yow won with 1,148 and 1,147 votes, respectively. Mike Henry was third with 1,132 votes, and Tushorn had 1,038.

"I'm very excited," said Flanagan, an SIUC adult education specialist. "I'm not too surprised: I've received a lot of positive feedback during the process.

"My staff was highly professional," she said. "They helped me. I've talked to people, and what they want is a fresh voice, a new face, an inclusive voice, one that has a vision, one that has creativity and common sense skills.

Flanagan stressed that she wants to be accessible and encouraged people to contact her with their concerns.

"I just want to honor the people who voted for me with a job well done," she said.

Henry, owner of Henry's Place, 112 S. Illinois Ave., said he gave it his best shot.

Carol Henry, of Carbondale, receives voting ballot from election judge Delores Ellis. Henry was casting her vote for the development in particular.

Henry said Yow's and Flanagan's win will make for an interesting new council.

Yow and Tushorn, who were co-chairing the Epiphany Lutheran Church of All Saints, 1501 W. Chautauqua, still in a City Council meeting, were unavailable for comment.

This will be Yow's third term. Tushorn had served on the council for 10 years.

---

Objectivity questioned in Cole investigation

By Chris Davies

Special Assignment Writer

An investigation on the transfer of $450 in fees by student president Brad Cole was run by a member of Cole's political party and has neglected to look beyond superficial documents.

An internal affairs committee MondayEAR Cole of any misappropriation, but Eric Scott, president of the Cole Republicans, called the investigation a cover-up.

"This is a cover-up by Cole's party," Scott said. "The chairwoman in charge of investigating Cole is a member of his party, and that is a conflict of interest.

Scott, who first discovered the unauthorized transfer of funds from the College Republicans' account, has filed formal charges with the University Judicial Board.

The $450 was transferred to the College Republicans last summer by Cole, who later used it to reimburse himself for a trip to the Republican National Convention in Houston. No memore of the College Republicans nor the faculty adviser authorized the transfer.

see COLE, page 5.

---

Kustra's plan to cut boards gets approval from House

By Michael T. Kucklick

General Assignment Writer

Lt. Gov. Bob Kustra's drive to eliminate two governing boards picked up steam Friday when the Illinois Senate passed a bill 37-18 and handed it down to the House for debate, where it may run into trouble, an SIUC official said.

Senate Bill 987 would eliminate the Board of Regents and the Board of Governors.

see BOARDS, page 5.

---

English department considers hiring author as new prof

see page 3

Red Cross drive collects 47 pints of blood at local areas

see page 6

Opinion

-See page 4 Business
-See page 7 Sports
-See page 24

Traveling company of dancers to give show at Shryock

-Story on page 6

Saluki baseball team gains 20th season win over Murray St.

-Story on page 24
No place like home for Puckett Ripken

The Sporting News

You don't hear much talk Nowadays in baseball about traditional virtues such as loyalty, community, and a sense of place. But that's not to say there aren't a few players asking for a pay cut.

More than 350 players have changed teams last offseason. Players who spend their entire careers in one city can be counted on one hand. And though the last for free-agent money is a big reason for all this movement in many ways, Shapiro says it's guilty. Because of the need to make some off-season news, clubs are motivated to jettison free agents.

Then there's the tale of two guys named Kirby Puckett and Cal Ripken Jr. Who had the chance to leave their towns and didn't, whose ties to their communities in Minneapolis-St. Paul and Baltimore were so strong they signed for what undoubtedly was less than what they would have commanded they played out their free-agent opportunities.

Let's hasten to add that there's no need to take up a collection for Puckett or Ripken. Both ended up signing contracts that will pay $30 million over the next five seasons. Cynics surely will argue that difference another few million might make. Tell that to the majority of players who won the market to squeeze every possible dime out of free agency.

The fact is these were two special cases last season, two players of superstars magnitude who could have written their own ticket and elected instead to limit their options because they were happy where they played.

If that sounds unremarkable, then you haven't been following professional sports the last few years.

Ripken never filed for free agency, signing his contract with the Baltimore Orioles late last season after negotiations consumed nearly a year. Puckett re-signed with the Minnesota Twins last winter after filing for free agency and opening negotiations with at least two other teams—the Boston Red Sox and Philadelphia Phillies.

How much more would they have made if they had played the free-agent dollar game to the limit? That's difficult to gauge, especially in Ripken's case.

Coincidentally, Puckett and Ripken are represented by Baltimore attorney Cordell & Cordell. He's a free-agent whisperer, Shapiro says. Shapiro has long been known within baseball as one of the more reasonable agents with whom to deal. But, like anyone, in his business, his first obligation is the bottom line—something he tended to over the last year—to the tune of more than $80 million worth of contracts.

"It's tough to judge whether Cal would have gotten more on the open market than he ended up signing for," Shapiro says.

"If his season had not been as difficult for him and he had put up his usual numbers, I think he might have gotten more on the open market. Don't forget that he is a shortstop, a position that is much in demand. And he is a remarkably durable type."

"Kirby's situation is a little easier to figure. Given the way the market went last winter, Kirby clearly would have gotten offers of at least $35 million. He has a lot of free-agent leverage."

Shapiro has been doing baseball contracts for nearly 20 years. He says the situations of Puckett and Ripken made for the toughest deals he has had to negotiate.

"Both had their own complications, but the two situations were quite different."

"First of all, for both men, this was easily the biggest business decision they would likely make in their lives. But they were very emotional decisions. They both are very close to the community."

"Kirby has a ticket program in the community in which he buys and distributes over 30,000 tickets. He also is active in all kinds of charities. Cal has helped create an adult literacy program in the city plus a ticket program and other charitable investments. They are real commitments these guys have in their cities."

"Plus, they both have built great relationships with the fans which are unique in baseball. These relationships are so tightly identified within the cities in which they perform."

"Those relationships represent very powerful pulls on the player. Taken together, they represented from my point of view the strongest leverage I've ever had in this business."

Puckett's negotiations began during spring training last season, and early in the summer he was ready to accept an offer of $27.5 million over five years. "I was all set to sign then, even though Ron warned me that it was below what the market might bring," Puckett says.

By Kevin Bergquist

Sports Editor

The SIUC base/all team rebounded from a tough weekend to take a 12-9 non-conference win at Maryland Wednesday.

The Salukis overcame adverse weather conditions to notch their 28th win of the season and 37th overall by scoring three runs in the first inning. Tim Krasnichl did most of the damage, plated two runs with an RBI double.

After giving up 12 runs in each end of a doubleheader against Illinois State Saturday, the Salukas produced a baker's dozen of their own.

"It was a tough day to play baseball because of the strong winds and there was no margin for error," SIUC head coach Sam Regelman said. "We did a good job battle to score runs late in the game."

Clint Smothers' sacrifice fly in the fifth and two Murray State errors in the eighth gave the Salukis two more runs. Dan Enlin finished the Saluki scoring with a solo blast in the ninth.

Jason Smith led the Saluki 12-hit attack, going 4-for-5 with two runs scored. Krasnichl and Sautruth each added two hits.

Zac Adams was the beneficiary of SIUC's offensive output, notchng his second win of the season. Adams went 5 1/3 innings, allowing six earned runs on six hits.

Brian Isacson relieved Adams for 1 1/3 innings and Dan Linton mopped up, hurling the last 2 1/3 innings for his first save of 1993.

"I was pleased with Zac's performance and really pleased with the way Linton finished," Regelman said.

The teams combined for nine errors on the afternoon, with MSU committing five.

The Salukis will face Southeast Missouri State Thursday at Cape Girardeau, Mo.
TERRORISTS ATTACK EGYPTIAN LEADER — Moslem extremists Tuesday wounded Egypt's Information Minister Safwat Al-Sharif in a new terror attack that coincided with reports of an imminent government shakeup. Al-Sharif, a key member of President Hosni Mubarak's "inner cabinet," suffered minor injuries from flying glass when unidentified persons opened fire from an affluent Cairo suburb of Helicopolis, Assistant Interior Minister Reda Abdel-Azeiz said.

PARIS BANK TO CHAIR RUSSIA-AID TALKS — A group of countries will hold a meeting on Russian economic reforms and plans to sell all at the request of the World Bank on June 8-9 in Paris, a World Bank spokesman said in Washington on Tuesday. The meeting will be aimed at coordinating the aid and assistance the effective implementation of the advisory group includes members of the European Community and the Scandinavian countries.

ASSASSINS INELIGIBLE FOR INDEMNITY — The murder of South African Communist Party (SACP) head Chris Hani will not make him eligible for political indemnity, Deputy Premier De Klerk told parliament in Cape Town Tuesday. "There is no question of the murder of Mr. Hani being considered for indemnity," as crimes committed since October last year did not qualify for indemnity in terms of reform legislation, De Klerk said.

GUNMAN OPENS FIRE ON MCA BUILDING — Two people were shot Tuesday and five others wounded by flying glass when an apparently disgruntled re-employment officer fired a high-powered rifle on the MCA World Headquarters building, authorities said. The suspect, John Jarvis, 58, of Pleasanton, Calif., is a former MCA transfer-employment employee who was fired from the company in 1985, said Christine Hanson, a spokeswoman for MCA.

GOVERNOR'S DEATH UNDER INVESTIGATION — The National Transportation Safety Board is investigating the plane crash that killed George Mickelson, governor of South Dakota, and seven others Monday night. The governor's party was returning to South Dakota from Cincinnati when the twin-engine Mitsubishi airplane crashed in northeast Iowa. The cause of the crash has not been determined although heavy rain and fog were reported in the area.

SUSPECT ARRESTED FOR D.C. SLAYINGS — An unidentified suspect was arrested for a series of shotgun slayings and shootings that have terrorized the Mount Pleasant neighborhood in Washington D.C. since last March. The arrest was made by an off-duty policeman, just minutes after a third perpetrator, a 61-year-old resident of the area, was killed by a shotgun blast fired from a car. Two other perpetrators were fired upon earlier in the day but the shots missed.

STATE T H I N S WELFARE CHECK CASHING RATES — The state of Illinois is ordering currency exchanges to lower the rate they can charge to cash public aid checks. Right now currency exchanges in Illinois charge 1.2 percent of the face value of a check, plus 90 cents. However, the Department of Financial Institutions says currency exchanges will only be able to charge a 1 percent rate plus 50 cents for Public Aid checks beginning next year.

FUTURE OF HIGHER EDUCATION PLAN IS HAZY — Even supporters of a bill to restrict higher education governance admit it will be a challenge to put together 60 votes to get it approved. The measure passed the Senate on Friday w/ both Republican and Democratic support. In the House, however, there seems to be more opposition from Chicago lawmakers, especially blacks, who fear their smaller schools will be ignored under the plan.

— from Daily Egyptian wire services
SIUC ponders hiring author as instructor

By Tina Davis
General Assignment Writer

He is an African-American writer, his name is Ricardo Conter Cruz and he may become a teacher at SIUC.

Richard Peterson, chairman of the English department, said the department is thinking about taking him on as a teacher for the creative writing program at the University. If this is done, Cruz will be one of three minority teachers in the department. Peterson hopes his presence and enthusiasm will encourage more minority students to major in English and creative writing.

Cruz gave a reading last Tuesday to the English faculty and some students as a way of letting everyone get a feel of what type of person he was and possibly what type of teacher he might be.

A native of Decatur, Cruz graduated from Illinois State with a bachelor's and a master's in creative writing and is working on a doctorate at Illinois State while teaching, too.

His first novel, "Straight out of Compton," has labeled him as a rap writer, but Cruz said beats and rhythms are only a part of his fiction.

"I like to incorporate music and lyricism in my work," Cruz said.

"As a matter of fact you'll come out of my novel knowing the names of all sorts of jazz tunes and other songs."

Cruz writes literature that sings a song as well as tells a story so one might call him extremely poetic.

"I'm more inspired by poets than novelists, because in poetry every word is there for a reason and every line continues the mood and that is what I try to do in my writing," Cruz said.

As for content, Cruz is brutally honest. He writes of the violence, gangs, drugs, prostitution, and love that goes on within the urban areas. He certainly is not afraid of seeing.

Cruz, page 11

Perot, Clinton supporters debate budget theory

By Shawnna Donovan
General Assignment Writer

To shed light on President Bill Clinton's economic and budget plans, the SIUC College Democrats and United We Stand America chapters had a panel discussion Monday night to get answers and to open it.

Mike Shields, an associate professor of political science and Vince Lacey, computer assistant instruction research lab director, and College Democrats' faculty adviser, paneled the event by answering questions from the 16-member audience. Both professors have published books on politics and economic affairs.

"There is a sense of unreality about this budgetary debate and nobody has actually looked at the figures," Shields said. "In the 1980s, there was a 'feel good' sense of the economy and look at it now."

Shields went on to show that in the last 11 years the real Gross National Product grew 39 percent. "It does not sound too bad until you compare it to a similar time in starting in 1971 when it grew 63 percent and in 1961, when it grew 65 percent," he said. "There is a 24-percent difference between the 1980s and 1970s, and you have to remember in 1970s is when oil prices shot up.

"There are a lot of reasons that caused it. The biggest problem is the deficit," he said. "During last year's election the candidates talked about it and they just said they would cut taxes. They were afraid they would lose votes."

"The other sense of unreality is government is getting bigger but that is not the case," he said. "There is a great deal of shifting within the general budget with because of the interest on the national debt, being a big part of it. "We need to say, 'What if?'

"What if we kept taxes at the cost of proportion of the GNP and we just spend at the rate we are and we would not have a budget deficit?'" he said.

Lacey said politics is about compromise.

"Politics is the fine art of compromise," Lacey said. "But you still see a lot gridlock. You hear a lot of deferred obligation from both parties. It is just like at this University when they talk about deferred maintenance and it

see BUDGET, page 11

Every 2 Minutes
Someone in Our Region Needs Blood!

Please Give Blood

Student Center - 2nd Floor
St. Francis Xavier Church

Today & Tomorrow 11 a.m. - 4 p.m.
Friday 1:30 p.m. - 6:30 p.m.

Refreshments Served!

Sponsored by: American Red Cross, Emeritus Association, Daily Egyptian
and ΔΧ, ΔΖ, ΠΚΑ, ΠΣΕ, ΕΚ, ΘΕ
While I've had a hearing from the FCC if WPSD to be submitted.

But SIUC President John C. Guyon opposes the move, citing unfair business competition as the primary reason. Student groups have been active, and it is really worth a look. I wouldn't be opposed to the Student Center that compete with local outlets.

Other concerns were cited a year and a half ago which WIDB not only responded to but also cleared up. Remaining opposed, Guyon has compiled a new list. These include the request that WIDB be in full compliance with FCC regulations. The objection has been raised that the WIDB radio signal would interfere with WPSP's television signal, causing viewers to hear WIDB on their televisions.

But an engineering study by du Tertre, Landin Rackley, Inc., a consultant turn out of Washington D.C., found the number of people affected was less than 3,000, which is in compliance with FCC rules. Perhaps Guyon fears that WPSP could stilldain and file litigation procedures.

But WIDB is in the process of negotiating with WPSP for an agreement that would allow for some concessions and avoid a hearing from the FCC if this were to happen.

WIDB, a student-run cable demonstration station owned by about 5,000 students in the Student Center and the dormitories, has announced plans for an educational license.

The license granted by the Federal Communications Commission would allow WIDB to expand to an 8-mile radius and reach 25,000 people within Carbondale.

The move would not only serve the listening needs of the student body more aptly but also provide a tremendous educational process for students who work at the station.

But SIUC President John C. Guyon opposes the move, citing unfair business competition as the primary reason.

Student groups have been active, and it is really worth a look. I wouldn't be opposed to the Student Center that compete with local outlets.

Other concerns were cited a year and a half ago which WIDB not only responded to but also cleared up. Remaining opposed, Guyon has compiled a new list. These include the request that WIDB be in full compliance with FCC regulations. The objection has been raised that the WIDB radio signal would interfere with WPSP's television signal, causing viewers to hear WIDB on their televisions.

But an engineering study by du Tertre, Landin Rackley, Inc., a consultant turn out of Washington D.C., found the number of people affected was less than 3,000, which is in compliance with FCC rules. Perhaps Guyon fears that WPSP could still disdain and file litigation procedures.

But WIDB is in the process of negotiating with WPSP for an agreement that would allow for some concessions and avoid a hearing from the FCC if this were to happen.

ANOTHER CONCERN GUYON SAID prevents him from submitting a proposal to the Board of Trustees; for an educational license is that accurate budget information has to be submitted. Once again, this concern is unnecessary because WIDB would require only a $2 student fee to buy a transmitter, which was approved by the Undergraduate Student Government.

Additional funds would come from underwriting and not advertising — which is what opposition from WCIL and WVPB is really all about.

As it is, WCIL has a broadcast radius of about 120 miles. WIDB's plan calls only for an 8 mile radius. In addition, arbitration ratings would not include student listeners because they are transient. Arbitron ratings reflect not only the size of the audience but also the market and what most advertisers are concerned with.

GUYON'S CONCERNS THAT WIDB lacks a format based exclusively on instructional learning are somewhat legitimate. But there are professionally licensed stations that are geared for this purpose, such as WSUI-FM.

An educational license, however, would provide WIDB with an opportunity for greater student involvement, which provides many educational benefits. WIDB serves an educational function as well as public service announcements, talk shows and campus news.

WIDB also offers a diverse mix of music unavailable elsewhere, such as the diverse student body, which includes alternative rock, urban contemporary, jazz, an international music show and a reggae show.

THE STUDENTS HAVE SPOKEN: More than 6,000 SIUC students have signed petitions in favor of the educational license, and their needs should be addressed.

President Guyon needs to show more concern for the University and let the business community address its own concerns.

Guyon should re-evaluate his position because most of his concerns are unsubstantiated and he should submit WIDB's proposal for an educational license to the Board of Trustees.

Commentary: Police defensive force use more common than trial showed

By Norman Paradise

Special to Newsday

I watched the trial of four police officers in Los Angeles with special interest. The feeling of deja vu that I experienced was different from past spectra — who probably were reminded only of the first win.

For me, this drama of societal failure harkened back to a time in the mid-1980s when I was practicing emergency medicine in Southern California. Part of my responsibilities included serving as senior resident on the Los Angeles County Hospital jail ward. All newly arrested persons with medical problems, or those who had been in jail for an extended period of time and whose apprehension were brought to the ward for treatment. Rodney King was one of these."I'm not a throttle. I'm not a machine," he said.

Our patients were usually young, African-American or Latino males suffering the early effects or chronic complications of trauma. Elders, while they are still present, would meet these criteria.

Care given these patients was by residents and interns because there is little money to be made treating such patients. With certain exceptions, I found them to be easy patients to work with. If you treated them with a modicum of dignity, they were usually grateful.

What does this have to do with the beating of Rodney King? Well, the clinic's records provide answers to the two most fundamental questions asked concerning the beating. Was this incident exceptionally violent for the Los Angeles police? How often does this kind of beating occur?

While I was on the Los Angeles County Hospital Jail Service, we usually had more than three or four persons each night who were beaten as badly or worse than King. King's injuries, so they have been repeated, would put him at the mild end of the spectrum.

Colleagues have told me that King was evacuated, treated and released to jail because his injuries were not considered severe enough to warrant admission to the hospital jail ward. He was brought back to the hospital the next day when the X-ray's broke. Other people were injured worse by the police that night.

Seeing that the average was three or more people each night does not give a full sense of the situation. On a hot summer night, sometimes as many as 10 or 15 people would be brought in, intoxicated on either alcohol or other drugs, and badly injured.

Often it was not clear if they had been beaten by assailants, friends, family or police. Frequently, the police would take the credit for some injuries while attributing others to an angry spouse.

Once or twice a month, someone would come in beaten so badly that they died before treatment could be rendered. Although most of these patients were young, African Americans and Hispanics, the Los Angeles police did not restrict themselves, solely to these ethnic groups. There were almost always one or two intoxicated white males beaten just as badly.

What is most disturbing to me when I watch those brief seconds of the King video — I've never seen the whole thing — is not that I am disturbed by what I am seeing, but how well I understand the methodology behind it. During my time on the jail ward, I befriended several Los Angeles police officers. In the course of conversation, I asked why they occasionally beat people so badly.

The story of one officer still rings in my memory. He explained it something like this: "You have to see it from my point of view. Every day, I get up, get dressed and go to work. During the day, I know I am going to have an unpleasant interaction with a bunch of these 'wise guys.' For them, it is their standard monthly chance to show up a police officer in front of their pals. So keep in mind, in what is an occasional event for them is an hourly occurrence for me."

I know some of these are going to do something stupid, take it out on me, grab my gun, try to get the gun. I figure them in this right away. They don't have any chance at all."

I don't know what is an 100 days, I am going to get hit or shot or run over. Now, this is my job, but how am I going to have any kind of career if I let myself get hurt every three months?

"How would your family feel if you came home from work injured on a regular basis? You know as well as I do, you would be out of that job fast. Now, I don't have that option. So, I am not going to give that person even a 1 percent chance. I am going to ask them to get out of the car and lie down on the road with their hands out. If they do that, then even that is going to be fine."

"But, if they move at me in any way, like they are going to hit me, grab for my gun or any other kind of crap, I am going to do what is necessary to make sure that when I go home that night, my kids aren't going to have to ask me where I got those sticks or that cast. If I go home at all. If we have enough backup, then we will try and beat the guy into submission. If there are only one or two of us, we can get behind him, then we will shoot him with the stun-gun. If that doesn't work, and the guy just keeps coming, then I am going to shoot him. And, do, you would be lying to me if you said you would do anything different."

I remember listening to this, and going home that night wondering if I would act any differently. I can't even know what it is like to be beaten senseless by a large group of men with sticks. I also can't know what it is like to be a police officer in a society that, for whatever reasons, has a permanent "underclass" filled with people who, in acting out their social anger, may want to harm me just because of the job I do.

I can, however, sense the feeling that must have gone through the minds of the four officers under trial. It must have been a simple "why me?" Because they must know, as I do, that they did nothing that bad, been done 10,000 times before.

Their community has implied, directly or indirectly, that they are the same as the rest of us, that they too can fall short of acting like it had a giant dose of kindness.
BOARDS, from page 1

Board of Governors, two bodies governing eight public universities if the House decides to pass it.

The bill came out of recommendations by Kustra's task force to cut costs in higher education last month.

Boiled down from hundreds of pages into two, the board would save the state $1 million in administration expenses.

The Board of Regents governs Illinois State, Northern Illinois and Western Illinois universities; the Board of Governors oversees Chicago State, Eastern Illinois, Governors State, Northern Illinois and Western Illinois universities.

Senator Bill Bogle goes through the House, each university governed by one of the two boards, will be an independent board.

Senator Richard Lampt; who authored the University of Illinois system if the bill is passed.

Kustra applauded the Senate's decision.

"I commend the Senate for passage of this important step in streamlining the government of higher education in Illinois," he said. "These two middle-level boards serve no useful purpose and only contribute to bureaucratic bloat.

"They deserve independent governing boards that pay close attention to the administration of those campuses, that listen to campus parents, and that have a vision for the future direction of those universities."

Illinois Governor Jim Edgar supported the proposal in his state of the address to the legislators earlier this year, as the state's Part C. To the House.

"I have heard that there is a great deal of concern in the House about the bill, in fact the word was passed against it," he said.

"Is the governor's proposal?"

The Senate is controlled by the Republicans; the House is controlled by the Democrats. I think the House will spend a good deal of time discussing the proposal.

Haller said he definitely accepted the reasoning behind the bill. He felt there was no reason to do it again.

"I expect the legislation will do what it needs to do and a lot of it will come from the Senate," he said.

Representatives of the Board of Regents and Board of Governors have protested the recommendations for their elimination. The bill could change the push to get rid of them is politically oriented.

Sen. Ralph Dunn, R-Davenport, didn't vote on the bill and was unavailable for comment.

WACO, from page 1

Branch Davidians' corn-ponded, told reporters at a Reno House of Representatives news conference. "I was frankly—surprised would be a mild word—because I think everyone should suggest that the attorney general should resign because some religion is involved and that he is furthering himself."

During the brief news conference, Clinton announced that he had directed the Departments of Justice and the Treasury to conduct an investigation into the 51-day standoff.

A Reno House of Representatives' followers killed four agents from Treasury's Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms during a bloody raid.

Outside of political power and political control

The House Judiciary Committee already has scheduled hearings on the standoff, while the Senate committee is mulling possible action. Clinton said he had directed all federal agencies to cooperate with any congressional investigation.

"There is, unfortunately, a rise in this sort of fanaticism all across the world and we may have to confront it again," the president said Tuesday. "And I want to know whether there is anything else we can do—particularly when there are children involved."

A White House official denied himself overwhelmed by charges that he had tried to cover up the President's role in the investigation for the operation to Reno.

In his only public comment on the standoff Monday, the president had said, "I knew it was going to be done, but I decided they needed to investigate the operation of FBI agents."

The White House issued its presidential statement, which included the next day without news evening shows already were on the air.

Meanwhile, Reno not only held a televised news conference Monday, but she also appeared on a number of national morning shows and answered questions about the operation.

President Clinton is expected today to have the White House decided to force Reno to take the lead publicly to protect the president, Clinton spokesman George Stephanopoulos denied Tuesday that any such strategies were ever discussed.

COLE, from page 1

The Committee for Internal Affairs, which is chaired by Anna Lundt; dismissed the matter based on documents that showed Cole and Brown were officers of the College Republicans in 1992.

Lundt; was not running for Undergraduate Student Govern.

"Cole said he did not see a conflict of interest with Lundt; running the investigation. Lundt; would not comment.

"We have documents showing that Cole was vice president and Pat Brown was treasurer at the time when the Cole requested the funds," she said.

But Scott said the documents were not current because Cole resigned in April after he was elected president, and Brown was no longer an active member. Both Cole and Brown have confirmed that: they were not officers at the time of the, transfer, and "all" officers can sign checks.

Scott said the chairwoman of the committee took a half-hearted interest in the investigation's direction.

"I was never questioned formally and neither were any other officers," he said. "Student government needs an ethics committee that is not connected with Cole's party if the investigation is going to be valid.

But Lundt; said she had not checked to see if the documents were current and the committee would not look into it further.

Cole admitted to not being an officer of the organization during the time he requested the $450 in a letter he submitted to the Daily Egyptian on April 19.

Scott said new officers of the College Republicans already had been elected for the summer.

"In April 1993, Brad Cole, Pat Brown and Martin Lamps, were no longer members of our organiz.

Lundt; was running for Undergraduate Student Govern.

senate today as a member of Cole's Student Party.

"I am trying to give Cole the benefit of the doubt, but according to all of this evidence I have against him he is guilty," she said.

said everything about the transfer is legitimate and nothing was done wrong.

Harriss also covered up, Cole said he did not conduct the investigation and the documents speak for themselves.

In a report issued by the CJA, the committee said Cole's unauthorized transfer should not have gone past Student Development. The commit-

Harris said part of the reason he issued the funds were because it would have been in Cole's best interest to gain him the benefit of the doubt.

"I know Cole better than most of the students in the other organizations so I trust that the paper work was in order," he said. "But the whole situation seemed to be routine.

Harris said it would have been quite possible for his office to deny any violations once the paperwork was complete.

"Once the money is issued the office is responsible for issuing statements," he said. "We will issue the funds unless someone makes an objection."

Harriss also looked at the receipts Cole had given him to see if they had come from the trip or not, and they did.
Students get recognition for volunteer time
By Karen Ham
Health Writer

The Red Cross depends on good volunteers to keep blood drives running smoothly. Vivian Ugent, regional blood drive coordinator said, "We need volunteers to help out," Ugent said. "We also want to recognize those who have done an outstanding job for us."

The Red Cross is recognizing Wednesday the fratrities and sororities who volunteered at February's blood drive.

"We're presenting Delta Chi fraternity with the first place award for an extraordinary achievement by an organization," Ugent said. "The Delta Chi's volunteered the most amount of blood in February."

Alex French, philanthropy chairman for the Delta Chi's, said volunteering is a great way to help the community.

"This is a good way to put out a positive image about the great brothers we recognize to help out others," French said. "This is our way of giving back to the community."

Juan Sanchez, student coordinator of the week's drive and member of the Theta Xi, said giving blood is more fun than work.

"It's really great because you get to meet and know so many different people..."

Other fraternities and sororities that are P Pi Kappa Alpha, for 314 hours of service; Alpha Gamma Delta for 235 hours; Sigma Kappa for 190 hours; Delta Zeta for 149 hours; Alpha Tau Omega for 134 hours; and Theta Xi for 115 hours.

By Karen Ham
Health Writer

Windy weather Monday did not stop the Red Cross from collecting 169 pints of blood, 19 pints beyond the day's 150 pint goal, the blood drive coordinator said.

Tuesday's goal was 35 pints, because of the shorter time available. Forty-seven were collected.

Vivian Ugent, regional coordinator of the blood drive, said Monday's turnout was good and helped get the blood drive off to a good start.

"We had a very good turnout Monday and I'm sure it will get even better the rest of the week," Ugent said.

"But we still want to encourage first-time donors to participate," she continued.

Rob Olsen, a freshman in aviation, said his experience Monday as a first-time donor was good.

"The whole process went by very fast," Olsen said. "I'll probably do it again."

But for first-time donors who are anxious about giving blood, Ugent recommends using the buddy system to make the new donor more comfortable with the whole process.

"It's great because we pair up people who have donated blood before with first-time donors to walk them through the experience to answer any fears or questions," Ugent said.

Juan Sanchez, student coordinator of the blood drive, said giving blood is nothing to fear.

"The pinch on your finger is worse than actually giving blood," Sanchez said. "There is really nothing to fear."

Ugent also said people who gave blood in February's Red Cross blood drive are eligible and encouraged to give at this week's drive.

"Those people who gave in February can give this week," Ugent said. "I really want to stress that those people are eligible for donating."

Mark Sykora, a junior in architecture, was giving blood for the fourth time. He said he gives blood because he knows it helps others.

"I give because I know the blood is needed," Sykora said. "I know I would like people to give if I was in an accident and needed blood," Sykora said.

Ugent said attitudes like Sykora's are very positive and encouraging, especially since people in the area urgently need blood.

"Every two minutes, somebody in our region needs blood," Ugent said.

The week's goal for the blood drive is 750 pints, and Sanchez said the goal can be met.

"The turnout has been pretty good," Sanchez said. "People have been showing quite a bit of interest and I think the goal will be met," Sanchez said.

Ugent said a good response from students, faculty and staff at St Icons is needed to meet the weekly goal. The goal for two days at the Student Center is 450 units. The Red Cross blood drive will continue from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m., today and Thursday at the Student Center.

The Red Cross blood drive will also be from 1:30 to 6:30 p.m. Friday at St. Francis Xavier Church.

Subway now offers two lines for delivery 549-4020

Students/Seniors
1⁄2 Price Rush Tickets

Rush Seats will be sold at 1⁄2 price regardless of face value one-half hour before curtain at a designated window to students with a current student ID and to senior citizens 65 and older. Multiple tickets may be purchased with multiple IDs, and tickets are not transferable. Because of the limited time before curtain, Rush Seat patrons cannot select seating locations. However, the best seats are sold first, and at Shryock, if there are any no rush seats.

Shryock Auditorium Celebrity Series

Nikolas and Murray Louis Dance Company
Wed-Apr 21
8 p.m.

Available at the box office
549-4020

MONDAY THROUGH FRIDAY
9:00 A.M. - 5:00 P.M.

Visa or MasterCard only

Drive through 7 a.m. to 9 p.m.

$3.00 ALL SHOWS BEFORE 6 p.m.

* 10% sales tax on all tickets

Children 12 and under admitted free, but must be accompanied by an adult. A parent is not required but is suggested.

This Week's Feature
Large --- 1 Topping
only $5.99 plus tax
Delivered by 8:30 p.m.

Watch for Daily Specials in the D.E.
or call in and ask!!

T-BIRDS
Nickel Night

5¢ Pitchers Old Style (Reg.&Light)
5¢ Mr. Boston Schnapps
5¢ Kamikazis

Yikes! That's cheap beer!

111 N. Washington
529-3808

SUBWAY

Wise Guys Pizza

457-3300

Wise Guys Exclusives

Pick-up Special --- Large 1 Topping --- $4.99
Boss --- Any 6 Toppings --- $24.99

This Week's Feature
Large --- 1 Topping
only $5.99 plus tax
Delivered by 8:30 p.m.

Watch for Daily Specials in the D.E.
or call in and ask!!

CHECKERS

Wednesday
1/4 -.25 - Qtr.

Anyway you put it...
It's Quarter Nite

Checkers
Open Wed - Sat.
7 p.m. - 2 a.m.

• 25¢ Drafts
• $1.25 Pitchers
• 25¢ Rails

$1.00 off with a college I.D.
Be Smart. Don't Drink & Drive
760 E. Grand • Carbondale
Industries respond to budget

Investors evaluate reliability of Clinton’s economic proposal

By Mikael Pyrtil

As President Bill Clinton unleashes his budget plan upon the nation, investment houses prepare for industry positions amid speculation and advise worried investors on strategies.

Geoffrey Partlow, vice president of D.R. Hancock and Company Inc., an investment securities firm, said investors’ fears under the Clinton plan focus on uncertainty, which is unhealthy for the market. According to Partlow, the Clinton administration is doing everything it can to help the market.

"Corporations are viewed as the enemy, yet they are going to tax them and yet add additional revenue out of them as much as they possibly can and that sent a chill through the entire stock market," he said.

"The other fear is that because of higher taxes there will be fewer consumer dollars. If the average American thinks they will not pay more taxes with Bill Clinton in President, they are way off, but they are going to tax the rich but this is not a Robin Hood administration."

The proposed taxes on BTUs, cigarettes and liquor are regressive, according to Partlow.

"By regressive I mean it is going to hit more poorly for lower socio-economic folks in this country," he said. "It’s going to be more expensive to drive their car, to buy tobacco, to buy liquor, to buy a hamburger at Mc Donald’s. It is going to cost more to use natural gas and electricity. And it is going to affect them percentage wise much more than it is the middle class and the upper class."

"It’s really difficult to figure out exactly how it will start," Partlow said. "One of the fears is the health care package that has been kept secret, nobody knows what it is, and in investments uncertainty is a very negative thing. The uncertainty over what’s going to happen to the health care, such as the pharmaceuticals, hospitals and medical device manufacturers — nobody knows what to do."

The hearings were not made public, although we have several indications as to what might occur nobody really knows."

As a result, according to Partlow, many prominent pharmaceuticals, such as Merck, have lost 60 percent of their value.

Among other industries that fear Clinton’s plan is the tobacco and alcohol industry, according to Partlow.

"With talk of imposing a cigarette tax of $1 to $2 a pack. American brands and all the other manufactures are really taking it on the chin," he said.

"Another fear swings over into the consumption of alcohol. We have been working with a new prohibition anyway, but that fear is converted to major stocks in this area like Anheuser-Busch."

Although several investment sectors are not looking enthusiastically at Clinton’s proposed budget plan because of tax increases, Barbara Blacklock, branch manager of A.G. Edwards and Sons Inc. in Carbondale, said the stock market still is the place to be.

"With a possible new upper social bracket and a surtax on taxable income of more than $250,000, investors affected by these increases would be smart to look now at tax-advantaged or tax-free investments," she said in a statement.

"Even under the current tax structure, many middle-income investors have realized the advantages of investing in tax- exempt municipal bonds."

"The Clinton proposals will make tax-exempt investments even more attractive. The higher the income of the investor, the better-tax-exempt municipal bonds and tax-deferred annuities will look."

An annuity is a contract with an insurance company in which an investor deposits a sum of money from a specified period of time. There are two stages to an annuity: first is the accumulation period in which the investor’s money grows on a tax-deferred basis, then the investor starts receiving payments.

However, if the investor withdraws funds from the annuity before age 59, there is a 10-percent federal penalty tax.

"It’s really a complicated issue," said Partlow. "It’s really going to depend on the future, which is uncertain."

"In any event, it’s going to have a very negative impact on the income of the investor. The investors have realized the advantages of investing in tax-exempt municipal bonds. As the Clinton proposals will make tax-exempt investments even more attractive, the higher the income of the investor, the better tax-exempt municipal bonds and tax-deferred annuities will look."

"An annuity is a contract with an insurance company in which an investor deposits a sum of money from a specified period of time. There are two stages to an annuity: first is the accumulation period in which the investor’s money grows on a tax-deferred basis, then the investor starts receiving payments."

"Another fear swings over into the consumption of alcohol. We have been working with a new prohibition anyway, but that fear is converted to major stocks in this area like Anheuser-Busch."

Remember Your Secretary
on Secretary’s Day

Wednesday, April 21

Check out our specials

Mylar and Latex Balloons

Mugs with Treats

Roses with Vase

Competitive Prices!

Located on the first floor of the Student Center, 453-5351

The Great Little Seafood Place, the Great Little Seafood Place, the Great Little Seafood Place.
Pamphlets use propaganda to discourage abortionists

The Washington Post

On March 10, the day organized by the National Right to Life Committee to die outside a Florida abortion clinic, Howard Savage, a fourth-year medical student received a pamphlet called "Bottom Feeder" in the mail.

The often scatological 14-page booklet, which was sent to more than 14,000 medical or dental schools around the country by a Texas publisher, contained the following joke:

Q: What would you do if you found yourself in a room with Hitler, Mussolini and an abortionist and you had a gun with only two bullets?

A: Shoot the abortionist twice.

"It was very upsetting, especially coming on the day that Dr. Gunn was murdered," said Savage, who attends the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. The illustrations remind me of Nazi propaganda about Jews. And the joke all describes obgyns who perform abortions as people who should be killed. It's an attempt to discourage physicians (in medical training from even thinking about doing abortions.)"

Although the publisher declined to discuss it, the purpose of the booklet is clear: to attract supporters and opponents of abortion agree. "Bottomfeeder" is designed to discourage medical students, residents and practicing physicians from performing abortions.

We may not get laws changed or be able to change people's minds," said Bruce Cadle, field director of Operation Rescue, the National, an anti-abortion group that is targeting doctors. "But if there is no one willing to conduct abortions, there are no abortionists."

Campaigns against individual physicians, coupled with the aging of many doctors who perform abortions and the dwindling number of residency programs that train new doctors, have led to personal shortages. Increasingly, clinic administrators say, they are having trouble recruiting physicians, especially younger doctors.

"It's not just a problem, it's the problem," said Ron Fitzsimmons, executive director of the National Coalition of Abortion Providers, an Alexandria-based organization that represents half of the nation's 600 independent abortion clinics. "You don't exactly have doctors out there pouncing down the doors for work."

Members of the Nikolaus and Murray Louis Dance Company perform one of their unique styles of abstract dance. The group will give a performance at 8 p.m. tonight in Shryock Auditorium, performed by heads appear to be being moved across the stage.

"Gallery," a half-hour work, will be the only piece by Nikolaus, while Louis will present two works, "Porcelain" Dialogues and "Personae."

The primary difference between the works of Nikolaus and Louis is the different uses of media on stage, otherwise, the two artists tend to compliment each other," Fricken said.

"Murray Louis tends to have a real celebration of movement, a virtuosic sort of dance, while Nikolaus uses more multimedia and a theatrical type of feeling," he said.

"This program is a wonderful combination of both."
April 21, 1993

Farm fresh USDA inspected whole chicken breast lb. 99¢

Limit 3 pkgs. with additional $10.00 purchase.

Hunter bigger than a bun hot dogs 99¢

Country style thick sliced slab bacon 99¢

National vegetable oil 99¢

32 oz.

National white bread 4/99¢

16 oz.

All flavors Sealtest Light N Lively Free 70 calorie yogurt 4/99¢

6 oz.

Kraft grape jelly 99¢

32 oz.

Kellogg's Rice Krispies 99¢

15 oz.

Kelloggs pop-tarts 99¢

10.5-11 oz.

National

National's No Mark Pricing Guarantee

If the price that you are charged at the checkout counter is higher than the shelf tag price, you will receive that item FREE.

This free guarantee is limited to only one item of a kind.

Cheating typifies India's educational problems

The Washington Post

NEW DELHI, India—The pegtailed girl perched behind the bateder desk on the first row glanced furiously out the classroom window. Her hand flashed a signal. Seconds later a tiny rock wrapped in white paper pipped through the window glass and bounced onto the floor next to her desk.

Within a handful of a minute, white balls sailed through the open windows, and a dozen young girls scrambled to collect them. The bazaar of cheat sheets marked the start of the school year's final exams—Indian style.

While teachers looked on helplessly in the classrooms and police watched diligently in the school yard below, dozens of brothers, fathers and cousins stood outside a government school in the village of Chawla one recent spring morning, hurling rock-propelled answer sheets to students who had just been handed standardized math exams.

In India, cheating on school exams has become a national epidemic. India’s 850 million people, more than three times the population of the United States, are overwhelmingly poor and have only a few, narrow avenues for reaching the relatively tiny middle class, whose comforts they watch nightly on television. Competition is brutal for jobs, desirable marriages and college.

For many, cheating seems the only way. Police are routinely posted in most government schools during examination periods—and schools where cheating is not reported make newspaper headlines.

While schools offer hope for social mobility, they often fail to provide even the basics of education.

"Cheating is just a symptom of all that's wrong with the school system," said Kansaldeep Singh, education reporter for the Indian Express, a New Delhi daily newspaper. "The students cheat because they haven't been taught throughout the year. They are not cheating to be on the merit list—they cheat just to pass the exam.

... Without trying to justify it, cheating has become a necessity."

Last year, 58 percent of all 10th graders who took the national standard examination needed for promotion failed to make the passing score of 33 percent. In several schools, not a single student passed the exams.

The many students who fail the standardized tests, administered in the fifth and 10th grades, usually drop out of school. India does little to encourage its most vulnerable students to stay: half of the children between the ages of 6 and 14 do not go to school. Of those who begin first grade, only half reach the fifth. A quarter finish eighth grade, and a mere fraction graduate from high school.

There is a chronic shortage of teachers. When a teacher is absent, there is no substitute. Children usually are left to fend for themselves. In rural areas, the low-paid government teachers skip classes for days at a time.

Even in the capital New Delhi, students in the 950 government schools frequently spend the first two or three hours of the school year without books. Conditions are even worse in Delhi's government schools. The children between the ages of 15 and 18 have never seen a book. Other schoolbooks are nothing more than clusters of open tents that house students in the 15-degree heat of spring and the winter rains.

In cities with schools, children attend classes in double shifts to accommodate burgeoning populations.

Electric industry seeks to profit from expansion of global market

The Washington Post

In an ordinary-looking office in downtown Washington, Marc Gery commands an outpost of a revolution sweeping through the world’s biggest—and, until recently, stodgiest—industries.

Gery is president of Electricité de France International North America Inc., a unit of France’s giant state-owned electric utility. His mission is to enlist U.S. investors to partner with EDF in building and operating power plants and transmission lines around the world.

As nations such as Britain and Argentina privatize their state-owned companies and developing nations such as China open markets to independent power suppliers, a business once limited by geography is leaping across international borders. Because of a change in the law last year, U.S. utilities can now join the chase.

"I believe this is the biggest opportunity any of us will see in our business lives," said John B. Wing, partner in Wing-Merrill Group Ltd. of Aspen, Colo. "Electrifying the world is one wonderful opportunity." Wing’s firm, backed by investment capital from utilities, recently signed agreements to build and operate power plants in China.

A tabulation by Electricity Journal magazine last fall found 435 projects worldwide to build and operate power plants and transmission systems. A survey by McGraw-Hill Inc.’s Independent Power Report found that the capital necessary to develop a standard coal-fired plant generates about 600 megawatts in 42 countries, led by Pakistan, India, China, Argentina, Indonesia and Thailand. Those nations need electricity, and a shortage of capital is forcing them to overcome an aversion to foreign ownership of basic industry.

Industry estimates of the total size of the market over the next 20 years run as high as $1 trillion just in developing countries, counting investments in nonindustrialized countries such as Britain that are just now opening up to foreign ownership.

The potential U.S. share is hard to estimate, according to experts, because some companies are just starting international subsidiaries. Opinion is divided about whether U.S. utilities can grab a substantial share of the market. Lack of international experience, the Foreign Corrupt Practices Act—which prohibits U.S. companies from bribing to win contracts— and restrictions on the use of the utilities’ capital are cited as major obstacles.

Privately owned utilities in the United States were once the industrial elite—owners of savings and loans: tightly regulated, single-purpose institutions with limited service areas. Because they have captive customers, utilities are prohibited from using customers’ money for speculative investments.

But a 1978 federal law opened the way for independent power companies to break into the market. And the domestic electricity market, and many big utilities have established unregulated subsidiaries to compete for customers. The 1992 Energy Policy Act made it easier for those subsidiaries to invest abroad.

"The new law has opened the international market for U.S. companies," said EDF’s Gery. "A good part of U.S. utilities will be major players in the international market. But it’s difficult. It’s completely new to invest (overseas) for the long term, to have ownership of foreign plants and to be in consortia."
Pentagon officials test Clinton's travel restrictions

The Washington Post

John M. Deutch, the Pentagon's recently appointed undersecretary for acquisition, did not wait very long after President Clinton's new travel restrictions on executive-brach travel.

Early this morning after his sweatsuiting ceremony Thursday, Deutch and four other officials flew in a Gulfstream G-200 to Washington for an annual NATO meeting.

Deutch was scheduled to return late Tuesday night from the "four-day" trip, which included a side visit to Brussels, and cost taxpayers roughly $50,000.

The president's travel policy, spelling doom for the Air Force, prohibits use of government aircraft in circumstances where comparable commercial transportation is "reasonably available, i.e., able to meet the traveler's departure and/or arrival requirements within a 24-hour period." Brussels and Washington are linked by a variety of daily flights through New York and London.

Airline discounts travelers

Zapwarns

Most U.S. carriers Monday joined in a spring fare sale that gives vacationers cheaper tickets for travel. Air North, for instance, from June 30, Northwest Airlines Inc. on Sunday launched the sale, which reduces fares 25 percent for travel up to 14 days in advance. The discounts average 35 percent, or more.

American, Continental, Delta Air Lines Inc., among others, agreed to match Northwest's fare reductions for the next few months, said Northwest spokesman Jim Fausnkem. "We're seeing an increase in traffic, we were trying to entice families to buy their tickets now," he said.

The biggest cuts came on travel to the east and north; America West Airlines Inc. discounts previously prompted airlines to reduce fares to its Phoenix and West Coast markets.

From Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport, a non-stop roundtrip ticket to New York will cost $273, a 38 percent discount from the $450 fare previously in place. Air North offered travelers a $189 fare, a 24 percent discount.

The cheapest fares are for travel on Tuesday, Wednesday and Saturday. All the tickets require one-way purchase and are non-refundable.

Customers apparently welcomed the discounting. Northwest's Mr. Fausnkem said telephone calls to the airline's reservations offices jumped 33 percent over the normal Sunday and 40 percent over the average Monday.

The stock market wasn't so happy, with airline stocks taking a beating Monday in New York and London.

Pentagon officials test Clinton's travel restrictions

The Washington Post

Robert Fox, associate professor in English in said, he hopes Cruz does join the staff. "If he doesn't join, I think he'd be a great addition to the department with the 'College' label " I was impressed with his writing, his attitude, and his dedication as a teacher, " Cruz said.

"Teaching allows me to teach the students get to tell Cole & Co. what they think about it! TELL IT THEM GOOD SIDU, DON'T LET THEM FORGET_ IT'S YOUR MONEY!"
SPC Presents...

Schedule of Events

Friday, April 23
11:30am to 3:00pm: Earth Day Celebration w. Carter and Cornelia in Indian Summer - Free Forum Area
7:00 & 9:30pm: Film - Heavy Metal, Student Center Auditorium

Saturday, April 24
7:00 & 9:30pm: Film - Heavy Metal, Student Center Auditorium
7:00pm: Natural SIUC Body Building Competition, Shryock, Sponsored by Weightlifting Club

Sunday, April 25
2:00pm: "Kids Day Out" w/ Pat Surface, Student Center Ballrooms
7:00 & 9:30pm: Film - Up To A Certain Point, Student Center Auditorium, Co-Sponsored by University Honors
8:00pm: Connelley, Margaret Cho, Student Center Ballrooms

Monday, April 26
12:00 to 5:00pm: Rally - Free Forum Area
7:00 & 9:30pm: Film - Up To A Certain Point, Student Center Auditorium, Co-Sponsored by University Honors
8:00pm: Improv: Bruce McDonald, Student Center Ballrooms

Tuesday, April 27
3:00pm: "Salsa Beatball vs Evansville: Abe Martin Field, Sponsored by SIUC Athletics
6:00 & 8:00pm: Video - Muppets Show, Student Center Video Lounge
8:00pm: Lecture: Barry Williams "Growing Up Brady," Student Center Ballrooms

Wednesday, April 28
11:30 to 3:00pm: Blues Fest w/ Slippery Henry Blues, Grassdiggers & Crane Blues Comp, Free Forum Area
6:00 & 8:00pm: Video - Muppets Show, Student Center Video Lounge
8:00pm: Concert - Bars & Facts, Reggae, Student Center Ballrooms

Thursday, April 29
8:00am to 5:00pm: Special Olympics, McAndrew Stadium, Sponsored by Costanzo Park District
11:30am to 3:00pm: Free Concert - "Carbonado Blues" w/ Girls with Toes, Crank, Nitrolynder, & Trouble Pryor, Student Center S. Patio
6:00 & 8:00pm: Video - Muppets Show, Student Center Video Lounge
8:00 to 11:00pm: Coffee House w/ Stump the Host and Eric Howell, Student Center S. Patio

Friday, April 30
11:30am to 3:00pm: Free Concert w/ Reverend Horton Heat & Maddox Rose, Student Center Auditorium
7:00 & 9:30pm: Film - Dracula, Student Center Auditorium

Saturday, May 1
8:00am: Doc Spackman Triathlon - Campus Lake, Sponsored by Student Center Recreation
10:00am: Great Cardboard Boat Regatta, Campus Lake, Sponsored by SIUC Design Department
12 noon: Salsa Beatball vs Wichita State (OH), Abe Martin Field, Sponsored by SIUC Athletics
1:00pm: Southern Illinois Air Show, SI Airport, Sponsored by SIUC Flier and Wing Club
7:00 & 9:30pm: Film - Dracula, Student Center Auditorium
8:00pm: Dance Expresso, Shryock, Sponsored by SI Recreational Dance Theater

Sunday, May 2
1:00pm: Salsa Beatball vs Wichita State, Abe Martin Field, Sponsored by SIUC Athletics
1:00pm: Southern Illinois Air Show, SI Airport, Sponsored by Rotor and Wing Society
7:00pm: "Bridge Over the River Kwai," Student Center Auditorium, Co-Sponsored by University Honors

"Tickets available at Student Center Ticket Office for these events"
COME CELEBRATE EARTH DAY
Friday, April 23 11:30 - 3:00 pm
at the SIUC Free Forum Area (Rain Location: Roman Room)
With musical entertainment & inspiration from Carter & Connelley and Indian Summer
Co-Sponsored by Student Environmental Center

1993-94 Fine Arts Chair Position
Now Available!
Pick up an application at the
SPC Office Now!
Deadline: Fri., April 23

BRUCE MCDONALD
HYPNOTIST
A UNIQUE AND EXCITING AUDIENCE PARTICIPATION SHOW YOU'RE NOT LIKELY TO FORGET
MONDAY, APRIL 26, 8:00 PM
STUDENT CENTER BALLROOMS C & D
SIUC Students $3.00
General Public $4.00
Tickets Available At Student Center Ticket Office.

GROWING UP BRADY
A lecture by Barry Williams,
the original Greg from TV’s “Brady Bunch”
Tues., April 27, 8 p.m.
Student Center
Ballroom D
$2 SIUC Students
$3 General Public

Art Allie
CALL FOR ARTISTS
The SPC Fine Arts Committee invites all SIUC students to submit proposals to exhibit art in the Student Center Art Alley during the Summer & Fall of 1993. Exhibition proposals can be picked up at SPC Office (3rd Floor Student Center), Art and Design Department, Cinema and Photography Department.
Exhibition proposals must be submitted to the SPC Office by
EXTENDED DEADLINE: APRIL 22

Blues Fest
Wed. April 28, 11:30 - 3:00 pm
Free Forum Area
Featuring: Gravediggers,
Stappin’ Henry Blue, &
Carbondale Blues Co-op
Raffle beads to make necklaces
(first come, first served)
Craft sale sponsored by the Craft Shop

温室 FACTO
Fri & Sat, April 23 & 24
7:00 & 9:30 pm
Student Center Auditorium
Admission Only $1.00
Prizes will be drawn at selected shows
Co-Sponsored by Campus Comics

Carbondalooza
Thursday, April 29, 11:30 - 3:00 pm
Student Center South Patio
Featuring: Crank, Girls with Tools,
Nitrojunior, & Trouble Pryor
Smart Food & Smart Drinks
TUZLA, Bosnia—When the fighting in Bosnia-Hercegovina neared what seemed to be a peak last summer, the United Nations and European Community officials worked feverishly to draw up a peace plan. After months of initially fruitless talks, the Vance and David Owen envoy to Bosnia's war, had the Serbs and Croats to solidify their positions at the expense of the outgunned Muslims.

The Vance-Owen plan may have helped push things to a climax. The upbeat, although military experts and political observers, is that the peace plan—never accepted by all parties—has been complicated by a chain of events it was supposed to forestall.

Serbs were angry because the plan, which they say would have left them with control over nearly 40 percent of the territory they conquered in the last year, would have been unacceptable to the Serbs because some of "their" land would be cut off from the Serb clients. Instead of knocking under control, the Serbs mounted an offensive aimed at eliminating the Serbs from Bosnia to return to Muslim control. The evacuation of Serbs was on the verge of falling and is currently being demilitarized. The other Muslim pockets, Zepa and Gorazde, are vulnerable to Serb takeover.

There is little world attention focused on Serbia aggression, the Bosnian Croats quietly are grabbing power in central Bosnia. While the Croats retain the nominal offices of the Muslim-against-the Serbs, the alliance has weakened ten times. Ultranationalist Croat leaders in Bosnia have a goal of adjoining a chunk of Bosnia, including central Bosnia, to Croatia.

Political discord in Russia looms over vulnerable economic reforms

The Washington Post

MOSCOW—Russia’s economy has improved somewhat on the eve of presidential and parliamentary elections later this year, but political discord is threatening its fragile progress, government economic officials say.

Inflation has fallen from a monthly rate of about 25 percent to about 16 percent, according to figures released Thursday by the government's Center for Economic Reform. And contrary to the perceptions of many Western officials, Russia's President Boris Yeltsin has stabilized and even reduced retail prices during the past nine months. Inflation now is less than 20 percent, according to November figures...
Country Fair 2% Milk
$1.49 1 gal.
Limit 1 w/$10* Purchase

Prairie Farms Ice Cream
$2.49 1 gal. Bucket
with $10* Purchase

Creamy Cole Slaw
$1.19 lb

Hershey Candy Bars
5 FOR $1 00
Asst. Variety

Eagle
Restaurant Style Tortilla Chips
98¢
Big 14oz. Bag

New From the Deli
Wonder Roast Chicken
$2.99 Each
Great for Picnics

Country Fair Coupon
Pepsi 24pk.
$4.88
Limit 1 w/coupon PLU#3103

USDA Choice T-Bone Steaks
$3.99
with $10* Purchase

Skippy Peanut Butter
$1.29 16oz. jar

Lenders Bagels
99¢ 6ct. Pkg.

Tony's Original Pizzas
3 FOR $5 00

Russet Potatoes
$1.79 10lb. Bag

Country Fair Coupon
Buy 1 lb. of any
Deli Meat
Get 1 lb. of
Potato Salad FREE
Limit 1 w/coupon PLU#3102

Prairie Farms Yogurt
3 FOR 99¢
5oz. Carton

TIMES SQUARE LIQUORS
Budweiser
12pk Bottles $5.99
Busch
12pk Cans $5.29

Seagram's
Coolers 4pk $2.99
Strohs 15pk $5.39

Gilbey's
Vodka 1.75 ltr. $9.99
Miller
12pk Cans $5.99

LOCALY OWNED
The Washington Post

April 21, 1993

Clinton staff agrees to relax Medicaid restrictions

The Clinton administration has tentatively agreed to end Medicaid regulations that would have denied 31 states and the District of Columbia millions of dollars in federal matching funds starting this year, from 1998 to 2002, according to the administration, which is still subject to final approval by the Office of Management and Budget. The Clinton administration concluded the deficit, a fresh sign that President Clinton, a former governor, will be more flexible than was President George Bush in helping states with their Medicaid problems.

The recent agreement was reached after two months of closed-door negotiations between officials of the new administration and representatives of the governors, according to a recent letter from the National Governors Association.

The talks were called to consider changes in Medicaid regulations that have not used the loophole charged that the ceiling discriminated against them.

The program began innocuously in 1981 when Congress authorized home payments to "disproportionate share" (DS) hospitals facilities that have served more poor patients. Such facilities had little clout in state legislatures, however, so states were slow to use the provision.

But in 1987, Congress removed the ceiling on the bonus payments that states could make to DS hospitals, creating a loophole. In effect, states were free to pay the hospitals as much as they wanted and receive unlimited amounts of federal matching grants.

Under Medicaid, which pays medical bills of the poor, elderly or disabled, the U.S. government puts up 70% to 90% of every dollar, depending on state wealth. As states discovered creative ways to "cycle" the payments to the hospitals back to state treasuries through states or donations, the DS system spread rapidly.

Some governors have openly acknowledged that the DS program has been used to balance state budgets, and not all the federal DS payments have ended up in states' Medicaid programs.

The agreement reached with the Clinton administration would continue to freeze the DS programs in the 19 states that took maximum advantage of the loophole.

But it would also allow the new administration to increase their DS programs at a steady level, enabling them to capture several hundred millions more in federal grants in the current fiscal year, sources said.

---

U.S. Holocaust Memorial Museum honors 6 million Jews killed in war

The Washington Post

Six million Jews died in the Holocaust, and who can name one of them?

Well, there's Anne Frank. And, if you're Jewish, there's a graveyard at Auschwitz, and all the faces touched by the shadow of those albums ... that was your mother's great-uncle George. He was won medals for winning and lost lives in a factory that made mother-of-pearl brushes.

And that, but nothing a number - the Six Million. As Stalin is said to have said, a single death is a tragedy, a million deaths is a statistic.

The statistic - what does it mean? - is the comparison of the images buried in your nervous system with the horror of the war, the barbed wire, the concentrations, and the soup bowels. It's a measure of our own conscience.

Now we have the U.S. Holocaust Memorial Museum, which opens Monday, just off Independence Avenue.

Why? Why put the Holocaust next to the Mall with so many round, moon rocks and other triumphs of the human spirit we want to commemorate a disaster, why not a museum of slavery or the slaughter in Cambodia?

"Fine," says Michael Berenbaum, head of the museum's research center. "Let's have them.

And, the argument goes, many slaves died indeed, but they were wanted them alive, not dead. Unlike the million or so Cambodians killed by Pol Pot, the Jews were not being killed for their politics, intellect or even religion, but for their race.

Why a museum dedicated almost entirely to the Jews who perished in the Holocaust? The answer runs along the lines of: The Nazis slaughtered Gypsies, Jehovah's Witnesses, Poles, political prisoners, homosexuals, the insane and the feeble-minded, but not to the extent that the Jews brought to the gas chambers. The scope, intensity and logic of the Jewish Holocaust make it unique.

Why have a memorial to a single people in the capital of the United States of America?

I myself am not happy about having a building on the Mall. It belongs to a generation that a building can never express this idea.

John Roth, a professor at Claremont McKenna College in California, says the museum belongs here. "Auschwitz and Treblinka - those death camps shadow American ground. That was never to take the Dream Factory.

More reasoning:

If we have museums of art from Asia, Africa and Europe, there's no reason to ban this museum because the Holocaust happened on another continent. We have American values by displaying American creations.

The Holocaust is a moral absolute worth commemorating in an age of moral relativism.

The Holocaust gets used to denote endless list of evils - from Hitler to the Bosnians, but not abortion and animal experimentation. Shouldn't we have to keep opportunities from misusing it?

---

CBS wins network ratings crown

Los Angeles Times

Celebrating its 25th season, CBS' "60 Minutes" was the nation's favorite TV series for the second consecutive year and the fourth time in its long run, according to Nielsen Media Research, announced Tuesday for the so-called official ratings competition of 1992-93.

Rounding out the Top 10 series for the 30-week season, which began on Sept. 15, were (in order) "Rearmose, "Home Improvement," "Murphy Brown," "Northern Exposure," "Coach," "Monday Night Football," the CBS Sunday night lineup of "Cheers" and "Full House.

CBS, which led the network race throughout the 1980s, lost its second consecutive ratings crown for total households. ABC climbed to second place in the last round among 18-49-year-old viewers projected by Nielsen.

NBC, despite a strong late-season burst by "Seinfeld" after it was renewed Jan. 24, dropped into third place, earning a two-year plunge by the once-powerful network.

The Big Three networks could hardly boast of renewed viewer interest. Their combined share of the TV audience for the season was 60 percent, down 3 percent from last year.

Even top-rated CBS dropped 4 percent, although the network said this was because the Olympics had increased tune-in last season. NBC was off by 11 percent. ABC was the only network to boost its audience share, by 2 percent.

For the season, CBS averaged a 13.3 rating and 22 percent of the audience. ABC had 12.4 and 20 percent. NBC finished with an 11 rating and 18 percent. Fox TV, which expanded from five to six nights this season, averaged a 7.7 rating, 12 percent audience share. (Each rating equals 931,000 homes).

CBS, which has challenged the heavy advertiser emphasis on viewers 18 to 49, dominated the season by winning 22 of the 30 weeks. It also was the leader on four nights of the week - Sunday, Monday, Tuesday and Saturday.

Its revamped Monday lineup became vulnerable as two new sitcoms, "Love & War" and "Hearts Afire," were ratings in the ratings.

ABC was bolstered by the move of "Home Improvement" from Tuesday to Wednesday, where its ratings dollars had half of the Top 10 series, as well as the top two special of the season,

\n
Prison standoff continues

Careless remarks followed by death, more negotiations

The Washington Post

LUCASVILLE, Ohio—A second hostage freed from the Southern Ohio Correctional Facility sharply criticized prison authorities Tuesday and blamed the death of the only hostage killed in the inmate uprising on a careless remark by a prison system spokeswoman.

In an interview with WINS-TV in Columbus, Darold Clark Jr., one of eight prison guards taken hostage during tense negotiations April 11, said at the beginning of the uprising "it seemed like (prison officials) didn't care about us."

"The way the administration first handled this situation was just unbelievable to me," he said. "I couldn't believe the way they were just juggling our lives in their hands."

Clark's comments clearly paralleled those of freed hostage James A. "Buddy" Demons.

Like Demons, Clark said the five remaining hostages were being well cared for and were in no danger as long as law enforcement forces did not attempt to storm the prison. And like Demons, Clark said a remark by prison spokeswoman Tessa Urwin besmirching the seriousness of the inmates' threats and demands led directly to the death of hostage Robert R. Vollandingham.

With the inmates loning inside, Unwin last Wednesday described their demands as "self-serving and petty" and suggested that prison officials were not taking seriously their threats to kill 11 hostages.

About 26 hours later, Vollandingham's body was dumped out of a cuckoo-clock window. Most negotiations, to end the 10-day standoff here appeared to be intensifying.

Clark said inmates do not want to hurt the hostages.

He also said that inmate demands should be met. "These guys are not asking for parole," he said. "From what I could gather, they just want to be treated like human beings."

PUBLIC AUCTION

OPEN TO ALL VEHICLES

CARS, TRUCKS, MOTORCYCLES, BOATS, ETC.

SATURDAY APRIL 24, 1993

Sale is Limited...Consign Early!!

50% of all cars & trucks will be sold.
FOR MORE INFORMATION CALL (614) 937-4627
MONDAY & TUESDAY 9 AM TO 4 PM

SEARS AND ROEBUCK AUCTION

1061 N. Douglas - Harpeth South - West Frankfort, IL

Come if you want to buy 'em

BRANDERGERS BEGIN AT 1:00 PM
VEHICLES WILL BE CONSIGNED AND RUN BY OWNERS
FIRST SERVED BASES

DAILY EGYPTIAN 536-3311

CLASSIFIED

Effective April 3, 1993, the Daily Egyptian will no longer publish this section.

SMILE ADVERTISING RATES
$3.10 per inch
Space Reservation Deadline: 2 p.m., 2 days prior to publication. Requirements: Smile ad rates are designed to be used by individuals or organizations for personal advertising—birthdays, anniversaries, congratulations, etc. and not for commercial use or to announce events.
We have:

- Studies
- Pets Allowed
- 1 BDRM
- 2 BDRMS
- 3 BDRMS
- 24 Hour Maintenance
- Services

Special Rates for 12 month lease & summer

Enjoy our Rec Room, Pool & Sand Volley Ball Court this Spring

---

APARTMENTS

QUADS

1307 S. Wail

457-4123

Show Apartment

Mon.-Wed.-Fri......

---

University Hall

Daily Rig

April, 1993

---

CREEKSIDE & GRAND PLACE CONDOMINIUMS

- Luxury 3 Bedrooms
- 2 Full Baths
- Washer/Dryer
- Microwave/Dishwasher
- Central Air/Heat

Available for Fall

---

SUGARFREE CLUBHOUSE NATIONAL RENTALS

We have:

- Studies
- Pets Allowed
- 1 BDRM
- 2 BDRMS
- 3 BDRMS
- 24 Hour Maintenance

Special Rates for 12 month lease & summer

Enjoy our Rec Room, Pool & Sand Volley Ball Court this Spring

---

University Hall

Invites you to

Swim

Now...

...Play later

*Visit University Hall today and see our heated pool! Reserve your space for the summer or fall!

Then swim and tan starting now!*
ACCOUNTS RECEIVABLE CLERK

Duties include:
- Posting accounts
- Answering the phone
- Scanning
- Other clerical duties

Requirements:
- High school diploma
- Good human relations skills
- Ability to work independently

Start Date: September 1

APPLICATIONS ARE AVAILABLE AT THE DAILY EGYPTIAN, 515 W.
OAK STREET, DECATUR, ILLINOIS 62526.
Today's Puzzle

SINGLE SLIDES

by Peter Kohlsaat

I said...about yourself...in 25 words or less. You used 21...

---

Shoe

by Jeff MacNelly

Well, I've finally finished that story about Sore-Tex...I've been working on.

You did a story about waterproof clothing?

No, I did a story about the vice president and his new ten-gallon hat.

---

Calvin and Hobbes

by Bill Watterson

It seems to me that if I'm not learning this material, you must not be a very good teacher?

What?

---

Mother Goose and Grimm

by Mike Peters

Some dogs make a circle before they lie down...

I just do it because I'm neurotic!

---

Walt Kelly's Pogo

by Pete and Carolyn Kelly

Rain by afternoon in Bumble...I'm a teenager for a uranium...I'm a teenager...

---

Comics

by Garry Trudeau

You're representing the rescue group? So you're really a...Dope, Duke...not to worry, kiddo...

You'll get on the air first. I promise you will...hold out some...Key elements...I'm going to turn around...

---

Today's Puzzle

Today's puzzle answers are on page 29.
Eastern Europe burst into America's basketball consciousness during the 1991 Summer Olympics in Seoul, South Korea. The Soviet Union was good, Yugoslavia won the silver, the United States only brought home the gold. In casual basketball fandom, that Eastern Europe had major-league talent. Everyone had already known that. They had caed their third-round pick (6th overall) in the 1986 NBLA draft for Drazen Petrovic. Association draft to select Drazen Petrovic. When he said then, it was regarded as one of the best pure shooters in the world. Petrovic, while he was 6'11", was said to be 6'9" when he was 19, was sensationai in the Olympics. The 6-foot-9 player had a motor that was out of this world. Petrovic, who played as a shooting guard, had been one of the best players in Yugoslavia at the time. He had an attractive Game. He had an attractive personality. No one could be his friend. He was Mr. Outside. Dakota was the team's 7-1 Vladko Divac, who led Yugoslavia in rebounding and was second in scoring. Divac had surprising potential. He was only 20 years old, three years younger than David Robinson. But he was just as active. Robinson averaged 13 points and seven rebounds during the Olympics. Divac averaged 12 points and seven rebounds. In 1989, international rules were changed to allow NBA players to play in the Olympics, so Soviet and Yugoslavian players could play in the NBA without being banned from their national teams. Petrovic signed with Portland and Divac was drafted by the Lakers. Each struggled. Petrovic was buried on the bench behind talented guards in Portland. Divac got more playing time, but unlike Petrovic, he could not speak English. He had to learn the language and the NBA game. He had a difficult time acclimating The two found comfort by talking to each other. "We were close," Divac said. "We used to talk almost every second day on the phone because it was his time for me and him. When (the Lakers) played Portland, we would have dinner and lunch together every time." But that was in 1989-90, before civil war was declared in the former Yugoslavia. Republic of Croatia declared its independence from Yugoslavia and was later joined by the Republic of Serbia, which controlled the Yugoslav army. "They broke our friendship because of politics and nothing else. Building friendships takes a long, long time. Breaking them up takes 24 hours." —Vladko Divac

Petrovic is Croatian, born in Sibenik. Divac is Serbian, born in Pristina, now in Kosovo. Petrovic was recruited by New Jersey Nets in 1991, 2 years before the New York Knicks. Petrovic usually is friendly and talkative. But when asked about the feud, he refused to answer: "No, really," Petrovic said. Does he like to talk about the subject? "There's nothing to talk about," he said. "The relationship has deteriorated. The two never get along. There have been discussions to select Drazen Petrovic. The argument went on until the time they played against each other in the Olympics. It was a game that was so important, so emotional, so that's what happened." When Divac saw Petrovic at the first Lakers-Nets game of the 1991-92 season, Divac asked what was going on. He stopped calling, so there's no reason for me to call back. We're not talking anymore." —Drazan Petrovic

The last time Petrovic and Divac were teammates was at the 1990 World Championships in Buenos Aires, Argentina. It also was when Divac offended every proud Croatian. After Yugoslavia defeated the United States to win the championship, Divac said a Croatian national came out of the stands with a Croatian flag. "I said, 'Excuse me, but this is the Yugoslav team and this is the flag we'll be fighting for,'" Divac said. "I showed him the Yugoslav flag. He said, 'This is bull,' and I was (upset) because that was my flag and my country. And I took his flag and threw it away."

Divac said despite the appearances, there was no intention was team unity. He said, "I am a nationalistic. If the Serbian flag came on the court, I would say the same thing. The whole country can't give me support at the time. Everybody said, 'That's right."

The war would not begin for a year, but tensions were running high in Yugoslavia. Croatian politicians, press and people were incensed. Petrovic denies supporting Divac in the incident. "If you ask any Croatsians," Petrovic said, "they all were angry at this time."

The flag incident has developed a life of its own. It is widely credited with causing the split between Petrovic and Divac. But details have become exaggerated. Ready to play. Divac's personal manager, claims Divac grabbed the flag. From Petrovic, a charge that Divac and Petrovic deny. Petrovic now says the flag incident was only a part of his complaint about Divac. "There was a difference," he said, "but that's nothing compared to what we're not talking anymore. When war started, he was calling me by names like 'Dino' Radja or (Tony) Kukoc or myself and asked what was going on. He never called me son because my family were all right. He stopped calling, so there's no reason for me to call him and me not talking anymore."

Divac said the reason he did not call Petrovic is because Petrovic had been traded and was moving from Portland to New Jersey in the summer of 1991 and Divac did not have his phone number. Divac said Petrovic was traded to Portland for Drazen Divac, who was based in Los Angeles, and gave him his phone number. Divac also said Petrovic to tell Divac to call him. Divac never got a call. Divac is 21. 1993

SPORTS SPECTACULAR

After 25 years as Southern Illinois' leading sporting goods store, Bleyer's Sport Mart IS GOING OUT OF BUSINESS. We have decided to liquidate our huge inventory of name brand merchandise. EVERYTHING MUST GO! This will result in tremendous savings to the public.

775 S. ILLINOIS AVE., CARBONDALE, IL

STORE HOURS MON.-SAT. 9:00-9:00 P.M.

718 857-5070
Football expansion likely to bring first black owner

The Baltimore Sun

In addition to two new teams, the NFL is also looking at something else when it expands this fall: its first black team owner. Harrisburg, the NFL, the NBA and the NHL—were held by minorities. In the NFL, minority owners own 30 percent of key positions and 62 percent of players, the report said. About 6 percent of the fans at NFL games are black, Lapchick said.

Baseball's Texas Rangers are the only major sports team with black ownership, a limited partner. The N.Y. Mets and the Atlanta Braves are owned by a pair of black investors, but they sold a few years ago. No NFL teams are black-owned, he said.

Lapchick credited NFL Commissioner Paul Tagliabue with a strong public stand on minority issues, including his push to keep the Super Bowl from Phoenix until Arizona legislation a holiday honoring Martin Luther King Jr.

NFL spokesman Greg Aiello said black investment "was addressed with each of the expansion groups way up front, in the way it is with all our business relationships. Is it a requirement? No. Was it encouraged? Is it on the table? Yes!"

Another NFL official said: "It's something we're interested in, but it's not the sole criteria we will be using" in awarding a new franchise.

Of the five expansion finalists, Baltimore and St. Louis of the NFL, and Memphis, Tenn., have black investors. Charlotte, N.C., officials are also trying to include minority partners, but were unable to, and Jacksonville, Fla., is seeking to do so.

"If it (the color barrier) is going to fall, I'm glad to be one of the guys to do it," said Walter Payton, the retired Chicago Bears' running back. He is affiliated with the St. Louis bid, considering a leading contender.

Baltimore, the only city with ownership groups competing, has black investors in groups headed by clothing retailer Leonard "Boogie" Weinglass and author Tom Clancy. The old by corporate investor Malcolm Glazer includes three partners.

John Mackey, the former Coli tight end and a co-investor with Clancy, said race "is something people like to talk about. But John Unis never threw the ball to me because I was black. He threw to me because he thought I could catch." Another former Colt, Joe Washington, is part of the Weinglass group.

Memphis' ownership group includes Willie Davis, a media executive, and former player with the Green Bay Packers and Cleveland Browns.

'Sleeper' of draft running backs may prove Moore than expected

The Hartford Courant

Four years ago, Ronald Moore

Best running back: Baltimore, the NFL, the NBA and the NHL—were held by minorities. In the NFL, minority owners own 30 percent of key positions and 62 percent of players, the report said. About 6 percent of the fans at NFL games are black, Lapchick said.

Lapchick credited NFL Commissioner Paul Tagliabue with a strong public stand on minority issues, including his push to keep the Super Bowl from Phoenix until Arizona legislature a holiday honoring Martin Luther King Jr.

NFL spokesman Greg Aiello said black investment "was addressed with each of the expansion groups way up front, in the way it is with all our business relationships. Is it a requirement? No. Was it encouraged? Is it on the table? Yes!"

Another NFL official said: "It's something we're interested in, but it's not the sole criteria we will be using" in awarding a new franchise.

Of the five expansion finalists, Baltimore and St. Louis of the NFL, and Memphis, Tenn., have black investors. Charlotte, N.C., officials are also trying to include minority partners, but were unable to, and Jacksonville, Fla., is seeking to do so.

"If it (the color barrier) is going to fall, I'm glad to be one of the guys to do it," said Walter Payton, the retired Chicago Bears' running back. He is affiliated with the St. Louis bid, considering a leading contender.

Baltimore, the only city with ownership groups competing, has black investors in groups headed by clothing retailer Leonard "Boogie" Weinglass and author Tom Clancy. The old by corporate investor Malcolm Glazer includes three partners.

John Mackey, the former Coli tight end and a co-investor with Clancy, said race "is something people like to talk about. But John Unis never threw the ball to me because I was black. He threw to me because he thought I could catch." Another former Colt, Joe Washington, is part of the Weinglass group.

Memphis' ownership group includes Willie Davis, a media executive, and former player with the Green Bay Packers and Cleveland Browns.

'Sleeper' of draft running backs may prove Moore than expected

The Hartford Courant

Four years ago, Ronald Moore

Four years ago, Ronald Moore

football expansion likely to bring first black owner

The Baltimore Sun

In addition to two new teams, the NFL is also looking at something else when it expands this fall: its first black team owner. Harrisburg, the NFL, the NBA and the NHL—were held by minorities. In the NFL, minority owners own 30 percent of key positions and 62 percent of players, the report said. About 6 percent of the fans at NFL games are black, Lapchick said.

Lapchick credited NFL Commissioner Paul Tagliabue with a strong public stand on minority issues, including his push to keep the Super Bowl from Phoenix until Arizona legislature a holiday honoring Martin Luther King Jr.

NFL spokesman Greg Aiello said black investment "was addressed with each of the expansion groups way up front, in the way it is with all our business relationships. Is it a requirement? No. Was it encouraged? Is it on the table? Yes!"

Another NFL official said: "It's something we're interested in, but it's not the sole criteria we will be using" in awarding a new franchise.

Of the five expansion finalists, Baltimore and St. Louis of the NFL, and Memphis, Tenn., have black investors. Charlotte, N.C., officials are also trying to include minority partners, but were unable to, and Jacksonville, Fla., is seeking to do so.

"If it (the color barrier) is going to fall, I'm glad to be one of the guys to do it," said Walter Payton, the retired Chicago Bears' running back. He is affiliated with the St. Louis bid, considering a leading contender.

Baltimore, the only city with ownership groups competing, has black investors in groups headed by clothing retailer Leonard "Boogie" Weinglass and author Tom Clancy. The old by corporate investor Malcolm Glazer includes three partners.

John Mackey, the former Coli tight end and a co-investor with Clancy, said race "is something people like to talk about. But John Unis never threw the ball to me because I was black. He threw to me because he thought I could catch." Another former Colt, Joe Washington, is part of the Weinglass group.

Memphis' ownership group includes Willie Davis, a media executive, and former player with the Green Bay Packers and Cleveland Browns.

'Sleeper' of draft running backs may prove Moore than expected

The Hartford Courant

Four years ago, Ronald Moore

Four years ago, Ronald Moore

Boxing expansion likely to bring first black owner

The Baltimore Sun

In addition to two new teams, the NFL is also looking at something else when it expands this fall: its first black team owner. Harrisburg, the NFL, the NBA and the NHL—were held by minorities. In the NFL, minority owners own 30 percent of key positions and 62 percent of players, the report said. About 6 percent of the fans at NFL games are black, Lapchick said.

Lapchick credited NFL Commissioner Paul Tagliabue with a strong public stand on minority issues, including his push to keep the Super Bowl from Phoenix until Arizona legislature a holiday honoring Martin Luther King Jr.

NFL spokesman Greg Aiello said black investment "was addressed with each of the expansion groups way up front, in the way it is with all our business relationships. Is it a requirement? No. Was it encouraged? Is it on the table? Yes!"

Another NFL official said: "It's something we're interested in, but it's not the sole criteria we will be using" in awarding a new franchise.

Of the five expansion finalists, Baltimore and St. Louis of the NFL, and Memphis, Tenn., have black investors. Charlotte, N.C., officials are also trying to include minority partners, but were unable to, and Jacksonville, Fla., is seeking to do so.

"If it (the color barrier) is going to fall, I'm glad to be one of the guys to do it," said Walter Payton, the retired Chicago Bears' running back. He is affiliated with the St. Louis bid, considering a leading contender.

Baltimore, the only city with ownership groups competing, has black investors in groups headed by clothing retailer Leonard "Boogie" Weinglass and author Tom Clancy. The old by corporate investor Malcolm Glazer includes three partners.

John Mackey, the former Coli tight end and a co-investor with Clancy, said race "is something people like to talk about. But John Unis never threw the ball to me because I was black. He threw to me because he thought I could catch." Another former Colt, Joe Washington, is part of the Weinglass group.

Memphis' ownership group includes Willie Davis, a media executive, and former player with the Green Bay Packers and Cleveland Browns.

'Sleeper' of draft running backs may prove Moore than expected

The Hartford Courant

Four years ago, Ronald Moore

Four years ago, Ronald Moore

'Sleeper' of draft running backs may prove Moore than expected

The Hartford Courant

Four years ago, Ronald Moore

Four years ago, Ronald Moore

'Sleeper' of draft running backs mo