Housing rates increase proposed

By Paula Buckner
Staff Writer

"Modest" is how proposed increases in University Housing rates for 1987-88 have been described by Bruce Swinburne, vice president for student affairs.

The rates, if approved, range from 2.18 percent to 3.33 percent for single student and family housing. Translated into dollars, that's about $28 per fall and spring semesters and between $7 and $10 per month, respectively.

Costs stand at $1,284 per semester for a double room with food. The increase would take that to $1,312. Summer costs would increase about 2.2 percent, or $17, from their current $773.

Monthly rates at Southern Hills are between $232 and $270, depending on number of bedrooms and whether the apartment is furnished. A $7 increase for each efficiency, between 2.67 and 3.02 percent, is proposed to start July 1.

Evergreen Terrace residents face monthly increases of $8 for two-bedroom unfurnished and $9 for three-bedroom unfurnished apartments. With the increases, renters would pay $300 and $325 per month, respectively.

Greek Row leases run $40,392 per house per academic year and would not be increased, according to the proposal. Swinburne said work included in the cost and provided by the University, such as painting, will be done by the residents.

The highest percentage increases, 3.33 percent and 3.1 percent, go to renters at Elizabeth Apartments and University Courts, respectively.

Equivalent dollar amounts are $9 more per month than the $270 paid by Elizabeth residents and an extra $10 per month for Courts renters, who pay $323.

Swinburne said the proposal has to go through the housing liaison board, Undergraduate Student Organization, Graduate and Professional Student Council and Evergreen Terrace Housing Council before it reaches the chancellor's desk.

If approved at those stages, the proposal would then be forwarded to the Board of Trustees as an informational item at its meeting in December.

"We'd like to have it resolved by February, March the latest, so we can give accurate information on housing costs" for next year, Swinburne said.

Fire sparks rural service policy questions

By Anita J. Stoner
Staff Writer

A house fire in an area between Murphysboro and Carbondale has prompted residents of the area to question the policies that govern how city departments respond to rural calls.

Neighbors who watched the home of Stanton Carroll burn to the ground early Sunday morning voiced uncertainty about how to help in case a rural fire occurs.

Some neighbors of the Carroll house on Rural Route 2, Parrish Lane, Murphysboro, were curious about boundaries for fire districts. Some expressed the hope that fire will never strike their homes because of the time it takes firefighters to arrive. Others asked about Murphysboro's recently enacted $1,000 service charge for rural fire calls.

On Oct. 1, the Murphysboro City Council raised out-of-town fire call service charges from $500 to $1,000. The council arrived at that figure by estimating the average cost of a fire run, Murphysboro Fire Chief Chester Steele said in a telephone interview Monday. Steele said that although Murphysboro loses money on rural calls, he opposed the council's decision because it did not consider other factors.

"We make 30 to 32 calls outside city limits every year. Raising it to $1,000, that's still only $30,000," Steele said.

Steele said that after Carbondale cut off rural service a few years ago because of a lack of funds, residents in Carbondale Township established a rural fire protection department.

The Stanton Carroll residence on Parrish Lane, RR 2 Murphysboro, was destroyed Sunday. Neighboring residents are concerned about rural fire protection.

"These cities, if funds tighten up, they won't pay to have equipment operate out of city limits. But after all, people in town pay the bills and those out of town don't pay for anything except insurance, which doesn't come close to the cost of operating a fire department," Steele said.

Steele recommended that rural Murphysboro residents reopen a township fire protection issue that died about eight years ago.

"If these people are concerned, they need to get on township supervisors, get a township (fire protection district), get protection and be taxed for it," he said. "Several of our aldermen want to stop at city lines — but that's not a majority."

One neighbor of the Carroll's learned that before a fire truck leaves the Murphysboro station, the fire department is required by policy to take the time to ask the reporter of the fire a $1,000 question.

Virgie Parrish, who reported the fire, said, "They told me that they could not come out outside city limits unless somebody pays them $1,000. I didn't say my name. They asked me who owned the house but I said 'I can't think who' and they said 'we've got to have a call from someone who'll be responsible for the $1,000, someone who owns the property.'"

Parrish said she had trouble getting the Murphysboro fire department to believe her story.

"They said, 'are you sure somebody's not burning trash?'" Parrish said.

Richard Martin, who supervised the firefighting, said, "It's hard to get out here. There's a $1,000 charge for out-of-town calls. We're not supposed to come without someone to say they'll cover it. If it's a house we come anyway."

Steele said Monday that neighbors reporting fires are not held responsible for the charge but that the property owner will be billed. He suggested that rural residents meet their neighbors and prepare for emergency situations by telling their neighbors if the house is covered by insurance and letting them know when residents of the house plan to leave town.

"We do like to know before we leave if they've got coverage," Steele said. "We try to find out what we're responding to. Some people get upset by a garden fire that they could fight themselves with a (burlap) sack or water

Patchett says Gray's plans all pork, no bacon

By JoDe Rimar
Staff Writer

Candidates for the 22nd Congressional District, Ken Gray, D-West Frankfort, and Randy Patchett, R-Marion swapped pork recipes Monday at their first debate of the season at John A. Logan College in Carterville.

John A. Logan's Political Science Club sponsored the debate, which included candidates in both state and federal races.

Patchett accused Gray of putting the district on a diet by bringing in $1.5 billion dollars in pork barrel federal monies when, according to Patchett, the average of federal monies brought into other districts was $1.9 billion.

"You promise! A lot of pork, but you didn't come home with the bacon," Patchett said.

Gray handed Patchett a list of $4.3 billion worth of "pork" projects which he claimed to have brought to the 22nd District.

"Those $4.3 billion worth of projects were promises. The fact is, some of those projects never went through," Patchett said.

Gray said he supported a bill that recently passed in both the Senate and House that would provide amnesty for illegal aliens and make the laws for employers who employ illegal aliens more strict.

Patchett said he was against the legislation but added that there is a need for reform in immigration laws.

Gray, who said the arms race is "bordering on insanity," said he was disappointed with the turnout of the Iceland summit and said President Ronald Reagan should have at least considered the offer to ban Strategic Defense Initiative testing for 10 years.

"I think where the president made a mistake in Iceland was by being too precipitous in saying no," Gray said.

Patchett, who said he is an optimist about preventing nuclear war, agreed with the president's decision in Iceland, and said more important than reaching an agreement is that the Soviet Union and the United States maintain communication.

"Certainly anytime we're talking is better than anytime we're not talking," Patchett said.

Israeli leader exchange puts Shamir in top post

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Yitzhak Shamir, a hard-line advocate of increased Jewish settlement in Israeli-occupied Arab territories, became prime minister Monday for the second time in a scheduled job switch with Labor Party leader Shimon Peres. Peres assumed Shamir's old post of foreign minister in the new Cabinet, which took its oath of office after receiving a parliamentary vote of confidence.

European nations agree on drug crackdown

LONDON (UPI) — Twelve Western European nations agreed Monday on a seven-point plan to crack down on drug trafficking in Europe but also decided to work toward more open borders for law-abiding travelers. The agreement came at the end of a one-day meeting of interior ministers of the 12 European Community nations, which also reviewed progress on measures to curb terrorism agreed to at a meeting a month ago. While the 12 nations want to make life more difficult for international criminals, they agreed to plan for easier border formalities to make travel within Europe easier for European Community citizens.

Saudi king intervenes in stalled OPEC talks

GENEVA (UPI) — Saudi Arabia's King Fahd intervened personally in the stalemated OPEC talks Monday in a bid to persuade the bitterly divided oil cartel to agree to a compromise on extending production controls until the end of the year. In Riyadh, the official Saudi news agency reported King Fahd was contacting leaders of other Persian Gulf states after OPEC's 13 oil ministers failed to reach a production accord to bolster oil prices on the 15th day of negotiations.

Kohl leaves for United States; to meet Reagan

BONN, West Germany (UPI) — Chancellor Helmut Kohl flew to Washington Monday where he said he will urge President Reagan to continue disarmament talks with the Soviet Union. He is slated to meet with Reagan Tuesday.

GM to withdraw from S. Africa, sell holdings

DETROIT (UPI) — General Motors Corp., long a major target of anti-apartheid activists, said Monday it will withdraw from South Africa, selling operations there to a group headed by local management. GM Chairman Roger Smith said GM South African Ltd. had been losing money in a "very difficult South African business climate." He also said the firm has been disappointed in the progress toward elimination of apartheid. GM — the world's largest industrial organization and a leader among U.S. firms in South Africa — has faced mounting pressure over its presence in that racially troubled nation.

U.S. to retaliate against Soviet expulsion act

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The administration, angered by the expulsion of five American diplomats from the Soviet Union, has lodged a formal protest with the Kremlin and will retaliate soon, probably by expelling more Soviets from the United States, officials said Monday. An official who spoke on the condition he not be identified said the expected expulsion of Soviet diplomats could come late Monday or Tuesday.

N.Y. tabloids deny rumors of Murdoch buyout

NEW YORK (UPI) — Executives of two New York tabloids denied reports that publisher Rupert Murdoch is considering an offer from the parent company of the New York Daily News to purchase the New York Post, Advertising Age reporter Monday. Sakharov's freedom sought by Nobel winner

BOSTON (UPI) — Nobel Peace Prize winner Elie Wiesel said Monday he will go to the Soviet Union to seek freer emigration for Jews and the release of prominent dissident Andrei Sakharov. At a news conference at Boston University, where he is the Andrew Mellon professor of humanities, Wiesel said he will leave Tuesday for Moscow, where he hopes to meet with Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev. He said his message to the Russians will be no different than what he teaches and writes: "I will be repeating what I have been repeating: to let memories bring people together, not divide them."

Jackson County Sheriff Officer training surpasses 12,000 hours, Kilquist says

By Sharon Waldo
Staff Writer

In the past four years, more than 12,000 hours of in-service training have been supplied to officers and personnel within the sheriff's department, according to William J. Kilquist, Democratic incumbent for Jackson County sheriff.

Kilquist said some officers have attended an interrogation school, Jackson County Mental Health seminars and Rape Action Committee seminars. He said this type of training helps officers interact better with the community.

The Jackson County Major Case Squad, which was formalized in 1983 by Kilquist, is going very well, he said. The case squad, a major point of Kilquist's 1982 campaign, was implemented to pool the talents of various police agencies in solving major crimes.

Kilquist said the Carbondale Police Department, SIU-C Police Department, Jackson County Sheriff's Department, Murphysboro Police Department and the Illinois Department of Law Enforcement are involved in the case squad.

Kilquist, 37, also pledged in his 1982 campaign to increase night and weekend patrol and to implement a four-day work week.

He said the time officers are on patrol has been rescheduled, using four shifts instead of three.

"By rescheduling ... we use four shifts and overlap all of those shifts," Kilquist said. "And on Friday and Saturday nights from the hours of 10 p.m. to 4 a.m., we can put approximately five people on the street."

"Out of 11 road officers, that's not a bad number," he added.

The four-day work week went into effect in 1982, soon after Kilquist took office. "I don't know if any of the officers that don't like it," he said.

Kilquist said the new work week has boosted the morale of the officers, giving them an extra day to rest up and recharge their batteries, do things around their homes and spend time with family.

He also said the four-day work week has helped to reduce the amount of overtime.

William J. Kilquist

As for his 1986 campaign, Kilquist said the sheriff's department may be "programmed out" at this time.

"As a law enforcement officer and as an administrator, I have to decide what programs will work, what programs may not work," he said. And of those programs, Kilquist said he has to decide what programs he can operate manpower wise and operate fiscally — money wise.

"You can only operate so many programs," he said. "You always have to look for change; you always have to weed out the bad programs and come up with new programs."

Kilquist said he is familiar with and agrees with the basic concept of the Crime Stoppers program his Republican opponent is proposing.

In the program, citizens would be encouraged to call the sheriff's department through the assurance of anonymity and the payment of cash rewards for any information that leads to an arrest or conviction.

Kilquist said he believes it is a citizen's responsibility to call the sheriff's department, adding that they should not be offered monetary rewards for doing so.

He also said a Crime Stoppers board of directors, a group of people from local businesses, would not be able to

Training, Crime Stoppers at top of Ness' campaign

By Sharon Waldo
Staff Writer

James R. Ness, Republican candidate for Jackson County sheriff, says he believes the retention rate is not great for what the officers consider "roll call" training.

"I think we have a definitional problem as to what we classify as training," he said. "If we're talking about sitting down in front of a TV set and watching a video for 5, 10 ... or 15 minutes before going on duty, that to me is not training."

Ness, 45, said this type of training program, what he said the officers call "roll call" training, is part of the officer's job in keeping his skills current.

"Training means acquiring new skills, more proficient skills ... in depth, concentrated kinds of sessions, whether it be a classroom setting, a seminar setting, or those kinds of things," he said.

Ness added training is apparent when officers "bring that knowledge back to the department and disperse that knowledge among the other people."

Besides more in-depth training for the officers, Ness is proposing to implement two new programs, Crime Stoppers and a Youth Officer program.

The concept of Crime Stoppers is to encourage citizens to call the local sheriff's department with any information they have about criminal activity.

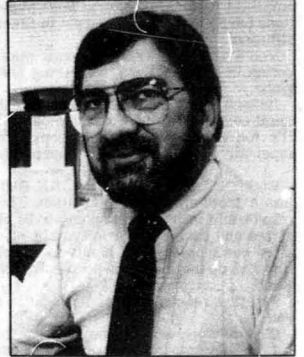

According to Ness, this would unite three key groups of the community — the citizens, the news media and the sheriff — in the fight against crime.

Citizens would be assured anonymity and cash payment as a reward for any information that leads to an arrest or conviction.

A board of directors, comprised primarily of people from local businesses, would be responsible for the administration of the reward fund. The money used to pay the rewards come from donations, said Ness.

"I don't think the program would be difficult to implement," he said.

"Again, one of the basic functions of law enforcement is to interact with the community, and if the sheriff has a good working relationship with community leaders and business people and those kinds of things, the program won't be hard to implement."

A countywide Youth Officer program Ness proposes is based on the theory that juvenile offenders need some type of diversionary program. Presently there are no viable services, according to Ness, for the youth of Jackson County and their families outside the cities of Carbondale and Murphysboro.

Ness proposes that a countywide Youth Officer position would be initiated and the youth officer would work closely with the schools, local police, city governments and parents to identify and resolve county juvenile problems.

"There are problems with underage drinkers," Ness said. "There are problems with kids tearing up corn fields, and problems with kids doing all kinds of 'kid's kinds of things' that are within the realm of a juvenile officer's responsibility."

Ness said he would like to see an improved attitude toward the delivery of police services in the community. "Attitude problems stem from a lack of leadership and ability to inspire the officers to do a professional job," he said.

Law enforcement officers in Jackson County asked him to run for sheriff, Ness said. "The people who ap-

We're all obligated to get out and vote

BECAUSE THIS ISN'T A PRESIDENTIAL election year, voter turnout at the polls is likely to be marginal. It's almost a tradition of American politics that the greatest voter response comes at national elections. Most state, county and local elections barely pull enough people to the polls to warrant their institution.

You'd think Americans would appreciate the privilege of voting in free elections, something unknown over much of the globe.

Instead, we view it as a hassle to thumb through reams of multi-colored literature expounding on the virtues of candidates. It's too time-consuming to keep abreast of current events, especially local, to make educated political decisions.

BUT IN A DEMOCRACY LIKE OURS, such efforts are not just a freedom but an obligation. These people we elect are responsible to us as representatives of our feelings, opinions, gripes and praise in our lofty halls of justice and government. They can't press their hands to the sides of their heads and summon up the will of the people. We have to tell them where we stand.

For that reason, there's no logic in abandoning the right to vote.

Certainly you wouldn't buy a car or house without checking it out, so why gamble when choosing candidates who hold your civil rights in their hands?

This newspaper would like to help through a series of campaign endorsements running up to Election Day, Nov. 4. Through these endorsements we hope simply to advance public concern over local, regional and state political offices, as it is not our place to tell people how to vote.

Jackson County Clerk

There's a lot to be said for experience, and as 12-year incumbent Robert Harrell looks to have enough, as opposed to his opponent, Sandra Catt, whose only previous political experience was an unsuccessful county circuit clerk bid in 1984. We endorse Harrell.

Catt, 40, said she's running for clerk because she likes the county's people and is service-oriented. That's nice, but actions speak louder than words. Harrell, 56, a former assistant professor of English at SIU-C, helped develop a county-wide, deputy voter registrar system, making it easier for people to register. Prior to the system, the county had just two registrars.

Harrell's campaign promises include using Farer Hall's computer system to tally county election ballots. Under the current system, Jackson County has its own computer to tally ballots. Should it break down, county officials have to cart the ballots to another county, costing Jackson County officials not only time but also money.

Catt wants to have local businesses bid for selling office materials and doing printing for the county clerk's office. She said, in an earlier interview, this enables the businesses to get back some of their tax money through receiving the bid, instead of sending that money out of the county or state.

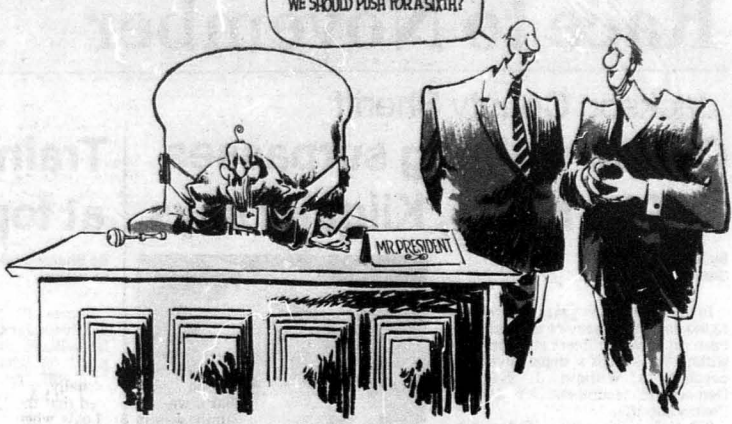

"I feel that if I'm going to be their clerk, they deserve to reap the benefits of my election brochures and material," Catt said.

We applaud both candidates for their good ideas, but there isn't much Catt can say to reduce the scope of Harrell's long tenure.

This isn't to say that Catt's sure to be a failure. She presents herself to people as very intelligent and politically able, a hard commodity to come by among even the most experienced politicians — politicians probably chosen by an apathetic electorate.

We'd just like to see her try her hand at running a political office a step or two below county clerk to prove her viability as an administrator and politician.

In a race that pits political record against political record, it'd be nice if the challenger had one.

Letters

Quick's dining not too good

A terrible thing just happened to me and I feel it is my duty to write a letter in order that I might spare others my agony. Simply put, I ate supper in the Student Center.

Last year this would have been a pleasant experience. I would have been able to go to the Oasis and have a hot dinner with a meat entree, hot vegetable, potatoes (not fries) and soup. It would have cost around $4. It would have tasted good.

This year is totally different. The Oasis has become H.B.

Quick's. My choices were a roast beef sandwich, a hamburger, fried chicken from under heat lamp or grilled cheese. On the side were fries and a salad. This meal also costs around $4. It tastes awful.

As for my other choices: The Deli offers the same fare as last year. The Cafeteria is an excellent place to eat, but it's not open for supper. I could go on about how quality and quantity have gone down in all areas — not the fault of the food service personnel — while cost has gone up, but that is obvious.

As an undergraduate here, I believed that the purpose of Student Center Food Service was to serve the students. Canteen seemed to uphold this belief.

Over the summer I became a graduate student, and it seems that the Student Center also graduated to a new corporation, Marriott, and a new idea, making lots of money. — Michael Phillips, graduate student, Geology.

Do you have a request? Call USO

This is in response to Evan Braun's Oct. 13 letter concerning the Brightway Path. Perhaps we can shed some light on the issue.

The Student Welfare Commission is working on a safer Halloween by providing two first-aid stations on Illinois and Grand avenues. The Campus Safety Fee Board is responsible for informing and recommending policies regarding the Brightway Path to the vice president of Campus Services. Campus Services then replaces the lights if their budget allows. The Campus Safety Fee Board recently recommended to extend the Brightway Path into Wright Hall. Two representatives walked the Brightway Path and discovered 12 lights of over 300 were unlit.

There is no such thing as "student welfare money." This happens to be part of the problem with replacing the 12 unlit lights; someone has to pay for them. Usually this is paid for by the students through their Campus Safety Fee.

The University holds the reins when replacing the Brightway Path lights. The Undergraduate Student Organization has the power to make the University administration aware of it, which we have done.

We hope you find this information enlightening, and hope that you call us at 536-3361 next time you have a request. — Phil Lyons, president, Undergraduate Student Organization.

Students need more parking spaces than professors do

It's 9:15 a.m. and I just got home from attempting to go to my 9:00 class. After leaving with plenty of extra time for locating a parking space, it was still a failure. I got flipped off by a pedestrian, caught behind a train and still no place was found to park.

Of course, there were dozens of empty spaces in all of the "blue" parking lots. But I've already received two tickets for trying to get away with that!

Why is it that the students have to leave a half an hour early just to find a place to park?

When I worked at a shopping center, employees were expected to park in the back of the lot. Those who paid for services, the customer, were left with the better spaces.

I'm not suggesting that the instructors park in the distant parking lot. But why should there be an excess of parking spaces for them, when there is a shortage for the students? — Jill R. Coats, senior, Management.

Quotable Quotes

If these charges on Watergate were true, nobody would have to ask me to resign. I wouldn't serve one month. — Former President Richard Nixon, in a comment taped three months before his 1974 resignation.

Thompson Woods is not the Brightway Path. If the students would like lights in Thompson Woods, they have to wait for Forest Management to submit their proposal of the renovation of Thompson Woods to the Physical Plant.

rather than pay the $1,000." Another Carroll neighbor, Bonnie O'Neill, also reported the fire. O'Neill said that when she called shortly after 3 a.m., the fire departments seemed to her to be confused as to which fire departments should take responsibility.

"It's a big problem out here," O'Neill said. "The fire department couldn't decide which district it was in. Murphysboro said it's the wrong district. Carbondale said they would have to call Murphysboro after Murphysboro said they would have to call Carbondale. We're in the middle."

Steele said firefighters must try to determine which department to dispatch. He said, although he was not present at the time of the Carroll fire, that confusion may have resulted from having two Parrish Lanes: one within the western limits of Carbondale, and the rural Murphysboro subdivision Parrish Lane where the fire occurred. Steele recommended that rural dwellers keep a list of directions to their home and the number of the fire department responsible near the telephone.

"The guys that work here know the area, but when people call up and say there's a fire at John Doe's, we don't know," Steele said. "They've got to give the road and directions because there are so many new houses and subdivisions in rural areas that we can't remember every house on every road. Many roads are never put on the county map."

The Carroll house was engulfed in flames when the 500-gallon, Murphysboro city fire truck arrived. "Once it gets through the roof, it doesn't take long," Martin said.

A spokesman for the Murphysboro Fire Department later said the log recorded the fire call at 3 a.m. and firefighters arrived at the scene at 3:05 a.m.

One witness to the fire said his watch read 3:17 a.m. when the fire truck arrived. Parrish said it took the fire truck "a good 20 minutes" to arrive after she made the call. O'Neill's husband said he thought the response time was adequate.

Steele said, "I wouldn't think it would take more than 30 seconds after hanging up to get on the road. There's no time loss of significance (when determining district), no more than in a central dispatch."

Steele said that in his 29 years of fire service, "I've never had a loss of life outside city limits in a residential fire."

On Monday afternoon the Murphysboro fire department said they had not contacted the Carroll family personally, but that it was confirmed that the family was in St. Louis when the fire occurred.

A spokesman for the Jackson County Sheriff's Department said no investigation of the fire will be made, as the fire department report gave no reason to investigate.

operate the program on its own.

As for the Youth Officer program also being proposed by his opponent, Kilquist said the sheriff's department has an officer in charge of juvenile-related crimes.

He said the officer is not a full-time juvenile officer because Jackson County does not have as many problems with juveniles as bigger cities.

Reportedly, some of Kilquist's officers asked James R. Ness to run for sheriff of Jackson County. Kilquist said he feels "very good and very bad in a way" about this.

He said the officers who asked Ness to run are "probably our poorest officers," adding that he has never asked a deputy for support.

Kilquist said his job as an administrator is to get officers the tools they need to work with.

Kilquist speaks on a weekly one-half radio show, "Cop Talk." He said the radio station called him because it was interested in having a law enforcement officer talk to callers on the show as a public service to the community.

Kilquist began the show in February of this year. He said he tries to keep politics and campaign issues out of the show.

Ness was granted time on the show for the last three weeks in October. On the Oct. 14 show, Ness referred to what he calls "proactive law enforcement" and made a comment about targeting known criminals and arresting them before they had a chance to commit the crime.

Kilquist said, "What he's talking about is unconstitutional." He said he feels very strongly that "we have rights and safeguards as citizens."

Kilquist also said he feels strongly about making good cases. "My job as a law enforcement officer is twofold ... to either prove the person guilty of doing the crime or prove the person not guilty of doing the crime."

He said it is very important for the credibility of the sheriff's department not to have any bad cases in court. "It's very important for the citizens to know that they can have faith and trust in their law enforcement."

Kilquist said his opponent has not attended any Judicial and Law Enforcement meetings, Building Commission meetings or County Board meetings.

"If he's going to step in my shoes in November," Kilquist said of Ness, "you'd think he'd want to do that with information."

Kilquist said all of his 18 years of experience in law enforcement were obtained in Jackson County.

Kilquist and his wife, Becky, live in Makanda. They have two sons, Paul, 8, and John, 6.

proached me were not individuals who had been demoted," he said.

He said no deputies are involved in his campaign and his contacts with the officers have been limited. It is against Merit Board regulations to involve officers in political issues.

Ness charges that after he announced his candidacy in November of 1985, his Democratic opponent called a local radio station to begin a talk show "around primary time."

A weekly one-half hour show, "Cop Talk," began in February on WTOA, a radio station in Murphysboro. In the program, Sheriff William J. Kilquist discusses law enforcement topics with callers.

Ness applied to the National Association of Broadcasting for time on the radio show. He was granted the request to be host of "Cop Talk" for the last three weeks in October.

Ness said he plans to discuss similar types of issues with callers. During the Oct. 14 show, however, at one point there were no callers and Ness began discussing his plans for "proactive law enforcement."

At that time, Ness made a comment about "targeting known burglars ... bad guys" and arresting them "before they actually have the chance to commit the crime." He said this was not the intent of what he was saying.

"The intent is not to be unconstitutional, not to arrest people before they commit a crime," Ness said. "Good Lord, anyone in their right mind can see that is unconstitutional."

Ness said the object of proactive patrol is that "certain things are targeted, rather than staking out 20 or 30 farms ... because we have a rash of fertilizer thefts or a rash of stolen cars."

Ness said he will make a retraction on this morning's show.

In response to charges that Ness has not attended pertinent county meetings, Ness said he has not attended the meetings because he thinks "the information one needs to be privy to are discussed behind closed doors."

Ness said the object of his campaign is not to sling mud or malign anyone's character or record. "I want to bring the issues before the people and hope my opponent would feel the same way," he said.

Ness has been an assistant professor in law enforcement for the School of Technical Careers at SIU-C since 1983. He said he has been working in the law enforcement field for about 27 years.

Ness has lived in rural Murphysboro for nine and a half years. His son, Peter, is a 1986 SIU-C graduate.

Telefund nearing $140,000 goal

By Catherine Edman
Staff Writer

The College of Education is leading the pack in the annual SIU Foundation telefund with $34,308 in contributions.

In a close second, the College of Business and Administration has a total of $29,754 with one night remaining to continue the effort.

After 25 nights of telephone soliciting, Thomas Bila, director of annual giving for the Foundation, said $84,628 has been collected. That figure is more than halfway to this year's goal of $140,000.

Bila said the contributions are at about the level he hoped for.

"We are really pleased, we have lots of volunteers and the phones are always in use," he said.

Of the colleges that have participated so far, Human Resources has seen the largest increase — $3,183 pledged this year for an increase of $1,642 or 106 percent more than last year's contributions.

Volunteers from the Department of Marketing raised $7,091 in one night — the most collected so far in a single night, Bila said.

With 24 nights left for the fund drive, the Colleges of Science, Engineering and Technology, and the Schools of Agriculture, Technical Careers and Law have yet to participate.

The College of Communications and Fine Arts volunteers, who have completed their time in the telefund, raised $11,467. The College of Liberal Arts has raised $5,915 and still has time to continue raising funds.

'Super' scholarship awarded

Martin L. Daesch, a senior, has won the first Super Student Scholarship sponsored by the Student Alumni Council and the SIU Alumni Association.

A committee of students from various campus organizations selected Daesch, accounting and finance, from three finalists.

A senior class telephone campaign last spring raised $2,600 to create the award.

Selection criteria included extracurricular activities, grade point average and work ability. "Mr. Daesch has shown outstanding achievement in all of these," said Mike Miller, a student intern for the SIU Foundation and president elect of the Student Alumni Council.

Daesch, 21, son of Richard and Carol Daesch of Carbondale, is a graduate of Alumni association honors 5 for contributions

By Paula Buckner
Staff Writer

It was an afternoon of recognition for four alumni and one SIU-C faculty member who were honored Saturday by the Alumni Association for contributions to their fields of study.

Ray W. Fuller, research adviser in pharmacology and toxicology for Eli Lilly and Co.; Willie W. Herenton, superintendent of schools in Memphis, Tenn.; Manuel Justiz, professor of education at the University of South Carolina; and William E. O'Brien, past chair of the Recreation Department, were recognized for outstanding achievements in and service to their respective fields.

KATHERINE PEDERSON, associate professor of mathematics, received the 26th annual "Great Teacher's Award," given to a teaching faculty member for excellence in the classroom. The engraved plaque carries with it a $1,000 cash award.

Fuller, 50, earned from SIU-C a bachelor's degree in chemistry and a master's degree in microbiology in 1957 and 1958, respectively. The Anna native then received a doctorate in biochemistry from Purdue University in 1961.

FULLER'S WORK centers on the biochemistry of the brain and the development of drugs to treat psychiatric and neurological diseases.

He has worked for the Lilly Research Laboratories for the past 23 years and has more than 325 publications and abstracts to his credit. Fuller gave credit not only to past instructors, but to the institution at large for his success as a researcher.

"I'd like to thank SIU for its tuition scholarship and financial aid program that made it possible for me to go to college," Fuller said. "Also, the faculty who helped give me an education despite not much help from me initially."

HERENTON, 46, has managed the Memphis school system, the 15th largest in the nation, since 1979. In 1980 and 1984, he was named one of the top 100 school executives in the United States and Canada.

He earned a bachelor's degree from LeMoyné College and a master's degree from Memphis State University. He received a doctorate from SIU-C in educational administration in 1971.

HERENTON, WHO said he was deeply moved by the honor, told more than 300 SIU-C alumni about being refused entrance into the doctoral program at Metro-State University in his native Memphis.

"They said I was doctoral material but that they were not prepared to accept a black candidate into its advanced degree program," Herenton said. "I have fond memories of SIU, which gave me the opportunity denied in my hometown because of race."

JUSTIZ, 37, served from 1982 to 1985 as director of the National Institute of Education and consultant to the U.S. Secretary of Education. He holds bachelor's and master's degrees from Empora State University in Kansas and received a doctorate in higher administration from SIU-C in 1977.

The Cuba native said that when he came to the United States at the age of 12, he could not speak English. "I came to this country fleeing communism," he said. "This country embraced me and gave me the opportunity to fulfill my dreams."

"THIS INSTITUTION gave me the skills, training and preparation to have enough confidence to pursue the American dream I had," Justiz continued, noting that he was the highest-ranking Hispanic in the Reagan administration and the first NIE director to be graduated from a non-Ivy League school.

O'Brien, a 63-year-old

Ziegler native, graduated in 1947 from SIU-C with a bachelor's degree in education. He also has master's and doctoral degrees from the University of Indiana.

HE WAS the first recipient of the Lindell W. Sturgis Public Service Award, which is the only honor given by the SIU Board of Trustees. From 1970 to 1981, O'Brien chaired the Recreation Department and has officiated in the National Football League.

The former baseball, basketball and football coach said of his 40-year association with the University: "I cannot repay the University in any form whatsoever for that rare privilege. There is no assignment that, if offered to me, I wouldn't accept if at all possible to help this University."

PEDERSON, A native of Connerville, Ind., said she was surprised but humbled at receiving the honor, in which voting Alumni Association members called her "a teacher of teachers."

"I look at the Great Teacher's Award as an opportunity for students to tell me that I'm doing something right," she said. "It's a marvelous opportunity, I feel, for my students and me to communicate again."

Pederson earned a bachelor's degree from St. Louis University, and master's and doctoral degrees in mathematics from Tulane University in 1959, 1962 and 1969, respectively.

SHE BEGAN as an instructor at SIU-C in 1965, and recently was named recipient of the 1986 Max Beberman Award, given by the Illinois Council of Teachers of Mathematics for significant contributions in training mathematics teachers, developing curriculum, and research in mathematics teaching and learning.

Spiker overcomes adversity to get scholarship

"I got upset last year when I found out I wasn't going to get any money again."

Joan Wallenberg, a former walk-on for the Salukis volleyball team, has earned a scholarship this year, but it was a year late, according to Wallenberg.

"I got upset last year when I found out I wasn't going to get any money again," Wallenberg said. "My goal in high school was to get a scholarship to play volleyball and although I'm a junior, I finally did it."

Wallenberg, a 5-foot-9 junior outside hitter, was only recruited by Division II Knox College and Elmhurst. "I couldn't afford to attend either of the schools because they are private schools and they didn't offer scholarships," Wallenberg said.

"I wrote D.H. (coach Debbie Hunter) a letter during my senior year, but she didn't have any scholarships to offer me, but said she would work out something for me during my sophomore year," Wallenberg said.

Wallenberg played in 31 matches (72 games) last fall and finished with 122 kills, a .218 attack percentage and 169 digs.

Highlights for Wallenberg last fall included 16 kills against Northern Iowa, a .522 attack percentage and 17 digs against Missouri, 21 digs against Iowa and 20 digs against Eastern Illinois.

Wallenberg started playing volleyball when she was in the sixth grade on a co-ed team. "I was 5-foot-9 in the sixth grade and haven't grew an inch since," Wallenberg said.

In high school Wallenberg played volleyball and softball for four years and basketball during her freshman and sophomore years. "I stopped playing basketball to concentrate on volleyball," she said.

Wallenberg had her best overall match against Utah this season when she had 11 kills, a .454 attack percentage and 18 digs.

"That was the best I've played so far concerning my hitting and defense," Wallenberg said. "Usually my hitting is off."

So far this season, Wallenberg leads the Salukis in digs with 209, and has 89 kills, 18 service aces and 12 block assists.

When asked what her goal for this season was, Wallenberg said, "I want to win the conference and at least get into the first round of the NCAA tournament for Jan Tremblay and Pat Nicholson."

Tremblay and Wallenberg are co-captains and the only two seniors on the team.

"Next year we are not going to be as strong in the middle and Pat is such a natural player that I'm going to miss her," Wallenberg said.

Wallenberg's major is criminal justice and she said she hopes to get an internship as a campus cop or as a security guard at Lord and Taylor.

"I would also like to be a probation officer and a juvenile counselor," Wallenberg said.

Dogs' injuries a possible factor at ISU

By Steve Merritt
Staff Writer

If the SIU gridiron Dogs hope to keep in the midst of the Gateway title chase, they'll have to overcome a bad road record and a growing number of injuries.

The Salukis made it seven in a row at McAndrew Stadium with a Homecoming win over Northern Iowa Saturday, but they've lost 11 of their last 12 contests on the road, including all three 1986 losses. A 31-0 win at Murray State earlier this season snapped a nine-game road losing streak that dated back to the end of the 1984 season.

If the Salukis knock off Illinois State, it would mean curtains for the Redbirds, who close the season with UNI.

"Every week we win, it gives us a little longer to keep competing for the title," Dorr said. "It really becomes a challenge now."

If SIU is to share in the Gateway title, they'd have to win all three games remaining on the schedule, which compiled would represent a five-game winning streak — something the Dogs haven't accomplished since the 1983 championship season.

The hobbled Salukis have won the last two weeks despite mounting injuries. The conference's top two runners, Anthony Vaughn and Mel Kirksy, both saw limited action Saturday afternoon, as did senior linebacker Rick Spielman.

As of Monday, Dorr's injured list was jammed with 19 names.

"We thought things were bad," Dorr said. "We didn't think it could get any worse."

Kirksy and Vaughn are both considered questionable for this week's action. Dorr said he was planning to take six running backs to Illinois State "just in case."

The loss of both would be a big one for the Salukis; the backfield duo has combined to account for 54 percent of the Salukis total offensive yards.

Joel Dickerson and defensive standout Jim White were both scheduled for X-rays Monday afternoon, while starters Ralph Van Dyke (OG), Brad Crouse (NG), Bobby McNeabb (SS) and Johnny Edwards (LB) all began the week's practices in red. All are considered questionable for this weekend.

Also considered questionable for this weekend are J.P. Watters, Desmond Woods, Dennis Bean, Shannon Ferbrache and backup quarterback Reggie Edwards.

Dorr said preseason All-American safety Johnny Field might return to action this weekend, but added that the "frustrating" ankle injury suffered by the defensive speedster has been hard to pinpoint. Field was dressed but did not play Saturday.

Quarterback Kevin Brown, who suffered a broken collarbone against Austin Peay in the second game of the season, will return to practice this week, for non-contact drills but Dorr wasn't sure if Brown would see action against Illinois State.

Still on the lost-for-the-season list are Byron Mitchell, Bob Howell and punt returner Ed Fashaw.

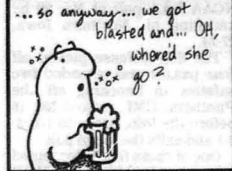

In a comment on switching quarterbacks in crucial situations, Dorr said he felt senior Joe Graves "could help the team by helping Pat King be a better quarterback."

"Sometimes Pat needs to see what's happening out there," Dorr said. "It's a little easier to see what the defense is doing from the sidelines."

action, SIU travels to Normal for a crucial matchup against the Illinois State Redbirds while EIU must face SMSU's Bears at Springfield, Mo.

UNI hosts Western Illinois and Indiana State will host Buffalo State in a non-conference game.

Of the league's top three teams, EIU seems to have the easiest remaining schedule. After the game at SMSU, the Panthers play at home against nonconference foes Winona State and Western Kentucky and on the road at Indiana State.

After facing SIU, Illinois State has a week off, followed by two nonconference opponents (Wichita State and Northwest Missouri) and the season finale at UNI.

To share in the conference crown, SIU has to win all three games (Illinois State and SMSU on the road and Western Illinois at home). To outright win the conference title, the Salukis must keep winning and hope that EIU loses in either of their two remaining conference games.

If Illinois State finished in a tie with EIU, the Redbirds would get the nod due to a season-opening victory over the Panthers.

Although there has been much speculation if the NCAA football committee would go two-deep in the Gateway at playoff time (awarding the automatic berth to the outright winner and an at-large berth for the second-place team), no guess could be deemed accurate at this point in the season.

If EIU, SI and UNI all finish ranked in the NCAA's I-AA poll, it would seem likely that the committee would go two deep for the 16-team playoffs.

3-sport letter winner, SIU Hall of Famer dead at 73

Robert S. Reeves, a member of the SIU Sports Hall of Fame, died Thursday at Memorial Hospital of Carbondale after a bout with cancer.

Mr. Reeves, 73, graduated from SIU in 1935 after earning 12 letters in three sports. He was a member of the President's Council and the SIU Alumni Association.

Mr. Reeves, a real estate developer who co-founded the Regal 8 Motel chain, also served in the Navy during World War II. He was born in Carbondale July 9, 1913. Reeves is survived by his wife, Harriet; two sons, Craig of Carbondale and Robert S. Reeves III of Troy, Mo.

Mr. Reeves was preceded in death by his parents, Robert S. and Ethel, and his brother, Frank.

A private grave-side funeral will be held at Brighton Cemetery in Brighton Wednesday. Memorials can be made to the SIU Athletics Department through the SIU Foundation.

Ice hockey club thrashes Evansville in impressive season-opening game

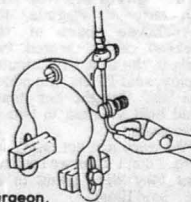

The Southern Illinois Wild Dogs, the SIU-C ice hockey club, opened the season by routing the Evansville Chargers 10-1. Captain Steve Pelkowski and Darren Kohlenberger each had two goals. Pelkowski was pleased with the team's performance. "Everyone played really well, really solidly. We totally outplayed them," Pelkowski said.

Gateway grid race narrows to three teams as UNI falls

By Steve Merritt
Staff Writer

The Gateway Conference title picture narrowed from five teams to three this weekend as Western Illinois and preseason favorite Northern Iowa fell by the wayside.

In what could be the upset of the week, SIU moved into the NCAA I-AA poll at No. 20 by knocking off Northern Iowa, 27-24.

The SIU defense picked off four passes and recorded two safeties in knocking off the Panthers UNI, ranked No. 16 before the loss, drops to 1-2, 3-2-1 and exits the top 20 poll.

One of those four intercepted passes was nabbed by Ezell Shelton, who becomes the second straight Saluki named to the conference's defensive player of the week award.

Shelton recorded 14 tackles from his inside linebacker position in what was a crucial performance for the banged-up Saluki defense.

Illinois State remained at the top of the Gateway with a 38-28 win over Indiana State. The troubled Sycamore offense managed to score more points than in any other game this season, but three fumbles and three interceptions killed any hopes of an upset victory.

Despite the loss, Sycamore freshman wide receiver Chris Johnson was named the Gateway's offensive player of the week for snagging six passes for 253 yards and three touchdowns, the latter two establishing new Gateway records.

Eastern Illinois rolled to a sixth-straight victory, downing Western Illinois in a 37-3 decision that moved the Panthers up one notch to No. 8 in the NCAA I-AA poll.

With the loss, Western joins UNI at 1-2 in conference play. For all practical purposes, both teams, along with Indiana State and Southwest Missouri, have been eliminated from contention for the conference crown.

In the weekend's only nonconference matchup, Southwest Missouri fell victim to Middle Tennessee State, 42-19.

Salukis take shaky offense to face rugged ISU defense

By Steve Merritt
Staff Writer

When the Salukis invade Normal Saturday afternoon, they'll take a struggling offense into the game to face one of the Gateway's best defensive units.

The Salukis have won two weeks in a row, but have few offensive statistics to show it.

Against Indiana State two weeks ago, the Dogs won 16-14 but scored 10 of those points on a safety, two Ron Miller extra points and a Paul Patterson kickoff return for a touchdown. The Dogs tallied just 262 offensive yards in the win against a defensive unit ranked in the bottom half of the Gateway's seven teams.

Against Northern Iowa, the defense tallied 16 points on two interceptions returned for touchdowns and two safeties. Miller added five with a field goal and two extra points, while the offense again scored just one touchdown.

Facing a much better defense than that of the Sycamores, the Salukis accumulated 258 offensive yards against UNI.

Saluki head coach Ray Dorr says the lack of offensive production hasn't got him too worried.

"I am a little concerned with establishing some offensive consistency," Dorr said, "but the bottom line is that we're finding a way to win."

Two weeks, two wins, 43 points — but only 12 of which came from an offense that's turned the ball over 11 times in three weeks and 13 times in five victories.

In stark contrast to the struggling Saluki offense stands the mighty Redbird defense, which, unlike the Salukis and the ISU offense, has stood unhampered by injuries this season.

Coach Bob Otolski inherited nine defensive starters from last year's 6-3-2 club, a squad that ranked as the Missouri Valley Conference's best defensive unit in both 1984 and '85. The Redbirds also ranked 14th nationally in rushing defense, an aspect of the game that has been carried over to this season.

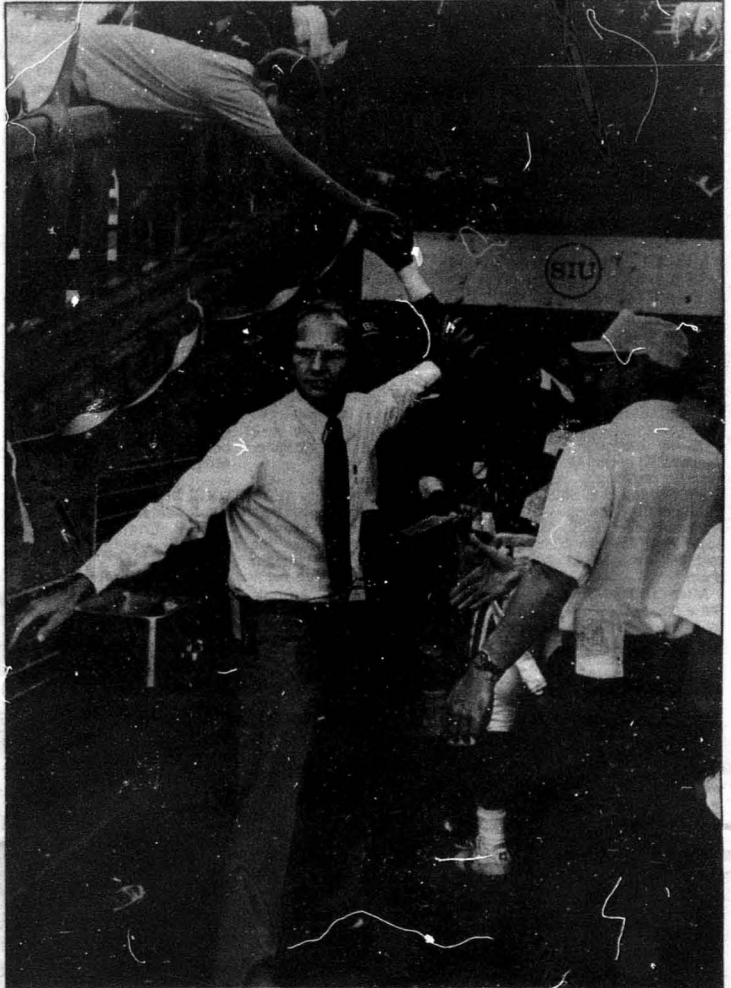

Led by linebacker Brian Gant, 1985 MVC defensive player of the year and two-time Gateway player of the week in '85, and free safety Jeff Smith, who logged All-American honors last year as a freshman, the ISU defense is allowing an impressive 75.3 yards per game. That boils down to an even more impressive 1.8 yard per rush average.

So far this season, the Redbirds are allowing 264.0 total yards of offense, second in the Gateway to only UNI.

At one point during the season, the Redbirds were allowing an average of 16 yards-per-game rushing (0.5 per rushing attempt). If Anthony Vaughn and Mel Kirksy don't return for the Dogs, ISU could take the ground-oriented Salukis out of their norm and force Dorr and company to rely the passing game.

Other key defensive personnel for the Redbirds include All-America defensive tackle candidate John Kropke.

The Redbirds ranked third in Gateway scoring defense (18.7 points per game) and fourth in passing defense (188.6 yards per game, six touchdowns, 13 interceptions, 37.6 percent completion ratio).

Fielders perform solidly in tough Eastern matchups

By M.J. Starshak
Staff Writer

The women's field hockey team claimed victory in one of three games this weekend against tough East Coast competition and brought their record up to 7-7-2.

Saluki coach Julee Illner said staying above .500 is one of her goals for her team. The others include beating rival St. Louis and winning the Midwest Independent Championships. Illner said the goals are not unrealistic.

"If we play like we played against Virginia, we can beat St. Louis," said Illner. "They're (Virginia) just so much better than most of the teams we play."

The Virginia Cavaliers, a team that recently fell out of the top 20 rankings, defeated the Salukis 5-0 in Friday's game. This loss followed a 1-0 overtime loss at the hands of the Rams of Virginia Commonwealth, a team Illner said should not have beaten the Salukis.

"We let them beat us to the ball. We were not playing aggressively. We probably played like we did in the first game against St. Louis," said Illner, referring to the Salukis' season-opening 3-0 loss to the Billikens.

The Cavaliers of the University of Virginia, the powerhouse team of the weekend series, scored two goals in the first five minutes of play, said Illner, who added that she thought her team could hold Virginia to two or three goals.

"We were just not ready for them. I don't think we realized what they were going to be like," said Illner.

The Cavaliers' All-American forward, Elaine Maddox, failed to score a goal in the game. Illner credits the strong defense to senior Naomi Tavares.

"I put Naomi on their All-American because she's the only one who's fast enough to stay up with her," Illner said. "We did keep her (Maddox) from scoring, but she set up an awful lot of shots."

The Salukis "came out like a house afire," Illner said in describing the team's 1-0 victory over the Eagles of American University.

Senior Nadine Simpson scored the team's lone goal with 10 minutes left in the first half, said Illner.

The coach added that an SIU victory was especially hard to get because of the terrible field conditions. Illner said the Eagles' field was very bumpy and full of ruts.

"I was really worried that they were going to score because of one unlucky bounce" said Illner. "I guess we had a little luck with us that none of them bounced their way."

Along with Simpson, senior co-captain Kathy Crowley was mentioned as a strong player in Sunday's victory.

The Salukis, who are currently ranked ninth in the conference, will play Louisville and Northern Illinois at home Friday and Saturday on Stehr Field.
