Pension fund loses $300 million

By Toby Eckert
Staff Writer

The pension fund for Illinois university employees suffered a $300 million loss in Monday's stock market drop, an investment officer for the State University Retirement System said Tuesday.

The 500-point drop in the stock market put the system's stock value at roughly the same level as last year, said

Kenneth Codlin. However, Codlin said the loss would not threaten current retirees' pensions.

"Nothing fundamental has changed," Codlin said. "We have a great number of stocks that are paying adequate dividends."

About 55 percent of the system's holdings are in stocks, Codlin said. Bonds account for 37 percent of the system's holdings and the remaining 8 percent is in real estate, he said. The system has total assets of about $3 billion.

The system's three largest stock holdings are in General Electric, Philip Morris Co. and Ford Motor Co., Codlin said. G.E. and Philip Morris stock dipped about 4 percent Monday, while Ford stock dipped 6 percent.

About 50,000 state university employees — including 8,000 at SIU-C — contribute part of their paychecks to the pension system. By law, the state is required to match the amount contributed by the employees. However, the state's portion of funding for 1988 represents only 44 percent of the system's total obligations.

Gov. James R. Thompson cited the health of the retirement system's stock portfolio as one of the reasons for cutting state funding of the system.

Codlin said the stock market's dive proved what a dangerous practice state underfunding is. "We had five very good years," Codlin said. "This (the market's fall) accentuates the fact that predicting the future is very hard."

Stock market drop inevitable, 'not good news,' Simon says

By Deedra Lawhead
Staff Writer

The downturn in the stock market was "inevitable" because of the Reagan administration's fiscal policies, U.S. Sen. Paul Simon, Democratic presidential contender, says.

This country's large budget and trade deficits led to Wall Street's record 500-point drop Monday, Simon, of Makanda, said Tuesday during a press conference at Williamson County Airport. In the last six years of the Ronald Reagan presidency, the United States has doubled its indebtedness, Simon added.

The condition of the stock market is "obviously not good news for the country," Simon said. However, Simon said he still feels the economy is in good shape.

The Dow Jones industrial average, the U.S. market's key index, raised a record 102.27 points Tuesday after the 500-point drop Monday. Stock prices in Asia and Europe also have dropped to record lows.

The administration needs to "show the financial

Condoms selling faster than ever

By Toby Eckert
Staff Writer

Condom sales on campus are brisk compared to last year, and SIU-C health officials report an increased demand for information on ways to avoid AIDS and other sexually-transmitted diseases.

The University pharmacy has sold 3,541 condoms in the past 3½ months, nearly half the amount sold during all of last year. Similarly, the Wellness Center, Student Health Advocates and the Student Health Assessment Center report an increase in the number of requests for free condoms and AIDS-related information.

Campus health officials agree that the fear of contracting AIDS, acquired immune deficiency syndrome, is probably the main motivator behind the increased condom sales. AIDS, which attacks the body's immune system, can be transmitted through semen,

Day of Action rally to go to veto session

By Susan Curtis and Dona Schulte
Staff Writers

Speaking at the veto session of the Illinois State Legislature Tuesday, the budget director, Bob Mandeville, said the state has no money to restore funds.

Gov. James R. Thompson cut the state budget by 4 percent, prompting the SIU Board of Trustees to implement a $100 per semester tuition increase starting spring semester.

SIU-C students will hold a Day of Action rally in Springfield today to persuade legislators to override the budget cut.

The bus for Springfield will leave at 7 this morning.

The Undergraduate Student Organization encourages students who cannot attend the Capitol rally to participate in the brown bag lunch rally to be held on campus today between 11:30 a.m. and 1 p.m. at Old Main Mall.

By the time the $100 million Thompson borrowed along with $4 million interest is repaid and the revenue balance is brought up to $200 million, "we're just going to be even," Sen. Glenn Poshard, D-Cartersville, said.

Thompson borrowed $100 million from banks in January to keep the state from "going in the red," said Sen. Ralph Dunn, R-Du Quoin.

During the session, legislators discussed a bill which could restore funds to education, health care and day care.

The bill "considers areas where we feel money should be restored," Poshard said. The bill will come up on the floor of

Plane crash lands into hotel lobby, 9 dead

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — A crippled Air Force jet fighter plowed into the lobby of an airport Ramada Inn and exploded in a fireball Tuesday, killing nine people, injuring seven and enveloping the motel in flames and smoke.

The pilot of the A-7D Corsair jet, Air Force Maj. Bruce Teagarden, ejected and parachuted to safety as the plane knocked off a bank's roof and ripped through several trees before slamming into the hotel "like a bomb."

Teagarden, a 12-year veteran with 2,085 flying hours, told investigators he experienced an engine flame-out in his single-engine craft as he was headed toward Terre Haute, about 40 miles away, on a training flight to Nevada.

Air traffic controllers advised him that Indianapolis International Airport was 15 miles off his right wing, and Teagarden was trying to land at Indianapolis when he ejected and the plane crashed into the motel at 9:15 a.m. CDT.

"The pilot ejected when the engine could not be restarted and weather conditions precluded the pilot from successfully completing a flame-out landing," a Pentagon spokesman said.

Teagarden, 35, of Las Vegas, was not injured and was released from an Army hospital after examination, officials said.

The fighter jet bored as much as 20 feet into the lobby area before coming to a rest.

Rescue workers said the dead all were in the lobby of the hotel. At least seven people were injured, including two firefighters.

Fire officials completed their search of the site Tuesday evening and said they did not expect to find any additional victims.

Scott pleased with first week of cage practice

By Steve Merritt
Staff Writer

After six practices, Saluki women's basketball coach Cindy Scott says her team has a lot of potential.

"The enthusiasm is running very high and that has us very pleased as a staff," Scott said. "The two key elements — work ethic and hard work — are both present and that's very encouraging."

Last year's NCAA appearance is an incentive to this year's squad, Scott said, and is giving the players a reason to push hard.

"Once a program and the players get a taste of what it's like to play in things like the NCAA tournament — once they've experienced what a neat thing it is and can be — it makes them work and push that much harder," Scott said.

But she said it is too early to compare this year's team to last year's.

"I don't like to compare teams anyway because each one has its own personality and identity," she said.

"I do know we have to be the potential to accomplish a lot of things and that we will use more of an inside power game," Scott said.

Seniors Bridgett Bonds, forward, and Mary Berghuis, center, will team with junior forward Cathy Kampwerth and off guard Dana Fitzpatrick to form the nucleus of this year's squad.

"Those four have to have outstanding seasons," Scott said.

Taking over the point guard position, and the perimeter shooting threat vacated by Marialice Jenkins and sharp-shooting forward Anne Katreh, will be John A. Logan transfer Deanna Sanders or junior Tonda Seals.

Three players have left Scott especially impressed through the first week of practice.

"Cathy Kampwerth is like a new person," Scott said. "She is much more confident and aggressive. She has to have a big year for us."

Seals, a 5-foot-7 junior guard, has "finally decided to play basketball," Scott said, and "is much more vocal and working much harder than a year ago."

Eileen Richardson, a 5-8 guard, also is playing with an improved attitude and work ethic, both of which have caught Scott's eye.

Of three freshmen recruited last season and suiting up this season, Scott said two have the

DE staffers show their "Panache"

Readers may notice a familiar face and a pair of recognizable names — the copy of Panache Magazine, an insert in today's edition of the Daily Egyptian.

Former sports editor Anita Stoner and staffer Bill West, a staff photographer turned staff writer, contributed the story and photo about SIU-C women's basketball player Bridgett Bonds.

Bonds, a senior and potential All-America selection on SIU-C's nationally ranked women's basketball team, is one of several athletes featured on Pages eight through 10. That's her picture on Page 10.

Strike may build Bear Bowl odds

CHICAGO (UPI) — If the Chicago Bears weren't already the odds-on favorite to win the Super Bowl, the strike may have ensured their appearance in San Diego next January.

The Bears did what few other NFL teams were able to accomplish during the strike — stay together.

"We maintained all along that whatever we were going to do, we were going to do it as a team," said former NFL MVP Mike Singletary, the team's player representative.

Spikers win five-game thriller over Eastern

Nina Brackins made a surprising start for SIU-C and exploded for a career-high 21 kills in a five-game win over Eastern Illinois Tuesday night at Davies Gym. The streaking Salukis have now won nine of their last 13 games.

Career highs in kills for Wallenberg; Brackins returns from minor injury

By Troy Taylor
Staff Writer

The women's volleyball team's offense sputtered until Joan Wallenberg erupted for a career-high 22 kills to lead the Salukis to a 15-17, 15-10, 15-9, 15-9 Gateway Conference victory over Eastern Illinois Tuesday at Davies Gym.

Wallenberg, a senior-hitter, had four consecutive kills in the fifth game to put the Salukis ahead for good 11-7.

"The first two games I was hitting down and it seemed like the whole team was in the ozone layer. But in the fourth in fifth games we started to pick it up," Wallenberg said.

Eastern Illinois' coach Betty Ralston had been concerned prior to the match that Wallenberg would be the difference. Her fears were realized. "She's a good outside hitter, their strongest player. You hate it when one player beats you, but that's what happened," Ralston said.

Salukis coach Debbie Hunter was equally impressed with Wallenberg's output. "Joan was a fighter. She absolutely smacked some balls," Hunter said.

The Salukis are 11-12 overall and 2-1 in the Gateway.

For three-and-a-half games Eastern controlled the tempo of the match with a tenacious defense. But two key digs by the Salukis' Beth Winsett turned things around.

"Something clicked. There was a point in time when Beth picked up a couple of balls that kept us alive and got us going," Hunter said.

That opened the door for Wallenberg and sophomore Nina Brackins, who had 21 kills in her first appearance since returning from an ankle injury sustained Saturday against Wichita State.

"We felt better when we took responsibility for the action," Hunter said.

In the competition between the setters, Dawn Thompson led the Salukis with 61 assists and edged the Panthers' Jeanne Pacione, who had 55.

Wallenberg said Thompson's setting late in the match made it possible to go on the hitting streak. "Early the sets were away from the net, and I don't hit those as well. But in the fifth game, Dawn's sets were pretty darn good," Wallenberg said.

The Salukis set a team-high 22 aces, one shy of the school record set versus Louisville in 1984. Teri Noble had six, while Thompson, Wallenberg and Amy Johnson had four each. Noble also had 13 kills, Johnson 11 and Winsett 11.

Eastern Illinois fell to 19-5 overall and 1-2 in the conference. Ralston was disappointed the Panthers couldn't capitalize when they led 2-games-to-1.

"We just had problems putting the ball away. Having the two game advantage, we should've put them away," Ralston said.

Eastern Illinois was led by Gina Knoke's 16 kills. Laura Bruce and Diane Kruto had 14 each.

The Salukis have now won nine of their last 13 matches.

Going home sweet for Cardinals

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Vince Coleman, a flop in the Minneapolis Metrodome, doubled home two runs in the seventh inning Tuesday night to help the St. Louis Cardinals to a 3-1 World Series victory over Minnesota, cutting the Twins' lead to two games to one.

Coleman's hit soared the strategy of Minnesota Manager Tom Kelly, who removed starter Les Straker from a shutout to start the seventh and replaced him with playoff hero Juan Berenguer.

St. Louis routed Berenguer in one-third of an inning. The Cardinals plan to send Greg Mathews against Frank Viola Wednesday night in a battle of left-handers in Game 4 of the best-of-seven Series.

Before a Busch Stadium record crowd of 55,347 sitting through 45-degree temperatures, John Tudor went seven innings, giving up four hits, for the victory. Todd Worrell pitched one-hit relief over two innings for the save. Berenguer took the loss.

Straker, derided as a symbol of Minnesota's pitching weakness, held the Cardinals to four hits through six innings.

Jose Oquendo and Tony Pena opened the seventh with singles, and pinch-hitter Terry Pendleton sacrificed. Coleman sliced a single down the third-base line, bringing home two runs. He followed with his second stolen base of the game, and scored when Ozzie Smith singled to right.

All three victories in this Series have come at home, the Twins capturing two games in the Metrodome and the Cardinals rebounding at Busch Stadium.

Coleman represented part of the reason for the Cardinals' lack of success in Minnesota. He went only 1-for-3 in the first two games with one stolen base. His inability to reach base left the Cards' running game ineffective, and they were routed twice, 10-1 and 6-4.

Tudor allowed a run in the sixth. With one out, he walked Greg Gagne and Kirby Puckett. Gagne tagged and advanced when catcher Pena caught Gary Gaetti's popout while tumbling into the St. Louis dugout. Tudor had Brunansky 2-2 and appeared to give him a good pitch, low and away, but Brunansky poked it into right field, where Curt Ford seemed to lose the ball in the lights.

Ford probably would not have caught the ball anyway, but the play contained an irony. The last time Tudor pitched, in Game 6 of the National League playoffs, San Francisco right fielder Candy Maldonado lost a ball in the Busch Stadium lights, producing the only run of the game.

This game bore no resemblance to the first two, a fact that became evident when the Twins failed to score in the fourth inning. They had assembled a seven-run fourth inning in Game 1 and a six-run outburst in Game 2. This time, they were retired 1-2-3.

Minnesota's biggest threat over the first five innings came in the third, when Tim Lardner and Dan Gladden singled to put runners on first and second. Gagne, however, flied out to end the inning.

St. Louis fared little better against Tommy Herr hit into a double play in the fifth. Pena grounded to second with two on and two out in the second inning.

Wall Street record dive affects world stock markets

By United Press International

A historic nose-dive on Wall Street spread chaos through major stock markets in Asia and Europe Tuesday, driving prices to record lows in Sydney and Tokyo and throwing Paris, Frankfurt and London into a second day of erratic trading. Many stock prices opened higher on Wall Street Tuesday as investors picked through the remains of Monday's unprecedented 508-point crash of the Dow Jones industrial average. But an early morning 230-point rally was raised as investors saw it as a chance to sell and get out of the market.

Chinese aide approved as acting party leader

BEIJING (UPI) — Senior Communist Party officials Tuesday approved leader Deng Xiaoping's senior aide as interim party chief and endorsed policy documents expected to bolster Deng's drive to reform the economy and political structure. The moves came at the first of the party's most important series of meetings in five years, leading to this weekend's opening of the 13th National Congress. The congress will focus on major leadership changes and chart the future of the world's most populous nation.

Armed forces uncover Philippine coup plot

MANILA, Philippines (UPI) — A small explosion shook the House of Representatives Tuesday and the armed forces said it had uncovered another coup plot by a fugitive colonel loyal to ousted leader Ferdinand Marcos. The morning blast at the House of Representatives in the suburb of Quezon City scorched the walls of a conference room but caused no injuries.

Nakasone names foreign affairs priorities

TOKYO (UPI) — Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone's designation of a successor Tuesday drew criticism from the left, but business leaders said they hoped his selection would lead to a new push to solve trade problems. Takeshita, 63, a skillful ruling party insider who has little experience in foreign affairs, said improving relations with the United States and helping end the Persian Gulf crisis were his top foreign affairs priorities.

Reagan tells Congress of retaliatory strike

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan formally notified Congress Tuesday about the Navy's retaliatory raid against an Iranian radar platform Monday, calling it "restrained and measured." In what has become a familiar practice, Reagan formally complied with the war power act provision requiring a report to Congress, although he and his predecessors have refused to allow lawmakers the right, under the law, to approve of military actions within 60 days.

Reagan, Gandhi take steps to boost relations

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Indian Prime Minister Rajiv Gandhi sought U.S. pressure Tuesday to prevent Pakistan from joining the club of nuclear nations with a dual-edged promise that his country will not produce atomic weapons "unless constrained to do so." After almost two hours of talks at the White House, Gandhi and President Reagan announced a series of steps to continue a recent upturn in relations between their countries, clouded still by the issue of U.S. aid to Pakistan.

Senate debates change in War Powers Act

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate broke a simmering GOP filibuster Tuesday and began debating a proposal to give Congress a say in the use of U.S. forces in the volatile Persian Gulf. Senate Democratic leader Robert Byrd and Sen. John Warner, R-Va., mustered a 67-28 tally, seven more than necessary, to make the Senate take up their proposal, an amendment to a more strident measure demanding invocation of the War Powers Resolution that gives Congress a veto over troop use abroad.

Doctor: mother contributed to child's death

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (UPI) — A Harvard psychiatrist testified in a landmark case Tuesday that a "psychological autopsy" showed a mother contributed to the suicide of her 17-year-old daughter by forcing her to become a stripper. Tini Mancini killed herself March 24, 1986, with a .357 Magnum pistol. Her mother, Theresa Jackson, 40, is charged with aggravated child abuse, procuring sexual performances by a child and forgery.

Sexual harassment serious, speaker says

By Susan Curtis
Staff Writer

More women are in the workplace today and at least 30 percent of them have been sexually harassed, an official of the College of Business and Administration says.

Uma Sekaran, director of the management department, focused her discussion Monday night at a group of business students. The speech was the fifth in a series on business ethics sponsored by the Society for the Advancement of Management.

Sexual harassment is becoming more serious and it's not just a game, she said. Men can even be the victims of sexual harassment, and "people have to start thinking about what constitutes harassment and how we can deal with these issues," she said.

SHE DEFINED sexual harassment as any unwelcome overture that is made repeatedly after being told that it is an unwelcome thing. These kind of issues violate human dignity, she said.

There really is no clear legal definition of harassment, she said. Most cases are treated as sexual discrimination cases and the "behavioral and social aspects" are ignored, she said.

Sexual harassment can be physical or verbal, Sekaran said. It usually happens when a man is bothering a woman, and she only wants a professional relationship, she said.

However, men, especially single and minority, can be victimized too, she said.

IN CASES where men are harassing women, they often are not aware of the fact that it is being taken as harassment, Sekaran said. They don't know to what extent it affects the woman, she said.

Sexual harassment usually happens between men and women, and superiors and subordinates, Sekaran said. And often when men are harassed, they feel good about it, while women are ashamed, she said.

Every employee should get a copy of the sexual harassment policy, Sekaran said. She mentioned that University President John Guyon's appointment of a task force to review the University's current policy was a step in the right direction.

"MORE WOMEN students will be joining us" when they see this, and the University will be thought of as a safer place, she said.

Organizations are beginning to realize that it costs them a lot of money because many women simply quit their jobs rather than taking action against the harassment, Sekaran said.

Many organizations are forming support groups so they can talk, at least among themselves, Sekaran said. "Still, there is a lot of inhibition," she said. "That is not how any great country should be."

THERE ARE some actions that victims can take to improve the situation, such as telling the person what he or she is doing and how you feel about it, she said. If that doesn't work, write a letter to the person harassing you and send it through certified mail while keeping a copy for yourself. Putting it in writing will usually put a stop to it, she said.

Another method, when others fail, is to document the details, then the case can be taken to court, she said.

Sekaran also mentioned gender harassment — being harassed, usually verbally, simply because of one's gender. Society is changing, and men and women are considered equal, she said.

All of these issues constantly put people on the defensive, they "seem immoral and barbaric," she said. "The changing demographics of the workplace has hit us and we're not trained to handle it," she said.

Student groups may protest USO budget cuts

By Dena Schulte
Staff Writer

Seven Registered Student Organizations are pulling out their pockets and holding out their hands to request funding from the Undergraduate Student Organization.

"Everyone got cut," Nick Basil, USO finance committee member, said. "The finance committee and USO are there to supplement the programs, not pay for them."

The USO finance committee expects to hear some protests on its decisions at the Senate meeting tonight.

The Aviation Management Society asked the finance committee for about $7,000, Basil said. The committee will ask for approval of $350.

"About $4,500 of it (the AMS request) was for airfare," he said. "USO can't fund airfare for insurance reasons."

"It wasn't justifiable to give them that much money," he said.

Basil said all the organizations, with the exception of AMS, were satisfied with funding compromises.

AMS has 14 active members, and Basil said he expects them to be at the meeting to protest the cut.

A proposed $1,715 for distribution among seven RSOs will be up for approval at the meeting.

In addition to the AMS organization, groups requesting funding include:

—Photogenesis, with 108 members, is requesting $500 to attend a Society for Photographic Education program.

—Phi Alpha Theta, with 40 members, is requesting $400 to present a "History for All" program.

—The American Institute of Architecture Students, with 60 members, is requesting $225 for lodging to attend Forum 1987.

—The International Student Council, with 1,920 members, is waiting for approval of $150 to create a presentation for International Outreach Day.

—The Harper Angel Flight organization, with 21 members, is requesting $70 to promote POW/MIA Awareness Week.

Also on the agenda for tonight's meeting are bills to give four organizations registered student organization status.

The Elementary Education Student Organization, USA Malaysian Chinese Association Club, Laotian Student Organization and the Organization of Paralegal Students will request RSO status.

Basil said when an organization is given RSO status, it becomes eligible for funding by the USO.

USO has a limited budget and about 360 RSOs to fund, he said.

"We are working with a $20,000 budget this semester," Basil said. "The budget next semester will be about $30,000."

When an organization asks for funding, the finance committee uses certain guidelines to decide how much money to give them.

Other topics of discussion, will include the trash problem in the International Student Lounge and a resolution to declare Nov. 8 through 13 as "World's Greatest Blood Drive Week" in support of the Red Cross Blood Drive.

USO will vote on whether to ask SIUC maintenance to place trash disposal cans throughout the student lounge on the second floor of the Student Center.

Tonight's USO meeting is at 7:00 p.m. in Ballroom B of the Student Center.

Sacrifices needed to remove asbestos

ILLINOIS' FINANCIALLY RESTRICTED condition makes it highly probable that SIU-C will have to search within to provide asbestos-removal funding.

On Oct. 13, Lawrence O'Brian, spokesman for the legislative services of the senate staff, said there probably would be no state funding for removing asbestos. So, not only is the administration now faced with the responsibility of locating the ubiquitous fibers, but funding to remove these fibers may somehow have to be scrounged from a budget already staggering from state cuts.

There is no question that squeezing a considerable amount of money from the budget will be an arduous task, which is exactly why the University's predicament is one that needs to be immediately addressed. There is no time like the present to begin sifting through the financial debris of the University economy in a quest for the vitally important funding.

THE MONEY PROBLEM is but one of the administration's asbestos concerns. When asbestos removal begins in Pulliam Hall, that building will be closed for two or three years. Depriving the University of Pulliam's classroom space is unavoidable, and accommodations will have to be found elsewhere while the removal is being performed. It is, of course, a sacrifice — but an affordable one.

Morris Library, however, presents an entirely different problem, and one that would not be so easily remedied. Like so many older University buildings, some of Morris' insulation contains asbestos fibers — asbestos that will have to be removed in the near future.

Because of its importance to the University, closing Morris for any amount of time would be impossible. So what's a University to do? Let's hope that it is figuring this one out now, instead of then — when the asbestos removal company is unloading its equipment on Morris' front steps.

Opinions from elsewhere

Chicago Tribune

Japan's decision not to build a home-grown jet fighter for its armed forces and to buy American was a wise one that should help ease growing trade tensions between the two allies.

For nearly a decade, the Japanese defense establishment has been planning an all-Japanese, state-of-the-art tactical support fighter that would fly rings around any American aircraft and help the nation become more self-sufficient in its own protection.

By deciding to buy a "lightly modified" version of either the American-built F-15 or the F-16 for his country's next generation of jet fighters, Japanese Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone infuriated his defense establishment. But he has moved to strengthen bilateral security and economic ties between the two nations.

With this deal, Japan showed it finally is serious about trying to reduce the $70 billion trade surplus it had with the United States last year.

The Keene (N.H.) Sentinel

Lorillard Inc., the tobacco company, has a bold new idea. It's putting a new cigarette on the market, and plans to name it after a motorcycle: Harley-Davidson. The strategy is to reach for the "virile" market.

"We think we can compete with the Marlboro cowboy," a Lorillard publicist said, apparently unaware of the dark irony of what she was saying. A news report the same day reported that one of the first of the rugged-looking Marlboro men had died. Cause of death: emphysema.

More than 350,000 Americans will die this year of complications from smoking. That's tragic — not only for the fact that most people who inflate their lungs with poisonous tobacco smoke do so voluntarily, but for the fact that the rest passively inhale the smoke of others.

But the tide has turned. The percentage of Americans who smoke declined from 42 percent of the population in 1964 to 27 percent last year.

Environmentally safe use of coal would produce number of benefits

The declaration by J. Craig Potter of the Environmental Protection Agency that the dangers of acid rain are "unsubstantiated" (Sept. 30 edition of the Daily Egyptian) is so mind-boggling that I can only hope it is due to an error on the reporter's part.

If not, then I have to assume that officials in the Reagan-era EPA are either completely insulated from environmental research or afraid of losing their jobs if they actually. God forbid, do something to protect the environment.

Statements like those made by Potter represent the same tired, irresponsible, and dangerous reasoning used by the tobacco companies in saying that there is no proven link between smoking and lung cancer.

I applaud, however, Potter's call for improved emissions-control technology in coal-fired plants, although I don't understand why he advocated this action if he doesn't think there is a problem.

Unemployment among coal miners is not a problem to be taken lightly, so let's find ways to use their product without destroying lakes, forests and wildlife. By continued development of technology to extract and use coal in environmentally less-damaging ways, and by continued and improved reclamation of mined areas, several things should happen.

Miners' jobs will be protected, additional jobs will be created in pollution control and reclamation and billions of dollars of environmental repair work will be avoided.

But Mr. Potter, if you actually meant what you were reported as saying about the harmlessness of acid rain, then please, please switch jobs. I hear Marlboro is looking for a few good men.—Randy Tindall, doctoral student, Anthropology.

Student financial aid cash could be distributed in reasonable amounts

The final student budgets for students at SIU-C are determined by the SIU-C Student Work and Financial Assistance office. These budgets are used to determine how much financial aid we "need." Our expected family contribution (EFC) is deducted from our budget total. The difference is the amount of financial aid we need, according to SWFA Director Joe Camille.

Camille said in the Sept. 3 edition of the Daily Egyptian that he "was not aware" financial aid officers had discretion to use their own judgement relative to a student's independent status.

Perhaps he should consult 34 CFR Ch. VI (7-1-86 edition), section 676.13 (g) (1), (2); 1986-87 Verification Guide page 11-6; Family Contribution Formula 1986-87, page iii; Legislative History of Public Law 98-498, page 2626, among other references. These all concern the discretion of the financial aid administrators.

It would seem obvious to even the most casual observer that it would be hard to "overlook" ALL of the above information.

I am in the University Honors program and am doing my senior thesis on the non-traditional student and financial aid at SIU-C. I have found in my research into financial aid at SIU-C that much of the information, laws, rules and regulations are being overlooked when making out the budget for the students at SIU-C and in most other areas of financial aid.

Camille gave me a copy of the survey report that is used to determine our budget which, in turn, determines how much our financial aid "need" will be. Any resemblance to the actual guidelines listed in the Federal Register on allowable costs of attendance for 1987-88 is extremely rare.

If anyone would like to see a copy of this survey report, I or Bill Hall, who also is fighting for student rights in the financial aid process, can be contacted through the USO office.

I had always assumed that government money was supposed to be distributed on a fair and reasonable basis and that one had to prove the figures arrived at were realistic. However, Camille said that he did not have to answer to anyone as to how he arrived at his figures.

Perhaps it is time he did.—Vivian Millikan, senior, University Studies.

blood and other bodily fluids.

There is no known cure or vaccine for the disease. However, the use of condoms during sex can greatly reduce the chances of contracting AIDS.

"A lot of people are just scared," said Chris Labyk, assessment center coordinator. The Student Health Assessment Center, which is located on the north end of the Student Center, started distributing free condoms in February, Labyk said. By April, the center had distributed 500 condoms.

Student Health Advocates, a group which has offices in Grinnell and Trueblood halls in the east campus residential area and in Lentz Hall on Thompson Point, also reports an increased demand for condoms.

"Already this year, we've given out as many as we did last year," said Pat Fabiano, health advocates coordinator.

Off-campus retailers also report an increase in condom sales. Martin Chaney, the owner of University Rexall Drugs, said condom sales are up 25 percent over last year.

Mark Hyken, owner of Discount Den, also reported an increase in condom sales. "They (students) are certainly rubber-conscious now," he said. "They used to be a pretty minor-league item, now they're a staple."

Sam McVay, student health services director, called the increased condom sales encouraging. The trend shows that students are being more responsible in their sexual behavior, he said, even if they are not choosing the most effective way of avoiding the disease—abstinence.

Fabiano said the fear of AIDS merely accelerated a trend toward increased condom use over the past five years. "AIDS was just a fuse that blew the market up considerably," he said.

Sales began increasing as women became more aware of

Vending of condoms under consideration

With five University outlets currently selling or giving away condoms, getting condoms on campus isn't very difficult. But it could become even easier if the University allows the sale of condoms from vending machines.

LJP Enterprises Inc., a manufacturer of condom vending machines, has asked the University to buy several condom machines and place them at various locations on campus, Sam McVay, student health services director, said Tuesday.

McVay said he and his staff were considering the proposal. Condoms currently are sold at the University pharmacy and the University Bookstore. They are given away at the Wellness Center, the Student Health Assessment Center and the Student Health Advocates offices.

LJP Enterprises, based in Grand Junction, Colo., has sold condom vending machines to colleges and universities nationwide, including Washington University in St. Louis, Gacia Saenz, an LJP account executive, said.

Saenz said the fear of AIDS, or acquired immune deficiency syndrome, has caused an upsurge in the number of colleges and universities wanting to buy condom vending machines. Condoms greatly reduce the risk of contracting AIDS by acting as a physical barrier to bacteria and viruses.

"There's still quite a rise in the number of social diseases like herpes and gonorrhea," Saenz said, "but people don't die from those. People die from AIDS."

Saenz said convenience and privacy are two reasons colleges and universities should install condom vending machines.

"If this (needing a condom) comes up at 12 o'clock at night, where are you going to go?" she said. "After the book store and pharmacy closes, you can always go to the machine."

Colleges and universities also have a moral obligation to protect the health of their students, Saenz said.

the often dangerous side effects of the birth control pill, she said. At the same time, men and women became more aware that the number of people in the United States with sexually transmitted diseases had reached epidemic proportions, she said.

Fabiano and Labyk said that in addition to distributing free condoms, they also try to raise students' awareness of AIDS and other sex-related diseases.

"We don't feel we should be dispensing condoms as if they were chewing gum," Fabiano said.

Students who want more than one condom usually are told to purchase them at the pharmacy, Fabiano said.

The assessment center also distributes literature on sexually transmitted diseases, Labyk said. However, it is more liberal with the number of free condoms it distributes.

massets of the world that someone is in charge" because they feel no one is in charge, Simon said.

Analysts have said that fears over the nation's budget deficit, trade deficit, rising interest rates, inflation and recession contributed to the mass selling on Wall Street.

United Press International reported Tuesday that Reagan said he would be open to Democrats' suggestions for a tax increase to cut the federal deficit $23 billion before the Gramm-Rudman balanced budget law requires across-the-board cuts.

Simon said the comment sounds like a shift in Reagan's thinking. Reagan should meet with the chairmen and key members of the House and Senate budget and ways and means committees, he added.

If the balanced budget amendment had been enacted 10 years ago, it would have helped reduce the federal deficit, Simon said. But the Gramm-Rudman balanced budget law passed in the Legislature's last session will not help the stock market's current situation, he said.

"The Paul Simon administration would move and move quickly on the deficit," Simon said.

Simon also said Reagan's decision to strike two Iranian oil installations in the Persian Gulf in response to the Iranian missile attack on a U.S. flagged Kuwaiti tanker was measured and resulted in a few if any fatalities.

The United States cannot let Iran send its missiles and not respond, Simon said. However, Simon said he would like to see the United Nations brought into the Persian Gulf.

the legislature Wednesday to be amended. The legislature will determine to what areas the money will be restored, he said.

Day care centers and health care funds are among the most likely to receive money, Dunn said. "I don't think education will get any big boost" because it involves too big of a slice, he said.

Dunn said he will support Thompson on most issues. "If we don't get a tax increase, there won't be any money there," he said. But he doesn't think there will be a tax increase.

The tuition increase is part of the bill, and could restore as much as $3.4 million to SIU by allowing the University to spend tuition increase money, Poshard said.

SIU was appropriated $194.7 million for fiscal year 1988, $5 million less than for 1987, and the tuition increase was implemented to begin in January 1988 to cover the difference.

The bill could also restore $3.8 million to the Illinois State Scholarship Commission, which received a 4 percent cut for fiscal year 1988, Poshard said. The maximum award from ISSC was kept at $3,100, the same as last year, and 5,000 fewer awards were given.

Parole officers could also have $1.4 million restored, which was cut from the Department of Corrections, he said.

Dunn said he and Poshard are also working on an amendment that could restore funds to the Hardin County work camp.

Award to honor faculty member

by Robert York
Staff Writer

An $8,400 fellowship award for graduate students in zoology has been established in honor of the faculty member who founded and directed the Cooperative Wildlife Research Laboratory since 1951.

The W.D. Klimstra Reclamation Research Fellowship was created for zoology graduate students for the purpose of continuing research in a manner that uses the research guidelines declared by one of the University's first distinguished professors.

Originally established through the SIU Foundation, the fellowship eventually will be supported by an endowment income estimated to reach $100,000. It will support a zoology student in the laboratory's reclamation program for two years.

Klimstra said the fellowship fund began a few years ago with money from laboratory staff and members of the Illinois coal industry.

"Rather than pocketing money, individuals in the staff donated it to the fellowship fund," he said.

Klimstra retired from the zoology department in 1984, but continued his direction of the laboratory for three more years. He will continue to advise graduate students in their research.

W. D. Klimstra

He is now emphasizing research in land reclamation projects in the coal industry and returning to a project he began in 1967 studying a survival plan for Florida's endangered Key Deer.

Now residing in Florida, Klimstra is making efforts to look at the details of land use in Florida to recommend an ideal environment for deer to decrease the mortality of the animal. Klimstra said a large degree of deer fatality is due to motorists.

The increasing population of residents and tourists in Florida has enhanced the mortality of deer in the state.

"In turn, the population increase is destroying the habitat of the deer," he said. "It reduces the safety of the deer."

Klimstra will spend six months of the year in Big Pine Key, Fla., and six months in Carbondale researching land reclamation in the area's coal mines.

Klimstra joined the zoology department in 1949 as an assistant professor, and served as acting chairman in 1961 and 1964. He received his associate degree from Blackburn College, a bachelor's degree from Maryville College, and master's and doctorate degrees from Iowa State University.

He served in the regulatory process with the Illinois Department of Mines and Minerals reclamation advisory committee for about 15 years.

Seats still available for Zevon

There are plenty of good seats available for the Warren Zevon and X concert at 7:30 tonight in Shryock Auditorium.

Glen Phillips, Student Programming Council Consorts chairman, said about 450 tickets had been sold as of Tuesday. Shryock Auditorium seats 1,240.

Tickets are $13.50 for students and $14.50 for the general public. They can be purchased at the Student Center ticket office, Plaza Records, 825 S. Illinois Ave. and at Shryock Auditorium box office before the concert.

Headline act Zevon is touring to support the release of his latest album, "Sentimental Hygiene." Phillips said the artist is scheduled to play for two hours.

Zevon is best known for his 1978 album "Excitable Boy," which contained the hit single "Werewolves of London." The singer-songwriter is critically acclaimed for his poignant songwriting which is often satiric in nature.

The opening act X will play for 45 minutes. X is one of the few surviving bands of the late-1970s Los Angeles punk movement. Led by female singer Exene Cervenka and bassist John Doe, X is also touring to support the release of its latest album "See How We Are."

X's sound has progressed over the years but the band still retains its sparse country-folk sound with a hardcore edge.

MANAMA, Bahrain (UPI) — Iran vowed Tuesday to retaliate for a U.S. attack on Iranian oil installations in the Persian Gulf and denied American claims the platforms were crammed with weapons and radar used for hitting shipping.

Diplomatic sources said Iranian gunners apparently fired a salvo of shells into Kuwaiti territory Tuesday, but the report was denied by Kuwaiti officials, who long have feared being dragged into the 7-year-old Iran-Iraq war.

The sources said no damage or injuries were reported in the shelling in the Kuwaiti border zone of Umm Alaish. Shells from the nearby Iran-Iraq warfront have strayed several times in the past but not into that particular area, the sources said.

In Washington, the Pentagon said the gulf was relatively calm one day after the American strike by U.S. naval forces and reported the 12th U.S.-escorted convoy of re-flagged Kuwaiti tankers was steaming south through the waterway.

The guided missile frigate Ford shepherded the 80,000-ton product carrier Ocean City and the 6,000-ton Gas King, a liquefied petroleum tanker, from outside Kuwaiti waters for the 600-mile journey southward, the Pentagon said. The convoy departed at 2:30 a.m. EDT.

The U.S. attack Monday on two connected off-shore platforms that American officials said were a base for Iranian gunboats came in response to an Iranian missile strike off Kuwait on an American-flagged tanker Friday.

Kuwait expressed cautious support for the U.S. strike and the brief takeover of another Iranian platform, but other officials from moderate Arab states privately expressed disappointment that the U.S. response had not been stronger.

"All are disappointed," said one highly placed Arab source. "After all this fuss about retaliation, they (U.S. officials) come out with this," said the source.

Iranian President Ali Khamenei described the operation as "Reagan's foolish act" and said it was of no military value.

Iran's oil minister put initial estimates of damage at $500 million and said Tehran is preparing to file suit at the world court in the Netherlands seeking compensation.

"I announce that for any blow against us, we will deal a more severe blow on the United States," Oil Minister Gholamreza Aqazadeh told a news conference reported by the official Islamic Republic News Agency IRNA.

Aqazadeh said the platforms still were on fire Tuesday and denied U.S. statements they were crammed with weapons and radar used for attacking neutral shipping in the gulf.

In its heyday, the 2% Plan was compared to the San Francisco earthquake and the eruption of Krakatoa.

The internment ceremony was very subdued. A simple, dignified note from President Guyon to the President of the Faculty Senate laid the plan quietly to rest.

Army ROTC cadet says it was an honor to train in South Korea

By Amy Gaubatz
Staff Writer

"I didn't have one bad experience with the South Koreans, from taking a taxi to being in the field. They were friendly people," SIU-C Army ROTC Cadet James Boner said.

One of 38 cadets chosen nationwide, Boner, from Anna, trained with active army troops in the Republic of Korea as a part of the Cadet Troop Leading Training (CTLT) Program.

Boner, a senior in administration of justice, was stationed in the Republic of Korea from July 16 to Aug. 21 with the 188th Military Police Company, which covered the area of Taegu.

"IT WAS an honor for myself and for the battalion at SIU-C. It was an overall reflection on how well they train us here," he said.

While in Korea Boner performed many duties, including work as a Provost Marshal Operations Officer with the Military Police. "If any crimes or disturbances involved military personnel, the MP's were called," he said.

MP's also provided protection for VIP's, such as two star generals or above. It was their duty to "provide security for them, anywhere in the Taegu area," he said. "They were our responsibility from the time they landed to the time they left."

Boner also performed as a Lieutenant, which will aid him after graduation in May 1988 when he will be commissioned a 2nd Lieutenant.

"IT KEPT you busy," he said. "It was easy to put in 12 hour days. You have so many duties you have to perform."

Boner said being in a foreign country "wasn't too bad" because he remained close to the American post, "but sometimes, I felt lost."

"I couldn't speak their language, and if you get away from the post, they can't speak

James Boner, senior in administration of justice, is an Army ROTC cadet who went to Korea for training.

English," he said. "It can be frustrating."

Overall, he said "the people were very receptive of us. They were very glad we were there, they would come up and shake our hands."

Boner's impression of the country was that it is becoming more modern. "You see more and more cars, and they are improving the road system," he said. "There is still a lot of poverty in the country side, away from the city."

KOREAN PEOPLE live differently than Americans, Boner said. "There is no such thing as welfare. It's the job of the children to take care of their parents after they stop working, until they die."

"Koreans also use a completely different money system — Seven hundred won equal one dollar," he said. "You get in a taxi and the driver says it's 2,000 won, and you're like wow!"

"It's hard to compare them (U.S. and Korea), because there is always a threat of war there," he said. "The lifestyle in Korea can be very rough. If they want to live and survive, they have to work hard."

Art school to hold talks by artists

The School of Art will host public slide lectures by three visiting artists on Oct. 27 and 30 at the University Museum Auditorium.

Jayne Hileman, a graduate of the University of Iowa, will lecture at 11 a.m. Oct. 27. Hileman has taught at the School of Art Institute of Chicago, the University of Illinois in Chicago, the University of Chicago and St. Xavier College. She has given numerous workshops around the country.

Jus Sermas, who teaches at West Chester University in Pennsylvania, will lecture at 1 p.m. Oct. 30. Sermas has also taught at the Philadelphia College of Art, the Delaware Art Museum and the University of Delaware. He has received numerous awards, including a Fulbright study in Egypt in 1984.

Gael Stack will lecture immediately following Sermas. Stack, a graduate of SIU-C, teaches at the University of Houston. Her work is included in an exhibition which opened last month at the Guggenheim Museum in New York.

Country FAIR

is here to please ...

with "Fair Play" day care
you can shop with ease ...

At Country Fair we care about your children. We are the only supermarket in Illinois that has a day care located on the premises! Your children will have more fun going to the grocery store knowing their parents shop at Country Fair. Our facility is fully enclosed and supervised, located at the front of the store by the check out lanes. The co-ordinator on duty has a bachelors degree in Early childhood development and is working on her master's degree.

We have many things to offer to keep the children entertained, while their parents enjoy their shopping experience at the lowest priced supermarket in Southern Illinois. They can either play with all the fun toys or gaze at the tropical fish in the 55 gallon aquarium. There will be educational shows and cartoons playing all day on our TV/VCR located in the "Fair Play" day care. We provide playpens for the smaller children, and table, chairs and bean bags for the bigger kids.

The "Fair Play" day care will be open on Tuesday's from 9:00 AM to 6:00 PM, Fridays from 12:00 noon to 10:00 PM, and Saturdays from 10:00 AM to 7:00 PM. If you haven't been to Country Fair lately, stop by and see all the improvements we have made. Our "Fair Play" day care is just another reason why Country Fair should be your supermarket.

SDI controversy continues

By Kathleen Debo
 Student Writer

In October 1986, two electrical engineering faculty members received a $32,000 research grant from the Office of Naval Research for research on the Strategic Defense Initiative.

The research and the source of its funding stirred a controversy at SIU-C that never quite disappeared.

The Strategic Defense Initiative, often called "Star Wars," is devoting millions of dollars in research to create a defensive shield that will detect and destroy nuclear missiles.

STAR WARS is a controversial defense system. Opponents of SDI say it will escalate the arms race. Proponents of the system say it will promote peace by ultimately decreasing the number of nuclear weapons.

Some students, including members of the Mid-American Peace Project, object to military research going on at SIU-C. They argue that without the information derived from this research, the Star Wars project will never get off the ground.

"We believe that the more you research SDI and the arms race, the more it's going to escalate and the more dangerous it is," said Lari Keller, president of the Mid-America Peace Project, an SIU-C student organization. BY STEPHEN THOMPSON and Ramanatha Viswanathan, assistant professors in electrical engineering, say Star Wars research helps further technology for civilian uses.

Thompson said that since research began, "quite a bit of progress has been made." He said, "Star Wars is a good idea and a good protective mechanism."

Keller says SDI technology is useless for defense purposes. "MAPEP believes that SDI is not a defensive system in that it doesn't matter who shoots first, someone is going to be harmed."

Dawn Roberts, a member of MAPEP, added that SDI just makes it easier for us to say that we can (shoot first)."

IN JULY of 1986, MAPEP presented Thompson with an umbrella to symbolize what it considers the insanity of creating a shield to defend against nuclear weapons.

Viswanathan agrees that it is questionable whether Star Wars will satisfy the needs for which it is intended.

But he also said that one person cannot comment on all of Star Wars because it is impossible for one person to understand the whole system. He said few people realize the complexity of the system.

The Star Wars grant covers research to find the most efficient way to combine data from various sensors and radar devices.

THOMPSON SAID that since SIU-C research efforts began, a number of problems have been solved, including problems with distributive data and decision processing.

Distributive data and decision processing involves combining information from several different sensors.

Sensors placed at different angles must detect incoming missiles differently, he said. By processing information from all the sensors at a central computer, a programmer can obtain a more accurate picture of missile positions.

THREE GRADUATE students in electrical engineering — Art Ansari, Valentine Aabo and Lei Zhang — work on the project with Thompson.

Thompson said that all international students, the three had varying views on the Star Wars controversy.

Ansari, from India, said he does not think that (SIU-C research) work is detrimental in any way. But he said all the various parts of the SDI research working together might be dangerous.

IT IS dangerous because it would be a stumbling block to any kind of peace treaty and that it could backfire and give false information, Ansari said.

Ansari added that it is difficult in this kind of technology to tell offensive from defensive purposes. He said that if he were asked to decide whether to use "Star Wars" or not, he would say no.

However, he also said the project is too theoretical to be of immediate danger. "There is some doubt whether the

RSO Fall Formal dance cancelled

By Debra Schulte
Staff Writer

There will be no hoop dresses, no tuxedos and no silver balloons.

The fifth annual Registered Student Organization Fall Formal has been canceled.

"Friday was the deadline to contact our entertainment," John Attard, Undergraduate Student Organization president, said. "We had only 11 tickets sold, we had to make a decision."

Attard said the number rose to about 30 after the organization made some phone calls, but most of the tickets were purchased by USO members.

It wasn't economically feasible to hold a fall formal for just 30 people, he said.

Stephanie Bedinger, USO secretary, said the cancellation came as a "big disappointment".

"There were over 4,000 people invited," Bedinger said, "all the RSOs, sororities, fraternities, et cetera."

"The formal served to let the RSO members meet the USO people, the ones who give them money and represent the student government," Attard said.

Attard said the lack of ticket sales and lack of interest are to blame.

"The Homecoming was last week, that had a lot to do with it," Attard said. "Students just don't have the money."

Other possibilities for the lack of ticket sales and interest could be that the RSO's didn't receive their invitations, he said.

The formal was set for October 23.

Attard said USO may attempt to hold the event in the spring.

"We will have a different strategy," he said. "We've been tied down with the planning and getting the invitations out, apparently that wasn't enough."

A special committee may be developed to work on the formal.

"It will probably take more effort than we put it in," Attard said.

Head Start to have open house

By Debra Schulte
Staff Writer

Local senators, mayors and University departmental staff have been invited to participate in the Carbondale Head Start program open house from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Oct. 30, Don Motz said.

Motz is a student intern at Head Start, from the SIU-C School of Social Work.

Head Start has three locations: Lakeland school on Giant City road in Carbondale, the basement of the Shiloh Baptist Church on 418 S. Fifth in Murphysboro and at R.R. 2 a mile north of Herrin in Chittiville.

Motz said the open house will give the public a chance to see the classrooms, meet the staff and become acquainted with the program.

There will be presentations by teachers and staff and a refreshment will be served during the open house, he said.

The Head Start program is for preschoolers of low income families, Motz said.

"We work with low income families," he said. "We help them find public aid and refer them to agencies when they have a problem."

Debbie Tertinger, assistant director of the Carbondale center, said the program is federally funded.

SIU-C is the "grantee" for the program, making Head Start part of the University system, for about 17 years. When the program is given a grant, the money goes to the University, Tertinger said.

"We haven't gotten any increases in our budget that would come in handy," she said, "but we re-evaluated our priorities and decided how the money should be spent."

The main goal of the program, Tertinger said, is "to continue providing quality service to children and their families."

"We are always concerned about the children and their families," she said.

United Airlines to hold career seminar

Representatives from United Airlines will present a seminar on careers with airlines on Thursday in the Student Center Auditorium.

The seminar stems from a co-op agreement signed by President John C. Guyon and the chief executive officer of United Airlines in July. The University is also working on negotiating recruiting activities, Elaine Alden, director of advanced technical studies for The College of Technical Careers, said.

United Airlines will be presenting seminars each semester on aviation to provide students with the opportunities for flying, she said. The seminars are open to all students and the qualifications for the program will be explained at the meetings, she said.

The first meeting will be at 8 a.m. Thursday in Morris Library Auditorium for faculty members and advisers. Students will meet at 5:30 p.m. in the Student Center Auditorium.

system would work together as a whole," he said.

"THESE PARTICULAR results (of Star Wars research) could be put to a lot of peacetime, civilian uses such as at airports," Ansari said.

"As an international student working on a controversial project like this, I could have a detached feeling about whether it would work, and about what it means as a policy of this government," he said. He added that he keeps himself aware of the issues involved.

Aalo, from Nigeria, said he does not see any danger to Carbondale or the United States from Star Wars research. Moreover, he said, stopping the research here will not stop SDI. He said those who object to the research should look more closely at the actual work being done.

ZHANG SAID it is not the research, which could be done for a number of reasons, but the source of the funding that creates all the controversy.

Cousteau researcher to lecture

The Student Programming Council, the Expressive Arts Committee and the Aquatic Biology Society will present a lecture by David Brown of the Cousteau Society at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in Student Center Ballroom D.

Brown, a photographer and naturalist, has taken part in whale research projects and deep-sea studies from the Gulf of Maine to the Sargasso Sea and the West Indies. He will lecture on the society's expeditions, surveys of the Nile and Mississippi rivers, and the technology of the "Argo," a revolutionary wire-powered vessel.

Admission will be $2 for students and $3 for non-students.

Dynamic duo nets new SIU-C tennis record

Beth Boardman, right, and Ellen Moellering were turned down in their quest for SIU-C's record books in this shot against Purdue, but they recovered to put their names at the top of SIU-C's winningest doubles list.

Aggressive net players combine skills to make solid No. 1 team

By Dave Miller
Staff Writer

In less than two years as a team, Saluki tennis players Ellen Moellering and Beth Boardman have established themselves as SIU-C's all-time winningest doubles combination.

"It's hard to believe," Moellering said. "We haven't played together that long."

Last season Auld paired Moellering, a junior at the time, with incoming freshman Boardman and saw instant results. They amassed a 34-9 record their first season to set an SIU-C record for most doubles wins in a season.

"You try to look for players to complement each other," Auld said. "Both are very aggressive and are very good players at the net. They just seemed to really click."

Moellering attributes their success to their similar competitive natures and playing styles.

"We both are serve-and-volley players," Moellering said. "If my serve is off one day then her serve is on. It's rare when both of our serves are off."

"Our styles are so similar," Boardman said. "We're both aggressive."

The Salukis' No. 1 doubles team is easy to spot during a match. Moellering's long red hair and Boardman's red bandana wrapped around her short blond hair make the duo easily recognizable on the court.

Both players' on-the-court demeanor differs from singles to doubles.

During singles play, Moellering has a tendency to get frustrated with her play, often talking herself through a match.

"She's very hard on herself and gets down on herself," Auld said.

Boardman is intense during her singles matches.

"She's very much a perfectionist," Auld said. "I think she puts undue pressure on herself."

Put the two players together in doubles and they become a lot more animated. Smiles appear and high fives are exchanged.

Both players agree they benefit from the support they receive from each other.

"We don't feel the pressure as much playing doubles," Moellering said. "We can lean on each other and we have a lot of fun."

"It's good because we keep each other going," Boardman said. "We both keep each other psyched. I'll be down and she'll pep me up. It's a mutual thing."

"They really complement each other," Auld said. "It's good for Ellen because Beth keeps Ellen's attitude up when she begins to get down on herself. Ellen, being a little bit older and more experienced, can help Beth out with her maturity."

Moellering and Boardman broke the record set by Mary Pat Kramer and Maureen Harney, the Salukis' No. 3 doubles team during 1983-85.

"Ellen and Beth are very good doubles players," Auld said. "Mary Pat and Maureen were singles players who played doubles. They liked to stay at the baseline and were not at home at the net. They had to learn to play doubles."

Moellering and Boardman have the spring season to improve their 41-16 record before Moellering graduates.

Cardinals fans get Rockin' and Reelin', jam to tunes of Chuck Berry, Fredbird

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Rock 'n' roll legend Chuck Berry played guitar, sang and performed his famous "duck walk" for thousands of cheering St. Louis Cardinals fans Tuesday at a noontime rally in a downtown amphitheatre.

Berry, a St. Louis native who lives in suburban Wentzville, took the stage in a red print shirt and gray jeans to the delighted shouts of the crowd, many of them clad in red and waving white towels to show their support for the Cardinals in their World Series battle with the Minnesota Twins.

The pioneering guitarist opened his set with "Roll Over Beethoven," and led the crowd in a singalong of the chorus.

"That was for Ozzie

(Smith)," he said after the song, referring to the Cardinals' popular All-Star shortstop. "This one's for (second baseman Tom) Herr."

Berry and his band then ripped into "Johnny B. Goode," as Berry raised his bright red guitar over his head.

The Cardinals' mascot, Fredbird, then joined Berry onstage. The musician and the costumed character performed Berry's famed duck walk, each hopping on one leg and sending the crowd of several thousand fans into a frenzy.

About 25 fans, caught up in the enthusiasm of the music and the pre-game tension, braved the 50-degree temperatures and leaped fully clothed into a knee-deep pool in the middle of the Morton May Amphitheatre. The amphitheatre, which was dedicated Monday, is a block from Busch Stadium, site of Tuesday night's Game 3.

The Cardinals, who lost the first two games of the Series, have used "The Heat is On" as a rallying cry during both their 1965 and 1987 pennant seasons.

Berry improvised lyrics to one of his hits, "Reelin' and Rockin'":

"I looked at my watch, it was quarter to one,

The Cardinals have just made a big home run."

And later in the song:

"I looked at my watch, it was quarter to four, Minneapolis ain't gonna win no more."

Twins have fun beating the odds

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Before the season started, Las Vegas oddsmakers installed the Minnesota Twins as 100-1 longshots to capture the American League pennant. Now they are positioned to win the World Series.

The dramatic turnaround for a team that finished with the second worst record in the AL last year raises the question: are the Twins a great team or an ordinary team having a great year?

If they win the World Series, the question won't concern them. Still, you wonder how any club can dominate the postseason after winning only 85 games during the season.

"I can't see how anybody can say this is an undeserving team," said Ron Smalley, Twins infielder. "In the playoffs you don't have to win 98, just four."

The Twins are not the first team to enter a World Series with lesser credentials than its opponent and play better or nearly as well.

The 1973 Mets won 82 games, beat the Reds, 99-game winners, in the playoffs and took the Oakland Athletics to seven games before losing the World Series.

Two years ago, Kansas City was given little chance of beating the Cardinals, especially after falling behind 3-1 in the World Series, but the Royals rebounded to win.

"When you get to the World Series or the playoffs and you've got a talented team that has a shot and is excited about themselves, they can go all the way," Smalley said. "Look what happened to the Royals in potential to contribute this year.

Diane Beideck "is very talented and has great potential," Scott said, but needs to "learn our system and style of basketball and how to play defense."

A 5-11 guard with outstanding offensive skills, Beideck was a three-time all state selection as a prep and finished as Nebraska's second-leading all-time scorer. Scott said Beideck could compete with Seals and Sanders for playing time at the point guard position.

Amy Rakers, a 6-1 forward from Belleville who was recruited by Big Ten powers Illinois and Indiana, could see time at forward if she progresses as expected.

Harrisburg native Cyd Mitchell, the third incoming freshman, is considered to be a year away from being able to contribute.

Guard Anne Thouvenin, forward Regina Banks and Deanna Kibelkis will give SIUC depth and solid shooting off the bench, Scott said.

Wrist wrestling tourney slated

A wrist wrestling tournament is set for 7 p.m. tonight in the Recreation Center's west gym.

Participants will be grouped according to weight class. Weigh in will be conducted from 6 to 7 p.m.

The event is open to students, staff and faculty and will feature men's and women's divisions.

1985. They weren't supposed to win but that doesn't mean they're not supposed to. Once you get into the playoffs, whoever wins is not a fluke. Anything can happen."

The Twins reached the postseason by surviving a balanced division. Besides making some key additions and playing the best defense in the league, the Twins stayed healthy virtually the whole season while others in the AL West did not.

In the playoffs, the Tigers overmatched the Twins statistically at most positions, yet Minnesota steamrolled Detroit in five games. Now in the World Series, the Twins are dominating the Cardinals, a team that won 95 games in the regular season.

People ask how this is possible. Some say the Tigers may have spent themselves in beating out Toronto, and that St. Louis is weakened without Jack Clark and Terry Pendleton, who is playing at about 50 percent.

Another reason is the Twins have a team well-suited to winning a short series.

The travel days in a best-of-seven series allows Twins Manager Tom Kelly to use a three-man rotation, which has St. Louis Manager Whitey Herzog complaining about the postseason schedule.

"There shouldn't be off days in the playoffs," said Herzog, who goes with a four-man rotation. "Blyleven and Viola can pitch five times that way. During the regular season, they might pitch five times in 11 games."

Herzog's point explains why the Twins won only 85 games this year. During the season, Kelly went with a four- and sometimes five-man rotation. After Viola and Blyleven, he used Les Straker, Joe Niekro and Steve Carlton, who combined to give him 13 victories.

The Twins won as many games as they needed but more importantly they won when they had to.

"I've been around a team that has the ability to play well in big games," Smalley said. "I played with teams that have had more talent, like the '83 Yankees, but they never played with the intensity to win like this team played in Detroit."

"We're an underdog, underdressed team looking to earn a place in the spotlight."
