FISHIN' FEVER—On a warm and sunny Thursday afternoon this fisherman still felt the need to range from the high 50s to the low 60s under a winter coat out on the waters of Crab Orchard Lake. Coats won't be necessary during the day this weekend, as temperatures are expected to range from the high 50s to the low 60s under partly cloudy skies. During the evenings the temperatures will likely dip into the 30s.

63 students lose state aid

By Randy Fogushi
Staff Writer

At least 63 students at SIUC have lost their eligibility for Illinois State Scholarships as a result of Gov. James R. Thompson's denial of supplementary funding for the ISSC.

An undetermined number of other students whose applications were not processed by the commission also may have lost chances for awards, according to Joe Camille, director of student work and financial assistance.

Thompson vetoed a bill for $5.3 million of supplementary ISSC funding Tuesday. Because the bill was passed by the Illinois Senate during the last session, it cannot be returned to the Legislature for a veto override.

ISSC Executive Director Larry Matejka has said that a Thompson veto would make this the first year that the commission would be substantially less than totally funded.

The ISSC was forced to ask for the extra funding after it spent its initial $85.8 million appropriation for 1980-81. Applications received after Aug. 28 have not been processed.

Camille said, "We continued to give out applications because we didn't know if there would be supplementary funds or not. We wanted to make sure that if there was an additional appropriation, our students would be eligible."

Camille said he had expected Thompson to deny the extra funding. But he said his office "assumed" that some of the later applicants would be eligible for awards and included the awards when figuring financial aid packages for those students.

Camille said they, along with the 63 students who had confirmed eligibility from the ISSC, will have their financial aid packages reworked. Some of them will be advised to apply for National Direct Student Loans, while others will receive increased work awards, he said.

This year will probably be the last time the ISSC will seek supplemental funding, according to Camille. He said recent ISSC policy changes will reduce the number of awards the commission will make in the future.

Next year, the ISSC will expect students and families to contribute more money toward the educational costs of their children. The commission also will institute a "tentative award" program, whereby some students will be eligible for two different awards and will receive whichever award the commission can afford.

Students condemn new billing system

By Carol Knowles
Staff Writer

Most complaints voiced by students at the open forum on the University's new billing system held Thursday at the Student Center dealt with the form of the bill received by students and the cancellation of students despite financial aid credits.

During the two-hour forum, sponsored by the Graduate Student Council, about 25 students told about their experiences with the system. Although students attending the forum seemed pleased to have an opportunity to talk to administrators about their problems, they still seemed concerned that problems they faced this semester will plague them in the future.

Almost all of the students, as well as some administrators admitted they could not understand the present form of the bill that students receive. Joe Camille, director of the Office of Student Work and Financial Assistance, said the bill, in its present format, was unacceptable and is under revision by the BRS task force.

Laura Nielsen, graduate student in business and administration, said it was coming due in the future should not be included on the bill because they created confusion and that notification to students that certain fees are refundable should be included on the bill. Jackie Cuevas, graduate student in psychology, said she was still getting a bill for fall tuition, even after trips to four different offices to correct the error.

"My time is valuable," Cuevas said. "I do not enjoy spending it chasing around the campus trying to correct an error that never should have happened."

The problem of directed payments also came up. Students said payments they made for housing were being channeled to tuition and fees instead, thus causing the students to be evicted from housing. Jim Belt, management analyst programmer at the bursar's office said the current policy is to channel the payment to the area the student requests. Belt said payments are applied to the first item on the bill only when purpose of the payment is not indicated by the student, although mistakes do occur.

Several students were outraged that their Basic Educational Opportunity Grants were being held to pay bills such as housing payments that were not due until the end of the semester. Camille said financial aid can be used to pay and contractual debts held by students.

The future of cancellation waivers remained undecided, as administrators said they were still seeking input into the decision of whether or not to continue to offer them. Last fall administrators said cancellation waivers were only available for spring semester. Over 3,300 waivers have been given to students this semester.

Administrators on the task force denied that they eliminated the $5 charge for use of the installment plan last semester, and said it could still be enforced. The monthly charge for late payments also has not been determined. Last semester the task force moved to postpone the charge until April.

Students suggested an office to voice complaints about the system should be opened.

Congressmen respond to Reagan fiscal cuts

By Scott Canon
Staff Writer

U.S. Rep. Paul Simon said Thursday he favors tax cuts but thinks some of Reagan's budget cutting proposals will "hurt the middle class and help the wealthy."

U.S. Sen. Charles Percy backed the president's plan almost wholeheartedly but said he himself "will make sure Illinois is treated fairly."

U.S. Sen. Alan Dixon joined Simon in voicing objections to certain spending cuts, charging they put a disproportionate burden on the middle class.

Simon, D-Carbondale, although supportive of the objectives of the budget overhaul, was upset with a number of the administration's economic proposals.

The representative marched in front of the White House Thursday morning with United Mine Workers of America President Sam Church and about 60 other people to protest benefit reductions for victims of black lung disease, sometimes contracted by coal miners.

An administration proposal calls for reducing the number of miners and their widows eligible for benefits. According to an Associated Press report, Simon said he would use his position on the House Education and Labor Committee to oppose any move to reduce the number of beneficiaries of the program. About 4,200 residents of his Southern Illinois congressional district receive black lung benefits, Simon said.

In a press release Simon stated he supported the administration's attempts to boost military spending. However, he urged that the money be spent on conventional forces and equipment rather than on a sophisticated nuclear arms build up.

Although Simon supports tax cuts, he said the specifics of Reagan's proposals "help the wealthy and hurt the middle class." He said the tax cuts and spending reductions are too extensive and will initially lead to higher inflation, which he termed "the cruelest tax of all."

Simon also expressed displeasure with the proposed elimination of funding for synthetic fuel development and college student aid programs.

He was similarly disturbed about cutbacks in the Comprehensive Employment Training Act. Simon said he felt many CETA workers will go on welfare or receive unemployment compensation from the federal government.

"I'd rather pay them for working," Simon said.

Percy was more supportive of the administration's proposals. "Without a doubt the economy is in bad trouble and... I think the citizens of this country want the government to stimulate it," the senator said in a press release.

"With the exception of the truly needy, everyone is called on to sacrifice," he said. Percy feels the proposals will improve the country's economy.

Reagan's "tax cut is ambitious," Percy said, "but it is needed if we are spur economic growth."

"Without these cuts," Percy continued, "individual taxes would rise to 14 percent of personal incomes. We cannot continue this massive tax burden that has stifled economic growth in recent

The senator also supported tax reductions for business. "I support business investment incentive to create new private sector jobs and I will work for quick passage of such legislation."

Increases in defense spending also gained approval from Percy, Chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. "We need a determination to maintain a strong defense and I support the efforts to bolster our security."

Dixon, the newest of the three to land a job on Capitol Hill, stated in a press release that he feels the tax and spending reductions and a balanced budget are possible.

He promised to push for passage of much of the proposed legislation, but said some specifics of the President's proposals need closer examination.

Dixon said, "The country wants to achieve these goals. I expect to vote for selective tax and spending cuts, but I caution that spending must be fairly applied, both across the economic strata and the geographic regions of the country."

Reagan supporters say tax cuts may be delayed

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan's plan to hand Americans a tax cut by July 1 ran head-on into congressional realities Thursday, and some of his supporters predicted lawmakers may be working on the proposal the rest of the year.

Many members of Congress — especially Democrats — say they aren't against a tax cut. But they consider the Reagan proposal a big risk for the economy and a big windfall for the rich.

Reagan's tax bill, which he outlined Wednesday night as part of a plan to revitalize the economy, is targeted on middle- and upper-income Americans in the hope they will invest the saving in ways that will create jobs and slow inflation.

Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., was skeptical. There is no assurance those earning $200,000 a year would make such productive investments, he said. "They may just buy more fur coats and Cadillacs," Cranston suggested.

Rep. Henry Reuss, D-Wis., pursued that theme with Treasury Secretary Donald T. Regan at a Joint Economic Committee hearing. "Are you prepared to advocate an excise tax on such luxury items as fur coats and expensive motor cars?" Reuss asked.

There is some concern in both parties that passing a three-year tax cut now, as Reagan recommended, could shatter efforts to control inflation.

Senate Republican Leader Howard Baker said at a news conference that because lawmakers have their own ideas of when and how taxes should be reduced, "It's possible (debate over) a tax bill may extend into next year."

Rep. Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, predicted his committee will complete action on the tax cut no earlier than the end of May. That would make it all but impossible for Congress to send the completed bill to Reagan for his signature by the administration's June 3 target date.

"We have to give the public and members of Congress a full hearing" before approving such a major bill, said House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill.

El Salvador leftists condemn U.S.

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — Leftist leaders charged Thursday that 100 U.S. military advisers are masterminding a counter-insurgency plan to "cut off the head of the leftist and intellectual sectors in El Salvador." The Salvadoran junta and U.S. Embassy sources denied the accusation.

The Democratic Revolutionary Front, a coalition of leftists who want to set up a Marxist government, said in a communique to news media that the "shameful aid from Washington" had "obliged the junta to turn schools into barracks." The Front said the U.S. attitude should remind the world of "what happened not too many years ago in Vietnam."

The left said a small school 20 miles northwest of the capital had been turned into a barracks for the advisers.

The accusation came as a prestigious Brazilian newspaper said the Reagan administration's policy on El Salvador would bring about a "resuscitation of the left" in Latin America. An administration effort to drum up support for its El Salvador policy from European leaders, meanwhile, was not met enthusiastically.

U.S. Embassy sources said there are 18 U.S. advisers in the country, 13 assisting pilot training for six helicopters given to El Salvador in January and five advising on "protection for the harvest."

The Salvadoran government and Reagan administration claim the guerrillas are getting arms from the Soviet allies of Ethiopia, Vietnam and Cuba.

News Roundup

Anna mayor charged with arson

ANNA (AP) — The mayor of this Southern Illinois community was indicted Thursday by a Union County grand jury on a charge of arson in connection with a Feb. 25, 1980 fire in an office and storage building he owned.

Mayor Robert Ferrell and a rural Cobden man, Paul Coffman, were named in true bills returned by the 22-member grand jury which deliberated for four hours after hearing four hours of testimony from nine witnesses.

Van explodes in flames, kills 9

MORTON (AP) — A chain-reaction collision in blinding fog claimed nine lives Thursday, all but one member of a car pool, when their van exploded in a fireball 30 feet high, police said.

The victims in the van were burned beyond recognition, state troopers said. Eight were in a car pool en route to the Caterpillar Tractor Co. plant. Police said the crash occurred about 7 a.m. on Illinois Route 121 at the height of the morning rush hour.

Soviet boy's return home delayed

CHICAGO (AP) — Walter Polovchak, a 13-year-old who ran away from his Chicago home to escape being returned to his native Soviet Union, probably will be kept in the United States for several more months, attorneys say. They see no end in the next few months to the legal proceedings that are keeping the youth here.

Julian Kulas, his attorney, said one of the two court cases relating to the boy's status may be decided by late April or early May. However the case also may wind up back in a lower court or in the Illinois Supreme Court, he added.

Boomer resident robbed at gunpoint

By Andrew Strang
Staff Writer

Three men armed with a pistol and a knife robbed an SIU-C student as he was sitting in his room in Boomer Hall Wednesday night.

Two black men wearing pillow cases with mouth and eye holes and one white man wearing a University Bookstore bag with mouth and eye holes entered the room of Alex Claney III, 19, freshman in art, at about 10:40 p.m., while Claney was sitting at his desk, SIU-C police said.

The men stole about $735 of stereo equipment that belonged to Claney and about $950 of camera equipment that belonged to Claney's roommate, Jack LaPuma, 19, sophomore in administrative sciences, police said.

One of the men was armed with a silver revolver, possibly .38 caliber, and one of the men had a 6-inch long black-handled knife, according to police. The men were all about 6 feet tall and weighed between 170 and 180 pounds, police said. One of the men had a "smiley" face and the words "I am crazy" drawn on the pillow case he was wearing, police said.

Claney told the men to come in his room in Boomer III after they knocked on the door. Claney was able to provide a brief description of the men, who were wearing gloves, by looking in the holes in the face covering.

Money bag stolen from Coke truck

A money bag containing $690 in cash was taken Thursday morning from the truck of a Coca-Cola route salesman while the truck was parked on the 800 block of West High Street, Carbondale police said.

Dan Kieszowski, 24, a former SIU-C basketball player from 1974 to 1978, told police that he left the truck at about 9:15 a.m., and the money was gone when he returned at about 9:45 a.m.

Beg your pardon

It was incorrectly reported in Thursday's Daily Egyptian that Kappa Alpha Psi was SIU-C's only black fraternity. In fact, the Kappa's were the only on-campus black fraternity. Three others, Alpha Phi Alpha with a house at 419 S. Washington, along with Phi Beta Sigma and Iota Phi Theta are black fraternities at SIU-C.

It also was reported in Thursday's paper that Carbondale City Councilman Charles Watkins said he was not opposed to the idea of allowing minors to enter bars in the city.

Watkins actually said that he was not opposed to allowing 18- to 21-year olds in the bars.

Student robbed in room

An SIU-C student was robbed early Thursday morning at knife-point by two black men who entered the student's Wilson Hall apartment, 1101 S. Wall St., while he was sitting in his room, Carbondale police said.

Police said that two black men entered the apartment of Scott Furst, freshman in art, at about 12:05 a.m. Thursday through an unlocked door, stole a $130 tape player and other smaller items. Upon entering the room, one of the men held a knife to Furst's throat. The other man then put a pillow over Furst's head while they searched the room, police said.

Police said the men, who are between 20- and 30-years-old, are being sought for home invasion and armed robbery.

Jury selected in Pontiac prisoners trial

CHICAGO (AP) — After five months and more than $2 million dollars in court costs, jury selection was completed Thursday in the trial of 10 Pontiac prison inmates charged with murdering three guards during a July 22, 1979 riot. More than 1,053 prospective jurors were interviewed by three special prosecutors and 12 defense attorneys assigned to the case. The selection began Sept. 18, 1980.

Government intruding into faculty's studies

By Bill Turley
Staff Writer

A-21, THE ORDER ISSUED by the federal Office of Management and Budget, is legislation that commands all researchers using federal money to account for 100 percent of their professional time. This unwarranted intrusion of "Big Brother" into many faculty members' lives has been opposed by educational institutions and faculty groups all over the nation, including the SIU-C Faculty Senate.

And the senate is right to fight this regulation. A-21 is a costly, inefficient burden that smacks of egghead-baiting. What is worse, it subtly threatens the trust and autonomy of American universities.

One Washington lobbyist labeled A-21 "a punitive action against badly-managed universities" and said the measure was enacted because OMB wanted to punish a few schools who had mismanaged federal research funds. But in the past federal auditors have disallowed fewer payments for university researchers than they have disallowed for most governmental agencies, one University official said. Hence, universities seem to be in better control of the money than government agencies.

Also, specialists will be required to regulate the complex academic world and those specialists won't be cheap.

NEITHER WILL COMPLIANCE. One SIU official said compliance with A-21 may cost the University upwards hundreds of thousands of dollars and another administrator said the regulation increases paperwork "tenfold." In this day of tight academic budgets, this money could be better spent. And need there be any mention of the time that will be wasted by this rule?

AT THE BOTTOM of all this is trust and autonomy for universities. The federal government must trust the institutions of higher education. The trust has been there in the past and has allowed researchers to explore obscure paths to knowledge, sometimes bringing results that benefit all mankind.

For the same reason universities must be left autonomous in order for research to go on unconstrained.

There is a new political climate in this country and it's reflected in the personnel now manning Washington's bureaucracy. The Reagan administration in general and David Stockman, director of OMB, in particular are looking to cut regulations and the budget. A-21 is a fine place to start.

But faculty members have to accept the fact that Reagan's group will keep closer tabs on the money than other administrations have in the past. It's hoped government regulators and OMB will be able to see eye-to-eye and develop reasonable methods of accounting of research time. With some compromise, the federal scrutiny will not become a stranglehold.

Letters

Can Reagan maintain peace?

So many promises were made on domestic and international problems during last year's elections. Yet, we still must keep our fingers crossed to see what the long term effects of actions by the new administration will be.

Ronald Reagan seems to be sliding into the mistakes that cost Jimmy Carter the retention of presidency. On what rationale is the Reagan administration acting by shipping arms to El Salvador? The principal of sending arms to this unpopular government is a clear manifestation of departure from world peace. Many innocent men and women are being killed daily by bullets shot American made machine guns.

In Africa too, more arms are going to Morocco for use against the people of Western Saharan, whose lands Morocco forcefully occupied since the departure of imperialist Spain. And soon, more weapons will be going to South Africa for greater oppression of blacks by the ruling minority whites.

More tensions also are being created in Asia because of the presence of more fighter planes in South Korea.

How can we maintain global peace when we sell destructive weapons that are meant to increase global conflicts? The rationale behind the dangerous moves of the present administration is the safe-protection of American capitalistic interests. But it is very doubtful that capitalistic forces can operate and thrive under chaotic conditions. Would it not be better to live in a peaceful world devoid of nuclear threats that the one filled with anxiety?

Human rights and global cooperation are gradually being discarded and in their place are the principals of limited nuclear confrontations and support for facism under the disguise of protecting democracy. Rather than wake to world realities and be the true guidance of democracy through rational and unsentimental actions, the present administration has clearly started with a wrong first step in its foreign policies. The world cannot afford another bloodbath.—Dada Olowa, Liberal Arts College

Here's a lot that's not so hot

This is for the people who drive cars and park in the University Park parking lot located behind Trueblood Hall.

The north entrance and exit of the lot truly tests a driver's skills. A driver must maneuver his or her vehicle over and around numerous potholes, or in some cases, craters.

Maybe persons driving University vehicles don't mind the damages caused to vehicles because of this obstacle course. But I can't afford them.—Brian Blank, freshman, Finance

Veteran Affairs reaches out to help

A round of applause for OVA. I am a new student at SIU-C and my reason for this letter is to give a personal thank you to the Office of Veteran Affairs (OVA), and to Mr. Joel Berrey.

My situation was not normal. For the last year I have been stationed in Japan and have been trying to get my life together for college while off the coast of Iran. All I had was a pen and paper to obtain the information I needed. From school to school I wrote and received barely anything to do with a veteran entering school. But the first letter I wrote to the OVA, to my delight, every question I had was answered and then some.

This made me aware that even being thousands of miles away, floating in the ocean, these people cared about my future. I'm glad they did and I'm glad to be back in the good ol' U.S.A. and SIU-C. Thanks guys!—Jeff Laberdia, freshman, Music, Business.

Cutbacks in education can be fought

It has been noted recently that the Reagan administration is considering cutting out interest subsidies on the Guaranteed Student Loan Program. It is my opinion that this is in direct contradiction to the "supply side economics" that this administration has been preaching.

The Guaranteed Student Loan Program allows government funds to pay for the interest on private student loans. If President Reagan truly wants to stimulate economic growth through increasing the spending power of citizens (e.g. Kemp-Roth tax cuts), then he will not do away with the Guaranteed Student Loan Program.

If you agree with this letter I urge you to clip it and send it and/or a note in your own words to—President Ronald Reagan, the White House, Washington, D.C., 20500.

You can make a difference!—Ronald Cohn, Junior, Business and Administration.

Letters

You can fight the ticket squad

It took only one year for the notorious "ticket squad" to turn me into a veteran parking offender. Reading the letters in the Daily Egyptian about the plot of Woody's lot was for me, mere memories.

On one occasion in particular, I thought I had the system figured out. In the end, my assumption caused me much distress, money and time.

On this occasion, I pulled into the lot with a two-hour-old yellow sticker properly located on my rear bumper. (I would have purchased a red sticker but I was unreasonably required to pay twice for an old ticket so I could only afford a yellow one.) I pulled up snugly into a stall on the correct side, one foot from the yellow line on either side. I deposited four quarters on a working meter and then flagged down a maroon squad trooper to ask if there was "any reason whatsoever" to ticket that (my) car. The woman trooper looked and assured me that everything was O.K. Exuberant, I actually skipped down a block on my way to class.

When I returned (you've probably guessed by now), a disgusting ticket was stuck in my windshield—a $10 fine for not displaying a sticker.

Perplexed and extremely angry, I took my complaint to Washington Square where I received an apology, a refund on the ticket I paid twice for, an even trade of my yellow sticker for a red one and an upset stomach. I was calmly told the reason for the ticket and the hassles was "officer error." When I asked what course of action would be taken with the officer I was told, "why...nothing."

If you have a complaint, there are people in Washington Square you can talk to. Well, you can talk to them if you can get behind the "jail-like" structure and into one of the back rooms with large desks. Go equipped with a memorandum, the ticket and a rational state of mind.—Marjory Griffin, senior, Public Relations.

Boxers await opening bell

The SIU-C Boxing Club opens its season Sunday by sending seven fighters to a match in Springfield—a tune-up for the regional Golden Gloves Tournament starting March 14 in Springfield. The club expects to have 15 entries in the Golden Gloves, which will be followed by a National Intercollegiate Athletics Association regional in late March.

The Sahaki boxers work out Tuesday and Thursday evenings and Saturday afternoons in the martial arts room at the Recreation Center, where they develop finesse in sparring sessions and build speed and endurance with shadowboxing and jumping rope. The regimen includes running three to seven miles a day.

To protect the hands and wrists, the boxer wraps them with bandage before putting on the leather boxing gloves.

Informal Recreation will be offering introductory workshops in women's weight training noon-1 p.m. Wednesday and Thursday and 5:30-7:30 p.m. Monday March 2 in the Recreation Center. The workshops are open to all eligible Recreation Center users and guests may pay a $1.50 daily use fee.

Women's Services will offer a graduate women's support group focusing on many issues women face as graduate students. The date and time of the support group has not been arranged. Women may register by calling Women's Services at 453-3655.

The new hours for the Recreation Center Climbing Wall will be 5:30-9:30 p.m., Monday-Friday, 3-8:30 p.m. Saturday and 6:30-8:30 p.m. Sunday.

Sam Day, a representative of the Nuclear Weapons Facilities Project and writer for the Progressive, will speak on the role of the nuclear industry in energy and weapons production at 1 p.m. Friday in Ballroom D. A discussion period will follow his presentation. All members of the university community are welcome to attend.

BRIEFS POLICY—Information for Campus Briefs must be delivered or mailed to the Daily Egyptian newsroom, Communications Building, Room 1247, by 1 p.m. the day prior to publication. The item must include time, date, place and sponsor of the event and the name and telephone number of the person submitting the brief. Briefs will be run only once.

Science advisement dates announced

It was incorrectly reported in the Daily Egyptian that the dates for science advisement are March 25-26. The correct dates are Feb. 25 for seniors, juniors, student workers and University Honors students and Feb. 26 for freshmen and sophomores.

Chamber theater based on 'Birdy' set for Calipre

The Department of Speech Communication will present a chamber theater production of William Wharton's 1978 best selling novel, "Birdy," at 8 p.m. Feb. 26-28 on the Calipre Stage in the Communications Building.

Directed by Bill Bowless, a graduate student in Speech Communication, the story centers around the different passions of two friends, Al and Birdy. Birdy's passion is focused solely on birds. As a pigeon and canary breeder, he dreams of flying—actually becoming a bird.

Tickets go on sale Monday at the Calipre Box Office and can be reserved by calling 453-2291.

City police offer seminars dealing with problems of bars

By Andrew Strang
Staff Writer

Three seminars dealing with problems of false IDs, Carbondale liquor ordinances, and the use of force by tavern workers will be conducted by the Carbondale Police Department for owners and employees of local liquor establishments.

The seminars, which will be conducted next week, will deal with "things employees of liquor establishments should know and look for" while working, said police officer Bob Ledbetter, who is organizing the seminars.

Topics to be discussed include ordinances regarding acceptance, transfer and possession of alcohol; the role of doormen, waitresses and bartenders checking IDs; and disturbances and the use of force in taverns, Ledbetter said.

All three seminars will cover the same topics.

The participants will take part in "a practical exercise on altered IDs" and be instructed as to "what types of IDs are acceptable" for the purchase of alcohol, Ledbetter said.

The speakers scheduled for the seminar include Police Chief Ed Hogan, some Carbondale and SIU-C police officers and a representative from the city attorney's office.

Ledbetter said the seminar is being offered as a public service by the police department, adding that the city is not maintaining a liability to train the bars' employees.

He said the idea of a seminar dealing with false IDs has been given consideration for a long time. The bar owners, Ledbetter said, have wanted the seminar for a quite a while.

The seminars will be offered at 7 p.m., Feb. 24, 2 p.m. Feb. 26, and 10 a.m. Feb. 28. All the seminars will be conducted at the police station, 610 E. College St.

The seminars are not open to the public, but liquor establishment employees who wish to attend should contact the police department, Ledbetter said.

Tape of Klan riot to be shown

A video tape and talk on the Ku Klux Klan-Nazi clash with anti-Klan demonstrators which resulted in five deaths in Greensboro, N.C. in 1979 will be given in the 4th floor video lounge of the Student Center on Monday at 7 p.m.

Paul Bermanzohn, a leading organizer of the Communist Workers Party anti-Klan movement in N.C., will give a speech on the shooting incidents. In addition to the five deaths, there were 10 injuries involved in the incident.

Bermanzohn, a political activist who was wounded and left partially paralyzed in the shootings, will also talk about the trial of six KKK and Nazis involved in the demonstration.

The presentation is free and sponsored by the Coalition of Progressive Social Scientists, the Student Programming Council and the Undergraduate Student Organization.

Romantics set for Shryock

The Romantics, a Detroit-based rock band, have been booked for a concert at 8 p.m. Sunday, March 8 at Shryock Auditorium. Reserved seats, priced at $6, go on sale at 8 a.m. Wednesday at the Student Center Central Ticket Office.

The Romantics recently released their second album, "National Breakout," and appeared at the Arena last year as the opening act for Ted Nugent. The band's sound is likened to early Kinks and other British bands of the 1960s.

The single, "What I Like About You," from the band's self-titled debut album received extensive play on radio stations. The band consists of Rich Cole on bass, Wally Palmer on guitar, Mike Skill on guitar and Jimmy Marinos on drums.

Appearing with the Romantics will be the Rockats, a five-member band. The show is the first of the spring semester sponsored by the Student Programming Council Consorts Committee.

SIMON TO PICKET
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Rep. Paul Simon, D-Ill., planned to join a United Mine Workers employees picket line at the White House, a Simon aide said.

The Romantics will appear with the Rockats at 8 p.m. March 8 at Shryock Auditorium. Tickets go on sale Monday.

Sculptor Tovish turns clay into varied optical illusions

By Brenda Wigenbusch
Staff Writer

Harold Tovish does with clay what others only do on paper. He makes images. And Tovish, an internationally acclaimed sculptor, makes sculpted optical illusions.

Tovish, who gave a slide lecture at Faneur Auditorium Tuesday, has his work displayed in every major museum in this country, and "he's won almost every conceivable award," said Thomas J. Walsh, professor of art at SIU-C.

The lecture was delivered as part of the Visiting Sculptor Project, sponsored by the Museum and Art Galleries Association, the School of Art and the College of Communications and Fine Arts. Tovish spoke to about 90 people, using slides to enhance his lecture. The slides, he said, were representative of his work throughout the years.

Tovish's slides, which consisted of many sculpted heads, showed a variety of his work. A sculptured head "done in reverse" and a skull made out of dowels, which look like matchsticks, were among the many shaped figures displayed in the slides. Tovish used a many different materials, including wood, brass, lace and clay, in constructing his head sculptures. The 59-year-old Tovish said that his career as a sculptor began at the age of 16, when he took the advice a Hungarian sculptor and started studying the art of sculpture. Sculptor Harold Tovish arranges a set of slides representative of his work throughout the years. The slides were shown at a lecture Tuesday as part of the Visiting Sculptor Project.

Boston University, said that his major influence was the work of Auguste Rodin, a 19th century French sculptor. Tovish admitted that his work wasn't really his own until he went to Paris in 1949, where he was left alone to concentrate on his work.

Tovish said that some of his art has been influenced by World War II. He visited a concentration camp in Germany, he said, and his work was greatly affected by what he saw.

Stamp prices increase to 18 cents

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Postal Rate Commission approved on Thursday a 3-cent increase for first class mail and added another two cents to the price of a dime postcard. The increases could take effect as early as next month.

The new 18-cent stamp will be two cents short of what the Postal Service requested, and may lead the mail agency to ask for another increase next year.

Commission Chairman Lee Fritschler said the rate decision was "anti-inflationary." A dissenting commission member said the new rates will be inadequate to cover Postal Service expenses and agreed another increase is likely before long.

The decision will give the Postal Service about $1 billion less per year than the $3.75 billion it said it needs. Moreover, President Reagan is proposing cuts in the postal subsidy.

Postmaster General William F. Bolger said last week the agency may need to ask for higher rates again later this year if the rate commission did not approve the full request.

Fritschler said the new rates can stand for several years, depending on the rate of inflation and other factors.

After the decision, the Postal Service declined comment. The governors of the Postal Service can put the rates into effect on 10 days notice and their next meeting is scheduled for March 2, although a special meeting before then is possible.

Reagan, in his economic address Wednesday, called for reducing the postal subsidy by $632 million next year "to press the Postal Service into becoming more effective."

"It's impossible not to be affected by it," the Jewish sculptor said. "Those images stick with me. It takes a while until they can be exercised."

One piece of work, "The Victim," was directly inspired by his experiences in the war. A piece done in 1960, "Blind," is a brass sculpture of a human head. The eyes are made of plexiglass. The plexiglass was sanded, so as to be translucent, then a piece of foil was glued to the plexiglass to give it an eerie look, he said.

Tovish has recently completed a series of self-portraits, which make up one exhibit called "Transformations from a Unit of Measure." He said that he used an ancient measuring technique called "pointing" to make the heads. "The points used represent the furthestmost boundary radiating from the center," he said. In this way, the "form grows from within." As fewer points are used, he said, the work becomes more abstract.

Tovish said that he never knew what to expect with those sculptures, though he did have an idea. "There's something marvelous about doing something which surprises one's self," he said.

Tovish said that he is not interested in making a successful piece of sculpture, but that he would rather attempt something impossible.

"I keep trying to do something I find very difficult to do—maybe even impossible," Tovish said. In his efforts to do the impossible, "interesting things happen." Thus, his exhibit of heads and transformations.

Tovish said that the initial impulse to create art doesn't die in the artist. But, he said, "the innocence often gets buried in sophistication." Once this happens, he said, the artist is no longer interested in "art for art's sake."

Tovish also said that he has decided to no longer depend on spontaneity. "There's a trap in spontaneity—a certain dependency on accident," he said. Accidents, Tovish continued, may be a positive thing at times, but he said that sculptural accidents rarely work for the artist.

Some of Tovish's sculptures give the impression of motion, such as "Vortex," "Passage" and "Accelerated," which is the largest piece he has created.

"Accelerated" consists of a tube more than six feet long, which contains a sculptured human head suspended inside. The sculptured head is moving toward its own image at the end of the tube. The piece turned out, Tovish said, to have more images than he'd ever predicted. "The effect was much greater than I expected," he said.

Tovish's ambition, he said, is to make a human figure that "really works." He said the human figure is the most difficult thing in the world to do, because there are already many great sculptures of the human figure.

Tovish was the fifth of nine sculptors scheduled to speak as part of the Visiting Sculptor Project, sponsored by MAGA. The arrangements of the program provide a free lecture by a sculptor and the free casting of some sculptured pieces for the artist—one of which is donated to the museum. According to Walsh, the head of the School of Art's sculpture foundry program, the piece Tovish has had cast (three copies will be made) is entitled "Casque" and is one of the sculptured heads from Tovish's "Transformations" exhibit. The casting process, Walsh said, would normally cost the artist about $1,200.

WSU's fast success brings accusations

WICHITA, Kan. (UPI)—Coach Gene Smithson joined the Wichita State basketball program three years ago and made no promises of instant success. But instant success is what the school got.

The Shockers are already in the national limelight, both on and off the court.

This year's team has zoomed to a 19-3 record and leads the Missouri Valley Conference with a 10-2 mark. Wichita State is also off to its best start in the school's history and is ranked 15th in the nation.

And this for a team that was 14-14 two years ago.

But bad news has accompanied the quick rise to success. The NCAA two weeks ago announced a "preliminary inquiry" into the school's athletics program in the wake of allegations that basketball players were given cash from coaches and athletics boosters.

Washington Coach Marv Harshman said other coaches have become suspicious of Wichita State's recruiting methods that helped its team to its quick rise to the top 20.

But Smithson said he was not surprised by the allegations, because he knew other coaches would be jealous.

"If we were 2-16, there wouldn't be any rumors," he said.

Despite the furor concerning the allegations off the court, the Shockers have continued to play excellent basketball.

And they've made a name for themselves despite lacking a commodity possessed by the Notre Dames of the world, tradition. "Shocker" has hardly been a household word around locker rooms the past few decades. WSU has been to the NCAA tournament only three times in the school's history and the best showing came in 1965 when the Shockers were fourth.

"But that's one of the reasons I came here," 6-6 forward Cliff Levingston said. "Coach Smithson told me when he was recruiting me that I would be helping build a national power, not adding to one. That appealed to me."

While the Shockers had a talented frontline a year ago with Levingston, 6-9 forward Antoine Carr and 6-11 center Ozell Jones, all three were freshmen and made freshmen mistakes. As sophomores, they have been outstanding.

Jones is the only starter not averaging in double figures, but is an excellent rebounder and is third in the MVC in blocked shots. Levingston leads the team in scoring with 18 points a game and in rebounding with around 11 per contest. Carr averages nearly 15 points per game and has a talent for both shot blocking and awe-inspiring slam dunks.

Coach Nolan Richardson of

Tulsa, the only MVC team to beat WSU, says, "To me, they have the best frontline in (college) basketball. That frontline ought to be in the NCAA."

Other key Shockers include guards Tony Martin and Randy Smithson, the coach's son. Smithson provides outside shooting, while Martin—described as having a case of the "superquicks"—can penetrate a defense and leads the team in steals.

Tracksters hope to be 'competitive'

By Scott Stahmer
Associate Sports Editor

Indiana State's women's track team defeated Eastern Illinois in a triangular meet at Illinois. EIU finished 86 1-3 points ahead of SIU-C two weeks ago at the Illinois State Invitational. So the Salukis won't be competitive in the triangular between the three teams Saturday at Charleston, right?

Wrong, says women's track Coach Claudia Blackman. "I think we'll have a much better showing because this is our second meet," Blackman said. "At Illinois State, we could only enter two people per event and that hurt us in stronger events like the 300-meter dash." Blackman said Eastern Illinois was hit hard by the flu in its triangular at Illinois and Indiana State took advantage.

"When I look at the times," Blackman added, "I think we're very competitive. You'll see improvement in the long jump and in points scored in sprints. I'll be very surprised if we don't break a few more sprint records. Our record in the 60 is a tough record to break, but I think Nina Williams is capable of breaking it."

Williams, a freshman, will run in the 60- and 300-yard dashes, (all events at EIU will be in yards), and also will enter the long jump. She'll be joined in the 60 by Jennifer Bartley, in the 300 by Tina Cruz, Marla Harrison, Angie James, Kathy Mack and Cheryl Stroud, and in the long jump by Harrison.

Debra Davis and Cheryl Lange will participate in the 440-yard dash, and Karen LaPorte will run in the 600. In the 800, the Salukis will enter Kathy Blasingame and Theresa Helendar.

Marna Bauer and Monica Jarvis are the Salukis' shotputters, with Julie Leeper entered in the high jump.

Jean Meehan will run in the 1,000-yard run and the mile, while Nola Putman is entered in the mile and two-mile. Dyane Donley is in the two-mile. In the 60-yard high hurdles, Cruz and LaPorte will be SIU-C's participants.

"I thought Jean Meehan ran awfully well last time and I'm anxious to see how she'll run this weekend," Blackman said. Blackman summarized her feelings about the meet.

"I'm not sure team-wise how competitive we'll be," she said. "We'll have individuals who will be very competitive and that will make us competitive team-wise by the end of the year."

Sox' Farmer wins arbitration fight

CHICAGO (AP)—Relief ace Ed Farmer won his arbitration case against the Chicago White Sox and will receive a reported $600,000 for the 1981 season.

Arbitrator Ted St. Antoine of the University of Michigan ruled in favor of the 31-year-old righthander, who went to arbitration rather than accept a reported offer of $375,000. The White Sox announced the decision Thursday but would not reveal any figures.

Farmer was third in the American League with 30 saves last season behind Rich Gossage of New York and Dan Quisenberry of Kansas City, both of whom had 33.

Farmer also had 7-9 record with a 3.34 earned-run average. He appeared in 64 games and finished 55 as he accounted for 37 of the team's 70 victories.

The White Sox also announced that lefthanded pitcher Ross Baumgarten had signed a one-year contract. Baumgarten was the hard-luck pitcher on the staff last season. He had a 2-12 record.

White Sox President Eddie Einhorn, in a joint announcement with radio station WBBM and WGN-TV, said announcer Jimmy Piersall has signed a one-year contract.

Gymnasts to battle Louisville in three seniors' Arena finale

By Mike Anthony
Staff Writer

The Saluki women's gymnastics team will face the Louisville Cardinals at 2 p.m. Sunday at the Arena in SIU-C's last home meet of the season.

This meet will also mark the last Arena performances of three graduating Saluki seniors, co-captain Patti Tveit, Denise Didier and Pam Conklin.

"Other gymnasts have preceded these three at SIU with far more success and fanfare," Saluki Coach Herb Vogel said, "but few have contributed more to SIU's good fortunes in their own, unselfish way."

The 14th-ranked Cardinals are currently 4-0 in dual meet competition, and their season high score is 138.30. Louisville placed second in both the Windy City Invitational in Chicago, and the Jacksonville, (Ala.), State Invitational.

The Salukis are currently 8-3 in dual meet competition, and posted the nation's seventh highest team score, 142.0, against three-time Big Ten champion Michigan State University last weekend.

Louisville will give the Salukis some worthy competition with an all-around trio of Julie Bender, Sue Tonietto and Laurie Salvaggio. Vogel said all three have scoring capabilities of 35-plus.

"Bender is as competitive and aggressive as (SIU-C's) Pam Harrington," Vogel said.

Vogel added he hopes Val Painton and the Salukis can have their best total team effort of the season.

"If we can be steady as a team, and if Louisville gets some support from their lesser team personnel, we will have a close meet right up to the last event," Vogel said.

If the Salukis are victorious over the Cardinals, it will assure SIU-C of the No. 1 seed in the Illinois State Championship Meet, and give Vogel his 300th lifetime coaching victory.

Netters go against

Kansas Saturday

The Saluki tennis team will go for its third win in four weeks when it takes on Kan Saturday at Carbondale's Court Club.

It will be the first indoor meet of the year for the Jayhawks, while the Salukis' record stands at 2-1.

Coach Dick LeFevre said last week's shutout of Illinois has given his team momentum, and he predicted a good showing from the Salukis.

However, the Jayhawks, who have been troubled with eligibility problems this year, will have most of their players returning from the that beat the Salukis, 5-4, last year.

IM free-throw titlists crowned

By Keith Mascitti
Student Writer

One point made the difference in both the men's and women's final matches of the Intramural Free-Throw Tournament Wednesday night at the Student Recreation Building.

David Stevers sank 94 of 100 free throws and squeaked past Timm Matthews' 93 to win the men's championship. Kathy Pabst, a junior in advertising and former Saluki basketball player, took the women's title by hitting 78 of 100 attempts, edging Teresa Everingham who made 77. Everingham is a sophomore in physical education from Jacksonville.

Stevers, a 20-year-old sophomore transfer student from Paducah, Ky., Community College, (where he played on the basketball team), was shooting in his first tournament at SIU-C. Matthews was in his third tournament and bidding for his second title in three years. He finished first his sophomore year by making 94 of 100 shots, third his junior year on 68 of 75 shots, and now in his senior year has earned a second place trophy.

The preliminary rounds of the tournament were held over three consecutive nights last week. From a field of 56 male entrants it came down to Matthews and Stevers. The women's tournament had only four total entrants.

Due to a conflict in schedules, Matthews was forced to shoot all three of his rounds on the last day. After 75 shots, he and Stevers had each made 71.

Matthews and Stevers have the same views on what it takes to be a good free-throw shooter. Both attribute their success to good rhythm and concentration.

"I go out there and try to concentrate," Stevers said. "You just have to shoot the same way every time."

Matthews, a 22-year-old radio and television major, has always been athletically inclined. It seems to run in the family. His cousin Pat Hickey plays professional hockey for the Toronto Maple Leafs and his brother, Sean, is a 6-3 guard on Libertyville High Schools' basketball team and is currently being recruited by several major colleges including SIU-C.

Matthews, a former all-state honorable mention guard at Libertyville, received college scholarship offers in basketball as well as football. He took SIU-C's offer and came to Carbondale in hopes of becoming a quarterback.

He played his freshman year and found out how time consuming competitive sports were.

things just happen, but when it happens to three of them at the same time, it makes things tough."

Meade said he is happy with the performance of his four all-around gymnasts, freshmen John Levy and Kevin Mazeika, sophomore Jim Muenz and junior standout Brian Babcock.

Babcock is undefeated and has won eight consecutive all-around championships this season. He defeated three members of the 1980 Olympic team last week in the Iowa State and Nebraska meets.

"I would like to see them (the all-arounders) score a little higher this weekend," Meade said. "We haven't been doing too badly. Besides we'd like to look real good this weekend since it's going to be on TV."

The meet will be shown Feb. 27 at 3:30 p.m. on Channel 7.

Tankers ready for 'pool duel'

By Mike Anthony
Staff Writer

The Saluki men's swimming and diving team is bracing for what Coach Bob Steele terms the most important dual meet of the season. The University of Iowa Hawkeyes will take on the Salukis at 3 p.m. Saturday at the Student Recreation Building pool.

"This meet will determine the success of our dual meet season," Steele said. "If we are to consider what we've done as successful, we've got to beat Iowa."

The Salukis have a 3-1 dual meet record this season, while the Hawkeyes are 7-2. Last year, Iowa narrowly beat the Salukis, 58-55. The Saluki-Hawkeye series is currently tied 1-1.

"Iowa is going to be first or second in the Big Ten," Steele said, "and they have a chance of breaking Indiana's streak of 20 or 21 Big Ten Championships."

Iowa's swimming strength lies in two New Zealanders, three Australians, a Norwegian, an Englishman and a Canadian swimmer, Steele said.

"Those guys are really tough," he added. "All of them have swum in the Olympic Games except two."

Steele has dubbed this meet "a duel in the pool," because 11 of the 13 events are considered toss-ups.

"Of the 13 dual meet events, each team holds a distinct advantage over the other in only two," Steele said. "The other 11, including the diving events, are up for grabs."

Steele said SIU-C's advantage lies in the 200-yard breaststroke, in which the Salukis hold a two-second lead. Pablo Restrepo, Anders Norling, Larry Wooley and Tom Robi are expected to be the top Saluki swimmers in that event.

Although SIU-C's Roger VonJouanne will probably win the 200-yard butterfly, he will most likely be the only Saluki scoring points in that event.

Steele said Iowa's advantage is that their two 'flyers, Charlie Roberts and George Nagy, will probably place second and third, scoring almost enough points to offset VonJouanne's win.

The 500- and 1000-yard freestyle races will also be important events, Steele said. Salukis Mike Brown and David Parker will be facing Iowa's Ron McKeon, an Olympian from Australia who is ranked high nationally.

"I'd give an edge to Iowa in those events," Steele added. "But Mike and David are really coming on. Those will really be crucial events."

Both the 400-yard medley relay and the 400-yard freestyle relay will be important events, Steele said.

"We have got to be ready to smoke in both relays," Steele said. "We need to be ready to roll."

Steele said the meet should go down to the last relay, the 400-yard freestyle, like it did last year.

"The free relay will probably dictate the outcome of the meet," he added. "If it does, we'll need to have a seven point lead going in to it because of Iowa's two-second advantage in the relay."

The two teams are within seconds of each other in a couple of events.

In the 200-yard freestyle, Salukis Carlos Henao and Tony Byrne are within .9 seconds of Iowa's Bent Brask and Graham Brewer.

In the 50-yard freestyle, seven people are within .9 seconds of each other, and the main competition will be between SIU-C's Pat Looby, Keith Armstrong, John Fischer and the Hawkeyes' Matt Wood and Brian Farris.

In the diving competition, Saluki Rick Theobald will be facing Iowa's Randy Ableman, who was on the 1980 U.S. Olympic team.

Lady cagers shoot for .500 at WKU

Western Kentucky University will try to derail the streaking Saluki women's basketball team at 5:15 p.m. Saturday in Bowling Green, Ky. SIU-C, a winner in eight of its last 10 games, is 14-15 following its 93-80 win over Illinois Wednesday night.

"The game w/ be the next to the last of the regular season for the Salukis. Their final regular season game will be next Saturday at St. Louis University. At one point this season, the team was 6-12, but SIU-C is now striving to close out the regular season with a winning record before entering the IAAW State Championships March 5-7 in Chicago.

WKU, meanwhile, was 13-13 prior to its game at Middle Tennessee Thursday night. The Lady Toppers were clobbered by the nation's ninth-ranked team, Kentucky, 95-72, Monday night. WKU only lost to the Lady Kats, 77-70, earlier this season.

Last season, WKU came to the arena and lost, 56-53. But in that game, the Salukis were led by two players who have since gone elsewhere. Mary Scheaffer scored 10 points and grabbed 12 rebounds for the Salukis while teammate Connie Erickson also had 10 points. Scheaffer left the team while Erickson transferred to Northwestern.

The Salukis have featured a new offensive weapon recently, however. Senior forward Leola Greer has scored 29 and 31 points in SIU-C's last two games. She's had support, too, especially in the win over Illinois. Sophomore forward Mary Boyes put in 23 and freshman point guard D.D. Plab added 21.

Western Kentucky is averaging 78.8 points per game and gives up an average of 75.3. The Lady Toppers are led by junior guard Laurie Helpfley and senior forward Alicia Copeland.

Gymnasts seek an end to skid

By Michelle Schwent
Staff Writer

The Saluki men's gymnastics squad has lost two consecutive meets to teams ranked in the top 30 nationally and the competition doesn't get any easier this weekend.

The 15th-ranked Salukis will travel to University Park, Pa., to take on sixth-ranked Penn State in hopes of putting a halt to their losing skid. SIU-C lost to No. 1 Iowa State 278.65-265.15 and finished third behind No. 2-ranked Nebraska and No. 14 Louisiana State last weekend.

Last weekend's setbacks provide an incentive for the team to turn things around but there is extra incentive to win this one. Penn State is Coach Bill Meade's alma mater and the meet is being videotaped by ESPN, the cable television sports network.

"I haven't lost! too many meets to Coach (Karl) Schwemfieber but he has beaten us the last two years," Meade said. "Of course you always want to win at your alma mater. Particularly now because we are fighting to win our region. I think both teams are on an even keel; we just have to perform better."

Meade especially would like to see some of his seniors perform better this weekend.

"We had some poor performances out of some of our seniors last week," Meade said. "Bob Barut got an 8.7 on floor and he is a 9.0 or better performer normally. Wagstaff (Darrell) got a 7.65 on pommel horse and he normally goes 9.0 or better. Brantley (Warren) only went 8.0 on parallel bars and that is below his par. Randy (Bettis) did a real good job in floor (exercise) and in vaulting."

"I don't know if it was pressure or if they were sick or if it was poor coaching," Meade added. "Sometimes these

Cage team travels to NMSU in search of first Valley win

SIU-C will attempt to break its 15-game basketball losing streak when it plays New Mexico State Saturday night at Las Cruces, N.M.

The Aggies were 5-8 in Missouri Valley Conference play and 8-15 overall going into Thursday night's home game against MVC leader Wichita State. NMSU has lost consecutive games to Creighton and Drake.

New Mexico State's top player is Jaime Pena, a transfer from Lon Morris Junior College. The 6-7 junior forward is second in the Valley in scoring, averaging 21 points per game.

The Aggies' other probable starters are Rich Taylor and Ernest Patterson at guard, Paul Atkins at forward and Renaud Moutrieux at center.

The Aggies edged the Salukis, 56-54, in the teams' first meeting. SIU-C played that contest without 6-10 center Rod Camp, who was suffering from a sprained ankle.
