RUN, BABY, RUN-Saluki quarterback Jim McKay looks as if he is going to run with the ball to pick up some yardage, but he really is getting ready to throw the ball to Charles Spallone for a Southern touchdown. It was one of six touchdowns scored by the Salukis as they beat Drake 45-17. See story on page 11.

Senator Declares Witnesses Found In Ticket Case

By Charles Springer

Student Senator Jerry Finney stated Monday that he has several witnesses who will testify to seeing irregularities in the sales of season basketball tickets.

Finney's reaction was prompted by Athletic Director Donald Boydston's statement last week that Finney made "certain inaccurate statements before the Student Senate" concerning the distribution.

"Dr. Boydston is thoroughly misguided in saying that the Student Senate should not investigate these allegations," Finney stated. "This is the duty of the Senate according to the by-laws and statutes of the board of trustees."

"It is hard to believe that

Dr. Boydston, Mrs. (Naomi) Kinney or any of the people involved think that the students are naive enough to believe the whitewash that has been handed out.

"We now have several definite witnesses who saw tickets in those boxes that were passed from an active Theta Xi to the president of the pledge class.

"I wish the members of Theta Xi would be honorable enough to live up to their ideals and turn in those tickets," he added.

Boydston, at his office Monday afternoon, said he wished to add nothing to his original statement issued last week.

Pete Stoltz, president of Theta Xi, could not be reached for comment.

Placement Service Moves; Job Info Now in Center

The University Placement Service has moved from its location in Anthony Hall to College Square, Building B, 511 S. Graham.

As a result, the bulletin board across from the Information Desk in the University Center will be used to announce Placement Service job interviews, according to Royce R. Bryant, director.

Bryant said the interview information will be updated every week and will announce interviews three weeks in advance. He said that since the Placement Service is now located on the outskirts of town, students need only to check the bulletin board to watch for upcoming interviews.

If a senior or graduate student would like to be interviewed by one of the companies visiting campus, he need only call the Placement Service to arrange a time, Bryant said.

He added that students must complete information sheets, available at the Placement Service, before being interviewed. "The company representatives like to look over the information sheets before each interview," Bryant said.

"Indications are that starting salaries for '68 graduates will be three to six per cent higher than those paid to the '67 grads.

"Regardless of the area pursued, this year's graduates should start thinking about jobs after graduation," Bryant said.

Egyptian Resumes Publishing Nov.28

This issue of the Daily Egyptian will be the last published this week. Publication will resume Tuesday, Nov. 28, after the Thanksgiving break.

The Egyptian business office will be open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. today and Wednesday. Classified advertising for next Tuesday's paper will be accepted until noon Wednesday.

On Way to WSIU Interview

firemen had been notified but had not yet appeared.

Harding flagged down a state truck and asked the driver to give the department another call.

Since the crew had no way of fighting the fire, they proceeded to set up their movie equipment to film the blaze.

When the firetruck arrived it carried only one fireman. Harding asked the fireman if he needed any help and the firefighter replied, "Grab that hose."

Little helped with the handling of hoses as the lone fireman and Harding manned them.

When the fire was pretty well under control another fireman, the police chief, the fire chief and the Murphysboro mayor gathered to fight the fire.

Building and contents damage was estimated at $6,000.

The three made their appointment for the interview.

Thanksgiving Break Tough for Riders

Thanksgiving break presents a problem to many students. They must find the quickest way possible to get out of Carbondale. The University Center bulletin board often provides the answers.

Dennis Kuczajda, a junior from Chicago, was one student who found an ad that proved helpful. The rides offered on the board are his only means of transportation because, as he puts it, "I'm broke."

There are disadvantages to such arrangements, however. Kuczajda told of a driver who took him home for a holiday but who never bothered to pick him up for the return trip.

This resulted in a last-minute rush to the train station.

Bill Eichman, a junior from Chicago majoring in agricultural economics, also enjoys using the bulletin board.

"I came in contact with four people from my neighborhood whom I never even knew," said Eichman.

Many students advertise in the Center because they prefer car rides to the railroad. "I think the IC stinks," said Louie Fauer, a sophomore from Chicago. "It costs too much and is not very comfortable unless you're drunk, asleep, or high on something."

Mike Warner, a junior majoring in marketing, rides to any destination from which he can fly to Chicago. This Thanksgiving he will ride to St. Louis and take a jet from there to Chicago.

Warner said that by flying "Youth Fare", he is assured of a reserved seat at the cost of $26 round-trip.

STUDENT POWER LEADERS—Meeting at Minneapolis over the weekend, college and university student leaders from 27 states attended a National Student Association conference to air collective and individual problems. Phil Brown, left, Long Island University, Brooklyn, holds the floor while Tom Isgar, University of New Mexico, and Ray Lenzi, SIU, try to be heard. Lenzi succeeded in breaking up a planned discussion on administration-student role playing, which was followed by group discussions. Eight from SIU attended the student power conference.

Jackson County Legal Service

Free Aid Available to Needy Students

By George M. Killenberg

SIU students who need legal aid, but don't have the money to pay for an attorney, do have somewhere to turn for assistance.

The Jackson County Legal Service Bureau is a welfare agency established to provide professional legal help to people free of charge.

Since its formation a year and a half ago, the Bureau has rescued a number of SIU students who had found themselves entangled in legal disputes.

The Bureau specializes in handling sticky legal problems such as student divorces, landlord-tenant squabbles and minor damage disputes, often with surprising ease.

Recently, for example, two SIU co-eds were having difficulty recovering a $50 down payment on a shabby apartment that the landlord had agreed to repair before they moved in.

After the landlord failed to make the improvements, the students found other living quarters and asked the landlord to return their original down payment.

When the landlord repeatedly refused to return the girls' money, they went to the Bureau for help.

After hearing the girls' predicament, the Bureau sent a letter to the landlord making it clear that it was involved in the case and was anxious to see a quick solution to the dispute. Several days later the landlord returned their down payments in full.

According to Stephen Wasby, chairman of the Legal Service Bureau, a letter from the Bureau usually carries enough weight to resolve the disputes. However, if the case must go to court or requires a legal solution, the Bureau has a full-time lawyer at its disposal.

In incidents that the Bureau cannot handle, such as criminal proceedings or civil suits, the individual seeking the legal assistance is referred to one of several area attorneys who have volunteered their services.

Since the Bureau is funded by the Office of Economic Opportunity, in order to qualify for the free-of-charge services, the student seeking assistance must meet certain economic conditions.

If the student is under 21, in order to receive the Bureau's aid his parents' income must, in most cases, be under $3000. Wasby said, however, that this is a flexible criterion.

When the student is over 21, he either must be emancipated from his parents' support or, if he is employed, earn less than $3,000 per year.

Ronald Stadt Named Head Of Department

Ronald W. Stadt has been named chairman of the Department of Technical and Industrial Education in the SIU School of Technology. He joined the faculty in September after serving as director of education for the American Institute of Baking, and was approved for his new position at the November meeting of the SIU Board of Trustees. Stadt received his doctorate in education from the University of Illinois in 1962 with a major in industrial education. He taught at the University of Alberta in Canada from 1962 to 1964 before joining the American Baking Institute.

He holds lifetime membership in the American Industrial Arts Association and the American Council on Industrial Arts Teacher Education.

Wasby, an assistant professor of government at SIU, said that any student in a legal bind who feels he meets the economic conditions for assistance should contact the Bureau, which is located in the Jackson County courthouse in Murphysboro.

Ineffective U.N.

The Middle East has settled back to a stalemate after yet another flare-up. But the United Nations has succeeded only in avoiding serious clashes inside its own body, while the central problem of finding a workable end to the Arab-Israeli war has been avoided.

At the beginning of this month, an Israeli destroyer, Elath, was bombed by the Egyptians because the ship was supposedly in Egyptian territorial waters. Israel retaliated by burning Egyptian oil refineries.

With this new flare-up, the U.N. was confronted, as it was last summer, with two issues. The first was to find a formula for ending the war. The second was to keep the U.N. itself from being torn apart because of inability of the members to agree on the first.

The U.N. has been too general in its decisions. Nothing has been done specifically to maintain conditions of peace.

Some U.N. member nations demand a resolution specifically condemning Egypt; others demand a resolution specifically condemning Israel. But not one has been condemned, and as a result the Middle East is just as precarious as ever.

Meanwhile, the world must observe a bomb deadline. Experts estimate that both Egypt and Israel may have the nuclear bomb within three years.

The United Nations cannot remain a league of sovereign states and still make objective judgments, dispense justice, and enforce decisions on a world scale.

The U.N. is incapable of finding a workable end to the Middle East war. Perhaps the world can find another, more effective, body to dispense international justice.

Missile Standoff

The time has come for agreement between the United States and the Soviet Union on the nuclear ballistic missile situation.

A group of Republicans in Congress is beckoning for the United States to consider building an anti-missile defense system for Western Europe, similar to the one proposed by Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara for the U.S.

Their point that our overseas allies will lose confidence in our willingness to support them in time of crises if we fence ourselves in with a missile net and forget about them is one well taken.

Not so long ago the United States built an extensive atomic network throughout Western Europe so that our allies would not have to bear the overwhelming expense of building a nuclear stockpile.

McNamara may have been attempting to avoid any comparison between the present anti-missile situation and that nuclear network by saying the proposed network is an anti-Chinese missile defense system. After all, the Western Europeans are in no immediate danger of a Chinese nuclear missile attack.

But before this missile shield is undertaken, serious attempts should be made to reach a compromise with the Soviet Union. A missile shield in the United States and, if necessary, Europe would involve a great deal of expense and would merely achieve a ballistic missile standoff.

Letters to the Editor:

Work Reform Group

To the editor:

I wish to take this opportunity to explain to my fellow student employees on this campus what I feel the purpose of the Senate Special Committee on Work Reform is. To me, it is an investigation into the present work situation at SIU. It will answer such questions as:

1. What benefits accrue to the University by making extensive use of qualified student labor?
2. What is the philosophy of the Student Work Program, and does it fit the actual situation on campus?
3. What is the meaning of the statement "the state owes no one a job"—in this case, "state" being SIU, and "no one" referring to employment of student workers?
4. Does the above statement apply to the situation at SIU?
5. Does the University follow the maxim of "an hour's wage for an hour's work"?
6. How do the employees view their reasons for working while going to school?
7. How does SIU's program compare with the other programs in the state of Illinois?
8. What are the comparative costs involved in attending college?

This committee will review pertinent facts, answer related questions, and determine a valid course of action on the basis of those facts. It will always keep the needs of student employees first in all considerations.

As chairman, I will not allow the lives or interests of student employees to be used by power advocates for the personal gain of those advocates. Neither will Jerry Finney or Gary Krischer, committee members.

Students who continually preach about showing others the light should first be examined to determine whether or not they control the power generator. Many times they account for only one in a long line of parallel switches.

But do not forget that this committee is empowered to act. It can and it will, "once we get the facts," that's the cut.

These views are necessarily my own, but should actions be taken contrary to what is shown to be the student's best interest, somebody's going to get hell and my resignation—in that order.

This letter is also a plea for concerned students to help direct their own future. The only way your legitimate demands can be supported is by your continued support. Jerry Finney, Gary Krischer, and myself can only do so much individually. Your support is necessary and will be rewarded. Contact Jerry, Gary or me (John) to help yourself. We all have individual mail boxes in your Student Government Office, and our phones are available through the student information operator on campus.

A Doubtful Thanksgiving

Lyndon B. Johnson was in office only six days when he made his first presidential Thanksgiving Day address. For him and his country it was indeed a time of crisis. And like the President before him, he was receiving the support of the majority of the citizens in the time of crisis. But this year things are different and the primary problem is magnified by lack of unity within.

At a point when a shocked American public seemed to be almost 100 per cent behind him, President Johnson, on Nov. 28, 1963, in his address to the nation from the White House said: "...a great leader is dead (John F. Kennedy), a great nation must move on. Yesterday is not ours to recover, but tomorrow is ours to win or lose. I am resolved we shall win the tomorrows before us..."

The people seemed willing to follow a man who had to jump head first into the shoes of another whom they had given strong support in a time that could have been the greatest crisis in the history of the human race.

Kennedy maintained support after admitting failure in costly political intervention in Cuba.

Apparently the people thought Johnson did a good enough job of filling Kennedy's shoes to elect him by such a great majority in 1964.

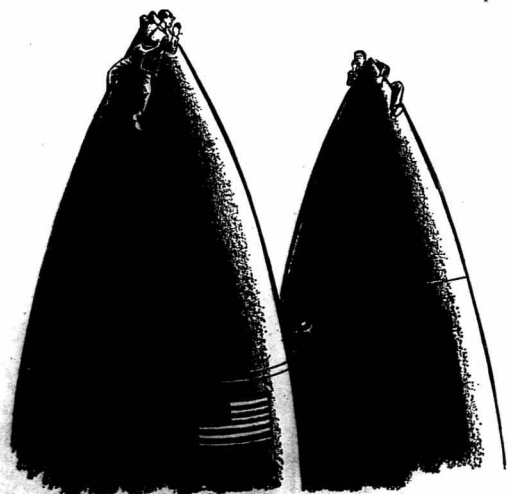

Johnson seemingly has led his country from the brink of another showdown crisis with the U.S.S.R. over the Middle East crisis.

In this year's Thanksgiving proclamation Johnson stated: "We are engaged in a painful conflict in Asia, which was not of our choosing, and in which we are involved in fidelity to a sacred promise to help a nation which has been the victim of aggression. We are proud of the spirit of our men who are risking their lives on Asian soil. We pray that their sacrifice will be redeemed in an honorable peace and the restoration of a land long torn by war."

But even as the President issued the proclamation, he must have had his doubts as to whether those "we's" really speak for the majority of the people.

It is obvious that the strong presidential stands that won the U.S. big political victories when it counted are still being applied. But it is also obvious that the American public isn't so sure of itself anymore, and the Communists and the rest of the world know this now, making it easier for them to reinforce and precipitate crises.

Design Student to Supervise Hospital Gift Shop Work

Senior David Benner's design for the new gift shop in Doctors Hospital has won him not only a $50 cash prize but also the supervisory post of its construction.

Benner, a student in the Department of Interior Design, was chosen by a three women board of judges. He will receive a salary in his role as supervisor of operations.

According to Mrs. Robert Russell, a buyer for the gift shop, "this is probably the first time that an SIU student has participated in a community project to its completion."

Mrs. Russell said that Benner's design included Victorian cabinetry, awnings on windows and an imaginative use of color and space. She said hospital board members were pleased with his design because they felt he had a grasp of what was wanted for the new shop.

Construction on the shop is expected to begin immediately, according to Mrs. Russell. "The moving of the shop into the area now occupied by the pharmacy may be completed by Dec. 10," she said, "but more than likely it will not be completed until Jan. 15."

SIU Health Service Expands

Medical problems of SIU's 19,000 Carbondale campus students are taken care of at the SIU Health Service.

Dr. Walter Clarke, director of the Carbondale campus clinic, says surgical cases are referred to local hospitals or hospitals of students' choice.

"Our facilities are excellent and we believe we offer adequate medical service to our students," says Dr. Clarke. "We are operating on a 24-hour basis with our ambulance services and emergency room. Furthermore, our infirmary is capable of handling 12 patients at one time."

The SIU Health Service, which now consists of an infirmary, a pharmacy, and a laboratory, has rapidly expanded its medical service to students over the past few years. In the summer of 1965, the Service moved from its old residential house to the present two-story modern building in the group housing area on campus. In October, 1966, the Service added an infirmary to take care of more serious patients on a 24-hour basis. The infirmary, located on the second floor of the building, is manned by full-time nurses and has 12 beds.

The number of physicians has increased from three about five years ago to seven full-time and two part-time physicians. They are assisted by 17 nurses, three technicians, and two pharmacists.

Annually, the Service treats about twice the total number of students enrolled. During the period of July 1, 1966 to June 20, 1967, a total of 38,510 students were either at the clinic or were admitted into the infirmary.

A student who pays activity fees for each quarter receives free treatment at the clinic except for medication, and treatment is available in the infirmary without further charge up to 10 days except for medication. Any extended treatment in the infirmary over 10 days is charged $16 to $17 daily plus medication cost.

Holmes, Mayor Keene To Broaden Scope of City

By Inez Rencher

"We're trying to broaden our scope so that we won't speak only for the young people or for one section," explained John Holmes, an SIU student and president of the Northeast Advisory Council.

Holmes is a graduate student working towards a master's degree in community development. He received his bachelor of science degree in psychology in 1965. A native of Sparta, Holmes said he has lived in the northeast section of Carbondale since he enrolled at SIU more than five years ago.

"This summer I got involved," he related as the initial reason for his affiliation with the northeast council. "I was right in the middle. People very close to me were involved, and I more or less slipped into it."

The Northeast Advisory Council assumed the active role in August of developing channels of communication between the city administration and the residents, pre-

Lockard Elected To Bank Position

Melvin C. Lockard, a member of the SIU Board of Trustees, has been elected a director of the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago, it was announced by Franklin J. Lundberg, chairman of the board.

Lockard was elected Class A director by member banks of the Seventh Federal Reserve District for a three-year term beginning January 1.

Lockard is the president of the First National Bank of Mattoon, and has been secretary of the SIU Board of Trustees since 1953. He was an originator of the Illinois Bankers School at Carbondale. He is also a member of the Illinois State Board of Higher Education and the boards of directors of the Southern Illinois University Foundation and the Illinois State Chamber of Commerce.

Band to Play At St. Louis Game

The Marching Salukis will perform at Busch Stadium in St. Louis Saturday at the Missouri-Illinois All-Star high school football game.

The 101-member band was invited to appear by the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, the sponsoring agency for the game. Nick Koenigstein, band director, said this appearance will not be televised but will be broadcast on radio.

The Saluki band also performed at the St. Louis stadium at the Nov. 12 Cardinal vs. Pittsburgh football game, which was televised.

dominantly Negroes, in the northeast section of town.

It was primarily an outgrowth of an emergency meeting of protesting Negroes, the mayor and city officials this summer during a period of rumors of riots by these residents, according to Holmes.

Carbondale Mayor David Keene explained that the Northeast Advisory Council is only one of several councils from the various sections of the city organized to report to the Carbondale Citizens Advisory Commission. The city commission in turn is directly responsible to the city council.

The mayor said the northeast council and others are a means of getting recommendations for city improvements directly from the people involved.

"When they make a recommendation, that's it," he said. "They recommend it and it goes right to the city council."

Holmes said the administration has readily accepted the recommendations of the council. However, the group's major function so far has been to speak out on current issues and policies.

"Since our formation, we've been reacting all the time against issues," said Holmes.

Recently the group protested an attempt by the Jackson County Housing Authority to locate a second group of low-rent housing projects in the northeast section of Carbondale.

The council found that the residents were opposed to such action for two main reasons:

1. They did not want to aid in further perpetuation of the ghetto situation of the northeast by containing the lower class in these projects.

2. They did not feel that an adequate relocation and property compensation program would be provided.

Holmes pointed out that he felt the opposition was justly due to a lack of communication and sincere concern from the housing authority to the people.

The council registered the opposition, and after a state housing authority meeting in Chicago attended by representatives of the council, the Northeast Neighborhood Association and the mayor, the county ceased trying to obtain property for the project.

Another reaction was a protest against the hiring procedures for the selection of the Jackson-Williamson Counties Office of Economic Opportunity. Holmes said the protest, along with other action, helped to clear up the confusion and speed up the hiring of a permanent director and assistant director.

Of about 5,000 Negroes in the city, the northeast council has had contact with about 500, according to Holmes.

"We don't know everything, so we don't try to talk for everybody in actuality," he explained.

A public program was scheduled for 2 p.m. Sunday at the Rockhill Baptist Church, 219 E. Monroe, to orient more northeast residents to the work of the council. The formation of block units were encouraged and reports on the council were distributed, said Holmes.

"The main purpose is to get the people interested and organized for a united effort," he added.

Officials of the local chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) also were present at the meeting to foster its membership drive.

"There is room for a lot of other organizations that might have only incidental connection with the city government," Holmes declared.

He explained that organization is necessarily important in building and strengthening the relationship among the residents and then their relationship to the city.

"It is necessarily cumbersome and slow, but there are quite a few encouraging signs," he said.

"The new mayor has an open door policy. All of his actions so far have shown that he is sincere. He's been cooperative; he's been energetic in promoting participation from all areas of the community in affairs," continued Holmes.

Mayor Keene related that his objective is to get completely away from city sections and unite the city as a whole. Recognizing that there are economic factors preventing mobility of some of the residents, Keene said he believes "a man has got to be able to live where he wants. No one should be forced to live in a certain section."

"I said that I would make some changes. I believe these things, and I'm going to stand for them—it might be 'bloody,' however."

Dorothy Lamour Headlines Cast

'Hello Dolly' Production Set for Dec. 3

One of the biggest box office hits in the history of Broadway will come to SIU on Dec. 3.

On that day, "Hello Dolly" starring Dorothy Lamour, will be presented at 4:30 and 8:30 p.m. in Shryock Auditorium.

"Dolly" opened on Broadway in January, 1964 and shortly thereafter won the New York Drama Critic's Circle Award as the year's best musical. It later won the Antionette Perry (Tony) Award in the same category. Its personnel won a total of nine additional Tony Awards, an achievement never since attained.

Almost a year ago, it played at the White House to begin its fourth year.

Miss Lamour succeeds Carol Channing, the original

Dolly. Miss Channing left the Broadway production in 1965 to begin a lengthy tour. She was followed by Ginger Rogers on Broadway and then Martha Raye. Presently, Pearl Bailey heads the cast at the St. James Theatre.

The North American production has already grossed over $30 million. This makes it the biggest hit of producer David Merrick's career.

Merrick conceived the idea for the play when he first produced the Thornton Wilder's comedy "The Matchmaker." He decided then that it would make a successful musical. Eight years later "Hello Dolly" was the biggest of Broadway hits.

Tickets for the SIU production can be obtained at the Information Desk in the University Center or can be ordered by mail from the Student Activities Center, SIU, Carbondale, Illinois 62901.

A self-addressed stamped envelope should be included. Checks should be made payable to Lectures and Entertainments.

Tickets for students are $2, $3 and $4. All others are $3, $4 and $5.

Miss Lamour opened with the show at the Riviera in Las Vegas. She will come to Carbondale as part of a 40-week national tour.

Parliament Fight Coming

Labor Party Backs Wilson

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Harold Wilson's Labor party accepted pound devaluation without serious complaint Monday and his government weathered a storm in Parliament where opposition Conservatives demanded its resignation.

"Out! Out!" shouted Tory members as Wilson entered the House of Commons on the first working day since he trimmed the value of the pound sterling Saturday to $2.40 from $2.80.

Then as Chancellor of the Exchequer James Callaghan rose to explain the devaluation the Conservatives chanted: "Resign, resign."

Both ignored the cries. Callaghan blamed the Conservatives for Britain's plight. "You left us in this state," he said.

The Conservatives, however, are expected to introduce a motion of censure against Wilson's three-year-old government.

The big round is expected to start in Parliament Tuesday.

This was Britain's third devaluation in 36 years—all of them carried out under Labor party prime ministers, Ramsay MacDonald in 1931 and Clement Attlee in 1949.

The first devaluation, when Britain went off the gold standard, dropped the pound from $4.86 to $3.20, but it edged up to $4.90 at the outbreak of World War II. In 1949 it was dropped from $4.03 to $2.80.

Repercussions of the new devaluation continued to be felt around the world. Stock markets in major nations plummeted at openings except gold shares, which rose. London's markets were closed. But gold trading is expected to be heavy when they reopen Tuesday, because the devaluation triggered currency fears, dealers said.

When Britain devalued the pound in 1949, stocks around the world fell but soon came back.

The devaluation brought some heartening news to Britons who favor British membership in the European Common Market. Market for foreign ministers meeting in Brussels authorized the chairman of their executive committee to contact the British to see how the devaluation affects Britain's bid for membership. This was considered a break-through toward negotiation which France up to now opposes.

Before the Parliament session got under way, Wilson summoned his aides to No. 10 Downing St. and drew up plans to bring Britain back to solvency. The devaluation was forced upon the Labor government because the nation was spending more abroad than it earned.

HAROLD WILSON

Informants said Wilson ordered his Cabinet to start work on holding down wages and prices, cutting spending on defense and welfare, tightening credit even further, encouraging increases in exports and intensifying efforts to get into the Common Market.

Callaghan's task in the first round in Parliament was to explain the reasons for the devaluation. As the overseer of Britain's treasury it was he who advised the devaluation.

Mild Pro-Arab Mideast Resolution Introduced in UN by Soviet Union

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)— The Soviet Union presented to the U.N. Security Council Monday a mildly worded but pro-Arab resolution on the Middle East crisis. But informed diplomatic sources said that, if this is rejected, the Russians would accept a more balanced British proposal for a first step toward peace in the troubled area.

Soviet First Deputy Foreign Minister Vasily V. Kuznetsov introduced the new proposal in a statement apparently intended to be conciliatory.

He spoke of "propitious conditions" and a "favorable climate" for a political settlement and said his government was "vitaly interested to see a lasting peace established in the Middle East area."

At the request of Bulgaria, the principal Soviet ally on the council, the council members adjourned until Wednesday afternoon without taking any action.

The British plan, one of three put before the council earlier, would provide for a special U.N. representative to go to the Middle East to try to work out a permanent peaceful settlement between the Arab nations and Israel.

The Soviet Union did not include such a provision, but said rather that the Security Council should continue to examine the Middle East question, relying on the presence of the United Nations there to aid in a settlement.

Israeli Foreign Minister

Abba Eban quickly rejected the Soviet resolution as "backward looking." U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg gave a strong endorsement to the British proposal and pledged the full U.S. diplomatic and political support for the special U.N. representative it authorizes.

But he reminded the council that acceptance of the resolution would be only a first step toward peace in the Middle East.

The Soviet proposal, he said, was unacceptable because of its lack of proper balance and its prejudicial nature. He added that introduction of the Soviet proposal must not be allowed to impede the consensus that has developed in favor of the British plan.

Population Officially at 200 Million

WASHINGTON (AP) — While President and Mrs. Johnson watched, the official census clock recorded Monday the birth of some baby somewhere who pushed the nation's population to 200 million.

The population-recording clock in the lobby of the Commerce Department headquarters hit the 200-million mark at 11:0 a.m. EST, according to the Census Bureau.

It reached this historic point while President Johnson was telling an overflow audience of the challenges facing the country as it moves at an accelerated pace toward a population of 200 million.

Johnson halted his speech after someone in the crowd yelled "only one more!" The President then turned toward the clock which registers a net gain of one every 14 1/2 seconds based on one birth every 8 1/2 seconds and an emigrant every 23 minutes. The clock was stopped at 200 million for several minutes while photographers recorded the event and the crowd applauded and cheered.

President Johnson first noted that only about 2 1/2 million persons lived in the colonies in 1776.

"We've asked ourselves three fundamental questions these past 200 years," he said. "At the beginning we asked: 'Shall we be a free nation?' A hundred years ago we asked ourselves, 'shall we be one nation?' Thirty five years ago, we asked, 'shall we be a humane nation?'"

He said the questions were not answered once but by each succeeding generation and still today the reply to all is the same: "Yes!"

Johnson said, however, the question for the country's third century for the next hundred million Americans might be the hardest to answer: "Shall we be a great nation?"

Tax Increase Prospect Strengthened

WASHINGTON (AP) — A possibility that the congressional roadblock to a tax increase may be demolished emerged Monday among the financial shock waves created by devaluation of the British pound.

Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, holder of the key to tax legislation as chairman of the House Ways and Means committee, announced the committee will meet Nov. 28 to hear new administration proposals for reduced budget spending.

Deep spending cuts are the condition set by the committee for considering President Johnson's proposal for an anti-inflationary 10 per cent surtax on individual income and corporation taxes as of Jan. 1.

Congressional sources said the administration plans to mount a strong push to meet that deadline, despite the short time remaining. That could mean prolonging the session until Christmas.

The surtax had been considered dead for this session; Johnson so conceded on Friday at a news conference.

But on Saturday Britain de-valued the pound from $ 2.80 to $2.40. On Sunday the Federal Reserve Board moved to defend the dollar from speculation by raising its discount rate.

Mills, an Arkansas Democrat, disclosed in a speech at Hot Springs, Ark., that Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler advised him, during the eventful weekend, that the administration has prepared a new plan for spending cuts for the committee to consider.

Fowler, Budget Director Charles Schultze, and Chairman William McClesney Martin of the Federal Reserve Board will be the witnesses at the Nov. 28 hearing, Mills said.

When it shelved the tax bill, the Ways and Means Committee said it would take up the issue again if Congress and the administration come to an agreement on reducing government costs.

Apparently Mills considers Fowler's proposal worth considering.

And on the Senate side, Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana called on Congress to forget its mid-December adjournment plans and stay in session. He urged an even larger tax boost than Johnson has asked.

The stock market slumped in heavy early trading, then recovered most of its loss. The morning selling wave was a reaction to the devaluation and to the Federal Reserve's defensive tightening of its discount rate—an increase from 4 per cent to 4.5 per cent in the interest rate it charges in lending money to commercial banks.

American officials voiced satisfaction and relief by nightfall at the behavior of American and world financial markets following the shock of devaluation.

U.S. Force Trapped at Dak To

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. Army paratroopers fought through thick jungle Monday to break an onslaught by North Vietnamese regulars surrounding an American battalion near Dak To in the central highlands. American casualties were feared high in the 24-hour fight two miles from Cambodia.

A huge explosion ripped the perimeter of the trapped battalion at one point. Sharp enemy fire kept rescue helicopters from picking up American dead and wounded. Exact casualty figures were not available.

A Hanoi broadcast said U.S. planes bombed the Hanoi-Haiphong complex for the sixth straight day and that strikes also were made in outlying provinces. The broadcast claimed two planes were shot down over Hanoi, three over Haiphong and six in the provinces. There was no confirmation from the U.S. Command in Saigon.

The command reported a 24-hour bombardment by U.S. planes and naval vessels of suspected Communist positions north of the demilitarized zone, apparently to thwart a new enemy buildup for a renewal of artillery attacks on Marines below the zone at Con Thien and other border outposts.

American commanders suspect the Communist strategy at Dak To, 270 miles north of Saigon, is to draw large American forces out of heavily populated areas, where they aid pacification work, and bog them down in the mountains. The North Vietnamese achieved this in September with their big gun attacks across the DMZ.

2,000 Students in War Riot At San Jose State College

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) — Rioting broke out among a crowd of 2,000 at San Jose State College Monday following a student antiwar demonstration. Police fired tear gas grenades.

Witnesses said about 50 police officers charged into the crowd in a flying wedge amid screams of the demonstrators.

Five grenades landed in the crowd and at least three persons were injured.

The antiwar demonstration was against the recruiting activities on campus of the Dow Chemical Co., makers of napalm for use in Vietnam.

Tension grew after noon luncheon breaks where a large rally was held at 7th and Fernando streets.

Police Capt. Howard Donald, using a bullhorn from the second floor of the Administration building, told the crowd to disperse.

"You are in an unlawful assembly on state property," he said.

"Nazis!" "Fascists!" the crowd shouted, refusing to leave.

Police then formed two columns which moved through the crowd to the Administration building.

Several students were knocked down. One student threw a folding chair into two large plate glass windows in the front of the building.

Inside the building, the police regrouped, put on gas masks and fired tear gas grenades into the crowd.

Ranked 47th in Nation

SIU Yields 114 Corpsmen

Of the nation's 2,500 colleges and universities, SIU is the 47th largest contributor of Peace Corps volunteers, according to recent reports released by the agency.

As of Oct. 16, at least 114 SIU volunteers, including 44 now serving overseas, had been selected for Peace Corps service.

Sub-Saharan Africa has claimed 24 SIU volunteers, East Asia and the Pacific Islands 23, Latin America 46, and the region of North Africa-Near East-South Asia 21.

The University of Illinois has supplied 307 volunteers; the University of Chicago 130, and Northwestern University 126.

Last year SIU ranked 51st for total volunteers produced since 1961 when the Peace Corps started out with the stationing of 407 volunteers in 8 countries.

By next spring 16,000 volunteers will be given overseas assignments in 58 countries working primarily in education, community development, health and agriculture.

New requests this year have come from the Gambia, Upper Volta, Lesotho and Dahomey in Africa, and from Western Samoa, Tonga and Fiji in the South Pacific.

Ceylon is also the first country to re-invite the Peace Corps after a previous program had been discontinued.

SIU Art Instructor

Conducts Workshop

Bill Boysen, SIU art instructor and glassmaker, conducted a five-day demonstration workshop on glassblowing Nov. 7-11 at the Lakeview Art Center in Peoria.

Attending the demonstrations were members of the Illinois Art Education Association in convention there, and members of the Illinois Craftsmen's Council as well as members of the Lakeview center. Several members of the council participated in the demonstration, producing blown pieces under Boysen's supervision.

Boysen designed and constructed the equipment for the workshop here at SIU, disassembled it and transported it to Peoria where it was reassembled and will remain as part of the Lakeview center's facilities. Boysen was assisted by a graduate student, Lowell Darling of Danville.

Events Committee

Sponsors Contest

The special events committee of activities programming board will sponsor an ice sculpturing contest as part of this year's Season of Holidays, Dec. 3, from 2 to 5 p.m. on the University Center patio.

All entrants must fill out an application form by Nov. 30 in order to participate. These forms will be available at the University Center information desk after Thanksgiving vacation.

Cash prizes will be awarded to the first, second and third place winner.

Resident Fellow Forms To Be Available Soon

Applications for Resident Fellow and Resident Manager positions for the 1968-69 year will be available at the Office of the Dean of Students on November 27, according to Mrs. Virginia Moore, assistant Dean of Students.

Applications may be obtained from Hank Wilson in Building "A", Washington Square. Persons with previous applications on file must have these applications updated if they wish to be considered for the 1968-69 school year.

"The selection of staff members for on-campus residence hall and off-campus Accepted Living Centers is a cooperative effort of the Central Staff and the responsible individuals in each residential area," said Dean Moore. She outlined the following procedure concerning staff selection:

Students must first obtain an application form along with confidential evaluation forms for references. Once the application is submitted and the evaluation forms are returned, the student will be notified to arrange an interview in a residential area.

Applicants will receive a letter from Dean Moore concerning the disposition of their applications. The applicant will have been accepted, denied or designated as an alternate. All denials will be discussed at the applicant's request.

Early in the Spring Quarter, each residential area will forward to Dean Moore a list of applicants recommended for appointment and alternates to be contacted in case of emergency.

A pool of acceptable applicants will be established from which Resident Fellows will be selected as positions are available.

Caboose Burglary Remains Unsolved

Carbondale police said no clues have been found in connection with the Friday morning burglary of Caboose City, a men's clothing store at 101 South College Street.

This is the second time that the store has been burglarized since it was opened Sept. 27. The first burglary occurred on Oct. 13.

Roy Renfro, owner of the store, said thieves gained entrance by breaking a window on the east side of the establishment.

According to Renfro, about 17 suits and sportcoats, 50 shirts and sweaters and about 40 or 50 pairs of dress pants were taken.

Freshmen Take 7 Firsts in Swimming Meet

If the intersquad meet is to be any indication, swimming Coach Ray Essick is probably wishing that freshman should be allowed to compete on the varsity squad.

Of the nine individual events, freshmen swimmers captured the number one spot in seven events.

The swimming meet was divided into two squads, the maroon and white. The division was based on making the teams equal, not on class status.

This division made for an interesting and close meet as the Whites defeated the Maroons, 48-47.

The Whites won eight on the 12 events, including three relay and medley events.

Two of the swimmers, both freshmen, took two events apiece. Bruce Steiner won the 1000 yard freestyle and the 500 yard freestyle and Vince Capriles captured the 200 yard individual medley and the 200 yard backstroke.

In winning the 1,000 yard freestyle, Steiner set a freshman-varsity record with a time of 10:30.5 minutes.

The other record set at the meet was in the 200 yard freestyle won by freshman Vern Dasch with a time 1:47.7 minutes.

Ed Mossotti, a senior, won the 50 yard freestyle with a time of 21.8 seconds.

Roughness Mars Soccer Victory

By David Palermo

Field 22 soccer players; add a touch of the American game of football; and what do you get? A donnybrook.

This is what happened when Southeast Missouri State played SIU's International Soccer Club Saturday with Southern coming out on top 1-0.

Southeast Missouri played a good match; and their defense, with the exception of the St. Louis team, was possibly the best the Salukis have faced all year.

However, their defensive game was marred by numerous roughing penalties.

"There was an awful lot of American football out there," said SIU Coach Dickie Coke.

"I can't take anything away from the Missouri team," Coke said, "but the refs let the match get out of hand. They were obviously unqualified."

Temper flared from the outset with name-calling kindling the flame.

The boiling point of the match came in the opening moments of the second half when SIU forward Ali Mozafarian and a Missouri player became engaged in a little fisticuffs.

Commenting on the second half escapade, Coke said, "These things will happen when a team substitutes aggressiveness for skill. Soccer is a game in which a player must keep cool."

It was almost a carbon copy of an earlier meeting between the two teams in which one Missouri player was ejected, a few others were given stern warnings by the referees, two Saluki jerseys were torn and two SIU players ended up in the Health Service.

The lone score of Saturday's match came in the opening quarter when SIU captain Frank Lumsden stole a Missouri pass and, streaking towards the Missouri goal, scored unassisted from 20 feet.

It was one of 17 shots the Salukis took, their fewest game total in the last five matches.

The score stood up and was never threatened until early in the third quarter when Missouri began putting pressure on the SIU goal.

The Salukis, opening the second half with numerous substitutions, allowed the hosts the first three shots of the period. Center half Coke and goalie Wally Halama prevented the Missourians from turning the tide of the match.

Often finding himself unassisted and surrounded by the opposition, Coke constantly broke the Missouri offense with fine heading and kicking that kept the ball away from the SIU goal.

Halama also had his hands full and reacted with fine blocking of the Missouri shots.

"Halama has really improved this season," said Coke. "He's leaving the goal better and taking a great deal of pressure off the defense."

The Salukis rebounded from the early Missouri blitz and controlled the match for the remainder of the match.

"We substituted a great deal," said Lumsden, "and before we began jelling they put the pressure on."

The win, which ran SIU's shutout string to five matches, was their twelfth undefeated match in a row.

Southeast Missouri, hoping to revenge an earlier 3-0 defeat at the hands of Southern, dropped their fifth match of the season against one win.

The victory secures Southern's number two ranking in the latest Midwest Soccer Association poll. Michigan State holds down the number one spot.

The Soccer Club has outscored their opponents 15-4 this season.

WALLACE MIDDENDORP SAT HERE

What did you do when Joe (Boxcar) Brkczpluj was kicked off the football team just because he flunked six out of four of his majors? What did you do, Wallace Middendorp?

And when the school newspaper's editors resigned in protest because The Chancellor wouldn't allow the publication of certain salacious portions of "Night in a Girl's Dormitory" you just sat, didn't you? You've made a mockery of your life, Wallace Middendorp!

You're a vegetable. Protest, Wallace Middendorp. Take a stand. Make a noise! Or drink Sprite, the noisy soft drink.

Open a bottle of Sprite at the next campus speak-out. Let it fizz and bubble to the masses.

Let its lusty carbonation echo through the halls of ivy. Let its tart, tingling exuberance infect the crowd with excitement.

Do these things, Wallace Middendorp. Do these things, and what big corporation is going to hire you?
