Alleged torture draws U.S. warning

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Salvadoran police tortured a relief agency volunteer in May, prompting the U.S. ambassador to warn that such actions could jeopardize Americans' support for military aid to the war-torn country, State Department officials said Monday.

The warning came to light as the Reagan administration prepared to certify that the Salvadoran government was making progress in human rights, a congressional requirement for continuation of this year's $81 million in U.S. military assistance.

President Reagan was expected to make that finding Wednesday.

State Department officials said the National Police's torture of a volunteer for the Green Cross, a medical relief agency, was among recent human rights violations known to the U.S. Embassy.

But they argued the Salvadoran government has achieved enough progress to justify certification.

"Police officers and military officers are being punished for these incidents," said Elliott Abrams, assistant secretary of state for human rights. "There has been improvement in the performance of the National Police. That is not to suggest that there are not abuses."

In interviews and internal

State Department documents, U.S. officials also cited problems in convincing the Salvadoran military to take prisoners in battle and to stop killing civilians suspected of helping leftist insurgents.

State Department officials who asked not to be identified said U.S. Ambassador Deane Hinton warned Salvadoran President Alvaro Magana in San Salvador last month that the practice of torture could damage U.S. public support for the Salvadoran government.

The warning came after the embassy was told about the torture of the Green Cross volunteer, who was suspected of giving supplies to the guerrillas. The unidentified volunteer said he had been distributing medicines to refugees.

Asked about the torture allegations, State Department spokesman Dean Fischer said: "I'm not going to get into specific cases, but in a general sense the U.S. government condemns the use of torture under any circumstances and any such incident is absolutely inexcusable."

"We are aware of instances of torture and in each instance we have made the strongest of representations to the government of El Salvador registering our objections," he added. "While human rights abuses such as this have not disappeared, there have been steps taken within the government and the national police to eliminate such practices. We will continue to support those efforts strongly as one of the main goals of our policy toward El Salvador."

This year, the number of political killings in El Salvador has averaged about 300 a month by the U.S. Embassy's count and slightly less than 500 a month by the count of the Roman Catholic Church.

Those figures compare to many months in the 2½-year-old civil war when more than 1,000 political killings were reported.

Prison inmate killed Sunday at Marion pen

MARION, Ill. (AP) — The killing of an inmate at the U.S. Penitentiary in Marion was the eighth slaying at the maximum-security prison in the last five years, a federal prison spokesman said.

Dean Leech, spokesman at Marion, identified the inmate as Reginald F. Smith, 33, of Chicago, who was serving a 40-year sentence for murder and conspiracy to commit murder.

"We are not sure of the type of weapon — we know that it was a slashing or cutting type of weapon," said James R. Schrecker, supervisory special agent with the FBI in Springfield.

Smith was pronounced dead at Marion Memorial Hospital following the Sunday afternoon attack, Leech said.

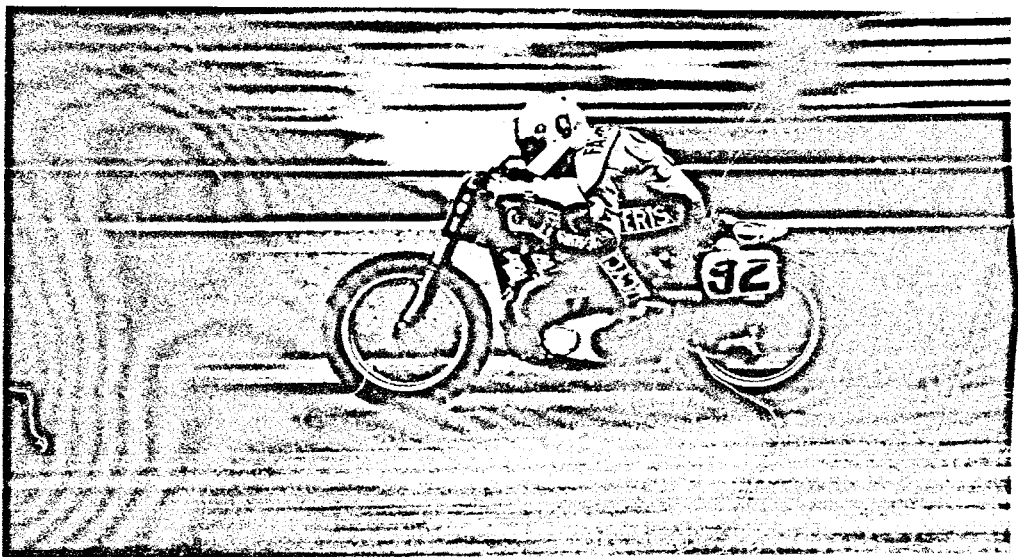

"He suffered a slashing cut of some sort to the neck area," Schrecker said. "Actually he bled to death before they could stop the bleeding."

Schrecker said investigators haven't determined if Smith was in his cell in the general population area of the prison when the attack occurred. Smith was treated by medical staff at the prison before being transferred to the hospital, Leech said.

Smith's sister, Geraldine Gilyard of Chicago, said she believes her brother was killed while talking on the telephone to their mother. "We believe he was killed (while talking on the phone) because he never said goodbye."

Leech said he could not confirm that Smith made the telephone call. Ms. Gilyard said said her brother and six other marines were convicted of killing their commanding officer in Vietnam with a hand grenade.

Schrecker said the FBI had no information on the telephone call, but said Smith was brought to the Marion prison from the Marine Corps.

Percy, like Shultz, wants closer Arab ties

By Robert Delaney
Staff Writer

If George Shultz gets his way, America will have closer ties to the Arab world and less inclination to use economic weapons against the Soviet Union, said an aide to Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill.

Shultz, 61, became America's 60th secretary of state on July 16.

Both Percy and U.S. Rep. Paul Simon, D-24th District, have indicated they are satisfied with Shultz's philosophy toward the Middle East and Soviet Union.

Percy, among others, had believed Shultz should have been Reagan's original choice for secretary of state, according to the aide, Alan Safran. Instead Reagan picked Alexander Haig, who resigned earlier this month, protesting he and Reagan had drifted apart over foreign policy direction.

Percy's ideas about peace in the Mid-East are "very close to Shultz's," Safran said.

"Both see the solution to the Palestine problem as central to peace. The safety and security of Israel is paramount, but you have to deal with the Arab world too," he said.

Percy's aide called Shultz "a man of ideas."

Safran said Shultz is less inclined than Haig to using economic weapons against the Soviet Union.

During confirmation hearings, Shultz pledged "wide and ever-strengthening ties with the Arabs." Simon said he thought Shultz would be less inclined to get into disputes with the cabinet than Haig.

Simon, who was part of a U.S. delegation at a U.N. disarmament conference that ended earlier this month, has been critical of Reagan's dealings with the Soviet Union as being too confrontational.

"I think Shultz will improve things" in U.S. relations worldwide and especially in relations with the Soviet Union, Simon said. However, he also said, "The president must support Shultz."

Simon said the U.S. delegation had gone to the U.N. conference after hearing more talk from the White House staff on how the delegation could embarrass Russia than on how it could limit arms.

Simon said last week he was seeking "stronger signals from the White House on arms controls."

Shultz and Percy have known each other about 25 years, according to the aide, and Percy was "exuberant" over Shultz's confirmation by the Senate.

Israeli jets continue Beirut air assault

By The Associated Press

Divebombing Israeli jets teamed with heavy artillery to batter Beirut's Palestinian guerrilla core Monday, detonating an ammunition dump and setting off fires across the besieged western sector of the Lebanese capital. It was the fifth straight day that Israeli air power hammered away at the guerrillas in a new campaign of military pressure aimed at forcing the Palestine Liberation Organization into an agreement to abandon Lebanon, its power base for 12 years.

The PLO said 54 people were killed or wounded in the afternoon air assaults, but it was unable to give a breakdown of deaths and injuries. Rescue teams were searching for victims believed buried in wrecked buildings, the PLO said.

Before Monday's attacks, the PLO said 179 people, mostly civilians, had been killed or wounded in the air assaults. The air raids that began last Thursday ended a 27-day Israeli moratorium on aerial bombardment of west Beirut.

Meanwhile, members of a U.S. congressional delegation appeared divided Monday over a one-sentence document signed by PLO chief Yasser Arafat that some contend meets the conditions for U.S. recognition of the Palestine Liberation Organization.

The PLO "clearly are ready to recognize Israel's right to exist," Rep. Paul N. McCloskey, R-Calif., told a news conference Monday, a day after he obtained the statement from Arafat.

Such PLO acceptance of Israel is the main U.S. prerequisite for dealing with the Palestinian organization.

But another congressman in the six-member delegation called the Arafat statement "at best a rehash," and it was dismissed in both Washington and Israel. McCloskey himself acknowledged it could have been more explicit and unequivocal.

In Washington, White House spokesman Larry Speakes said the Arafat statement did not fulfill U.S. conditions for dealing with the PLO.

McCloskey first showed the document to reporters Sunday after meeting with Arafat in west Beirut.

In another development, a young Israeli combat colonel resigned his post to protest the Lebanon invasion despite Prime Minister Menachem Begin's personal attempts to dissuade him, aides to Begin said Monday.

Passengers foil Chinese hijacking

PEKING (AP) — Two engines ran out of fuel, outraged passengers bashed five hijackers with mops and bottles and an explosion blew a hole in the fuselage — almost all at once, U.S. tourists from a seized Chinese plane recounted Monday.

"We thought we were goners," said W.J. Gunther of Flemington, N.J. He said there was "lots of blood — very gory," as passengers and crew jumped the young Chinese hijackers and subdued them while the plane nosedived. They said at least two hijackers were apparently bludgeoned to death, although Chinese officials said the hijackers were captured alive.

The four-engine, Soviet-made

Il-18 Ilyushin propeller plane was hijacked Sunday from the ancient capital of Xian but landed safely in Shanghai. An estimated 80 passengers were aboard, including 19 Americans in a tour group and 10 Japanese. The Americans included retirees, several teachers, a banker and a businessman.

"We were all prepared to crash," said Ron R. Roth, a high school guidance counselor from North Hunterdon, N.J., who led the tour.

"Somehow by the grace of God that pilot, God bless him, pulled that plane up with two engines. He brought it in and he brought it in safely," Roth said.

The passengers all were safe, Roth said, but "very shook up, very nervous and very happy."

The Americans proceeded on their tour. Roth and Gunther were reached Monday by telephone in the scenic city of Wuxi, about 50 miles northwest of Shanghai. Roth said the passengers found out the five hijackers, all apparently in the early 20s, "were non-communists. They wanted to go to Hong Kong to refuel and then to Taiwan. They said they wanted to be liberated."

Taiwan is the seat of the rival Nationalist Chinese government that fled the mainland when the communists seized power in 1949.

This was believed the first hijacking publicly reported by Chinese authorities.

Law banning Sunday car sales is being questioned by some

By Robert Delaney
Staff Writer

In the wake of recent legislation, a question is being raised whether the state should single out a single industry for "blue laws."

Starting Jan. 1, new and used car sales on Sunday will be outlawed. Gov. James Thompson and the General Assembly claim the ban is justified because of overwhelming support from car dealers across the state.

Carbondale car dealers customarily have remained closed Sundays for years and say the law was for Northern Illinois dealers. For most local dealers, it will be business as usual when the law goes into effect.

However, a few questioned whether the state should be regulating the hours of private business. "I'm not interested at all in opening on Sunday," said one. "But I'm disappointed that we must pass a law that says when we must close."

Rep. Wayne Alstat, R-58th

District, said he didn't think the bill was constitutional.

"It's not a good law to single out a single industry and close them," he said. "Somebody should take them to court and it will be declared unconstitutional."

Allan Gaines, owner of Fireside Chrysler Plymouth in Schaumburg, said he didn't want anybody telling him what to do and will be open Jan. 2.

He has filed a lawsuit challenging the validity of the statute but would not reveal details of the lawsuit other than that it was filed against Secretary of State Jim Edgar. Rep. Bruce Richmond, D-58th District, said he knew of no state interests or "particular gains for the state." He said the law was passed by "those who favored yielding to pressures of those lobbying for it."

Southern Illinois dealers, most of whom will be unaffected by the law, remained quiet over the issue. Alstat said he got no response from dealers in the district. Richmond said one dealer urged him to pass the bill, but that he wasn't sold on it.

"Anybody who wants to close on Sunday doesn't need any state interference," Richmond said. "I've always been against blue laws. It's not our mission."

Some salesmen in Carbondale welcomed the law because it brought uniformity to the industry. One said customers weren't interested in buying on Sunday anyway and just wanted to browse around the lots without a "salesman breathing down their neck."

Small Group road to be resurfaced

Repaving will begin Wednesday morning on the drive which circles Small Group Housing, according to Marilyn Hogan.

Hogan, campus parking manager for the Parking Division, said that beginning Wednesday persons should not park their cars along the drive. While work is being done, any cars found parked along the drive will be towed, she said.

President's embargo on Soviet gas pipeline does not make sense

WHEN YOU COME down to it, Reagan's embargo against export of parts for the Soviet-European natural gas pipeline means not just sanctions against the Russians but sanctions against our allies as well. Barely four weeks after the Versailles economic summit, where the President dropped rosy hints about U.S. intentions regarding the pipeline, he imposed the embargo. As usual the allies were caught flat-footed by an abrupt about-face on foreign policy.

It apparently is all right for the United States to make money selling grain to the Soviet Union, but not for Germany, France and Britain to try to pull their economies out of the doldrums by selling goods to the Russians. Is there any sense in a policy like this? But then with American foreign policy, who looks for sense?

THE WHOLE IDEA of the efficacy of economic sanctions needs to be questioned. It has never worked against Zimbabwe, South Africa, Israel, Argentina or the Soviet Union itself during the Afghan invasion or anywhere else it has been tried. South Africa continues to secretly sell grain and other products to black African countries who publicly scream anti-apartheid rhetoric.

The embargo on the pipeline is no less futile. It will not stop the pipeline. It will not help the Poles. Nor will it get the Russians out of Afghanistan. All such an embargo will do is hinder economic growth in a world full of economic woes and damage American relationships with her European allies.

BUT IF THE United States does need to use the economic weapon, it must at least be consistent. Surely our allies deserve better than this double dealing. The European nations question the legality of the embargo and cannot be faulted if they went ahead with their contracts even if it was technically illegal.

The U.S. fear that Europe would become dependent on the Soviet Union for their energy needs and give the Russians leverage for economic blackmail is puerile. It is an insult to the intelligence of West European leaders to think they would work themselves into such tight corners and not take appropriate precautions.

THE WAY TO go in these troubled times is economic cooperation, not confrontation. Interdependence between nations would mean that no one country would be able to brandish economic big sticks over another. As long as each country tries to get economic clout over another, politics will remain the bane of economic recovery. The world is now too small a place for such mutually destructive methods.

Balanced budget editorial was exactly on the mark

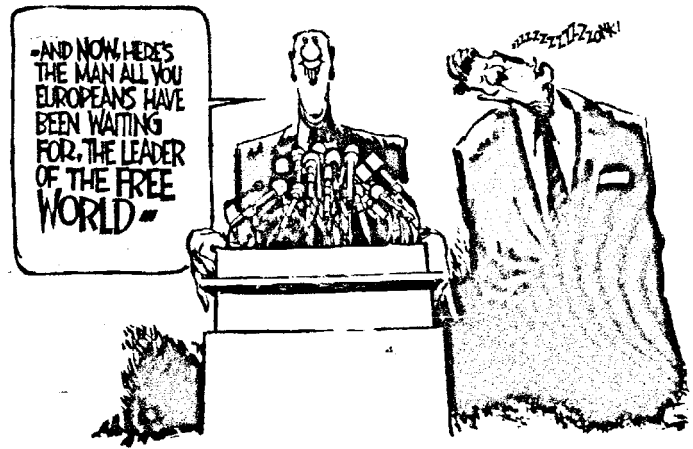

Hoorah for the Daily Egyptian editorial staff! Your editorial on the Reagan administration's Balanced Budget Amendment (July 23) was a refreshing display of acting in the public interest.

The Senate Joint Resolution is a sham.

Jim Wright of Texas (whom I have had the pleasure to talk with) said recently, "President Reagan is the all-time cham-pio of deficit financing." He was right.

There seems to be no end to the political posturing and maneuvering this administration has applied to obfuscate the truth. Reaganomics is on the ropes and has already had its second standing eight count. — Ray Quintanilla, President, SIU Democrats.

Letters from Leningrad

History of Leningrad speaks of inhabitants' harsh existence

Editor's Note: Jull Lawrence worked for the Daily Egyptian last semester as news editor. She is spending eight weeks in the Soviet Union this summer as part of a foreign language exchange program. This is her second installment from Leningrad.

Jull Lawrence

LENINGRAD IS a city that remembers. It remembers the siege which began in 1941, when Nazis blockaded the city for 900 days and nights.

Leningrad was nearly destroyed, and 600,000 died of starvation during the siege. Memorials, museums and statues abound to remind everyone of the city's harsh history.

The Museum of the History of Leningrad is devoted to the siege. Photographs of starving children with sunken faces line the walls. A small chunk of bread, weighing 400 grams (14.2 ounces), is encased in glass — it was the daily food ration during the blockade. Army helmets, boots and uniforms riddled with bullet holes are displayed. A large photo of the ravaged city and marching Nazi troops hangs on the wall. The caption reads, "This is fascism."

Pages torn from a child's diary are tragic: "Sister died. Brother died. Grandmother died. Uncle died. Mother died." Finally it reads, "Everybody has died. Only Tanya is alive."

After a tour of the museum, a documentary film was shown depicting the "heroic defense of Leningrad."

I TRAVELED with my group to the Piskaryovskoye Memorial Cemetery. It is the most incredible cemetery I've ever seen. Simple, flat gravestones line the rows. There are no names, only years: 1941, 1942, 1943, 1944. Over 500,000 victims are buried there. Hundreds of people solemnly walk up and down the rows, placing flowers on the graves. We approach the frontal wall, which bears an inscription reading: "Here lie the people of Leningrad."

Here are the citizens — men, women, children...

They gave their lives defending you, Leningrad, Cradle of the Revolution. We can't number all of their noble names here.

So many lie beneath the eternal granite.

But know as you look upon these stones,

That no one has been forgotten, and nothing has been forgotten."

A somber music is aired through the speakers, and our group leaders place flowers at the base of the statue of the Mother Country.

And we leave, feeling a large sense of remorse for people who gave their lives for Leningrad.

I WALKED along the Neva River this evening with some friends. The Leningrad White Nights, when the sun sets for only an hour, are in full force. The sun shines over the city, still scarred from the war. Scaffolds and workers are among the majestic-looking buildings. I am told restoration is still continuing.

As we walked, we saw the city's showcases, which are from pre-revolutionary Russia. It seems ironic that in a society which hated the czars and praised the revolution so much, its most proudly displayed buildings are czarist palaces and other pre-revolutionary buildings. I noticed how slowly the people walk here. I am used to rushing from place to place, but here people take their time. As they stroll along the streets, wearing grim faces, they stare. They know we are different. We are laughing, joking, having a good time. They are somber and wear drab, baggy clothes. The only one laughing that we see reek of liquor.

WE MET some young men in their mid-twenties and discussed politics. They argue much better than we do. One man told us that Reagan wanted to build up our army so we could take over the world. We couldn't convince him it wasn't true. We were also told that in America, everyone is either a millionaire or a criminal — a middle class doesn't exist.

I SAT in the park yesterday with a friend. We met an old woman in a babushka, who was feeding the birds. She was 83. She was a lovely woman and gave me some advice. She told me I shouldn't wear "those awful tight jeans and makeup. It's not nice." I should also cover my hair with a scarf, she said.

Then she asked me about Christ. I was a bit shocked, knowing that religion is discouraged in the atheistic country.

"I know of Christ," I said and she pulled a gold cross from beneath her shirt. She told me how wonderful He is and let me touch her tiny cross. After a few minutes, she said she had to leave. She tucked her cross back into her dress and walked off. We followed her and watched as she crossed the street and entered a tiny church.

Shawnee to offer cooling tips

Keeping cool, effectively and inexpensively, will be discussed at 7 p.m. Wednesday, Aug. 4, at the Shawnee Solar Project's Energy Center.

Energy consultants will be available to advise on cost effective techniques for "summerizing" homes and businesses. They will stress practical solutions to such common problems as choosing the right fan and vent system, deciding on where to place shade trees, purchasing the right size air conditioner and discovering low cost means for high savings.

The open house is being sponsored by the Shawnee Solar Project in cooperation with The Other Utility of Carbondale.

The energy center is located at 808 S. Forest in Carbondale.

Leadership of research office to change hands

Leadership of the Office of Regional Research and Service will change hands Aug. 15 when Elmer J. Clark returns to full-time teaching and research in the College of Education.

Replacing him will be Charles H. Hindersman, professor of marketing and former acting vice president for university relations.

In announcing the change Wednesday, President Albert Somit said Clark, who is a veteran of 28 years in college administration, asked for reassignment in order to do graduate teaching and research work in the Department of Educational Leadership.

Hindersman will be salaried by his home Department of Marketing, but will be given released time to fill the regional research and service position, Somit said. He will teach one marketing course this fall.

HEADACHES AREN'T NORMAL

Just about everybody gets a headache once in awhile, so why should you be unduly upset if you happen to be suffering from one? If you've been celebrating with friends and eat or imbibe too much, it certainly would not be unusual to wake up with a headache the next day. But that kind of headache usually goes away as soon as you're eating and drinking sensibly again, and getting enough sleep. But what about the other kinds of headache?

Some illnesses, such as flu, include headache among the symptoms. But if you're in reasonably good health, you have a right to wonder why you suffer from headaches. A resort to aspirin and other medication may dull the pain for awhile, but if the headaches persist you should seek treatment. Among the causes of persistent headache are problems with the cervical vertebrae, the spinal bones in your neck. If they are out of alignment, this could cause headaches until you get the treatment you need

'Music Man's' tempo lacks energy, spunk

By Abigail Kimmel
Staff Writer

The last presentation of the summer season at McLeod Theater is a good old let's-take-the-family-to-a-show kind of musical with a schmaltzy plot and infectiously hummable tunes.

"The Music Man," running Thursday through Sunday at 8 p.m. with a 2 p.m. general admission matinee on Sunday, is a good show for the family to see on a hot summer night, but it lacks a lot of the verve and style that the previous shows this summer offered.

After several weeks of constant rehearsing, dancing and performing, the company is beginning to wear down. Energy levels are down, a voice here and there strains to reach a note. Everyone seems tired, but they still try their hardest to do a good job.

All except the guy who plays Harold Hill, the epitome of fast-working, smooth-selling, sweet-talking traveling salesmen, who gets his "foot caught in the door" by falling in love with Marian Paroo.

Daryl D. Vaughn's performance is terrific. With his charismatic charm and feigned innocence, he would have made the film version better if he'd played Prof. Harold Hill instead of Robert Preston. He glides easily in and around everyone, only to come to a dead halt when encountering Marian and her dear Irish family. Vaughn's style and spark pick the show up when it begins to wind down and infuse it with added life.

Hill's sidekick, Marcellus Washburn, is also a treat. Eric Ewan makes the former partner who "went wrong" by going straight a comic prize to watch.

The choreography and scenic design were the weakest parts of the show. George Pinney's choreography did not seem to fully utilize the talents of the cast and the opportunities provided by the script. And Lang Reynolds' sets and lighting were missing the imaginative flair that he usually brings to the stage.

The orchestra, under the direction of Michael Hanes, was especially good in its accompaniment, particularly on "Seventy-Six Trombones."

They play very well together as a unit, with woodwinds, strings, brass and percussion blending to form a consistently solid undercurrent for the cast.

While not the best of the season, "The Music Man" is still a good way to end the summer playbill. Even with its predictable plot, happily-ever-after outlook on life and lovely songs that stick in your head for a few days, it's good for a grin, some laughs and an indulgent sigh over the love scenes.

Sports Festival has SIU-C flavor

By Jackie Rodgers
Staff Writer

INDIANAPOLIS — SIU-C was well represented at the 1982 National Sports Festival in Indianapolis last weekend. Six past, present and future Salukis competed for the North team.

Former Saluki All-American David Lee placed second to Andre Phillips in the 400-meter intermediate hurdles with a time of 48.55 seconds. Phillips' time of 48.45 seconds set a new Sports Festival record.

Phillips and Lee are old rivals, dating back to when they battled each other in the 1980 and 81 NCAA Track and Field Championships. Lee won it in 1980 and Phillips prevailed in 1981.

SIU-C decathlete John Sayre finished third overall in the competition with a total of 7,373 points. Bob Stebbins was the winner with 7,546 points, while Tony Hale placed second with 7,523 points.

Sayre was in sixth place at the end of the first day of competition on Saturday. He was 400 points behind leader Steve Jacobs, placing fifth in the high jump, long jump and 400-meter run, seventh in the shot put and eighth in the 100-meters.

Sayre came back with strong performances on Sunday to earn a sixth place finish in the 110 hurdles, third in the discus, second in the javelin and 1,500-meter run and first in his strongest event, the pole vault.

Cyclist Dan Casebeer qualified for the quarterfinals of the individual pursuit with a time of 5:03.08. The Carbondale native then rode what he termed as his "best pursuit race, period" only to find himself wondering if he had ridden one more lap than his opponent, John Beckman.

"Some people told me I rode one more lap than he did," an angry Casebeer said after the race. "I didn't think I was that much behind him. I saw my lap marker stay at '5' two times around."

Casebeer said that the inexperienced officials working at the velodrome are to blame.

"I'm not saying I would have beat John," Casebeer said. "He still would have beaten me, I think. He's one of the best pursuit racers around."

Casebeer missed the cut for the semifinals as he again placed fifth. He will compete Tuesday in a road race, which is his specialty.

Former SIU-C diver Rick Theobald finished seventh in the 10-meter platform with a total of 522.81 points. Winner Greg Louganis, considered by many to be the best U.S. diver ever, took the gold medal with 640.53 points.

Before the competition, SIU-C Coach Dennis Golden said that Theobald was diving "really well this weekend."

"Rick has looked good," said Golden. "I think he'll gain some satisfaction in his diving this weekend."

Two SIU-C baseball recruits helped the North team beat the East team 18-1 in baseball. Robert Jones, the first baseman who turned down a professional contract to play for Itchy Jones next season, smacked a grand-slam homerun, and had five RBI overall. Mike Gellinger had three RBI.

Casebeer said he was impressed with the festival, the fourth ever. He said that the Major Taylor Velodrome, finished just a week before the competition was scheduled to begin, is a "super nice track. Probably the second best in the U.S., besides the new Olympic track in Los Angeles."

Other relatively new structures used for the National Sports Festival are the Indiana University-Purdue University at Indianapolis Natatorium, which houses the swimming and diving competition, the IUPUI Track and Field Stadium, which was used for the recent USA-USSR track meet, the Indianapolis Sports Center, used for the tennis competition and will be used for the U.S. National Clay Courts Championship next weekend and the IU Athletic Fields, used for men's and women's softball.

The original plans for the National Sports Festival called for the competition between the best amateur athletes in the United States to take place every four years, the year before an Olympic year.

IM softball, basketball playoffs begin

By Ken Perkins
Sports Editor

Charles Moore says, "No problem. We'll win it."

Animals intramural team says, "No way."

Joyce Craven says, "It's anybody's game."

It's the start of the intramural three-on-three basketball playoffs and, for Moore, a member of Hotstuff intramural team, Animals, the squad with the second best record, and Craven, the director of intramural sports, the shouting is over. It's time to play ball.

"It will be so exciting," Craven said about "thunderous Thursday," the day championships are scheduled in both divisions of basketball and all divisions of softball.

"The only breather we'll have is on Wednesday," said Craven. "That is the only day we won't have much going on. But now you're talking about the playoffs and it's totally unpredictable."

Don't tell that to Hotstuff. The only undefeated team in Division A, the five-member team took a bye in the first round. They will play in the second round on Wednesday against the Running Rebels-Sly Guys winner.

Animals, who also received a bye, will play the winner of the B-Revival and Reducers matchup.

In Division B, unpredictability is the word. Three teams, Twangoes Too, NCC 1701, and Buck Dharmas all have 5-1 records. Twangoes Too and NCC 1701 played first round contests Monday, and Buck Dharmas take on the Warriors Tuesday.

In softball, the undefeated 12-inch men's team is moving along as if possessed. Already at 7-0, the Spankers are awaiting the Anyoho-AWT winner for a Tuesday matchup. Other teams include Zoo Team, who will give the Spankers the most challenge as well as Buschman, Ball Club and Pud Rangers.

Coup De Grace and Kiesch Kadets, two of the top teams in the 12-inch co-rec division, may have given Cherry Jubilee an easier path to the title. Coup De Grace, 6-0 and Kadets, 6-1, chose each other for a first round game. That leaves Cherry Jubilee, at 5-1, an open path to the finals. Other top entries include B-Villians, Bungdoggies and Puckers.

In 16-inch men, the Spankers and Players are pre-playoff favorites. Both are 6-0.

Hogan's Heroes are still undefeated in 16-inch co-rec, and are the favorites.
