SOUTH RISES AGAIN—This is just one of many groups of the 20th century Confederates that took aim at their Yankee counterparts in a Civil War reenactment held in Makanda Sunday. Exactly like the original battle 120 years ago, "The Second Battle of Makanda Junction" featured authentic Civil War uniforms, tents, guns, and nine full-scale Civil War cannons. Makanda's rendition of the battle is one in a series occurring across the country.

SIU seeks funding hike to improve faculty pay

By Paula Donner Walter
Staff Writer

SIU officials have introduced a special appropriations bill requesting about $489,800 more than what has been proposed for the University in Gov. James Thompson's state higher education budget, including a request for an 8 percent increase in faculty salaries and a 1 percent increase in retirement fringe benefits.

A separate bill requesting $3.3 million for the renovation of Davies Gymnasium has also been filed.

SIU is just one of many colleges and universities in the state to file its own bills, a "common practice," Chancellor Kenneth Shaw said.

"It provides the legislature with the opportunity to make choices other than following the governor's line of thinking," he said.

SIU's original budget request of $153.8 million was reduced to $147.1 million by the IBHE in January, and then to $146.6 million by Thompson. SIU had originally requested an 11 percent pay raise for faculty salaries, but that was cut to 9 percent by the IBHE. Thompson later cut it to 8 percent.

"The area of greatest concern is faculty salaries. If the legislators want to see the eight plus one become nine or more, that's fine with us," Shaw said.

The sponsors of the bill, introduced Friday, are Sens. Ken Buzbee, D-Carbondale, and Samuel Vadalbene, D-Edwardsville. If the bill is passed through the Appropriations Committee, Shaw said, it will go to the full Senate for approval. It will eventually be introduced in the House Appropriations Committee and the full House for approval.

"Vadalbene and Buzbee are always very supportive but it's too early to tell how successful the bills will be. There are so many different variables involved, such as the inflationary situation and the suspected Presidential cutback of federal revenue sharing," Shaw said.

He added that while SIU has filed its own appropriations bill for Davies Gymnasium, University officials are considering combining appropriations efforts with Northeastern Illinois University and the University of Illinois. Projects at the three universities were ranked 13th to 15th on the IBHE's capital improvements priority list, but were cut by Thompson.

"We've already made the decision to submit the legislation as a separate bill, but we're working on an arrangement where all three projects could be supported together," Shaw said.

In the past, SIU appropriations bills have been "successful in a sense," Shaw said.

"They aren't usually assumed 100 percent successful, but there's generally some movement between the two (governor's request and SIU's)."

Gus says Shaw had to find something for the lobbyists to do to earn their keep.

New trial sought for Berger

By Diana Penner
Staff Writer

The defense attorneys for Joyce Berger, convicted March 8 of voluntary manslaughter for the shooting of her ex-husband, have filed a motion for a new trial.

David Watt, who defended Mrs. Berger with attorney Charles Grace, said the motion is not the same as an appeal, but leaves the door open if the defense decides to appeal the verdict or the sentence.

Sentencing is scheduled for April 11.

Mrs. Berger was originally charged with murder in the Aug. 8, 1979, shooting of her ex-husband, former Murphysboro Police Chief Tobias Berger, in the home of Larry Dunn. Watt and Grace built their case on a claim of self-defense, saying Mrs. Berger had reason to believe her acts were necessary to prevent harm to her and her family.

In returning a verdict of voluntary manslaughter, the jury determined that although Mrs. Berger thought her actions were necessary, they were not justified under law.

In the motion for a new trial, the defense says Mrs. Berger was denied the right of due process of law and a fair and impartial jury trial. The motion also says the prosecution failed to prove Mrs. Berger did not have reason to believe the use of force was necessary.

The motion further contends that a mistrial should have been granted because of two statements made in the presence of the jury by prosecuting attorney Mark Rotert.

According to the motion, when Larry Dunn was called as the first witness in the trial, Rotert said the prosecution could not vouch for Dunn's credibility. It further cites a statement made by Rotert as Mrs. Berger recounted the events on the night of the shooting.

"I wish I had been there, things would have turned out differently," Rotert said, also in the presence of the jury.

Watt said a hearing on the motion will be held just prior to the sentencing hearing. Judge George Oros of Pulaski County, who presided over the trial, will hear both motions.

If a new trial is granted, the most Mrs. Berger could be charged with would be voluntary manslaughter. "Double jeopardy" prevents a defendant from being tried for the same crime twice, and because Mrs. Berger was found not guilty of murder, she could not be charged with that offense again.

Man with knife robs professor; nets $15

By Leanne Waxman
Staff Writer

A Carbondale man was robbed at knifepoint over the weekend in the parking lot across from the ABC Liquor Store.

Design Department Professor Alan Schoen, a resident of 316 W. Oak St., was robbed of $15 after the suspect asked to borrow 50 cents, police reported. The man, described to police as about 25 years old and about six feet tall, fled the scene on foot.

University Police did not make any arrests at the Linda Konstadt concert in the Arena Friday night, but a Possum Trot, Ky., resident was removed from the Arena for disturbing fellow concert goers, police said.

Rick L. Henson was escorted by police out of the Arena after people seated near him complained that he was extremely intoxicated, according to police reports.

Although the city's auto burglary rate has quadrupled in the past two weeks there were no auto break-ins reported to the Carbondale Police over the weekend.

"We thought there would be but it looks like it just leveled off," Lt. Timothy Moss said Sunday.

A burglary victim reported that after thieves took items that were worth more than $130 from her East Cindy Street residence, they beat her dog, police said.

Loraine Siener, a resident of 1005 E. Cindy in Carbondale, reported to police that thieves had taken a tape deck, a camera and assorted jewelry.

junior in business, and Steve Carruthers, a senior in civil engineering, took Holdersfield to the hospital where he received stitches to his left eye and was released.

Shopkeepers remember slain drifter as eccentric

By Leanne Waxman
Staff Writer

A few shopkeepers on Carbondale's South Illinois Avenue called him "Rasputin" because of his long scraggly beard, while others referred to him as "suitcase" because of the weathered satchel he carried.

Kermit C. Troutman, the 34-year-old drifter who was found dead with a bullet wound in his chest last week, was a frequent visitor to west-end businesses along South Illinois Avenue. Most of the shopkeepers who knew him agreed that although he was eccentric, he was not violent and didn't seem like the type who could hurt anyone.

The native Southern Illinoisan would stop in on shopkeepers and recite colorful tales of adventures that may or may not have occurred, or speak of acquaintances he may or may not have met.

One shopkeeper said that after a two-week absence, Troutman stopped in and spoke of a recent trip he had taken to London, where he was introduced to the Queen of England by former Beagle George Harrison. Another shopkeeper said Troutman would introduce himself to strangers as Emmanuel Krishna.

"I never bothered to find out his real name or to find out why he called himself Krishna," Wuxtry Books and Records employee Pete Mueller said.

"He was crazy and thoroughly obnoxious but he wasn't violent. I cannot imagine anyone offing somebody like that," Mueller said.

The Jackson County Sheriff's Department was informed by a source, who they declined to identify, that a body was buried in a wooded area near Cobden.

After Jackson and Union County Sheriff Department officials searched for several hours they found Troutman's body buried in a shallow grave about two miles east of Cobden.

Because Troutman had a past criminal record police identified him through his fingerprints. The source did not offer police any information concerning Troutman's death but simply identified the grave site, Jackson County Sheriff Don White said.

Over the weekend Jackson, Williamson and Union County sheriff's detectives, with help from Illinois Division of Criminal Investigation officials, continued to investigate Troutman's death, which they have termed a homicide.

The Union County coroner, who performed an autopsy on the body last Tuesday, the night of its discovery, estimated that Troutman had been dead from three to four months.

"He was a nice guy. I can't understand why anyone would want to kill him, unless he got in with the wrong crowd. He was a townie but he wouldn't hurt anybody," said Jim Walter, owner of Leaf and Stem.

Bureau 'counting on' residents to fill out, return census forms

By Mary Ann McNulty
Staff Writer

Census takers are "counting on" Carbondale residents to return completed census forms on Tuesday, officially dubbed Census Day.

U.S. Post Office carriers delivered about 20,000 census forms to individual residences in the city Friday. Those living in "special places," including dormitories, hospitals, prisons, nursing homes, missions, hotels, and motels, will be visited by enumerators, or census takers, within the next few weeks.

Residents are asked to fill out the form and, depending on the instructions, mail it back on Census Day, April 1, or hold onto it for enumerators to pick up.

Although mail carriers checked in early March to see that they had census forms for all addresses on their routes, James Montgomery of the U.S. Post Office in Carbondale said that at least a few residents would probably not receive forms.

Anyone who did not receive a form can receive one by contacting Cleveland Matthews, Carbondale's equal employment opportunity officer, at 549-5382.

SU-4 students are asked to complete the census forms because data collected from them is designed to report where Americans were living on April 1, no matter where they are at school, on vacation or staying in hotels or motels, said Joe Heavens, community services specialist for the Census Bureau.

"Special place" enumerators will begin visiting residents in the dorms in about a week, said Ron Washington, regional supervisor for community services for the Census Bureau. On "T-Night" Monday, enumerators will visit all hotels and motels that cost more than $4 a night and other places defined as transient to hand out census forms.

On "M-Night," tentatively scheduled to be held in about a week, enumerators will visit flophouses, missions, local jails and "other places people stay for 30 days or less and other very cheap places in the district," according to Census Bureau reports.

The Census Bureau hired nine enumerators—seven of whom are from Carbondale—to cover the 25 counties in Southern Illinois. The employees are scheduled to get their assignments early this week.

Data obtained from the forms will be used for Congressional apportionment, for redistricting of state legislatures and to help in determining the distribution of billions of dollars of state and federal funding for communities.

In the 1970 census, the bureau reported an 87 percent response rate. This year, the Census Bureau is "shooting for a 90 percent" mail-back rate, said Ron Randolph, district manager for the bureau.

The identity of census form respondents is kept confidential, Census Bureau officials stress. "No name or address of a respondent ever enters any computer, which helps to guarantee that information traceable to a specific individual or household will not be released," according to Census Bureau information.

Iran says Carter sent appealing note

By The Associated Press

Iranian officials insisted Sunday they had received a conciliatory message from President Carter and said the White House disclaimed it because of domestic political problems.

The message Carter allegedly sent revolutionary leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini called for an international commission to resolve issues between the two countries, but said the panel should not meet before the release of 50 Americans who on Sunday spent their 148th day as hostages inside the occupied U.S. Embassy.

In another matter, Khomeini said he would allow a representative of the Vatican to visit the hostages.

Afghan death toll continues to mount

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—More than 5,000 Afghans, many of them civilians, have been killed since mid-March in fierce fighting in Laghman Province in the eastern part of Afghanistan, according to a report received Sunday from the Afghan capital of Kabul.

The report, provided by a source who has proved reliable in the past, quoted residents of the province as saying Russian forces were pursuing rebels with MI-24 helicopter gunships, then bombing and napalming villages believed harboring anti-government guerrillas.

Anderson considers independent bid

WASHINGTON (AP)

Republican candidate John B. Anderson moved closer Sunday to offering himself as an independent alternative to President Carter and Ronald Reagan in the November elections.

Interviewed on television before he returned to Wisconsin for final primary campaigning, the Illinois congressman said more than 71,000 had contributed to his presidential campaign in the last two months.

"An awful lot of those people have contributed on the basis that they simply would be unhappy with a choice merely between Reagan and Carter in November of 1980," Anderson said.

Explosion kills 13 at funeral mass

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP)—A loud explosion jarred a cathedral square where an estimated 50,000 persons gathered Sunday for a funeral Mass for slain Archbishop Oscar Arnulfo Romero. Thirteen persons were reported killed and nearly 200 injured in the ensuing stampede and gunfire.

Most of the victims were apparently trampled or suffocated in their rush to flee after the explosion, which was followed by shooting.

Back-up group gives musically what Ronstadt lacked vocally

By Craig DeVrieze
Staff Writer

Nobody ever accused Linda Ronstadt of not being well-equipped and at the Arena Friday night she was better equipped than ever.

That's what turned what surely would have been a mediocre concert into a pretty fine one. Because Ronstadt was equipped with one damn fine back-up ensemble and that group was able to provide musically what Ronstadt didn't deliver vocally. Fire.

Guitarists Danny Kortchmar and Dan Dugmore supplied most of that. But they were ably aided by ex-Little Feat keyboardist Bill Payne, vocalist

Linda Ronstadt

A Music Review

Wendy Waldman, bassist Bob Glaub, guitarist and vocalist Kenny Edwards and drummer Russ Kunkel.

Kortchmar and Dugmore highlighted the set. The most electric moments of the concert came when they exchanged lead riffs. Their styles balanced perfectly. Kortchmar's fluid sliding, screaming technique with Dugmore's choppy, scratchier method. Between them, they more than made up for Ronstadt's vocal demerity.

Her singing didn't necessarily lack in volume and strength. What was sorely missing, however, was innovation and emotional punch. Linda kept things pretty close to the belt and delivered both her new stuff and her older material the same way she did them on her albums.

But in the eyes of an enthusiastic crowd of more than 7,800, Ronstadt could do no wrong. She was greeted with a standing ovation before she even sang a note.

The show opened meekly. For the first five songs, the band failed to reveal its talents. Ronstadt sang slickly and perfunctorily. On those opening numbers, the title track from her latest album "Mad Love," "Party Girl," "It's So Easy" and "Willin'," the entire group came across like a washed-up disco band delivering AM standards in a posh hotel lounge.

Things didn't improve when Ronstadt professed her love for country music and stepped into Hank Williams' "I Can't Help It (If I'm Still in Love With You)." We simply moved from a hotel lounge to a bowling alley. Dugmore's pedal steel was even souper than what Williams' had in mind.

Still the crowd was inexplicably appreciative and the band and even Ronstadt warmed to this. A light, inspired version of "Just One Look" kicked the show into second gear. And a thoroughly electric rendition of Neil Young's "Look Out for My Love" moved things to an even higher plane.

From that point the show belonged to the band. They rocked it up with the Hollies' "I Can't Let Go" and did a pleasant low key version of "Blue Bayou." Ronstadt, with help from Waldman, did quite well on these, also.

A sluggish performance of "Mad Love's" best song, "Justine" didn't slow things down too much. They more than made up for it with "Lies," a song Linda said they were more or less making up as the tour went along. The song relied on a Beatles-like melody and the band raved it up exceptionally well.

Ronstadt turned in her best work on the older ballads that she built her reputation on. Her best moments came on "Faithless Love" and "Silver Threads and Golden Needles." But when she let Waldman take over and do a couple of her own songs, it became obvious that even Ronstadt's ballads lacked vocal inspiration and freshness. Waldman blew Linda away with excellent performances of "Madman, I Love You" and "This Town."

The concert reached a rock

Safety Center offers 20-hour, free motorcycle training program

Ry Merritt Mills
Student Writer
 A motorcycle riding course, funded by the U.S. Department of Transportation, begins Monday and runs through April 11. Freddy Ford, coordinator of motorcycle projects at the SIUC Safety Center, said

Each non-credit course in the program involves 20 hours of instruction, with six three-hour sessions over a two-week period

The courses are free and motorcycles, helmets, training facilities and insurance are provided. Participants are required to wear boots, gloves, a long-sleeve shirt and jeans, Ford said.

On satisfactory completion of the course, the participant receives a certificate from the Motorcycle Safety Foundation, good for a 10 to 15 percent discount on rates from several insurance companies, Ford said.

IDOT has provided the program with funds to run the program through the end of September

"We are not here to sell motorcycles to people," Ford said, "but rather to help people who want to learn how to operate them safely."

Not everyone should ride motorcycles, he said, because not everyone has the necessary patience and coordination.

"We work on a one-to-one basis. We can work with a person 100 hours if necessary."

People can retake the course several times if they feel they cannot ride a motorcycle safely, he said.

"We have a good safety record here. Out of 3,000 people trained since 1976, when the program began, there have been only about 12 injuries. None of them were major injuries and the most serious was a broken wrist," Ford said.

The Safety Center is the regional center for 30 (soon to be 35) Southern Illinois counties. Motorcycle riding courses are held at junior colleges, high schools, and at other points in the region, Ford said. Of the 3,000 people trained, about half were trained at SIUC

Motorcycles used in the courses are loaned by local dealers who receive discounts from the manufacturers. Smaller motorcycles with engine sizes of from 100 to 400 cubic centimeters are used for safety purposes.

Playing double-duty for Linda doesn't tire Danny Kortchmar

By Craig DeVrieze
Staff Writer

Danny Kortchmar's not necessarily a workaholic. He just likes to play guitar. That explains how Kortchmar could open for Linda Ronstadt Friday at the Arena, deliver a forceful 45-minute set and return later to provide the manic spark that made Ronstadt's set a success.

Drained but attentive backstage after the show, he explained that, while doing double-duty is tiring, it is ultimately less tiring than many other aspects of touring. Besides he likes to play.

"Actually, if I wasn't doing it

A Music

Review

I'd be pissed off. I'd be very frustrated hearing those guys play up there and not be with them," he admitted. "I'll play forever. It's the rest of the touring that tires you out."

As the opening act, Kortchmar presented thriving rock 'n' roll songs off of his recently released debut album, "Innuendo." With Kortchmar adding fresh guitar licks, his music came across more potently than it does on vinyl. Working in tandem with Dan Dugmore, Kortchmar's guitar work was a major thrust behind Ronstadt's show.

And yet the long-time session guitarist doesn't consider himself a guitar virtuoso.

"I'm not Ted Nugent or Eddie Van Halen. I'm a rhythm player, basically. I don't think that's what's happening in the 1980s is guitar freak-outs," he said. "The album isn't a guitar album, it's a song album. I'm standing by my songs rather than by guitar virtuosity."

Danny Kortchmar

Kortchmar hopes that "Innuendo" can erase the MOR, soft-rock image he got by working with people like Ronstadt, Carole King and James Taylor.

"I'm surely breaking out of what was expected of me. My records not soft-rock or middle-of-the-road. It's more aggressive and more hard rock," he said. Someone agreed that one song on the album, "Betty and Her Friend," definitely fit that description.

"Yeah, that's almost like R and B," Kortchmar beamed. "That's the kind of style I'm headed for actually. Sort of punk-soul. Punk-R and B."

Having worked around L.A. as a sessionist Kortchmar knows that he's bound to be classified with the L.A. sound. He's not so sure he likes that.

"It's very frustrating for people to refer to all of us as the 'L.A. Mafia.' It's like we're this elitist little clique and all we do is sit around and drink Perrier and hang out in a hot tub," he said. "That's bull-----. The people who are interesting in music now are the one's who break out of classifications."

That's what Kortchmar hopes to do.

UNICEF fund raiser to be held

Jazz, rock, bluegrass, musical comedy and other music acts all for donating a buck and a half to UNICEF?

That's the deal SIU-C's music fraternity, Phi Mu Alpha, will be offering at 8 p.m. Monday when it presents its second annual "Music for UNICEF" program at the Old Baptist Foundation, located north of Fanner Hall. Tickets are $1.50 in advance for students and $2 for adults and at the door.

All proceeds from the performance will go to the International Music for UNICEF program.

"There'll be music to please everybody," said Program Director Rick McCoy, a freshman in music.

Some compositions by music students are scheduled, including "Catwalk," which was written by former Real-to-Real guitarist Rick Stubbs.

Music student Toya Brown will sing "Daybreak," a soul tune originally performed by Cheryl Lynn.

The groups scheduled will perform a wide variety of songs, ranging from Doobie Brothers to Dizzy Gillespie.

"It's good for the students to put on such a show, especially by playing in front of fellow students," McCoy said.

TAKE IT AWAY

OROVILLE, Calif. (AP) — It was a routine sale. Police Lt. Carl Spinali sold his two-wheel utility trailer to Det. Mickey Smith for $35 and turned over the pink ownership slip.

A simple matter, right? Wrong.

Smith got a bill last week from the Department of Motor Vehicles for re-registration of the newly purchased unit: $482. Smith, scratching his head, took a good look at the ownership slip.

It turned out Lt. Spinali last October had inadvertently signed over ownership of his $40,000 trailer home.

Back-up band delivers added punch to concert

roll apex after that. Linda and band returned and whipped into her rockers. Kortchmar, Dugmore and Payne took over. They delivered the punch on "Poor, Poor Pitiful Me," "You're No Good," Ronstadt's current AM single "How Do I Make You" and Chuck Berry's "Livin' in the USA."

Payne turned in a remarkable keyboard solo on the latter and Kortchmar and Dugmore proved to be an unbeatable combination on all of the former.

Ronstadt did well in hiring what she said was the best back-up band she's ever had in her life. Her career reached a lowebb with the luke-warm public reception to last year's "Livin' in the USA." The idea, it seems, was to pull out all the stops on "Mad Love" and on this tour in hopes of landing Linda back on top. Producer Peter Asher is even accompanying Ronstadt on this tour for effect.

At any rate, the plan works. This surely is the finest back-up band Ronstadt's toured with. Kortchmar calls it "the creme-de-la-creme." If redemption is what she's after, this is surely the band to do it.

Weekend baseball games canceled

Mother Nature 6. Salukis 0. The Saluki baseball team did indeed lose six baseball games this weekend, but none of the losses came against Miami of Ohio, which was supposed to play double-headers Friday and Saturday at Abe Martin Field, or St. Louis University, whom SIU had a twinbill scheduled with Sunday.

No, the losses came to the weather, which either was cold, rainy or a combination of the two the entire weekend. Because of rain, the Friday double-header was called off, and the grounds still were too wet Saturday to salvage the second Miami double-header. None of the games was rescheduled.

The St. Louis double-header was postponed because of rain that fell Saturday night. According to the men's athletics department, the Salukis will attempt to play a single game against the Billikens Tuesday at 3 p.m. at Abe Martin Field.

The weekend's cancellations raised the total of SIU games that have been postponed to 10. The Salukis, 0-6 Friday, Saturday and Sunday against the elements but 8-5 for the year versus collegiate opponents, were unable to play a double-header at Murray State last week and a twinbill at Austin Peay several weeks ago.

Rain causes softball waiting game

By Dave Kane

Staff Writer

If you've driven past the Women's Intercollegiate Athletics softball field in the past few days, you wouldn't blame SIU women's softball Coach Kay Brechtelsbauer for applying for federal aid for flood relief.

The early-spring rains saturated the ball park enough to postpone a pair of the Lady Salukis' weekend double-headers.

Saturday's scheduled double-header against Illinois State and Sunday's twinbill against Northern Illinois have yet to be rescheduled, and the Lady Salukis have yet to get a single game under their belts.

So SIU will venture to the Southwest Missouri State tournament on Thursday in the same situation they were in when they prepared for last week's season opener against Southeast Missouri State.

"We'll still be in the experimental stage when we go to the tournament," Brechtelsbauer said. "We don't know any more about ourselves now than we did before. Hopefully, we won't lose any more time due to this weather."

Although the weather has thrown the team's progress far off schedule, the cancellations proved a blessing in disguise as far as sophomore pitcher Vicki Stafko is concerned. The Royalton, Ill. right-hander strained her pitching arm in practice last week. She was supposed to have sat out the weekend double-headers, but Brechtelsbauer said she should be ready for the Southwest Missouri tourney.

Cowboy star expected to announce retirement

By The Associated Press

Roger Staubach, barring a last-minute change of heart, was expected to retire Monday after 11 years with the Dallas Cowboys in which he became the highest-rated passer in National Football League history.

Staubach's announcement was expected between 11 and 11:30 a.m. Central Standard Time at Texas Stadium in Dallas.

"His inkling all the time was that he would retire," Coach Tom Landry said. "I haven't seen anything to say different."

Tex Schramm, president and general manager of the Cowboys, said, "Generally, you don't call a press conference to announce you're going to continue to play. I still have hopes that he will continue to play another year."

The 38-year-old Staubach, who has guided Dallas to two Super Bowl victories, won his fourth league passing title in 1979 when he almost personally carried the Cowboys to an 11-5 record and the Eastern Division championship of the National Football Conference.

Staubach brought Dallas from behind five times to victory as the Cowboys' defense crumbled.

"We could have lost five more games if it hadn't been for Roger," Landry said. "He had a great year."

Staubach also was knocked out five times, a statistic that concerned his wife, Marianne, and the Cowboys' brass.

Trackmen run past Lincoln, 116-28

Cloudy skies, temperatures in the low 50s and 10-mph winds aren't ideal conditions for running in, or watching, a track meet.

Nevertheless, more than 400 Southern Illinois track enthusiasts turned out Saturday at McAndrew Stadium under threatening skies to see the Salukis bury Lincoln University, 116-28, in the only home meet of the year.

Lincoln, a Division II school from Jefferson City, Mo., finished second in the Missouri Intercollegiate indoor championships, but could win only two of 15 events against SIU.

"I really was pleased with the number of students who came out to see us," SIU Coach Lew Hartzog said. "It made us feel good to have that many people behind us on that kind of a day. I'm really proud of them."

The fans who braved the weather conditions were rewarded for their tolerance, as the Salukis turned in some credible performances.

David Lee, who already has qualified for the NCAA outdoor championships in the intermediate hurdles, did not compete in either the long or triple jumps, but he won the 110-meter high hurdles and the 400 intermediate hurdles with ease.

Despite hitting four hurdles early in the race, Lee clocked in at 50.9 in the intermediates, breaking the stadium record of 51.0 set by Mark Koster of Illinois in 1971.

"For David to run the hurdles like he did on a day like this is just super," Hartzog said.

"I know I hit three or four hurdles because I'm used to running on a rubberized track

David Lee set a McAndrew Stadium record Saturday while winning the 400-meter intermediate hurdles. Lee, a junior, also won the 110-meter high hurdles during the Salukis' 116-28 win over Lincoln College. It was SIU's only home meet of the year.

where I can bounce more over the hurdles," the junior from University City, Mo., said. "I really was surprised that my time was that fast. I couldn't get my 13 steps down. I was going 14. The wind was a factor on the backstraight, too."

Lee also was a member of both the mile and 400-meter relay teams. Dan Jeffers, Marvin Hinton, Clarence Robison and Lee teamed in the 400 relay for a time of 40.8, which Hartzog said is a good time at this point of the season.

Hartzog was pleased with the performances of Hinton. With his parents and other relatives from his home town of Memphis, Tenn. in the stands, Hinton captured both the long jump with a leap of 23-4 3/4, and the 200, defeating Lincoln stand-out Harrison Carey in 50.9. He also finished third in the 100.

"Marvin ran well. He had a good 100 and 200, considering the wind," Hartzog said.

Marion native Mike DeMattera battled the crosswind in winning the pole vault with a season's best height of 16-2. DeMattera followed in his brother Clay's footsteps when he accepted the Salukis Scholar Athlete Award for maintaining the highest grade point average in four years. His brother, a pole vaulter for SIU from 1973-74, was on hand, along with his parents, to watch his younger brother win the award that he won just two years ago.

Hartzog was pleased with Tom Ross' winning time of 1:53.6 in the 800 meters, and sophomore Bill Moran, who won the 1,500 in 3:52.2 and the 5,000 in 14:44.5.

The Salukis showed their dominance in the field events, as Lincoln didn't have entries in the javelin, discus or pole vault, and only one participant in both the high jump and shot put.

Many Saluki freshmen had good days, as four of them won their event. John Smith won the discus with a throw of 146-10. Brent Kanner threw the javelin 196-6 to win that event, and freshman Ron Marks won the shot with a put of 49-9. Rob Schoon captured the high jump, clearing 6-6.

The Salukis now go back on the road, traveling to Bloomington, Ind. and Champaign, where they will face Indiana, Wisconsin and Illinois of the Big Ten in preparation for the MVC championships in Terre Haute, Ind. in May.

Shuffle of golf lineup fails to produce at Evansville

If one would ask any member of the Saluki golf team about the progress of the season after two meets, a common answer probably would include the problem of unfulfilled potential. After a sixth-place finish in Saturday's 12-team University of Evansville Golf Invitational, no one would argue with that.

SIU finished with an 18-hole total of 322, one stroke behind fifth-place Murray State and one stroke ahead of seventh-place Indiana State and Evansville. Purdue won the meet with 294-five strokes ahead of co-favorite Eastern Kentucky.

Rain postponed Friday's scheduled first round, shortening the tourney to only 18 holes. Despite wet and muddy conditions at UE's Oak Meadow Country Club, Saluki Coach Walt Siemsglusz made no excuses for his team, saying only that it did not perform up to expectations.

"We just didn't play that well," Siemsglusz said. "Our No. 4 and 5 men didn't come through for us like I'd hoped. But it also wasn't a really important tournament. We're still working toward the next three."

The No. 4 and 5 men, freshmen Rob Hammond and David Glass, shot 88 and 93 respectively. Siemsglusz took the young duo to Evansville in hopes of determining a No. 5 man in the lineup.

"I'm just trying to find a fifth man to shoot around 75 or so," Siemsglusz stressed. "We have a solid top four in Doug Clemens, Rich Jarrett, Butch Poshard and Jim Reburn. I think if Reburn (the regular No. 4 man) would have made the trip, we could have moved into the top five."

Although Poshard finished with a seventh-place total of 74, Siemsglusz felt better putting could possibly have gained him medalist honors. Instead, Eastern Kentucky's Dave Gaer finished first. Jarrett shot a 78 while Clemens struggled home with an 83.

"I'm sure Rich could have played better, and I feel the same way about Butch," Siemsglusz said. "Butch hit the ball well but rutted pretty badly. He could have finished with a 70 if his putting would've been better. After all the rain, the greens were pretty bumpy. I guess."

"All the guys are unhappy with the way they played. I don't have to tell them, they know when they've lived up to expectations or not," the coach added.

In order to reach those expectations, Siemsglusz plans to put Reburn back into the No. 4 spot and Todd O'Reilly at No. 5 for the Southeastern Invitational this weekend in Tuscaloosa, Ala. The field at that tournament is impressive, to say the least.

"There should be seven of the nation's top 20 teams at Tuscaloosa," Siemsglusz said.

"so that puts us back to eight already. But to play your best, you have to play teams like that."

Although the Southeastern tournament is the first of three important meets for the Salukis this season, they'll travel there still wondering how far their ability can take them. The rainy Southern Illinois climate hasn't contributed to determining that ability.

"With the weather the way it's been, we're still in an experimental stage," Siemsglusz said. "In this game, you can't tell how good your players are unless they've gotten a good deal of work. Right now, we haven't."

Fatherly advice: Go with the Expos

"Daddy, what is this place?" the youngster queried.

"This is the home of the Expos. You know, the baseball team," the elder responded while the two walked past Olympic Stadium in downtown Montreal.

"The Canadiens. Yeah, I know them."

"No, no, not the Canadiens. The Expos. E-X-P-O-S—baseball, apple pie and Chevrolet."

"But are they as good as the Canadiens, daddy?" he asked. The older gent stopped dead in his tracks and pondered the thought. Are the Expos as good as their illustrious hockey counterparts?

"Well, I'll tell you. It'll be a tough season, but they may well be one of the best teams in the National League this year."

Between The Lines

Rick Klatt

"Why," the youngster pressed in the characteristic way of a 10-year old.

"In baseball you need good pitching, and last year the Expos were the best in the National League. They led the league in team earned-run average, 3.14, least amount of runs allowed, 581, and walks allowed, 450."

"They've got three solid starting pitchers returning this year in left-handers Bill Lee (16-10, 3.04) and Ross Grimsley (10-9) and No. 1 starter Steve Rogers (13-12, 3.00). Plus reliever Elias Sosa. He appeared in 62 games last season and ended with a 1.95 ERA. All are quality pitchers and should be better this year because they will reap the benefits of a major off-season improvement."

"What kind of improvement, daddy," the son pressed on, unimpressed with his father's explanation of the Expos' pitching.

"They traded for Ron LeFlore of Detroit. He'll take over center field, which will move Andre Dawson into left. Ellis Valentine will stay in right. The big thing with the trade is that Warren Cromartie will be able to take over the vacated first base position left by Tony Perez' free agent move to Boston, instead of sitting the pines."

"Besides adding to the defensive potential of the Expos, LeFlore was a Golden Glove recipient in the American League last year. He's a speedster—he stole 78 bases while batting .300 with the Tigers."

"That's important, too, isn't it daddy?"

"You better believe it. The quicker he can get around the bases, the better it will be for Montreal. They'll need every run they can get this year. Remember last fall when they were neck and neck with the Pittsburgh Pirates in the Eastern Division? Well, it's going to be the same way this year, only the Pirates won't be alone. It'll be the Pirates, St. Louis Cardinals, Philadelphia Phillies and, who knows, the Chicago Cubs might get lucky and be there at the end."

"The Expos were the fifth team in total offense last year and you know who was ahead of them? Those four teams. They're going to need all the runs they can muster."

"But daddy, you still haven't answered my question. Are the Expos as good as the Canadiens?"

"Let's go ask your mother."
