Walker requires firms to reveal gifts

CHICAGO, (AP) — Gov. Daniel Walker issued an executive order Monday requiring firms doing business with a broad range of state agencies to disclose their political contributions to all candidates for state office.

At a news conference Walker announced he was issuing the order because "I want campaign financing out in the open for everyone."

The order also covers firms regulated by the agencies, and officers of the firms.

The first report is due Sept. 15 and will cover contributions during the past two years. Future reports will be required at least semiannually.

The order followed a series of articles in Chicago newspapers charging irregularities in fund-raising for Walker's campaign.

Walker said it was "coincidental" that he had issued the order following the stories.

The order applies to all corporations doing business with or regulated by executive departments, commissions, boards of agencies whose expenditures are subject to approval of the Department of Finance.

It also covers firms dealing with the governor's office and with any board, agency, commission or authority which has a majority of members appointed by the governor.

Officers, directors, partners, managing agents, lobbyists, or persons owning more than 7½ per cent of any such business will also be required to disclose their contributions.

Walker said the order was unique. "This order is charting new waters, breaking new ground," he said. "It's never been done before by a chief executive in the United States."

The order does not cover firms dealing with the legislature or with agencies under elected state officials other than the governor. These include the attorney general, the secretary of state, treasurer, superintendent of public instruction and the comptroller.

Nixon assails war critics

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — President Nixon lashed out at critics of his Indochina policies Monday and acknowledged for the first time that he had ordered secret bombing of Cambodia in 1969.

The President spoke before the national convention of the Veterans of Foreign Wars after a planned motorcade through the city was called off because of reports of a possible assassination plot.

Nixon arrived at the Rivergate Convention Center without incident, however, and shook hands with members of a friendly crowd awaiting him outside. Inside, his ringing defense of his Indochina and national security policies drew cheers from the audience of about 4,500.

The motorcade through downtown New Orleans was called off at the advice of the Secret Service, which said it had uncovered a "possible conspiracy to assassinate the President."

At about the time Nixon departed the city for the Western White House in California, a federal warrant was issued for onetime New Orleans policeman arrested three years earlier during Nixon's last visit to the city.

The warrant said Gaudet, who had been arrested in 1970 for throwing a burning American flag on Nixon's car, entered a "New Orleans establishment" last Wednesday and declared "Somebody ought to kill President Nixon. If no one has the guts, I'll do it."

The warrant went on: "He stated that if he had a gun, he would kill President Nixon and made specific references to doing this during President Nixon's visit to New Orleans on Aug. 20."

Consideration was given to calling off the entire appearance, the White House said, but the Secret Service did not say it was necessary.

The speech to the VFW was Nixon's first public appearance since early July. It followed by four days his televised Watergate address in which he urged Americans to join him in moving ahead with the "urgent business of the nation."

In his address, Nixon criticized "unilateral disarmers" in Congress, defended his Vietnam policies and said he would press ahead in the search for lasting world peace.

The president said he ordered the secret 1969 air attacks after 40,000 North Vietnamese regulars overran a 10-mile-wide strip on the Cambodian-South Vietnamese border.

"The Communists had made a mockery of the neutrality of those border regions," he said. "The United States was under no moral obligation to respect the sham."

"There is today great anguish and loud protests from the usual critics that this was an attack against tiny Cambodia. That is absurd," he said.

Nixon said the Cambodian government "did not object to the strikes." In fact, he said, "while the strikes were in progress, Prince Sihanouk invited me to make a state visit to the Cambodian capital."

That invitation, Nixon said, "was a pretty good indication how he felt."

The bombing strikes were disclosed to "government leaders and congressional leaders" but were not made public because to do so would have forced the Cambodian government to protest. Such a protest, Nixon said, would have meant that American soldiers "would have paid for the disclosure with their lives."

Energy crisis hearing slated for Tuesday

An emergency hearing on the energy crisis will be held at SIU Tuesday, State Rep. Ralph Dunn, R-DuQuoin, has announced.

Samuel Booras, executive director of the Illinois Institute for Environmental Quality, will attend to speak on possibilities of coal gasification.

The Illinois House of Representatives investigating committee on the energy crisis will meet at 11 a.m. in Ballroom A of the Student Center.

The committee also will investigate federal action in regard to the energy crisis and will make a recommendation to the general assembly on how to help solve the crisis.

Eugene Shett of the Illinois Chamber of Commerce and Clarence Klassen, former head of the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency will attend.

Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., will send a representative to the hearing. Sen. Adlai Stevenson III, D-Ill., may issue a statement for the hearing, a Springfield staff member said.

State Rep. Daniel Pierce, D-Highland Park, is chairman of the committee.

Dunn said industries affected by the natural gas shortage and interrupted service by the Central Illinois Public Service Co. will testify at the hearing.

Testimony at the hearing will not be sworn.

Bianchi refuses to show report to trailer resident

by Diane Mizialko
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

A request by a resident of University Trailer Court (UTC) to see the parking and traffic report prepared for SIU by Carl Walker and Associates, consulting engineers, was denied Monday by Rino Bianchi, director of construction and facilities planning.

The meeting between Bianchi and Chris Robertson, a senior in design, ended abruptly when Robinson retorted to Bianchi's refusal with a question about Bianchi's credentials for his position. Bianchi replied, "I don't have time to talk to you any more."

Robertson has served as spokesman for a group of UTC residents who are fighting to keep the court open despite plans to build a 675-car parking lot on its site. The Walker report, Robertson says has a bearing on the issue.

At the Aug. 10 meeting of the SIU Board of Trustees, Bianchi told the board the Walker report recommends a parking lot be built on the site of UTC. At the same meeting, board reaffirmed its July decision to close the trailer court and build the lot.

When Robertson asked Bianchi Monday to see the report or the portion of the report Bianchi had cited at the meeting, Bianchi refused on the grounds that as a "courtesy," the board should be first to see the finished report.

The report, with "corrections," has been sent back to Walker and Associates for printing, Bianchi said. The corrections were made by Bianchi and relate to spelling and similar items, he said. Bianchi said he does have a copy of the final draft.

Bianchi also told Robertson only T. Richard Mager, vice-president for development and services has authority to release the report.

Mager was unavailable Monday afternoon, but Don Hecke, director of communications, said Bianchi's refusal to release the report was justified.

Hecke noted student protest over the closing of the court is "costly" to the University. The UTC residents' appeals to the Board of Trustees and to Gov. Dan Walker requires SIU to respond, Hecke said, requiring an investment of time and money.

James Brown, chief of board staff, said Monday the Walker report has not been placed on the agenda for the Sept. 14 board meeting. The deadline for placing items on the agenda, Brown said, is Thursday. However, he added, at the request of the administration, items may be added at the last minute.

Hecke said he "imagines" the board will receive the report next month. However, he noted, the report must first "cross Dr. Mager's desk." Mager has not seen the report, Hecke said.

The protesting residents of UTC have said they will carry their appeal to keep the court open to the Illinois Higher Board of Education when it meets Sept. 4 in Springfield. Robertson and his wife, Jan, have said they will not move from the court when their contract expires Sept. 1, pending the decision of the IHBE.

Beer demand forces rationing by Busch

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Anheuser-Busch Inc., the nation's largest brewery, has been forced to ration its product supplies at the wholesale level because of an unprecedented demand, a firm spokesman said Monday.

Orion Burkhardt, vice president in charge of marketing said a shortage of Budweiser, Busch Bavarian and Michelob exists despite 24-hour production at nine Anheuser-Busch plants.

"The demand has never been so great in the brewery's history," Burkhardt said. "We're doing everything we can to fill the pipelines."

Anheuser-Busch, operating at its capacity of 29.5 million barrels annually, announced plans last month to discontinue production of Budweiser malt liquor because of the shortage.

In addition to the home plant, other breweries are at full production seven days a week at Houston, Tex.; Columbus, Ohio; Newark, N.J.; Van Nuys, Calif.; Jacksonville, Fla.; Tampa, Fla.; Williamsburg, Va., and Merrimack, N.H., Burkhardt said.

On the drawing board are plans for a new brewery in Fairfield, Calif., as well as plant expansion at Jacksonville. Burkhardt said a five-day strike at the company's St. Louis plant in July had had an "inconsequential" effect on the beer supply.

Brass rubbing topic of talk at luncheon

An unusual hobby will be the center of attention this week at Lunch and Learn. "English Brass Rubbing" will be the title of a talk given at noon Wednesday in the Mississippi Room of the Student Center by Michael Altekruze, associate professor in guidance and educational psychology.

English brass rubbing is so-called because it describes the process of collecting relief tracings off the brass replicas of persons buried in old English crypts.

Altekruze will illustrate his talk on the craft of making rubbings with slides.

The cost of Lunch and Learn is $1.85. Reservations must be made by noon Tuesday, by calling 453-2395.

IC seeking hike for commuters

CHICAGO (AP) — The Illinois Central Gulf Railroad asked authority from the Interstate Commerce Commission Tuesday to raise its Chicago area commuter fares from 7 to 132 per cent depending on distance traveled and ticket type. The line said it is seeking ICC action because of inaction by the State of Illinois governing agency, the Illinois Commerce Commission.

The schedule of increases filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission is different than the proposal filed with the Illinois body in January. That schedule asked approval of increases ranging from 5 to 25 per cent and still is under suspension by the state agency.

Council will probe auto, steel prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Cost of Living Council Monday announced it will hold public hearings later this month on proposed price increases by the country's largest auto producers and steel makers.

Hearings on proposed 1974 auto prices increases will be held in Washington on Tuesday, Aug. 28.

Hearings of proposed increases in steel prices will be held Aug. 30 and 31, also in Washington.

The country's auto makers and major steel companies informed the government last of their intention to increase prices in 30 days under the administration's new Phase 4 anti-inflation program.

Among the auto makers, General Motors proposed increasing prices by $102 on its 1974 models.

The giant of American steel, U.S. Steel, said it was proposing in creases averaging about 4.8 per cent for sheet steel and pipe products. Other steel companies proposed similar increases.

Phase 4 regulations allow price increases only to reflect increased costs, but the Cost of Living Council also has authority to deny, reduce or postpone price increases proposed by the country's largest firms.

The Internal Revenue Service said the fourth major auto manufacturer, American Motors, also has advised the government of its intention to increase 1974 model prices.

The weather:

Sunny and cooler

Tuesday: Sunny and cooler with the high temperature in the middle 80s. Probability for precipitation less than 20 per cent wind will be from the North to Northwest at 8 to 15 mph. Relative humidity 35 per cent.

Tuesday night: Fair and cool with the low in the low to middle 60s. Chances for precipitation diminishing into tomorrow.

Wednesday: Sunny and pleasant with the high around the low to middle 80s.

Monday's high on campus 85, 2 p.m., low 66, 6 a.m. Information supplied by SIU Geology Department weather station.

Nixon cancels motorcade after death threat

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—President Nixon cancelled a motorcade through New Orleans on Monday after the Secret Service warned there was a plot to assassinate him. A federal warrant was issued accusing a former policeman of threatening Nixon's life.

A pick-up order was put out for the one-time policeman, Edwin M.

Gaudet, early Monday morning. Later, at about the time Nixon was leaving New Orleans after a speech to the Veterans of Foreign Wars, a federal warrant was issued that said Gaudet "knowingly, willfully, unlawfully, made a threat to take the life of the President."

Gaudet was arrested in 1970—the last time Nixon visited New Orleans—for throwing a burning flag at the President's car.

The cancellation of the open-car parade through downtown New Orleans followed a highly unusual announcement by the Secret Service in Washington urging Nixon to change his plans.

The warrant for Gaudet's arrest said "This complaint is based on the fact that on or about Aug. 15, 1973, the aforementioned subject entered an establishment in New Orleans and stated, 'Somebody ought to kill President Nixon. If no one has the guts, I'll do it.'

"Further, that on no less than three prior occasions in the last two weeks, subject entered the same establishment and complained about the current state of the national economy and that he was unable to feed his family under present conditions.

"He stated that if he had a gun, he would kill President Nixon and made specific references to doing this during President Nixon's visit to New Orleans on Aug. 20." There was no violence during the President's visit.

After Nixon left the city for San Clemente, Calif., New Orleans police said the only information they had about a conspiracy was what they had been told by officials in Washington.

Asst. U.S. Atty. Albert J. Winters Jr. said in New Orleans that the only warrant issued in the case was for Gaudet.

The Secret Service said Gaudet was armed and dangerous.

Word of the conspiracy was announced by the Secret Service in Washington. It was the first time agents had said publicly before a Presidential visit that they were unable to secure the area.

Jack Warner, a spokesman for the Secret Service in Washington, said it was believed more than one person was involved. He said: "Over the past week we have received information over a possible conspiracy to assassinate the President during his visit to New Orleans." He said the information came from "police sources."

Originally, Nixon was to join local officials and a handful of marching groups for a five-block parade down Canal Street.

Instead, his party took an unannounced route directly to the Rivergate Convention Center where he addressed a meeting of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Gov. James Fitzmorris announced at midmorning that Gaudet had been picked up, but police and Secret Service spokesmen denied arresting the one-time policeman, whose last known address was in a skid row area.

Gaudet's father said he believes his son is in New Mexico. "I think the whole picture is distorted," he said.

In connection with word of a possible plot, police announced that the police superintendent's unmarked auto had been stolen Sunday night from his home.

However, they refused to link Gaudet specifically with either the theft or the alleged conspiracy.

Rogers criticizes burglary of Ellsberg's psychiatrist

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers Monday criticized the 1971 burglary of the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist. He said the government should strictly observe the law and civil liberties except "in very unusual circumstances."

Rogers said operations conducted by the so-called White House "plumbers" were not analogous to wiretapping in the interest of national security. When he was U.S. attorney general in the Eisenhower administration the wiretaps he approved "in a certain limited number of cases" were all reported to Congress, he said.

"I believe that it is very important for the United States not to become so obsessed with security matters that laws are freely violated," Rogers told newsmen, who drew him into a discussion of the Watergate episode.

The secretary, long a close friend of and adviser to President Nixon, conceded that former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell was the first to assert a presidential right to engage in wiretapping without judicial permission in the interest of domestic security.

Every president since Franklin D. Roosevelt has authorized taps for "important international matters," Rogers said, "and it has been generally known, and Congress has been given the information about it."

He added, "I think extreme caution should be exercised before laws are violated in the name of national security."

On the other hand, referring to publication of the Pentagon Papers, the secretary said "it is very discouraging when you are in the middle of very sensitive negotiations to have things leaked from the government, papers stolen and made public, in a way which can adversely affect our security interests."

County to get funds to fix flood damage

Jackson County is one of nine local government units which will receive federal and state funds to help restore public loss incurred in the spring floods, according to a joint announcement made Monday by Rep. Kenneth J. Gray, (D-III.) and Robert Ritz Jr., acting director of the Illinois Civil Defense Agency.

Jackson County will receive $34,937 in relief funds from the Federal Disaster Assistance Administration and the State of Illinois.

Also approved were relief grants to the City of Grand Tower, $22,779; Anna-Jonesboro Water Commission, $6,396; Murphysboro, $1,364; Massac County, $32,604; Pope County, $14,855; Gallatin County, $8,391; Johnson County, $40,701; and Franklin County, $13,222.

Walker requires firms to reveal contributions

Walker said he hoped these officials would require similar disclosures by firms doing business with their offices. But he said the number of such firms is small.

Walker said he was forced to issue the order because the legislature had failed to enact a comprehensive ethics law.

"I have had to act because the legislature refused to act," he said. Walker said he now wants to get his order codified by the legislature in "the broadest possible law we can get."

Walker said he had delayed issuing his order pending a court ruling on the constitutionality of a previous executive order requiring state employees to disclose their income and assets. The order was recently upheld in Circuit Court in Sangamon County.

Among the kind of firms that will be required to file contribution reports are banks, savings and loan associations, liquor licensees and insurance companies.

Walker said he anticipated the new order would be opposed strongly in the courts.

"There's going to be a lot of dust raised by this order," he said.

He admitted there might also be cases where enforcement is difficult.

"We are going to have some problems and I don't have any doubt of that," Walker said.

Board committee will hold special meeting Aug. 27

A special meeting of the committee on Board and Executive Officer Relationships of the SIU Board of Trustees will be held Aug. 27 in Chicago.

The committee will discuss the employment of staff and executive officers to the board.

The meeting is expected to be closed to the public.

A new game in town

Three members of Student Government are working to make it easier for SIU students to get short term loans. They're working to establish a credit union open to students and Carbondale residents.

A credit union allows its members to open savings accounts and apply for loans. It is a non-profit organization, controlled completely by its members.

SIU has a credit union but it's open only to faculty, staff and teaching assistants. The charter of the present union would require an amendment before students could be allowed to join.

The membership of the credit union elects a five-man board of directors and the committees which operate the organization.

The only paid officer of a credit union is a full-time treasurer who coordinates the routine affairs of the union. The charter of the union requires the treasurer to be bonded. This means any money handled by the treasurer is guaranteed against loss or theft.

Although the interest rates on loans are usually no lower than at a commercial bank, the greatest advantage of a credit union is the increased availability of money for loans.

Members of the credit union meet and decide the rate of interest charged, the amount of collateral needed and the time limit on repayment of a loan. All standards and guidelines of the credit union are determined by the members.

This allows the credit union to operate under guidelines which can be more flexible than those of a commercial bank or a savings and loan association.

The rate of interest on savings accounts provided by a credit union is usually higher than the rate of a commercial bank but lower than the rate provided by a savings and loan association.

Carbondale banks are reluctant to loan money to SIU students because many times they don't have the necessary collateral. To be eligible for a short term loan from the University, a student must need money for an emergency or for "expenditures relating to the academic process."

A credit union could allow its members to borrow money for needs which would not qualify them for a loan from the University. It could also accept collateral which would not be sufficient for a commercial bank.

Before a credit union is chartered a federal examiner must inspect the organization of the proposed union. The union must have signed statements from 300 persons promising to join the union. Positions on the board of directors and the committees must be filled.

The union is not required to have any money on hand before it is chartered.

After the credit union is chartered, a membership fee determined by the 300 persons is levied. The membership fee is usually $5 to $10.

Good guys vs. bad guys

Ripped off lately? Well don't think it will never happen to you. I thought that but I was wrong. One Atlas battery P001121 was taken from my car in broad daylight. Such gall, the thieves even left their pliers (hopefully with their fingerprints too).

In my two years at SIU I have read and heard of hundreds of thefts—bicycles, stereos, cameras, radios, motorcycles and even a wheel off a sports car. Maybe many of you reading this have had the same frustrating experience, hopefully most of you have not and will not. However, unless we as students take a more active role in crime prevention we cannot hope to diminish this problem. Many will say hire more police but I'm not so sure that is realistic. What is wrong with your two eyes being on patrol so to speak. The Carbondale Police have a program "Watch Out For Crime" where people are urged to call in and report suspicious activities they see. Also there is "Operation Identification" where you may borrow an engraving machine to mark your valuables. (Items with identification are easier to return to the original owner and also discourages theft as items are harder to resale. Buyers of stolen items also run a higher risk if identification is on them.) With 20,000 students and thousands more employees at SIU it would make sense to watch out for each other. If you see something suspicious in a dorm, parking lot, apartment complex, etc., report it and jot down description of people or vehicles involved. Somehow I can't believe hundreds of thefts go unnoticed, more likely it is people not taking that little extra to get involved. Well the bad guys are involved and unless the good guys start caring enough to get involved in crime prevention, the bad guys are going to continue to rip off everything in sight.

What does being ripped off feel like? First it is a big strain financially to replace the stolen item, especially if need same day like my battery. Secondly it ruins your whole day—disrupts schedule, classwork, job. Gives you a feeling of frustration and hate for someone which could carry over to other activities during the day. Then if you want to check on your insurance coverage you find out what lousy insurance you have, get the round around by the agent or later increased insurance rates. Few other programs but that gives you an idea.

Seriously folks! Being ripped off is a bummer and only by involvement by students and staff alike can we help to curb the epidemic of thefts that has plagued Carbondale and SIU the last few years. Otherwise, you may be next!

P.S. Anyone seeing any suspicious activity regarding theft of battery from green Mustang, Arena parking lot, 10 a.m.-12 noon, Tuesday, Aug. 14, 1973 please notify me or SIU Security Police.

The credit union must be independent of the University. No student fees can be spent establishing the credit union.

Any member of the credit union may leave the union at any time and withdraw his money at no cost. The government guarantees that every dollar invested in the credit union will be returned.

Money invested in the credit union is insured by the federal government for an amount up to $20,000.

The credit union will be regularly audited twice a year by federal auditors to see that the finances of the credit union are sound. The membership isn't responsible for any debts incurred by the union.

The money of the credit union is kept at a local bank where it collects interest. The union is spared the expense of protecting the money.

With Carbondale residents as members, the credit union will function after its student founders leave the University.

Federal law has only recently been amended to allow university students to form credit unions. Successful credit unions composed of students have already been established at two universities.

Now when an SIU student needs a loan there is only one game in town—controlled by the University and the Carbondale banks.

It's time for an alternative.

High cost of lady cats

To the Daily Egyptian:

I am taking care of a person's cat. The cat is a lady and, as most lady cats are when given the chance, she is a mother. In fact, this lady cat has been a mother many times over since she's been in my custody. She is about to be a mother again. Since it's about time this lady was spayed, I called the Carbondale Animal Clinic and found out it would cost me almost $40 for the operation.

It seems to me that, in light of the extreme animal population problem that exists in Carbondale, the charge is not only flamboyantly high but self-defeating to the city. What is the use of advertising this service in the student newspaper when most of its readers could never afford the price? I, for one, am again going to witness the miracle of birth in my household. Afterwards, however, I'll sadly be a visitor to the Humane Shelter instead of the Animal Clinic.

Government troops chase Laos rebels

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—Laotian government forces pursued rebel stragglers in the Vientiane area Monday after crushing a rightist coup that raised question about the future of negotiations with the pro Communist Pathet Lao.

A dusk-to-dawn curfew was in effect in this capital. Its fewer than 200,000 inhabitants showed little apparent concern over the 10-hour air and ground operations to overthrow Premier Souvanna Phouma.

Gen. Thao Ma, an exiled right-winger, led the invaders across the Mekong River from Thailand before dawn. He was pronounced dead after government forces shot down one of four T28 light bombers that the small rebel force pirated from the Laotian air force during an attack on the Vientiane airport.

There was no official count of casualties in the rebel bombing and sporadic ground fighting. But by all accounts they were low.

The government reported that no more than 60 rebels took part in the coup attempt that began before dawn Monday. Other authoritative sources estimated three times that many.

The prospect of a coup from the right had been the talk in Vientiane for at least two days after talks between Prince Souvanna Phouma's government and the Hanoi-backed Pathet Lao bogged down last week on details of a new coalition government to seal the five-month-old Laotian cease fire.

Right-wingers in Souvanna Phouma's camp had been reported unhappy with concessions made to the Pathet Lao by the 72-year-old leader, classed as a neutralist and backed by the United States.

The Pathet Lao, with North Vietnamese help, have over recent years gained control of about 80 per cent of the Laotian countryside and a third of its people. Because of their military strength, they are in a position to demand substantial concessions.

It remained to be seen whether Thao Ma's coup was an isolated gamble or whether it reflected dissatisfaction among a wide circle of rightists whose opposition could further stall the negotiations.

In Cambodia, another country that was sucked into the Vietnam conflict, Premier Tan Sam said he sees no hope for a negotiated settlement to the fighting. Cambodia is the only remaining Indochinese country without a cease-fire.

President Nixon acknowledged in New Orleans for the first time that he ordered secret bombing in Cambodia a month after he took office in 1969.

Faculty Senate to reconvene for unfinished agenda

The Faculty Senate will reconvene Tuesday, to finish business left on its agenda after last week's marathon five-hour meeting.

Facing the senate will be a letter from Leland Stauber, government professor.

Stauber wants the senators to take action in the matter of Joel Graber's allegedly being bodily thrown out of a press conference. Graber has charged that Dean of Students George Mace mistreated him during the May 5, 1973, conference given by a former POW, Navy Lt. Cmdr. William Tschudy.

Numerous committee reports await the senators at the 1:30 p.m. meeting, in the Student Center Mississippi Room.

3 charged with mail fraud

CHICAGO (AP)—A federal grand jury charged three persons with mail fraud Tuesday in an alleged $24,000 franchise scheme.

The 11-count indictments named Nick Hanna, 59, of Chicago, and Joe Urban, 41, and his wife, Mildred Urban, 43, of Miami.

They allegedly operated the Miracle Products Co. Inc. to induce persons to pay about $2,990 as a security deposit for a cosmetics franchise.

The government said the defendants sold the franchise to 85 persons, guaranteeing earnings of $12,000 to $30,000 annually, but never delivered on any of the firm's promise.

Senior's interest in U.N. rewarded

By Ed Dunin-Wasowicz
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

What started out as scholarly interest in the United Nations has become an involvement which has given Charles R. Bauman, a senior in government, the chance to travel and see firsthand the intricate workings of international relations.

In 1967 Bauman received his first exposure to the area of international relations with the SIU Model U.N. as chairman of the Russian delegation.

"I applied pretty late and all that was left was Russia," he said.

The next year he became the Secretary General of the club and went to New York to the World Student Leadership Council. There he was elected national vice president of the now-defunct Council on International Relations and United Nations Affairs (CIRUNA).

"While I was vice president of CIRUNA I travelled to 68 different campuses with other model U.N. clubs," Bauman said. At this time he was also a senator in SIU student government.

On his visit to New York, Bauman met the president of the World Federation of the United Nations Associations, who was also the director of the World Trade Association (WTA), and got a job offer.

He went to work for the WTA mart in Geneva, Switzerland, for about a year, and became involved in the International Student movement of the U.N.

"I got to do a lot of traveling between New York, Geneva and Brussels and learned quite a lot about international relations," Bauman said.

His next assignment brought him back home for a while to New York with the U.N. Association of the United States.

"After this I got a job with the United States mission to the United Nations in Geneva," Bauman said.

There he was hired as a research assistant and liaison officer and eventually became an aide to an undersecretary.

"I did a little work in relations with Rhodesia and Mozambique on racial problems and sugar tax quotas," he said.

Bauman also did research and liaison work for Nuclear Non-proliferation Treaties (Strategic Arms Limitations Treaties—Salt Talks) between Russia and the U.S.

He is presently working on a bachelor's degree in government. He already holds a degree in history.

"I plan to go back, after I get my degree, to the WTA job and eventually hope to go to law school in Europe," he said. Bauman hopes the government degree will help him with his job.

Bauman also would like to work for one of the departments of the foreign services for the U.S.

Area employment off; unemployment rate up

Employment dropped 4 per cent in the Carbondale-Murphysboro area between April and June, 1973, according to statistics released from the Illinois Bureau of Employment Security (BES).

About 325 people became unemployed during the April-June period due to a decrease in the number of jobs available, BES reported. Reasons cited by BES for the drop in employment included a large layoff of students at SIU, a reduction of retail trade, a decline of nondurable goods, and a sag in wholesale trade.

The unemployment rate for the April-June period increased from 4.5 to 5.9 per cent. This was a slight increase over the 5.8 per cent figure for June, 1972, according to BES. The 5.9 per cent rate is also above the 5.4 per cent national rate and the 3.9 per cent Illinois rate.

The BES also reported that employment dropped about 13 per cent from June, 1972 to June, 1973. A staff reduction at SIU accounted for most of the loss.

A forecast by the BES of the August situation shows that employment should shrink by 7 per cent. Government and agricultural areas were singled out to expect the heaviest job losses.

In October, BES reported that employment should climb 14 per cent above the August figures. This would be caused by an increase in government and agricultural jobs.

Grade school registration to end Friday

Carbondale Elementary school registration is being held through Friday at the school the child will attend. Registration times are from 8:30 a.m. to noon and 1 to 3:30 p.m.

High school registration ended Thursday, but late students can sign up from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. until Friday at the Guidance Office of Carbondale Central High School.

If the student should be out of town, he can be registered when classes meet.

Grade school classes begin Aug. 29. Class assignments will be handed out from 9 to 10:30 a.m. Aug. 28.

Freshman orientation is from 9 to 11:30 a.m. Friday, and high school classes begin Monday.

Bus schedules will be provided upon registration and buses will pick up students at their respective stops when classes begin.

Allman Brothers play all they know for Kiel crowd

By Linda Lipman
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

"Dynamite performance" is all that can be said after attending the Allman Brothers Band concert in St. Louis Kiel Auditorium Sunday night.

The band exploded on stage with "Wasted Words," a cut off their new album, "Brothers and Sisters," and the audience responded with its own excitement. After the tune, Greg Allman announced to his audience of 10,500, "We're going to play everything we know," and the crowd applauded louder.

The band was in top shape Sunday night, having fully recovered from the loss by death of two members. Duane Allman (who played lead and slide guitar) died two years ago and bassist, Berry Oakley, was killed about one year ago.

The group suffered little with the original members of the group. Allman on organ, Dickey Betts on lead and slide guitar, and Butch Trucks and Jaimoe on drums.

Allman introduced two new members, Lemar Williams on bass and Chuck Leavell on piano.

A Review

During the first one-hour set, the group did four cuts off the new album including a long jam with "Jessica" and my favorite from the album, "Ramblin' Man." By this time, Allman has switched from rhythm guitar on the first number to organ for the second, "Ain't Wastin' Time No More," (from the "Eat a Peach" album).

After a few more cuts, he made another announcement to the persons in the seats. "Don't worry, we've got plenty of time." The band continued the concert with a long jam of "In Memory of Elizabeth Reed," off the "Live at the Fillmore" album.

They also did some heavy blues in the first set which was probably the slowest music they did the entire evening. The audience would have liked anything they did.

The band is impressive and talented, but Allman is a musician worth seeing by himself. He came on stage with a blue velvet blazer, black satin pants and white boots. He's tall and thin with long, long, pure blond hair sitting behind his organ, he rarely brushes it from his eyes. He sang powerfully and continued to amaze his audience.

The group returned after another hour or so after taking a short break and Allman asked his already wild and appreciative audience, "Did everybody get off?" The audience knew he was off—off on his own music, jamming with the group and playing to a full-house. The audience was off on the band.

The group truly got into the second set with a tremendous version of "One Way Out," from the "Peach" album. During "Les Bies in A minor" (from the same album), Betts had the floor on lead and slide guitar and lead the group into the longest jam session in the second set.

The group did a variety of jams and solos and another long version of "Statesboro Blues," from the "Live" album. Although Williams was strumming his bass (keeping up with Betts at parts), he had no solo.

Throughout the night the band played cuts off most of their five albums, but avoided songs where Duane had been instrumental ("Blue Sky"). You can't blame them, they could never replace Duane Allman.

It was a great concert but one wonders what they did during their four-hour performance at Watkins Glen, four weeks before, when they played before 600,000 persons.

They came out for one encore, "Whipping Post," which the groupies tell me they do at all their live shows. It was a fine comeback when the audience clapped, hollered and stomped after the long jams in round two. But the audience hoped for more, as the band disappeared from the stage for the last time.

Five western states battle forest fires

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

More than 10,000 men battled 38 major forest fires and hundreds of smaller blazes in five western states Monday. Enough timber to build thousands of homes already has gone up in smoke due to the fires, most of them caused by man.

"Veteran fire fighters say this is as bad as anything in 18 or 20 years," said Dick Klade, a spokesman for the Inter-agency Fire Center in Boise, Idaho. "And the weather is getting warmer with no prediction of any significant precipitation."

Since Wednesday, Klade reported, about 123,000 acres—192 square miles of forest and range land has been blackened or is still in flames. Sixteen fires covering 94,700 acres are still uncontrolled, Klade said.

Klade said a majority of the fires have been man-caused and arson is suspected in California and some of the northern blazes. "That is being investigated," he said. But he said no suspects have been apprehended and he did not know what evidence suggested arson.

Blazes known to have started by accident include the Rocky fire in the Mt. Hood National Forest, now controlled after enveloping 7,500 acres. Klade said that fire started when some hydraulic fluid leaked from a logging vehicle and ignited.

Klade said earlier reports that over 156,000 acres have burned were based on incorrect estimates.

Men were being flown from fire to fire throughout the region by 30 government and commercial aircraft. Over the weekend the fire center moved 128,000 pounds of cargo and 740 fire fighters.

"Northern California appears to be the real critical area at this moment," Klade said. Major trouble spots there, he said, are a 12,000-acre blaze in the Stanislaus National Forest near Yosemite National Park and a 5,500-acre fire in the Eldorado National Forest northeast of Sacramento.

Estimates on the total loss of timber are unavailable, Klade said, but the Stanislaus fire alone has consumed 28 million board feet—enough for 2,800 three-bedroom houses.

That blaze threatened Yosemite earlier but a granite ridge kept flames from the park.

Another serious situation continued in Montana, where the 4,960-acre Caribou Mountain fire in the Kootenai National Forest spread into Canada. Approximately 600 men were on the scene.

Other Montana blazes included 1,100 acres in the Bitterroot National Forest; the Goat Creek blaze north of Missoula, the Tri Creek fire in the Lolo National Forest and the so-called Miles City complex—a string of eight range fires that has blackened 40,000 acres.

6.2% at SIU

SIU is one of 22 predominantly white schools whose black enrollment is 5 per cent or more of the total student population, according to a survey done by the National Association of State and Land Grant Colleges.

The survey listed SIU's black enrollment as 6.23 per cent, 11th highest of the 122 colleges ranked. The survey ranked only those universities which had a predominantly white student body.

Wayne State University was the highest in percentage of black student enrollment with 19.09 per cent.

Republicans warned against Agnew talk

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Nixon administration cautioned some key Republican members of Congress against making hasty public statements about Vice President Spiro T. Agnew after it was revealed that criminal charges were being considered against him, government sources said Monday.

It was understandable that such calls would be made, one government official said, "because some Congressmen sometimes have a tendency to jump the gun."

Melvin R. Laird, President Nixon's chief White House adviser, called Rep. John B. Anderson, R-Ill., chairman of the House Republican Conference with an admonition to avoid public comment after the investigation was confirmed by Agnew himself.

It was learned that Sen. Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich., the assistant GOP minority leader, also received a call but it could not be learned whether it came from Laird or some other individual.

Griffin, like many other members of the Senate and House, was on vacation and not immediately available for comment.

Agnew revealed Aug. 6 that he had been informed he was under investigation for possible conspiracy, bribery, extortion and tax fraud in connection with alleged kickbacks by construction and engineering firms in Maryland. Agnew, who served as Baltimore County's chief executive and later as governor before becoming Vice President, has denied any wrongdoing.

Laird's call to Anderson was first reported by news columnists Rowland Evans and Robert Novak, who said the White House adviser had warned him "not to go all-out in defense" of Agnew and added that the White House move had infuriated the Vice President's aides.

Anderson confirmed the call from Laird but disputed the columnist's interpretation as "not an accurate reference to Laird's motivation."

"I GUESS THIS JOB IS SORT OF RELATED TO MY DEGREE I GOT IN COLLEGE - ARCHEOLOGY!"

RFK's son fined in traffic accident

NANTUCKET, Mass. (AP)—Joseph P. Kennedy III was found guilty Monday of negligent driving and was fined $100. The judge told him he should use his "illustrious name" to do a lot of good rather than having to come into court like this.

The charge against Kennedy, 21, son of the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., stemmed from a car accident on Nantucket Island Aug. 13 that injured seven young persons, one of them seriously.

Kennedy, driver of the car was injured slightly.

Nantucket District Court Judge C. George Anastos said he had never sentenced anyone to jail in similar cases, even though the maximum penalty was a two-year term and a $200 fine.

He said he considered making an example of Kennedy, however.

"My problem here is how to treat this case," said the judge in court after Kennedy pleaded innocent, was tried without a jury and found guilty by the judge.

"Should I impose a serious penalty to deter others from driving recklessly?" the judge asked. "Or should I assume the defendant is sufficiently punished by knowing that a young girl is seriously hurt?"

Then the judge told Kennedy, "You had a great father and have a great mother. Use your illustrious name to do a lot of good, as I know you are able, rather than having to come into a court like this."

The young man's uncle, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., accompanied the defendant's mother, Ethel, to the trial.

Afterward, Sen. Kennedy said, "I think this court was very fair. The prosecution had a position to present and did it fairly and equitably."

Joe will have to live with the verdict," the senator said. The accident left Pamela Kelly, 18, of Centerville partially paralyzed with a fractured spine and a broken leg.

According to witnesses, Kennedy met another car head on when he turned his open four-wheel drive Toyota vehicle from a seldom-used side road onto a main highway across Nantucket Island.

"I was confronted by a jeep full of people heading toward me on my side of the road," testified Merrill Lindsay, a witness to the accident. "I attempted to avoid a head-on collision by braking as hard as I could."

Then he said, Kennedy swerved off the side of the road and overturned. "It missed me by a hair," he said.

During the trial, Mrs. Kennedy leaned forward and listened intently, while her son grimaced occasionally when he appeared to disagree with witnesses.

Kennedy did not testify.

A patrolman, William Carlton, testified that after the accident he interviewed Kennedy at an island hospital. "During the interrogation, he said the accident was entirely his fault," Carlton quoted Kennedy as saying.

Besides Miss Kelly, others injured in the crash were Kennedy's brother David, 18; Miss de Onis; Mark Schlaff, 22, of Grosse Point, Mich; Patricia Powers, 18, of Spring Lake, N.J., and Miss Kelly's sister, Kim, 17.

Toilets, newsprint on growing list of items in short supply

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

No matter which way you turn these days, it seems there's bound to be a shortage.

First it was gasoline. Finding a service station that was open and had enough fuel became a standard part of a summer spin.

Next it was beef. Everything from hamburgers to steaks disappeared from the supermarket shelves as cattlemen withheld their animals from market to protest the continuation of the ceiling on beef prices.

The chicken supply declined at the beginning of August, reflecting earlier cutbacks by poultry farmers who didn't like the freeze on their products.

In recent months, scattered shortages of more and more items have been making the headlines. The problems cover everything from toilet seats to telephone poles and many of them seem to overlap.

The gasoline shortage, for example, has caused problems in the petrochemical industry. This means polyester products may be in short supply. The lack of beef also means a lack of leather for shoes and other products.

Many farmers and industry spokesmen claim last year's U.S.-Soviet grain deal is responsible for current wheat shortages. And people who do have grain to ship say they can't get the freight cars to carry it because they're tied up with—you guessed it—the Russian wheat.

Lynn Krause, president of the Chicago Home Builders Association, said recently: "Toilets are impossible to get. They're just not available and it looks like we'll have to wait about three months."

The reason for the shortage is simple: demand is greater than supply.

While you've been reading about the shortages of other items, you may not have noticed some newspapers getting slimmer. That's because of a shortage of newsprint.

Strikes at some of Canada's big paper mills and railroads have slowed the flow of supplies to U.S. publishers and many newspapers say that declining inventories have forced them to cut back distribution or reduce the number of pages they print.

Communications workshop set

A communications skill workshop will be held from 7:30 to 9 p.m. Tuesday at the Women's Center.

Kris Haedrich, University ombudsman and Nancy Gulanick of the Counseling and Testing Service will speak at the workshop.

Ms. Haedrich said the workshop is designed to "take a look at women's ability to communicate with other people, to say what we want to say, and also to spot possible misunderstanding."

The workshop is open to all university and community women.

SIU grads teach tennis

For the next two weeks, two former SIU athletes will hold tennis clinics on behalf of Tennis Associates, a traveling national tennis instruction program, on the Lewis Park tennis courts.

Chris Greendale, former SIU tennis star from New Zealand, and Tom Burke, member of SIU's 1967 National Invitational Tournament championship basketball team, will conduct the clinics which will run from Aug. 20 to 24 and Aug. 27 to 31.

The instructors will make use of a system which films and replays the student in action and theoretically detects flaws in the individuals form. Ball throwing machines will also be used to instruct in both singles and doubles play.

Greendale can be reached for enrollment information at 549-1829 in the evenings.

Riessen wins

ALAMO, Calif. (AP)—American veteran Marty Riessen, back in Davis Cup competition after a five-year layoff, beat Romania's Toma Ovici 6-1, 4-6, 6-1, 7-5 Monday and clinched a United States victory in the interzone finals of the international tennis series.

Riessen's triumph gave the United States a 3-1 lead over Romania going into Monday's final match, the first singles meeting of the year between former Wimbledon finalists Stan Smith and Ilie Nastase.

The U.S. team will be attempting to win a sixth straight Davis Cup title at Cleveland in December when it faces Australia or Czechoslovakia in the championship round. The U.S. and Romania were final round opponents the past two years.

Riessen tied the score at 5-5 on his serve. He broke Ovici's serve in the 11th game and won the match by charging the net for four straight points in the final game.

Riessen, 31, of Evanston, Ill., was chosen over Tom Gorman of Seattle as America's second singles player in the Interzone Finals.

Reds down Mets

NEW YORK (AP) — Johnny Bench's run-scoring single snapped a 16th inning tie Monday and the Cincinnati Reds went on to beat the New York Mets 8-3.

With the score tied 3-3 and one out, Denis Menke and Tony Perez singled. Then Bench brought in Menke for the tie-breaking run. Tug McGraw then walked Larry Stahl to load the bases before yielding to Harry Parker. Cesar Geronimo added two runs with a single and Ed Crosby closed out the scoring with a two-run triple. The Reds went ahead in the 13th inning when Pete Rose scored on a sacrifice bunt by Denis Menke, but the Mets got the run back in the bottom of the inning.

Tiny Wadkins' earns big

SUTTON, Mass. (AP)—Lanny Wadkins' lack of size could be his only handicap in his planned assault on pro golf's money-rich heights.

It's tough for a guy my size to win more than four tournaments a year," the compact, 5-foot-8, 160-pounder said after his second victory of the season in the U.S. Classic.

"I'm not small, I don't mean that. I haven't even won three yet.

"But look at some of the other players. Tom Wieskopf and Bruce Crampton both are very strong guys. They've had fantastic seasons. Jack Nicklaus has had just an average season for him."

"But most of your big winners are big guys, strong guys."

"I've never played more than six tournaments in a row. I don't think I ever will. I start getting tired, drained.

Good try

Things were looking bright Saturday morning for Al Stanczak and his six fellow Road Runners as they trotted out in search of a new 24-hour seven-man relay record. But with 100 miles yet to go, all but two of the runners had dropped out. Several miles later, the run was unsuccessfully over. (Photo by Tom Porter)

No interference with ability

Sickle cell no threat to NFL

CHICAGO (AP)—Sickle cell trait does not interfere with the ability of at least 39 black professional football players to compete in that rigorous sport.

This trait, an abnormality in the blood, primarily affects blacks and is associated with a number of physical problems involving the heart, lungs, bones, brain and other organs.

I like to go home and work on my game and come back out playing like I want to play."

He's obviously got it at that level now—the 23-year-old tour sophomore has just set a record for money-winnings by a second year player, $688,000—and he's playing three of the next four regular tour events.

The low-headed youngster, who went to Wake Forest on an Arnold Palmer scholarship before setting a rookie record for money-winnings last season with $116,000, now has three pro victories to his credit and is looking for even greater things.

Wadkins' $40,000 first prize in the U.S. Classic increased his season earnings to $188,914 and raised him a notch on pro golf's official money list.

Stadium renovation enters phase two

Bids on the second phase of planned renovations to McAndrew Stadium will be opened at 2 p.m. Oct. 3 in Morris Library Auditorium.

The $1,882,159 phase two of the renovation project includes expansion of stadium seating capacity from 8,408 to 17,760 permanent seats, renovation of existing seating, installation of a new communications center, expansion of the stadium lighting system, renovation of present locker rooms and toilets and construction of new locker, toilet and concession facilities.

The stadium seating capacity will be upped by constructing a new 9,433-seat grandstand on the east side of the stadium and adding 4,562 seats to the present west-side grandstand.

The first phase of the renovation, surfacing the playing field with artificial turf, was completed last year at a cost of $296,800. This, added to the nearly $1.9 million cost of phase two, brings the total renovation cost to $2,178,959.

Original cost estimates, made in 1971, put total project expenses at about $1.8 million.

The phase two budget was approved by the SIU Board of Trustees in April. Completion of the renovation project is set for September, 1974.

U.S. trackmen grab gold

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

MOSCOW (AP)—America's speed men finally caught up with their Soviet rivals Monday and won two relay races—one on a foul and after a vigorous Russian protest—which restored some of Uncle Sam's honor in the World University Games.

The U.S. sprinters outsped the Russians in the 400-meter relay for their first gold medal of these Games and shortly afterward victory came also to their quarter-mile teammates in the 1,600, which the Soviet team won and then lost on a technicality.

There were some tense moments before the final decision was made by the appeal jury long after dark.

In the 1,600, Semyon Kocher, the Soviet anchor, broke the tape in the front of the United States' Dennis Schultz of Oklahoma State but it didn't count. The Russians were disqualified for fouling.

In the baton pass from the second to the third leg, Darwin Bond of the University of Tennessee was interfered with by Valery Yurchenko and momentarily stumbled.

The Americans added two silver medals and four bronze in the action packed final day of the track and field competition—ending a four-day virtual drought—and also collected a bronze when blonde Christine Look of Fort Worth, Tex., a student at Southern Methodist University, finished third in the women's platform diving.

The Soviet Union gained six more medals in the track and field, another in fencing and an eighth in the women's diving. The Russian total after five days was 44 gold, 21 silver and 22 bronze. The United States have two golds, three silver and nine bronze.

Dr. John R. Murphy of Case Western Reserve University Cleveland, Ohio, did a study of blood samples of 579 black players at National Football League spring training camps.

The samples were shipped by air to Murphy's laboratory.

He reports in the Aug. 20 issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association that 20 of the 26 NFL teams cooperated. Nine black players did not participate, four because they were away at all-star camp when the blood was drawn.

The 39 players found to have sickle cell trait represented 6.7 per cent of the blacks tested. This is not much different from the prevalence found in other studies of black populations in the United States.

It is estimated that 2 million black Americans have the trait.

Murphy said there had been no previous reported studies of whether sickle cell influences.

Thomas turns on flag, fans as personal controversy grows

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Duane Thomas turned his back on the American flag during the National Anthem, sparking a ruckus between the controversial running back and some Buffalo Bills' fans, it was reported Monday.

The Buffalo Evening News said a Buffalo lawyer, a former college quarterback and a prominent local golfer had written National Football League Commissioner Pete Rozelle saying Thomas of the Washington Redskins should be fined.

The newspaper said the fans suggested a fine, not only for his disrespect for the flag, but "for throwing his helmet and then a Thermos bottle at the fans."

Thomas, in Buffalo Friday night for the Redskins-Bills NFL game, was the subject of verbal abuse and was the target of thrown objects near the end of the contest, won by Washington, 37-21.

He charged from the bench and attempted to jump the four-foot-high concrete wall in the Bills' new 80,000-seat stadium and go into the stands after a fan. Defensive end Ron McDole, a teammate, hauled him back to the field.

Following the game, Coach George Allen defended Thomas, asking newsmen, "What would you do if you heard those obscenities coming at you?"

"I am proud of his reaction and feel closer to him now than ever before." Rozelle attended the game.
