Request for cable TV hearing put on back burner by council

By Karen Torry
Staff Writer

The City Council Monday night refused Councilman Keith Tuxhorn's request for an immediate public hearing on cable television service in Carbondale.

Tuxhorn said a negotiating committee formed to work out an agreement between the city and its cable franchise, Carbondale Cablevision, should listen to public opinion before making any decisions regarding service or rates.

But Mayor Helen Westberg and other council members said that a public hearing should be held after the negotiating committee has talked with Cablevision, not before.

"I do not see that a public hearing is called for at this time," said Westberg.

Councilman Archie Jones,

Patrick Kelley and Neil Dillard all agreed with Westberg.

"We don't need to have a public hearing at this time," said Kelley, who had proposed the idea of the negotiating committee. "When the committee comes back with a report, this city council will listen and give great deference to the recommendation of the Cable TV Commission."

The Carbondale Cable Television Commission two weeks ago recommended that the City Council require Cablevision to provide 20-channel basic service and facilities for local-origination programming, both terms of a franchise contract the cable company signed 18 months ago.

But council members voted to form the negotiating committee — made up of Westberg, City Manager Carroll Fry, Cable Commission Chairman Charles Klasek and Cablevision Manager Craig Perica — to work out a compromise. A spokesman for Telecommunications Inc., parent company of Cablevision, told the council two weeks ago that it can't meet contract terms without a rate increase.

Tuxhorn, who is also a cable commission member, argued that public opinion should be heard before negotiations begin.

"If the cable commission can't garner the respect of the City Council, perhaps the citizens can," said Tuxhorn, who last week called the negotiating team "a slap in the face" to the commission.

"In my mind, the council did not accept the recommendations of the cable commission," said Tuxhorn Monday. "The recommendation was to implement 20 channels and local-origination by January 1, 1984."

Westberg countered that the negotiating committee will form a "more reasonable and workable" agreement and will follow the commission's recommendation "as closely as we feel is necessary."

"It's another slap in the face," Tuxhorn said Tuesday, "this time to the citizens of the community."

"What good is talking about it after they've already sat down with this so-called negotiating team going to do?" asked Tuxhorn. "They're not going to listen to other people's opinions when they've already decided theirs."

Tuxhorn said that he is sure an agreement will be reached between the city and Cablevision, but said it will be "a perversion of what we should get."

"Negotiations is just another word for concessions," he said.

'Big' decision expected on conference center

By Karen Torry
Staff Writer

The Carbondale City Council will act next week on land acquisition for the downtown hotel-conference center, but council members are keeping quiet about what that action might be.

After a two-hour closed executive session, council members voted to delay a decision about acquisition until the formal City Council meeting next Monday.

Mayor Helen Westberg said the council had received a "considerable update" of information from Stan Hove, the center's financial backer, but remarked that there are still some uncertainties about financial arrangements for the project. She declined to be more specific, but said it was a different financial picture than had been presented before.

Westberg said council members wanted more time to consider the action they will take.

"The decision that we make on it is going to be a big one," she said. "The next step is to decide whether the city will or will not make the necessary financial commitments to the project."

The mayor said all but one of the owners of the property needed for the project have told the city asking prices for their property.

Westberg said prices were "higher than I'd hoped, not really within easy range." She added, however, that no

Reagan underscores stand on action in Central America

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan said Tuesday night that naval and troop exercises in Central America are "not a step toward war, but 'underscore once and for all' his determination to thwart insurgencies inspired by the Soviet Union and Cuba.

Reagan said the dispatch of warships to both coasts of Nicaragua — and troops to neighboring Honduras — bears no comparison to the early stages of U.S. involvement in Vietnam, "and there is not going to be anything of that kind in this."

But to do nothing, he said, would be "the wrong kind of signal to send if we want peace in that area" because it would offer no response to revolution exported from the Soviet Union and Cuba. The president told a news conference he didn't know how many or how long Americans would remain in the region. He declared peace is his goal — but that if the government of Nicaragua were to openly attack a neighboring state, it would require action by all American states.

"We would have to deal with that problem when it arose," he said.

Reagan said the guerrilla conflict he insisted had been exported into El Salvador does represent a threat to the security of the hemisphere, but that he does not see it as threatening a war that would involve American forces.

Overdue bills?

University's collection agency might come-a-knockin'

By Ginny Lee
Staff Writer

When a collection agency calls, people respond.

At least that's what the Bursar's Office found after initiating a policy to recover money from delinquent accounts of students who no longer attend the University, according to the assistant vice president for financial affairs, James Belt.

The policy, which was implemented in April, provides that a collection agency will be used to collect delinquent bills from students if those students do not respond to a series of three letters warning them that they will have to pay an additional charge — currently 33.3 percent of the amount owed — if they don't clear up their accounts.

"One of the things that we see happening is that as soon as accounts are turned over to a collection agency, it gets immediate results on about one-fourth of them," Belt said. "And from then on it seems to slow down. But the initial collection agency notice and action does make an immediate difference."

Assistant Bursar Bob Brewer said that a series of three letters during three months are sent out to students, giving them a chance to respond before their accounts are sent to a collection agency.

Brewer said the letters do not state the exact amount of the additional charge because it could change depending upon what the collection agency charges to collect the bills.

The 33.3-percent charge was set because the collection agencies being used, United Adjustment Service and American Credit and Collections, charge the University 25 percent of what is collected, Brewer said.

Therefore, if a student pays the 33.3 percent charge, the University will recover 100 percent of the original bill, as well as be able to pay the collection agency charge.

According to an April 15 memo from Brewer to Bursar Receivables System users, there was some question as to whether the 33.3 percent charge could be added to the students' accounts.

Brewer said that University legal counsel advised the Bursar's Office to send out the three letters advising students of a possible additional charge before sending any accounts to a collection agency.

But, Brewer said, if any legal action is taken and the University loses, the collection agency charges would still have to be paid. Therefore, in order to ensure payment to the agency, the policy states that the particular departments to which students owe money would have to pay the charge.

Belt said that on June 1, 244 student accounts from fall 1983 were turned over to a collection agency. At that time, about 2.5 percent, or $151,164, of the money owed for fall 1982 tuition was unpaid.

The result of the collection agency's actions is evident in that as of June 30, about 2 percent, or $125,360, of the money owed for fall 1982 tuition hadn't been paid, he said.

The decision to make use of collection agencies was made in November 1982 as part of a general collection policy change, Belt said.

"Things had to be tightened up," he said. "It was just part of as general overall tightening up."

Beginning in spring semester 1983, a monthly service charge of 1.5 percent was added on the unpaid portion of students' bills. In March, diploma holds were placed on graduating students who had delinquent accounts.

Senate OKs authorization bill for MX missile construction

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate voted 58-41 Tuesday night to allow the Reagan administration to build and install the first 27 MX missiles in underground silos in Wyoming and Nebraska. That virtually cleared the way for passage of an overall $200 billion Pentagon budget including several other new strategic weapons.

Handing the president a critical national security victory, the Senate action turned back Democratic White House contender Gary Hart's amendment to delete $2.5 billion in production and deployment funds for the 10-warhead MX.

Underscoring the importance of the MX to the administration, Vice President George Bush, in his constitutional role as president of the Senate, was present as the vote was taken, although the outcome was never seriously in doubt.

Eventually, 10 MXs, each carrying 10 nuclear warheads, would be installed in existing Minuteman missile silos.

Reagan and other supporters argued the MX must be built to prove to the Soviet Union that the United States will match the Russian missile program, and thus force the Soviets into serious strategic arms negotiations.

In the closing minutes of the debate, Hart insisted that deploying the MX "is not arms control." "That is an invitation to nuclear war," said Hart, who earlier led a two-week filibuster against the MX.

Rather than encouraging new negotiations, Hart said the result will be a new round of strategic weapons developments on both sides.

Last week, the House approved the MX on a vote of 220-207.

But opponents in both the House and Senate say they will fight another day when a military appropriations bill containing MX funds is debated, probably in September.

The first step, the overall authorization bill, also sets aside funds for 10 B-1 long-range bombers, the development of binary nerve gas for the first time since 1969, and a new M-1 tank for the Army.

In debate capping a two week struggle over the MX, supporters of the multi-warhead missile said Senate disapproval of it would be "a sign of paralysis" within the United States that would encourage "complete Soviet intransigence" in arms control negotiations.

"At long last we are close to a decision on whether we will modernize our aging ICBM (Intercontinental Ballistic Missile) force," said Sen. John Tower, R-Texas, chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee.

Critics say the MX will be vulnerable to a first-strike attack by the Soviet Union, making it necessary to either find a way to protect the U.S. missiles or change the U.S. philosophy to permit the launching of American missiles before it is clear the Russians have launched an all-out nuclear attack.

They urged development of a new smaller missile called Midgetman, which they said would protect U.S. national security interests while reducing the danger of nuclear warfare by encouraging both sides to end the use of multi-warhead weapons.

On the other side of Capitol Hill, the House was poised to finish a companion $187 billion defense bill. Taken together, the House and Senate actions would provide a ringing congressional endorsement for President Reagan's rapid military buildup for the 1980s and 1990s.

Last week, the Democratic-controlled House voted 220 to 207 to approve production of the MX. But it also tied some strings to MX deployment, reducing from 27 to 21 the number of missiles to be installed, and requiring parallel development of a new, smaller Midgetman missile for the 1990s.

O'Neill says House to nix rebels' aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Democratic House will vote to cut off covert U.S. aid to Nicaraguan rebels in the face of new military moves by the Reagan administration in Central America, Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr. declared Tuesday.

"We are winning," said O'Neill, a chief critic of assistance to the guerrillas battling Nicaragua's leftist Sandinista government.

O'Neill was joined in his stand by three former secretaries of state, a former defense secretary and a former national security adviser, all Democrats. They said the administration should push for a negotiated political settlement in Central America instead of eyeing military solutions.

Another former Secretary of State, Henry A. Kissinger, meanwhile, huddled with key congressional leaders over recent military developments — as well as his new mission to help guide long-term policy over Central America.

And in New York, U.N. Ambassador Jeane Kirkpatrick said the administration continues to support the peace initiative for the region by the so-called Contadora Group, despite the dispatch of U.S. warships to both coasts of Nicaragua. The mediation effort of the group — Venezuela, Mexico, Panama and Colombia — is "definitely and warmly" welcome, she said.

Meanwhile, "as former senior government officials intimately involved with the making of national security policy at the presidential level, we are opposed to the current American covert operation directed at the government of Nicaragua," according to the joint statement of Dean Rusk, Cyrus R. Vance, Edmund S. Muskie, Robert S. McNamara and McGeorge Bundy.

Rusk, Vance and Muskie were secretaries of state, McNamara was defense secretary for Presidents John F. Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson, and Bundy served those two chief executives as national security adviser.

"We recognize," they said, "that the government of El Salvador has a right to request and receive international support in seeking to end any secret and illegal intervention in its internal affairs by Nicaragua, but any action in support of this right of self defense should be overt and not covert."

"It is very close, but it looks favorable to us," O'Neill said of the cutoff measure.

News Roundup

Thompson changes tack on prisons

CHICAGO (AP) — Gov. James R. Thompson agreed Tuesday to temporarily shelve legislative efforts to permit the early release of convicts from overcrowded state prisons and instead begin "fast-tracking" the construction of new cell space.

Responding to the unanimous rejection earlier Tuesday of his legislative proposal by the state's county sheriffs, Thompson agreed to examine and pursue several of the alternatives suggested by the Illinois Sheriffs Association.

Thompson said he would meet again with legislative leaders upon his Aug. 4 return from a nationwide governors' meeting to assess progress and consider whether a special legislative session is merited to deal with the problem.

Three die in Arab university attack

By The Associated Press

Three people were killed and 33 wounded when masked gunmen opened fire on the Arab university in the Israeli-occupied West Bank city of Hebron. An Arab woman in a Nablus demonstration protesting the shooting was killed when Israeli troops opened fire, Israeli radio said.

No group claimed responsibility for the slayings at Hebron University, but Jewish settlers in Hebron have been angered for weeks by the slaying of a Jewish seminary student by Arabs in the city July 7. Some Jewish settlers suggested the attack could have been inter-Arab political fighting and there was a report that the gunmen escaped in a car with West Bank license plates, an indication it could be an Arab's car.

Railroad emergency plans found lax

WASHINGTON (AP) — A survey of railroad yards revealed inadequate emergency plans for accidents involving hazardous rail cargo, plus poor communication between government officials and railroads on the risks of such accidents, a federal investigator said Tuesday.

The results of a survey of rail yards in eight cities across the country were presented as the National Transportation Safety Board began two days of hearings into dangers posed by hazardous cargo at rail yards.

Patricia Goldman, the board member heading the investigation, said transportation of chemical and explosive cargoes by rail has become safer overall, but concern remains about possible accidents involving those cargoes in rail yards, which often are near populated areas.

U.S. vows to keep Persian Gulf free

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is determined to maintain freedom of navigation in the Persian Gulf in the face of a threat by Iran to close those waters to oil shipments, State Department spokesman John Hughes said Tuesday.

Hughes refused to say exactly what military or diplomatic steps the United States would take if Iran moved to close the gulf to the tankers which carry much of the world's oil supplies.

But when asked if the United States is determined to maintain the free flow of shipping in those waters he replied, "That is a fair statement."

Snowden to stand trial in September

By Jeanna Hunter
Staff Writer

Accused rapist Arron Snowden will stand trial in September on all but four of the original 29 charges filed against him, State's Attorney John R. Clemons said. The charges facing Snowden include rape, deviate sexual assault, armed violence, battery, burglary and home invasion.

Four charges had to be dismissed on July 1, 1983 because the statute of limitations had run out, Clemons said. The statute of limitations for these offenses require that an individual be officially charged within three years of committing them.

Snowden allegedly committed the dismissed offenses, which included rape, armed violence and deviate sexual assault, on May 5, 1980, Clemons said that Carbondale police first apprehended Snowden on May 6, 1983, just one day after the statute of limitations had expired.

The 25 other charges against Snowden are still pending. He is in Jackson County Jail on $600,000 bond.

Snowden was scheduled to go to trial on four counts of rape, two counts of deviate sexual assault and one count each of home invasion and armed violence July 25, Clemons said. But a continuance until September 19 was granted July 20 by Judge Richman, he said.

These eight charges stem from the April 29, 1983 rape of two females aged 18 and 19 at a Giant City Road residence. The other 17 charges stem from five cases involving rape, armed violence, deviate sexual assault and home invasion.

Snowden confessed to the attacks in May after police asked him to come in and talk to them.

Sentencing scheduled for 2 former SIU-C employees

Sentencing of two former SIU-C employees who pleaded guilty in June to federal charges in connection with a conspiracy to defraud the University out of more than $1 million has been set for 1:30 p.m., Sept. 12 at the U.S. District Court in Benton.

Barry L. Bateman, former director of computing affairs, and E. Hubert Massey, former assistant director of computing affairs, were indicted and pleaded guilty to charges of conspiracy to defraud, mail fraud and interstate transportation of fraudulently obtained monies. The charges stemmed from sales which the two men authorized while at SIU-C of computer equipment to the University at inflated prices through corporations with which they were secretly associated.

Sentencing was originally scheduled for July 21, but the defendants filed a motion to postpone the date. James L. Foreman, chief judge for the Southern District of Illinois, signed the motion Thursday.

Two men arrested in Rex Loan theft

Two men are being held at the Jackson County Jail in connection with the robbery Monday of Rex Loan Company, 215 W. Walnut, according to Carbondale police spokesman Art Wright. An undetermined amount of money was taken.

Norman Horner, a city code enforcement officer, is credited by police with thwarting the robbery attempt by the two armed men.

Horner was driving past the loan company when he he noticed two men pulling masks over their faces, Wright said. Horner called police and then went behind the building, where he observed a van pulling away from the loan company honking its horn.

When the two men left the building, police were waiting, Billy L. Hicks, 31, of Indianapolis, was arrested at the scene, Wright said. The other suspect escaped and is still sought by police.

Less than an hour after the robbery, police also had the driver of the van in custody, Wright said. Arrestees were William L. Howland, 32, of 606 B Eastgate Drive in Carbondale. Howland also has an address in Indianapolis.

Both men are charged with armed robbery.

No one was injured during the robbery, although two loan company employees and one customer were locked in the back room of the building, Wright said.

"We don't think that that's going to happen at all," he said.

He said negotiations for peace can best succeed when all parties involved know that their goals cannot be achieved through the barrel of a gun.

"We don't want war," he said. But he made clear that Americans in Central America can defend themselves if fired upon. "I don't think you prevent war by letting your personnel out there become the victims," the president said.

Reagan said planned military exercises are nothing new, and compared them to U.S. land and sea training operations in the region since 1965.

"Yes, we want to underscore once and for all that the United States along with our friends that the United States opposes the use of force by one neighbor against another," he said.

With U.S. warships already taking up positions off Central America and the Pentagon working on plans to send up to 4,000 troops into Honduras for exercises, House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill predicted the actions would backfire with a vote by the chamber to cut off covert U.S. aid to rebels trying to overthrow Nicaragua's leftist government. That vote is set for Thursday.

Former Secretary of State

Henry A. Kissinger, meanwhile, visited Capitol Hill to consult with key congressional leaders in his new position as chairman of the National Bipartisan Commission on Central America.

Earlier in the day, President Reagan personally reiterated his administration's support of four Latin American presidents — known as the Contadora Group — who are attempting to strike an overall peace agreement in the Caribbean. He stressed his endorsement of a call for a "certifiable freeze" of offensive weapons in the region, even as U.S. warships steam nearer the Nicaraguan coasts.

GPSC to hear schedule policy

Student Center conference scheduling policies will be presented to the Graduate and Professional Student Council Wednesday.

John Corker, Student Center director, is expected to defend the scheduling policies, which recently came under fire from the GPSC after a Christian Ministry Alliance conference caused extensive rescheduling of student activities.

Representatives from the Office of Admissions and Records and the Department of Continuing Education, may also speak about scheduling policies at the council meeting, which is at 7 p.m. in the Ohio Room of the Student Center.

The council will also consider a resolution commending departments that allow graduate student input into departmental decisions and encouraging other departments to do so, GPSC President Ann Gracley said.

The resolution stemmed from a report on graduate student participation in departmental decision-making. Of the 70 percent of departments that responded to the report's survey, 48 percent have some graduate student input in departmental decisions, and 32 percent allow graduate students to vote on departmental decisions, the report says.

In another matter discussed in executive session, the council named Assistant City Manager Scott Ratter to serve as interim city manager until a replacement is found for City Manager Carroll Fry, who will resign Aug. 31.

Ratter will take over Sept. 1 at a salary of $3,500 a month and will serve until the City Council hires a permanent replacement for Fry, who has been city manager for 11 years.

Readers keep mum after Will incident

Will's "coaching" of President Reagan prior to the Reagan-Carter debate in 1980 — and his alleged knowledge of the Reagan camp's possession of purloined Carter debate briefing papers — have brought him under considerable fire from most factions within the media.

Will's acts have been judged by his colleagues as deceptive to his readers. By getting too close to Reagan, one of his principal column subjects, media operatives say Will destroys the independent, objective thought base that readers rely upon.

BUT WE NOTE, at least in the Daily Egyptian forum, an overwhelming silence from the real judges — readers — on the issue of George Will's credibility. Not a single letter has arrived at the DE concerning Will's involvement in the briefing papers scandal. No scathing criticisms, no defenses, no demands that we drop or keep his column have come in.

We are left to assume that those among our readership who read Will because they conform to his point of view will continue to do so — perhaps tempered by the knowledge of Will's intimacy with Reagan, but still receptive to Will's ideas and reasoning. And those who read Will to disagree with him, or just to get a different perspective on an issue, will also continue to do so — perhaps more confident in their skepticism with the knowledge that Will is personally close to the president he often, but not always, praises.

WE DO NOT INTEND to cancel Will's column. While we, too, are tempered by the notion of what Will has done, at least we know now, as all of Will's readers do, exactly where his sentiments lie.

We have also seen in the response of Will's colleagues an often-forgotten truth about the role of the media: If they are the watchdogs of society, they are as much watchdogs over themselves. While most readers seemed to absorb the Will incident with little response, media insiders were not willing to let it pass without comment one way or the other.

Their comments may serve to solidify most people's opinion of George Will as a columnist, but most likely will not keep many people from reading his column.

Goodbye John, Heidi

CARBONDALE is losing two voices for change this week.

Heidi and John Fillmore-Patrick, leaders of the campus-based Coalition for Change, are moving to St. Louis at the end of the week. They take with them the personal inspiration that created the coalition, but leave other inspired people to carry on as spokesmen for justice in Carbondale and the world.

Their relentless dedication to and pursuit of social reforms brought them both acclaim and an often-uphill battle against skeptics and unmoving establishments.

We wish John and Heidi the best in their new environment, and hope that their voices of change won't be silenced by its bigness.

Letters

'I told you so,' says Prineas

I hate to say I told you so, but I told you so.

Throughout my 1982 campaign I tried to emphasize the importance of getting private industries and businesses into Southern Illinois. The loss of these much-needed jobs in the private sector has caused a deterioration of Southern Illinois' economy to the point that national recovery has not and will not help us.

Ten years ago Southern Illinois enjoyed prosperity. Roads, hospitals, schools, and industries were being built. Our coal mines were working at full capacity and small businesses were flourishing. Since that time, however, everything the people of Southern Illinois and its elected officials worked so hard to obtain has been diminishing. Mines are laying off workers, businesses are closing down, and industries are leaving the area.

Some of this loss is being offset by the sincere efforts of our state officials to bring government jobs and state money back to Southern Illinois, but there is not enough of either to relieve the economic disaster caused by our loss of private businesses and industry.

Southern Illinois is rich with natural resources such as coal and good farmland. It is bordered on both sides by major rivers which make it an ideal shipping port. In addition, Southern Illinois' human resources are virtually untapped. Why, in an area that has so much to offer, is there no one trying to sell the resources of this area? Our lack of representation on the national level is the greatest factor in Southern Illinois' decline.

The office of the U.S. Representative is the only government office in Southern Illinois with adequate staff, expense money, time and prestige to inform industry about what we have to offer. We need a U.S. Representative who can communicate with industry, not a Representative who looks for welfare. The people of Southern Illinois are proud. They do not want welfare, they want work — the kind of work that makes them feel they are contributing to the growth of their community, as well as providing a reasonable standard of living for their families. — Pete Prineas, Carbondale.

Editor's Note: Mr. Prineas was a Republican candidate for U.S. Representative from the 22nd District in 1982 and 1976.

Wake up and help save the Shawnee

Come on, Carbondale. Wake up... help us save our Shawnee.

I am one concerned Southern Illinois native and a proud alumna of Southern Illinois University. I don't know about you but I have enjoyed many a Sunday in Giant City, many hot summer days at Lake Kinkaid, and many an evening watching the sunset over Crab Orchard, and even a few "die hard" mornings watching the sunrise over Little Grassy.

Southern Illinois is a place for the public to share, a place of beauty and a place to escape from books, school and studying.

If we sit back and let them take 27 percent of our total acres what will "Beautiful Southern Illinois" look like? Well, I can tell you. After all the oil is drilled, the coal mined, and the once-public lakes and bluffs developed into subdivisions, there will be no place for our children or our grandchildren to camp, hike, fish, swim or just relax.

I don't know about you, but I can't picture SIU without our public parks, lakes and bluffs.

When I picture my future children going to good old SIU I sure can't picture them not having access to Lake Murphysboro, Tower Rock and Ferne Clyffe (just to name a few).

So please, Saluki people, stand up and be counted. Help us save our Shawnee. Sure, one signature isn't much by itself, but when you combine it with 24,999 others, it will be heard. If you want more information call or write the Save Our Shawnee Committee. — Lara Miller, Carbondale.

Can we afford a new holocaust in Iran?

"They died because no one cared." This statement was made in a recent DE article in reference to an SIU professor's forthcoming book about the holocaust of the Jews in Nazi Germany. Hundreds of books have been written on the subject, yet one haunting question remains: can it happen again? Can a government once again exert a systematic intensive campaign to exterminate an entire religious group?

We don't have to look to Nazi Germany of 40 years ago to learn the answer. All we have to do is look at present-day Iran, where the Khomeini government is intent on killing members of Iran's second-largest religion. I am referring, of course, to the Iranian Baha'i community.

Of Khomeini's plans, there is no doubt. The persecution and killings of the Baha'is are well documented.

Many governments worldwide are raising their voices in protest of these events. President Reagan has recently added his voice to those of the U.S. Congress, the European Parliament, the parliaments of Canada, Australia, Switzerland and several other nations, as well as the U.N. Commission on Human Rights, in protesting the cruel treatment of the followers of this peaceful religion whose humanitarian teachings and entirely non-political character constitute a threat to no one.

When Reagan learned that 22 more Baha'is had been sentenced to death, he released the following statement: "America and the world are increasingly alarmed and dismayed at the persecution and severe repression of the Baha'is in Iran. Recently we have learned that the government of Iran has sentenced 22 prominent members of the Baha'i Faith to death... These individuals are not guilty of any political offense or crime. They have not plotted to overthrow the regime, and they are not responsible for the deaths of anyone... I strongly urge other world leaders to join me in an appeal to the Ayatollah Khomeini and the rest of Iran's leadership not to implement the sentences that have been pronounced on these innocent people."

Khomeini reportedly replied that Reagan's statement was proof of the Baha'is' guilt. Then he had them executed.

These Baha'is included several teenage girls and women in their early 20s. Their principal Baha'i activity and apparent crime was teaching Sunday school.

The Iranian equivalent of a Supreme Court judge stated the official government position on the Baha'i situation. He stated that "there is no place in Iran for the Baha'is." Unless they all recant their faith and join Khomeini's religion, they will be dealt with as "infidels." In other words, they will be killed.

Have we learned anything from the deaths of 6 million Jews in Germany? Can we afford to allow it to happen again to the Baha'is, or any other religious group? Baha'is hope that these events do not go unnoticed, and that people worldwide do not remain indifferent. It is important that we keep informed of these events and that we care. Khomeini must learn that the people of this world will not allow another holocaust. — Joel Smith, Carbondale.

Survey shows favorable SIU-C image

By Robert Green
Staff Writer

If the University is still self-conscious about its image in Southern Illinois, it might take heart in the results of a recent survey conducted by the Graduate School.

The survey, conducted to assess the attitudes of area leaders toward SIU-C, concluded that the University enjoys a "remarkably favorable" overall image in the region, that SIU-C is viewed as a major asset to the region, but indicated that the University could do more to help the region.

The selected officials in the survey included mayors, judges, state legislators, and school officials, among others, from the 22 southernmost counties of the state.

Of about 400 responses received, 88 percent said they "strongly agreed" with the statement that "my overall image of SIU-C is favorable." Only 4 percent disagreed, the rest being undecided.

A second question tapping general feelings about the University asked if SIU-C is regarded as a major asset. In response, 94 percent of the leaders strongly agreed that it is.

John S. Jackson, former graduate school associate dean, who wrote the report, said the results indicate that the University has to some degree succeeded in restoring its image in the region, an image tarnished by the anti-war riots in the early 1970s.

"We had some really strained relations following the protests, but I think this indicates that our public image has improved," said Jackson, professor of political science. "Faculty and students have helped much in this regard."

Besides assessing SIU-C's image, the survey also sought to analyze the respondents' views of the University's role in the region.

Seventy-four percent of the leaders agreed that SIU-C should do more to strengthen the economic development of the region, two percent disagreed and 24 percent responded "neither."

Over half of the leaders agreed with the statement that

SIU-C should offer more assistance to local governments and to school districts in Southern Illinois. Few disagreed, but again many responded by neither agreeing or disagreeing with the statement.

The survey concluded that the large "neither" response to the questions assessing SIU-C's role were the result of indecision on the part of the respondents as to how that role can be made concrete on the local level, Jackson said.

"The respondents see SIU-C as being a sort of a reservoir of experts and as having a leadership role, but they're not sure how the University might help them locally," Jackson said. "The school is seen as more of a blanket regional influence."

A substantial number of respondents said they disagreed that SIU-C doesn't care about the region, but a fair number agreed that SIU-C doesn't care about their local community.

The survey speculated that those results reveal there is openness to more help from the University in dealing with specific problems in the region.

Well over half of the respondents indicated they had received some sort of help or technical assistance in the past in the form of consultation on a specific problem or from workshops or training programs.

Jackson called the overall results of the survey "very favorable," but he stressed that the results also indicate that it is time for a closer relationship between SIU-C and the region.

"We have a mandate by the Illinois Board of Higher Education to be a service agency for the region, and I think the region has some expectations from us," Jackson said. "With our own budgetary problems, it might be tough for us to live up to their expectations, but we have to at least try."

Arlie Boswell, SIU grad and former state's attorney, dies

Arlie Boswell, former state's attorney and creator of the Egyptian, a forerunner to the Daily Egyptian, died Saturday in the Marion Memorial Hospital. He was 86 years old. James Thornton Funeral Home in Carrier Mills is in charge of arrangements for cremation. Memorial service will be held at 1:30 p.m. Saturday in the chapel of the funeral home. The Rev. George Smith of Stonefort will officiate.

Mr. Boswell, recently a resident of Stonefort, was born Feb. 11, 1897 on a farm near Anna.

A 1917 graduate of Southern Illinois Normal University, Mr. Boswell starred in football, basketball and track at the University. In 1916, he requested permission of Burnett Shryock, the president of the University at that time, to start a school newspaper. The Egyptian, a monthly school magazine, was born that year.

Arlie Boswell

Mr. Boswell graduated from the University in 1917.

He was a veteran of World War I and earned a law degree from the University of Chicago in 1921.

Mr. Boswell was Williamson County state's attorney from 1924 to 1928 and served during the period of Klan and gang wars that earned the title of "Bloody Williamson."

He told a Daily Egyptian reporter during an interview in 1973 that as a state's attorney, "I was shot at five times. The area was ripe for gambling and bootlegging."

Mr. Boswell left Southern Illinois just before the Depression but came back in 1945, when he set up a law practice in Harrisburg. He served as city attorney for Harrisburg, Carrier Mills and Stonefort.

Mr. Boswell's survivors include one son, Associate Judge Arlie Boswell Jr. of Harrisburg; one daughter, Phyllis Boatwright of Marion; seven grandchildren; three great-grandchildren; a sister, Edith Williams, and a brother, Charles Boswell, both of Anna.

Latest Zappa effort quite different

By Matt Heldrege
Student Writer

A caution to traditional Frank Zappa fans. Frank's new album, volume 1 of a two volume set, is far different from any of his previous albums. You should definitely listen to it before you buy it.

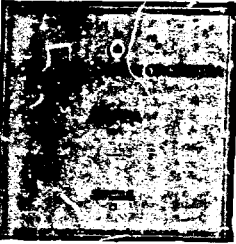

The music, composed and arranged by Zappa, is performed entirely by the London Symphony Orchestra and conducted by Kent Nagano. As you might guess, they aren't quite the same as the Mothers of Invention.

The album is entirely made up of dissonant orchestral movements. No vocals, no electric guitars, no synthesizers, no fun. Unless, of course, you are a student of dissonance, in which case you may enjoy frolicking throughout the highly varied orchestration of Zappa's latest experiment.

Many of Zappa's albums are exactly that — experiments. They are very original as well. His appeal to his fans is his original, rock and roll based music, and the content of his lyrics. This album abandons both of these appeals.

Another new angle to this album is that it doesn't have any comment on society. Almost all of Zappa's previous songs commented on society in one way or another. Many people found his most recent hit, "Valley Girls," cute and funny, but it was a condemnation of the habits of a certain constituency in specific valley areas in California. As Zappa said himself, "It isn't cute, it's a social disease."

However, it has been noticeable in the last few years that Zappa has been concentrating more and more on music instead of lyrics. Anyone who went to Zappa's last concert at the Arena in 1981, knows that he played guitar quite a bit more than he sang.

It is admirable that he has the freedom and unselfishness to produce such unique and relatively unpopular music. He probably won't make much money on this venture but he is at least stretching his boundaries. Hopefully his next experiment may be more popular as well as unique and of high quality.

Story lacks bite in 'Jaws 3-D'

By T.E. Sparks
Entertainment Editor

Movie Review

The only thing "Jaws 3-D" has to do with "Jaws" and "Jaws II" is that the story revolves around people combating man-eating great white sharks.

Shot entirely in the latest state-of-the-art technique of 3-D, this film turns into merely a showcase for that special effect and has a storyline with no real bite to it.

The story tells of Sea World employees gearing up for the grand opening of a new underwater glass tunnel system in an ocean-fed lagoon. Before the opening, however, a 10-foot great white makes his appearance.

The story thusfar is believable and there is some credible acting by the four main characters: Dennis Quaid as a marine systems engineer; Bess Armstrong as the head marine specialist and Quaid's love interest; Simon MacCorkindale as a headstrong, thrill-seeking marine expert; and Louis Gossett Jr. as the "anything-to-increase-attendance" owner of the park.

Armstrong, with no prior experience either at diving or working with animals, does a fantastic job of making the audience believe that she's been training killer whales and porpoises most of her life.

In fact, all of the lead characters turn in above-average performances. The movie is believable and interesting as long as it remains focused on the interplay of the lives of these four.

Where it bogs down is the second half of the film, following the capture of the 10-foot great white. It is here that the smaller shark makes her appearance. The story becomes more and more improbable from that point out.

The story, by Guerdon Trueblood and screen-written by Richard Matheson and Carl Gottlieb, is full of holes large enough for the 35-footer to swim through.

There's even a feeble attempt to tie this flick to the original. Apparently Quaid's character, and that of his younger brother, were residents of Amity during the shark attacks in "Jaws" (clever and amusing, right?), a coincidence which has given the younger brother a fear of swimming in anything but pools.

The storyline, including the incredibly silly ending, borrows liberally from the previous two movies. Camera shots and "surprises" are used almost exactly. Therefore, much of the surprise element is missing if you happened to see the other two.

The only reason to see this movie is to revel in the new 3-D process. The process entails use of one camera rather than two to film the sequences and the viewer watches it through glasses containing two differently tinted grey lenses. What results is a much clearer, less headache-producing 3-D effect since the camera uses two lenses set 2.5 inches apart — the average distance between a human's eyes.

The other difference between this and past 3-D offerings is the fact that the entire movie is shot in 3-D. Everything seems to literally jump out at you, even the titles and credits.

It's just too bad that such a wonderful new process was wasted on this below-average film.

Stage Company will hold auditions

The Jackson County community theater group, The Stage Company will be holding auditions Aug. 1 through 3 for their first production of the season, "The Rainmaker," by Richard Nash.

The play is set on a farm in the early 1900s and involves the Curry family. H.C. Curry and his sons are concerned not only about the drought — they are also eager to get their daughter and sister, Lizzie, married off.

'Time Out' needs entertainers

"Time Out," an alternative social time at the Recreation Center is currently seeking entertainers for the Fall Semester.

Musicians, dancers, choral groups, theatrical groups, or other entertainers are being sought. There will be six "Time Outs" this fall. The first will be Wednesday, Aug. 17. "Time Out" is a two-hour

Involved means staying 'abreast of issues'

Hayes says he's an education 'pusher'

Ry Debra Landis
Staff Writer

When Richard Hayes, the recently appointed coordinator of Student Life at SIU-C, looks back to his early years in Carbondale, he remembers playing basketball at the all-black Attucks School. The coach was strict — no matter how well a player could shoot or dribble a ball, he didn't play if his grade point fell below a C average.

"Our coach was one of those weird people who felt he could teach basketball," Hayes said. "He could take 10 eggheads and produce a good basketball team."

Attucks School was made up of an elementary school and a high school. The school stressed parent involvement and extracurricular activities, as Hayes noted. "The PTA was active. There were 100 to 116 students enrolled, and everyone was involved in something. Even the slowest kids were involved in plays."

The doors to Attucks School are closed now. Hayes graduated from its high school in 1956, but he continues to promote the educational standards the school set for its students.

"I generally have a good rapport with young people," he said. "Every chance I get, I try to talk to them about the importance of education." (Case in point: One day Hayes erected a basketball hoop at his home in Carbondale. That night about 20 youths congregated on the new court, ready to play. Hayes told the youths they were welcome to play basketball, but that they'd have to keep score by multiplication tables.

"I thought they were playing too much basketball, when they could've been studying. I thought if they were going to play, they could practice multiplication tables," Hayes said. "A few of them walked off. Most of them stayed."

Hayes earned bachelor's and master's degrees at SIU-C and hopes to begin work toward a doctorate in educational leadership. He said he's been involved with Carbondale community affairs since 1966.

Some might say Hayes is following in the footsteps of his mother, the late Eurma Hayes, whom the Eurma C Hayes Center was named for. Mrs. Hayes was active in the Carbondale League of Women

Voters and the old Model Cities Program

"She spent a great deal of time talking with citizens about the services the Model Cities Program had to offer," Hayes said. "I often wonder what she would do in certain cases. Then I go discuss the question with my father, W.R. Hayes, because that's what she would have done."

To Hayes, being involved in the community means trying "to stay abreast of the issues, what's going on with the county board and school board, for example."

education

Hayes encourages youths to become involved with church-related activities. If a school doesn't provide a showcase for a youth's musical, oratorical or theatrical abilities, the church can, he asserts.

There are about 4,000 blacks living in Carbondale, according to the 1980 preliminary census report. Most of those residents, Hayes said, know him or at least have heard his name. He said he has a reputation in the black community as being a promoter of education, but stressed, "it's nothing I sought. It just happened that way."

Although Hayes believes educational opportunities for blacks have improved over the years, he said he and other local NAACP members continue to be concerned with retention and graduation rates of black high school seniors, institutional racism and the concept of the self-fulfilling prophecy.

Hayes said young people — no matter what their background is — "need to know how to read and do sums, from addition to trigonometry. They need to keep up with the accepted level of achievement for their age bracket."

Discipline is also important, Hayes said.

"The inability to effect discipline contributes to the problems we have in society today," he commented. "I go along with the idea of 'spare the rod and spoil the child.' But the rod doesn't necessarily have to be the limb off a hickory tree. The rod can be words of advice and guidance."

Economics prof is China-bound, as part of Fulbright exchange

By David Baldwin
Staff Writer

Next month an SIU-C economics professor will leave for China to spend the next year teaching at Peking University and studying the Chinese monetary system.

Paul B. Trescott, a faculty member since 1976, is one of almost 2,000 Americans being sent abroad during the 1983-84 academic year under the Fulbright exchange program. Eighteen scholars will work in China, two of whom will also teach economics.

Trescott is preparing for a rugged year in Peking. He says he has been warned that the climate is extreme, both in winter and summer, and the classrooms are generally inadequately heated. While he will also live on-campus with his wife, Kathleen, accommodations have been Westernized and he expects them to be comfortable.

This will be Trescott's second visit to Asia. He previously spent two years in Thailand under the sponsorship of the Rockefeller Foundation. Trescott's specialty is monetary systems, and he completed a study of Thailand's system while in that country. He hopes to do further research on the monetary system of China later.

Although language may represent something of a barrier between Trescott and his students, he expects the problem to be minimal. Both he and his wife have studied some Chinese, and a translator will be in the classroom at all times.

In preparation for Trescott's visit to China, many members of the SIU-C economics department have donated between 400 and 500 economics textbooks for his use. These have been boxed and sent ahead.

China has undergone a tremendous change in recent years, Trescott said, and is now much more open to Western ideas. The government has begun instituting a much more decentralized approach throughout the economic system. This is particularly true concerning agriculture, where farmers are now allowed much more latitude.

The Chinese approach to economics is considerably different from that of Thailand, Trescott said. "The Thai economy could have been designed by Milton Friedman," he said.

But the highly centralized Chinese economy has given way to many of the methods of Paul Trescott, economics professor, and director of graduate studies, will be teaching in China for a year at Peking University.

Western economics, Trescott said. Outside private investment is being sought by the Chinese government, and relations with Hong Kong, a British colony, are being strengthened.

At the same time the Chinese university system is undergoing a period of almost total reconstruction after a long period of decline during the "cultural revolution". Trescott said. "The universities were just about out of business then," he said.

Now Chinese students are being allowed to come to the United States, with several currently studying at SIU-C. Trescott has been able to get something of a "sneak preview" of the Chinese culture through his contacts with Chinese students here.

Chicago archbishop to visit Diocese of Belleville Aug. 5

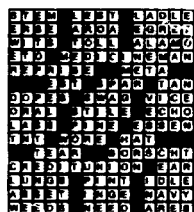

Joseph Cardinal Bernardin, archbishop of Chicago and chairman of the Catholic Bishops' committee which wrote the recent controversial letter on nuclear arms, will make a pastoral visit to the Diocese of Belleville Aug. 5.

Bishop John N. Wurm of Belleville has announced that Cardinal Bernardin's visit to the diocese will be in conjunction with the 25th anniversary of the Shrine of Our Lady of the Snows in Belleville. The cardinal will celebrate an 8 p.m. Mass.

Cardinal Bernardin was named archbishop of Chicago last year by Pope John Paul II. He succeeded John Cardinal Cody and was elevated to the College of Cardinals this past spring.

As archbishop of Chicago, Cardinal Bernardin is metropolitan of the Catholic Province of Illinois, which includes the Archdiocese of Chicago, the Diocese of Belleville and the four other dioceses in the state.

Erie nudists are 'just folks' to neighbors in Blue Lake Park

J.L. Schmidt
Associated Press Writer

ERIE — It's difficult to tell a millionaire from a pauper without their clothes on, and that's the way the folks at the Blue Lake Nudist Park like it.

For 11 years now, schoolteachers and factory workers, youngsters and retirees, have been baring it all in the park nestled in a shady valley near this community, about 40 miles northwest of the Bad Cities.

Nearly anyone in the community of 1,500 can give directions to the camp. They're real nice folks. They don't bother us, and we don't bother them," said the waitress at the local cafe.

The park, started by five couples who shared an interest in nudism, is sanctioned by the American Sunbathing Association and is the only park in the state with that designation, said Bill, a co-founder who works at a Caterpillar Tractor Co. factory. Like other members, he asked that his last name not be used. Bill and the 60 couples who are members roam the spacious grounds, where campers play volleyball or shuffleboard and pitch horseshoes.

There's a swimming pool, and a clubhouse with a snack bar — The Bare Buns Bar — which sells soft drinks, ice cream, suntan lotion, bug repellent and "shoe pockets," a plastic container that can be attached to shoelaces.

"Where else does a nudist carry his keys," said Dick, another co-founder.

"We just do the things any camper would do, except we're naturists," said a woman schoolteacher who asked complete anonymity.

"I'm from a very, conservative community," she said. "I'd just as soon not have people find out. I've been a nudist for 21 years. My husband is. Both of my daughters are."

"We get some real interesting mail," said Marge, who handles all the mailing for the park. "Some people send us their pictures. A lot of them we have to write back and say we aren't that kind of place. Our activity would probably seem rather dull for them."

Couples who are interested are required to make three visits. They are carefully scrutinized — "we don't want booze and drug problems and we don't allow spouses to come alone unless there's a good reason," said Bill.

"We're family oriented. We're just like everybody else. We have the same social values. Perhaps I'm even a little bit more conservative than most on issues other than nudity," said the schoolteacher.

And how do they feel about people who wear clothes?

"Hey, when it gets cold out here we put clothes on. We're nudists, but we're not stupid."

A recent Gallup poll said 72 percent of those questioned favored allowing nude sunbathing, said Bill. Another 15 percent admitted they had tried it in mixed groups.

"At least 95 percent of the people who try it are uptight at first. They think everybody is gonna be beautiful and perfect. I'm fat and have scars. After 30 minutes you don't notice anymore," he said.

"When we're nude, we're all on the same level," said the schoolteacher.

Lost Marine ate ants, plants to survive wilderness ordeal

SOUTH LAKE TAHOE, Calif. — A Marine who fell into a deep ravine, then lost 75 pounds in almost five weeks before pulling himself to safety, said Monday that he got the idea of eating ants after they "crowded all over" him.

"It was a while before I started eating ants," said 22-year-old Karl Bell, whose only other sustenance was moss and water. "They didn't really taste that good."

Bell, who described himself as a "dumb jerk that got lost," was listed in good condition Monday at Barton Memorial Hospital. He was rescued Sunday after crawling to the top of the ravine, collapsing, and being spotted by hikers.

"They told me their names," he said. "I forget them, but I'll never forget their faces."

The lance corporal was on leave from his job as a small arms repairman at Camp Pendleton north of San Diego. He fell in the Bear River Canyon, in a rugged area about 150 miles northeast of San Francisco, while hiking alone after breakfast July 15.

Clad only in fatigue pants, boots and a T-shirt, Bell suffered a broken right ankle and bruised ribs in the 30-foot fall.

Blisters also formed on most of his exposed skin from sun which drove daytime temperatures into the 90s. Overnight lows dropped into the 40s, he said.

From his hospital bed, Bell recalled that for the first few days, he didn't eat anything. Then he got hungry.

"The way it started out, I lay down and the ants would be crawling all over you. I'd smack them, and then I started eating them," he said. "I also ate moss, but lost 75 of the 210 pounds he was carrying on his 6-foot-1 frame before the accident."

Vivid memories came from Bell's time as a restaurant worker in his home town of Battle Creek, Mich. "I thought about all the food," he said.

Bell said he crossed the Bear River once in an attempt to crawl to help, but crossed back when he couldn't find a way out. Finally, he found a climbing piton and a length of rope and used them to haul himself back up to the trail from which he had fallen.

Bell collapsed after the climb, and hikers David Babich, 28, and Ron Barrett, 22, both of Sacramento, found him where he had fallen.

Government will decide baby's race and ultimately her future

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Lize Venter is 4 weeks old and nobody knows who her parents are. In a society where the races are separated by law, that means the government will decide if she's black, white or of mixed race — and set the course of her life.

The baby was found in a field near Pretoria two weeks ago, wrapped in a new blanket, and she was taken to Pretoria West Hospital where nurses gave her the name Lize Venter.

The decision on her race will determine who can adopt her, where she goes to school, what neighborhood she may live in, whom she can marry, whether she can vote, whether she can eat — what she may hope for in life.

Police searching for Lize's parents said Monday that based on a strand of her hair, they had "scientifically determined that the child was of mixed race."

But that decision was only for purposes of police investigation.

The official decision lies with the Department of Internal Affairs, which is responsible for assigning all South Africans to one of four race groups — white, "colored" (mixed race), Asian or black.

Spokesman Tiens Kotze told The Associated Press that classification might be delayed for several years.

"She hasn't been classified yet, we've left it open," he said, adding that in cases where the race of babies is disputed "it's wide open until about six years of age."

Several South African families have expressed an interest in adopting her, but because she can only be taken by a family of the same race, she must await the government's decision.

So Lize Venter remains in the hospital.

"I'm told that the authorities are embarrassed by this," said Marius Barnard, the opposition Progressive Federal Party's Parliamentary spokesman on health and welfare.

"I think that means there's hope for us. I hope this child, this infant, in her way will convince South Africa that we have some ridiculous laws," he said in an interview.

This is decreed by the Population Registration Act of 1950, adopted by the governing National Party two years after it took control of the white-minority government.

The law embodied the party's view that the races could co-exist best if kept separate. There are 4.5 million whites in South Africa, nearly 16 million blacks, 2.5 million people of mixed race and about 800,000 Asians.

The law, determining the race of every citizen within 14 days of birth, "can be described as the cornerstone of the whole system of apartheid," wrote lawyer John Dugard in "Human Rights and the Legal Order in South Africa."

Softball crowns claimed Tuesday

By Joe Paschen
Staff Writer

Newly crowned champions in intramural softball leagues rode into the sunset Tuesday evening applauding their play and deciding who would buy the first round of post-game thirst-quencher.

The men's 12-inch B Division title went to The Unknowns, who clipped the Wings 7-4. The men's 16-inch A Division championship is the property of the Beer Nuts. They beat the previously undefeated Maltese Falcons 20-13.

In the 12-inch contest, the Wings broke a tie ballgame and led 4-3 entering the seventh inning. It was then the Unknowns made themselves known to their opponents.

The Unknowns scored four runs in the top of the seventh, a rally highlighted by a two-run homer by outfielder Jim Vukovich. That held up for the victory as the winners kept the Wings scoreless in the bottom of the seventh.

The Unknowns finished their season at 9-0, while the Wings closed out at 6-3.

As is the case of most 16-inch softball games, the team which puts together the biggest rallies usually comes out on top. So was the case for the champion Beer Nuts.

The game opened up with the Maltese Falcons sending their starting 10 players to the plate scoring six runs on seven hits. Not to be denied, the Beer Nuts came back in their half of the first to notch seven runs on six hits to take a brief lead in what became a seesaw battle for runs.

The Maltese Falcons pushed four more runs across the plate in the top of the third. Falcon batter Paul Feaman belted a three-run homer for the decisive blow. The Maltese Falcons scored another run in the third and added two more in their half of the fifth before the Beer Nuts woke up and got back into the game.

Beer Nut hitters batted around for the third time of the game in the bottom of the fifth scoring seven runs on six hits. Three of those runs marched across the plate on third baseman Randy Bachand's home run.

With the score standing 18-13 entering the sixth, and what seemed to be the last inning, the Maltese Falcons could find no holes and no runs. That brought the Beer Nuts back in for their bats in the bottom of the sixth. They added two more insurance runs to make the score stand at 20-13.

The Falcons began running out onto the field for a hopeful seventh inning, but the umpire ruled the allotted time for the game had run out, bringing the Falcon captain complaining ala George Brett — that in a playoff game, the contest should be played in its entirety, not by a clock. But like Brett, who made recent headlines with his anger in New York the other day, the umpire's decision stayed.

Eric Nelson, leftfielder and captain of the Beer Nuts explained why his ballclub overcame several deficits for the victory.

"I think it was our hitting," said Nelson. "We didn't play that well in the field, but our hitting has been strong all season. At the beginning of the season we could hardly get enough guys out here to play, but when it came to playoff time, we knew it was the salary drive, just like the Pirates are doing."

The Pittsburgh Pirates aren't champions of their league yet, but the Beer Nuts and Unknowns are.

Intramural notes — In the men's 16-inch Division B championship, played Monday, Cousin It beat Graphics 4-3. Cubs fall to Dodgers

CHICAGO (AP) — Ken Landreaux whacked four hits including a home run and drove in three runs Tuesday, but he was wondering about the hit that got away.

Landreaux might have had five hits if he hadn't been called out for interference on a topped ball down the first base line.

"I questioned the umpire," said Landreaux, who led Fernando Valenzuela and the Los Angeles Dodgers to a 5-2 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

"I tried to talk to him but it didn't do any good," he said. "They said I stepped inside the bag but I was running straight. I'm happy with four hits but the fifth one would have helped."

Earlier this season Landreaux had another big game in Wrigley Field with two doubles and a homer. "But I don't like this ball park," he said. "It's hard to see the ball because of the day-night contrast."

"Fortunately, I'm swinging the bat well and the hits are falling in. I'm getting some key hits. All you have to do is relax and let what will happen, happen."

Mike Marshall hit a homer and a run-scoring single to account for Los Angeles' other two runs.

Landreaux doubled in a run in the first inning after Steve Sax had singled, singled in another in the fourth and hit his 10th homer in the seventh inning.

Marshall hit his ninth homer in the second inning and singled in another run in the fifth off loser Dick Ruthven, 7-8.

Saluki swimmers eye Pan Am qualifying meet

Saluki swimming coach Bob Steele is busy this week preparing five SIU-C swimmers for further national and possibly international competition.

While other swimming activists spend their afternoons at the area lakes, these five young men train for hours in the Recreation Center pool under the supervision of Steele and assistant John Hayman.

Last weekend in the University of Alabama pool in Tuscaloosa, Brinkman and Restrepo recorded some impressive unshaven times, setting school and national marks.

Brinkman, a sophomore from Lynwood, South Africa, set three meet and Alabama pool records. He swam the 400-meter freestyle in an SIU-C record time of 4:00.7. His 800-meter free first place in 8:15.6 was a Saluki record as well as a South African best. Brinkman went on to swim the 1500-meter free in 15:47.2. The 1500-meter mark was a school and South African record, breaking the record held by former South African Olympian Gary Simon, who swam at the University of Houston. All times were personal bests for Brinkman.

Restrepo also recorded two personal bests. His 100-meter breaststroke time of 1:05.2 was just .01 second ahead of the second-place swimmer in the meet at Tuscaloosa. The 100-meter breast time was a pool best. Restrepo also turned in a 200 breast time of 2:22.9.

The five Saluki swimmers training with Steele will travel to Clovis, Calif., Sunday for the meet which will decide who will represent the United States at the Pan American games this fall.
