Bolat Nurgaliyev, ambassador to the United States from Kazakhstan, said his country has been "hidden" from the United States by the former Soviet Union for more than 70 years, and his primary goal is to educate people about his newly emerged nation.

"It is a necessity to have these type of linkages, especially among institutions of higher learning," he said. "Not many people know about Kazakhstan, so this is important."

Nurgaliyev, who spoke before about 100 people at the University Museum Auditorium Thursday, talked about foreign investors who are interested in the Kazakhstani government and his country's problems of moving from a communist government to a democratic market economy since its establishment in 1991.

"We are the sixth largest producer of oil in the world," he said. "The United States ranks first in foreign investors in Kazakhstan with 66 percent of all investments. About 91 percent of that money comes from companies like Chevron, Shell and Philip Morris. We know that our future as an independent nation depends on investments like these."

Nurgaliyev also expressed his delight to be working with the United States closely to develop a peaceful emerging nation.

"Economic reforms, such as the transition to a market economy, are never popular, but we have yet to have armed conflicts in our land," he said. "This is a great achievement. We have worked in close collaboration with the United States to remove nuclear weaponry from our state. Kazakhstan is very willing to

ELECTIONS: Three SIUC students in the running for USG president.

Student Elections

TRAVIS DE NEAL

Student representation in city government and the unification of SIUC students is the focus of this year's Undergraduate Student Government presidential race, candidates say.

The USG president discusses student goals with SIUC administrators and city officials. In addition, the president can make executive appointments, deter-biological sciences from Chicago and Revolution Party candidate, says reforming student government is the first step in creating a unified student body.

"There is little or no involvement of USG with the majority of the student body," Cervantez said. "I don't feel the present USG representatives realize the diversity of the student body."

Cervantez, whose vice presidential running mate is Jeremy DeWeese, says USG can represent students better by emphasizing Registered Student Organization involvement.

If elected, Cervantez said he will create an RSO commissioner position.

Cervantez said his recent work for City Councilmen-elect John Budslick and Larry Briggs, elected to the council in April, gave him experience in city matters. He said getting Briggs and Budslick elected was the first half of his party's plan.

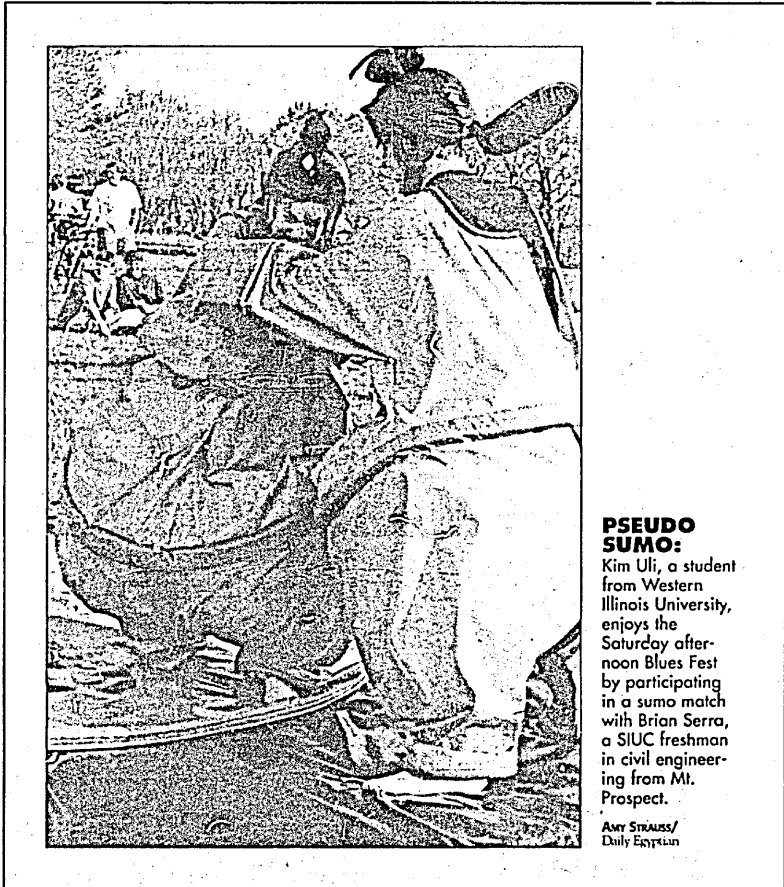

"We are just finishing that by getting ourselves in office," he said.

Cervantez said he is willing to lead students who want to get involved in city issues.

"If we work to integrate the student body with the city, we will have that much more power."

Joseph Cervantez, Alexandra (Alex) Goodson and David Vingren all agree that the student body must be unified before students can influence Carbondale City Council matters. Candidates differ slightly in their plans for unifying students.

The three candidates will debate at 7 tonight in the Student Center Auditorium. The election will be Wednesday from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. Students can vote at the Student Center, the Recreation Center and Trueblood and Lentz halls.

The Student Center's University Bookstore, a University-operated entity that is experiencing declining revenue, could be leased out to a pri-

Gregory Tatham, Student Center director, said the bookstore is undergoing its routine evaluation, and all options for it are being considered.

"The two major options we're looking at is remaining self-op (self-operational) and trying to maintain service internally, or seeing if contract companies can help us provide a higher level of service to students."

Grid repairs await final design

MOVING AHEAD: University will seek bids for repairing power grid next month after governor releases funds.

JASON K. FREUND
DAILY EGYPTIAN REPORTER

Design plans for the repair of SIUC's ailing power grid are scheduled to be finished by the end of April, at about the same time that Gov. Jim Edgar is expected to release the repair funds.

Allen Haake, the University's supervising architect, said repairs to power grid feeders 10, 11 and 12, which service University Park, Southern Hills, the Recreation Center and the Blue Barracks, could begin July 12.

POWER

- Repairs to the electrical system should be finished by July 1998.
- The University has borrowed $180,000 from University Housing to begin the plans for the repair.
- The project will cost an estimated $3.35 million.

Repairs to main-line feeders 1 and 2, which supply power to the steam plant, are scheduled to begin about two months later. The $3.35 million repairs should be finished by July 1998.

The repair plans, which are being designed by Champaign firm Henneman-Raufeisen, will be put out for bids May 15, and the Capital Development Board will receive the bids June 10.

"We also review the bids from area contractors after the design is completed and oversee the construction," Haake said.

The Illinois General Assembly approved funding for the project in February, after two years of partisan gridlock.

Gov. Jim Edgar has not released the funds for the project to the Capital Development Board, which oversees all state projects.

"Sometimes he'll delay that, for reasons unknown to us," Haake said. "But he has indicated that, on this particular project, he will sign a release sometime in late April."

David Hanshaw, Henneman-Raufeisen's electrical engineer on the project, said the firm is finishing the design.

"We're working as fast as we can to finish the plans so we can be ready to go when the funds are released," Hanshaw said.

A power outage Feb. 4 left Trueblood, Wright and Grinnell halls without power for about six hours. An outage last September left Brush Towers, the Recreation Center, the Blue Barracks, and Neely and Grinnell halls without power for about 12 hours.

A melted cable head and failed sections of feeder cable allowed too much moisture inside, and there was a flashover between two conductors resulting in the power outage.

Haake said the plans for repairs to the feeders vary because of how the feeders are constructed.

Feeders 10, 11 and 12 consist of three conductor cables each, and $1.84 million has been appropriated to repair them.

Main-line feeders 1 and 2 consist of 12 cables each, and $1.5 million has been appropriated to repair them.

Feeder 10, which serves Southern Hills, is an overhead line on electrical poles.

"They are susceptible to ice and limbs falling onto the lines," Haake said.

The repairs will put the line underground and also run a parallel feed to allow a switch if there is an outage.

Haake said the extra line will keep the length of outages to a minimum, probably a few hours. Right now, an outage could last a few days.

Feeders 11 and 12 will require running underground feeder lines through existing

Glenn 'Abe' Martin left legacy of perseverance, achievement

SIU LOST ONE OF ITS HEROES LAST WEEK with the passing of Glenn "Abe" Martin, former Intercollegiate Athletics director and Intramural Sports chair.

Martin, 91, was known for his role in revitalizing baseball at SIUC in 1947 and his outstanding achievements on and off the field.

Martin, also an SIUC graduate in 1932, not only captained the only undefeated football team in the school's history and was a sports star himself, but led the fight to turn the University into a home for both intercollegiate and intramural athletic teams.

Without Martin, there may not have been intramural sports at SIUC.

MARTIN CONTRIBUTED TO MAKING baseball, basketball and football some of SIUC's strongest sports. Under his direction as head coach, Martin led the basketball and football teams into national championship appearances in 1946 and 1947.

He coached basketball from 1943 to 1946 — the year SIU won the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics Championship — and was named Athletics Director in 1944.

He held that position until 1953.

With Martin's leadership, the baseball team had 275 wins, 118 losses and six conference titles, five of which were consecutive. He was coach until 1965, but was able to stay with the program until his retirement in 1971.

In 1972, the baseball field at SIUC was named after him and still bears his name today.

MARTIN'S LEGACY EXTENDS TO OUTSIDE SIU. In 1959, the U.S. State Department sent him to Israel and the Netherlands as a goodwill instructor in baseball, and in 1960, he coached the U.S. All-Star baseball team. The team played 11 games in Hawaii.

His enthusiasm and love for athletics were illustrated with something he said in 1963, during his 25th year as a coach: "I still get a thrill putting on the uniform for each game."

That enthusiasm was part of the reason Martin was named to the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics Basketball Hall of Fame in 1958 and was named baseball coach of the year in 1964 for this NCAA district.

MARTIN WAS KNOWN AS A FRIEND, coach and mentor by SIU and the rest of the athletic community. His life lessons taught many about the value of individualism, hard work and perseverance.

But most of all, Martin left a legacy for his predecessors and for the many student-athletes who aspire to achieve as much greatness as he did.

"It was strange to me being in Oklahoma after the bombing. It was a different perspective because I was too close to it to realize the impact that it had. ... Every morning when you go to work, you don't think there is a chance you may not ever come home. That uncertainty is scary. It's hard to think about."

Where have all the toe stops gone? Blades, skates not equal Help! I've been robbed! Just when I'd figured out how to use toe stops, the companies quit making them, rearranged the wheels and changed roller skates to "blades," effectively shattering my most cherished dream.

When I was a child, I was so profoundly uncoordinated that my mother feared for my life every time I uttered the words "roller skates," so the local rink was strictly off limits for me.

Secretly, however, I longed for a pair of white leather go-go boots adorned with bright fuchsia wheels, sparkling shoelaces and fluffy pom-poms the size of my fist.

While I am grateful that I was spared the misery of spending my summers covered with the degree of road rash my more mobile friends endured, I always looked forward to reaching adulthood, when I would be free to purchase my own set of wheels.

Deep down, I was certain that my inability to walk without tripping was just God's little way of telling me I was born to glide on wheels, not clomp around in rubber soles.

I did not doubt for an instant that as soon as I put on that beautiful pair of Roller Derbys, I would be Katarina Witt on wheels.

By the time I was in junior high, my siblings and I had taught my mother that great truth all parents should know: Falling on one's butt is not fatal.

Although I was well past my prime and had exchanged my dreams of performing in the musical "Starlight Express" for dreams of being paid to make smartass comments about public figures in print, I was nonetheless thrilled when Mom at last permitted me to attend a skating party.

Barely able to contain my enthusiasm, I pulled on a pair of tired brown rental skates with the words "stolen from Skate World" printed on the back and boldly sailed forth.

"Xanadu" I was not.

However, I clung to the belief that it was equipment rather than incompetence that inhibited my grace.

Surely rainbow pom-poms and glittering laces would keep me from falling. (Hey, if Tonya Harding can plead shoelace failure, why can't I?)

Some day, I vowed, when the bruises healed and my friends' laughter died down, I would have my own skates.

Then I would practice and practice, and some day, when I was truly awesome, I would return to that rink and show the world that Emily Priddy is not ungraceful.

I spent my childhood in a busy neighborhood where skating would be dangerous and — until I gained some semblance of coordination — publicly humiliating.

However, when I moved last semester, I discovered a safe location just steps from my new front door.

At last, I thought, I have a place to skate, I have a credit card, and I have 20 miles between my conscience and my mother's worried frown.

No one can stop me. I am the starlight. Armed with my checkbook and the fuzzy pink dreams of an 11-year-old girl, I set off in search of the skates I'd yearned for a decade earlier.

An hour into my quest, I discovered a horrible truth: Those skates no longer exist.

In our eternal quest for what is new and hip and innovative, Americans have lost the simple joys of life.

We no longer appreciate the little things, like purple plastic wheels and silver shoelaces trimmed with pink pom-poms. We insist on the best technology has to offer.

In some ways, that is beneficial. I'd be lost without e-mail.

But skating doesn't need to be state-of-the-art. It needs to be fun.

Fun does not need a team of physicists to work night and day cross-breeding skate keys with Nordic Tracks in search of ergonomically correct heel stops.

I know my perfect shoe skates are still out there somewhere.

I'll find them. And when I do, I'll be so graceful I'll have to hire a bodyguard to protect my knees from the clubbings of jealous rivals.

Until then, I'll have to console myself with the fact that I have achieved my emergency backup dream.

Come to think of it, I bet I'd be bigger than Dave Barry by now if my shoelace hadn't broken while I was writing this. ...

... Skating doesn't need to be state-of-the-art. It needs to be fun. Fun does not need a team of physicists to work night and day cross-breeding skate keys with Nordic Tracks in search of ergonomically correct heel stops.

GPSC: Health insurance bill good for millions of students

Dear Editor:

The Graduate and Professional Student Council of Southern Illinois University at Carbondale joins the American College Health Association in its support of H.B. 1281, the Student Health Insurance Portability Protection Bill of 1997. If enacted by both houses of Congress, and approved by the President, this bill would create portability provisions for college-sponsored health plans for college students. Secondly, it would ensure credible previous coverage provisions, thus avoiding unnecessary waiting periods related to pre-existing conditions. And finally, it would bring college-sponsored health for students under the protective umbrella of a group plan.

This bill would amend Title XXVII of the Public Health Insurance Portability Act of 1996, otherwise known as the Kennedy-Kassenbaum bill. The very language of the bill, proposed by Rep. Jerry Costello, D-III, would apply "to coverage under college-sponsored health plans for students matriculating or enrolling for periods beginning on or after August 1, 1997." We believe that the enactment of this legislation would serve as a vehicle to assure quality health insurance coverage for college and university students.

We agree with the American College Health Association's position statement that such legislation is needed due to the fact that "14.5 million college students are covered by health insurance plans sponsored by the college or university they attend."

If enacted, this bill will affect millions of students as they go into the workforce; it will provide many of them with the health insurance coverage they need as they go into the world of work.

Accordingly, we support the passage of this legislation by the Congress and its approval by the President. We urge our colleagues on the campus of Southern Illinois University at Carbondale to write or call you to voice their support for the measure. We look forward to working with you in the future.

SIUC students can pray at ceremony with or without University support

Dear Editor:

There are several things I wish to clarify about my appearance at the USG meeting last week.

First of all, I am not a spokesman from an outside organization known as the ACLU.

I was speaking on behalf of an internal organization known as College ACLU at SIU, which is run entirely by students who care about the Bill of Rights.

The focus of College ACLU is to deal with things at the college level, which brings me to the proposed "moment of silence" at graduation. The term "moment of silence" is an insult to the intelligence of every student here at SIU.

The bill passed by USG was originally meant to be for a non-denominational prayer, which was later revised to a "moment of silence."

Many USG senators who voted for the bill referred to it as their "prayer resolution."

The "moment of silence" was not designed to give students a chance to reflect, but was intended for those who wanted a special time religion with the use of public funds.

As a Christian myself, I understand students' wanting to be able to pray at graduation.

Graduation is a lengthy ceremony, where most of the time students are required to sit and be bored.

Why not use that time for prayer if desired? Why should there be a special moment when there are hours' worth of free time where students can pray if they want to?

I still believe that we all attend a university where students don't need to be told when to pray, or if they choose, reflect.

I pray that Chancellor Don Beggs and the administration listen to their hearts and not mob mentality when they make their decision on whether or not this supposed "moment of silence" will be permitted at graduation.

at graduation for prayer.

Several students I've spoken with are currently considering filing lawsuits, since according to the Constitution they are supposed to be protected from time allotted to

Baccalaureate may be answer to 'moment of silence' issue

Before you begin reading this article, we should have a moment of silence. Think about all beauty around you. Think about all the people you know. Think about the USG senators who successfully manage to prove time and time again their worthlessness and lack of respect for the students they serve.

There, I've said it. I feel a whole lot better, and I'm no longer a threat to the newsroom. All joking aside, though, we still have a threat. Much as this is going to put me in hot water with many of the people on campus, but I want to remind you about the threat of the power of prayer.

A moment of silence is, of course, only the first step in bringing us closer to the Orwellian future our USG cronies dream about: as they dress up in suits and ties to entertain us with their antics. Imposing a moment of silence may be hard at first, but then it becomes "tradition."

Tradition is an ugly word that reminds me of "In God We Trust" on my dollar bills and a prayer to start off our Congressional sessions. How subtle.

But what, you ask, is the problem with a moment of silence? It's only silence, right? Yes and no. A moment of silence is another way of making people uncomfortable in a given situation, much like talking about the great dinner you had last night when you're in a homeless shelter.

Sure, there's nothing illegal in the act, but it is your way of imposing your "superiority" over us.

USG will negate these writings, making light of them like Josh Robison did in his column Wednesday. By making you laugh about it, he causes you to forget the real issue at hand.

We all know silence can be a lot of things. In this case, it is an underhanded way to work around the separation of church and state.

But there is hope. I ask you to persuade members of USG to push for a non-SIUC sponsored baccalaureate ceremony instead.

A separate function such as a baccalaureate could invite all students to attend, as well as administrators.

The baccalaureate could take place on University grounds, if permission was received. The best part is that people who support it will be there, and people who don't won't.

If USG listens to students only once, hear this: Don't impose your religion, your gods or your morals on us.

I "pray" you understand.

Goodson, who is running with Joshua Polite, said when administrative policies change, students should be notified.

"If I am a COLA major, but have to abide by College of Engineering rules for a particular class, that's fine," she said. "But, administration needs to make those rules more accessible to the students."

She said international students often do not receive enough information from SIUC about attending school here.

"International students pay a lot of money to go here," she said. "Maybe they don't feel they are getting their money's worth."

African-American students, Goodson says, often say they are misunderstood by other student populations.

"We need to be recognized more, and as president I will try to get black organizations on campus together," she said.

Goodson says her experience as USG President Troy Alim's executive assistant this semester has given her a first-hand understanding of what the president does.

"I see and know everything the USG president accomplishes, and how those goals are accomplished," she said.

David Vingren

Vingren, a junior in political science and finance from Bolingbrook and Action Party candidate, says the follow-up of this year's progress is essential.

"Troy (Alim) and I got the administration to keep Big Muddy Room open until 3 a.m. so students can study," Vingren, who served as USG vice president this year. "If elected, I will make sure it remains open that long, and maybe see if it can remain open 24 hours a day," he said.

Vingren, who is running with Megan Moore, said his City Council experience is more extensive than his opponents' experience. Vingren got 473 votes in his losing bid in February's City Council primary.

"I feel that my work in the City Council elections and my work after the primary gives me an edge when it comes to dealing with city politics," he said.

Vingren said before City Council elections, he and Moore led a voter registration drive that registered more than 1,000 student voters. The student voter turnout April 1 helped elect Budstick and Briggs.

Vingren says a unified student body will enhance the reputation of SIUC students and improve students' relationship with the city.

"I am looking into a Carbondale/SIU/Strip-business owner-sponsored block party," he said. "We can avoid any kind of violent conflict and make sure students who might riot are aware of the consequences."

he said.

If the Student Center decides to search for private companies to run the bookstore, it would develop a request for proposals and send the request to companies.

Interested companies would respond. Tatham said a decision on the bookstore's future will be made in a few months, after the Student Center has opened its new food court.

The University is negotiating a contract with a food service company to provide a food court in the Student Center in fall 1997.

Tatham said the bookstore's gross revenues have declined.

"A lot of folks have felt we're losing money in the bookstore, but it continues to remain profitable," he said.

Bookstore Director Jim Skiersch said leasing the bookstore would stabilize the University's bookstore revenue.

Currently, the Student Center keeps the bookstore's sales revenue.

Skiersch said the bookstore has lost money because of declining enrollment and increased competition from local bookstores.

"When you let enrollment go down as low as SIU has let enrollment fall over the last three years, which is significantly, that translates into a lot of dollars from every department on campus," he said.

The bookstore has been affected by declining enrollment because its inventory stacks up.

"We base the year we're going into on the year we just did, so we have a tendency, when we go from a year where we have 20,000 students to a year where we go to 18,000 students, to have too many things on the shelves," Skiersch said.

"Our inventory gets out of whack."

Skiersch said declining bookstore revenue is one reason for the proposed $12 increase in the annual Student Center student fee, from $96 to $108, for full-time students.

The SIU Board of Trustees will consider the increase in June.

Tatham said the bookstore will remain aware of students' needs.

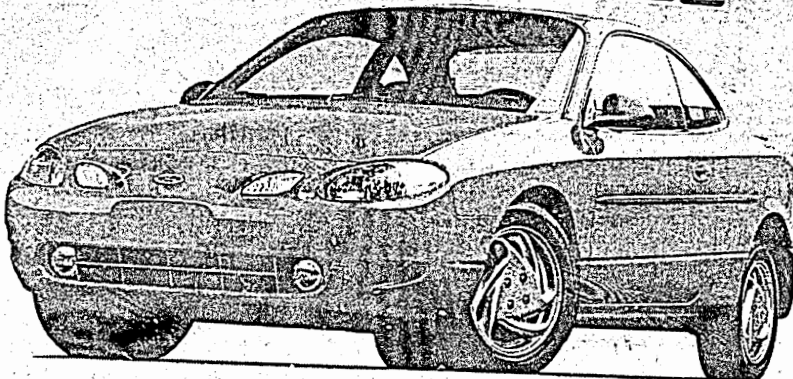

"If a class has only five people, we have to provide those books for that particular class if there isn't any other option for students to get them," he said.

However, Skiersch said, a private bookstore might not offer student-friendly extra services, such as supplying postage stamps and caps and gowns for graduation, because doing so is not profitable.

Softball Salukis go .500 in two doubleheaders

Sophomore left fielder Jennifer Feldmeier set an SIUC record Sunday when she continued her hitting streak to 16 games, surpassing graduates Jamie Koss and Shannon Taylor.

Feldmeier went 3-for-7 against Southwest Missouri State University Saturday and 2-for-8 against Wichita State University Sunday. SIUC (30-13, 7-3) split with both SMSU and WSU.

Saturday against SMSU, SIUC won game one of the doubleheader 5-2.

The Salukis received a complete game from senior pitcher Jamie Schutteck, who struck out three without giving up a walk to improve her record to 19-1.

SIUC also saw solid hitting from Schutteck, who went 3-for-4 with two runs and one RBI.

In game two of the doubleheader, freshman hurler Cari-a Winters took the loss, as SIUC fell 7-1 to SMSU. The loss dropped Winters to 8-8 on the season.

Against WSU Sunday, Schutteck opened the doubleheader with a 5-0 win, her 20th of the season.

The score between the Salukis and the Shockers was knotted at 0-0 until SIUC rallied for five hits at the top of the eighth.

In game two, Winters suffered her ninth loss of the season when the hurler allowed two hits and three runs in 1/3 of an inning of work. WSU jumped on the Salukis 3-2 after one inning and SIUC never rebounded.

The Salukis travel to Columbia, Mo., Wednesday to play the University of Missouri.

BASEBALL

in six innings. Shocker reliever Greg Drumright struck out three while giving up one hit in three innings.

"That's a typical Wichita State team," Callahan said. "I thought Robertson did a good job, and Drumright just picked up where Robertson left off."

SIUC also got its fair share of good pitching Sunday. Schwerman battled back from a slow start while tossing six innings for the Salukis. After allowing three hits and a run in the first, Schwerman set down the next 10 Shocker batters.

But Schwerman ran into trouble in the sixth inning as Wichita State used three singles, a walk and two doubles to push across the two runs.

Pecoraro relieved Schwerman in the seventh inning and cruised along for two innings, striking out three while allowing one hit. But the Shockers touched Pecoraro for two runs in the ninth on three singles and an error by shortstop Jerry Hairston.

"I thought we did a good job on the mound today," Callahan said. "You would like to think in college baseball if you can limit a team to five runs, then you've got a chance to win."

The Salukis' pitching and defense kept the team in all four games. Aside from game three, the Salukis' pitching staff allowed just 14 runs in the series, while the defense committed just three errors in the four games.

Saluki first baseman Aaron Jones said the Salukis' pitching and defense showed drastic improvements.

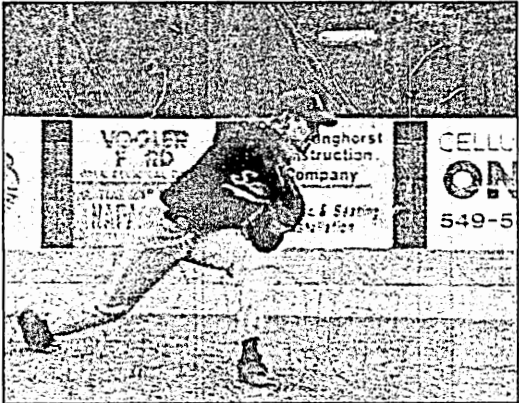

"You've got to commend our pitching performances because everybody out there did a good job, and our defense was good, too," Jones said. "Usually our pitching and defense is what hurts us, but maybe this weekend was a swing in the opposite direction."

However, it was the Shockers' pitching that impressed Callahan. The Shockers held Jones to 6-for-14 in the series, while Benson went 2-for-13.

"They did a great job," Callahan said. "I thought they did a better job on Jones than they did on Benson. Benson hit several balls hard right at them, but with the exception of maybe two at-bats, he (Jones) didn't do anything all weekend."

Jones said the Salukis, who left 29 runners on base during the series, were unable to produce when the team needed it the most.

"That was the toughest series of pitching we've seen. But it doesn't matter how tough it is, we've got to get job done, and we really didn't do it."

Teams wheel, deal in draft

SELECT SUNSHINE: Half of the first 18 picks came out of Florida universities.

BALTIMORE SUN

Let's make a deal was the theme of the NFL's annual collegiate draft Saturday. The league's wheeler-dealers swapped draft picks as if they were trading cards while moving up and down the board.

Although several picks, including the first three, were traded before the draft started, nine of the first 13 picks wound up changing hands and four teams had the sixth pick before the Seattle Seahawks selected offensive lineman Walter Jones with the choice.

That gave the Seahawks, who had earlier traded up to the third spot to select cornerback Shawn Springs, two of the first six picks.

But the best wheeler-dealers in the draft may have been the Tampa Bay Buccaneers, who gave the New York Jets a fourth-round choice to move up from the eighth to sixth spot on the first round and then promptly got a third-round choice from the Seahawks for the pick to move back down to the 12th spot.

The Bucs used the 12th pick to select running back Warrick Dunn, and then on the 16th pick they got last year from the San Diego Chargers they grabbed wide receiver Reidel Anthony as they made a major move to improve their offense.

The Florida connection loomed large in Saturday's first round: Nine of the first 18 picks came out of national champion Florida, runner-up Florida State or the University of Miami. Florida State had four players picked in the first round, the fifth school to have four or more. USC holds the record of five in 1968.

Bill Parcells, in his first year as the czar of the New York Jets, continued to collect extra picks when he took a fourth-round choice to move down from the sixth to the eighth position.

Parcells made one more move in the third round when he used the third-round choice he got from the Lions in the package for the top pick to trade third-rounders with Denver for the Broncos' sixth and seventh-round picks this year and a sixth-round pick next year. That meant that Parcells wound up with six more picks than he would have had if he hadn't made the trades.

But he could have had Orlando Pace or Darrell Russell with the first pick if he hadn't started trading and wound up with linebacker James Farrior in the eighth spot, so it remains to be seen if the extra picks will make up for giving up the top choice.

Defending his moves, Parcells said the team's salary cap problems prevented the Jets from plunging into the free-agent market.

Before all the trading started, the first five players went off the board the way they were expected to after the St. Louis traded up with the Jets to get Pace, who became the first offensive lineman to be selected first since the Minnesota Vikings selected Ron Yary in 1968.

Pace is being touted as the next Anthony Munoz, but he doesn't want to be compared to any other player.

The Oakland Raiders, who traded up to get Pace, then settled for defensive lineman Darrell Russell and the Seahawks grabbed Springs. The Baltimore Ravens got the pass rusher they need in Peter Boulawie in the fourth slot and the Detroit Lions got a cornerback they wanted in Bryant Westbrook.

Despite Aikman's visit the Cowboys had their sights set on LaFleur and the Chiefs wanted Gonzalez from the start. Because of their willingness to bid for the two top-rated tight ends Jones simply slipped to the way-side, making him available to anyone interested.

However, neither the Cowboys or the Chiefs were interested in Jones, whose life-long dream is to play for Dallas.

The Cowboys traded up for LaFleur, opting to take him as the No. 22 pick in the first round, while the Chiefs snatched Gonzalez at No. 13. Like Jones, both Gonzalez and LaFleur had worked out with the Cowboys.

"I told people I did not want to put my eggs in one basket," Jones said. "Dallas went another route. I can't worry about that."

Jacksonville passed Jones up in the first round, taking Notre Dame defensive lineman Renaldo Wynn. The Jaguars took West Virginia defensive back Mike Logan in round No. 2, North Carolina linebacker James Iamilton in round No. 3 and defensive lineman Seth Payne out of Cornell in round No. 5.

Jones, who caught 99 passes for 1,542 yards during his three years at SIUC, said his late-round status stemmed from his troubled past at

The University of Michigan, where he received two years probation for setting off a homemade bomb in 1992 and was charged with retail fraud a year later.

"Some teams had questions about my character. That's why I went so low," Jones said. "But I have to take the good with the bad."

With the draft now history, Jones said he is looking forward to carving his niche at his new home, regardless of how long it took to find out where it is.

"I just want to go to mini-camp ready to work out and earn myself a job," he said. "The whole thing is, if you want something, you have to work for it."

"I have to go in there and compete. I just have to do my job."

patience will have to be a virtue for Gagliano when he enters the NFL.

"I think if he is patient (he will be successful)," he said. "He has the range, he has the leg."

Gagliano's chances of entering the NFL is something Deck is pleased to see.

"I am tickled to death for him," he said. "I think the world of him."

As for being named Athlete of the Year, Gagliano said the honor is incredible.

"I am pretty overwhelmed," he said. "That is awesome. It is a great honor."

An honor like this is something Gagliano never expected when he came to SIUC.

"I came up (to SIUC) five years ago hoping to get on the field and get a chance to play," he said. "I had a lot of hopes and dreams, and they all came true."

Gagliano's chance to play football lead him into the SIUC record books. The punter was the first All-American at SIUC since 1983 when Terry Taylor and Donnell Daniels played on the SIUC Division I-AA National Championship team.

Gagliano ended his collegiate career with 10,776 yards on 264 punts, while setting or breaking nearly every SIUC punting record. He also averaged a nation-best 45-yards-per-kick on 54 punts his senior season.

Being Athlete of the Year and setting records are things Gagliano said he could not have accomplished on his own.

"Thanks to all my teammates," Gagliano said. "It is an honor I accept for all my teammates."

"Thanks to coach (Mike) Deck and coach (Cap) Boso. Without them I couldn't have accomplished it."

Deck said Gagliano's work ethic contributed greatly to the honors he has received.

"He has a great work ethic," Deck said. "He is willing to put in the hours. He listens. He is very responsive to coaches and listens to what they say."

Daily Egyptian Sports Editor Michael DeFord said Gagliano was the perfect choice for the award.

"Selecting one athlete makes this a difficult decision because there are so many talented athletes at SIUC," he said. "Mark Gagliano is a fine example."

Gagliano said the accolade surprised him even more since he is a punter.

"At my position, being a punter, you wouldn't anticipate something like this," he said. "All the honors lets me know it all paid off. It is a great way to end my college career."

Gagliano's college career is something DeFord said made him the prime candidate.

"Mark has represented the University very well, both on and off the field and his accomplishment speak for themselves."

SIUC TRACK

Parks leads SIUC men

Sophomore distance runner Joseph Parks paced the SIUC men's track and field team at the 51-team Kansas Relays Saturday.

Parks ran a season-best 9:03.73 in the 3,000-meter steeplechase, only eight seconds off the winner's pace.

Along with Parks, freshman Brad Bowers took two top-10 finishes by edging teammate Jeraldo Henry in the long jump. Bowers finished seventh with a leap of 23-8 1/2 and earned a ninth-place finish in the triple jump with 46-9 1/4.

Decathlete Elliott Young made the SIUC record books, becoming the fifth Saluki decathlete to break the 7,000-point mark by placing third with 7,075 points.

The Saluki javelin throwers had more solid performances for SIUC. Junior Peter Juszcyk placed sixth with a throw of 184-4, while teammate Devyn Resmer grabbed eighth place with a toss of 180-1.

The Salukis will be in action Thursday and Friday when they head to the Drake Relays in Des Moines, Iowa.

Women second in Indiana

The SIUC women's track and field squad had four first-place finishes en route to a 133-point effort to finish second at the Sycamore Invitational in Terra Haute, Ind., Saturday.

Missouri Valley Conference member and host Indiana State University won the meet with 204 points. Valley foe Illinois State University was third with 127.

Senior Kim Koerner raced to victory in the 5,000-meter run with a time of 18:02.67, setting a season-best time by nearly 30 seconds. Koerner placed seventh in the 800-meter run, while teammate Mindy Brock won the race with a season-best time 2:14.88.

Sheila Hollins also took a first-place finish for SIUC, winning the long jump title with a leap of 19-0 1/2. Heather Greeing was second in the event at 18-5. Greeing also placed third in the triple jump (37-11 1/2) and third in the 110-meter low hurdles (14.78).

The Salukis' next meet will be the Drake Relays Thursday and Friday in Des Moines, Iowa.

SIUC GOLF

Men finish fourth at Classic

The Saluki men's golf team took only four players to the Midwestern Classic in De Kalb Saturday, but SIUC came away with a season-best fourth-place finish.

Host Northern Illinois University won the nine-team tournament with a score of 911 strokes. SIUC finished with 946.

Freshman Ryan Pickett paced the Salukis with a season-best 225 strokes to take third place in the Classic, after hitting a spectacular 71 Saturday.

Other Salukis finishers were Phil Boeckman (237, 14th), Josh Turnbull (242, 21st) and Mike Hudek (242, 21st).

SIUC will be in action today and Tuesday at the Drake Relays Golf Classic in Des Moines, Iowa.

SIUC women take on MVC

Monday and Tuesday will be the beginning for what the SIUC women's golf team hopes to be its first Missouri Valley Conference championship.

SIUC, which finished third last year, is the pre-championship favorite, according to a poll voted on by the Valley coaches. SIUC earned three first-place votes for 51 points.

Senior Molly Hudgins has the No. 2 scoring average in the Valley with 79.6 strokes and is expected to be one of the favorites to capture medalist honors.

The conference championship closes out the Salukis spring season.

Jaguars draft SIUC's Jones

FIFTH ROUND:
SIUC tight end picked by Jacksonville much later than expected.

MICHAEL DEFORD
DE SPORTS EDITOR

Damon Jones figured he was the best tight end available in this weekend's NFL draft. Apparently the NFL teams thought differently. After watching eight other tight ends picked before him, Jones was forced to sweat through four rounds of the draft before the Jacksonville Jaguars finally selected him as the 17th pick in the fifth round Sunday, making him the 147th pick overall.

"I'm definitely disappointed. I think I was the best tight end available," Jones, who had worked out with the Jaguars last week, said Sunday afternoon. "But I'm still happy to be drafted and I'm happy about the team that drafted me."

The 6-foot-5-inch 278-pound Jones had expected to go late in the first round or early in the second behind LSU's David LaFleur and California's Tony Gonzalez. And after working out with Dallas Cowboys quarterback Troy Aikman earlier in the week at SIUC, Jones even anticipated a call from the Cowboys.

The call never came. Neither Dallas, nor the Jaguars for that

WAITING ON COWBOYS:
Chicago offers position to Saluki punter, but he holds out for Dallas.

DONNA COLTER
DAILY EGYPTIAN REPORTER

Former SIUC punter and All-American Mark Gagliano is waiting on the call that will decide his NFL future.

Gagliano, who was named the Daily Egyptian Athlete of the Year Sunday at the Senior Letter Award Winners banquet, has received an offer from the Chicago Bears and is also waiting to hear from the Dallas Cowboys.

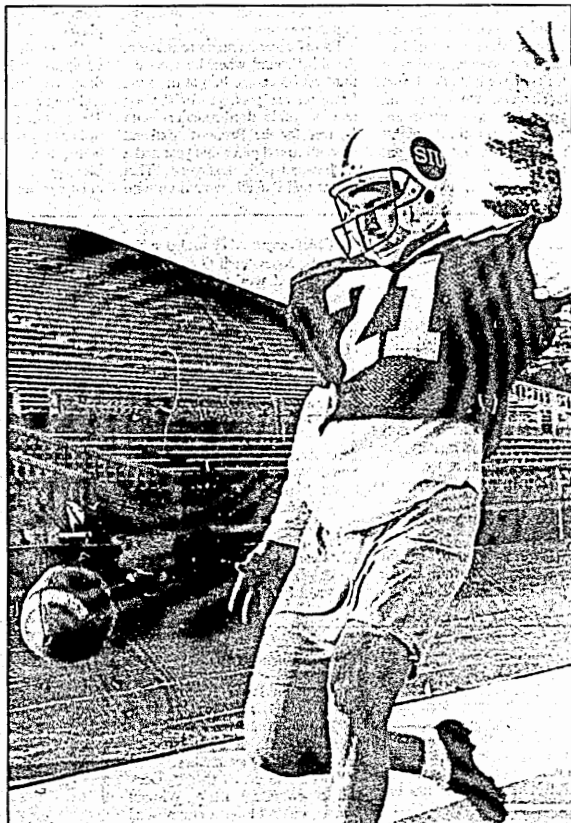

"If (the Dallas Cowboys) were to call, I'd probably take it," Gagliano said from his home in Collierville, Tenn.

Steve Hoffman from the Cowboys contacted Gagliano twice last week as late as Thursday. Keith Armstrong of the Chicago Bears also has spoken to the punter and asked him to join the organization.

The Cowboys are looking for a punter after they lost John Jett to free agency at the end of last season, which leaves the door wide open for Gagliano to make his break.

"With all the salary caps they are looking for a rookie to come in and fill the spot," Gagliano said.

SIUC kickers coach Mike Deck said

Wichita shocks Salukis in three of four

OUT-PITCHED:
SIUC loses battle on the mound at home in four-game series.

RYAN KEITH
DAILY EGYPTIAN REPORTER

SIUC baseball coach Dan Callahan can look to a lack of clutch hitting and two innings of poor pitching as the difference in a 5-1 loss to No. 14 Wichita State University at Abe Martin Field Sunday.

The Salukis punched across just one run on a home run by Brad Benson in the second inning and gave up two runs in both the sixth and ninth innings as the Shockers wrapped up the series by taking three of the four games.

1997

Wichita State grabbed a 6-4 win in game one Friday and an 11-8 win in game three Saturday. SIUC earned a 4-3 win in game two of the series

Saturday.

With the three wins, the Shockers improve to 34-9 overall and 11-3 in the Missouri Valley Conference. The Salukis drop to 13-24 overall and 6-10 in conference play.

"They had guys come up with men on base in run-scoring opportunities and delivered in the clutch," Callahan said. "It was our inability to get the two-out hit to stay closer than we did or even take the lead a couple of times."
