The need for a blood supply is critical. Faculty, Staff, Students Over 21 Asked To Be 'Donors' to Walking Blood Bank

Members of the SIU faculty and staff, and all students over 21, are being asked to become “donors” to the blood bank for the Carbondale area. The need for a blood supply for transfusions is critical, according to Dr. Lewis Rossiter, director of the blood bank at Doctors Hospital. This is the reason for starting the campaign to enlist faculty and staff members and older students in the walking blood bank, he said. He said the appeal will be directed at everyone "from (President Delyte W.) Morris on down," also a donor himself.

Dr. Rossiter suggested that the University has an obligation in this direction in keeping with the impact of the University on the community. The number of cars and motorcycles belonging to SIU students is an indication of the "turned loose on a town must cause accidents," he said. The blood bank at Doctors Hospital is in constant need of blood to victims of these accidents. "A lack of sense of obligation," he said. Rossiter's expressed opinion, "is there is a definite need for blood on an emergency basis, and fresh blood is more beneficial to the patient.

The purpose of the walking blood bank is to blood-type potential donors so that when a need for blood arises, persons of the required blood type can be contacted and asked to donate.

Two to three persons check all blood typing to guard against mistakes. High blood-type donors must answer a lengthy list of questions before they are eligible to give blood.

Dr. Rossiter said many people come in to get their blood typed but when it comes to donating, it was another matter.

For this reason members of the faculty and staff are being contacted in an attempt to establish a permanent list of donors who are willing to give blood when called on.

The community blood bank would be available to both Carbondale hospitals. For the past several years the University's social fraternities have participated in a "walking blood bank" with the Health Service, keeping lists of Greek donor's addresses and blood type.

The over weekend that critically injured two SIU students points out the need for expansion of the blood bank that the fraternities started.

A problem with using students as donors arises however, because they must be 21 or over to participate. "When we need blood in a hurry and donor numbers dip over the weekend, it's better to avoid legal complications," said Dr. Rossiter.

The Health Service appreciates the eagerness of students under 21 to donate, but hesitates to let them participate because of possible legal trouble," he said.

Many Trapped in Housing Hassle

By John Goodrich

In many ways the residents of a small dormitory on Lincoln Avenue typify off-campus students caught up in the tightened housing regulations at SIU.

All 40 residents have contracts that are binding until the end of the school year in June. Despite the disapproval of some of the students received dentals in the mall last weekend on their obligation to stay in "other than an accepted living center," they were told by the manager of the building that the owners would be forced to sue them as a group if they moved out right away.

He recommended that the student appeal the decisions they had received.

Enrollment at SIU increased about 5 percent this year—from 17,735 to 18,188. The increase was 632, or 3.6 percent, at Carbondale and to 7,563 at Edwardsville. The increase at Carbondale was 441, or 5.8 percent, and at Edwardsville enrollment increased by 471, or 5.8 percent, according to figures reported Wednesday by Robert A. McGrath, registrar.

The enrollment at Carbondale was 17,354 last year, McGrath reported, and 7,246 at Edwardsville for an SIU total of 24,602. This year's total is 25,751 for an increase of 1,149, or 4.7 percent campuses—5.1 percent.

Suspension Threatened In Housing

Students living in unacceptable housing who have not applied for permission to do so will definitely be suspended from the University, according to a spokesman in the President's Office.

As of Oct. 15, 1,350 students had not applied for permission. They were notified by registered mail that they had until Oct. 20 to apply for permission.

Students who do not apply for permission, or inform the Housing Office of an error in their housing classification, will be suspended until they do so, according to Jack W. Gray (Continued on Page 11)

River-Port Group Plans Conference

SIU's first management conference for waterways terminal and port executives, Oct. 31 through Nov. 2, will bring together management representatives of the industry from throughout the nation, according to A. R. MacMillan, director of the Transportation Institute.

Joining the institute in sponsoring the conference are the School of Business and Division of Technical and Adult Education. A guest faculty composed of authorities in planning, developing, financing and managing terminals and ports on the nation's inland waterways has been obtained to lead discussions during the conference, MacMillan said.

A native of Detroit and retired U.S. Air Force officer, MacMillan has headed the institute since 1959. The institute has been serving the waterways industry in recent years with such programs as short courses for towboat masters, chief engineers and marine chemists, seminars in admiralty law, marine financing, and water-carriers management.

The management conference is being offered because of growing importance of the nation's inland water commerce and the increasing opportunities and interest in developing this industry.

Headlining the Oct. 31 and Nov. 1 dinner sessions will be Lambert S. O'Malley, assistant administrator for public works in the Economic Development Administration, Washington, D.C.; and Alex E. Chamberlain, president of the Louisville (Ky.) Refining Company and chairman of the Kentucky Port and River Development Commission which is charged with promoting river-related industrial, agricultural, commercial and recreational development for the state.

Speakers appearing on the program will be:

Arthur J. Weber, Evansville, Ind., executive vice president of the Mead-Johnson Terminal Corp.; Robert E. Hill, president of Chico State College in California and former dean of the SIU School of Business; and William H. Lewis, deputy director of the Board of Commissioners for the Port of New Orleans, will be on the first day's morning program.

Donald L. King, New Orleans admiralty lawyer; William J. Hull, Washington, D.C., legal advisor on port authority laws; and John H. McCarty, of SIU, will lead afternoon discussions Oct. 31.

Leading the program for the remainder of the conference will be Fred Wishey, Indiana University economics professor and labor relations consultant; Maxim M. Cohen, general manager of the Chicago Regional Port District; Mait­land S. Pennington, chief of the office of maritime promotion, and Howard J. Maraden, chief of the division of ports and systems in the U.S. Maritime Administration, Wash­ington; John F. Spencer, Cleveland, Ohio, editor of "Handling and Shipping," a magazine of physical distribution management; Donald S. Mushchler, representative of the New York firm of Salamon Brochers and Hustler, financing consultants; and Allen P. Beebe, vice president of the St. Louis Terminal Distributing Co.

MacMillan said the conference will appeal especially to managers, personnel, executives of financial institutions, and businessmen interested in the operation, development, and use of terminal and port facilities along American waterways. Showing high interest are representatives of river basin developments where water commerce ports are a possibility, such as that on the Arkansas River in Kansas, Oklahoma and Arkansas.

Except for the 7:30 p.m. Nov. 1 dinner meeting at the Holiday Inn, conference sessions will be in the University Center.

Campaign Poster Rules Given

The Homecoming Election Commission has announced the rules for the placing of campaign posters around campus.

These are:

No poster shall be posted unless it has been approved by the Student Activities Office.

Posters shall not be displayed in Thompson Woods, University Center or the Univer­sity School.

Posters may only be displayed in windows of living units and in the library.

Posters are not to be stapled or tacked to any tree and they shall not be attached to a post driven into the ground.

A spokesman for the commission said no formal complaints to the committee on the infraction of these rules have been received yet.

"If there are any such rules broken," he said, "it could possibly lead to the disquali­fication of the candidate.

Students Must Decide and Act

About 1,100 students recently received a letter saying that they had been denied the privilege to live in "other than an accepted living center." Included with the letter was a list of the alternatives open to them. The alternative that the University obviously wanted students to follow was to move out of their present addresses and into an accepted living center. A list of such housing included the vacancies at each place. This is all very helpful, but also included were brochures describing several large dormitories in Carbondale that have University approval as accepted living centers.

The distribution of these free advertisements indicates that the University was motivated to stiffen housing regulations because of economic pressure from large dormitory owners, and not solely because it was felt that students would benefit by living in accepted living centers.

Hurry for Hartzog

To the editor:

I would like to say five words about Coach Lew Hartzog. Saturday didn't seem to be his day. His daughter was injured and hospitalized because of a riding accident. His cross-country team lost by a single point to Kansas, a team the Salukis had previously defeated.

An unusually large crowd (estimated to be in the neighborhood of a thousand) showed up to see the great Jim Ryun duel Southeastern's Gulf Moore. When the crowd mobbed the finish line it was anybody's guess where the tape was. Moore, who finished first, never heard a sound. He flew yards north of the tape. Ryun found it. Jeff Duxbury thought it was 20 yards closer than it actually was. When he slowed down after presumably crossing it, he watched Tom Yergovitch from Kansas stagger past him to nose him out of fifth place, and rob SIU of a well-deserved victory.

Was Hartzog disturbed? Angry? Frustrated? You bet he was. And heartbroken to lose in such a manner. But he never once made an improper comment. He never screamed "robber" or didn't lose his temper or compose himself as great the coach that he is. So I would like to say to SIU: Hurry for a great coach! - Gordon Cummings

To the Editor:

After reading Prof. Coleman's "advice" to students, I feel that it is a most outrageous insult to the intelligence of any person capable of understanding the present movements on this campus.

He may believe that these are "juvenile" disturbances and that the American Revolution was a little rebellion. I am of the impression that the students' rights movement is far more monumental than any of us realize.

Coleman stated that we "believe sincerely that we are working for the best interests of the University." The importance of this University to me is not coner as much as the interests of those who are here to seek knowledge. Are we distorting the image of SIU, or are we exposing the truth of SIU?

Are we listening to a few "juheads," or are we listening to the voices of those who laity for others while receiving only indignation and slanders?

Are we wasting our time, or are we proclaiming just grievances that must be corrected?

Yes, we "think it over." We must begin to make decisions. Most of important, we must act once we have made the decision.

Truth Might Free Students

To the editor:

Recent pronouncements by E. Claude Coleman in the Daily Egyptian make certain observations of my own seem necessary.

As a former member of the commission I submitted by resignation in a letter to President Morris on Oct. 14, I would tend to agree with Coleman that the report should not have been made public for the simple reason that the members of the commission agreed that since the commission was created by the president and was to report to him, any public disclosure of the commission's reports should come from the president.

However, the cat is now out of the bag. As to whether the president has deliberately suppressed the report I don't know. It seems strange, to me however, that he hasn't gotten around to reading the report since it has been in his hands since Aug. 10.

I think that Coleman's comments about the commission's first recommendation, "that students participating in unauthorized demonstrations be expelled immediately," are in error. That recommendation was never intended to apply to such things as picketing the president's office, and Coleman knows it.

That recommendation was meant to apply only to such situations as they occur in the future. When Coleman says that "in the commission's opinion this would include such actions as the current picket of President Morris's office, if it is unauthorized," he is distorting the commission's opinion, and I think he knows it.

Secondly, I would like to comment on and take serious issue with certain statements by Coleman which appeared in Friday's Egyptian. I would suggest that when he states that, "You (the students) are listening to a few jughead types who are either non-students or occasional students who fancy themselves as powers behind the throne," he had better be able to back up such statements with proof.

Elsewhere Coleman says that "If you persist in keeping up your agitation you will distort the public image of Southern Illinois University." How are the students who are pretesting certain policies of the University distorting the University's public image?

If anything they are attempting to put the public image of SIU it has been the administration and the huge propaganda apparatus which has it at its disposal.

Contrary to Professor Coleman, I would advise those students who are attempting to secure their constitutional rights which have been abrogated by the administration under the pretext of "loco parents" to keep up the pressure so that the truth may be made known that the truth might make the students free.

Ron and Pat Play Mud Dodging

By Arthur Hopp

Gov. Brown and Mr. Reagan have reached a stalemate. They must discuss race riots—including what causes them, how to handle them and what should be done to prevent them. And the community has to take a stand. Each candidate for his high degree of statesmanship in declining to debate an issue that, no matter which side wins, would only divide them more.

Of course, Gov. Brown, a more experienced statesman, feels the same way about courts, fair housing and pot smoking at the University of California. Such issues, he says, should not be injected into politics.

Mr. Reagan who’s learning, says that even elemental statesmanship demands discussion of extraneous topics of little interest. Like the John Birch Society, or experience.

And each, of course, has made it clear time and again that he will never stoop to engaging in personal attacks with his no-good mud-slinging opponent.

Well, with those matters disposed of, let us imagine a Great Television Debate.

“Hi, there, Ron, and my fellow Californians out there in the television audience, it’s certainly good to be here today to discuss in statesmanlike fashion the issues we face.”

“Good of you, Mr. Reagan, I’m sure I’ll feel the same way and I’m glad you made it.”

“I’m glad you made it, Ron, you’re not implying I was afraid to come or that I might bumble around and not find the studio or something.”

“Why, of course not, Mr. Reagan, you’re a courageous, intelligent and decisive leader.”

“Yeah, you do, Mr. Reagan. It was too tough to bring that subject up. Just a figure of speech.”

“That’s all right, governor. But I think we should begin our debate. What would you like to talk about?”

“Well... No, suppose we shouldn’t get into that.”

“Well, how about... No, there’s no telling where that might lead.”

“Just what, Ron, I could talk about my record.”

“If you think that’s fair, governor?”

DURHAM, N.C. (AP)—Can one creature “learn” a fact by being injected with brain matter from another creature that already knew the same fact? Can learning be transferred by injection?

The subject is controversial. But another scientist has reported what he called preliminary findings that he has been able to improve learning in untrained rats by giving them brain injections from trained rats.

William L. Byrne, Duke University Medical Center bio-chemist, announced some success in learning transfer experiments. He had been skeptical when his earlier experiments were announced.

That is the problem in various experiments, working on the new research tack, had failed to show any kind of consistency in their results. It cast doubt on the possibility that learning could be transferred in this way.

But Byrne reported in a paper for the fall meeting of the American Psychological Association in New York that he had accomplished some success in learning transfer experiments. He had been skeptical when his earlier experiments were announced.

His experiments involved rats, which were trained to obtain food pellets by pressing the bar—and the average learning time was about nine minutes.

But the group of rats injected with brain matter from untrained animals one out of four could not learn the lesson at all—and the average of learning time for those that did succeed was 20 minutes.

In short, the rats with the “know-how” brain injections learned in less than half the time, and they all managed to absorb the lesson.

Coleman, much in the manner of administrative tacticians, seems to think that every thing is a matter of “image” and a “failure of communication.” He talks to the students as good children and mind their business and even suggests that they are primarily listening to “head types.”

I suggest Mr. Coleman ought to examine the record of Philip Demarce as an example of student jujubeadness. He achieved the highest undergraduate grade record last year. And he gained a scholastic and the personal respect of his instructors.

How, Mr. Coleman, do you propose the students get their rights recognized? Justy recall that more civil rights legislation went through after Selma than after the Supreme Court decision of 1954. To be sure less goes through if demonstration turns to riot—but there is a wide difference between these two types of protest.

I suggest that an administration dedicated to the archaic concept of “in loco parents” and carrying a long record of decisions in every area which go against the advice that given that an administration is not likely to grant rights to those who stop raising the issue in a public way.

The matter is not one of “image” and “communication”—it is a matter of issue and dignity.
Six Run for Queen

Homecoming Voting Slated for Friday

Students will vote Friday for the 1966 Homecoming queen, queen's attendants and Mr. and Miss Freshman.

The queen and her court will be announced at a coronation ceremony Oct. 27 in Shryock Auditorium.

Mr. and Miss Freshman will be announced at the Homecoming kick-off on bonfire Wednesday.

Candidates for Homecoming queen are Johnny Belle Blake, a senior from Rantoul who is majoring in physical education; Jane M. Myler, Debra D. Rexall, Jane M. Myler, Debra D. Rexall, and Linda Fuhrer, a junior from Gillespie who is majoring in music education.

Candidates for Mr. and Miss Freshman are Nathaniel Mehlroff, a senior from Altica who is majoring in agricultural education; Nancy Mechum, Ann E. Studebaker, and Linda Fuhrer, a junior from Rantoul who is majoring in physical education.

Meeting Set For Reserves In Research

Army reservists who are employed as civilians in research and development projects will meet Oct. 27 on campus.

They will meet at 8 a.m. in the Seminar Room of the Agriculture Building with Lt. L. C. Lister, of the Office of the Chief of Research and Development for the Department of the Army. He will meet with members of the 513rd USAR Research and Development Unit of Carbondale.

Lester is inspecting training programs conducted by the unit.

The unit, commanded by Maj. L. A. Methroff Jr., is composed of military reserve personnel from this area who are employed in research and development activities in their civilian occupations.

Methroff is project manager of the Crab Orchard National Wildlife Refuge.

Lt. Robert Schipt of the U.S. Naval Reserve is available at Morris Library to discuss assignments in the unit.

Blood Bank Donors Sought

Presently the Health Service is working with the Carbondale hospitals to enlarge the community blood bank by including faculty and staff members, people who are old enough, and are generally here longer than students.

Students who wish to participate in the community bank can do so, if they are of age. "If the list of donors is kept up-to-date, it works well, and 21-year-old students could be included," Dr. Clarke said.

Participants in the walking blood bank may have their blood typed, and be screened, from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., weekdays at the Doctors Hospital laboratory, according to Mrs. R. Ralph Redwell.

She is chairman of the Carbondale Hospital Auxiliary's committee for the project; its members have been working with a Kiwanis Club committee headed by Donald L. Meyer. They have been cooperating with Carbondale physicians in the campaign.

U.S. Loan Started

To Aid Refugees

Federal loan funds amounting to $1,424,380 have been made available to Cuban refugees for college education in the U.S., according to the U.S., Office of Education.

Cuban nationals attending S.U. may borrow up to $1,000 a year if they are undergraduates and up to $2,500 a year as graduate students.

Interest on the long-term, low-interest loans is three SPEED WASH per cent and borrowers may have 10 years to repay the principal plus interest, the office said.

According to the International Student Center, several students at S.U. are eligible.

Qualified students may apply for the loans directly to the U.S., Office of Education.

Presently the Health Service is working with the Carbondale hospitals to enlarge the community blood bank by including faculty and staff members, people who are old enough, and are generally here longer than students.

Students who wish to participate in the community bank can do so, if they are of age. "If the list of donors is kept up-to-date, it works well, and 21-year-old students could be included," Dr. Clarke said.

Participants in the walking blood bank may have their blood typed, and be screened, from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., weekdays at the Doctors Hospital laboratory, according to Mrs. R. Ralph Redwell.

She is chairman of the Carbondale Hospital Auxiliary's committee for the project; its members have been working with a Kiwanis Club committee headed by Donald L. Meyer. They have been cooperating with Carbondale physicians in the campaign.

5 Saigon Cabinet Ministers May Return Before Manila

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—Premier Nguyen Cao Ky’s hopes of presenting a united Saigon front at the Manila conference rose Wednesday night with an unofficial report that five of seven cabinet ministers who resigned had turned up to sign their resignations.

The cabinet walkout had been a blow to Ky because the ministers charged the predominantly military regime was corrupt. This would have damaged the regime’s image at the Manila summit meet­ing on Viet Nam opening Monday.

Ky’s press office, told about the report from unofficial sources, said the five ministers had rescinded their resignations, the announcement a news conference will be held today to clarify the situation.

The prime minister and Ky had agreed to rebuke the national police director, Nguyen Ngoc Lai, accepted by the seven ministers of ruthless action.

Australia Prepares Welcome

For Johnson Visit Today

CANTERBURY, Australia (AP) — Australia set out a Texas-style welcome for President Johnson on his four-day visit before flying to the Manila conference on Viet Nam.

Many Australians, many of them proud of being U.S. allies in Viet Nam, have been asked to open their hearts to him. Australia has 4,675 fighting men in Viet Nam.

With its cattle, sheep and spreading ranches, Australia will be like a home abroad for the President and his wife, Lady Bird.

At one point in the visit, they will be guests at an outdoor barbecue on a 10,000-acre ranch in rolling hills country outside Canberra. Australia’s planned, inland capital.

Outdoor barbecues are frequent at the 1,700-fowl Ranch in Texas.

Now the Johnsons will see the Australian equivalent. Someustralians said the visit will showcase the one by Queen Elizabeth II.

Preparations for the visit—first ever made to Australia by a U.S. president—came under fire of some newspapers. Sydney papers contended the New South Wales state government—overcharged and a planned welcome. The Sydney Morning Herald accused the state government of “vulgarity” and claimed it was bullying and acajoling people to line the streets for Johnson.

They said the premier may also have made some other concessions. An Australian spokesman had said earlier in the day the crisis “should be regarded as serious” unlikely to be solved before the Manila meeting.

Johnson and Holyoake Pledge Viet Nam Unity

WELLINGTON, New Zealand (AP) — President Johnson and Prime Minister Keith Holyoake exchanged public pledges Thursday to fend off aggression and search for peace in Viet Nam.

The declarations highlighted the 24-hour presidential visit which also included a brief meeting arranged between Johnson and Norman Kirk, the New Zealand Labor Party leader who opposes New Zealand’s use of troops in Viet Nam. It has 200 artillerymen there under Australian command.

Johnson and Holyoake, whose National party battles the Labortest in elections Nov. 26, sounded their parallel themes in speeches prepared for a state luncheon in Parliament House.

As Johnson put it, “for free men, for responsible men, for men of conscience, there is no acceptable alternative but to resist this aggression.”

Holyoake said “New Zealand is among that company of those countries which place their trust in the free decisions of free nations which are prepared to resist aggression, but we also bear a responsibility to search for peace.”

And Johnson said, “We are seeking to bring an end to this vicious war at the conference table.”

The New Zealanders voiced hope that next week’s Manhattan summit conference of the seven allies fighting the Reds in South Viet Nam “will open up avenues toward a lasting solution.”

Johnson, who arrived here Wednesday on a 29,000-mile Far Eastern tour arranged around the Manila meeting, makes Australia his next stop.

Nobel Peace Prize Will Not Be Given

OSLO, Norway (AP) — The Nobel Peace Prize will not be awarded this year, The Norwegian Nobel Committee announced the decision Wednesday and, as usual, gave no reason for withholding the prize.

The award, amounting to 300,000 Swedish kroner, or about $35,315, can revert to the Nobel Prize fund or be granted next year.

The Norwegian committee has turned the awards back to the fund on 17 occasions, ten times the prize has been held up and awarded the following year.

The prize was established in 1895 in the will of Alfred Nobel, Swedish inventor of dynamite.

Youths Riot At Oakland High School

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — A gang of 250 Negro youths ran wild in a predominantly Negro high school Wednesday, beat up five white teachers, jostled white students eating lunch and forced the 2,700-student school to shut down.

"We have closed Castlemont High School because of fear of physical violence," said Stuart S. Phillips, Oakland superintendent of schools.

In the same East Oakland area, 150 more Negro youths began ripping apart a food scene and closed off traffic. The disturbance was a resurgence of a rampage Tuesday in East Oakland by rival Negro teen-age gangs during which five whites were beaten, 10 injured and 47 business firms were damaged.

Stuart blamed the disorders at Castlemont on a committee which called Wednesday for a three-day boycott of junior and senior high schools, charging that education at three predominantly Negro schools was inferior.

Castlemont officials also said the trouble was spurred in part by Negroes trying to get back inside for lunch after joining the boycott in the morning.

The five assaulted teachers were given first-aid treatment in the principal's office. One, Daniel Hickey, 30, had a bloody nose and a cut eye.

Cycle Deaths On the Rise In Illinois

SPRINGFIELD, (AP) — Deaths and injuries from accidents involving motorcycles and other motor-driven cycles were up sharply in Illinois the first six months of this year, a report showed Wednesday.

Thirty-seven persons were killed, an increase of 16 over a corresponding period in 1963, Public Works Director Francis Lorenz announced.

Lorenz said 3,409 persons were injured compared to 2,689 the first six months of last year.

Lorenz noted that registration of motorcycles and motor-driven cycles increased 62 per cent over a similar period a year ago.

Registrations of such vehicles totaled 59,456 compared to 36,626 last year.

First Phase of Protests Is Over

Leaders of the protest movement over housing and motor vehicles announced an end to a "first phase" of protest Tuesday night. A rally and picket at the University Center Tuesday ended demonstrations for the time being, the leaders said. They will work through channels to attempt to set up meetings with administration officials, they said. A delegation plans to attend the Nov. 10 meeting of the SIU Board of Trustees meeting in Edwardsville. After the rally Tuesday a packet of information from protesters was given to Gov. Otto Kerner as he entered the University Center to address a meeting. The packet was presented by Bard Grosse, chairman of the University Student Council, and included petitions signed by students, a statement of grievances and goals and two letters. One of the letters, by Grosse, stated, "Most students feel rules not consistent with law have been effected." "The student body president and I agree with the goals these students are trying to attain. We are presently attempting to open up communication channels between the students and the Board of Trustees and administration." "If this fails, I will then feel obliged to contact you again concerning an investigation," the letter continued. Also included in the packet was a letter by Bob Drinan, student body president. In it he stated that he feels that student government should work within "legal channels created for grievance redress." "Our responsibility remains to work for change within the University, not to work for change of the University from outside," the letter said.

Lecture Funds

University departments seeking funds for lectures and entertainment committees should have their petitions submitted by the end of this week.

Lectures will begin if the University that they reside in is granted permission to live in other than accepted centers.

The 1,137 who have moved to accepted living centers, those who have notified the University that they intend to move, those whose landlords are attempting to have living quarters classified as approved living centers, those who have legal or contractual problems and those who have requested interviews with University officials to review their cases, the spokesman said that there are about 9,000 beds in accepted living centers other than University housing. Approximately 3,500 of these are in large dormitory facilities, he said.

lived in before, and none of them wanted to move.

"To go back to one of those big dorms would be terrible," one said. "It makes me sick."

Others mentioned that supervised dorms they had lived in before were poor, and that many of the students there seemed immature, staying up late and making noise.

"I don't think you'll find a better place than this for privacy," a junior said.

The dormitory, 410 S. Lincoln, was originally built to meet the specifications of approved housing, but it was never supervised because at first only graduate students lived there.

Now that undergraduates have signed up to stay, one of the owners of the building said that a petition may have to be made to the Housing Office for approval of the building as an accepted living center.

The students on Lincoln Avenue would then have a chance of staying at a residence of their choice unlike other students in trailer courts and apartments that do not meet the specifications of the housing regulations.

Here 35 Years

Intramural Director Witness
To Many SIU Sports Feats

As a player, coach and athletics administrator, Glenn (Ab) Martin has witnessed a lot of sports feats in the past 35 years at SIU.

But one stick in his memory with particular vividness. That was last spring when a Peoria student named Robert Koppers heaved a softball the length of McAndrew Stadium, on the fly.

"He really threw that ball," Martin recalls. "It's got to be somewhere near a world record."

Koppers' Herculean peg travelled 339 feet, 10 inches. What is noteworthy, perhaps, is that he wasn't competing for the glory of SIU, but in an intramural track meet.

Koppers was one of about 7,000 SIU men who competed intramurally last year. Martin, he adds, estimates that more than 8,000 will participate this year. For sheer size the program dwarfs all other student activities.

Students will be playing everything from hole-in-one golf to handball to horseshoes. Teams representing fraternities, men's residence halls, off-campus dormitories and independents will be clashing for honors in a dozen sports.

Improvements this year include six flag football fields near the Arena, another five playfields near the Lake-on-the-Campus and eight handball courts.

Any undergraduate or graduate student is eligible unless he's won a varsity letter or is listed on the school's inter-collegiate sports roster. In that case the student is ineligible for the sport he lettered in or the one he's playing in season.

Trophies are awarded to championship winners and a plaque in the SIU Arena bears the name of all-school champs. All-star teams are named in football, basketball, volleyball and baseball. Martin even awards an "Outstanding Manager of the Year" trophy in those sports.

Basketball is the most popular sport and last year 125 teams battled each other through the fall and winter before Abbott's Rabbits, a house aggregation from the Thompson Point Residence Halls, won the title.

Martin wants to add soccer to the intramural slate, which might draw an immediate response from SIU's growing body of foreign students.
5-Mile Race

Harriers Run Saturday at Northeast Missouri

SIU's cross-country team will try to rebound Saturday after a freak mistake cost the Salukis a victory over Kansas last week. The Salukis will travel to Cape Girardeau to run a five-mile race against Southeast Missouri State, hoping to improve their 1-3-1 record.

Golf Handicap Change Made; ' Produce National Uniformity'

NEW YORK (AP)— The United States Golf Association has announced that effective next Jan., a new handicap system would go into effect aimed at producing nation-wide uniformity. The principal change from the system now in effect is that a golfer's handicap will be based on the best of his last 20 scores, rather than the previous 10 out of 25. Simultaneously, yardage will be the prime factor in rating the comparative difficulty of holes and courses. The yardage rating chart, graduated in tenths of a stroke, will grade courses in 20 yard segments for men and 18 yard segments for women. The most tenuous emphasis on yardage in the USGA's revised course grading system will promote national uniformity" said the USGA. "At present, rating committees in various districts make considerable adjustments on individual holes; the opinions of rating committees vary widely and are sometimes subjective, rather than based on the standard of rough golf. The revision in the handicapping was made by the USGA after consultation with handicap authorities in a number of major golf districts. The handicap list of both men and women will be cut to 36 from the present 50.
Pass-Catch Combination Is Winner for North Texas

By Tom Wood

Around Denton, Tex., they have a little saying which goes something like this: "With Love From Carlin." Now that makes about as much sense as the town drunk, unless of course you happen to be on the North Texas football schedule. Then all rings clearly.

The love part is John Love, a spic and span who last year was the fourth best pass catcher anywhere in college football, and the Carlin part is Vidal Carlin, who was the fourth most effective passer in the country. This year they are both back and up to their same old tricks.

Carlin moved into second place among the nation's passers after last week's performance against Tulsa. His cumulative totals include 83 completions in 199 attempts for 1,050 yards and nine touchdowns.

Last week he threw 35 times, completing 21 for 297 yards, and was supposed to have had an off day according to his coaches.

Carlin has thrown to Love for 31 completions, 470 yards and one touchdown.

What has all this netted North Texas? The Eagles own a 4-1 record and are the ninth-ranked forward passing team in the country.

The high-flying Eagles had their eyes set on the Missouri Valley crown until Tulsa dimmed that hope with a 30-27 victory. However, the Texans may not be out of it since Tulsa must still play Louisville, a 20-19 loser to North Texas.

The Eagles hold victories over New Mexico State and Texas Western, who rank second and third in scoring in that category. The Eagles held New Mexico State to 11 points fewer than its average, Texas Western to 24 points fewer than its average and Louisville to 10 points fewer.

In the process North Texas has averaged 25 points a game. All this points to a pretty good defense and a wide open attack. In other words, the Salukis will have their hands full Saturday.

Saluki coaches feel that this will be their team's toughest test all year. It certainly won't be the first time the Salukis have seen a good passing game, but all things considered the SUU staff feels that North Texas can move the ball better than any team on the schedule. And they are impressed with the line play shown by the Eagles this year.

It would stand to reason that the fellows in front of Carlin would have to be doing an effective job of protection to allow him to launch an average of 40 passes a game.

With Love From Carlin
